An attractive model was "dressed" from fabrics in the piece and the results attained were nothing short of marvel-lous. This exhibition of draping will be continued each day during the fashion show by Mr. Kenneth Gott." Mr. Gott is a brother of Mrs. John Bryson, Wat-

HARVEST thanksgiving services were held in Trinity church on Sunday last, but owing to the inclement weather were not as largely attended as usual althou the evening congregation was a good one.
The interior of the edifice was artistically decorated with roots, fruits, plants, flow ers, etc., and was a credit to those who did the work. In the morning the rector read the service, preached to the children, and administered holy communion. In the evening the Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, of London, took the entire service and preached from Gen. 8-22. The sermon was a comprehensive one, the venerable gentleman's expressive delivery and diction commanding close attention forcibly carrying the truths home to his hearers. A special collection for mission was taken up at the evening service and ounted to about $50.00.

The tungsten lamps have been placed on some of the streets. Where the trees have been trimmed at the bottom the new lights seem to give satisfaction, but where that has not been done the range of light is very limited. The lower branches of many of the shade trees should be taken off. In wet weather the weight of the water sags the branches to such on extent that it is inconvenient to carry an undrella while passing along to carry an umbrella while passing along the sidewalks. The Council should direct all shade trees to be trimmed to a uniform height as nearly as possible. Trim the bottoms and not the the tops and the appearance and usefulness of the trees will be enhanced and the new system of treet lighting made, successively street lighting made a success. As it is unlawful to trim a shade tree without the consent of the Council, action should be taken by that body at once to regulate the Everthing is in readiness for Watford's big fair, and fine weather only is required to make it a success. The entries are coming in rapidly and the directors and officers are leaving no stone unturned to make the fair a hummer. The grounds and track are in good shape and with fine weather a big crowd is assured who will, when the day is over, go home well satisfied that the East Lambton Fair is the best of the lot. WATFORD, OCTOBER 6, 1911.

Power of Compound Interest.

A man may secure an absolutely sure income of $600 a year for his little 5 year old daughter, or granddaughter, from the time she is 55 to the end of her days, if he will pay to the Canadian Government the sum of $964.75. If she should die at any time before reaching the Annuity age the money paid together with 3% compound interest will be refunded to the purchaser, or as he may direct. There are but few parents who, when they understand the matter, will not be anxious to make the investment, if they can spare the money, in order to have the assurance that their daughter, no matter what reverses overtake her after she is 55, would have a comfortable in come in her old age—an income that she cannot be deprived of by any person or by any process of law

Full particulars of this excellent scheme may be had on application to the Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters go free of postage.

GREAT MEDICINE.—Tonti, one of the pioneers of French Canada, lost a haud and wore an iron hook as a substitute. He was in the habit of boxing the ears of He was in the habit or boxing the ears or refractory Indians with this irou hand, and they have remarked that it was "great medicine." Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is great medicine; it takes hold of pain with an iron hand and knocks it out of the system,

You're Right, Brother.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.) Every reputable newspaper in anada sacrifices large sums of money every year in the pursuit of its editorial policy or by refusing business propositions which it holds to be not in the interests of its readers. The newspaper which adopts in the interest of the public a policy to govern its editorial and business columns must expect to pay the price in loss of revenue. It should have a right to look to the public for at least a measure of appreciation 15 ! and compensation.

Damage to the extent of thousands of dollars was done in Kent County last week by frost, which was without doubt week by frost, which was without doubt the most severe experienced at this sea-son for years past. The greatest loss is caused to the tobacco crop, which is now hearing maturity. The frost in some sections of the outlaying districts was so severe that ice was frozen on small bodies of water in the open. Besides the loss to the tobacco, considerable damage was done to tomatoes and other vegetables still in the garden.

What is probably the biggest yield of apples ever grown in Oakland County now hangs on the trees of the orchards of Mrs. H. C. Ward at Square Lake, three miles west of Pontiac. The orchards cover three hundred acres and there are 15,000 trees, the largest of which are now ten years old. Fruit buyers estimate that the yield will be at least 17,000 barrels of first quality apples.

A company known as the Lambton Bean and Elevator Co. is applying for a provincial charter under the Ontario Companies Act, and will have headquarters at Petrolea. It is the purpose of the company to build an elevator on the M. C. R. and handle beans especially and all kinds of grain. Just now stock is being offered to farmers and others at $25.00 a share. Their capital will be about $20,000.

Modern "Dew Ponds."

The ancient "dew ponds" of England have their modern counterparts land have their modern counterparts on the rock of Gibraltar, where drinking water is obtained by the condensation of the abundant dew in especially prepared basins. The primitive process consists in making a hollow in the ground, and filling the bottom with dry straw, over which is placed a layer of clay. On a clear night the clay cools very rapidly, and the dew is condensed into water in the basin. The pond is improved by putting a layer of asphalt or Portland cement under the straw. At Gibraltar the present practice is to use wood instead of ent practice is to use wood instead of straw and sheet iron instead of clay.

Following a Precedent.

Following a Precedent.

Writes a friend from Cannes: "I heard a story the other night at a dinner given here which is, I believe, a true one, and as it might amuse your readers I pass it on. A little boy wished to give a Bible to his mother on her birthday, and before writing her name on the flyleaf he took down a book from her shelf to see the proper way of setting about the matter.

It is noteworthy that albino animals are regarded by the Japanese in a superstitious light. The appearance of one is considered a good omen for the reigning mikado and occasionally. signalizes a reign. For example, one reign is called "hakuchi nenkan," or period of the white pheasant; another the "haku hoo nenkan," or period of the phoenix.—London Globe.

You cannot be happy while you have corns. Then do not delay in getting a bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure. It removes all kinds of corns without min. Failure with it is unknown.

"Magle" Cloths

Many housewives gladly pay 25 cents-for so called "magic" cloths, as they, are very useful for silver and other metals. Being dry, they do not soil the hands or clothing and do their work until the cloth itself wears out. To make such a cloth take one quart of gasoline, one-half pound of whiting and one-eighth ounce of oleic acid, mixing all together and shaking well. Soak pieces of woolen cloth in the mixture and hang them in the open air in a shady place to dry. When the cloths are dry the "magic" qualities have been given to them, and these they will never lose. The material must be wool.—New York Globe.

"Dinner of Deadly Enemies." Lady Randolph Churchill once gave at her house in Connaught place what she called a dinner of deadly enemies. It was thought, says Mr. G. W. Smalley in his "Anglo-American Memories," a hazardous experiment. "It proved a complete success. They were all well bred people. They all recognized their obligations to their hostess as paramount for the time being. In some cases ancient animosities were softened. In all they were suspended."

The Shoplifter.
Old Jed Shucks and his wife had vis ited New York city, and after they got home Jed was describing to his friends the wonders of city ways.

"An' we went to a big department shop," he said, "an' we got inter one o them 'ere things wot whizzes ye clean up to the top-what in tarnation is their name, ma?"

"Shoplifters, Jedediar," Mrs. Shucks replied.

Encouragement. "I tell you," said Dottypate, "I'm nobody's fool."

"Oh, well, never mind, Dotty, dear," said Miss Cynica. "Some day some nice girl will come along and take you."-Harper's Weekly.

Furniture Undertaking. Petrolea, Oct. 2nd, 1911.

To those who so loyally supported me and the great cause advocated, I extend my heartfelt thanks.

We have fought a good fight on a great issue. Under the British system of constitutional government, the people rule supreme, They have spoken and for the present we must accept the verdict, reserving the right to stand firm in the belief that the principle involved in the serving the right to stand firm in the belief that the principle involved in the trade agreement is right and will stand the test of time.

Never was a great question so beclouded with appeals foreign to the subject.

That the result can be taken as a true mandate, those in close touch with the electorate cannot honestly admit

The proposal to tunnel the trade mountain to remove for our natural products

tain to remove for our natural products the barrier separating us from our near and best market was sound.
The first skirmish for a great principle is over, but it is only the beginning of a battle that must eventually win.
The fight for nearer and better markets and relief from food taxation will go on to victory, undismayed by a temporary

A great opportunity has been lost which would have opened up for our natural products the splendid market lying at products the splendid market lying at our very doors, and given a tremendous stimulus to trade and enabled Canada to pay the millions of dollars of adverse balance of trade with produce instead of

To Lambton, geographically situated as it is with water transportation available, the result is particularly disastrous. The trade agreement meant a boom for

A new school of political economy has that an extension of pointed economy has arisen, enunciating the fallacious policy that an extension of trade with a friendly nation makes for the dismemberment of the Empire, and by appeals foreign to the great trade issue before the people, has succeeded for a time in turning the hands of the clock back.

The government counted on the great

The government counted on the great masses of the people, both producer and consumer, particularly the man behind the great basic industry of the country, agriculture, upon whose prosperity the general welfare of the country depends so much. He failed to respond as anticipated, carried away by false cries foreign to the issue.

The lack of accurate information reranding the details of the agreement stood out as a prominent feature of the campaign. The great mass of the people, for whose benefit the agreement was framed, and for whom the government took their lives in their hands, bewildered by the magnitude of the question and by the mass of conflicting statements. by the mass of conflicting statements, were sinply driven into party lines, while many were carried away by sectarian and distorted loyalty cries quite foreign to the question. The consumer was told "It's a good thing for the farmer, but if he gets more won't you have to pay more?" This was a short catchy statement, easily advanced, with a total disregard to the fact that the agreement was essentially a reduction in taxation on food, and the chief opponents were the packers, etc., and required much time to explain in detail how both buyer and seller could be benefitted by the removal of a tax on food and the breaking down of a barrier between producer and consumer. Compared with the previous election, every one of the three and five townships improved and the four towns retrograded. It was a sin to jeopardize in the least measure the growing feeling of amity between sister nations for a little temporary political capital. It was one of the worst deatures of the whole campaign.

A policy that admits it is all right to negotiate a trade agreement with Germany and other countries but all wrong to negotiated with our near neighbors will not stand under the sober judgment of intelligent and thoughtful people.

Under such a policy, no matter how favorable the terms offered us by the United States we must turn a deaf ear to them.

My loyalty to Canada and the Empire is too deeply rooted to accept the fallacious doctrine that, in making a fair trade agreement with our near and friend-ty neighbors with whom we are now trading more than with all the rest of the Ty neighbors with whom we are now trading more than with all the rest of the world, I am jeopardizing that loyalty. I Jeave those timid and wavering ones to to accept and proclaim this doctrine who feel their bonds of loyalty less secure, feel their bonds of loyalty less secure.

The principal enunciated in the following words of the blind Senator: "The man who would tax the crust upon the hungry lip, would had he lived in ancient days, have taxed the manna God sent from Heaven to feed the starving Israelites," will live when unworthy appeals to race and creed, and to time-worn and dimly smouldering feelings of resentment towards the people on our border, with whom we have lived at peace for a hundred years, are silent and buried in justly whom we have lived at peace for a hundred years, are silent and buried in justly deserved oblivion.

The principle of the agreement was right and will stand triumphant under the test of reason and time, when the temporary victory, checking its advance, is cast aside and forgotten.

Again thanking you must eigenealy for Again thanking you most sincerely for your loyal support,

Very truly yours, C. O. FAIRBANK.

AFTER EFFECTS OF FEVER

How to Build Up Health and Strength Atter Wasting Diseases.

When the system is run down follow-

When the system is run down following attacks of fever, la grippe, or other wasting diseases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are of special value. They make new, rich blood, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, and in this way restore the patient to active health and strength. In proof of this we give the case of Mrs. James Randall, Silverstream, Sask., who says:—"I feel that if there is anyone who ought to testify to the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills it is myselt. About four years ago I was taken down with typhoid fever which left me in a very weak state and my stomach so impaired that even a drink of milk would cause me pain. To make matters worse the change of lite followed, and although I was under the care of one of our best doctors, I was growing worse. Before I was sick I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but thought no more about them. But often read of Dr. Williams' PIDE FIDE, but thought no more about them. But now when I was sick and helpless and almost hopeless, and with no benefit coming from medical treatment, I kept thinking of the Pills and finally decided thinking of the Pills and finally decided to try them. I did so and I am thankful to be able to say that they restored me to health and strength, and enabled me to pass through that trying period, from pass through that trying period, from which so many poor women emerge with shattered health. I hope that many other poor sufferers may read this statement and take fresh courage from it, as I am sure that what Dr. Williams' Pink Fills have done for me, they will do for others. I may add that I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the home, and feel that they are better than a doctor."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville,

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The number of crimes is on the increase, and they can be traced back to homes in which parents were too ambitious for their children in the direction of social prominence and too neglectful of them in the direction of character.

A man who has made a happy home for his wife and children, no matter what he has not done in the way of achieving wealth and honor; if he has done that he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitiable failure. We wonder how many men, in a mad pursuit of gold, which characterizes the age, realize that there is no fortune which can be left to their families as great as the memory of a happy home.

The "big head" is a popular way of expressing a common and very frequent ailment. It arises from various sources, but the real foundation is a lack of sense. A little money develops it in some people. A few good clothes gives it to others. A little office where there is a chance given to exercise some authority is often the cause of it, while others get it by having a little better job that their associates. The truth is no sensible person gets the "big head." The one who becomes stuck up and stiff necked from sources of any kind, is weak in his intellect.

Church union came up before the Anglican General Synod recently held at London. The report of the committee appointed to investigate the subject was presented, a debate following. Judge Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, proposed there should be a union or understanding between the churches as to decisions dividing them up to the best of advantage ecomically. This was combatted, it being pointed out that such a plan was directly opposed to the mission policy of the Anglican church. Judge Ermatinger finally moved that a committee be appointed to meet with a committee of all other Protestant churches, to discuss the subject of church union. This was carried.

Politics is not a game and when a voter goes into the booth he should consider gravely and seriously the book. responsibility resting upon him before he marks his ballot. If each individual would do so there soon would be an end to the buying and LINCOLN SHEEP, SHORTHORN CATTLE selling of votes, and politics would thereby be considered eleyated. There are too many men who look to elections only as a time when the contents of their pocket book can be increased and it is due to the influence of these man that corruption sets in. Personal gain may be some small benefit to the unscrupulous voter but will never lead to what should be the brightest and best in

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching. "From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

Slang Old and New.

According to the latest edition of Webster's Dictionary, one meaning of "lobster" is "a gullible, awkward, bungling, or undesirable fellow." This meaning is supposed by most persons to be a modern development of slang. However, "lob-ster" was a favorite term of abuse among Englishmen of Queen Elizabeth's day. Some students think it probably was applied first to men with red faces. As signifying a soldier the term "lobster" is as old as Cromwell's day. Lord Clarendon, historian of the civil war in England, explains that it was applied to the Roundheads, "because of the bright iron shells with which they were covered." Afterwards British soldiers in their red uniforms were called "lobsters." Then came another development. The soldier in the red coat became a "boiled lobster," while the policeman in blue was an "unboiled" or "raw lobster." Again, "to boil a lobster" was for a man to enlist in the army and put on a red coat.

Texas has too few babies, and has taken to importing them. The United Charities Association at Fort Worth recently sent an order to New York for a shipment of babies between two months and three years old. A carload of sixty-six had just passed Fort Worth on its way Houston, and Fort Worth tried to detain some of them, but was not allowed. Now it will have a carload of its own. Dear Sirs.—I have found Zam-Buk most reliable for healing cuts and abrasions; while for the relief of skin irritation it is invaluable.

Zam-Buk Cures Bad Burns.

Stoker Kingsnorth, of H.M.S. "Cochrane," says:—"I slipped and fell with my arm on an exhaust steam pipe, which fairly frizzled the skin. At once the ship's surgeon dressed my arm, but the burns took the wrong way, owing to a lot of dirt from the pipe setting up blood-poison. A large scab appeared, and from underneath the festering flesh, matter coxed out. I was in fearful pain and didn't knew how to get case.

"For weeks I remained under treatment, but the ordinary ointments proved no good. Indeed, I got worse. I therefore obtained a supply of Zam-Buk and almost as soon as this was applied I got ease. From the very first application, healing commenced; and a few baxes of Zam-Buk healed my wound completely."

It Was Not a Best Seller, but It Regenerated a Man

By GWENDOLEN WHITING Copyright by American Press Asso-ciation, 1911.

Archie Trevor had permitted himself to be drawn into an affair with a woman whom it would not be desirable for him to marry.

Mr. Trevor made up his mind to leave the city in which he resided, remain in hiding for awhile, then take up his abode in another place. The summer season was coming on, enabling him to go to the country, remain there till fall, then turn up in the city of his new residence.

For his temporary abode he selected a secluded spot on Lake B., among beautiful hills. He had artistic tastes that he desired to cultivate, and there were many vistas about the lake that would bear being transferred to canvas. The place was not a summer resort, and he was unlikely to meet any one who knew him. He would pass under the name of Brown so that if his presence was reported among those sojourning in the rural districts his identity would be concealed.

For two or three days after his arrival at the Coventry inn, where he took up his abode, he felt very well satisfied with himself. To be good was a new sensation with him, and he rather enjoyed it. He did more or less daubing, but he had very little artistic talent, and his copies of beautiful scenes in the neighborhood would never have been recognized for the originals.

One morning while he was sketching a girl, whose fashionable attire indicated that she was city bred—she car-ried a silk parasol covered with expensive lace—came sauntering down

The lady, having literary tastes, was endeavoring to make a name for her-self in belles-lettres. She had about as much talent for scribbling as Mr. Brown had for painting. But she had submitted a number of her effusions to her intimate friends, all of whom told her that she was a genius. She had therefore determined to bury herself for the summer among woods and waters to gain the inspiration of solitude and write a novel.

The moment she saw Archie Trevor his face struck her as familiar. Then it came to her that she had seen his photogravure in an art fournal, and lastly she remembered that this likevas that of a ce Had Archie been a nobody not even their lenely surroundings would have induced her to break conventional city rules by speaking to him. But, recognizing him, as she supposed, for a genius and feeling that freemasonry which exists among geniuses, barring jealousy, she stood behind him and looked at his picture.

"Excuse me, sir," she said, "but I am great admirer of the fine arts, especially painting. That bit of farm vista is beautiful. The pile of hay in the center looks so rural!"

"You are mistaken in that pile of hay," replied Brown, rising and pulling of his little felt top covering. "It is a pond." "Oh, you impressionists!" exclaimed the critic. "What peculiar methods you use for producing effects! Now that I stand farther away from your picture I see a veritable pond, and the swan is perfect."

"That is a boy in a punt" "Another impressionist method. The light struck the paint glaringly. From this point I see what you intend." Archie remained silent.

"I should not have known you had I ot seen a picture of you," continued the lady. "A picture of me!"

"Yes, just before coming to the coun-

Archie knit his brows. Could his disappearance have caused a commotion? Had his picture been published for his identification? Surely the woman he was trying to break with would not descend to that.

"I confess," said the girl, "that I, too, am incog. I came to the country to get away from the world."

"But how in the world did you get on to me?" "Oh, you men of genius can't conceal yourselves. Your very presence bespeaks a difference from other men."

"Men of genius!"

"Tow clever you are in your method of throwing one off the track? That ook of surprise is very well feigned." Archie heaved a sigh of relief. Evidently the girl had mistaken him for some one else.

"You say you are incog.," he ventured. "May I ask the reason for your not wishing to be known?" "I don't mean that I am passing un-

"Indeed!" said Archie. He sapposed that Irene Iddleston was a great nov-elist and didn't care to display ignorance of her or her works.

She described the house where she was staying so that he could find it and passed on. Trevor stood looking after her with a puzzled expression. "Well, I'll be jinged!"

He sat down on his three legged stool and tried to go on painting. But he was preoccupied with the girl. Finally he sprang up and exclaimed: "I have it. She's a detective!"

There was no other explanation. The woman he was trying to "shake" had discovered his whereabouts and ent another woman after him. Ten to one this one who called herself Iddleston would try and get some compromising evidence from him that would serve a purpose in a breach of promise suit. Trevor resolved to be vary and if possible pay the detective in her own coin—that is, if she pursued him. As to going to see her, he had no idea of doing that.

But curiosity prevented his staying

One day, passing the farmhouse where she stopped, he saw her sitting on the porch driving a pen. Sheets of manuscript were scattered about. A click of the gate caused her to look

"Oh, Mr. Brown," she exclaimed gushingly, "how good of you to come to see me! How honored I feel to receive a visit from a celebrated artist-I, who am entirely unknown in my "Taffy!" muttered Trevor to himself. "They say," she continued, "that the pen and the brush usually go together. Have you never written anything?" "Nothing but letters," replied Trevor, with a cunning look. "Letters! Oh, do let me see some of them. I love to read the letters of lit-cult if not impossible to imitate." Trever breathed hard. All doubt that Miss Iddleston had been sent to in-veigle him into surrendering certain letters he had written and fortunately recovered was set at rest. An idea struck him. The best defense against a woman is the opposite of fighting her—that is, making love to her. He would outwit her in this way. It did not occur to him that by so doing he would get another affair on his hands. Men never really use their reasons about women. They think they do, but they are under the influence of their feelings instead. Trevor was an attractive fellow, and since he was to Miss Iddleston a celebrated artist he had only to say a few honeyed words and look at her in a melancholy, yearning way to achieve a complete victory. He was not fool enough to give her the letters he had written to another woman; that affair was passed so far as any tender feeling was concerned. Instead, he wrote letters to Miss Iddleston direct. It wasn't necessary for him to write her, for he could see her every day, but she said she needed these letters in her work, so he consented to write a few for her. He intended to refrain from committing himself in any of them, but a man's letters to a woman may be interpreted to mean more than he intends, and he is apt to grow in Trevor had been through the mill before and should have known better. He did know better. The trouble was not in what he knew, but what he did.

A very curious condition existed be tween Mr. Trevor and Miss Iddleston of the summer. Mr. Trevor had treat ed her as a spy and had taken means to outwit her as such. She considered him a famous artist and an honorable man, whereas he had never achieved anything remarkable and was hiding man he feared.

Then suddenly her eyes were opened to the fact that he had been entirely mistaken in the authoress. Some friends came to see her whom Trevor met, and he became aware that she was an eminently respectable young woman and very highly con Moreover, he discovered that he had been caught in his own trap and was in love with her.

What was he to do? Confess? Confess what? That he had taken her for a detective. Suppose he should conceal this, his only reason for permitting her to remain under the impression that he was a great artist. And in any event he must come down from that high position and acknowledge himself simply as one who had begun an attempt to reform.

While he was debating what to do Miss Iddleston told him that her story was completed and that she would like to have his opinion of it. An idea struck Trevor. He told her that he would take it to the city with him, read it and return it with his criticism. have something important to say to

Soon after the lady's arrival at home she received the manuscript of her novel with a letter from her critic which said very truthfully that it had excited in him a thrill. It had made a new man of him. Then followed his confession with the statement that without her his regeneration would have been incomplete and hence a failure. With her all there was noble in him would come out.

The young lady suffered a great reaction, but the effect of her literary work brought her around. She married Trevor and instead of writing more novels began the care of children.

Address and Presentation.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Glass, 6th con., S.E.R. on Friday, Sept. 29th, when about forty of their friends and neighbors gathered to say farewell prior to their leaving for Sask.

The evening was a pleasant one and will not soon be forgotton by Mr. and Mrs. Glass. It was a complete surprise and the presentation of two handsome mahogany chairs, by the friends, will be prized for many years in memoty of the dear old neighborhood. During the evening a delicious lunch was served by the ladies and everyone left well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The address was read by Cameron

The address was read by Camera Anderson.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Glass:

Knowing of your intended departure for your future home in the West, we, the friends and neighbors, deem it a fitting opportunity to give expression to our appreciation of a kind friend and worthy neighbor.

We regret the loss of an excellent neighbor who was always ready and willing to give a helping hand to all requiring assistance. This being the old homestead and the place where you have made your first start in life, made associations even dearer but change is our portion here and prospects in the West are very alluring. Your cheerfulness and good will has cemented a friendship here that we trust time and distance will not efface. We ask you to accept these chairs as a slight token of our love and esteem with the wishes and prayers that your future life will be surrounded with God's presence and His crowning joy of friendship. We sincerely hope that in your new home you will enjoy both comfort and prosperity and when the family circle draws around the hearth, in memory, may you associate with friends and neighbors on the 6th line.

Minielly-McLean.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McLean, con. 11, Brooke west, on Wednesday, Sept. 27th, at six o'clock, when their daughter Lottie Mae became the bride of Mr. Donald L. Minielly. a popular and prosperous young ielly, a popular and prosperous young farmer of South Plympton. The bride looked charming and stately in a gown of ivory habutai silk, trimmed with silk allover lace and silk insertion with sash of ivory habutai silk, trimmed with silk allover lace and silk insertion with sash and orange blossoms, and was led to the waiting bridegroom by her father. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. N. A Campbell, pastor of St. Andrew's, was preceded by the singing of a beautiful marriage hymn by Mrs. A. McDonald accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Geo. Clark, sisters of the bride. The young couple stood under an arch of evergreen tastefully brightened with wedding bells, pink and white roses and silver horseshoes and were supported by Mrs. John Dell and the bride's sister Miss Lena McLean, who was becomingly gowned in silk mull with sash and lace. The bride's travelling costume was king's blue over white silk lace waist and white hat with plume. Many beautiful presents marked the esteem in which the young couple are held by their many friends. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a tastily served and bountiful wedding dinner, after which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip and will be at home in South Plympton after the middle of October. The best wishes of her host of friends, of St. Andrew's, and the Tenth line follow Mrs. Minielly to her new home.
