The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I isn't it a queer quirk in us that while we women complain because there is a double standard of morality for men and women, it is we ourselves who have done the most to raise and sustain it? It is we who shut our eyes with noble forbearance upon any unfortunate "little peccadilloes" on the part of the other sex, if the sinner be sufficiently interesting and well off. It is we who are willing—nay, sometimes eager—to have the man with a past for a husband for our innocent young daughter—we who are glad to get that fascinating man with the most fascinating reputation as a guest for our functions. And, on the other hand, it is we who willingly believe every cruel bit of gossip against the members of our own sex, who are ever ready to deny our sisters the benefit of the doubt, and to condemn them utterly for one sin, no matter how great the temptation to which they yielded. It is we who have made the old law that a woman who has once fallen may never "come back." Praises be to this age of forbearance that this law is no longer so binding as it once was, but it is women who made it, and women who are still trying to enforce it.

like that is inexcusable," she said. "Do you think such affairs are always the woman's fault?" I questioned. "Yes, I think they usually are," she answered. As a business woman, I have seen more or less of such affairs, and my experience has certainly not been that they were usually the woman's fault. Mind you, I don't condone the woman's sin, but I want the man to receive equal if not greater condemnation. For the girl is sinning against a woman whom she does not know and has no particular reason to love, while the man is sinning against a woman whom he promised to cherish and love until "death us do part," and who is probably the mother of his children.

Loyalty to any abstract thing is almost always stronger in men. Patriotism, loyalty to a business, and even devotion to a place is a more powerful motive in a man than a woman. Perhaps this is why we are so painfully lacking in sex loyalty.

I wish women could cultivate that quality I often hear women deliberately slandering their own sex in favor of the other, saying, for instance, that they think men are more moral and clever etc. and I am ashamed of them. When women respect their own sex more, it will be more respected. When women are willing to judge the sin of man and woman alike, and, mind you, I don't mean too leniently—just alike—this double standard of morality against which we so often complain, will begin to totter.

A woman was speaking to me the other day about a home which had been broken up by the husband's devotion to an unmarried woman. "I think a girl who goes after a man

Ruth Cameron

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles. Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy. The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL. The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1908 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address as above.

Household Notes.

To clean willow furniture, apply salt and water with a brush and rub thoroughly until dry. Grease the bottom of granite or tin pots before placing over the fire and the black will wash off easily. Apply kerosene liberally to any copper vessel which has become discolored; then wash with hot water and soap. The right way to peel onions: Begin at the root of the onion, peeling upward, and the juices will not fly into your eyes. If you get ink on your fingers, wet the head of a match and rub it on the ink spots. It is much quicker than to let it wear off. When you buy new tinware, rub it well with lard and heat it thoroughly in the oven. Tinware treated thus will never rust. When the feet of stockings are worn out, cut them off and slit the legs clear down. Sew several together and use them to polish stoves. Windows that stick can be made to move very freely by rubbing the sides of the jambs, where the window slides, with soap or paraffine. If something you are cooking happens to scorch set the kettle in cold water immediately, and there will be absolutely no scorched taste. This is worth trying. When cooking cabbage, ham, onion or anything which has a strong odor put a small pan of vinegar on the stove and there will be no scent cooking in the air. An easy method of keeping your fingers warm while hanging out clothes in frosty weather is to heat the clothespins thoroughly in a pan in the oven before starting. When frying oysters, try adding a little baking-powder to the flour in which they are rolled. The oyster increase greatly in size, are "puffy" and altogether very delicious. To have your clothes clean and beautifully white, place a slice of lemon with the rind cut off in the boiler. The result is surprising, and will not in any way hurt or injure the clothes. Large needles (No. 1) will hold lighter pictures safely and will not injure plaster or paper. They are very strong and are often used in putting up picture moulding instead of brads. In making little girls' dresses with the gored or pleated skirts, take a piece of selvaige or firm, straight piece of material and sew it along the center-back seam; it will prevent them from hanging lower in the back than in the front. If the common wayside goldenrod is transplanted into rich soil and given thorough cultivation, it will develop into a magnificent plant five or six feet high, bearing great feathery plumes of bloom to beautify the garden. Instead of prying fruit jars open with a knife, just hold the top in warm water for a minute. You will be surprised to see how easily the lid will come off. This also avoids all danger of cutting your hands, as so often happens. Use equal parts of alcohol and kerosene for removing oil paint from the hands. Shake well before using. Rub the liquid well into the skin which has been damaged by the paint. Then wash the hands with a good soap. Dry the hands thoroughly.

THE PATIENT BRAIN

A tireless worker so long as supplied with rich, red blood. The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work. But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks. Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy. One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50; all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Spring Fever.

By HOWARD L. RANN.

Spring Fever is a debilitating affliction which attacks people right at the opening of the baseball season. It is one of the most exasperating ailments in all materia medica, as it renders a man totally unfit for any kind of work except keeping track of the base hits. The eyesight of some men is so seriously impaired by this disease that they can't see the weeds in the garden or tell the lawn mower from a reclining chair. It usually takes about six weeks for this fever to run its course, and during its progress the patient goes around in a very flabby state of mental negligence. Some people never recover from one attack before another comes on, while others have it the year around, with so much success that they have to put in overtime at double pay in order to catch up with the day book. Spring fever has baffled the medical profession more than the cause of the jump-spark hic-cough, and physicians are frequently puzzled to know whether a man has come down with it or is suffering from a constitutional, inherited and protoplasmic-prejudice against work in any form. The variety of male biped known as the genus 'hobo' has the most virulent type of spring fever known to the human race, and the sight of a woodpile will bring on a relapse, which renders him totally incapable of coping with a sawbuck in any extended number of copies. Spring fever breaks out on most people Sunday morning, just as the glad tones of the church bell mingle with the seductive upercut of the golf stick. The only cure for this disease is to get close to nature's heart in a khaki hunting suit, and return with a bright array of mosquito bites and red ant stings. This is a better tonic than running over somebody in an automobile, and is less costly.

Gone to the Wall And Through It!

To meet the demands of our rapidly increasing business we are compelled to make extensive alterations to our store. To enable us to do this without inconveniencing our customers, we have decided to close our Store for 14 days.

When we have completed these alterations our Store will be second to none in the city. This will enable us to stock a larger range of Up-To-Date Gents' Furnishings, which up to the present we were unable to do, through lack of space.

We thank our numerous patrons for the excellent support they have given us since we started the K. & A. STORE, and hope that when we re-open that Bright little Store on the Corner, it will be just as popular as ever.

THE INDEMNITY BILL.

When the House went into Committee on Supply yesterday, the Minister of Finance introduced the Supplementary Supply, which amounts to nearly a quarter of a million dollars, and explained the need of the different votes which were asked for. The Leader of the Opposition, Sir Robert Bond, contended strongly for the continuance of the old system of short votes one session, over-expenditure of session, and an appeal to Parliament for indemnity the following session. Sir Robert pointed out that the Auditor General had demonstrated clearly that many votes were wittingly short voted and had urged that sufficient money should be voted to cover what must necessarily be spent, and the pernicious custom of systematic over-expenditure brought to an end. Sir Robert emphasized the fact that every vote was over-expended, and that these over-expenditures related largely to matters which should and could have been dealt with by the House last session. The effect of the course pursued was to take out of the control of the House the question whether these expenditures should be made, and to establish more firmly the custom of the Government making expenditure on its own responsibility, and after the money had been spent to come to the House for indemnification. Sir Robert then directed attention to the estimate for the publication of debates. Last year he had suggested to the Internal Economy Commission the desirability of the publication in volume form of the debates in place of the long span out publication in the newspapers. The Commission, however, had adopted the Hansard form suggested as an addition to the old means of publication. At present, therefore, the debates were being published in almost every newspaper in the Colony, except the Royal Gazette, Evening Telegram, Evening Herald and the Harbor Grace Standard. Sir Robert criticized also the swollen size of last year's Journal. He pointed out that the Budget Speech had been included in it, and that was in addition to its publication in the newspapers and as a pamphlet. He pointed out that the paper used was inferior in quality and entirely unsuited to a Journal of the House, which was intended to be kept as a permanent record.

The Leader of the Government defended the custom of short Estimates and Supplementary Supplies and also the inclusion of the Budget Speech in the Journal. He stated that his attention had not been previously directed to the poor quality of paper on which the Journal of last year was printed and agreed that better paper should be used in future.

Mr. Shea urged for the consideration of the Government the salaries of Civil Servants. He also condemned the inclusion of fees as part of the salaries of Civil Servants.

A discussion then ensued on these matters.

The Premier stated that the Government dealt with salaries as they came up for consideration and did what it could. If there were fees collected by officials, he was not aware of it, and if cases were brought to the attention of the Government which were improper a remedy would be found.

The Minister of Justice and the Minister of Agriculture and Mines denied that fees were collected in their respective departments.

The Minister of Finance gave notice of (1) a new Railway Loan, (2) a loan for telephones and lighthouses, (3) the Budget for next Monday.

THURSDAY, March 21, 12.

McMurdo's Menthol Plasters are the strongest in Menthol of any plaster to be had; consequently these plasters give relief in cases of stitch, chill, lumbago and nerve pains more promptly and effectually than is the case with any other of the plasters in common use. A good plaster is a real comfort in many kinds of pain; a poor or weak one is little better than a nuisance. You can always ensure getting one that will do the work thoroughly if you secure McMurdo's Menthol Plaster whenever you need an outward application for pain.

A Quick Passage

The Dorothy Baird, Capt. Keeping, 18 days from Barbadoes, arrived in port at 11 o'clock last night. Considering the time of the year the trip was a very quick one. The Dorothy first left Pernambuco in January last and had a rough experience. After being 23 days out and 500 miles off St. John's, while lying to a heavy sea "boarded the vessel, throwing her on her beam ends and doing much damage. She then put back to Barbadoes where the vessel underwent repairs for six weeks and loaded 600 puncheons of molasses for here. She left there on March 2nd and made a good run across the "herring pond" despite adverse weather. Since Monday the vessel had been jammed in the ice in the vicinity of Cape Race, but for which she would have reached port two days earlier.

Sunk in Harbour

This morning a schooner of about 40 tons which had been anchored in the harbor off the Horwood Lumber Co's wharf filled and sank. She was moored there all winter and was cut through by the chafing of the ice. Her topmasts are just above the surface, and she may prove a dangerous obstacle for cargo steamers coming up the harbor.

William Barnes Met Horrible Death While Attending to Church Duties—Believed That Lantern Exploded Acetylene Gas Which Had Escaped.

About 7.30 o'clock last evening William Barnes, 55 years of age, the sexton of St. Andrew's Church, Grimsby, was instantly killed as the result of an explosion of acetylene gas. During the recent cold spell some trouble occurred in the gas plant of the church. The plant is in a pit about four feet deep at the side of the church. A small shed is built over the pit. The deceased was about to prepare the church for the evening prayer meeting and entered the shed to fix the gas. He was carrying a lighted lantern. No one knows how the accident happened, save that a terrific explosion shook the entire village. Neighbors rushed to the spot and found the old gentleman lying on the ground some distance from the shed. He had been blown through the roof. The bones in the left side of his body were all badly fractured, his face was badly burned and the left side of his head was crushed. Dr. Alexander was called but could do nothing.

After investigating Dr. Alexander decided that an inquest was unnecessary. An investigation without a jury will be held, however, to decide what caused the explosion. The deceased is survived by a widow and one married daughter. — Hamilton Herald, March 2.

Builders Return.

Capt. Bartlett and his crew of five men, who were at Fogo all the winter erecting the Marconi station there, arrived last evening by the Stella Maris. The new station has already had intercourse with the sealing ships which are installed with wireless, and Capt. Bartlett said that the new station was supposed to be in proper working order to-day and is superior to any other Marconi station in the island. We learn that a very severe winter was spent at Fogo, the harbor has been blocked all the winter with ice and the same conditions are prevailing there at present.

Noted Life-Saver

Captain William Ward, who has just died in Toronto, was one of the most unique "water dogs" in this country. He acted in Toronto as Government Life-Saver. He attended to his job of salvation. When he passed away the captain had rescued 164 lives from drowning.

Captain Ward for sixty years lived on a little island across Toronto Bay. From here he could see the lights of the big city twinkling; he could hear the roar of the storm wind and the dashing of the waves upon the beach. Sometimes the wail of distressed dwellers of the city came out of the tempest. These had been playing on the waters which had risen and shown their might. No matter what the danger, Ward put out in his boat and he might save.

Besides his feats of life-saving, Ward was also celebrated as an oarsman. He was at one time single skiff champion of America.

Street Brawl.

Yesterday afternoon Water Street, East, near the Mechanics' Hall was the scene of a lively row between two carmen who were witnessed by a large number of people pushing and pulling each other. Some 10 or 15 carmen who were passing with their trucks laden with casks of fish stopped and took sides in the bout, leaving their vehicles block all traffic. Both pugilists fought to a finish and were badly cut about the face. Two constables were phoned for but when they arrived the miscreants had fled.

Thought It Was the Erna

About 9 o'clock last night when the tramp steamer Kura was coming to the harbour crowds of anxious citizens believing it was the belated steamer "Erna," assembled on the King's Wharf, awaiting to hear the news. After the Kura was moored in the stream and it became known on shore that the new sealer was even heard of, there was general disappointment.

Record Freight.

The S. S. Baleine left here this morning for Bell Island taking several passengers to the island. She took full freight including a heavy dead load, the largest freight that was ever brought to the island in a single trip amongst her cargo were two hundred iron bottoms for ore cars, belonging to the Dominion Iron and Steel Works and which were turned out at Angus Foundry.

Railway Fatality

The inquiry into the railway fatality was continued last evening. Judge Knight's office up to 6 o'clock when Engineer Byrne was arraigned. The counsel for the accused, Mr. J. Kent, K.C., and Mr. F. Folks Past Fifty Must Use Cascaree

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascaree is to weak bowels—a 1 cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to bowels some regular help, else suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so five-as youth. The muscles are elastic. And the bowels are muscular. So all old people need Cascaree. One might as well refuse to aid eyes with glasses as to neglect gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh punishment. Youth may occasionally whip bowels into activity. But a lash should be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be plainly used without harm. The such tonic is Cascaree and they only 10 cents per box at any store. They work while you sleep.

Maid of Honour

The Duties and Perquisites of Time-Honoured Positions.

Should you ever have the good fortune to be present at an evening court or state ball at Buckingham Palace, you won't fail to observe certain young ladies, somewhere in the immediate entourage of Queen Mary, wearing, pendant from the left shoulder, like an Order, a miniature of Her Majesty set in diamonds. These ladies are the maids of honor, and the miniature is their badge of office. In the event of her resignation or marriage, the lady retains the badge, but subsequently wears it only as a brooch.

There is a wide difference in the status of a queen regnant and that of a queen consort, and whereas Queen Victoria had eight maids of honor, the number was reduced to four in Queen Alexandra's time, and remains the same to-day.

Queen Victoria had considerable trouble in establishing the principle that the ladies of the Queen's household should be selected on personal grounds, irrespective of political considerations. When Viscount Melbourne's Ministry resigned in 1839, and Sir Robert Peel was asked to form a Cabinet, he sought to replace some of Her Majesty's principal ladies with prominent ladies of his own party. But the young Queen stubbornly refused to consent to this. She wrote:

"The Queen having considered the proposal made to her yesterday by Sir Robert Peel to remove the Ladies of her Bedchamber, cannot consent to adopt such a course which she conceives contrary to usage, and which is repugnant to her feelings."

Following this intimation, Sir Robert, after consultation with his colleagues, immediately resigned, and Melbourne's Cabinet retained office. Sixty years later, Queen Victoria, referring to the incident in a conversation with Sir Arthur Bigge, her private secretary, said:

"I was very young then, and perhaps I should act differently if it was all to be done again."

But from that date all the court ladies with the exception of the Mistress of the Robes, have been by the Queen's personal choice, irrespective of party claims. For a time during Victoria's reign, the "Robes" was a ministerial appointment, but the custom has ceased.

When the Queen has made a selection of a young lady for the post of maid of honor, the parents of that young lady receive a communication from the Mistress of the Robes to the effect that she has been commanded to offer the appointment. It is rarely, if ever, declined. Giving, as it does, considerable social privilege, the position is, indeed, eagerly coveted. It carries with it the prefix "Honorable," which is subsequently retained through life. The honor also carries a salary of three hundred pounds sterling, but this is all needed for tolls.

Queen Victoria presented each of her maids with a dowry of a thousand pounds on her marriage, besides invariably bestowing on the lucky bride one of the beautiful Kashmir shawls, annually received as tribute from the Far East. When King Edward came to the throne, the first maids of honor were informed, on receiving offer of the appointment, that the custom of giving the thousand pounds dowry would be discontinued.

The position of maid of honor goes back to the Plantagenet days, when Edward III, out of the disorganized elements of his court, evolved a regular household on lines that, with modifications, have survived till now. In Elizabeth's time, the maid of honor was provided with stabling for her palfreys, the palfreys themselves, a waiting woman, and a liberal allowance of "ale, bread and beef," for breakfast, as well as her wardrobe requirements.

From the North.

The S. S. Stella Maris, Capt. E. Hann, arrived here from the North-west at 2.30 p.m. yesterday. The ship got as far as Seldom where she arrived Thursday morning. She called at Bay-de-Vejde, Catalina and Trinity and coming up made a good run. The ice is off the coast and the ship saw no seals. Her passengers were Capt. W. Bartlett, Geo. Coombes, Rev. Fr. Donnelly, Mrs. W. Woolridge, Geo. Cranford, Mrs. J. Harris, A. J. Oke, J. Puddister, N. Fleming, W. H. Bartlett, Geo. Snow, J. Anthony, James Bowring, A. Morgan, R. Mercer, J. Doherty, Capt. Woman Badly Frightened.

Last night a woman who resides on Field Street came to the police station and reported to Supt. Grimes her fears that some person has designs of no good import on her house. Her husband works at night and she says that each morning about 1 o'clock she hears footsteps about the place and sounds as if the doors and windows were being tried by the prowler who ever it may be. Mr. Grimes instructed the officers commanding the night watch to keep a particular watch in this neighbourhood.

Stormy Night.

Yesterday afternoon a storm of S. E. wind with rain was reported at Cape Breton and during the evening it had reached the West Coast and progressed across country. It snowed hard for a while on the Topsails and other parts of the railway line west. At midnight the storm, raged with violence in the city and a deluge of rain accompanied it. Late this morning the wind veered to N. W. and blew a gale and the frost was pretty severe for this season.

A Pleasing Presentation.

A deputation from the Typographical Union, namely, Messrs. J. H. Nichols, M. F. Quigley and W. Skanes, called at the residence of Mr. W. J. Higgins, barrister, the Union's solicitor, last evening and presented him with a handsome and suitably inscribed dressing case as a token of the veneration and esteem in which this popular young lawyer is held by the Union, in addition to his untiring and valuable aid rendered to the Union since its inception. Mr. J. H. Nichols in making the presentation, referred in happy and felicitous terms to Mr. Higgins in that he was highly esteemed and a general favorite with all masses and classes, particularly the workmen, and in conclusion thanked him for his untiring zeal and advice in furthering the efforts of the Union.

Socialism.

Rev. Dr. Rogers lectured to a large audience in the Methodist College Hall last night on the question of Socialism. In a most eloquent address, which lasted nearly two hours, the rev. gentleman contended that Socialism is advocated by its past and present exponents was an impossibility and could not be a panacea for the ills of modern society. He held that the Christian religion and the principles of justice were well equipped to alleviate the suffering of the poor and to forward the idea of the equality of man while doing its best to solve present day industrial problems. The closest attention was given the lecturer, who in closing was accorded a hearty vote of thanks by Hon. H. J. B. Woods and seconded by Mr. A. Mews.

Coal Supply Being Affected.

The big coal miners strike in England and the unrest evident amongst American miners have had their effect on the local coal market and we hear that the price of the article will rise in the past few days has advanced 25 cents per ton, with a possibility of a greater rise in future. The Sydney mines are reserving their stocks for sale to English and American buyers, and dealers here who recently ordered cargoes could not get them to purchase. Should the price of coal advance any further it will entail great hardship on the poorer classes of people, as under normal conditions the price is almost prohibitive to them.

FOGO STATION.

The Fogo wireless station will open to-day, and if any of the sealing ships are in the neighbourhood messages should be received to-day or to-morrow.

St. Bride's Notes.

The severest winter on record is what we have to report in the weather line. Still judging by reports we did not have as much snow as our northern neighbours, in fact nothing to prevent a train running on this Peninsula.

We have not had a mail for weeks owing to the blockade on the railway line. The telegraph system was the only link that connected us with the outside world, but almost the whole month of February this was practically useless owing to the old trouble, the cable connection in Placentia "gut." It appears to me, that in the eyes of the Government and a certain clique in Placentia, that anything is good enough for the Cape Shore people, and its just as well to remind them that we are taxpayers the same as other people and as taxpayers will always demand our just rights.

In speaking of Placentia "gut" I would say that whoever was responsible for the survey of the railway line to Placentia was the biggest blunderer that this country ever produced. Anyone with any common sense can see that it would be better if the survey of this line had been made on the South East side of Placentia instead of down over a mountain. No wonder the Colonial Secretary would say in the House of Assembly that the station and pier arrangements were of a most awkward character.

I notice that it is the intention of the Government to extend the Telegraph line to Cape St. Mary's. This is a step in the right direction, and why not go one further and install a fog alarm or whistle there. They have all those advantages in Placentia and I don't begrudge them as they are an absolute necessity, but I maintain that the lives of fishermen are in just as much danger in the vicinity of Cape St. Mary's as they are in Placentia Roadstead, and I am positive sure that it is the desire of every fisherman in this Bay to hear a fog alarm in operation on that grim headland of Cape St. Mary's.

Long and severe though the winter is there is no reports of want or privation I am glad to say. The only complaints we hear is from farmers whose stocks are getting low, and unless weather conditions soon change they will find themselves in a predicament. It is a sad state of affairs to see the coastal steamer Portia passing by our doors each trip, and not be able to avail of that greatest boon of civilization, steam communication.

OBSERVER.

Southern Shore News.

At Renew's concert is also being arranged for the same night. Besides vocal and instrumental selections, the band which is being coached by Prof. Power, of St. John's, will contribute set pieces to the programme.

On Ash Wednesday the Angel of Death visited Erick Cove, Fernouae, and summoned forth one of its most popular young residents in the person of Mr. Pierce Ryan. His parents and relatives are the objects of general sympathy.

At Bay Bulls the school was recently supplied with a modern type writer, which will be of much benefit to the pupils and which was obtained from funds realized in a very successful concert held.

Condemn Picnic Government.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The train has arrived here at 10 p.m. Every one gives credit to the Right Hon. Sir R. Bond. Even the few Tories here are condemning the Picnic Government for their indifference to the people. Hundreds of men this past month have had to walk to their homes anyway from 50 to 100 miles away. Let Sir Robert keep the Government up to their work. We will give him a larger majority next time.

Good Reason.

"Judge," said the caller, "I wish you'd tell me what I have to do to get my name changed."

"What is your present name?"

"Bennet Lemuel Zebulon Bubb."

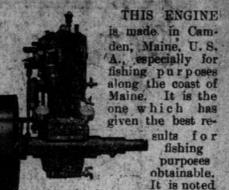

"You wish to have 'Bubb' changed to something else?"

"No; I want a new one entirely, something like William Thompson or George Jones—something short and easy, you know."

"You objection to your name, then, is that it is too long, I presume. Why can't you just use your initials?"

"That only makes it worse, Judge. Whenever I give my name as B. L. Z. Bubb somebody thinks."

BOVRIL IS ALL BEEF.

Questions we are often asked.

- Q.—What is the sediment at the bottom of a cup of Bovril?
- A.—That is a valuable portion of the nourishment, and should never be left.
- Q.—Are you serious when you say that Bovril is more nourishing than ordinary Meat Extract or Home-made Beef Tea?
- A.—Certainly! and we have for years offered large rewards to anyone who can prove the contrary.
- Q.—But can you prove your statement?
- A.—Yes—from the pen of Baron Liebig himself, who told the world that the man who managed to get the nourishing, as well as the stimulating properties of Beef in a liquid form, would produce something far better than Liebig's Extract, and would be a public benefactor.
- Q.—And you have done this?
- A.—Yes. By a special process, the entire nutritious constituents of prime ox beef are separately treated, pulverized and added to specially prepared Meat Extract, and that is Bovril.
- Q.—Don't experiment with artificial imitations of dubious quality (which are dear at any price) when such a tried and proven nutritious food-beverage "made in England" is within your reach.

Three Men Drowned.

The telegraph operator at Lower Island Cove wired the Minister of Justice Department this morning, as follows:

"Three men, Elijah Shelgrove, George Shelgrove and William Shelgrove, while going to Middle Cove, yesterday, to try and raise an anchor, which they lost last fall, upset their boat and were lost. Bodies not recovered yet."

No further particulars were received.

Trembling in the Balance.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day.

The fate of the Minimum Wage Bill seems to be trembling in the balance. Mr. A. J. Balfour will move for the rejection of the Bill in the House of Commons. The dramatic re-appearance of Mr. Balfour in the role of leader of the Opposition comes as a great surprise, the decision having been taken at a meeting of prominent Unionists. Bonif. fav. requested the former leader to undertake the duty of moving the bill's rejection. Whether this development heralds the return of Balfour to the active leadership of the party remains to be seen. The Unionists lately are greatly elated over the growing difficulties which the Government have been encountering—due in part to the unpopularity of the Insurance Bill; increasing labor troubles; greatly increased public expenditure involved in social reform evidence a change of public opinion as given in the recent bye-elections. If as the Unionists assert the Government is riding for a fall, it may come over the Minimum Wage Bill; but there is little doubt that the Government can carry the second reading of the Bill, as the Labor Party and the Nationalists have decided to support the measure. Probably now is that Parliamentary discussion of the Bill will extend into next week, but there will be no resumption of work until the Bill is passed. A Cabinet Council will be held this morning to consider the whole situation.

The Naval Estimates.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day.

In the course of discussion on the Naval Estimates in the House of Commons Churchill announced that negotiations have been some time in progress between Germany and Britain for the exchange of naval information. The Government, he said, would be glad should negotiations reach a satisfactory conclusion. They had nothing to conceal in the scale of shipbuilding and would always be ready to afford the necessary information.

LATEST!

Sealing News By Wireless.

At 2:30 p.m. yesterday Messrs. Crosbie & Co. had the following messages from Capt. Alec Carter, of Greenspond:—

"Four steamers sighted off here apparently going south."

Mr. Crosbie then wired Capt. Carter for more information and received in reply:—

"Too far off to know what steamers they are."

The message from the Stephano, referred to yesterday, which could not be deciphered, was re-transmitted and read as follows:—

"Heard from all ships except Diana, Ranger and Pogota; none in touch."

This morning Messrs. Bowring Bros. had another brief message from Capt. A. Keon of the Stephano, saying:—

"Spoke to Diana; asked if news of other ships; heard none."

The news so far is discouraging and it is quite evident from the tenor of the foregoing messages that the main patrol remains untouched.

Splendid Present

Hon. J. S. Pitts and the Trustees of Cochrane Street Methodist Church recently presented to Wesley Church congregation the beautiful organ which had been doing duty in the Cochrane Street edifice for some years. It will be put in position and will be ready for use in a week's time. It will be used first at an organ recital which will be held in the church.

Canada's Queerest Monuments

By AUBREY FULLERTON.

From an Indian village on Queen Charlotte Islands, away to the north of the Pacific Coast country, there was taken to Ottawa a few months ago a very strange piece of native hand-work, to be set up in Canada's capital city as an historic souvenir. It was a large, hand-carved totem pole, one of the most remarkable pieces of freight that was ever carried across the continent. In future years visitors to Ottawa will look upon it with much interest as a memento of a race that used to be great and strong, but whose days of greatness are past.

In all Canada—perhaps in all America—there is nothing in the way of art work so strange as the Indian totem poles along the coast of British Columbia and Alaska. One specimen has gone to Ottawa, and others have been taken at various times to other cities not so far away; but in the Indians' own country, and in the days of their prosperity, there were miles of these curious statuary. Even yet there are hundreds of wonderfully carved poles standing in the coast villages, like open-air museums. Because of what they represent, and because they are in themselves remarkable examples of native art, they are of great interest.

A totem is a wooden pole carved in myriad designs, chiefly of faces human and animal, with bodies or parts of bodies interwoven and grotesquely ornamented. A favorite part of the designs is the eye, and sometimes from twenty to one hundred pairs of eyes, weird and fearful in their look, are cut one above the other, with the result that the pole seems to be almost alive.

Occasionally a more ambitious artist seems to have planned a life-size figure of the human body, crowned with a head both great and hideous, and perhaps graced also with a set of wings. Over this would be smaller figures or parts of bodies, with eyes bursting out at intervals, and on top of all another great head, or perhaps a tremendous bird or bear-head. The designs are numberless, the ingenuity of the artist having been free from all restrictions in the way of form and lifelikeness. He cut his figures as they fancy moved him, and the result was more often than not truly remarkable, though not without certain marks of genius.

This curious statuary in poles of fir or cedar may be seen at many places along the coast, still standing upright or in some cases fallen to the ground. They are historic, for some of them are two hundred years old, or more, while most of them have been cut for at least a century. If size they average from twenty to forty feet high, and are sometimes two feet in diameter, for the trees in the north grow large and straight.

Approaching one of the old Indian villages from the water, one is at once struck with the number of more or less upright totem-poles standing at intervals all along the shore. When near enough to decipher the curious designs on these poles, one might naturally suppose that they were the remains of some old-time idol worship, for the multitude of images are large enough to resemble the hand-carved gods of heathen peoples in other lands. But the Western Indians had other motives than this in their totem carving. They set up their artistic poles for a two-fold purpose: as monuments for their dead, and as a means of commemorating local history. And so in one connection or the other, the strangely shaped figures had once a definite meaning, and a very definite value. They were the pride of the tribal villages.

Just what the various signs meant, however, is now very difficult to tell, and only the ethnologists have been unable to read their story. It is known that in the prosperous days of the northern Indians there were four large tribes, and each had its tribal emblems and symbols. One had the finback whale in the sea, the grizzly bear on the land, the grizzly in the air, and the sun and stars. Another chose the frog, the raven, the starfish, and the bullhead. The third had the heron and the bear; and the last was known by the eagle, the beaver, and the halibut. Crude representations of these several animals together with human faces and forms, were used on the totem poles as signs, and in such a way that they conveyed a definite meaning to all the population; and when the read of a family died a totem was erected in his honor, in which were carved and painted the symbolic creatures of his clan. Thus the natives of the coast recorded their local history.

This totem-pole art is now largely an art of the past, but not entirely so. Some of the northern tribes still have a fondness for carving in wood, and in a smaller way that of their fathers they perpetuate the instincts of their race. Tourists and missionaries sometimes find a modern artist of the British Columbia and Alaska Indians at work upon a piece of totem statuary, and his handiwork shows still that unique genius that is displayed so remarkably in the larger and more elaborate poles of many years ago. A knife and a piece of wood, and a fertile imagination will yield, now as then, surprising results.

The Indian totem sculptors of days gone by used not only to carve their wooden poles, but to make also the tools with which the carving was done. In some cases this was almost as great an accomplishment as the other, and the knives, axes, and chisels that they fashioned were really

WORTH A MILLION!

By WALT MASON.

Old Rox is worth a million wheels, he has them in the bank. It warms him up from head to heels to hear his bullion clank. His wealth is famous in the town, and all the country o'er, he has a million salted down; and rakes around for more. We point him out most every day to strangers and such ducks, and in an awestruck whisper say: "He's worth a million bucks." That's the extent of his renown; no natives ever cry: "He is a credit to the town—we'd miss him should he die!" There's old Bill Wax; he never could nail the coin a little bit, and when he gets a piece of kale he always counterfeits. He's always wearing last year's hat; his clothing, all awry, would make an idle plutocrat climb up a tree and die. Yet friends are swarming round his track wherever he may go, and people slap him on the back and say he is a Jo. He helps the children fly their kites, and much enjoys the trick; and often he sits up at nights with neighbours who are sick; anon he brings a cheerful yarn to some despondent lady—oh, William isn't worth a darn at salting down the scads, but people bless his blaméd old hide, and cry in fervent tones: "He's sure all wool and ten yards wide—he's worth a million bones!"

13-Cent. Morris.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I cannot understand why all this fuss over Teachers' Pensions. Why, may I ask, is the teacher entitled to a better pension than the fisherman? Whilst acknowledging the benefits of education, and granting the teacher the mead of credit which is his, in so far as he can, in his chosen sphere of activity for the common good, perform his part in economy of our system. I do not see that he should be picked out from the army of workers for special benefits. Indeed, he is not of as much account as the fisherman; for the fisherman is a producer of wealth, whilst the teacher is not. The fisherman or a producer of any other class, being a producer of wealth, can live without the teacher, whereas the teacher is dependent on the producer. Morris gives the fisherman, who has worn himself out in producing the wealth of the country, 13 cents per day as his pension, and the Morris organs and supporters pretend that the Government has done wonders for the man who has brought thousands of dollars into the public treasury. If Morris gets his way, the teachers will receive as much as $1,200 a year—some more, some less; anyway the teacher is to receive enough to live on, but the fisherman must be content with 13 cents a day. It is not just or equitable.
In the teaching profession, as in every other profession, the rate of remuneration is in direct ratio to the supply. If there were fewer aspirants to the ranks of the teaching profession, or if the supply did not equal the demand, you would see how quickly the salaries would be raised. Men go into teaching very often because they have not push enough in them to take a trade or other profession. Young men with grit in them soon get out of it and find some other calling. Those who remain are those who have found it profitable or otherwise congenial; so why should they be objects of special solicitation on the part of the Government. There is one class of teachers whom I do not wish to be included, that is the Christian Brothers. They have devoted their lives to teaching and receive no pay. I doubt very much if the prospect of receiving a pension will help the best men in the profession. To say that it will is but a Morris blind, sion are, as a rule, restless and ambitious, and most of them soon tire of the teaching line and get out to try their fortunes in some other walk of life. The cure for the small salary is to keep away from teaching. There are thousands of ways open to the young man to-day; he need not allow himself to be forced into the teaching rut where the salary is so small. I say to young men, 'tis unworthy of you to look to receiving a pension when you know the money must come out of the hard labor of the fishermen and other wealth producers of the country, and the man who would keep you at their expense is unworthy also. The fishermen of the country have their eye on you. They resent the aged of their calling getting 13 cents a day, whilst those who have never added a cent to the wealth of the country are receiving snug pensions.

LONDON, March 20.
Distress is everywhere acute. Whilst the disputants are discussing, women and children are suffering extremely. Earl Harrowby, who has just made a tour of Potteries district, in asking for funds, says that acute distress exists among all ranks. Thousands of children in the chief centres are being fed from charitable funds. In Staffordshire alone, 70,000 miners are on strike, and the lack of coal has thrown the potters out of work, including railroad men and bargemen. Wales is suffering equally with England. Only three tin-plate mills are working. The Lancashire cotton mills are slowly closing, and the last cargo of coal has been shipped from Newcastle to the South of England. Numbers of miners have returned to work in some of the Scottish coal fields; they are, however, all non-unionists, and the police are having trouble in protecting them. The desire for a settlement is daily augmenting in all the coal fields, and this will aid in bringing about a prompt resumption of work when an agreement has been reached. Fresh trouble threatened today. The Colliery Surface Men's Federation has notified the members of the Labour Party that, unless the Minimum Wage Bill provides also a fixed minimum for surface men, the dispute must not be settled. An abnormal exodus of miners to America is taking place. Owners hope to obtain cargoes of American coal for the Mediterranean. Thomas, Labour M. P. for Derby, and organizing secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, confirms the report that the railway men intend to submit a new national programme in May, but would not commit himself as to whether the men would strike if their demands were not conceded. Traffic receipts during the last week have declined $2,855,000 compared with last year. Preparations are being made in the Yorkshire collieries to resume work on Monday. Some of the men want to go to work to-day, but have been prevailed on to await the passing of the Bill.

BERLIN, March 20.

The termination of the nine days' strike of 200,000 men in the Westphalian coal fields to-day was marked by two fatalities in an attack by strikers on non-unionists. In some districts the strikers have abandoned work, but the miners in Upper Silesia are leaving the pits in increasing numbers.

In a gas explosion 9 were killed and 2 injured at Dunmore mine, near here. Two families, comprising two women and seven children, were either blown to pieces or burned. Three homes were destroyed.

SHORT OF COAL.
The S. S. Kura, Capt. Clarke, 15 days out from Bremerhaven, England, bound to New York, put into port at 9 o'clock last night short of coal. She left the former port on March 2nd, and had boisterous weather to contend with throughout the passage. Her decks were swept and the top of one of her cylinders blown off. After reaching the Grand Banks the ship ran into the ice which delayed her progress considerably; coal was beginning to run short, and yesterday Captain Clarke decided to bear up for St. John's to replenish the bunkers. Messrs. A. J. Harvey & Co. are the agents at whose premises she will coal. Mr. Tasker Cook is looking after the supplies.

The ship and her captain are well known here, as it was only in December last when the Kura was here having put in owing to stress of weather with a cylinder broken.

Hurt by Fall.

While Arthur Pitcher, aged 20, of Brazil's Square, was working on the roof of a shed at Franklin's wharf yesterday he stumbled and fell a distance of about 20 feet to the wharf, and narrowly escaped being killed. He was rendered unconscious and when Dr. Tait arrived he found that the left leg had been broken at the ankle and the flesh badly cut, while he received internal injuries. The doctor set the broken bone and then ordered the man to hospital where he was taken in the ambulance.

He Could Not Walk or Sleep.

BUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM.

Quebec Postmaster's Remarkable Recovery is the Talk of the Whole Country Side.

RUMPLEVILLE, Megantic Co., Que., Mar. 20.—(Special)—The remarkable cure of Mr. Achille Vachon, the well-known merchant and postmaster here, is the talk of the whole country side. Mr. Vachon was confined to his bed with kidney disease. One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. But let him tell his story in his own words:

"I was troubled with kidney disease," Mr. Vachon says. "I got so bad I could not walk, while my sleep was broken, and I could not rest. It was then I sent for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"From the second day after starting to take them I rested better, and before I had finished the box I was in excellent health.

"You can publish this statement, for I want my friends to know what a grand remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills are."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure sick kidneys. They have never been known to fail. Cured kidneys make pure blood, and pure blood will cure nine-tenths of the ills to which the flesh is heir. If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills yourself ask your neighbours.

Legion of Frontiersmen.

Last night a meeting of the Legion of Frontiersmen was held in the British Hall and was well-attended. Mr. Peter Mars read a paper on his experiences in the South African Campaign, and views illustrating the difficulties and dangers which beset the troops were shown and explained by Dr. Wakefield who also referred at some length to the aims and objects of the organization. Mr. A. C. Goodridge also delivered an address, and several young men were enrolled in the Legion. Wednesday night another meeting will be held and the members will take a tramp in the country.

LONDON, March 20.
The Miners' Federation, after a long consideration of the Minimum Wage Bill, resolved that no Act that does not contain a minimum wage of five shillings a day for men and two shillings a day for boys will be acceptable. The delegates also called upon the members of the Labour Party in the Commons to move an amendment to the Bill so as to include a miners' schedule of rates in the measure. During the early stages of the Conference, Asquith specifically refused to adopt a miners' schedule, and it is unlikely the Government will accept the amendment; but possibly a compromise may be agreed upon by which the insertion of the five and two shillings minimums shall be made.

A FIREMAN'S PERIL.

How Zam-Buk Delivered Him.

At 215 Fraser Ave., Edmonton, Alta., lives W. P. Mahy, a former member of the local fire brigade, who has wonderful cause to be thankful for the curative powers of Zam-Buk. He says: "A serious skin disease broke out on my face, and spread until I was in a terrible state. The spots and little ulcers were frightfully irritating, and yet when scratched or rubbed they bled and smarted. Shaving caused me agony, and sometimes I would have to go two weeks without a shave. I tried home-made remedies, herb salves, and various other preparations, but the sores got no better. When Zam-Buk was mentioned I had little faith that it would be able to do me any good. My case seemed such an obstinate one. I gave it a fair trial, however, and the first box made such a wonderful change for the better that it gave me encouragement to continue. I did so, and to cut a long story short, Zam-Buk, in the end, quite cured me. My face is now clear of all traces of the terrible disease, which troubled me for so long."

Thousands of sufferers from eczema, blood poison, ulcers, chronic sores, piles, ringworm, cold sores, cuts, burns and skin injuries, have been relieved and cured, as was Mr. Mahy, by Zam-Buk. As a balm for all skin injuries and diseases it is without equal. All druggists and stores at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

"Star" of N.Y. Champions.

The Wanderers' hockey club of New York practically won the championship of New York Friday when they defeated the champion Crescents, 4 to 1. The winners are mostly young players, while on the former champions are such men as Wall, Mills, Dobby and Art Liftton (brother of Liftton of this season's Halifax Crescents), and who played here with the New York club in the North End Rink some years ago.

McGrath was right wing. He is considered the best forward on the Wanderer team, and Sara Kennedy was given the job of keeping him under cover. The little Crescent player bit off more than he could chew and saw very little of McGrath throughout the game. Both players have a tendency towards roving from their positions, and as a result the wing that they were supposed to hold down was empty more often than it was filled.

McGrath played with the Halifax Amateur Crescents and Dalrouse College last year, and left here last Spring to reside in New York. He belongs to St. John's, Nfld. The game was the magnet for the biggest crowd that ever saw a hockey game in New York. The rink was jammed to suffocation, and many an enthusiast paid a dollar to stand up and get a peep once in a while over some one's shoulder. A few of the tickets were cornered by speculators, and these readily brought $5 each.
