The Romance of A Marriage.

CHAPTER XIV.

In May's eyes the world holds no one so handsome, so noble, so lovable, as the great, simple-minded young gentleman whose whole thoughts are on his farm, and whom Alice looks down upon as a boor, and Mr. Stacy regards with superior condescension. They go along in silence for some minutes, and then May says, gently:

"I'm afraid you are sorry that we came, Mr. Estcourt."

"Eh?" says Bob, looking down at the still face in the moonlight, its large, blue eyes turned up to him with meek regard. "Sorry? What do you mean?"

"If we hadn't come you would have smoked the old, black pipe, wouldn't you?" she says.

Bob laughs. "Perhaps," he says; "but don't mind that."

"I wish you would," she says; almost as if she were asking a favour. "I am sure you would be happier; besides—"

"Besides what?" says Bob in his blunt fashion.

"It doesn't seem natural to see you without that black pipe."

Bob laughs and he nods at the forms in front.

"I should risk a row," he says. "Alice is very strong about my pipe. She says that I'm not fit society for any respectable young lady, and hints rather plainly that I shall die a bachelor unless I relinquish my old and trusty friend. Awful hard fate that, isn't it?"

"I don't know," murmurs May. "Perhaps she wouldn't mind, after all."

"She—who?" says Bob, who is not quick at following a meaning.

"Your—the young lady. Why, didn't you say that no one would marry you?" says May, laughing but colouring a little.

"Oh," says Bob, "there are other things beside the pipe, and he shakes his head solemnly. "There is no fear that shall ever be put to the test. Poor men don't marry now, you know; and I'm awfully poor. I hope we get a good harvest this year."

"Oh, so do I!" says May, devoutly. He stares a little at the emphasis.

"Why, what will it matter to you?"

he says, innocently, not to say stupidly. "Mr. Palmer doesn't farm anything to speak of, and it wouldn't matter if all went wrong to you, you know. You're not a farmer's daughter—lucky for you."

"I wish I was," says May, very softly, almost to herself.

This is such an astounding aspiration that Master Bob stops short.

"Oh! come, I say, you know!" he says, looking down at her open-eyed, and with an amused smile. "You wouldn't like it, you know. To be short of money—as all farmers are now by George—and to have no carriage, and footmen, and—and all that sort of thing—vaguely.

"But I should," says May, earnestly. "I don't care for carriages, and I detest footmen. I hate money!"

"It's lucky your father isn't here to hear that sentiment," says Bob, simply; "he would have a fit."

May laughs softly. "If you had seen as much of it as I have, and all the trouble it brings, and the nuisance of it," says May, "you'd say the same."

Bob looks down at the pretty face, very sweet and gentle in the moonlight, and yet touched with a bright eagerness, and his eyes droop.

"Oh, well!" he says, "you'll get used to it, you know. It's no use wishing you were poor. You see you weren't meant for a farmer's wife—I mean hurriedly, and with a suppressed sigh. "You were cut out to be a great heiress, and—and will marry some swell, perhaps, with a handle to his name—great heiresses generally do, you know; and then you'll look back at this wish of yours and laugh."

May is silent for a moment; then she says, very softly: "You haven't lit your pipe yet."

"No," he says, simply. "I forgot it. You really don't mind? It's awfully good-natured of you. I wonder all girls aren't like you!"

"Paula?" suggests May.

"Oh, Paula!" he says. "Paula is a brick! I don't know what I should do without her. It's a pity all girls aren't like you. What a jolly place the world would be!"

May laughs. "I'm nobody and nothing," she says. "Sometimes I feel as if I were all alone in that great old place, hating all this fuss and show. I don't think the world is any the better for me."

"Don't you?" retorts Bob, emphatically. "Why—" he stops rather abruptly, and looks up at the moon.

"It's a fine night," he says, rather curiously. "I think we shall have a good harvest after all. Hallo! Where's the moon gone?"

"How dark it is!" she says, and she laughs and she stumbles over a stone in the farm-yard path.

"Take my arm," says Bob, and he takes her hand and draws it within his.

It is such a tiny, little hand that his great, strong palm swallows it up, and it seems to nestle so warmly and contentedly that he cannot release it for a moment, but make quite an unnecessary business of placing it on his arm. Doubtless he thinks that she does not notice it; but if he could see the rose-red flush that flies to her face as her hand lies in his, Master Bob would be undecided—or perhaps he wouldn't.

"Keep close to me," he says. "There's a puddle on your side, and, of course, you haven't got thick boots on."

Thus advised, May draws a little closer, and his strong arm presses the tiny hand that lies on it so contentedly closer to him.

In the semi-darkness he ventures to look down at her with a strange, yearning wistfulness in his honest, boyish eyes, but averts his gaze as they come into the light shown by the window.

"Here we are," he says. "Oh! Stacy's going in. Come on," and he leads her to the door; but here Alice turns with an exclamation of disgust.

"That horrid pipe!" she says. "I thought I smelt it coming along. If you must smoke, Bob, and it seems that existence is impossible to you without doing so, why don't you smoke cigars or cigarettes, like Mr. Stacy?" and she throws a sweet, approving glance at that gentleman.

"There! I told you so!" says Bob to May, who has slipped her hand from his arm. "I told you there would be a row. I'd better go round the stable," he says, "until it blows over. You go in and rest."

"Yes," says May; "but I'm not tired. I'm sorry I asked you to smoke now," and she laughs.

He looks at her, then over his shoulder at the three now entering the parlour.

"Really not?" he says. "You wouldn't like to see the colt, I suppose? There's some puppies, too," temptingly.

"But I should," she replies, "if I may—"

"Oh, better not ask," says the abandoned Bob. "Go first and tell them afterwards, that's the way. I learnt that at school, and it answers just as well at home. Come on. Give me your hand," he adds, like a great school-boy.

May's face lights up, and she puts her hand into his.

"Wait a minute, the lantern's here," and he lights it. "Now, then, before Alice has time to shout after us. But you are sure you'd like to go?" hesitating a moment.

"I'm quite sure," says May, with a bright smile.

Bob, still holding her hand—which is scarcely necessary now that they have got the lantern—leads her to the stable and unlocks the door, and, setting down the lantern, strips the cloth off the colt.

"Don't be afraid of him," he says, "he's used to Paula. Here, I've got a piece of sugar in my pocket—oh, no! it's this confounded dress-coat; I forgot. Never mind, here's some corn, hold it in the palm of your hand. Give it to me."

May holds out her hand, palm upwards, and Bob is so struck by the smallness, softness, and pinkness of the tiny palm, that he stands staring at it, with the corn grasped in his own.

"You're not afraid he'll bite me, are you?" says May, laughing. "I'm not."

"Eh! Oh, no," Bob says, with a little start, "he won't bite you." And he drops the corn into the outstretched palm. "Get down, pup! Get down!"

May goes up to the colt and holds her hand out, and he turns his great, soft, brown eyes to her for a moment questioning, and then, as she puts her arm around his neck, he whinnies, evidently with approbation, and thrusts his velvety nose into her hand.

"What a lovely beauty he is," breathes May, afraid to speak aloud lest he should take fright. "And how soft and warm his nose is!" And she lays her head against his satin neck caressingly.

Bob leans against the stall, and looks on with a great, hungry wistfulness in his heart. For at the first time in his life he wishes that he were a colt.

LET "DANDERINE" BEAUTIFY HAIR

Girls! Have a mass of long, thick, gleamy hair

Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty. You can have lots of long, thick, strong, lustrous hair. Don't let it stay lifeless, thin, scraggly or fading. Bring back its color, vigor and vitality.

Get a 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter to freshen your scalp; check dandruff and falling hair. Your hair needs this stimulating tonic, then its life, color, brightness and abundance will return—Hurry!

"Give me some more," she says, turning her eyes without raising her head. "How he likes it. If I were to feed him often he would learn to know me, wouldn't he?"

"Yes," says Bob, filling her hand again. "Don't you feed your ponies at the Court sometimes?"

"No, never," she says, with a sigh. "Stacy says it is un ladylike to go into the stables; besides, there are so many grooms always hanging about, and they all stand and touch their hats, and wait as if something were going to happen. It is nothing but form, and fuss, and ceremony even in the stables," and she smiles rather sadly. "I'd rather have this dear little thing for my own than all our horses."

A sudden light comes into Bob's face.

"Would you really like him?" he says. "By George! I never thought of that. You shall have him!"

May colours and shrinks back, and Bob, misunderstanding, colours and shakes his head.

"No, of course not. I beg your pardon. Mr. Palmer might not like it. I didn't think of that."

May looks up eagerly, but no words come. Something tells her it is true. Bob, a little embarrassed by his blunder, turns his attention to the puppies, who have been keeping up an incessant leaping and yelping during the colloquy.

"Get down!" he says. "Get down!" "Oh, don't be angry with them," pleads May, and she stoops and picks up one of the fat, sleek mites.

"They'll spoil your pretty dress," says Bob, remonstratively.

"That doesn't matter," she says. "Do you really think it is pretty?" meekly.

Bob nods, his eyes travelling from the dress to the face.

"Awfully," he says. "But then, you see, I should think any dress you wore pretty. I mean—" he blunders, then stops short.

May hides her face over her puppy, who instantly takes advantage and bobs a kiss upon her cheek.

And poor Bob changes his mind about the colt, and wishes, instead, that he were a fox-terrier pup.

OTHER TABLETS NOT ASPIRIN AT ALL

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Genuine Aspirin

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, you are not getting Aspirin—Remember this! Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are now made in America by an American Company. No German interest whatever, all rights being purchased from the United States Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. The "Bayer Cross" is your only way of knowing that you are getting genuine Aspirin, proved safe by millions for Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also large sized "Bayer" packages can be had at drug stores.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 751), of Bayer, Manufacturer of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylicacid.

THE FIGHT IS ON.

With the nomination of the four candidates for St. John's West, yesterday, the political battle may now be considered to be on in earnest, and for the next ten days both sides will conduct their campaign with all the skill, diplomacy and strategy at their command. The opposing forces are lined up for action, and from now till the twenty-second the conflict will rage. The contending forces on the one hand are the Coaker-Squires-Combine candidates; on the other the representatives of the Liberal-Labor Party who have challenged the power of the Government in the present fight. The issue to be fought out is that of Coaker control and domination, said control and domination meaning the ultimate ruin of St. John's as the commercial centre of Newfoundland.

The election of Hons. R. A. Squires and H. J. Brownrigg means a continuance of the dictatorship which has been imposed upon this dominion. It means the establishment of monopoly, the stagnation of trade, the impoverishment of the wage earners of all sections and classes and the utter disappearance of St. John's as a factor in commerce, for Coaker has coldly and deliberately stated his intention of turning this city into a howling wilderness and making grass to grow in the streets, and being the real Prime Minister, and the whole of the Government, he has already begun his campaign of destruction, and there is not any of his party to say him nay, nor protest his policy of disaster and wreck for St. John's. Determined to force his calamitous ideas to the bitter end, only one influence can stay him. That influence is the might of the ballot in the hands of the freemen of St. John's West, the men who have never yet bowed the knee to tyranny or yielded to oppression.

In your hands is committed a sacred trust. You hold the future destinies of Newfoundland in your keeping. You also hold the making or marring of yourselves and your children. You are perfectly aware of the perils confronting you in the shape of the menace of Coakerism. You cannot fail to note the danger ahead, the obstacles in the path of your advancement. Newfoundland is being run upon the iceberg of disaster by the men who have present charge of the ship of state. Opened and unheeded they are deliberately steering the dominion toward calamity and misfortune. The course has been set by the master (Coaker) and not one of his officers or crew dare deviate from it by a quarter's point though danger lurks huge and visible. Ere the crash comes, ere the old ship is hopelessly piled up, the opportunity is given to begin the preparation of new articles and the signing on of a new captain and crew. The authority to discharge and engage has been given to St. John's West, therefore this word of advice to the voters: Discharge Messrs. Squires and Brownrigg on the twenty-second instant, and sign on in their stead the men in whom reliance can be placed to bring Newfoundland back to the course of progress, which has been changed to suit the desires and meet the dictates of the man from Port Union. In other words, vote for MARTIN and LINEGAR.

Kept Up The Price.

A fact that cannot be denied is that during the past ten or twelve years of fish-buying in this city and the outports, it was the Brokers who bought for New York, Halifax and British firms that kept up the price of fish as well as boomed the trade in cask making, handling and carting fish. This is the class that Mr. Coaker's fish exporting regulations seek to rule out to the prejudice and detriment of trade in St. John's. No wonder the people of the West End are up in arms against Coaker's fish rules, which if continued in force much longer will ruin St. John's and make the grass grow on Water Street.

If there is any value in the argument "we must endeavour to keep up the price of fish," the brokers and small fish buyers are the very ones who should be encouraged, if the intention is to give the benefit of increased prices to the fishermen. But it seems to us that it is not the fishermen themselves who count in this matter, but the big exporters, after they have taken over the fish from the producers at any old price at all. A good deal of this $12 limit fish that the Combine is exploiting, was bought from the fishermen last fall at $8 a quintal. Will the fishermen get any benefit from the excess profits that Coaker and his combine expect to make in the Mediterranean fish markets? Will Coaker, Hawes and their combine friends let the producers participate in the profits? Not likely. They want to grab all for themselves and get rich quick, knowing that such an infamous set of regulations could not, at the best, last more than one year. That would give them enough of money for their life time.

It is a providential thing that we have the Supreme Court standing between grasping trusts and the people, and the laws can't yet be made by three men at Catalina instead of in the Legislature by the people. Nobody knows better than the fishermen themselves that it is the brokers who increased the price of fish here every fall in recent years. The big merchant offers a certain price, say $10 per quintal. The fishermen goes around and meets a broker who has an immediate order to fill for New York. He is told the price that the merchant offers the fishermen, and he then says after seeing the fish, "I will give you 20 cents more." Possibly he goes to another broker who is anxious to fill an order, and he, on hearing of the last offer, says, "I will give you ten cents additional." The sale is then made at $10.30 and it soon becomes known all over town amongst both fishermen and merchants, and next day the general price is advanced by all the trade to $10.30 owing to brokers' competition. The next rise originates like the last, from the brokers, but for whom fish would remain at $10. Every fisherman will admit that this is correct, and that it is the small-order cask men who make the level price of fish advance by ten and twenty cent steps every fall. This is the class that Coaker and his pals want to kill out so that they will have the fishermen at their mercy every fall, and combine on their own price and keep the fish down. The brokers and small exporters are the men who have made the cask trade boom the past ten years.

It would be booming as usual this winter and last fall only that the three arch plotters put their heads together and made up their minds to strangle the broker, the small exporter and the cooper. Millmen who make the staves and heading, and hoop makers were also doomed to see their occupation taken away from them by these ruinous regulations. Now that they have been turned down in the Supreme Court one would think that the combine would give it up, but no, they are appealing to the Privy Council in England. The appeal is not alone against the Supreme Court here, but it is against the wishes of every laborer, cooper and fish handler in St. John's West. Our Supreme Court can do no more, but the people have it in their power to cancel Coaker's and Squires' labor-killing regulations for ever on the 22nd of this month. Put down Squires and Brownrigg by your ballots men of St. John's West, and you will cripple this Tory Government in such a way that they never will hang together, and the suspended regulations that are killing all work in your district will never become law. Burin, Fortune, Grand Bank, Burgeo and the whole West Coast are in the same box as you are, in this business, and are praying in their hearts that you will succeed in killing the Squires-Coaker fish monopoly Government. They will make their representatives do what you want to have done in the fish business or else—! Do your part and they will step in and finish the Tory Government.

Libel Action Against "Telegram."

Last evening at 5 o'clock the Proprietor and Editor of this paper were served with a writ for alleged libel at the instance of the Fishermen's Union Trading Company, Limited, the citation being based on the leading article in the Telegram published on Friday last, under the caption of "Your Bread and Butter." The amount claimed by the plaintiff company is $10,000. The action will be defended.

Llewellyn Bible Class Meeting.

The meeting of the Llewellyn Men's Bible Class held last night was well attended. Rev. Dr. Jones delivered an instructive address on the Parable of the One Ewe Lamb. On Next Monday night the class will again meet when the interdenominational college question will be discussed.

Wreck Broken Up.

Late messages from St. Shott's state that the s.s. Anton Van Driel has completely broken up and that some of her coal cargo has been thrown in on the beach. Last week at low tide the residents succeeded in getting some of the coal in bags and had it hauled up the cliff. Except for some fragments of small boats no other wreckage has drifted ashore.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Jan. 13, 1920.
Cure that obstinate little corn by the timely application of Acme Corn Salve. You will be no less surprised than delighted at the prompt way in which this simple little application will go away with the pain, root out the corn and help to bring the part back to normal. Price 10c a pkg.
Just now when colds and coughs among children are so rife, we suggest that you have a bottle of McMurdo's Baby Cough Syrup in the house, so as to be ready for emergencies. This preparation will take care of the coughs of children up to 6 or 8 years of age. For older children Nyal's Cherry Cough Syrup is an eligible preparation. Price (each) 30c a bottle.

Personal.

Mr. T. J. Duley, who underwent a delicate operation at the General Hospital Sunday, shows signs of improvement to-day.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

Tory Times Are Hard Times.

A CATALOGUE OF THE MISERIES AND CALAMITIES THAT HAVE BEFALLEN THE PEOPLE UNDER COAKER-SQUIRES CONTROL.

Fish gone down TWO DOLLARS per quintal.

Cooper shops closed. No work. Hands laid off.

Wharves deserted. No employment for fish handlers.

No coal. Women and children shivering and crying around the coal offices begging for any quantity to keep them from freezing.

Local Butterine advanced six cents per pound.

Flour gone up TWO DOLLARS and FIFTY CENTS. It will soon be NINETEEN DOLLARS a barrel.

Kerosene Oil, the poor man's light, put up ONE and A HALF CENTS per gallon, wholesale, which means TWO to THREE CENTS retail. Sugar also has advanced, and next shipments will be still higher.

Steamers and trains held up. Coastal services disorganized.

Over a thousand families short of food in Green Bay and on the French Shore, with starvation facing them if they are not speedily relieved.

Eighteen bodies of seamen drowned in the wreck of S.S. Anton Van Driel at St. Shott's left unburied, owing to the neglect of the Tory Government.

Bell Island Companies dismissing nearly all their old workers because of Coaker's threat to put an export tax of one dollar a ton on ore.

Spain threatening to cut off Newfoundland's salt supply.

Greece and Italy refusing to buy our fish at any price.

And in the face of all this, St. John's West is being asked to vote for Squires and Brownrigg the marionettes of Coaker, and an increase in the above catalogue of misfortunes.

If any evidence is needed that Tory times are hard times, this supplies it. Then men of St. John's West vote for

MARTIN and LINEGAR.

Shipping Notes.

Several steamers ready to leave port did not yet away as was expected, owing to the storm.
Schooner J. M. Rafuse sailed from Burgeo for Pernambuco with 4994 qts. dry codfish.
S. S. J. A. MacKee arrived at Clarenville yesterday, coal laden.
Schooner Frank R. Forsey has cleared from Trinity, with 5,100 qts. codfish for Lisbon.
Schooner Edith Cavell arrived at Ramea after a passage of 24 days from Cadiz, salt laden.
S. S. Digby will sail for Liverpool on Thursday at daylight.
S. S. Rosalind left New York on Sunday for Halifax with a cargo equal to 12,000 barrels.

From Cape Race.

CAPE RACE, To-Day.
Wind north, blowing strong. A heavy snow storm raged all night. Nothing sighted to-day. Bar. 28.98, ther. 21.

Vessels Caught in the Ice

The following message was received by the Deputy Minister of Customs from Wood's Island: "Drift ice is now in. Two American and two British schooners are caught in the jam at North Arm. About 70,000 dollars worth of fish caught during the season. The fishery is now over."

Accident Not Serious.

PLANT WILL BE RUNNING AGAIN WEDNESDAY.

A message from Supt. Judge of Grand Falls, received last evening, says that the explosion at the generating room was not serious, and that the plant will be running to full capacity by Wednesday. The accident occurred at 11 o'clock Saturday night, just previous to closing down for Sunday. It is assumed that dampness caused a short circuit in the main generator, destroying the switch board with its equipment. There was no damage done to the building. One man named Hansford was slightly burned but will be able to resume work in a day or two. Owing to the destruction of the switch board and its equipment the plant will be run in sections by motor power until a new switchboard and equipment is imported from Pittsburg.

Today's Messages.

BOUND STEAMER CLEAR.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12. Messages received here late last night show that the troubles of the Canadian Spinner, which has drifted in the ice in the St. Lawrence River and Gulf for over a week, are now over. The vessel from St. Paul's Island at eight o'clock and is expected to reach Sydney tomorrow.

COCH, MILITARY DIRECTOR.

PARIS, Jan. 12. Marshal Foch, it is understood, has agreed upon by France, Great Britain and Italy as unified Military Director, charged nominally with supervising the execution of the Peace Treaty.

SCORE SOLDIERS PERISHED.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12. On his arrival at Vera Cruz last night, Col. Silvano Garcia, commander of the garrison at Quimixtlan, who was injured in the earthquake, reported that 100 soldiers of his forces had died under the ruins.

THE SPIRIT OF BRITAIN.

LONDON, Jan. 12. Canada Club had the largest meeting in its history to-night when it entertained the Prince of Wales, George Perley presided and Prince Arthur, the Earl of Athlone, Earl Reading and Lord Byng of Vimy were the other guests. The Prince of Wales, at the outset when he addressed the audience that it was a Canadian Club gathering, "before I was any word of it in the world," that he originally announced his intention to visit Canada. "Little think," he continued, "how that was to influence the rest of my people. People have asked which party I liked best. It is a question impossible for me to answer, not for diplomatic reasons but because I do not know." Speaking of new world conditions which the conditions impose, the Prince said: "I know our British influence is influencing and seeking to influence the state of the world. The British Empire has played a very great part in the history of the world, and is destined to play an even greater part, and the world shall play depends upon the British spirit. We all know what that is, but to meet these requirements it means that every man and woman in the British Empire has got to do what is called his or her part, and to do it as it has never been done before."

TURNED DOWN.

PARIS, Jan. 13. Major Giovanni Giupatti, who was named as the special envoy to the Conference of Gabrielle D'Annunzio, said yesterday that Premier Orlando of Italy had refused to receive him and Dr. Gino Antoni, envoy of the National Council, as representatives of Fiume.

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

LONDON, Jan. 13. The Daily Mail to-day repeats its allegations of January 6th that Premier Lloyd George is attempting to force his political future by the formation of a new center party, of which he would assume the leadership. The paper connects with its statement, an article by Lord Chancellor Denham in the Weekly Dispatch Sunday, in which the Chancellor stated the immediate formation of America's Position.

Great Britain has formally guaranteed aid to France if, without provocation, France is again attacked by Germany. But the United States, "champion of humanity, world freedom and justice," through the autocratic stubbornness of a vain and egotistic executive and the peevishness and perversity of an extremely partisan group of senators, withholds a similar guarantee. We fought and sacrificed tens of thousands of lives of the bravest and best youth of the land and more than $25,000,000,000 of treasure to insure the further peace and safety of the world, and then we permit the pettiest motives of selfishness, jealousy and political spite to stand in the way of achieving the object we fought for. Can we, as Americans, face the world without a hot blush of shame at our utter failure to fulfil our just and moral obligations to our allies, and to live up to the lofty sentiments which we have loudly proclaimed for the last two and one-half years? Have we forgotten the message that came from those who, giving up their lives for that noble cause, now lie beneath the wooden crosses in the blood-stained soil of France and Flanders— "If ye break faith with us who die, We shall not sleep though poppies blow In Flanders fields" —Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Many Ships After Coal.

Says the Sydney Record: "Shipping at the ports of Sydney, North Sydney and Loughborough continues to be brisk. At present coal vessels at these ports want over 50,000 tons of coal in cargoes and bunkers but there are not 10,000 tons available. The Christmas holiday time is responsible for the scarcity but within the next few days conditions are expected to improve. Among the vessels which are waiting for coal cargoes are Royal Castle and Nordwyrk here and the Royal at Loughborough. The s.s. Maskinonge which has been undergoing repairs at Halifax is expected at Loughborough this week to load 10,000 tons of coal for Halifax. The Rose Castle, which is now under charter to the Hudson Bay Company, will sail for France this week with 10,000 tons of coal and the Royal, also under charter to the Hudson Bay Company, takes 5,000 tons to Havre, France. The Royal will sail this week. Among the larger vessels taking bunker coal are the Kent, the Dalveen, the Monte Cenit, the Westminster and the Fire Island."

Turks Now to Slay All.

New York, Dec. 30.—Death to any person, whether a Moslem or of any other religious belief, if he assists in the partition of the Turkish domain was vowed in a proclamation recently issued by Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, according to Dr. G. L. Richards, of Fall River, Mass., who arrived here with his wife yesterday on the steamer Black Arrow from Constantinople. Dr. and Mrs. Richards have been abroad in the interest of the Near East relief and spent the last three months travelling through Armenia in a box car. "The Entente powers must renounce once and for all time their idea of partitioning the country, which belongs to us both by superiority of Turkish civilization and because the great majority of inhabitants are Moslem," is the Turkish position Dr. Richards said.

Watch Your Eyes.

It is possible to teach the child to take care of his own eyes. A committee of the National Education Association has recommended the following rules for the preservation of eyesight. "Take care of your eyesight; upon it depends much of your safety and success in life. "Always hold your head up when you read. "Hold the book fourteen inches from your face. "Be sure that the light is clear and good. "Never read in the twilight in a moving car, or in a reclining position. "Never read with the sun shining directly on the book. "Never face the light in reading. "Let the light come from behind or over your left shoulder. "Avoid books or papers printed indistinctly or in small type. "Rest your eyes frequently by looking away from the book. "Cleanse the eyes night and morning with pure water. "Never rub your eyes with your hands or an unclean towel, handkerchief or cloth."

Motor Car and Motor Truck Owners.

I have a splendid equipment for general automobile work and can guarantee first class overhauling. Every engine tested under its own power before being put back in the car, thereby getting over the greatest enemy an engine can have, that is oil leaks. All oil leaks are detected and made right, consequently you can be sure of a good and lasting job. I also have a Hempy Cooper reabbating and reboring machine for crank shaft and connecting rods, which insures quiet running, as all bearings are in perfect line. With this equipment we can do work quickly and much more practical than heretofore.

SPECIAL NOTICE. My Garage will be closed from March 10th until April 15th, as I am taking my entire Mechanical Staff on a visit to the Motor Factories with a view to giving first class service. Parties wishing to have their cars overhauled for the coming season would be wise to have them done immediately. For instance, parts may be found broken or worn and it may not be possible to replace them here, in which case I can get them while away, thereby saving a lot of inconvenience and disappointment when the car is wanted. One thing is sure, cars that are overhauled in the winter months are given better inspection than those done in the rush season; so just call us up and we will get your car in and have it done right away.

I have a supply of repair parts in stock. Room for about 50 more cars. Ford Trucks taken care of with despatch.

JUST THAT AND NOTHING ELSE.

Can you, while you are doing a thing, do just that and nothing else? If you can, you have the key to one of the many doors that lead into and through that maze we call success. Whether you will reach the heart of that maze (and whether, if you do, you will find there what will satisfy you) is too much to say. But you have at least the key to one of the doors before which more people turn back than from any other.

It sounds simple, doesn't it—to do just one thing at a time? But it doesn't seem to be so, judging from the number of people who can't do it. I don't mean simply the negative—not trying to do two things at once.

Can YOU Do This?

I mean the positive—doing one thing with all your heart and mind and soul while you are doing it. Not having a thought in your mind of the job you are going to do next. Not having a thought in your mind of the job you did yesterday. Not letting one little portion of your mind be planning how you will spend this money you are working for. Not seeing anything else on your desk or in some other part of the room out of the corner of your eye and letting your attention be ever so slightly distracted by it.

He Turned Everything Else Upside Down.

In an article written by a man who has conquered the terrible habit of procrastination, he says that one way he helped himself to conquer the habit was to attack the first thing in the morning, the hardest matter he had to attend to that day, the one he would be most tempted to put off, and turn everything, every other letter and memorandum on his desk, upside down until he had settled that one matter.

I can see that that would be an excellent device for driving the devil of procrastination around the stump and I think it would be equally good for the devil of a divided attention. Concentration is a power which will raise a small talent to the tenth degree.

The One Who Will Go Farther.

I believe that a man with a great power of concentration and a small talent will go farther than a man with a large talent and no ability to concentrate—and keep concentrated. I know a woman who has the habit of concentration to such a degree that when she is reading something in which she is interested, she will concentrate so deeply that when anyone speaks to her it takes her several seconds to come back, and her expression is sometimes almost dazed.

People laugh at this habit, yet it is this and nothing else on earth which has made her able to take a comparatively slight talent and do fine things with it.

And the best part of all this is that concentration is something that can be cultivated and developed.

Important!

Every man starting out in business will have to go over a hard road and find out his turnings for himself. But he need not go over his road in the dark if he can take with him the light of other men's experience.

DUTY.

Stamp this upon your shield, my boy,
"The work I do shall be my joy!
The glory and the fame I ask Shall blossom from my humble task.
I envy no man true success,
This is my road to happiness.

"Here at this post of mine I can Stand face front, to my fellow man;
Can rise to glory and excel
If I but do my portion well,
And in such service I can find True happiness and peace of mind.

"I toil not as a driven slave,
Harried and humped to the grave,
Fearful of stronger men's abuse,
But glad that I can be of use;
Standing with free men, side by side,
And in my labor taking pride."
Life holds no greater joy, my son,
Than work that has been truly done;
No happiness is quite so sweet
As that which comes from tasks complete—
There is no pleasure to excel
The pride of doing something well.

THE LIBERTY BOND.

I've a hundred-dollar bond, that I bought from Uncle Sam, when the war across the pond gave this universe a slam. It's a document I prize, with its coupons twenty-four; and I wish, with heartfelt sighs that I had a dozen or more. People try to get my bond, handing me all kinds of bunk, but it won't be sold or pawned, or be swapped for any junk. "Come and buy a motor car," says the dealer, bold and brash; "I will take your bond at par, if you'll pay the rest in cash." "I have acres of blue sky in the distances beyond," says the faker, strolling by, "and I'll trade it for your bond." "I've an under-water farm where all kinds of fish are spawned," says the skate whose accents charm; "you may have it for your bond." All the get-rich-quickly sharks come and yammer at my door, and I smile at their remarks till their talk becomes a bore. Then I say, "You've cringed and fawned, and you've argued and you've lied, all to get my cherished bond, with its coupons down the side. But your game's a flimsy flim, and a futile rag you'll chew; I will trust my Uncle Sam, but I cannot bank on you. Of that document I'm fond," I exclaim, in thunder tones; "no one gets that little bond, which is worth a hundred bones."

Household Notes.

Stale bread is best for filling a fowl. It is best to ice a cake while it is warm. Giblet gravy seasoned with curry is a change. Toasted mushroom sandwiches are a novelty. Take plenty of time about sealing your envelopes. Keep nuts cold to prevent their becoming rancid. A little alcohol is excellent for cleaning mirrors. Always save mailing tubes and corrugated paper. Nut cookies are good for the children's luncheon. Be sure the drainage of your house plants is good. Hold a linty pen for an instant in the flame of a match. Almonds need to be blanched for almost every purpose. Veal entree should be garnished with chopped parsley. The oven must be very hot to bake pastry successfully. A card catalog of addresses is better than an address book. If the room is small, always select cretonne of small pattern. The colder pastry is kept during the making the lighter it will be. Every room is more successful if it has a touch of black somewhere.

Why Don't the Stars Shine in the Daytime?

The stars do shine in the daytime. If you will go down into a deep well or the open shaft of a deep mine and look up at the sky, of which you can see a circular patch at the top of the well, you will be able to see the stars in the daytime. The moon also shines in the daytime, on some part of the earth. At certain times during the month you can notice that the moon rises before the sun sets, and sometimes in the morning you still see the moon in the sky after the sun is up. Usually you cannot see either the moon or the stars in the daytime, because the light from the sun is so bright and strong that the light of the stars and moon are lost in the brightness of the sun's rays. When the moon is visible before the sun sets or after the sun has risen it is because the light of the sun is not so bright and strong at the beginning or close of daylight. If you are fortunate enough some time to witness a total eclipse of the sun you will be able to see the stars in the daytime without having to go down into a deep well or mine shaft.

Liberal-Labor Candidates at Goulds.

Messrs. Linegar and Martin, the Liberal-Labor candidates, held a very successful meeting at the Goulds last evening, every voter in the settlement being present. Mr. John Joyce was chairman, while the speakers were the candidates, and Messrs. Bonast, Cadwell, Higgins and MacDonnell.

The iniquitous policy of the Government and the incapacity of those now composing it was fully dealt with. It was proven to the satisfaction of all present that the Squires-Coaker fish regulations spell ruin to our European markets, and probably would leave us without salt to begin next year's voyage. And there was no excuse in permitting Water Street to increase the price of flour and butter, while the present stocks, imported before any rise in the outside markets, were held. The coal shortage and the sugar shortage were attributed to incapacity and neglect on the part of the Government, and the proposed Campbell model farm was shown up in all its ridiculousness. The Goulds voters have become "fed up" with the vapourings of this gentleman, and look upon his promises as the worst brand of absurdities. Last night's meeting proved beyond doubt that the Goulds, with the other outlying settlements of St. John's West, is already tired of combines and insincere promises, and on polling day will unite in electing Martin and Linegar with substantial majorities and killing Coakerism for all time in this great Liberal district which will have a first opportunity on January 22nd to crush the head of the Tory serpent.

War Veterans' Dance.

It has been decided to hold the much-talked-of G.W.V.A. dance at the C.C.C. Hall on Thursday the 29th inst. This dance is to celebrate the opening of the Great War Veteran's first Club Rooms on Water Street. This first real home of the Association, where all sailor and soldier members may gather, discuss and play—a real, old comrades' home, and the Veterans' intend that this, the official opening, the dance, shall be carried out in a manner befitting the occasion. The tickets are to be issued at once and further notice will appear to-morrow, giving additional details.

Wedding Bells.

MALONEY-CRANFORD.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church last Tuesday evening, Jan. 6th, when Mr. John T. Maloney, of Bay Bulls and Mrs. Mae Cranford (nee Morrissey) of this city were married by the Rev. Father Renout. The bride wore a travelling suit of blue, with hat to match and was attended by her sister Miss Bride Morrissey, while Mr. Patrick Nash, cousin of the bride attended the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the bride's home, 20 Gilbert Street, where luncheon was served to relatives only, owing to the groom's father recently passing away. Mr. and Mrs. Maloney will make their future home in Bay Bulls. Their many friends wish them many years of happiness, during their married life.

St. Lawrence Church, Belleoram, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Dec. 31st, when Tryphena, only daughter of A. M. Cluett, Esq., was united in holy matrimony to Capt. Kenneth Fudge, second son of Silas Fudge, Esq. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. H. W. Sealey, Rector of Belleoram Parish. The bride looked charming, attired in a beautiful dress of cream silk, with veil and shoes to match. She was attended by Miss Sophie Rose; her father was also in attendance at the altar and presented her to her future husband. The groom was attended by his brother, Capt. E. O. Fudge. After the ceremony they retired to the house of the bride's father where a sumptuous repast was provided for the attendants and her immediate friends. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, which all go to prove the esteem in which she is held by the people of Belleoram. Mrs. Fudge, for several years previous to her marriage, has been organist of St. Lawrence church, and her services have been very highly appreciated by the people, and I think I but voice the sentiments of one and all concerned when I extend her the wish that her married life may be a long and a very happy one.—Com.

Smallpox Reported.

The Health authorities are in receipt of messages stating that smallpox has appeared at Avondale, Norris' Point and Leonard, Bonne Bay, there being one case at each place. A case was also reported from Renews, which it is believed was contracted in the city from a person who was recently removed to hospital.

Twenty Years' Trouble Over, Says Mrs. Welsh

Halifax Woman Suffered From Girlhood—Says Tanlac Soon Restored Her Health.

"Although I have spent a lot of money and taken many different kinds of medicines for the rheumatism, Tanlac is the only medicine that ever did me a particle of good," said Mrs. Welsh, 63 West Street, Halifax, Canada, recently. Continuing, she said:

"I have been suffering from rheumatism for twenty years or more. When I was a girl I had my first attack and ever since that time I have suffered fearfully. It was all over my body, in my arms and lower limbs. At times I had it so bad in my shoulders and arms I could not wait on myself and had to have a nurse, for I couldn't even raise my hands from my sides, and at another time I was in a hospital for two months. The pain was almost more than I could bear. My knees and ankles would swell to twice their normal size, and I wouldn't be able to walk a step for days at a time and every move I made was torture. I could not go on account of the pain and would lie awake night after night without ever closing my eyes. Only just the week before I started taking Tanlac my feet and ankles were so badly swollen I could not get on my shoes.

"Nothing I did seemed to do me a particle of good, and I had just about given up all hope of ever getting any better when my husband, who was taking Tanlac for stomach trouble with remarkable results, urged me to try it also. Well, I took his advice, and to my surprise I began getting better almost at once. I have taken only three bottles so far, but the rheumatism has just about left me. The swelling has all gone out of my feet and ankles and knees and I can get around without a particle of trouble or pain. In fact, I am enjoying the best health in many years, and am able to do all my own housework. I think Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world and I tell everybody I can about it, and will continue to praise it as long as I live."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Conners, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative; in Harbor Buffet, by Thomas Wakely & Sons; in Placentia, by James Murphy & Son, and in Topsail by J. K. Bursell—adv.

Old Comrades' Tournament.

Some two hundred players took part in the card tournament of the C.C.C. Old Comrades in the T. A. Armoury last evening. Twenty games were contested, at the conclusion of which five players had a record of 15 games each. In the play-off the first prize, a $20 gold piece, donated by Hon. W. J. Higgins, was won by Mr. Dunn. The second prize, a ham, donated by a friend of the Association, was won by Mr. Shea. The third, a handsome pipe, donated by Mr. A. S. Wadden, was taken by Mr. Merner. Next week there will be another tournament, when another $20 gold piece will be the first prize.

Don't Blame the Stenographer

If you hesitate to sign and send out a letter because it's not well typed—do not blame the stenographer.

The type may be ragged. It may be out of alignment. The machine may skip or overprint. Or the margins may be uneven. All these faults must be blamed on the typewriter machine—not the stenographer. She is undoubtedly as appreciative of good work as you are. She may be even more anxious than you to have a clean printing, smooth running, speedy Oliver 2.

Clean pages of readable type, accurate and dignified, give distinction and prestige. Then why not be certain of first rank by using the Oliver 2?

Only the Oliver has the arch-shaped type-bar, with broad bearings. This insures perfect alignment. Oliver type cannot "run down at the heel," because it always strikes squarely.

Only the Oliver prints downward, just as one writes. No lifting is necessary to raise the type-bar. This means a lighter touch, greater speed, and a bigger day's output with a third less exertion.

League Hockeyists Have Try-Out.

Feldians and Saints had first practice last evening.—New Players in Former Team, While Latter is Composed Mainly of Canadians.—A Hot Series Expected.

The Feldian and St. Andrew's teams had a try-out each at the rink last evening, the former going on at ten thirty. The Saints had their practice earlier in the evening, going on the ice at six thirty. Both showed up splendidly, and the forthcoming series is expected to be an exceptionally hot one.

The Feldian team is composed of the following players:—T. Payne, Captain; R. H. Tait, E. Ewing, J. Bugden, F. Bennett, J. Strang, N. Hunt, G. Hunt, H. Rendell, E. Rankin, Ron. Chate, Reid and Alderdice.

The Feldians will be greatly strengthened in their ranks this year by the addition of Hubert Rendell, a defence player. He is a big husky lad and a very speedy skater. Hubert attended school at St. Andrew's College, Toronto, and played with that team in the Junior O.H.A. last year. Alderdice who attended college at Lennoxville caused a lot of worry to the other players, also did Reid of Bishop Field College who also showed much class for his first appearance in senior company.

"Nix" Hunt in goal was right at home after his long absence from the game. He has lost none of his old time form, and will be a tower of strength to his team. "Nix's" brother George was also out last night. George's last appearance here was about eleven years ago. His tricky methods with the disc last night showed that he has not forgotten all about the game and he received the glad hand from the "boys."

"Bert" Tait was also in the arena and put in a hard hours' practice. That he will come back to his old form, after last night's exhibition, goes without saying.

Saints in Action.

The St. Andrew's Hockey team held their first practice for the season at the arena at 6.30 last evening.

The practice was held under the management of "Plus" Parsons, one time hockey star in this city. "Plus" has been appointed manager of the Saints team and feels confident of kicking into shape a classy bunch of players.

Five Canadians who are with the Saints in their practice last night were very favorably commented on and it looks as though the team will be "all Canada" when they appear in their first game. The Canadian players are:—C. C. Robertson, Stellarton, N.S.; J. C. Demers, Newcastle, N.B.; Forsyth, a goal-keeper who played with the Irish Americans and Clark and McEachern. The last named has a brother playing with the Sydney

Millionaires, and has figured prominently in games already played in Cape Breton this season.

Forsyth, the goal-tender and Robertson at centre played their positions well. The Munn brothers with Max Churchill showed up well, as did Dick Voisey in the net. "Bob" Chafe will take some beating in centre ice.

With J. Paterson, McPherson, Clouston, and Fowler as the balance of the Saints players, "Plus" is bound to have his hands full in making a choice of six for their opening game with the Feldians which is set down for to-morrow night week.

The Terra Nova and St. Bon's teams will have their second practice to-night, provided the ice be favorable.

War Veterans' Meeting.

A meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association was held last evening, Lt.-Col. A. E. Bernard, the President, occupying the chair. The need for unity and the same spirit of co-operation shown at the front was pointed out by the President in his opening address. The chairman also announced that the Importers' Association had been approached and asked for a ten per cent. reduction in the buying price of every soldier's purchase at the different stores. The Importers' Association had promised to consider the request. The steps concerning the erection of a War Memorial were further explained by Colonel Bernard, and it was announced by him that the new club rooms would be open on the 29th. A big dance will formally open the rooms. It was decided that the Governor be invited to become patron of the Association.

Dr. Blackall, of the Re-Establishment Committee, and Major Parsons, M.C. of the Board of Penalties Commissioners, were present and went fully into matters dealing with their departments, answering many questions from those present. Capt. J. B. O'Reilly also outlined the plans being made for the treatment of patients in certain cases. A high tribute was paid by the chairman to the Mother of the Regiment, Miss Furlong, whose great efforts in behalf of the soldiers while here and in England are known to all, and who has now undertaken to secure a history of the fighting forces in photographic form to be placed in a special room at the new club. Mr. J. G. Higgins reported it was hoped to publish the first number of the Association's magazine in March, and later every second month. One section of the publication will be devoted to ordinary magazine matter, and the other to articles from the soldiers and business of general interest to them. Lt.-Col. Carly reported as to the distribution of Christmas gifts to the men in hospital, and Capt. Byrne as to the securing of ribbons and medals for the naval men.

Chairman Bernard announced that he had interviewed the Leader of the Government in connection with the 20 per cent. separation allowance, and that he had been promised that the Government would go thoroughly into the matter. Three members of the Association will also go into every case and report back to the authorities. On motion of Mr. Harold Mitchell it was decided that the heartfelt sympathies of the G.W.V.A. be extended to the widow, mother and other relatives of the late Hon. John Harvey. As pointed out by Mr. Mitchell, the deceased gentleman was the very first to contribute to the funds when the Association was being formed, while the work of his widow and mother along patriotic lines was unceasing. After the passing of votes of thanks to Dr. Blackall, Major Parsons, Miss Furlong, etc., the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Juvenile B. S. Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Albert Edward Branch of the British Society was held last night, and six candidates were admitted to membership. President Boone, in a short address gave a hearty welcome to the new members and expressed the hope that they would live up to the ideals of the society. Mr. James Lawrence also addressed the gathering and asked for a large attendance at the meeting next month when the annual election of officers takes place. Following the address "a good and welfare hour" was held, the following taking part: Messrs. W. Hammond, C. Saunders, C. Hammond, S. Martin, and Secretary Dick. Among those present were Mr. W. Benson, H. Hammond, C. Hammond and Geo. Dowden. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

T. A. Juvenile Treat.

Arrangements to give the annual treat to the members of the T. A. Juvenile Society, were finalized at a meeting of the lady supporters, held last night. The treat will be given the boys at the Armoury on Tuesday, the 20th. Hon. W. J. Ellis presided and J. J. Murphy, Vice-President of the adult society were present. It is likely that on the afternoon of the treat the boys will be given a free moving picture show at one of the theatres, and at night the seniors will hold a dance. The ladies are putting forth every effort to have this year's affair more successful than any previously held.

Coaker and the Combine

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—It is amusing to read Coaker's apology for the existence of his combine or "ring" in yesterday's Advocate. One would think that this Mad Mullah from Dunnage Island knew all there was to be known about codfish and the people who eat it in Europe and South America. Where did he learn it? The way too, he writes about all those who oppose his crazy scheme is laughable. Most of them really have a stake in the country and are anxious that their children shall live in it and not be driven out by a demagogue, who although he has arrived at the age of fifty, has not proved himself to be capable of controlling the destinies of Newfoundland. Neither has his public life been such as to inspire the public with confidence in his boasted abilities.

He attained the position which he now holds, by the vilification and abuse of the merchants of this country whom he now champions. A few years ago they were bloodsuckers and vampires of the worse type, according to the Coaker creed. To-day he appears anxious to secure for these same men millions, at the expense of the poor war-ridden people of Italy. Who can trust this vacillating, dangerous demagogue? Are we going to make our country the laughing-stock of the world by allowing him to have control of its destinies? Certainly not. There is too much sense common sense in the people to permit this, and St. John's West will have the first opportunity to put this mountebank in his proper place on the 22nd January. Not long ago, that great Imperialist, Premier Hughes, of Australia, made a very important statement to the effect that one of the greatest dangers of the present day to the future peace and happiness of the world, is to be found in the so-called protective unions which are aiming at the control of capital by demagogues of the Coaker type.

Another great man—Professor Alfred Marshall—in his book on present-day economics, holds the same view. He believes that restraint should be placed upon combines and that competition should be encouraged.

The Coaker fish regulations would give the whole of our fish export business into the hands of the few wealthy capitalists with himself as dictator. It is not difficult to imagine what would be the result in a few short years if such a state of affairs were to happen in Newfoundland.

Yours truly, ANTI-COMBINE. St. John's, January 13th, 1920.

Attempt to Take Off the Madonna Fails.

Sydney, N.S., Jan. 5.—Attempts made this morning to pull the Newfoundland schooner Madonna from the rocks on Petries Ledge proved futile, and it is feared that the vessel will become a total loss. Her hold now contains four feet of water and she will likely pound herself to pieces with the first storm that blows up. At high tide this morning the Douglas H. Thomas put a line on the grounded schooner but was unable to move her. The Madonna has thirty tons of rock ballast in her hold, and this, together with the uneven nature of the bottom on which she is grounded made the task of refloating impossible. The captain and crew are still aboard but will probably go ashore to-day. The Madonna is a 90-ton vessel owned in Newfoundland. She was driving into this port for shelter before a gale of snow on Saturday when she piled herself on the rocks.

Our American Letter.

ms. Arizona, Dec. 28.—I have just ed the great Imperial valley of ern California and find myself
s border towns at the foot of the mountains. Yuma is a mesa of an set in the midst of the Arizona
t. Beyond, against the sky line, can see the Mexican border guard-
y great and majestic mountains.
air is like champagne and the s as bright as that of Italy. The sweep of plains between Yuma the mountain ranges presents as esque a scene as one could wish The coloring of the hills remind-of the effect of the sun on t Moriah or Summerville, and was a marked resemblance with d to conformation. Yesterday was part of a great desert. Tot blossoms like the rose. Uncle ew the possibilities of the region gan to irrigate. The result has marvellous. As far as the eye se the fruit orchards and cotton ations and the entire landscape
green as Southern California.
next to Ireland is about the verdant land I know of.

according to their primitive customs but who can draw checks for more than six figures. All this wealth has been caused by water. The government found a way to bring moisture to these arid lands and from parched and sun baked plains they have become like the garden of Eden. The work of irrigation has been conducted on an immense scale, the construction of the dams and reservoirs entailing a stupendous outlay of money and labor. Only recently the new branch railroad from Yuma to San Diego was completed. This runs through the far famed Imperial Valley and brings to the Pacific coast the products of this section. The town of Yuma is a polyglot community. Here you will find Indians, Negroes, Mexicans and Italians, not to speak of Japanese and Chinese, competing with the white American for a share in the wealth which the development of Yuma county is bound to bring to all who have a stake in the land.

Lost Heritage of Arctics.
There is an air of romance hanging over the country. It is part of the lost heritage of the Arctics and the scene of the labors of the devoted Jesuit fathers who toiled under such difficulties and hardships to bring the cross to the heathen. Many monuments to the work of the brave missionaries remain to this day. At Tuc-son, the churches and missions speak eloquently of those sincere and heroic men who penetrated the wilderness and suffered torture and martyrdom that religion might be brought to the western hemisphere. Many remains of the ancient cliff dwellers and the people of the stone age are to be seen.

Great apartments quarried into the solid rock served as dwellings for a people whose story is lost in the mists of antiquity. Here also the Aztecs lighted the sacred fires to the sun god and fashioned the silver and copper into war implements and articles of husbandry. Some of their old workings may be seen to this day. At Casa Grande, or Great House, are the dwellings of a race which antedated
the Aztecs by many centuries.

Caesar's Day But Yesterday.
A ramble through those rabbit like warrens hewn out of the cliff cannot fail to send the thoughts backward through the dim centuries. These dwellings were hoary with age when Caesar landed on the shores of Britain, and Alexander seems but a character of yesterday compared with the men who chiseled out these primitive homes. There still remain the old fireplaces set in the wall of the caverns, and sometimes implements are found; which were used by these unknown people. Tourists, who like to live in the open, sleep in these age haunted corridors, and sometimes build fires in the places which were in use before Pharaoh. Archaeologists are continually searching the ruins for records which might help reveal the story of this lost race which peopled the southwest when even Europe was young. Many of the most promising exhibits of the prowess of these cliff dwellers were carried off years before the United States took Arizona from Mexico. It has been said that the treasures of silver found were of fabulous wealth, even ordinary kitchen utensils being made of the precious metal.

Fashion Forecast for 1920.

A decided change has come over the trend of fashion during the last few weeks, and one that will be welcome to all who value a sense of harmony and of the fitness of things in matters of dress, says a writer in the "Christian Science Monitor."

The mood of exaggeration, and the desire to be startling and extraordinary in dress, which seemed to sweep in soon after the signing of the armistice, and which in some quarters has held the floor for many months, is now giving place to a far healthier and more desirable state of things.

The designers are turning their attention again to the charming modes of the eighteenth century; clothes are to be dainty once more, instead of merely bizarre and weird; evening dresses will have sleeves; and flounces, lace and flowered silks are all the order of the day. Color schemes will be chosen to blend and harmonize, instead of dazzle and clash, and there is a distinct hint of returning crinoline styles for skirts. Actual hooped crinolines, of course, would never be tolerated in this practical age; but the effect of billowy frills, so dear to the heart of the artist on account of their decorative possibilities, can easily be attained without exaggeration or inconvenience.

Some beautifully embroidered Chinese shawls are making their appearance in the shops, and it is fairly safe to predict that the shawl may play quite an important part in our wardrobes in the near future. The writer remembers, some years ago, seeing a young girl dining at the Savoy whose only wrap was one of these large shawls; in this particular case, the ground was of pale yellow crepe, embroidered all over with birds and flowers in beautiful Chinese colorings, rose, blue and green, with a fringed border, and the effect was entirely charming.

The stole is a perfectly straight piece of plush, about three-fourths of a yard wide and two and a half yards long; it is lined all through with ruched nylon. This makes a warm and cozy wrap. The muff is of gathered velvet with plush bands at each end, lined with nylon and decorated with the tarnished gold flowers.

A word must also be said of the beret cap or tam-o'-shanter, which has reached a high degree of popularity and which still continues to attract. It is generally made of silk or velvet, though the plain cloth ones are quite nice, too, for everyday wear.
There is quite a variety of styles to choose from, the newest being large and wide, flaring up at one side. Then there are the gauzed velvet in the middle of the crown, while some are made entirely of ruched ribbon, which gives them a crinkled appearance all over.
In fact, the attractions of the beret cap are not easy to resist and the only thing to do, if one falls a victim to its charms, is to get one and to have it just a little bit different from all the rest. This "little difference" which will make it individual, can, of course,
only be thought out by the wearer.

If Farmers Struck.

(From 'Successful Farming'.)
We ask the city workers to ponder a moment what might happen if the farmers should do what the workers are doing—demanding shorter hours and higher pay. The farmers are their own bosses so they would not have to quarrel with anybody. They could hold out on strike until they got good and ready, for they can feed themselves. You working fellows, suppose for a moment that the farmers adopted the eight-hour day; it would cut down production at least one-half. Suppose they also set a price on their labor and their products based on an eight-hour basic scale. Where would you get your food? Only the rich could buy it at all, for the price would be prohibitive to men on strike. If the cost of living is too high now, how will lessened production affect it?
How will increased cost of production bring down prices? If you city workers expect the farmers to go on feeding you at the old price you have got to get back to work at the old wage and make it possible for the farmer to buy cheaper so that he can produce cheaper. This is not a one-sided game. It takes two to play it and, if you city fellows quit, don't get 'sore' if you go hungry soon. Either the farmers must do as you are doing, shorten the hours and demand higher pay, or else they must lengthen the hours and produce more without pay.
The farmers have been patient with
you. When they lose their patience, look out. If they quit, who is going to feed you? What city workers have in common with farmers is not so much political as economic. What are you going to do about it?

The Triumph of the Cross.

Despite the long centuries of sun
worship and human sacrifice to mythi-cal gods, the influence which has lived longest in this romantic land is that of the Christian missionary and he was but yesterday. Wherever one turns his handiwork is apparent. The beautiful churches of Tucson, with their atmosphere of devotion and spirituality, and the convent bells calling the Angelus are but part of the proof that materialism can find no footing in a land consecrated by the blood of martyrs, and unselfish lives dedicated to the loftiest of ideals.
Thus has the sun god fallen before the Great White Spirit. I shall deal in my next letter with a visit to turbulent Mexico.
