Deceived AND Disowned BUT True as Steel!

CHAPTER XXIV. THE LURE OF GOLD.

She tore off her watch and rings from her wrist and fingers, and unfastened her father's guard and watch; then emptying her pocket of the small store of money she possessed, she bade her father do the same. Then she handed the little collection over to the thief, who turned away, angry, it seemed, at the small results of his capture.

Nevertheless, help was at hand, Olive little guessed by whose means it would be effected.

Reuben had been making his way steadily down, and just as dawn was nearing the bushrangers' camp. He had caught a glimpse of one of the men, and by the sight of his evil-looking face and a few words overheard, had guessed that they were not peaceful gold diggers. He concealed himself hastily, and as he rounded one of the rocks, caught sight of the carriage and pair standing empty and deserted.

With revolvers ready, they followed Reuben; and a few minutes later pandemonium was let loose on the quiet scene. The thieves were too much engaged in dividing up the spoil of several raids to heed a sound; and accordingly when the miners were up on them, their surprise was as great as though Reuben and his friends had dropped from the clouds. It took, therefore, but a short time to overcome the ruffians, and directly Reuben saw the camp was in the hands of the miners, he made his way to Olive and Sir Edwin, who were crouched together, wondering what fresh troubles were in store for them. The extent of their relief when it was shouted to them that the assailants were friends may be left to the imagination.

Reuben had not meant to reveal himself at first; but the strength of his passion overpowered him, to say nothing of the desire that he felt to know if Olive was engaged to Morgan Verner. Then a sudden thought flashed into his mind. Perhaps she was married to him! The thought with evil in his eye.

"Look here, missy," he said, as Reuben approached, "this 'ere swag ain't enough for me an' my mates. Now the old gent says he's a rich man. You make him send for some money, and we'll keep you here as snug as birds in a cage till it comes."

A groan broke from Sir Edwin. "Wait—here!" he said. "It is impossible for my daughter to do such a thing."

The man laughed. "Bit of a change—ain't it?" he said brutally.

Reuben's head was in a whirl—he did not know what to do for the best. His quick eye recognized several members of the gang as the same who had robbed the lonely farm-house. To attack the wretches single-handed, as he had intended at first, was out of the question—he would be overpowered directly, and would do no good to his beloved or her father; besides, to his supreme dismay, he remembered that he was short of ammunition.

He could see Sir Edwin was busy writing the letter, which would be taken to the nearest station for the carrier-post—there would be safe then for a day or two—possibly longer; if only he knew how to get assistance. He made his way back to where he had tethered the horse that had so strangely come to him, and mounting it, he rode quietly away, thinking perhaps to get help from some of the diggers nearer the gold fields.

He would have liked to have given Olive some hope of rescue; but he feared discovery too much—not for his own life, which he would have laid down gladly for her sake—but lest no help should be forthcoming to them, save by his efforts. So, though he longed to reveal himself, common sense bade him seek for help, if help were obtainable.

Even now it seemed as if the Fates were propitious to him, for he had hardly got safely out of the valley, when, riding around a group of boulders, came a party, evidently diggers, by their red, clay-stained shirts. Reuben rode up to them joyfully, and poured forth his story.

Their excitement was no less than his, for it seemed that they were out for the express purpose of hunting down that particular gang, who, it appeared, had rifled a neighboring camp of theirs on the preceding day, during their absence in the gold fields. Their delight at being thus directly put on the track was unbounded; and Reuben was soon supplied with more ammunition than he could carry.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families suffer by the prompt results. Incorporative, and saves about 5¢.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for cough. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain fructose sugar syrup. Nothing better, but why buy it? You can easily make it yourself in five minutes.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. This gives you 18 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—infamed membranes—Pinex with Pinex and syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous the world over for its prompt results. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Back now went the little band—the horse's hoofs swathed in cloths and neckerchiefs and the spurs and stirrups covered, so as to deaden the sound of their approach. They soon reached the ravine in which the bushrangers had pitched their camp; and the men, dismounting, tethered their horses.

With revolvers ready, they followed Reuben; and a few minutes later pandemonium was let loose on the quiet scene. The thieves were too much engaged in dividing up the spoil of several raids to heed a sound; and accordingly when the miners were up on them, their surprise was as great as though Reuben and his friends had dropped from the clouds. If You Want Evidence

That Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Can be Completely Cured Read These Letters—Both Are Sworn Statements.

Toronto, Ont., January 17th.—Next to personal experience the sworn statement of reliable people is the strongest evidence obtainable. If you have any doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively and completely cure piles, these letters should convince you.

Mr. Samuel Parker, fruit grower, Grimsby, Ont., has made the following declaration before Mr. W. W. Kidd, Notary Public of the same place: "I do solemnly declare that I was troubled with bleeding piles and was advised to go to the hospital to have an operation performed. My wife saw a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. I did so and have used it according to directions while living in a squalid and obtained a complete cure, for I have never been troubled with piles since. I am now seventy years of age and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all sufferers from piles. My wife has used it for itching skin and obtained complete cure."

Mr. Donald M. Campbell, Campbell's Mountain, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment with great success for hemorrhoids or piles of fifteen years' standing. After trying all kinds of so-called pile cures, three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me a complete cure. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and there are no others so good. You may use this letter, if you wish, for the benefit of others who may suffer as I did."

Sworn before me, Murdoch Gordon Campbell, J.P., in the County and for the Province of Nova Scotia.

If you would like to try Dr. Chase's Ointment at our expense, send a two-cent stamp to pay postage and we shall mail you a sample box free. Full size box 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

of many a mansion now. Both Olive and her father gazed at him in amazement. Was it possible that a man could be so wicked? "Words!" echoed Sir Edwin at last. "I complain of your deeds—not your words, sir. Do you call the theft of money no wrong? What, too, have you done with poor Farmer Styles' daughter—poor Polly?"

Reuben could hardly believe his own ears. He looked at Sir Edwin with open-eyed astonishment. "How—how dare you!" he gasped at last, white with righteous indignation. "Good heavens! You must be mad to say such things."

"Reuben, Reuben," murmured Olive, trembling, but with joy, for she felt intuitively that there was some explanation. He turned to her respectfully. "I beg your pardon, Miss Seymour," he said; "but these accusations are so monstrous that I may be forgiven if I resent them."

But before another word could be uttered, some of the miners appeared. They had cleared up the camp, and having recovered some of their own lost treasures, were anxious to return at once to their own station, which was not far from Ballarat. They treated both father and daughter respectfully enough, only asking that they should return to their carriage and let themselves be driven back with them.

Reuben postponed any further attempt at explanation, and insisted that a meal should be prepared for the travellers before a start was made. The good-natured miners readily agreed. Accordingly, some of the food just prepared by the bushrangers was set before Sir Edwin and his daughter, while Reuben retired to the farther end of the ravine, there to muse over the charges which had been made against him—undoubtedly in all sincerity, for he felt that Sir Edwin would not accuse him lightly and in the hour of his deliverance.

The meal was hastily disposed of, and Olive and her father were soon in the carriage on their way to Ballarat and safety. All Sir Edwin's dreams of gold-mining had vanished. He was now quiet as eager to return to England, whether rich or poor, as he had been to leave it.

Olive leaned back with a sigh of satisfaction, not wholly on account of her personal safety. Was she not near the man she loved? No matter what happened to her in the future, she would never regret this last adventure; for she felt certain that Reuben would prove innocent, and in her joy, the black shadow of Morgan Verner receded for a time.

B. E. F. France,
December

Dear Mother and Dad.—Things are going on O.K. round here just at present. I am getting my full share of the war or at least it is as full of fun as I care to have it. We get very patrols a day to do and are very thankful that the job is done. I have had two rather exciting patrols in the last couple of days. On one of them five of us went up and all went well for about 20 minutes. Then we saw a patrol of four Huns below us. Our leader went after them and we all followed. When we dived there were two Hun scouts above us, and this gave them a chance to join in, so a general scrap followed. In the mix-up our two last men were attacked by the scouts above us, got away from the rest of us and we didn't see them again. The three of us continued down, and the leader engaged one Hun and the other fellow and I each took one. We all fired a burst and the result was that the four Huns went down in a spin. This does not mean that we got four birds with three stones, but we are sure that we got one because one of them burst into flames. It was the one our leader fired at. We don't know about the others, we may have hit them. Personally, I don't think I hit my man as he went under me and I couldn't dive any steeper as I was going about 190 miles an hour and that is near the limit. Also my gun got jammed after about 20 rounds, so the Hun, I imagine got away unharmed unless one of the first shots hit him. The three of us formed a fairly representative colonial outfit as the leader was a Canadian, the man on my left an Australian and myself, of course, a Newfoundland.

The little scrap was more or less of a success as far as we could see. We had spotted their work (which was registering for their guns) and we had "done" in one and possibly hit one or both of the others. On the other hand there were two of our original five missing.

Our trouble was not over yet, however, we started back towards our lines (about 3 miles) and when almost up to them I saw a piece break away from our leader's machine and he went down—but completely under control. There were no Huns about so we followed him down to 500 feet from the ground and saw him land in shell holes and turn completely over. As we were getting fired at from the ground and as we were also in the zone which our own shells frequent on their journey over to Hunland, we very soon got up. Luckily our time for patrol was just over so we went off home.

As I went home I was summing up in my own mind the result, and it didn't look too favorable. Two of our machines had gone—I didn't know where, and our leader had crashed somewhere near the line and as it is not very distinct owing to shell holes, I wasn't quite sure if he was on the right side.

When we landed we found the two who left us safe at home. One had returned due to engine trouble, and the other had lost sight of us in the mix-up but had joined another patrol of British machines and went with them to their aerodrome, and afterwards came on to our own. Furthermore, they told us that when the two Huns above us worried them, two more of our machines came from about 10,000 feet out of the clouds, and one of the Huns went down in flames, and the other went off to Hunland without leaving his address. About two hours later our leader rang up to say that his machine had corked and a bit which broke away ripped off some of the cowling (a tin covering)—that was the bit which I saw breaking away. He landed about 300 yards on our side of the line and damaged his machine quite a bit, but not himself. So taken all in all, we had a successful show.

To-day I was on another patrol which held a fair bit of excitement for me, but as it was a purely personal bit of "wind up" I won't be corded among the great deeds of a great war. We were to do a patrol of five machines and my position was to be right rear, but one of the machines did not get off so I automatically moved to middle rear with the duty of watching the tails of the two front machines on either side. We got off O.K. and sailed over the lines rather low, as we could only get 3,000 ft. on account of clouds. After about ten minutes patrol we saw a couple of Huns about our own height and further over the lines, so we climbed into the clouds and went towards them. They had evidently seen our little game because when we came out of the clouds they were quite a bit away and beating for home at a good pace. As we were so low our leader decided not to follow them, so he turned towards home again. During our journey through the clouds, I had fallen a bit behind so as to avoid any chance of colliding with the other machines. Archie was waiting for us to come back and started good and hard. He ranged on the forward machines and had fairly good seen our little game along. I twisted and turned as much as possible and then made for the clouds. Just before I got in a piece of shell hit my left lower plane and tore a hole about 6 inches square in it, and a bit splintered my wind screen. The hole was not in a very dangerous place so I stayed with the patrol, which went off without further excitement.

"Cascarets" Best If Headachy, Bilious Sick, Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach. Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache. Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels. A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet, breath right, complexion rosy and your liver and bowels regular for months.

A pretty girdle for an evening gown is a narrow ribbon tied around the waist and tied in a bow in front.

GEO. M. BARR.

We have been getting bombed a good bit by night lately but no damage has been done and I guess we will manage to have a pretty fair Xmas here if it is not too fine a night. Last night we got old Fritz in the searchlight and believe me he had a pretty thin time. He dropped all his eggs in the field and went home by the shortest route.

The above mentioned little incidents are not supposed to be chronicled amongst "hairbreadth escapes"—they are quite tame, but their execution interests me, and their relation will probably interest you. They have at least one redeeming feature—truthfulness.

LATER. December. Since I last wrote you I did one patrol which was quite uneventful. There was nothing beyond a very bad exhibition of Hun Archie, which never came within a mile of us. Yesterday I went to one of our headquarters parks and flew back a new machine to replace one which we lost recently. A trip like that, however, is less eventful than walking across the road, after having done war flying. It was quite a nice little joy ride of about 40 miles and as the wind was with me I did it in a little over 20 minutes. Kalligrews and back in 20 minutes wouldn't be bad going, would it?

In Five Minutes! No Indigestion, Gas Or Sour, Acid Stomach

The moment "Pape's Diapiespin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapiespin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiespin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiespin will give you a hundred dollars worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

Your Boys and Girls. One busy mother has solved to her entire satisfaction the problem of fresh air for her baby. Busy all day with her work, she has only a short half hour to take care for a ride in his carriage, but fresh air the boy must have and lots of it, so she bundles him up in his warm coat and bonnet, puts on his thick mittens, places a hot water bottle at his feet and deposits him in the big clothes basket in front of an open window.

A package of absorbent cotton will be found very useful, with boracic acid, to wash the baby's mouth and to use for the powder puff and to put on vaseline for the hair, too. It not only will remove the scabby foundation which often appears on the top of the head, but will prevent its forming. This comes from neglecting to clean thoroughly this tender place through fear of hurting the baby. It really is not so tender that it will not stand the rubbing necessary to keep it clean. In case it has already formed an application of green soap will loosen it and it can then be easily removed with the baby comb, being careful not to scratch the skin.

Thoughts Upon the Times.

(By PATRIOT.)

"In the Government of this Commonwealth, the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them; the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them; the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them; to the end that it may be a government of laws and not of men." Article XIX of Part I, of Constitution of Massachusetts of 1780.

This is as true of the Government of Newfoundland as it is of the State of Massachusetts and of every State in the United States.

Ours is a Government of laws and not of men. It is a Government of limited powers. Every one who serves the public finds his duties defined by law. He has to keep within certain bounds. If he goes beyond them his authority is gone. His first care then is to know every rule and regulation and the path along which he must tread in order to carry out effectively his public duties. It must be conceded therefore that the man who has been educated and trained in legislative and executive departments is peculiarly fitted to discharge efficiently the duties imposed upon the legislator and executive officer. It is in such men people must repose their trust and confidence if they expect to enjoy any measure of security and the beneficent effects from responsible government. To place the machinery of government into the hands of uneducated and inexperienced men, who are biased, and bound by an oath to follow the dictation of an agitator, is like sending the ship of state on a voyage without rudder or compass. Sooner or later the results come back upon the people in the form of discontent in the operation and enforcement of its laws.

The present Government of this country is not a government of laws but of one man—a dictator—whose word to-day is law. Whilst he may be eminently fitted to manage and control a business corporation which he himself has organized, yet he is not qualified to rule this country, because his mental training and his habits of thought and study do not especially fit him to perform the kind of service which the public interest requires. To prove that this is so let me refer your readers to the Evening Advocate of 10th and 14th inst. As everyone knows the whole Empire is in a life or death struggle in defence of the principle that binds together the whole fabric of civilization. His Majesty the King, through his representatives throughout the Empire is making an appeal to the various governments of the Dominions and Colonies to provide sufficient man power to carry on the war, so that the principle for which we are fighting may be established, and a lasting and abiding peace be secured for a war-worn and weary world. How does the actual head of the present Government of this Dominion treat this appeal of his Sovereign? By attempting to make political capital out of it, as the article in last Thursday's Advocate headed "Water Street Demands Conscription" proves. Is further proof required? Then glance at Tuesday's Advocate and see in glaring head lines "Burnt District Behind Coaker. People Invest $5,000 in Union Trading Coy." The world is money mad. People are getting sick of it, and the present war has been caused by money mad people. Judas wanted money. He wanted it more than he wanted anything else. He went to the limit to get money, and he got it. But what price did he pay for it? What is absolutely necessary in order to wake people up to the real dangers that threaten the extinction of our race, is to have men at the head of the Government who have patriotism enough in their make-up to put their country's needs before their own selfish interests. We want men who know and understand the issues before us and can explain them in an intelligent way to the people. We want men who can construct broad-minded policies and have the courage and conviction to carry them out. We want men who will use their talents to bring together for the common good all classes and creeds, and whose influence will be given towards promoting decency and peace, courtesy and good-will in the community.

The Regiment.

We cannot pretend to understand the Herald's psychology. It draws attention, quite rightly, to the all-important matter of the Regiment, the imperative and immediate necessity of taking steps to keep it at strength.

Not only is the Government to be immune from criticism in the matter, but particular members of it, who have deliberately invited criticism, are to be accorded the same privilege.

Isn't This Inevitable?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"But if you go without such things would that throw someone out of work?"
Someone had spoken of a luxury she thought of giving up and someone else made that familiar objection.
I think I have heard some form of that objection a hundred times since the readjustments of war times began.
It is certainly a powerful consideration. And yet I think there are other considerations so much more powerful that they sweep it right off the board.
We begin to realize we are at war. We are beginning to realize, as the flour situation and the coal situation and the sugar situation drive the matter home to us, that we are at war, and that whether we like it or not there have got to be some readjustments.
If we don't make some sort of readjustments now, the day will come when circumstances will make them for us, and make them much more radically and much more sweepingly and much more harshly than if we made them to-day.
But this is Not a Time of Panic. Of course it is a terrible thing that people should be thrown out of work. One's heart aches for them. There is no more desperate feeling than that gives. One feels like a man sliding off a precipice, clutching, struggling and losing one's hold of everything. But this is not a time of panic or unemployment, there is plenty for everyone to do and the government and the public and the individual must simply get together and somehow find other more necessary cutting down on luxuries thrown out of their groove.
It is not enough in these days that all men work; they must work on things which have an economic value. Of course these readjustments must not be made hurriedly or carelessly, but that goes without saying.
We Must All Help.
It seems to me that the share of governments is to establish federal employment bureaus of the public (that means you and me) to consider every effort to bring the man and the job together, and of the individual affected to be willing, when the necessity has plainly been demonstrated, to try to do some different kind of work.

I do not for one minute deprecate the burden and sacrifice these people bear. But I don't see why we should sheer off from it as something impossible. It has not been impossible for some millions of men to be killed, it has not been impossible for millions of women to see their sons and husbands and sweethearts and brothers march off.
"Shall we be more tender of our dollars than of the lives of our sons?"

Pique collars are used on the smartest of dresses for the little girl. You simply must have fur at the top or bottom of your evening wrap.
It is hinted that there will be an entire change of silhouette for spring. There are many red straw hats among the sports nats for southern wear.
It is a pretty idea to use a heavy cord for the girle and tie of a child's dress.
Trimming is apt to go around the skirts of the new frocks, but this can be becomingly worn only by very slender women.

THE SNEEZE.

The sneeze is a violent form of light artillery practice which is never troubled with a shortage of ammunition. It is hard to understand why the great American sneeze is not made an implement of warfare, like the machine gun, in which event we could protect our coast line with perfect ease and would not have to build expensive arsenals in order to re-elect some Congressman who is headed toward peaceful oblivion.

The sneeze is caused by some foreign substance entering the nose in a stealthy manner and setting up a loud and determined tickle. This tickle is usually located where it cannot be reached from the outside, and cause an apprehensive look to settle on the face of the victim. Sometimes, as in church or at a funeral, a budding sneeze can be seized around the throat and choked into a submissive gurgle, but nine times out of ten it explodes with a noise like a fat man sitting on a toy balloon. There is nothing that will destroy the tout ensemble of a devout congregation quicker than a passionate sneeze which starts from the diaphragmatic muscles of some abashed brother who saw it coming but was unable to head it off. Many a fine sermon, written in a small, tight hand on forty-eight pages of foolscap, has been ruined by a high-powered sneeze injected immediately after a riging climax.

Some people become very adept in handling the sneeze and are able to buckle it down so that after discharging in one healthy, resounding toot it will die away in an apologetic rattle. Others have no control over the sneeze chamber whatever and fire several rounds in a rapidly accelerating crescendo which becomes highly monotonous to people near them who are trying to grasp what the orchestra is saying. It is a terrifying sight to see a large, pink conger, struggling in the throes of a resolute sneeze and finally letting go with a blast that drowns out the kettle drums.

The most depressing and prolific form of sneeze known to polite society is that which is attached to the hay-fever victim. This sneeze begins work at 6.30 a.m. and never lets up until the first frost has laid the ragged low. Hay fever is bad enough without its self-tripping sneeze, which should be subject to a jail sentence.

BILL'S PROPHECY.

WALT MASON

It was away last winter the German ruler said, in substance, to the printer, "We'll paint the ocean red! With unrestricted sinking of everything that floats, we'll end the war, I'm thinking, and get the Allies' goats. Two months is all we're needing, of action in the seas, and you'll see Britain pleading for mercy on her knees! Oh, England, you had better take in your ancient signal Geese, whis and donnerwetter, the seas will soon be mine!" And Bill's been submarineing like blitzkreuz, ever since. "What is old England meaning?" he asks of the crown prince. "We've sent ships to the bottom as fast as they could scoot, yet Britishers, dod rot 'em, don't seem to care a hoot. I said, in the beginning, I needed sixty days, a triumph to be winning, with laurel wreaths and bays. My campaign's hit the ceiling! Excuse these briny tears. I don't see England kneeling in less than sixty years." "Oh, sire," the prince makes answer, while tears flow in a flood, "it seems our name is Panco or perhaps it's Hohen-Mud. In spite of all our slaying, no prize the struggle yields; oh, that we two were maying, down in the pretzel fields." Old England still goes boasting, her flag is in the breeze, her bulwarks still are floating, she's mistress of the seas.

Fads and Fashions.

The midseason hat is of satin and frequently faced with a contrasting color.
Patent leather hats are fashionable, but the crown must be of some soft material.
Bright flowered vests and hats trimmed to match will be features of spring toilettes.
There is not much left of the bustle except a slight tucking up of the skirt in the back.
While new dresses are draped, there are a very few chic ones that are perfectly straight.
There is a pretty fur collar, very high and buttoned on the side, with a square end hanging down the back.
It seems that smocking on children's clothes will be the fashion forever. It is just as smart this season as it has been.

Love Linked With Death

In Tucoopa Girls Propose Marriage and Mus. Die if Rejected.

In the Pacific ocean between Fiji, New Guinea, New Caledonia and the continent of Australia lies the Melanesian group of islands, where head hunters and cannibals abound. Although strange and gruesome are many of the customs of the tribes, there are some that are most romantic. For instance, on the island of Tucoopa the woman proposes marriage instead of the man.

When a girl of Tucoopa sees a man whom she thinks she would like to have for her husband she does not rush up to him and ask him to marry her. On the contrary, she gives the subject deep thought and often the man a most careful investigation before she "pops the question." The reason is that his answer spells life or death to her.

It is a tribal law that any woman who has been refused must forthwith kill herself. Therefore a woman asks a man's hand only when she feels sure that his answer will be the happy one. Many are the strange and seemingly inexplicable questions with which the women of Tucoopa ply the stranger, who cannot realize the personal motive back of the solitude of the dusky belles who inquire if he is married or not and the state of his wife's health. Romances are consequently very apt to turn out in happy marriage.

But there have been innumerable instances when a poor girl, smitten by the newcomer's charms, has been compelled to kill herself because the man with whom she has fallen in love has had to refuse to marry her.

Baldness with the women of Tucoopa is a sign of beauty, and never until she is bald does a Tucoopa woman become fully convinced that she is really lovely. But bald or not she takes great care whom she asks to marry her, for the tribal law has never been known to fail. If a rejected woman does not kill herself she is executed by the leaders of the tribe.

Everyday Etiquette.

"A friend invited me to spend the week end at her country home recently. As I have no home to entertain in may I send her a slight gift in appreciation?" inquired Ethel.
"It is quite proper though not necessary, to send a gift after such hospitality," said her sister.

Household Notes.

Bolled rice with chopped nuts scattered through it and served with hot chocolate sauce is a very agreeable dessert.

A stationary stool, which swings like those in stores, can be fastened to the side of a built-in sink. When not in use swing in under the sink.

We have just received a shipment of 44,640 Tins of "2 in 1."

WAR SUMMARY.

ALTHOUGH the peace pour parlers between the Bolshevik and Teuton allies have been resumed at Brest-Litovsk, the peace by agreement between the German populace and some of the papers continues their expressions of dissatisfaction with the positions of the Pan-Germanists and the terms that have been advanced by the German delegates at Brest-Litovsk as the basis for peace. Amsterdam dispatches announce that an understanding has been reached between the political and military parties in Germany on the basis of the Russian programme of no annexations and no indemnities in the east, and leaving Hindenburg in case of German victory, the liberty of dealing in Germany possible annexation in the west; but evidence tends to show that the factions are still at odds. Additional meetings at which speakers endeavored to outline the point of the militaristic element have been broken up, and it was announced that Chancellor Von Hertling will be permitted to deliver a delayed address on Germany's war aims to the main committee of the Reichstag next Friday, for which the country has been clamouring. Adding to political strife in Germany and Austria comes the announcement of the resignation of the Hungarian cabinet due to the conduct of the war. Failure to obtain adequate support for the military programme put forward by the cabinet is given as the reason of the resignation of the ministry. The programme included the formation of an independent Hungarian army which Emperor Charles vetoed. The situation between Russia and Roumania apparently is growing acute on the demand of the American ambassador and the heads of other diplomatic missions, accredited to Russia. The Bolsheviks have released the Roumanian Minister and attaches of the Roumanian Legation who were arrested Sunday. The Council of National Commissioners of Russia now has sent an ultimatum to Roumania, calling for the immediate release of members of the Bolsheviks arrested recently in Roumania. A rupture of relations with Roumania and most energetic military measures are threatened for non-compliance with the 24 hours.

Except in the Italian theatre, the military activities are still confined to small affairs carried out by raid parties and bombardment in various sectors. The Austro-Germans both in the mountain region in Northern Italy and around the Lower Pave River have made vicious attacks after heavy artillery work, to capture the positions wrested from them early in the week. All attempts were without result. Again there has been great air activity in this area, in which five many machines were sent to earth, four by British and Italian aviators and the other by anti-aircraft batteries.

HUNGARIAN CABINET RESIGNS.

LONDON, Jan. 16. The resignation of the Hungarian Cabinet on account of failure to obtain necessary support for the military programme, is reported in a Budapest despatch to Copenhagen. It is believed Emperor Charles will ask the Hungarian Premier Dr. Wekerle to remain in office and reconstruct the cabinet.

DISSATISFACTION EXPRESSED.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 16. Great dissatisfaction is expressed by the German newspapers at the slow progress of peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk and the Russians are charged with prolonging the conflict. This delay is affecting the negotiations in progress at Petrograd where, according to one newspaper, discussions regarding the exchange of prisoners has yielded no results thus far. Most of the newspapers assert Germany will never think of completely evacuating occupied Russian territory before peace has been brought about on all fronts.

SINKINGS.

LONDON, Jan. 16. Only eight British merchant ships were sunk by mines or submarines last week. These figures given out by the Admiralty in the weekly statement of shipping losses, shows a great decrease in the number of ships sent to the bottom as compared with the record for the two previous weeks—each of which the aggregate was twenty-one.

PARTIES COMING TOGETHER.

LONDON, Jan. 16. German newspapers are quoted in a despatch from Amsterdam as saying that the result of conference on understanding has been reached between political and military parties in Germany in order to avoid further friction. The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin says the basis of the agreement is that Chancellor Von Hertling's new point in regard to eastern questions. Acquiescence in the Russian programme of no annexations or indemnities and the right of self-determination of peoples—is to prevail. Whereas Field Marshal Von Hindenburg will have full liberty in the west.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Canada's Fisheries Mission, headed by Chief Justice Hazen, called to-day on Secretary Redfield and other members of the American Mission and discussed plans for their conference, which will consider the conservation of fish foods in waters adjacent to the two countries. The depletion of lobsters, halibut and salmon will receive special attention. "It is hard to see how Canada and the United States could be better friends," Chief Justice Hazen said, "but we hope our discussions will remove some slight causes for friction due to the indifferent policies pursued by the two Governments. Our task will not be so much the prevention of trouble, however, as the conservation of fish at this time when the utilization of all foods is so necessary." Plans for the hearing at Atlantic and Pacific ports and possibly at Great Lake ports will not be made till the preliminary conferences have been concluded. The visitors will call to-morrow on President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing.

SMALL SHIPPING LOSSES.

LONDON, To-day. Another marked decrease in the sinkings of British merchantmen by mines or subs in the past week is noted in the report of the Admiralty issued to-night. In this period only six merchant ships of 1,600 tons or over were sunk and two under 1,600 tons. Two fishing ships were also sunk.

SIMMONDS LEAVES THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, To-day. Frank E. Simmonds, of the editorial staff of the N. Y. Tribune, who since the outbreak of war has gained a wide reputation as a military critic, has severed his connection with that paper. It became known to-day.

FUEL TROUBLE IS WITH RAILROADS.

INDIANAPOLIS, To-day. The leaders among the 6,500 delegates here from 21 coal-producing states of the country, attending the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America, expressed sympathy to-day for the people and business interests of the many districts that are suffering from the fuel shortage in the present severe weather. The announcement from Washington shutting down manufacturing concerns for five days, has made the miners realize more than ever before the seriousness of the situation and the importance of their work for the health and prosperity of the people. As serious as the situation is, the miners say they feel they have done all possible under the present conditions to relieve the situation. The trouble is with the railroads. The trouble is with the railroads, said Jno. P. White, former President of the Miners' Union, who is now associated with National Fuel Administrator Garfield as labor adviser. Mr. White, who is attending the convention as a delegate, said, "It isn't a question of production. There is plenty of production, but the railroads can't move the coal that is mined. There are miners walking the streets in mining towns right now, unemployed because the railroads don't furnish cars. There are miles and miles of loaded coal cars on the road tracks that are not moving. The trouble is, the needs of the country have outgrown the railroads. The railroads haven't kept the pace."

THE COAL PROBLEM IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, To-day. American manufacturing enterprises, with but few exceptions, in all states east of the Mississippi River were ordered by the Government to-day to suspend operations for five days, beginning on Friday morning (correct) as a war measure for relieving the fuel famine. At the same time to further the means of relief it was said that that industry and business generally which included all normal activities that required heated buildings will observe as a holiday every Monday for the next ten weeks. This will close down on Mondays not only factories but saloons and stores, except for the sale of drugs and food, and places of amusement. These industries will be diverted. It was estimated to-day that the enforcement of the order would save a total of thirty million tons of bituminous coal, which probably is about half the present shortage. Indications were that at the end of ten weeks of Monday holidays a permanent plan of restriction would have been determined on. This plan will limit the use of coal to the less essential industries under a self-rationing basis. Louisiana and Minnesota, which lie partly on both sides of the Mississippi, were specifically included as a whole in the list of States to which the order applies. The order is expected to go far towards clearing the choked and congested railroads, tracks and terminals. It was regarded to-day as likely that Secretary McAdoo, Director General of Railways, might declare an embargo against shipments of the products of plants closed down, if necessary further to relieve the roads. The city coal situation is blamed on the unusually severe weather of last week, which made it impossible in many instances to move coal at all and which has cut off the fuel supply of the whole city.

TURKISTAN A REPUBLIC.

STOCKHOLM, To-day. A proclamation of Turkestan as an autonomous republic allied to the federal republic of Russia is announced by the Ukraine Information Bureau.

SHIPPING FIGURES.

LONDON, To-day. Summary of shipping arrivals: British merchant ships, 1,106; sailings, 2,184. British merchant ships sunk by mine or submarine over 1,600 tons, six; under 1,600 tons, two; fishing ships, two; merchant ships unsuccessfully attacked, eight.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF PACKING INDUSTRIES.

CHICAGO, To-day. The immediate taking over of all packing plants in the United States will be urged upon President Wilson by a delegation representing every branch of the industry and headed by John Fitzpatrick, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor, which departed for Washington to-day.

HELPING RUSSIA.

LONDON, To-day. The Labor Party to-day gave notice of its intention to move in the Commons a resolution congratulating the Russians on the formation of the Constituent Assembly.

GRANT ARMENIAN POLITICAL RIGHTS.

PETROGRAD, To-day. An official decree issued to the people of Turkish Armenia and signed by Nikolai Lenin and other members of the Bolsheviks says that the Government of Russia support the right of the Armenians in Russia and Turkey to the extent of their complete independence and right to decide their own destiny.

OBJECT TO THE SWEEPING FUEL ORDER.

NEW YORK, To-day. E. H. Outbridge, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, said to-day that Dr. Garfield's order to close down industries to conserve the fuel supply seems to give great encouragement to the enemy, great discouragement to our Allies and a great interruption to the war preparations of this nation. A telegram has been sent to President

WILSON BY THE PUBLISHERS OF THE WORLD.

Herald, Evening Post and Brooklyn Eagle, earnestly representing that the order just issued by the Fuel Administrator is "calamitous in its character and unnecessary under the fast improving conditions." The telegram says the order will dislocate industry, throw millions out of employment and impoverish families who depend upon daily wages.

GOOD SALVAGE WORK.

LONDON, To-day. Of all the British vessels damaged by enemy action between January and October, 1917, it has been found impossible to salvage four only, according to a statement made by Thomas J. McNamara, Financial Secretary of the Admiralty, in the Commons to-day. Of the remainder repairs to more than half have been actually completed. McNamara explained that the vessels reported weekly as unsuccessfully attacked were not damaged. The vessels damaged by attacks are not included in the weekly returns until they become total losses.

STEEL WORKERS WELCOME ORDER.

PITTSBURG, Penn., To-day. With at least half of the steel mills closed, half of the blast furnaces banked, and half of the army of seventy thousand men engaged in the steel industry in the Pittsburgh district in idleness because of the coal situation, the order of Fuel Administrator Garfield was received with a degree of relief by leaders of the steel industry.

FRENCH SHIPPING.

PARIS, To-day. Five French merchantmen of more than 1600 tons and one under that tonnage were sunk by submarines or mines during the week ending January 20th. Ships entering French ports during the week numbered 792, while those clearing were 751. Two vessels were attacked but escaped.

SNOWSTORMS IN HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. Through violent snowstorms, Holland, telegraphic and telephonic communication with the adjacent countries is disrupted considerably and railway and street car traffic is disorganized seriously. Three hospital ships bound for England with British wounded are held up at Rotterdam, while the Holland-American line steamer Nieuw-Amsterdam is still unable to sail.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

CHICAGO, To-day. Nearly nine thousand manufacturing plants of the manufacturing district will be shut down and 400,000 persons will stop work under Mr. Garfield's orders, it was estimated to-night.

NEWFOUNDLANDER WOUNDED.

HALIFAX, N.S., To-day. W. J. Briand Mainland, of Newfoundland, wounded, is on the Canadian casualty list.

THE DIAMINDI INCIDENT.

LONDON, To-day. The version of the incident that resulted in the arrest of Roumanian Minister Diamindi given by the Petrograd correspondent of the Daily News says that Roumanian troops surrounded a Russian Regiment and with it some Austrians who were visiting the Russians, thus breaking the conditions of the armistice on the western front. The Roumanians stopped the Russian supplies, disarmed the Russian soldiers and arrested the regimental committee. The whole incident, the correspondent says, suggests a Germany agency, because nothing would suit the Germans better than an excuse to break with Russia over a breach of the armistice instead of over an important point in the peace negotiations. It is insisted by the correspondent that the visit of the Allied and neutral diplomats to Premier Lenin constitutes a de facto recognition of the Bolshevik Government. He says the general tone of the conversation at the meeting was friendly. The Italian Ambassador took the opportunity to protest against the looting of his wine cellar. Lenin replied that the Ambassador should have telephoned to him. M. Rudner, Mayor of Moscow, and leader of the Social Revolutionists, invited the foreign journalists to meet him on Tuesday for the purpose of securing support for his party. The conversations at the meeting, the correspondent of the Daily News says, confirms his view that more is to be feared than gained from a replacement of the Bolsheviks by the Social Revolutionists. The Social Revolutionists, Rudner said, control the majority of the Constituent Assembly and would, if the assembly meets, immediately appeal to the Allies for an inter-Allied Conference with a view to opening negotiations for an immediate democratic peace. The speeches of Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson could be the starting points and a speedy answer to the appeal would be desirable, as delay would mean the ruin of the Social Revolutionists and a serious risk for the Allies. Asked whether, if the Bolsheviks retain power and wage a holy war against Germany, the Social Revolutionists would support it, M. Rudner is reported to have replied "We regard the Bolshevik power as a mirage. In the case you mention we would act toward the Bolshevik Government as we acted toward the Czar."

The Reservists Pay.

St. John's, Nfld., January 17, '18. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Is it possible that our naval men are only getting paid 40c a day, as stated by Naval Reservist R.A.J. in your paper yesterday. If so small wonder he calls this a grateful country. I shall reserve further comment on this matter until I have more fuller particulars. I must apologize for trespassing on your time and space, but would be greatly obliged if you could state just what our naval men of the Nfld. Reserve are paid or what provision have been made for them. Yours truly, T. H.

[We believe R.A.J. was quite correct. We do not know whether the Government intends to do anything in the matter.—Ed.]

One of "Ours" Writes.

The following letter was written by No. 3254 Pfc. Bertram Hart, of the 1st Nfld. Regiment, now in hospital in France, to his father, Robert Hart, of Champneys, East Trinity:— Hospital, France, December 14th, 1917. My Dear Father,—I suppose you thought I had forgotten you altogether. I know myself I have failed lately in writing to you, but as an old saying, "Better late than never." Well, father, I hope you are enjoying yourself, in good health and not working too hard. I am in hospital now, I got tossed up with a shell; but as God would order it I didn't get a big shaking up. In any case don't worry, I will be all right again in a week or so. I suppose you have read of the heavy fighting that was going on. I can thank God with all my heart for bringing me safely through. I see for myself what He can do. He is able to save in a time of need. In all that heavy fighting I had the best of courage, but I can tell you I often-times, while in No Man's Land, thought of that little verse, "Be strong and of good courage." Never mind, father, please God when this war is over it will be good for all. I hope mother hasn't forgotten me with a parcel. It would be a great thing to get a parcel from home. Tell her not to forget and send me a good share of cigarettes, because they are great comfort in the trenches. I hope you will spend a joyful Christmas and a happy New Year, and I hope by next December this time I will be home with you, please God. Now, father, answer soon and don't delay. I remain, your loving son, BERTRAM.

BARNES ATTACKS CHURCHILL.

LONDON, To-day. G. N. Barnes, Labour Member of the War Cabinet, speaking at Glasgow this morning attacked his colleague, Winston Spencer Churchill. Referring to general industrial conditions, he said Mr. Churchill had "butted in" with a twelve and half per cent increase to time workers apparently imagining it applied only to a few thousands. It was impossible to prevent the increase going right down to the bottom. That brought the Government up against the difficulties they have been confronted with during the last few weeks, and they certainly had been living on the top of a veritable volcano. If they wanted more money they would have to produce more goods. Churchill's order was absolutely against that principle. Instead of encouraging men to work, by the result it encouraged the men to go on in the lackadaisical system of working by time.

OPPOSITION STRONG.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Protests against the Fuel Administration order closing down the industrial plants began pouring into the White House and Congress to-day from all over the country. Business men everywhere, aroused at prospect, objected to its enforcement and suggested many other remedies.

ANOTHER NAVAL MUTINY IN GERMANY.

LONDON, To-day. A mutiny among submarine crews at the German naval base of Kiel on January 7th is reported in a despatch from Geneva. Thirty-eight officers are said to have been killed.

STOCKS DROP BECAUSE OF ORDER.

NEW YORK, To-day. Stocks dropped from fractions to over three points at the opening of the stock market to-day, reflecting the attitude of Wall St. toward the Fuel Administrator's drastic fuel order.

Blessed Are the Dead.

They dread no storm that lours, No perished joys bewail, They pluck no thorn-clad frowns, Nor drink of streams that fall. There is no tear-drop in their eye, Nor change upon their brow, The placid bosom heaves no sigh, Though all earth's idols bow.

Who are so greatly blessed?

From whom hath sorrow fled? Who find such deep unbroken rest, While all things toll?—The dead! The holy dead!—Why weep ye so Above their sable bier? Thrice blessed they have done with woe, The living claim the tear. We dream, but they awake, Dark visions mar our rest, Mid thorns and snares our way we take,— And yet we mourn the blessed! For those who through the eternal throne, Lost are the tears we shed— They are the living, they alone, Whom thus we call the dead.

Help Get the Spies.

This country has long been honey-combed with German spies. Every day or two some person who passed as a business or professional man, and who has been well regarded, is caught "with the goods" and arrested. Every state, every city, and every town harbors these agents or allies of the enemy who are masquerading as peaceable citizens. Our easygoing, think-no-evil way makes smooth sailing for pirate-craft, right into the councils of state and city, and even our own homes. No country had ever so well organized and numerous a spy system as Germany has maintained right here in the United States under our very eyes. The constantly recurring secondary fires, the ingenious endless variety, are both part of the same underground system. The Chicago Herald has printed, run and exploded more than one issue of these adroit falsehoods which would pass muster with most readers. Here is where we can all be alert to spot and stop this propaganda. The next one you hear, get far before you reach some body who can't remember who told it, and who is full of information favorable to Germany and unfavorable to our cause, and who can't remember where and from whom he got this news, will bear watching. It is an opportunity for boys and girls as well as grown-ups, to run the locate, and explode this work of propagandists.—By H. H. Windsor, the January Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor,—The letter of R. A. J. which was published in your valuable paper on the 16th inst., has made quite a number of people sit up and ask: "Is this a fact, that our Navy boys are receiving the magnificent sum of 40c. per day?" Good heavens, Mr. Editor, this is an utter disgrace, and your correspondent might well ask a grateful (!) country "to do its duty by him and others of the Reservists," and might well point to the fact that "nearly all of those young men had been earning substantial wages previous to their joining the Royal Naval Reserve."

To offer any man forty cents for a day's work is a positive insult, and to dole such an amount out per man to those brave fellows is an action on the part of the Government, or the authorities, which calls for indignant protest.

Do we realise for one single moment what our dear brave boys have done and are doing for us against that remorseless foe which would so quickly gather around our coasts but for Britain's "brave ships of war?"

O, shame upon that power which has placed a MAN'S wage at 40 cents a day, and yet, sir, we look to and expect our young men to come forward to risk life and limb, to sacrifice position and friends and home and loved ones for this contemptible award. I admire your correspondent R. A. J., he has in a manly way told the truth, and he has, too, most gentlemanly, called upon the Authorities to give to the Reservists what was promised to them the more decent wage of $1.10.

Even that, sir, is small enough to pay to those brave fellows, but that it SHOULD be paid and paid IMMEDIATELY is apparent to all.

Yours very truly,
"VERITAS."

Wedding Bells.

On Thursday last, at St. Thomas's Church, Pt. Alfred Wills, son of Samuel and Mrs. Wills, of this city, was united in matrimony to Miss Annie Hiscock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hiscock, of Flat Island, B.B., by the Rev. Dr. Jones. The bride was assisted by her sister Mrs. Mark Earle, and Miss Annie Wills, sister of the groom, while Miss Mollie Earle, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by Mr. James Earle, returned Royal Naval Reserve hero. The bride was attired in white Jap silk with veil and orange blossoms and was given away by Mr. Avery, Bandman of No. 1 Barracks. After the ceremony the wedding party drove from the church to Mrs. Wills' mother of the groom, where a reception was held. The groom's present to the bride was a gold piece. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. Mr. Wills was one of the first to enlist being one of the Blue Puttee boys and has seen many engagements at the front, being a veteran of Gallipoli and Dardanelles; he was also in several attacks in France and was wounded on June the 25th, 1916. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Wills many years of happy wedded life.—Com.

CLEANLINESS FOR BEAUTY.
The skin may be kept perfectly beautiful by cleanliness, air, sunshine and good health. The entire body should be washed daily, the face twice a day if not more. This cleanses and permits the pores to act freely. Sunshine is good for the skin. So is fresh air. Both united give bloom and color to the face and, if the air and sunshine are taken early and regularly before the air has lost its morning freshness, and while the latter has not yet gained its acme of power, a beautiful bloom may be expected upon the skin.

It often occurs that one appears in public despite fatigue and a pale complexion. In such case try the cure of a famous beauty of England, that of giving the face a drink. It is accomplished as follows: A bowl of cold water is prepared. Close the eyes, hold the breath and immerse the face deep down into the bowl. Hold it submerged as long as possible. Raise the head, breathe deeply and again submerge the face in the water. This should be repeated six or eight times. The face should be gently dried with a soft towel and an application of powder will make a complexion that is presentable before any audience.

A beautiful natural complexion is the desire of nearly every woman and, in the absence of it, all sorts of artifices are resorted to in the attempt to improve its condition, which in many cases work great injury. There are a great many preparations that are beneficial for beautifying the complexion but one thing, which should be borne in mind, is that the skin must be kept clean and the pores open so they can discharge the impurities of the body.
