but the Indian uncle has a very big voice, and father was not going to be beaten by a poor Indian in talking or anything else, so he spoke up too, like a man, and I heard him say it was a very good business, and only wanted a little capital-and he said it as if it was a lesson, and he hated having to say it. The uncle said, "pooh, pooh," to that, and then he said he was afraid what that business wanted was not capital but management. Then I heard my father say, "It's not a pleasant subject; I am sorry I introduced it. Suppose we change it, sir. Let me fill your glass." Then the poor Indian said something about vintage-and that a poor, broken-down man like he was couldn't be too careful. And then father said, "well whiskey then," and Then Noel said, "Now I understand. Of course, my father is making a banquet for the Indian because he is a poor, broken-down man. We might have known that from

"Lo, the poor Indian!" you know.
"Poor people are very proud," said Alice and I expect father thought the Indian would be ashamed, if all us children knew how poor he was." Then Dora said, "poverty is no disgrace.

We should honor honest poverty." And we all agreed that that was so. "I wish his dinner had not been so nasty," Dora said, while Oswald put lumps of coal on the fire with his fingers so as not to make a noise. He is a very thoughtful boy, and he did not wipe his fingers on his trouser legs, as perhaps Noel or H. O. would have done, but he just rubbed them on Dora's handkerchief while she was talking. "I am afraid the dinner was horrid," Dora went on. "The table was very nice. I set it myself, and Eliza made me borrow the silver spoons and forks from Albert next door's mother."

"I hope the poor Indian is honest," said Dicky gloomily. "When you are a poor, broken-down man, silver spoons must be a great temptation." Oswald told him not to talk such Tommy

We told him all about the different ways we had to look for treasure, and we told him how Alice had played at the divining rod, and how it really had found a half-sovereign.*

Then he said he would like to see her do it again. But we explained that the rod would only show gold and silver, and that we were quite sure there was no more gold in the house, because we happened to have looked very carefully.

He smoked a cigar while we finished up what was left to eat, and told us about tiger-shooting and about elephants. We asked him about wigwams, and beavers; but he did not seem to know, or else he was a by about talking of the wonders of his native land.

We liked him very much indeed, and when he was going at last Alice nudged me, and said:

ocean to ocean and look in vain for any signs of the wondering admiration that greeted her appearance when she was by far the biggest ship afloat. There are many vessels that approach in length very close to that of the cratwhile queen of the seas, and among the Trans-Atlantic beauties now building and shortly to be launched there is one that surpasses her. This is the new White Star steamship Oceanic, at present in course of construction in the Belfast shippard. The Oceanic is over 700 feet in length and it is expected will succeed in lowering the Atlantic record to five days. Her enormous engines will require not less than 700 tons of coal a day, and her equipment sill be the finest ever put into a steamship. It is doubtful, however, if the Oceanic will continue long to hold the record as the finest vessel afloat. So keen is the desire for supermacy in shipbuilding and naval architecture, that no scener is one marine beauty launched than orders are given for the construction of one that will surpass her.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1ST 1899.

The Mayor's report of the conduct o civic affairs, covering a period of seventeen months, from the date of incorporation to December 31st, 1898, is in the hands of the ratepayers and is worthy of careful perusal. financial statement shows that even though unforseen and extraordinary expenditures had to be provided for the town enters upon the current year with a fair bal-ance in hand. The civic financing for the period named is generally commended and the probability of a decreased rate of taxation is encouraging. Under ordinary condi-tions the town revenues, derived from a tax of $1.25 per $100.00 on the 1898 assessment, would be more than sufficient for the conduct of the various services, and as the assessment for the current year exceeds that of the past, it would seem that the Council have a sufficient warrant to make a small reduction. The present rate is not excessive; t is less than the average levy in provincial towns and Bridgetown will be a particularly pleasant location for the tax payer under a lower rate.

trial will probably be more successful.

The Board of Health recognizes the dangerous sanitary condition of the town, and, while progress is reported, it is evident that while progress is reported, it is evident that while progress is reported, it is evident that the citizens of the town will soon be called upon to vote for the institution of a more effective system of sanitation. during the year, but the committee recognizes the futility of attempting any great general improvement with the small fund set apart for this service. The scheme of sectional improvement is the only practical sectional improvement is the only practical one unless the borrowing privileges of the corporation are used in furnishing an amount sufficient to effect a speedy and lasting improvement.

—The Baptist donation at the parsonage last Thursday evening was a very pleasant social affair and was largely attended. A purse of about $50 was presented to Pastor Young.

These street and sanitation problems have not been fairly faced as yet, and we would suggest that a public meeting be called to obtain the popular opinion as to the remedies to be applied.

—Returning Councillors L. D. Shafner, B. D. Neily and Mark Curry were re-nominated yesterday as was also Mayor Ruggles. Mr. L. D. Shafner was nominated for the Mayoralty.

A similar agitation has been commenced in Canada but in this case the Lib.

The real trouble will come when the Senators, of whom a considerable major.

It is not difficult to forsee the fate of such legislation at their forsee the fate of such legislation at their forsee the fate of such legislation at their hands. Then with the two houses so directly in opposition on a subject affecting the Canadian constitution, important developments may be expected.

—Mr. Stewart contractor, of New Glasgow, was in town over Sunday. He will superintend the erection of the iron bridge at Bruce's Creek, Tupperville. The frame work is already on hand and the bridge will be completed as speedily as possible.

—Yesterday was the day set for receiving nominations of candidates for the Mayoralty and the Council. The retiring Councillors, Messrs. Shafner, Neily and Curry, and Mayor Ruggles were renominated and Mr. Shafner's nomination for the mayoralty was electrically the month of the mayoralty was the day set for receiving an possible to complete as specular as possible to complete as specular Shafner's nomination for the mayoralty was also fyled. The situation is a bit complicated and gives rise to some nice points of discussion. At 9 o'clock next Tuesday morning Mr. Shafner will be declared elected to the Council by acclamation and unless he resigns from the Council he can hardly be elegible to the Mayoralty. His renomination to the Council was fyled after his acceptance of the candidacy but his nominators for the mayoralty did not consult with their candidate before fyling the nomination. The situation is somewhat vexing as it may be necessary for the town to be put to the expense of a useless election. It constitutes another useless election. It constitutes another strange chapter in our corporate history which already is somewhat unique when compared with the average town records. It looks as if some of our citizens were seizing every opportunity to expose the insufficiency of the Towns' Incorporation Act. ciency of the Towns' Incorporation Act.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:-

MRS. SUSAN PHALEN. MRS. SUSAN PHALEN.

Mrs. Susan Phalen, the popular manager of the Revere House, died last Friday, after short illness from an attack of pusumonia. Mrs. Phalen's hospitality and her solicitude for the comfort of her guests made her a general favorite with the travelling public by whom she will be greatly missed. In Bridgetown a large circle of relatives and friends will mourn her sudden demise. She was 46 years of age and leaves a family of three sons and a daughter. The funeral took place last Sunday and was largely attended, the body being interred in the R. C. churchyard.

WATSON HILL.

Watson Hill, formerly of Bridgetown, died at the residence of his father, in Lynn, Mass., last week. His father, Mr. Chas. Hill removed from this town to Lynn some twelve years ago, taking with him his family, with the exception of Watson, who remained in the employ of the late firm of Shaw & Fisher, with whom he worked from the date of organization until within some four or five years ago, when his twin brother, Wallace, having secured for him some logrative employment in Lynn, persuaded him to accept the work; but on account of his failing health he did not live long to enjoy life in his new home. He had many friends here who will mourn his death. He died from consumption and was about 47 years of

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

To the Electors of Bridgetown:

ALL persons having any legal demand against the estate of Milledge Munry farmer, late of Bridgetown, in the County of Annapolis, deceased, are required to render the same, duly attested, within twelve months from the date hereof; and all persons indebted. We beg to thank you for again returning us to our respective offices in the Town Coun-cil for another term and this time by acclacil for another term and this time by acqua-mation, without putting the town to the ex-pense of holding a poll. We will pledge ourselves to do our utmost in the interest of the town in the future as in the past.

To Egyptian Rheumatic Oil Co., Ltd.:-

DEAR SIRS, - For ten years my daughter Barbara Ellen has been a sufferer from the effects of rheumatism; the last two years of which she had not the use of her limbs and has been totally unable to-walk. Early in September I purchased a bottle of EGYPTIAN RHEUMATIC OIL and fter the external application of one bottle or EGYPTIAN RHEUMATIC OIL and after the external application of one bottle my daughter was able to walk across the house without any assistance whatever. I could scarcely believe it at first, and I feared a relapse, but after some weeks, she still continued to improve and in the continued to improve and interest and in the continued to improve and interest and int continued to improve, and is now recovering rapidly the fermer use of her limbs. It therefore gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of EGYPTIAN RHEUMATIC

Being a Child. It would not be a bad thing for some of us if we could by any charice or effort rememper how we felt when we were children our selves. Let us nause in the eager race of life to recall how delightful it was to play at tea in the nursery or under a great tree out of doors, when we had acorns for cups and little doll's set of dishes to furnish forth our tables. Perhaps we can remember our delight in a pair of new shoes, the ecstacy which came with the Christmas gifts, the great pleasure there was in the visit of some friend for whom we cared. A certain family of the floor, and when his wife returned with little people were always in the seventh | the doctor he was rolling like a mad man heaven when there came to the house a about the room, upsetting chairs and flower friend of their mother-a lady not young, pots and anything else that came in his way. not beautiful, not particularly gifted, but one of those divinely sweet persons to whom God has made clear the heart of a child.

Sunshiny Women. I know a man who says he fell in love with the woman who is now his wife because she was always cheerful in dull weather; that one summer they found themselve under the same roof for a number of weeks, like a forget-me-not placed over his eye, just and that the other folks would always make the discovery a long time before this girl that it was raining and insufferably dull, says a correspondent. The damp, dull reather did not seem to dampen her cheerfulness, and she always came down in the orning smiling and cheery. Such a woman, this man rightly concluded, was worth her weight in gold. She would always be able to get the best and happiest of life, and she always has.

How to Make Tea.

The chairman of the government committee of tea experts declares that few Americans understand how to make tea or how to obtain the maximum benefit from it. It should be taken between meals and without much food, when it becomes a harmless yet powerful tonic. England discovered the secret long ago, and hence the universal custom of the 5 o'clock tea, midway between the luncheon and dinner hours. The preparation of the tea is more important than the qualless. First, the water must be fresh; second. it must be thoroughly boiled for ten minutes; third, the tea must never be allowed to boil and must never draw over ten minutes.

Buckwheat pancakes are said by those who work hard in the open air to maintain strength for a longer time than any kind of read or other cereal food. This is probably ecause the pancake is somewhat harder to igest, because it is not chewed so well and therefore is not so porous in the stomach. Everybody knows that buckwheat cakes are palatable. The discovery that they are also one of the best foods to put into the stomach in cold weather will make them more popu lar. But the buckwheat flour is too heating when the weather turns warm.
