considerations will entitle us to ask, and it is not too much to expect the Canadian Government to extend to us the early benefits of a thorough geological survey, not only as having a direct and important bearing upon local wellbeing, but as a certain and ready means of rendering the colony a more worthy, prosperous, and profitable member of the great British American family, by attracting population and capital from contiguous countries, and enabling its dormant wealth to be developed. Should British Columbia, by any possibility, remain out of the Dominion for any lengthened period—a contingency, however, too remote to be entitled to serious consideration—become the duty of the local government to consider how the important work of carrying out a complete geological survey could be accomplished by the colony. And here we may, perhaps, be permitted to remark how very much better employed certain gentlemen would be in pointing out to the people of this Colony the very numerous and extremely obvious advantages attainable under Consideration, instead of making their brains and straining faculties in order to discover and magnify hypothetical disadvantages which may possibly accrue to us under the present system. We are not foolish enough to claim for Confederation, unqualifiedly, complete freedom from all possible objection; but we do claim for it a decided preponderance of good as to make all objectionable features kick the beam. Is the present system an unqualified good? Are we so well pleased with the plan of being governed through the Colonial Office that we are averse to all change? But it must not be forgotten that the present system has had tepid written upon it by Imperial fingers—that it is to come to a speedy end, and that we cannot, if we would, continue to hang on to Britannia's apron-string. Our good old mother is determined to make men of us, whether we will or not, although it is not intended that by becoming men we shall cease to be children. How contemptible, then, is the case, for colonists to persist in whimpering and crying about what they falsely call separation from the Mother Country. How ignoble to wish to hang on to the Imperial skirts, in all the fecklessness of infancy, when we are invited, commanded to stand upon our own legs and hold up our heads like men! One experienced a feeling of sickening disgust, loathing when one hears men in this colony advocating that we should still hang on to an unwilling skirt—continue to "occupy a political position" but one degree removed above serfdom. There are, we blush to confess, such men in British Columbia; but thank God, their number is infinitesimal, and their influence is small.

A Word to Brewers.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST.—According to the "Excise" law of Canada every person who manufactures malt either for his own use as a distiller or brewer, shall be deemed a maltster and as such is required to take out a maltster's license—viz., under 25,000 pounds $100 per annum; between 25,000 and 100,000 pounds $150; and if above 100,000 pounds $200 per annum. If a brewer he must also pay a license of $50 per annum additional.

Any brewer or maltster wishing for a license must apply for the same in writing to the Collector of Inland Revenue, and must give a precise description of the premises proposed to be used. A maltster must give security for two months' duties, and a brewer for $1000. They must keep books detailing all their transactions; and no grain must be moved, either to steep it, to dry it, or store it except between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Maltsters about to remove grain for any of these purposes, must give 24 hours' notice. A barrel of malt is to be reckoned at 20 bushels—Customs duties 40 cents per bushel.

Every maltster must pay 1 cent per bushel excise duty upon all the malt he manufactures, in addition to his license. The British Columbia tariff imposes a duty of 15 cents per gallon upon malt and 30 cents per 100 pounds upon malt. The Canadian tariff imposes a duty of 5 cents per gallon upon malt and 10 cents per 100 pounds upon malt. The duty upon malt is to be reduced one-half, but the duty upon malt would be increased by nearly 90 cents upon every hundred pounds of malt. It remains for the brewers to decide whether they could continue their business under such an adverse arrangement.

Probably every brewer in Victoria uses one hundred tons or 200,000 lbs of malt per year. The duty upon that amount of malt would be $2250. He would have to pay that and $250 more for a brewer's and maltster's license, or altogether $2500 per annum. Under present circumstances he pays (if he imports his malt) $650. One thousand eight hundred dollars per annum less than he would do if living under the Dominion of Canada—in addition to which he enjoys protection from foreign competition to a much greater degree than the Canadian tariff affords, and it is not easy to see how the loss of this protection would be compensated for by the duties on malt and the excise on beer.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything been so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints.

Through a long series of years, and among all the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known.

Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, has made it known as a reliable protector against them.

While added to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effective remedy that can be given for indigestion, constipation, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs.

As a protection against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to coughs and colds, all should be provided with this article for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, all great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral.

So complete is its mastery over the disease, that it has been known to cure the most obstinate of them, and to yield to it, when nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they succumb and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it. Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues acknowledged, that we do not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure.

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Fever, Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, or Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance, whatever it is in every respect, safe.

The number and importance of the cases which it cures, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine.

Our trials are gratifying, arising from the receipt of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Uneducated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.
