Where the debtor has an interest in land of such a nature that it Rule 911. cannot be sold under a fi. fa., the judgment creditor may reach it, by application under Rules 1015. et seq., or by action: see Johnson v. Bennett, 9 P. R. 337; Bowerman v. Hall, 5 O. W. R. 225; but he must have an execution in the hands of the Sheriff at the time of the commencement of the proceedings or action: Thomson v. Cushing, 30 Ont. 123, 388; Union Bank v. Brigham, 5 O. W. R. 142, 144; but see Johnson v. Bennett, infra.

A receiver was appointed, ex parte, of a mortgaged estate, by way of execution against the mortgagor: Minter v. Kent, 72 L. T. 180.

An equity of redemption in mortgaged lands is saleable under an execution, by virtue of R. S. O. c. 77, s. 30, only in the case of a simple equity arising upon a single mortgage of the land, or at most existing between one mortgagor and one mortgagee: see Somis v. Ireland, 4 Ont. App. 122; and cases in which an equity of redemption is not so saleable, furnish familiar examples of suits for equitable execution: see Donovan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472; Kerr v. Styles, 26 Gr. 300; Johnson v. Bennett, 9 P. R. 337, in which last case there were no writs of execution in the Sheriff's hands, as to which see infra, p. 1160.

Where a receiver was appointed of the interest of a debtor in lands devised to him "during his life for the support and maintenance of himself and his three children, with remainder to the heirs of his body, or to such of his children as he may devise the same to," it was held that although there was no trust in favour of the children, yet that they had an equity which would prevent the whole of the income being appropriated by the creditor to their prejudice, and as they were infants, and in need of maintenance, and the debtor had not otherwise sufficient means to maintain them, the Court ordered that only one-fourth of the fund should be appropriated to the benefit of the creditor: Allen v. Furniss, 20 Ont. App. 34; but where land was devised upon trust to permit the debtor and his wife and children to use it for a home, and then to convey it as the debtor by his will should appoint, it was held that the debtor took no estate which could be made available in execution: Cameron v. Adams, 25 Ont. 229.

Property settled on a married woman subject to a restraint against anticipation, cannot be made available in execution against her, or by attachment or sequestration, or by the appointment of a receiver, as regards instalments of income accruing due after the judgment: Whitley v. Edwards, 1896, 2 Q. B. 48; Bolitho v. Gidley, 1905, A. C. 313, and notes, supra, p. 353; Hood-Barrs v. Cathcart, 1894, 2 Q. B. 559; Pillers v. Edward, 71 L. T. 788; but a receiver may be appointed of instalments of income so settled which had accrued due before judgment, but which have not been paid over to the married woman: Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, 1896, A. C. 174; 74 L. T. 353.

Practice as to Receivers by way of Equitable Execution.

—As to equitable execution by the appointment of a receiver at the instance of the judgment creditor, see further notes, supra, pp. 389, 1001; and for the form of such orders see Hevett v. Murray, 52 L. T. 1280; 54 L. J. Chy. 572; H. & L. Forms Nos. 853, 1289.

An order appointing a receiver was held to be "a process of execution" within the Imperial Act, 27 & 28 Vict. sec. 112; Re Pope, 17 Q. B. D. 713; but not the issuing of execution within Rule 856. See note to that Rule.

Rule 911.

An attaching order against a garnishee, and a receiver as against the debtor, were granted on the same application in Whittaker v. Whittaker, 7 P. D. 15; but the authority of that case has been doubted in Manchester, etc., v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

The appointment of a receiver would seem to be an effective mode of procedure under circumstances such as existed in Donovan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472. There the debtor was entitled to the equity of redemption in land, but the land was subject to two mortgages held by different persons, and the mortgagor was in possession and in receipt of the rents. See also Webb v. Stenton, supra; London and Canadian, etc., v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 383, 384, 386.

The receiver will be entitled to an order for leave to bring an action in the name of the debtor, if the latter refuses to bring an action, or unnecessarily delays doing so: McLean v. Allen, 14 P. R. 291; Mones v. MacCullum, 17 P. R. 398; the debtor is entitled to an indemnity against costs: Id.

A receiver was appointed on an interlocutory application in a fresh action by the judgment creditor in Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Ch. D. 275; see also Ex parte Evans, 13 Ch. D. 252. But a fresh action is unnecessary; the application for receiver may be in the original action after judgment: Salt v. Cooper, 16 Ch. D. 544; Smith v. Cowell, 6 Q. B. D. 75.

A receiver will, however, only be granted in cases where the amount of the judgment debt warrants the expense, and where there is a fair reason to suppose that there is something to receive: I. v. K., W. N. 1884, 63. See also Manchester, etc., v. Parkinson, and other cases supra, p. 180; Taylor v. Gallagher (before Robertson, J., 7th January, 1890).

A judgment creditor who has obtained a receiver subject to existing incumbrances, cannot place himself in a better position than the debtor, and by giving notice to a trustee obtain priority: Arden v. Arden, 29 Ch. D. 702.

Where the interest of the judgment debtor is not one which is exigible under writs of fi. fa. goods or lands respectively, it was said by Osler, J.A., that the issue of such writs is an unmeaning and needless formality, and is, therefore, an unnecessary preliminary to proceedings for equitable execution: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 309; see formerly Shea v. Denison, 14 Gr. 513; Wilson v. Proudfoot, 15 Gr. 103; and see Thomson v. Cushing, 30 Ont. 123, 388, where the issue of a fi. fa. was held to be still necessary. The issue of such writs will not give any priority. The equitable interest of the debtor is only bound by, and from the time of, the issue of the appropriate form of equitable execution: Stuart v. Grough, supra, and see supra, p. 1159.

Whether money realized under equitable execution is subject to the provisions of The Creditor's Relief Act is doubtful: see Sylvester v. McEachon, 9 C. L. T. 138; Dawson v. Moffatt, 11 Ont. 484; McLean v. Allen, 14 P. R. 84.

A receiver may be appointed by way of execution on an ex parte application, but such an order should not be made ex parte, except in exceptional cases: Minter v. Kent, 72 L. T. 186; and semble the defendant is entitled to notice though he has not appeared: see Tilling v. Blyth, 1899, 1 Q. B. 557; 80 L. T. 44. Where such an order is made ex parte the debtor is not driven to appeal, he may move to rescind it: see Rule 358.

Where a receiver has been appointed by way of equitable execution Rules on a misapprehension of facts, a third party prejudiced thereby may 912, 913.
 apply to rescind the order: McLean v. Allen, 18 P. R. 235.

Effect of Appointment of a Receiver.—Where a receiver is appointed of a fund by way of equitable execution, the debtor cannot thereafter alienate or encumber the fund to the prejudice of the creditor at whose instance the receiver was appointed: In re Anglesey, De Gulse v. Gardner, 1903, 2 Ch. 727.

912. The garnishee shall be deemed to be indebted within the meaning of Rule 911, although any debt sought to be attached has been assigned, charged or incumbered by the judgment debtor, if the assignment, charge or incumbrance is fraudulent as against creditors or is otherwise impeachable by them. New.

Formerly a de facto assignment, even though impeached as a fraud, prevented the attachment of the debt so assigned: see Yuse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; O'Donohoe v. Hull, 24 S. C. R. 683.

913. The order or the notice in lieu thereof, as the case may require, shall be served personally or as the Court or Judge may direct, and [from the time of service thereof or of] notice thereof to the garnishee in such manner as the Court or Judge shall direct, shall bind the debts in his hands. Con. Rule 936.

The words in brackets are new. Otherwise this Rule is similar to Eng. (1883) R. 623, and corresponds with part of R. S. O. c. 50, s. 308.

Service of an attaching order does not create the relation of debtor and creditor between the garnishee and attaching creditor: Wardrop v. Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 7 Ont. 321; Re Combined Weighing & Advertising Co., 43 Ch. D. 99; Cooper v. Lawson, 6 Times. 34; Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259. It is otherwise, however, after an order to pay over has been made: Cowan v. Carhill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. 431.

Service of the attaching order does not justify the Sheriff in withdrawing from the goods of the garnishee under an execution issued against him by his creditor (the judgment debtor): George v. Freeman, 14 P. R. 330.

The effect of service is to prevent the debtor from thereafter dealing with the debt to the prejudice of the garnisher: Wood v. Joselin, 18 Ont. App. 60; but the order does not prevent a valid assignment by the debtor of any surplus of the debt beyond what is sufficient to satisfy the claim of the attaching creditor: Yates v. Terry, 1302, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133.

Money paid into Court in an administration suit by an executor is not money "in the hands" of the executor, and a garnishee order Rule 913. nisi against the executor is not a charge on such money, although paid in after service of the order, so as to give the attaching creditor priority over a trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor: Stevens v. Phelps, L. R. 10 Ch. 417; Jones v. Brown, 29 L. T. 79.

An order nisi does not create any charge till after service: Hunter v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Re Stanhope, ib., 100. Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 65.

By the express terms of this Rule the debts are bound from the date of the service of the order of attachment, though, if nothing was attachable at the time the order was made, doubtless it cannot attach a debt or claim arising after the order, but before service: McCrany v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 539; Parker v. Hove, 12 P. R. 351; see Kelly v. Rider, 11 Times, 206. The bond fide payment by the garnishee to the judgment debtor before such service will protect the garnishee: Cooper v. Brayne, 27 L. J. Ex. 446; 31 L. T. 205; Elwell v. Jackson, 1 Cab. & Ell. 362; but payment to the debtor after service of the attaching order, is no answer to an application under Rule 914: Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362. Neither set off nor anything else affecting the state of the accounts between the garnishee and the judgment debtor, arising after that date, can be taken into account: Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; though a set-off existing at that date will avail: Sampson v. Seaton and Beer Railway Company, L. R. 10 Q. B. 28; and see supra, p. 1156.

In Fitzpatrick v. Warring, 13 L. R. Ir. 2, two defendants, S. and W., each had an order against the plaintiff for costs. S. was indebted to the plaintiff for rent. W.'s costs were first taxed, and he obtained an order against S., attaching the rent due by S. to the plaintiff. When an order to pay over was applied for, S.'s costs had been taxed, but it was held that the rent could not be set-off against them as the order nisi had attached it, and S. had no claim until his costs were taxed. But see Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445.

Where a banker was served with the usual order attaching all debts, etc., he was held to be justified in refusing to honour any cheques even to the extent of the amount in his hands over and above the amount required to satisfy the judgment of the attaching creditor: Rogers v. Whitely, 23 Q. B. D. 236; 1892, A. C. 118; 66 L. T. 303; but an order may be made in form restricting its operation to such amount of the debt owing by the garnishee as will satisfy the judgment debt: ib.; but see Yates v. Terry, supra, p. 1161.

In the case of several attaching orders, the creditors formerly ranked in the order in which their attaching orders were served: Tate v. The Corporation of Toronto, 3 P. R. 181; Succetnam v. Lemon, 13 C. P. 534; see also Salamau v. Donovan, 10 Ir. C. L. R. App. xiii; but see now R. S. O. c. 78, s. 37.

Personal service is not indispensable if the service comes to the garnishee's knowledge: Ward v. Vance, 9 U. C. L. J. 214, 244.

The effect of the word "hind" has often undergone discussion, and under the earlier English Bankruptcy Act the assignee was entitled, and not the attaching creditor, if bankruptcy intervened before actual payment under an order to pay over: Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 80; Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Tilbury v. Brown, 20 L. J. Q. B. 46; Rylands v. Reardon, 5 L. R. Ir. 1; Stevens v. Phelps, L. R. 10 Ch. 417; but if the garnishee was compelled to pay under threat of execution after notice of the bankruptcy, he was discharged as against the assignee: Wood v. Dunn, L. R. 2 Q. B. 73. He was bound, however, to set up the bankruptcy, if he had notice of it before the order to pay over: 1b. The present English law gives the creditor a charge which is good against the trustee in bankruptcy: Emanuel v. Bridger, L. R. 9 Q. B. 286; Ex p. Joselyn, 8 Ch. D. 327; see Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 333.

An assignment by an insolvent for the general benefit of his creditors does not oust a prior attachment by a creditor of the insolvent of a debt due to him: Re Thompson, 17 P. R. 160; a winding-up order does do so, unless the attaching order was obtained before the petition for winding up, and an order for payment has been made before the winding-up order: Ex p. Hawkins, L. R. 3 Chy. 787.

The service does not effect a transfer of the debt or securities for it: Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259; see also Backhouse v. Siddle, 38 L. T. 487.

914. If the garnishee does not forthwith pay into Court the amount due from him to the judgment debtor or an amount equal to the judgment debt, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear upon notice to him, then the Court or Judge may order payment to the judgment creditor of the debt or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment debt. Con. Rule 937.

This is similar to Eng. (1883) R. 624, and is in substance the same as the provision of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 309).

An action for a debt will lie on a garnishee order, but should not be resorted to if the amount can be recovered by execution under Rule 914: Pritchett v. English & Colonial Syndicate, 1899, 2 Q. B. 428. An action is proper where brought with the view of obtaining a judgment to be sued on abroad, or upon which to petition as a judgment creditor for the winding-up of a company which has property only out of the jurisdiction.

61 V. c. 15, s. 9, provides that an action shall not be brought in a Division Court on a judgment or order of the High Court or a County Court, where execution may issue on the judgment or order.

The judgment debtor should be notified of the application against the garnishee to pay over: Beatty v. Hackett, 14 P. R. 395.

Payment to the judgment debtor under stress of an execution issued after service of the attaching order was held to discharge the garnishee from liability to the judgment creditor: Turnbull v. Robertson, 38 L. T. 380; sed quare, if the garnishee should pay the money attached into Court in such a case; he cannot discharge himself after service of an attaching order, by a voluntary payment: Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 333; Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362; and where, before payment, a receiver of the fund is appointed, the garnishee should not pay without first bringing the conflicting claims of the receiver and the attaching creditor to the attention of the Court: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and the garnishee is also bound to set up any assignment of the debt attached, of which he has notice: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527, 86 L. T. 133; and see Rule 920.

As to the garnishee's right to set off: see note to Rule 911, supra, 918, 919, p. 1150.

After an order absolute, the garnishee may be examined as to his means under Rule 100: Concan v. Carhill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. 431.

As to rights of other creditors in the moneys attached, see The Creditors' Relief Act, R. S. O. c. 78, s. 37.

An order for payment by the garnishee may be rescinded on its subsequently appearing that the debtor had, before service of the attaching order, validly assigned the debt, and that the garnishee had no notice of the assignment, before the motion to pay over: Bentley v. Hackett, 14 P. R. 385; or where the order has been made and acted on under a mutual mistake of the judgment creditor and the garnishee, that the latter was indebted to the judgment debtor: Moore v. Peachy, 66 L. T. 198; Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432.

A garnishee order made absolute, although no debt was at the time due, is conclusive on the garnishee until it be set aside: see Moore v. Peachy, 66 L. T. 198; Randall v. Lithgow, 12 Q. B. D. 525.

A garnishee is bound to ascertain that the debtor of the attaching creditor is really the creditor of the garnishee, or payment, though purporting to be made under an attaching order, will not be a bar to recovery by his real creditor: Andrew v. Canadian Mut. L. Co., 29 Ont. 385.

Order as to maturing claims.

915. If the debt be not payable at the time of the attachment, an order may be made for the payment thereof when it becomes payable. Con. Rule 938.

See Lloyd v. Wallace, 9 P. R. 335; Nash v. Pearce, 47 L. J. Chy. 766.

Issue where
liability.

916. If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Court or Judge, instead of making an order for payment, may order that any issue or question necessary for determining his liability be tried in such manner as may be directed. Con. Rule 939.

Taken from J. A. Rule 373.

Similar to the Eng. (1883) R. 625, and gives a simpler machinery than R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 310.

Garnishee proceedings will not be set aside after great delay: Re Gordon v. Bonter, 6 U. C. L. J. 112, and should not in any case be opened without previous notice to all parties interested: Bank of U. C. v. Wallace, 2 P. R. 352.

As to the garnishee's right of set off, see note to Rule 911, supra, p. 1150.

In case an issue is ordered between the judgment creditor and garnishee, the judgment creditor stands in the shoes of the judgment debtor, and the garnishee can assert against him all claims he could have asserted against the judgment debtor either as plaintiff or defendant in an action: Nathan v. Gilca, 5 Tannt. 558; Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; 1 Cab. & El. 95; up to the time of the service of the attaching order. See also notes to Rule 913.

This section does not render it obligatory on the Court to direct an issue. If the matter is clear upon the affidavits, the Court may refuse an issue: Wise v. Birkenshaw, 20 L. J. Ex. 241, and rescind the attaching order: Johnson v. Moody, 12 L. J. Ex. 263, where the plaintiff cannot suggest a plausible ground on which the money attached to belong to the debtor; but otherwise it would probably be proper to direct an issue, if the plaintiff so desired. On the other hand, execution may be ordered if the garnishee does not satisfy the Judge that he has real ground for disputing his liability for the debt: Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445; Newman v. Rook, 1 C. B. N. S. 434; and is acting bona fide in making the dispute: Case v. Birkenshaw, 20 L. J. Ex. 240.

Where fraud was suggested, and circumstances shown which created a suspicion of fraud and required explanation, the plaintiff was held to be entitled to an issue: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 291.

As to the form of issue, see Macdonald v. Taqueah, 13 Q. B. D. 275; Chitty, 460.

Where an action is pending against the garnishee at the suit of the judgment debtor, and there is no collusion between them, the Court will not grant an issue: Richardson v. Greaves, 40 W. R. 45. The Court will, unless quite satisfied that the debt is not liable to attachment, allow the judgment creditor to have an issue with the garnishee: Seymour v. The Corporation of Brecon, 29 L. J. Ex. 243. If the garnishee disputes his liability, and the judgment creditor declines to proceed to try the question, the garnishee is entitled to have the attaching order discharged with costs: Wintle v. Williams, 3 H. & N. 288.

In Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232, Quinn, J., ordered the liability to be tried by means of a special case; and where the question is one of law, this seems to be a convenient course.

Where an issue is directed to a County Court, the action, nevertheless, remains in the High Court, and the County Court Judge has no authority to order production: Cochrane v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 606.

An order for cross-examination of the garnishee was refused in Storrie v. Simmons, W. N. 1876, 40, on the ground that the English Rule corresponding with Rule 485 was not intended to apply to such a case, but, in Ontario the garnishee denying liability is subject to cross-examination on his affidavit: Wilson v. Fleming, 19 P. R. 263.

917—(1) Where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from a garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a County Court, the order to appear, made under Rule 911, shall be for the garnishee to appear before the Judge of the County Court of the County within which the garnishee resides, at a day and place within his County to be appointed in writing by such Judge; and the order shall be served on the garnishee with written notice of the day and place appointed. Con. Rule 940.

Where the amount claimed to be due from the garnishee is so large as to be not within the jurisdiction of a County Court, the Judge of the County Court in which the judgment was recovered, may make the order to appear returnable before himself, though the garnishee resides in another county: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294., and see Rule 91b.

Execution from County Court, if the garnishee does not dispute the debt.

(2) If the garnishee does not forthwith pay the amount due by him, or an amount equal to the judgment debt, or appears and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear before the Judge named in the order at the day and place appointed, the Judge, on proof of service of the order and notice of the appointment having been made two clear days previous, may order payment; and execution may issue out of the County Court. Con. Rule 941.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 311, 312.

The Judge referred to is the Judge of the County Court named in the order.

Proceedings if he disputes the debt.

(3) If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Judge may order that the judgment creditor be at liberty to proceed against the garnishee according to the usual practice of the County Court, for the alleged debt, or for the amount due to the judgment debtor if less than the judgment debt, and for costs. Con. Rule 942.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 315.

The Judge referred to is the Judge of the County Court named in the order under clause (1).

A garnishee denying liability is subject to cross-examination on his affidavit: Wilson v. Fleming, 19 P. R. 203.

Where the garnishee sets up that the debt is owing to some third person, and the creditor claims that such third person is fraudulently substituted for the judgment debtor, he is entitled to an issue: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294.

Though a garnishee may admit the debt to be due by him, yet if he has notice that it has been assigned he is bound to bring that fact to the notice of the Court on the application for the order to pay over: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133; and see note to Rule 91a; and see Rule 920.

Proceedings when amount within the jurisdiction of Division Courts.

DIS.—(1) Where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from a garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a Division Court, the order to appear, made under Rule 911, shall be for the garnishee to appear before the Clerk of the Division Court within whose Division the garnishee resides, at his office, at a day to be appointed in writing by such clerk, and the order shall be served on the garnishee, with written notice of the day appointed by the Clerk.

(2) The Clerk shall report to the Judge whether or not the garnishee appears, and whether he disputes or does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor. New. Rules

(3) If the garnishee does not forthwith pay the amount due by him or an amount equal to the judgment debt, or appears and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear before the Division Court Clerk named in the order at his office at the day appointed, the Judge, on the report of the Clerk, and on proof of the service of the order and notice of the appointment having been made two clear days previous, may order payment; and execution may thereupon be issued out of the Division Court of the Division in which the garnishee resides.

(4) If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Judge may order that the judgment creditor shall be at liberty to proceed against the garnishee, according to the practice of the Division Court, for the alleged debt or for the amount due to the judgment debtor if less than the judgment debt, and for costs. Con. Rule 943.

The former Con. Rule 943, only applied in cases where the attaching order was obtained in a County Court case. The present Rule is intended to apply in High Court cases as well as County Court cases, where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from the garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a Division Court.

By analogy to Rule 917 the "Judge" referred to in clause (2) would appear to be a County Court Judge having jurisdiction in the Division of the Division Court Clerk referred to.

919 In County Court cases the power conferred by Rules 917 and 918 may be exercised by the Judge although the garnishee does not reside within his County. New. County Judge's powers under
Rules
917 and 918.

See Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294.

920.—(1) Where it is suggested that the debt sought to be attached belongs to a third person, or that a third person has a lien or charge upon it, the Court or Judge may order him to appear and state the nature and particulars of his claim. Con. Rule 944. Order for third person to appear

Taken from J. A. Rule 374.

Rule 920.

Proceedings as to claims of third persons.

(2) After hearing the allegations of the third person, and of any other person whom by the same or any subsequent order the Court or a Judge may order to appear, or in case of such third person not appearing when ordered, the Court or Judge may order payment of the amount due from the garnishee, or may order an issue or question to be tried or determined in such manner as may be directed, and may bar the claim of the third person, or may make such other order with respect thereto as the Court or Judge thinks fit, upon such terms, as to costs and otherwise, as may seem just. Con. Rule 945.

Taken from J. A. Rule 375.

Clause (1) of this Rule is to the same effect as the Eng. (1883) R. 626; and corresponds in substance with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 313 (1).

A suggestion that the money attached is trust money and not belonging to the judgment debtor, should be listened to, and upon reasonable suspicion of such a fact, the Judge has power (even though no suggestion is made that the money belongs to some third person) to direct an issue to determine whether or not the money is trust money, and any person who has a claim to the money has a locus standi to point out the facts to the Judge: Roberts v. Death, 8 Q. B. D. 319; 30 W. R. 76; see Craig v. Craig, 1896, P. 171. The judgment debtor may appear to inform the Court of any such material fact: Lovely v. White, 12 L. R. 1r. 381.

Where the garnishee has notice of the right of some third person to the debt attached, and neglects to bring it to the attention of the Judge, the order to pay over will not protect him as against such third person: Parker v. Mellican, 16 P. R. 555; 17 P. R. 84. The Leader, L. R. 2 A. & E. 314; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 269; Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133.

The "third person" is a "party affected" by the attaching order within the meaning of Rule 358, and may under that Rule, or apart from it, move to set aside the attaching order: Parker v. Mellican supra.

Clause (2) of this Rule is to the same effect as the Eng. (1883) R. 627; and corresponds in substance with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 313 (2). See Mitchell v. Lee, L. R. 2 Q. B. 259.

The Judge under this Rule has a discretion to direct, or refuse to direct, the trial of an issue, and his discretion was held properly exercised in refusing, where the plaintiff could not suggest a plausible ground for supposing that the money in the hands of the garnishee belonged to the judgment debtor, or after examination of the third party to cast any suspicion upon the bona fides of his claim. Had the plaintiff been able to do this, it would have been the duty of the Judge to direct an issue, if the plaintiff desired it: Johnson v. Moody, 12 P. R. 203.

The concluding part of this Rule authorizes an order for security for costs against either party to the issue, if residing out of the jurisdiction: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121.

An order to pay over made under a mutual mistake of the judgment creditor and the garnishee, that the latter was indebted to the judgment debtor, may be rescinded on the mistake being discovered: Moore v. Peachy, 66 L. T. 108; Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432, where the debt attached as due to the plaintiff (the judgment debtor) was, after order to pay over, discovered to be not due to the plaintiff personally but to a firm of which he was a member.

921. Payment made by or execution levied upon the garnishee under any such proceedings as aforesaid shall be a valid discharge to him, as against the judgment debtor, of the amount paid or levied, although subsequently such proceeding may be set aside or the judgment reversed. Con. Rule 946.

This Rule is identical with the Eng. (1883) R. 628; and corresponds in substance with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 317.

The mere issue of an attaching order, or order to pay over, is no defence to an action by the judgment debtor: Lockwood v. Nash, 18 C. B. 536; Sykes v. Brockville and Ottawa Ry. Co., 22 U. C. Q. B. 459; Blevins v. Madden, 11 C. P. 195; George v. Freeman, 14 P. R. 330; Pickard v. Tims, 19 P. R. 100; Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133. Payment to the judgment creditor after an attaching order served, but before an order to pay over, is not a discharge, and the garnishee is liable to pay again to the judgment debtor: Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Clark v. Clark, 8 F. C. L. J. 197; McGinnis v. Yorkville, 21 Q. B. 163, 171, but a garnishee order absolute for payment over operates as a stay of an execution on the debtor's judgment against the garnishee: George v. Freeman, 14 P. R. 330. Payment into Court discharges the garnishee: Clark v. Clark, supra, and Rule 914; but payment under an order to pay over, will not protect the garnishee, if, before paying over, he has notice of the fund being claimed by another, who proves to have had the better right: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 290; Yates v. Terry, supra.

As to the practice where orders are made in respect of the same debt in different Counties, see Victoria Mutual Ins. Co. v. Bethune, 1 Ont. App. 398.

As to the right of other creditors to share in moneys attached, see The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 78, s. 37).

Rule 922.

CHAPTER XIV.

PETITIONS OF RIGHT.

Petition of right.

The Sovereign cannot be sued in the Courts of Law as an ordinary defendant. It has been said that prior to the reign of Edward I. the Sovereign might have been sued as an ordinary defendant, and that by statute of Edward I. it was enacted that all claims against the Crown should thereafter be brought by petition, and this is said to have been the origin of the petition of right; but no such statute has been discovered and the evidence for its existence is by no means conclusive; see Clode, c. 1. However that may be, it is certain that the method of procedure by petition of right is of very ancient date, and seems to have been evolved from the practice of petitioning the King in Parliament.

The procedure in England upon petition of right is now regulated by Imp. Stat. 23 & 24 Vict. c. 34, followed in Ont. by R. S. O. 1877, c. 59, to carry out which the following Rules have been framed.

Rules how far applicable.

The following Rules 322-336, of course, only apply to petitions presented in respect of claims against the Government of Ontario; claims against the Government of any other Province must be prosecuted in the Courts of such Province; and claims against the Dominion Government must be prosecuted in the Exchequer Court of Canada, as to which see 50 & 51 Vict. c. 10, s. 23 (D.1).

Nature of petition.

A petition of right is a petition presented by a subject to the Crown stating an infringement of the suppliant's legal rights by the Crown or its officer, and praying redress therefor; see Clode, c. 11.

Equitable claims have also been preferred by petition of right, but some question has been raised whether such claims can properly form the subject of such a petition; see Clode, c. 11.

When it may be filed.

As a matter of fact the following classes of claims have been prosecuted by petition of right, viz.: (1) claims for the restitution of property wrongfully taken and detained by the Crown or its officers; (2) claims arising out of some contract made between the Crown and a subject; (3) equitable claims; (4) claims made enforceable by this means by statute; see Clode, 46-7.

Whether an alien may present a petition of right does not appear to have been decided; see Clode, c. 5.

Where under an Act of Parliament a railway company was entitled to a grant of the Provincial Crown Lands on completion of its road, and to a grant of a proportionate part thereof on the completion of 20 miles of the line, a petition of right was held to be the proper mode of enforcing the claim against the Government of the Province, Canada Central Ry. v. The Queen, 20 Gr. 273; but where a discretion is vested in the Crown as to making the grant, it would seem that a petition of right will not lie; see Hereford Ry. v. The Queen, 21 S. C. R. 1.

A petition cannot be maintained against the Provincial Govern- Rule 922.
ment of Ontario in respect of any contract made with the Government of Canada before Confederation: see Mucedonald v. The Queen, 44 U. C. R. 239. A contractor may petition for the price of extra work under a contract: O'Brien v. The Queen, 4 S. C. R. 529; Jones
v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 570; Isbester v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 1894.
A barrister may thereby claim a quantum meruit for his fees: The Queen v. Doutré, 6 S. C. R. 342; and a Crown lessee of a fishery may present a petition for damages for breach of a covenant for quiet enjoyment: The Queen v. Robinson, 6 S. C. R. 52; and a petition of right may be maintained for unliquidated damages resulting from a breach of contract by the Crown: Thomas v. The Queen, L. R. 10
Q. B. 31; Feather v. The Queen, 6 B. & S. 283; The Queen v. Mac- Lean, 8 S. C. R. 210; and it is immaterial whether the breach was occasioned by the acts, or omissions of the Crown official: Windsor
d. Annapolis Ry. Co. v. The Queen, 11 App. Cas. 607; but the contract must be a binding one, and within the power of the officer of the Crown to make: Humphrey v. The Queen, 20 S. C. R. 501; The
The Queen, 1 Ex. C. R. 301 the Crown was held to have waived the right to dispute the validity of a contract, on the ground that it had referred a claim thereunder to arbitration, and had raised no legal objection to the investigation of the claim by the arbitrator, and had not appealed from the award; but as a rule the doctrine of estoppel cannot be invoked against the Crown; nor can laches be imputed to the Crown: Humphrey v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 386; 20 S. C. R.
501; Peterson v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 74; yet forfeitures of certain kinds may be waived by the acts of Ministers and officers of the Crown: Attorney-General v. Ettechauck, L. R. 6 P. C. 374; Darcen- part v. The Queen, 3 App. Cas. 115; Peterson v. The Queen, 2 Ex.
C. R. 67. The general rule is that the Crown is not liable to a suit for the tortious acts of its officers: see Muskoka Mills Co. v.
The Queen, 28 Gr. 563; Releigh v. Gaschoa, 1898, 1 Ch. 73; nor for their negligence: see Regina v. McFarlane, 7 S. C. R. 216; Burroughs
v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 283; nor for their misfeasance or nonfeasance: Regina v. McLeod, 8 S. C. R. 1; Cococ v. The Queen, 3
Ex. C. R. 13; Quebec v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 272; 3 Ex. C. R.
164; 24 S. C. R. 420; but such liability may be imposed by statute:
see 50 & 51 Vict. c. 16, s. 16 (11); Brady v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R.
273; Laroie v. The Queen, 3 Ex. C. R. 96; The Queen v. Martin, 20 S. C. R. 240.

Where the acts complained of are authorized by a statute which describes a remedy for any person aggrieved, the claimant cannot maintain a petition of right, but must pursue the statutory remedy:
Holifar v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 433.

The Statute of Limitations cannot be set up by the Crown as a bar to a claim by petition of right: see per Blackburn, J., Rushin v.
The Queen, 1 Q. B. 11, 487, at p. 491; sed vide Martin v. The Queen, 20 S. C. R. 240; and it would seem that a third party notified under Rule 925 would not be able to set it up against the petitioner:
see Chole, 175.

922. A petition of right shall be entitled in the High Form of petition
of right
Court, and shall name the proposed place of the trial; and such petition shall be according to Form No. 186 and shall Rules 923-925. be signed by such suppliant, his counsel or solicitor. Con. Rule 949.

For Form No. 186, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1576.

These Rules do not expressly state that the petition shall be filed. The practice usually pursued is first to obtain the fiat of the Lieutenant-Governor under Rule 923, and then to file the original petition, with such fiat indorsed, in the proper office where the proceedings are to be carried on; and see Rules 929, 267.

Petition to be submitted to Lieutenant-Governor for his fiat.

923. The petition shall be left with the Provincial Secretary, in order that the same may be submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor for his consideration, and in order that the Lieutenant-Governor, if he thinks fit, may grant his fiat that right be done; and no fee or sum of money shall be payable by the suppliant therefor. Con. Rule 950.

The granting of the fiat mentioned in this Rule is an act of grace, and it would seem cannot be enforced by mandamus or any other method: see Clode, 115. The petition cannot be proceeded with until the fiat has been granted.

Proceedings after fiat is obtained.

924. A copy of the petition and fiat shall be left at the office of the Attorney-General, with an indorsement thereon according to Form No. 187, praying for an answer on behalf of [His] Majesty within 28 days. Con. Rule 951.

For Form No. 187, see H. & L. Forms No. 1577.

Service on person in possession of real property.

925. Where the petition is presented for the recovery of real or personal property, or any right in or to the same which has been granted or disposed of by or on behalf of [His] Majesty or [His] predecessors, a copy of the petition and fiat shall be served upon or left at the last or usual or last known place of abode of the person in the possession, occupation or enjoyment of the property or right, indorsed with a notice according to Form No. 188. Con. Rule 952.

For Form No. 188, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1578.

The persons in possession of the property in question, referred to in this Rule, are not to be made parties to the petition as respondents, but the petition is presumed to set out the facts relating to the possession, and they are to be served with the petition and notice as required by this Rule, and they are to be at liberty to appear and enter a defence and defend as if they were named as parties respondent to the petition: see Rule 924.

Scumble, a subject cannot properly be named as a respondent in a petition of right: see per Wickens, V. C., Kirk v. The Queen, L. R. 14 Eq. 558 at p. 563; sed vide, Kiebeck v. The Queen, W. N. 1882-1883; Ib., 1884, see. No provision is made by the Rules for bringing any third party before the Court in a petition of right except by the present Rule.

926. It shall not be necessary to issue any scire facias ^{Rules 926-928.} or other process to the person so served for the purpose of requiring him to appear and file his defence to the petition, but he shall, within the time limited, enter an appearance to the same according to Form No. 189, and shall file his defence to the petition within the time specified in such notice, or within such further time as may be allowed by the Court or a Judge. ^{Apparatus} Con. Rule 953.

For Form No. 189, see II. & L. Forms, No. 1570.

Formerly, in England, where land had been granted by the Crown to a third party, and it was sought to rescind the patent, as soon as a petition of right was presented a writ of scire facias issued from the Chancery, by which the Sheriff was required to give notice to the grantee to appear and shew cause why the letters patent should not be cancelled, and the grantee so summoned was entitled to make his defence, and the judgment of the Court in the sci. fa. proceedings virtually determined the petition of right, and when the letters patent were rescinded a writ of amoveas manus was awarded to put the applicant in possession; see Clode, p. 171.

Proceedings to rescind patents in Ontario may be brought by action in the nature of an information in the name of the Attorney-General against the grantee and persons claiming under him; see Ind. Act, sec. 26 (8); see Fonseca v. Atty.-General, 17 S. C. R. 612. But an action for that purpose may be entertained in certain cases, without joining the Attorney-General either as plaintiff or defendant; Martyn v. Kennedy, 4 Gr. 61; and see O'Riady v. McCaffrey, 2 Ont. 309, and supra, p. 24.

927. The time for filing a defence to the petition, ^{Time for pleading} on behalf of [His] Majesty, shall be the period of 28 days after the petition has been left as afore-said at the office of the said Attorney-General, or such further time as may be allowed by the Court or a Judge. Con. Rule 954.

928. The petition may be answered by statement of ^{Pleadings in answer to petition.} defence by or in the name of [His] Majesty's Attorney-General, on behalf of [His] Majesty, and by or on behalf of any other person who may be called upon to file his defence thereto, in the same manner as in an action, and without the necessity for any imputation finding the truth of such petition or the right of the suppliant, and any sufficient ground of defence in point of law or fact to the petition on behalf of [His] Majesty, may be alleged on behalf of any other person so called on to defend. Con. Rule 955.

Rule 929.

Rules of
etc.

929. So far as the same are applicable, and except in so far as is inconsistent with these Rules, the laws and statutes in force as to pleading, evidence, trial, security for costs, amendment, arbitration, special cases, the means of procuring and taking evidence, set off, appeal, and otherwise in actions and the rules, orders, practice and course of procedure therein for the time being, shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, be applicable to petitions of right. Con. Rule 956.

Arbitration.—As to arbitration, see Rule 647.

Special Cases.—As to special cases, see supra, pp. 351, 379.

Pleadings.—If no defence is filed within the time limited thereof the pleadings cannot be noted closed under Rule 263, but the petitioner may apply for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed: see Rule 930.

Amendment.—The petition may be amended at the trial: Smith v. The Queen, 27 Ont. App. 172.

Security for Costs.—The Crown may under this Rule apply for security for costs upon the same grounds as such applications may be made in ordinary actions: see Rules 1198, et seq. Where, however, the Crown had offered the suppliant, by its responsible Minister, $3,950 in settlement of his claim, which was declined, an application by the Crown for security for costs was refused: Wood v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 631; 13 C. L. J. 114. The Crown, however, cannot be required to give security for costs: per Bramwell, L.J., Tomlinson v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 252, at p. 254.

Discovery.—Nothing is expressly said in this Rule as to discovery, but the concluding part of the Rule seems to imply that the ordinary procedure in an action, except where expressly varied, may be followed. The English Act expressly provides that nothing in the Act shall be construed to give to the subject any remedy against the Crown in any case in which he would not have been entitled to such remedy before the Act: see Imp. St. 23 & 24 Vict. c. 34, s. 7. In England it is held that a suppliant is not entitled to discovery as against the Crown: Thomas v. The Queen, L. R. 10 Q. B. 44, and the same rule would seem to apply in Ontario: see Clode, 179. But the Crown is entitled to obtain discovery against the petitioner: Tomlinson v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 252; 40 L. T. 542. See also note supra, p. 1143.

Hearing.—The petition may be set down to be heard on motion for judgment: see Rules 609, 930. If, however, a defence is put in, the petition may have to be entered for trial as an ordinary action, but the petition must be tried by a Judge without a jury: see Rule 931. Where, however, a party notified under Rule 925 makes no defence, although the petitioner is entitled to have the petition heard pro confesso as against him, still if the petitioner fails to establish his case against the Crown, the petition must be dismissed altogether: see McDermott v. McDermott, 3 Chy. Ch. 38; Kinloch v. Secretary of State for India, W. N. 1884, 80.

930.—(1) In case of a failure on the behalf of [His] Majesty, or of any other person duly called upon to defend in due time, at any stage of the proceedings, the suppliant may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed; and the Court or Judge may order that such petition may be taken as confessed, as against [His] Majesty, or other party so making default; and in case of default on behalf of [His] Majesty, and any other person called upon as aforesaid to defend, judgment may be given by the Court in favour of the suppliant.

930-933.

In default of defence, etc., suppliant may take peti-
confesso.

(2) Such judgment may be set aside by the Court or a Judge, upon such terms as may seem just. Con. Rule 957.

The wording of this Rule is not very clear. The "failure" referred to in the first line would, from the context, appear to be a "failure" to put in a defence in proper time.

Although a subject making default in pleading is not entitled to further notice of the subsequent proceedings; see Rule 586, yet it would seem that the Crown ought to be notified of a motion for judgment, even though no defence has been filed: Clode, 183.

931. Any issue of fact or assessment of damages to be tried or had in respect of a petition of right, shall be tried or had by a Judge without a jury. Con. Rule 958.

Issues to be tried by a Judge without a jury.

It would seem that the Crown may if it pleases claim a trial at bar: see Rule 534, and see Clode, 170.

932. The judgment of the Court shall be that the suppliant is or is not entitled either to the whole or to some portion of the relief sought by his petition, or that such other relief may be given, and upon such terms and conditions (if any) as to the Court seems just. Con. Rule 959.

ment.

No execution can issue against the Crown upon any such judgment, but it would seem that any judgment for the payment of any money is to be certified to the Provincial Treasurer, as provided in the case of costs: see Rule 957.

933. In cases in which the judgment, commonly called a judgment of amoveas manus, was formerly in England pronounced upon a petition of right, a judgment that the suppliant is entitled to relief, as heretofore provided, shall have the same effect as a judgment of traverse manus. Con. Rule 960.

When
judgment to be equivalent to
manus.

A judgment of amoveas manus was formerly a judgment to the effect: "that His Majesty's hands be removed from the possession of the premises mentioned in the petition, and that the suppliant be restored to his possession thereof, together with the rents and profits thereof, which have not yet been answered to His Majesty, and (in case a lease has been made), that the said lease be void: see Clode, 1845; Tidd's Forms, p. 61, s. 42, and upon such judgment the suppliant was also entitled, if the property was in the actual possession of a grantee of the Crown, or Escheator, to a writ of ouster le mains, to turn out of possession the Crown's grantee or officer: see Clode, 185.

It is doubted whether under the English Act, s. 10, a writ of ouster le mains could now issue: see Clode, 190, but it would seem that if the judgment is to have the same effect as the former judgment of amoveas manus, any remedies which might formerly have been available to a suppliant under such judgment are equally available under a judgment under these Rules.

As pointed out in Clode, p. 190, the English Act makes no provision, neither do these Rules, for any mode of executing a judgment as against a third party served with the petition under Rule 925.

Neither is there any express provision for obtaining satisfaction of a judgment in favour of the suppliant for any money demand. It is probably assumed that the infallible justice of the Crown will satisfy such demands, on the judgment of the Court being duly certified to the proper officer: see infra, Rule 935.

Costs against suppliant.

934. The costs of all proceedings under Rules 922 to 936 shall be in the discretion of the Court or a Judge, and shall be recovered in the same way as in ordinary actions, save when costs are ordered to be paid by [His] Majesty. Con. Rule 961.

If judgment be for costs, etc., Judge to certify to Provincial Treasurer.

935. Upon any judgment or order for the payment of costs by [His] Majesty, the Judge may, upon application in behalf of the party entitled to costs, after the lapse of 14 days from the making, giving or affirming of the judgment or order, certify to the Provincial Treasurer according to Form No. 190; and such certificate may be sent to or left at the office of the Provincial Treasurer. Con. Rule 962.

For Form No. 190, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1580.

Proceedings under former practice.

936. Nothing in these Rules shall prevent a subject from proceeding by petition of right in any manner in which he might have proceeded before the 23rd day of April, 1887: nor shall anything in these Rules be construed as entitling a subject to proceed by petition of right in any case in which he would not be entitled so to proceed under the Acts passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom before the said date. Con. Rule 963.

The date mentioned in this Rule is that of the passing 50 Vict. c. 2 (O.), which provided for the R. S. O. 1887 coming into force.

1. PETITIONS.

The day to be named for the hearing of a petition to the Court or a Judge, must be one on which the Court, or Judge, sits for such business. Petitions to the Court are taken by a single Judge in Court on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Thursdays; and petitions to a Judge in Chambers on Tuesdays, or Fridays, vacations excepted. During vacation a special day is named in each week for hearing matters of urgency: see Rules 99 and 114.

A petition presented by a person not a party to the action should set out his residence and occupation: Hunter v. Mountjoy, 2 Chy. Ch. 90; Glazebrook v. Gillatt, 9 Beav. 492.

A petition need not be filed before the day of hearing, and a petition filed before it had been served, and in the prosecution of which delay had arisen, was ordered to be taken off the files for want of prosecution: Re Western Insurance Co., 6 P. R. 86. But a petition must be filed before any order made thereon can be issued; but where the original is lost or the petitioner refuses to deliver it to the respondent to file, a copy may be filed instead: Smith v. Harwood, 1 Sm. & G. 137; Sanderson v. Walker, 1 M. & Cr. 359; Re Hobler, 9 Jur. 419; Andrews v. Walton, 1 M. & Cr. 360.

The Court will sometimes on petition determine questions of conflicting rights, without putting the parties to an action: Re Hoffe's Estate Act, 8 L. T. 550; 1900, W. N. 114.

937. There shall be indorsed on every petition a notice addressed to the parties concerned, according to Form No. 70. Con. Rules 964, 784.

Rule 938.

2. ORIGINATING NOTICES.

Originating notices relating to trusts or questions of administration.

938. The executors or administrators of a deceased person or any of them, and the trustees under any deed or instrument or any of them, and any person claiming to be interested in the relief sought as creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin or heir-at-law of a deceased person, or as cestui que trust under the trusts of any deed or instrument, or as claiming by assignment or otherwise under any such creditor or other person as aforesaid, may serve a notice of motion returnable in cases under clauses (a), (b), (e), and (h), hereof before a Judge of the High Court sitting in Weekly Court, and in other cases before a Judge of the High Court in Chambers for such relief of the nature or kind following, as may be specified in the notice, and as the circumstances of the case may require; that is to say, the determination, without an administration of the estate or trust, of any of the following questions or matters:

- (a) Any question affecting the rights or interests of the person claiming to be creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin or heir-at-law, or cestui que trust;
- (b) The ascertainment of any class of creditors, legatees, devisees, next of kin, or others;
- (c) The furnishing of any particular accounts by the executors or administrators or trustees, and the vouching (where necessary) of such accounts;
- (d) The payment into Court of any money in the hands of the executors or administrators or trustees;
- (e) Directing the executors or administrators or trustees to do or abstain from doing any particular act in their character as such executors or administrators or trustees.
- (f) The approval of any sale, purchase, compromise or other transaction;
- (g) The opinion, advice or direction of a Judge pursuant to section 37 of The Act respecting Trustees and Executors and the Administration of Estates;

(h) The determination of any question arising in the administration of the estate or trust. New. As amended by Rule 1269 of 24 Dec., 1904. See Ont. Gaz., 31 Dec., 1904.

See Eng. (1883) R. 765.

In England the summary procedure in respect of the several matters mentioned in this Rule, is authorized to be taken by what is there called an originating summons.

By the English Rules it is provided that in certain cases an appearance must be entered to an originating summons as in an ordinary action commenced by writ: see Eng. R. 737 c.; in others an appearance is dispensed with: see Eng. R. 737 f.

As no provision is made by these Rules for any formal appearance, or for any special procedure, the practice to be followed is that upon an ordinary motion.

The persons to be served in the first place with the notice of motion are specified in Rule 1239, but other persons may, by direction of the Judge, be subsequently required to be served: see Rule 940.

A proceeding commenced under this Rule would appear to be an "action": see Ind. Act, s. 2 (3); Re Fawcett, 30 Ch. D. 231; Re Vardon, 31 Ch. D. 275; 75 L. J. Ch. 259.

Where there is only a question of law to be determined, it should be decided on the motion without putting the parties to the expense of another proceeding: Re Powers, 30 Ch. D. 296; Nobbs v. Lane Revivatory Int. Soc., 1896, 2 Ch. 830; 75 L. T. 309.

The construction of a will may be determined upon an application under this Rule, in cases where a Master in taking accounts and making inquiries in an administration proceeding, for the purpose of determining the matters referred to him, would have to place a construction upon the will: Re Sherlock, 18 P. R. 6. The construction of the will declared upon such an application is a sufficient protection to an executor: if he appeals, he does so at his own risk as to costs: Ib.

But questions beyond those which would arise in administration proceedings will not be entertained, thus it has been held that the Rule gives no jurisdiction, on the application of persons entitled under a devise of lands subject to a restraint on alienation, to determine whether the restraint is valid: Re Martin, 8 O. L. R. 618; nor whether a widow can sell without the consent of her children, under a devise to her with full power to dispose of part or the whole as she and the children may think wisest and best at any time: Re McDougall, 8 O. L. R. 640.

Where a plaintiff proceeds by writ in a case which could as well have been determined by an application under this Rule, he will be allowed costs only as of a motion under this Rule: Re Brown, 32 Ont. 323.

Clause (a)—As to determining a disputed debt, see Re Powers, 30 Ch. D. 291.

Rule 938. The following questions have been determined under the Rule, viz.:

A question as to whether the moneys payable under a policy of insurance were validly bequeathed to preferred beneficiaries under R. S. O. c. 203, s. 159, so as to be not subject to creditors' claims, was determined on the application of a creditor in Re Cheesbrough, 18 C. L. T. 23; see also Re Wrighton, 8 O. L. R. 630; Re Harkness, 8 O. L. R. 720; so also whether persons claiming as heirs and next of kin were entitled to any beneficial interest in the testator's estate: Re Lewis, 29 Ont. 609; Re Gardner, 3 O. L. R. 343; as to whether a devise is conditional: Re Deller, 6 O. L. R. 711. So also a question as to the person entitled to a legacy, where there was a misnomer of the legatee: Re Whitty, 30 Ont. 300; and whether a trust had arisen under a will: Re Evans, 3 O. L. R. 401; and whether a mortgage debt passed under a bequest of chattels: Re McMillan, 4 O. L. R. 415; and whether a devisee of a farm was entitled to specific performance of a covenant of the testator to build a house on the property devised: Re Murray, 4 O. L. R. 418.

Executors having no interest in the land devised would appear to have no locus standi to present a petition for the determination of questions affecting the construction of a will as to the disposition of land; e. g., where there is no devise in terms to them, and no caution registered, or where, if registered, it has expired: see In re Young, 38 C. L. J. 81.

Where one of the possible beneficiaries under a will had disappeared and had not been heard of for 24 years, an application by executors under this Rule against the personal representatives of such person was entertained to determine the right of such person: Neville v. Benjamin, 1902, 1 Ch. 723; 86 L. T. 387; and the personal representatives were authorized to distribute the share bequeathed to the beneficiary who had disappeared, in the absence of evidence to shew that he had survived the testator, after inquiry directed as to his whereabouts: Id.

Clause (c)—Where trustees have, without excuse, refused to render an account, they may be ordered to pay the costs of an application under this Rule, including the costs of vouching the account: Re Skinner, 1904, 1 Ch. 289.

Clause (d)—Payment into Court, etc.—Under the corresponding Eng. Rule it is only where money is actually in the hands of the executor, administrator, or trustee, belonging to the estate in question, that its payment into Court will be summarily ordered; the admission that he is indebted will not be sufficient: Nutter v. Holland, 1894, 2 Ch. 408; 71 L. T. 508.

Clause (e)—An application to sanction a provision for payment of annuities payable out of residue, and for distribution of the residuary estate after making such provision was entertained under this Rule: Re McIntyre, 3 O. L. R. 212.

The Court will not authorize the continuation of the business of a deceased person by his personal representatives, where that course is not authorized by his will, except so far as necessary to enable the business to be sold as a going concern: Re Brain, 9 O. L. R. 1.

Clause (f)—An application to sanction the raising of money by mortgage to pay debts of a testator cannot be made under this Rule, except in an administration proceeding: see Walley v. Robinson, W. Rule 938, N. 1884, 144; nor can a Judge order a sale: he can only approve of one which the trustees, or executors, or administrators, have power to make: Re Robinson, 31 Ch. D. 247; Nelson v. Bell, 32 Ont. 118.

A trustee has been authorized under this Rule to advance to a tenant for life part of the residuary personal estate for the purpose of stocking and cultivating a farm forming part of the real estate: Houschold v. Houschold, 27 Ch. D. 553.

Clause (g).—The persons, or one of the persons whose rights or interests are sought to be affected, must be notified of the application: Rule 939, (a); see also Re Harley's Estate, 17 P. R. 483.

Formerly the Court on a summary application for its opinion or advice, under the statute referred to, refused to declare the construction of a will or other instrument: In re Williams 1 Chy. Ch. 372; In re Hooper, 29 Beav. 656. The object of the statute, it was said, was to assist trustees and executors in the execution of their trusts, as to matters of discretion. But under the Eng. practice, cases for the construction of wills and originating summonses are of frequent occurrence: Re Elliot, Kelly v. Elliot, 1896, 2 Ch. 373; 75 L. T. 138; Re Lever, Coedice v. Lever, 1897, 1 Ch. 32; 75 L. T. 383; Re De Vallery, Leighton v. Leighton, 75 L. T. 328; Re Stephenson, Donahyson v. Bamber, 75 L. T. 495; but see Re Davies, 38 Ch. D. 210; In re Gray, 1896, 2 Ch. 802; In re Weeding, 1896, 2 Ch. 361.

Under this Rule the Court has determined whether executors have a power to sell land: Re Craeford, 4 O. L. R. 313; and the time when moneys payable under an insurance policy were payable to the beneficiaries: In re McKellar, 37 C. L. J. 103.

Also whether executors had power to take shares in a company into which it was proposed to convert a business in which the testator's estate was interested: In re Morrison, 1901, 1 Ch. 701; In re Strathy, 37 C. L. J. 399.

The Court will not under this Rule interfere with the discretion given to trustees by the terms of the trust, or say how it should be exercised: Re Sergeant, 8 O. L. R. 260.

Clause (h).—In England it is held that only matters which, before the Rule, could have been determined under a judgment for the administration of an estate, or the execution of a trust, can now be determined under the Rule. Questions as to a legal devise could not be so determined, and cannot now be determined under the Eng. Rule: Re Carlyon, 56 L. T. 151; 35 W. R. 155; Re Davies, 38 Ch. D. 210; Re Royle, 43 Ch. D. 18; Re Sherlock, 18 P. R. 6. Nor can questions affecting a person claiming adversely to the will or deed in question be so determined: Re Bridge, 56 L. J. Chy. 779; Re Gladstone, W. N. 1888, 185; Re Royle, supra, but it is too late to take such an objection to the jurisdiction of the Court upon an appeal: Re Turcan, 58 L. J. Chy. 101; but the Ontario Rule 938 is wider than the Eng. Rule: see clause (h), and was intended to save the expense of the administration of an estate or trust: Re Whitty, 30 Ont. 300; and see cases noted supra, under clause (a).

It is also held, in England, that where the application is founded on an alleged breach of trust, it cannot be maintained under the Eng. Rule except by consent, per Kekewich, J., Re Wale, 42 Ch. D. 674; 37 W. R. 779; Re Neil, 62 L. T. 649; per Lord Macnaghten, Doe v.

Rule 938. Gorton, 1891, A. C. p. 202; nor where wilful neglect and default is charged: Re Hooghe, W. N. 1893, 37. On an application under the Eng. Rule to determine whether a husband was entitled as tenant by the curtesy, a writ was ordered to be issued: Hope v. Hope, 1892, 2 Ch. 336.

The Court declined to determine, as a question of management of a trust property, whether the guardian of an infant appointed by the Surrogate Court was entitled to receive from trustees a fund held by trustees for an infant under an express trust, the Official Guardian opposing the claim: Re Mathers, 18 P. R. 13.

Questions Determined Upon Applications Under Clause (h).—That a deceased wife had been guilty of a breach of a covenant in her marriage settlement, and that the trustees were entitled to recover damages therefor against her executors: Re Purkin, 1892, 3 Ch. 520.

Which of the trustees under two different instruments was entitled to a trust estate on failure of the beneficiaries: Re Laskinor, 1891, 1 Ch. 258.

A dispute as to a debt, where the question was one of law, and there were no disputed facts: Re Powers, 30 L. J. D. 291.

Whether a power of appointment is valid: Re Hargreaves, 43 Ch. D. 401.

Whether a release is valid: Re Garnett, 50 L. T. 172; 32 W. R. 474; sed vide, Re Ellis, 50 L. T. 124, where it was held that a claim which involved the setting aside of a release could not be so determined.

The propriety of applying part of the corpus of a trust fund in the repair of real estate held on the same trusts as the fund: Conway v. Fenton, 40 Ch. D. 542; Re De Teissier, 1893, 1 Ch. 153; Re Montagu, 1897, 1 Ch. 685.

Whether a tenant for life is entitled to be let into possession: Re Neuen, 1894, 2 Ch. 207; and see Re Bagot, 1894, 1 Ch. 177.

On the application of the guardians of infants who were entitled to maintenance out of a fund in the hands of the executor of their father's will, the fund was ordered to be paid into Court though there was no imputation against the character or solvency of the executor: Re Humphries, Mortimer v. Humphries, 18 P. R. 283, and generally this will be done where the person holding the money is a mere trustee without discretion as to the application of the money: Whitwood v. Whitwood, 19 P. R. 183.

Whether a wife is entitled in equity to a settlement of a fund claimed to be set off against her husband's debt to the testator: Re Briant, 39 Ch. D. 471.

Whether the representatives of a deceased tenant for life were entitled to any part of the proceeds of the sale of a reversion, which was subject to the life tenancy, but which was not sold until after the decease of the tenant for life: Re Pitcairn, 1893, 2 Ch. 199.

Persons to be served—

939. The persons to be served with notice under the last preceding Rule in the first instance shall be the following, that is to say:

1. Where the notice is served by an executor or administrator or trustee, Rule 939.

1. Where notice served by executors, etc.

(a) For the determination of any question under clauses (a), (e), (f), (g) or (h) of Rule 938, the person or one of the persons whose rights or interests are sought to be affected;

(b) For the determination of any question under clause (b) of Rule 938, any member or alleged member of the class;

(c) For the determination of any question under clause (c) of Rule 938, any person interested in taking such accounts;

(d) For the determination of any question under clause (d) of Rule 938, any person interested in such money;

(e) If there are more than one executor or administrator or trustee, and they do not all concur in the service of the notice, those who do not concur.

2. Where the notice is served by any person other than the executors, administrators or trustees, the said executors, administrators or trustees. New.

2. Where served by some other person.

See the Eng. (1883) R. 767.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this Rule the Judge will not usually determine any question affecting the rights of other persons unless they are parties, or are properly represented on the application. The Court has no inherent jurisdiction to declare that the parties to an action sufficiently represent absent parties: see Re Bullen-Smith, 57 L. T. 924; S. C. 58 L. T. 578; Morgan's Brewery Co. v. Crosskill, 1902, 1 Ch. 898. An application may be entertained in the absence of a party: see Rule 202; but unless he is clearly represented in accordance with some Rule or statute, the absentee will not be bound by the adjudication unless he has subsequently, with notice of it, adopted and acted on it: see Re Lart, 1896, 2 Ch. 788; 75 L. T. 175; and see Uffner v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242.

An executor is not competent to present a petition for the construction of a devise of real estate, unless he represents the real estate: see In re Young, 38 C. L. J. 81.

For the purpose of binding absent parties by proceedings commenced under Rule 938, the provisions of Rules 200, 201, must be observed: see the notes to those Rules.

Although this Rule contemplates that the notice of motion shall, in the first instance, be served only on one, or some, of the persons whose rights are affected, yet it is not the practice of the Court to decide questions under the similar Eng. Rule unless all persons interested are either parties or sufficiently represented; on the first return of the motion therefor, the Judge will, probably, under Rule 940, give all necessary directions either for notifying the other persons interested, or for their representation on the application, so as to bind them by the order that may ultimately be made: see Re Gardiner, W. N. 1887, 59.

Service out of the Jurisdiction.—In England the Court cannot give leave to serve an originating summons out of the jurisdiction: Re Cliff, 1895, 2 Ch. 21. In Ontario, however, Rule 162 (3) would seem to apply to an originating notice under Rules 938 et seq.

An application for leave to serve it will have to be made under Rules 162 (3) and 163; semble, the order should limit the time at which the notice should be made returnable: Rule 164 (2).

Special directions as to service.

940. The Judge may direct such other persons to be served as may seem just. New.

(a) The Judge may also exercise the powers conferred upon the Court by Rules 200 and 201. Rule 1266, 19 June, 1904.

See the Eng. (1883) R. 768.

In England it is held that the third party procedure (see Rules 209-216), does not apply to proceedings commenced by originating summons: Re Wilson, 45 Ch. D. 266; 63 L. T. 100.

Clause (a) will enable an order to be made appointing some person to represent persons interested, who have not been served with notice of the motion. In the absence of any such order, persons who are not served, are not bound by the proceedings or by the order made: see Uffner v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242.

Summary judgment or order.

941. The Judge may summarily dispose of the questions arising on the application and make such judgment or order as the nature of the case may require, or may give such directions as he may think just for the trial of any questions arising upon the application. New.

Carriage and service of judgment or order.

942. Any special directions, touching the carriage or execution of the judgment or order or the service thereof upon persons not parties, may be given as may seem just. New.

See Eng. (1883) R. 771.

Interference with directions of trustees, etc.

943. Service of a notice under Rule 938, shall not interfere with, or control any power or discretion vested in any executor, administrator or trustee, except so far as such interference or control may necessarily be involved in the particular relief sought. New.

3. ADMINISTRATION.

944. Any person claiming to be a creditor, or a specific legatee, or residuary legatee, or the next of kin, or one of the next of kin, or the heir, or a devisee interested under the will of a deceased person may apply to the Court or a Judge upon motion, without an action being instituted, or any other preliminary proceeding, for judgment for the administration of the estate, real or personal, of such deceased person. Con. Rule 965.

Taken from Chy. O. 467.

It is settled that an inquiry as to wilful neglect and default may be made in all cases under an administration judgment granted on motion: Re Allen, Pocock v. Allen, 9 P. R. 277; 18 C. L. J. 242; Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354; Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500; 19 C. L. J. 234; and that the executor may be charged with a devastavit arising on the account: Re Sterens, Cook v. Sterens, 1897, 1 Ch. 422; and it would seem that any breach of duty which is practically a matter of account, may be effectually inquired into, and dealt with, under a judgment obtained under this Rule. Where, however, there is any question, to be determined, before a judgment for administration can properly be pronounced, an action should be commenced by writ. Thus it was held that a bill must be filed where the construction of a will was necessary: Heywood v. Siverwright, 8 P. R. 79; Franks v. Worth, 35 W. R. 663; 56 L. J. Chy. 719; Carlton v. Carlton, 35 W. R. 155; 56 L. T. 151; where the claim was for support of the wife and children of deceased, raising substantially the same question as would be raised in an alimony suit: Re Foster, Griffith v. Patterson, 20 Gr. 345; Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298; where the claim rose out of a contract of suretyship: Re Collon, 8 P. R. 542; see also Re Allen, 9 P. R. 277; and Re Arcdeckne, 53 L. J. Chy. 102; or where the executor is charged with misconduct: Re Babcock, 8 Gr. 409, that is, misconduct which would entitle the plaintiff to apply at the outset for an injunction or a receiver: Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500; not misconduct consisting merely in not having accounted for moneys received, and which would be shewn upon the taking of accounts: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565; Re McMullan, 8 C. L. J. 285; Re Bagwell, Anderson v. Henderson, 17 P. R. 100; where the plaintiff claimed to be a creditor, and his claim appeared to be barred by the Statute of Limitations, but he claimed to avoid the operation of the Statute, on the ground of fraud on the part of the testator: Re McDonald, Camecon v. McDonald, 2 Chy. Ch. 29; and where a legatee claimed administration and it appeared that an award had been made respecting the applicant's claim, but the applicant denied being party to the reference: Nudell v. Elliot, 1 Chy. Ch. 326; and see Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298; and Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112. In Barry v. Brazill, 1 Chy. Ch. 248, special inquiries as to what would be proper to be allowed to the applicant (the widow and administratrix) for improvements made on the property, and for the maintenance of the infant children of deceased were refused, and the applicant was left to file a bill. But where Rule 944 the facts are not in dispute, and there is only a question of law as to the right of the applicant to sue, it would seem that such a point would be decided on a motion without putting the parties to the necessity of bringing an action: Re Powers, Lindell v. Phillips, 30 Ch. D. 291; and it is possible that under the enlarged powers conferred by Rule 938, it may hereafter be held that same cases which, under the above decisions, were held to be necessary to be commenced by writ would now be entertained on motion under Rule 938.

Where the application is made on motion, in a case in which the Court is of opinion that a writ should be issued, an order is usually made giving the applicant a day to commence his action, in default, the motion to be dismissed, but if the action be commenced, reserving the costs of the motion until the trial of the action: Re McDonald, Cameron v. McDonald, supra. But where the plaintiff commences an action, instead of applying on motion, where the latter course is proper, he will be disallowed the extra costs occasioned thereby: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; or, if it is not clear that the action was unnecessary, the question of the additional costs will be reserved until after the Master has made his report: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565.

Where proceedings are unnecessary. And where a creditor brings an administration suit, after being informed that there are no assets applicable to the payment of his claim, if the information appears by the result to be substantially correct, he may have to pay the costs of the suit: The City Bank v. Scatterd, 18 Gr. 185; and so also a next of kin, or residuary legatee, unnecessarily bringing an action, may be ordered to pay the costs of it: see Parsill v. Kennedy, 22 Gr. 417; Re Woodhall, 2 Ont. 456; so also a trustee: Re Cabburn, 46 L. T. 848.

A suit unnecessarily brought by a residuary legatee claiming, but failing to establish himself, to be a creditor, was on further directions dismissed with costs: Re Johnston, 25 Gr. 261; and see Re Woodhall, 2 Ont. 456; and a residuary legatee of money and stocks, subject to a prior estate for life, is not entitled, as of course, to have the property brought into Court to be administered; and where the fund is invested in the names of proper trustees, and in proper securities, the Court will refuse to interfere: Re Brothwaite, 21 Ch. D. 121; 48 L. T. 857.

The extra costs of bringing an action where a summary application would have sufficed were disallowed between solicitor and client: Re Allenby & Heir, 13 P. R. 404; 14 P. R. 227.

The right of a judgment creditor of a legatee or devisee under a will, to bring an action for administration of the testator's estate under this Rule was formerly denied: see Gilbert v. Jarvis, 16 Gr. 265; Blake v. Jarvis, 16 Gr. 235; 17 Gr. 201; but see now Mones v. McCallum, 17 P. R. 102, 398.

Parties.—The provisions of Rules 193, 203, apply to proceedings under this Rule. All parties from whom an account is sought, should be served with notice: see Rule 203 note.

Personal Representative.—The personal representative must always be notified where the application is made by any creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin, or heir.

Where he makes the application himself he may sometimes do so ex parte; see Rule 950, and note.

Personal representatives of deceased legatee may apply.

There appears to be some conflict of authority as to whether a Rule 944 deficiency of assets, for the payment of debts, is a sufficient ground for the personal representative to apply to the Court for administration: see cases infra, in note to Rule 950, p. 1186.

The personal representative is entitled to bring a suit for administration in order to obtain an indemnity in respect to leasehold estates: Re Bosworth, 45 L. T. 130; but he has no right to institute a suit for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392; Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; and he may be refused his costs of a suit if unnecessarily brought: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 318; Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 631; but see Furcar v. Austen, 18 Ch. D. 58; 45 L. T. 227; Re McClellan, 20 Ch. D. 495; 52 L. T. 711; or he may be ordered to pay the costs of the suit: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; Re Diacen, before Boyd, C., 13th May, 1884; or the costs of a suit brought by a creditor or legatee, rendered necessary by the action of the executor: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271; Re Radcliffe, 44 L. T. 96; 50 L. J. Ch. 317; Killian v. Killian, 20 Gr. 472. An application was held to be proper where one of the legatees was absent from the Province and the executor had taken proper steps to find him, and could not get a discharge without coming to the Court: Re Wade, 18 Gr. 485. So also executors have been charged with so much of the costs of the reference as were incurred in establishing charges against them which they disputed: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 311; Bald v. Thompson, 17 Gr. 151; and see Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 433. But an executor may be allowed his costs though he has committed a breach of trust, if the estate has suffered no loss: Ward v. Gable, 8 Gr. 458. But a personal representative in default was held not entitled to costs until he had made good his default: Re Basham, 23 Ch. D. 195; 48 L. T. 470; McEwan v. Croucher, 25 Ch. D. 175; 49 L. T. 490. In Tekbs v. Carpenter, 1 Mail. 290, it was laid down that if the suit would have been proper, and the executor a necessary party, if the executor had not misconducted himself, he ought not to pay all the costs of the suit, though in the course of the suit it appears that he has misconducted himself; but if the misconduct of the executor was the sole occasion of the suit, he ought then to pay the costs. This rule was approved in Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 321; and Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1; but see remarks in the latter case at p. 9.

Applications under this Rule are made in Chambers; Rule 306; if however, the motion is contested, the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers is excluded, and the motion must be adjourned before a Judge in Chambers; see Rule 42.

Applications by adults may be made for the like purpose to the Local Master having jurisdiction in the county where the deceased resided: Rule 947. A Local Master's jurisdiction is ousted by the motion being opposed, and in that event it must be adjourned before a Judge of the High Court in Chambers: Id.

Where an administration judgment is made in Chambers, the reference should prima facie be to the Master of the County in which the person, whose estate is to be administered, resided: Thompson v. Fairclain, 10 P. R. 535; Armstrong v. Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55.

Rule 945 provides that fourteen clear days' notice of the motion must be given. Motions for administration, therefore, constitute an exception to ordinary motions, which only require two clear days' notice: Rule 348; and see Exchange Bank v. Newell, 19 C. L. J. 253.

Suit to obtain indemnity against covenants in lease.

Personal rep., when entitled to costs.

May be ordered to pay costs of unnecessary suit, or of suit rendered necessary by his misconduct.

Rule 944

Application for adminis-
creditors.

Creditors.—A creditor whose debt is payable may make application for administration of his deceased debtor's estate, without waiting a year from his decease. To an application by a creditor for the administration of the personal estate, no one but the personal representative, and any person interested who are infants (see Rule 948), need be made defendants. Where an administration of the realty is also sought, some one must be made a party who is interested in the realty; Rule 951. Under the Devolution of Estates Act, the personal representative sufficiently represents, for the purpose of an application under this Rule, both the real and personal estate of all persons dying since 1st July, 1886, and it is not proper to make the heirs or devisees of such persons parties unless the estate has become vested in them under R. S. O. c. 127, s. 13; see vide Janson v. Clyde, 31 Ont. 570, per Boyd, C., p. 586; but the beneficiaries must be served with the judgment under Rule 203 (3). Where the letters of administration are limited to the personality, it will be necessary to get letters of administration as to the realty, in order to obtain proper representation of the realty.

Personal representative must be served.

Where the realty has become divested from the personal representative by reason of the omission to file a caution, he ceases to represent it; and it remains liable to administration in the hands of the devisee or heir; see 2 Ed. vii, c. 1, ss. 4, 5.

If more than one all must be served

Where there are several personal representatives all must be served, even though some be resident out of the jurisdiction; Re Frechorn, Frechorn v. Curcoll, 3 P. R. 188; Latch v. Latch, L. R. 10 Eq. 461.

Executor
de son tort

A judgment for administration could not formerly be granted as against an executor de son tort where there was no legal personal representative before the Court; Russell v. Morris, 17 Eq. 10. Nor against an executor named in the will who had not proved the will; Ontrom v. Wyckhoff, 6 P. R. 150; Re Cotton, 8 P. R. 542; but see now Rule 196, as to actions against an executor de son tort; notwithstanding Rule 196, where the action is brought against an executor de son tort, it would seem to be the better practice to commence it by writ, and not under Rules 944, 947. See further as to parties, Rule 203, note.

Evidence required on application. Proof of grant of probate, or administration.

On the motion, the applicant, must be prepared with proof that the defendant is the personal representative; ordinarily, the letters of administration, or letters probate should be produced; Re Marshall, Foster v. Marshall, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Re Israel, 2 Chy. Ch. 392. But where the plaintiff swore that the defendant was administrator, and the fact was not disputed, production of the letters was dispensed with; Re Bell, Bell v. Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 397. It is sufficient if the letters of administration be granted at any time before the hearing of the motion, even though subsequent to the giving of the notice; Edinburgh Life Assurance Company v. Allen, 19 Gr. 593; Re Masonic & G. L. A. Co., 32 Ch. D. 373; Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433; Dini v. Fauquier, 8 O. L. R. 712; Doyle v. Diamond Flint Glass Co., Ltd., 461. It has been held that letters of administration obtained pendente lite will not relate back to the commencement of the action so as to bar the running of the Statute of Limitations; Chard v. Rae, 18 Ont. 371; but doubt seems to be thrown upon this decision by Dini v. Fauquier, supra; see 40 C. L. J., 836. Where the motion was based on the ground that the personal representative was not a party, only the costs necessary to raise that objection were allowed; Irvine v. Buck, 6 P. R. 181. The creditor applying must also give prima facie evidence of his claim as creditor; Re Clarke, 2 Chy. Ch. 57; and where his claim is disputed, he must establish it by proper evi-

denial = his own uncorroborated evidence is insufficient: Viriam v. West, 40 Gr. 461; Re Finch, 23 Ch. D. 267; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; see R. S. O. c. 73, s. 10; and as to the nature of corroboration required: Stoddart v. Stoddart, 30 U. C. Q. B. 207; Sagden v. Lord St., 10 Gr. 12; Leonard, 1 P. D. 151, 170; McDonald v. McKinnon, 26 Gr. 12; McKay v. McKay, 31 C. P. 1; Adamson v. Adamson, 28 Gr. 228; Brown v. Capron, 24 Gr. 91; Hallevan v. Maun, 28 Gr. 310; Re Laus, Laus v. Laus, Id., 382; Re Robbins, 23 Gr. 162; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; 18 C. L. J. 11; Parker v. Parker, 32 C. P. 113, approved in Radford v. Macdonald, 8 Ont. App. 167; Watson v. Severn, 6 Ont. App. 550; Watson v. B. Shaw, Id., 436; Cook v. Grant, 32 C. P. 511; Re Murray, 29 Gr. 1; 9 Ont. App. 360; Bach v. Bach, 8 Ont. App. 237; Tucker v. McMahon, 11 Ont. 718; Hogg v. Haggie, 11 Ont. App. 507; Davis v. Walker, 5 O. L. R. 173; Thompson v. Coulter, 34 S. C. R. 261; Re Curry, 32 Ont. 150; Re Jelly, Union Trust Co. v. Hanson, 6 O. L. R. 481; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 5 O. W. R. 10. The corroboration may be furnished by production and comparison of the land writing of deceased: Thompson v. Thong, 1 O. L. R. 412. It is sufficient if the corroboration is in some material facts, but it is not necessary that the whole of the facts should be established by independent testimony: Radford v. Macdonald, supra.

Where there is corroborative evidence as to the debt, interest thereon may be allowed without any corroborative proof of an agreement to pay interest: Seear v. Gray, 3 O. L. R. 34.

An interested party (e.g., a cestui que trust) may give corroborative evidence of a claim: Balzold v. Upper, 4 O. L. R. 116.

No corroboration is necessary as to claims against the estate of a deceased person arising after his death: McCloughan v. Perkins, 5 O. L. R. 129.

An annuitant whose annuity is payable under a covenant made by a testator is not entitled to apply for administration of the testator's estate so long as the annuity is not in arrear, even though the estate be deficient: Re Hargreaves, Dicks v. Hargreaves, 44 Ch. D. 236; 42 L. T. 819.

A partnership creditor suing for the administration of the estate of a deceased partner must join the surviving partner as a party, even though he is insolvent: Re McCrae, Furster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 49 L. T. 544.

Where the applicant was merely a creditor of the personal representative for advances made to him as such, the application was refused: Campbell v. Bell, 16 Gr. 115; Farkall v. Farkall, L. R. 7 Chy. 123; Re Potter, 6 P. R. 157; Green v. Delmarre, L. R. 15 Eq. 134; Evans v. Stecca, 18 Gr. 35; Seton, 5th ed., 1315; and see Henry v. Sharp, 18 Gr. 16. Creditors whose debts are incurred by the executor, in carrying on a business of his testator are entitled to indemnity out of the deceased's estate to the extent, if any, to which the executor is entitled: Re Johnson, Shearman v. Robinson, 15 Ch. D. 548; 43 L. T. 372; and where the business of the testator was carried on by his executors in accordance with his will, creditors of the business were entitled to apply for the administration of the estate although there were no unpaid creditors of the testator himself: Re Shorey, 70 L. T. 349; Re Bach, W. N. 1892, 108; and a plaintiff, who had made advances to pay the debts of a deceased person, to save the estate the costs of suits to recover them, was held entitled to administration: Glass v. Mausea, 32 Gr. 77; see also Hills v. Cattle, 17 Gr. 335; Strickland v. Symons, 48 L. T. 188, which were cases of advances to trustees.

Effect of judgment
for administration as to claims of other creditors.

A judgment for administration cannot be set aside on the ground that the applicant was not a creditor, after other creditors have proved under it: Re Cannon, Gates v. Cannon, 13 Ont. 70.

Where the personal representative has duly advertised for creditors under R. S. O. c. 129, s. 38, and has distributed the estate, that is an answer to a subsequent application for administration by a creditor who has failed to send in his claim: Re Bracken, Doughty v. Tanner, 61 L. T. 531; unless it can be prima facie shown that on a proper accounting the personal representative has still assets applicable to the payment of the applicant's claim.

A judgment for administration, is equivalent to a judgment in favour of all the creditors of the estate, but creditors who are not parties to the action can only claim the benefit of it from its date; as to the claims of the latter, the running of the Statute of Limitations is not stopped until the judgment is obtained: Re Cannon, 13 Ont. 705; Re Greaves, 18 Ch. D. 551; 45 L. T. 464; Manby v. Manby, 3 Ch. D. 101; but see Crooks v. Crooks, 4 Gr. at p. 619. The judgment, however, does not prevent the Statute from running in favour of debtors to the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 Ont. 615; 14 Ont. App. 723; and a judgment for the administration of the estate of the owner of the equity of redemption, does not stop the running of the Statute in favour of a mortgagee in possession: Crooks v. Watkins, 8 Gr. 340.

An application by a partnership creditor was refused, where it was shewn that the separate estate of the deceased was insufficient to pay his separate creditors: Re Barnard, Edwards v. Barnard, 32 Ch. D. 447; 55 L. T. 40. In Armstrong v. Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55, the plaintiff being out of the jurisdiction, and his probable interest in the estate appearing to be $273, he was absolved from giving security for costs, he agreeing that his share in the estate should be charged with any costs he might be ordered to pay.

Limitations.

Statute of Limitations.—A judgment for administration of the estate of a deceased person operates as from its date, not merely in favour of a creditor but in favour also of the estate, i.e., of the personal representative and other creditors, when the estate is insolvent, in regard to a set-off against the creditor's demand, and the judgment prevents the further running of the statute (21 Jac. 1, s. 16), against the set-off: Re Ballard, 88 L. T. Jour. 379. The judgment also enures to the benefit of residuary legatees, and makes a fresh starting point in their favour against the running of the Statute of Limitations: Uffner v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242.

The personal representative is not bound to set up the Statute of Limitations as a bar to a creditor's claim: Lewis v. Rumney, L. R. 4 Eq. 451; and if the personal representative, and such of the parties beneficially interested as are parties to the suit, or who have come in under the judgment, do not set up the Statute, the Court is not bound, on behalf of absent parties beneficially interested, to disallow claims against the estate which are barred by the Statute: Alston v. Trollope, L. R. 2 Eq. 205. But although the personal representative may refuse to set up the Statute as against the claim of a creditor of the estate, yet any party interested in the estate, whether as creditor, legatee, or next of kin, may set it up as a bar to the claim: Shewan v. Vanderhorst, 1 R. & M. 352; Re Wenham, Hunt v. Wenham, 1892, 3 Ch. 59; 67 L. T. 648; and after a judicial decision that a claim is barred by the Statute of Limitations, if the personal representative pay the claim, it will be a devastavit: Midgley v. Midg- ley, 1893, 3 Ch. 282; 69 L. T. 241. But a trustee or executor cannot be compelled by a beneficiary to set up the Statute of Limitations as a bar to any debt which the trustee or executor has himself incurred, and for which the estate is liable: Budgett v. Budgett, 1895, 1 Ch. 202; 71 L. T. 632. Rule 944.

Though a personal representative may pay, or retain, debts barred by the Statute, though otherwise justly due, he cannot properly pay, or retain, a debt due under a promise which cannot be enforced by reason of its not being in writing under the Statute of Frauds: Re Rowson, Field v. White, 29 Ch. D. 358; 52 L. T. 825.

Where a cause of action accrues in the lifetime of the creditor, the Statute begins to run against him, and continues to run against his estate, notwithstanding there is no executor, or administratrix thereof; but where the cause of action does not accrue until after his death, then the time does not begin to run until there is a personal representative: Grant v. McDonald, 8 Gr. 468; Stevenson v. Hodder, 15 Gr. 570. A claim cannot be kept alive by any acknowledgment, or payment, by an executor de son tort: Id., Boatwright v. Boatwright, L. R. 17 Eq. 71, and see Ellis v. Ellis, 1905, 1 Ch. 613.

A personal claim barred as to personal estate by the six years limitation may be preserved by a charge of debts on land as against real estate, so as to become liable to be barred only after ten years: Re Stephens, Warburton v. Stephens, 4 Ch. D. 39; R. S. O. c. 133, s. 23, and see Barnes v. Glenton, 1898, 2 Q. B. 223; 1899 1 Q. B. 885; 80 L. T. 606.

Where a contract for payment of money at a future time provides that in default of payment of interest for 21 days, at any time, the principal may be called in, the Statute will begin to run as against the principal money from the time when it might have been first called in under such provision, where there has been no subsequent payment: Reeves v. Butcher, 1891, 2 Q. B. 509; 65 L. T. 329.

A personal representative cannot set up his own devastavit and claim that the Statute of Limitations bars any claim against him by reason of such devastavit; but if he is sued for a devastavit, he may rely on the Statute as a bar: Re Hyatt, Bowles v. Hyatt, 38 Ch. D. 609; 59 L. T. 297.

Staying Proceedings.—As to staying a creditor's action when an administration judgment has been granted, see Re Langtry, 18 Gr. 530; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; Bailey v. Monteith, 3 C. L. T. 500; Henderson v. Maxwell, 19 L. R. 1r. 225; Monteith v. Merchants Bank, 4 C. L. T. 41; Harrison v. Stubb, W. N. 1878, 79; Re Tims, W. N. 1878, 141; and see Doner v. Ross, in note to Rule 950; and as to staying proceeding on the administration judgment, see Rule 955 (b). Staying creditor's action after administration.

In Re Womersley, 29 Ch. D. 557, the Court refused to restrain a creditor who had recovered judgment previously to the administration order, from proceeding against the executor personally.

Proceedings by a creditor may be stayed on the application of any person interested in the estate, on payment of his claim and costs: Fitten v. Dawson, 3 Chy. Ch. 461; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; 15 C. L. J. 132.

Where some defendants in an administration action by a creditor offered to satisfy the plaintiff's claim and the costs of the action, the Court refused to stay proceedings unless the rights of an infant defendant were provided for: Clegg v. Clegg, 17 L. R. 1r. 118.

Rule 944.

After judgment for administration, a creditor cannot, in an action for trespass brought against him by the personal representative, counter-claim for a debt due by the deceased to him: Monteith v. Walsh, 10 P. R. 162; 20 C. L. J. 71.

Applications for administration by legatees, or next of kin, cannot be made until lapse of a year from death.

Legatees, Next of Kin, etc.—Applications by legatees, or next of kin, for administration cannot be made until the lapse of a year from the death of the deceased: see R. S. O. c. 335, s. 4; Slater v. Slater, 3 Chy. Ch. 1; Fixian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211; but see contra, Wallis v. Wallis, 9 Ir. Chy. 511; Prosser v. Mossop, 29 W. R. 439, which were not followed in Re Morley, Tucker v. Morley, September, 1882, by Proudfoot, J. When the action is brought unnecessarily, the legatee may be ordered to pay the costs of all parties; Re Woodhall, Garbutt v. Hewson, 2 Ont. 456. Whenever a legatee, if alive, may apply, his personal representative, in case of his death, may also apply: Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1. As to parties to an application by legatees, see Rule 203, and note supra, p. 364. The fact that legatees applying for an administration judgment dispute the claim of the personal representative to be a creditor of the estate is no ground for refusing the application: Re Bagwell, Anderson v. Henderson, 17 P. R. 100.

Where a legatee is a debtor to the estate, the personal representative may set off the debt against his legacy pro tanto, notwithstanding that the debt may be barred by the Statute of Limitations: In re Taylor, Taylor v. Wade, 1894, 1 Ch. 671; 70 L. T. 556; 8 R. 186.

Where land is devised subject to the payment of an annuity, so long as the annuity is promptly paid the annuitant cannot claim to have the land sold: Re Potter, 50 L. T. 8; and where a will creates a life estate in chattels, the executor is discharged when he hands over the chattels to the tenant for life: the latter, and not the executor, then becomes liable to the remainderman: Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112.

Administration was refused on the application of a legatee whose claim, including interest on his legacy, only amounted to $28, notwithstanding that it was alleged that other legacies remained unpaid, which amounted to a considerable amount: Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627; and see Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 261.

The fact that the estate was small, and that no misconduct was imputed to the executors, and that it was inadvisable to incur expense, was held to be no ground for refusing the application of a legatee for administration: Re Falconer, 1 Chy. Ch. 273. Where, however, the executor swore that the personal estate did not exceed $50, the Court, before granting the order, required the applicant, who was one of the residuary legatees, to file an affidavit stating that he had reason to believe, and did believe, that the result of the proceedings would shew a substantial balance to be divided among the legatees: Foster v. Foster, 19 Gr. 463; and see Westbrook v. Browett, 17 Gr. 339; Shaw v. Freedy, 8 C. L. J. 136; Gilbert v. Braithwaite, 3 Chy. Ch. 413.

Infants.—An application for administration under this Rule may probably still be made on behalf of an infant by his next friend: see formerly Re Hill, 10 C. L. T. 87; but see Rule 948 and note, which perhaps, however, applies only to applications under Rule 947. It has been granted on the mere suggestion that it would be for the infant's benefit: Re Wilson, Lloyd v. Tichborne, 9 P. R. 89; but where the ground of motion was that strangers had got possession of most of the estate, an order was refused, there being no allegation that the executor refused to account, or was colluding, and the Court thought he ought to apply for the order if it were necessary: Re Dearing, Mitchell v. Dearing, 12th June, 1882, Proudfoot, J.; see also Re Blake, 20 Ch. D. 913. Rules 945, 946.

An administration suit should not be instituted on behalf of infants, where the object is simply to obtain an allowance for their maintenance out of the estate, which can be as readily got by application under Rule 960, et seq.: Feurick v. Feurick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, Ib., 425.

Where the guardian ad litem of an infant defendant had made no objection to the unnecessary proceedings, no costs were given either to the executors or the guardian, of such proceedings: Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 664.

Where the estate in question is small, a suit for administration should not be brought until all reasonable means of avoiding the suit have been exhausted; and where a next friend of an infant brought a suit for administration, without having taken steps to avoid litigation, and the suit afterwards appeared to have been unnecessary, he was ordered to pay the costs of the suit: Hutchinson v. Sargent, 17 Gr. 8; McAndrew v. Laflamme, 19 Gr. 193; Moodie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 357; and see Re Johnston, 25 Gr. 261; Carroll v. Carroll, 23 Gr. 438; Re Blake, 20 Ch. D. 913. Administration, when estate of trifling amount.

945. The notice of motion shall be served upon all necessary parties, including the executor or administrator, 14 clear days before the day named for hearing the application, and shall be according to Form No. 59. Con. Rule 966. 14 days' notice of motion.
Form of notice.

For Form No. 59, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1327.

Where the administration of the realty is sought, notice must be given to the heirs, or devisees, or one or more of them: Rule 951; unless under The Devolution of Estates Act the personal representative also represents the realty: see supra, p. 1188; Tausen v. Clyde, 31 Out. 579; adult next of kin and legatees need not be served with the notice of the motion, but they must be served with an office copy of the judgment, as prescribed by Rule 263 (3); see note to that Rule; but infant heirs, devisees, next of kin or legatees, must be made parties to the application before judgment: see Rule 948. Heir or devisee, when to be served.

Where infants are to be served with notice of the motion, a guardian ad litem must be appointed to them. This is effected by serving the Official Guardian ad litem with the notice of motion: see Rule 152; only one copy of the notice of motion need be served on him, no matter how many infant defendants there may be. Guardian ad litem to infant defendants, how to be appointed.

946.—(1) Upon proof of service of the notice of motion, or on the appearance in person, or by his solicitor or counsel of the executor or administrator, and such other necessary parties, if any, and upon proof by affidavit of such other matter, if any, as may be required, the Court or Judge may Upon proof of service of notice or on appearance of personal representative, etc., and Rule 947. award judgment for the administration of the estate of the deceased. Con. Rule 967.

 administration may be granted.

(2) The judgment may be according to the Forms 156 or 157, as may be necessary. New.

See Chy. O. 469.

For Forms 156 and 157, see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 838 and 839.

The affidavit on which the application is founded should be filed with the proper officer, before the notice of motion is served.

Evidence in support, how obtained.

The affidavits should establish the facts and circumstances necessary to entitle the applicant to the administration. As to obtaining oral evidence in support of the motion, see Rules 490-492; see further as to evidence required, Rule 944, note, supra p. 1188. A commission may be issued after notice of motion served, for the purpose of obtaining evidence in support of the motion: Farrell v. Cruickshank, 1 Chy. Ch. 12. The award of judgment for administration is not in all cases ex debito justitiæ, but is in some cases discretionary; and where no good result is likely to accrue, judgment may be refused: In re Ryan, 32 Ont. 224, and see Rule 954.

 istration.

The judgment is to be drawn up and entered, as required in the case of other judgments: see Rule 635. Where any preliminary question has to be determined, as has been already pointed out, the Court will generally require an action to be brought: see Rule 944, note, supra, p. 1185.

The reference should be prima facie directed to the Master of the county where the person whose estate is to be administered resided: Thompson v. Fairbairn, 10 P. R. 533; Armstrong v. Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55.

Adult person may apply to Local Master for administration of deceased
 estate.

947.—(1) An adult person entitled to apply, under Rules 944 to 950, for a judgment for administration may apply to the Master in the County town of the County (other than the County of York) where the deceased person, whose estate is to be administered resided at the time of his death; and the Master may, subject to Rules 945, 946, 948, 949 and 951, award judgment for administration according to Form 156. Con. Rule 972.

Opposed motions to come before a Judge.

(2) A Local Master shall not entertain the motion for judgment where the same is opposed, but the same shall be adjourned to come before a Judge of the High Court in Chambers. New.

Master can not entertain appli-
 infants.

The jurisdiction of the Local Masters under this Rule is confined to applications made by adult persons: where an administration of an estate is sought on behalf of an infant, or where the person whose estate is to be administered died in the County of York, the application must be made in Chambers at Osgoode Hall under Rules 944-946; Re Hill, Hawse v. Hawse, 10 C. L. T. 87; or in some cases

It may be necessary to commence an action by writ for that purpose. Rules 948, 949.
 Where the application is made by persons claiming as creditors, or as specific, pecuniary, or residuary legatees, or next of kin, notice must be served on the personal representative of the deceased person whose estate is sought to be administered; and where an administration of the realty is required, unless the applicant himself be entitled to some interest therein, some one or more of the heirs or devisees interested therein, must be served with notice of the application, unless under The Devolution of Estates Act the personal representative sufficiently represents the estate: Rule 951; and see supra, p. 1188; where infants are interested they must in all cases be notified by service of the notice of motion on the Official Guardian ad litem: see Rules 948, 152.

Personal representative, when to be served

Where the application is opposed it must be adjourned to come before a Judge, and the Judge may direct an action to be brought by writ: see Re Underhill, 33 C. L. J. 40; 17 C. L. T. 9.

As to who may apply, and the persons to be served, and evidence required on the application, see notes to Rule 944.

For form of judgment on applications under this Rule, see Form No. 156 (H. & L. Forms, No. 838).

The judgment must be entered in the same way as a judgment in an action: Rule 635.

948. A judgment for the administration of an estate in which an infant is interested shall not be made until the infant is represented by the Official Guardian. Rules 13 Sept., 1890, 1910.

Representation of infants.

This Rule extends to all cases of administration either of real or personal estate, or of both.

The Official Guardian ad litem must be served with the notice of motion: Rule 152, and only one copy thereof need be served, no matter how many infant parties there may be. The notice of motion should, of course, be directed to the several infants interested, by name.

949. Special directions touching the carriage or execution of the judgment may be given as may be deemed expedient; and in case of applications by two or more persons, or classes of persons, judgment may be granted to one or more of the claimants as may seem just; the carriage of the judgment may be subsequently given to other persons interested. Con. Rule 968.

Special directions may be given respecting carriage of order, etc. Carriage of order may be subsequently changed.

Taken from Chy. O. 470.

Where two or more applications are made by different persons under this Rule, only one judgment for administration should be granted; and the Court may, determine which of the applicants shall have the carriage of it, the rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Re Draggan, 8 P. R.

Several applications - only one judgment should be granted.

Rule 950. 330; Re Prime, 48 L. T. 208; Penny v. Francis, 7 Jur. N. S. 248; but see Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. 437. The conduct was given to the first applicant in Re West, West v. Falkiner, 7 C. L. T. 85. The carriage of the judgment may be changed in case of delay: Patterson v. Scott, 4 Gr. 145; and see Rules 657, 663, and notes. As between a separate creditor and a partnership creditor of the person whose estate is to be administered, the conduct of the proceedings is given to the former: Re Meftac, Foster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 48 L. T. 544.

The conduct of the reference under a judgment obtained by a personal representative may, for good cause, be transferred to a beneficiary named as a defendant, although not actually served with notice of the application on which the judgment was pronounced: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69.

An acceding party should not, as a rule, have the carriage of the proceedings, especially where there is a competition between him and beneficiaries as to who should be first in obtaining an administration order: Id.

See also notes to Rule 263 (2).

Order may be obtained by personal representative.

950. An executor or administrator may apply for judgment for administration. Con. Rule 969.

Taken from Chy. O. 471.

A personal representative may apply ex parte: Re Dunlevy, Order Book 11, fo. 778; Re Ette, 6 P. R. 159; Re Bromley, before Blake, V.-C., 28th January, 1878; unless infants are interested, in which case the application must be made on notice to the Official Guardian ad litem: Rules 948, 152.

Where the application is made by the personal representative ex parte, the proceedings should be entitled "In the matter of (the Estate)," and no persons should be named as plaintiffs or defendants: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69. Where no sufficient ground was shewn for making the order, it was refused: Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; and it is clear that the personal representative cannot apply for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602. Cole v. Glover, 10 Gr. 392.

Deficiency of assets, how far it justifies application by personal representative.

How far a deficiency of assets justifies a personal representative in applying for administration is the subject of some doubt. In 1874 orders were made on that ground, on the application of the personal representative, in Sweetnam v. Sweetnam, 6 P. R. 149, and Re Ette, Id., 159. But in the subsequent cases of Re Shipman, Wallace v. Shipman, 24 Gr. 177; Blake, V.-C., said that the reasons which existed for making the order in Re Ette no longer held good, and that the personal representative, on being sued at law, could set up the deficiency of assets, and claim administration under The Administration of Justice Act. That Act, however, was in force when Sweetnam v. Sweetnam and Re Ette were decided. In 1877 in Marsh v. Marsh, 7 P. R. 126, Spragge, C., held that the course pointed out in Re Shipman should be followed, and refused the order; and in Re Jack, Jack v. Jack, 13 C. L. J. 358, Proudfoot, V.-C., did the same. On the other hand, in Re Bromley, before Blake, V.-C., 28th January, 1878, the order was granted, the applicant having been sued by one creditor in the Division Court, and another creditor having written to him, urging him to obtain the order.

As to the grounds justifying a personal representative in obtaining Rule 951, administration, see further Rule 203, p. 369.

It is the duty of an executor, on a deficiency of assets to pay all creditors pari passu; and even his right of retainer cannot be set up so as to give his own debt any preference, but the lien of any creditor on the real or personal estate, created in the lifetime of the deceased, is not to be prejudiced by this rule. R. S. O. c. 129, s. 34; Meyers v. Meyers, 20 Gr. 185; Willis v. Willis, 20 Gr. 206; Re Ross, 20 Gr. 385; foreign creditors are entitled to the same rights as creditors living within the jurisdiction: Re Klabe, Kunze v. Gelebrecht, 28 Ch. D. 175; 21 C. L. J. 155; Milne v. Moore, 24 Ont. 456; a creditor who has recovered execution against the executor has no priority: Bank of British North America v. Mallory, 17 Gr. 102; and debts due by the deceased as trustee form no exception to the rule: Brock v. Cameron, 25 Gr. 363. And it would seem, notwithstanding what is said by Mowat, V.-C., in Doner v. Ross, supra; that creditors who have been overpaid may be compelled to refund, on the application of a creditor who has not received his due proportion: Chamberlain v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 Ont. App. 273. But a creditor's claim against a legatee or creditor who has been overpaid, to compel him to refund, will be barred in six years from the time of the overpayment, notwithstanding that the creditor's claim against the testator's estate is not barred: Blake v. Gale, 31 Ch. D. 196; this case was subsequently affirmed by the Court of Appeal, however, on the ground that the creditor had acquiesced in the overpayment: 55 L. T. 234; as the circumstances under which beneficiaries who have been paid more than their distributive share can be compelled to refund at the instance of other beneficiaries: see Re Winslow, Frece v. Winslow, 45 Ch. D. 249.

Where an executor improperly institutes a suit for administration he may be ordered to pay the costs of it: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; or he may be refused his costs and commission: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 310; and where he improperly renders a suit necessary by a creditor, he may also be ordered to pay the costs of it: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271.

Where the personal representative obtains the judgment, the conduct of the reference may be transferred to a beneficiary: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 63.

The judgment may be awarded for the purpose of preventing creditors from bringing actions, and the proceedings thereon may be stayed if thought proper: see Rule 355.

An executor, who has suffered a creditor of the estate to recover judgment against him by default of appearance, cannot, on subsequently obtaining a judgment for administration, restrain the creditor from proceeding on his judgment, even though there be a deficiency of assets: Doner v. Ross, 19 Gr. 229; and see Hutchinson v. Edmison, 11 Gr. 477.

951. Accounts or inquiries in respect of the real estate shall not be directed, unless notice of the application has been given to the persons interested therein, or in whom the same is vested, or one or more of them. Con. Rule 970.

Taken from Chy. O. 472.

No accounts to be ordered of realty, unless help or device served.

Rule 952. This Rule is merely declaratory of what has before been the practice of the Court: Eccles v. Lowry, 23 Gr. 172, per Proudfont, V.C.

In case of intestacy, one or more of heirs must be notified.

In case of an intestacy of a person who died before 1st July, 1880, the heir, or one or more of the heirs, must be a party, or parties, to the application, either as plaintiff, or defendant: Tiffany v. Tiffany, 9 Gr. 158; but it is not necessary, where there are several, that all should be joined as defendants: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441; and in case of a person who died before 1st July, 1880, leaving a will, it is sufficient to make one, or more, of the devisees, a party, or parties: Tiffany v. Thompson, 9 Gr. 244; where the executor was also devisee of part of the realty, it was held that he sufficiently represented the other parties interested in the realty: Stewart v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 132; where a devisee is a party, it is not necessary that the heir should be joined: Fennig v. Priestman, 1 Gr. 133.

Or in case of testacy, one or more of devisees.

On deficiency of assets, heir entitled to costs as between solicitor and client.

Where, in an administration action, it is necessary to make the heir a party defendant, he is entitled to be paid his costs as between solicitor and client, in priority to the costs and claims of creditors, although the estate may be insufficient for the payment of the debts: Hartrick v. Quigley, 21 Gr. 287; Tardieu v. Howell, 2 Gr. 530.

In the case of persons dying since the 1st July, 1880, the personal representative, who has obtained administration of both real and personal estate, sufficiently represents the real estate: see R. S. O. c. 59, s. 61; Ib. c. 127, s. 4; but see supra, p. 1188.

A judgment for the administration of the realty alone will not be granted, unless the personal estate has been previously administered: Rossell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 20; Re Armour, Moore v. Armour, 10 P. R. 448; but see Deg v. Dey, 2 Gr. 149.

Parties to be served with judgment.

Although it is not necessary to serve all the parties interested in the realty with notice of the application for administration, they must, nevertheless, all be served in the Master's office with an office copy of the judgment as prescribed by Rule 203; see note to that Rule; parties who are not served will not be bound by the accounts: Norris v. Bell, 9 Gr. 23; May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347; Uffner v. Lewis; Boys Home v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242. A party improperly served may move to set aside the service: Re Symons, Betts v. Betts, 54 L. T. 501; and see Rule 203 (3).

Accounts of realty may be directed by supplemental order.

952. Where inquiries have been directed in respect of the personal estate only, the Court or Judge may afterwards, upon notice being given to persons interested in the real estate or in whom the same is vested, or to one or more of them, make a supplemental order in respect of the real estate, upon such terms as may seem just. Con. Rule 971.

Taken from Chy. O. 473.

Where administration of required, realty order may be made in first instance.

It is now customary, whenever an administration of the realty is likely to be required, to serve all the parties necessary to be served, in order to obtain an administration of both realty and personalty, and a judgment is then awarded for the administration of both the realty and personalty. And whenever the realty is the primary fund for the payment of debts, it is absolutely necessary that this should be done.

As to the parties to be notified in order to obtain an administration of the realty, see note to preceding Rule, and Rule 944, and notes.

953.—(1) Where judgment for administration is granted Rule 953. according to Form 156, the Master to whom the matter is referred shall proceed to administer the estate in the most expeditions and least expensive manner, and in doing so, shall make amongst other inquiries, and take amongst other accounts, the inquiries and accounts mentioned in Form 157, or such of them as may be applicable and necessary. New. See Con. Rule 972.

For Forms 156 and 157, see D. & L. Forms, Nos. 838 and 839.

(2) The Master shall, under any such reference, have power to deal with both the realty and personalty of the estate, the subject of administration, and shall dispose of the costs and finally wind up all matters connected with the estate, without any further directions, and without any separate, interim, or interlocutory reports, or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor. Con. Rule 973.

(3) All moneys realized from the estate shall forthwith be paid into Court, and subject to Rule 47, no moneys shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge of the High Court in Chambers or the Court, and on the application for an order for distribution, the Judge or the Court may review, amend, or refer back to the Master his report, or make such other order as may seem just. Con. Rule 974.

In simple cases, where all parties interested are represented before the Master, it would be possible, under this Rule, for the Master to defer making any report until the accounts were taken and the estate realized, and then by one general report to wind up all matters connected with the estate, and this course is pursued wherever practicable.

Under Rule 349 the Master has power to give any special directions he may think proper respecting the carriage of the judgment, where there are conflicting claims, and also to transfer its carriage from one party to another, if occasion should require; or to transfer the conduct of the reference to any party he may find entitled: see In re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69; the rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus, to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Draggan, 8 P. R. 330; and see Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; Re Prime, 48 L. T. 208; see, however, Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. 437; Townsend v. Townsend, 23 Ch. D. 400; 48 L. T. 694; Re West, West v. Falkiner, 9 C. L. T. 85, where it was held that the party first originating proceedings was entitled to the conduct: sed vide, In re Curry, supra.

Rule 963. The administration of two estates may be consolidated, where intimately connected: Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283.

Rule intended to do away with further directions in administration suits.

The object of this Rule is to do away with the necessity of a hearing on further directions in administration suits; the judgment granted by the Master covers all those directions which, by the former practice, were usually made on the hearing on further directions, except the order for payment of the fund out of Court: e.g., It directs any balances found in the hands of accounting parties to be paid into Court, it also authorizes a sale of the land, the payment of the purchase money into Court, the execution of conveyances by all proper parties, and empowers the Master also to execute such conveyances for infants, who are incapable of executing the same themselves: see Form 156, H. & L. Forms, No. 838; Rules 716, et seq. The Master has also power to make any order, or report, which may be necessary for completely winding up the estate, or protecting the rights of the parties to the suit. Where the executor is insolvent a receiver may be appointed: Harrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; and it would seem that a receiver may be appointed, when necessary, in proceedings commenced under Rules 944, 947; Re Francke, 58 L. T. 365; but any motion for a receiver, or an injunction would have to be made to the Court: see Ind. Act, s. 58 (9), and Rule 1091; as to the rights of a specific devisee or legatee in regard to property taken possession of by a receiver or manager, see Re Day, 1898, 2 Ch. 504; 79 L. T. 436.

Injunction or receiver, how obtained.

Separate orders and reports only to be made when essential.

The words "without any separate Interim, or interlocutory reports, or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor," indicate that it is only unnecessary orders, or reports, that are dispensed with, but that so far as such interlocutory reports, or orders, may be essential to the winding up of the estate, the Master is to have power to make them. Under Rule 677, a party directed by the Master to bring in any account, or do any other act, is to be held bound to do the same in pursuance of the direction of the Master without any warrant, or written direction, served for that purpose. The provisions of that Rule, of course, only apply when the party attends the Master in person or by solicitor, and has notice of the direction.

Master not to proceed ex parte.

The Master should not proceed with the reference ex parte, even though the defendant did not appear on the motion for judgment: Jackson v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 47; Robinson v. Whitcombe, 20 Gr. 415; and see Rule 658.

Accounts which may be taken under administration judgment.

Under an ordinary administration judgment, the Master may take an account of timber cut with which a defendant is chargeable: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; and may also, without any special directions, take evidence, and report the facts, as to payments made by executors for the maintenance and education of infant beneficiaries: Stewart v. Fletcher, 16 Gr. 235; and may also take the accounts on the footing of wilful neglect and default: see supra, Rule 944, and notes; and when the widow of the deceased is found a debtor to the estate, her indebtedness may be set off against her claim for past and future dower: Williams v. Reynolds, 25 Gr. 49; and a debt due by a legatee to the estate may be set off pro tanto against his legacy: In re Taylor, Taylor v. Wade, 1894, 1 Ch. 674, 70 L. T. 556; 8 R. 186. The Master would have similar powers under a judgment granted by himself; he would also be entitled to make all proper allowances to executors, administrators, and trustees, by way of compensation for their services.

Compensation to executors, etc., may be allowed.

As to compensation to be allowed executors and trustees, see notes to Rule 667, supra, p. 897.

The executor's claim for compensation is prior to the claims of Rules creditors: Harrison v. Patterson, 11 Gr. 195; and a trustee's claim 954, 955. for compensation must be satisfied before a conveyance of the trust estate to the cestui que trust will be ordered: Life Association of Scotland v. Walker, 24 Gr. 203. Compensation prior to right of creditors.

The only order which the Master appears to be precluded from making in suits for administration, in which he has awarded judgment, is that for the payment out of the money in Court; but the Master should state the amount of the commission, and what he finds would be a proper apportionment thereof among the different solicitors under Rule 1140, and also the amounts he finds payable to creditors and other beneficiaries respectively. Order for payment out of Court cannot be made by Master.

The order for payment is to be made by a Judge, or the Court. Application for this order is to be made in Chambers on a Tuesday or Friday: Rule 99. The application is to be made upon notice; and it would seem that all persons who, under the former practice, would be entitled to notice of a hearing on further directions, would be entitled to notice of such an application. Application to Judge, how made.

Where a party is not satisfied with the findings of the Master, the Judge, on any motion for distribution, may, on notice being given by the complaining party to the other parties, review the Master's decision without an appeal, if the matters complained of can be investigated and disposed of on reading the pleadings (if any), and judgment, and the Master's report without reference to the evidence; otherwise an appeal in the usual way under Rule 760, et seq., is necessary: Kendrick v. Kendrick, 9 C. L. T. 310. When an appeal from Master necessary.

954. It shall not be obligatory on the Court or Judge or Local Master to pronounce or make a judgment or order, whether on any summary application or otherwise, for the administration of any trust or of the estate of any deceased person, if the question between the parties can be properly determined without such judgment or order. New. Court, etc., not bound to order administration.

Administration was refused in Re Ghent, 5 O. W. R. 148, but an order was made for payment to the applicant a legatee of a sum on account of his share under the will.

955. In any action or proceeding for the administration or execution of trusts by a creditor or beneficiary under a will, intestacy or instrument of trust, where no accounts, or insufficient accounts have been rendered, the Court or a Judge may in addition to any powers already existing, Orders other than for administration which may be made.

- (a) Order that the executors, administrators or trustees, shall render to the plaintiff or applicant a proper statement of their accounts, with an intimation that if it is not done, they may be made to pay the costs of the proceedings, and the Court or Judge may direct the action or proceeding to be stayed or to stand over in the meantime, as may seem just;

- (b) Where necessary, to prevent proceedings by other creditors, or by beneficiaries, make the usual judgment for administration, with a provision that no proceedings are to be taken thereunder, without the leave of the Court or a Judge. New.

Compare Eng. (1883) R. 772 (a).

After a judgment for administration has been granted, creditors will ordinarily be restrained from bringing actions to enforce their debts against the personal representative: see Re Langtry, 18 Gr. 530, and following cases cited in note to Rule 944, supra, p. 1191.

The effect of clause (b) of this Rule is to enable the Court in a proper case to stay actions by creditors by granting a judgment for administration, and at the same time to stay proceedings on the judgment.

4. PARTITION.

Adult party may apply to Local Master for
on motion.

936.—(1) An adult person entitled to compel partition of land, or any estate or interest therein may, on fourteen clear days' notice of motion to one or more of the persons entitled to a share therein, apply to the presiding Judge in Chambers, or to the Master in the County (other than the County of York) in which the land lies, for partition or sale; and the Judge or Master may award judgment for partition or sale or as may seem just, according to form No. 158.

For Form 158 see H. & L. Forms No. 887.

The Form 158 must be read in the light of legislation by which the Court has been given power to order a sale, and its meaning is that a partition is to be made unless it is shewn by those who ask for a sale, that partition cannot be made without injury to the interests of the owners: Ontario Power Co. v. Whittier, 7 O. L. R. 198.

interested must be represented by official guardian.

Proceedings on judgment for partition.

(2) Where an infant is interested, judgment shall not be awarded until he is represented by the Official Guardian:

(3) The Master shall proceed in the least expensive and most expeditious manner, for partition or sale, the adding of parties, the ascertainment of the rights of the various persons interested, the taxation and payment of costs, and otherwise:

(1) All moneys realized shall forthwith be paid into Court, Rule 986 and, subject to Rule 47, no moneys shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge of the High Court in Chambers or the Court; and on the application for an order for distribution, the Judge may review, amend, or refer back to the Master his report, or make such other order as may seem just. Con. Rule 989, amended.

Taken from Chy. O. 610.

This Rule is confined to the case of proceedings instituted by adult persons; where an infant institutes proceedings for partition, a writ must be issued: Brace v. Brown, 2 C. L. T. 311. This Rule extends the principle of Rule 263 (1), to partition suits; formerly it was necessary to make all tenants or owners of the land in question parties to the bill; under this Rule, it suffices to name only one, or more of such persons; all other persons interested must be served with the judgment in the Master's Office: Rule 263 (3), unless such service is dispensed with; an order dispensing with service must be obtained from the Master to whom the matter is referred: Re Hyman, 19 P. R. 217. As to parties who have not been heard of for 3 years, see R. S. O. c. 123, s. 16; a guardian may be appointed for them by a Judge in Chambers: Re Hyman, supra. Parties on whom service of a judgment is dispensed with are not bound by the proceedings; see note to Rule 263. The application cannot be made for the partition of an estate of a deceased person, until the lapse of one year from his death: R. S. O. c. 123, s. 8; Grant v. Grant, 19 P. R. 241. Where the interests are unequal, the person having the largest interest should, as a general rule, be notified of the application.

This Rule does not apply where it is necessary to add a defendant whose claim to share in the estate is contested, e.g., where a stranger is in possession claiming adversely to the plaintiff and his co-tenants, an action must be brought by writ: see Macdonell v. McGillivray, 8 P. R. 330; Bennett v. Bennett, 6 P. R. 145; Young v. Wright, 8 P. R. 198; Re McWilliam, 8 P. R. 746; 17 C. L. J. 80; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 9 P. R. 71; and where the defendant claimed to have acquired a title by possession in severalty to part and to have only an easement in the residue: Strand v. Sun Oil Co., 7 O. L. R. 794; 8 O. L. R. 748. Where it appears that some preliminary question must be decided before it can be determined whether partition should be granted, the motion will be adjourned until after the trial of an action to be brought to determine such question: Smith v. Smith, 1 O. L. R. 491; but where the Master assumes to decide the preliminary question, his judgment is appealable: scable, under Rule 767; see Strand v. Sun Oil Co., supra. And where after judgment for partition has been granted a question is raised as to the validity of an outstanding lease, it would seem that the Master has no jurisdiction to try it, but an issue may be directed by a Judge under Rule 761: Re Rogers, 11 P. R. 90.

Where the only defendant was the lessee for 7 years, of an undivided moiety, it was held that the parties interested were sufficiently represented to entitle plaintiff to a judgment for sale: Johnson v. Hoops, 78 L. T. 33.

A Local Master has no power to make an order for partition of lands out of his jurisdiction, i.e., his county, and if he does so his order is null and void, even as to lands within his county: Nichol v.

Money not to be paid out without order.

When infant plaintiff seeks partition, writ must be issued.

Summary application cannot be made, when any party claims adversely.

Rule 956. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275; but see Rule 957; and see Jud. Act, s. 57 (12).

Lands in County of York, or in several counties. Where the lands are situate in the County of York, or in more counties than one, the application for partition should be made to a Judge in Chambers. The jurisdiction, here conferred on a Judge in Chambers, is, apparently, from the wording of the Rule, not intended to be exercised by the Master in Chambers; and see Rule 42 (9).

Where two or more judgments are granted for partition of different parts of the same person's estate, the proceedings may be consolidated under Rule 957.

Accounting parties to be made original defendants. Wherever an account is required from any person, such person should be made a defendant in the first instance, as it would seem that parties served with the judgment in the Master's office cannot be made to account thereunder: Walker v. Seligmann, L. R. 12 Eq. 152; Hopper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22; Re Parkes, 66 L. T. 151.

The plaintiff was formerly bound to allege, and, if it was disputed, to prove, his title, and under this Rule it will still be necessary that the affidavits in support of the application should establish the applicant's title, and it would also appear to be necessary to shew thereby the estates and interests of all other persons interested as joint owners. The existence of a discretionary power of sale in trustees, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the Court to order partition: Bond v. Allen, 48 L. T. 628; but a partition was refused in a case where the trustees were taking active proceedings to execute the power: Re Dennis, 14 Ont. 267.

Partition not granted of unpatented land. The Court will not decree partition of lands for which no patent has issued, neither will it decree a sale of such lands at the instance of the representatives of a deceased tenant: Abell v. Weir, 24 Gr. 464; Cuthbert v. Cuthbert, 11 Gr. 88, at p. 91; Jenkins v. Martin, 20 Gr. 611; but the Court may, in an action commenced by writ, make a declaratory judgment as to the rights of parties in unpatented lands, which, if the Crown is willing to act on the judgment of the Court, may have the effect of a partition: see Prile v. Rodger, 27 Ont. 320; Bull v. Frank, 12 Gr. 80, sed vide, Brown v. West, 1 O. 8, 287.

Tenant for life, or dowress, how far entitled to partition. A tenant for life of the whole estate is not entitled either to a partition or sale: Fisken v. Ife, 28 Ont. 595; Gaskell v. Gaskell, 6 Sim. 643; and see Lalor v. Lalor, 9 P. R. 455.

Mortgagees not entitled to partition. A tenant for life of a moiety is entitled to partition as against a tenant in fee of the other moiety: Williams v. Williams, 81 L. T. 162. A decree for partition was made at the suit of a dowress: Harrison v. Bottrill, before Blake, V.-C., 21st January, 1880; Devereux v. Kearns, 11 P. R. 452, overruling Rodn v. Rodn, 1 C. L. T. 546; but her right to partition is subject to judicial discretion, and it will only be granted when her dower cannot conveniently be otherwise set apart: Fram v. Fram, 12 P. R. 185. A dowress in the whole estate is not entitled to partition or sale: see Fisken v. Ife, supra; but where the dower is claimed out of an undivided share, the dowress would seem entitled to partition or sale, as the only way by which her claim can be properly ascertained and satisfied. A mortgagee of an undivided share, whose title has not been perfected by foreclosure or otherwise, has been held not to be entitled to partition: Traie v. Smith, before Spragge, C., 13th April, 1875; followed by Meredith, J., in Mulligan v. Hendershott, 17 P. R. 227; and see Laprade v. Seamen, 8 Ont. App. 500; but in Fall v. Elkins, 9 W. R. 861, it seems to have been assumed that a mortgagee was entitled to this relief: and see Davenport v. King, 49 L. T. 92; Agar v. Fair-Rule 955. fax, 2 W. & T. L. C. 7th ed. 181; as to whether a tenant in common who has mortgaged his share can have a partition without first paying off his mortgage, see Gibbs v. Haydon, 47 L. T. 184; it would seem not, if his mortgagee objects: Sinclair v. James, 1894, 3 Ch. 554; 71 L. T. 483. In this Province it would seem that he can, if his mortgagee does not object, and that his mortgagee should be made a party either in the first instance, or in the Master's office, but any additional costs so occasioned must be borne by the mortgagor: McDougall v. McDougall, 14 Gr. 297; Cotton v. Banks, 1893, 2 Ch. 22; 1894, 3 Ch. 544; sed vide Belcher v. Williams, 45 Ch. D. 510; 63 L. T. 673; a mortgagee who comes in and consents to a sale, is not entitled to either six months' notice or six months' interest: Re Houston, 2 Ont. 84; and see as to mortgages made since 1st July, 1888, R. S. O. c. 121, s. 67.

Tenant in common, whose share is mortgaged, may have partition.

Extra costs must be borne by his share.

A party wall held in common may be partitioned: Mayfair Property Co. v. Johnston, 1894, 1 Ch. 508; 70 L. T. 485.

A mortgagee having a mortgage affecting the whole land should not be made a party unless a sale is to be had, and he consents to its being made free from his mortgage: Sinclair v. James, 1894, 3 Ch. 554; 71 L. T. 483.

A partition or sale cannot be ordered as against a tenant for life of the whole estate on the application of those entitled in remainder: Murcar v. Bolton, 5 Ont. 164; Rajotte v. Wilson, 40 C. L. J. 702.

Not ordered against tenant for life of whole estate.

Where the plaintiff claimed as vendee of the equity of redemption of one of four tenants in common under a sale by the Sheriff, a decree for partition was set aside on appeal, on the ground that the interest was not saleable: Wood v. Hurl, 28 Gr. 146.

In determining whether a sale, or partition, should be directed, the Master will be guided by what is best for all parties interested: Blusdell v. Baldwin, 3 Ont. App. 6. When the property is not susceptible of partition, a sale should be directed: Sterea v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 741; but where partition can be made without injury to the interest of the owners it would seem that a partition ought to be made where any of the parties so desire: Ont. Power Co. v. Chatter, 7 O. L. R. 198.

The discretion exercised by a Judge in granting a partition or sale will not be interfered with by the Court of Appeal: Re Dyer, Dyer v. Paynter, 53 L. T. 744; but where the discretion is exercised by an officer of the Court having judicial functions his discretion may be reviewed: see Bryant v. Reading, 17 Q. B. D. 128; 54 L. T. 300; Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. 122.

Where the judgment is pronounced by a Local Master it is appealable under Rule 767: Stroud v. Sun Oil Co., 7 O. L. R. 794.

The proceeds of an infants' share in the land would seem to descend on his death as real estate: Re Norton, 1900, 1 Ch. 101. See also R. S. O. 1897, c. 168, s. 8.

By this Rule the Master is empowered to award such a judgment as the Court of Chancery was accustomed to grant in partition suits, except the order for payment of the money out of Court: see Rule 955 (4). Under this judgment an account of rents and profits may be taken, and a sum in gross may be allotted in lieu of dower, curtesy, or any other life estate, and all other usual and necessary accounts, and inquiries, may be taken and made, as the circumstances of the case may require.

Form of judgment

Rule 956. Under a judgment in the Form No. 158 (H. & L. Forms No. 887), the Master is to make partition unless it is shewn that it cannot be made without prejudice to the rights of some of the owners: Ontario Power Co. v. Whittier, 7 O. L. R. 198.

Service of judgment. All parties interested in the land who are not served with the notice of motion for the judgment, will have to be served with an office copy of the judgment: Rule 659; and they will be entitled to move to vary, or set it aside, as provided by Rule 661.

Execution creditors' claims are not kept alive merely by their being made parties in a partition action, and their executions will lapse unless kept duly renewed, at all events, until there is some judicial declaration of their right to a lien: Macdonell v. Best, 6 O. L. R. 18.

Accounts of rents and profits, etc. A tenant in common who has been himself in actual occupation of the whole estate cannot be charged with an occupation rent: Henderson v. Eason, 17 Q. B. 501; Rice v. George, 20 Gr. 221; Re Kirkpatrick, Kirkpatrick v. Stevenson, 10 P. R. 4; Hill v. Hicken, 77 L. T. 127, except in favour of an infant co-tenant: Courcier v. Courcier, 26 Gr. 307. He is, however, liable to account to his co-tenants for rents and profits received from third parties: Goodenow v. Farquhar, 19 Gr. 614; Curtis v. Coleman, 22 Gr. 561; and if he makes any claim for improvements made, or for prior incumbrances paid off, by him, he must submit to account for an occupation rent, otherwise he cannot be allowed them: Rice v. George, supra; Rivet v. Desourdi, 12 C. L. J. 203. But as against a mortgagee: Hill v. Hicken, supra, or an execution creditor of the tenant who has been in possession, the other tenants in common cannot charge his share with the excess of rents received by him, in priority to the mortgage, or execution: McPherson v. McPherson, 10 P. R. 140. Where a tenant in common is lessee of his co-tenant's shares and continues in sole possession after the expiration of the lease, he becomes liable to his lessor for use and occupation: Leigh v. Dickson, 12 Q. B. D. 194; 15 Q. B. D. 60; 50 L. T. 124; 52 L. T. 790. Only such improvements as are made by a tenant in common to prevent the estate going to ruin are recoverable: Ib.

Improvements, how to allot. Improvements made by a tenant in common before the tenancy in common becomes an estate in possession, e. g., during a prior life estate, are not recoverable against his co-tenants: Lushy v. Croxson, 21 Ont. 255.

In making partition, those portions on which improvements have been made by any of the tenants in common should, as far as possible, be allotted to the parties by whom they were made; see Wood v. Wood, 16 Gr. 471.

As to the principle on which improvements made by a tenant in fee of a moiety should be allowed as against a tenant for life of the other moiety, see Williams v. Williams, 81 L. T. 163.

In making a distribution of purchase money derived from land held in common, a tenant in common who has made permanent improvements is entitled to be allowed therefor: see Re Cook, 1896, 1 Ch. 923; 74 L. T. 652.

Where a sale is directed in a partition action the Master should inquire as to incumbrances existing on the shares of the parties interested up to the time of sale, and not merely up to the commencement of the proceedings: Robson v. Robson, 10 P. R. 324; 20 C. L. J. 192. Such persons as have incumbrances should be made parties under Rule 659, and if not made parties they will not be bound by the proceedings: R. S. O. c. 123, s. 21.

As to the allowance of a sum in gross in lieu of dower: see R. S. O. Rules c. 168, s. 8, and c. 123, s. 50; and Gleeson v. Byrne, 25 L. R. Ir. 957, 958, 361.

957. Where, after judgment for partition or sale, it is made to appear that there are in another county lands of which the parties are entitled to compel partition, application may be made to a Judge of the High Court in Chambers for the partition or sale of such lands under the judgment formerly made; and where two or more judgments have been made by Masters in different counties an application may be made to a Judge of the High Court in Chambers for an order as to the conduct of the future proceedings. Con. Rule 990.

When after judgment, lands discovered in another county.

Taken from Chy. O. 641.

This Rule applies to the case of lands subsequently discovered in another county: it does not apply when it appears on the original application that the lands sought to be partitioned are in different counties: in such case a Local Master has no jurisdiction at all, even as to the lands in his own county: Nicholl v. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275.

Where lands are discovered in another county after a judgment has been pronounced by a Local Master, the Judge in Chambers may award judgment as to the lands so discovered: Clark v. Clark, S. P. R. 156.

The object of this Rule is to prevent more than one suit from being prosecuted in respect of the same estate. Where several suits are brought, application may be made, under this Rule, to consolidate them. The application must be made before a Judge in Toronto. But where two or more applications are made by different persons to the same Local Master, the latter has jurisdiction to pronounce judgment in one of them, and stay the others: Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; 19 C. L. J. 158. Where a suit is stayed, the costs are prima facie payable out of the estate pari passu with the costs of the suit which is carried on: Re Clark, Cumberland v. Clark, L. R. 4 Chy. 412.

Several suits, consolidated or

Costs.

Custody of Papers in Administration and Partition Matters.

958. The Local Masters shall enter in books kept for that purpose, all judgments or orders made by them, in administration and partition matters, and they shall on the conclusion of the proceedings, annex together all the papers filed with them in such proceedings, and transmit the same to the office of the Deputy or Local Registrar for the county in which the proceedings were commenced. Con. Rule 991. Rules of 1st Jan., 1896, 1495, amended. See also Rule 700.

Entry of orders. At conclusion of suit papers to be forwarded to office in which proceedings commenced

Taken from Chy. O. 650.

This Rule constitutes the Local Masters' offices for entering judgments for administration or partition granted by them.

5. DOWER.

Tenant may notify dowress of desire to assign her dower;
thereon.

959. The tenant of the freehold may before action serve upon the dowress a notice in writing that he is willing to assign dower in the land (describing it) out of which she is entitled to dower, and may thereafter apply to the High Court or to a Judge thereof, for judgment that a writ shall issue for the assignment of dower; and a writ therefor may thereupon issue, and the like proceedings may be had thereon as upon such a writ sued out after judgment in an action of dower. R. S. O. 1887, c. 56, s. 3.

For the form of writ of assignment of dower: see Form 184, H. & L. Forms, No. 1085.

6. PROPERTY OF INFANTS.

Applications to sell, etc., infant's estate, where made.

960. An application for the sale, mortgage, lease or other disposition of an infant's estate shall be made to the Master in Chambers, or an Official Referee sitting for him, and no reference in any such matter is to be directed to any Local Master, except by leave of a Judge. Con. Rule 992.

Taken from J. A. Rule 585.

These Rules (960-970) apply to cases where some disposition is sought to be made of an infant's estate either for the purpose of raising money to pay charges thereon, or to provide for the maintenance and education of the infant owners, or where the appointment of guardians of their persons or estates is sought.

Official Guardian to be notified.

961. The Official Guardian shall be duly notified of all applications under Rule 960. Con. Rule 993.

Taken from J. A. Rule 586; see Jud. Act, s. 157.

Petition,
how entitled

962. A petition for the sale or other disposition of the real estate of an infant, shall be entitled in the matter of the infant. Con. Rule 994.

Taken from Chy. O. 527.

Sale of infant's estate, on what
authorized.

Applications for the sale, leasing, or other disposition of the real estate of infants, are authorized by R. S. O. c. 168, s. 3, where it is made to appear to the Court that it is necessary, or proper, for the maintenance or education of the infant; or that, by reason of any part of the property being exposed to waste and dilapidation, or to depreciation from any other cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be substantially promoted by such disposition. The Act is held to apply to estates tail: Re Gray, 26 Ont. 355. Where a sale is necessary for the payment of the debts of the ancestor it may be ordered: Re McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 97; Re Barker, 6 P. R. 225. But Rule 962 it should be shewn that unless the sale, or other disposition, is made, the estate will sustain loss, or that the creditors are about to enforce payment of their demands by suit: Re Boddy, 4 Gr. 144. Where none of the circumstances mentioned in the Act are proved to exist, the Court has no authority to make any order: Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197; Re Phelan, 6 P. R. 250; Re Robinson, Pickard v. Wheeler, 31 Ch. D. 247; 53 L. T. 865; Re Hibbard, 14 P. R. 177; and see Re Jackes, 3 C. L. J. 69, where the Court refused to sanction a renewal of a lease made by the infant's ancestor; but see Blean v. Blean, 10 Ont. 693; and see sec. 58 (11) of the Act, supra, p. 105.

Interest of infant to be considered.

Where it appeared that the application was made more for the benefit of the infants' father than of the infants themselves, the application was refused: Re McDonald, 1 Gr. 90; Re Hibbard, supra; and a sale will not be ordered to repay a relative, such as a father, mother, or brother, for the past maintenance of the infant: Kellar v. Tache, 1 Chy. Ch. 388; Re Blair, 14 P. R. 220; and see Edwards v. Dargy, 10 Gr. 101. Nor after a sale has been made, will past maintenance be ordered to be paid out of the corpus of the fund, where it appears that the person making the claim had not maintained the infant on the basis, or with the expectation of being compensated therefor: In re Renwick, Renwick v. Crooks, 14 P. R. 361.

No sale, lease, or other disposition can be ordered under R. S. O. c. 168, against the provisions of any will or conveyance by which the estate has been devised or granted to the infant, or for his use: R. S. O. c. 168, s. 3, (2); Re Smith, 6 P. R. 282; Re Wilson, 7 P. R. 244; Re Callicott, 1 Chy. Ch. 26, 182; but see Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589.

No disposition
contrary to any will or deed.

A guardian of an infant appointed by the Surrogate Court has power without the sanction of the Court, to make a valid lease of his ward's land during the latter's minority but not beyond that period: Clarke v. Macdonell, 20 Ont. 564, overruling Collins v. Martin, 41 C. C. Q. B. 602; Switzer v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 538; Townley v. Neil, 10 Gr. 72; the report of the last case appears to be erroneous in describing the guardian who made the lease as a guardian ad litem, instead of a guardian of the estate of the infant.

The Statute says the application is to be made in the name of the infant by his next friend or his guardian, but cannot be made without the infant's consent, if he is of the age of fourteen, or upwards: R. S. O. c. 168, s. 4; and see Rule 966; but see Rule 963.

Application for sale, etc., how to be made.

Applications for the sale, or other disposition, of infants' estates, cannot now be made to the County Court Judges, or Local Masters: Rule 960.

The Court may order the execution of the conveyance by the infant, or some one on his behalf, and a conveyance so executed is binding on the infant, as if made after he had attained his majority: R. S. O. c. 168, ss. 5, 6; Rae v. Geddes, 3 Chy. Ch. 404; where a mortgage of an infants' land held in trust is authorized by the Court the infant cestui que trust cannot properly be required to give any covenant for repayment of the loan: Brown v. Grady, 31 Ont. 73.

conveyance.

The proceeds of lands sold, or disposed of under the direction of the Court, retain the quality of the estate sold, or disposed of, so far as the rights of the infant's heirs, and next of kin, are concerned: R. S. O. c. 168, s. 8; Fitzpatrick v. Fitzpatrick, 6 P. R. 134; Thompson v. McCaffrey, 6 P. R. 193; Campbell v. Campbell, 19 Gr. 254.

Proceeds of sale, retain quality of estate sold

Rules 963, 964. But where such moneys descend as realty, if the heir does not effect an actual reconversion, they will pass to his representatives as personality: Mordaunt v. Benwell, 19 Ch. D. 302; 45 L. T. 585. And as to adult parties jointly interested with the infants, the order for sale operates as a conversion, and the share of such a person dying before sale, but after the order, will descend as personality: Hyett v. Meekin, 25 Ch. D. 735.

Order for bar of dower. Where the mother of the infant is a lunatic, an application may be made for an order barring her dower: R. S. O. c. 164, s. 16. The application must be made to a Judge in Chambers: Re Colthart, 9 P. R. 356.

Settled estates, jurisdiction of Court in regard to. Settled Estates.—The Court has jurisdiction under R. S. O. c. 71, to make orders for the lease, sale, or mortgage, of settled estates in which infants are interested, but the procedure to be followed in such cases is now regulated by Rules 973, et seq

In whose name to be presented. 963. The petition shall be presented in the name of the infant, by his guardian, or by a person applying by the same petition to be appointed guardian as hereinafter provided. Con. Rule 995.

Taken from Chy. O. 528.

Variance between Rule and R. S. O. c. 168, s. 4. There is a variance between this Rule, and the Statute R. S. O. c. 168, s. 4, which provides that the application shall be in the name of the infant by his next friend, or by his guardian.

What it is to state.

964.—(1) The petition shall state the nature and amount of the personal property to which the infant is entitled, the necessity of resorting to the real estate, its nature, value, and the annual profits thereof; it shall designate the lands to be disposed of, propose a scheme for that purpose, and for the appropriation of the proceeds, state specifically the relief desired, and circumstances sufficient to justify the sale or other disposition of the land, and the application of the proceeds in the manner proposed.

(2) If an allowance for maintenance is desired, a case shall also be stated and made, to justify such an order, and to regulate the amount. Con. Rule 996.

Petition may pray for appointment of guardian.

(3) If the appointment of a guardian is desired, a case shall be stated and made, for the appointment of the person proposed. Con. Rule 997.

Taken from Chy. O. 529.

A similar procedure prevails in the State of New York: see Tyler on Infancy, p. 300, s. 196. Apart from the power given by the statute, the Court has no authority to direct the sale of an infant's estate on the mere ground that it would be beneficial: Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197.

The circumstances justifying a sale of an infant's estate, under Rule 964, the statute, are: (a) The fact that the sale is necessary, in order to maintain, or educate, the infant; or, (b) that by reason of the property, or any part of it, being exposed to waste and dilapidation, or to depreciation from any other cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be substantially promoted by, a sale, or other disposition: see R. S. O. c. 168, s. 34, and see notes to Rule 962, supra, p. 1208.

Circumstances which justify a sale of infant's estate.

The petition must be presented to the Master in Chambers, or to an Official Referee sitting for him, who has power to direct a sale, and take all necessary accounts, and make all necessary inquiries, and to order payment out of Court of any money realized from any sale, or other disposition of the estate; no reference is to be directed to a Local Master except by leave of a Judge: Rule 960. These applications are usually taken by the Master in Chambers.

Master in Chambers has jurisdiction to order sale.

Between the years 1881 and 1886 the Master in Chambers had no jurisdiction to order the payment of money out of Court, and during that period a practice grew up of getting an order of a Judge confirming the order of the Master in Chambers, or Official Referee, directing the sale of infants' estates, and the application of the proceeds, and such practice is still continued, although the reason for it has ceased, and all that now seems really necessary is for the Accountant to get such orders initialed by a Judge as provided by Rule 414.

The marriage of a female ward of Court without consent of the Court, is a contempt for which the husband may be punished by imprisonment. The Court in such cases usually requires a settlement to be made of the wife's property as a condition of the husband's release, and will provide that the husband shall take no benefit under the settlement, and will also ordinarily exclude the wife from power of appointing by will in his favour in default of issue: Re Wall, 50 L. T. 435; and see Buckmaster v. Buckmaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. 795; and see Field v. Moore, 19 Beav. 176. But the Court has no power to compel a male infant marrying without leave to execute a settlement of his property against his will: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 40 Ch. D. 290; 60 L. T. 404.

The jurisdiction of the Court over its wards ceases on their attaining 21. Where the Court authorized a man to visit a female ward of Court to pay his addresses, with a view of asking her hand in marriage, on his undertaking to abide by the order of the Court, such undertaking expires on the ward attaining her majority, and the Court has no jurisdiction to compel him to execute a settlement of her property where he has married her after she attained 21 without a settlement, and without the sanction of the Court: Bolton v. Bolton, 1891, 3 Ch. 270; 65 L. T. 698.

Maintenance.—A petition for an allowance for maintenance out of an infant's estate will be entertained, even though it be not necessary to ask for a sale of any part of the infant's property: see Re Wilson, 14 P. R. 291.

Where the father of an infant is living, it is his duty prima facie to support and maintain, and educate, the infant, no matter what the infant's fortune may be: Simpson, on Infancy, p. 161; and maintenance is not ordinarily allowed out of the infant's estate, except upon proof that the father is unable to maintain, and educate, his children, according to their station and prospects in life; and although, where there is an express trust in the marriage settlement, to which

Duty of father to maintain his children.

Rule 364. the father is a party, requiring the trustees to expend the trust fund for the support of the children of the marriage, such a trust may be enforced by the father: Mundy v. Earl Howe, 4 Bro. C. C. 223; yet where the trustees have an option, or a mere power, to do so, the Court will not compel them so to apply the trust fund, except on evidence of the father's inability to maintain the infant: Wilson v. Turner, 22 Ch. D. 521; 48 L. T. 370. The duty of a father to maintain his infant children is at Common Law a moral and not a legal obligation: Wright v. McCabe, 30 Ont. at p. 336; sed vide Cr. Code, s. 210.

Mother not so bound. A mother is not under any legal obligation to support her offspring, and consequently maintenance will be allowed out of the children's own property, without reference to her ability to support them: Simp, 161.

As to claims for past maintenance, see supra, p. 1209.

On sale being directed, inquiry as to debts of ancestor made.

Sale not ordered in administration action, when brought merely for maintenance of infants.

Upon an application under the R. S. O. c. 168, s. 3, for the sale of an infant's estate, it is usual before directing any application of the proceeds, to require proof of payment of the debts of the ancestor, in cases where the infant has become entitled to the property directed to be sold, as heir-at-law, or devisee; or to require an advertisement to be issued for creditors, where no sufficient advertisement has previously been issued by the personal representative, and the Court then makes provision for the payment of the debts, if any. Where the sole object of the sale is the maintenance of the infant, the proceedings ought to be taken under R. S. O. c. 168, s. 3, and not by way of action for the general administration of the estate; and the Court has refused, where the latter proceeding has been adopted unnecessarily, to sanction a sale in the administration proceedings, for the purpose of maintenance: Fenwick v. Fenwick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, 16, 425; Foster v. Patterson, 16, 345.

The proceeds of the sale of an infant's lands will not be ordered to be paid to the infant's guardian; but will be retained by the Court in its own custody until the infant attains majority: Flanders v. D'Evelyn, 4 Ont. 74; Mitchell v. Richey, 13 Gr. 445; Blake v. Blake, 30, & Lef. 26; Campbell v. Dunn, 22 Ont. 98; Re Mathers, 18 P. R. 13; Re Harrison, 18 P. R. 303; Re Humphries, 18 P. R. 283; and see Re Chatard, 1893, 1 Ch. 712; Whitewood v. Whitewood, 19 P. R. 183; Re Thompson, 19 P. R. 304; but see Huggins v. Law, 14 Ont. App. 383; Hanrahan v. Hanrahan, 19 Ont. 396; Sanborn v. Sanborn, 11 Gr. 359.

Principal not easily broken into. As a general rule the Court will not break in upon the principal money, for the maintenance and education of infant legatees, still it may be done where necessary: Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 430; Craze v. Craig, 11 P. R. 236.

Maintenance was ordered out of a fund in which the infant had only a contingent interest, on security being given by way of life insurance for those who would be entitled upon the death of the infant under age: Re Campbell, 18 P. R. 400, following Re Arbuckle, 14 W. R. 585.

Where money was given to a widow subject to a trust for "the maintenance and bringing up" of her infant children, she was held to be guilty of a breach of trust in maintaining the infants in her house where she was living in adultery; and the Court assumed the administration of the fund: Re G., 1899, 1 Ch. 719; 80 L. T. 470.

Settlements of Infants' Estates.—The Court has jurisdiction Rule 204. to sanction the execution of a settlement of an infant's estate on marriage: see supra, 32, 33. Applications for that purpose are of infants expressly excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers: estate, when see Rule 42 (8), and must therefore be made to a Judge in Chambers, ordered.

A marriage settlement made by an infant without the sanction of the Court is not void, but voidable; and if not repudiated within a reasonable time after the infant has attained majority will be binding: Edwards v. Carter, 1893, A. C. 390; In re Jones, Farrington v. Forrester, 1893, 2 Ch. 461; and Stevens v. Trevor-Garrick, 1893, 2 Ch. 307.

The provision of Ind. Act, s. 37, only removes the bar of infancy, but does not enable an infant to do more than an adult could do, e.g., when an infant was also a married woman and made a post-nuptial settlement with the sanction of the Court, under those Acts, but the settlement was one which would not have bound her if she had been an adult, it was held to be invalid, notwithstanding it had received the sanction of the Court: Backmaster v. Backmaster, 35 Ch. 1, 21; 50 L. T. 795. But the Act enables an infant, with the sanction of the Court, to make a valid post-nuptial settlement so far as an adult could make one: Re Wall, 50 L. T. 355.

An infant ward marrying without the consent of the Court cannot, against his will be required to execute a settlement of his estate, and a settlement made by an infant under such circumstances, unwillingly, but with the sanction of the Court, was set aside on the application of the settlor on attaining his majority: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 60 L. T. 404.

Where there are two or more guardians of an infant, the fact that one of the guardians who has maintained the infant, has been in sole receipt of the income of the infant's estate, is no discharge to the other guardians therefor, but if it is shewn that the infant has been properly maintained and educated by the guardian who received the income, a proper sum will be allowed for that purpose without the details of the expenditure being vouched: Re Evans, Welch v. Channell, 51 L. T. 175.

Guardians of Person or Estate.—The Surrogate Court has also power to appoint guardians to minors: see R. S. O. c. 168, s. 10. This statute, however, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the High Court: Re Stannard, 1 Ch. Ch. 15; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191; and see R. S. O. c. 168, s. 15.

Where a guardian has been appointed by the Surrogate Court, the High Court will not appoint any other except for cause, and it should therefore be shewn, on applications to appoint guardians under these Rules, that the minor has no guardian.

A guardian may be appointed for an infant who is a British subject, though he is resident out of the jurisdiction, and has no property within the jurisdiction: Re Willoughby, 30 Ch. D. 324; 53 L. T. 926; but see In re Bourgoise, 41 Ch. D. 310.

Where the High Court appoints a guardian of the person and estate of a minor, it usually requires the guardian to give security. And if a guardian has been appointed by a Surrogate Court, an inquiry is sometimes ordered as to whether the guardian so appointed has given sufficient security; and if he has not, then he is required to give additional security before he is empowered to receive moneys on account of the infant. Where, however, the fortune of the infant is trifling, and the fund is lodged in Court, the Court frequently dispenses with security being given by the guardian; and requires instead an affidavit to be filed by the guardian from time to time, shewing the due application of moneys paid to him under the order of the Court.

The High Court has also jurisdiction to appoint guardians for infants to receive insurance moneys payable to them under any policy effected by their deceased father; see R. S. O. c. 203, s. 155 (2), or the Court may make order for the payment of such insurance moneys to a guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court, or even by a foreign Court. The proceedings to obtain such appointment of a guardian or trustee, or the payment of such insurance moneys may be made on petition to a Judge in Court; Re Shasson, 15 P. R. 156; where the application is for the appointment of a guardian to receive insurance money, the person appointed will be required to give security; and where the application is for payment of the money to a guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court or a foreign Court, it must be shown that such guardian has given security sufficient to answer the amount he is to be authorized to receive; Re Shasson, supra; Re Thin, 10 P. R. 493; but see Re Andrews, 11 P. R. 190; and where the security given to a foreign Court would not cover assets received in this Province, a foreign guardian will be ordered to give additional security as a condition of being authorized to receive the money; Re Shasson, supra.

Different considerations will naturally influence the Court in the appointment of a guardian of the person and a guardian of the estate of an infant. In the case of a person who is to be appointed guardian only of an infant's estate, prudence and business capacity may be sufficient qualifications. Where a person is proposed as guardian of an infant's person, other considerations have necessarily to be taken into account.

Although the Court is in the habit of paying respect to the wishes and directions of a testator in reference to the guardianship and care of his children, it will not do so where it is clearly shown that a compliance therewith would be prejudicial to the happiness, and moral training, of the infants; Comm. G Gr. 632; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191.

So, where there was a contest between a step-father and an uncle, and the child preferred the former, the Court being satisfied that it was better for the infant that the uncle should be appointed, appointed him; Re Lavin, 16 Gr. 461. The Court may remove testamentary guardians and trustees for the same causes as other guardians; R. S. O. c. 168, s. 17.

Where the father is living, if it is proposed to appoint any other person guardian, the father must be notified of the application; Re Henricks, 2 Ch. 418.

It is improper to give a reversionary guardianship of wards in Court to the successors in office of any person named; Murphy v. Lamphier, 12 Gr. 241.

ward from
a contempt.

It is a contempt of Court to remove a ward of Court from the jurisdiction, without the sanction of the Court; and the Court will interfere on the application of his guardian to prevent his removal; Re Giltrie, 3 Gr. 279; but the Court, if it is for the interest of the ward, will authorize his removal out of the jurisdiction, upon the undertaking of a guardian resident within the jurisdiction to produce Rules the ward to the Court if and when required: Re Callaghan, 28 Ch. D. 966, 966.

189; 52 L. T. 7.

A guardian appointed either by the Surrogate Court, or by the High Court: Huggins v. Laic, 14 Ont. App. 383; or a tutor appointed by a Quebec Court: Hanrahan v. Hanrahan, 19 Ont. 306; is entitled to receive, and can give, a valid discharge for a legacy due to his infant ward; but he has no power to make leases of the infant's lands in his name: Townshy v. Neil, 10 Gr. 72; Steitzer v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 538. The report of Townshy v. Neil appears to be erroneous in describing the guardian as a guardian ad litem. See further as to leases by infants: Lipsett v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575.

The sanction of the Court should be obtained to all dispositions, whether by sale, or lease, of an infant's estate.

965. Unless otherwise directed by the Judge, or the Master in Chambers, or other officer making the order, the infant shall be produced before him or before a Master. Con. Rule 998.

Taken from Chy. O. 531.

Where the infant is out of the jurisdiction, and not of an age making his consent to the proceedings essential, his production before the Master may, on application to a Judge, be ordered to be dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251; S. C., sub nom.; Re Love, 18 C. L. J. 371.

But unless this order be obtained, the infant should in all cases be produced before the Master, even though he be under fourteen years.

966.—(1) Unless otherwise directed by the Judge, Master in Chambers or other officer, the infant, where above the age of 14 years shall be examined apart by the Judge or officer before whom he is produced, upon the matter of the petition, and as to his consent thereto.

(2) Where the infant is out of Ontario the Judge or officer may direct inquiry as to the infant's consent by his examination in such manner as may seem proper, or by affidavit or otherwise as may seem just. New.

(3) An examination shall be stated to have been taken under this Rule, and shall be annexed to and filed with the petition. Con. Rule 999.

Based upon Chy. O. 532.

The sale is not to be ordered without the consent of the infant if he is of the age of fourteen years or upwards, unless the Court otherwise directs or allows: R. S. O. c. 108, s. 4; but where there are several infants interested who are over fourteen years, it has been held that the consent of a majority of them is sufficient to authorize the Court to direct a sale, not merely of the shares of the infants who do consent, but also of those who have not consented: Re Harding, 13 P. R. 112. In this case one of the infants interested, had disappeared and could not be found, and her examination was dispensed with. Where an infant over fourteen was an imbecile, her examination and consent were dispensed with: Re Delanty, 13 P. R. 113.

Where the infants had been examined and consented to a sale, which had been ordered by the Court, but which was not carried out, their further examination and consent to a sale at a less price was dispensed with, on its being shewn that they were out of the jurisdiction, and were satisfied to accept the price offered: In re Bennett, 17 P. R. 408.

The Judge or officer before whom the infant is examined, should take down his examination in writing, and also his consent, where the consent is necessary; and this should be signed by the infant and by the Judge or officer, and should be attached to the petition: Re Arford, 6 P. R. 192.

Where the infant is under fourteen, the Judge or officer should not only certify the fact, but should also state that the infant was produced before him.

Evidence should be given before the Judge or officer identifying the infant and proving his age: see Rule 967.

Infants

967. It shall not be necessary to examine an infant under 14 years of age, unless otherwise ordered; but it shall be sufficient for the officer before whom such infant is produced, to certify that he has been produced, and that he is under the age of 14 years. Con. Rule 1000.

Taken from J. A. Rule 587.

Where the infants under fourteen were living with their mother out of the jurisdiction, and the mother swore that she was unable to produce them, owing to the expense, and the property was shewn to be worth only $400, the production of the infants was dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251.

A subpoena may be issued under Rule 491 for the examination of witnesses in support of the application: Raymond v. Tapsen, 23 Ch. D. 130; 18 L. T. 103; McHillan v. Wansborough, 10 P. R. 377.

A conveyance of the lands shall not be settled, until evidence is produced, to the officer settling the same, of the purchase money having been paid into Court, or of the payment thereof into Court having been dispensed with; and, where a mortgage is taken for part of the purchase money, until evidence is given to the said officer of such mortgage having been registered and deposited with the Accountant. Con. Rule 1004.

Conveyances of infants' lands—evidence to be produced to officer settling.

By analogy, this Rule applies not only to sales of infants' lands under Rule 1030, et seq., but to sales in actions or other proceedings in Court, in which infants are interested; see Rule 3.

The proper evidence of the payment of the purchase money is the Accountant's certificate of its having been paid into Court; and where a mortgage is required to be given, the Accountant's certificate of its having been deposited with him is also necessary.

Where a purchaser makes default, the deposit and all other payments on account of purchase money are forfeited, when the sale is under the standing conditions of sale (Form No. S, H. & L. Forms, No. 1005), and the property may be ordered to be resold, and the defaulting purchaser ordered to pay any deficiency: Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 501.

7. DEVOLUTION OF ESTATES.

971. Before an executor or administrator takes proceedings under The Devolution of Estates Act, for the sale of real estate in which an infant is concerned, he shall give to the Official Guardian or other officer charged with the duties referred to in the 8th section of the said Act notice of the intention to sell, and shall not be entitled to any expenses incurred before giving such notice. Con. Rule 1005.

The Devolution of Estates Act is R. S. O. c. 127.

See Re Booth, 16 Ont. 429; Re Gardner, 7 C. L. T. 133.

Notice is only required to be given to the Official Guardian where infants are interested, and the sale is to be made simply for the purpose of distribution. Where the approval of the Official Guardian is not requisite to the carrying out of the sale, notice to him is not necessary: Re Fletcher, 26 Ont. 499.

972. The Official Guardian, or other officer aforesaid, or any person interested in the land or in the proceeds of the Con. Rule 1006.

Upon an application under this Rule lands to which infants were entitled, but which were charged with the payment of a legacy, were authorized to be sold for the purpose of paying the legacy: see Re Eddie, 22 Ont. 556.

(a) Costs payable out of the proceeds of lands sold under the Devolution of Estates Act, with the approval of the Official Guardian, shall be taxed by the senior Taxing Officer.

(b) The Official Guardian shall deposit in the Accountant's Office a statement, certified by the proper officer, showing the distribution of the proceeds of lands sold or mortgaged with his approval, and proof of the dates of births of the infants interested.

(c) All moneys received by the Official Guardian on behalf of infants, lunatics, absentees, or other persons for whom he acts, shall, unless otherwise ordered by a Judge of the High Court in Chambers, be paid into Court.

(d) Moneys paid into Court under the next preceding Rule to the credit of infants, shall be paid out to them when they attain their majority, or sooner if so ordered by a Judge of the High Court in Chambers. Con. Rule 1258, 28th Nov., 1903.

8. SETTLED ESTATES.

Title petition, affidavits, etc., ss V,
c. 20.

973. All proceedings under The Settled Estates Act, 1895, shall be entitled according to Form No. 191, and the petition shall in the body thereof or in a schedule thereto, or by plan thereto annexed, contain a detailed description of the property proposed to be dealt with, sufficient to identify the same. The petition shall be filed in the Central Office at least 14 days before the day named for the hearing thereof, and all notices required to be given by the said Act or any Rules of Court may be given at any time after the filing of the petition. Sched. to 58 V. c. 20, Rule 1.

The Settled Estates Act, 1895, is now R. S. O. c. 71.

For Form No. 191, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1423.

This and the following Rules to, and inclusive of Rule 990, are Rule 974, taken from the Schedule to 58 Vict. c. 20.

The jurisdiction of the Court to sanction the sale, lease or mortgage, of settled estates, or any timber thereon, is now governed by R. S. O. c. 71.

The Court has no inherent jurisdiction in such matters, and has no power to sanction schemes for the improvement of settled estates for the benefit of the cestuis que trustent save so far as is authorized by the statute: see Re Montagu, 1897, 1 Ch. 685; 76 L. T. 485. Formerly the Court had no power to order the sale of a part of a settled estate, in order to make improvements on the remainder: Re Moore, 6 P. R. 281; Re Chambers, 28 Beav. 653; nor could it sanction an exchange of part merely for the purpose of improving the remainder: Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589; but in that case, on its being shewn that, unless the exchange were made the property was liable to depreciation in value, the exchange was directed under R. S. O. (1877), c. 40, s. 76; but the provisions of sec. 77 of that Act prohibiting any sale, or disposition against the provisions of any will, or conveyance, do not seem to have been considered.

Sale of settled estate when ordered.

Under the Act above referred to (R. S. O. c. 71) the jurisdiction of the Court is enlarged, and it has now power whenever it deems it proper, and consistent, with a due regard for the interest of all parties entitled under a settlement, to sanction a lease (s. 3) or sale (s. 16) of the whole or any part of a settled estate, or the sale or mortgage for the purpose of making improvements on the estate (s. 14). The statute does not in terms authorize an exchange, but semble, an exchange is only a form of sale.

The Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction over settled estates may authorize a lease thereof for 999 years: Re Watson's Trusts, 21 Ont. 528.

The Court has also authorized a sale for the support of the tenant for life and her infant child, who was entitled in remainder: Re Smith, 4 Ont. 518; and also where the settled land was unproductive and being eaten up with taxes: Re Hooper, 28 Ont. 179.

By 53 Vict. c. 14 (O.), the power of the former Court of Chancery to sanction leases containing agreements for renewal, or renewals was ratified and confirmed; and see Re Watson, 21 Ont. 528.

Applications as to leases and sales, of settled estates, are excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, and the Local Judges and Local Masters: Rules 42 (8), 45, 49.

Applications respecting settled estates, how made.

974. The notice to be given by the 25th section of the said Act, if given before the hearing (or if given after the hearing and the Judge shall not otherwise direct), may, without any other direction of the Court, be given within the jurisdiction of the Court by delivering to the person to be served, a notice according to Form No. 192, and the time to be specified in the notice for the person served to file and deliver a notification shall be not less than 14 clear days after the service. Sched. to 58 V. c. 20, Rule 2, part.

Notice to be given.

Rules

975, 976. Applications under The Settled Estates Act must be made with the consent or concurrence of any person interested as tenant in tail, or in case there be more than one then the first of such tenants in tail, and all persons in existence having any beneficial interest under or by virtue of the settlement prior to the estate of the tenant in tail, and all trustees having any estate or interest on behalf of any unborn child prior to the estate of such tenant in tail; and in all other cases the parties whose consent or concurrence is necessary, are all persons in existence, having any beneficial estate or interest under or by virtue of the settlement, and also the trustees having any estate or interest on behalf of any unborn child: see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 71), s. 23. And where any of these persons do not concur in, or consent to the application, then they are required to be notified as provided by sec. 25 and this Rule.

Where any of such parties are out of the jurisdiction an order for service must be obtained under the following Rule.

Where property was vested in a trustee in trust after the death of the tenant for life to sell and divide the proceeds among numerous persons who would become absolutely entitled, with power to the trustee to give receipts, on a petition by the tenant for life under Imp. Act. 19 & 20 Viet. c. 120, for a sale of the property, it was held under sec. 17 of that Act (from which R. S. O. c. 71, s. 23, is taken), that the consent of all the beneficiaries was necessary: Re Ives, Bailey v. Holmes, 3 Ch. D. 390. The persons whose consent is required by section 23 are persons whose consents are capable of being obtained. The consent of unascertained persons who are interested is not requisite: Britley v. Carter, L. R. 4 Chy. 230; Re Sturt, L. R. 16 Eq. 629; Re Potts, L. R. 16 Eq. 631n.

Service.

975. Upon an application ex parte by the petitioner the Court or a Judge may make an order for service of the petition or any notice on any person out of Ontario, or on any person within Ontario, in any other manner than is above provided, as may seem just, and an order as to service of a notice shall contain such directions as to the manner in which such notice shall be given, and as to the time to be specified therein within which the notification is to be made by the person served. Sched. Rule 2, part.

See supra, p. 296.

Service on infants and persons of unsound mind not so formal.

976.—(1) Infants, and persons of unsound mind (not so found by inquisition or judicial declaration), required to be served with notice of an application, may be served by delivering to the Official Guardian a copy of the petition or other proceeding required to be served;

(2) From the time of such service the Official Guardian shall be the guardian ad litem of the infant or person of unsound mind, unless and until the Court or a Judge otherwise orders; and it shall be the duty of the Official Guardian, or of any other guardian ad litem appointed for such infant or person of unsound mind, forthwith to attend to the interest of the infant or person of unsound mind, and to take all such proceedings as may be necessary for the protection of such interests in the proceeding in which he is so appointed guardian, and for that purpose to communicate with all proper persons and parties, including the father or guardian of the infant and the person with whom or under whose care the infant or person of unsound mind is; 977, 978.

Rules

(3) In case there is more than one infant or person of unsound mind for whom service is made on the Official Guardian, one copy only of the petition or other proceeding need be served, but the name of each person on whose behalf the Official Guardian is served shall be stated on the copy served;

(4) In the case of a person of unsound mind he shall, where practicable, be also personally served, and where personal service on him is not practicable the person in whose custody or care he is living shall be served. Sched. Rule 3.

The provisions of this Rule are similar to those in Rule 152 relating to the service of infants with a writ of summons.

977. The examination of a married woman apart from her husband as to her knowledge of the nature and effect of an application for the sale, mortgaging or leasing of any settled estate, or as to her consent thereto, shall in no case be necessary unless expressly directed by the Court or a Judge. Sched. Rule 4.

Examination of married women only necessary if directed by the Court or Judge.

A married woman is competent to consent to, or concur in, or oppose an application under the Act, even though she be an infant: see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 71), s. 45.

978. An infant may make any application to the Court or a Judge under the said Act by his guardian or next friend, and in any such case the Official Guardian or any other guardian ad litem appointed shall be served with a copy of the where infant is applicant.

Rules
979, 980.

petition, and the said Official Guardian, or other guardian ad litem shall thereafter attend and watch the proceedings on behalf of such infant. Sched. Rule 5.

The object of this Rule is apparently to secure in the infant's behalf the protection afforded by an investigation by the Official Guardian of the propriety of the proceedings, and to prevent infants from being prejudiced by ill-advised applications being made in their names.

A petition presented under this Rule must be the petition of the infant by his guardian or next friend, not that of his guardian or next friend.

Infants are by the Act enabled to consent to, or concur in, applications under the Act by their guardians: see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 71), s. 44.

Notice of hearing.

979. Notice of the hearing of the petition shall be served on all persons dissenting from, or desiring to be heard in opposition thereto, and upon committees of lunatics, and upon the Official Guardian, or other guardian ad litem appointed, who may be interested in the proceedings on behalf of an infant or person of unsound mind (not so found), at least two clear days before the day for hearing the same; and on filing in the Registrars' office on any day before the day fixed for hearing the petition, the notice of hearing with proper proof of service, the petition shall be entered by the proper officer for hearing on the list for the day for which notice of hearing is given. Sched. Rule 6.

As to the persons whose consent or concurrence is necessary, or who must otherwise be notified of the application, see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 71), ss. 23, 25.

Where a person whose consent or concurrence is necessary is an infant, or of unsound mind, the Court has power to dispense with the consent or concurrence of such person: Ib., s. 24.

The petition must be heard before the Judge presiding in the Weekly Court; as to the days on which these sittings are held, see Rules 10, 104.

Where the interests of the infant respondents, on whose behalf the Official Guardian is served, conflict, another guardian ad litem will have to be appointed so that each class of infants may be properly represented. The appointment of such other guardian must be made by order, on a special application: see Rules 155, 156, supra, pp. 288, 289, and Rule 980.

Evidence
on application as to lunatic.

980. Where a committee of a lunatic makes or consents to an application, or gives a notification respecting any application, the authority of such committee to act on behalf of the lunatic shall be produced to the Court and also evidence to satisfy the Court that what is proposed is, and the committee shall make an affidavit that he believes that it is, proper and consistent with a due regard to the interest of such lunatic; and if it appears that it is proper and consistent with a due regard for the interest of the lunatic that the committee shall make or consent to the application, or give any specific notification respecting the application, the Court may approve of his so doing. Sched. Rule 7.

Any application under this Rule must be made in Court, and prima facie, to the Judge of the Weekly Court.

981. Where the Official Guardian or other guardian ad litem of an infant, or person of unsound mind (not so found), consents to an application, or gives a notification respecting an application, evidence shall be produced to satisfy the Court that it is, and the guardian shall make an affidavit that he believes that it is, proper and consistent with a due regard to the interest of such infant or person of unsound mind (not so found), that such consent be given, and thereupon the Court may approve of the same being given. Sched. Rule 8.

Evidence as to consent of infant or person of unsound mind not so found.

982. Upon every petition the Court shall be satisfied by sufficient evidence that it is proper and consistent, with a due regard for the interests of all parties entitled under the settlement, that the powers should be exercised, and it shall be stated in the evidence why and upon what ground it is deemed to be so. Sched. Rule 9.

Evidence that application is proper.

983. Upon every petition where there are trustees seised or possessed of any estate in trust for any of the persons whose consent or concurrence to or in the application is required, evidence shall be produced that notice of the application has been served on such trustees. Sched. Rule 10.

Evidence of service on trustees.

984. Upon every petition evidence shall be produced to satisfy the Court that neither the applicant nor any party entitled has previously applied to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario for a private Act to effect the same or similar object, or, if any application has been made, that the same was not rejected on its merits or reported against by the Judges to whom the bill may have been referred. Sched. Rule 11.

Evidence of no previous application to Legislature.

Rules Where any application has been made for a private Act to carry out the objects sought by the petition, and has been rejected on the merits, or reported against by the Judges to whom the proposed Act was referred, it is improbable that the Court will sanction the scheme, on any subsequent application to the Court; where, however, the application for a private Act has been rejected on the ground that the relief sought could be obtained by proceedings under The Settled Estates Act, the failure of the application to the Legislature would be no bar to a subsequent proceeding under The Settled Estates Act.

Service of advertisement or notice.

985 If upon the hearing of any petition the Court is of opinion that notice ought to be served on any person who has not been served, or that notice of application ought to be inserted in any newspaper, the Court shall give directions accordingly, and the petition shall stand over generally or to such time as the Court shall direct. Sched. Rule 12.

The form of advertisement will probably be referred to be settled by an officer of the Court before publication. Its object is, of course, to give persons interested full information, and where that has been accomplished, small and immaterial defects in the advertisement will not be fatal: see Re Whiteley, L. R. 8 Eq. 374; Re Burley, W. N. 1868, 148; Re Bourne, 16 W. R. 1115; Re Snell, 19 W. R. 1000; Re Nane, W. N. 1867, 109; Re Hemmley, L. R. 16 Eq. 315; Re Bicknell, L. R. 14 Eq. 467.

The marriage of a petitioner after the publication of the advertisement was held not to be a ground for requiring its republication: Re Marshall, L. R. 15 Eq. 66. And on the death of a petitioner after advertisement, the petition may be amended by stating the fact, and substituting a new petitioner: Re Wilkinson, L. R. 9 Eq. 71.

Where advertisement - Persons who may be heard.

986. When the Court, at the hearing, has directed notice of any application to be inserted in any newspapers, any person may at the time specified in the notice, be heard in opposition to or in support of the application, subject to such order as to costs as to the Court may seem just. Sched. Rule 13.

What order is to state.

987. The order made on the adjudication on the petition shall state, in addition to the names of the petitioners, the names of the persons other than the petitioners who concur or consent, or to whom notice of the application has been given, or who have appeared in opposition to or in support of the application, and whether any notice was received from the persons to whom notice had been given, and, if any has been received, the purport thereof, and also the names of the persons, if any, notice to whom has been dispensed with, and whether the order is made subject to any, and what rights, estate or interest of any person whose concurrence or consent has been refused, or who has not, or is not to be deemed to ^{Rules} have submitted his rights or interests to be dealt with by ⁹⁸⁸⁻⁹⁹¹ the Court, or whose rights or interests ought, in the opinion of the Court, to be excepted. Sched. Rule 14.

988. Where the Court authorizes a lease, the order shall ^{In case of} direct that the lease shall contain such conditions as are re- ^{leases.} quired by the Act, and such other covenants, conditions and stipulations as the Court deems expedient with reference to the special circumstances, or may direct the same to contain such covenants, conditions and stipulations as may be approved by the Master in Ordinary or a Local Master. Sched. Rule 15.

989. In all cases not provided for by The Settled Estates Act, 1895, or Rules 973 to 988, the existing forms and mode of procedure and general practice of the Court on similar proceedings shall apply to proceedings under the said Act. Sched. Rule 17.

990. The Court, may by special order, dispense with all ^{Court may} or any of the preceding Rules, in any case in which it thinks ^{dispense} fit, and upon such terms and conditions (if any) as it may ^{with Rules.} deem proper. Sched. Rule 18.

By "Preceding Rules" the whole body of Rules which precede Rule 990, is not meant, but simply the Rules 973-989. These Rules were originally incorporated in the statute, 58 Vict. c. 20.

8. QUIETING TITLES.

991. A petition for an investigation of titles, under The ^{Two or} Quieting Titles Act, shall not include two or more properties ^{more prop-} dependent on separate and distinct titles, but may include ^{erties held} any number of lots or parcels belonging to the same person, ^{by separate} and dependent on one and the same chain of title. ^{titles} Con. ^{not to be} Rule 1013. ^{included in} ^{the same} ^{petition.}

Taken from Chy. O. 492.

The Act referred to in this Rule is The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 135).

Where the provisions of this Rule are violated, the Referee may refuse to proceed with the investigation of the title. This may lead to delay and expense, as the objection can only appear before the Referee, after the proceedings necessary to shew the title have been taken. The object of the Rule is to prevent the proceedings becoming unnecessarily intricate.

Rule 991.

Who may file petition under Quietting
Titles Act.

Who May File Petition.—Any owner of an estate in fee simple in land, or any trustee for the sale of the fee simple, may file a petition without leave; R. S. O. c. 135, s. 2. Any other person who has any estate, or interest, legal or equitable, in or out of land in Ontario, may also file a petition; Id., s. 3; but under Rule 992, the petition in the latter case, must first receive the sanction of a Judge, before it can be referred to a Referee for investigation. A vendee before conveyance, is within sec. 2, and his petition will not be entertained without the consent of his vendor; Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; and a petitioner who is only a tenant in fee in remainder must first obtain the consent of the tenant for life to the filing of the petition; Re Pelten, 8 P. R. 470.

Not necessary that petitioner should be in possession.

Formerly it was necessary that the petitioner should be in possession by himself, or tenant; Re Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 239; Re Mulholland, 18 Gr. 528; Re Mono, 6 P. R. 150; but that is no longer necessary; and a petitioner, who is out of possession, may, on obtaining a certificate of title, obtain on petition an order for the delivery of possession to him of the land in question, which may be enforced by the same process as a judgment for the recovery of land; see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 43; Re McDonald, before Boyd, C., 16th May, 1881.

A petition may be filed by a devisee claiming under a will, where the property intended to be devised has been erroneously described; Re Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357; Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; but a grantee cannot by this means rectify an erroneous description in a deed under which he claims; Id. As to cases in which property intended to be devised, may pass under a will, notwithstanding a misdescription of it in the will, see Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; Hickey v. Storer, 11 Ont. 106; Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 110; Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182; Re Bain & Leslie, 25 Ont. 133; McFadden v. McFadden, 27 Ont. 508.

petition will not save the rights of a contestant otherwise barred by Statute of
tions.

Effect of Filing Petition.—The filing of a petition is not such a proceeding as will save the rights of a party contestant, otherwise barred by the Statute of Limitations; Laing v. Avery, 14 Gr. 33; nor, it would seem, will it have the effect of stopping the running of the Statute in favour of a contestant in adverse possession, until such contestant is notified, or has filed a claim, or otherwise become a party to the proceedings, nor even then, unless the petitioner ultimately obtains a certificate of title. Where a contestant claiming title under a tax sale was barred, but the petition was also ultimately dismissed, it was held that the filing of the petition and the proceedings had on the claim of the contestant, were not an effective questioning of the latter's title, so as to preclude him from the benefit of the Act 37 Vict. c. 15 (O.), curing the defect in the tax sale, under which he claimed, if not questioned within two years; McNab v. Peer, 32 C. P. 545.

Description of land in

Description of Land.—The description of the land in the heading of the petition should be sufficient to enable the land in question to be identified, but usually it is unnecessary to set out in it the metes and bounds. The description of the lands in the body of the petition should be given in the form in which the petitioner desires the land to be described in the certificate of title. Where there is any plan of the property registered, the description of the land in the petition must be in accordance with the plan; Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; R. S. O. c. 136, s. 100 (3); and where pending the petition, the land was laid out into building lots according to a registered plan, the description was required to be amended according to the registered plan; Id.

Where the description of the land in the heading of the petition appears to the Referee of Titles, not to be sufficiently explicit, he should require a sufficient and proper description to be inserted in all notices by him directed to be published, or served; and where it appears that there is no sufficiently definite description of the lands contained in either the heading or the body of the petition, or that the description given is misleading, the Referee may require the petition to be amended in that respect, before proceeding with the investigation. The petition, if amended in this respect, would also require to be re-registered, if it had been previously registered: see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 6.

Rule 991.

Referee may insert more specific description of land in the notices to be served or published.

Estate, or Interest, Claimed.—The estate, or interest, claimed by the petitioner, should also be accurately stated in the petition, and also the estates and interests of all other persons in the land, which are intended to be admitted by the petitioner, otherwise the petitioner may be ordered to pay the costs of such other persons who may come in to prove claims, not admitted in the petition. The petitioner should not allege in his petition that the estate which he claims is subject to any rights or claims which he intends to dispute.

State claimed must be correctly stated in petition.

Form of Petition.—The form of petition given in the Schedule to the Act, R. S. O. p. 1231 (H. & L. Forms, No. 1430), should be followed as nearly as may be. It is neither necessary, nor desirable, to set out in detail, in the petition, the facts and circumstances affecting the title; but a concise statement of such facts as are necessary to make out the title, and which do not appear in the produced documents, is to be delivered to the Referee, with the other documents required to be furnished under R. S. O. c. 135, s. 7 (4).

Petition.

Filing the Petition.—Under R. S. O. c. 135, s. 5, the application is required to be made to the High Court or a Judge thereof. The petition is filed in the Central office: Rule 983.

Where the investigation of title is to be proceeded with before a Local Referee, the petition before being filed, must be entered with the Inspector of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 997.

Indorsement of Petition.—The petition should be indorsed with the usual notice of the name and address of the solicitor by whom it is filed, or of the principal and agent, where it is filed by an agent: see Rules 134, 136; or when filed by a petitioner in person, there must be indorsed his place of residence and occupation, and an address for service within 2 miles of the office where the proceedings are to be carried on: see Rules 135, 136.

Where it is desired that the petition should be referred for investigation to a Local Master, the memorandum required by Rule 995 must be also indorsed.

Registering Petition.—Upon filing a petition under the Act, the officer with whom it is filed is to issue a certificate of its filing: see form R. S. O. p. 1279 (H. & L. Forms, No. 1431), which is to be registered in the Registry Office of the Registration Division, in which the lands in question are situate: R. S. O. c. 135, s. 6. This certificate need not be registered immediately on the petition being filed, but its registration may be deferred until it is seen whether the certificate of title will be granted.

If after the registration of a petition it is amended in any material particular, the petition, as amended should be registered. The object

Rule 991. of the registration is to give notice to persons dealing with the land pending the investigation of the title, of the pendency of the proceedings. Owing, however, to the right now to delay its registration until almost the last moment before the granting of a certificate, the object aimed at by this requirement seems to have been rendered nugatory.

petitioner.

Proofs Required on Investigation of Titles.—The following are the papers which it is necessary to deliver to the Referee of Titles, to whom the petition is referred, in all ordinary cases, and the proofs 1 to 15 should be delivered at one time, not piecemeal.

1. The affidavit of the petitioner, under the 8th section of The Quieting Titles Act. If the affidavit is not made by the petitioner, some valid reason should be given why it is not: Re Raudell, 1 Chy. Ch. 71. (For form of affidavit and schedule, see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1132, 1435.) The schedule of documents must be marked, as an exhibit, by the commissioner before whom the affidavit is sworn: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352.

N.B.—None of the affidavits in support of the petition should be sworn until the petition has been filed.

Certificate of counsel.

2. The certificate of counsel, or solicitor, under the 9th section of The Quieting Titles Act (see Form, H. & L. Forms, No. 1434). This certificate should not be dated prior to the swearing of the petitioner's affidavit to which it relates. The certificate should follow the language of section 9. A certificate of counsel that he had corresponded with the petitioner was held insufficient: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352.

County
certificate.

3. The County Registrar's certificate of all registrations upon the land in question, up to, and including, the date of filing of the petition: Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; see H. & L. Forms, No. 1432. It is advisable that no further registrations should be made upon the lot by the petitioner pending the investigation. If any transfer by way of mortgage, or otherwise, be made by the petitioner pending the investigation, the Referee of Titles should be immediately notified thereof: see Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473; Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

When there are a great many registrations recorded against the lot, but not affecting the particular parcel in question, and the Registrar cannot certify those that do affect the land in question, without including in his certificate those that do not, his certificate may be dispensed with, on production of a proper affidavit of search by a Provincial Land Surveyor: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

The abstract will have to be subsequently continued to the date of the certificate of title: Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473; and shewing the registration of the certificate of filing the petition: R. S. O. c. 135, s. 6 (24).

Deeds.

4. All deeds and evidences of title in the petitioner's possession or power: see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 7 (1).

5. If the petitioner cannot produce all the deeds relating to the land, under which he derives title, he must procure and produce:—

(a) Certified copies of all registered instruments affecting the title, of which the originals are not produced, including discharged mortgages, and certified copies of all certificates of discharge of mortgages, and of the affidavits of execution thereof.

A certificate of discharge of mortgage has not the effect of reconveying the estate until it is registered: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; Re Luckhardt, 20 Ont. 111.

161. Affidavits of diligent search for the originals of all deeds to which the certified copies of memorials relate (where the memorials are not made sufficient evidence by R. S. O. c. 134, s. 142), 130, and for all other deeds relating to the title which are not produced.

Rule 991.

Affidavits of search for lost deeds.

(c) Proof of contents of the non-produced deeds, where the memorials are not sufficient evidence thereof.

Proof of contents where memorials not sufficient evidence thereof.

16. If there is no release of dower by the wife of a former owner, shew that he was unmarried when he conveyed, or that his wife is dead, or that her dower is barred, or that the land is not subject to her dower: see R. S. O. c. 164, s. 4; otherwise the certificate of title must be subject to her dower.

Proof of bar of dower.

7. Affidavits are required, shewing that possession has always accompanied the title under which the petitioner claims: see Rule 1001. Also affidavits shewing who is, at the time of making such affidavits, in occupation, and under what title, or claim of title. These affidavits should shew how the possession has been held, and should be made by disinterested persons: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1438. See further as to evidence of possession requisite: Rule 1001, note.

Affidavits as to possession.

8. Consent of the person in actual possession (wherever any person other than petitioner is in occupation), duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1442.

Consent required.

9. Consent of any mortgagee, or person entitled, to any outstanding charge, or estate, duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent see H. & L. Forms, No. 1442; and see Re Currehill, 8 C. L. J. 50.

N.B.—The consents mentioned in clauses 8 and 9 must be produced even though the petitioner admits that his title is subject to the right of such tenant, mortgagee, etc. In some cases the consent must be filed before the petition will be referred for examination: e.g., where the petitioner is a purchaser who has not obtained his conveyance, the consent of his vendor must be filed: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; or where he is tenant in remainder expectant on a life estate, the consent of the tenant for life must be filed: Re Pelton, 8 P. R. 470.

10. Sheriff's certificate that the property is not affected by any exception, sale under execution, or tax sale. (For form, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1437). This certificate should include the names of all persons who have owned the land at any time since 1803: see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Rundell, 4 Chy. Ch. 71; Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357; and 5 Ed. vii. c. 43, s. 10, which seems to render ineffective the former decisions of Nut v. Abmond, 20 Ont. 63, and Re Wimbull, 8 O. L. 11, 288.

Sheriff's certificate as to exceptions.

11. County Treasurer's certificate that there are no taxes in arrear, and that there has been no sale for taxes, and stating the year for which the last roll of taxes in arrear has been returned to him. (For form, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1430). Proof must be given of payment of all taxes, except those for the year in which the certificate issues. If the certificate first produced does not cover all such taxes an additional certificate will be required: see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352.

County Treasurer's certificate as to taxes.

N.B.—Certificates of title are always granted subject to the taxes for the current year in which the certificate bears date: see R. S. O. c. 135, ss. 12, 25 (b). Whenever the roll of taxes in arrear for any preceding year has not been returned to the County Treasurer, his certificate must be supplemented by the collector's, or township Rules treasurer's receipt for all taxes not covered by the Treasurer's certificate, other than those for the current year: see R. S. O. c. 224, s. 100.

992, 993 Statement of facts. 12. A concise statement of any other facts necessary to make out the title; and affidavits or other evidence to prove the same: R. S. O. c. 135, s. 7 (40, 45).

N.B.—All affidavits to prove facts material to the petitioner's title, should, as far as possible, be made by disinterested persons: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352.

Schedule of particulars. 13. Schedule of the particulars so produced to be marked as an exhibit to the petitioner's affidavit: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352; R. S. O. c. 135, s. 7; see Form, H. & L. Forms, No. 1437.

Crown lands registered in the Queen's Bench office no longer bind lands unless also registered in the Registry office: see R. S. O. c. 113, s. 15; Re Franklin, S. P. R. 470; 51 Viet. c. 33 (10, 1).

The Referee's certificate, allowing or disallowing, the claim of any contestant, requires confirmation in the same manner as a Master's report made in an action.

Affidavits of publication of advertisement. Affidavits proving the publication, and posting of the advertisement required under The Quieting Titles Act, s. 14, should shew that the deponent has examined issues of the papers in which the advertisement has been published; and also that the notices have remained posted at the Court House, and Post Office, continuously for one month: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352; Re Hill, Ib. 348. For forms of affidavits, see Taylor on Titles, 2nd ed., pp. 200, 201.

Petitions to be referred to Judge in certain cases before being referred for investigation. 992. Where an application is made under section 3 of the said Act, the proper officer in the Central Office shall attend one of the Judges with the petition for directions, before the same is referred for investigation. Con. Rule 1014. Rules 1 Jan., 1896, 1496.

Taken from Chy. O. 493.

Where petitioner has only a partial interest, consent of other parties interested required. Where the petitioner has merely a partial interest, the Court usually requires the consent of the other persons interested in the estate, to be filed, before authorizing the petition to be referred for investigation. Thus, where a purchaser before conveyance filed a petition, the consent of his vendor was required: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; and where the petitioner was a tenant in remainder, the consent of the tenant of the particular estate was required: Re Pelton, S. P. R. 470.

The consent duly verified by affidavit should be attached to the petition, when brought to be filed.

Petitions, how often to be referred. 993. All petitions under the said Act shall be filed in the Central Office, and may at the option of the petitioner, be referred to any of the officers of the Court at Toronto, or to any conveyancing counsel, who may from time to time be designated by the Court for the purpose, or to any Local Master. Rules 25 June, 1894, 1362; Rules 1 Jan., 1896, 1497.

Based upon Chy. O. 494.

Where the petitioner desires to have the petition referred to any Local Master as Referee of Titles, he must designate the officer to whom he desires the reference, by indorsement on the petition: see Rule 995. If there be no such indorsement the petition will be referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 996.

Rules
994-997.

994. The Senior Registrar shall, until further order, be the sole Inspector of Titles, in respect of petitions filed under The Quieting Titles Act, and sole Referee of any petitions, the proceedings under which are to be conducted in Toronto. Con. Rule 1016.

Senior Registrar to be Inspector

Taken from Chy. O. 433.

The Inspector of Titles supervises the work of all Local Referees of Titles, and as Referee of Titles at Toronto he investigates titles referred to him for investigation: see Rules 1007, 1008.

The fees payable to the Inspector of Titles are regulated by Tariff B., 110.

995. Petitions to be referred to any Local Master shall be indorsed thus: "To be referred to the Master at _____, Inspector of Titles." Rules 23 June, 1894, 1363.

Petitions, how to be indorsed.

Taken from Chy. O. 495.

At present there is only one Inspector of Titles, and this officer is also the sole Referee of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 994.

If there be no indorsement, of the name of a Local Master, the petition is to be referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 996.

Where the petition is required to be referred to a Local Master, as Referee, it must, before being filed, be entered with the Inspector of Titles, and a fee of $8 in stamps must be paid thereon: see Rule 997, Tariff B., 110.

996. Petitions filed unindorsed with the names of a Referee shall, without order, stand referred to the Referee in Toronto, or to one of the Referees in Toronto (if more than one), in rotation or otherwise as the Court or a Judge from time to time directs; but a petition indorsed with the name of any Local Master shall stand referred to him accordingly, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. Con. Rule 23 June, 1894, 1364.

Petitions, which to be referred to Toronto Referee.

Taken from Chy. O. 496.

At present there is only one Referee at Toronto: see Rule 994.

997. Where the petitioner desires the reference to a Local Master, the petition shall be entered with the Inspector of Titles before being filed as required by The Quieting Titles Act, and the Inspector shall note thereon the day of entering Petitions to be referred to Local Referees, to be first entered with Inspector.

998. A local Master shall be entitled to confer or correspond, from time to time, with the Inspector of Titles, for advice and assistance on questions of practice or evidence, or other questions arising under the Act or under these Rules. Con. Rule 1020.

Taken from Chy. O. 498.

Certificate of filing of petition to be registered

999. The proper officer in the Central Office shall deliver to the party filing a petition under the Act, a certificate of the filing thereof, for registration; and thereupon the petition shall stand referred and shall be delivered or posted by the proper officer to the Referee named for that purpose. Con. Rule 1021.

Taken from Chy. O. 499.

The form of the certificate referred to in this Rule is given in R. S. O. p. 1270, and see H. & L. Forms, No. 1431. The certificate is required to be registered in the proper Registry Office; see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 6.

As to the time for registering the certificate: see note to Rule 991, p. 1227.

The originals, or certified copies, of all instruments, registered prior to this certificate are required to be produced to the Referee: see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 7 (1), (2).

support of application to be delivered to Referee and examined by him.

1000. The particulars necessary, under section 7 of the Act, to support the petition shall be delivered or sent by the petitioner, or his solicitor, to the Referee, and shall be forthwith examined and considered by him. Con. Rule 1022.

Taken from Chy. O. 500.

On delivering the papers to the Referee a fee of fifty cents is to be paid on each deed in the chain of title, other than satisfied mortgages; and ten cents on each paper filed: see Tariff B., 106.

Where the reference is to the Referee at Toronto the additional fee of $4 on the certificate of title is also payable; Ib.; but this fee is not payable where the reference is to a Local Master as Referee: see Tariff B., 110.

Evidence required as to possession

1001. In every case of an investigation of the title to property under the said Act, the petitioner shall show, by affidavit or otherwise, whether possession has always accompanied the title under which he claims the property, or how otherwise, or shall shew some sufficient reason for dispensing with such proof either wholly or in part. Con. Rule 1023.

Taken from Chy. O. 501.

The question of possession is always a very important one, and it is necessary that the affidavits should shew how the possession has been held, e.g.: whether by residence, or by cultivation, and by whom, if by tenants, giving their names and the periods during which they occupied. Proof as to possession is indispensable; Re Wright, 2 Chy. Ch. 355. For form of affidavit: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1438.

Where the petitioner is a mere trespasser claiming to have acquired title by possession, the evidence as to possession must be very clear and conclusive, and it must be shewn to have actually extended to the whole of the land claimed, and should negative the existence of the exceptions which prevent the Statute from running: Chapman v. Bunbury, 31 C. L. J. 103, 15 C. L. T. 57. The actual possession of some part of a lot, or parcel, of land by a mere trespasser, will be insufficient to confer a title by possession as to any other part of which there has been no actual possession, even though the lot be a wild lot: Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. 414; Reynolds v. Trivett, 7 O. L. R. 623. In order to confer a title under the Statute of Limitations there must be an actual and visible possession; mere payment of taxes on a vacant lot confers no title: Re Jarvis v. Cooke, 29 Gr. 303; Walton v. The Woodstock Gas Co., 1 Ont. 630; but see Steers v. Shaw, 1 Ont. 26. Even clearing and fencing, without actual possession or putting the land to any use, is not a sufficient possession to bar the rightful owner: Stovel v. Gregory, 21 Ont. App. 137.

In order to defeat a rightful owner's title, by adverse possession, the possession must have been continuous for the required number of years; whenever the possession is vacant, the rightful owner is in possession in contemplation of law: see Trustees Agency Co. v. Short, 13 App. Cas. 793; Reynolds v. Trivett, 7 O. L. R. 623.

Where the petitioner claims title by possession, he should prove the possession for the requisite time, by the clear and positive evidence of at least two independent witnesses. In such a case a notice, prepared by the Referee, should be served upon the person having the paper title, if he can be found, but if not, evidence of search for him and his representatives should be put in, and in such a case the possession should be shewn to have been long enough to bar him, even though he had no notice of the possession: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. Where the petitioner claims title as against the patentee, or his heirs, or assigns, of land of which they have not taken actual possession by residing on, or cultivating some portion thereof, he must shew either knowledge of his possession by the patentee, or his heirs, or assigns, or else establish a possession for at least twenty years as against the patentee and those claiming under him: R. S. O. c. 133, s. 5 (4); Re Linct, 3 Chy. Ch. 230; Bingle v. Dake, 42 U. C. Q. B. 250; VanVelsor v. Hughson, 45 U. C. Q. B. 252; Hicks v. Williams, 15 Ont. 228; Stovel v. Gregory, 21 Ont. App. 137; but this is not necessary as to other persons becoming interested in the lands, as to whom ten years' possession may be sufficient, e.g., a purchaser at a tax sale: Brooke v. Gibson, 27 Ont. 218, but see Donnelly v. Ames, Ib., 271; proof of notice to the husband of the owner is sufficient: Harris v. Prentiss, 30 C. P. 484; S. C. in Appeal, 7 Ont. App. 414. A decree for redemption not prosecuted by the mortgagor for upwards of 21 years

Petitioner originally entering as a trespasser.

Possession of part is not constructive possession of rest of lot.

Evidence where title claimed solely by possession.

Rules was held to constitute no bar to the mortgagee's obtaining a title by 1002-1004. possession, notwithstanding that the mortgagor was a lunatic: Re Leslie, 23 Ont. 143.

When actual possession of a parcel may confer title to residue of lot. It is not clear that it is necessary to establish so strict, and actual, possession to all the land claimed, where the petitioner has been in possession under a claim of title which was originally defective. In such a case the doctrine of constructive possession might, and would probably, be held to apply even as against the owner of the paper title: see Dundas v. Johnston, 24 U. C. Q. B. 550; Davis v. Henderson, 20 U. C. Q. B. 344; per Burton, J., Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. p. 425; Stevens v. Shuc, 1 Ont. 26.

A person who has been in possession under a fraudulent grantee, but who has not acquired any title as against the latter, cannot set up a title by possession as against a purchaser of the land from the assignee in bankruptcy of the fraudulent grantor, made after the fraudulent conveyance has been set aside in proceedings instituted against both the fraudulent grantor and grantee: Donovan v. Herbert, 4 Ont. 655; unless the possession has continued for a sufficient time after the making of the latter conveyance to bar the title of the grantee.

Where there is no contest, attendance of petitioner's solicitor dispensed with.

1002. Where there is no contest, the attendance of the petitioner, or of any solicitor on his behalf, shall not be required on the examination of the title, except where, for any special reason, the Referee directs such attendance. Con. Rule 1024.

Taken from Chy. O. 502.

Referee to deliver requisitions and objections.

1003. If, on such examination as aforesaid, the Referee finds the proof of title defective, he shall deliver or mail to the petitioner, or to his solicitor or agent, a memorandum of such finding, stating shortly therein what the defects are, and he shall therein state as far as possible all the objections to the title. Con. Rule 1025.

Taken from Chy. O. 503.

Advertisements to be published in Gazette and other newspapers.

1004. When the Referee finds that a good title is shewn he shall prepare the necessary advertisement, and, unless the publication thereof is dispensed with under section 14 of the said Act, the same shall be published in the Official Gazette and in any other newspaper or newspapers in which the Referee thinks it proper to have the same inserted; and a copy of the advertisement shall also be put up on the door of the Court House of the county where the land lies, and, unless the nearest Post Office is in a city, in some conspicuous place in the Post Office which is situate nearest to the property, the title of which is under investigation; and the Referee shall indorse on the advertisement so prepared by him, the name of the newspaper or newspapers in which the same is to be published, and the number of insertions to be given therein respectively, and the period (not less than four weeks) for which the notice is to be continued at the Court House and Post Office respectively. Con. Rule 1026.

Rule 1004.
Notices to be posted at Court House and Post Office.

Taken from Chy. O. 504.

The notice is not to be published until the Referee finds that a good title is shewn.

The notice is, ordinarily, required to be published once in the Ontario Gazette, and at least once a week for two weeks in some local newspaper published in the county town, or other place near where the lands in question are situated; but in some cases it may be found advisable to publish the advertisement more frequently. At least a month should be given from the date of the publication of the first advertisement, for sending in claims.

Advertise-ment, how published.

For form of advertisement, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1439.

The advertisement is principally intended for persons, if any, whose rights are not disclosed on the proceedings. Persons who are known to have, or appear to have, some adverse claim, should generally be required to be served with notice of the proceedings: see R. S. O. c. 135, ss. 16-21; and see note to Rule 1005.

The notices required to be posted at the Court House, and Post Office, should be kept up continuously for the period directed, and the person intending to prove the posting up, should take care to see that such notices are kept up continuously for the requisite period: Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. For form of affidavits of posting, and of publication of advertisements: see Taylor on Titles, 2nd ed., pp. 200, 201.

Notice how published.

Affidavits proving publication.

Where the lands are situate in a city, posting of a notice at the Post Office is not required.

Where an advertisement was posted at the Court House nearest the lands, which was not the Court House of the County in which the lands were situate, the irregularity was waived by the Judge: Re Harris, 12 P. R. 430; and see R. S. O. c. 135, ss. 45, 46.

Where the property in question is proved to be of the value of no more than $3,000, the publication of an advertisement may be dispensed with: see R. S. O. c. 135, s. 14 (2). The affidavit proving the value of the land should follow the wording of that section, and should show explicitly that it is worth "no more than $3,000": see Form H. & L. Forms, No. 1441. Where a Local Referee dispenses with an advertisement, it would be convenient for him so to state in his certificate required by Rule 1007, e.g., by adding thereto "and it having been proved to my satisfaction that the land in question is of no more value than $3,000, I dispensed with the publication of any advertisements of this application."

Dispensing with advertisement.

Although publication of the notice in the Gazette and local paper is dispensed with, the notice must, nevertheless, be affixed in the Post Office and Court House, as required by this Rule, and also in a conspicuous place on the land in question: see s. 14 (2).

Rule 1005.

Notices required to be served.

1005. Any notice of the application to be served or mailed under section 16 of the Act, shall be prepared by the Referee; and directions shall in like manner, be given by him as to the persons to be served with the notice, and as to the mode of serving the same. Con. Rule 1027.

Taken from Chy. O. 505.

The 16th section of the Act is as follows:—

Adverse
be notified.

"16.—In case there appears to exist any claim adverse to, or inconsistent with, that of the petitioner to, or in respect of, any part of the land, the Judge shall direct such notice as he deems necessary to be mailed to, or served on, the adverse claimant, his agent or solicitor."

By section 23, the Referee of Titles, to whom any petition is referred, is to proceed as the Judge should do under the Act, had the reference not been made, and he is to have the same powers.

Notice should be required to be served on every person known to have a claim adverse to the petitioner, whether the claim be admitted by the petitioner or not, unless the consent of such person be filed, duly verified, consenting to a certificate of title being granted to the petitioner, free from, or subject to, the claim, if any, of such consenting party, and if subject to his claim, setting forth with clearness what his claim is. The notice to be served should contain explicit information why it is served; Ex parte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348.

Notice is also often required to be served for the sake of precaution, thus, where an application was made before The Devolution of Estates Act by devisees within a year of the death of their testator, notice was required to be served on the heirs-at-law, as the petition was, in effect, a proceeding to establish the will: Ex parte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348, and see Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

When title claimed by possession, owner of paper title to be served.

When title is claimed by possession, notice should ordinarily be served upon the persons who, but for such possession, would be the owners: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. So also where the petitioner claimed the north-east part of a lot under a will devising the north-west part, alleging that the word "west" was a clerical error, all persons interested in maintaining the opposite view were required to be notified: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357.

Where a petitioner claims title under a will in which the land has been misdescribed, his title may be quieted in any case in which the Court would in an action for the construction of the will determine that the land in question passed by the will as claimed by the petitioner, notwithstanding the erroneous description: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; but where the defect is in a deed inter partes the petitioner must bring an action to reform the deed, he cannot get the defect cured under The Quieting Titles Act: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474.

Parol evidence was held to be admissible to shew that "Lot 16, Con. 7, N. H." in a grant "North half of Lot 16, 7th Concession, Township of Mor..." Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; but where a description in a will is free from any patent ambiguity it would seem that parol evidence is inadmissible to shew that it means anything else than what is expressed: Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 119; Hickey v. Storer, 11 Ont. 106; Re Bain & Leslie, 25 Ont. 136, and see Asten v. Asten, 1894, 3 Ch. 260; 71 L. T. 228. But where there is a general devise of all the testator's land, followed by a particular erroneous description, the latter may be rejected; Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182; and see McFayden v. McFayden, 27 Ont. 598. Rule 1005.

Proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act being for the most part ex parte, it is often necessary to require the petitioner to negative the existence of facts, of which, in the case of a contest between the petitioner and any third person, the onus of proving would be on such third person: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50. Petitioner may be required to give negative evidence.

Where any transfer of the property has taken place, under circumstances of an unusual nature, it is necessary to require the petitioner to adduce evidence to negative the existence of any fraud, or want of bona fides: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80. Where, for instance, the property is claimed by, or on behalf of, a wife, under a conveyance made to her during coverture, an explanation of the transaction should be given on oath to shew that it was bona fide, and was such that the husband's creditors could have no claim to the property, and the affidavit of the petitioner should be corroborated by disinterested persons of credibility: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357. So where the former owner, a person of the same name as the petitioner, had conveyed the land to the petitioner a few days before the filing of the petition, and the title appeared simple, explanations were required to be given: Re Wright, 2 Chy. Ch. 355. Or explain circumstances creating suspicion.

And, in addition, notice must also be required to be served on persons who may appear to have a possible interest in disputing the bona fides of any conveyance under which the petitioner claims, wherever there are any circumstances calculated to arouse suspicion: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

Notices required by the Referee, to be served, are to be prepared and issued by him. Where service is directed to be effected by mailing the Referee may direct the letter enclosing the notice, to be prepaid and registered, and a notice to be indorsed on the envelope to the effect that if the letter be not called for within eight days that it is to be returned to the Referee of Titles, by whom the notice is issued. Directions to return letters, if not called for, are required by the Post Office authorities, to be printed, in order to secure due attention. Service of notices, how effected.

Where a notice, served in this way, is returned to the Referee of Titles, he should require further service. Where service is authorized on the attorney, solicitor, or agent of the party to be notified, there should be evidence produced that the person served was in fact the attorney, solicitor, or agent of the party required to be notified.

Where the person to be notified is an infant, the Official Guardian ad litem may be served for him, and no order appointing him guardian is necessary: Re Murray, 13 P. R. 367. Notice to infants.

For form of notice to a person appearing to have an adverse interest, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1445.

Strict proof is required to be given of the due service of all notices required to be served. The entries of service in a deceased solicitor's docket were held insufficient proof: Ex parte Palmer, 2 Chy. Ch. 351. Where a certificate was granted on a false affidavit of the due service of a notice, the certificate was set aside on the application of the party directed to be notified, with costs: the Court refusing to enter into the question whether he was properly entitled to notice or not: Re Ashford, 3 Chy. Ch. 77. Proof of service.

Rules1006, 1007.

Adjudication on claim of contestant.

Where there is a contest, the Referee may, by consent, report on the contestant's claim before disposing of the petitioner's title; but he should not do so, without consent. In general, the petitioner is bound, in the first place, to make out his own title before he can claim to have an adjudication upon the claim of a contestant: Re Cameron, 14 Gr. 612. And a contestant is at liberty to point out defects in the petitioner's title, before proceeding to prove his own: Armour v. Smith, 16 Gr. 380.

Referee may award costs.

The Referee of Titles may award costs to, or against, a petitioner, or contestant: R. S. O. c. 135, ss. 21, 23; Rules 1130 (4), 1137; Anon., 2 Chy. Ch. 22. Where a petitioner claims title by possession and the holder of the paper title on being notified appears and contests the matter, costs will not be awarded against him as a matter of course, even though the petitioner succeeds in establishing his title: Low v. Morrison, 14 Gr. 192.

Form of report.

The order or certificate of the Referee should be drawn up in similar terms to a report—e.g., "I find and certify," and not "adjudge and determine": Anon., 2 Chy. Ch. 22.

Inspector and Toronto Referee to confer with Judges

1006. The Inspector or Toronto Referee, shall from time to time confer with one of the Judges in respect of matters before such Inspector or Toronto Referee, as there may be occasion. Con. Rule 1028.

Taken from Chy. O. 506.

When title made out before Local Referee, he is to certify same, and forward papers to Inspector.

1007. When any person has shewn himself, in the opinion of a Local Master, to be entitled to a certificate or conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, the Master shall write at the foot of the petition, and sign, a memorandum to the following effect: "I am of opinion that the petitioner is entitled to a certificate of title (or conveyance) as prayed (or subject to the following incumbrances, etc., as the case may be):" and shall transmit the petition (if by mail, the postage being prepaid) with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto, to the Inspector of Titles with whom the petition was entered; and the Inspector shall examine the same carefully, and if he finds any defect in the evidence of title, or in the proceedings, he shall, by correspondence or otherwise, point the same out to the petitioner, or his solicitor, or to the Master, as the case may be, in order that the defect may be remedied before a Judge is attended with the petition and papers for approval. Con. Rule 1029.

Duty of Inspector.

Taken from Chy. O. 507.

Finding of Local Referee not conclusive.

It will be seen from this Rule that the finding of a Local Referee of Titles is not conclusive, but that it is the duty of the Inspector of Titles to examine the proceedings, and to require any defects in the proofs to be supplied. Where the Inspector finds the proceedings defective, he either transmits the papers to the Referee, with a note of the defects, or, where they are few, and of trifling character, he communicates directly with the solicitor of the petitioner. Rule 1008.

Where the advertisement is dispensed with, see notes to Rule 1004.

Where there has been any contest before a Referee of Titles, he should before certifying in favour of the petitioner, and transmitting the papers to the Inspector, dispose of the claim of the contestant. The order or report of the Referee on the claim of a contestant should be filed and confirmed, in the same manner as a Master's report in an action, before a certificate of title is granted to the petitioner: Rules 693, 769. As all proceedings in Quieting Title matters are commenced in Toronto, all reports must be filed in the Central Office there: Rule 693 (1).

An appeal will lie from the order, report, or certificate, of a Referee of Titles, or Inspector of Titles, to a Judge in Court in the same manner as an appeal from a report made in an action: Rule 1013; seven clear days' notice of appeal must be given to the respondent: see Rules 1013, 769, 771, 772.

A contestant who succeeds in establishing an adverse claim, cannot obtain a certificate of title in the proceedings in which he is contestant, but he may himself file a petition, and on such petition, he would be entitled to use the evidence taken in the matter in which he was contestant: Re Dunham, 8 P. R. 472.

1008. Where the Inspector, or other Referee (not being a Local Master), finds that the petitioner has shewn himself entitled to a certificate of title, or a conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, the Inspector, or Referee (not being a Local Master), shall write at the foot of the petition, and sign a memorandum to the same effect as is required from a Local Master, and shall prepare the certificate of title, or conveyance, and shall engross the same in duplicate, one being on parchment or parchment paper; and shall sign the same respectively at the foot or in the margin thereof; and shall attend one of the Judges therewith, and with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto; and on the certificate or conveyance being signed by the Judge, the Inspector or other Referee aforesaid, as the case may be, shall deliver or transmit the same to the Central office to be sealed and registered, and the proper officer in the Central office shall deliver or transmit the same when so sealed and registered, to the petitioner, his solicitor or agent, for registration in the proper County. Con. Rule 1030.

Taken from Chy. O. 508.

A Local Referee to whom a petition is referred, is not to prepare the certificate or title.

When title is made out to satisfaction of Inspector, or Toronto Referee, he is to certify same; and to prepare certificate of Title.

Certificate to be engrossed in duplicate.

Signed by Judge and sealed.

Certificate on Title, by whom prepared.

Rules 1009. 1011. The Inspector of Titles—or the Referee of Titles, at Toronto, where the petition is referred to him—are the only officers authorized to prepare certificates of title, issued under the Act.

Engrossment of certificate. This Rule requires the certificate to be engrossed by the officer preparing it; the object of the Rule being, to insure the certificate's being engrossed in a proper manner. but for some time past, the practice has been for the petitioner, or his solicitor, to procure the engrossments to be made on printed headings, supplied for the purpose by the law stationers.

The engrossment should be well and carefully made, without using figures or abbreviations, as the Judges refuse to sign certificates engrossed in a careless and slovenly manner.

Fees on. Where the petition is referred to a Local Referee, no fee is payable on the certificate of title, except the fees for entry; the fee of $8, payable to the Inspector, being in full of all fees payable to him: Tariff B., 110. Where the petition is referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto, a fee of $4 is payable on the certificate of title, in addition to the fees for entry: see Tariff B., 108.

After certificate of title granted, title deeds may be delivered up without order or receipt being given. 1009. When a certificate of title or conveyance under the Act has been granted, the Inspector or Referee may, without further order, deliver, on demand, to the party entitled thereto, or his solicitor, all deeds and other evidences of title, not including affidavits made, and evidence given, in the matter of the title; and shall take his receipt therefor. Con. Rule 1031.

Taken from Chy. O. 509.

Original deeds only turned to petitioner. Under this Rule it has been the practice to return only original deeds and documents of title, but not certified copies, these are retained by the Inspector of Titles, with the other papers in the matter.

Papers filed in Quieting Title proceedings are not open to general inspection; but it has been usual to require the person desiring to search them to shew that he has an interest in the proceedings, or to produce the consent of the petitioner or his solicitor: see Reg. v. Bank of England, 64 L. T. 408; and Re Strachan, 1895, 1 Ch. 439; 72 L. T. 175; Re Acory, before Meredith, C.J., C.P., 11th March, 1896.

Inspector or Toronto Referee to keep copies of all letters. 1010. Every Inspector and other Toronto Referee shall keep a book and preserve therein a copy of all his letters under these Rules. Con. Rule 1032.

Taken from Chy. O. 510.

Applicant to pay all postage, etc. 1011. The applicant or his solicitor shall pay, or repay, as the case may be, all postages and other expenses of transmitting letters or papers. Con. Rule 1033.

Taken from Chy. O. 515.

1012. Petitions under section 33 of the Act shall be filed and proceeded with in the same manner (as nearly as may be) as petitions for an indefeasible title; and the fees of officers, solicitors, and counsel, shall be the same as in respect of the like proceedings in a cause or matter. Con. Rule 1034.

Rules
1012-1014.

Proceedings under s. 33, how conducted, and fees therefor.

"33. In case any person domiciled in Ontario, or claiming any real estate in Ontario, desires to establish, not his title to some specific property, but generally that he is the legitimate child of his parents, or that the marriage of his father and mother, or of his grandfather and grandmother, was a valid marriage, or that his own marriage was a valid marriage, or that he is the heir, or one of the co-heirs of any person deceased, or that he is a natural born subject of [His] Majesty, he may, if the said Court thinks fit, have any of the said matters judicially investigated and declared."

Declaration of legitimacy, etc.

Under the Imperial Statutes, 21 & 22 Viet. c. 93, it has been held that a petitioner cannot obtain a declaration of the legitimacy of his grandfather: Dodds v. Attorney-General, 42 L. T. 402 nor of the illegitimacy of some other person: Mansell v. Attorney-General, 2 P. D. 265, and see Ib., 4 P. D. 232.

A person who appears, and unsuccessfully opposes the claim of the petitioners, may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his contestation: see Rule 1130 (4), 1137; Bain v. Attorney-General, 1892, P. 261.

1013. An appeal shall lie from the order or decision of the Inspector, or Toronto Referee and others when they are acting under the said Act, which shall be prosecuted in the same way as an appeal from a Master. Con. Rule 1035.

Appeals from Referee and Local Masters.

Taken from Cby. O. 591.

Appeals from a Master may be prosecuted in two ways: appeals from Master's reports, and certificates, being governed by Rules 769, 771; and appeals from Masters when acting in Chambers being governed by Rule 767: it is probably intended that appeals from Masters when acting under The Quieting Titles Act shall be had in the same manner as appeals from reports, and such appeals are therefore to be prosecuted as directed by Rules 769, 771.

1014 The fees of solicitors and counsel, and the fees payable by stamps, for proceedings under the said Act, shall, respectively, be the same as in respect of the like proceedings in a cause or matter. Con. Rule 1037.

Fees to solicitors and counsel.

Taken from Cby. O. 511.

This Rule seems somewhat inconsistent with the Tariff, which prescribes the fees to be paid to Referees of Title, some of which differ from those payable for the like proceedings in suits. Possibly the Rule may be construed so far as it relates to disbursements, as if Rule 1015. it read, "where no other fee is expressly prescribed by the Tariff, the fees payable to Referees of Title shall be the same as for like proceedings in suits."

9. SUMMARY INQUIRIES IN AID OF EXECUTION.

Voluntary and Fraudulent Conveyances.

The principal enactments, under which creditors are enabled to reach property conveyed away by their debtors, are,

(1) The Statute, R. S. O. c. 334, ss. 1-4, (13 Eliz. c. 5), which made void as against creditors all transfers of lands or goods made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors and others, and even though for valuable consideration unless taken bona fide and without notice or knowledge on the part of the purchaser; R. S. O. c. 115, s. 3.

(2) R. S. O. c. 147, under which transfers which are made by persons in insolvent circumstances, and which defeat or prejudice creditors, are made void as against such creditors.

Under 13
Eliz. c. 5.
Voluntary conveyance.

The Statute, R. S. O. c. 334, ss. 1-5, (13 Eliz. c. 5).

Under this Act the law infers that creditors are delayed, etc., by a voluntary conveyance made at a time when, by reason of indebtedness, the transferor by so dealing with his property renders himself unable to pay his creditors, if required to do so; Freeman v. Pope, L. R. 9 Eq. 206; 5 Chy. 540; whether the conveyance is fraudulent or not; Irvine v. Freeman, 13 Gr. 465; Ferguson v. Keany, 16 Ont. App. 276; but a bona fide conveyance for value, is not voidable under the Act, even though it have the effect of delaying or defeating creditors; Building & Loan Ass. v. Palmer, 12 Ont. 1; and see R. S. O. c. 115, s. 3.

A valid voluntary settlement may be made by a settlor, indebted at the time, provided ample available assets are left out of the settlement to meet his debts, whether the debts are then actually payable or not; Freeman v. Pope, supra; Re Ridler, 22 Ch. D. 71; O'Doherty v. Ontario Bank, 32 C. P. 285; and an agreement by a solvent person to assign all his personal chattels and effects, where there is no other proof of an intention to defeat creditors, is not of itself proof of such intention; Honman v. Lyons & Co., 39 W. R. 301; and see Cameron v. Cusack, 17 Ont. App. 489; but a voluntary conveyance by a solvent person is void, if its result is to denude him of all his property and so render him insolvent thereafter; Sun Life v. Elliott, 31 S. C. R. 91.

Even though not indebted there is a presumption of fraudulent intent, where a man, being about to go into business, settles the bulk of his property voluntarily, and becomes unable to pay his debts within a short time afterwards; see Mackay v. Douglas, L. R. 14 Eq. 106; Fleming v. Edwards, 23 Ont. App. at p. 727; but where a retired and successful hotel-keeper made a voluntary settlement, when about to resume business, the settlement was upheld, the grantor's subsequent insolvency being caused by loss by fire; Fleming v. Edwards, supra.

itors and subject matter within the Act.

Ordinarily speaking, to entitle a creditor to impeach a deed under the Statute of Elizabeth he must have been a creditor of the grantor at the time the deed was executed; see Real Estate Loan Co. v. The Yorkville & Vaughan Road Co., 9 Ont. 464; but a voluntary disposition of property, which, by reason of indebtedness at the time, is capable of being avoided by creditors, may be avoided not only by any creditor, who was such at the date of its execution, but also Rule 1015, by any who become such after that date, so long as any one of the original creditors is unpaid: Jenkyn v. Laughan, 3 Drew, 419; Freeman v. Pope, supra; Middleton v. Pollock, 2 Ch. D. 108; Vinden v. Fraser, 28 Gr. 502; Collard v. Bennett, Id., 550. Under circumstances also from which intent to delay, etc., may be presumed, a voluntary settlement may be void against subsequent creditors, where it would not be presumed to be fraudulent merely because of the settlor's embarrassed circumstances when he made it: see May on Fraudulent Conveyances, 2nd ed., 64.

The protection of 13 Eliz., c. 5, extends not only to "creditors," but to "others" who have lawful actions: Oliver v. McLaughlin, 21 Ont. 41.

Where a creditor brings an action to set aside as fraudulent a conveyance made by his debtor, without first obtaining judgment and execution he must sue on behalf of all creditors of the debtor, and it has been held that in such an action, relief will be confined to setting aside the conveyance, leaving him to resort to some independent proceeding to obtain execution against the property: Oliver v. McLaughlin, 24 Ont. 41; but quære, whether the plaintiff may not obtain judgment and execution for his claim in the same action. In many cases this has been done: see for instance Building & Loan Assoc. v. Palmer, 12 Ont. 1.

A creditor for less than $40 cannot attack a conveyance of lands as fraudulent: Zilliox v. Deans, 20 Ont. 539; and see R. S. O. c. 60, s. 230, and Rule 842.

A mortgagee is not, merely by reason of his position as such, a creditor of the mortgagor within the statute, nor is the mortgage debt a debt within the statute, unless it is shewn that the mortgage security, at the time of the mortgage, was of less value than the amount of the loan: Crombie v. Young, 26 Ont. 194.

A conveyance by a debtor, in good faith, of his assets to pay his existing debts, cannot be impeached by one who has at the time a right of action for a tort, and subsequently recovers judgment, even though the conveyance is made because of the threatened action: Cameron v. Cusack, 17 Ont. App. 480; Gurofski v. Harris, 27 Ont. 201; 23 Ont. App. 717.

Where the subject of the conveyance cannot be reached by creditors at the time when it was made, the conveyance is not within the Act: Blakely v. Gould, 24 Ont. App. 153; 27 S. C. R. 682 (an assignment by way of security of the profit expected to be made out of a contract to do work).

A fraudulent intention is sufficient to avoid the transaction, even in the case of a deed made for value: see Merchants' Bank v. Clarke, ^{Fraudulent Int. ac.} 18 Gr. 594; and see R. S. O. c. 115, s. 3; but knowledge on the part of the transferee who has given valuable consideration of the motive or design of the transferor is not conclusive of bad faith: Mulcahy v. Archibald, 28 S. C. R. 529.

In the case of voluntary conveyances, it matters not whether the grantee had, or had not, notice of the fraud: fraudulent intent on the part of the grantor will suffice; but in the case of a purchaser for value, fraudulent intent on the part of both parties must be shewn, to avoid the transaction: Wood v. Irwin, 16 Gr. 398; Merchants' Bank v. Clarke, 18 Gr. 594; Re Johnson, 20 Ch. D. 391; DalGLISH v. McCarthy, 19 Gr. 578; Allan v. McFarish, 8 Ont. App.

Rule 1015. 440; Oliver v. McLaughlin, 24 Ont. 41; Hickerson v. Parrington, 18 Ont. App. 635; and see R. S. O. c. 115, s. 3.

A transaction by which a creditor is delayed is as much within the statute as one which defeats him altogether: Martha v. McKenna, 11 Gr. 59.

A conveyance which has the result of defeating creditors will not be presumed to have been executed with that intent, if from other circumstances the Court is satisfied that such was not the intent: Ex p. Mercer, Re Wallace, 17 Q. B. D. 290; Carr v. Corfield, 20 Ont. 218; Randall v. Dopp, 22 Ont. 422.

Where the object of such a conveyance was to make good breaches of trust committed by the grantor, it was held valid: New v. Hunting, 1897, 2 Q. B. 19; 76 L. T. 742.

A transaction by which property purchased by the debtor is conveyed to his wife or other person as his appointee, so as to defeat creditors, is a device within the statute, and the husband is not a proper party to proceedings to set the transaction aside: Murdock v. O'Sullivan, 25 Gr. 392.

A conveyance to a wife by her husband in pursuance of an antenuptial contract was held to be in performance of a duty, which divested the transaction of fraudulent colour: Stuart v. Thomson, 23 Ont. 503.

As to the circumstances under which a man may validly expend money to make improvements upon lands of his wife, see Jackson v. Bozman, 14 Gr. 156; Davidson v. Macguire, 7 Ont. App. 98.

Purchasers for value.

The exception from the operation of the Act, of interests conveyed on good consideration and bona fide, includes the case of a purchaser of any interest, whether legal or equitable, under the deed impeached, and prevents the deed from being void as to him: Halifax Jt. Stk. Bkg. Co. v. Gledhill, 1891, 1 Ch. 31.

Where a deed is made for value, the question is whether it was made bona fide, and the burden of proof of mala fides is upon those who seek to set the deed aside: Re Johnson, 51 L. J. Chy. 501.

A transfer to secure an existing debt, where the transferor does not either directly or indirectly make himself an instrument for the purpose of subsequently benefiting the transferor, is not void merely by reason of knowledge on the part of the transferee of the intent of the transferor being to prevent a seizure under an execution: Mulcahy v. Archibald, 28 S. C. R. 523; but see Re Jukes, 1902, 2 K. B. 58.

Following proceeds of sale.

Where land is sold by the debtor and with the proceeds other lands are purchased and conveyed to an appointee of the debtor, the consideration money may be followed into the lands conveyed to the appointee: Fleury v. Pringle, 26 Gr. 67.

Where the property of the debtor has become incapable of being distinguished, as where the fraudulent grantee has sold the property to an innocent purchaser, and disposed of the proceeds so that they cannot be followed, there is no right of action against the fraudulent grantee to recover the purchase money: Tennant v. Galloway, 25 Ont. 56; Union Bank v. Barbour, 18 C. L. T. 200.

Delay.

Delay in taking proceedings to avoid a conveyance under the statute is no defence unless continued long enough to bar the legal right: Re Maddery, 27 Ch. D. 523.

An action does not lie in Ontario by a judgment creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance by his debtor of lands situate in a foreign country, when the plaintiff has no such remedy in the country where the lands lie, and though all parties reside in Ontario: Burns v. Davidson, 21 Ont. 547; and see Purdon v. Parry, 26 S. C. R. 412. Rule 1015.

Though the object of a conveyance may be to protect property from creditors of the actual purchaser, it nevertheless belongs to such purchaser, and the grantee may be declared a trustee for the real purchaser, at the suit of his creditors; and also at the suit of the real purchaser himself, unless the grantee sets up the criminality of the transaction: Gibbons v. Tomlinson, 21 Ont. 489; Day v. Day, 17 Ont. App. 157. The grantee having no interest may convey to the real owner at any time, and creditors of the former have no right to have such a conveyance set aside to obtain that which really does not belong to their debtor: Gibbons v. Tomlinson, supra. Conveyance, when good between the parties.

Fraudulent Assignments and Preferences under R. S. O. c. 147.—R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, s. 2, made void all transfers, etc., if made by an insolvent with intent to delay his creditors, or give one or more of them a preference over his other creditors, or which had such effect. Upon the meaning of these latter words there arose a difference of opinion (see River Stare Co. v. Sill, 12 Ont. 557; Rae v. McDonald, 13 Ont. 352; Molson's Bank v. Halter, 16 Ont. App. 323), some Judges holding that the Act applied if the person who made the transfer was at the time insolvent, and its effect was to defeat or delay creditors, or give one of them a preference, the intent being immaterial. The Supreme Court, however, finally held that the intent to defeat or delay, or to prefer, was still necessary, and that if a transfer was the result of pressure it would not be void as a preference: Molson's Bank v. Halter, 18 S. C. R. 88; see also Benatluck v. Bank of B. N. A., 30 S. C. R. 120.

The above section 2 was thereupon, in 1891, repealed by 54 Vict. c. 29, s. 1, and the following (now R. S. O. c. 147, s. 2), substituted:—

2.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 3 of this Act, every gift, conveyance, assignment or transfer, delivery over or payment of goods, chattels or effects, or of bills, bonds, notes or securities, or of shares, dividends, premiums, or bounties in any bank, company or corporation, or of any other property real or personal, made by a person at a time when he is in insolvent circumstances, or is unable to pay his debts in full, or knows that he is on the eve of insolvency, with intent to defeat, hinder, delay, or prejudice, his creditors, or any one or more of them, shall as against the creditor or creditors injured, delayed or prejudiced, be utterly void. Gifts, transfers, etc., made by insolvent which defeat or prejudice creditors to be void.

"Insolvent circumstances."—There seems to be no material difference between the expressions "in insolvent circumstances" and "unable to pay his debts in full": Dominion Bank v. Cowan, 14 Ont. 465.

A debtor is in insolvent circumstances if he is unable to meet the current demands of his creditors, and has not sufficient property subject to execution to pay all his debts if sold under legal process at a sale fairly and reasonably conducted: Warnock v. Klopfer, 14 Ont. 288; Dominion Bank v. Cowan, Id., 465; Clarkson v. Stirling, Id., 466; Rae v. McDonald, 13 Ont. 352.

See further notes, infra "Fraudulent Assignments, etc."

Rule 1015.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 3 aforesaid, every gift, conveyance, assignment or transfer, delivery over or payment of goods, chattels, or effects, or of bills, bonds, notes or securities, or of shares, dividends, premiums, or bonus in any bank, company or corporation, or of any other property, real or personal, made by a person at a time when he is in insolvent circumstances, or is unable to pay his debts in full, or knows that he is on the eve of insolvency, to or for a creditor, with intent to give such creditor an unjust preference over his other creditors, or over any one or more of them, shall as against the creditor or creditors injured, delayed, prejudiced or postponed, be utterly void.

"Insolvent circumstances": see notes to preceding sub-section.

See further notes, infra "Fraudulent Preferences."

(3) Subject to the provisions of section 3 aforesaid, if such transaction with or for a creditor has the effect of giving that creditor a preference over the other creditors of the debtor, or over any one or more of them, it shall in and with respect to any action or proceeding which, within sixty days thereafter, is brought or taken to impeach or set aside such transaction, be presumed prima facie (1) to have been made with the intent aforesaid, and to be an unjust preference within the meaning hereof, whether the same be made voluntarily or under pressure.

"Has the effect of giving, etc."—Under the similar language of the previous enactment (R. S. O. 1887, c. 124, s. 21, a transaction which had "the effect of giving a preference" was held to be a transaction by which "that is done indirectly, which, if it had been done directly would have been a preference within the Act": Stephens v. McArthur, 19 S. C. R. 446.

"Unjust preference."—There would seem to be no difference between this expression and "preference": see Lawson v. McGeoch, 20 Ont. App. at p. 472.

(1) The words "prima facie" were introduced in the Revision of the Statutes in 1897 to give effect to the opinions in Lawson v. McGeoch, 22 Ont. 474; 20 Ont. App. 464; (see also Kirby v. The Rathbun Co., 32 Ont. 9; and Craig v. McKay, 8 O. L. R. 651), that where a transaction which has the effect of giving a preference is attacked within 60 days, the presumption of fraudulent intent is a rebuttable one, and that the onus of proof is only shifted from the creditor attacking to the creditor preferred (see Brown v. Beamish, 5 O. W. R. 722; see contra, Cole v. Porteous, 19 Ont. App. 111, on an appeal from a Division Court; but it would seem that even since the alteration of the Act, where the transaction is not attacked within 60 days, pressure will prevent its being deemed fraudulent: Morphy v. Colwell, 3 O. L. R. 314 (and as to what constitutes pressure, see Ibid.); but where the transaction is attacked within 60 days, pressure is of no avail to rebut the presumption of intent to give a preference: see Webster v. Crickmore, 25 Ont. App. 97 (a transaction before the alteration of the Act).

A transfer is not attacked by the issue of a summons in a Division Court to the transferee as garnishee, nor until the claimant appears or makes default in so doing: Morphy v. Colwell 3 O. L. R. 314.

The presumption of invalidity has been held to be rebutted by evidence that the transferee entered into the transaction in good faith without knowing or having reason to believe that the transferor was insolvent: Dana v. McLean, 2 O. L. R. 466; by evidence that a chattel mortgage apparently giving a preference was in substance a renewal of a previous one to secure a debt: Rogers v. Carroll, 30 Ont. 328; or by an antecedent contract to give the creditor security: Clarkson v. Stirling, 15 Ont. App. 234; Lawson v. McGeoch, supra; but see Breese v. Knox, 24 Ont. App. 203; Armstrong v. Johnston, 32 Ont. 15.

(4) Subject to the provisions of section 3 aforesaid, if such transaction with or for a creditor has the effect of giving that creditor a preference over the other creditors of the debtor, or over any one or more of them, it shall, if the debtor within sixty days after the transaction, makes an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, be presumed, prima facie, to have been made with the intent aforesaid, and to be an unjust preference within the meaning hereof, whether the same be made voluntarily or under pressure.

As to the words prima facie, see note to sub-section (3).

It would seem that where an assignment is so made within sixty days, pressure is of no avail to rebut the presumption of intent to prefer: see Webster v. Crickmore, 25 Ont. App. 97.

(5) [By sub-section (5) it is provided that the word "creditor" in s. 2 (2), supra, in the 2nd and 3rd lines of sub-sections (3) and (4) is to include any surety, and the indorser of any promissory note or bill of exchange, who would upon payment by him of the debt, promissory note or bill of exchange, in respect of which such suretyship was entered into, or such indorsement was given, become a creditor of the person giving the preference].

If the person secured is only a creditor in respect of the impeached transaction, he is not within the section, e.g., where he takes or agrees to take, security contemporaneously with the giving of his indorsement: Kerry v. James, 21 Ont. App. 338.

Section 3 of R. S. O. c. 147, makes exceptions of certain assignments for the general benefit of creditors, payments of money to creditors, and certain bona fide sales and transfers as security for a bona fide present advance of money. See Godfrey v. Poole, 13 App. Cas. 497, where it was said that a deed which contemplates the full payment of all creditors cannot be held to be void as intended to defeat or delay creditors. See also Re Laitt & Pratt, 23 Ont. 78.

The handing by a debtor to his creditor of the unaccepted cheque of a third person upon a bank, the drawer of the cheque having funds there to meet it, is not a "payment of money to a creditor" within the above section 3; see Davidson v. Fraser, 23 Ont. App. 439; 28 S. C. R. 272 (overruling Armstrong v. Hewstreet, 22 Ont. 336), but see Gordon Mackay & Co. v. Union Bank, 26 Ont. App. 157.

This Act is not retrospective, and does not apply to any gift, transfer, etc., made before the passing thereof: Ormsby v. Jarris, 22 Ont. 11.

Fraudulent Assignments, etc.—The law in respect to fraudulent assignments under R. S. O. c. 147, would not seem to be different from what it was under the previous Act.

A plaintiff suing for a tort is not a creditor within the Act: Gurofski v. Harris, 27 Ont. 201; 23 Ont. App. 717; nor one suing for Transactions not accepted from Act.

Rule 1015. unliquidated damages: Grant v. West, 23 Ont. App. 533; Mail v. Clarkson, 25 Ont. App. 1; Clapperton v. Mutchmor, 30 Ont. 395.

Transfers when not
able.

As in the case of the 13 Elizabeth, c. 5, where the subject of the conveyance or transfer cannot be reached by creditors at the time when it was made, the transaction is not within the Act: Blakely v. Gould, 24 Ont. App. 153; 27 S. C. R. 682 (an assignment, by way of security, of the profits expected to be made from a contract).

A creditor cannot take the benefit of a transfer of goods, and at the same time attack the transfer as fraudulent: Woods v. Reesor, 22 Ont. App. 57; Rielle v. Reid, 26 Ont. App. 54; and an assignee for the benefit of creditors has no higher right than a creditor in this respect: Woods v. Reesor, supra.

A mortgage by any insolvent person on future acquired chattels, to secure repayment of the price of such chattels to the vendor thereof, is binding and not within the above Act: Goulding v. Deeming, 15 Ont. 201.

The Act does not make void a chattel mortgage given in consideration of an actual bona fide advance by the mortgagee without knowledge of the insolvency of the mortgagor, or of any intention on his part to defeat, delay or hinder, his creditors: Campbell v. Patterson, 21 S. C. R. 645.

The transaction is not impeachable unless it is shewn that the transferor was insolvent, and that the transferee knew it, and did not act in good faith: Johnson v. Hope, 17 Ont. App. 10; Ashley v. Brown, Id., 500; Lamb v. Young, 19 Ont. 104; Elgin Loan & Savings Co. v. Orchard, 7 O. L. R. 695. The Court will not act on mere suspicion; there must be affirmative evidence of knowledge of the insolvency: Burns v. Mackay, 10 Ont. 167; M'Roberts v. Steinoff, 11 Ont. 372; Rice v. Bryant, 4 Ont. App. 542, 554; Morton v. Nihan, 5 Ont. App. 20, 28.

Preferential payment out of

A mortgage given by an insolvent person to secure an actual advance, made without notice of the insolvency, and in good faith is not impeachable, because the moneys advanced are pursuant to the direction of the insolvent paid over to some only of his creditors, who thereby obtain a preference: Johnson v. Hope, 17 Ont. App. 10; semble, even though the mortgagee knew of the intention to pay certain creditors only, by way of preference over others: Campbell v. Roche, 18 Ont. App. 606; but see S. C., 21 S. C. R. 645; see also Tennant v. Galtow, 25 Ont. 156.

Where a creditor's solicitor, with consent of a debtor and knowledge of his insolvent circumstances, procured a third person to advance money to the debtor on security of a chattel mortgage on his stock in trade, without divulging anything as to the insolvent's circumstances or why the money was wanted, and out of the money the solicitor paid the creditor in full, it was held that the chattel mortgage was protected by sec. 2 of the Act, as being a person who had made a bona fide advance of money within that section: Gibbons v. Wilson, 17 Ont. 290; 17 Ont. App. 1; but where in similar circumstances the solicitor for the preferred creditor was also solicitor for the mortgagee, the latter was held to be affected with notice of all the circumstances necessarily known by his solicitor, and the advance was therefore held to be not a bona fide payment of money within sec. 3: Burns v. Wilson, 28 S. C. R. 207.

For further instances in which transactions have been set aside: see Stoddard v. Wilson, 16 Ont. 17; Johnson v. Cline, Id., 129.

While the moneys arising from a feigned sale of goods, fraudulent Rule 1015, as against creditors, are still in the hands of the nominal purchaser, they may be recovered from him: Masuret v. Stewart, 22 Ont. 290; but before 58 Vict. c. 23, it was held that they could not, where the proceeds had been received and disposed of so that they could not be ear-marked: Tennant v. Galloway, 25 Ont. 56. See also now R. S. O. c. 147, s. 10.

Where funds assigned remained in the hands and under the control of the assignee, though not in their original shape, they can be reached: Re Mowat, Kingston Cotton Mills v. Mowat, 1899, 1, Ch. 831.

As to what is sufficient to shew knowledge of the debtor's insolvent condition: see Nat. Bank of Australasia v. Morris, 1892, A. C. 287.

The effect of the transaction is not evidence of fraudulent intent: Evidence of intent, etc. Carr v. Corfield, 20 Ont. 218; Randall v. Dopp, 22 Ont. 422.

As to the effect of the evidence of the parties to the impeached transaction: see Merchants' Bank v. Clarke, 18 Gr. 594; Jack v. Greig, 27 Gr. 6; Morton v. Nihan, 5 Ont. App. 20.

Fraudulent Preferences.—Neither under the Statute of Elizabeth, nor at Common Law, was it wrong to give a preference: Robertson v. Holland, 16 Ont. 541; a preference to be impeachable must be one forbidden by R. S. O. c. 147.

Under R. S. O. c. 147, s. 2, it would seem that except in the cases provided for in sub-sections (3) and (4) there must, as formerly under R. S. O. 1877, c. 118, in order to work a fraudulent preference, be a concurrence of intent to do so on the part of both debtor and creditor: Burns v. Mackay, 10 Ont. 167; and the rule of the Court is not to act upon mere suspicion in the absence of affirmative evidence of fraud, or of controlling circumstantial evidence leading to that conclusion: Id.; and McRoberts v. Steinoff, 11 Ont. 372.

Subject also to the above sub-sections (3) and (4) a transaction by a person in insolvent circumstances is not impeachable as a preference unless the person claiming the benefit of the transaction had knowledge of the insolvency and did not act in good faith: Johnson v. Hope, 17 Ont. App. 10; Lamb v. Young, 19 Ont. 104; see also Ashley v. Brown, 17 Ont. App. 500; Hickerson v. Parrington, 18 Ont. App. 635; Benallack v. Bank of B. N. A., 36 S. C. R. 120; and see Gibbons v. Wilson, and Burns v. Wilson, supra, p. 1248; and the intent to prefer may be rebutted by shewing pressure exerted by the creditor: Beattie v. Wenger, 24 Ont. App. 72; Slater v. Oliver, 7 Ont. 158; Long v. Hancock, 12 S. C. R. 22; Re Bond, 15 L. R. 1r. 321; Molson's Bank v. Halter, 16 Ont. App. 323; 18 S. C. R. 88; Gibbons v. McDonald, 19 Ont. 290; 18 Ont. App. 159; 20 S. C. R. 587; Lawson v. McGeech, 20 Ont. App. 464; Kirby v. The Rathbun Co., 32 Ont. 9; even though the insolvent condition of the debtor is known to the pressing creditor: Stephens v. McArthur, 19 S. C. R. 446; Hickerson v. Parrington, supra; Davies v. Gillard, 21 Ont. 431; 19 Ont. App. 432; Gignac v. Her, 29 Ont. 147; 25 Ont. App. 393.

But the pressure must be real, not collusive: Davies v. Gillard, 21 Ont. 431; Breese v. Knorr, 24 Ont. App. 203; and scumble, the doctrine of pressure has no application where the debtor has transferred the whole of his property: per Street, J., in Davies v. Gillard, supra.

Rule 1015. Proof of fraudulent intent to prefer precludes pressure: Edison, etc., v. Westminster, 1897, A. C. 193; see also Breece v. Knox, 24 Ont. App. 203.

Payment by a debtor to a creditor in the honest belief, on reasonable grounds, that he is legally bound to make the payment, is not a fraudulent preference, even though the debtor is in fact under no such obligation: Re L'antia, Ex p. Saffery, 1900, 2 Q. B. 325.

Under sub-section (3) above, where a preferential security is attacked within 60 days, pressure is of no avail to rebut the presumption of intent to prefer: Webster v. Crickmore, 25 Ont. App. 97.

Conveyance of property to a trustee for other persons, in order to make good breaches of trust committed by the grantor, even though not communicated to the cestui que trustent is valid and irrevocable, and cannot be impeached as a preference: Nor v. Hunting, 1897, 2 Q. B. 19; 76 L. T. 742.

The application by a chattel mortgagee of the surplus proceeds of sale of the goods in the mortgage in satisfaction of an unsecured debt due by the mortgagor to him, is not a preference within the meaning of the Act: Stephens v. Boissenn, 23 Ont. App. 230; 26 S. C. R. 437.

A person suing for a tort is not, before judgment, a creditor within the Act: Ashley v. Brown, 17 Ont. App. 500; Gurofski v. Harris, 27 Ont. 201; 23 Ont. App. 717.

Property exempt from seizure is at the absolute disposal of the execution debtor, so that it is not a fraudulent preference to pay with it one creditor in preference to another: Temperance Ins. Co. v. Coombe, 28 C. L. J. 88; and see Blakeley v. Gould, 24 Ont. App. 153; 27 S. C. R. 682.

Formerly where a fraudulent preference had been made, and the preferred creditor had realized, the proceeds could not be followed unless they were ear-marked: Davis v. Wickson, 1 Ont. 369; and where the preferred creditor had been given a note which he had transferred to a bona fide holder for value, it was held that no relief could be given at the suit of other creditors: Robertson v. Holland, 16 Ont. 532; but see now R. S. O. c. 147, s. 10.

The Court or a Judge may at the instance of any judgment creditor call on the debtor and his grantee, etc., to shew cause why lands conveyed by fraudulent grant should not be sold.

1015. Where a judgment creditor alleges that the judgment debtor has made a conveyance of his lands which is void, as being made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors or a creditor, it shall not be necessary to institute an action for the purpose of setting aside the conveyance, but a motion may be made to the Court or a Judge by the judgment creditor, calling upon the judgment debtor and the person to whom the conveyance has been made, or who has acquired any interest thereunder, to shew cause why the lands embraced therein, or a competent part thereof, should not be sold to realize the amount to be levied under the execution. Con. Rule 1407.

This Rule does not exclude proceedings by action in the ordinary Rule 1016 way, where proceedings in the summary way authorized by the Rule, might not be equally effective: see Brown v. Beamish, 5 O. W. R. 722.

"Judgment Creditor,"—An inquiry into the circumstances under which the judgment was recovered, in the absence of fraud or collusion in the recovery, is not allowable: Smith v. McDermott, 5 O. L. R. 515.

This Rule has reference only to transfers of land. The conveyances within its purview are such as are "void as being made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors, or a creditor"; in other words, such as come within the Statute 13 Eliz. c. 5 (R. S. O. c. 324, ss. 1-5) (which was directed against conveyances "to the end, purpose and intent to delay, hinder and defraud creditors and others, etc." and which declared such conveyances to be, as against such creditors, "clearly and utterly frustrate, void, and of none effect"); and probably also such as are void under R. S. O. c. 147, s. 2 (1), as to which see supra, p. 1245.

The statute from which this Rule is taken enacted that, in the cases referred to, "the Court or a Judge in Chambers may upon the application of the judgment creditor call upon, etc." Under this language it was held that the proper practice was to obtain an order ubi calling upon the judgment debtor, etc., to shew cause: Wark v. Moulton, 7 P. R. 14. The present Rule would seem to have been differently expressed in order to shew that a motion is to be made, as in other cases, on notice, and not by way of an order ubi: see Rules 526 and 1020.

Originally the motion was in Chancery required to be made to a Judge in Chambers: see Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Wark v. Moulton, supra; but in the Common Law Courts the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas had exercised jurisdiction: see Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334. Now it would seem that the Master in Chambers, and other officers having like powers, may entertain such applications: see note to Rule 42 p. 217.

The inchoate right of dower at law obtained by a wife in land conveyed to her husband formerly made her a proper party defendant to a suit to set the conveyance aside: McFarland v. McFarland, 9 P. R. 73; and therefore she would seem to be a proper party to be served with notice under this Rule.

Quare, whether an order will be made for a sale at an earlier period than the plaintiff could have a sale if the Sheriff had been able to sell under a fi. fa. lands: see Porte v. Irwin, S P. R. 40. The practice in Chancery, in setting aside a fraudulent conveyance by an execution debtor, was never to accelerate the sale.

The onus of proof is on the applicant not on the grantee, and if no evidence is offered impeaching the validity of the conveyance an order for sale cannot be made: Wentorser v. Nicholson, 5 O. W. R. 645.

1016. Where a judgment creditor alleges that the judgment debtor is entitled to or has an interest in land which can not be sold under legal process, but can be rendered available only by proceedings for equitable execution by sale for

The Court or Judge may call on a judgment debtor, etc., to shew cause why

Rule 1017. satisfaction of the debt, the Court or a Judge may, upon the application of the creditor, call upon the judgment debtor and the trustee or other person having the legal estate in the land in question, to shew cause why the said land, the interest therein of the judgment debtor, or a competent part, should not be sold to realize the amount to be levied under the execution. Con. Rule 1008.

interests should not be sold to pay execution.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 11.

In Wood v. Hurl, 28 Gr. 146, in consequence of the section from which this Rule is taken having been, with others, grouped under the heading in the statute "Summary Inquiries into Fraudulent Conveyances," it was held that an equitable interest was not within the section unless it was in some way covered up by a fraudulent conveyance. The above heading has now been altered, but even under the Con. Rules of 1888, in which the above heading was carried into the Rules without alteration, it was held that by reason of Rule 7 the heading was to be regarded as for convenience only, and did not affect the construction of this Rule: Peters v. Stoness, 13 P. R. 235.

Any interest in land, therefore, which cannot be sold by the Sheriff may be ordered to be sold under this Rule: Id. The interest which the debtor has under an agreement to purchase land is one which may be sold by the Sheriff, and to which, therefore, this Rule is not applicable: Ward v. Archer, 24 Ont. 650, not following Re Prittie & Crawford, 9 C. L. T. 45.

For what is saleable by the Sheriff, see R. S. O. c. 77, ss. 10 to 20, and note supra, p. 1100.

The language of this Rule has, probably by an oversight, not been altered as was done in Rule 1015, so as to make it clear that the motion is to be made upon notice: see note to Rule 1015; it would seem, nevertheless, that an order nisi would not now be the proper mode of procedure in view of Rule 550: see also Rule 1020.

Proceedings under Rules 1016-1018 should, where applicable, be taken instead of a new motion: Can. Bank of Commerce v. Holston, 4 O. L. R. 106.

Proceedings after such application.

Cases in County
Courts

1017. Upon any application under either of the Rules 1015 or 1016, such proceedings shall be had, either in a summary way, or by the trial of an issue, or by inquiry before an officer of the Court, or by an action, or otherwise, as the Court or Judge may deem necessary or convenient for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the matters in question, and whether the land or the judgment debtor's interest therein is liable for the satisfaction of the execution; but if, in a case in a County Court, there is a dispute as to material facts, and the value of the land, or the debtor's interest therein, appears to be over $100, the Court or Judge shall direct the trial of an issue in the High Court, and may name the county in which the trial is to take place, subject to any order that the High Court or a Judge thereof may see fit to make in that behalf. Con. Rule 1009. Rules 1018, 1019.

This Rule regulates the mode of inquiring into cases under either Rule 1015 or 1016.

The mode in which any question arising will be directed to be tried will be regulated by convenience in the particular case. An issue was directed to be tried in Merchants' Bank v. Brooker, 8 P. R. 133; Ray v. Briggs, 13 C. L. J. 40; an inquiry by a Master in Peters v. Stoness, 13 P. R. 235. An order was made forthwith in Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334, no cause being shewn.

The order if made summarily, or the judgment on the trial of an issue, should probably be in the same form as a decree in the like case would formerly have been in Chancery: see note to Rule 1019.

Where an issue has been directed in a County Court case to be tried in the High Court under the last clause of the Rule, the High Court merely tries the issue and has no further jurisdiction in the matter: the final disposition of the matter, consequent upon the decision on the issue, takes place in the County Court in which the issue was directed: Merchants' Bank v. Brooker, 8 P. R. 133.

1018. In County Court [and Division Court] cases the application under Rules 1015 and 1016 shall be made to the County Court, or to a Judge of a County Court, of the county or union of counties in which the land is situate, unless the Court or Judge upon the hearing of the application deems it more convenient and more conducive to the ends of justice to order that the proceedings be had and taken in the Court or before a Judge of the County Court of the county or union of counties within the limits of which the execution was issued; in which case the Clerk of the County Court of the county in which the land lies shall transmit the papers filed with him, together with the order of transference, to the Clerk of such other County Court. Con. Rule 1010.

Application to be made to the Judge of the County in which the lands are situate in County Court cases.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 13.

The words in brackets are new, and were inserted to make the proceedings under these Rules conform to the altered procedure in Division Courts, by which execution against lands may issue (in cases where the sum remaining unsatisfied on a judgment amounts to $40), out of the Division Court, instead of as formerly out of the County Court, upon a transcript from the Division Court: see R. S. O. c. 60, s. 230. See also Zilliox v. Deans, supra, p. 1243.

1019. Where in a summary way, or, upon the trial of an issue, or as the result of an inquiry under Rules 1015 to 1018, any land, or the interest of a debtor therein, is found liable If lands or interest of debtor found liable to sale, an Rule 1020. to be sold, an order shall be made by the Court or Judge, declaring what land or what interest therein is liable to be sold, and directing sale thereof by the Master according to the usual practice. Con. Rule 1011.

made specifying

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 14.

The order pronounced should be in form similar to a judgment in an action brought for the like purpose. It is possible, however, that the Rules 1015-1018 are only intended to apply to simple cases where it is not necessary to bring in other persons as parties and where a simple order for sale and application of the proceeds will be sufficient; and that where an inquiry as to other creditors and incumbrancers is necessary, an action must be brought.

Where the action is in a County Court, the reference may be directed to the Master of the High Court at the place where the proceedings are being carried on, or to the Clerk of the County Court: R. S. O. c. 55, s. 46, et seq.

Lis pendens
may be registered.

1020. A notice of motion for an order under Rules 1015, 1016 or 1018, may contain a description of the land in question, and upon filing the same with the proper officer, signed by the solicitor of the applicant, a certificate of lis pendens may be issued for registration, and in case the said motion is refused in whole or in part, a certificate of the order, for registration, may be issued. Con. Rule 1012.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 16.

As to the effect of registering a certificate of lis pendens, and as to discharging, and vacating certificates of lis pendens; see supra, p. 147.

1. BAILABLE PROCEEDINGS.

(i) Order for Arrest.

1021.—(1) The procedure for the arrest of a person ^{order for arrest.} under The Act Respecting Arrest and Imprisonment for Debt shall be by order of the Court or a Judge, made in an action commenced by a writ of summons. See Con. Rule 1045.

(2) The application for such order may be made at any time before final judgment. New.

(3) The order shall be according to Form No. 135 and may be delivered to the Sheriff of any County in Ontario for execution. See Con. Rule 1046.

For Form No. 135, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1183.

An order for arrest will only be granted in those cases, in which a writ of ca. re. or a writ of ne exeat might have formerly issued.

Rule 1021. A writ of ne exeat was a writ formerly issuable in Chancery to restrain a defendant from leaving the Province in cases where the plaintiff had an equitable money demand against the defendant, and there was reason to apprehend that the defendant intended to quit the jurisdiction. A party who, according to the former practice, was entitled to a ne exeat is now to proceed under R. S. O. c. 80, s. 1, as modified by these Rules; ib., s. 2.

Defendant may be held to bail on affidavit of certain facts and order of a Judge.

R. S. O. c. 80, s. 1, is as follows:—

1. In case a party or plaintiff being a creditor of, or having a cause of action against a person liable to arrest, by affidavit of himself or some other person shews to the satisfaction of a Judge of the High Court, or to the Judge of a County Court, that such party or plaintiff has cause of action against such person to the amount of $100 or upwards, or that he has sustained damage to that amount, and also by affidavit shews such facts and circumstances as satisfy the Judge that there is good and probable cause for believing that such person, unless he be forthwith apprehended, is about to quit Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors generally or the said party or plaintiff in particular, the Judge may order that the person against whom the application is made, shall be arrested and held to bail for such sum as the Judge thinks fit, and the Judge, or the acting Judge of the County Court, may grant an order for arrest where process is intended to be sued out of, or an action has been commenced in, the High Court, as well as in his own Court. R. S. O. 1887, c. 67, s. 1. Rules 1888, No. 1045.

Privilege from arrest.

Permanent.

Temporary.

R. S. O. c. 80, s. 1, applies only to actions against persons liable to arrest: see R. S. O. c. 80, s. 4. Some persons are privileged from arrest in civil proceedings. The privilege from arrest is either temporary or permanent. Among those permanently privileged are—members of the Royal Family, and the servants of the Royal Household; peers and peeresses of the realm of England in certain cases; foreign ambassadors and their servants; Judges: see Arch. Pr., 14th ed., p. 1455, and married women: R. S. O. c. 80, s. 6. Among those who have a temporary privilege from arrest are members of the Legislative Assembly during the Session of the House, and for twenty days before, and twenty days after: R. S. O. c. 12, s. 57 (11); probably also members of the Senate, and House of Commons, of Canada for forty days before, and forty days after, the sittings of Parliament: see Arch. Pr., 14th ed., p. 1456; Wadsworth v. Boulton, 2 C. L. Ch. 70; Reg. v. Gamble, 9 E. C. R. 546; 1 P. R. 222; the privilege does not extend so as to protect a member of Parliament: Henderson v. Dickson, 19 E. C. R. 592; and see Meyers v. Henderson, 4 Gr. 148; Re Essery, 4 V. C. L. J. 212; or a married woman: Kistler v. Tettmar, 1905, 1 K. B. 39; 92 L. T. 36, from arrest for contempt of Court. Barristers while attending the Superior Courts for the purpose of being engaged in the business of the same, or while attending circuit, are privileged from arrest, and for this purpose a circuit is continuous from its commencement to its termination: see Arch. Pr., 14th ed., pp. 1484-5. A solicitor is also privileged while attending Court, or any of the officers of the Court, and in going to, and returning therefrom; also Coroners going to, attending at, and returning from Court. Bail were also at Common Law privileged from arrest in actions on bail bonds, replevin bonds, and recognizances of bail: Brandon v. Robson, 6 T. R. 336; Ormond v. Brierly, 1 Salk. 9; Mellish v. Petherick, 8 T. R. 450.

But if the plaintiff obtained judgment on such bond or recognizance Rule 1021, he might formerly hold the defendants to bail in an action on the judgment: Prendergast v. Davis, 8 T. R. 85; and it is possible they might now be liable to arrest if about to leave the jurisdiction with intent to defraud creditors. Executors and administrators are also privileged: Arch. Pr., 14th ed., pp. 1460-1.

As a general rule where a defendant has a foreign domicile and comes temporarily within the jurisdiction, he is not liable to arrest. In respect of a tort committed within the jurisdiction: Rice v. Fletcher, 13 P. R. 46; nor in respect of a debt contracted in the country of his domicile: Smith v. Smith, 9 P. R. 511; Meyer v. Rich, 14 P. R. 243; Elgie v. Butt, 26 Ont. App. 13; provided he is about to return to the country where he is domiciled: Butler v. Rosenfeldt, 8 P. R. 175; Elgie v. Butt, 26 Ont. App. 13; but even in such a case it may perhaps be shown that the intended departure is with intent to defraud, and so an arrest may be justified: see Ib., per Osler, J.A., at p. 18. If he is going to another country he may be liable to arrest: Butler v. Rosenfeldt, supra. But where a defendant contracts a debt in Canada and then absconds to, and acquires a domicile in, a foreign country, he may on his subsequently coming within the jurisdiction be held to bail in respect of a debt so contracted: Kersteman v. MacLellan, 10 P. R. 122; Scane v. Coffey, 15 P. R. 112; sed vide, Clements v. Kirby, 7 P. R. 103; Stauffer v. Stauffer, before Proudfoot, J., May 15th, 16th, 1883; and see Beam v. Beatty, 10 P. R. 207; reversed 2 O. L. R. 362. Pecuniary liability arising from a fraud committed by the defendant, is a claim for which he may be arrested: Hunter v. Mountjoy, 6 Gr. 421. A trustee not in default, is not liable to arrest: Colverson v. Bloomfield, 20 Ch. D. 341; and where a trustee is ordered to pay money after service of the order, he is not in default until the order has been served, and he has failed to comply with its terms: Ib.

A defendant in an action for alimony is liable to be held to bail. If he is about to quit Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors in general, or the plaintiff in particular. The amount for which he may be held to bail is a sum sufficient to cover future alimony for two years besides arrears and costs, but may be less, in the discretion of the Court or Judge: Rule 1022. The order for arrest may be obtained in a proper case before, or after, judgment. Where a writ of ne exeat had been granted before decree, it was held to continue in force after decree: Macdonald v. Macdonald, 5 C. C. L. J. 64. Where, in an alimony action, the defendant had been arrested and held to bail, on an application for his discharge, the Judge looked into the merits so far as to see if the plaintiff could reasonably expect to succeed in her case; and the defendant having displaced the prima facie case made by the plaintiff, he was ordered to be discharged: Macpherson v. Macpherson, 2 Chy. Ch. 222. Such a practice is, however, open to objection, as to some extent involving the trial of the action on the merits on an interlocutory application.

Where the order for arrest was made in a County Court action to recover the price of goods, and judgment for the price of some of the goods had been recovered in a Division Court, so as to reduce the cause of action to a sum less than $100, the defendant was on application under Rule 1047 discharged from custody: Ward v. Brown, 19 C. L. T. 135.

See further as to the grounds for arresting a defendant, notes to Rule 1047.

Rules

1022, 1023. The Master in Chambers, and Local Masters (not being County Court Judges), have no jurisdiction to grant the order for arrest; Rules 42 (4), 40. But County Court Judges may grant such orders in actions pending in the High Courts: R. S. O. c. 80, s. 1.

The form of order No. 135, given in the Appendix appears to contemplate that the order shall be directed to no particular Sheriff, but generally to the Sheriff of any County where the defendant may be found. Where it is doubtful in which county the defendant may be found, provision is made by Rule 1024 for the issue of concurrent or duplicate orders. Formerly when a writ of capias ad respondendum issued, it was not necessary to issue an ordinary writ of summons so far as the defendant arrested was concerned, but the issue of an order for arrest is not now intended to dispense with the issue of a writ of summons. The writ of summons should be issued and duly indorsed, and served on the defendant before, or along with, the order for his arrest.

An affidavit for an order for arrest may be sworn before the plaintiff's solicitor: see Rule 522.

security in alimony cases.

1022. Where an order is made for arrest in an action for alimony, the amount for which security is to be given shall not exceed what may be considered sufficient to cover the amount of future alimony for two years, besides arrears and costs, but may be for less at the discretion of the Court or Judge. Con. Rule 1088.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 40.

On a motion to discharge a defendant from arrest in an alimony action, the merits of the case were inquired into, so far as to enable the Judge to determine whether there was any reasonable prospect of the plaintiff recovering judgment; and where the prima facie case made by the plaintiff on obtaining the order for arrest was clearly rebutted, the defendant was discharged: Macpherson v. Macpherson, 2 Chy. Ch. 222; sed quare how far this practice can now be followed.

Although the order to hold to bail in an alimony action is not to exceed a sum sufficient to cover future alimony for two years, yet when the Court has acquired control over the funds of the defendant through any default of his, payment of them to him may be refused except on the terms of his securing the future payment of alimony: Gott v. Gott, 10 Gr. 543.

Formerly it was held that where bail was given in an alimony suit, the bail could not render their principal, and if the principal did not satisfy the plaintiff's demand, the security given by the bail was forfeited: see McDonald v. McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 22; Richardson v. Richardson, 8 P. R. 274; Needham v. Needham, 29 Gr. 117. But these Rules appear to place arrests in actions for alimony on the same footing as arrests for purely legal demands.

be in force two months and not renewable.

1023. The order shall be in force for two months from the day of the date thereof inclusive, and no longer; but on the expiration thereof a new order may be obtained in the manner directed in The Act Relating to Arrest and Imprisonment for Debt. Con. Rule 1047. Rules 1024-1027.

From R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 29.

A new order can only be obtained on proof of the like facts and circumstances as were necessary in order to obtain the former order: see R. S. O. c. 50, s. 29. It would seem that the affidavits used on the former application could not be used on a second application: at all events, so far as they related to facts which were susceptible of change or modification, from the date of the affidavits being sworn.

The two months within which an order for arrest is in force are calendar months: R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (15). An order made on the 10th day of the month would expire on the 9th day of the second month thereafter, the day of the date of the order being included under this Rule.

1024. Concurrent or duplicate orders may be issued from time to time in like manner and form as the original order, and shall be in force for the same period as such original order and no longer. Con. Rule 1048. Concurrent orders may issue.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 32.

1025. The order, and as many copies thereof as there are persons intended to be arrested thereon shall be delivered to the Sheriff or other officer to whom the order is delivered for execution, and the plaintiff or his solicitor may direct the Sheriff or officer to arrest one or more of the defendants therein named, which direction shall be obeyed by the Sheriff or officer. Con. Rule 1049. Copies, etc., to be served.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 33.

The direction to the Sheriff should be made by indorsement on the order, and signed by the solicitor.

1026. Unless otherwise ordered the costs of and incidental to an order for arrest shall be costs in the cause. New. See Eng. R. 1883, o. 69, r. 5. Costs.

(ii) Arrest of Defendant.

1027. The Sheriff or officer shall, within two months from the day of the date of the order for arrest, but not afterwards, execute the same according to the exigency thereof, and shall upon or immediately after the execution of such order cause one copy thereof to be delivered to the person whom he is directed to arrest, and shall exhibit the original order to him. Con. Rule 1050. Sheriff to execute within two months from date.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 31.

Rules

1028-1030.

After the lapse of two calendar months from its date, including the day it bears date, the order ceases to be in force: see Rule 1023. Although the order is in force for two months, yet if the Sheriff executes it before the expiration of the two months the plaintiff may, immediately after its execution, obtain an order on the Sheriff to return the order for arrest: Arch. Pr., 11th ed., 800. He cannot be so ordered after the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bail bond, provided it be a valid one, or where he accepts a cognovit or other security from the defendant without the privity of the Sheriff: Id.

Indorse-
date of arrest on order.

1028. The Sheriff or other officer named in the order for arrest shall, within two days after the arrest, indorse on the order the true date of the arrest. New.

Delay of twenty-four hours before taking person
to gaol.

1029. The Sheriff, at the request of the person arrested, and upon being prepaid a sum of money sufficient to cover the Sheriff's reasonable fees and expenses incident to the delay, shall grant to such person a delay of twenty-four hours after the arrest before committing him to gaol, and shall take him for the said twenty-four hours to some safe and convenient house in his bailiwick. 55 V. c. 15. s. 2.

The Arrest.—Formerly on the arrest of a defendant on mesne process, the Sheriff's officer might not carry him to gaol within twenty-four hours from the time of such arrest, under a penalty of £50, unless the defendant refused to be carried in the meantime, to some safe and convenient dwelling house in the county, to be named by him, not being his own house: 32 Geo. 2. c. 28. ss. 2 and 12; Arch. Pr., 13th ed., 707; this statute was, however, repealed as to this Province by 55 Vict. c. 15. s. 1, from which Rule 1029 is derived.

See the somewhat similar Imp. Act, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 55. s. 14 (1), and Mitchell v. Simpson, 23 Q. B. D. 373; 25 Q. B. D. 183.

Formerly it was the duty of the officer to request the defendant to name such house, before he could take him to gaol within the twenty-four hours: Deuchirst v. Pearson, 1 Dowl. P. C. 664; 1 C. & M. 367; Simpson v. Renton, 5 B. & Ad. 35, and see Gordon v. Laurie, 9 Q. B. 60; 18 L. J. Q. B. 98, but it would seem that the selection of the "convenient house" is now to be made by the Sheriff or his officer.

See also Sewell on Sheiffs, 437.

(iii) Bail to the Sheriff.

Bail to the Sheriff.

1030.—(1) At any time before the expiration of 10 days from the date of arrest the defendant shall be entitled to be released from custody upon paying into Court under this Rule, without special order, the amount named in the order for arrest, together with $40, to answer the costs which may have accrued up to the time limited for giving security in the action pursuant to the order for arrest, or upon giving to the Sheriff a bail bond, according to Form 199, with two sufficient sureties in a penal sum of double the amount named in the order for arrest, and upon payment of the Sheriff's fees, including the cost of the bond. New. Rule 1031.

See 62 V. (2) c. 7, s. 7.

(2) Money so paid into Court shall remain in Court, subject to order of the Court or Judge, as security to the plaintiff that the defendant will raise security in the action to be put in pursuant to the order for arrest. New.

Based on Imp. Act, 23 Hen. 6, c. 9, s. 5; 43 Geo. 3, c. 46, and 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 71.

For Form 199, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1181.

Bail to the Sheriff.—The Sheriff should not take a bond with less than two sureties. The Sheriff is to take bail for the sum indorsed on the order, and no more; in practice the penalty is usually double the sum for which the defendant is ordered to be held to bail; see Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 651. The bond must be to the Sheriff himself, by the name of his office, and in the form No. 199, otherwise it will be void. If the bond be executed before the condition is filled up it will be void; Powell v. Duff, 3 Camp. 181. Form of bail bond.

The bond is forfeited if the defendant does not put in security in the action within ten days after his arrest; or if such security be put in within that time, then by his not obtaining the allowance thereof under Rule 1040. Where in consequence of the forfeiture of the bail bond to the Sheriff, an action is brought thereon (upon an assignment thereof by the Sheriff), or proceedings are taken against the Sheriff, upon an application to stay such action or proceedings, in order that the case may be tried on the merits against the original defendant, it is in the power of the Court, or Judge, to direct the bail bond to the Sheriff to stand as security to the plaintiff, should he succeed in establishing his claim against the defendant on the merits. Bail to Sheriff, when forfeited.

Where, in lieu of giving bail, a person arrested pays a sum of money into Court as provided by this Rule, the proper proof of its payment in, to entitle the prisoner to a discharge from arrest, is the certificate of the Accountant; Rule 1043. And on a bond being substituted, money paid in as security may be repaid out of Court; see Rule 1041 (2).

1031. Where default is made in compliance with the condition of the bail bond the Sheriff shall, upon the request and at the cost of the plaintiff, assign the bond to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff may bring an action thereon. See Rule 1055, 4 Anne c. 16, s. 20. Assignment of bail bond.

The action may be brought by the plaintiff in his own name; 7 Ed. Act, s. 58 (54). An action on the bond cannot be proceeded with 1032, 1033.

Rules

pending an order to bring in the body: Rule 1034; which is a proceeding to compel the defendant to put in security in the action. If the Sheriff refuses to assign the bond, an action will lie against him: see Stamper v. Milbourne, 7 T. R. 122. The plaintiff should not take an assignment unless he is satisfied as to the sufficiency of the sureties, as by taking an assignment he waives his right to proceed against the Sheriff to compel him make a return to the order: see Brooks v. Stone, 1 Will. 223; Etherick v. Courper, Salk. 399. The plaintiff is not bound to take the assignment though tendered by the Sheriff: Rea v. Daw, 2 Salk. 608.

For form of assignment of bond, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1185.

Re-arrest on default in giving security in the action.

1032. Where the plaintiff does not take an assignment of the bond within five days after default, the Sheriff may re-arrest the defendant in any County and bring him into his own bailiwick and retain him in custody until he has given and obtained the allowance of security in the action pursuant to the order for arrest. New.

Where security in the action has not been put in, but a bail bond has been given to the Sheriff, the plaintiff may either take an assignment of the bail bond, or may take steps to get a return to the order for arrest. The Sheriff, if he has arrested the defendant, must return cepi corpus et paratum habeo; and if he is in actual custody, he should so state in his return; Sewell, 287. Where the Sheriff returns cepi corpus, and the defendant is not in actual custody, in case security in the action is not put in and allowed as required by Rules 1034-1043, the plaintiff may require the Sheriff to bring in the body: Rule 1045. If the Sheriff on such proceedings cannot shew that the defendant is in actual custody, or cause the security to be put in by defendant, he may be attached for not obeying the order to bring in the body. The object of the present Rule is to enable the Sheriff to put himself in a position to bring in defendant's body unless he gives security in the action.

Security
may be given after default.

1033. Notwithstanding such default the defendant may at any time before judgment in an action brought upon the bail bond to the Sheriff, or before the expiration of any order to bring in the body, give security in the original action pursuant to the order for arrest. See Rules 1061, 1064.

See Rule T. T. 1853, 73.

When Sheriff
may be ordered to bring in the body.

The Sheriff may be ordered to bring in the body after the time for putting in security in the action has expired: Poncho v. Liven, 4 M. & S. 427; Hutchins v. Hird, 5 T. R. 479; Potter v. Marsden, 8 East. 525. But the order cannot issue after judgment has been recovered against the Sheriff for an escape, cc. where the defendant has been released by order of the plaintiffs: Borwick v. Walton, 2 R. & M. 623; nor where the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bail bond: 2 Salk. 60 bb, provided it be a valid one; nor where he accepts a compoit or other security from the defendant, without the privity of the Sheriff: Rea v. Sheriff of Sarum in Rea v. Clerk, 1 Taunt. 179; Arch. Pra. 12th ed. p. 812. The order should be issued and served promptly: Re v. Sheriff of Middlesex, 1 Dowl. 53. The Rules order may issue on procepe without motion: see Rule 885. The Rules 1034-1037.

Orders to bring in the body are returnable in six days: Rule 885. Under this Rule security in the action may be put in at any time before the expiration of the six days.

1034. A plaintiff shall not be at liberty to proceed upon the bail bond to the Sheriff pending an order to bring in the body of the defendant. When no action on bail bond Con. Rule 1059.

Taken from Rules T. T. 1856, 71.

1035. Where an action is brought upon the bail bond to the Sheriff the Court or a Judge may, upon application in such action, give such relief to the plaintiff and defendant in the original action and to the sureties in the bail bond as may be just and reasonable, and the order made on any such application shall have the effect of a defeasance to the bail bond. A motion to be subject to the discretion of the Court. See 4 Anne c. 16, s. 20.

In this Rule are embodied the provisions of the Act, 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 20, referred to.

(iv) Security in the Action.

1036. The security in the action to be given by the defendant, pursuant to the order for arrest, may be by payment into Court of the amount mentioned in the order, or by a bond to the plaintiff by the defendant and two sufficient sureties (or with the leave of the Judge or officer who allows the bond, either one surety or more than two) or with the plaintiff's consent by any other form of security. Security in the action to be given by the defendant. New. See Eng. Rule 1883, o. 69, r. 3.

For form of bond, see H. & L. For us, No. 1186.

As to the allowance of the bond, see Rule 1040.

Where the amount is large a Judge may allow several persons to become sureties in different amounts. Angell, 13 Price, 448; Easton v. Edwards, 1 Dowl. 39. See also two sureties when allowed.

1037.—(1) Where the security is given by bond, the condition thereof shall be that the defendant will pay the amount by any judgment in the action adjudged to be recovered or directed to be paid, either as a debt or for damages or cost, or will render himself to the custody of the Sheriff of the county in which the action has been commenced, or that the sureties will do so for him. Condition of bond or condition. New. See Con. Rule 1062, and Eng. Rule 1883, o. 69, r. 3.

Rules
1038, 1039.

Form of bond, etc.

(2) The bond and affidavits of execution and justification shall be according to Forms 200, 201 and 202.

Based on R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 40.

For the Forms referred to, see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1186-1188.

Formerly notwithstanding the condition of the bond to satisfy the costs "and the amount by any judgment, etc.," the sureties were not liable for more than the amount for which security was directed to be given by the order for arrest, and the costs. Thus, where the plaintiff swore to a cause of action in tort for $500, but security for $300 only was ordered, it was held, notwithstanding that the plaintiff subsequently recovered judgment for $400 damages and $125.27 costs in the action, that the sureties were only liable to the extent of $300 and the costs: Baker v. Jackson, 9 Ont. 661; and see Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392; but under the changes effected by the present consolidation of the Rules the sureties would be now liable for the full amount recovered, but not exceeding the penalty of their bond: Rule 1054.

The condition of the bond prescribed by this Rule is only appropriate where a defendant is arrested on exce process; where he is arrested after judgment the bond required is prescribed by R. S. O. c. 80, s. 15.

As to the number of sureties, see Rule 1030. Formerly where the affidavit was insufficient the bail might justify in person: Shaw v. Spade, 2 M. & W. 12, but the defendant was not in that case entitled to the costs of justification: Stevens v. Miller, Id., 368. It would seem probable that under the present Rules if an affidavit of justification is insufficient the sureties cannot justify in person: see Rule 1040.

The affidavit of justification cannot be sworn before the defendant's solicitor or his clerk, or partner: Rule 522; Koyle v. Wilson, 2 O. S. 113.

Cross-examination of the sureties upon their affidavits of justification may be had as in the case of an appeal bond: see Rule 830 and notes.

An action cannot be brought by the plaintiff on the bond until after the return of non est inventus to a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum: see Rule 1053.

1038 A person who has been indemnified for so doing by a solicitor or solicitors concerned for the defendant, shall not be a surety on a bond. See Con. Rule 1072.

Taken from Rule P. T. 1856, 77.

1039 Where the plaintiff's claim exceeds $4,000, it shall be sufficient for each surety to justify in $4,000 beyond the amount of the claim. See Con. Rule 1097.

Taken from Rule P. T. 1856, 84.

1040. The bond shall be filed in the office in which the action was commenced, and may be allowed by the proper officer in such office, or by the Local Judge or Master upon service, upon the plaintiff or his solicitor, of notice of the filing of the bond and of the names and addresses of the sureties thereto, and a copy of an appointment from such officer, Local Judge or Master at least forty-eight hours (unless otherwise directed by the officer, Judge or Master) before the time named in the appointment. New.

Rules
1040-1042.
Allowance of security.

If the security is not allowed the defendant must get further time to put in security, otherwise the plaintiff may take an assignment from the Sheriff of the bail bond, if any, and commence an action thereon, or proceed against the Sheriff as mentioned in the note to Rule 1032. As to persons disqualified from being sureties, see Rule 1038.

1041.—(1) Where security is desired to be given by payment of money into Court the same may be paid in under this Rule without an order, and shall stand as security to the plaintiff that the defendant will pay the amount by the judgment in the action adjudged to be recovered or directed to be paid either as a debt or for damages or costs, or will render himself to the custody of the Sheriff of the county in which the action has been commenced, or that the sureties will do so for him. See 55 V. c. 15, s. 3.

Security by payment
into Court.

As to the right of a debtor arrested, to deposit money with the Sheriff and $40 for costs in lieu of giving security, see R. S. O. c. 80, s. 21, as amended by 62 Vict. (2) c. 7, s. 7.

(2) After payment of money into Court, a bond, or other security in Rule 1036 mentioned, may be substituted therefor and the money paid in shall be repaid, upon the production of a certificate of the allowance of the bond or other security signed by the officer allowing the same, or by the plaintiff's solicitor. See 56 V. c. 5, s. 13.

A suitor desiring to pay money into Court under this Rule must proceed in the manner laid down in Rules 405-410. In the præcipe for the direction to the bank to receive the money, it should be stated that the money is required to be paid into Court under this Rule.

1042. The money paid in and the security, and all proceedings thereon, shall be subject to the order and control of the Court or a Judge. [New. Taken from Eng. R. 1883, n. 69, r. 4.]

Control of Court over security.

Rule 1043-1045.Discharge of defendant on giving security.

1043. The delivery of a certificate of the Accountant of the payment of the money into Court, or of a certificate of the allowance of the bond or other security, signed by the officer allowing the same, or by the plaintiff or his solicitor, to the Sheriff or other officer executing the order for arrest, shall entitle the defendant to be discharged out of custody. [New. See Eng. Rules 1883, o. 69, r. 6.]

(v) *Delivery of Statement of Claim.*Time for delivery of statement of claim.

1044. Where a defendant is taken or detained in custody under an order for arrest in default of giving security, the plaintiff, if he has not already delivered his statement of claim, shall deliver the same within one month after the arrest, or within the time specified in Rule 243, whichever shall be the earlier date, otherwise the defendant shall, unless further time is given to the plaintiff by the Court or a Judge, be entitled to be discharged from custody. See Con. Rule 1052.

Taken from Rule of T. T. 1856. 100; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 37.

The month mentioned in this Rule is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (15); Rule 5.

The object of this Rule is to hasten proceedings against prisoners: Glenn v. Bor, 3 U. C. Q. B. 180; Tyson v. McLeun, 1 P. R. 339; Bamberg v. Sulomon, 3 U. C. L. J. 69; Glennie v. Ross, 3 P. R. 289; 10 U. C. L. J. 105. If the defendant be out on bail the Rule does not apply: Glenn v. Bor, supra. Where the statement of claim was delivered 2 days after the month had expired, and the defendant moved for his discharge, an order was made extending the time under Rule 353, and validating the statement of claim for all purposes, on terms as to speedy trial and payment of costs: Winch v. Triviss, 18 P. R. 102.

The pendency of proceedings to set aside the capias and arrest was held to be no excuse for not declaring within the time limited: Houtaling v. Cattle, 6 P. R. 251.

(vi) *Orders to Bring in the Body.*order may issue requiring Sheriff to bring body into CourtAttachment may issue for disobedience

1045.—(1) Where, on the expiration of an order to return an order for arrest, the Sheriff, or other officer having the return of such order, returns cepi corpus thereon, an order may thereupon issue requiring the Sheriff or other officer, within six days after service of the order, to bring the defendant into Court, by bringing in the body or by causing security in the action to be given; and if the Sheriff or other officer does not duly obey the order, an attachment may be granted for disobedience of the order. Rule 1046. Con. Rule 1058.

Taken from Rule T. T. 1856, 74.

The order to bring in the body can only be issued where, after a return of cepi corpus, the defendant is at large, and security in the action has not been duly put in and allowed as required by Rules 1040-1043; see Sewell, 415; and it cannot be issued until the time for putting in and perfecting the security in the action has expired: Id.

(2) Where a Sheriff before his going out of office, makes an arrest, and takes security under the order for arrest and makes a return of cepi corpus, the order shall and may, within the time allowed by law, be directed to him, notwithstanding he may be out of office before the order is issued. Con. Rule 911.

Taken from Rule T. T. 1856, s. 105.

Orders to bring in the body are to be made returnable in six days: Rule 885.

The concluding clause of Rule 1045 (1), as to the issue of an attachment against the Sheriff, or other officer, must be read in connection with Rule 855; under that Rule an attachment cannot issue in any case without an order therefor, to be applied for on notice to the party against whom it is to be issued: Jupp v. Cooper, 5 C. P. D. 26.

The order to bring in the body is obtainable on præcipe as against a Sheriff; see Rule 885; but where the order is required against one who has ceased to be Sheriff, it is possible that Rule 885 would not apply, and that the order must be obtained on motion.

1046. An order shall not be drawn up for setting aside an attachment regularly obtained against a Sheriff for not bringing in the body, or for staying proceedings regularly commenced on the assignment of any bail bond, unless the application for the order, if made on the part of the original defendant, be grounded on an affidavit of merits, or if made on the part of the Sheriff, or a surety, or any officer of the Sheriff, be grounded on an affidavit shewing that the application is really and truly made on the part of the Sheriff, or surety, or officer of the Sheriff, as the case may be, at his or their own expense, and for his or their indemnity only, and without collusion with the original defendant. Con. Rule 1060.

Taken from Rule T. T. 1856, 72.

Security by bond must not only be put in, but be allowed before the Court will stay proceedings on the bail bond to the Sheriff.

r. de 1047. Gould v. Birmingham, 3 O. S. 208. Where the plaintiff had delayed for three years to proceed against the bail to the Sheriff to compel them to cause security in the action to be put in, proceedings on the bail bond were stayed after judgment and execution, on payment of costs: Young v. Shore, 2 O. S. 314.

Where sureties rely on the performance of their undertaking they must plead it, they cannot apply summarily to stay proceedings: such a case: Mitchell v. Noble, 1 C. L. Ch. 284; and see Black v. O'Gorman, 5 U. C. L. J. 161.

Where sureties surrendered their principal and gave due notice within eight days after the return of process on the security, and the plaintiffs, nevertheless, proceeded to judgment, proceedings were stayed without requiring payment of costs up to the notice: Wright v. Tucker, 6 U. C. Q. B. 24; see Rule 1055.

(vii) Application to be Discharged from Custody.

Defendant
may apply to a Judge to be discharged from custody.

Power of Judge.

Court may discharge or vary
order.

1047 A person arrested upon an order for arrest may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that he be discharged out of custody; and the Court or Judge, subject to appeal, may make such order thereon as may seem just; and a Judge of a County Court making an order for arrest, whether in the High Court or in his own Court, shall, in respect to such order and the arrest made thereupon, possess all the powers given to a Judge of the High Court under this Rule, and may in like manner, on application to him, order the defendant to be discharged out of custody, or make such order therein as to him seems just; and any such order made by a County Court Judge may be discharged or varied by a Divisional Court. Con. Rule 1051.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 30.

This Rule does not apply where the arrest has been under a ca. sa. et satisfaciendum; in such case the debtor can only be discharged under R. S. O. c. 81: Gossling v. McBride, 17 P. R. 585; Marchant Bank v. Sussner, 4 O. L. R. 524. There is, however, jurisdiction to set aside an order for a ca. sa. made owing to wilful concealment or perversion of material facts: Id.

The person against whom an order for arrest has issued would seem to be entitled to move to discharge the order before he has been arrested under it, as well as after: see Lewis v. Lewis, 68 L. T. 198; but after an arrest it was held that there is no jurisdiction to set aside an order for arrest under Rule 378, but that the defendant's remedy is to apply under Rule 1047 to be discharged out of custody: Jurn v. Jurn, 16 P. R. 375.

A Judge of a County Court who has made an order for arrest in an action in the High Court, under R. S. O. c. 80, s. 1, has power under this Rule to entertain an application to discharge the defendant from arrest.

Under the concluding words of this Rule an appeal lies to a Divisional Court of the High Court from any order made under this Rule by a County Judge in a County Court action: Eltham v. McCraig, 13 P. R. 410; McVean v. Ridler, 17 P. R. 353. No further appeal lies to the Court of Appeal, either with or without leave. Id.

Where the application under this Rule is made to a Judge upon materials not laid before the Judge who made the order for arrest, the application should in general be to discharge the defendant out of custody, or for the bond or other security to be given up to be cancelled, as the case may require. But where the application is based on the alleged insufficiency of the affidavits on which the order for arrest was granted (e. g., that the affidavit discloses no sufficient cause of action, or does not shew facts which should have satisfied the Judge that the defendant was about to quit Ontario), then the application may be in addition to set aside the order, but in such case it would seem that the application should be made to a Divisional Court as it is in the nature of an appeal from the Judge who granted the order: see Dancer v. Bushy, 5 P. R. 370, et seq.; Diamond v. Cartwright, 22 C. P. 401; Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; Scane v. Coffey, 15 P. R. 112; Jury v. Jury, 16 P. R. 375; Cartwright v. Hinds, 3 Ont. 384; Gilbert v. Stiles, 13 P. R. 121; and see Palmer v. Rodgers, 1 P. C. L. 188; and where the application is based upon the insufficiency of the evidence on which the order for arrest was granted, as distinguished from a motion to discharge the prisoner from custody on the merits, no new evidence can be used: Id.

Application to set aside order

The decision of the Judge who grants an order is subject to review, but upon the party complaining of it rests the onus of shewing that the decision was wrong: Beam v. Beatty, 2 O. L. R. 362.

The application for discharge under Rule 1047, when made on new materials, is not an appeal, but a substantive application, on which the Judge to whom it is made has a very large discretion: Tooth v. Frederick, 14 P. R. 287, and where the defendant is discharged and an appeal is had from the order, if the appellate Court has any doubt as to the proper result of the evidence, it should lean in favour of personal liberty: Id. To justify the defendant's detention in custody there must be not only the intention to quit Ontario, but also the intent thereby to defraud creditors (which are questions of fact to be inferred from the facts and circumstances shown by the affidavits: Beam v. Beatty, supra). If a debtor resident in Ontario is about to withdraw permanently from the jurisdiction, the opinion has been judicially expressed that that fact, unexplained by him, raises a presumption of intent to defraud his creditors, and is sufficient to warrant his arrest: Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; Coffey v. Scane, 22 Ont. App. 271; see also McVean v. Ridler, 17 P. R. 353; and a fortiori if he makes no provision for payment of his creditors: Vansickle v. Boyd, 14 P. R. 469; but it has now been held by a Divisional Court (the highest tribunal by which the point has been definitely decided), that besides the existence of the debt and the intended departure from Ontario, the applicant must shew some other facts or circumstances which, coupled with these facts, point to an intent to defraud, and that whether or not there exists an intent to defraud is a question of fact in each case: Phair v. Phair, 19 P. R. 67, dissenting from the opinions expressed by Hagarty, C.J., and Osler, J.A., in Coffey v. Scane, 22 Ont. App. 269, and by Osler, J.A., in Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16; and following the opinion of Burton and Maclellan, J.A., in Coffey v. Scane; see also remarks in Vansickle v. Boyd, 14 P. R. 469.

Application to be discharged from custody

Rule 1047. and McEain v. Ridler, 17 P. R. 352. The circumstances attending defendant's departure, such as its publicity, and other circumstances, Seane v. Coffey, 15 P. R. 112; or the fact of his having made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors; Rogers v. Knowles, 11 P. R. 290, or, that he bona fide believed that he had satisfied all claims of the plaintiff against him; Phair v. Phair, 10 P. R. 67, were held to be sufficient to negative an intent to defraud; but see Coffey v. Seane, 25 Ont. 32; 22 Ont. App. 269, 271-2; McEain v. Ridler, 17 P. R. 352. In Tooth v. Frederick, 11 P. R. 287, it was held that where the defendant had no means, and was leaving Ontario merely to better his condition, he could not be said to be leaving with intent to defraud creditors, nor when departing on a pleasure trip; Shaw v. McKenzie, 6 S. C. R. 181; or for a mere temporary purpose; Palmer v. Scott, 18 P. R. 368; Phair v. Phair, 10 P. R. 67. Beam v. Beatty, 2 O. L. R. 362; but see Coffey v. Seane, 25 Ont. at p. 32, and McEain v. Ridler, 17 P. R. 352, in which Tooth v. Frederick was said to have been overruled by Coffey v. Seane, 22 Ont. App. 269, though this is denied in Phair v. Phair, supra; but has now been held by the Court of Appeal that the impecunious condition of a defendant does not of itself minimize or rebut fraudulent intent; Beam v. Beatty, 2 O. L. R. 362.

Usually on an application to a Judge to discharge a defendant, the Judge will not, when the affidavits upon which the order for arrest was made, are prima facie sufficient, discharge the defendant on affidavits being filed negating his intention to leave Ontario. McGuffin v. Clin, 4 P. R. 134; see also Meyer Rahler Co. v. Rich and Robinson, 14 P. R. 243; nor on the ground that the plaintiff's cause of action was not sufficiently shown; Robertson v. Coulton, 11 P. R. 16; Terry v. Camstock, 6 P. C. L. J. 237; Bank of Montreal v. Campbell, 2 C. L. J. 18; Jones v. Grex, 25 P. C. Q. 13, 594; Delisle v. Delrand, 3 P. R. 105; Coffey v. Seane, 25 Ont. 22; 22 Ont. App. 269, but see Brown v. Riddell, 13 C. P. 457; Tooth v. Frederick, 11 P. R. 287. But where it appears that the defendant, though about to leave Ontario, was nevertheless, on grounds disclosed by the defendant, not liable to arrest, he may be discharged; see Rule 1021, note; and where the plaintiff's cause of action was denied by the defendant, and not corroborated by the plaintiff, the defendant was discharged; Donagan v. Short, 12 P. R. 589; and the omission to swear to damages where the cause of action is tort, also entitles a defendant to his discharge; Ib.

Although the indorsement on the writ of summons in an action for breach of promise of marriage claimed a lien on certain specified land of the defendant, but it did not actually appear that the defendant had any land, and defendant did not by his affidavit state that he owned the land referred to in the indorsements or any other land, it was held that this did not constitute any ground for discharging him from arrest; Lausieckle v. Bapf, 14 P. R. 469.

But such terms will not be imposed on him unless it appears that the plaintiff has been entirely frank in the evidence he has brought before the Court; Seane v. Coffey, 15 P. R. 112; and see Spencer v. Cowan, 32 C. L. J. 782 (R.C.).

Irregularities.

The order for arrest will not be set aside for irregularity in the affidavit, after the prisoner has escaped; Kiefer v. Merrill, Tav. 490. Where the affidavit to hold to bail was made while the defendant was in the United States, and was left here to be used in case he should come over, the arrest was set aside; Coxons v. Ritchie, Dn. 167.

Where in the affidavit on which the order was granted, the words Rule 1048, "intent to defeat" were used, instead of "intent to defraud," it was held to be no ground for setting aside the arrest: Lainy v. Slingerland, 12 P. R. 300.

Where an objection to the affidavit to hold to bail is relied on, if it be a mere irregularity the objection must be specified in the notice of motion as required by Rule 302; the misnomer of the deponent's surname in the commencement of the affidavit is only an irregularity: Panaickie v. Boyd, 14 P. R. 469.

An application to set aside the order for arrest on the ground that the affidavit was insufficient in law, will not be entertained after security in the action has been put in, and judgment obtained: Ruciman v. Armstrong, 2 C. L. J. 165.

Putting in security in the action is a waiver of technical objections to the order for arrest, but it does not amount to a waiver of objections not of a technical nature: McGuffin v. Clow, supra; and see Racey v. Carman, 3 P. C. L. J. 201; sed vide, Ross v. Balfour, 5 O. S. 683; Boxers v. Flower, 3 P. R. 62; but an undertaking to put in security in due course of law is not a waiver of an objection to the affidavit: Glass v. Baby, 1 P. R. 274.

Where an order for arrest is granted on sufficient grounds, but on the application to discharge on further affidavits, an order for discharge is made, terms may be imposed in the order, e.g., that no action be brought; and the costs of the application are in the discretion of the Judge: Sullivan v. Allen, 1 O. L. R. 53; Wilson v. Smith, 9 Min. R. 318; Adams v. Annett, 16 P. R. 356.

Where a defendant is ordered to be discharged from arrest after having given security, the bond should not be ordered to be given up to be cancelled, but an exoneratur should be ordered to be entered thereon: Beam v. Beatty, 2 O. L. R. 362, and where the order had erroneously directed it be delivered up it was ordered to be restored to the files: Id.

1048. Where the defendant is described in the order for arrest, or affidavit therefor, by initials, or by wrong name, or without a Christian name, the defendant shall not for that cause be discharged out of custody, or the security be delivered up to be cancelled on motion for that purpose. See Con. Rule 1054.

Taken from Rule T. T. 1856, 66.

Formerly a defendant arrested, if summoned by a wrong name might still be discharged, and have the bail bond delivered up to be cancelled, unless the plaintiff could shew that he had exercised diligence to ascertain the right name: Ladbroke v. Phillips, 1 H. & W. 100; Rossett v. Hartley, 7 A. & E. 522; and in determining the question whether due diligence had been used, the Court would consider all the circumstances: see Hicks v. Marvee, 1 C. & M. 84; Finch v. Cacken, 2 C. M. & R. 196; Lyon v. Wells, 2 M. & Sc. 392; Lindsay v. Wells, 3 Bing. N. C. 777; but the present Rule omits the clause in the former Rule 1054 (taken from Rule T. T. 1856, 66), under which those decisions were arrived at, and the mere misnomer of a defendant would probably under this Rule be held to be no ground for his discharge, even though the plaintiff failed to shew due diligence Misnomer of defendant.

Rule 1049. to ascertain his right name. The fact that the affidavits to hold to bail are not entitled in any Court is no ground for setting aside the order thereon: Ellerby v. Walton, 2 P. R. 147; Molloy v. Shaw, 5 P. R. 250; and see Damer v. Busby, 5 P. R. 356.

(viii) Surrender by Sureties.

Bail may surrender his principal to the Sheriff of any County, etc.

1049. The sureties may at any time surrender their principal to the Sheriff of the county, in which the principal is resident or found, and the Sheriff shall receive the principal into his custody and give the sureties certificate under his hand and seal of office of the surrender, for which certificate the Sheriff shall be entitled to the sum of one dollar, and any Judge of the Court in which the action is pending, upon proof of due notice to the plaintiff or his solicitor of the surrender, and upon production of the Sheriff's certificate thereof, shall order the security to be cancelled, and thereupon the sureties shall be discharged. See Con. Rule 1064.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 42.

It is only where a bond by way of security in the action has been given that the sureties thereto can render their principal. Bail to the Sheriff cannot render their principal, they can only discharge themselves by having security in the action put in and allowed; or by such security being put in and the principal thereupon rendered. Where the defendant himself fails to put in security in the action, the bail to the Sheriff may put it in, and may render their principal: see Arch. Pr., 12th ed., 872; and this may also be done by the Sheriff, or Sheriff's officer, and perhaps by the defendant's solicitor in discharge of any undertaking he may have given. And the render may be made after the Sheriff has been ordered "to bring in the body," and after an assignment of the bail bond and proceedings commenced thereon: Id. If, however, the plaintiff proceeds against the Sheriff the render should in general be made before the expiration of the order to bring in the body: Arch. Pr. 12th ed., 814. In such cases formerly, bail could render without justifying, and it is presumed that they may now render before having their bond allowed: see Arch. Pr., 861. The sureties may render their principal ex debito justitiæ at any time pending the action, or, after judgment, at any time before the return of the ca. sa. The Court also as a matter of favour has allowed the sureties a further time after the return of the ca. sa. to render their principal, subject to the limitations prescribed by Rule 1055. If the sureties do not render their principal within the time allowed by the latter Rule their right to render him is gone. As to enlarging time for rendering: see Arch. Pr., 11th ed., 863.

It was formerly held that the bail given under a writ of ne erant had no power to surrender their principal as at Common Law, and an application by sureties for a discharge from a bond and for repayment of the money paid to the Sheriff as collateral security was refused: McDonald v. McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 22; the money deposited was ordered to be applied in payment of the plaintiff's claim: Rules Richardson v. Richardson, S. P. R. 274; Needham v. Needham, 29 Gr. 1050, 1051. 117: but it would seem to be the intention of these Rules to abolish this distinction, and to allow the surrender of the principal, whether the cause of action in respect of which the defendant has been arrested be legal or equitable.

Where the sureties to a bond render their principal, an order to enter an exoneretur on the bond should be obtained; until the exoneretur is entered, the sureties remain liable to the plaintiff on the bond: Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 382.

It may be observed that according to the terms of the order for arrest (Form No. 135, H. & L. Forms No. 1183) the sureties are required to undertake to surrender the defendant to the custody of the Sheriff of the county in which the action was commenced; but under Rule 1049, they are authorized to surrender their principal to the custody of the Sheriff of the county in which their principal is resident, or found.

1050. Where a person is surrendered by his sureties to the Sheriff of any county, other than that in which he resided or carried on business at the time, such person shall be entitled to be transferred to the gaol of his own county, on prepaying the expenses of his removal; and the Sheriff in whose bailiwick he was arrested, may, if he is satisfied of the facts, transfer him accordingly, but if the Sheriff declines to act without an order of the Court or a Judge, such an order may be made on the application of the prisoner and notice to the other party. See Con. Rule 1066.

Person arrested out of his County may be transferred to it, paying the costs.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 44.

1051. Where a defendant has been arrested and has given security in the action, pursuant to the order for arrest, or is imprisoned or detained in custody in default of giving security, any judgment which the plaintiff may obtain in the action may be enforced by writ of capias ad satisfaciendum without an order therefor; but where the defendant is so imprisoned or retained in custody the plaintiff shall issue such writ of capias ad satisfaciendum within fourteen days after he has become entitled to enter final judgment. See R. S. O. c. 67, s. 9. and Con. Rule 1053.

Issue of writ of capias ad satisfaciendum.

The first part of this Rule is intended to apply to defendants who are imprisoned for failure to give security in the action. The last clause applies only to those who are actually in custody.

The process whereby a prisoner in actual confinement is detained in custody in execution is termed "charging in execution": Hesketh

Rule 1052. v. Ward, 17 C. P. 667. This is effected by delivering a writ of ca. sa. to the Sheriff. Where the defendant is in custody the writ must be delivered to the Sheriff within fourteen days after the time the plaintiff is entitled to enter judgment, and not from the time the judgment is actually entered.

Where the defendant is out on bail before judgment, he need not be "charged in execution," within the time mentioned in this Rule: see Torraunce v. Holden, 10 U. C. L. J. 298.

Where a defendant is arrested under an order pending action, and, before judgment, gives security in the action, and after judgment and ca. sa. for fixing the liability of the sureties returned non est inventus, is rendered to the Sheriff's custody by his sureties, in their own discharge, such prisoner is still held under the mesne process, and is not charged in execution: Hesketh v. Ward, supra.

Where the defendant is not a prisoner at the time of the trial, but is rendered, or renders himself in discharge of his sureties before judgment, see Brash v. Latta, 5 U. C. L. J. 225; Curry v. Turner, 3 P. R. 144. Where the defendant is rendered by his sureties after judgment, and notice thereof given to the plaintiff, see Torraunce v. Holden, 10 U. C. L. J. 322.

The writ of ca. sa. to fix the liability of sureties must be returnable on a day certain, and not immediately after execution: Rule 1052; Proctor v. McKenzie, 11 Ont. App. 486.

Where a defendant is ordered to be discharged because plaintiff has not charged him in execution in due time, he cannot be there-after arrested on the same judgment: Burn v. Straight, 5 O. S. 523; and see Wheatley v. Sharpe, 8 P. R. 307; Golding v. Mackie, Ib., 237.

Where a defendant is arrested under a ca. sa. he can only be discharged under the provisions of The Indigent Debtors Act, R. S. O. c. 81, Gossling v. McBride, 17 P. R. 585.

Writs to fix liability of sureties.

1052.—(1) A writ of capias ad satisfaciendum issued for the purpose of fixing the liability of the sureties shall be returnable on a day certain to be named therein not later than fourteen days from the date of the teste of the writ, and shall be delivered to the Sheriff of the county in which the action was commenced eight clear days before the return day so named.

(2) The sureties shall take notice of the delivery of the writ as aforesaid, and it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to give them any further or other notice thereof. New.

Clause (1) is in furtherance of what was decided in Proctor v. McKenzie, 11 Ont. App. 486. Before proceedings can be had against the sureties a writ of ca. sa. against the principal must be issued: Arch. Pr., 12th ed., 855. The former practice in regard to such a writ is now embodied in Rule 1053 (2). The defendant need not be arrested under it, and the Sheriff may return non est inventus, unless the defendant is in his custody at the time, even though under another writ, in which case he must return that fact. The issue of this writ informs the sureties of the kind of execution the plaintiff intends to adopt, viz., against the person of the defendant, and for the purpose of so notifying the sureties the writ must be delivered to a particular Sheriff, viz., the Sheriff of the county in which the action was commenced, where its delivery operates as notice to the sureties, and they are bound to keep themselves informed on the point. The writ may be delivered immediately, but it must be delivered 8 clear days before the return day, which gives the sureties that time within which to render their principal. Upon a return of non est inventus an action may be commenced against the sureties on the return day of the ca. sa. or afterwards: Shivers v. Brooks, 8 T. R. 628.

Rules
1053-1055.

1053.—(1) An action shall not be brought upon the bond or other security given in (a) action pursuant to an order for arrest until after the return of a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum for the purpose of fixing the liability of the surety.

No action till after return of
ca. sa.

(a) Here the word "the" is probably inserted by mistake.

The action may be commenced on the return day: Shivers v. Brooks, 8 T. R. 628.

(2) To such a writ the Sheriff may return non est inventus, without taking any steps to arrest the defendant, unless the defendant is already in, or is rendered into, his custody. New.

See notes to Rule 1052.

1054. In an action upon the bond, the sureties shall only be liable for the amount secured by the plaintiff in the action in which the bond was given, and the costs of suit, not exceeding in the whole the amount of the penalty in the bond. See Con. Rule 1085.

Limitation of liability of sureties.

See note to Rule 1037.

1055.—(1) Subject to Rule 1049 where the plaintiff brings an action on the bond or other security, the sureties thereto or therein shall be at liberty to satisfy the bond or security by rendering up their principal to the custody of the Sheriff of the county in which the action was brought at any time within eight days next after service of the writ of summons upon them, but not at any later period; and, upon notice thereof being given to the plaintiff or his solicitor, the action shall be stayed and the plaintiff shall be entitled to the costs of the action up to the date of service of the notice. See Con. Rule 1084.

four days from taxation the defendant may, without an order, sign judgment therefor. New.

Plaintiff

incurred.

Where after due notice of render, plaintiff proceeded to judgment, the proceedings were stayed, and the costs incurred subsequent to notice, disallowed: Wright v. Tucker, 6 U. C. Q. B. 24. The Court will not interfere to stay proceedings where the render is made after the time limited by this Rule: Read v. Scoville, 16 U. C. Q. B. 453. Where there is doubt as to the validity of an alleged render of the principal, a Judge in Chambers will not order an exoneretur, but will leave the bail to plead: Blackman v. O'Gorman, 5 U. C. L. J. 161; Potts v. Baird, 7 P. R. 113.

Where the action is brought after render of the principal, but before an exoneretur has been entered, the action may be stayed on terms: Laing v. Slingerland, 17 Ont. 392.

After the return day of the order for arrest, where security in the action has not been put in, and where bail to the Sheriff are desirous of rendering their principal, security in the action must be put in before the render can be made: Harrison v. Davies, 5 Burr. 2233. But it would seem, as formerly, that a render may be made without having the security allowed, as the security is only put in for the purpose of rendering: see notes to Rule 1049.

(x) Other Writs of Execution.

When

may issue other writs.

R. S. O.,
c. 80.

1056. The party at whose suit a judgment debtor has been taken and confined in execution, may, wherever such debtor has been admitted to bail, under the provisions of The Act respecting Arrest and Imprisonment for Debt, obtain or enforce any writ or process of execution, other than against the person of the debtor, notwithstanding that the debtor has been taken and confined in execution, and such other writ or process of execution may be proceeded with, although the debtor be re-committed to close custody. See R. S. O. 1897, c. 67, s. 26.

Formerly if a party was taken under a ca. sa. no other writ could be executed against him unless he died in execution, escaped, or was rescued: see Arch. Pr., 4th ed., p. 438. The present Rule only varies that practice in case the defendant is admitted to bail.

Practice in matters not provided for.

1057. In matters not provided for by the preceding Rules respecting bailable proceedings the practice in force at the time of the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, is continued. New.

By this Rule the application of Rule 3 is excluded.

For the former practice in bailable proceedings: see Arch. Pr., 12th ed., pp. 727, et seq.

2. ABSCONDING DEBTORS.

Rules
1058, 1059.

1058. Proceedings by way of attachment against an absconding debtor under The Absconding Debtors' Act (x) shall be by an attaching order made upon motion to the Court or a Judge in an action commenced by writ of summons. No writ of attachment shall be issued, but the order shall have the same effect as a writ of attachment formerly had. New.

1887, c. 66.

(x) Now R. S. O. c. 79.

1059. The attaching order shall be issued in duplicate and shall be so marked on its face, and one of the duplicates shall be delivered to the Sheriff, and the other shall be used for the purpose of serving the defendant. Con. Rule 1089.

Order in duplicate.

See R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 6.

Sections 1, 2 and 3, of R. S. O. c. 79, are as follows:

1. If a person resident in Ontario indebted to any other person, departs from Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors, and at the time of his so departing is possessed to his own use and benefit, of any real or personal property, credits or effects therein, not exempt by law from seizure, he shall be deemed an absconding debtor, and his property, credits or effects aforesaid, may be seized and taken for the satisfying of his debts by an order of attachment. 2. Upon affidavit made by a plaintiff, his servant or agent that a person so departing is indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding $100, and stating the cause of action, and that the deponent has good reason to believe and does verily believe that the person has departed from Ontario and has gone to (stating some place to which the absconding debtor is believed to have fled, or that the deponent is unable to obtain any information as to what place he has fled to), with intent to defraud the plaintiff of his just dues, or to avoid being arrested or served with process, and was, at the time of his so departing, possessed of real or personal property, credits or effects, not exempt by law from seizure, to his own use and benefit in Ontario, and upon the further affidavit of two other persons, that they are well acquainted with the debtor mentioned in the first named affidavit, and have good reason to believe and do believe that the debtor has departed from Ontario with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or to avoid being arrested or served with process, the High Court, or a Judge thereof, or the Judge of a County Court, may make an order in the High Court for the attachment of the property, credits and effects of the debtor, and may in the order appoint the time for the defendant's putting in special bail, which time shall be regulated by the distance

ings in cases

isdiction.

3. In case the sum claimed is within the jurisdiction of the County Courts, any such Court, or the Judge thereof, may in like manner make an order of attachment in that Court, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as in this Act provided. R. S. O. 1887, c. 60, s. 3.

It is now made plain by these sections and the Rules, that the necessity for a writ of attachment is abolished, as in the case of writs of capias ad respondendum: Rule 1021; writs of replevin: Rule 1067; writs of mandamus: Rule 1080; writs of injunction: Rule 1094; writs of prohibition: Rule 1100; writs of certiorari: Rule 1101; and for the special form of action commenced by a writ of attachment, interlocutory proceedings in an ordinary action are substituted, by which the property of an absconding debtor may be taken and applied in payment of his debts: see formerly, the observations of Maclellan, J.A., Bank of Hamilton v. Aitken, 20 Ont. at p. 626.

Affidavit

Affidavit for Attachment.—The order for an attachment is obtained on motion ex parte, supported by an affidavit to be made by the plaintiff, his servant or agent, shewing that the defendant was resident in Ontario, that he is indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding $100, and stating the cause of action, and that the deponent has good reason to believe and does verily believe that the defendant has departed from Ontario and has gone to (stating some place to which the absconding debtor is believed to have fled, or that the deponent is unable to obtain any information as to what place he has fled to), with intent to defraud the plaintiff of his just dues (or to avoid being arrested or served with process), and was at the time of his so departing, possessed of real or personal property, credits or effects, not exempt by law from seizure, to his own use and benefit in Ontario: Hart v. Rutten, 23 C. P. 613.

There must be the further affidavits of two other credible persons that they are well acquainted with the debtor mentioned in the first named affidavit, and have good reason to believe, and do believe, that the debtor has departed from Ontario with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or to avoid being arrested or served with process.

For forms of affidavit to obtain an attaching order, see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1214, 1215.

The forfeiture of a recognizance to appear constitutes a debt for which an attachment may issue: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 207.

The debt which the plaintiff claims, must be actually due and payable; where the period of credit had not expired it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to sue out a writ of attachment therefor: Kyle v. Barnes, 10 P. R. 20.

The same particularity in stating the cause of action is not required as was formerly required in an affidavit to hold to bail where no order of a Judge was required, nor the same particularity as is required where personal liberty is involved: Bank of Hamilton v. Baine (2), 12 P. R. 439.

Formerly affidavits upon which the order was granted not styled in Rule 1059. any Court, although sworn before a Commissioner for taking affidavits in the Q. B., who appended to his signature the words "A Commissioner in B. R., etc.," were held to be sufficient: Scott v. Mitchell, 8 P. R. 518, following Ellerby v. Walton, 2 P. R. 147; and not following Hart v. Ruttan, supra; and see Wakefield v. Bruce, 5 P. R. 77; but now that the application for the order is to be made in an action commenced in the usual way, it would seem to be proper that the affidavits should be styled in the action. Where the defendant has left the jurisdiction it will be necessary to obtain leave to issue the writ: see notes to Rules 162 et seq.

A statement that the defendant was indebted to the plaintiffs in the amount of certain promissory notes described, shewing them to be overdue and held by the plaintiffs, and that defendant had departed, etc., with intent to defraud plaintiffs, was held sufficient: Wakefield v. Bruce, 5 P. R. 77. It is not necessary that the plaintiff should swear that the debtor was residing in this Province, if that fact be sworn to by other persons: Id. It is sufficient to shew that the debtor intended to defraud the plaintiff, without shewing intention to defraud creditors generally: Id.

An affidavit made by a County Crown Attorney proving a debt due to the Crown by an absconding debtor was held sufficient: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297. On a motion to set aside the writ, it was held that any defect in the affidavits on which the order for the writ was granted, might be supplied by the affidavits filed in answer to the motion: Id. Where a defendant had by his solicitor accepted service of the writ with knowledge of certain alleged irregularities, and neglected moving against the writ until after the time for pleading had expired, he was held to have waived the objection: Id.

A defendant whose family resided in the United States, but who for several months was in the Province purchasing horses for the United States Army and contracting debts therefor with the declared intention of moving permanently into Canada, was held to be sufficiently a resident within Ontario, to be within the Act: Higgins v. Brady, 10 U. C. L. J. 268. Where the deponents reside far from the debtor, the grounds of their belief should be set out: Bank of Upper Canada v. Spafford, 2 O. S. 373; and see Rule 518. Where the affidavit stated that the defendant "has left the Province or is concealed within the same" it was held sufficient: Totten v. Fletcher, T. T. 2 & 3 Vict.; Har. & Jos. Dig. 3. The affidavits must shew that the defendant is, or was, a resident of Ontario: Higgins v. Brady, 10 U. C. L. J. 268. It is not sufficient to describe the debtor as "lately doing business" in Ontario, nor to describe him as having "departed from Canada": Id.

A claim for unliquidated damages is not one upon which an order for attachment can be obtained: see Clark v. Ashfield, E. T., 7 W. 4; Ont. Dig. i., p. 192.

Application for Order, to whom to be made.—The application for the order may be made to a Judge of the High Court, or to the Master in Chambers, or any of the Local Judges, or Masters having jurisdiction in Chambers under Rules 42, 45, 49. Where the order has been granted by a Judge of a County Court, it has been held that he has no jurisdiction to entertain an application by the defendant to set it aside: Disher v. Disher, 12 P. R. 518, but perhaps in this case it was not sufficiently taken into account that the jurisdiction of

Motion for order

Rule 1059. a County Court Judge in actions in the High Court is not limited by the provisions of the Statute, R. S. O. c. 79, s. 2; and that he has now a general jurisdiction in Chambers in actions in the High Court under the Rules, over and above that conferred by the Statute: see J. A. s. 185; and Rules 45-47. Where the amount claimed is within the jurisdiction of the County Court the application may be made to and the order may be issued out of that Court: R. S. O. c. 79, s. 3.

Successive applications may be made for an order for attachment to successive Judges upon the same material, and an order granted by any one of them will be as valid as if it had been made by the first one, but on each subsequent application on the same or different material, the Judge should be notified of every previous application, though this is more as a matter of propriety than a legal right, and the omission to do so would not be a ground for setting aside the order: Bank of Hamilton v. Baine (2), 12 P. R. 439.

order

Form of Order.—The Statute (see R. S. O. c. 79, s. 2), enacts that the order is to appoint the time for the defendant's putting in special bail (i.e., security in the action: see Rule 1064), which time is to be regulated by the distance from Ontario of the place to which the absconding debtor is supposed to have fled, having due regard to the means of and the necessary time for postal or other communication.

It was formerly held to be unnecessary for the order for the writ to state the amount for which special bail is to be put in: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297. The sum should, however, now be named in the order of attachment, and the amount sworn to in the affidavits on which the order is obtained is the amount for which security must be put in: Ib. at p. 300, and see Rule 1064.

As to the duration of the order, see Rule 1060.

Effect of Attachment.—The placing of the order of attachment in the Sheriff's hands does not of itself bind the goods of the debtor, there must be a levy made thereunder: Potter v. Carroll, 9 C. P. 442; neither does the order bind the debtor's lands until actual seizure: Kingsmill v. Warrenner, 13 E. C. Q. B. 18; Robinson v. Bergin, 10 P. R. 127. Where there had been no seizure under the order until after a fi. fa. had been placed in the Sheriff's hands, the latter was formerly entitled to priority: Ib. Since The Creditors' Relief Act and s. 18 of The Absconding Debtors Act, however, there will be no such priority. Formerly where proceedings under The Absconding Debtors Act were taken prior to the delivery of an execution to the Sheriff, it was held that The Creditors' Relief Act did not apply; but the distribution of the property attached took place under The Absconding Debtors Act, and creditors had to recover execution for their debts in order to participate in the proceeds: Macfie v. Pearson, 8 Ont. 745.

The Sheriff may sell perishable goods attached, provided the plaintiff first gives security: see R. S. O. c. 79, ss. 5, 6. Other chattel property is retained by the Sheriff until an execution is placed in his hands under which it may be sold, unless an order for its sale is previously obtained under section 10, and unless the Sheriff is required to restore the property to the debtor on security being given and allowed, see Rule 1067, or on the attaching order being set aside.

By R. S. O. c. 79, s. 18, it is provided that "in case the property and effects of the absconding debtor are insufficient to satisfy the executions and other claims certified, none shall be allowed to share, unless their proceedings under this Act (i.e., The Absconding Debtors Act), or The Creditors' Relief Act, or the provisions of The Division Courts Act respecting absconding debtors were commenced within six months from the date of the first order of attachment." By the following s. 19, it is also provided that "the Court or a Judge may deny the distribution in order to give reasonable time for the obtaining of judgment, or allowance of claim, by persons who have commenced proceedings in due time against the absconding debtor."

Rules

Distribution of proceeds.

The probable effect of these provisions is that it is not necessary for other creditors to proceed by attachment, but that where any execution is in the Sheriff's hands, it will suffice for other creditors to obtain executions or certificates under The Creditors' Relief Act, and that to that extent the decision in Hurfe v. Peterson, supra, may now be considered to be superseded; see Re Moore v. Wallace, 13 P. R. 291.

The Sheriff should make his entry under sec. 4 of The Creditors' Relief Act, forthwith after any final order for distribution, not at the expiration of 6 months from the date of the issue of the first order of attachment; and a creditor in order to share must prove his claim within 30 days from the order for distribution (even though the Sheriff wrongly makes the actual entry later), or obtain an order for further time under sec. 19; Thell v. Nicol, 26 C. L. J. 561. The first attaching creditor is entitled to priority as against other creditors for his costs of issuing the attachment and the Sheriff's fees for executing it, and also the costs of obtaining an order to sell the property; Darling v. Smith, 10 P. R. 330; and see R. S. O. c. 79, s. 19 (3); Hughes v. Field, 9 P. R. 127.

After an attaching order has been made, an order may be made directing third persons, such as the solicitors of the debtor, to deliver to the Sheriff property of the debtor which may be in their hands; Buntin v. Williams, 10 P. R. 43.

Upon service of the writ of summons and order of attachment, the plaintiff may proceed in the action to obtain judgment as in an ordinary action, subject to the provisions of Rule 1062.

1060. The attaching order shall be dated on the day on Day which it is made, and shall remain in force as long as the writ of summons is in force. Con. Rule 1090.

The writ of summons remains in force for 12 months; Rule 132.

1061. The plaintiff may, at any time within six months from the date of the original order of attachment, upon application to the proper officer, obtain one or more certified copy or copies of the attaching order, which may be delivered to any Sheriff other than the Sheriff to whom the original order was delivered, for the purpose of attaching the property, credits, or effects of the defendant in aid of the original order. Con. Rule 1091.

Further orders within six months

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 7.

Rules Six months was mentioned in R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 7, because 1062, 1063. that was the duration of the writ of attachment. It would have been more consistent with Rule 1000 to have limited twelve months instead of six months in the above Rule.

Plaintiff to prove claim.

1062. Before the plaintiff shall be entitled to sign judgment by default he shall file an affidavit, proving the amount of the debt and damages claimed by him in such action, after giving credit for all payments and claims which might be set off or lawfully claimed by the debtor at the time of making the affidavit. Con. Rule 1093.

This Rule supersedes R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 9.

Proof of the debtor's signature to a note, without proof of the plaintiffs being the payees, was considered sufficient proof of the debt: Appleton v. Dieger, 4 U. C. Q. B. 247.

Defendant may be let in.

1063. The Court or Judge may, either before or after final judgment, permit the defendant to put in security in the action and defend the action, in the same manner, and subject to the same rules and discretion, as on a like application in an ordinary action. Con. Rule 1094, amended.

This Rule supersedes R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 10.

The security required to be put in is the same as is required where a defendant is arrested on mesne process: see Rule 1037 and notes, and Rule 1064.

Formerly when a defendant entered an appearance, instead of putting in special bail as required by the writ, it was held to be a useless proceeding: Regina v. Stewart, 8 P. R. 297; the only way in which the defendant could entitle himself to defend the action being by putting in special bail: Offay v. Offay, 26 U. C. Q. B. 363. Under the present Rules, however, the defendant may appear and defend the action in the same way as in any other action, and security is only required to be put in to enable him to obtain the return of his property under Rule 1065.

Formerly, another attaching creditor of the absconding debtor might appear at the trial of the plaintiff's claim and cross-examine the plaintiff's witnesses, and address the jury against the plaintiff: Lavis v. Baker, 13 C. P. 506; and such other creditor might also move for a new trial of the plaintiff's action, upon affidavits shewing fraud and collusion between the plaintiff and the defendant: Ib.

The validity of a judgment might formerly have been attacked, and may still be attacked, by another creditor of the debtor in an independent proceeding: McDonald v. Boice, 12 Gr. 48; and formerly also by an interlocutory application in the action, in which the impounded judgment was recovered: Bank of Montreal v. Burnham, 1 U. C. Q. B. 131; White v. Lord, 13 C. P. 289; see also Bevan v. Wheat, 14 C. P. 51; Dickson v. McMahon; Ib. 521; see R. S. O. 1877, c. 68, s. 21; but this section was repealed by 46 Vict. c. 6, s. 4 (O.), and no similar enactment made, so that it would seem that a third party cannot now intervene by such an interlocutory application.

The Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction to set aside a judgment entered pursuant to the finding of a County Court Judge upon a reference, at the instance of another creditor who wishes to be let in to defend: Wills v. Carroll, 10 P. R. 142.

1064. The security (whether given within the time limited by the order, or within such time as the Court or a Judge directs), shall be given and allowed in like manner as if the defendant had been arrested for the amount sworn to on obtaining the attachment. Con. Rule 1095, encl.

Security,
how paid to

This Rule supersedes R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 11.

1065. Upon the defendant's giving and obtaining the allowance of security, all his property, credits and effects attached in the action (excepting any which may have been disposed of as perishable, and then the net proceeds of the goods so disposed of), shall be restored and paid to him, unless there be some other lawful ground for the Sheriff to withhold or detain the same. Con. Rule 1096.

This Rule supersedes R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 12.

1066. If at any time before the execution issues it appears, upon motion, that the defendant was not an absconding debtor at the time of obtaining the attaching order, he shall recover his costs of defence, to be deducted from the amount of the plaintiff's claim or judgment; and the plaintiff shall be entitled only to judgment or execution or (a) the excess, if any; and if the taxed costs of the defendant are greater than the amount of the plaintiff's claim or judgment, the defendant shall be entitled to an order for payment of the excess forthwith. Con. Rule 1097.

debtor

This Rule supersedes R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 13.

(a) "Or" is probably a mistake for "for."

The intent with which the debtor left the Province can be tried on affidavit on an application to set aside the attachment: Jackson v. Randall, 6 P. R. 167.

Where property had been sold under the attachment, the Court, on setting it aside, ordered the Sheriff to pay over the moneys realized to the defendant, and directed that no action should be brought for anything done under the attachment: Hart v. Rutton, 23 C. P. 613.

3. REPLEVIN.

The action of replevin was originally the form of action for the recovery of goods wrongfully taken out of the possession of a person under a distress; but early in the history of Upper Canadian

Rule 1067. Law the form of action was extended to other cases in which the goods sought to be recovered had not been distrained or taken out of the plaintiff's possession, but were merely wrongfully detained by the defendant. An action of detinue might result in the return of the goods, but was also for damages for the unlawfully taking or detaining of goods, and the value of the goods might be recovered. The object of an action of replevin was to obtain the goods in the first place, and therefore this remedy was extended, so as to be employed in cases in which the obtaining of the goods was the important matter.

C. S. P. C. c. 29, s. 1, and R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 2, provided that an action of replevin might be brought:

(1) Where personal property has been wrongfully distrained under the circumstances in which by the law of England at the date of the Con. Stat. U. C. (viz., 5th Dec., 1859), replevin might be brought:

(2) Where trespass, or trover, would lie for the wrongful taking or detaining of personal property.

This is in effect the present law as embodied in R. S. O. c. 66, ss. 2 and 3, which are as follows:—

When goods may be re-plevied.

2. Where goods, chattels, deeds, bonds, debentures, promissory notes, bills of exchange, books of account, papers, writings, valuable securities or other personal property or effects have been wrongfully distrained under circumstances in which by the law of England, on the 5th day of December, 1859, replevin might have been made, the person complaining of such distress as unlawful may bring an action of replevin, or where such goods, chattels, property or effects have been otherwise wrongfully taken or detained, the owner or other person capable of maintaining an action for damages therefor may bring an action of replevin for the recovery of the goods, chattels, property or effects, and for the recovery of the damages sustained by reason of the unlawful caption and detention, or of the unlawful detention, in like manner as actions are brought and maintained by persons complaining of unlawful distresses: R. S. O. 1887, c. 55, s. 2.

Goods seized not to be replevied by parties.

3. No party to an action or proceeding, in any Court, shall replevy or take out of the custody of the Sheriff, Bailiff, or other officer, any personal property seized by him under process against such party: R. S. O. 1887, c. 55, s. 3.

Under section 2, replevin will lie in Ontario though there has been no wrongful taking, but a detention only is complained of: Deal v. Potter, 26 U. C. Q. B. 578, and though both a wrongful taking and a detention are alleged, for every detention is a new taking: Id.

distress.

Replevin may be brought on an improper distress for school rates: Updegarth v. Graham, 7 C. P. 171; and see Hulpin v. Calder, 26 U. C. P. 501; Asher v. Manning, 38 U. C. Q. B. 345; or for other taxes, Sargent v. City of Toronto, 12 C. P. 185.

Where a distress is properly made for some taxes, and also for other sums not properly collectable, it would seem that replevin will not lie until what is properly due has been paid: Corbett v. Johnston, 11 C. P. 317. Goods improperly pledged or sold, by a person having no right thereto, may be replevied by the owner: Bush v. Fry, 15 Ont. 122. Formerly, goods seized under an attachment from a Division Court might have been replevied by a third party claiming them as his own: Arnold v. Higgins, 11 U. C. Q. B. 191; but the proper remedy Rules of the claimant is now to proceed under R. S. O. c. 60, ss. 277 et 1067, 1068, sup.; but see Reid v. McDonald, 26 C. P. 147.

As being in the custody of the law the following have been held to be not repleviable:—A vessel in the hands of a collector of customs, seized for breach of revenue laws: Scott v. McFar, 3 P. R. 16; goods in the hands of an official assignee in insolvency: Barelay v. Sutton, 7 P. R. 14; and see the question as to how far goods seized under execution or attachment are protected from the remedy by replevin discussed in Jameson v. Kerr, 6 P. R. 3.

Replevin will not lie against a pound-keeper: Flabottson v. Henry, 8 Ont. 625.

In replevin against one person goods cannot be taken out of the peaceable possession of another without notice or demand: G. W. Ry. Co. v. McEwan, 28 U. C. Q. B. 528; Stueser v. Springer, 7 Ont. App. 497; Hoarigan v. Driscoll, 8 P. R. 184.

Plaintiffs in possession of certain timber limits were held entitled to maintain replevin against a wrong-doer in respect of saw-logs cut on the limits, though by reason of an infirmity in the license they might have no title as against the Crown: Gilmour v. Buck, 24 C. P. 187; and see Greenwood Lumber Co. v. Phillips, 1904, A. C. 405; 30 L. T. 741.

Under the terms of the C. S. I. C. c. 29, s. 1, it was formerly held that where there was not sufficient evidence to constitute a conversion of the goods by defendant, so as to support an action of trover, replevin would not lie: Smalley v. Gallagher, 26 C. P. 531; but the old learning on the subject of conversion is not imported into the system introduced by the 4th Act: Stimson v. Block, 11 Ont. 96. R. S. O. c. 60, s. 2, provides for redress where goods are wrongfully taken or detained, in favour of the person capable of maintaining an action for damages therefor, and in such cases the question is, whether there has been such an unauthorized dealing with the plaintiff's property as has caused him damage; and, if so, to what extent he has sustained damage: Stimson v. Block, supra.

An equitable title to goods will now be sufficient to support an action for the replevy thereof: Carter v. Long, 26 S. C. R. 430.

1067. Where a person is entitled to replevy property he may obtain an order therefor in an action commenced by writ of summons. Con. Rule 1098.

The order issued, of which a form is given in the Appendix Form 133 (see H. & L. Forms, No. 1226), contains what was formerly contained in a writ of replevin.

An action of replevin is to be commenced like any other action, by writ of summons, and the return of the goods is to be obtained by order under Rule 1068, after the action has been so commenced.

1068.—(1) An order of replevin may be obtained.

1. On motion therefor on an affidavit by the person claiming the property, or some other person, shewing the facts of the wrongful taking or detention complained of, the value and

On praece. 2. Or on praece if the person claiming the property, his servant or agent, makes an affidavit stating,

Affidavit to obtain order on praece.

- (a) That the person claiming the property is the owner or lawfully entitled to the possession thereof (describing the property);
- (b) The value thereof to the best of his belief;
- (c) That the property was wrongfully taken out of the possession of the claimant, or fraudulently got out of his possession within two months next before making of the affidavit;
- (d) That the deponent is advised and believes that the claimant is entitled to the order;
- (e) And that there is good reason to apprehend that unless the order is issued without waiting for a motion, the delay would materially prejudice the just rights of the claimant in respect to the property.

Order may issue on praece if the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant.

3. Or on praece (in case the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant), if the person claiming the property, his servant or agent, makes an affidavit stating,

- (a) That the person claiming the property is the owner or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof (describing the property);
- (b) The value thereof to the best of his belief;
- (c) That the property was taken under colour of a distress for rent or damage feasant; and in such case the order shall state that the defendant has taken and unjustly detains the property, under colour of a distress for rent or damage feasant (as the case may be).

(2) Except as hereinbefore mentioned no order of replevin shall be issued. Con. Rule 1099.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 6.

The order is issued on praece (by the officer in whose office the action is commenced; see Rule 37), in cases where the goods have been taken out of the plaintiff's possession, or distrained for rent, or damage feasant. A special application is necessary under clause (1) in other cases.

The latter application is made in Chambers ex parte unless the Judge directs notice to be given: Rule 1069.

The affidavit for a præcipe order is to be by the person claiming the property, his servant or agent. An affidavit not describing the deponent as servant or agent, but using the words "now acting for the said (plaintiff)" was held to be insufficient, but for the fact that it further shewed facts from which the agency might be inferred: Arnold v. Hamilton, 1 P. R. 263.

The affidavit on special application under clause (1) may be made by any one cognizant of the facts necessary to be sworn to.

In either case the affidavit must be sufficiently explicit to enable the Sheriff to identify the property: Jones v. Cook, 2 P. R. 336; Hoorigan v. Driscoll, 8 P. R. 184; and the description must be inserted in the order: Rule 1071.

An objection that there was in fact no taking or detention is not a ground for setting aside the order; that is one of the questions to be determined in the action: Gilchrist v. Conger, 11 U. C. Q. B. 197.

An order will not be granted to replevy a vessel seized for breach of the revenue laws: Scott v. McKee, 3 P. R. 16; neither should the order be issued on præcipe in such a case: Ib.

Before taking the property the Sheriff takes a bond from the plaintiff under Rule 1072, unless otherwise provided by the order.

Where the order is issued on præcipe the Sheriff takes the property under it, but does not replevy it without further order directing him to do so, except where the property was distrained for rent or damage feasant: Rule 1076.

1069.—(1) Where a motion for an order is made, the Court or Judge may proceed on the ex parte application of the plaintiff, or may direct notice to be served on the defendant to shew cause why the order should not issue; and may, in either case, grant or refuse the order, or direct the Sheriff to take a bond in less or more than treble the value of the property, or may direct him, in addition to taking a bond pursuant to Rule 1072, to take and detain the property until the further order of the Court, instead of at once replevying the same to the plaintiff; or may order that the plaintiff instead of giving a bond be at liberty to pay into Court to the credit of the action such sum as may be proper (to be named in the order) to stand as security to the defendant in the same manner and to the same extent as any bond which the plaintiff would otherwise be required to give to the Sheriff; or may impose any terms or conditions in granting the order, or in refusing the same, on the return of a motion, as under the circumstances seems just. Con. Rule 1100.

(2) Money paid into Court shall remain in Court as security as aforesaid subject to further order by the Court or a Judge. New.

Defendant
may apply to discharge
order.

1070. Where an order of replevin is issued, the defendant may at any time, or from time to time, on notice to the plaintiff, apply to the Court or a Judge, on affidavit or otherwise, to discharge, vary, or modify the order, or to stay proceedings thereunder, or for any other relief, with respect to the return, safety or sale of the property or any part thereof, or otherwise, and the Court or Judge may make such order thereon as may seem just. Con. Rule 1101.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 9.

An objection, that there was in fact no taking, is not a ground for setting aside the order: Gilchrist v. Conger, supra, in note to Rule 1068.

An objection that a writ of replevin was directed to a Sheriff who was sole liquidator of the plaintiff company, was over-ruled, in Alpha Oil Co. v. Donnelly, 12 P. R. 515.

This Rule applies to applications to discharge the order of replevin on the merits, and not for mere irregularities: Ib.

Replevin
bond to be taken by Sheriff.

1072.—(1) Subject to any order under Rule 1069 providing for the payment of money into Court instead of the giving of a bond, before the Sheriff acts on the order he shall take a bond from the plaintiff with two sufficient sureties in such sum as may be prescribed by an order made under Rule 1069, if such an order has been made, or if no such order has been made, then in treble the value of the property, as stated in the order of replevin; the bond shall be assignable to the defendant; and the bond and assignment thereof may be according to Form No. 196, the condition being varied to correspond with the order. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1366.

Based upon R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 11.

For Form No. 196, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1227.

(2) Where money is paid into Court instead of a bond being given, the Sheriff may, subject to any provisions in the order, act on the order upon a certificate of the Accountant Rule 1072. of the Supreme Court being delivered to him that the money required to be paid into Court has been paid in pursuant to the order. New.

The taking of a bond is imperative, and no act can be done under the order until the security is given: see Lantress v. Radford, 9 P. R. 33, where the seizure was set aside as irregular.

This Rule makes it clear, by the insertion of the words "from the plaintiff with two sufficient sureties," that the Sheriff is bound to use due care to obtain a bond sufficient, at the time of taking it, to answer the damages recoverable in the event of the plaintiff being unsuccessful: see Norman v. Hope, 13 Ont. 556; 14 Ont. 287. The Sheriff must exercise a reasonable discretion in inquiring into the sufficiency of the sureties; if he fails to do so, he will be liable to the defendant in the replevin action in case it results in his favour, for all damages, to the amount of the penalty, naturally flowing from the wrongful act, e.g. (where the replevin arises out of distress for rent), the rent in arrear, costs of distress, and of the replevin suit, and of any action against the principal and sureties on the bond: Ib.

As two sufficient sureties are required, it will not be sufficient if the plaintiff in replevin and one of the sureties are worth the amount of the penalty at the time the bond is taken: Ib.

Seem, that a subscribing witness is necessary to the validity of the bond: see Helcy v. Cousins, 34 U. C. Q. B. 63.

As to the terms and extent of the security to which defendant is entitled in cases respecting goods not previously taken out of the plaintiff's possession, see also Rule 1074.

The defendant is entitled to see the bond in the hands of the Sheriff: Logue v. Prescott, 18 C. L. T. 186 (N.B.).

An action lies against the Sheriff for refusing to assign the bond: Pacaud v. McEwan, 31 U. C. Q. B. 328. Only nominal damages were recovered where the plaintiff was found not entitled to recover the value of the goods, not being their owner: Ib.

An action on the bond will lie,—

(1) For not prosecuting the suit with effect, i.e., not successfully: as to which see Welsh v. O'Brien, 28 U. C. Q. B. 405; Malruay v. Hopkins, 18 U. C. Q. B. 174; Patterson v. Fuller, 31 U. C. Q. B. 323; 32 U. C. Q. B. 240.

(2) For delay in prosecuting: see Belcher v. Burn, 24 U. C. Q. B. 124; Churchill v. Denham, 29 C. P. 474; but see O'Donnell v. Duchesneau, 14 Ont. 1.

(3) For not returning the goods: see Patterson v. Fuller, supra.

As to the damages recoverable, see Norman v. Hope, 13 Ont. 556; 14 Ont. 287. Formerly the excess of solicitor and client costs of defence, over and above taxed party and party costs, were not recoverable: Williams v. Crow, 14 Ont. App. 301; but see now Rule 1074.

Damages for "illegal distress" and for "annoyance and injury to credit and reputation in trade" are recoverable in an action of replevin arising out of a wrongful distress for alleged arrears of rent: Smith v. Enright, 63 L. T. 724.

Rules
1073-1075.

To be subject to 8 and 9 Wm. III c.
11, s. 5.

1073. Any bond so given shall be subject to the provisions of section 8 of chapter 11 of the Acts passed by the Imperial Parliament in the 8th and 9th years of the reign of His Majesty King William the Third. Con. Rule 1103 (n).

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 12.

The provisions of 8 & 9 Wm. III, are now embodied in R. S. O. c. 324, s. 4.

Indemnity
of defendant
proceedings.

1074. Where an order of replevin is issued for any property which had not been previously taken out of the plaintiff's possession, and for which the plaintiff might formerly have brought an action of trespass or trover, the defendant shall be entitled, if the plaintiff fails in the action, to be fully indemnified against all damages sustained by the defendant, including any extra costs which he may incur in defending the action; and the bond to be taken by the Sheriff or Bailiff shall be conditioned, not only as heretofore required but also to indemnify and save harmless the defendant from all loss and damage which he may sustain by reason of the seizure, and of any deterioration of the property in the meantime, in the event of its being returned, and all costs, charges, and expenses which the defendant may incur, including reasonable costs not taxable between party and party. This Rule shall not apply to cases of distress for rent or damage feasant. Con. Rule 1104.

The statute (48 Vict. c. 13, s. 81), from which this Rule is taken was probably passed in consequence of the decision in Williams v. Croft, 10 Ont. App. 301, to the effect that a successful defendant in replevin could not recover as damages the extra costs he had been put to between solicitor and client.

Under this Rule these extra costs are now recoverable except in cases of replevin where the goods have been distrained for rent or damage feasant.

This Rule gives no right of action independently of the bond, but merely adds another condition to the bond beyond that formerly required: Harper v. Toronto Type Foundry, 31 Ont. 422.

The sureties are not discharged by the trial being postponed on the application of the plaintiff without the defendant's consent or concurrence: O'Donnell v. Duchenauff, 14 Ont. 1.

Sheriff not to serve writ of summons till he has replevied.

1075. The Sheriff shall not serve a copy of the writ of summons or the order until he has replevied the property, or some part thereof, if he cannot replevy the whole in consequence of the defendant having eligned the same out of his county, or because the same is not in the possession of the defendant, or of any person for him. ^{Rules 1076, 1077} Con. Rule 1105.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 13.

As to the mode of framing the statement of claim where part of the goods are eloiigned, see Thurston v. Breard, 8 P. R. 10.

1076. Where the order is issued on procepe the Sheriff shall take and detain the property, and shall not replevy the same to the plaintiff without the order of the Court or a Judge; but may, within 14 days from the time of taking the same, re-deliver it to the defendant, unless in the meantime the plaintiff obtains and serves on the Sheriff an order directing a different disposition of the property; but this Rule shall not apply in case of a distress for rent or damage feasant, under Rule 1068. ^{What Sheriff shall do when the order issues on procepe.} Con. Rule 1106.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 14.

Before acting upon the order the Sheriff must take a bond from the plaintiff, as provided in Rule 1072, unless otherwise provided by the order.

In replevying, power is given to the Sheriff by R. S. O. c. 66, s. 4, to search for the property in, and if necessary (but during the daylight only) to break open the door of the defendant's dwelling house, after a demand publicly made at the door for delivery of the property and non-compliance for six hours.

By section 5 of the same Act, if the property is reasonably supposed to be in any enclosure other than the dwelling house, the Sheriff may publicly demand it at the enclosure, and in case it is not forthwith delivered, he may, and if necessary must, at once break open the enclosure to make replevin.

By section 6 of the same Act, if the property is reasonably supposed to be concealed about the person or the premises (other than the dwelling house or other enclosure) of the defendant, or any other person holding the same for him, the Sheriff may demand it from the defendant, or such other person, and upon refusal or neglect to deliver it, may, and if necessary must, search the person of the defendant, or such other person, or such premises.

1077. The Sheriff shall return the order on or before the tenth day after the service thereof, and shall transmit annexed thereto, ^{When order to be returned with Schedule annexed.}

(a) The names of the sureties in, and the date of the bond taken from the plaintiff, and the name or names of the witnesses thereto; ^{What Schedule to contain.}

(b) The place of residence and addition of the sureties;

(c) The number, quantity and quality of the articles of property replevied; and in case he has replevied only a portion of the property and cannot replevy the residue by reason of the same having been eloigned out of his county, or not being in the possession of the defendant, or of any other person for him, he shall state in his return the articles which he cannot replevy and the reason therefor. Con. Rule 1109.

Rules
1078, 1079.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 17.

If Sheriff returns that the property has been eloigned, order to issue.

1078.—(1) Where the Sheriff makes such a return of the property distrained, taken or detained having been eloigned, as would have warranted the issuing of a capias in withernam by the law of England on the 5th day of December, 1859, upon the filing of the return an order shall be issued on precipe according to Form 134, which shall have the same force and effect as a capias in withernam had, and before executing such order the Sheriff shall take security as provided by Rule 1072.

For Form 134, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1228.

On the 5th Dec., 1859, the practice in England was that if the Sheriff returned an eloignment (quod accipit, etc., elongata sunt) to alias and pluries writs of replevin, the writ of capias in withernam issued; but the plaintiff might take out and deliver to the Sheriff the writ of replevin, alias and pluries at the same time so as to get a return from the Sheriff to the pluries at once: Gilbert on Replevin, 95. It would seem that under the present Rules no alias and pluries orders or writs are provided for, and the order in withernam may be issued upon the Sheriff's return, to the order of replevin, of an eloignment.

Where Sheriff returns goods
eloigned

(2) Where a Sheriff makes return that the whole or any part of the property has been eloigned, or that for any reason the same cannot be replevied, the plaintiff may, if he so elect, serve the writ of summons, and in his statement of claim, claim either an order for the return of the goods and damages for their detention, or damages for their conversion. Con. Rule 1110; Rules 23 June, 1894, 1367.

Damages on
by default.

1079. Where the plaintiff is entitled to sign judgment by default, he may sign final judgment for five dollars and costs, but shall not be entitled to recover a larger sum except upon an assessment before a Judge or jury, or upon filing the written consent of the defendant or his solicitor, and an affidavit verifying the signature to such consent. Con. Rule 1111.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 53, s. 28.

As to the damages recoverable by a plaintiff in replevin at a trial, or on an assessment of damages, see Graham v. O'Callaghan, 14 Ont. App. 477.

4. MANDAMUS.

1080. A mandamus may be granted by judgment or by order on motion to the Court or a Judge. A writ of mandamus shall not be issued but the judgment or order shall have the same effect as a writ of mandamus formerly had. Con. Rule 1115.

To same effect as Eng. (1883) R. 722.

This provision is similar to that contained in Rule 1084, providing that no writ of injunction shall issue.

The former Rule applied only to a mandamus in an action, and did not refer to the prerogative mandamus. Now, however, Rule 1080 applies to the prerogative mandamus. See note to Rule 1084, also Rule 3.

(i) In Actions.

1081. In any action (or) the plaintiff may indorse upon the writ and copy to be served, a notice that the plaintiff intends to claim a mandamus; and the plaintiff may claim in the statement of claim, either together with any other demand which may be enforced in the action, or separately, a mandamus commanding the defendant to fulfil any duty in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff is personally interested. Con. Rule 1112.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 4. Compare Eng. (1883) R. 719.

(a) Former Con. Rule 1112 (following R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 4), had here "except replevin or ejectment." These exceptions are now removed.

The mandamus here referred to is not the prerogative mandamus which may be granted where a party has no other remedy; see notes to sec. 58 (90 supra, pp. 76-79), but the power to grant a mandamus in an action, which was originally a new power conferred on Common Law Courts (analogous to the powers of acting directly in personam possessed by the Court of Chancery) "to direct the performance of some act, of something to be done, which is the result of an action, where an action will lie," per Brett, L.J., in Glossop v Heston Local Board, 12 Ch. D. 122.

It was thus in the nature of an execution, applicable in cases where relief to a plaintiff, who was damaged by the non-fulfilment of a duty by defendant, would be best given by enforcing the specific performance of that duty, and is in fact the Common Law equivalent of what in Equity was called a "mandatory injunction"; see Smith v. Charley, 1897, 1 Q. B. at p. 739.

The original Eng. Act, from which the R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, relating to Prohibition, Mandamus and Injunction, was taken, was intended to carry out in some measure the recommendations of the Common Rule 1061. Law Commissioners of 1834. The view of the Commissioners had been what the Jud. Act has accomplished, viz., that resort should not be had to the auxiliary jurisdiction of Equity, but that each Court should possess within itself the power to give complete redress. They accordingly reported that there was no reason "why a Court of Law should not exercise the same jurisdiction as a Court of Equity, and restrain the violation of legal rights in cases in which an injunction might issue for that purpose from Courts of Equity": Second Report, p. 48.

The Courts of Common Law formerly did not exercise the statutory jurisdiction given them, except in cases where a bill for specific performance would lie in Equity, but the converse did not hold good, viz.: that wherever Courts of Equity would entertain a bill for specific relief, the Court of Law would grant a mandamus: see Reg. v. Balby & Workop, etc., 22 L. J. Q. B. 164; Edwards v. Loundes, 1 E. & B. 81. Under the system introduced by the Judicature Act it would seem to be proper to hold, under this Rule and section 58 (9), that, in all cases in which the appropriate relief is to compel the performance by the defendant of that which the plaintiff is in the action held entitled to have performed, performance should be compelled by the issue of a mandamus. It has not, however, been as yet decided that a mandamus is the appropriate remedy for the performance of matters arising out of contract: see, however, Rule 862. In Re London, Huron & Bruce Ry. Co. v. E. Wawanosh, 36 U. C. Q. B. 93, it was held that a prerogative writ of mandamus was not the appropriate remedy in such case: see also Re N. Simcoe Ry. Co. v. Toronto, Ib., 101.

It has been said that the only class of cases, to which the section from which this Rule was taken was formerly held to apply, without doubt, was that in which there was a duty of a public nature, or a duty created by an Act of Parliament, in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff had a personal interest: Harrison, C. L. P. Act, 461.

Wherever a statute gives a right to a person to have an act or duty fulfilled by another, and that other does not fulfil it, a cause of action arises, for which, at least, nominal damages may be recovered: see Young v. Eric & Huron, etc., 27 Ont. 531.

Under the corresponding English enactment it was decided that the power given is only to be exercised to enforce performance of duties of a public nature, not those arising simply by contract: Benson v. Paull, 6 E. & B. 273; Norris v. Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 512; and that the duty must be one in which the applicant is interested; and the remedy by mandamus is only available where there is no other effectual legal remedy: Bush v. Beaven, 1 H. & C. 500.

Section 58 (9) of the Act goes further, however, than the previous statutes, and enacts that a mandamus may be granted "by an interlocutory order of the Court in all cases in which it shall appear to the Court to be just or convenient that such order should be made."

Under that section, or this Rule, the remedy may be held to extend to cases of a more private nature than those to which the prerogative mandamus would apply: see Norris v. The Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 527, per Coleridge, J., and Sivan v. North British Australasian Co., 7 H. & N. 603; 2 H. & C. 175; Worthington v. Hulton, L. R. 1 Q. B. 63; and in actions even where no actual damage is sustained: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., L. R. 2 C. P. 188.

A mandamus was granted to improvement commissioners, directing them to levy a rate to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, a creditor:

Ward v. Lowndes, 1 E. & E. 949, 956; and to apply their funds in payment of delinquent taxes: Webb v. Commissioners of Horne Rgs., 1 L. R. 5 Q. B. 642; to a railway company, compelling them to give a notice to treat, and proceed with the purchase of lands as to which they had given notice of an intention to take: Morgan v. Metropolitan Railway Co., 1 L. R. 3 C. P. 553; 4 C. P. 97; Demoreat v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73; see also Tyson v. Mayor of London, 1 L. R. 7 C. P. 18; and to issue a precept for the assessment of compensation after a notice to treat had been given: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Railway Co., 1 L. R. 2 C. P. 188; Guest v. Poole and Bournemouth Ry. Co., 1 L. R. 5 C. P. 553; to a municipal corporation to compel the making of repairs to a drain which it was their duty to repair and the non-repairs of which had caused damage to the plaintiff: White v. Corporation of Gosfield, 2 Ont. 287; and see Re Montan, etc., v. Haldimand, 12 Ont. App. 593; and to compel the opening of a road allowance so as to enable an occupant of land to have access thereto: Hishop v. McGillivray, 12 Ont. 749; see also Re Wilson v. Uniofleet, 10 P. R. 147; Clarke v. Palmerston, 6 Ont. 616; and to compel them to raise the money to pay the claim of the plaintiff as a creditor of the corporation: Quaintance v. Howard, 27 C. L. J. 545. See as to the discretion of the Court: Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 934.

In cases of public nuisance, the public has an interest in the removal of the nuisance, but any private individual who suffers particular injury may have his action for damages; see Brown v. Mallett, 5 C. B. 329; Dobson v. Blackmore, 9 Q. B. 991. Quære, whether in such case, under the present system, such private individual can have a mandamus for the removal of the nuisance.

In order to obtain a prerogative mandamus on motion, proof of a previous demand, and refusal to do the act required, must be adduced; but where a plaintiff has a right to a mandamus in an action, the prerequisites to obtaining a prerogative mandamus are not essential to be observed: Young v. Erie & Huron Ry., 27 Ont. 530.

But where the proper procedure is to apply for a prerogative mandamus, an action for a mandamus cannot be maintained: Smith v. Chorley, 1897, 1 Q. B. 532, 678; 76 L. T. 637; Barter v. London County Council, 63 L. T. 767; but where an action was brought, and a motion made in it, for a mandamus, the proceedings were amended so as to turn the application into a summary motion for the prerogative mandamus: Toronto Public Library Board v. Toronto, 19 P. R. 329.

Where a statutory remedy is prescribed for the neglect of a public duty, or the applicant has other appropriate remedy, a mandamus will not be granted to enforce its performance: Peebles v. Oswaldtwistle Council, 76 L. T. 315. See also cases in notes to sec. 58 (1), supra, p. 77.

A mandamus will not be granted to enforce the running of a railway in accordance with an agreement between it and the municipality, as that would involve a minute supervision of the management of the railway: Kingston v. Kingston, etc., 28 Ont. 399; 25 Ont. App. 462; nor will the Court by mandamus interfere with the discretion vested in and honestly exercised by a public body: Smith v. Chorley, supra; but a contract of a street railway company to sell tickets on its cars at certain specified rates, was enforced by injunction restraining them from running cars on which tickets were not carried for sale at the specified rates: Hamilton v. Hamilton St. Ry., 8 O. L. R. 642.

Rules
1082-1084.
Indorsement of writ.

1082. The claim for a mandamus to be indorsed upon the writ may be according to the Form in Part II., section IV. in the Appendix. Con. Rule 1113.

Compare Eng. 1883, R. 720.

For the Form referred to, see H. & L. Forms, No. 51, p. 25.

Judgment.

1083. If judgment is given for the plaintiff, the Court or Judge may thereby command the defendant, either forthwith or on the expiration of such time and upon such terms as may seem just, to perform the duty in question, and may also extend the time for the performance of the duty. Con. Rule 1114.

To same effect as Eng. (1883) R. 721.

(ii) Mandamus on Motion.

Jurisdiction to grant prerogative writ of mandamus on motion
affected

1084. Nothing in Rules 1081 to 1083 contained shall take away the jurisdiction of the High Court to grant an order of mandamus where the prerogative writ of mandamus might formerly have been granted; nor shall any order of mandamus issued be invalid by reason of the right of the prosecutor to proceed by action for mandamus, but the preceding Rules, so far as they are applicable, shall apply to the pleadings and proceedings upon a prerogative order of mandamus issued by the Court. Con. Rule 1115.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 72, s. 10, which was taken from the Imp. Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 75.

The object of the statute from which this Rule is taken was to declare that the right to obtain the prerogative writ of mandamus was not interfered with. It would therefore seem to be not interfered with by the Rules, except that in form it is to be an order, not a writ. As to this mandamus, see supra, pp. 78, 79.

Where a prerogative order of mandamus is required it is not proper to bring an action therefor, but the application for the order should be made in a summary way according to the former practice on motions for a prerogative writ of mandamus: Toronto Public Schools Board v. Toronto, 19 P. R. 329. Under that practice the affidavits to found the application were simply exhibited in the Court, without any cause or matter, e.g., "In the High Court of Justice;" the rule nisi or absolute, for the writ, and all subsequent proceedings were further entitled "the King against (naming the defendants)"; but see Corner's Crown Pr., pp. 220, 224, where it is said that affidavits were not usually so entitled until after the granting of the rule absolute. In the above case the title was amended by adding "In the matter of the Toronto Public Schools Board, etc., etc.," but it is doubtful whether that was a proper carrying out of the Chancellor's direction.

A notice of motion for a prerogative order of mandamus in lieu of Rule 1085, an application for an order nisi would now appear to be the proper practice: Rules 1001, 1002.

A peremptory order is seldom awarded ex parte: see Tapp. 407; and see Re Board of Education of Napanee & Napanee, 20 Q. B. 395, 398; but the Court may grant it: Rule 1002.

The motion for an order of mandamus must be made by counsel, an application by a suitor in person will not be entertained. Ex p. Wallace, 1002, 2 K. B. 488, where In re Lewis (1884), 11 Q. B. D. 474, was held to be no authority for a contrary practice. The notice of motion takes the place of an order nisi, and the order, if granted, is usually absolute in the first instance; sed vide, Re Board of Education of Napanee & Napanee, supra.

1085. Where an order of mandamus shall be issued, the person required to make a return thereto shall, on being duly served therewith, make his return thereto as thereby required, on pain of being proceeded against for contempt of Court. See 9 Anne, c. 25 (or c. 20 in Ruffhead's Ed.), s. 1.) R. S. O., c. 324, s. 30.

Mandamus, return to.

The original Rule 1085 was amended as above by R. S. O. c. 324, s. 30.

This Rule embodies the provisions of the 9 Anne, c. 25, which was passed to do away with the former necessity of issuing alias and pluries writs. The order is peremptory in its terms; if the defendant fails to comply with it, after being duly served, or makes a bad or insufficient return therein, he may be proceeded against for contempt of Court; and upon such motion it would seem that it is intended that the sufficiency of the return should either be summarily determined by the Court, or an issue directed to be tried; and if the return is adjudged to be false or insufficient, damages may be awarded to the applicant: see Rule 1087 (2).

Orders of mandamus awarded in an action are generally peremptory orders made after the question of the right of the applicant to the order has been determined in the action, as also his right to damages; but in case of disobedience to a mandamus so granted in an action, it would seem that the plaintiff would be entitled to proceed for damages for disobedience under Rule 1087 (2), in the same way as an applicant on a summary application.

The Return.—The return is to be made on or before the return day named in the order; on default, and on affidavit of service of the order, if it was only an order nisi, a peremptory mandamus will be granted, and after that an attachment: Mayor of Coventry's Case, 2 Sack. 419; and if the order was peremptory in the first instance, an attachment will be granted on proof of service and default. On application the Court may extend the time: Tapp. 341.

The order must be returned as executed, or its execution must be legally excused or justified: Tapp. 340. If the defendant has not had sufficient time, such fact may be returned by stating that "from time to time divers matters and things have been executed for the purpose of complying with the order, and that further matters and things are in the course of procedure": Tapp. 340.

Rule 1085. Returns are of three kinds: (1) Traverses; (2) Special returns; (3) A statement in the nature of a demurrer.

(1) Traverses.—The general rules of pleading were formerly held applicable, by which it was a rule that every distinct and material allegation must, if it be intended to contradict it, be traversed: Tapp. 348.

(2) Special returns by way of confession and avoidance. Where the defendant seeks either to excuse or justify the non-execution of the order, he must, by his returns, in direct terms, state the grounds of his excuse or justification, and under pain of attachment make the best return his case admits of. The whole facts of his case must be set out in extenso, in order both to enable the Court to judge of the law and of the legality of the excuse, and as to whether the command has been complied with, and also to apprise the prosecutor of the grounds of defence, to enable him to answer them. The return will, therefore, not be sufficient if made in general terms.

Every good legal cause why the prosecutor is not entitled to a mandamus, whether it arises from his personal incapacity to obtain it, or by reason of the absence of a legal right to what he seeks, will form a good and valid return: Tapp. 358; unless that point has already been determined on the argument of the motion for the order absolute: see Id. 407. A return which shews a legal impossibility to perform what the order commands is good: see Re Bristol & Somerset Ry., 3 Q. B. D. 10; but the fact that the defendant had, after notice of the plaintiff's claim, by his own act put it out of his power to comply with the order is not a legal impossibility: see Regina v. Barnardo, 23 Q. B. D. 305.

A return will be bad if it shews the legal liability of the defendant, or does not sufficiently answer the command: thus, to a mandamus to ascertain whether a discretion may or may not have been honestly exercised, it is not sufficient to return that "what has been deemed necessary has been done;" it should explicitly shew what has been done, and also expressly allege that no more was necessary, in order that a traverse may be taken which would otherwise be impossible: Tapp. 358.

(3) A return in the nature of a demurrer.—The defendant cannot demur to the order, but he may submit that he is not bound by law to execute it, which submission, being the nature of a demurrer, will be treated accordingly: Tapp. 362.

Proceedings on Return.—The return must, together with the order, be filed in the proper office, and then becomes a return: Tapp. 365.

Amendment of the return to correct clerical mistakes may be allowed.

Former Con. Rule 1122 provided that the mode of objecting to the validity of a return should be by demurrer, but a motion to quash a defective return might formerly be made when the return was vicious by reason of any clear and well acknowledged defect, such as that upon its face it was palpably framed only for the purpose of delay: Rex v. Oundle, 1 A. & E. 297; Tapp. 372. Now under Rule 1089 a motion to strike out, or set aside the return, or a motion to commit the defendant for contempt will be the proper course.

It has also been laid down that a return which is evasive, contemptuous, frivolous, nonsensical, hypothetical, or uncertain may be quashed on motion under Rule 1089, and see Tapp. 350.

As to what constitutes uncertainty: see Tapp. 354, 355.

1086. Upon an application for an order of mandamus (other than such as relate to the offices and franchises mentioned in or provided for by the said Act), the Court or Judge may hear motions calling not only upon the persons to whom such order is required to issue, but also all and every other person having or claiming any right or interest in or to the matter of such order, to shew cause against the issuing of such order and the payment of costs of the application, and upon the appearance of such other person on such motion, or in default of appearance after notice given, may exercise all such powers and authorities, and make all such orders applicable to the case as are or may be given or mentioned by or in any Act or Rule of Court for giving relief against adverse claims upon persons having no interest in the subject of such claims. Con. Rule 1119.

Court may make orders calling on all persons having interest in the matter of the writ to shew cause against issuing, etc.

The Act referred to in this Rule is 9 Anne, c. 20; see former Rule 1085.

This and the two next following Rules are directed to meet the cases, referred to in the Act, of a mandamus nisi issued to officers or persons whose functions are merely ministerial, and to provide that the persons having or claiming right or interest in the matter, may be called upon to shew cause, and may be made liable to costs: see Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73.

The "notice given" may be by notice of motion; see Rule 1091.

Where the order nisi is directed to merely ministerial officers who claim no right or interest in the matter in question, they will be usually protected against the payment of costs and damages.

See Re Massey Mfg. Co., 11 Ont. 44; 12 Ont. App. 446 (see R. S. O. 1887, c. 157, s. 19, not consolidated); and see R. S. O. 1897, c. 190.

Peremptory Mandamus.—The Court has jurisdiction to award a peremptory mandamus in the first instance instead of a mandamus nisi: Rule 1092.

No return except obedience is admissible to a peremptory order: Tapp. 408; but, where no order nisi has previously issued, if the defendant has any answer to the order, it may be given, not by way of return, but in shewing cause why an attachment should not issue: Tapp. 407, and if necessary a peremptory order may be quashed, and a return may be allowed to be made to the order nisi if any: Tapp. 408; and see Rule 1089.

Enforcement of Mandamus.—Attachment is the proper remedy for disobeying a peremptory mandamus: Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82; and see Rule 1087.

The return to be made to any such order, and issues joined in fact or law upon any traverse thereof, shall be made and joined by and in the name of the person to whom such order is directed; but nevertheless the same shall, if the Court thinks fit so to direct, be expressed to be made and joined on the behalf of such other person as may be ordered; and in that case such other person shall be permitted to frame the return, and to conduct the subsequent proceedings at his own expense; and in such case, if any judgment is given for or against the party applying for the mandamus, such judgment shall be given against or for the person on whose behalf the return is expressed to be made, and such person shall have the like remedy for the recovery of costs and enforcing the judgment as the person to whom the order was directed might and would otherwise have had. Con. Rule 1120.

False return

(2) Where the person to whom an order of mandamus is directed shall be found by the Court or a Judge to have made a false or insufficient return thereto, the Court or a Judge may order the person making such false or insufficient return to pay to the party prosecuting such order any damages occasioned by such false or insufficient return, to be assessed by such Court or Judge, or otherwise as may be directed. Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 15, which was taken from Imp. Act. 6 & 7 Vict. c. 67, s. 1.

(a) The word "that" appears to have been omitted in the consolidation of the Rules.

The Statute of Anne permitted the prosecutor merely to plead to or traverse a return, but allowed the defendant to reply, take issue, or demur. This distinction gave rise to a practice in the case of an insufficient return, of allowing the prosecutor to make application to the Court in the nature of a demurrer, and called a concilium, to quash it, upon which, if successful, a peremptory mandamus was at once awarded. Instead of the concilium, a notice to strike out or set aside the return has by this Rule been substituted: the proceedings upon it are to be the same as on a motion in an ordinary action.

1090. Upon application by motion for an order of mandamus the order may in all cases be made in the first instance, if the Court thinks fit: and the order shall be dated on the day of its being made, and may be made returnable forthwith, but time may be allowed to return it by the Court or a Judge either with or without terms. Rule 1092. notice in the ordinary manner to any person who may be affected by the order made. Con. Rule 1124.

The prerogative writ was formerly obtained at a sitting of the Court in Term, and was not usually peremptory in the first instance, but in an alternative form, commanding the person to whom it was directed to do the act specified, or shew cause to the contrary, which was done by a return.

The enactment from which this Rule is taken was passed to enable applications for the prerogative writ of mandamus to be made in Chambers at any time, instead of only during the sittings of the Court in Term, and to empower the Court to grant a writ to which obedience was the only admissible return. The preamble to the original Act, 35 Vict. c. 14, was: "Whereas in many cases very great injustice is done by the delay in the issue of the prerogative writ of mandamus; and whereas it is necessary to devise a more speedy and summary method for the issue of the same."

That Act and the present Rule therefore provide for a summary application to a Judge in Chambers for the issue of a peremptory order in the first instance; so that all questions as to the right to the order, and the matters, which otherwise would be raised by way of return to a mandamus nisi, may be argued, and disposed of at once, without any previous order and return thereto. That is the mode of procedure now generally adopted. The right, however, to move the Court for a mandamus nisi as formerly is not taken away, but seems by implication to be recognized by Rule 1092, which provides that on any such motion the Judge may make an order absolute in the first instance.

In the present form and location of this Rule it probably applies to both the prerogative mandamus, and that grantable in an action under sec. 58 (9) of the Jud. Act and Rule 1081, but, in an action, a mandamus will not be granted on an interlocutory application unless the plaintiff clearly shews that he will suffer some injury by waiting for the result of the action: Wines Alkali Co. v. Sheffield, etc., 37 L. T. 131.

The Master in Chambers and officers having like jurisdiction have no power to grant orders of mandamus: see Rules 42 (12), 45, 49; as to Local Judges, however, see Rule 47.

The motion must be made by counsel, an application by a solicitor in person will not be entertained: Ex p. Wallace, 1902, 2 K. B. 481.

Where a summary application for a mandamus was made in Court, the costs of a Chamber motion only were allowed, where the circumstances did not justify the imposition of a larger sum for costs than was sufficient to indicate that the respondents were in the wrong: Re Brookfield and Public School Section 12, Township of Brooke, 12 P. R. 487.

5. INJUNCTIONS.

1094. An injunction may be granted by judgment or order [upon motion to the Court]. A writ of injunction shall not be issued, but the judgment or order shall have the same effect as a writ of injunction formerly had. Con. Rule 1130.

6. INTERIM PRESERVATION OF PROPERTY, ETC.

1095. Where by any contract a prima facie case of liability is established, and there is alleged as a matter of defence a right to be relieved wholly or in part from such liability, the Court or a Judge may make an order for the preservation or interim custody of the subject-matter of the litigation, or may order that the amount in dispute be brought into Court or otherwise secured. Con. Rule 1131.

Order for interim preservation of property.

Same as the Eng. (1883) R. 657.

This provision gives increased power to the Court for preserving the rights of the parties uninjured, during the pending of litigation, and an interlocutory order made under this Rule may be enforced by attachment: Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. 1877, 29.

In Russell v. Davies, W. N. 1883, 109; 19 C. L. J. 273, an action to recover arrears of an annuity, an order made for payment of the annuity till the trial, the plaintiff being in destitution, was reversed in appeal, as it appeared in the evidence that the defendant had a prima facie case for insisting that the annuity had determined.

As to the stage of the action at which an application may be made, see Rule 1098.

1096. The Court or a Judge may, upon the application of any party and upon such terms as may seem just, make any order for the detention or preservation of property, being the subject of the action, or for the inspection of any property, the inspection of which is necessary for the proper determination of the question in dispute; and for all or any of the Rule 1135, amended.*

See the Eng. (1883) R. 659.

The powers given by this Rule are very much wider than the mere power to allow inspection given by the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 59), s. 168 (now Rule 571), and under this Rule as now framed they are wider than under the former Rule 1135, and the Eng. R.

Similar jurisdiction of Court of Chancery.

The Court of Chancery, under its similar jurisdiction, would not grant an inspection on the application of the plaintiff, unless satisfied that he had a case to be tried at the hearing; nor in any case unless the inspection asked for was necessary for the purpose of enabling the party applying for it to prove his case: Piggott v. Anglo-American Telegraph Co., 19 L. T. 46; Batley v. Kynock, L. R. 19 Eq. 95.

Semble, a Judge cannot, validly, on an interlocutory motion, take a view of the subject matter in dispute, in lieu of the evidence of witnesses: London General Omnibus Co. v. Larch, 1901, 1 Ch. 125; 83 L. T. 453.

Formerly inspection could not be granted to one defendant of property belonging to another defendant, when there was no right in question between them in the action: Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193; but under the Rule as now framed such an inspection might be ordered if necessary for the proper determination of the question in dispute in the action.

The power to grant inspection under this Rule is limited by the last clause; where, to make the inspection effective, entry into any land or building is necessary, such entry must be limited to any land or building in the possession of a party. An order was refused where the person having possession was not before the Court: Reid v. Powers, 28 Sol. Jour. 653; Garrard v. Edge, 37 W. R. 501.

In an action to restrain defendants (who were owners of a house fronting on the same street as the house owned by the plaintiff), from causing, or permitting, sewage to be discharged from their premises into a drain belonging to the plaintiff, and from permitting any connection to remain between their premises and the plaintiff's drain, an order was made under this Rule, authorizing the plaintiff to enter on that part of the street the soil of which belonged to the defendants, for the purpose of experimenting, in order to discover whether the pipe which joined the plaintiff's drain proceeded directly from the defendant's house, and for this purpose to dig up the street as far as might be necessary: Lumb v. Beaumont, 27 Ch. D. 356.

Where the defendant in an action for obstruction of light and air, had not delivered his statement of defence, Archibald, J., refused an order for inspection until he had disclosed his defence: W. N. 1876, 53.

In a nuisance action, an application to inspect the defendant's works to ascertain how the nuisance was occasioned was refused, as proof of the nuisance could be obtained from external sources: Barlow v. Bailey, 18 W. R. 782; see also Flower v. Lloyd, W. N. 1876, 169, 230.

Upon a prima facie case of mineral trespass, or encroachment by the defendant, or where the fact of trespass (which is denied) can only be ascertained by inspection, and no injury will result to the defendant therefrom, an interlocutory order will be made for the inspection of his mine; and the order will, when necessary, extend to the removal of the obstruction to the inspection: Seton, 5th ed., 503; see Cooper v. Ince, Hall & Co., W. N. 1876, 24.

The Court has jurisdiction under this Rule to grant an interim injunction in a proper case, to restrain a defendant from ceasing to pump water out of a mine which the defendant was in possession of, and had agreed to lease, in order to prevent its destruction: Strelley v. Pearson, 15 Ch. D. 113.

The rule in actions for the infringement of letters patent is, that where a plaintiff is unable to obtain clear and satisfactory evidence of infringement, the Court, upon a fair prima facie case being made out, will order the defendant to permit an inspection to be made of his premises and machinery, by proper persons named on behalf of the plaintiff: Seton, 351. In an action to restrain infringement of a patent for grinding grain so as to separate the germ from the flour, inspection of the plaintiff's process, to see how it was actually carried on under their patent, was granted. The plaintiffs did not claim any novelty in the machinery, their specification was confined to a new process or product: The Germ Milling Co. v. Robinson, 53 L. T. 697; 31 W. R. 194; 55 L. J. Chy. 287.

Inspection of samples was ordered in Munn v. McCannull, 7 C. L. T. 169.

In an action to recover jewellery, the defendant alleged that it belonged to a third party, and had been deposited by him to secure a debt due to the defendant. The Court ordered it to be given up to an officer of the Court: Veluti v. Braham, 46 L. J. C. P. 415.

The Court has full power to allow photographs to be taken by a party to the action of documents in the possession of the other party: Lewis v. Londenborough, 1893, 2 Q. B. 191.

On the affidavit of plaintiff, stating that the property was rapidly being damaged, the Court of Appeal appointed him receiver and manager, though no application for this purpose had been made, either to a Divisional Court or a Judge: Hyle v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309.

As to authorizing the making of experiments, see Budische Anilin, etc., v. Levinstein, 24 Ch. D. 156.

Instead of ordering documents to be brought into Court, the Court in a clear case, on an interlocutory motion, directed a defendant to deliver up documents of which he obtained possession while in the plaintiff's service, and which he had improperly carried away on leaving his employ: Whitcham v. Moss, 73 L. T. 57.

An application under this Rule is generally made to the Court as on Practice motions for injunctions: see English v. Camberwell, W. N. 1875, 250; but an order has been made in Chambers: see Cooper v. Ince, Hall & Co., W. N. 1876, 24. It should in general be upon notice: see the next Rule, and Hobershon v. Gill, W. N. 1875, 231; but where circumstances rendered it proper, on an ex parte application, an order for the purpose of inspecting and taking samples was made: Hennssey v. Rohmann, 36 L. T. 51; W. N. 1877, 14; an order for detention and preservation of property: Melnish v. Milton, 24 W. R. 679; and an order for inspection of a mine, in an action for damages for withdrawing support to land: Mitchell v. Darley Main Colliery Co., 31 W. R. 549.

Rule 1097. A party is bound by an order for preservation of property as soon as he has notice of it: Ex p. Langley, 13 Ch. D. 110. See also p. 95, supra.

Chattel property in dispute may be ordered to be sent out of the jurisdiction, for the purpose of inspection by a witness out of the jurisdiction whose evidence is ordered to be taken abroad: Chaplin v. Puttick, 1898, 2 Q. B. 169; S. C. sub nom. Chaplin v. Laing, 78 L. T. 419.

Where the parties agree, without order, to an inspection, the costs thereof are taxable as part of the costs of the action: Ashworth v. English Card Clothing Co., 1904, 1 Ch. 702.

goods.

1097. The Court or a Judge may, on the application of a party, order the sale, by any person or persons named in the order, and in such manner and on such terms as may seem just, of any goods, wares, or merchandise which may be of a perishable nature or likely to be injured from keeping, or which for any other reason it may be desirable to have sold at once. Con. Rule 1133.

See Eng. (1883) R. 658.

Quare, whether an order can only be made under this Rule where the goods, etc., are the subject of the action: Dongar v. Gospel Oak Iron Co., 6 Times, 260, and see Rule 1096.

An order may be made for the sale of a chattel which, for a "just & sufficient reason, it may be desirable to have sold at once." Thus in Bartholomew v. Freeman, 3 C. P. D. 316, the Court ordered a horse to be sold, on the ground that it was consuming its value in food, and there was no reason why it should not be sold. In Coddington v. Jacksonville P. & M. Ry. Co., 39 L. T. 12, an order was made for the sale of bonds as perishable property; and in Evans v. Davies, 1893, 2 Ch. 216; 68 L. T. 244, a like order was made in respect of shares in a limited company, as being goods within the meaning of this Rule (see also note to Rule 616, supra, p. 774); and see Gee v. Betts, 193 L. T. Jour. 267.

A foreign ship was ordered to be sold on the report of the Marshal that the sale was desirable: The Hercules, 11 P. D. 10.

An order was refused to the plaintiff where there was no dispute in the action that the property in the goods was in the defendant, there being also no urgent reason for a sale: Dongar v. Gospel Oak Iron Co., supra.

In an action for an unpaid balance on the sale of a horse, and for breach of warranty of another horse received in part payment plaintiff applied for leave to sell the horse so received in part payment; it was held by Quain, J., that no order was necessary, and that the Rule was not applicable: Luon., 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 127; 60 L. T. Jour. p. 84.

In an action of replevin an order was refused where applied for by the plaintiff for the sale of six valuable horses which had been delivered to him under an order of replevin in the action, it being held that he was free to sell them, at the risk, of course, of damages, if he failed in his action: Jones v. Hutcheon, 5 Q. L. R. 362.

1099. Where an action is brought, or a defendant by way of counter-claim seeks, to recover specific property other than land, and the party from whom such recovery is sought does not dispute the title of the party seeking to recover the same, but claims to retain the property by virtue of a lien or otherwise as security for money, the Court or a Judge, at any time after such last mentioned claim appears from the pleadings, or (if there be no pleadings) by affidavit or otherwise, may order that the party claiming to recover the property be at liberty to pay into Court, to abide the event of the action, the amount of money in respect of which the lien or security is claimed, and such further sum (if any) for interest and costs as the Court or Judge may direct, and that upon such payment into Court being made, the property claimed be given up to the party claiming it. Con. Rule 1136.

See Eng. (1883) R. 664.

Under Rule 1099 in order to entitle the plaintiff to an order that the specific property be given up to him, he must pay into Court the whole amount of the lien claimed by the defendant notwithstanding that it exceeds the value of the specific property claimed; Gebrüder Naf v. Ploton, 25 Q. B. D. 13; 63 L. T. 328. But this would not prevent the Court from dealing with a case where a fraudulently excessive claim is made for the purpose of defeating the Rule; S. C., per Lord Esher, M.R.

1. PROHIBITION.

1100. Prohibition may be granted by judgment or order upon motion to the Court or a Judge. A writ of prohibition shall not be issued, but the judgment or order shall have the same effect as a writ of prohibition formerly had. Con. Rules 1137, 1138.

Application for order of prohibition.

Prior to R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 2, a mere surmise or suggestion of the ground for prohibition was enough to put the Superior Court in motion, and the suggestion was not required to be verified where there was a plea in the Court below, but if there was no plea, then an affidavit was required.

The right to the writ has to be tried now upon a motion, subject to the same rules as other motions. Amongst others, Rules 489-498

Rule 1101. will be applicable, and, in such cases as the Court would formerly direct a declaration and subsequent proceedings in prohibition, a Court or Judge can now upon a motion direct that evidence be taken in such way as may seem proper, and if necessary that an issue be tried.

The motion has usually been made in Chancery to a Judge. The Master in Chancery and Local Judges and Masters have no jurisdiction: see Rules 42, 45, 49, except Local Judges, where Rule 47 applies.

A successful party on an application for prohibition is entitled to, and should be awarded, costs, unless the Court, in the proper exercise of a wise discretion, can see good cause for depriving such party of them; and such party should not be deprived of costs, unless there appears to have been impropriety of conduct, which induced the litigation, or impropriety in the conduct thereof: Re McLeod v. Ritchie (21, 12 P. R. 503; Reg. v. Justices of London, 1894, 1 Q. B. 453; 70 L. T. 148.

Prohibition is the proper remedy where the inferior Court is exceeding its jurisdiction, not where it has committed an error in law, or good conscience: Siddall v. Gibson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 98; In re Dyce & Ellis, 30 Ont. 437; or merely an error or irregularity in procedure, the remedy, if any, in such case is by appeal, and if there is no appeal there is no remedy: Reg. v. Mayor of London, 63 L. T. 721; Re First D. C. v. Huron, 5 P. R. 467. A prohibition may be granted though the question of jurisdiction has not been raised in the Court below, but the omission to raise the objection there may disentitle the applicant to costs: Verlich v. Clifford, 6 P. R. 212; but if the applicant submits to the jurisdiction of the Court below and cross-examines witnesses, and argues the case on the merits without objecting to the jurisdiction, a prohibition on the ground of excess of jurisdiction may be refused: In re Barrowes, 18 C. P. 403; and see Richardson v. Shaw, 6 P. R. 296. Where the Judge in the Court below acts under an appealable order of the High Court, which is not appealed from, prohibition will be refused though the Court may think the order of the High Court erroneous: Dierkin v. Philpot, 1901, 2 K. B. 380; 85 L. T. 246.

Where the want of jurisdiction is apparent on the face of the proceedings, prohibition must be granted ex debito justitiæ, and the applicant is not estopped by any consent or acquiescence on his part, but the granting of prohibition is discretionary where the want of jurisdiction is not apparent, and depends on facts which the applicant has neglected to bring to the attention of the inferior Court: Farquhason v. Morgan, 1894, 1 Q. B. 352; 70 L. T. 152.

Prohibition is an extreme measure, granted summarily only in a very plain case of the unlawful exercise of jurisdiction by a subordinate tribunal: Re Cammings & Carleton, 25 Ont. 407; In re Grass v. Allan, 26 U. C. Q. B. 123.

8. CERTIORARI.

Certiorari.

1101. An order for certiorari may be granted upon motion to the Court or a Judge. A writ of certiorari shall not be issued, but the order shall have the same effect as a writ of certiorari formerly had. Con. Rule 1140.

Where the inferior Court has the like jurisdiction as the High Court Rules in the particular matter, a certiorari to bring up and quash the pro- 1102, 1103.
ceedings cannot be granted; Skinner v. Judge of North Alberton, 1860, A. C. 439.

9. INTERPLEADER.

(i) Generally.

1102. In Rules 1103 to 1128.

Interpleader
Rule

- (a) "Execution," "writ" and "writ of execution" shall include an "order of attachment under The ^{Rev. Stat.} Absconding Debtors Act and Rules 1058 to 1066." ^{1860 (Am.)}
^{R. S. O. c. 30}
- (b) "Execution creditor" shall include "attaching creditor."
- (c) "Sheriff" shall mean a Sheriff, Coroner, Elisor or other officer charged with the execution of any writ or process of the High Court, or of a County Court in cases where Rule 1123 applies. New.

1103. Relief by way of interpleader may be granted.

When relief by interpleader granted

- (a) Where the person seeking relief (hereinafter called the applicant) is under liability for any debt, money, goods or chattels, for or in respect of which he is, or expects to be, sued by two or more persons (hereinafter called the claimants) making adverse claim thereto;
- (b) Where the applicant is a Sheriff and claim is made to any money, goods, or chattels, lands or tenements, taken or intended to be taken in execution under a writ of execution, or to the proceeds or value thereof, of any person other than the person against whom the process issued. Con.
Rule 1144.

Taken from Eng. (1881) R. 859.

Before this Rule the practice in force both in Common Law Courts and in Equity remained in force under the Judicature Act. The practice in the Common Law Courts was regulated by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, as amended by 44 V. c. 7; 44 V. c. 16, s. 13; the jurisdiction in Equity except in the case of interpleader by Sheriffs did not depend upon the statute: McEthern v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181.

The practice on interpleader by a Sheriff was the same in all the Courts, being regulated by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, and amending Acts.

Rule 1103. In the case of interpleader by a stakeholder, in the Common Law Courts this was only possible where he was a defendant, having been actually sued; in Equity, it was sufficient if a claim was made against the applicant, and he was in danger of being molested by conflicting rights: Story Eq. Jur. s. 808.

At Common Law a stakeholder seeking relief could only do so, as above mentioned, when he was a defendant in respect of a claim for money or goods, of which he had to be in possession, as he had to be in a position to dispose of them in any manner directed by the Court; he also was required to have received a distinct notice of the adverse claim, an expectation of being sued was not enough. The claim of the third party had to be in respect of the same subject matter in respect to which the defendant was sued, but it was not necessary that it should be an absolute right of property in the subject matter.

Where rent was claimed from A. by B., and was garnished by creditors of C. (the father of B.), who, it was claimed, was the real lessor, A. refusing to pay rent unless protected from these claims, and being sued in a County Court by B. for the full amount of rent, was held entitled to relief under this Rule: Re Anderson & Barber, 11 P. R. 21.

Interpleader by Stakeholders.—Under the present Rule, which in effect follows the Equity practice, the person seeking relief is only required to be under liability, for the subject matter, it is not necessary that he be first sued, before applying for relief. Probably this Rule does not extinguish any power to compel interpleader existing formerly in Equity upon bill filed, and now possessed by the High Court; see McEltheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181; Western Canada L. & S. Co. v. Court, 25 Gr. 151; Henderson v. Watson, 23 Gr. 255.

Formerly, if the defendant might be liable to both the plaintiff and the third party, he could not require them to interplead. This may be still the case under this Rule: see Farr v. Ward, 2 M. & W. 841.

And where a person is sued by two persons in respect of the same transaction, he is not entitled to an interpleader order on the ground that he claims to be indebted to only one of them, Greator v. Hackle, 1895, 2 Q. B. 299.

The Crown cannot be compelled to interplead, not having been mentioned in the Act; see Candy v. Maughan, 1 D. & L. 745; McGee v. Baines, 3 C. C. L. J. 151.

A person outside the jurisdiction may be compelled to interplead. Leave to serve the notice out of the jurisdiction must be obtained under Rule 162 (3); Belmont v. Annard, 4 C. P. D. 352; Credit Germandense v. Van Weede, 12 Q. B. D. 171; Re Confederation Life Association v. Cordingley, 19 P. R. 16, 89; thus, where shares in a foreign joint stock company were in dispute, and the company had been sued within the jurisdiction by one of the rival claimants, it was held that the company was entitled to interplead, although the company and both the claimants were out of the jurisdiction, and although a claim for damages against the applicant was made by one of the claimants in respect of the shares: Re Federated Stoker Co., 1 O. L. R. 12; but where the fund in dispute was payable in a foreign country by foreigners residing therein to other foreigners also residing therein, and a claimant within the jurisdiction claimed it, it was held that the person from whom the fund was claimed could not require the parties to interplead in Ontario: Re Bonfield & Stereos, 15 P. R. 300, 330, and this may perhaps still be the case notwithstanding Rule 102 (3); see Harria v. Bank of B. N., 1, 10 P. R. 51.

It would seem to be immaterial whether the titles on which the adverse claimants rely are legal or equitable, see Jud. Act, see 58 (13), and Ruston v. Pope, L. R. 3 Ex. 233; Bank of Ireland v. Perry, L. R. 7 Ex. 14; Duncan v. Canadian, L. R. C. P. 551; Eaglehawk v. Nixon, L. R. 10 C. P. 615.

A debtor who is being sued, and who has notice of an assignment of the debt, may require the claimants to interplead as to part and dispute the residue; and his application may be either under this Rule or under the Judicature Act, section 58 (6), and the proceedings in the action may be stayed under the latter provision: Reading v. London School Board, 16 Q. B. 1, 386.

Where the claim of one of the claimants is for damages for the detention of the subject matter in dispute, the applicant is entitled to an order to interplead: Attenborough v. St. Katharine Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450; Re Canadian Pacific Ry. v. Carruthers, 15 P. R. 275.

Quare, whether interpleader is a proper remedy for trying the right to securities as between co-ureties: Trevice v. Buckitt, 1 Ont. 80.

Interpleader was ordered at the instance of an auctioneer: Watson v. Henderson, 12 U. C. L. J. 149; Tanner v. European Bank, L. R. 1 Ex. 231; of a bailee of a policy of insurance: Attenborough v. St. Katharine Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450; of a broker to whom shares had been transferred for sale, a rival claim to which was set up: Robinson v. Jenkins, 24 Q. B. D. 167; 62 L. T. 439; and see Underwood Stoker Co., 1 O. L. R. 42; and of a wharfinger with whom were stored goods claimed by two banks, and notwithstanding a letter written by the wharfinger to one of the banks stating that the goods were held for that bank: Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, 1891, 1 Q. B. 546.

Interpleader was ordered on the application of a purchaser pendente lite of land, the conveyance of which was in the action attacked as fraudulent, as against creditors of the vendor, the purchaser being sued by the vendor in another action, for the purchase money, which he was willing to pay into Court: Mulsons Bank v. Eager, 11 O. W. R. 163, 180.

A solicitor who has recovered judgment for a client under an ordinary retainer has no authority, without special instructions, to engage in proceedings in interpleader: Amos v. Rickwell, 21 Q. B. D. 164; but where he is retained in interpleader proceedings he has the ordinary powers of a solicitor, as in other contested cases: Hackett v. Bible, 12 P. R. 482.

A bailee who is estopped from setting up jux tertii may nevertheless be entitled to interplead: Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, 1891, 1 Q. B. 546.

Practice.—Affidavits entitled "In the H. C. J. Chy. 11. Between A., applicant, and B. and others, claimants," were held sufficient: Re Anderson & Barber, 13 P. R. 21.

The costs of proceedings are, under Rule 1130, in the discretion of the Court, and were ordered to be paid by the person causing the litigation, in Re Anderson & Barber, supra.

A stakeholder applying for an interpleader order, and acting bona fide, is entitled to deduct from the fund in dispute the taxed costs

Rule 1103 ^{See} occasioned by the interpleader; Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. 122, without prejudice to the question as to how the costs are to be ultimately borne; Searle v. Matthews, W. N. 1883, 176.

Bailees and Carriers.—The former special Rules (1167, et seq.), relating to interpleader by Bailees and Carriers have been abrogated, as the provisions of Rules 1103 (a), etc., cover such cases; see Rogers v. Lambert & Co., 61 L. T. 406.

See Re Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. and Carruthers, 17 P. R. 277, where an interpleader order was granted respecting claims to grain deposited under a contract in the Ry. Co.'s elevators, notwithstanding that the specific grain could not be delivered, but only grain of like standard and quality.

An interpleader order was granted on the application of a bailee notwithstanding he had by attornment to one of the claimants estopped himself from denying his title, and the claimant alleging the estoppel was restrained from bringing an action, except as to any claim he might have, by reason of the alleged estoppel, if defeated in the issue; Ex p. Mersey Docks, 1893, 1 Q. B. 546; 80 L. T. 143.

Sheriffs.—Under clause (b) of the present Rule the practice in interpleader by Sheriffs is substantially the same as under the R. S. O. 1877, c. 54.

A Sheriff's right to call on rival claimants to interplead is not confined to the cases falling within clause (b); but in cases not provided for by that clause he may invoke the assistance of clause (a); Re Gould v. Hope, 20 Ont. App. 347.

The disposition of the Court is to be more liberal in relieving the Sheriff than formerly; Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110; Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 542.

The right of a Sheriff to an interpleader order depends on his having the subject matter of the rival claims in his possession, and his having the right to take it in execution with an intention so to do. He cannot require claimants to interplead in respect of a mortgage assigned by the debtor (the mortgagee), which (though acting under R. S. O. c. 77, s. 231, he has neither actually seized, nor is able to seize; Keenan v. Osborne, 7 O. L. R. 134.

Where the application is made by a Sheriff under clause (b) the Sheriff must have made a seizure (or be ready and intending to make one; see Keenan v. Osborne, supra), before he can apply, and before the Court can have any summary jurisdiction to direct an issue; Opden v. Craig, 10 P. R. 378; Teskey v. Neid, 15 P. R. 244; Goslin v. Tunc, 2 U. C. Q. B. 177; and he must retain possession; Wheeler v. Murphy, 1 P. R. 335. An interpleader order was granted where the goods were dies, plates, etc., admittedly the property of the execution debtors, though in the hands of the claimants in the execution by them of a printing contract with the debtors, and had not been actually seized by the Sheriff; Braun v. Markland Publishing Co., 6 O. W. R. 142.

An interpleader order was granted where the execution creditor alleged that the debtor had a half interest in the goods which was disputed by the person in whose possession the goods were; Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 541.

Where the goods seized are in the possession of the debtor, or he is in possession jointly with a third person, the proceedings detailed in Rules 1115 and 1116 should be taken to bring the claim to the notice of the execution creditor, and hear from him whether or not he acknowledges its validity before the Sheriff applies for an interpleader order. Rule 1103.

When entitled or not to interplead.

A seizure of moneys paid for entrance to a theatre, after the commencement of proceedings to wind up the theatre company, was held to be void: Re The Opera, Limited, 38 W. R. 637; 62 L. T. 859.

A chose in action is not bound by delivery of the writ, but only by seizure: Rennie v. Quebec Bank, 1 O. L. R. 302.

Money paid under protest by a claimant was held to be proceeds or value of goods and chattels within the above Rule: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873.

The expression "goods and chattels" in The Execution Act, and in this Rule, includes stock of a joint stock company: Reyn v. Nelson, 20 C. L. J. 330; 4 C. L. T. 534.

Goods in possession of an Assignee in Insolvency under the Insolvent Act of 1875 could not be taken in execution, and neither a Sheriff nor an execution creditor could sue the Assignee and oblige him to interplead, though the debtor might do so: McMaster v. Moukin, 7 P. R. 211.

Interpleader may be directed respecting the proceeds of a sale in the Sheriff's hands: Booth v. Preston, &c., &c. Co., 3 P. R. 90; and respecting money paid under protest by a claimant whose goods were seized, and who claimed the money; the Sheriff was also held to be entitled to protection against an action for trespass for entering upon the premises of a person other than the debtor: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873; see also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647. Goods realized from the sale: Re Gould v. Hope, 20 Ont. App. 347.

Where a Sheriff who, without special direction from the execution creditor, had seized and sold goods alleged to have been exempt from execution, was being sued therefor by the execution debtor, it was held that the Sheriff was not entitled to interplead as to the pro-

Where a Sheriff's right to execute a writ of possession of land is contested by persons in possession on the ground that the contestants were not parties to the action, the Sheriff is entitled to interplead: Emerson v. Humphries, 15 P. R. 84; see also Adams v. Admison, 12 P. R. 21; so also where the premises are vacant, though the doors are locked, the Sheriff being notified of a claim, may, without considering its validity, interplead; or semble, he may break open the doors and put the plaintiff in possession: Hall v. Bowerman, 19 P. R. 268.

A Sheriff may apply for an interpleader order where a claim for rent is made by a landlord: McLaughlin v. Hamwell, 22 Ont. 493; and see Flynn v. Carey, 18 P. R. 321.

But where a Sheriff seized, but put no bailiff in possession of the goods, and then the landlord seized them for rent, it was held that a second seizure by the Sheriff was illegal, as they were in custodia legis, and also that the validity of the landlord's claim could not be decided in Chambers: Craig v. Craig, 7 P. R. 260.

The right of a landlord to be paid out of the proceeds of sale under R. S. O. c. 342, s. 10 (S. Anne, c. 14, s. 11), has been upheld against a trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor: Re Mackenzie, 1890, 2 Q. B. 566.

Rule 1103. Where goods distrained for rent have been impounded on the premises under R. S. O. c. 342, s. 14 (31), (11 Geo. II., c. 19, s. 10), it is not requisite that anyone on the landlord's behalf should be left in possession of the goods: Jones v. Biernskin, 1899, 1 Q. B. 470; 1100, 1 Q. B. 100.

A Sheriff was held not entitled to an interpleader by reason of a claimant's disputing the right of subsequent execution creditors to the goods seized, where there would be no find to satisfy such subsequent executions: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Bruce, 2 C. L. T. 92.

The question whether the Sheriff by withdrawing for a time from the premises, on which he has made a seizure, has abandoned possession of the goods seized is a question of fact. Where he goes out of possession for some temporary necessity such as to get food, or to see a doctor, he does not abandon possession; but where he went out to assist the debtor and enable a sale of the debtor's business to be carried out, that was held to be an abandonment of possession: Reg. shares (Limited) v. Deacon, 1898, 2 Q. B. 173.

The Sheriff was held entitled to make a second application for an interpleader order in respect of a claim by the same claimant, alleging a different title: Gaynor v. Salt, 24 T. C. Q. B. 180; but not to contest the claim of a landlord which might have been disposed of on a first application: Clarke v. Farrell, 8 P. R. 234. A claimant cannot set up another title in the same issue, but must make a subsequent application to the Court: Barker v. Leeson, 1 Ont. 114.

Inquiries to be made, and bringing in claimants.

A Sheriff should exercise no discretion as to the disposition of the goods seized by him, but should come at once to the Court, otherwise he will disentitle himself to protection: Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 303; Adams v. Blackwell, 10 P. R. 168; Flynn v. Cooney, 18 P. R. 321. He should, however, make some inquiry as to the nature of the claims made, and inform the execution creditor of them: Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59.

In Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66, it was said that interpleader orders should only be made with caution, and, where goods were in the possession of a third person, there should be strong presumptive evidence of the goods being the debtor's, which should ordinarily appear on affidavit of the belief of the Sheriff, and also of the execution creditor. This opinion has not been, to the full extent, followed in practice, the affidavit of the execution creditor is not considered necessary; and see Ib., 206; also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647; and it has been held that the Sheriff is not obliged to shew that the claim of a person not in possession of goods taken in execution, is open to objection, in order to entitle him to interplead: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103; see also Stocker v. Huggerty, 67 L. T. 27.

Where the Sheriff had sold with the consent of both parties, it was considered that he had not improperly exercised any discretion of his own: Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110.

A Sheriff is not justified in applying for an interpleader order, after he has notice that the execution creditor declines to contest the claim of the third party; and if, notwithstanding, he does apply for an interpleader order, it may be refused, and the Court will not order that no action be brought against him: Sodeau v. Shorey, 74 L. T. 249; and see Rule 1116.

All claimants of whom the Sheriff is aware should be brought in: Rule 1103. Clarke v. Farrell, 8 P. R. 234. Division Court execution creditors are proper parties, and should be brought in by the Sheriff along with High Court and County Court execution creditors: MacFie v. Hunter, 9 P. R. 149. Claims by the Crown cannot be so dealt with: see supra, p. 1310.

Where some writs are in the High Court, the interpleader application should be in the High Court, though the seizure was under a County Court writ, and before the High Court writ came to the Sheriff's hands: Strange v. Toronto Telegraph Co., 8 P. R. 1.

A claimant out of the jurisdiction may by leave be served, and compelled to interplead: Rule 162 (3); Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 354; Credit Gerundense v. Van Nieuwe, 12 Q. B. D. 171.

A Sheriff may disentitle himself to an interpleader order by not coming promptly to the Court when claims are made to the goods seized. He must come within reasonable time; improper delay will be an answer to the application: Thompson v. Ward, 1 P. R. 269; McMaster v. Milne, 2 P. R. 386. What will amount to such laches will depend upon the circumstances of each case: see Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 393; Wilkins v. Peatman, ib., 84. He is not justified by the fact that the first seizure does not embrace all the defendant's goods, in delaying to apply till he can get possession of the residue: Miller v. Nolan, 1 C. L. J. 327.

Where the claimant of the goods paid the Sheriff the amount of the execution, and the latter then withdrew; it was held that he had not disentitled himself to relief by interpleader: Paris Manufacturing Co. v. Walls, 10 P. R. 138.

The interpleader order usually protects the Sheriff only from action against execution creditor: Park v. Taylor, 1 C. P. 414; McCollum v. Kerr, 8 C. C. L. J. 71; but the Judge has authority to restrain by the interpleader order actions against the execution creditor as well as against the Sheriff: Buffalo & Lake Huron Railway Company v. Hemmingway, 22 U. C. Q. B. 502; Ex p. Mersey Docks, supra, p. 1312.

Protection from action was refused where the sheriff entered wrongfully and took goods, and a substantial grievance was suffered by the person whose house was entered: De Coppett v. Bennett, 17 Times, 273.

Accepting and contesting an interpleader issue will not make execution creditors liable for the previous seizure by the Sheriff; an execution creditor cannot thus be made a trespasser by relation, or liable for the original seizure: Kennedy v. Patterson, 22 U. C. Q. B. 556; Phillips v. Findlay, 27 U. C. Q. B. 32; neither does acceptance of an issue by the claimant bar his right to sue the execution creditor for trespass; but such an action should not be brought until the issue is disposed of: Cotton v. Stokes, 10 U. C. Q. B. 262; McCollum v. Kerr, 8 U. C. L. J. 71; Harmer v. Gouinlock, 21 U. C. Q. B. 260. Where special directions are given to the Sheriff by the execution creditor, or in writing on the writ, by his solicitor, to make the seizure, an action lies against the execution creditor: Morris v. Solberg, 22 Q. B. D. 614; but directions verbally given by the solicitor's clerk were held not sufficient to render the execution creditor liable: Smith v. Keal, 9 Q. B. D. 340. So also where there is nothing untrue in the directions on the writ so as to mislead the Sheriff into seizing goods of the wrong person: Canda v. Blalberg, 7 Times, 424.

Rule 1103. See also as to actions against the Sheriff or execution creditor, Le Ruvilly, 7 Times, 303; Lee v. Dangar, 1892, 2 Q. B. 337; Bayne Whitehead, 1883, 2 Q. B. 355.

The result of the issue is conclusive as between the claimant and execution creditor, but the latter is not liable for any loss sustained by the successful claimant after the date of the interpleader order: Kennedy v. Patterson, 22 U. C. Q. B. 556; Lister v. Northern Ry., 11 C. P. 498; Henry v. Mitchell, 37 U. C. Q. B. 217.

Barring claims.

Where an execution creditor refuses to contest the claim of any claimant, he should be barred as to such claimant by the order: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103.

After the claimant has given security, where a surety in the bond becomes insolvent, an order will not be made barring the claimant, in default of giving fresh security: Hogaboom v. Gillies, 16 P. R. 266, affirmed by a division of opinion in the Court of Appeal: Ib., 260.

Where a bond is given as security it is usually made by the claimant and two sufficient sureties, but the sole bond of a chartered bank claimant of goods seized in execution, is sufficient: Ontario Bank v. Merchants Bank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 235.

Where a claimant pays money into Court to abide the result of an issue, and the execution creditor succeeds in the issue, and takes the money out of Court, he is thereby estopped from thereafter disputing that as against himself the claimant is the owner of the goods: Haddock v. Morton, 1894, 1 Q. B. 95, 565. Seem, he might on the termination of the issue either have the goods sold in execution, or take the money out of Court, but he cannot do both.

Where a claimant is ordered to pay into Court the value of the goods seized, as a condition of the Sheriff's being ordered to withdraw from possession, and the same goods are subsequently seized by another execution creditor, and claimed by the same claimant, he will be ordered to pay into Court the full value of the goods as a condition of the Sheriff being ordered to withdraw under the second execution: Kotch v. Golden Sovereigns, etc., 1898, 2 Q. B. 164; 78 L. T. 429.

Where goods seized were manufactured materials, the product of a going concern, the sheriff was directed to continue in possession until the final disposition of the issue: Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 760.

An issue will not be directed unless the sheriff is in possession or is responsible for the goods: Roudot v. Monetary Times, 10 P. R. 231, or they are otherwise within the control of the Court. As to what is a sufficient bond or security for the forthcoming of the goods: see Ontario Bank v. Merchants Bank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 235.

Issue.

Issues between the plaintiff and execution creditors, as to the validity of the plaintiff's judgment and execution against creditors generally, and as to attaching creditors in particular on the ground of fraud, or as being a preference, were held warranted by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, ss. 3, 10; Lerch v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 223; see also Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes, 11 P. R. 220; and Doyle v. Lusher, 13 C. P. 263; and the present Rule preserves the same power as was contained in the R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, or any rate as regards attaching creditors: see Rules 1102 (a) and 1103 (b); and the language of clause (b), authorizing interpleader in the case of a claim by "any person other than the person against whom the process issued," would also seem to be wide enough to enable a claim to be made by any judgment creditor who contends that other judgments are fraudulent as against him; see McLaughlin v. Hancock, 22 Ont. 493, the case of a claim for rent which was also expressly provided for by R. S. O. c. 54, s. 10. Rule 1103.

A judgment obtained by one creditor cannot be impeached by other creditors on grounds of defence which the defendant might have, but has not raised; see Re Hayuc, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 13 Ont. 727; Baerman v. White, 15 Ont. App. 579.

The plaintiff in an issue should be that party on whom the onus lies to establish title to the subject of the interpleader proceedings; Re Hubbell, 19 P. R. 240. Where the claimant is out of possession he should be the plaintiff in the issue; Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 133; and so also where the possession is equivocal, as where the goods seized are at the house or residence of the execution debtor where both he and his wife reside, and the wife is the claimant; in such a case she should be made plaintiff to the issue; Bolster v. Walker, 30 C. L. J. 140; Hogaboom v. Gready, 16 P. R. 17; Thompson v. Doyle, 16 C. L. T. 286; and see O'Neill v. Farr, 11 C. L. T. 815; but see Farley v. Pedlar, infra. The term of issue in such case is "whether at the time of (generally the seizure) the goods and chattels seized were the property of the claimant as against the execution creditor"; Farr v. Every v. Ross, 11 C. P. 133.

Where the claimant is in possession of the goods at the time of seizure, the execution creditor is made plaintiff in the interpleader issue; see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66; Dominion S. & L. Company v. Hilroy, 15 Ont. App. 487; and see Winfield v. Forlie, 14 Ont. 107. This rule has been held to apply, even though the claimant was the wife of the debtor, where the goods were on premises on which the wife carried on a business, in which the debtor, her husband, had no interest, but in which he assisted her; Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 569. The form of issue in such case is "whether at the time of the seizure the goods in question were exigible under the execution of (the execution creditor) as against the claimant"; see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 296.

Where proceeds of a policy of insurance, originally taken out in favour of the wife of the insured, were claimed by the widow and also by a third person claiming to be an assignee, the latter was made plaintiff in the issue; Re Hubbell, 19 P. R. 240.

An issue is to be taken distributively, so that the claimant may succeed as to part of the goods, though not as to the rest; Peckham v. Bank of Toronto, 10 C. P. 32.

The question on the issue, where the claimant is plaintiff, is not whether the execution creditor has a right to seize the goods, but whether the claimant had such an interest in them as entitled him to resist the seizure; Grant v. Wilson, 17 Q. L. 144.

The form of issue between a claimant and attaching creditor is whether the goods attached were at the time of the seizure the property of the claimant as against the attaching creditor, and not as against the absconding debtor; Doyle v. Lasker, 16 C. P. 263; see form of issue where there were two execution creditors and three claimants; Merchants Bank v. Herson, 10 P. R. 117.

For an issue where the execution creditor alleged that the debtor had a half interest in the goods in question; see Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 541.

See also Leech v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 226; Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes, 11 P. R. 229.

Where an issue is made by a creditor against another creditor, the plaintiff in the issue should be the creditor against whom the issue is made.

Rule 1103. The issue is to be filed as soon as settled, and filed in the county in which it is directed to be tried: Rule 377.

Issue to be filed. Where an issue is directed, a claimant is not entitled to an order for particulars of the goods taken by the Sheriff: Banely v. Krouk, 65 L. T. 377.

Particulars. Where an action had been brought by the execution creditor against a claimant under an assignment, to set aside the assignment, the trial of the issue, directed on an interpleader application to be tried, was postponed till after the trial of the action: Brace v. Nelson, 10 P. R. 421.

Disputes between claimants. Where claimants' rights among themselves were in dispute, they were all made defendants, and the execution creditors plaintiffs, it being held that the Court would not try the title of the claimants between themselves, the purpose of the issue being answered if it was determined that the execution creditors were, or were not, entitled to have their execution satisfied out of the goods seized: Merchants Bank v. Herson, 10 P. R. 117. See also Nisbet v. Hill, 5 O. W. R. 233, 337, 402.

Jury notice. Formerly a jury notice not served with the issue but with notice of trial, was held to be an irregularity only and not a nullity: Leeson v. Lemon, 9 P. R. 103. A jury notice will now be served pursuant to sec. 106 of the Act, supra, p. 153.

Trial in C. C. Issues involving $400 or less are to be tried at a County Court sittings: see Rule 1125.

Creditors' Relief Act, effect of. Under The Creditors' Relief Act, R. S. O. c. 78, s. 4 (4), where the Sheriff takes interpleader proceedings, those creditors only who are parties and agree to contribute pro rata to the expense of contesting adverse claims, are entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation, so far as may be necessary to satisfy their executions or certificates. The Court or Judge may direct that one creditor shall have the carriage of the interpleader proceedings, and in such case his costs, as between solicitor and client, form a first charge upon the moneys or goods which may in the proceedings be found applicable to pay creditors. See Appendix Form 130, clause 6, H. & L. Forms, No. 1241, cl. 7, p. 735.

As to whether these provisions apply only after an issue is directed, or are also applicable where, under Rule 1110, the contest is by consent disposed of summarily, the Court of Appeal, in Bank of Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500, was equally divided.

The issue should ordinarily be tried in the county where the goods were seized, but where for any cause, a speedy trial is necessary in the interest of justice, the trial may be ordered to take place elsewhere: Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570.

Trial of issue. On the trial of the issue the execution creditor is not required to prove his judgment: Hammill v. DeWolf, 10 C. P. 419; Holden v. Langley, 11 C. P. 407, 411; McWhirter v. Learmouth, 18 C. P. 136.

The object of the issue is to inform the conscience of the Court, and the Judge at the trial should receive any evidence calculated to shew what are the real rights of the parties, and should not be too strictly tied down by the form of the issue, but should amend it if necessary: Byrne v. Kinneir, 14 P. R. 509.

Where the claimant's case is upon a chattel mortgage, evidence is necessary to identify the goods mortgaged as those which were seized by the Sheriff and claimed: Jones v. Jenkins, 27 P. C. Q. R. 151.

This, coupled with proof of the due execution of the mortgage, on its face purporting to be made for value, constitutes a good prima facie case; the consideration for the mortgage need not be proved until evidence has been given impeaching it: Furlong v. Reid, 12 Ont. 607, Rule 1103.

The defendant in the issue may shew that the goods are not the plaintiff's, by setting up the title of a third party, e.g., a trustee in bankruptcy: Richards v. Jenkins, 17 Q. B. D. 544; 18 Q. B. D. 451; but the plaintiff in the issue cannot do so: Ib.; unless he claims under such third party: Bryce v. Kinnee, supra.

A claimant may assert title as assignee of the equity of redemption of the goods seized, as against the execution creditor of his assignor, though the legal right to possession may be in the mortgagee: Usher v. Martin, 24 Q. B. D. 272.

Where the plaintiff neglects to bring the issue to trial, the course is to move to rescind the interpleader order: Scrull v. Buffalo, etc., Railway Company, 3 U. C. L. J. 29. The application is made in the original cause: Salter v. McLeod, 10 U. C. L. J. 290.

Where a bank, one of several execution creditors, made parties to an interpleader issue, did not desire to contest the right of the claimant to its share of the proceeds of the goods seized and sold, but was willing that such share should be paid over to the claimant in the event of the latter not succeeding in the issue; it was held that the bank was not under the circumstances liable to contribute to the costs of the issue; but, nevertheless, was properly made a party to the issue and would be entitled, if the claimant failed, to its proportion of the proceeds arising from the sale of the goods: Dundas v. Davill, 12 P. R. 347.

Where on an interpleader by the Sheriff an order is made for satisfaction of the claimant's claim, the claimant is limited to his claim put forward in the proceedings, and cannot demand any amount not included in his particulars of claim, on which the order was made: Hockey v. Evans, 18 Q. B. D. 390.

Where the Sheriff sells under the order, pending the trial of an issue, it was held in Ontario Bank v. Percell, 11 P. R. 240, that he must pay to Court the gross proceeds of sale, without deducting his charges, but in Reid v. Murphy, 12 P. R. 246, 328, it has been held that the net proceeds only need be paid in, after deducting expenses of sale, and possession money. In the event of the claimant succeeding in the trial of the issue, he will not be entitled to recover from the Sheriff the amount deducted for possession money, and expenses of sale. The claimant's remedy is to apply, in a summary way in the proceedings, for recovery of the amount deducted for charges from the execution creditor: Ib.

If the execution creditor succeeds, the Sheriff becomes further entitled to his fees, poundage and expenses, other than the amounts deducted from the proceeds of sale in respect to the property which has been found to have been exigible. These charges are payable by the execution creditor: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180. The Sheriff's costs of the interpleader proceedings are a first charge upon the fund found liable to the execution: Rule 1120 (1); he will in general have them taxed under Rule 1120 (2), and the execution creditor will be entitled to have an order for them, or for such part of them as was occasioned by the claimant's claim, over against the claimant: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, supra.

The claimant, if successful, is entitled to recover from the execution creditor, as costs, the Sheriff's charges subsequent to the interpleader

Rule 1103. order: Goodman v. Blake, 19 Q. B. D. 77, and cannot be ordered to pay the costs of taking possession, or possession money prior to the interpleader order: Massey Mfg. Co. v. Gundry, 7 C. L. T. 127.

Costs of Sheriff.

Before 5th V. c. 5, s. 10 (now Rules 1115, 1116), the Sheriff was not in general entitled to costs, where the execution creditor acted on the motion for an interpleader order, it being held that the latter was entitled to consider the claim when formulated, and to abandon without incurring any liability for costs: see Wilkes v. Peatouso, 7 P. R. 84; Can. Bank of Commerce v. Tasker, 8 P. R. 351; C. v. D., W. N. 1883, 207; Arch., 12th ed., 1411; Churchill on Sheriffs, 183; but he was entitled to costs from the execution creditor where the latter had given special directions to the Sheriff to seize particular goods, and such special directions need not have been given in contemplation of an adverse claim: Faustuden v. Faustuden, 10 P. R. 428.

In the cases in which Rules 1115 and 1116 apply, however, as the Sheriff, before interpleading, obtains from the execution creditor a notice or intimation that the claimant's claim is disputed, the motion for an interpleader order is only made after consideration of the claim by the execution creditor, and if he, at that stage, abandons, it may be that the rule as to costs should be the same as when special directions to seize are given.

If special directions are sworn to and denied, it must be considered that the Sheriff acted on the writ: Faustuden v. Faustuden, supra.

For rules generally as to Sheriff's costs, see Stable v. Matthews, W. N. 1883, 176.

As to the Sheriff's costs where an issue is directed, see Rule 1120, and Smith v. Darlow, 25 Ch. D. 607; Hall v. Bowerman, 19 P. R. 268.

Sheriff disobeying interpleader
order.

A Sheriff was held liable to attachment by an execution creditor for not taking security, or selling, pursuant to an interpleader order, there being no claim for rent or taxes which the Sheriff was justified in acknowledging: McLean v. Anthony, 6 Ont. 330.

Withdrawal from possession.

Where a Sheriff, with the consent of the execution creditor and the claimant, after an interpleader order, temporarily withdrew from possession, it was held that the landlord might distrain, though he knew of the interpleader proceedings: Cropper v. Warner, 1 Cal. El. 172.

Receiver.

In Howell v. Dawson, 13 Q. B. D. 67, a receiver of property seized in execution was appointed, pending an interpleader issue.

Costs.—Where an issue is directed, the costs of the interpleader proceedings and issue should be disposed of at the trial of the issue, and should not be reserved to be disposed of in Chambers after the trial: see Rule 1114; Grothe v. Pearce, 15 P. R. 432; see, however, App. Forms, Nos. 131, 132, H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1242 and 1243.

For an order as to costs where success was divided at the trial, see Ont. Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180.

Scale of Costs.

The Judge or officer who disposes of the costs may direct what scale of taxation is to be followed: Beatty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320.

Where the interpleader proceedings are properly instituted in the High Court, though an issue is directed to be tried in a County Court, the Sheriff's costs will be taxable on the scale of the High Court, and semble, also the costs of the parties up to the interpleader Rule 1103 order: Arkell v. Geiger, 9 P. R. 523. The costs before the issue will ordinarily be on the scale of the forum to which the Sheriff is compelled to resort, and after the issue, on the scale applicable to the forum in which the issue is directed to be tried: see Beatty v. Bryer, 9 P. R. 325; Chrastie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

Section 72 of the Ind. Act, applies to interpleader matters as well as to actions, so that no appeal lies, without leave, from the decision of a Judge as to the disposition of the costs: Hartmont v. Foster, supra; Beatty v. Bryer, 9 P. R. 323; an appeal lies from the Master in Chambers to a Judge as in other cases: Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

County and District Courts.—As to how far County Courts have jurisdiction under this Rule, see note to Rules 1123, 1124.

In Baird v. Hunter, 31 C. L. J. 663, it was held by Macdougall, J., C.C. York, that a Judge in Term has no jurisdiction under former Rule 547 (see now 777) to rescind his order made in Chambers, even though it was not otherwise appealable.

An interpleader order made in a County Court case is not appealable to a Divisional Court unless it is final in its nature: Hunter v. Hunter, 18 C. L. T. 137, see notes, supra, p. 1040.

The District Courts have jurisdiction in interpleader since R. S. O. c. 104, s. 9; their jurisdiction is "the jurisdiction possessed by the County Courts" and this is determinable by the fact whether the process, under which the goods were seized, issued out of the District Court, and not by the amount for which the recovery was had: Isbister v. Sullivan, 9 C. L. T. 3. The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a motion against a verdict or judgment of the District Court on the trial of an interpleader issue: Id.

Security for Costs.—Under R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, provision was expressly made for requiring security for the Sheriff's costs to be given. Under this provision it was held that the Sheriff was only entitled to such security under circumstances where it would be ordered between ordinary litigants: Streetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446. Without such express provision, the Sheriff would appear under the present Rules to have the same right as formerly. In Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570, an execution creditor being in insolvent circumstances was under Rule 1122 ordered to give security for the Sheriff's costs.

Either party to an interpleader issue may be ordered to give security for costs: Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490; over-ruling the dictum in Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121. In a stake-holder's interpleader the party substantially moving in the proceedings, whether named as plaintiff or defendant in the issue, if resident out of the jurisdiction, may be required to give security for costs: Re Forresters & Castner, 14 P. R. 47. In a Sheriff's interpleader any party out of the jurisdiction, whether claimant or execution creditor, and whether plaintiff or defendant in the issue, may be ordered to give security for costs to his opponent in the issue: Kniekerhacker v. Webster, 17 P. R. 180. See Re Milward & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 405.

An execution creditor made defendant in the issue was ordered to give security, in Lovell v. Wardroper, 4 P. R. 265; and the claimant in Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59.

Rules

1104, 1105. The same grounds for ordering security apply as in an action: see Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548; Tomlinson v. L. & F. Co., 14 Q. B. D. 539; Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 221, 352. The fact that the claimant was a married woman, and in straitened circumstances, was held an insufficient reason for ordering security: Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548.

Matters to be proved by applicant.

1104. The applicant shall satisfy the Court or a Judge by affidavit, or otherwise—

(a) That he claims no interest in the subject-matter in dispute, other than in respect of a lien or for charges or costs;

(b) That he does not collude with any of the claimants; and

(c) That he is willing to pay or transfer the subject-matter into Court, or to dispose of it as the Court or a Judge may direct. Con. Rules 1142, 1169.

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 851.

"Court or Judge": The Master in Chambers and officers having like jurisdiction would seem under these words to have jurisdiction in interpleader proceedings: see Rules 6a, 42. So far as interpleader by Sheriffs (and under the former Rule 1167, et seq., by bailiffs and carriers) is concerned, they have always had, and exercised jurisdiction.

Interpleader by stakeholders (except bailees and carriers) when the Rules relating thereto were first made, being a new jurisdiction conferred upon a Judge in Chambers, was not then, but at the date of the passing of the Consolidated Rules, 1897, was jurisdiction "now done, transacted or exercised," by a Judge in Chambers, and so within Rule 42. In Re Anderson v. Borber, 13 P. R. 21, the application was made to a Judge in Chambers.

The Local Judges were under the former Rules held to have jurisdiction in interpleader matters: see Coulson v. Spiers, 9 P. R. 491; Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490.

A form of affidavit will be found in the Appendix, Form No. 24, (H. & L. Forms, No. 1232).

The objection that a stakeholder has, by taking indemnity from one claimant, disentitled himself to relief, cannot be taken by the claimant who gave the indemnity: Thompson v. Wright, 13 Q. B. D. 632.

A lien for "costs and charges" did not formerly deprive the applicant of his right to interplead: see Best v. Huges, 1 H. & C. 718, also Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Company, 3 C. P. D. 450, 466.

As to satisfaction of any lien of the applicant, see Rule 1122.

titles of claimants.

1105. The applicant shall not be disentitled to relief by reason only that the titles of the claimants have not a common origin, but are adverse to and independent of one another. Con. Rule 1143.

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 852.

1106. Where the applicant is a defendant, application for relief may be made at any time after service of the writ of summons; and the Court or a Judge may stay all proceedings in the action. (Con. Rules 1144, 1146.)

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 853, 855.

Rules
1106-1109.
When application to be made by defendant.

1107. The applicant may make a motion calling on the claimants to appear and state the nature and particulars of their claims, and either to maintain or relinquish them. (Con. Rule 1115.)

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 854.

Motion by applicant.

Where the amount of claim has been stated under this Rule and an order for payment has been made, the claimant can only recover the amount so stated: Hockey v. Evans, 18 Q. B. D. 390.

1108. Where a claimant does not appear on the motion after having been served with a notice of motion calling on him to appear and maintain or relinquish his claim; or, having appeared, neglects or refuses to comply with any order made thereafter, the Court or a Judge may make an order declaring him and all persons claiming under him to be forever barred as against the applicant, and all persons claiming under him, but the order shall not affect the rights of the claimants as between themselves. (Con. Rule 1150.)

Failure of claimants to appear.

In making an order barring a claimant, where the applicant is a defendant in an action, there is no power to make it a term of the order that the plaintiff shall pay the costs of the defendant in the original action, apart from those in the interpleader proceedings: Hansen v. Maddox, 12 Q. B. D. 100.

Where a claimant appeared and had in pursuance of an order given security for the goods, and pending the trial of an issue directed to determine the ownership, the goods were sold for taxes, and the surety to the claimant's bond became worthless, it was held that the claimant was, nevertheless, entitled to have the issue tried, and that there was no jurisdiction to bar his claim in default of his giving fresh security: Hogaboom v. Gillies, 16 P. R. 93, 260.

1109. Where the claimants appear on the motion, the Court or a Judge may order that any claimant be made a defendant in any action already commenced in respect of the subject-matter in dispute in lieu of or in addition to the applicant, or that an issue between the claimants be stated and tried, and in the latter case may direct which of the claimants shall be plaintiff, and which defendant. (Con. Rule 1147.)

Order.

See notes to Rule 1103, "Issue," p. 1316.

Rules
1110-1112

Disposition of matters in summary manner

1110. The Court or a Judge may, with the consent of both claimants or on the request of any claimant, if, having regard to the value of the subject-matter in dispute, it seems desirable so to do, dispose of the merits of their claims, and [subject to appeal], decide the same in a summary manner and on such terms as may seem just. Con. Rule 1110.

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 857.

Under the English Rules 857 and 860, a decision by the Judge summarily is not appealable: see Lyon v. Morris, 19 Q. B. 19, 139; In re Tarn, 1893, 2 Ch. 280; Fan Lau & Co. v. Baring Bros., 1893, 2 K. B. 277; Harbottle v. Roberts, 1905, 1 K. B. 572. The words in brackets in this Rule are not in the English Rule, so that in Ontario the decision will be appealable as in other cases.

see Graham & Co.

As to whether it is necessary that the consent, which gives jurisdiction under this Rule, should appear on the face of the order, see Bank of Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500, 513-516.

The Court has no power to impose conditions on the claimant, without his consent, affecting his right to raise defences: Gerhard v. Montagu, 38 W. R. 76; 61 L. T. 504; unless the claimant is seeking any indulgence from the Court.

Where an execution creditor declines to contest the claim of a claimant to goods seized in execution, the order should bar him of any right to contest the claim: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 11 P. R. 103; and see Rule 1113.

Questions of law

1111. Where the question is one of law, and the facts are not in dispute, the Court or a Judge may decide the question without directing the trial of an issue, or order that a special case be stated for the opinion of the Court. Con. Rule 1149.

Taken from the Eng. (1883) R. 858, which, however, further provides expressly that the provisions of the Eng. Rules corresponding to Rules 372, et seq., shall apply to the special case. The Rule was held only to apply to simple cases: In re Choach Friends, Roddy v. Leah, 28 C. L. J. 35; 12 C. L. T. 72, where a case was stated for a Divisional Court.

Where the question presented is one of fact, an issue must be directed: Rondot v. Monetary Times, 19 P. R. 23. Where a Sheriff was authorized to withdraw from possession under an order erroneously made under this Rule, on appeal therefrom, he was authorized to re-seize: Id.

Order for sale of goods seized in execution.

1112 Where goods or chattels have been seized in execution by a Sheriff, and any claimant alleges that he is entitled, under a bill of sale or otherwise, to the goods or chattels by way of security for debt, the Court or a Judge may order a sale of the whole or a part thereof, and direct the application of the proceeds of the sale in such manner and upon such terms as may seem just. Con. Rule 1151. Rules

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 861.

A sale of the goods will not be ordered in an interpleader matter where the claimant is a chattel mortgagee whose title is undisputed; see Stern v. Fegner, 1898, 1 Q. B. 37; secus, where his title is disputed; Archer v. Hill, 5 O. W. R. 293, 337, 402; see Piquin v. Robinson, 87 L. T. 5, where the claimant claimed under an absolute bill of sale.

The sale bond of a chartered bank was accepted as sufficient security, on proof of the responsibility of the bank. Ontario Bank v. Merchants Bank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 237.

Where the claimant assents to the sale under execution, and accepts part of the proceeds, he thereby adopts the sale, and cannot sue the execution creditor for conversion; Appley v. Wathall, 8 O. P. 397.

Where a sale is ordered the purchaser acquires a good title as against all parties to the interpleader proceedings, no matter how the interpleader issue may ultimately be determined; see Goodback v. Cousins, 1897, 1 Q. B. 348; 76 L. T. 86, 313. And in the application of the proceeds of the sale the Court is not limited by the principle in Courts of Equity in suits for redemption, and may order a chattel mortgage to be paid off before it is actually due, and without allowing anything in respect of a higher rate of interest, which the money would have earned under the mortgage; Forster v. Chavory, 1897, 2 Q. B. 302; 76 L. T. 825.

1113. Where a Sheriff applies for relief by interpleader, and any execution creditor declines to join in contesting the claim of the adverse claimant, the Court or a Judge may direct that such creditor shall be excluded from any benefit which may be derived from the contestation of the claim. Con. Rule 1152.

Excluded creditor may be excluded from benefit.

See Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 11 P. R. 183, in note to Rule 1119.

The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 78), s. 4 (4), provides that those creditors only who are parties to interpleader proceedings and agree to contribute pro rata to the expense of contesting any adverse claims shall be entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation of such claims, so far as it may be necessary to satisfy their executions or certificates; and see Bank of Montreal v. Darrell, 15 Ont. App. 590.

See Duodex v. Darrell, 12 P. R. 347.

1114. The Court or Judge who tries the issue may finally dispose of the interpleader proceedings, including all costs not otherwise provided for. Con. Rule 1153. Final disposition of matters.

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 862.

Formerly the interpleader order reserved the question of costs and all other questions to be disposed of in Chambers after the trial of the issue. The form of order now used reserves the disposition of all Rule 1115. such matters for the Judge who tries the issue, "or if not so disposed of then to be disposed of in Chambers": see Form 130, clause 5 (H. & L. Forms, No. 1241, cl. 6). The costs of the issue at any rate should now be disposed of by the Judge who tries it: Grothe v. Pearce, 15 P. R. 432.

In some cases it may be necessary, however, to reserve questions, for instance, if any questions in which the Sheriff is concerned are not disposed of; otherwise, unless the Sheriff is made a party to the issue, the Judge who tries the issue cannot finally dispose of the whole matter.

The Sheriff is not a party to the issue, and cannot be ordered to pay any costs of it: Temple v. Temple, 63 L. J. Q. B. 56; and he need not receive notice of a motion respecting the costs of the parties to the issue: O'Brien v. Bull, 9 P. R. 494. But he was held entitled to costs of appearing on a motion by a claimant for a final order barring the execution creditor for default in giving security for costs: Gray v. Alexander, 10 P. R. 358.

The parties were directed to pay their own costs, and were directed each to pay half the costs of the Sheriff, in McLaren v. Canada Central Railway Co., 10 P. R. 328. A claimant partially succeeding was given the general costs of the issue, with a deduction of one-sixth in respect of the goods as to which he failed: Segaworth v. Meriden Silver Plating Co., 3 Ont. 413.

Where the claimant succeeded as to part of the goods seized in execution, and the execution creditor as to the residue, and no costs were given to either party of the interpleader issue, the execution creditor was ordered to pay the Sheriff's fees and poundage on the value of that part of the goods as to which he succeeded, and his costs of the interpleader application, with an order over against the claimant for half of these costs: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180. In this case the claimant also appears to have paid the possession money subsequent to the date of the interpleader order, and the execution creditor that incurred prior to the order.

Claims of third parties to goods in possession

1115. When a Sheriff finds property in the possession of a debtor against whose property he has a writ or other process in his hands, and a claim is set up to such property by or on behalf of a third person who is out of possession or is in joint possession with the debtor, the claim of such third person shall be made in writing, and upon receipt thereof the Sheriff shall forthwith give notice thereof to the execution creditor according to Form No. 72, and the execution creditor shall, within seven days thereafter, give notice to the Sheriff according to Form No. 73, that he admits or disputes the claim. If the execution creditor admits the title of the claimant, and gives notice as directed by this Rule, he shall only be liable to such Sheriff for fees and expenses incurred before the receipt of the notice admitting the claim; [and no action shall be brought against the Sheriff in respect of the seizure of the property.] 56 V. c. 5, s. 10 (1), amended.

See Eng. (1889, r. 9) O. 57, r. 16, which, however, has not the words in brackets, and therefore under the Eng. practice, where after notice of the claim the execution creditor admits its validity, the Sheriff cannot interplead, and remains liable to have an action brought against him by the claimant for the seizure: see Moore v. Hawkins, 43 W. R. 235; Sodeau v. Shorey, 74 L. T. 240, where the hardship on the Sheriff was pointed out. The words in brackets remove that difficulty in Ontario.

Special directions from the execution creditor as to seizure, and disputing in advance the claim of the claimant, may justify the Sheriff in omitting to notify the execution creditor as here mentioned.

See note to Rule 1103.

1116. Where the execution creditor does not in due time, as directed by Rule 1115, admit or dispute the title of the claimant to the property, and the claimant does not withdraw his claim thereto by notice in writing to the Sheriff, the Sheriff may apply for relief by interpleader; and if the claimant withdraws his claim by notice in writing to the Sheriff, or the execution creditor serves an admission of the title of the claimant [after] the return day of such notice of motion, and at the same time gives notice of such admission to the claimant, the Court or Judge may make all such orders as to costs, fees, charges and expenses as may seem just. 56 V. c. 5, s. 10 (2).

Same as Eng. (1889, r. 10). O. 57, r. 17, except that in the Eng. Rule, instead of the word "after" in brackets, the words are "prior to," as they were also in 56 V. c. 5, s. 10 (2). This is a printer's error and "after" should be read "before."

See note to Rule 1103.

1117. Where it is necessary or expedient to make one order in several actions or matters the order may be made, and shall be entitled in all such actions or matters, and (subject to the right of appeal) shall be binding on all the parties. See Con. Rule 1154.

Taken from Eng. (1883) R. 863.

1118. In case a Sheriff has more than one writ of execution against the same property he shall not make a separate application on each writ, or in each action; but he may make one application, and may make all the execution creditors parties. Con. Rule 1155.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 11.

Cases of execution from several Courts, to whom application to be made.

1119. Where there are writs from several Courts, including the High Court and one or more County Courts, or including the High Court and one or more Division Courts, against the same property, whether on behalf of the same plaintiff, or of different plaintiffs, the application for interpleader shall be made to the High Court, or a Judge thereof; and such Court or Judge shall dispose of the whole matter, as if all the writs against the property had been issued from the said Court. Con. Rule 1156.

Adapted from R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 12; 49 Vict. c. 16, s. 15.

The application is properly made in the High Court, though the first seizure is made in a County Court: Strange v. Toronto Telegraph Co., S. P. R. 1.

Where the writs are all from County Courts, the Sheriff is now to apply in a County Court under Rule 1123, and the costs will be on the scale of that Court: Rule 1128; see formerly Phipps v. Beames, S. P. R. 181; Masuret v. Landville, S. P. R. 57. Where one of the writs is in the High Court, the costs of the motion should be on the High Court scale: Id.

When an issue is ordered, the Sheriff's costs to be first lien on property excludible.

1120.—(1) Where an issue is directed to be tried, the costs of the Sheriff incurred in consequence of the adverse claim shall be a first lien or charge upon the moneys or goods which may be found in the issue to be applicable upon the execution. New.

Sheriff may tax his costs and serve allocation on each party.

(2) In addition and without prejudice to the said lien or charge the Sheriff may, after the issue has been directed to be tried, tax such costs, and may serve a copy of the certificate of taxation upon each of the parties to the issue, and the successful party upon the issue shall tax such costs as part of his costs of the cause, and upon receipt thereof shall pay over the same to the Sheriff unless he has been previously paid. Con. Rule 1158.

The successful party liable to the Sheriff for costs.

(3) Where, after the service of the certificate, the party succeeding upon the issue neglects or refuses to tax such costs, the Sheriff may obtain an order that the successful party shall pay the same. Con. Rule 1159.

In case compromised, who to be liable to the Sheriff for his costs.

(4) Where the proceedings are compromised between the parties thereto, the costs of the Sheriff shall be paid by the party by whom the execution was issued. Con. Rule 1160.

Where the interpleader order was granted to try the right to land, the Sheriff's costs were ordered in the first instance to be paid by the party who put him in motion, without prejudice to the question by Rules whom they should be ultimately borne: Hall v. Bowerman, 19 P. R. 1121-1123, 268.

Where there has been divided success on the trial of an interpleader issue, and costs have not been given to either party, the Sheriff may apply under any reservation in the order (see Form 130, clause 5), or under Rule 1122, for such order respecting his costs as may be just: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180.

1121. Where, after the seizure, an issue is directed, and the property seized remains, pending the trial of the issue, in the custody of the Sheriff who seized the same, the Court or Judge may make an order for the payment to the Sheriff of such sum for his trouble in and about the custody of the property as the Court or Judge deems reasonable; and the Sheriff shall have a lien upon the property for payment of the same in the event of the issue being decided against the claimant to the extent to which such issue shall be so decided. Con. Rule 1161.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 18; 49 V. c. 16, s. 13.

Where the Sheriff remained in possession at the request of the debtor and creditor, he was held to be entitled to possession money as part of the costs of the execution: R. Beston, 1890, 1 Q. B. 626, 70 L. T. 561.

1122. The Court or a Judge may, in or for the purposes of an interpleader proceeding, make all such orders [respecting the satisfaction or payment of any lien or charges of the applicant, and] as to costs and all other matters as may be just and reasonable. Con. Rule 1241.

The same as Eng. (1883) R. 864, except the words in brackets, which are taken from former Con. Rule 1163, which made provision for the satisfaction or payment of any lien of a carrier or bailee on an interpleader application by him. The present Rule will include such a case, as well as others in which a stakeholder may have a lien: see also Rule 1104 (a).

Where the applicant claims a lien on the goods in question, e.g., for wharfage, the Judge may order by whom it shall be satisfied: De Rothschild v. Morrison, 24 Q. R. D. 750; 63 L. T. 46.

Where the execution creditor was insolvent he was ordered to give security for costs: Farley v. Pollard, 1 O. L. R. 570.

(ii) In County Courts.

1123. Relief by interpleader may be granted in the County Courts, County Courts,

Rules
1124, 1125.

1. Where the person seeking relief (hereinafter called the applicant) is under liability for any debt, money, goods or chattels, for or in respect of which he is or expects to be sued by two or more persons (hereinafter called the claimants) making adverse claim thereto; and in such case,

(a) Where the applicant is being so sued in a County Court the application may be to the Judge of the County Court in which the action is pending; and.

(b) Where the applicant is not being so sued and the debt, money, goods or chattels in question do not exceed in value $200, the application may be to the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the applicant resides or, in which the money, goods and chattels are situate;

2. Where the applicant is a Sheriff and claim is made to any money, goods, or chattels taken or intended to be taken in execution under a writ of execution, or to the proceeds or value thereof, by any person other than the person against whom the writ was issued; and in such case the application may be made to the Judge of the County Court of the county in which such money, goods or chattels are so taken, or intended to be taken, notwithstanding that the writ may have been issued from another County Court, or that writs may have been issued from two or more County Courts. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1369 (a and b).

which proceedings to be taken.

1124. All subsequent proceedings shall be had and taken in the county where the application is made; but the Judge to whom the application is made may order that the subsequent proceedings be had and taken in any other county, if that course seems just and more convenient. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1369 (c).

See 44 Vict. c. 7, s. 1; 45 Vict. c. 16, s. 42.

(iii) Trial of Issues in County or Division Courts.

When issue
may be tried in County
Court.

1125 —(1) Where the amount claimed under or by virtue of writs of execution, in the Sheriff's hands, issued out of one or more Courts, does not exceed the sum of $400, exclusive of interest and Sheriff's costs, or when the goods seized are not, in the opinion of the Judge, or other person making Rule 1122, the order, of the value of more than $400, the order directing an issue to be tried, may direct that the issue shall be drawn up and tried in the County Court of the county in which the issue would, under the provisions of Rule 1124 be tried, and in such case the issue shall be drawn up, filed and tried in the County Court, and all subsequent proceedings therein, up to and inclusive of judgment and execution, shall be had and taken in the County Court which shall, where any of the writs of execution were issued out of the High Court, have jurisdiction in the premises as fully as though the same had issued out of the County Court.

(2) Where an application is made for an order, under this Rule, upon the ground that the goods seized are not of the value of more than $400, a list of the goods and of the value placed upon them shall be set out in the affidavits, upon which the application is based. Con. Rule 1163.

The Act from which this Rule is taken conferred upon the High Court a power which the Court of Chancery had before by previous legislation: Gourley v. Ingram, 2 Ch. Ch. 238, 304; Wilson v. Wilson, 3 Ont. App. 308; Beuty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320; and since the Act all interpleader issues involving less than $400, are to be disposed of by reference to a County Court: Beuty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320.

There is no jurisdiction to make an order for the trial of an issue under this Rule, even though by consent, in respect of property which has not in fact been seized or intended to be seized by the Sheriff: Teskey v. Neil, 15 P. R. 244.

Where an interpleader issue is directed by the High Court to be tried at County Court sittings under this Rule, the subsequent proceedings, such as, e.g., a motion to postpone the trial, must be taken in the County Court: London & Can. L. & I. Co. v. Murphy, 11 P. R. 86; and applications against the verdict or for a new trial must be by way of appeal as in other County Court cases; except where such appeal lies, a Divisional Court of the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from the judgment on an interpleader issue so directed: Chase v. Exchange Bank, 11 P. R. 186, distinguishing Barker v. Leeson, 9 P. R. 107.

But this Rule only applies to issues directed on the application of a Sheriff, and not to issues directed on the application of stakeholders under Rule 1103 (1); in the latter kind of cases it seems doubtful whether under the Con. Rules the issue can be directed to be tried in a County Court; see Clancy v. Young, 15 P. R. 248; Rule 11; but if under section 128 of the Ind. Act the High Court has power in such cases to direct the trial of the issue in a County Court, an order or judgment must be obtained in the High Court embodying the decision upon the issue; and from such order or judgment an appeal will lie as in the case of any other order or judgment of the High Court specially pronounced: Id.

Issue when triable in Division
Court.

1126. Where the amount of the execution or the value of the goods does not exceed $100, the issue may be directed to be tried in a Division Court, and thereafter all proceedings shall be carried on in such Court. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1370.

Order for costs to be made by Judge of County or Division
Court.

1127. The proceedings for and relating to the order for costs, and for obtaining money out of Court, when the same has been paid into Court by the Sheriff, and for such other purposes as may be necessary, may, in the cases provided for in the Rules 1125 and 1126, be taken either in the original cause or before the Judge of the County Court, or Division Court, as the case may be, who tried the issue, and shall have power and authority to make such order in the premises as a Judge has heretofore had in such cases. Com. Rule 1164; Rules 23 June, 1894, 1371.

Costs of proceedings in County or Division
Court.

1128. In respect of all such proceedings had in the County Court, or Division Court, the costs and disbursements shall be taxed upon the County Court, or Division Court, as the case may be. Com. Rule 1165; Rules 23 June, 1894, 1372.

10. CHARGING ORDERS.

Order for charge in favour of solicitor on property
or preserved.

1129.—(1) Where a solicitor has been employed to prosecute or defend any cause, matter or proceeding, it shall be lawful for the Court in which the cause, matter or proceeding has been heard or is pending, or for a Judge thereof, to declare such a solicitor, or his personal representatives, to be entitled to a charge upon the property of whatever nature, tenure or kind, recovered or preserved through the instrumentality of such solicitor; and upon such declaration being made, such solicitor, or his personal representatives, shall have a charge upon and against and a right to payment out of the property so recovered or preserved, for the taxed costs, charges and expenses of or in reference to such cause, matter or proceeding; and all conveyances and acts done to defeat, or which may operate to defeat, such charge or right shall, unless made to a bona fide purchaser for value without notice, be absolutely void and of no effect as against such charge or right.

(2) The Court or Judge may make such order for taxa- Rule 1129.
 tion of such costs, charges and expenses, and for the raising Entire of the and payment of the same out of the said property, as may charge.
 seem just; but no such order shall be made where the right to recover payment of such costs, charges and expenses is barred by any Statute of Limitations. New.

This Rule is based upon Imp. Act, 23 & 24 V. c. 127, s. 28, which was enacted in consequence of the decision in Shaw v. Neale, 27 L.
 J. Ch. 444; 61 L. L. C. 581, that a solicitor has no lien on real estate recovered for the client.

The charge authorized to be declared is more extensive and more Nature of being limited to the document and funds of a client, cannot as regards charge.
 beneficial than the ordinary lien of a solicitor; the latter, besides documents he actively enforced, and as to them is a mere right of retainer, and may be lost by giving up possession; whereas a charge under this Rule may extend to almost any kind of property, and will entitle the chargee to apply for a sale of the property subject thereto, in order to raise the amount of the charge.

A charge under this Rule is in the nature of a statutory mortgage, and, as against purchasers and other incumbrancers, the same protections may be necessary to preserve priority, as in the case of an ordinary mortgage; where the charge is on land, in order to retain priority it would seem to be advisable to register it in the proper Registry Office. The registration should be effected by means of a Register certificate under the hand of the proper officer, and his seal of office, of the or the seal of the Court.

Where a solicitor brought an action to recover his bill of costs of a redemption action, and claimed a lien on the land, the subject of the redemption action, he was held entitled to register a certificate of lis pendens against the land: O'Flynn v. Middleton, 5 O. L. R. 621.

The Rule gives the solicitor an ancillary right—one not intended to displace the liability of the client to pay the solicitor out of his own pocket—but one ancillary to his right to be paid on his retainer; Nevills v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134. See also Re Born, 1900, 2 Ch. 433;
 83 L. T. 51.

The Rule authorizes the Court to interfere in regard to any pro- Property perty, real or personal, for the protection of the solicitor, in the same recovered or way as upon equitable grounds it previously interfered in the case of preserved. a judgment: Barker v. St. Quentin, 12 M. & W. 441; or a fund in Court: Huque v. Cooper, 33 B. 431; Re Born, 1900, 2 Ch. 433; 83
 L. T. 51; recovered through the services of the solicitor.

The construction placed upon the Imp. Act is that it gives a discretionary power to the Court; the solicitor has no absolute right to the charge, but only power to ask the Court in the exercise of its discretion to make the charge: Nevills v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134; Harrison v. H., 13 P. D. 10; Pierson v. Knutsford Estates Co., 13 Q.
 B. 1, 666; Re Humphreys, 1898, 1 Q. B. 523, and see Re Born, supra.

In the case, therefore, of a judgment recovered by an infant suing by his next friend, though the next friend and not the infant was liable to the solicitor, a charge was declared in favour of the solicitor upon the judgment to the extent only of the costs taxed against the defendant, and the Court refused to order a sale of the judgment to enforce the charge: Nevills v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134.

Rule 1129. What property has been "recovered or preserved" is a question of fact in each case: Roslands v. Williams, W. N. 1885, 194; Ross v. Buxton, 42 Ch. D. 198.

Under the Imp. Act property has been held to have been recovered or preserved, by recovery of a judgment for money: Birchall v. Pugh, L. R. 10 C. P. 397; Orford v. Fleming, 18 C. L. T. 142; 34 C. L. J. 238, 413; or costs: Dallow v. Garrold, 13 Q. B. D. 543; 14 Q. B. D. 543; by a judgment, in a foreclosure action: Hilson v. Round, 4 Giff. 416; 10 Jur. N. S. 34; in a redemption action: Scholefield v. Lockwood (1868), L. R. 7 Eq. 83; O'Flynn v. Middleton, supra; in an action to establish the validity of a will: Ex p. Tweed, 1899, 2 Q. B. 167; or a mortgage: Keenan v. Armstrong, 27 L. R. Ir. 371; in a partition action: Pritchard v. Roberts, L. R. 17 Eq. 222; in an action of detinue: Cutlow v. Cutlow, 2 C. P. D. 362; in an action to remove a cloud on the title to land: Jones v. Frost, L. R. 7 Chy. 773.

So money paid into Court as a condition of obtaining leave to defend is "recovered or preserved": Morson v. Sheppard, 24 Q. B. D. 627; and money paid into Court with a defence, if the plaintiff comes entitled to take it out: see Enden v. Carte, 19 Ch. D. 311; so where the fund consists of rents paid into Court by a receiver in the action: Re Knight, 1892, 2 Ch. 598.

A solicitor for the liquidator of a company which had been reconstructed, was allowed a charge on the assets of the company, for costs of proceedings in Court incurred in reconstruction: Re Clayton, 118 L. T. Jour. 315.

Property was held to be not recovered or preserved where a winding-up petition was successfully opposed: Re United Shepherd's Wheel Rose, Co., W. N. 1885, 15; nor where in an administration action new trustees were appointed, but further proceedings were stayed: Pickerton v. Easton, L. R. 16 Eq. 490; nor where an enurement is the subject of the action and its existence is affirmed: Foron v. Gascoigne, L. R. 9 Chy. 654; nor where money is paid into Court by the plaintiff as security for costs, and the plaintiff succeeds in the action: Re Wadsworth, Rhodes v. Sugden, 20 Ch. D. 517; but see Parry v. P., 30 Sol. Jour. 388; Hall v. H., 1891, P. 302; but where an appeal is successful the costs paid under the judgment and ordered on the appeal to be refunded are property recovered: Guy v. Churchill, 35 Ch. D. 489.

Property
not subject to charging
order.

The "cause, matter or proceeding," mentioned in the Rule, must be some civil cause, matter or proceeding in a Court of Justice; money recovered by means of criminal proceedings: Re Humphreys, 1898, 1 Q. B. 520; or in an arbitration: Macfarlane v. Lister, 37 Ch. D. 88, are not within the Rule; nor is alimony decreed in divorce proceedings: Lecte v. Lecte, 48 L. J. P. 61; Cross v. Cross, 43 L. T. 522; nor an allowance made by the Court for the maintenance of a lunatic's wife, out of the lunatic's estate: Re Robinson, 27 Ch. D. 160. The jurisdiction to declare a charge is discretionary, and, it is said, should be rarely exercised in bankruptcy proceedings: Re Humphreys, 1898, 1 Q. B. 520.

A defendant's solicitor may be entitled, as where a defendant successfully resisted claims of a mortgagee in a foreclosure action: Scholefield v. Lockwood, L. R. 7 Eq. 83; and where an action to set aside a settlement (Re Keane, L. R. 12 Eq. 115), or to attach a vessel (The Heinrich, L. R. 3 A. & E. 505) was dismissed; see also Smith v. Winter, 18 W. R. 447.

A claim and counter-claim, where both are successful, must be considered as one action for the purpose of determining the solicitor's right to a charging order: Westacott v. Moran, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774; The Philippine, L. R. 1 A. & E. 309. Rule 1139.

The charge may affect not merely the client's interest but the interests of others, the solicitor's services being in the nature of salvage: Greer v. Young, 24 Ch. D. 545. See also Es p. Digby, 53 L. J. Ch. 972; Berrie v. Horvitt, L. R. 9 Eq. 1 (where a charge was refused); Nevills v. Ballard, supra, p. 1333; and Bullen v. Bullen, 8 Ch. D. 479.

The right to a charge is not affected by a subsequent compromise: Tugman v. Porter, L. R. 11 Eq. 181; Moran v. Sheppard, 21 Q. B. D. 627.

The costs are limited to the costs of the cause, matter or proceeding: see Wilson v. Round, 4 Giff. 416; Re Hall, 33 Ch. D. 266. The order should direct taxation of the costs, if not already taxed: Emden v. Carter, 19 Ch. D. 311, 318. Costs recoverable under charging order.

The solicitor is entitled, though discharged by the client, where the property was recovered while he was solicitor: Chayer v. Adams, 4 Q. B. D. 622; Re Wadsworth, Rhodes v. Sugden, 29 Ch. D. 517; in such case his charge will be subject to the lien for costs of the client's solicitor for the time being: Id. Discharged solicitor.

The assignee of a solicitor is entitled to apply: Briscoe v. Briscoe, 1892, 3 Ch. 543; or his personal representatives: Baile v. Baile, L. R. 13 Eq. 497; but the agents of a solicitor are not entitled to a charge for their costs, they not having been employed by the client: Macfarlane v. Lister, 37 Ch. D. 88. Assignee of solicitor.

The solicitor for an infant may apply for a charging order on the infant's share of the subject of litigation: In re Wright, 1901, 1 Ch. 217.

The lapse of time may justify a refusal to interfere where in the meantime the rights and interests of the persons entitled to the property have been changed: Roche v. Roche, 29 L. R. Ir. 339; but mere delay where no intervening rights have arisen is not sufficient to deprive the solicitor of his right to an order: Re Rorn, 1900, 2 Ch. 433; 83 L. T. 51. Delay in applying.

The plaintiff's solicitor was held to have a first charge on the assets of a partnership in an action for dissolution, in which a receiver had been appointed and certain assets recovered: Ridd v. Thorne, 1902, 2 Ch. 544; and to have priority over a mortgage made by the plaintiff before the action, where the mortgagee adopted the benefits obtained thereby: Schady v. Peck, 1893, 1 Ch. 709; 3 R. 245; 68 L. T. 418; see also Dennis v. Addy, 1894, 1 Ir. R. 511.

The solicitor is not entitled to a charging order where he has accepted from his client a mortgage or other security, e.g., where an assignment of the property has been made in trust in the first place for the payment of the solicitor's costs: Groom v. Chesewright, 1895, 1 Ch. 739; 72 L. T. 555.

The assignee of a judgment debt, or a creditor garnishing the same: Dallow v. Gurrell, 14 Q. B. D. 543, and see Hawer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 342, takes subject to any existing right of lien upon the judgment, and as against such right the assignee or attaching creditor Rule 1129. is not a purchaser for value without notice, and a charging order, subsequently obtained by a solicitor having such lien, takes priority over the assignment or attaching order; Faithful v. Erica, 7 Ch. 10, 195; Cole v. Eley, 1894, 2 Q. B. 350; 9 R. 352; 70 L. T. 892.

As to notice, see also The Paris, 1896, P. 77; 73 L. T. 739; Orford v. Fleming, 18 C. L. T. 142; 34 C. L. J. 238, 413.

Application for Charging Order.—No procedure is laid down for obtaining a declaration of the charge, nor is any time prescribed when the same may be made. It would seem from the words "as pending," that the Rule contemplates the making of such application before, as well as after, final judgment in the action. All parties to the action to be affected by the declaration ought, it would seem, to have notice of the application; see Brown v. Trotman, 12 Ch. D. 880; and where the action is defective by reason of death, or transmission of interest, an order to continue proceedings under Rule 336 should be first obtained; Stewart v. Rhodes, 1900, 1 Ch. 380; 82 L. T. 337; but see O'Flynn v. Middleton, 5 O. L. R. 421.

In some cases it may be that the object of the application would be defeated if the parties were notified in the first place, and, in such cases, it is possible the application might be entertained ex parte in the first instance; but wherever a charging order is granted on an ex parte application, it would seem desirable that the order should be in the nature of an order nisi, i.e., declaring the charge upon service on the (parties interested) unless they, within a specified time thereafter, on notice to the chargee in that behalf, shew to the Court good cause to the contrary.

The application may be made notwithstanding that the action is no longer pending, or has not been brought to a hearing, or that the property preserved has been sold; Jones v. Frost, L. R. 7 Chy. 773.

The order may be intitled in the action only, and not in the matter of the Act or of the solicitor, and may be made upon notice of motion, or petition; Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Brown v. Trotman, 12 Ch. D. 880. See H. & L. Forms, No. 1318.

As to the form of the order, see Orford v. Fleming, 34 C. L. J. 413; H. & L. Forms, No. 1320.

Costs of Application.—The solicitor is entitled to his costs as between solicitor and client; Waterland v. Serle, 1897, W. N. 163 (9).

Effect of Order.—The charging order gives no higher claim than the ordinary solicitor's lien; see Goodfellow v. Gray, 1899, 2 Q. B. 498; 81 L. T. 314; and is subject to any claims, prior to the client's, on the property; Taylor v. Robinson, 19 P. R. 31; but a valid charge may be given on property of an estate of a deceased person recovered or preserved by a solicitor on the retainer of the personal representatives, which will be binding on the shares of the beneficiaries therein; Ex p. Tweed, 1899, 2 Q. B. 167; and the charging order will take priority over the claims of creditors, though they may have obtained prior charging orders against the assets; Ridd v. Thorne, 1902, 9 Ch. 344.

Enforcing Charge.—Where the charge is sought to be enforced, a subsequent application may be made by notice, or petition, in the action in which the charging order is made, and not by a new action; see Oxford v. Fleming, 34 C. L. J. 218, 413; 18 C. L. T. 112; but Rule 1129 if asked for there would seem to be no reason why, where feasible, such relief should not be given by the order declaring the charge.

Where a charge was declared in favour of a solicitor upon a judgment recovered in an action by an infant by his next friend, the Court refused to enforce the charge by sale of the judgment, as that might destroy the value of the whole to the infant, but leave was given to the solicitor to enforce the judgment by execution, and to receive to his own use the amount of his charge: Aveille v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134.

The lien may be enforced by a stop order: Smith v. Winter, 18 W. R. 447.

It would appear that the granting of a charging order is not intended to have the effect of a judgment, so as to prevent the running of the Statute of Limitations in respect of the costs intended to be secured thereby; and the charging order must therefore be enforced within the period within which the costs can be recovered by action.

1. GENERAL RULES.

To be in discretion
of Court.

1130.—(1) Subject to the provisions of The Judicature Act, 1895, and to the express provisions of any statute heretofore or hereafter passed, the costs of and incidental to all proceedings in the Supreme Court shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, and the Court or Judge shall have full power to determine by whom and to what extent the costs shall be paid.

Saving as to trustees,
etc.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall deprive a trustee, mortgagee or other person of any right to costs out of a particular estate or fund to which he would be entitled according to the rules acted upon before The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, in Courts of Equity.

Or issues tried before jury.

(3) Where an action or issue is tried by a jury, the costs shall, subject to Rule 1132, follow the event, unless the Judge before whom the action or issue is tried, in his discretion, otherwise orders.

Or proceeding before judicial officers.

(4) Costs of proceedings before Judicial Officers, unless otherwise disposed of, shall be, in their discretion, subject to appeal. Con. Rule 1170; Rules 4 Nov., 1893, 1274; 59 V. c. 18, s. 11.

Section 110 of the Jud. Act, supra, p. 106, provides that "subject to Rules of Court and to the express provisions of any statute, the costs of and incident to all proceedings in the Supreme Court of Judicature, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, and the Court or Judge shall have full power to determine to whom and to what extent such costs are to be paid."

This Rule and the Statute apply both to costs in the High Court and in the Court of Appeal, and by Rule 1241 are made to apply to proceedings in relation to the quashing of convictions or orders. See also Rule 1238. Rule 1130

But the Rule does not apply to costs incurred in a matter before the proceedings have actually come into Court: Re Bonadeth's Trade-mark, 9 Ch. D. 618.

"Any Statute heretofore or hereafter passed." — The Jud. Act, s. 119, and the present Rule, have the effect of preserving in force any special statutory provisions in force at the date of The Judicature Act, 1895, relating to costs in particular cases. All such provisions in Ontario Acts have now been inserted in The Revised Statutes, 1897. Certain statutory provisions regarding costs are to be found in the Imperial Statutes, revised and consolidated in R. S. O. 1897, vol. 3, e.g., as to costs of contempt: see c. 324, ss. 18-20; of charging orders, c. 321, s. 22; of quo warranto proceedings, c. 324, s. 37; of proceedings under The Trustee Relief Act, c. 336, s. 20; of proceedings for leasing, or renewing, or surrendering leases of lands in which infants or lunatics are interested; and of applications to apply dividends on stock for maintenance of infants or lunatics: c. 340, s. 20; c. 341, s. 16; actions for wrongful distress: c. 342, s. 18 (21); applications for renewals of leases in case of absentee lessors: c. 342, s. 20.

The discretionary power is not taken away by an Act providing that a judgment in an action contemplated by the Act "shall carry costs to be taxed as between solicitor and client": Bostock v. Ramsay, Urban, etc., 1900, 1 Q. B. 357, 2 Q. B. 616.

Where before the Act the Court had no power, original or statutory, to award costs, it has now power to do so: see Re Gaulty & Manchester & S. Ry. Co., 1896, 2 Q. B. 439; Ex p. Hospital of St. Katherine's, 17 Ch. D. 378; Re Lee v. Hemmings, 21 Ch. D. 669; see also Irscott v. Lilley, 14 Ont. App. 295; Re Knight's Trusts, 26 Ch. D. 82; Re Wood, 31 Ch. D. 697; Kingston v. Murphy, 11 T. R. 304; London County Council v. Churchwardens of W. Ham., 1892, 2 Q. B. 173; Re Fisher, 1894, 1 Ch. 459. Prior to the Jud. Act it would seem that the Court had not, (see The Queen v. Jones, 1894, 2 Q. B. 382); but it has now power to award costs against a defendant in habeas corpus proceedings: Re Weatheroll, 1 O. L. R. 542; and it has been held that, in a civil proceeding, where an Act gives jurisdiction to determine questions, but is silent as to costs, the Court has inherent jurisdiction to order a person wrongly putting it in motion to pay costs: Re Bombay Civil Fund Act, 40 Ch. D. 288. So where costs are not asked for by a rule nisi, but are asked for at the bar, they are in the discretion of the Court, and may, nevertheless, be awarded, where the opposite party appears: Re Peck & Galt, 46 U. C. Q. B. 211; but where the opposite party does not appear the Court will not usually give costs if they have not been asked by the notice of motion. In England neither an order for an interpleader issue: Wicks v. Wood, 26 W. R. 680; Hartmont v. Foster, 8 Q. B. D. 82, nor sending a case for trial to a County Court: Farrers v. May, 44 L. T. 148, removes the case from the jurisdiction of the High Court as to costs; but see Rules 1124, 1128, and secs. 92 to 94 of the Act.

This Rule also repeals all former practice which laid down any special rule as to costs: The Friedberg, 10 P. D. 112.

The Rule applies not merely to costs at the trial but also on motions: Young v. Thomas, 1892, 2 Ch. 431; and where the Court is Rule 1130. exercising statutory jurisdiction, as e.g., under an expropriation Act: Re Schnarr, 1902, 1 Ch. 326; but it only applies to proceedings in the Supreme Court of Judicature, and does not give a Judge jurisdiction over costs in matters where he acts under a statute merely as persona designata, and not by virtue of his office as Judge: Re Young, 14 P. R. 303; Re Pacquette, 11 P. R. 463; but the costs of such proceedings are now in the discretion of the Judge by virtue of R. S. O. c. 76, s. 5. The Rule not only applies to civil proceedings, but also to proceedings in relation to the quashing of convictions or orders, whether they be affirmed or quashed in whole or in part: Rules 1238, 1241; but does not enable the Court or a Judge to award costs in other Crown cases where they are not otherwise by statute or Rule authorized so to do: London County Council v. West Ham, 1892, 2 Q. B. 153; and see The Queen v. Jones, supra; nor in cases where the Court has only a consultative jurisdiction, as upon a special case stated by an arbitrator: In re Knight & The Tabernacle Building Socy., 1892, 2 Q. B. 613.

Notwithstanding that an application fails on the ground that the Court has no jurisdiction to give the relief sought, the unsuccessful party may nevertheless be ordered to pay the costs of the proceeding: Cote v. Halliday, 33 C. L. J. 159; 17 C. L. T. 53; Great Northern v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crowther v. Boulton, 33 W. R. 150; and in cases in the County Court, see Rule 1215.

"Full costs" referred to in the Imp. Copyright Act, 5 & 6 Vict., c. 45, s. 26, is held to mean no more than the usual costs taxable between party and party: Avery v. Wood, 1891, 3 Ch. 115; and that expression in an order or judgment is in England held to mean merely the ordinary party and party costs taxable according to the scale properly applicable: see Irvine v. Reddish, 5 B. & Ald. 796; Jamieson v. Trevelyan, 10 Ex. 748; but the words "full costs and expenses" are held to cover costs as between solicitor and client: Dodd v. Hyde v. Manchester, 12 C. B. 474. The expression "full costs" has been held in Ontario to mean costs according to the High Court scale: per Falconbridge, J., Marsh v. Burns, March, 1897, but see Ireland v. Pitcher, 11 P. R. 403.

Proceedings before Judicial Officers.—It has been held by Street, J., that it is not intended by Clause (4) of Rule 1130, that the discretion of the appellate tribunal should be substituted for that of the judicial officer whose decision is appealed from: Campbell v. Wheeler, 17 P. R. 289; and that the Court will not interfere with the discretion exercised as to costs, unless the officer whose order is appealed from has proceeded upon some erroneous principle of law, or upon some misapprehension of the facts of the case: Ib.; see also Knickerbocker v. Ratz, 16 P. R. 191.

The costs of proceedings before an Official Referee would seem to be within the provisions of Rule 1130 (4); but see Minister v. Appleby, 1902, 1 K. B. 643.

Generally.

Costs Generally of Proceedings in the Supreme Court.

The costs of proceedings in the respective branches of the Supreme Court are in the discretion of the Court or Judge before whom such proceedings come for hearing or determination: Holmes v. Bramble, 18 P. R. 79; In re Schnarr, 1902, 1 Ch. 326.

The provisions of Rule 1130 are now applicable to motions to quash convictions: Rule 1241.

By various Rules special provision is made as to costs in particular rule 1130. cases—where a County Court has no jurisdiction; see Rule 1215; and Great Northern, etc., v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crookthorpe v. Rault, 33 W. R. 150; proceedings to examine judgment debtors and to attach delators; Rule 1139; on confession of defence; Rule 245; on discontinuance; Rule 430; on accepting money paid into Court in satisfaction; Rule 425; preliminary examinations of parties; Rule 1170; production or inspection of documents; Rule 1155; proving documents where notice to admit not given; Rule 1150; applications to extend the time for taking a proceeding; Rule 1152; by reason of a party not making admissions; Rule 1141; proceeding relating to "third parties." Rule 214, and see Blare v. Ashby, 12 Ch. 16, 682.

Costs under special Rules.

Costs at the Trial.—In actions tried without a jury the costs are not subject to certain special exceptions and restrictions in the discretion of the trial Judge, and without an order made in the exercise of such discretion, no costs will be taxable to any party; Rule 1130 (1).

Where, in an action tried by a Judge without a jury, no order is made as to costs, none are recoverable by either party; Re Great Western Advertising Co. v. Rainer, 9 P. R. 434; Leamy v. Trimming, 21 Q. B. D. 230. An order for payment of costs simpliciter does not preclude an inquiry under Rule 1132, as to the sums properly applicable; Re Foster, 18 P. R. 65; and it would seem that in such case where the Judge gives no directions disallowing a set-off of costs by defendant (such as is contemplated by Rule 1132), the Taxing Officer has now power to allow such set-off; Rule 1132; see formerly Tenax v. Dixon, 13 P. R. 273.

In an action tried without a jury, judgment being given for plaintiff, on the claim and counter-claim, but for defendant against third parties with "such costs as defendant would be entitled to by law," it was held that the costs being in the discretion of the Judge, and no discretion being exercised in favour of defendant against the third parties, the defendant was not "entitled by law" to costs; Leamy v. Trimming, 21 Q. B. D. 230.

In actions tried by a jury, the costs of the trial period facie must always follow the event, but the Judge has a discretion subject to certain special exceptions and restrictions, to make a different order; Rule 1130 (3).

Where an action is tried before a Referee, see supra, p. 1340.

Where interlocutory costs have been ordered to be paid by either party, a subsequent dismissal of the action without costs, does not affect the order as to such interlocutory costs; Walter v. Bawle, 90 L. T. 409.

Costs on Motions.—The power as to costs is exercisable not merely at the trial but also on motions for judgment; Young v. Thomas, 1892, 2 Ch. 134; 66 L. T. 575; and extends to costs to be dealt with on interlocutory proceedings before the trial, so that they may be directed to be borne by one party in any event; Pearcy v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 168. See infra, pp. 1346-1349.

Motions.

The dismissal of an action for want of prosecution without costs is within the discretion of the Judge, and there is no appeal without leave; Soelling v. Pulling, 20 Ch. D. 87; and see supra, p. 123.

The Court has jurisdiction to grant prohibition with costs; Rex v. JJ. of London, etc., 1891, 1 Q. B. 473.

Rule 1130. Costs of habeas corpus proceedings in civil cases, are in the discretion of the Court, and where a return has been made to the writ and the body produced, the Court may order the applicant to pay the expenses of complying with the writ: Re Weatherall, 1 O. L. R. 512.

Where the Court makes "no order as to costs," that is a refusal of costs to either party: McCur v. Botsford, 38 C. L. J. 496; In re Hodgkinson, 1897, 2 Ch. 190.

Where judgment is entered without a trial.

Costs where Judgment entered without Trial or Motion.—When judgment is entered without a trial, or motion for judgment, and therefore without any express directions as to costs, the scale of costs is determined by the Taxing Officer, under Rule 1133.

Scale of costs.

Scale of Costs.—In the case of actions brought in the High Court, which might have been brought in an inferior Court, if no order is made by the Judge, Rule 1130 (3) applies and prescribes the scale upon which the costs are to be taxed; but whether the action is tried with, or without, a jury the Judge may give special directions as to the scale. It was said in Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 172, that in exercising the Judge's discretion there was no better guide than the rule laid down by Rule 1132, in default of special directions; but the Judge's discretion is not fettered by any Rule, except Rule 1130 (2).

Where a plaintiff takes money out of Court under Rule 425, even though the amount be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, he is, under that Rule, entitled to his full costs without any set off to the defendant; and a Judge has no jurisdiction under this Rule to make any other order as to the costs: Babcock v. Studish, 11 P. R. 147.

"Full costs," even where given by statute, do not include any more than the usual costs taxable between party and party: see Avery v. Wood, 1891, 3 Ch. 115; 65 L. T. 122; sed vide, Marsh v. Burns, 41 W. R. 1340.

Suggerency and how to dispose of costs.

Disposal of Costs of Action on Motion in Chambers.

Although the discretion of the Court as to the costs of a contested action is usually exercised at the trial, or on motion for judgment, yet, where the object of the action is obtained without a trial or motion for judgment, it is improper to bring the action to trial, or hearing on motion for judgment, merely for the purpose of obtaining an adjudication as to the costs, without first offering to have the question disposed of in Chambers; see Sirell v. Abraham, 8 Beav. 598; Morgan v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 1 H. & M. 78; O'Sullivan v. Chilton, 26 Gr. 612; Webb v. McArthur, 3 Chy. Ch. 364; but if the opposite party refuses to consent to the disposition of the costs in that way, the action must be tried, or heard on motion for judgment. Hunter v. Strathroy, 18 P. R. 127; see also Sandarschein v. Backus, 57 L. T. 712; Blackley v. Tappin, 9 C. L. T. 143; Storr v. Malleson, W. N. 1878, 219; Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 77; Landed Estates Company v. Wooding, W. N. 1871, 138; White v. White, 4 D. G. F. & J. 348; McLean v. Cross, 3 Chy. Ch. 432; sed vide Kaicherslocher v. Ratz, 16 P. R. 193, where a contrary view is expressed; and the extra expense so occasioned will be considered in disposing of the costs, and in any event may be ordered to be borne by the party who has occasioned them; see Eastwood v. Henderson, 17 P. R. 578; East v. O'Connor, 2 O. L. R. 355.

At all events the plaintiff cannot compel the defendant to submit to a disposition of the question of costs in Chambers where the ac-alleged by the plaintiff to be a satisfaction of his claim is equivocal, Rule 1130 and the defendant denies that the plaintiff had any cause of action: Hunter v. Strathroy, supra.

It was apparently doubted by Spragge, C.: McLean v. Cross, 3 Ch. Ch. at p. 433, whether the former Referee in Chambers had jurisdiction to entertain such applications; and as to whether the Master in Chambers has such jurisdiction has been doubted: see per Meredith, J., Knickerbocker v. Ratz, 16 P. R. at p. 39, and see Jones v. Miller, 16 P. R. 92; King v. Federal Bank, 17 P. R. 65.

Sometimes in such cases where parties consent, an interlocutory motion in Court is treated as a trial of the action, and the costs are then disposed of: Barber v. Penley, 68 L. T. 662; and where the parties agree to an order being made in Chambers to carry out a settlement, the plaintiff cannot recover the costs of moving in Court: Allen v. Oakey, 62 L. T. 724. See quere, see Craig v. Craig, 1 Ch. Ch. 41.

Where there is no object in proceeding with the action except to determine the question of the costs of it, owing to the loss or destruction of the subject matter, or other circumstances occurring after the commencement of the action, the plaintiff must nevertheless proceed either by trial, or motion for judgment, or, by consent, by motion in Chambers, to have the question of costs disposed of, otherwise the defendant may apply to dismiss for want of prosecution: Elliott v. Gardner, 8 P. R. 409; see also Hogaboom v. Gillies, 16 P. R. 402.

The Crown.—Formerly the rule was that the Crown, when a party to civil proceedings, was neither ordered to pay nor receive costs: see Reg. v. Mainwaring, 5 O. S. 670; Gibson v. Church, 1 Ch. Ch. 69; United States v. Denison, 2 Ch. Ch. 263; Johnson v. Rex, 1904, A. C. 817; 91 L. T. 234; but now in proceedings by petition of right the costs are in the discretion of the Court: Rule 934; as also in proceedings on a special case: see Attorney-General v. Toronto General Trusts Corp., 5 O. L. R. 607; but in proceedings of a strictly common law character it would seem that the old rule still prevails: Rex v. Archbishop of Canterbury, 1902, 2 K. R. 503; 86 L. T. 459.

Suitors in Person.—As a rule a suitor, not being a solicitor, suing or defending in person, is not entitled to solicitor's costs, but, at most, to his actual disbursements, and a reasonable allowance for loss of time: see Dax's M. O. 31; where a suitor in person successfully opposed an appeal to the Divisional Court he was allowed his disbursements, and "a moderate amount for his time and trouble on the argument" to be set off against the debt due by him to the plaintiff in the action: Miller v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 491; but where a duly qualified solicitor sues or defends in person, and he is awarded costs, he is, unless acting in a fiduciary character, entitled to make and recover the same charges as when acting for another: Lush Pr. 75, 800; except for taking instructions: Dax's M. O. 31; and see Guy v. Brown, L. R. 1 P. C. 411; and if he is also a barrister, and also acts as counsel he cannot recover his counsel fee: Clarke v. Creighton, 15 P. R. 105; but if his partner acts as counsel he may tax his counsel fee, or such part thereof as he has no interest in: Henderson v. Camer, 3 V. C. L. J. 29; Johanson v. Ryckman, 7 O. L. R. 511; and even when, being a co-trustee with others, he acts for himself and co-trustees as solicitor and counsel, he may, if awarded costs, tax against the opposite party full costs, including instructions.

Rule 1130. and counsel fees: Strachan v. Rutlan, 15 P. R. 169; ordinarily, solicitor, trustee, or mortgagee, when acting in person for himself alone is only entitled to costs out of pocket, either as against the trust or mortgaged estate, or his cestui que trust, or mortgagor, as the case may be, unless expressly empowered to charge for his professional services as against the trust estate, or mortgagor: see note to Rule 667, supra, pp. 892, 896.

Trustees,
Re.

Suitors in a Fiduciary Capacity.—A trustee or liquidator, or other person in a fiduciary capacity suing or defending in his own name ordinarily becomes liable to be ordered personally to pay costs to the opposite party: Macdonald v. Balfour, 20 Ont. App. 404; L. v. Brown, 17 Q. B. D. 488; Smith v. Williamson, 13 P. R. 126; Re Ry. Co. v. Jones, 13 Gr. 355; and where a liquidator of a company intervened and obtained leave to defend an action brought against the company, he was held to be personally liable to the plaintiff for costs: Boyd v. Dominion Cold Storage Co., 17 P. R. 468. But where an action is brought by a liquidator of a company in the name of the company, and the liquidator is not personally a party, he cannot be ordered to pay the costs of the action: Ontario Forge & B. Co. v. The Comet Cycle Co., 17 P. R. 156; and a liquidator who bond fide contested a claim was held to be not personally liable for costs, though he failed in the litigation: Re Bolton, 1895, 1 Ch. 333, overruling Staffordshire Gas Co., 1893, 3 Ch. 523.

Executors were given costs of opposing an unsuccessful appeal, out of the estate, in the event of their not being able to make them out of the appellant: Re Cassie, 17 P. R. 402.

An administrator is entitled to his costs of an administration action (which may, however, be given in the form of a commission under Rule 1146), even though the action has been caused by a claim by him for the allowance of payments which are disallowed in the action, provided the claim is made under an honest mistake, and is neither fraudulent nor unproven: Re Jones, 1892, 2 Ch. 190; but see Re Skinner, 1904, 1 Ch. 289.

Where in an action between a trustee and his cestui que trust the Court makes "no order as to the costs," such adjudication is final, and the trustee cannot afterwards retain his costs of the proceedings out of the trust estate: Re Hodgkinson, 1895, 2 Ch. 190; 72 L. T. 517. And when on an appeal on the merits the appellate Court has refused to make an order for the payment of the costs of a trustee or executor out of the estate or fund in litigation, it is not competent for the Court of first instance thereafter to make any such order: Puccell v. Borgia, 16 P. R. 301.

Indemnity out of trust estate.

A person occupying a fiduciary position, who is improperly paid costs, has no right to indemnity out of the trust estate unless the proceeding was for the benefit or protection of the estate, e.g., a receiver sued for misfeasance and succeeding in the action, which is dismissed with costs, is not in the event of being unable to recover the costs from the plaintiff entitled to payment thereof out of the estate of which he is receiver: Re Dunn, 115 L. T. 396; neither can a receiver recover such costs from his cestui que trust, unless they have expressly agreed to indemnify him: Johuston v. Dulmagr, 30 Ont. 293; and an executor bringing an unsuccessful action to recover a sum of money alleged to be due to the testator's estate, is not entitled to resort to the specifically devised remedy for payment of his costs, even though the personal estate is exhausted: Le v. Champagae, 7 O. L. R. 537. And where a defendant is sued in a fiduciary character, and judgment is given against him with costs, the plaintiff cannot deduct such costs from moneys in his hands to which the defendant is entitled in his fiduciary character, even though the defendant may have a beneficial interest in a share of the fund: Phillips v. Howell, 1901, 2 Ch. 773; 85 L. T. 777. Rule 1130.

A creditor, or legatee, bringing an action for administration, though not standing in a fiduciary position, is, in case of a deficiency of assets, entitled to costs as between solicitor and client out of the estate: Re New Zealand M. Ry. Co., 1901, 2 Ch. 357; 84 L. T. 852.

Where the costs of a trustee or personal representative in an administration action are ordered to be paid out of the estate in question, which proves deficient, the trustee or personal representative is entitled to be paid his costs in priority to those of the other parties, even though the order be silent on that point: Re Griffith, 1904, 1 Ch. 807; 90 L. T. 639.

Where a person suing or sued in a fiduciary character is ordered to pay costs, such order is appealable; but where he is refused costs it was held by Wright, J., that the order is discretionary, and not appealable: In re Raynes Park Golf Club, 1899, 1 Q. B. 961.

Pecuniary legatees, defendants in an action in which the validity of a will was in question, who put in formal defences submitting their rights to the protection of the Court, were held to be not entitled to costs out of the estate, nor from the plaintiff who had failed in having the will declared invalid: Logan v. Herring, 19 P. R. 168.

Married Women.—A married woman bringing an unsuccessful action, on a motion, may be ordered to pay the costs personally: Morris v. Freeman, 3 P. D. 351, followed by Boyd, C. Barker v. Westover, 31 May, 1882, and see Ottway v. Ottway, 13 P. D. 142; Coe v. Bennett, 1891, 1 Ch. 617; 64 L. T. 380.

Next Friend.—In general the next friend of an infant is in the same position as any other litigant, and receives and pays costs personally, as between himself and the opposite party. Where an infant by his next friend brings an unsuccessful action, the latter may be personally ordered to pay the opposite party's costs, but such order may be made without prejudice to any claim he may have to be indemnified out of the infant's estate: Smith v. Mason, 17 P. R. 444.

The Official Guardian ad litem.—The costs of the Official Guardian ad litem are usually ordered to be paid no matter what may be the result of the litigation, either out of the estate or fund, if any, in question, or by the plaintiff personally, with power to add them to his own costs. Where the action has been occasioned by the personal misconduct of an infant, for whom the Official Guardian ad litem appears, the infant may be ordered to pay personally the plaintiff's costs, including those paid by him to the Official Guardian ad litem: Lipsett v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575; Woolf v. Woolf, 1899, 1 Ch. 343; 79 L. T. 725.

In England the costs of the official solicitor, when appointed guardian ad litem, if no special directions are given, are taxable as between party and party, but the Court may allow them as between solicitor and client, and semble, the Official Guardian ad litem, may obtain a special direction for taxation of his costs as between solicitor and client, even where he appears for an infant defendant sua sponte, and such costs may be ordered to be paid by the plaintiff and Rule 1130. added to his own: see Eady v. Elsdon, 1901, 2 K. B. 460; 84 L. T. 615, and Rule 1138.

Discretion
of Court.

Discretion of Court or Judge, Extent of.—Where the right to exercise a discretion as to the costs of an action or proceeding exists, no hard and fast rules can be laid down as to the manner of exercising it: The Friedberg, 10 P. D. 112; Badische Anilin, etc. v. Leviustein, 29 Ch. D. 366.

The discretion is a judicial one, and it has been said that a plaintiff who successfully enforces a substantial legal right, and in no way misconducts himself, may not be deprived of costs, but is entitled to them as of right: Cooper v. Whittingham, 15 Ch. D. 501; and see Bell v. Wilson, 19 P. R. 167; but see the remarks of Bowen, L.J., in Young v. Thomas, 40 W. R. 468, referring to N. London R. Co. v. G. N. Ry. Co., 11 Q. R. D. 30; and Hayward v. E. London Ry. Works, 28 Ch. D. 146; The Condor, 4 P. D. 120; The Monkseaton, 14 P. D. 51; Upmann v. Forester, 24 Ch. D. 231; Goodhart v. Hyett, 25 Ch. D. 182; Wittmann v. Oppenheim, 27 Ch. D. 260; 54 L. J. Chy. 56; Patullo v. Orangeville, 31 Ont. 192; Anglo-Canadian M. P. Assn. v. Somerville, 19 P. R. 113; but where the plaintiff recovers only nominal damages, or a very trifling part of his claim, he is not entitled to costs as of right: Florence v. Mallinson, 65 L. T. 354; and see American Tobacco Co. v. Guest, 1892, 1 Ch. 630; and he may be ordered to pay the defendant's costs (even where the case is tried by a jury): Harris v. Petherick, 4 Q. B. D. 611; and see Forget v. Ostiguy, 1895, A. C. 318.

A successful defendant is prima facie entitled to costs, and it is not a proper exercise of discretion as to costs to deprive him of costs, because he has done some act which, although a fraud on the public, is not in any way connected with the issue between himself and the plaintiff: King v. Gillard, 1905, 2 Ch. D. 7; 92 L. T. 605; and see Civil Service Co-operative Soc. v. Gen. Steam Navigation Co., 1903, 2 K. B. 756; 89 L. T. 429. If a successful defendant is deprived of costs, where no material exists for the exercise of the Judge's discretion, the order as to costs is appealable: Ib.

It was for some time doubtful whether, where the plaintiff fails, the defendant could be ordered to pay the whole costs: see Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 76; Foster v. G. W. Ry., 8 Q. B. D. 25, 515; Butcher v. Pooler, 24 Ch. D. 273; Lambton v. Parkinson, 37 W. R. 545; Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517; Forget v. Ostiguy, 1895, A. C. 318; 72 L. T. 399; but it would now seem to be settled that he cannot be so ordered, unless the plaintiff was entitled to bring the action, and it has failed merely by reason of circumstances subsequently occurring: Fleming v. Toronto, 19 Ont. App. 318; Andrew v. Groce, 1902, 1 K. B. 625.

Thus a defendant as to whom the action is dismissed cannot (except as above mentioned) properly be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs: Wills v. Carman, 14 Ont. App. 656; confirming Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517, where the question of the power to make a successful party pay costs was also raised, but was not necessary to the decision: see also McDermid v. McDermid, 15 Ont. App. 287; but he may be ordered to pay the costs of a co-defendant, though there is no issue between them: Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417; and see Rule 1144, and notes.

In McNair v. Boyd, 14 P. R. 132, the C. A. allowed an appeal with out costs, where the case was the first which had come before the Court as to the meaning of a new Rule about which there had been much difference of opinion.

The Court cannot, except under some special statute, impose costs, Rule 1130, beyond the costs of suit, by way of penalty. The discretion as to costs, however, extends to ordering a defendant to pay half the costs, or a fixed sum in lieu of costs: Rule 1137; Wilcott v. Barbee, 17 Ch. 16, 772; Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, 344; see Cockburn v. Edwards, 18 Ch. D. 449, 459; Harrison v. McSheehan, W. N. 1885, 207; or no more costs than the verdict: Hancock v. Hale, 28 Sol. Jour. 231, where only £21 was recovered on a much larger claim; or costs as between solicitor and client (in matters of equitable jurisdiction at any rate): Andrews v. Barnes, 39 Ch. D. 133; Sandford v. Porter, 16 Ont. App. 565, 577; or to giving no costs where the action was within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Vandercaeters v. Hoctou, 9 Ont. 548; Kay v. Tighe, 18 L. R. Ir. 40; or where the defendant, who was nearly of age, had avoided the contract sued on, on the ground of infancy: Edison Co. v. Smith, 119 L. T. Jour. 106; or only such costs as would have been incurred had a less costly mode of proceeding been adopted: Hullis v. Skain, 21 Ont. 532; McPherson v. Levin, 26 Ont. 440; Re Brown, 32 Ont. 323; or to directing a solicitor to pay costs personally: Barnard v. Stoles, 37 W. R. 658; or to directing costs to be borne by an infant: Lipscomb v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575; Woolf v. Woolf, 1894, 1 Ch. 343; 79 L. T. 725; or to refusing costs to a party, though successful, whose conduct has been discreditable in respect to some matter connected with the litigation in question: Darby v. City of Toronto, 17 Ont. 554; Robinson v. Bogle, 18 Ont. 387; and see King v. Gillard, supra, p. 1340; or harsh and unreasonable: American Tobacco Co. v. Guest, 1892, 1 Ch. 630; or whose claim is trivial: Lladadno v. Woods, 1899, 2 Ch. 705; or who has made improper charges of fraud, etc., which are not sustained: Fry v. Lane, 40 Ch. D. 312; Tenute v. Walsh, 24 Ont. 309; In re Stanton, 3 Ont. 86; Stretton v. Holmes, 19 Ont. 286; Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 747; or to directing payment of the opposite party's costs of such charges: see Neale v. Winter, 9 Gr. 261; Hudgins v. McNeil, Id., 305; Watson v. Watson, 23 Gr. 70; Teucher v. Calder, 1890, A. C. 451; McKenzie v. Fielding, 11 Gr. 406; so also costs may be refused where a party otherwise misconducts himself, as by making an untruthful defence: Finlayson v. Mallard, 10 Gr. 130; or unnecessarily bringing a suit: Darling v. Wilson, 16 Gr. 255; Spring v. Cross, 3 Chy. Ch. 432; Ashworth v. Lord, 36 Ch. D. 545; Geahan v. Ross, 6 Ont. 154; Smallpiece v. Lev, 20 Sol. Jour. 61; Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 747; or trustee: Easton v. Landoe, 67 L. T. 833; or he may be ordered to pay costs: Faire v. Fane, 13 Ch. D. 228; Re Calthorn, 46 L. T. 848; W. N. 1882, 92.

But in testamentary cases, where a will set up is obtained under suspicious circumstances, a defendant setting up fraud and undue influence, may, though unsuccessful, nevertheless be entitled to costs out of the estate: see Gilbert v. Ireland, 9 O. L. R. 124; Wilson v. Russell, 1903, P. 235; 89 L. T. 786, but subsequent to the payment of the plaintiff's costs as between solicitor and client; Id., or though the plaintiff be unsuccessful the action may be dismissed without costs: Logan v. Herring, 19 P. R. 108.

Costs out of the estate have, under special circumstances, been allowed to all parties, in an action to establish a will; though fraud and undue influence were charged and not established: Gilbert v. Ireland, 9 O. L. R. 124.

In an action for the construction of a will, the costs of all parties, in the absence of misconduct, are usually ordered to be paid out of the estate of the testator under whose will the difficulty arose: construction Shortman v. Shortman, 37 L. T. 717; and see Id. as to the prin. of will.

See v. Shortman
9 O. L. R. 671.

Awarding costs out of an estate.

Costs in an action for construction of will.

Rule 1130. principles upon which costs will be allowed out of an estate where a will is disputed on the ground of undue influence, is established; but costs in an action in which an estate is interested cannot properly be ordered to be paid out of such estate unless the estate is before the Court in the litigation: Crawford v. Broddy, 18 P. R. 233.

Where money paid into Court.

Where in an action on a covenant the defendant paid money into Court and denied the breach, and a referee, to whom the issues were referred, reported that the money paid in was sufficient to satisfy the claim, it was held that the costs were in the discretion of the Court, and that the proper method of exercising it was by allowing the plaintiff his costs up to the time of payment into Court, and the defendant the costs of the action after that time: Buckton v. Hogg, 4 Ex. D. 174.

Where money is paid in with a defence denying liability, and the plaintiff fails to recover as much as is paid in, but succeeds on the issue as to liability, the plaintiff is entitled to the costs of the action up to the time of payment in, and of the issues as to liability raised by the defendant; and the defendant is entitled to his costs of action after payment in, other than the costs of the issues on which he fails: see Wagstaffe v. Bentley, 1902, 1 K. B. 124; Ridout v. Green, 87 L. T. 670; Hubbark v. British North Borneo Co., 1904, 2 K. B. 473.

Where money is paid into Court in satisfaction of a claim for damages which the plaintiff accepts in full of that claim, but proceeds to trial claiming an injunction, or other relief, which is refused with costs, and the money paid into Court is ordered to be paid to the plaintiff with costs of that claim; under such an order the general costs of the action are apportionable: Todd v. N. E. Ry. Co., 87 L. T. 740, 88 L. T. 112; 1903, W. N. 30.

But where a cause was referred by consent at a trial to the Master under the C. L. P. Act, as a matter of account, formal judgment being entered for the plaintiff, and the order of reference was silent as to costs, after an award that nothing was due to plaintiffs beyond money paid into Court, it was held that the proceedings were not "proceedings in the High Court" within this Rule, but withdrawn from it by an agreement of the parties, and, the parties having agreed to its terms, the Court could not add to it, and had no power to give costs: Wimburst v. Barrow Ship Building Co., 2 Q. B. D. 335.

Effect of the issue of a writ on right to costs.

A defendant cannot escape the costs of a writ of summons by tendering the amount sued for before service, but after the issue of the writ: O'Malley v. Killmallock, 22 L. R. Ir. 326, and see Hughes v. Austin, 1894, 1 Q. B. 637; Du Pasquier v. Cudbury, Jones & Co., 1903, 1 K. B. 194; but where no writ has been issued, it would seem that no costs of proceedings taken with a view to bringing an action are recoverable from a defendant: Holman v. Stephens, 6 Jur. N. S. 124.

Successful defendant.

Where a defendant succeeds generally he may have the costs of some of his defences on which he has not succeeded; but where he has raised a distinct issue and failed he ought not to have the costs of that issue, but should be ordered to pay them: Blank v. Footner, 39 Ch. D. 608; Reinhart v. Mentasti, 42 Ch. D. 690.

Where plaintiff recovered no more than a sum paid into Court, with a defence denying the negligence on which the action was based, it was held that, though the defendant was entitled to the general costs of the action, there was power in the discretion of the Court to give the plaintiff costs of the issue of negligence on which he had succeeded: Dunn v. S. E. & Chatham Ry. Co., 1903, 1 K. B. 358; Hubbark v. British North Borneo Co., 91 L. T. 672.

As to the costs of a guilty wife in an action for ulimony: see Rule 1130, Thompson v. Townson, 78 L. T. 54.

In particular classes of cases, where by the practice before the Costs in Jud. Act certain rules have been developed as the just mode of disposing of costs, in such cases the discretion of the Court will probably be exercised in accordance with such rules, for example, as to the costs in partnership cases: Chapman v. Newell, 14 P. R. 208; Ross v. White, 71 L. T. 277; 1884, 3 Ch. 326; but see Downey v. Roof, 4 P. R. 80.

As to the case of "third parties," see Bhore v. Ashby, 42 Ch. D. 682; 38 W. R. 141, and notes to Rule 214. Third parties

A Judge has no power to delegate his discretion to the Taxing Officer: Lambton v. Parkinson, 35 W. R. 545. Delegation of discretion.

The fact that the action was brought without first making an application to the defendant for the relief sought, was not considered sufficient to deprive plaintiff of costs: Goodhart v. Hyett, 25 Ch. D. 182; Wittman v. Oppenheim, 27 Ch. D. 260; Ruskin v. Robinson, 2 Times, 18; but see Holt v. Smith, 3 Times, 329. Action brought without notice.

For the effect on costs of a refusal of a reasonable sum tendered before suit, see The William Synnington, 10 P. D. 1.

In an action for infringement of trademark, an offer of full compliance with the plaintiff's demands was made after action commenced, but, notwithstanding this, a motion for injunction was brought on. The motion was held not unnecessary, the compromise being insufficient, and the plaintiff was held entitled to costs: Fenwick v. Day & Martin, 55 L. T. 161; see also Knickerbocker v. Ratz, 14 P. R. 30, 191; Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574; Anglo-Canadian M. P. Assn. v. Winniffrith, 15 Ont. 164; but where an action for infringement of trademark was brought against an innocent retail dealer without any previous notice, the Court, though granting an injunction, refused to order the defendant to pay costs: American Tobacco Co. v. Guest, 1892, 1 Ch. 630; 66 L. T. 257.

A Judge before whom a second trial is held, has power (subject to any restriction contained in the order granting the new trial) to order a plaintiff who recovers a nominal sum to pay the costs of both trials, even where the action is tried with a jury: Harvis v. Petherick, 4 Q. B. D. 611; see Fane v. Fane, 13 Ch. D. 228; Florence v. Mallinson, 65 L. T. 354; and where the costs of the former trial were "ordered to abide the result" of a new trial, and at the new trial the jury only gave the plaintiff nominal damages, and no order was made as to costs, it was held that he was not entitled to the costs of the former trial; the result in such a case means the result as to costs: Reutherston v. Metropolitan Dist. Ry., 1894, 1 Q. B. 666; sed vide Kousen v. Rose, infra, p. 1350.

In an action of slander, where the plaintiff only recovered $1 damages the Court refused to interfere so as to deprive the plaintiff of costs, his conduct not having been reprehensible, and the smallness of the damages being due to the defendant's condition at the time the defamatory words were spoken: Bell v. Wilson, 10 P. R. 167.

Costs of Interlocutory Applications adjourned to the Trial.—The Judges in England have laid down the following rules, Costs of viz.: that where applications are adjourned to the trial, and are not adjourned then mentioned to the Judge, the costs of such applications are to be at the trial.

Rule 1130. costs in the cause, and taxed accordingly, and need not be mentioned in the judgment: where, however, an interlocutory application has been disposed of, but the costs of it have been reserved, such costs are not to be mentioned in the judgment or order pronounced at the trial, or allowed on taxation without the special direction of the Judge: see British Natural Premium, etc., Assoon. v. Bywater, 1897, 2 Ch. 591; 77 L. T. 22. Thus where a motion by plaintiff is adjourned till the trial and no mention is made of the costs of it then, or at the trial, a judgment dismissing the action with costs carries with it the costs of the motion: Joanell v. Bishop, 38 Ch. 15, 387. See also as to costs reserved to be disposed of at the trial: Hodges v. Hodges, 25 W. R. 162; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542. In Ontario no general rule such as that referred to above has been laid down, and it would seem to be necessary that the costs of all interlocutory motions adjourned, and all interlocutory costs reserved, till the trial, should be mentioned to, and disposed of by, the Judge at the trial.

Orders disposing of interlocutory costs are not interfered with by a general award of costs at the trial: Beynon v. Godden, 4 Ex. D. 246; Walter v. Bewicke, 10 L. T. 400; and cannot be reviewed at the trial. Thus where such costs are ordered to be "costs in the cause," the Judge at the trial cannot deprive the successful party of them: Koosen v. Rose, 76 L. T. 145; 45 W. R. 337; this was a decision of the English Court of Appeal; but see contra, per Meredith, J., in Chambers, Dickerson v. Ratcliffe, 19 P. R. 223, and per Rose, J., in Muir v. Squire, Ib., 237, where it was held that the making of costs of an interlocutory motion "costs in the action" or "costs in the cause to the successful party in the action," is not a final disposition of the costs, but leaves such costs in the discretion of the Judge at the trial; and see Beotherton v. Metropolitan Dist. Ry., supra, p. 1349, where costs were ordered to abide the result, and it was held that the result referred to was the result as to costs.

In Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, where costs of an injunction had been reserved till the trial, but counsel had then omitted to ask for them, the omission was supplied on subsequent motion under Rule 640; but such a motion must be made in Court to the Judge who tried the action, the Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction: Jones v. Miller, 16 P. R. 42.

Where upon a reference by consent, but not in a cause, the costs of the reference are left in the discretion of the arbitrator, the costs of negotiating and settling terms of the submission may be taxed as "costs of the reference": Re Autothreptic, etc., Co., & Tansend & Co., 21 Q. B. D. 182.

Costs where equitable relief is claimed.

Equitable Relief.—Where the action is for relief of an equitable nature, the Rule limits the discretion of the Judge in his disposition of the costs of the action in certain cases, so that he cannot deprive a trustee, or mortgagee, or other person, of any right to costs out of a particular estate or fund to which he would be entitled according to the rules acted upon before the Ont. Jud. Act, 1881, in Courts of Equity. Where, therefore, the disposition of costs made by a Judge is not in accordance with those rules, the order as to costs is appealable. Those rules affect not only the right to payment out of a particular fund, but also the quantum of costs to be allowed, e.g., ordinary suitors are only entitled to costs as between party and party, but according to the rules in question, a suitor made a party in a fiduciary capacity and awarded costs, is in some cases entitled to them "as between solicitor and client."

A trustee, or other person in a fiduciary position, guilty of no misconduct, who is a party to an action, either as plaintiff or defendant, in his fiduciary character, is usually entitled to his costs either against the opposite party, or out of the trust estate, if it is before the Court in the litigation; Crawford v. Braddy, 18 P. R. 233. Where a settlement is set aside, see as to the trustees' costs, Dutton v. Thompson, 23 Ch. D. 278, in note to Jml. Act, supra, p. 117. Trustees who have been guilty of impropriety of conduct may be deprived of costs in the discretion of the Court; Re Hoskins's Trusts, 6 Ch. D. 281; Turner v. Hancock, 20 Ch. D. 303; Re Cabborn, Gage v. Rutland, 46 L. T. 848; W. N. 1882, 92; Re Radcliffe, Pearce v. Radcliffe, 44 L. T. 90; Re Hawkins, 16 P. R. 130; or may be ordered to pay costs: Re Chapman, 72 L. T. 66; Re Skinner, Cooper v. Skinner, 1904, 1 Ch. 289; but such an order is appealable, as the costs are not in the discretion of the Court if there was no misconduct; Re Pugh, Lucia v. Pritchard, 57 L. T. 858; In re Raynes Park Golf Club, 1890, 1 Q. B. 961. Where costs in que trustem were allowed their costs it was held on appeal that as they were improperly made parties, their costs were not in the discretion of the Court, and were disallowed; Cooper v. Fecy, 45 L. T. 532; W. N. 1882, 55.

The exception in clause (2) of the Rule applies not only to persons in a fiduciary position, but to "other persons" who, according to the rules of Courts of Equity above referred to, were entitled to be paid their costs out of any estate or fund in question; but this does not apply in favour of persons named as executors in a will unsuccessfully attempted to be established; see Parcell v. Bergin, 16 P. R. 301; nor to persons unsuccessfully claiming as next of kin against a deceased person's estate; Lamb v. Clerihand, 19 S. C. R. 78.

Where a creditor, legatee, or personal representative, takes proceedings for the administration of a deceased person's estate, he is entitled to costs out of the estate, unless there are special grounds for depriving him of them, and this rule is preserved by the present Rule, and as to such costs, controls the discretion of the Court; Farrow v. Justin, 18 Ch. D. 58; followed as to the costs of residuary legatees in Re Woodhall, Gurlutt v. Hewson, 2 Ont. 456; see also Croggan v. Allen, 22 Ch. D. 101; Johnstone v. Cox, 19 Ch. D. 17; Turner v. Hancock, 20 Ch. D. 303; Re Chevall, 8 Ch. D. 492; Re McChellan, 29 Ch. D. 495; Sandford v. Porter, 16 Ont. App. 565; and Re v. Bew, 1890, 2 Ch. 467; 81 L. T. 284; Re New Zealand Ry., 1901, 2 Ch. 357; 84 L. T. 852.

Where in an action against a trustee the Judge declared that "he did not see fit to make any order as to the costs of the action," this was held to be a declaration that the trustee was not entitled to his costs, and had no right to retain them out of the estate; Re Hodgkinson, 1895, 2 Ch. 190.

Costs of a hostile action against a trustee seeking to charge him with costs on account of misconduct were not within the old rule of Chancery, that the plaintiff in an administration suit is entitled prima facie to costs out of the fund. Such costs are in the discretion of the Court and therefore an order as to them is not appealable without leave; Williams v. Jones, 3 Ch. D. 120.

An order allowing a trustee costs of some other proceedings as against his trust estate is appealable without leave; In re Redden, 1893, 1 Ch. 547; 68 L. T. 595.

Rule 1130. The rule that a trustee's costs are payable as between solicitor and client is not confined to cases where he is brought into Court against his will: Blackley v. Ingram, 9 C. L. T. 143.

Trustees and executors are, in litigating with third persons, in the same position in regard to their liability to costs, as parties litigating in their own right: Smith v. Williamson, 13 P. R. 129; G. W. Ry. v. Jones, 15 Gr. 335; Macdonald v. Balfour, 29 Ont. App. 494. As to the right of the trustees, etc., to be recouped out of the trust estate, see supra, p. 1344.

Mortgagee. A mortgagee is entitled, as by contract, to all costs properly incurred in enforcing his security, and such costs are not in the discretion of the Court: Re Rio Grande, etc., S. S. Co., 5 Ch. D. 282; and see supra, p. 1063. See also notes to Jud. Act, sec. 72, and 29 Sup. Jour. 178, 181; but where he is a solicitor he cannot recover pro costs against the mortgagor or those claiming under him: Eyre v. Wynn-Mackenzie, 180 L. T. 822; and see supra, p. 802. A mortgagee making a wrongful claim and refusing to be redeemed, and thus occasioning the litigation, may be ordered to pay costs: Squire v. Pardoe, 60 L. T. 243. See also Queen's College v. Claxton, 25 Ont. 282; and, so also, if he is sued for a surplus in his hands after exercising a power of sale in his mortgage, if a balance is found against him he is liable to pay the costs of the action: Boulton v. Rowland, 4 Ont. 720.

A mortgagee is not disentitled to costs merely because he has bona fide claimed more than is actually found due to him: Cotterell v. Stratton, L. R. 8 Chy. 295; Dalpau v. Dagenais, 5 O. L. R. 265, nor because he has set up a right to consolidate securities which is disallowed: Stark v. Reid, 20 Ont. 257, though he may be disallowed costs occasioned by claims on which he failed; and see supra, p. 1063.

An action by a debenture holder to enforce payment of his debenture stands on the same footing as a mortgage action, and the plaintiff is not, even as against his co-debenture holders, who get the benefit of the action, entitled to costs as between solicitor and client: In re Queen's Hotel, 1880, 1 Ch. 732; except, perhaps, in the case of a deficient fund; see Re New Zealand M. Ry., 1901, 2 Ch. 377, and Mortgage Insurance Co. v. Canadian A. C. & C. Co., 1901, 2 Ch. 377.

General discretion where equitable relief granted. In cases unaffected by Rule 1130 (2) where equitable relief is sought, the costs are in the discretion of the Judge, without any restriction. It would be impossible to indicate how that discretion is exercised in all cases, but although there are some cases in which a party, though successful, may be ordered to pay costs, the general rule is that, in the absence of any misconduct on the part of the successful party, he is usually awarded his costs as against the opposite unsuccessful party; see Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89.

Where an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance by a judgment debtor failed, and the grantee and debtor appeared by the same solicitor, and the action was dismissed with costs, those of the debtor to be set off pro tanto against the judgment of the plaintiff against him, it was held that one-third of the total costs taxed should be so set off: Zoritz v. Dodge, 17 P. R. 295, following In re Colquhoun, 5 D. M. & G. 35, and Clark v. Firpo, 17 P. R. 260; Brunswick v. Sebore, 1903, 1 K. B. 282, infra, p. 1373.

As to costs in administration actions, see notes to Rule 944, p. 1187, and infra, p. 1190.

For the mode of taxation of costs, where an action is dismissed, and the defendant appearing by the same solicitor was dismissed, with costs, and judgment was given for the plaintiff against the other, with costs, see Clarke v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260.

As to costs of witnesses where plaintiff was ordered to pay the costs of the defendants so much of the costs as were occasioned by a particular contention, see Lockard v. Waugh, 17 P. R. 269.

Costs where Success divided on Several Issues:

In jury cases the observations following are in regard to the cases where the costs follow the "event," i.e., where the judge has not otherwise ordered.

Where the "event" is the result of a single issue, no difficulty occurs in the application of the Rule. It is where there are several issues, or there is a counter-claim, that difficulty arises.

Where there are several issues, and neither plaintiff nor defendant is wholly successful, the question arises, what the "event" is which the costs are to follow. It has been held that the word "event" in this Rule is complex, and must be read distributively as regards distinct causes of action. The general costs of the cause follow the judgment, but the costs of the particular issues must be respectively taxed in favour of the party who has succeeded on them; Myers v. Defries, 4 Ex. D. at p. 189; Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 509; in which the previous case of Staples v. Young, 2 Ex. D. 324, was not approved of; see also Ellis v. Doolan, 6 Q. B. D. 521; Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; Lund v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821; Haicke v. Brear, ib., 841; Goutard v. Carr, 13 Q. B. D. 598 n; Ahrbecker v. Frost, 17 Q. B. D. 606; Bertram v. Massey Mfg. Co., 13 P. R. 184; Crepeau v. Pacaud, 35 C. L. J. 114.

In each issue the "event" is the result of all the proceedings incidental to the litigation, and the costs which follow the event include the costs of all the stages of that litigation; and therefore where a new trial was had and the plaintiff on the second trial recovered a verdict, he was held entitled to the costs of the first trial as part of the costs of the action; Fild v. Great Northern Ry., 3 Ex. D. 261; Green v. Wright, 2 C. P. D. 354; Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; Right v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 386. So where at the first trial the jury disagreed; Copeland v. Blenheim, 11 P. R. 54.

Where a plaintiff recovered a less sum than an amount paid into Court by the defendants for the sake of peace, the defendants, though held entitled to the general costs of the action, were nevertheless ordered to pay the costs of an issue as to which they had failed; Hubback v. British North Borneo Co., 91 L. T. 672.

In Abbott v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 648, where the plaintiff succeeded on some issues but was non-suited on others, no order being made as to costs, the defendant was held entitled to costs of issues on which the plaintiff was non-suited, and the plaintiff to the other costs, including the general costs of the cause.

Where two defendants are jointly represented by the same solicitor, and costs are awarded in favour of one defendant and against the other, the successful defendant, in the absence of any agreement between him and his co-defendant, as to how their costs are to be borne inter se, is entitled to recover from the plaintiff half the costs of the defence; Beaumont v. Senior, 1903, 1 K. B. 282; and see Zavitz v. Dodge, and other cases, supra, p. 1352.

Rule 1130. Where the plaintiff's claim is against two defendants in the alternative, he may be ordered to add the costs of the defendant as to whom he fails to his own, and get them over against the defendant as to whom he succeeds: see Sanderson v. Blyth Theatre Co., 1903, 2 K. B. 533; 89 L. T. 159.

Where a judgment is ambiguous as to costs, application should be made to the Judge who pronounced it, to correct the ambiguity. It is not proper to bring the matter up on an appeal from the taxing officer: Abbott v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 648; Sparrow v. Hill, 8 Q. B. D. 479, may also be referred to, though in that case the Judge made an order as to costs, and the question was the right interpretation of it. There the plaintiff succeeded on three heads of his claim, and was awarded costs in respect of the amounts recovered, and the defendant was given costs in respect of the rest. Therefore the plaintiff was held entitled to the general costs of the cause excepting those which related to the issues on which he had failed, and the defendant was given his costs of the latter issues; and see: Davis v. Huol, 4 O. L. R. 466.

Cases of
claims.

Counter-claims.—In cases where there are counter-claims most difficulty has occurred in jury cases where costs follow the event under Rule 1130 (3), or in any case where an order is made which has the same practical effect as to costs, e.g., giving costs simply to the party successful on the counter-claim.

Strictly speaking a counter-claim is a claim which a defendant prior to the Judicature Act could only have set up by cross-action, or by a claim for cross-relief: see Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 162, 201.

There is a distinction between cases where a defendant sets up a counter-claim in the nature of a set-off of a debt or liquidated claim, and a counter-claim for unliquidated damages.

Under the present Rule 251 both kinds of claims may be presented by the defendant in the pleading called a counter-claim: see Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 151; but a true set-off does not lose its real character by being pleaded as a counter-claim: Ryan v. Fraser, 16 L. R. Ir. 253; Cutler v. Morse, 12 P. R. 594; Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 149; Sanderson v. Ishfield, 13 P. R. 230; and the costs are taxable on the same principles as they would have been taxed in like case before the Jud. Act: Cutler v. Morse, supra; see also Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 396; Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 162, 201.

In Boecker v. Kesteren, 47 L. T. 545, the plaintiff claimed £49 17s., the defendant admitted the claim, and counter-claimed for £75; judgment was for the plaintiff on the claim admitted and costs, and for the defendant for £40 and costs. It was held that the plaintiff was entitled to costs up to and including the statement of defence, and the defendant to costs after that time: see also O'Riordan v. Kella, 16 L. R. Ir. 263.

For the purposes of taxation a counter-claim properly so called is now to be treated as a cross action, and the costs thereof may be taxed separately from those of the action: Emerson v. Garin, 12 P. R. 330; Shropnel v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334; Amos v. Bobbett, 22 Q. B. D. 543; Ontario Forge & Bolt Co. v. Comet Cycle Co., 17 P. R. 156; Haggart v. Brampton, 17 P. R. 477; but a defence which is not strictly speaking a counter-claim cannot acquire that character merely because the plaintiff or defendant so calls it: Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 162, 201.

Where there is a counter-claim in respect of matters which could Rule 1130. not be pleaded as a set-off, and the defendant recovers on his counter-claim a sum exceeding that which the plaintiff recovers on his claim, the claim and counter-claim having, for purposes of taxation, to be treated as independent actions, the costs in each should be taxed in favour of the successful party, as if he had wholly succeeded in the action, subject to a deduction in respect of the costs of any issues on which he has not succeeded: Shrimnell v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334; Summerfeldt v. Johnston, 17 P. R. 6; but "common items," that is items common to the defence and the counter-claim, should not be allowed to the defendant: Haggart v. Brampton, 17 P. R. 477. It is immaterial, for purposes of taxation, whether the form of the judgment be for recovery by each party of the amount found due to him, or by plaintiff or defendant for the balance in his favour: Ib.

In the case of a true counter-claim the plaintiff cannot foresee that the defendant will set up the counter-claim, but may prefer to bring a cross-action, while in the case of a set-off, he must know of the existence of the claim and should give credit for it, if good: see Heritage v. Ford, 71 L. T. Jour. 313; Stooke v. Taylor, infra.

Therefore where the plaintiff establishes his claim and the defendant a set-off of an equal or greater amount, the defendant has succeeded and the plaintiff failed, and the defendant is therefore entitled to costs of the action: Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 576; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 794; Heritage v. Ford, supra.

On the other hand, where the plaintiff establishes a claim, and the defendant establishes a counter-claim in the nature of a cross-action, i.e., both claim and counter-claim are successful, the plaintiff is entitled to the costs of the action (without any apportionment of charges common to both claim and counter-claim), and the defendant to such costs only as are properly attributable to the counter-claim: Re Brown, Ward v. Morse, 23 Ch. D. 377; Stooke v. Taylor, supra; Gray v. Davidson, 5 Ex. D. 189; Ellis v. Desilva, 6 Q. B. D. 521; Ontario Forge, etc., v. Condit, etc., 17 P. R. 156. This gives the general costs of the action not to the party recovering the most, nor to the party to whom the litigation is on the whole favourable, but to the plaintiff: Baines v. Bromley, supra; Pearson v. Riphy, 32 W. R. 463; 50 L. T. 629 (because his costs are those of the action), whether the balance is in favour of the plaintiff: Haffinan v. Price, 41 L. T. 627; 27 W. R. 490; or of the defendant: Re Brown, Ward v. Morse, supra. See also Waring v. Pearson, 32 W. R. 429; 50 L. T. 633; and Coughlin v. Hollingsworth, 5 Ont. 207, where costs were directed to be taxed upon this principle and judgment was directed to be entered for the party in whose favour the balance should be found.

Similarly, where the claim and counter-claim are both dismissed, the plaintiff is to pay the defendant the general costs of the action, as if no counter-claim had been put in, and the defendant has only to pay the sum by which the costs have been increased by the counter-claim: Sauer v. Bilton, 11 Ch. D. 411; Mason v. Brentini, 15 Ch. D. 287. No part of the general costs of the action are chargeable against the defendant: Ib., and Athos, etc., Co. v. Miller, 1898, 2 Q. B. 500; 79 L. T. 5.

Where the claim was dismissed without costs, and the counter-claim with costs, the Judge ordered defendant to pay half plaintiff's costs, as a convenient mode of settling the matter: Wilmoth v. Barber, 15 Ch. D. 96; 17 Ch. D. 774.

Rule 1130. Where the Judge gave the plaintiff the costs of the action, and the defendant the costs of his counter-claim, it was held that the taxing officer could not tax costs to the plaintiff only up to the defence which admitted his claim: Finska v. Brown, W. N. 1891, 87.

In Chatfield v. Sedgwick, 4 C. P. D. 459, the plaintiff claimed a sum exceeding £50. The defendant pleaded a set-off, and also made a counter-claim for goods to the amount of about £24. The action was referred to a Master, costs to abide the event. The Master certified that there was due to the plaintiff on the claim £16, and to the defendant on the counter-claim £23, and that the balance due to the defendant was £7. It was held that defendant was entitled to his costs, as the question was, taking claim and counter-claim together, which was creditor and which was debtor, and, the finding being in favour of the defendant, that was the event which the costs were to follow. The reasons for this decision are dissented from by Cockburn, C.J., in Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 582, though the decision itself is approved of, as being in accordance with the principles previously above mentioned, not because the defendant succeeded, but because the plaintiff failed as to costs, not having recovered £20, so as to be entitled to costs under the County Court Act. See also Lowe v. Hobac, 10 Q. B. D. 280; Ryan v. Fraser, 10 L. R. Ir. 253.

Where, in an arbitration, costs were to follow the "event," and the defendant recovered more on his counter-claim than the plaintiff, it was held that the defendant was entitled to the general costs and the plaintiff to costs of the issue on which he succeeded: Tand v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821, where Baines v. Bromby, is explained. Hawke v. Brear, Ib., 841; see also Ahrbecker v. Frost, 17 Q. B. D. 606.

Where the plaintiffs claimed £304 17s. 9d., and the defendants set up a counter-claim for £480, and the arbitrator to whom the matter was referred found in favour of the plaintiffs for £371, and in favour of the defendants for £375, the Court, on appeal from the District Registrar, who had given the costs of the cause to the defendants, ordered "the costs of, and relating to the plaintiff's claim, and the proof thereof to be paid by the defendants, and the costs of, and relating to the defendants' counter-claim, and the proof thereof, to be paid by the plaintiffs": Cole, Marchant & Co. v. Firth, 4 Ex. D. 301, 40 L. T. 851.

Assessment of damages.

The costs of an action in which judgment is signed in default of defence, and the damages are assessed by a jury, do not follow the event, but are in the discretion of the Judge, there having been no trial with a jury: Guth v. Howarth, 28 Sol. Jour. 427; W. N. 1884, 19; see Rules 1130 (3), and 1131.

The Judge at the trial has the same discretion as to the costs in actions tried by a jury as in those tried without a jury.

Recommendation of jury.

The recommendation of the jury that each party should pay his own costs was not considered; and affidavits by some of the jurymen that they would not have acquiesced in a verdict for defendant if they had supposed the result would be to throw all the costs on the plaintiff, were held inadmissible: Fargahar v. Robertson, 13 P. R. 176; Wentzer v. Sawyer, 16 Ont. App. 422.

Some of the cases decided under the former Rules (repealed in 1893) may still be usefully consulted as showing circumstances when were formerly considered "good cause" for making the costs not follow the event, and may now furnish the Judge who tries the case with reasons for similarly disposing of the costs in the exercise of his discretion. See H. & L. Jud. Act, 1st ed., pp. 897, 898; 2nd ed., pp. Rule 1130, 1259, 1260.

As to the power of the Judge at the trial to direct a set-off without regard to any claim of lien on the part of the solicitors, see Blumenfeld v. Edwards, 5 O. W. R. 796, in notes to Rule 253, p. 475, and in notes to Rule 1165.

Appeals Respecting Costs.—This Rule combined with s. 72 of Appeals in the Act has the effect, that (except in the case of trustees, mortgagees, etc.; see Farrow v. Austin, and other cases cited, supra, p. 1351; and where the Judge has proceeded on a wrong principle; Young v. Thomas, 1892, 2 Ch., per Lindley, L.J., at p. 137; McCausland v. Quebec F. Ins. Co., 25 Ont. 330), no appeal in respect of costs will be allowed, without leave, since s. 72 prohibits appeals, except by leave of the Court or Judge appealed from, in respect of costs, which are by law left to the discretion of the Court; Mitchell v. Laudman, 14 Ont. App. 517 (where, on an appeal by leave, the decision was reversed).

An appeal lies to a Divisional Court respecting the award of costs at a trial, where the Judge at the trial proceeded on an erroneous principle; McCausland v. Quebec Fire Ins. Co., 25 Ont. 330; and see Re Bradford, infra; or where the costs are in fact in his discretion, but he acts on the assumption that his discretion is excluded; Roe v. Roe, 1899, 2 Ch. 467; 81 L. T. 284; also see King v. Gillard, and Cord Service Co-operative Socy. v. General Steam Navigation Co., supra, p. 1346.

Where the costs of an action referred to a Referee for trial are in his discretion, it is held in England that there is no appeal from his disposition thereof; Minister v. Apperly, 1902, 1 K. B. 643; but in Ontario on a motion for judgment in accordance with the Referee's report, it would appear to be open to the Judge to adopt or reject or vary the Referee's decision as to costs; and the Referee's decision as to costs, as well as to any other matter involved in the reference, would appear to be subject to appeal; see Rule 653.

Even though leave to appeal has been given, the appellate Court will not review the exercise of his discretion by the Judge; per Lindley, L.J., Young v. Thomas, 1892, 2 Ch., p. 136; and the Court will not on appeal interfere with the discretion exercised by a judicial officer as to costs of proceedings before him, unless there is error of law or fact; Campbell v. Wheeler, 17 P. R. 289.

Orders have therefore been held unappealable in respect of costs of inspection of a mine allowed under Rule 1006; Mitchell v. Darby Main Colliery Co., 10 Q. B. D. 457; costs directed to be paid to a defendant by a co-defendant though there was no issue between them; Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417; see also Rudac v. Great Britain Assurance Co., 17 Ch. D. 600; costs directed to be paid by defendant and given over against a third party; Hornby v. Caidrell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; and costs dealt with before the trial and directed to be borne by one party "in any event"; Ficary v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 168. See other cases in notes to section 72 of the Jud. Act, supra, pp. 129-129.

Costs are not in the discretion of the Court, and are therefore the proper subject of an appeal where they come within the exceptional cases in clause (2) of this Rule.

See also notes to sec. 72, and Bazett v. Morgan, 24 Q. B. D. 28; Harpham v. Shacklock, 19 Ch. D. 207.

Rules
1131, 1132

Where one of several plaintiffs fails.

1131 Where several plaintiffs have been joined, and some or one of them only have or has been found entitled to relief, the defendant, though unsuccessful, shall be entitled to his costs occasioned by so joining any person who has not been found entitled to relief, unless the Court in disposing of the costs of the action otherwise orders. Con. Rule 1171. See also Rule 185.

Same in effect as Eng. (1883) R. 123, which was taken from s. 19 of the C. L. P. Act of 1852; see Day's C. L. P. Act.

See also Rule 185 and notes.

Where in an action brought by two plaintiffs on separate causes of action, judgment was in favour of the defendants against one plaintiff and in favour of the other plaintiff against the defendants; and the costs were ordered to abide the event of the action, it was held that the defendants were entitled to the costs occasioned by joining the unsuccessful plaintiff, and that the successful plaintiff was entitled to the general costs of the action: Gort v. Rocewy, 17 Q. B. D. 625.

Where the plaintiff succeeds against one defendant and fails against another, the costs which the plaintiff has to pay to the successful defendant cannot, without special direction, be recovered by the plaintiff from the unsuccessful defendant: Child v. Stenning, 7 Ch. D. 413; 11 Ch. D. 82.

In Superior Court actions brought in High Courts.

1132 Where an action of the proper competence of a County Court is brought in the High Court, or an action of the proper competence of a Division Court is brought in the High Court, or in a County Court, (a) and the Judge makes no order to the contrary, the plaintiff shall recover only County Court costs, or Division Court costs, as the case may be, and the defendant shall be entitled to tax his costs of suit as between solicitor and client, and so much thereof as exceeds the taxable costs of defence which would have been incurred in the County Court or Division Court, shall, on entering judgment, be set off and allowed by the Taxing Officer against the plaintiff's County Court or Division Court costs to be taxed, or against the costs to be taxed, and the amount of the verdict if it be necessary; and if the amount of costs so set off exceeds the amount of the plaintiff's verdict and taxed costs, the defendant shall be entitled to execution for the excess against the plaintiff. Con. Rule 1172; Rules 4 November, 1893, 1215.

See corresponding Eng. R.

At one time former Rule 1172 had a proviso that if the plaintiff's costs are not confined to cases of a jury.

The Rule to some extent revives the practice prescribed by R. S. Rule 1132, O. 1877, c. 50, s. 347.

"Tax his costs of suit."—These words in the 7th and 8th lines mean costs on the scale of the Court in which the action is brought.

The words "taxable costs of defence" referred to in the 10th line of the Rule, do not mean costs as between solicitor and client: Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274.

The Rule only applies where the Judge "makes no order to the contrary," but an order for payment of costs simpliciter does not preclude an inquiry as to the scale properly applicable: Re Forster, 18 P. R. 65.

The commencement of the action is the point of time at which the amount of the plaintiff's claim, for the purpose of determining the scale of costs, is determined. Payments pendente lite do not affect the question. Thus, where the amount of the plaintiff's claim is reduced to a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court by payment under garnishee proceedings against the defendant, made after action brought, though the attaching order was made before, such payment does not affect the question of jurisdiction so far as costs are concerned: Pickard v. Tins, 19 P. R. 109.

Though a plaintiff may only be able to recover from the defendant costs on an inferior Court scale under this Rule, yet he may be liable to his solicitor for costs on the High Court scale, if the latter had reasonable ground for thinking the action could not be brought in the inferior Court: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

It does not apply where the plaintiff takes money out of Court under Rule 423, in which case he is entitled to costs on the High Court scale, though the amount accepted be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, and a Judge has no jurisdiction to make any other order: Babcock v. Standish, 19 P. R. 195; McKelvey v. Chilcote, 5 O. L. R. 263.

A judgment awarding "costs" in the High Court, whether made by consent or otherwise, does not, since this Rule, carry costs on the High Court scale unless the case is one which could not have been brought in an inferior Court: see Brown v. Rose, 14 P. R. 3; and Stokk v. Stokk, 11 O. L. T. 332; and interlocutory orders awarding costs in any event of the action will carry costs according to the scale upon which the costs of the action when awarded at the trial are taxable: Blake v. Toronto Brewing & Malting Co., 8 O. L. T. 123.

Before this Rule, in a jury case, unless the Judge made an order as to costs, the plaintiff, if he recovered anything, was entitled to costs of the Court in which the action was brought, "the event," which the costs were, under former Rule 1170, to follow, being in his favour: see Parsons v. Talling, 2 C. P. D. 119; McFarrey v. Strathroy, 11 P. R. 87; Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412, following Garnett v. Brindley, 3 App. Cas. 944. The principle of these cases may still apply in all actions where a trifling amount is recovered, but the action could not have been brought in an inferior Court: it will also apply to give to the successful party all costs which are "costs in the cause," and so depending upon the event unless the Judge otherwise orders: see Copeland v. Blechman, 11 P. R. 74, where the costs of a trial in which the jury disagreed were held to be taxable to the successful party.

Now, however, since this Rule "the event" in Rule 1130 etc., includes amongst other things the scale on which costs may be taxable Rule 1132. See also Hyde v. Beardsley, 18 Q. B. D. 244; Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44. The scale on which the plaintiff's costs will be taxable, if no order is made by the Judge, will be that of the lowest Court in which the action was capable of being brought, and the defendant will have the right to set-off the extra costs incurred by him as in the Rule mentioned: see Irland v. Pitcher, 11 P. R. 403.

The interest which a verdict or judgment bears under Jud. Act, s. 88, is no part of the claim, and therefore is not to be considered in determining the question of scale: Sprule v. Wilson, 15 P. R. 349.

For the purposes of the scale on which costs are to be taxed the claim and counter-claim are to be treated as separate actions: see Amon v. Bobbett, 22 Q. B. D. 543, where a plaintiff recovering on his claim an amount within the jurisdiction of a County Court recovered costs on that footing, but succeeding on the defendant's counter-claim to an amount within the High Court jurisdiction he recovered costs of his defence to the counter-claim on the High Court scale.

Where the defendant recovers on a counter-claim, the costs should be on the scale of the Court in which the action is brought by the plaintiff, unless the Judge makes a different order; the fact that the recovery is for a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court was formerly not considered "good cause" for such an order: Fisher v. Viegcl, 13 P. R. 133.

Where on the dismissal of an action with costs, a defendant claims that the costs should be taxed on the High Court scale, if the matter is in doubt, it is proper practice to obtain a direction of a Judge as to the scale of costs before they are taxed: Dominion Bank v. Hoffmann, 11 P. R. 501; but the taxing officer is to tax according to the lower scale wherever it is applicable without any express direction: see Brough v. Brautford, 25 Gr. 43.

Where only C. C. costs are awarded at the trial to the plaintiff, and the defendant appeals to a Divisional Court, and his appeal is dismissed with costs, such costs are prima facie taxable on the H. C. scale: Holmes v. Bready, 18 P. R. 79.

Jurisdiction of County Courts:

The jurisdiction of the County Courts is defined in R. S. O. c. 75, ss. 22-29.

Sections 22 and 23 are as follows:—

Matters not to be within jurisdiction of County Courts.

22. Except in the cases of actions in which, by section 27 of this Act, or by any other Act, jurisdiction is conferred upon County Courts, or a Judge thereof, the said Courts shall not have cognizance of any action:

1. In which the title to land of a greater value than $2000 is brought in question; or

2. In which the validity of any devise, bequest or limitation, exceeding $200, under any will or settlement, is disputed, or where the assets of the estate or fund out of which the amount in question is payable exceeds $1,000; or

3. For libel and slander; or

4. For criminal conversation or seduction; or

5. Against a Justice of the Peace for anything done by him in the execution of his office, if he objects thereto. 70 V. c. 19, s. 1.

23. Subject to the exceptions contained in the last preceding section, the County Courts shall have jurisdiction:

1. In all personal actions where the debt or damages claimed do not exceed the sum of $200; Jurisdiction allowed.

2. In all causes and actions relating to debt, covenant and contract, to $600, where the amount is liquidated or ascertained [as being due] by the act of the parties or by the signature of the defendant: (as amended by 4 Ed. vii. c. 10, s. 10)

3. To any amount on bail-bonds given to a Sheriff in any case in a County Court, whatever may be the penalty;

4. On recognizances of bail taken in a County Court, whatever may be the amount recovered or for which the bail therein may be liable;

5. In actions of replevin where the value of the goods, or Key, Stat. other property or effects distrained, taken or detained, does not exceed the sum of $200, as provided in The Replevin Act; 56

6. In interpleader matters, as provided by the Rules respecting Interpleader: R. S. O. 1887, c. 47, s. 10; 50 V. c. 10, s. 2.

7. In any cause or action relating to debt, covenant and contract, where the amount is liquidated or ascertained by the act of the parties, or by the signature of the defendant, when the plaintiff and defendant, before the issue of the writ, agree by memorandum in writing signed by them, and filed upon the application for the writ, that the Court shall have power to try the action; actions for liquidated damages

8. In actions for the recovery of, or for trespass or injury to land, where the value of the land does not exceed $200; Recovery of land.

9. In actions by persons entitled to and seeking an account of the dealings and transactions of a partnership, the joint stock or capital not having been over $1,000, whether such account is sought by claim or counter-claim; Partnership accounts.

10. In actions by a legatee under the will of any deceased person, such legatee, seeking payment or delivery of his legacy not exceeding $200 in amount or value out of such deceased person's estate not exceeding $1,000; Legacy.

11. In actions by a legal or equitable mortgagee, whose mortgage has been created by some instrument in writing, or a judgment creditor, or a person entitled to a lien or security for a debt, seeking foreclosure or sale, or otherwise, to enforce his security, where the sum claimed as due does not exceed $200; A lien on mortgages.

12. In actions by a person entitled to redeem any legal or equitable mortgage, or any charge or lien, and seeking to redeem the same, where the sum actually remaining due does not exceed $200; A lien on redemption.

13. In actions by any person seeking equitable relief in respect of any matter whatsoever, where the subject-matter involved does not exceed $200; Equitable relief.

14. In any action or contestation to establish the right of a creditor to rank upon an insolvent estate, where the amount of such claim does not exceed $400; Ranking of creditor on insolvent estate. 50 V. c. 10, s. 3.

Rule 1132. The effect of these sections, generally speaking, is that the jurisdiction of a County Court is ousted, and (where no special order as to costs is made) costs are therefore payable on the High Court scale in the case of:—

(1) Particular classes of actions, e.g., libel, slander, crim. con., etc.; see, 22.

(2) Actions where land in question exceeding in value £200; see 22 (1); see, 23 (8); see, 27.

(3) Actions where the amount of the debt or damages claimed above a certain amount; see, 23.

(4) Actions for equitable relief not falling within sec. 23 (3) (1).

(1) Particular Classes of Actions.—The Rule cannot be applied in such actions as are not within the proper competence of a County or Division Court. In an action of libel which cannot be brought in those Courts, if the plaintiff recovers anything, costs, on the High Court scale, follow, unless the Judge orders otherwise. See Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412; Wellbanks v. Canger (20, 12 P. R. 447; and semble, the Court should not look behind the finding of the jury and deprive the plaintiff of costs on the ground that he was not really entitled to recover. Ib.; and see Wright v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. 10 at p. 398.

Formerly a County Court had no jurisdiction to entertain an action asking for a declaration or right to rank on an insolvent estate in lb. R. S. O. c. 147, s. 22; Whidden v. Jackson, 18 Ont. App. 439. Such an action is not for equitable relief, but is for a newly defined remedy under the statute. Ib. Limited jurisdiction in such a case is now given by the above sec. 23 (4).

(2) Title to Land in Question.—Where the title to land is so in question as to oust the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court under R. S. O. c. 55, s. 22 or 27, or R. S. O. c. 160, s. 71, though the amount recovered be within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court, the plaintiff is entitled to costs on the High Court scale. Worron v. Brady, 12 P. R. 618; Dunaher v. Little, 13 P. R. 361; Whitwell v. Beece, 9 O. L. R. 182.

Neither an action for use and occupation; see Re Cranford v. See, 17 Ont. 74, nor an action for trespass to land, nor for breach of covenant in a farm lease (see Talbot v. Poole, infra), necessarily brings in question the title to land, so as to oust the jurisdiction of the County or Division Court. Bayley v. Bleecker, 5 C. L. J. 160; Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292; see Graham v. Spettigue, 12 Ont. App. 291; McNeil v. Haines, 13 P. R. 115; Talbot v. Poole, 17 P. R. 99.

The pleadings only should be looked at to see what is in question in the action: Bruen v. Huse, 14 P. R. 3.

Where the plaintiff's title is denied on the pleadings, and he is required at the trial to prove it, the title to land is brought in question. Worron v. Brady, supra; Dunaher v. Little, supra; Flett v. Ben, 11 P. R. 312; Tomkins v. Jones, 22 Q. B. 1, 593. A defendant having by his defence contested the plaintiff's title cannot, by obtaining at the trial leave to withdraw it, escape liability for costs on the High Court scale. Black v. Wheeler, 7 O. L. R. 745.

(3) Claims for Debt, Damages, etc.—The County Court has Rule 1132, jurisdiction to investigate mortgages and claims of suitors, however large, provided the amount sought to be recovered does not exceed the sum prescribed by the Act; Brant v. White, 13 P. R. 149; where, therefore, a plaintiff claimed $1,972 as a balance on transactions comprehending more than $1,000, and defendant counter-claimed for $13,255.74, it was held that the plaintiff was only entitled to costs on the County Court scale; Id.; and see Thompson v. Pearson, 18 P. R. 308, 420; Knox v. Chandler, 19 P. R. 161. So also it has been held that a County Court has jurisdiction to try any number of unliquidated causes of action in debt, covenant and contract, so long as each does not exceed $200, and the aggregate does not exceed $400; McLaughlin v. Schaefer, 13 Ont. App. 253.

As to what are liquidated claims, or claims ascertained by the signature of the party, see Kecutiger v. Broag, 32 Ont. App. 608, following Kinsey v. Roche, 8 P. R. 515; McDonald v. McDonald, 15 Ont. App. 287; but see contra, Re Guthrie v. Tamlivora, 12 P. R. 337; Thompson v. Pearson, 18 P. R. 308, 420; Ostram v. Buchanan, 42, 21 Ont. App. 467; McCormick H. M. Co. v. Warden, 34, 1. R. 425.

Even before the equitable jurisdiction was restored to the County Courts, it was held that a County Court has jurisdiction in an action by a partner against his copartners for a purely money demand, though it may be only the taking of the partnership accounts, where the amount of the claim does not exceed the ordinary jurisdiction of the County Court to entertain; Allen v. Fairfar Cheese Co., 21 Ont. App. 268.

Where different sums are recovered against different defendants, and as to one of them the amount is within the County Court jurisdiction, that defendant is only liable for costs on the County Court scale, though the amount recovered against other defendants is beyond the County Court jurisdiction; Duborg v. Buxton, 1901, 2 L. R. 23.

A County Court has no jurisdiction to entertain an action for more than $200, on a guaranty, in general terms, for the payment of the price of goods, there being no liquidation or ascertaining of the debt binding on the guarantor; Thomson v. Eede, 22 Ont. App. 107.

The plaintiff sued for $228.20, the balance of a claim for $1,828.20 worth of butter at 22c. per lb., on which $1,000 had been paid, and obtained a verdict for $228.20. It was held that the amount was liquidated by the act of the parties within R. S. O. 1877, c. 43, s. 19 (2); and the plaintiff was entitled to County Court costs only; Burton v. McLean, 10 P. R. 295; and see Lawell v. Phillips, 5 O. L. R. 235. Where the suit was to recover $272.03, the return of moneys received by defendant belonging to plaintiff, being the proceeds from sales of goods in plaintiff's shop as follows—etc., it was held that the sum was not so ascertained, and the action was not within the jurisdiction of a County Court; Roth v. Murray, 10 Ont. App. 293; so also an unliquidated claim for work and labour and materials to the amount of $197.01, and $11.54 for interest, was held not to be within the jurisdiction of a County Court; Haleck v. Lane, 15 P. R. 75; and a sale according to a price list was held not to make the claim a liquidated one; Lucas v. Chandler, 19 P. R. 160; nor a claim for commission on the sale of land; Re McKee v. Martin, 21 Ont. App. 164.

Where an action was brought to recover damages for wrongfully refusing to deliver up, pursuant to a contract, to that effect, a com-

Rule 1132. promissory note for $800 to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff recovered $841 the amount of the note and interest, it was held that the action was within the jurisdiction of the County Court; Johanson v. Keopon, 14 P. R. 24; but see Plummer v. Caldwell, supra, p. 1305.

A County Court, however, has no jurisdiction to give a judgment for an amount within its jurisdiction, when it is arrived at by any settlement, or statement of account between the parties, there being the balance due upon a disputed account, the total amount which was beyond the jurisdiction of the Court; Sherrard v. O'Connell, 17 Ont. 30.

Cases sometimes arise in which it is somewhat difficult to determine whether an action is founded on tort or contract. It has been held that a claim by a passenger against a railway company for damages for injuries occasioned by the misfeasance of one of its servants is an action of tort; Taylor v. Manchester & S. Ry., 1895, 1 Q. B. 134; 71 L. T. 500; Kelly v. Metropolitan Ry., 72 L. T. 751; so also a claim for damages for negligence in taking care of a horse under a contract for agistment; Turner v. Stallibrass, 1898, 1 Q. B. 76; 71 L. T. 482; and a claim by a lessee against the lessor for removing fixtures after the agreement to lease; Sachs v. Henderson, 1902, 1 K. R. 612; 86 L. T. 437.

Where a plaintiff sued on a bond for $500 for security for costs, alleging as a breach the non-payment of $118.55, for which he recovered judgment, he was held entitled to H. C. costs, as the amount recovered was not ascertained by the signature of defendant within R. S. O. c. 55, and therefore the action could not have been brought in the County Court; Hager v. Jackson, 16 P. R. 485.

(4) Equitable Relief.—The equitable jurisdiction of the County Courts, which was abolished by The Law Reform Act, 1868, has been restored; see R. S. O. c. 55, s. 23 (9-14), and see also Id., s. 28.

Below will be found cases held out to be within such equitable jurisdiction, and in which, therefore, this Rule would seem not to apply.

Mortgage action.

Where the amount due plaintiff as mortgagee is less than $200, or there is a subsequent incumbrancer to whom more than that sum is due; Hynan v. Roots, 11 Gr. 202; Scath v. McIlroy, 2 Chy. Ch. 93; see also Mitchell v. Martin, 2 C. L. J. 249.

Where mortgagees after exercise of a power of sale claimed that $182.61 was due them, but on accounts being taken $20.07 was found due to the mortgagor, it was held that costs awarded the mortgagees were properly taxable on the higher scale, as $182.61 plus $20.07 was involved; Morton v. Hamilton Prov. & L. Socy., 10 P. R. 626, affirmed by the Divisional Court, 11 P. R. 82.

"Subject matter involved."

On a bill filed by a mortgagor for an account, where the mortgagee had exercised his power of sale and realized $370, and on taking the account only $130 was found due to the plaintiff, it was held that "the subject matter involved" was the $350, and the plaintiff was therefore entitled to costs, on the higher scale; McGillivuddy v. Griffin, 20 Gr. 81; Boulton v. Rowland, 4 Ont. 720; Re Lyons, 10 P. R. 150; 20 C. L. J. 33; Morton v. Hamilton Provident L. Society, 11 P. R. 82; but see Legare v. Canada Loan & Bk. Co., 11 P. R. 512; Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 747; Reddick v. Traders' Bank, 22 O. R. 449; and where, besides a money demand within the jurisdiction of the County Court, the plaintiff claimed an injunction, and to have fences erected and maintained, the costs were allowed on the high.

senior, Brough v. Brantford, 25 Gr. 43; and see Helbach v. Barbours, Rule 1132 and Loan Assoc., 11 P. R. 161; but these cases were decided before the County Courts had jurisdiction to grant injunctions under R. 8, 11, c. 75, s. 37 (1870), and s. 28; and see Fitchett v. Mather, 18 P. R. 161.

An action to restrain the negotiation of a note for $2200, and to injunction compel its delivery up to the plaintiff, was formerly, and would seem to be still, beyond the jurisdiction of a P. C.; Plantance v. Caldwell, 15 P. R. 144; but see Johnson v. Adams, supra, p. 1341.

An action for an injunction to restrain a sale under a distress under the distress clause in a mortgage for $2200, by which goods to the value of $112.55 had been distrained, and for damages, was held not to be within the former equitable jurisdiction of a P. C.; Welford v. Building & Loan Assoc., 11 P. R. 161; sed quæd., see R. 8, c. 55, s. 23 (1870), supra.

Since The Creditor's Relief Act, where in an action by a judgment creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, the claims of all execution creditors together exceed $200, the action is not within the jurisdiction of a County Court, and the Rule does not apply; Trinidad Bank v. Hefferman, 11 P. R. 504; but if there is but one judgment creditor and to him less than $200 is due, the Rule applies, no matter what may be the value of the property fraudulently conveyed; Parrott v. Lupton, 18 Gr. 411; McKay v. Magee, 13 P. R. 106, 116; Thomson v. Stone, 4 O. L. R. 333, 385.

So also in an action by simple contract creditors whose claims amount to $200, to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, there being execution creditors to the amount of $200, and the land being worth more than $200, the County Court would not appear to have jurisdiction; Morphy v. Farley, 18 P. R. 24.

In a suit by a purchaser for specific performance of a contract for the sale of land for a sum under $150, where before suit the plaintiff had entered and improved the land and increased its value to more than $200, it was held that "the subject matter involved" was over $200, and higher scale costs were allowed; Keane v. Brown, 6 P. R. 318; and see Rex v. Judge Witherscue, 1904, 1 K. R. 825.

As to the effect upon the jurisdiction of a County Court of a counter-claim upon which no relief is given, see Fitchett v. Mather, 18 P. R. 161.

Division Courts Jurisdiction.—The jurisdiction of the Division Courts is defined by R. 8, O. c. 60, ss. 74 et seq.; 41 V. c. 15, s. 1.

As to the jurisdiction of Division Courts, see Bicknell & Seager, Div. Courts Acts, pp. 53, et seq.

As to what claims are liquidated, or ascertained by the signature of the party, see supra, p. 1363, and Slater v. Lubric, 9 O. L. R. 545.

In an action in the High Court for trespass to lands, and removal of fixtures, the plaintiff recovered a verdict for $50. It was held that Division Court costs were taxable to the plaintiff and full costs to the defendant; Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292.

A plaintiff entitled only to Division Court costs under this Rule can tax as part of such costs his expenses of travelling from abroad to attend as a witness, if he was a material and necessary witness; Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274.

Rules

Set-off of Costs by Defendant.—Where a defendant is entitled to a set-off of costs under this Rule, if the plaintiff refuses to enter the judgment, an order may be made in Chambers limiting the time for him to do so, and in default allowing the defendant to enter it: Sinclair v. Barrow, 3 V. C. L. J. 49.

Costs in actions prima facie within the jurisdiction of inferior Courts when judgment entered without trial, how to be taxed.

1133. In every case in which judgment is entered without trial, or the decision of a Court or a Judge, or order as to the costs, and where the amount of, or relief awarded by, the judgment, prima facie, appears to be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, the Taxing Officer shall not tax full costs of the High Court, with out proof on affidavit to his satisfaction that the action was properly instituted therein; and if properly within the competence of the County, or Division Court, then the taxation shall be on the scale of fees in such Court. Con. Rule 1174.

Adapted from J. A. Rule 511: 48 Vict. c. 13, s. 22.

This Rule would appear to apply only to cases where there has been no trial, not to cases where there has been a trial, but no order has been made as to costs: see Andrews v. London, 12 P. R. 44; Dale v. Weston, 17 P. R. 513. It applies to a consent order providing that the plaintiff shall get costs, without indicating the scale: Brown v. Rose, 14 P. R. 3; but see Steckle v. Stakk, 11 C. L. T. 332; it does not apply where a plaintiff takes money out of Court paid in with a defence: see Babcock v. Standish, 19 P. R. 195.

No set-off of costs (as under Rule 1132) is contemplated by this Rule, where the plaintiff gets only costs according to the County, or Division Court scale: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44.

To determine the proper scale of fees, it is the duty of the Taxing Officer to look at the pleadings, and if necessary to receive affidavits so as to ascertain the facts of the case: White Sewing Machine Co. v. Belfry, 10 P. R. 64.

Where a plaintiff sues for and recovers an amount beyond the jurisdiction of a County Court, a defendant cannot, by admitting his liability for part of the claim, and paying it into Court, deprive the plaintiff of his right to full costs, because the balance in dispute is within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Brown v. Rose, 14 P. R. 3; and see Pickard v. Tins, 19 P. R. 109.

Where a verdict was taken by consent for $1 to be altered according to the result of a reference agreed on, costs to abide the event, it was held that it was a judgment without a trial and within this Rule: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44.

This Rule does not necessarily affect the scale of costs on a taxation between solicitor and client: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

Non-appearance, subsequent particulars.

1134. Where the plaintiff after default of appearance to a writ not specially indorsed delivers particulars of his claim under Rule 576, he shall not be entitled to the costs of the particulars, unless the Taxing Officer is satisfied that there was good reason for not specially indorsing the writ. Con. Rules

Rule 1175. 1135-1137.

Taken from J. A. (1881) Rules 74, 497.

See note to Rule 576.

1135. Where several actions are brought on one bond, ^{Where several actions on bonds, etc.} recognizance, promissory note, bill of exchange, or other instrument, or where several actions are brought against the maker and indorser of a note, or against the drawer, acceptor or indorser of a bill of exchange, there shall be collected or recovered the costs taxed in one action only at the election of the plaintiff, and the actual disbursements only in the other actions, unless the Court otherwise orders; but this provision shall not extend to any interlocutory costs. Con. Rule 1176.

Where several actions are properly brought in cases not within the provisions of this Rule, against different defendants, although involving the same or similar issues, the plaintiff succeeding is entitled to tax a separate set of costs in each action: Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 248.

1136.—(1) The costs of every interlocutory viva voce examination and cross-examination shall be borne by the party who examines unless, as to the whole or part thereof, it be otherwise directed, in actions in the High Court by the Senior Taxing Officer on his appointment served, and in actions in a County Court by a Judge thereof. In actions in the High Court, if more than $25.00 is claimed, besides the disbursements, in procuring the attendance of the person examined, the sum to be allowed for the examination or cross-examination shall be fixed by the Senior Taxing Officer on such appointment.

(2) Any increase of costs occasioned by proceeding, without good reason, otherwise than as provided by Rules 447 (1) shall not be allowed. Rule 1136 as amended by Rule 1267 of 18 June, 1904.

Somble, the costs of examining a party as a witness before trial may be allowed, though the examination was not in fact used, if such costs were reasonably incurred: Bartlett v. Higgins, 1901, 2 K. R. 230; 84 L. T. 509.

1137. Where the Court, or a Judge, or officer exercising ^{sum in} jurisdiction in Chambers or the Master deems it proper ^{cross may} to be allowed, award costs, the judgment or order may direct payment of a sum in gross in lieu of taxed costs, to be fixed by himself or the officer who settles the order, and direct by and to whom such sum in gross is to be paid. Con. Rule 1178.

In administration proceedings it is usual to allow to creditors who are entitled to costs, a sum in gross, as the amount of their costs is generally small.

In an action for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no costs should be allowed to creditors whose claims are rendered pursuant to an advertisement, except when formal proof is also required, and given: see Rule 701 et seq.; claimants attempting to prove claims as creditors, or as heirs-at-law, or next of kin, who fail to establish their claim, may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned to the opposite party by their claim. In case of a deficiency of assets the costs of creditors proving claims are to be added to their debts, and paid proportionately, but the creditors are not entitled to be paid such costs in priority to the debts: Re Etna Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160; Morhead v. Reynolds, 21 Beav. 638; Canham v. Neale, 26 Beav. 266; Morgan and Wurtzburg, p. 193.

Court may award C. C. costs, in a case not within C. C. jurisdiction

Under this Rule the Court may award a lump sum, not only on interlocutory applications, but also for the general costs of the cause, or may award costs according to the C. C. scale, even in cases which are beyond the equitable jurisdiction of County Courts: Palmer v. Postle (Ch.), before full Court, 7th December, 1878; see Reg. Lib. of that date; but semble, the Court has no power to award a lump sum for costs exceeding what could be taxed.

In an action for dower a lump sum for costs was awarded to the plaintiff: Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, 344.

Costs of guardian.

1138. Where the Official Guardian or other guardian of an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind, is entitled to costs, or is entitled to costs against any party to an action or proceeding, the Court or Judge may order the successful adult party, if any, to pay such costs and add them to his own. Con. Rule 1179.

See notes under Rule 1130, p. 1345.

An infant may in a proper case be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs, and also the costs which the plaintiff under this Rule is ordered to pay to the Official Guardian: Lipsett v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575; Woolf v. Woolf, 1889, 1 Ch. 343.

Costs of examining judgment debtor, attaching, debts, etc.

1139. The costs of [the examination of a judgment debtor or other person liable to examination, and of] any application for the attachment of debts, and of any proceedings arising from, or incidental to, such application, shall be in the discretion of the Court or a Judge. Con. Rule 1180.

This is to the same effect as the Eng. (1883) R. 612, and is the same in substance as R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 321, except the words in brackets, which are not in the English Rule, or the statute. With-^{Rules} out them it was held in Ginty v. Rich, 7 P. R. 319, that an order for ^{1140, 1141.} the payment of the costs of the debtor's examination could not be made on an application for that purpose, though it might perhaps be made by way of punishment, on an application to commit.

The costs of proceedings to examine the debtor may be allowed, though the examination does not actually take place: Popham v. Flynn, 15 P. R. 286.

Semble, the costs of the examination of the judgment debtor, and also of garnishee proceedings in which the execution creditor succeeds, where the creditor has not proceeded unreasonably, should be allowed him as against the debtor: see Arlington v. Coningham, 1898, 2 Q. B. 32; 79 L. T. 238.

1140. Where the costs of one defendant ought to be paid ^{Costs may be ordered to be paid by one defendant to another} by another defendant, the Court may order payment ^{to be} made by the one to the other directly. Con. Rule 118.

A defendant is usually liable to pay costs to his co-defendant, when ^{Costs between co-defendants.} the latter is an innocent party, and is necessarily brought into the litigation in order to enable the plaintiff to obtain complete relief in the action: see McLean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 76. Formerly at law there was no practice authorizing a judgment to be given against a defendant for the payment of the costs of a co-defendant either directly or indirectly; and even in Equity, prior to Chy. O. 319, from which this Rule is taken, the Court of Chancery was accustomed only to order such costs to be paid by the circuitous process of directing the plaintiff to pay them, and add them to his own costs. In interpleader proceedings by Sher ^{the} costs of the Sheriff are to be included in the costs of the ^{of} a party under Rule 1120 (2).

The Court has ordered a defendant to pay a co-defendant's costs, even though the action was dismissed: Church v. Fuller, 3 Ont. 417, but a successful defendant cannot be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs: Mitchell v. Vandusen, 14 Ont. App. 517; Wills v. Carman, Ib., 656; unless the plaintiff was entitled to bring the action, and it has failed by reason of circumstances subsequently occurring: see supra, p. 1346.

When a plaintiff succeeds against one defendant and fails against another, he is not entitled, without order to that effect, to add in his costs, payable by the unsuccessful defendant, the costs payable by him to the successful defendant: Child v. Steuning, 7 Ch. D. 413; 11 Ch. D. 82; Bergmann v. McMillan, 17 Ch. D. 423, 428; and see Beaumont v. Senior, 1903, 1 K. B. 282; but where the unsuccessful defendant has occasioned the litigation as against the other defendants, he may be ordered to recomp the plaintiff the costs he is ordered to pay the successful defendants: Child v. Steuning, supra; or under this Rule be ordered to pay the costs of his co-defendants directly.

1141. The costs on all proceedings where a High Court ^{Costs at H. C. case in loc. cit.} case is tried in a County Court or a County Court case in the High Court, shall be the usual costs of such cases in the Court in which the action was brought. Con. Rule 1182.

Rules
1142-1144.

Costs of shorthand notes, to be costs in the cause.

Taxing Officer to allow reasonable sum for shorthand writer in cases not provided for Application for interim costs, when it may be made.

1142. The disbursements incurred in obtaining copies of the evidence for the purpose of moving against a judgment or for a new trial, shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be costs in the cause to the party obtaining the same. Con. Rule 1183.

1143. In cases not otherwise provided for, the Taxing Officer may allow a reasonable sum for the expenses of a shorthand writer, on the certificate of the Judge before whom the examination of any witness or witnesses in any such cause, matter or other proceeding takes place; and also on the certificate of the local Master in references before him when the parties agree to the employment of a shorthand writer. Con. Rule 1184 as amended by Rule 1270. Ont. Gaz., 31 Dec., 1904.

Official stenographers are now provided for all the ordinary sittings of the Courts. This Rule applies when it becomes necessary for the parties specially to engage a stenographer.

The first part of the Rule would seem to apply merely to proceedings before a Judge and not to extend to proceedings before judicial officers.

1144. An application for costs, in an alimony action, shall not be made until the time for delivering the defence has expired, and costs shall not be ordered to be paid de die in diem by the defendant, but only the amount of the cash disbursements actually and properly made by the plaintiff's solicitor. Con. Rule 1185.

The cash disbursements do not include fees paid to agents for solicitors' services, nor to counsel, when the solicitor or his partner is the counsel: Gallagher v. Gallagher, 17 P. R. 575; Lalonde v. Lalonde, 11 P. R. 143; Leslie v. Leslie, 12 C. L. T. 326. The former decisions of Magurn v. Magurn, 10 P. R. 570; Bradley v. Bradley, 21 C. L. J. 141; 10 P. R. 571; to the contrary would seem not now to be followed; and see Ingram v. Ingram, 10 P. R. 569; and Bucke v. Bucke, 21 Gr. 77.

Notwithstanding this Rule, prospective witness fees were ordered to be paid on the plaintiff's solicitor's undertaking to account for the money paid and not so expended: Stevenson v. Stevenson, 19 P. R. 48.

Where a cause was entered for trial it was ordered to stand over, until the defendant had paid to the plaintiff a sum sufficient to pay plaintiff's witnesses: Haffey v. Haffey, 7 P. R. 137.

In Ottway v. Ottway, 59 L. T. 153; 13 P. D. 141, a doubt was expressed as to whether the rules respecting a wife's costs in litigation with her husband were affected by The Married Woman's Property Act.

1145. Where the plaintiff in an alimony action fails to obtain a judgment for alimony, no costs beyond the amount of the cash disbursements actually and properly made by the plaintiff's solicitor, shall be ordered to be paid by the defendant. Con. Rule 1186.

Rules
1145, 1146.

where

Where a plaintiff pendente lite returned to her husband, on the petition of her solicitor, the defendant was ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs as between solicitor and client: Leonard v. Leonard, 9 P. R. 450; Moore v. Moore, 10 P. R. 284; 20 C. L. J. 201; but in Ringrove v. Ringrove, 10 P. R. 299, 596, Proudfoot, J. refused to follow these cases, and his decision was subsequently affirmed by the Divisional Court; and see Thompson v. Thompson, 57 L. T. 374; but see Ferris v. Ferris, 7 Ont. 496; The Friedburg, 10 P. D. 112. As to what come within the term "cash disbursements," see Rule 1144, note.

1146. (1) In actions or proceedings for administration, or partition, or administration and partition, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, instead of the costs being allowed according to the tariff, each person properly represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate—other than creditors not parties to the action or proceeding—shall be entitled to his actual disbursements in the action or proceeding, not including counsel fees, and there shall be allowed for the other costs of the suit payable out of the estate, a commission on the amount realized, or on the value of the property partitioned, which commission shall be apportioned among the persons entitled to costs, as may seem just. Such commission shall be as follows:

Commission to be allowed in taxed costs in administration and partition.

On the first $500	20 per cent.
On every additional $100 over $500
and up to $1,500	5 "
On every additional $100 over $1,500
and up to $4,000	3 "
On every additional $1,000 over $4,000
and up to $10,000	2½ "
On every additional $1,000 over $10,000	1 "

and such remuneration shall be in lieu of all fees, whether between "party and party," "as between solicitor and client," or "between solicitor and client." Con. Rule 1187.

Adapted from Civ. O. 643.

(2) Where an order or judgment in any such action or proceeding by any form of words directs that the costs thereof be taxed, it shall be taken to mean the allowance of commission and disbursements, in accordance with subsection 1.

Rule 1146. unless it is otherwise expressly provided by the order or judgment, or unless the Court or a Judge of the High Court otherwise directs. Rule 1253. June 20, 1903.

Commission in lieu of costs, who entitled to share in.

The commission payable under this Rule is divisible only between those who are strictly parties to the action, properly represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate. Persons not originally made parties to the action, but served with a copy of the judgment under Rule 203 (3), are not thereby made parties to the action, but are merely enabled to attend the proceedings, and are bound thereby as though they were actually parties: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441. In a suit by a residuary legatee, the plaintiff sufficiently represents the other residuary legatees, and they are not entitled as of course to costs out of the estate occasioned by their appearing by another solicitor in the Master's office: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386. Creditors who are neither plaintiffs nor defendants, are also excluded from participation in the commission; their costs are disposed of as formerly. The commission is to cover both the solicitors' fees and the fees to counsel and agents. It is of course not intended to cover costs ordered to be paid by one party to another. It is intended to cover only costs payable out of the estate. Costs are to be apportioned under this Rule in proportion to the work done by, and responsibility imposed on, the solicitors engaged: Dodge v. Clapp, 8 P. R. 388; Campbell v. Campbell, 8 P. R. 150; 16 C. L. J. 16.

Mode of apportionment.

The work done in the Master's office is not alone to be considered in making the apportionment of the commission: Cameron v. Leroux, 9 P. R. 304. The Master should also consider the circumstances under which the action is brought, when the judgment has been pronounced by himself, and should not award commission to parties who ought to be deprived of, or ordered to pay, costs.

On what sum to be estimated.

In ascertaining the commission, if the estate has been sold subject to a mortgage, the amount of the mortgage is not to be included as part of the "amount realized": Re McColl, McColl v. McColl, 8 P. R. 480; but in Re Brown, Brown v. Brown, 19 C. L. J. 367, it was held that the commission is to be computed on the total amount accounted for, and not merely on the balance found in the account of parties' hands; and see Re Batt, Wright v. White, 9 P. R. 447.

In partition actions extra costs, if any, occasioned by incumbrances on shares, should be borne by such shares: McDougall v. McDougall, 14 Gr. 267; Catton v. Banks, 1893, 2 Ch. 221; sed vide, Belcher v. Williams, 45 Ch. D. 510; 63 L. T. 673.

Ordinarily no costs will be allowed in addition to the commission and disbursements: Re Fleury, Fleury v. Fleury, 9 P. R. 87; and the Court refused to give taxed costs where the estate was large, but insolvent: Re Stuebing, Stuebing v. Dewar, 10 P. R. 236; 20 C. L. J. 193. Taxed costs were allowed in an administration suit, in Re Goodfellow, Traders' Bank v. Goodfellow, by Ferguson, J., 10th June, 1889, the deceased having committed suicide, and left his estate in such a condition as to cause special trouble and much work of a difficult nature in administering the same; and see Wright v. Bell, 32 C. L. J. 362; 16 C. L. T. 193.

The Master has no power to award taxed costs under this Rule; a Judge of the High Court alone has that power: Hendricks v. Hendricks, 13 P. R. 79.

Where the Master finds, in any administration action commenced Rules before himself, that any of the parties to the action should pay the 1147, 1148. whole, or any part, of the costs of the action, instead of their being borne by the estate, it would seem that he should so direct: Rule 953 (2). But in such a case it would be convenient also to apportion the commission, and ascertain the disbursements payable out of the estate, in case the costs ordered to be paid by any of the parties personally, could not be recovered from them.

Where the principal part of the costs of an action are ordered to Where be paid personally by one or more of the parties, and the costs of taxed costs only a small proportion of the work done, are chargeable against the allowed in estate, it does not appear that in such a case the full amount of the lieu of some commission here provided would be payable, and the power reserved to the Judge to make other order would probably be exercised. Cases might arise where from special circumstances, the commission here provided would be clearly inadequate, and in such cases too it is possible that the power to make other order as to the costs would be exercised.

An agent employed by a principal solicitor who is paid by commission, is liable to have his bill taxed: Re Idington & Mickle, 8 P. R. 566.

Where proceedings have been taken by writ instead of by motion, and the extra costs occasioned thereby have been disallowed to the client, they are not taxable against him by his solicitor, on a taxation between solicitor and client: Re Allenby, 13 P. R. 403.

1147. When two or more actions or proceedings are instituted for administration, or partition, or sale, all or any of the costs of any action or proceeding which has been unnecessarily prosecuted may be disallowed. Costs of actions unnecessarily prosecuted may be disallowed. Con. Rule 1188, part.

Under this Rule the whole costs of an action may be disallowed if it has been commenced, or prosecuted, unnecessarily, and not only the costs of the plaintiff but those of defendants as well; the latter having power to prevent the prosecution of more than one suit.

As to partition suits, see Rule 1157.

1148. Where any one of the persons constituting a class party formed by a Master for representation in his office by one party insisting on being represented by a different solicitor is pay costs incurred thereby solicitor, under Rule 662, insists on being represented by a different solicitor, he shall personally pay the costs of his own solicitor of and relating to the proceedings before the Master, with respect to which the nomination of a solicitor has been made by the Master, and all such further costs as are occasioned to any of the parties by his being represented by a different solicitor from the solicitor so mentioned. Con. Rule 1188.

See Chy. O. 218, 641.

Rules A party unnecessarily employing a separate solicitor would not be 1149-1151. entitled to participate in the commission referred to in Rule 1146.

Under Rule 602 the Master has power to classify the parties, and require the parties constituting each or any class to be represented by the same solicitor, and where he appoints a solicitor to act for a class, all the members of that class are bound by the acts of the solicitor so appointed, and cannot repudiate them, unless they have refused to be so represented and have appointed a separate solicitor; Re McCannell, 3 Ch. Ch. 423. But where a solicitor was appointed ex parte to represent creditors, it was held that the solicitor could not recover costs against creditors who had not proved their claims, and who had no notice of his appointment; Re Monteith, Merchants' Bank v. Monteith, 12 F. R. 288; 23 C. L. J. 415.

After the appointment of a solicitor to act for a class, the separate costs of any member of that class, subsequently incurred, will not ordinarily be allowed against the estate under administration; Re Etua Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160.

The Master should not appoint a separate solicitor for a class already sufficiently represented by the plaintiff; and where the plaintiff prima facie represents [see Rule 203 (1)] the class, if the Master appoints a separate solicitor he should state his reason for so doing in his report; Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386.

Costs of not admitting.

1149. When anything in the course of an action or reference which ought to have been admitted, has not been admitted, the party who neglected or refused to make the admission may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his neglect or refusal. Con. Rule 1189.

See Eng. (1883) R. 242, and Chy. O. 234, and J. A. Rule 163.

A Master, or other judicial officer has jurisdiction to make the order as regards proceedings pending before him; see Rule 1130 (4).

Rule 269 requires each party to admit such of the material allegations in the pleading of the opposite party as are true.

Notice to admit.

1150. The costs of proving a document shall not be allowed unless a notice to admit has been given under Rule 327, except where the omission to give the notice is a saving of expense. Con. Rule 1190.

Same as the last clause of Eng. (1883) R. 372.

Public officers not entitled to professional witness fees.

1151. A public official or other witness subpoenaed or called upon to produce before the Court or a Judge or officer any public or other document shall not be entitled to more than ordinary witness fees, unless the Court or Judge or officer otherwise orders, 57 V. c. 25, s. 1; 58 V. c. 12, s. 127; 58 V. c. 18, Sched. (20) and Rules of 1 January, 1896, Rule 1459, last clause amended.

See also Ind. Act, s. 120.

1152. The costs of an application to extend the time for taking any proceeding shall, in the absence of an order by the Court or a Judge directing by whom they are to be paid, be in the discretion of the Taxing Officer. Con. Rule 1191.

Rules

Costs of application for extension of time.

See Eng. (1883) 1102 (24).

1153. Where a petition or notice of motion is served, and notice is given to the party served that in case of his appearance in Court his costs will be objected to, accompanied by a tender of $5 for costs, the person making the payment shall be allowed the same in his costs, provided the service was proper, but not otherwise; but this Rule is without prejudice to the rights of either party to costs, or to object to costs where no such tender is made, or where the Court or Judge considers the party entitled, notwithstanding such notice or tender, to appear in Court. Con. Rule 1193.

Tender of costs on service of petition.

This Rule corresponds with the first part of the Eng. (1883) R. 1002 1191, except that the latter is confined to the Chy. Div., and the amount to be tendered is different.

Where the procedure pointed out by this Rule has not been followed the party served will be entitled to attend, and may be allowed taxed costs: Gardner v. Burgess, 13 F. R. 250.

In Re Sutton, 21 Ch. D. 857, trustees respondents to a petition under The Trustee Relief Act, who had been tendered costs under the corresponding English Rule, were refused costs of appearing, as their appearance was not necessary to give the Court information. In Re English's Settlement, 40 L. T. a trustee was allowed cost; no tender of a sum for costs was there made. In Re Vachon's Trusts, 33 W. R. 297, executors were given costs notwithstanding the acceptance of the tender.

In Somey v. Martin, W. N. 1882, 143, mortgagees of interests of persons entitled under a will having been served and not having been tendered costs, were allowed costs of appearing on a petition for construction of a will.

See also Campbell v. Helgland, 7 Ch. D. 166.

Where a trustee appeared on an appeal though not notified he was not allowed costs: Arden v. Deacon, 51 L. T. 712.

Trustees served with notice of appeal, and holding a merely nominal position, without any intention of taking part in the argument, ought not to appear by separate counsel on the appeal: Cavendish v. Bradshaw, 50 F. R. 478.

1154 The Court or Judge may, at the hearing of any action or matter, or upon any appeal, application or proceeding in any action or matter in Court or Chambers, and whether the same is objected to or not, direct the costs of any writ, pleading, petition, affidavit, evidence, account, state-

Rule 1124. ment or other proceeding, or any part thereof, which is improper, unnecessary or contains unnecessary matter, or is of unnecessary length, to be disallowed; or may direct the Taxing Officer to look into the same and to disallow the costs thereof, or of such part thereof as he shall find to be improper, unnecessary or to contain unnecessary matter, or to be of unnecessary length. In such case the party whose costs are so disallowed shall pay the costs occasioned to the other parties by such unnecessary proceeding, matter or length; and in any case where such question has not been raised before and dealt with by the Court or Judge, the Taxing Officer may look into the same (and, as to affidavits and evidence, although the same may be entered as read in any judgment or order) for the purpose aforesaid, and thereupon the same consequences shall ensue as if he had been specially directed to do so. Con. Rule 1195.

To the same effect as Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (20), and founded on Eng. Chy. Order 40, Rules 9 & 10; see Morgan Orders, 4th ed., 581 and see Chy. O. 71; J. A. Rule 435 and App. O. 10.

The Court may on its own motion exercise the powers given by this Rule in regard to costs "whether the same is objected to or not" see Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207.

Where costs are given as to one cause of action, and not as to another, the Taxing Officer is to apportion the costs; see Faucher v. Mackinnon, 15 P. R. 412.

The number of witnesses to prove a point is a matter in the discretion of the Taxing Officer; and so as to witnesses called to establish something on which the party calling them fails; Lutour v. Smith 13 P. R. 214.

The Master must inquire on taxation into the propriety of proceedings in an action, though not specially directed to do so; and he may not refuse to do so where an order is made to stay proceedings on payment of costs; Brimm v. Wormsley, 47 L. J. Chy. 844; 39 L. T. 85. Costs of affidavits in opposition to a motion were not allowed where the motion was dismissed on a preliminary objection; Whitehead v. Whitehead, 10 P. R. 183.

In an administration action, where the defendant had not admitted the plaintiff's right to an account, and had set up a release, and had not objected that the plaintiff should have proceeded under Rule 935, although the plaintiff was disallowed the extra costs so occasioned, yet the defendant was held not entitled to be allowed his extra costs as against the plaintiff; Moore v. Culbreth, 15 P. R. 159.

Where an appeal was brought from a Master's report, in order to raise a question which was not the subject of appeal, and a substantive motion was also made concurrently for the same relief; though the relief was given, no costs were given of either application; Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

The case stated for the purpose of an appeal should only contain so much of the proceedings as is necessary to raise the questions involved in the appeal; see Perkins v. Stamford Insurance Co., 1140, App. at p. 330, per Barton, J. A.

A direction in an order for a commission in the common form: Rule 1155, see No. 120 in App. (H. & L. Forms, No. 747), that the costs are to be costs in the cause, does not preclude the Taxing Officer from disallowing the costs on the ground that the evidence has not been used: Harrison, etc., v. Stowson, 9 P. R. 177; but the non-use of the evidence is not necessarily a ground for disallowing the costs of it: Roudat v. Monetary Trust, 18 P. R. 111; and see Burtholme v. Hoggins, 1891, 2 K. B. 230; 84 L. T. 509.

A defendant's costs of affidavits in answer to a motion for an injunction, prepared pending a stay of proceedings, until a plaintiff should give security for costs, were allowed on the dismissal of the motion for not giving security: Whitchy Executors v. The Bank, 1898, 2 Ch. 105; 70 L. T. 20.

Where the costs of a Sheriff in an interpleader matter had been ordered to be paid by the claimant, and the claimant appealed, contending that the execution creditor should pay them, and both were able to pay, the Sheriff was not allowed costs of appearing on the appeal: Ex p. Webster, Re Harris, 22 Ch. 11, 130.

In O'Brien v. Bull, 10 C. L. J. 211, a Sheriff unnecessarily served with notice of motion for final order in an interpleader matter was allowed costs of appearing: see also Baker's Case, 3 Ch. Ch. 331.

Costs of a person appearing in object that there is no jurisdiction, Great Northern v. Flett, 2 Q. B. 11, 281, or quia timet that by mistake an order will be made against him: Lucas v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 319, will be given; but not of a person not interested and appearing merely to ask costs: Campbell v. Holpland, 7 Ch. D. 175; Re Aulsebrook, 33 W. R. 100; Walker v. Claria, 11 P. R. 130.

The Court cannot prevent the appearance of persons entitled to appear, but may sometimes protect an estate by allowing only one set of costs to several parties: Lucas v. Staden, 28 Sol. Jan. 115. In Re English's Settlement, 60 L. T. 44, the costs of a trustee were allowed, he being properly served.

A solicitor was by direction of the Court called on to shew cause why he should not be personally ordered to pay the costs of an appeal prosecuted by him for an ulterior object, and not for the benefit of his client the appellant; and an order was made directing him to indemnify his client against the costs: Harbin v. Mashburn, 1896, 1 Ch. 351.

1155. An allowance shall not be made for any order for Costs of inspection of documents. production or any notice or inspection under any of the Rules relating to the production and inspection of documents, unless it is shewn to the satisfaction of the Taxing Officer that there were good and sufficient reasons for taking the order, giving the notice, or making the inspection. Con. Rule 1156.

Same in substance as Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (17).

Costs of inspection were not allowed between party and party in Brown v. Search, 16 Ch. D. 517; Wickstead v. Bigns, 52 L. T. 428; and six affidavits on production by the same party were disallowed on a taxation between solicitor and client: Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 218.

Rules

1158-1159.

Costs of taking bond off files.

1156. The costs of removing a bond or other security from the files of the Court for the purpose of bringing an action thereon, may be taxed as costs in the cause in the action brought thereon. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1373.

2. TAXATION.

(i) Generally.

Taxing Officers may tax costs without express reference.

1157. Where costs are ordered to be paid, a Taxing Officer may tax the same, without an express reference to him for that purpose. Con. Rule 1197.

Where the suitor is under no liability to pay costs to his solicitor, as, for instance, when the solicitor is working on a salary: Jarvis v. G. W. R. Co., S. C. P. 280; Stevenson v. Kingston, 31 C. P. 337; Ottawa Gas Co. v. Ottawa, 4 O. L. R. 656; 5 O. L. R. 246; but see Henderson v. Merthyr Tydvil, 48 W. R. 332; or the suitor is indemnified by a third party against liability for costs: Meriden, etc., v. Braden, 16 P. R. 410; 17 P. R. 77; Walker v. Gurney, 19 P. R. 12, he is not entitled to tax costs against the opposite party, though costs are awarded to him; if he is liable for disbursements, or any other part of the costs of the solicitor, such part may be taxed. Stevenson v. Kingston, supra. An exception exists in the case of municipal corporations, which are now entitled to recover taxed costs, notwithstanding their solicitor is paid by salary: Con. Mnn. Act (3 Edw. vii. c. 19), s. 320 (3).

As to costs taxable to suitors appearing in person, see note to Rule 1130, supra, p. 1343.

The Master or a Taxing Officer is not justified, without a direction from the Court, in striking a balance between cross claims for costs payable in the action: Fonchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318, except where Rule 1164 applies.

Costs in Canada of appeal to P. C.

(a) When the costs incurred in Canada of an appeal to His Majesty in His Privy Council have been awarded, and the same have not been taxed by the Registrar of the Privy Council, the same may be taxed by the senior Taxing Officer, and the taxation shall be according to the scale of the Privy Council. Rule 1256, 28 Nov., 1903.

This Rule does not apply to a case in which the judgment of the P. C. awarding costs was entered before the passing of the Rule: Earle v. Burland, 8 O. L. R. 174. 44-90 L.R. 113.

No bill of costs exceeding $30 to be taxed by Registrars, etc.

1158. No bill of costs where the amount claimed exceeds $30 is to be taxed by the Registrars, the Master in Ordinary, the Master in Chambers or Clerk in Chambers, but every bill exceeding that sum is in Toronto to be taxed by one of the Taxing Officers, notwithstanding anything to the contrary Rules contained in the order for taxation. Con. Rule 1198. 1159-1162.

See Chy. O. 310.

This Rule merely applies to costs taxable in Toronto, and does not in any way restrict the jurisdiction of local Taxing Officers.

1159. Where a notice of taxation is necessary, one day's one day's notice of taxation sufficient notice shall be sufficient if served with a copy of the bill of costs and affidavit of disbursements. Con. Rule 1199.

See Rule T. T. (1856) 48.

Where a party proceeds with a taxation without giving notice, the taxation is not void, and an execution issued for the costs will not be set aside, but the opposite party is only entitled to a re-taxation: Cranston v. Blair, 15 P. R. 167.

Where the solicitor for the party ordered to pay costs attend, the taxation thereof, service of the certificate of the Taxing Officer of the amount allowed before issuing execution, is not necessary, though usual: People's B. & L. Assn. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R. 644.

1160. Notice of taxation shall not be necessary where the Notice of taxation unnecessary when defendant has not appeared.
defendant has not appeared in person, or by his solicitor or guardian. Con. Rule 1200.

See Rule T. T. (1856) 50.

As this Rule only dispenses with notice of taxation to defendants who have not appeared, it would seem to be intended that wherever a defendant has appeared, he is to be entitled to notice of taxation, and (notwithstanding this Rule) notice is necessary when the defendant has done that which is equivalent to appearing, such as consenting to a Judge's order or the like: Lloyd v. Bent, 5 Dowl. 125; Arch. Pr., 13th ed., 431.

1161. The Taxing Officer may direct what parties are Parties to attend taxation. to attend before him on the taxation of costs to be borne by a fund or estate, and disallow the costs of any person whose attendance he considers unnecessary in consequence of the interest of the party in the fund or estate being small or remote, or sufficiently protected by other parties interested. Con. Rule 1201.

Identical with Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (27).

1162. Where two or more defendants defend by different Defendants improperly severing are to be allowed but one set of costs without special order.
solicitors under circumstances entitling them to but one set of costs, the Taxing Officer shall allow but one set of costs; and if two or more defendants defending by the same solicitor separate unnecessarily in their defences, or otherwise, the Rule 1162. Taxing Officer shall allow but one defence and set of costs. Con. Rule 1202.

See Chy. O. 315.

As to the circumstances entitling defendants to sever in their defence, see Melbourne v. Toronto, 13 P. R. 340.

Where an action is tried against two or more defendants, and the judgment is against all defendants, a defendant who has put in a separate defence is alone liable for the costs occasioned by it; the other defendants are not liable for those costs: Stuum v. Dixon, 22 Q. B. D. 99, 529.

As to the right to contribution amongst co-defendants made jointly liable for plaintiff's costs, see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 518.

Where two or more defendants defend by the same solicitor, and the action is dismissed as to one with costs, and succeeds as to others, the plaintiff is liable to pay such proportion of the costs of the joint defence as the successful defendants are liable for; this, in the absence of any special agreement would be an aliquot share: Beaumont v. Senior, 1903, 1 K. B. 282; 88 L. T. 234.

Rule as to defendants joining in defence, to whom it applies.

The rule which requires defendants in the same interest to join in their defence, appears only to apply to defendants standing in a fiduciary position, either as trustees: Farr v. Sheriffe, 4 Hare, 528; or cestuis que trustent: Peillon v. Brooking, 4 L. T. 731; Martin v. Sampson, 33 C. L. J. 200; Sm. Pr., 837-8; but see Crawford v. Landy, 23 Gr. 251. Thus in a suit for specific performance by a vendee against the vendor, and a subsequent vendee of the same property, it was held that the defendants might properly sever in their defence, and employ separate solicitors: Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150. But when husband and wife severed in a partition suit, the costs were ordered to be borne by the wife's share: Mildmay v. Quicke, 46 L. J. Chy. 667. Members of a firm which had been dissolved were held entitled to sever in their defence; see Melbourne v. Toronto, supra. So also in an action by a municipality against a contractor and one of his sureties, and the representatives of a deceased surety, the defendants were held to be entitled to sever: Logan v. Fick, 11 P. R. 130.

One defendant improperly severing.

Where one of several defendants is charged with fraud, the others are justified in severing, even though they stand in a fiduciary position; see Conolly v. Hill, 7 P. R. 111.

Where defendants have severed under circumstances which, if the severance were improper, would disentitle one of them to costs in toto, the Master cannot act under this Rule, if the judgment award the defendants costs generally. The Rule applies only where all the defendants are to blame for the severance, and one set of costs is consequently apportionable between them; Reid v. Stephens, 3 Chy. Ch. 372.

The Taxing Officer has a discretion to allow to defendants who appear separately separate sets of costs except in the cases referred to in this Rule; Boswell v. Cooks, 36 Ch. D. 444; and also to disallow more than one set of costs where separate defences have been improperly made: Meriden v. Braden, 16 P. R. 316, 410; 17 P. R. 77; and see Re Isaac, 1897, 1 Ch. 251; 75 L. T. 638.

For the cases in which it is improper for defendants to sever, see Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, p. 124.

On appeal from a Taxing Officer as to whether defendants were entitled to separate costs, where it was not shown that he had not exercised his discretion at all, or that he had done so on a wrong principle, it was held that an appeal from his decision could not be entertained: Boswell v. Coake, 36 Ch. D. 444. Rules 1163, 1164.

As to the mode of taxation where two or more defendants defend by the same solicitor, one of whom succeeds, and the other fails: see Clark v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260; and see Beaumont v. Senior, supra, p. 1380.

Where one of several defendants is ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs of the action, in the absence of any express direction to the contrary, the Taxing Officer should allow the plaintiff the costs incurred against other defendants as to whom the action failed: Kelley's Directories v. Gavin, 1901, 2 Ch. 763.

Where a plaintiff succeeds on some issues, and a defendant on others, and the costs are to be taxed to the successful party in such issues, see Lockard v. Waugh, 17 P. R. 260; Brown v. Houston, 1901, 2 K. B. 855.

Independently of this Rule the Court may allow only one set of costs to several parties appearing by separate counsel: Harbin v. Masterman, 1896, 1 Ch. 351.

1163. Where any party entitled to costs refuses or neglects to bring in his bill of costs for taxation, or to procure the same to be taxed, and thereby prejudices any other party, the Taxing Officer shall certify the costs of the other parties, and certify such refusal or neglect, or may allow such party refusing or neglecting a nominal or other sum for such costs, so as to prevent any other party being prejudiced by such refusal or neglect. Con. Rule 1203. Neglect to bring in or tax costs.

Identical with Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (28).

1164. Where a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the Taxing Officer may tax the costs such party is liable to pay, and may adjust the same by way of deduction or set-off, or may delay the allowance of the costs such party is entitled to receive until he has paid or tendered the costs he is liable to pay; or the officer may allow or certify the costs to be paid, and the same may be recovered by the party entitled thereto in the same manner as costs ordered to be paid may be recovered. Con. Rule 1204. Set-off of costs.

Same as Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (21).

Under this Rule a discretion is allowed as to whether or not there shall be a set-off of costs in the same action or proceeding, where costs are awarded to and against the parties. Equitable considerations are allowed to enter into the disposal of the contention and there is no strict right in the matter: McCarthy v. Cooper, 12 P. R.

Rule 1164. 125 (where a set-off was refused); Re Clarke, 15 P. R. 269; 16 P. R. 94.

This Rule does not enable the Taxing Officer to set-off costs payable in different actions between the same parties, but only costs incurred in the same action or proceeding: David v. Rees, 1904, 2 K. B. 435; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Hassell v. Stanley, 1896, 1 Ch. 607, (where a set-off of costs in the High Court against costs in a County Court was refused); Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 201; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922. Interpleader proceedings (Barker v. Hemming, supra), and garnishee proceedings, (David v. Rees, supra), are separate and distinct proceedings from the original action in which they arise. Nor does the Rule extend to judgments on a claim and counter-claim where the latter is in the nature of a cross-action, so as to be treated as a distinct judgment: Link v. Bush, 13 P. R. 425. It applies to enable costs receivable out of a fund by a party to be set off against costs payable by that party personally in the suit: Batten v. Wedgwood Coal & Iron Co., 28 Ch. D. 317; and to enable costs payable by a married woman out of her separate estate to be set off against costs payable to her in the same proceedings: Hammond v. Keachie, 17 P. R. 565; Pelton v. Harrison, 1892, 1 Q. B. 118; 65 L. T. 845.

Where judgment is given for the plaintiff on his claim with costs, and for the defendant on his counter-claim with costs, and directing the amounts to be set off, the plaintiff's costs should be taxed as though he had wholly succeeded in the action, and the defendant's costs should be taxed as though he had wholly succeeded in the action: Summerfeldt v. Johnston, 17 P. R. 6.

This Rule, however, does not appear to authorize the Master or Taxing Officer to adjust the balance due on cross claims for costs, where one of the cross claims is in the nature of a claim for contribution for costs paid by a defendant which the plaintiff was also jointly liable to pay, but of which he has neglected to pay his share: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

A set-off of costs awarded but untaxed was refused, but an opportunity was given to have them taxed, and payment of the costs due to the other party was delayed to enable a set-off to be made: Re Craieshay, 45 Ch. D. 318; see also Re Clarke & Holmes, 16 P. R. 95.

The Taxing Officer should not close the taxation of the costs of the action where interlocutory costs are to be set off, unless the party entitled to them unduly delays bringing in his bill: Cousineau v. Park, 15 P. R. 37.

A change of solicitor is immaterial if the costs are in the same proceeding: Roberts v. Buée, 8 Ch. D. 198.

The set-off which is authorized by this Rule may be made irrespective of the lien of the solicitor of either party: see Wright v. Calvert, 34 C. L. J. 355; 18 C. L. T. 218. But the ultimate balance found due by one of the partners in a partnership suit cannot be set off against costs previously ordered to be paid to him in the action, to the prejudice of his solicitor's lien: Dawson v. Moffatt, 10 P. R. 336; nor can the costs payable to a beneficiary out of an estate be set off against the costs payable by him to other parties, to the prejudice of his solicitor's lien: Wright v. Bull, 16 P. R. 335; 24 S. C. R. 656; and see Hieron v. Hobson, 47 L. J. Chy. 574; see, however, Brigham v. Smith, 17 Gr. 512; but in this case no question of lien appears to have been raised. In the case of costs not within this Rule, by reason of their not being in the same action or proceeding, the solicitor's lien may prevent a set-off: see notes to Rule 1165.

In the following cases a set-off of costs in the same action was Rule 1165.
 allowed without regard to the solicitor's lien: Pringle v. Gloug, 10 Ch.
 D. 676; 40 L. T. 512; Cameron v. Campbell, 12 U. C. Q. B. 159; 1
 P. R. 170; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Maxwell v. Maxwell, 7 P.
 R. 63; Rawlings v. Smith, 7 Sc. 231.

Interlocutory costs incurred before judgment may be set-off by the Taxing Officer, without any order: Rule 1165; but if incurred after judgment an order is necessary: Elgie v. Butt, 18 P. R. 403.

Where a set-off of interlocutory costs is ordered, the set-off should be made before execution is issued, and the execution should be issued only for the balance: People's B. & L. Assn. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R.
 644.

1165. A set-off of damages or costs between parties shall Set-off of damages and costs not to prejudice solicitor's lien.
 not be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular action in which the set-off is sought: but interlocutory costs in the same action awarded to the adverse party may be deducted. Con. Rule 1205.

Taken from Rule T. T. 1856, 52.

This Rule adopts the former Equity rule, as to which, see Pringle
v. Gloug, 10 Ch. D. 76.

The Eng., 1883, R. 989, is entirely different, and as follows:—

"989. A set-off for damages or costs between parties may be allowed notwithstanding the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular cause or matter in which the set-off is sought."

The concluding clause in this Rule appears to be already covered by the provision of Rule 1164. As to what are "interlocutory costs":
 see Clarke v. Creighton, 14 P. R. 100; Re Clarke, 15 P. R. 269; 16
 P. R. 94; Flett v. Way, 14 P. R. at p. 316; Elgie v. Butt, 18 P. R.
 469; Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 162, 201.

This Rule does not interfere with the power of the Judge at the trial in disposing of the costs of an action and counter-claim therein, to direct a set-off without regard to any claim of lien on the part of the solicitor: Blancstiel v. Edwards, 5 O. W. R. 736.

The Common Law Rule 52, from which this Rule is taken, was in similar terms to the English Rule 63 H. T. 1853. The words "damages and costs" in this Rule apply to damages and costs payable in separate actions; and it is only where a set-off of damages and costs in separate actions is sought that the lien of the solicitor is to be protected: George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 518; Dunn v. West, 10 C. B. 420; Scott v. Richebourg, 11 C. B. 447.

Under this Rule a set-off of damages and costs between the same parties in different actions cannot be ordered to the prejudice of the lien of the solicitor of either of the parties: Turner v. Dow, 17 P.
 R. 475; see further as to the application of the Rule, Little v. Phil-potts, 8 Jur. N. S. 1175; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Re Harrold, 48 L. T. 352; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. R. D. 400; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers' Association, 7 P. R. 255; Molson Bank v. Cooper, 18 P. R. 396; David v. Rees, 1904, 2 K. B. 435.

On the application of defendants who had employed the same solicitor, a set-off has been allowed of costs due by the plaintiff to Rule 1165. one of the defendants as to whom he had failed, against damages and costs due to the plaintiff by the other defendants as to whom he had succeeded, without regard to the plaintiff's solicitor's lien: Ratcliffs v. Sewell, 7 Sc. 231; George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 518; Fortune v. Hickson, 1 U. C. Q. B. 408; Scoville v. Noble, 1 H. Bl. 23; Bank of Upper Canada v. Thomas, 10 Gr. 356; Wright v. Chard, 1 L. T. 182; 4 Drew. 702; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 160; and this, even though the defendants appeared by different solicitors: Lees v. Kendall, 3 A. & E. 707; 5 N. & M. 340; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 160; in Flett v. Way, 14 P. R. 312, a set-off under such circumstances, to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, was refused.

Claims for contribution cannot be allowed by the Master, or Taxing Officer, by way of set-off: see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318; the application must be made to a Judge: ib.

The lien of the solicitor only holds as against the opposite party to the extent of the costs between solicitor and client of the cause only, he cannot claim a general lien for all costs due him: Stephens v. Weston, 3 B. & C. 535; Watson v. Maskell, 1 Bing. N. C. 727.

In Jenner v. Morris, 11 W. R. 943, the lien of the solicitor was declared to be always subject to the equities between the parties; and see Mercer v. Graves, L. R. 7 Q. B. 499; but this view has not always been maintained by the Courts: see Re Cleland, L. R. 2 Chy. 508; Wright v. Bell, supra, p. 1382.

To the ordinary rule that a set-off of damages and costs in separate actions, will not be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, costs payable to a trustee out of the trust estate form an exception; and when costs are ordered to be paid out of a trust fund, the lien of the solicitor of the person entitled to receive the costs will not be allowed to interfere with the set-off, against the costs so payable, of any moneys payable by the client to the trust estate, though the latter may be payable under a judgment recovered in a separate action: Re Harrold, 51 L. T. 441.

Whether, for the purposes of this Rule, a claim and counter-claim are to be treated as separate actions is not very clear. In Broken v. Nelson, 11 P. R. 121, where the claim and counter-claim arose out of the same transaction, the set-off was allowed without providing for the solicitor's lien, see also Westacott v. Beran, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774; but in Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. v. Grant, 11 P. R. 208, the claim and counter-claim, though arising out of the same transaction, were held to be separate actions, and a set-off, to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, was refused. In Flett v. Way, 29 C. L. J. 192, a set-off of damages was allowed; but not a set-off of costs: S. C., 14 P. R. 312; and see Westacott v. Beran, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774.

In the following cases a set-off of costs payable in separate actions to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien was refused: Webb v. McArthur, 4 Chy. Ch. 63; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 222; 53 L. T. 60; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers' Assocn., 7 P. L. 255; and see Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97; Wardell v. Trenouth, 8 P. R. 142; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 600; Blakey v. Latham, 41 Ch. D. 518.

The solicitor's lien attaches to money payable to the plaintiff by way of compromise where such money is in substance the fruit of the action, and if a solicitor having notice of the lien procures the money to be paid to the plaintiff, he becomes personally liable to satisfy the lien: Ross v. Burton, 42 Ch. D. 130.

The possibility of a solicitor being able to recover his costs out of some other fund was held not to be a sufficient ground for allowing a set-off to the prejudice of his lien: Molsons Bank v. Cooper, 18 P. R. 396. Rules 1166, 1167.

A set-off of judgments was allowed, notwithstanding an assignment of one of the judgments for the benefit of creditors: Moody v. Can. Bank of Commerce, 14 P. R. 258, and see R. S. O. c. 147, s. 26.

Costs due by a party individually cannot be ordered to be set off against a fund due to him in a fiduciary character or even against his beneficial interest therein: Phillips v. Howell, 1901, 2 Ch. 773.

1166. Costs may be taxed on an award, although the time for appealing from or moving against the award has not elapsed. Con. Rule 1206. Costs may be taxed on an award, though time for moving not elapsed Arbitrators who have power under a statute to award costs, cannot, unless expressly authorized so to do, award them "as between solicitor and client": Re Beatty & Toronto, 13 P. R. 314; neither could they do so on a reference at Law, but it was otherwise in Equity: see Mordul v. Palmer, L. R. 6 Chy. 22, per Mellish, L.J., and Andrews v. Barnes, 58 L. T., per Fry, L.J., at p. 759. This excess of jurisdiction may be objected to on taxation, when the objection appears on the face of the award: Re Beatty & Toronto, supra.

The arbitrators should state the scale on which the costs awarded are to be taxed: see Re Preston, 16 P. R. 318.

As to the costs of arbitration generally, see R. S. O. c. 42, ss. 18, et seq.

1167. All bills of costs or disbursements in actions for the administration or partition, or for the foreclosure, redemption or sale of mortgaged premises, and all bills in other actions where the amount is to be paid out of an estate or out of a fund in Court, or in which any infant, lunatic or person of unsound mind is interested (or which is to be paid out of any estate in which any infant, lunatic or person of unsound mind is interested), shall be revised by one of the Taxing Officers at Toronto, before the amount thereof is inserted in any certificate, report, judgment, or order. Con. Rule 1207. Revision of certain costs

Revision of costs payable out of "a fund in Court" is not confined to cases where the Court has judicial control over, or has to exercise some judicial function in regard to the fund. The expression "a fund in Court" has no technical signification which makes it mean anything different from "a sum of money in Court": Cousineau v. London Fire Ins. Co., 13 P. R. 42.

The Court will not permit costs occasioned by improper litigation, or negligent conduct of proceedings, to be paid out of an estate under its care; and the amount of costs allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount which will be allowed out of an estate: Brown v. Burdett, 40 Ch. D. 152.

Rules

1168-1170. Where costs are payable out of a fund, a taxation cannot be waived by agreement between the solicitors without the consent of the parties beneficially interested: see In re Cosier, 1898, W. N. S. (12). The Rule applies not only to actions inter partes, but also to ex parte matters: see Re Norris, 5 O. L. R. 39.

No sum to be inserted for costs in report, until after revision.

1168. In any such case no sum is to be inserted in the report of a Local Master or other officer as taxed and allowed for costs, until such revision by a Taxing Officer; but in case of urgency a writ of execution may be issued to levy debt or costs, or both, upon the order of a Judge, subject to the future revision by the Taxing Officer. Con. Rule 1210.

See Chy. O. 313.

But in case of urgency execution may issue.

1169. Pending a revision, judgment may be entered and execution issued, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders; and in case of an execution being so issued, if the amount taxed is reduced on revision, the party entitled to the costs shall forthwith give notice of the reduction and of the amount thereof to the Sheriff or other officer in whose hands the execution had been placed; and the amount struck off on the revision shall be deducted from the amount indorsed on the execution. Con. Rule 1211.

Judgment and execution pending revision

Not taken from any English Rule. Adapted from J. A. R. 439 (d).

See Rule 1168.

Revision of taxations by local officers.

1170. A Local Master or other local officer shall forthwith, after taxing any such bill of costs, transmit the same by mail to Toronto, addressed to the proper Taxing Officer, and he shall allow in the bill the postage for the transmission and return of the bill, and shall prepay the same; and shall allow in the bill the sum of one dollar as a fee for the revision of the bill by the Taxing Officer at Toronto, and a law stamp for that sum, with postage stamps for the postage, shall be paid at the time of taxation by the party procuring the bill to be taxed; and the Local Master or other officer shall transmit with the bill to the Taxing Officer at Toronto the law stamp, and the necessary stamps for postage on the return of the bill. Con. Rule 1208.

Taken from Chy. O. 311.

Review of taxation.

A revision of taxation is now necessary to be had only in the class of actions mentioned in Rule 1167.

A review of taxation may now be had as provided by Rules 1182, 1183; and an appeal therefrom to a Judge, as provided by Rules 773, 1171, 1172. These Rules supply no machinery for carrying a taxation from a Local Officer before either of the Taxing Officers in Toronto, except in the cases mentioned in Rule 1167.

Appeal from taxation by local officers, how brought 1171. The Taxing Officer at Toronto, upon receiving the bill of costs, shall examine the same, and mark in the margin such sums as appear to him to have been improperly allowed, or to be questionable; and he shall revise the taxation either ex parte or upon notice to the Toronto agent of the solicitor whose bill is in question, as he may see fit; but he shall notify such agent (if any) in all cases where the taxation is not clearly erroneous, or where the amount in question is so large as in the judgment of the Taxing Officer to make such notification proper. The notification may be by appointment mailed to the address of the agent (if any). If upon the revision the sums disallowed amount to one-twentieth of the amount allowed upon taxation, the Taxing Officer shall add to the amount taxed off the amount of postage, and the sum of one dollar afore-said, and shall thereupon re-transmit the bill so revised to the Local Master or other officer. Con. Rule 1209.

Receipt of Taxing Officer on receipt of bill for

Taken from Chy. O. 312.

The Taxing Officer, on revision, may restore items improperly disallowed by a Local Master; as well as strike out, or reduce, any which may have been improperly allowed, even though in the discretion of the local officer: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555.

Powers of Taxing Officer on revision.

But the Taxing Officer cannot receive evidence to shew that costs are payable otherwise than the order awarding them, construed by the ordinary rules of construction, directs: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; and see Edwards v. Pearson, 3 C. L. T. 504.

1172. Mileage shall not be taxed or allowed for the service of any writ, paper or proceeding, without an affidavit stating the sum actually disbursed and paid for such mileage, and the name of the person to whom such payment has been made; and, except in cases provided for in Rule 148, fees shall not be allowed for the mileage or service of writs of summons unless served, and sworn to have been served, by the Sheriff, his deputy or bailiff, being a literate person (or by a Coroner when the Sheriff is a party to the action), nor unless a return of the Sheriff or Coroner (as the case may be) is indorsed thereon. Con. Rule 1212.

Mileage not allowed on service of writs unless served by Sheriff.

Adopted from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 365; Rule T. T. 1876, 160.

Rule 1173 It would seem that the rules in regard to the allowance of costs in service of writs of summons apply to the costs of serving subpoenas. Carty v. City of London, 13 P. R. 285.

Affidavit of disbursements to be made by solicitor, or his clerk having management of cause, or the client.

1173.—(1) An affidavit of disbursements shall be made by the solicitor in the cause or matter or some clerk having the management thereof, or by the client.

Form of.

(2) The affidavit shall set forth the sums paid to counsel, naming them, and for what services, the names of witnesses, their places of abode, the places at which they were subpoenaed, and the distance which each such witness was necessarily obliged to travel in order to attend the trial, and the sums paid to them, and shall state that all such witnesses were necessary and material for the client in the cause, or matter, that they did attend, and that they did not attend as witnesses in any other cause (or otherwise, as the case may be), and the number of days which each witness was necessarily absent from home in order to attend such trial. If a solicitor attends as a witness, it shall be stated whether or not he attended at the place of trial as solicitor or witness in any other cause, and whether or not he had any other business there. The day on which the trial took place shall be stated. Con. Rule 1213, part.

Adopted from Rule T. T. (1856) 165.

Costs of witness rejected not allowed.

Where a witness is rejected at Nisi Prius, and the ruling of the Judge is acquiesced in by the parties, and upheld by the Court, the expenses of his attendance are not allowed on taxation as between party and party: Galloway v. Keyworth, 15 C. B. 228. So, where a witness is rejected by an arbitrator, whether upon a sufficient, or an insufficient ground: Id. And where witnesses were subpoenaed by the plaintiff to attend at a trial which was postponed in consequence of the defendant's default, and the defendant was ordered to pay the costs of the day, and at a subsequent trial the witnesses in question were examined and their evidence proved to be immaterial, the costs of their attendance at the abortive trial were disallowed as against the defendant: Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149. The costs of a commission to take evidence abroad, when the evidence so taken is not actually used at the trial, may be disallowed: Dominion Co. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; but the fact of its not being used, is not alone a sufficient ground for disallowing the costs: Rondot v. Municipal Times, 18 P. R. 141; Bartlett v. Higgins, 1901. 2 K. B. 230, 84 L. T. 509.

Witness fees for attendance, how allowed.

When a cause at the Assizes is over at three o'clock in the afternoon, witnesses may reasonably be allowed the following day for their return home, though their place of residence be distant only about fifty miles, and accessible by trains on the same evening: Fryer v. Sturt, 16 C. B. 218. It is not a general rule that parties, if witnesses, are to have an allowance for their attendance: Dandell v. Australian Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, 3 El. & Bl. 902.

Witness fees may be paid by settling off, with the consent of the Rule 1173. witness, the sum payable against a sum due to the party subpoenaing the witness, and an affidavit of disbursements describing such a transaction as a payment of the witness fees was held to be correct: Re Subpoena, 9 C. L. T. 35.

Witness fees actually paid are taxable though the witness may have travelled by rail on a free pass: Kerr v. Canadian Construction Co., 5 O. W. R. 108.

Witnesses are not, in general, allowed for attendance before the day appointed for the opening of the Court: see Harvey v. Dwyer, 16 C. B. 497. But when a material witness is going abroad, but is detained on subpoena, his subsistence for the whole time he is detained may be allowed: Potter v. Rankin, L. R. 5 C. P. 518; and the necessary expenses of procuring the attendance of a witness residing out of the jurisdiction may be allowed: Bell v. Crompton Carpet Co., 11 P. R. 256.

Under the English Rule 1092 (9), which authorizes the allowance of such just and reasonable charges and expenses as appear to have been properly incurred in procuring evidence, the expense of surveys by surveyors to qualify themselves to give evidence was allowed: Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. 16 273; and see Lea v. Griffith, L. R. 20 Eq. 650; but there is no corresponding provision in Canada. In Mellonson v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555, it was held that surveys and plans made to enable witnesses to give evidence, are not taxable between party and party; and costs of a preliminary examination of accounts by an accountant to qualify himself to give evidence were disallowed between party and party: Nelson v. Calceon, L. R. 8 Q. B. 84. See also Rule 1174, 1177, and notes.

The costs of sending a special commissioner abroad to take evidence in a case of a complicated and important character were allowed: Yglesias v. Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation, L. R. 5 C. P. 141.

A counsel fee to counsel in British Columbia for attending at an examination of witnesses was held to be taxable between party and party: Logan v. Kirk, 14 P. R. 130.

The Taxing Officer may examine into the truth of affidavits of increase: Boulton v. Seitzer, 1 C. L. Cham. 83. The omission of the Christian name of a witness in the affidavit is immaterial: Horn v. Losher, 24 U. C. Q. B. 357. All witnesses should be paid before taxation, and only the sums actually paid are taxable: Id. Milonge for serving subpoenas is not to be allowed unless the service is effected by the Sheriff or his officer: Rule 1172; McLain v. Evans, 3 P. R. 154; Carty v. London, 13 P. R. 285. Where witnesses are subpoenaed and paid by both parties, the successful party is entitled to recover the costs of such witnesses from the other party: Id. The costs of a witness called to prove facts admitted by the defendant in his examination for discovery may be allowed: Alexander v. Gloucester, 11 P. R. 157; and see Randall v. Monetary Times, 18 P. R. 141.

Where it is discovered that fees have been allowed on a false affidavit, and nothing has been paid, on motion to the Court they may be disallowed; but there is no jurisdiction in Chambers to entertain such an application: Harding v. Knust, 15 P. R. 80, and Harnick v. Ramney, 11 C. L. T. 329. In the latter case counsel fees not paid at the time of the making of the affidavit, which stated that they had been paid, were disallowed, though paid before the taxation was closed.

Rules
1174, 1175.

Maps and plans.

1174. The necessity for maps or plans used at the trial, the sum paid for them, and that they were prepared or procured with a view to the trial of the cause, shall be shewn by an affidavit of disbursements. Con. Rule 1213, part.

The costs of plans and models, etc., useful to aid the Court and jury in coming to a right conclusion may be allowed: Padgrinc v. Southampton & Dorchester C. R. Co., 8 C. L. 25; Batten v. Kynoch, L. R. 20 Eq. 632; McGinnon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555. See note to Rule 1173, supra.

Taxations between
party.

1175. Where [costs] are to be paid or borne by another party, no costs are to be allowed which do not appear to the Taxing Officer to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice or defending the rights of the party. Con. Rule 1214.

See Eng. CASS. R. 1002 (23); and see J. A. Rule 442. The word in brackets, though not in the official copy of the Rule, appears to be implied.

As to the general rule that the costs taxable between party and party are only those necessary to enable the party to conduct the litigation, see Smith v. Butler, L. R. 19 Eq. 473.

Where, under an order directing an account of what was due to a party in respect of costs of proceedings taken to enforce a judgment in the Exchequer Division, the Taxing Master disallowed the costs of certain abortive garnishee summonses, it was held that the Master was not precluded by the form of order from disallowing any costs he thought proper, and that, under this Rule, he was bound to do so: Shorrocks v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154.

So a clause in an order for a commission directing that costs of the order, commission and depositions to be taken thereunder, should be costs in the cause, was held not to preclude the Taxing Officer from disallowing the costs where the evidence had not been used: Dominion, etc., v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; see Declarique v. Ozenhorne & Co., W. N. 1883, 227; Re McMillan, 8 C. L. J. 285. Charges not strictly under the tariff of costs, but for work done which saves the greater expense of proceeding in the regular way, may be allowed whether done between the solicitors, or by one party alone: Torrance v. Torrance, 18 C. L. J. 223; 2 C. L. T. 311; 9 P. R. 271.

Costs of unnecessary proceedings by writ for administration, instead of proceeding by motion, are not taxable, even between solicitor and client: Re Allenby, 14 P. R. 235. Where a solicitor is consulted it is an important part of his duty to advise the adoption of a comparatively cheap remedy, in preference to one far more costly, and not more efficacious: Ib., per Hagarty, C.J.O.

Copies of pleadings where necessary for an interlocutory motion will be allowed: Warner v. Mosses, W. N. 1881, 135; 45 L. T. 359; 17 C. L. J. 479; 17 Ch. D. 72.

Where an action is dismissed with costs it means the cost of all defendants, and in all capacities in which they are defendants: Woolley v. Coleman, W. N. 1884, R. 336; 80 L. T. Jour. 329.

Where an action is brought against a solicitor who defends it in person and obtains judgment, he is entitled upon taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor except in respect of items Rule 1176 which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary: London Scottish Benefit Society v. Chorley, 12 Q. B. 11, 452. Where he nominally appeared by a solicitor, but did the work himself, the same costs were held to be taxable: King v. Moger, 9 P. R. 544; see Bank v. Burroughs, 12 S. C. R. 184.

As to the allowance of costs to a solicitor conducting several similar actions for different clients at the same time, see Re Metropolitan, etc., Coal Co., 45 Ch. D. 661; Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 248.

Costs incurred after the death of the client were disallowed, though the solicitor was not aware of the death: Pool v. Pool, 61 L. T. 404.

As to when defendants should appear by the same solicitor, or may appear by separate solicitors; see Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, p. 124; Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150; Connolly v. Hill, 16 L. 441; Born v. Turner, 1890, 2 Ch. 211, and notes to Rule 1162.

In Re Lyall, 20 Sol. Jour. 280, trustees, viz., the widow of the testator, who was also tenant for life, and three others, were allowed two sets of costs, they having severed, on the ground that the Rush was, that a trustee, also a tenant for life, might appear separately from his co-trustees.

Defendants joining in a statement of defence may sometimes properly separate at the trial, and be represented by different counsel, where their cases are distinct; see Ayer v. Blackstock, 56 L. T. 800; see also Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 680.

A defendant in person may be made an allowance for his time and trouble in arguing the case: Miller v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 430.

Where by an order allowing the plaintiff to make an amendment the costs were made costs in the cause, it was held that the Taxing Officer had no discretion under this Rule to disallow these costs in taxing the plaintiff's costs of the cause: Edwards v. Pearson, 20 C. L. J. 93; 3 C. L. T. 504.

In Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149, a trial was postponed owing to defendant not having obeyed an order to produce, defendant to pay the costs rendered nugatory by the postponement. The plaintiff subpoenaed seventeen witnesses, who were examined at the adjourned trial upon matters which the Judge held could not be interfered with by the Court. It was held that the Taxing Officer in refusing the plaintiff the costs of these witnesses did not erroneously exercise the discretion given him by this Rule.

See also Goodfellow v. Shuttworth, 3 C. L. T. 105; Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574; Carlisle v. Roblin, 16 P. R. 328.

Where solicitor and client costs are to be paid between party and party, the proper form of order is to direct the costs to be taxed "as between solicitor and client," but in such a case where the costs are ordered to be taxed "between solicitor and client" no greater costs can be taxed: Heastip v. Heastip, 14 P. R. 165. A retainer fee agreed to be paid by a party cannot be allowed on a taxation "as between solicitor and client": McKee v. Hamlin, 16 P. R. 297. As to retainer between solicitor and client, see infra, p. 1394.

1176.—(1) Between party and party the Taxing Officer shall not allow the costs of proceedings:

(a) Unnecessarily taken:

Costs of unnecessary proceedings not to be taxed

Rule 1174.

- (b) Not calculated to advance the interests of the party on whose behalf the same were taken;
- (c) Incurred through over-caution, negligence or mistake;

unless he is of opinion that such proceedings were taken by the solicitor because, in his judgment, reasonably exercised, they were conducive to the interests of his client.

Exception in case of taxation between solicitor and his client, when costs incurred at client's request after notice that proceeding unnecessary.

(2) Between solicitor and client the Taxing Officer may allow the costs of proceedings taken as mentioned in the above clauses (a) and (c) of this Rule, where he is of the opinion that such proceedings were taken by the solicitor because, in his judgment, reasonably exercised, they were conducive to the interests of his client, and may allow the costs of proceedings taken as mentioned in clause (b) where the same were taken by the desire of the client after being informed by his solicitor that the same were unnecessary and not calculated to advance the interests of the client. Con. Rule 1215.

Adopted from Chy. O. 306.

See also Rules 1136, 1154, 1155, which also relate to the disallowance of costs of unnecessary proceedings.

The costs of unnecessary affidavits, going into the merits, filed on a motion for leave to appeal from a Master's report: Nash v. Glover, 6 P. R. 267; and on a motion to vacate a decree: Redford v. Todd, 4 P. R. 154, and on production of documents: Baldwin v. Quinn, 14 P. R. 248, were disallowed. Costs rendered unnecessary by a slip of the solicitor cannot be recovered, even by the solicitor from his client: Re Massay, 76 L. T. Jour. 1361; and see Re Allenby, and Baldwin v. Quinn, supra, p. 1390.

The Court does not allow out of an estate costs of proceedings which were of no benefit to it. See notes to Rule 944, supra, p. 1186, and Re Gynstow, 58 L. T. 74; 59 L. T. 594; 33 W. R. 216; Re Allenby, 14 P. R. 227.

Where, in an administration suit, the plaintiffs, who were next of kin, had incurred the expense of several journeys to examine the books of the estate and make inquiries, etc.; and also of other proceedings in the Master's office, without the consent of the creditors who were alone beneficially interested, and after they knew that the estate was insolvent, such costs were disallowed: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 575.

An objection that a person examined for discovery was not liable to be so examined, is not open on taxation: Logan v. Kirk, 14 P. R. 130.

The costs of preparing and tendering a conveyance before suit are not taxable as costs in a cause subsequently brought: Pringh v. ..., 7 P. R. 152.

Costs incurred in anticipation of a threatened suit were, however, Rule 1177, allowed, e.g., where a defendant was threatened with an action in respect to fraud disclosed in another action in which he was not a party, and therefore obtained a transcript of the speeches, evidence and judgment in the latter case, he was allowed on taxation so much of the transcript of the evidence and judgment as related to the question whether the defendant was a party or privy to the fraud: Bright v. Sellar, 1904, 1 Ch. 339; 60 L. T. 155.

Costs occasioned by unnecessarily adding a number of sub-tenants as parties defendant, in an action by a landlord to recover possession, were disallowed: Green v. Herring, 1905, 1 K. B. 152; 62 L. T. 37.

In some cases it may be necessary to have a direction in the judgment, in regard to costs incurred in consequence of an unreasonable course pursued by the other party, to enable the Taxing Officer to allow such costs: Garward v. Edge, 41 Ch. D. 224; 62 L. T. 510.

The amount allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount to be allowed out of an estate: Broen v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207; 40 Ch. D. 214.

Notwithstanding this Rule, charges and allowances, which might very properly be allowed on a taxation between solicitor and client, when the costs come out of the plaintiff's fund, or one in which he is interested, may nevertheless be disallowed out of a fund in which he has no interest: Re Robertson, supra; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25.

The mere non-communication by a solicitor to his client of an offer of settlement does not prove that proceedings after the offer were unnecessary, so that the costs of them should be disallowed under this Rule, unless the offer was an advantageous one, the acceptance of which the solicitor ought to have advised, and it can be fairly inferred that he did not do so merely to put further costs into his pocket, without regard to the interest of his client: Re O'Donoghue, 12 P. R. 612.

Actions by two plaintiffs by the same solicitor against the same defendants, though supported mainly by the same evidence, are upon taxation of plaintiffs' costs to be taxed as two actions (in the absence of special order as to the conduct of the actions), except as regards attendances or other matters which were or ought to have been done at the same time in both cases: Re Metropolitan Coal Consumers' Assoc., Guest's Case, 45 Ch. D. 605; Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 248.

See Latour v. Smith, in note to Rule 1154.

1177. Where costs are to be taxed between party and party, the Taxing Officer may allow the like costs as are taxable where costs are directed to be taxed as between solicitor and client, in respect of the following matters:

1. Advising with counsel on the pleadings, evidence, and other proceedings;
2. Procuring counsel to settle such pleadings and petitions as may appear to have been proper to be settled by counsel;

Certain costs taxable between party and party to be allowed as between solicitor and client.

Rules
1178, 1179.

3. Procuring and attending consultations of counsel;
4. The amendment of pleadings;
5. On proceedings in the Master's Office;
6. Supplying counsel with copies of, or extracts from, necessary documents. Con. Rule 1216.

Taken from Chy. O. 307.

This Rule is not so fall as either the Eng. Chy. Order on which it is founded (see Morgan, 548-550), or the present Eng. R. (1883-1902 (27)). In consequence of the omission of some such expression as "procuring evidence," which is to be found in the Eng. O. and Rule, no sum can be allowed between party and party for payment to a scientific witness to get up a case; see McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555. A reasonable sum is taxable in England; see Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 473; Churton v. Frewen, 15 W. R. 559; Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. D. 273; Windham v. Bainton, 21 Q. B. D. 190.

Charges for procuring copies of opinions of Judges in another action, which were of assistance to counsel, were disallowed: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273.

A retaining fee actually paid by a client was held to be taxable between solicitor and client: Re Fraser, 13 P. R. 409; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25; but a retaining fee agreed to be paid but not actually paid, cannot be taxed "as between solicitor and client"; McKee v. Hamlin, 16 P. R. 207; nor against the client: Ford v. Mason, supra; nor can any other bargain to pay more than taxable costs be enforced against the client: Re Geddes, 2 Chy. Ch. 447. "The client may pay more if he likes, and the payment may not, under the circumstances, be liable to be recalled; but if he only promise to pay, the promise is a nudum pactum," per Mowat, V.C.; Ib., p. 450.

The Court will not on appeal usually interfere with the Taxing Officer's discretion as to the allowance of interlocutory costs, nor as to the amount allowed for counsel fees: Smith v. Harwood, 17 P. R. 33.

Tariff of
costs.

1178. Costs shall be allowed and taxed according to the table of costs set forth in the Tariff A appended to these Rules, and no other fees, costs or charges than are therein set forth shall be allowed in respect of the matters thereby provided for. Con. Rule 1217, amended.

Tariff of disbursements.

1179. The fees and disbursements payable in stamps or otherwise upon proceedings in the High Court and Court of Appeal and in the County Court shall henceforward be those enumerated in the Tariff B appended to these Rules. Con. Rule 1218, amended.

Formerly there was a Lower Scale Tariff applicable to certain cases of an equitable nature; that tariff has not been continued in the present consolidation, for the reason that the jurisdiction of the Rules County Courts has been extended so as to enable them to grant equitable relief in certain cases: see R. S. O. c. 55, s. 23 (9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14), supra, 1361; and if such cases are now brought in the High Court, the County Court Tariff will be applicable thereto, in like manner as it is applicable to any case of a Common Law character brought in the High Court which ought to have been brought in a County Court: see Rule 1132.

Costs of appeals to the Court of Appeal under the Drainage Act from the Drainage Referee are taxable on the High Court scale: Metcalf v. Colechester, 2 O. L. R. 103.

Costs are taxable according to the Tariff in force at the time they are incurred, notwithstanding the subsequent repeal of such Tariff: Delap v. Charlebois, 18 P. R. 417; Luch v. Barlaud, S. O. L. R. 174.

1180. Where a seal is under section 154 (x) of The Judicature Act, 1895, impressed on any document which before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, did not require to be sealed, the fee of fifty cents mentioned in the section 183 (y) of The Judicature Act, 1895, shall not be payable on such document. Con. Rule 1225.

(y) Now sec. 183, supra, p. 190.

This Rule was passed to prevent the fee of 50 cents, payable under sec. 183 of the Act for the seal of the Court, from being payable on ordinary filings on which, under sec. 152, the seal is to be impressed.

1181. The practice of any Court, whose jurisdiction is vested in the High Court of Justice or Court of Appeal, relating to costs, and to the allowance of the fees of solicitors, and to the taxation of costs, existing prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, shall in so far as not inconsistent with The Judicature Act, 1895, and the Rules of Court, remain in force and be applicable to costs of the same or analogous proceedings, and to the allowance of the fees of solicitors of the Supreme Court and the taxation of costs in the High Court of Justice and Court of Appeal. Con. Rule 1226.

Application of former practice.

See Peinle v. Gibby, 10 Ch. D. 676.

Rules 154 and 168 of T. T. 1876, and the practice under them not inconsistent with the Jud. Act, are in effect preserved in force by this Rule, and under such practice the Taxing Officer may allow what is reasonable for procuring the attendance of foreign witnesses: Ball v. Compton Carpet Co., 11 P. R. 256.

Rule 1182.

(ii) *Review of Taxation Between Party and Party.*objection to taxation.

1182—(1) A party dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the Taxing Officer, of the whole or any part of any item may, at any time before the certificate is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein and to the Taxing Officer, objections in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying concisely the items objected to, and may thereupon apply to the Taxing Officer to review the taxation in respect of the same. Gen. Rule 1230.

Taken from J. A. Rule 447.

Taxation
of costs.

(2) The Taxing Officer shall hold the taxation open for a reasonable time in order to allow such objections to be delivered. Rules 22 June, 1894, 1374.

See the Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (391).

This Rule and Rules 773 and 774 make it clear that the filing of objections is only necessary in party and party taxations.

The last clause affirms what was decided in Cousineau v. P. 15 P. R. 37.

Where the question is as to the principle of the whole taxation, and not as to particular items: Sparrow v. Hill, 7 Q. B. D. 362; 8 Q. B. D. 470; Clark v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260; Re Fletcher & Dunn, 52 W. R. 27; or where the objection is to the finding of the Taxing Officer on a preliminary question, and the bill is not taxed at all, or for instance, where the Taxing Officer finds that a settlement has been made, which under the terms of the order for taxation is not to be disturbed: Re Geo. Cuth, 33 Ch. D. 194; it is not necessary to specify objections under this Rule; but see Craske v. Wade, 80 L. R. 480, where it was held that the Rule applied notwithstanding the cases, where the Taxing Officer refused to tax the plaintiff's costs, meeting a counter-claim on the merits, on the ground that such costs were unnecessarily incurred.

When a party carries in an objection in writing to an allowance or disallowance under this Rule, he is only bound to state the item to which he objects, not the reasons of his objection; Simmons v. Stager, 11 Ch. D. 154. The present Eng. R. 1002 (391), provides differently as it inserts at (a) the words "and the grounds and reasons for such objection."

A Sheriff, as an officer of the Court claiming fees by virtue of its process, is so far within its jurisdiction that his bill may be taxed, and this Rule will therefore apply to prevent an appeal as to fees not brought before the Taxing Officer for review: Morrison v. Tait, 5 P. R. 300.

Except therefore, as above mentioned, an appeal does not lie, unless objections are carried before the officer, as required by this Rule; see Rule 771, and Smardon v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 248; nor can an appeal be allowed as to any item not included in such objections: Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273; Campbell v. Baker, D. O. L. R.

291. Any objections to the taxation must be carried in in writing Rule 1183 before the signature of the officer is affixed to his certificate: Cuerrier v. White, 12 P. R. 371; but see clause (2). It is a sufficient certificate if the officer ascertains the correct amount payable at the foot of the bill, and notes the bill of costs as taxed at such sum, with the date, and verifies the whole by his signature: Id. After having so acted, the Taxing Officer has no power to alter what has been allowed or allowed, except mere clerical errors: Id.; Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444.

A person who is not a party to the making of an order for the taxation of costs, and who desires to have the taxation reviewed, ought to apply to set aside the order for taxation, and not apply to review the taxation: Charlton v. Charlton, W. N. 1882, 183; 31 W. R. 237.

For form of stating objections, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1624.

See also Turnbull v. Janson, 3 C. P. D. 234, for examples of objections.

1183. Upon the application the Taxing Officer shall re-^{review of} consider and review his taxation upon such objections, and ^{taxation} he may receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if ^{by Taxing} required, he shall state either in his certificate of taxation or ^{Officer.} by reference to such objections, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstance relating thereto. Con. Rule 1231.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (40).

A notice served at 4.30 p.m. to consider objections at 4 p.m. on the following day, was considered sufficient in Re Hill, 33 Ch. D. 266.

The officer should include in his certificate of the result the points of objection to his taxation. After giving a certificate of the result he is functus officio: Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444. Certificates of ruling on any points pending the taxation may be given, from which an appeal may be had: Id.

Appeals from taxations are governed by analogy to appeals from Chamber orders, and should therefore, under Rule 767, be brought on within ten days from the date of the certificate on a notice served within four days: Stark v. Fisher, 11 P. R. 234.

Upon an appeal the Judge has no power to review or revise the taxation of any items not objected to as provided by Rule 1182, nor refer them for review or revision to any officer: Campbell v. Baker, 9 O. L. R. 291, and semble, he has no power to refer the bill or the items objected to to any officer, but should himself decide the question raised by the objection.

(iii) Taxation of Costs Between Solicitor and Client.

The right of solicitors to recover their costs as against their clients, is governed by The Act respecting Solicitors (R. S. O. c. 174), which also regulates the rights of their clients, and third persons liable to pay their costs, to compel a delivery of their bills, and to have the same taxed.

Rule 1184. Notwithstanding that a retainer of a solicitor by two persons is in form a joint one, the Court will look into the facts of the case to discern the real nature of the transaction, and will determine the rights of the solicitor and clients accordingly; such a retainer does not necessarily make the persons signing it joint debtors: Re Cameron, 18 P. R. 176.

The relation between country solicitor and town agent is that of client and solicitor: Reid v. Burrows, 1892, 2 Ch. 413; 40 W. R. 620.

As to whether a solicitor can recover costs for services performed while he had not taken out his annual certificate, see R. S. O. c. 174, ss. 2, 13, 22-24; Re Sweeting, 1898, 1 Ch. 268; Macdougall v. Law Society, 18 S. C. R. 203.

Counsel may sue the client for his fees. No preliminary delivery of a signed bill is necessary, as in the case of a solicitor suing for his costs. Solicitors who employ counsel have implied authority to pledge the client's credit for payment, and legal privity exists between the counsel and the client. The solicitor is not liable to the counsel unless it is so agreed expressly or by implication from the course of dealing: Armour v. Kilmer, 28 Ont. 618.

The provisions of R. S. O. c. 174, ss. 34-51, which deal with delivery and taxation of solicitor's bills, are as follows:—

Delivery of Bill.

Solicitors to deliver their bill one month before bringing action for costs.

34. No action shall be brought for the recovery of fees, charges or disbursements, for business done by a Solicitor as such, until one month after a bill thereof, subscribed with the proper hand of such Solicitor, his executor, administrator or assignee (or, in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, either with his own name, or with the name or style of such partnership), has been delivered to the party to be charged therewith, or sent by the post to, or left for him at his counting-house, office of business, dwelling-house, or last known place of abode, or has been enclosed in or accompanied by a letter subscribed in like manner, referring to such bill. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 31.

Retainer.—It is always advisable for the solicitor to take a written retainer from his client: see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6.

The retainer of a solicitor by a corporation should be under the corporate seal, or be authorized by by-law: Barrie v. Barrie, 19 P. R. 33, but a retainer of a solicitor by a corporation, sealed after the work has been done, is valid and binding: Brooks v. Torquay, 1902, 1 K. R. 601.

The delivery of the bill of costs must be made in one or other of the modes mentioned in this section.

The month referred to in this section is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (15). It must be computed exclusive of the day of delivery, and of the commencement of the action: see Blunt v. Heslop, 8 Ad. & E. 577; Re Morphy, 2 Chy. Ch. 56.

The bill must be drawn in proper form and should set out the items of the fees and disbursements in detail, or an action on it cannot be maintained: Wilkinson v. Smart, 33 L. T. 573; and see Re Mount, 17 P. R. 186; but where a bill is delivered in which some of the items are properly set out, and others are not, it was held that those properly set out were recoverable: Blake v. Hummell, 51 L. T. 431.

A payment of the amount of an account in which no items are set out, and which is not a bill of costs, does not prevent the client from obtaining delivery of a proper bill, and the ordinary order for its taxation: Re Callis, 49 W. R. 316. See also Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

A payment for succession duty made by a solicitor on behalf of his client is not a "disbursement," and should not be included in his bill of costs: Re Kingston v. Wilson, 1902, 2 Ch. 242; 50 W. R. 533; semble, that the same is the case in regard to counsel fees paid by the solicitor for the client: see per Boyd, C., in Cobham Manufg. Co. v. Lake Simcoe Hotel Co., 5 D. L. R. 447.

Agency charges cannot be lumped: Re Pomeron, 1807, 1 Ch. 284.

The bill should contain only charges for strictly professional services, for which items should be given. A lump sum for charges for services rendered in other capacities, such as an agent for collection of rents due to the client, should not be inserted in a bill of costs: Re Shilson, 10 L. T. 641.

Where the services rendered are not in reference to actual litigation, e.g., for negotiation out of Court, the charges authorized by the tariff do not apply, and a quantum meruit for such services may be allowed in a lump sum, having regard to the difficulty or importance of the services rendered and the amount affected: see Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1; In re Attorneys, 23 C. P. 495; and see Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

The assignee of a solicitor may deliver a bill signed by himself, and at the expiration of a month may sue for its recovery: Lugh v. McUtchan, 12 Q. B. D. 518; but see Re Ward, 28 Ch. D. 719.

The contract of a solicitor retained to conduct an ordinary action of a Common Law nature is to carry it on to a conclusion, and if he refuses to continue to act before the conclusion of the case, except for some reasonable cause, and upon reasonable notice to his client, he cannot maintain an action for his costs: Underwood v. Levis, 1894, 2 Q. B. 306; 70 L. T. 833; but the rule seems to be otherwise where the action is one for equitable relief: see In re Hall, 9 Ch. D. 738.

This section only applies to services rendered as a solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature, the bill of which is properly the subject of a taxation: Re Shilson, supra; thus it was held not to be applicable to services rendered by a solicitor as a notary in procuring a pension from the United States Government, for which the solicitor was held entitled to sue without previously rendering any bill: Ostrom v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. 336; but see O'Connor v. Gaudin, 29 Ont. 47, 34 Ont. App. 27, the case of a solicitor acting in the Exchequer Court of Canada; and see Re McBrady, 19 P. R. 37, where services were rendered in reference to a claim upon an estate in England: Re Baker v. Lees & Co., 1901, 1 K. R. 189, a bill for services before Parliamentary Committees.

Although no action can be brought by a solicitor to recover his bill of costs until a month has expired from the delivery of his bill to his client; still that is a provision merely affecting procedure, and the Statute of Limitations runs against the solicitor from the date when the last service included in the bill was rendered, even though the client was out of the jurisdiction when the bill was delivered, and did not return within the jurisdiction until within six years prior to the commencement of an action on the bill: Coleburn v. Callidge, Rule 1184. 1897, 1 Q. B. 702; 76 L. T. 608; but the solicitor may sue to set aside a fraudulent conveyance by his client before the expiration of a month; Seane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370; and in case his client is about to abscond, he may by leave of a Judge of the High Court, or of a County Court, be authorized to commence an action, although the month has not expired; s. 44, infra; and he may also, notwithstanding that a bill has not been delivered, set up his claim by way of counter-claim or set-off in an action brought against him by his client; Taylor v. Robinson, 31 S. C. R. 617; or, where, by agreement with a client who has a cross-claim against him, an account of both has been stated, shewing a balance in the solicitor's favour, he may maintain an action for that balance; Turner v. Willis, 1905, 1 K. B. 408; 92 L. T. 412.

To entitle the solicitor to sue, his bill delivered must be signed, or accompanied by a letter referring to the bill signed by the solicitor, but this provision may be waived by the client; Re Gedge, 14 Beav. 56; and see Re Jones, infra; and, semble, is not necessary where the services charged for were not rendered as a solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature, e.g., where they were performed in the Exchequer Court of Canada; see O'Connor v. Gemmill, 20 Ont. 47; but see S. C. in appeal, 20 Ont. App. 27.

Delivery, and constructive delivery, to the third parties liable to pay, were discussed in Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553.

Adding to bill rendered.

Where, as formerly, the costs of the taxation depended on whether or not one-sixth was struck off, it was held that after a bill was delivered the solicitor could not, without leave of the Court or Judge, withdraw it, and substitute a new one, even though the bill delivered was not signed; Re Jones, 54 L. T. 648; and see Re Kellack, 56 L. T. 887; nor could a supplemental bill be delivered as of course, but might be allowed on a special application; Re O'Donoghue, 14 P. R. 571; 15 P. R. 93.

A bill once unconditionally rendered could not be added to, or deducted from, by the solicitor, without leave; Re Dapp, 1 C. L. J. 213; and special circumstances must be shown; see Re O'Donoghue, supra. A substituted bill was allowed to be delivered in Re B. & S., 6 P. R. 18. But where an unsigned bill has been delivered, which the client treats as a nullity, and applies for and obtains an order for the delivery and taxation of a bill, the solicitor may, in that case, deliver an entirely new bill, and increase his charges; Re Walsh, 7 O. L. R. 41.

Where a bill was delivered indorsed as follows:—"In the event of taxation, we reserve to ourselves the right to deliver another and more complete bill," this was held to be an absolute delivery; Re Spencer & McDonald, 19 Gr. 467; Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441; but semble, a bill delivered accompanied by a statement that it contained items which could not be taxed, and reserving the right to deliver another bill in its place if taxation were insisted on, might be withdrawn, and a new one substituted; see per Cotton, L.J., in Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441; 53 L. T. 479.

Since the costs of the taxation no longer depend upon the amount taxed off, there seems to be no good reason why amendments should not be allowed, as in other cases, where justice so requires, upon proper terms.

Delivery of bill

Compelling Delivery of Bill.—Where the client desires to have his solicitor's costs taxed, or to recover documents in his possession on which he claims a lien for costs, it is necessary for him first to obtain a delivery of the solicitor's bill, and a taxation thereof, if the amount is disputed. If the solicitor neglects or refuses to deliver his bill, an order for its delivery may be obtained: see s. 42, infra, p. 1405. Rule 1184

Where the retainer is admitted, and there are no special circumstances, the order for delivery, and taxation of the bill, may be obtained at any time, on præcipe: see Rule 1184; where the retainer is disputed, or there are any other special circumstances, the application for the order should be made on notice to the solicitor.

A solicitor cannot set up that the contract between himself and his client was illegal for champerty, as an answer to an application for the delivery of his bill: Re Thomas, 1894, 1 Q. B. 747; 70 L. T. 507.

There is power to order the delivery of a bill whether it has been paid or not, and whether or not it is one which the Court would have power to refer for taxation: Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37; and an agreement between a solicitor and his client, as to the remuneration of the solicitor for professional services being void, cannot be an answer to an application for the delivery of a bill or for its taxation: Id.

As to items which may properly be included in a bill, see notes on p. 1399.

It has been held that delivery can be compelled under R. S. O. c. 174 of a bill for services performed in the Exchequer Court of Canada: O'Connor v. Gennell, 29 Ont. 47; 25 Ont. App. 27; and for services rendered in reference to a claim on an estate out of the jurisdiction: Re McBrady, 19 P. R. 37; but not for services performed as a notary: Ostrom v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. 335; and see Re Baker, 1903, 1 K. B. 189; 57 L. T. 662.

If the solicitor refuse to comply with an order for the delivery of his bill, he is liable to attachment: Re Seal, 1903, 1 Ch. 87; Re Landon, infra; but if on the retrial of a motion to attach him, he disclaims all intention of making any charge for costs, and shews by affidavit that he has not deducted any money for costs from moneys of his client which have come to his hands, the motion will be refused: Re Landon, 1899, 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 643.

Bill to be Taxed.—The bill is one entire matter even though separate bills be rendered in respect of distinct transactions: Re what bill may be taxed Romer, 1893, 2 Q. B. 381; 69 L. T. 547; Stokes v. Trumper, 2 K. & J. 232; Re Peach, 2 D. & L. 33; and the client cannot select certain charges for taxation and ask that they only be referred: Re Davis, 1 C. L. J. 213.

Although the general rule is that one of several bills or a part of a bill cannot be taxed: Storer v. Johnston & Wetherall, 15 App. Cas. 203; 62 L. T. 710; yet where the solicitor admitted that there was nothing due to him, and it was simply a question whether he had been overpaid, an order to tax one only of several bills delivered was upheld: In re Ward, 1896, 2 Ch. 31.

The Court has power under its general jurisdiction to order the taxation of any bill relating to Court business, whether the bill be of the solicitor or his agent, or any part of such bill: Re Johnson & Wetherall, 37 Ch. D. 433; 15 App. Cas. 203; though the principal received payment by a commission: Re Idington & Mickle, 5 P. R. 568; and upon such taxation a Master should, without specific directions, regard any settlement with the solicitors: Id.

Rule 1184. A bill for counsel fees exclusively may be referred: Re C. K. & Co., 6 P. R. 226; and see also Armour v. Kilmer, 28 Ont. 618; and Re Ashbaugh, 10 C. L. T. 30, where the services were respecting the defence of a prisoner; but where solicitors had agreed not to charge "solicitor's fees," these words were held to preclude charges for services rendered by them as counsel: Re Solicitors, 33 C. L. J. 215.

A bill for conveyancing could not formerly be referred: Re Glass, 3 P. R. 138, 140; Re Lemon & Peterson, 8 V. C. L. J. 185; and per Hagarty, C.J., Ostrom v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. at p. 339, although in these cases orders for taxation of bills for such services were made, apparently without question; see also Re O'Donohue & Wainwright, 4 P. R. 266; and Re Richprian, 3 Chy. Ch. 144. But see now R. S. O. c. 171, s. 37, infra, and Ibid., ss. 52-55; Re Pollard, 20 Q. B. D. 160.

Action on Bill.—After the expiry of the month from the delivery of his bill, the solicitor may, if no order for taxation has been obtained by the client, either himself obtain an order for its taxation, and for payment of what may be found due; see Rule 1184 and notes infra, or he may bring an action for its recovery.

The claim may be specially indorsed, and judgment may be obtained therefor, under Rule 603, where there is no defence: Smith v. Edwards, 22 Q. B. D. 10; 60 L. T. 10; but where the retainer is admitted, but the amount is disputed, judgment may be awarded subject to a taxation of the bill: Ibid.; and see Re Park, 41 Ch. D. 329.

The omission of an allegation of the delivery of the bill in the statement of claim, does not render the latter bad in law; see Seavey v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370; and it is a defence only open to the actual client, and not to a third person liable to pay; Greening v. Redden, 67 L. T. 28; 40 W. R. 623. As to the evidence required to show compliance with this section, see see, 43, infra, p. 1400.

Order for Taxation of Costs:—

Taxation
of costs.

35. Upon the application of the party chargeable by such bill within the month, the High Court or a Judge thereof, or a Judge of a County Court, shall, without money being brought into Court, refer the bill and the demand thereon to be taxed by the proper officer of any of the Courts in the County in which any of the business charged for in the bill was done, whether any of such business was done in a Court or not, and the Court or Judge making such reference shall restrain the bringing any action for such demand pending the reference. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 32; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. A (231).

The "party chargeable" includes both a client or a third person liable to pay the bill; see Rule 1185, as to the form of the order; and see Rule 1184, as to the time within which the order may be obtained en principe; where the order cannot be issued en principe, a motion therefor, on notice to the solicitor, is necessary. The motion is usually made to a Judge or judicial officer in Chambers.

The provisions of this section as to the officers to whom the reference for taxation is to be directed are superseded by Rule 1187, which directs that it is to be to the proper taxing officer for the County in which the solicitor resides.

36. In case no application is made within the month, then Rule 1184, the Court or Judge upon the application of either party may order a reference with such directions and conditions as he may deem proper; and may upon such terms as may be thought just restrain any action for such demand pending the reference. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 33.

Rule 1181 regulates the practice for obtaining an order for taxation or delivery, and taxation of a bill of costs on præcipe.

Where the order is not obtainable on præcipe under that Rule, it may be made on application to a Judge, or judicial officer, in Chambers, on notice to the opposite party.

The solicitor may obtain an order for taxation on præcipe after the expiry of a month from the delivery of the bill, if no order has in the meantime been obtained by his client: see Rule 1181 supra. But after the lapse of the month the client's right to obtain an order on præcipe is gone, and he must apply specially under this section, usually on notice to the solicitor.

37. No such reference shall be directed upon an application made by the party chargeable with such bill after a verdict or judgment has been obtained, or after twelve months from the time such bill was delivered, sent or left as aforesaid, except under special circumstances, to be proved to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge to whom the application for the reference is made. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 34; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. A (34).

Special Circumstances.—Orders for taxation are not made, except on special circumstances being shewn, after the expiration of twelve months from delivery of a bill: Re Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 311; Re Thompson, 2 Chy. Ch. 100; Re Gildersleeve v. Walker, 6 P. R. 117; Read v. Cotton, 3 P. R. 118; Pattullo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673; Re Nelson, 30 Ch. D. 1; Re Pack, 61 L. T. 173; see Fletcher v. Field, 10 P. R. 608; Saider v. Saider, 11 P. R. 130; or after payment: see s. 49, infra, p. 1409; Re Walker, 10 P. R. 100; Schrögg v. Schrögg, 11 P. R. 218; Re Baycott, 29 Ch. D. 571; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; Re Fairbanks, 1 Chy. Ch. 222; Re Chisholm, 16 P. R. 162; or after, with the knowledge of the client, the costs have been deducted from moneys collected: Re Beatty, 19 P. R. 271; or after a settled account: Re Webb, 70 L. T. 318; but the delivery of a cash account without items is not sufficient to preclude taxation by the client even after the lapse of 12 months: Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 167; 74 L. T. 337, 506.

Where the special circumstances were that the solicitor was paid on the understanding that the bill might be taxed at any time, an order was made for taxation after his death, against his representatives: Re Baker, 13 P. R. 227.

Special circumstances signify generally "pressure accompanied by some overcharge" or "gross overcharges or errors so great as to amount to fraud": Re Strather, 3 K. & J. 518; Re Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 311; Re Walker, 10 P. R. 400; Re Griffith, 50 L. T. 134, but are not confined to such cases: Re Butterfield, 14 P. R. 119, 567. The bringing of three separate actions, where one would have been sufficient, constitutes "special circumstances": Id.

Where alleged overcharges constitute the special circumstances, they must be specified on the application to tax: Re Gildersleeve v. Walker, supra; a general allegation of overcharge is not enough: Re

Court or Judge may order bill to be referred on application of either party.

Reference may be made on application of party chargeable after verdict, or after 12 months from delivery of bill.

Special circumstances.

Rule 1184. Boycott, 20 Ch. D. 571; and they must be on their face excessive: Re Bethune & Co., 4 Ch. L. T. 251. Trifling items will not be sufficient; Re Drake, 8 Kay, 121; overcharge by mutual mistake was held not to be a special circumstance: Re Glaxodine, 52 L. T. 781.

Where a taxation is ordered after the twelve months, it may be restricted within certain limits: Re Nicholson, 3 D. F. & J. 91.

Where bills are delivered from time to time before the litigation is closed, the client has twelve months from the delivery of the final bill after the close of the litigation in which to apply to tax them all: Re Butterfield, 11 P. R. 119; Re Romee, 1863, 2 Q. B. 280; 69 L. T. 547.

The fact that the solicitor or executors did not inform them that if administration proceedings should be commenced, the executors might be disallowed what might be struck off on moderation, does not constitute "special circumstances": Re Lupton, Steele & Co., W. N. 1890, 112; 38 W. R. 672.

No rigid rule exists as to what kind of circumstances must be shown: Re Cheesman, 1891, 2 Ch. 289.

The fact that an action was brought on a number of bills delivered during several years, during which defendant was plaintiff's client, is not a special circumstance: Read v. Cotton, 11 V. C. L. J. 114; nor the existence of a controversy as to the terms on which the business was done, nor the continuance of employment after the delivery of the first bill: Arnold v. O'Donoghue, 2 Out. 322; see Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 V. C. L. J. 100. Where judgment had been signed against the client in an action, during the pendency of negotiations for a settlement, this was held to be a special circumstance: Pattullo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363. So conjunction of the following (1) that the relationship of solicitor and client continued after the delivery of the bill, (2) that the solicitor had offered to make a substantial deduction, and (3) that there were items of apparent overcharge of which no explanation was offered: Re Walker, 12 P. R. 400.

A lump sum retained for costs out of the proceeds of a sale, and no bill delivered, were held to constitute "special circumstances": Re Malsbrough & Wade, 9 P. R. 242; and the retainer of costs out of the proceeds of loans obtained for the client is not a payment under s. 10, infra, so as to preclude the right of the client to a taxation: Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107.

The retaining of an amount agreed upon in full of costs out of moneys in the solicitor's hands without delivering a bill is not payment unless there is a settlement of accounts: Re West, 1892, 2 Q. B. 102; 67 L. T. 57; the taking of bills of exchange subsequently dishonoured does not amount to payment, unless the solicitor agrees to accept the bills as payment in any event: Re Romer & Haslam, 1883, 2 Q. B. 286; 63 L. T. 547.

The Taxation:—

If either party does not attend, officer may tax bill ex parte.

38. In case either party to a reference, having due notice, refuses or neglects to attend the taxation, the officer to whom the reference is made may tax the bill ex parte. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 35; 58 V. c. 13, s. 37, part.

Prima facie the costs are taxable according to the scale of the Court (if any) in which the proceedings were taken for which the services are charged, even though it turned out that the case was within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, provided the solicitor had not reasonable ground for knowing or believing it to be so: see Re Jackson, Rule 1184 18 P. R. 320.

The taxation must be made according to the tariff in force when the services were rendered, even though it has been subsequently repealed: Delap v. Charbelala, 18 P. R. 117; Rach v. Barband, S. O. L. R. 174. aff. 90LR663.

Formerly if the client did not attend the taxation when the order was obtained by the solicitor, he was not liable for the costs of the taxation, but see now: s. 40, infra, and Rule 1185, and notes.

30. Every order for a reference shall direct the officer to order to whom the reference is made, to certify what, upon the reference, he finds to be due to or from either party in respect of such bill. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 39; 58 V. c. 13, s. 37, part.

Costs of Taxation:—

40. The costs of the reference shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge or of the Taxing Officer, subject to appeal, but such officer may certify specially any circumstances relating to the bill or taxation, and the Court or Judge may thereupon make such order as may be deemed right respecting the payment of the costs of the taxation. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 37; 58 V. c. 13, s. 37, part.

Prior to 58 V. c. 13, s. 37, from which this section is taken, the costs of the reference were payable by, or to, the solicitor, according to whether or not one-sixth was, or was not, struck off the bill. But, when the costs were taxed under an order obtained by the solicitor, the client was not liable for the costs of taxation if he did not attend.

The words "Court or Judge" would appear to be intended to include a judicial officer who makes the order.

The costs are always in the discretion of the Taxing Officer, whether the order issues on pauce, or is made on a special application, unless otherwise directed: see Rule 1185 (b), and Rule 1186.

41. In case the reference is made when the same is not when authorized except under special circumstances, as hereinafore provided, the Court or Judge, in making the same, may give any special directions relative to the costs of the reference. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 38.

See s. 37, supra, p. 1403, and notes, and see s. 13, infra, p. 1403.

This section appears to be unnecessary now, as the costs of the reference are in all cases by s. 40, supra, in the discretion of the Court or Judge, or Taxing Officer.

Compelling Delivery of Bill:—

42. Where no bill has been delivered, sent or left as aforesaid, and where the bill if delivered, sent or left, might have been delivered, sent or left, as aforesaid, any such Court or Judge may order the delivery of a bill, and may also order the delivery up of deeds or papers in the possession, custody or power of the solicitor, his assignee or representatives, in the same manner as has heretofore been done in cases where any such business had been transacted in the Court in which such order was made. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 39.

Rule 1184 Where no bill has been delivered no time is limited within which the party chargeable is to apply under this section. The order for delivery and taxation, where no bill has been delivered, may therefore be obtained by the client on præcipe at any time: see Rule 1184.

A præcipe order for taxation is made at the client's instance, on his submission to pay what may be found due. Where the client obtains an order to tax a bill, some of the items of which are barred by the Statute of Limitations, he is deemed to waive the Statute: Re Margetts, 1896, 2 Ch. 263.

The Court has jurisdiction to order the delivery of a bill, whether there has been payment or not, and whether the Court has jurisdiction to order the taxation of the bill or not: Re Raylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107; 14 W. R. 404; 74 L. T. 337.

If the client elect to treat as a nullity an unsigned bill delivered to him, and applies for the delivery and taxation of a bill, the solicitor may deliver an entirely new bill, and may increase or alter his charges: Re Wals', 7 O. L. R. 41.

Proof of Delivery of Bill:—

Not necessary in first instance in a bill to prove contents of bill delivered.

43. In proving a compliance with this Act it shall not be necessary in the first instance to prove the contents of the bill delivered, sent or left, but it shall be sufficient to prove that a bill of fees, charges or disbursements, subscribed in the manner aforesaid, or enclosed in or accompanied by such letter as aforesaid, was delivered, sent or left in manner aforesaid; but the other party may show that the bill so delivered, sent or left, was not such a bill as constituted a bona fide compliance with this Act. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 40.

This section refers to the proof necessary in a proceeding by a solicitor to recover his costs. As to the mode in which a bill is to be delivered: see s. 34, supra, p. 1398.

Abandoning Client. Action Against:—

Judge may allow actions for costs, when the neglect or default of a solicitor has caused a bill to be abandoned.

44. A Judge of the High Court or a County Court Judge, on proof to his satisfaction that there is probable cause for believing that the party chargeable is about to quit Ontario, may authorize a solicitor to commence an action for the recovery of his fees, charges or disbursements, against the party chargeable therewith, although one month has not expired since the delivery of a bill as aforesaid. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 41.

Application by Third Party:—

Where a party, not being the principal, pays a bill of costs, a taxation may be allowed.

45. Where any person not being chargeable as the principal party is liable to pay, or has paid any bill, either to the solicitor, his assignee, or representative, or to the principal party entitled thereto, the person so paying, his assignee or representative, may make the like application for a reference thereof to taxation, as the party chargeable therewith might himself have made, and in like manner, and the same proceedings shall be had thereupon as if the application had been made by the party so chargeable. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 42.

Where a third party applies to tax an unpaid bill, it would seem advisable for the solicitor to require the client primarily liable to be made a party to the proceedings (see Rule 1188), in order that he may enforce payment under the order, because the third party by obeying the order for tax then does not thereby admit any liability to pay the solicitor: Re Goss, 1901, 1 Ch. 230; 84 L. T. 21.

A party chargeable who can tax, includes the next friend of an infant: Re Flower, 19 W. R. 578.

A mere volunteer, under no previous liability to pay the bill, has no right to obtain a taxation under this section: Re Bick, 5 Beav. 406; nor a merely nominal plaintiff who is not liable to the solicitor for the costs: Re Attorneys, 6 P. R. 319.

Any one of several cestui que trustent may, in the discretion of the Court, obtain an order under this section for taxation of bills of costs of a solicitor employed by executors or trustees in connection with the business of the trust estate: Sandford v. Porter, 34 Ont. App. 565; Re Skinner, 13 P. R. 276; but where the trustee has paid the costs, the application by a cestui que trustent for taxation must be made within twelve calendar months thereafter: Re Wellbourn, 1901, 1 Ch. 312; 83 L. T. 611. The costs must be taxed as between the trustee and his solicitor, irrespective of any question as to their ultimate incidence amongst the beneficiaries: Re Miles, 1903, 2 Ch. 518.

The bill of a mortgagee's solicitor in regard to the mortgaged estate may be taxed by the mortgagor: Re Lees, 5 Beav. 410; Ex parte Glass, Re Macdonald, 3 P. R. 138; see also Re Massey, 34 Beav. 403; or by a subsequent incumbrancer: Re Taylor, 18 Beav. 165; Re Jessop, 32 Beav. 406. So on a sale by mortgagees under a power of sale, the mortgagor, or a subsequent incumbrancer, is entitled to taxation of the solicitor's bill: Re Ormer & Muir, 8 P. R. 56; and under R. S. O. c. 121, s. 30, the taxation may be had without an order, and that clause is retrospective: Ferguson v. E. & S. Lacey, Co., 8 P. R. 404. So also an assignee for creditors is entitled to tax the costs incurred by a prior assignee of the same estate: Re A. & B., 6 P. R. 68; and one of the parties to an arbitration has been held entitled to a taxation of the costs of the solicitor of the umpire for drawing the award: Crossley v. Lowestoft W. W. Co., 85 L. T. 208; S. Co. sub nom. Re Collyer, 1901, 2 K. B. 839; but a ratepayer of a school section has been held not entitled to a taxation of the costs incurred by the trustees of the section: McGinn v. McGinn, 39 O. C. App. 56; 21 S. C. R. 267; nor can a shareholder tax costs incurred by the company: Re Stephens, 17 L. J. Ch. 219, th. 372.

A creditor of an estate has no right under sec. 45 as between himself and the personal representative to a taxation of the costs incurred by the latter in collateral proceedings affecting the estate, but he is entitled to have the bill "moderated": Re Hague, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 12 P. R. 119; and see Beatty v. Haldar, 4 Ont. App. 239; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; 60 L. T. 589; but see Re Jones & Levent, 1904, 2 Ch. 363.

After payment by a mortgagee of his solicitor's bill, the mortgagor's only remedy is for an account: Re Macdonald, Macdonald & Hinch, 8 P. R. 88; Re Croghan, etc., th. 372; Re Massey, 34 Beav. 403; Re Pacey, 34 Beav. 140; 13 W. R. 932; but see section 49, infra. An account may be had in a summary way under Rule 1188.

Where on the application of a mortgagor the mortgagee's solicitor was ordered under sec. 45, to deliver to a third party a copy of the bill of costs of a sale, it was held that, though the delivery was, under this section, to be regarded as for the purposes of a reference to taxation, yet the person so obtaining the copy had not necessarily the right to tax the bill: Re Moffatt, 12 P. R. 240.

And where the parties to an action compromise on the terms that one of them is to pay the others' costs, the party to pay may, either

Rule 1184. this section, obtain an order to tax the costs, but the application should be made, "In the matter of the solicitor"; see sec. 51, infra, and should be made on notice to him; and where such an order is obtained ex parte, and omitted to direct the account between the solicitor and his client, as provided by Rule 1187. But, it was set aside with costs: Re McCarthy, 15 P. R. 261; Re Hurlbert, 71 L. T. 748; sed vide, Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503, 671; 70 L. T. 161; Re Greenwood, 19 L. C. L. J. 131.

The parties who institute or intervene upon the taxation being personally liable to pay the costs of taxation, if the same become payable to the solicitor: Re Rogers & Farwell, 14 P. R. 38; but the third party by obtaining an order for taxation does not thereby admit his liability to pay the solicitor the costs charged: Re Gray, 1901, 1 Ch. 239; 84 L. T. 24.

Where a taxation is obtained by a third party, items outside the scope of the third party's liability must as against him be disallowed, but when the items for which the third party is liable are ascertained, the taxation of those items must be as between the solicitor and the party chargeable in the first instance, and not as between the solicitor and the third party: Re Cohen & Cohen, 1905, 1 Ch. 345; 91 L. T. 826, affirmed C. A., 119 L. T. Jour. 60; Re Longbottom, 1904, 2 Ch. 152; 90 L. T. 538, 801; Re Gray, 1901, 1 Ch. 239; and see Re Miles, 1903, 2 Ch. 518; Re Wells, 8 Beav. 416; Re Jones, 13 Beav. 479; Re Fyson, 9 Beav. 117; Re Burrow, 17 Beav. 547.

Special Circumstances:—

What special circumstances may be considered in such cases

46. In case such application is made when, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, a reference is not authorized, it may be made except under special circumstances, the Court or Judge to whom the application is made, may take into consideration any additional special circumstances applicable to the person making it, although such circumstances might not be applicable to the party chargeable with the bill, if he was the party making the application. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 17.

As to the effect of this section; see Re Vardy, 20 L. J. Ch. 325; Re Macdonaldson, 9 P. R. 242; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. 673; 54 L. T. 143; and as to what are "special circumstances," see supra, p. 1403.

Delivery of Bill:—

Court or Judge may order the delivery of a copy of the bill.

47. For the purpose of such reference upon the application of the person not being the party chargeable, or of a party interested as aforesaid, the Court or Judge may order the solicitor, his assignee or representative, to deliver to the party making the application a copy of the bill upon payment of the costs of the copy. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 14.

A creditor who has obtained judgment for administration is a "party interested," and is therefore entitled to delivery and taxation of a bill of costs paid by the deceased person's executor: Re Jones & Everett, 1904, 2 Ch. 363.

Re-Taxation of Bill:—

When a bill may be re-taxed.

48. No bill previously taxed shall be again referred, unless under the special circumstances of the case the Court or Judge to whom the application is made thinks fit to direct a re-taxation thereof. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 15.

A re-taxation will not be ordered unless improper charges are specified and proved: Eastman v. Eastman, 2 Chy. Ch. 325; and see Cameron v. Campbell, 1 P. R. 170. In Clarke v. Manvers, 4 Gr. 432, a taxation was opened after seven years, the previous taxation having been had by the solicitor without notice to his client.

Payment of Bill, when it does not preclude Taxation:—

49. The payment of any such bill as aforesaid shall in no case preclude the Court or Judge to whom application is made from referring such bill for taxation, if the application is made within twelve months after payment, and if the special circumstances of the case in the opinion of the Court or Judge appear to require the same, upon such terms and subject to such directions as to the Court or Judge seem right. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 46.

Payment of the costs by the party primarily liable, was held to preclude a third party liable to pay from having a taxation: see s. 45, and note, p. 1406. See quere, if payment can in any case intercept the right of taxation, if applied for within twelve calendar months after payment, and there are special circumstances: see Re Brucey, 8 Beav. 338; In re Wellhorue, 1901, 1 Ch. 342; 83 L. T. 611.

This section seems to extend the time limited by sec. 37, supra, for making the application, wherever payment has been made, and special circumstances can be shown.

Where payment was made under protest, a taxation was ordered: Re Chessman, 1891, 2 Ch. 289; 64 L. T. 602.

Deduction of costs by the solicitor from moneys of the client in his hands is not payment within the meaning of this section: Re Stogdon, 56 L. T. 355; Re West, 1892, 2 Q. B. 102; 67 L. T. 57; Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 207; Re Mulcolmsen, 9 P. R. 242; unless it is made with the express consent of the client: Re Thompson, 1894, 1 Q. B. 402; and at, or after, the delivery of a signed bill: Re Baylis, supra.

The giving of security is, under this section, equivalent to payment: Re Boyle, 5 D. M. & G. 540; Smyr v. Wagstaff, 5 Beav. 415; Re Currie, 9 Beav. 602; Re Harper, 10 Beav. 284; Re Fairbanks, 1 Chy. Ch. 222; but prima facie it is only a conditional payment: Re Romer, 1893, 2 Q. B. 300; 69 L. T. 547.

Payment before the delivery of the bill is not a payment within this section: see Re Street, L. R. 10 Eq. 165; Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107; but see Hitchcock v. Strutton, 1892, 2 Ch. 343; 66 L. T. 707; even though the client has examined the solicitor's docket: Re Phulkerton, 18 P. R. 331; but payment was held to preclude taxation where a number of bills were delivered in detail, in connection with the management of an estate, a few only being not rendered in detail but only included in statements of account which were not objected to and paid: Re Beatty et al., 19 P. R. 274.

An application under this section must be made on notice, as it is necessary for the applicant to establish the existence of special circumstances. As to what are "special circumstances": see s. 37, supra, p. 1403, and notes: Re Munns, 50 L. T. 356.

An agreement, for consideration, not to dispute the bill, is an answer to an application to tax after payment: Re Eley, 57 L. T. 253.

Rule 1184.

A Taxing Officer may require the assistance of the officer of any other Court.

How applications against solicitor to be entitled.

50. In all cases in which a bill is referred to be taxed, the officer to whom the reference is made may request the proper officer of any other Court to assist him in taxing any part of such bill, and the officer, so requested, shall thereupon tax the same, and shall have the same powers, and may receive the same fees in respect thereof, as upon a reference to him by the Court of which he is an officer, and he shall return the bill, with his opinion thereon, to the officer who so requests him to tax the same. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 47.

51. All applications made to refer any bill to be taxed, or for the delivery of a bill, or for the delivering up of deeds, documents and papers, shall be made In the matter of the Solicitor; and upon the taxation of any such bill, the certificate of the officer by whom the bill is taxed shall, unless set aside or altered by order of a Judge, or by decree or order of Court, be final and conclusive as to the amount thereof, and payment of the amount certified to be due and directed to be paid may be enforced according to the practice of the Court in which the reference has been made. R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 48.

An appeal from the certificate of a Taxing Officer, made on a taxation between solicitor and client, is to be brought in the same manner as an appeal from the report of a Master: Rule 773; and see Rules 769, 771, 772.

The following Rules 1184-1188 are framed for the purpose of carrying out the statutory provisions of R. S. O. c. 174.

Order of course to issue on præcipe.

1184 Where the retainer of the solicitor is not disputed and there are no special circumstances, an order may be obtained on præcipe from the proper officer in the county in which the solicitor resides,

- (a) By the client, for the delivery and taxation of the solicitor's bill;
- (b) By the client, for the taxation of a bill already delivered, within one month from its delivery;
- (c) By the solicitor, for the taxation of a bill already delivered, at any time after the expiration of one month from its delivery, provided no order for its taxation has been previously made. New. See Con. Rule 1228.

There is no corresponding Rule in England.

On præcipe.

Client's Application.—A client applying on præcipe for an order for the delivery and taxation of a solicitor's bill, or for the taxation of a bill delivered, is required to submit to pay what may be found due to the solicitor: see Forms of Order, Nos. 99, 101, in the Appendix (H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1626 and 1629). An order, therefore, should not be issued on præcipe by the client unless he admits the retainer.

Wherever a client obtains an order to tax a solicitor's bill, unless the right to dispute the retainer is reserved, it is taken to be admitted; In re Frazer, 1894, 2 Ch. 100; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. 11, 504, but where the solicitor obtains the common order for taxation ex parte, the client is entitled to dispute the retainer as to the whole bill; In re Macdonald, 16 F. R. 498.

On the client's application it was held that the right to dispute the retainer cannot be reserved except by consent; Re Tait, 27 F. C. Q. B. 449.

An unqualified person acting as a solicitor, and receiving papers and money as such, is subject to the summary jurisdiction of the Court; Re Hulme, 66 L. T. 682, but scatchell, an order should not be taken against such a person on principle, or ex parte.

Notwithstanding that the retainer of a solicitor by two persons is in form a joint one, the Court will look into the facts of the case to discover the real nature of the transaction; Re Cameron & Lee, 48 F. R. 176.

An order obtained on principle where a special application should have been made, may be set aside or varied; In re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; In re McCarthy, 15 F. R. 261; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 161.

Where the order is obtained on principle in ignorance of the fact of the existence of circumstances which, if known to the client, would have made a special application proper, the order may nevertheless be upheld; Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; and if set aside the applicant may not be ordered to pay costs, if he acted in good faith; see Re Armstrong, 1896, 1 Ch. 536.

The time for making the application runs from the date of the delivery of the last of a series of bills relating to the same business; Re Rower, 1893, 2 Q. B. 286; 69 L. T. 547; Re Butterfield, 14 F. R. 133.

Where an order of course lapses, or becomes ineffective, it is irregular to issue a second order on principle; Re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; 64 L. T. 250; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 161.

A principle order is issuable by "the proper officer in the County where the solicitor resides"; in Toronto it must be obtained at the Central Office, in outer counties from the Local Registrar, if any, or from the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Deputy Registrar.

Special Application, where necessary.—Wherever the retainer is disputed a special application is necessary, on notice to the solicitor; Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; and on such an application the order for taxation will be modified so as to enable the question of retainer to be tried, either in an action to be brought upon the bill, or in some other way to be determined by the Judge or judicial officer granting the order.

When special application necessary

A special application is also necessary wherever there are any special circumstances in the case, or some special order is required; Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 195; e.g., where there is some special agreement as to costs; Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J. 139, or as to the solicitor's lien; Re Moss, 17 Beav. 59, or taxation of only part of the bill is desired; Re Byrch, 8 Beav. 421; Re Yotts, 33 Beav. 412; Re Johnson & Wichecraft, 37 Ch. 11, 433; or only some of several parties jointly liable, are applying; Re Herton, 33 Beav. 201; see Re Loring, 16 Beav. 608; Re Becker, etc., 2 Chy. Ch. 245; or after Rule 1184. an action has been brought by solicitor or client, or after an order obtained by the client as of course has become effete; Re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 161; where the client claims an account of moneys in the solicitor's hands, and the solicitor renounces all claim to costs; Re Lunder, 1899, 1 Ch. 818, 80 L. T. 643.

Where a bill has been delivered more than a month, the client cannot obtain a præcipe order, but must apply in Chambers; Re Boulton, 2 Chy. Ch. 58.

One of several clients who have given separate retainers to two solicitors in respect of the same action or matter may apply specially for a taxation of his bill, but, where practicable, the others should be notified so that they may be bound by the taxation; In re Salaman, 1894, 2 Ch. 201; and see Re Macdonald, 16 P. R. 498; Re Cameron & Lee, 18 P. R. 176.

Where a solicitor has funds or papers of a client in his possession, and claims a lien, an order for taxation will be made, though the services for which the solicitor claims have been wholly in County Court proceedings; Re Prince, 3 Chy. Ch. 282; and see Re M. C. Cameron, 1 Chy. Ch. 356.

Where a solicitor is employed to perform services not necessarily within the scope of his duty as a solicitor, e.g., the procuring a pension from a foreign government, he may make a bargain for the amount to be allowed him for such services, and the client can neither claim a bill nor have a taxation in respect of such services; Ostrum v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. 336; but see O'Connor v. Genam, 20 Ont. 47; 20 Ont. App. 27; Re McBrady, 19 P. R. 37.

A client who is merely a nominal plaintiff, his name being used for convenience, and who is not responsible to the solicitor, is not entitled to an order for taxation; Re Attorneys, 6 P. R. 319.

On præcipe Solicitor's Application.—A solicitor cannot apply for an order for taxation until a month has elapsed from the delivery of his bill, as provided by R. S. O. c. 174, s. 34; see supra, p. 1398, and not then if an order has been previously made on the application of the client; see Rule 1184 (c).

The month is a calendar month: see R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (15), and is to be computed exclusively of the day on which the bill is delivered, and the day on which the order was applied for; see Re Morphon & Kere, 2 Chy. Ch. 56.

The order should only be obtained on præcipe in simple cases. Wherever there are special circumstances, or a special order is required, a special application on notice to the client should be made; Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 187.

The common order only can be obtained on præcipe; Ib.

Where for any reason an order of course lapses or becomes ineffective, a second order of course is irregular; Re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; 74 L. T. 250; Re Taylor, 70 L. T. 161; 1894, 1 Ch. 503.

Where an order is obtained on præcipe, or on motion ex parte, where notice should have been given, it may be set aside on application of the client with costs; but if the order was obtained bona fide in ignorance of the existence of the circumstances making it proper to apply specially, the order may be upheld; Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; or if set aside the solicitor may not be ordered to pay costs.

Where a solicitor obtained ex parte an order against his client pending an application to have the client declared a lunatic, the order was set aside on the declaration of lunacy being subsequently made, but without costs, as the solicitor appeared to have acted in the bona fide belief that the client was sane; Re Armstrong, 1891, 1 Ch. 536.

Special application, where necessary.—The order should be issued on principle only in simple cases, wherever special circumstances exist a special application for the order should be made in chambers, e.g. where there is a special agreement as to retainer; Re Thurgood, 10 Beav. 741; or as to the costs; Ib.; or as to the solicitor's lien; Re Moss, 17 Beav. 569, or where there are any special circumstances, whatever affecting the costs, or the liability of the alleged client; Re Fitch, 2 Chy. Ch. 288; Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J. 139.

If a special order is required notice must be given; Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 187.

Where there are some alleged clients who dispute, and others who admit the retainer, the solicitor may on special application obtain the usual order as to the unresisting clients, and the taxation should be ordered on notice to the others who dispute the retainer, with liberty to them to attend the taxation, which should be conclusive as to them only as to the quantum in the event of their being ultimately found liable; In re Macdonald, 10 P. R. 498.

The order to tax, if made on a special application, may reserve questions of retainer and negligence, or other matters of defence, in a proper case; Re Millar, 12 P. R. 155; or refer them to the Taxing Officer; Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, Ib., 201; Re Lewis, 9 P. C. L. J. 81; Re Green, 7 P. R. 89.

Præcipe Order for Taxation, Effect of.—The form of order when obtained by a client (see Form No. 99, H. & L. Forms, No. 1620), contains a submission on the part of the applicant to pay what is found due, this is inserted for the purpose of giving the Court jurisdiction to order payment by the applicant, instead of leaving the solicitor to bring an action; see In re Battams, 1897, 1 Ch. 690; 70 L. T. 385, and under such an order the client cannot dispute the retainer; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504; and he is bound to accept the Taxing Officer's decision as to the quantum of costs payable, subject to the right of appeal, and cannot thereafter claim to have the amount assessed in an action; Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1.

The solicitor is entitled to an unconditional submission without any exception of charges or items barred by the Statute of Limitations; Re Hughes, W. N. 1899, 125.

Where the client, while asking for a taxation, at the same time wishes to dispute the retainer, he should move in Chambers for the order on notice to the solicitor, and the order should either omit the submission to pay, or it should be qualified and made subject to the question of retainer being found against him, and the right to dispute the retainer should be reserved to the applicant by the order; but this can only be done by consent; see Re Tolten, 27 U. C. Q. 35, 449.

So also the common order where obtained by the client will be deemed to be a waiver of the defence of the Statute of Limitations as to any statute-barred items in the bill; Re Marrett, 1896, 2 Ch. 291.

Rule 1184. Where the common order is obtained by the client, the solicitor would appear to have the right to dispute the alleged retainer; see Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; and it is held in England that under the common order obtained by the solicitor, the client may object to every item on the ground of want of retainer; Re Jones, 35 Ch. D. 105; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504; but under an order obtained by the client himself, he cannot object to the whole bill on that ground; Id.; and see Rule 1184.

Where there is no retainer in writing, and it is disputed, weight is given to the denial of the client; Re Eccles & Carroll, 1 Chy. Ch. 263; Bird v. Harris, 43 L. T. 434; W. N. 1881, 5.

A contract to pay a retaining fee will not be enforced; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25.

The common order for taxation is now under Rule 1186, to be read as if it contained an order for payment of the amount to be found due upon the reference; see Rule 1185 (d), whether the order is made on the application of solicitor, client, or third party liable to pay; it is not necessary to bring an action; Re Peace & Waller, 49 L. T. 637. Formerly when the order had been obtained by the solicitor, he was not entitled to such summary order for payment; Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386.

Under the common order the Taxing Officer has power to investigate and dispose of questions of carelessness, impropriety and negligence in the conduct of the business to which the bill relates, so far as they affect the solicitor's right to recover the costs in question; and the officer's certificate, unless appealed against in proper time, is conclusive as to all matters within his jurisdiction; Re Milbar, Millar v. Chinc, 12 P. R. 155; Re Kerr, 29 Gr. 188; Thompson v. Milliken, 13 Gr. 197; Re Mansop, 26 Ch. D. 459; 51 L. T. 390; and R. S. O. c. 174, s. 51; but the Taxing Officer cannot, under the common order, inquire as to the damages sustained by the client by the alleged negligence of the solicitor; Thompson v. Milliken, 15 Gr. 197.

Where the solicitor renounces all claim to costs, an account of moneys in his hands cannot be taken under the præcipe order; Re Landon, 1880, 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 643.

The form of the common order when obtained by the client or person chargeable, or the solicitor, is regulated by Rule 1187.

Special
order.

Special Order.—Where the order is made on the special application of the solicitor or client, it may contain any special provisions which the peculiar circumstances of the case may require; it may reserve the question of retainer or any other defence, to be disposed of either in an action to be brought on the bill, or it may refer any such defences to the Taxing Officer; see supra, note p. 1413.

Place of Reference:—

Where taxation to be had.

R. S. O. c. 174, s. 35, supra, provided that a solicitor's bill is to be taxed whether the order for taxation be obtained on motion, or on præcipe, in the County in which the work was done; Re Sabiston, 2 C. L. T. 100; Re Idington & Mickle, 8 P. R. 500; by the proper officer of any of the Courts in the County in which any of the business charged for was done; but this provision of the statute is now superseded by Rule 1187, under which the reference, unless otherwise ordered, is to be to the proper Taxing Officer for the County in which the solicitor resides. See formerly Re Chute & Williams, 13 P. R. 110.

Where the principal part of the work had been done in the country, Rule 1185, and there had also been agency work done in Toronto, although the Court has in such a case a discretion to refer the bill to Toronto, yet on a special application, it was held that the discretion should not be exercised in favour of Toronto except under special circumstances: Re Skinner, 13 P. R. 276, 447.

It would seem that the opposite party may apply to change the place of reference where the order has been issued on pari passu: Re Solicitor, 7 P. R. 263.

Scope of Reference.—Besides taxing the costs, the Taxing Officer Reference is also required to take an account between the parties: see Rule 1185, note.

As to the power to inquire into negligence, etc.: see supra, p. 1413.

Scale of Costs.—Where the costs being taxed were incurred in an action, the scale on which they are to be taxed between solicitor and client will be that on which the costs in the action are taxable between party and party: Scandlan v. McDonough, 10 C. P. 164; Re Solicitors, 33 C. L. J. 490; but where the solicitor had reasonable ground for bringing the action in a higher Court than that in which it might have been brought, the costs as against his client may be allowed on the scale of the Court in which the action was brought, though the costs between party and party are taxable on the scale of an inferior Court: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

Where the proceedings for which the services are charged were not taken in any Court, the Taxing Officer may allow a lump sum therefor, having regard to the nature and importance of the business done and the amount involved: Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1; and see Re Shilton, 30 L. T. 641; Re Solicitor, 37 C. L. J. 323.

The tariff in force at the time the business was done governs, although it may have been subsequently repealed: Delap v. Charlebois, 18 P. R. 417; Earle v. Burland, 8 O. L. R. 174.

Appeal from Taxing Officer's Report.—The Taxing Officer's certificate is a report, and is only appealable as provided by Rules 769, 771, 772: see Rule 773; Re Crothers, 15 P. R. 92; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25; and Re Robinson, 17 P. R. 137.

Costs of Taxation.—The costs of the taxation are in the discretion of the Taxing Officer: Rule 1185 (b). As to special circumstances entitling the solicitor to costs: see Re Mackenzie, 43 L. T. 751.

Security for Costs.—The fact of a client applying for taxation being out of the jurisdiction is not sufficient ground for an order for security for costs, without special circumstances being shewn: Re A. B., 6 P. R. 210. But see Re Cornwall, in note to Rule 1198, p. 1434.

1185. When a client or other person obtains an order for the delivery and taxation of a solicitor's bill of fees, charges and disbursements, or a copy thereof, the bill shall be delivered within fourteen days from the service of the order.

Rule 1185.

- (a) The bill delivered shall stand referred to the proper officer for taxation, and on the reference the solicitor shall give credit for, and an account shall be taken of all sums of money by him received from or on account of the client, and the solicitor shall refund what, if anything, he may on such taxation appear to have been overpaid. Con. Rule 1226.
- (b) The costs of the reference shall unless otherwise directed be in the discretion of the officer, subject to appeal, and shall be taxed by him when and as allowed. 58 V. c. 13, s. 37.
- (c) The solicitor shall not commence or prosecute any action in respect to the matters referred pending the reference without leave of the Court or a Judge;
- (d) The amount certified to be due shall be paid forthwith after confirmation of the certificate by filing, as in the case of a Master's report, by the party liable to pay the same;
- (e) Upon payment by the client or other person of what (if anything) may appear to be due to the solicitor, or if nothing is found to be due to the solicitor, the solicitor (if required) shall deliver to the client or other person, or as he may direct, all deeds, books, papers, and writings in the said solicitor's possession, custody, or power, belonging to the client;
- (f) The order shall be read as if it contained the above particulars, and shall not set forth the same, but may contain any variations therefrom, and any other directions which the Court or Judge shall see fit to make. Con. Rule 1226.

There is no corresponding Rule in England. This Rule contains with some changes the provisions which previously thereto it was usual to insert in an order for the taxation of a solicitor's bill. It will not now be proper to insert them, and the order will be read as if it contained them: see clause (f) and Rule 1186; but it may contain any variations or additional directions. Forms Nos. 99, 100, 101, in the Appendix (H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1626, 1627, 1629), are the forms of orders to be used in such cases, and should be adhered to: Re Solicitors, 9 P. R. 90, is not to be followed.

This Rule regulates the practice where a client or other person obtains an order for delivery and taxation, or for taxation only, of a solicitor's bill of costs. The words "other person" are intended to include persons who are not directly liable to the solicitor as his client, but who are nevertheless liable to pay his costs; see R. S. O. c. 174, ss. 35, 45, supra, pp. 1402, 1404. Rule 1185

Rule 1184 regulates the time and conditions within, and upon which the order may be obtained on præcipe. In cases not coming within that Rule the application for the order must be made on notice to the solicitor.

An application for taxation, or delivery and taxation, of a solicitor's bill of costs must be made "in the matter of the solicitor"; see R. S. O. c. 174, s. 51, supra, p. 1410.

Under the first clause of this Rule a bill must be delivered by the solicitor within fourteen days after the service of an order for its delivery. In case the solicitor makes default he is liable to attachment for disobedience; Dent v. Bushnaq, 9 Ex. 167; 23 L. J. Ex. 161; but where the solicitor declines to make any charge for his services, the delivery of a bill will not be enforced; Re Griffith, 7 Times, 298; and see Re Kerr, 12 Leay, 330.

As to the delivery of the bill, see notes to R. S. O. c. 174, s. 31, supra, p. 1398.

Clause (a).—As to place of reference: see Rule 1184, and note.

Account.—The account authorized to be taken by this clause is confined to moneys received by the solicitor in the transaction of the business to which the bill refers, and does not authorize a general account of all dealings between the client and the solicitor; thus where a barrister obtained an order for taxation against his solicitor, it was held that he was not entitled to call for an account of counsel fees received by the solicitor in other matters in which he had retained the applicant as counsel; Re Le Brasseur, 74 L. T. 726, and see Jones v. James, 1 Beav. 397; Re Smith, 4 Beav. 309; 9 Beav. 182; Cooper v. Euart, 2 Ph. 302. The account is incident to the taxation of the solicitor's bill, and where the solicitor disclaims any right to costs, an account of the moneys in his hands cannot be taken under a præcipe order, but a special application is necessary; Re Landor, 1899, 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 613.

In an action by a firm of solicitors for the recovery of costs, it was held that the client was not entitled to set off against the costs, an amount paid by him to one of the firm, in respect of certain special services rendered by him and not charged for in the costs sued for; McDougall v. Cameron, 21 S. C. R. 379.

In taking the account under this clause the Taxing Officer may inquire into an alleged agreement in the nature of a compromise, as to prior bills of costs not referred to taxation, the amount of which the solicitor claims to deduct from the moneys of his client in his hands; Re O'Donohue, 14 P. R. 317; 19 S. C. R. 356.

Where with the knowledge of his client a solicitor has bargained for and received a commission from the vendor in a transaction in which his client is vendee, his client cannot claim such commission; Re Haslam, 1902, 1 Ch. 765; 86 L. T. 663.

Statute of Limitations.—The Statute of Limitations begins to run against the solicitor from the date when the work included in the bill was completed; Coburn v. Colledge, 1897, 1 Q. B. 702; 76 L. T. 608. Statute of Limitations Rule 1185. Where a client obtains an order to tax a bill some of the items of which are barred by the Statute, he is held to waive the Statute, and is bound to pay whatever is found due: Re Margetts, 1803, 2 Ch. 293. The solicitor cannot set off statute-barred items of costs against moneys due by him to his client: Smith v. Rette, 1803, 2 K. B. 317, 80 L. T. 258.

Interest

Interest on Costs.—In the absence of special agreement interest cannot be recovered on an untaxed bill: Cameron v. Heighs, 14 P. R. 50; and interest on costs recovered from an opposite party, cannot be retained by the solicitor as against his client to whom he has not delivered any bill: Re Bentwick, 108 L. T. Jour. 105; and where costs are ordered to be paid out of an estate, but delay has arisen in payment owing to funds not being available, interest of such costs cannot be recovered out of the estate: Archer v. Scriven, 12 P. R. 348; but interest is payable on a bill delivered to a client, after demand, and notice, under Jnl. Act, s. 114 (2), supra, p. 160, that interest will be claimed: Re McTear & Gilleland, 2 C. L. T. 103, but the Taxing Officer has no power to allow interest unless that matter has been expressly referred to him: S. C., 18 C. L. J. 98; see in England under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, Blair v. Cordner, 10 Q. B. 14, 455; Re Marsden, 40 Ch. D. 475.

The Taxing Officer has no authority to charge the solicitor with interest upon money in his hands belonging to his client: Re O'Hanlon, 12 P. R. 612; 28 C. L. J. 10, in Supreme Court.

Only those payments are allowed which are made by the solicitor in his professional capacity: Re Remond, 11 Beav. 603, and no payments in proceedings where he was not professionally concerned: Hemming v. Wilton, 4 Car. & P. 318; Re Lees, 5 Beav. 410.

Costs

Clause (b).—Prior to 58 Vict. c. 13, the costs of the reference were not in the discretion of the Court, but if the client attended the taxation, or obtained the order, and less than a sixth was struck off the bill, he was liable to pay them, and if a sixth or more was struck off, the solicitor was liable to pay them.

See R. S. O. c. 174, s. 40, supra, p. 1405.

Enforcing order.

Clause (d).—After taxation under an order obtained after action brought, the litigation is ended except to enforce payment. If the order does not reserve questions of retainer and negligence, it is open to the client to take a double chance of defeating the solicitor's claim by proceeding to defend the action after the conclusion of the taxation: Re Millar, 12 P. R. 155; where Re Clarke, 9 P. R. 337, and Macdonald v. Piper, 10 P. R. 586, were distinguished. But see Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386.

Under this clause no farther order for payment of the balance found due to either party appears to be necessary, whether the order is obtained by the client or solicitor; but the solicitor or client is entitled to enforce payment by execution on the confirmation of the report. The report must be filed, and unless appealed from, is confirmed at the expiration of fourteen days from the service of notice of the filing on the opposite party: Rule 769.

Where the result of the taxation is that the solicitor has been overpaid, and that money of the client is in his hands, an order may be made that the solicitor be struck off the Roll, unless by a named day he pay the amount due the client, with any costs of the taxation payable by him, and costs of the motion: Re Knowles, 16 P. R. 408; Re Solicitor, 1895, 2 Ch. 66.

If, however, the order for taxation is obtained by a third party, he does not thereby admit his liability to pay the solicitor; Re Group, 1186-1189, 1001, 1 Ch. 239; 84 L. T. 24, and unless the party primarily liable to pay is also a party to the proceedings for taxation (see Rule 1188), the solicitor would not be in a position to enforce payment of the balance, except by action.

1186. An order for reference of a solicitor's bill for taxation shall be presumed to contain the above clauses (a) inclusive of Rule 1185, whether obtained on principle or otherwise, and by the solicitor, client or other person liable to pay the bill. Con. Rule 1227.

1187. The reference for taxation shall unless otherwise ordered be to the proper taxing officer for the county in which the solicitor resides. Nov.

This Rule varies, and in effect supersedes the provisions of R. S. D. c. 174, s. 35, supra, p. 1402, as to the officer to whom the reference is to be directed.

1188.—(1) When a person other than the client applies for taxation of a bill delivered or for the delivery of a copy thereof for the purpose of taxation, and it appears that, by reason of the conduct of the client, the applicant is precluded from taxing the same, but is nevertheless entitled to an account from the client, it shall not be necessary for the applicant to bring an action for an account, but the Court or a Judge may, in a summary manner, refer a bill already delivered or order delivery of a copy of the bill, and refer the same for taxation, as between the applicant and the client, and may add such parties not already notified as may be necessary.

(2) The provisions of Rule 1185, so far as they are applicable, shall apply to such taxation. Con. Rule 1229.

3. SHERIFFS' FEES.

1189. The fees and allowances taken and received by Sheriffs and Coroners other than those provided for by any statute or Rule of Court, shall be the fees and allowances set forth in the Tariff appended to these Rules. Con. Rule 1232.

A Sheriff is entitled to demand from a person delivering to him an execution to be executed, the fees allowed by the Tariff, for receiving.

Rule 1190. warrant, and return; and the fees so paid, if collected from the debtor, are to be refunded by the Sheriff to the person who issued the writ, see 62 Vict. (2) c. 7, s. 2.

As to the fees of a Sheriff acting under an order of a Judge in matters for which no fee is provided, see 62 Vict. (2) c. 8, s. 6.

Sheriff's
poundage, where goods seized but not sold.

1190.—(1) Where part only is made by the Sheriff on, or by force of an execution against goods and chattels, the Sheriff shall be entitled, besides his fees and expenses of execution, to poundage only upon the amount so made by him, whatever be the sum indorsed upon the writ, and when the personal estate, except chattels real, of the judgment debtor is seized or advertised on or under an execution, but not sold by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, or from some other cause, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of such execution, the Sheriff shall be entitled to the fees and expenses of execution and poundage only on the value of the property seized, not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, or such less sum as the Court or a Judge may deem reasonable. Cou. Rule 1233. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1375, part.

Sheriff's
where land or chattels real seized, but not sold.

(2) Where land or chattels real of the judgment debtor have been advertised under an execution, but not sold by reason of payment or satisfaction having been otherwise obtained on, or within one month before the day on which the property has been advertised to be sold, or any day to which the sale may be adjourned, the Sheriff shall be entitled to the fees and expenses of the execution and the poundage, only on the value of the debtor's interest in the property, not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, or such less sum as the Court or a Judge may deem reasonable. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1375, part.

Poundage
goods.

Poundage.—The mere delivery of the writ, without an actual or virtual seizure, does not entitle the Sheriff to poundage; Vash v. Dickenson, L. R. 2 C. P. 252; Morris v. Boulton, 2 C. L. Cham. 69; but the receipt of money by the Sheriff under a writ is a virtual execution of the writ, though there is no actual seizure or sale; Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172; Bissicks v. Bath Colliery Co., 2 Ex. D. 459; Ex p. Lithgow, 10 Ch. D. 169. Where there has been a seizure, the Sheriff is entitled to poundage, though there be no sale, if by compulsion of the writ the debt is recovered directly through the Sheriff; Mortimore v. Cragg, 3 C. P. D. 216, overruling Roe v. Hammond, 2 C. P. D. 300, or indirectly by means of some compromise which is the consequence of the seizure, subject to Rule 1190; Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Thomas v. Cotton, 12 U. C. Q. B. 118; Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 U. C. L. J. 100; McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P.

R. 95; but not where the writ is withdrawn by direction of law: Rule 1190. Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Walker v. Fairfield, 8 C. P. 95; or where, before sale, an order is made for delivery of the goods to a receiver: Re Ludford, 33 W. R. 152; 51 L. T. 240; Re Ludmore, 13 Q. B. 16, 415; or to an official receiver in bankruptcy: In re Thomas, 1899, 1 Q. B. 400.

Where after seizure but before sale, the execution creditor becomes disentitled to enforce the judgment, the Sheriff cannot sell for the purpose of realizing his fees, charges and expenses: Sacary v. Abdy, 1 Ex. D. 293.

Where the money levied has to be restored to defendant in consequence of some act of the plaintiff, the Sheriff may recover poundage from the latter: Henry v. Commercial Bank, 17 F. C. Q. B. 191; see Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390.

A Sheriff upon arresting a judgment debtor under a ca. sa. thereby becomes at once entitled, as against execution creditors, to full poundage on the amount of the execution: McNab v. Oppenheimer, 11 P. R. 348.

The Sheriff is only entitled to poundage on the sum paid over, not on what he retains for himself: Mickle v. Remolds, 24 F. C. Q. B. 303. If he makes part only by force of the execution, the poundage is only on such part; and if a seizure is not followed by a sale by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of the execution, the poundage is only on the goods seized, and a Judge may on application award such less sum as may be reasonable: Rule 1190, and see Walsworth v. Bell, 8 P. R. 478; Borman v. Mason, 1 C. L. T. 109; Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390; Hamilton, etc., v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 202; Re Ludford, 51 L. T. 240. If no such application is made, the Sheriff would seem to be entitled to full poundage on the goods seized; see Brockville, etc., v. Canada Central, 7 P. R. 372, 376.

The Sheriff was held entitled to poundage, on three several writs issued by the same solicitor, and placed in his hands at the same time: Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40; but see now R. S. O. c. 78, s. 28.

For the proper mode of computing poundage, see Fleming v. Hall, 9 P. R. 310.

A Sheriff was formerly not entitled to poundage upon an execution levied against lands, unless there had been an actual sale: Merchants Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 170; French v. Lake Superior Mineral Co., 14 P. R. 541; Rule 1190 (2) now makes provision on that subject.

The plaintiff's solicitors are not liable to the Sheriff for his fees in the absence of any contract, and no contract is implied from lodging the writ in the Sheriff's office: Raple v. Busby, 6 Q. B. D. 171.

Allowance where Poundage or Full Poundage not Recoverable.—A Sheriff was formerly only entitled to poundage for money actually passing through his hands, and he was not entitled to charge poundage on moneys paid by the execution debtor direct to the execution creditor or his solicitor: Hamilton & P. D. R. Co. v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 190; but now where the payment is made, or the claim is settled, after seizure of the debtor's goods, the Sheriff, though not entitled to poundage on the whole amount recovered, is under this Rule entitled to poundage on the value of the goods seized not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, unless an order for a less sum is made under clause (1); and see McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95. Where the money is paid direct to the Sheriff without any Rule 1191. seizure he is entitled to his poundage and fees: Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172; and where the full amount to be levied is paid to the Sheriff after seizure, but before sale, he is entitled to poundage on the amount received and not merely on the value of the property seized: see Re Black Eagle Gold Co., 6 O. L. R. 312. Rules 1190-1192 do not apply in such a case: the money so made is made under the execution. Where to avoid a sale judgment debtors agreed with the Sheriff to pay a proportion of the daily taking, money so paid to the Sheriff was held to be made under the execution: Robinson v. Burnell's Vienna Baking Co., 1904, 4 K. B. 624.

The original Rule did not authorize a Sheriff to collect poundage under an execution against lands where the lands had been advertised but not sold: see Merchants Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 179; French v. L. Superior, etc., 14 P. R. 541; clause (2) now makes provision in that respect.

The Sheriff is not entitled to poundage where the goods seized are upon an interpleader issue determined not to be the goods of the execution debtor, even though they have been sold under the interpleader order: Furner v. Crozier, 14 P. R. 272.

Where, in consequence of an appeal by the execution debtor, the Sheriff after seizure withdrew of his own motion to save expense to parties, and the execution was subsequently superseded, he was held entitled to compensation. The principle of the Rule is that where the Sheriff has made a seizure, and his proceedings are interrupted before the execution is executed, he is entitled to his poundage, or a sum in lieu thereof, and that the means by which the interruption takes place is of no consequence: Weeger v. G. T. Ry. Co., 16 P. R. 371.

Where by reason of the making of a winding-up order under the Dominion Winding-up Act, an execution becomes intercepted before sale, this Rule does not apply so as to entitle the Sheriff to compensation in lieu of poundage: Re Palmerston Packing Co., Allan's Claim, 4 O. W. R. 339.

Poundage covers the risk and responsibility cast upon the Sheriff in seizing, retaining, selling and returning the money. If his action be intercepted so that he does not make the money, it is for the Court to say what allowance shall be made to him in lieu of poundage: Wadsworth v. Bell, 8 P. R. 478. See also Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 330.

When Sheriff entitled to mileage and fees only.

1191. Where there are writs of execution upon the same judgment to several counties, and the personal estate of the judgment debtor has been seized or advertised, in one or more or all of such counties but not sold, by reason of satisfaction having been obtained under and by virtue of a writ in any of the counties, and no money has been actually made on the execution, the Sheriff shall not be entitled to poundage, but to mileage and fees only for the services actually rendered and performed by him, and the Court or Judge may allow him a reasonable charge for such services, in case no special fee therefor is assigned in any tariff of costs. Con. Rule 1234.

See Lee v. Dangar, 1892, 1 Q. B. 231; 2 Q. B. 337; Re Wells, 68 Rules L. T. 231. 1192-1196.

1192. Where any person liable on an execution is dissatisfied with the amount of poundage fees or expenses of execution claimed by a Sheriff, the Court or a Judge may, before or after payment thereof, upon the application of such person, upon notice to the Sheriff, if the amount appears to be unreasonable, notwithstanding that it is according to the tariff, reduce the same or order the same to be refunded upon such terms as may seem just. Con. Rule 1235.

Adopted from R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 47.

1193. Upon the settlement of an execution, in whole or in part, by payment, levy or otherwise, the Sheriff claiming any fees, poundage, expenses or remuneration, which have not been taxed, shall, upon being required by either party, and on payment or tender of the expenses of taxation, and the sum of 25 cents for a copy of his bill in detail (which he shall be bound to render), have his fees, poundage, expenses or remuneration, as the case may be, taxed by the proper taxing officer of the county wherein such Sheriff keeps his office. Con. Rule 1236.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 48; and 49 Vict. c. 16, s. 17.

1194. The Taxing Officer shall tax the bill and give, when requested, a certificate of the taxation. Con. Rule 1238.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 50.

1195. A Sheriff shall not without taxation collect any fees, costs or poundage or expenses, after he has been required to have the same taxed. Con. Rule 1237.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 66, s. 49.

1196. The Taxing Officer, upon proof of notice of the time and place of the taxation having been duly served upon the Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff, or other officer charged with the execution of the writ, shall examine the bill, whether such taxation is opposed or not, and satisfy himself that the items charged in such bill are correct and legal, and strike out items charged for unnecessary services. Con. Rule 1239.

See supra, p. 1012, for practice on appeals from taxation in ordinary cases.

4. SECURITY FOR COSTS.

Security for costs
order for

1198.—(1) Security for costs may be ordered where by law or by the practice a party has heretofore been entitled to obtain security for costs, and, without restricting the generality of this provision, also in the following cases:

- (a) Where the plaintiff resides out of Ontario;
- (b) Where the plaintiff is ordinarily resident out of Ontario, though he may be temporarily resident within Ontario;
- (c) Where the plaintiff has brought another action or proceeding for the same cause which is pending in Ontario or in any other country;
- (d) Where the plaintiff or any person through or under whom he claims, has had judgment or order passed against him, in another action or proceeding for the same cause in Ontario or in any other country, with costs, and such costs have not been paid;

and the Court or a Judge may make such order for security for costs and staying proceedings until security is given as may seem just. See Rules of 23 June, 1894, 1377; Rules of 1 Jan., 1896, 1498.

"Plaintiff."—As to this word, see Molson Bank v. Sawyer, and other cases, infra, pp. 1433-4.

Security for Costs, when Ordered.—This Rule does not limit the right to security for costs to the cases enumerated in clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d), but gives a specific right to security in those cases in addition to any others in which, according to law or the practice of the Court, a party has been heretofore entitled to claim security for costs.

In addition to the cases enumerated in this Rule security for costs may be required to be given: (1) Where the action is brought and prosecuted by a nominal plaintiff. (2) In actions to recover penalties. (3) In actions for libel under R. S. O. c. 68, s. 10. (4) In actions of slander imputing unchastity to any woman; see R. S. O. c. Rule 1198, 68, s. 5. (5) In actions by insolvent persons against Justices of the Peace and other public officers; see R. S. O. c. 89. (6) Parties residing out of the jurisdiction coming into the Master's Office to prove claims as creditors or otherwise. (7) Parties to garnishee, or interpleader proceedings, who are in the position of plaintiffs, and are resident out of the jurisdiction. (8) And generally persons out of the jurisdiction initiating any proceedings. (9) A defendant out of the jurisdiction setting up a counter-claim unconnected with the plaintiff's claim.

Quære, whether security will be ordered in a vexatious or frivolous action: Potter v. Cotton, W. N. 1879, 204.

The fact that the cause of action is a foreign judgment recovered by the plaintiff does not affect the right to security: Crozier v. Brogden, 1894, 2 Q. B. 80.

It will not be ordered in an alimony suit: Bennett v. Bennett, 7 P. R. 54, because in such actions the plaintiff is not ordered to pay costs although she fails.

In regard to the liability to give security for costs, an executor stands in no different position from a litigant suing in his own right: Re Parker, 16 P. R. 392; nor does a foreign receiver: Canadian International Mercantile Agency v. International Mercantile Agency, 4 O. W. R. 338.

(a) Residence out of the Jurisdiction.—A defendant is prima facie but not necessarily, entitled to security because the plaintiff's residence is out of the jurisdiction. If it be made apparent from evidence which the Court can look at, such as defendant's admissions on examination, or other admission though not in any technical form: Anglo-American v. Rowlin, 10 P. R. 391, that there is no defence, security will not be ordered, or a præcipe order will be set aside: Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165; Thibaudau v. Herbert, 16 P. R. 420; De St. Martin v. Davis, W. N. 1884, 86; 28 Sol. Jour. 392.

A plaintiff giving a fictitious address within the jurisdiction, when he is in fact a prisoner under criminal sentence in Ontario, will be ordered to give security for costs: Fournier v. Hogarth, 15 P. R. 72; although the fact that the plaintiff is in prison is not of itself a ground for ordering him to give security: see Dupont v. Crook, 89 L. T. Jour. 31.

A plaintiff wilfully giving a false or fictitious address within the jurisdiction, though really living without, will be ordered to give security: Waldron v. McWalter, 6 P. R. 145; Sutherland v. McDonald, 9 P. R. 178; Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 458; Manby v. Berville, 8 De G. M. & G. 468, and see Re Sturgis, etc., 34 W. R. 163; Andrews v. Read, 3 Times, 573; Fraser v. Palmer, 3 Y. & C. 280; and where this is done, the order will not be discharged merely because the plaintiff comes to reside within the jurisdiction: Ib.; but where a plaintiff has by mistake given an erroneous address within the jurisdiction, when he was in fact resident temporarily out of the jurisdiction, on the mistake being established, he will not be ordered to give security, if he has in the meantime come to reside within the jurisdiction: Anderson v. Quebec Fire Ins. Co., 15 P. R. 172. A sole plaintiff residing out of the jurisdiction, will prima facie be obliged to give security: Dan. Pr., 5th ed., 28; Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62; also a sole plaintiff leaving the juris-

Rule 1198. diction during the pendency of the action in order to avoid arrest for contempt of Court: Codd v. Delap, 15 P. R. 374; but not one of several plaintiffs, one of whom resides within the jurisdiction, where they sue in respect of a joint claim, even though a several claim be set up in the alternative: D'Hormusgee v. Grey, 10 Q. B. D. 13; McCConnell v. Wakeford, 13 P. R. 455; Smith v. Silverthorne, 15 P. R. 197. But since Ruhx 185 and 1131, all the plaintiffs may not be jointly liable for the whole costs; hence, the rule that security for costs should not be ordered where the objection taken to a plaintiff (e.g., residence abroad, insolvency), is not applicable to other co-plaintiffs, does not now universally govern: Irring v. Clark, 12 P. R. 29, in which security was ordered for the costs of the defendants against one plaintiff, where the claims of the several plaintiffs were distinct.

Security for costs was refused in an alimony suit though the plaintiff was resident out of the jurisdiction: Bennett v. Bennett, 7 P. R. 34.

Security will not be required if the plaintiff is serving abroad in the army or navy: Evelyn v. Chippendale, 9 Sim. 497; Evering v. Chiffenden, 7 Dowl. 536; Dickenson v. Duffill, 1 Chy. Ch. 108; or if a British subject and at the time resident within the jurisdiction, though his movements be uncertain: Allen v. Globe, Globe, 1st December, 1881; Gardiner v. Harris, 8 L. R. Ir. 372; but see Harkley v. Toronto General Trusts, 33 C. L. J. 432.

In Martin v. Russell, 21 L. R. Ir. 196, security was ordered to be given by a sailor following his calling out of the jurisdiction, though his family resided within it; but where a plaintiff had his home in Ontario, but carried on business out of the jurisdiction, and only visited his home at intervals of a month for a few days at a time, he was held to reside in Ontario: Moffatt v. Leonard, 6 O. L. R. 383.

A motion for security was refused where the plaintiffs resident out of the jurisdiction, had recovered judgment, and the defendant was appealing and alleged that since recovery of the judgment, the plaintiffs had removed their assets out of the Province: Exchange Bank v. Barnes, 11 P. R. 11; Small v. Henderson, 18 P. R. 314.

An infant plaintiff resident out of the jurisdiction will not be ordered to give security for costs, nor will his guardian or next friend, if within the jurisdiction: Moran v. Kellogg, 10 C. L. T. 184; Scott v. Niagara, etc., 15 P. R. 403, 455; Roberts v. Coughlin, 18 P. R. 94, but see Stinson v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 86; but if the infant and his next friend be resident out of the jurisdiction, security for costs will be ordered unless a new next friend resident within the jurisdiction is appointed: McBain v. Waterloo Manufacturing Co., 8 O. L. R. 620; and where the infant plaintiff is within the jurisdiction, and the next friend is resident out of the jurisdiction, and is also a plaintiff, the latter may be required to give security for costs, or in default his claim may be struck out: Felgate v. Hegler, 9 O. L. R. 315.

If the plaintiff's permanent residence is foreign, the defendant is entitled to security if the plaintiff is out of the jurisdiction at the time of the motion: Robertson v. Concan, 10 P. R. 508.

If a plaintiff goes out of the jurisdiction permanently pending action, he may be required to give security for both past and future costs: Masson v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; Hutelen v. Merchants Despatch Transportation Co., 10 P. R. 253; Codd v. Delap, 15 P. R. 374; and see Tanner v. Weiland, 19 P. R. 149.

Defendants were held not entitled to security from plaintiffs who acted as executors, and who, under a power of attorney from English executors, took out probate in Ontario of the will of a testator who resided and died in England: Sykes v. Canadian Pacific Rn., 3 O. L. T. 505.

Semble, that an affidavit of information and belief as to residence abroad is not sufficient ground for an order for security for costs: Hollingsworth v. Hollingsworth, 10 P. R. 5.

As to what constitutes "residence" abroad, see Re Trench, 25 Ch. D. 500.

And as to what constitutes residence within the jurisdiction by a foreign company, see Parker v. Odette, 13 P. R. 431; Welsbach L. Light Co. v. St. Ledger, Ltd., 382; Pittsburgh C. S. Co. v. Moxa, 102 L. T. Jour. 532; W. N. 1897, 306.

(b) Temporary Residence within Jurisdiction.—Formerly if the plaintiff was in fact within the jurisdiction, he could not be required to give security: see Wilder v. Hopkins, 4 P. R. 350; Belton v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 471; and other cases cited supra; but now under the provisions of this Rule a temporary residence within the jurisdiction will not be sufficient to exonerate a party ordinarily resident abroad from giving security: Nesbit v. Galna, 3 O. L. R. 429; Kerranagh v. Cassidy, 5 O. L. R. 314. It is no answer to an application for security for costs against a plaintiff ordinarily resident out of the jurisdiction, that he has no fixed place of residence anywhere: Alcroft v. Morrison, 19 P. R. 59; overruling Denier v. Marks, Earle v. Marks, 18 P. R. 465. It is probable that this branch of the Rule may be held to extend to other cases besides that of a plaintiff in an action, where residence abroad is the ground of ordering security to be given. An application to compel security to be given by a foreigner in prison within the jurisdiction was refused: Dupont v. Crook, 80 L. T. Jour. 51; but that was before the amendment of the Rule authorizing an application in case of temporary residence.

A plaintiff who comes into the jurisdiction after the issue of an order may be relieved from it, if he is actually, and intends to remain, a resident there: Nesbit v. Galna, 3 O. L. R. 429.

(c) Pendency of Another Action.

To bring a case within clause (c) of this Rule it must be clearly shewn that the causes of action are identically the same, and not merely growing out of the same transaction: Dean v. Lamprop, 2 Chy. Ch. 202. See also Hill v. Paulet, 13 L. T. 645; Cassell v. Murray, 18 C. L. J. 76; Grand Junction Ry. v. Peterborough, 14 P. R. 107; Lucas v. Cruickshank, 13 P. R. 31; Cobbett v. Warner, L. R. 2 Q. B. 108; and Martin v. Branchamp, 25 Ch. D. 12; approved in McCabe v. Bank of Ireland, 14 App. Cas. 113.

In Brunsdon v. Humphrey, 14 Q. B. D. 141, it was held that where a judgment had been obtained, in an action to recover damages for injury to the plaintiff's cab, in a collision caused by the defendant's servant, another action might be brought for damages for a personal injury suffered in the same collision, as it was held to constitute a distinct cause of action.

See Russell v. Waterford & Limerick Rn., 16 L. R. Ir. 311, for an instance of splitting a cause of action.

Rule 1198. In Serrao v. Noel, 15 Q. B. D. 540, an action had been instituted in the Chancery Division for an injunction to restrain the defendants and a company from parting with shares or registering the defendants as transferees, and for "further and other relief." That action was settled by a consent order for delivery up of shares to the plaintiff, and staying the action. Owing to delay in delivering the shares they were sold at a loss, and this action was brought for damages for detention. It was held that it was the same cause of action as in the Chancery Division, and the plaintiff was estopped by the consent order from recovering damages, the action in the Chancery Division being for all relief necessary to do complete justice between the parties.

Where security is ordered the proceedings are of course stayed until the security is given; see Campbell v. Elgie, 10 P. R. 440, and the action may be dismissed if the security be not given within the time limited by the Court; see Rules 1202 and 1203. The word "proceeding" in this and the following clause of the Rule means a proceeding in Court. An appeal from an order dismissing a motion made aside an award was held not to be a "proceeding for the same cause," as an action to recover moneys in respect of certain matters included in the submission, but not dealt with by the award: Coughlin v. Bracer, 17 P. R. 438.

Non-payment of costs.

(d) Non-payment of Costs in another Action for same Cause.—This Rule supersedes the former practice under which the second action might be stayed until the costs of the former action were paid: Campbell v. Elgie, 10 P. R. 440.

As to the meaning of the word "proceeding": see Coughlin v. Bracer, supra.

Security for costs may be ordered to be given, even though the former action was not between precisely the same parties, where the plaintiff is suing substantially by virtue of the same alleged facts as that set up in the former action: May v. Werden, 17 P. R. 500, where the second plaintiff knew the history of the prior litigation, and appeared to have been made plaintiff in order to evade the practice which would require security to be given.

Where, however, the costs in the former action were not ordered to be paid by the plaintiff personally, but out of an estate, security was refused: Curtis v. McVabb, 7 P. R. 240; Peters v. Tillo, 11 P. R. 145.

The plaintiff cannot set up that the first action was brought without his authority where, when it became known to him he could move to relieve himself on that ground from liability for the costs, but has not done so: Lee v. Lang, 17 P. R. 203; 18 P. R. 1, where the order for security was set aside on terms, the plaintiff having obtained an order setting aside the judgment obtained against him in the first action.

Under the former practice, where some of the causes of action in a second action were the same as in a former action, the plaintiff having discontinued as to those, the Court refused to stay the second action in respect of the new causes of action till costs of the former action were paid: Bywater v. Dunne, 10 L. R. Ir. 380.

Where an action by a married woman by her next friend was dismissed with costs, for want of prosecution, a second action on her behalf for the same object, but by a new next friend, was stayed.

the costs of the first action were paid: Ry Payne, Randle v. Payne, Rule 1198, 23 Ch. D. 288; and in such a case the defendant would now be entitled to security for costs under this clause of the Rule.

Nominal Plaintiff.—Security may be ordered if the plaintiff is nominal insolvent and the suit is in reality for the benefit of some other person: Mason v. Jeffrey, 2 Chy. Ch. 15; Little v. Wright, 16 Gr. 576; Pendry v. O'Neill, 7 P. R. 52; Boice v. O'Leary, 7 P. R. 359; Delaney v. MacLellan, 13 P. R. 63; Delap v. Charlebois, 15 P. R. 15; Major v. Mackenzie, 17 P. R. 18 (explaining Gordon v. Armstrong, 16 P. R. 432); May v. Heeden, 17 P. R. 530, affirmed by D. C. 33 C. L. J. 568; especially if such other person is out of the jurisdiction, though the plaintiff had a nominal interest: Re Royal Lake Lumber Co., 11 P. R. 311; see also Savin v. Folloes, 18 Q. B. 11, 55; and see Part Kearney & L. S. Ry. Co. v. South Norfolk Ry. Co., 13 P. R. 327, where an application for security for costs was made, on the ground that the plaintiff company was alleged to have no corporate existence, and was alleged to be suing on behalf of a third person who was insolvent. So where the plaintiff is only one of a large number interested, and the Court is satisfied that he has been put forward by the others to institute the suit, and he is a man of no means: Hatheway v. Day, 11 P. R. 91; Clark v. St. Catharines, 10 P. R. 205; Re Seventh E. C. Bldg. Soc., 51 L. T. 109.

Where an action was brought by a mortgagor in respect of the mortgaged estate, and the mortgage was so large as to leave no value in the equity of redemption, so that the action was really for the benefit of the mortgagee, the plaintiff was required to give security for costs as being in effect a nominal plaintiff: Gordon v. Armstrong, 16 P. R. 432; see Major v. Mackenzie, 17 P. R. 18.

To entitle a defendant to security on this ground it is not sufficient to shew that the plaintiff is a man of no means, and has no beneficial interest; it must be shewn that the action is really that of some other person: Major v. Mackenzie, 17 P. R. 18; and security will not be ordered to be given where the plaintiff asserts a cause of action in which no one but himself is interested: Clarke v. Rama Timber Transport Co., 10 P. R. 384; nor where the plaintiff himself has an interest in the suit which is brought partly for the benefit of another: Wallbridge v. Trust & Loan Co., 13 P. R. 67; but the interest must be substantial and not merely nominal: Delaney v. MacLellan, 13 P. R. 63.

Where an alleged nominal plaintiff is examined in support of a motion to compel him to give security for costs, he cannot be required to answer as to his financial ability until a prima facie case has been made out that he is in fact a nominal plaintiff; such prima facie case may be made by the affidavit of the defendant that in his belief such is the fact: Pritchard v. Pattison, 19 P. R. 180, 277; very clear proof that the plaintiff has no substantial interest is necessary, or the order will not be made: S. C., 1 O. L. R. 37.

In a class suit brought by four ratepayers against a municipal corporation and reeve for an account of moneys received by the reeve from the corporation, security was refused, although the plaintiffs were alleged to be financially incompetent to answer costs, the action being virtually the plaintiffs' and not that of third persons putting the plaintiffs forward to sue: McAllister v. O'Meara, 17 P. R. 176.

An assignee in insolvency bona fide suing in the discharge of his duty will not be ordered to give security, though without means and Rule 1199. not beneficially interested: Vare v. Gould, 8 P. R. 311, nor will a receiver of an insolvent company continuing, by order of the Court, an action brought by the company: Provincial Ins. Co. v. Goodchurch, 7 P. R. 283; nor an official liquidator: Cowell v. Taylor, 31 Ch. D. 34; nor an administrator bringing an action under the Fatal Accidents Act (R. S. O. c. 166); Sharp v. Grand Trunk Ry., 1 O. L. R. 200; but where a plaintiff has entered into an agreement to prosecute the action for the benefit of a trustee for his creditors, he is a nominal plaintiff, and as such liable to be ordered to give security for costs: Lloyd v. Huthers S. B. Co., 85 L. T. 158; and if resident out of the jurisdiction a receiver of a company is liable to give security in the same way as any other person so resident: Canadian International Mercantile Agency v. International Mercantile Agency, 4 O. W. R. 338.

Where the plaintiff is a corporation, the fact that it is insolvent, and a receiver of its assets has been appointed, is no ground for ordering security: Dartmouth Harbour Commission v. Mayor of Dartmouth, 34 W. R. 774; 55 L. J. Q. B. 483; but see Harkins H. Co. v. Want, 60 L. T. 207; 4 R. 577; 9 Times, 481, 538.

Quere, whether the rule that security is not ordered against one only of several plaintiffs was ever applicable to the case of an insolvent plaintiff suing for the benefit of another: Irving v. Clark, 12 P. R. 230.

Where the plaintiff parts with his interest pendente lite, further proceedings may be stayed until security is given, or the suit is revived in the name of the assignee: Siran v. Adams, 7 P. R. 147; see also Secur v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, and Goatley v. Emmott, 15 C. R. 291.

Poverty of the plaintiff is no ground alone for asking security: Ross v. Jacques, 8 M. & W. 135; Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446; Cowell v. Taylor, 31 Ch. D. at p. 38; Heckscher v. Crook, 1891, 1 Q. B. 224; (as to this case, see Wightwick v. Pope, 1902, 2 K. B. 90); Lemaurier v. Ferguson, 20 Times, 32; Cook v. Whellock, 24 Q. B. D. 658; 38 W. L. R. 334; nor his insolvency where he is suing for his own benefit: Rhodes v. Lawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548; nor even though the plaintiff be also a married woman: McKay v. Baker, 12 P. R. 341.

A defendant's right to security for costs may, however, be waived by not applying at a proper stage of the cause: Robertson v. McMaster, 8 P. R. 14. The rule as to when it is too late to apply is not the same, however, as formerly: see note to Rule 1201, and United Telephone Co. v. Bassano, 31 Ch. D. 620; and see Wightwick v. Pope, supra.

Actions to recover Penalties.—See Rule 1200, and notes.

Libel

Actions for Libel.—By R. S. O. c. 68, s. 10, in actions for libel contained in a newspaper (as defined by sec. 1 of the Act), the defendant may at any time after the filing of the statement of claim apply for security for costs upon notice, and on an affidavit by the defendant or his agent showing the nature of the action and defence, and showing that the plaintiff is not possessed of property sufficient to answer the costs of the action in case a verdict or judgment is given in favour of the defendant, and that the defendant has a good defence on the merits, and that the statements complained of were published in good faith, or that the grounds of action are trivial or frivolous.

Where, however, the alleged libel involves a criminal charge, the defendant is not entitled to security for costs unless he satisfies the Court or Judge that the action is trivial or frivolous, or that the article was published in good faith, and that there was reasonable ground to believe that the same was for the public benefit, and that the publication took place in mistake or misapprehension of the facts and that there was an equally public retraction as mentioned in sec. 6 (2).

Rule 1198.

But on such an application the Judge is not to try the merits, and contentious affidavits in answer will not be received; Bartram v. London Free Press, 18 P. R. 11; It is sufficient if the defendant makes out a prima facie case for security; Saugh v. Mail Printing Co., 16 P. R. 132; Lennox v. Star Co., 16 P. R. 488; and see Southwick v. Hare, 15 P. R. 222; Bartram v. London Free Press, 18 P. R. 11.

As to the case where a criminal charge is involved, see Saugh v. Stephenson, 17 P. R. 374; Georgina Bay Co. v. The World, 16 P. R. 320; Macdonald v. World, Ib., 321.

A libel does not involve "a criminal charge" unless the offence imputed is one that could be made the subject of an indictment; e.g., a charge that a joint stock company bribed aldermen is not a "criminal charge," because a company could not be indicted for an offence involving malice or intent on the part of the alleged offender; Georgina Bay Co. v. The World, supra; Beckett v. Engraver Print. Co., 16 P. R. 63; and see D'Arcy v. The World, 17 P. R. 387.

An accusation of "blackmailing" imputes an indictable offence; Marks v. Samuel, 1904, 2 K. B. 287; but see Macdonald v. Mail Printing Co., 2 O. L. R. 278.

Where it was shewn that the plaintiff was not in fact the person referred to in the alleged libel, the action was regarded as frivolous; Girvine v. Globe Printing Co., 14 P. R. 72.

A printed paper issued daily by the conductors of a mercantile agency to persons who are subscribers to the agency, for the purpose of giving the information required by such subscribers, is a "news-paper" within R. S. O. c. 68, s. 10, supra; Slattery v. Dun, 18 P. R. 168; but the Statute only entitles newspaper publishers or proprietors to security for costs; a person sued for libel contained in an advertisement published in a newspaper, of which the defendant is neither the proprietor nor publisher, is not entitled to security; Parrell v. Ruskin, 35 C. L. J. 241.

As to what is a good defence on the merits; see Paladin v. Austin, 17 P. R. 553. It must be disclosed; see Leicester v. Ryckman, 15 P. R. 160; Georgina Bay, etc., Co. v. The World, 16 P. R. 320. An order of a Judge granting, or refusing security under R. S. O. c. 68, is final; but not that of the Master in Chambers or other judicial officer; see Ib., and see Bramt v. Reading, 17 Q. B. D. 128; 54 L. T. 524; Church v. Dudley, 56 L. T. 122; Christie v. Coochey, 9 P. R. 529; but see Reg. ex rel McGuire v. Birkett, 21 Ont. 192.

Where the alleged libel is against a candidate for a public office in Ontario, the defendant is not entitled to security; R. S. O. c. 57, s. 5 (2), (3); Cumbee v. Weidman, 16 P. R. 239.

Actions of Slander for Imputing Unchastity.—By R. S. O. c. 68, s. 5, in actions by women for slander imputing adultery, fornication, or concubinage, the defendant may at any time after the filing of the statement of claim apply to the Court or a Judge, upon notice slander

unchastity.

Rule 1198 to the plaintiff, for security for costs to be incurred in such action, upon an affidavit of the defendant showing the nature of the action, and that the plaintiff is not possessed of property sufficient to answer the costs of the action in case a verdict or judgment is given in favour of the defendant, and that the defendant has a good defence to the action on the merits, or that the grounds of the action are trivial or frivolous.

In such an application the nature of the defence must be disclosed. It is not sufficient for the defendant simply to swear that he has a good defence on the merits; Lancaster v. Ryckman, 15 P. R. 199, and see Paladino v. Gustin, 17 P. R. 553.

Police officers.

Actions against Justices and other Public Officers.—By R. S. O. c. 89, s. 1, in case an action or other legal proceeding is brought against a Police Magistrate, or other Justice of the Peace, for any act done by him in the execution of his duty as such Justice, or in respect to any matter within his jurisdiction as such Justice, or against any other officer or person fulfilling any public duty for anything by him done in the performance of such duty, whether such duties arise out of the Common Law or are imposed by any Act of Imperial, Dominion or Provincial, the defendant may, at any time after the service of the writ, apply to the Court or a Judge for security for costs to be incurred in such action (see sec. 2), on notice to the plaintiff and on an affidavit by the defendant or his agent, showing the nature of the action and of the defence, and showing to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge that the plaintiff is not possessed of sufficient property to answer the costs of the action, in case a verdict or judgment should be given in favour of the defendant, and that he has a good defence on the merits, or that the grounds of the action are trivial or frivolous.

A police officer laying an information for obscene language is entitled to security for costs in an action brought for maliciously laying such information; Eaves v. Nesbitt, 1 O. L. R. 244; so also a police officer sued for trespass in executing a warrant of arrest; Levie v. Dullip, 3 O. L. R. 301. A sheriff acting in execution of a fi. fa. is not a public officer entitled to security for costs under the statute; Creighton v. Sweetland, 18 P. R. 180.

The defence on the merits must be disclosed; see Lancaster v. Ryckman, 15 P. R. 199, and Paladino v. Gustin, 17 P. R. 553. The merits of the action will not be tried on the application, but a prima facie defence must be established; see Paladino v. Gustin, supra; Scott v. Mail Printing Co., 16 P. R. 132; Lennox v. Star Co., 16 P. R. 488; Southwick v. Hare, 15 P. R. 222. Although the application may be made at any time after the service of the writ, yet it has been held that when a person holding a public office is made a defendant, on an application for security the pleadings must be looked at, and if, on them, the case cannot go to the jury against the defendant as a public officer, he is not entitled to security, and even though he shows on affidavit that his sole connection with the matter alleged against him was in his public capacity; Parker v. Baker, 17 P. R. 345.

Security,
when ordered in Master's office.

Master's Office.—Parties residing out of the jurisdiction, coming into the Master's office to prove claims as creditors or otherwise, may be required to give security for costs; Re Rees, Urquhart v. Toronto General Trusts Co., 10 P. R. 425; but this case was disapproved of by the Divisional Court of the Q. B. D. in Palmer v. Lavett, 14 P. R. 115; but see Re Parker, 10 P. R. 392, and Can. Nat. Mercantile Agency v. International Mer. Agency, 4 O. W. R. 338.

Interlocutory Proceedings:—

Rule 119a

Attaching Proceedings.—Security has also been ordered to be given by one of the parties to an issue arising out of garnishee proceedings, where he was resident out of the jurisdiction: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121; Edwards v. Edwards, 12 P. R. 538; but a judgment creditor appealing from an order refusing him an attaching order was held not liable to give security for costs: Palmer v. Lovett, 14 P. R. 415.

Interpleader Proceedings.—In an interpleader matter either party: Knickerbocker v. Webster, 17 P. R. 180; Sutton v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490; Walker v. Miles, 3 Ch. Ch. 108; Deller v. Peckett, 20 L. J. Q. B. 151; Tamlinson v. Land & Finance Co., 11 Q. B. 11, 539; Lorrell v. Warthrop, 4 P. R. 257; Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570; and see Rule 1122; may be ordered to give security under the same circumstances as a plaintiff in an ordinary action. The substantial, and not the nominal, interest of the parties must be looked at, and therefore where one of the defendants in an interpleader issue was really interested in the result thereof as a plaintiff, he was held not entitled to call upon the plaintiff in the issue to give security for costs, upon the ground that the latter was a foreigner residing abroad: Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 352; and see Knickerbocker v. Webster, supra. If the party substantially moving the proceedings, whether plaintiff or defendant, is out of the jurisdiction, he should give security: Re Ancient Order of Foresters & Castner, 11 P. R. 37.

A Sheriff in interpleader proceedings is only entitled to security for costs under the same circumstances as would entitle an ordinary litigant thereto: Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 406.

Other Summary Applications.—Security was ordered to be given for the costs of opposing a petition for the custody of an infant: Re Puckey, 1 O. W. R. 624, 715; a petition for the payment of money out of Court presented by a petitioner resident out of the jurisdiction: Re Parker, 16 P. R. 392; Can. Nat. Mercantile, etc. v. Interborough, etc., 1 O. W. R. 338; but see Palmer v. Lovett, 14 P. R. 415; and where two persons, both out of the jurisdiction, were claiming the same fund, each was ordered to give security for costs to the other of them: Stclair v. Campbell, 2 O. L. R. 1; and a person resident out of the jurisdiction making a claim to a fund in Court, under an inquiry as to who was entitled, was ordered to give security on the ground that he was in the position of a plaintiff in interpleader proceedings: Re Milward, 1900, 1 Ch. 405; 82 L. T. 339; see also for costs of opposing a motion for an injunction: Whitcha-Lee v. Gamage, 70 L. T. 20; 1898, 2 Ch. 105.

A defendant residing out of the jurisdiction has a right to take any proceeding to defend himself: Re Percy & Kelly Nickel, etc., Co., 2 Ch. D. 531; against the plaintiff, upon the pleadings and proofs between the plaintiff and defendant: Walmsley v. Griffith, 11 P. R. 139, as modified by Molsons Bank v. Sawyer, 19 P. R. 316; or may move to set aside the service on him of a writ of summons: Sparrow v. Rice, 5 O. W. R. 625; 6 O. W. R. 61; or present a petition: Cochrane v. Fearon, 18 Jur. 568, without being called on to give security for costs; and a plaintiff moving to set aside proceedings brought in his name without his authority is in the position of a person brought into Court and defending himself: Sample v. McLaughlin, 17 P. R. 490; but where a defendant claims indemnity or other relief against a co-defendant, and his claim to such Rule 1198. relief is altogether independent of any defence to the plaintiff's claim, he is in the position of a plaintiff, and may be ordered to give security for costs to the co-defendant as against whom he seeks relief; and Walmsley v. Griffith, supra, is to that extent overruled; Hudson Bank v. Sawyer, 19 P. R. 316.

In re Cornwall, 15 L. R. Ir. 144, security was ordered to be given by a client out of the jurisdiction, seeking to tax his solicitor's bill; but see Re A. B., 6 P. R. 210.

Quieting Title proceedings.

Quieting Title Proceedings.—A Judge, or the Referee of Titles, may at any stage of the proceedings, order security for costs to be given by the applicant for a certificate, or by any person making an adverse claim: R. S. O. c. 135, ss. 20, 23. A petitioner resident out of the jurisdiction, or only temporarily resident within the jurisdiction, may be ordered to give security for the costs of a contestant; but a contestant out of the jurisdiction will not ordinarily be ordered to give security to the petitioner, as he stands in the position of a defendant; see Law v. Morrison, 14 Gr. 192, but a contestant whose claim has been disallowed may be required to give security as a condition of obtaining a re-investigation of the title in question; Re Harland, 4 Chy. Ch. 74. But in prosecuting a claim to land before the Referee of Titles, a contestant served with notice will not be prevented from asserting his rights until payment of costs of proceedings instituted by him against the claimant, in respect of the property in question, ordered to be paid by the contestant; Shepherd v. Hayball, 13 Gr. 681; see also Re Percy & Kelly Nickel, etc., Can. 2 Ch. 11, 531.

Winding-up
proceedings

Winding-up Proceedings.—A Referee acting under the Winding-up Acts (R. S. O. c. 129; 52 V. c. 32, s. 20 D.), has power to order security for costs, and to stay proceedings until it is given; Re Sarnia Oil Co., 14 P. R. 335.

A petitioner for winding up a company who had given an address at which he could not be found, and whose solicitor was unable to state his private address, was ordered to give security; Re Sturgis Motor Power Syndicate (Ltd.), 53 L. T. 715; 34 W. R. 163.

Defendant,
when ordered to give security
for costs.

Defendant, when Ordered to give Security for Costs. Security will be ordered to be given by a person out of the jurisdiction applying to be added as a party, and for leave to apply for substantial relief, as he must be considered as in the position of a plaintiff; Apollinaris Co. v. Wilson, 31 Ch. D. 632.

A defendant out of the jurisdiction moving for a new trial was ordered to give security for costs, and Hecksher v. Crossley, 1891, 1 Q. B. 224, in which a contrary rule was laid down, was amended; Wightwick v. Pope, 1902, 2 K. B. 99.

Where a claim and counter-claim arise out of different matters, so that the counter-claim is really in the nature of an independent or cross-action, the defendant, if residing out of the jurisdiction, may be required to give security, and should be so required, if the only dispute in the action is on his counter-claim; Sykes v. Sacerdotti, 15 Q. B. D. 423; Lake v. Haseltine, 55 L. J. Q. B. 205; see also The Newbattle, 54 L. J. (P. D. & Ad.) 16.

In an action for breach of contract against defendant, a foreigner residing abroad, where the defendant denied the breaches, and also made a counter-claim for breaches of the same contract by the plaintiff, plaintiff, claiming damages to an amount less than the plaintiff's claim. Rule 1199. It was held that the defendant could not be ordered to give security for the plaintiff's costs occasioned by the counter-claim: Mapleson v. Masini, 5 Q. B. D. 144; and wherever a defendant's counter-claim arises out of the same transaction as the plaintiff's claim, the Court has discretion to refuse to order security for costs: Neek v. Taylor, 1893, 1 Q. B. 560; 68 L. T. 399; Miller's Patent, 70 L. T. 270.

Where a defendant admitted the cause of action sued upon, and set up a counter-claim founded upon a distinct transaction, he was held not entitled to security for costs from the plaintiff, a foreigner, residing without the jurisdiction: Winterfield v. Bradnam, 3 Q. B. D. 324. In the Admiralty Division, in an action of collision a defendant claiming damages by counter-claim was ordered to give security for the plaintiff's costs of the action: The Julia Fisher, 2 P. D. 115.

A defendant, out of the jurisdiction, claiming indemnity or other relief against a co-defendant, may be required to give that defendant security for costs: Molsons Bank v. Sawyer, 19 P. R. 316.

A defendant out of the jurisdiction disputing the right of a plaintiff to probate of a will is not liable to give security for costs: Ward v. Benson, 2 O. L. R. 364.

A foreign claimant putting in a claim under a general inquiry will not as a rule be ordered to give security; but see Re Milneard & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 405, where security was ordered to be given by a foreign claimant, on an inquiry as to the persons entitled to a fund in Court, on the ground that the inquiry was equivalent to an interpleader issue, in which the foreign claimant was in the position of plaintiff.

1199—(1) Where it appears, by the writ of summons, ^{Order on} notice, or other proceeding by which a cause or matter is ^{præcipe.} commenced, or by an indorsement thereon, that the plaintiff resides out of Ontario, the order may be obtained on præcipe, after appearance by the defendant applying therefor pursuant to any such writ of summons.

(2) The order may be according to Form No. 95, and shall require the plaintiff, within 4 weeks from the service of the order, to give security in $400 for the defendant's costs of the action, and shall direct that all further proceedings be stayed in the meantime, and that in default of such security being given the action shall be dismissed with costs against the defendant obtaining the order, unless the Court or Judge, upon special application for that purpose, otherwise orders. Con. Rule 1242; Rules 23 June, 1894, 1376.

(3) In actions in the County Court the amount of the security shall be $200. Nem.

See J. A. Rule 431.

Except in the case provided for in this Rule, i.e., where it appears by the writ of summons, notice, or other proceeding, by which a Rule 1192. cause or matter is commenced, or by an indorsement thereon, that the plaintiff resides out of the jurisdiction, all applications for security for costs must be made in Chambers, on notice to the plaintiff, or other party from whom security is claimed.

Where the order is properly issuable on praecepe, it is to be obtained at the office where the action or proceeding is commenced: Rule 117. For Form No. 95, see H. & L. Forms, No. 1606.

The word "plaintiff" in this Rule should probably be held to include any person initiating a proceeding other than an action, e.g., a petitioner, or person giving an originating or other notice of motion, where such notice is the commencement of a proceeding or application for relief by such person, and not merely incidental to opposing proceedings initiated by some other person: see Re Paton, 16 P. R. 392; but see Palmer v. Lorette, 14 P. R. 415.

Praeceptum order, how obtained.

Praeceptum Order.—The Ontario Rules do not expressly require as the English Rules do [see Eng. (1881) R. 19], that the address of the plaintiff suing by solicitor shall be indorsed upon the writ: see Rule 134. The form of writ, however (Form 1 in the App.), contains plates such an indorsement, and this should therefore be followed. Where the plaintiff is without the jurisdiction and liable to give security, if the writ does not disclose the residence, a special application for security is proper: Laurless v. Rudford, 17 C. L. J. 388, 14 L. T. 661; and the costs of it will be to the defendant, as the plaintiff ought in such case to indorse his address on the writ, so as to enable defendant to obtain an order on praecepe under this Rule: McCord v. Hennessy, 3 P. R. 489.

A praeceptum order should only issue where it appears by the indorsement on the writ that the plaintiff resides, or all the plaintiffs reside, out of the jurisdiction: McConnell v. Wakeford, 13 P. R. 475. Semble, the order where obtainable on praeceptum may issue at any time before judgment: it was issued after defence and before issue joined in Smerling v. Kennedy, 5 O. L. R. 430, and see Small v. Henderson, 18 P. R. 314.

Where the indorsement stated that the plaintiffs resided in the Township of Brant in the County of Bruce, and in Wisconsin, U.S.A., this was held to be a statement that they resided out of the jurisdiction: McConnell v. Wakeford, supra.

If it appears by the indorsement on the writ that one of several plaintiffs resides within Ontario, a praeceptum order should not issue, and semble, if issued it is void and a nullity: McConnell v. Wakeford, 13 P. R. 475. An order issued as to one plaintiff only is irregular: Id., but compliance with it will waive the irregularity: Id.

A praeceptum order has as much force, upon being served, to effect a stay of proceedings, as if made on application to a Judge: Reich v. N. S. v. La Roche, 9 P. R. 503; Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165; except so far as is provided by Rule 1203. An order under this Rule limits in the first instance the time for giving security. Formerly a praeceptum order merely stayed proceedings till security was given, and by the Chancery practice, or under 42 Vict. c. 15, s. 2 (now Rule 1202), a subsequent application might be made to limit a time.

Where an order has limited a time and provided for dismissal in case of default, a subsequent ex parte motion shewing default has been customary in Ontario to obtain the dismissal of the action: see Brown v. Chisholm, 2 Chy. Ch. 88. This practice was not approved of in Hollender v. Ffoulkes, 16 P. R. 225, but has now been established Rule 1199, by Rule 1203.

It was doubted under the original Rule whether there was any power to fix the amount at less than $100 where a procipe order had been taken out: North v. Fisher, 10 P. R. 582. Rules 1207 and 1208 were passed to settle this question.

An order made on motion of one of several defendants may properly provide that the security to be given is to answer the costs of all of the defendants: Delap v. Charlebois, 15 P. R. 325. See also Edmunds v. Mabey, 11 C. L. T. 177, where two defendants having obtained separate orders on procipe, an order was made on plaintiff's application that a bond filed in compliance with the first order should stand as security for both defendants, without prejudice to their rights to move to have the amount increased. Where in pursuance of an order obtained by one of several defendants, the plaintiff pays money into Court as security for costs, on the other defendants, or any of them, obtaining similar orders, the money paid in may, on the plaintiff's application, be ordered to stand also as security for such other defendant's costs: Syracuse Smelting Works v. Sweeney, 2 O. L. R. 141.

Special Application.—Where a special application is necessary, it must be made on notice to the plaintiff. As to evidence required on such application, see notes to Rule 1198. Unexplained delay in making the application may be a bar to its being entertained: Bertudato v. Frouquier, 38 C. L. J. 79.

Time for Obtaining Order for Security for Costs on Praecept.—Formerly a defendant by taking a step in the action after he became entitled to require security for costs to be given, was held to waive his right thereto, but now a defendant may obtain the order on special application at any time before issue joined: see Caswell v. Murray, 9 P. R. 102; Small v. Henderson, 18 P. R. 314; Smerling v. Kennedy, 5 O. L. R. 432; Martano v. Mann, 14 Ch. D. 419; 42 L. T. 831; The Lyle & W. Iron Co. v. Bird, 23 Ch. D. 358; 48 L. T. 873; Re Smith, 75 L. T. 46; W. N. 1896, 88. When the order is properly issuable on procipe, it may be obtained at any time before issue joined: Smerling v. Kennedy, 5 O. L. R. 430, 432.

It was held to be too late for defendant to apply for security after judgement had gone against him, and he was appealing to the Court of Appeal: Small v. Henderson, 18 P. R. 314.

Where the application is made under R. S. O. c. 68, s. 5, or R. S. O. c. 68, s. 10, supra, pp. 1430-1; or R. S. O. c. 89, s. 1, supra, p. 1432; or under Rule 1200, a special application is necessary; and in such cases, the onus of shewing that the plaintiff has not sufficient property is on the defendant: see Forster v. Canada, 15 P. R. 200; property to the value of $500, unincumbered, has been deemed sufficient: Id., and see Bryde v. Robertson, 11 P. R. 7; Rehair v. Buchanan, 17 P. R. 413, 476.

As to what is a sufficiently positive statement that the plaintiff's residence is out of the jurisdiction, in an affidavit to obtain an order for security, see Hollingsworth v. Hollingsworth, 10 P. R. 58.

Amount of Security.—See Rule 1208, and notes. Security if applied for promptly, is generally for past, as well as future costs: security Brackelbank v. King's Lynn, etc., 3 C. P. D. 365; Mussen v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; Hateley v. Merchants Despatch, 10 P. R. 253, except where given under R. S. O. c. 68, ss. 5 and 10, or c. 89, s. 1, in which Rule 1199. ^Ecases the security is only required to be given for the costs "to be incurred": Budworth v. Bell, 10 P. R. 544; Thompson v. Williams, supra, 16 P. R. 368. See note to Rule 1200.

Order when refused or rescinded.

Grounds for Refusing or Rescinding Order.—If the plaintiff has substantial property within the jurisdiction, of sufficient value, and available in execution, this may be shewn in answer to a motion for security, to displace the prima facie case made by proof of residence out of the jurisdiction: Gault v. Spencer, 2 Chy. Ch. 392, and see Bready v. Robertson, 14 P. R. 7; Feaster v. Canney, 15 P. R. 290; Belair v. Buchanan, 17 P. R. 413, 476; Re Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55; or it may be made the ground for a special motion to discharge any order which has been made on præcipe for security: Ganson v. Fiach, 3 Chy. Ch. 296; Belair v. Buchanan, supra. The property must be immediately available in execution: Welsbach Incandescent, etc., v. St. Leger, 16 P. R. 382; but it would not seem, according to the latest cases, to make any difference whether the property is real, or personal: Hamburger v. Poetting, 30 W. R. 769; 47 L. T. 216; Rodondo v. Chaptor, 4 Q. B. D. 453; Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62; but see Kilkenny Ry. Co. v. Fielden, L. R. 6 Ex. 81; Re Carroll, 2 Chy. Ch. 305; Higgins v. Manning, 6 P. R. 147; McKenzie v. Sinton, 6 P. R. 282; Wilson v. Wilson, 6 P. R. 152; Sieglabourne v. Carter, 23 L. J. Q. B. 16; Re Howe S. M. Co., 61 L. T. 170; Re Apollinacis Co., 1891, 1 Ch. 1; Duffy v. Donovan, 14 P. R. 159; Welsbach L. L. Co. v. St. Leger, 16 P. R. 382; Patslaugh v. S. Co. v. Marx, 102 L. T. Jour. 532. But the acquisition of property subsequently to an order for security is no reason for discharging it: Reaume v. Lovitt, 6 P. R. 70. A plaintiff cannot rely on the property which is the subject of litigation, where a prima facie good defence is shewn: Walters v. Duggan, 33 C. L. J. 362, but where the defendants are possessed of funds belonging to the plaintiff, the discretion of the Court may be exercised against hampering the plaintiff by ordering security: Duffy v. Donovan, 14 P. R. 159; Stock v. Dresden Sugar Co., 2 O. W. R. 894; and see Daniel v. Birkbeck Loan, etc., 5 O. W. R. 757; and where, in administration proceedings, the plaintiff resided out of the jurisdiction, but was entitled to an interest worth $273 in the estate, he was not ordered to give security for costs, upon his consenting that his whole interest in the estate should be subject to a first charge in respect of any costs he might be ordered to pay: Re Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55. The fact that the action is brought on a foreign judgment is no ground for refusing the order: Lenz v. Brayden, 1894, 2 Q. B. 30; 70 L. T. 522. If the possession of sufficient property at the time of applying for a præcipe order was known to the defendant's solicitor, this may be a reason for discharging the order with costs: Ganson v. Fiach, supra.

As to what is sufficient in Bready v. Robertson, 14 P. R. 7; Feaster v. Canney, 15 P. R. 290; Belair v. Buchanan, 17 P. R. 413, 476. It should be sufficient to pay costs of both parties, and not merely the defendant's costs, otherwise the whole property may be paid over to the plaintiff's own solicitor, during the litigation, to meet his own costs. The omission of shewing property of sufficient value is on the plaintiff on a motion by him to set aside an order for security: Daniel v. Birkbeck Loan, etc., 5 O. W. R. 757.

jurisdiction

If a plaintiff returns to reside permanently within the jurisdiction an order for security may be discharged: Nesbit v. Galton, 3 O. L. R. 429; Harvey v. Smith, 1 Chy. Ch. 392; sed quare; see Rodwell v. Hayley, 4 M. & W. 735; 7 Dowl. R. referred to in Hatch v. Merchants Despatch Co., 12 Ont. Apr. 643, 646, unless obtained because the plaintiff had wilfully misstated his residence; see Walden v.

McWalter, 6 P. R. 145. But if the Court thinks the return is merely Rule 1200, to get rid of the order, and the plaintiff has no ties, business or otherwise, to guarantee that he will remain within the jurisdiction, the order will not be rescinded: Marsh v. Beard, 1 Chy. Ch. 300, and see Rule 1198 (b).

Where a plaintiff resident abroad was moving to set aside the proceedings, as brought without authority, an application to compel him to give security for costs was refused: Sampe v. McLoughlin, 17 P. R. 490.

Where a plaintiff residing out of the jurisdiction obtained judgment by default of defence, but defendant obtained leave to defend on terms of giving security for costs, and the judgment and execution were allowed to stand as security for the plaintiff's claim, a procipe order for security for costs subsequently obtained by the defendant was set aside: Davis v. Teager, 18 C. L. T. 140; 34 C. L. J. 237.

Where an order for security for costs has been regularly issued and acted on, it will not be rescinded merely because the defendant subsequently pays money into Court in satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim: American Ariotype Co. v. Eakins, 7 O. L. R. 127.

Stay of Proceedings until Security Given.—Where an order for security for costs is obtained, the proceedings in the action are stayed from the time of the service of the order until the security is given, and if given by bond, until the bond is allowed: Rule 1204; and after notice, under Rule 1207 (2), of payment of money into Court as security, the stay continues for at least one day: see The Northern Elevator Co. v. N. W. Transfer Co., in note to Rule 1207 p. 1444.

Pending such stay, the plaintiff, subject to the provisions of Rule 1200, cannot move, or proceed with a pending motion, even for an interim injunction: Weekes v. Underfeed Stoker Co., 10 P. R. 260; Whitely Exerciser Co. v. Gamage, 1808, 2 Ch. 405; 70 L. T. 20; but a plaintiff may move to set aside a procipe order for security for costs, notwithstanding the stay of proceedings imposed by the order, and without giving security for the costs of the motion: Walters v. Duggan, 17 P. R. 359.

An order obtained by the defendant for security, with a stay of proceedings, does not prevent the defendant from moving to dismiss for want of prosecution: London Road Car Co. v. Kelly, 18 L. R. Ir. 31; but see Duffus v. Scullin, 20 L. R. Ir. 8.

In default of compliance with an order, where no time has been limited for giving security, a motion may be made under Rule 1202, to limit the time, or in default to dismiss the action for want of prosecution: La Grange v. McLudrow, 4 Q. B. 11, 210; White v. Beomige, W. N. 1878, 28. If the plaintiff then wishes to give security he must pay the defendant's costs of the application: Ex parte Isaacs, 10 Ch. D. 1.

It is now made clear by Rules 1202, and 1203, that the order for security may properly limit the time within which it is to be given, and in default dismiss the action. Under the former Rules it was also decided in Ashcroft v. Tyson, 17 P. R. 42; distinguishing Thompson v. Williamson, 16 P. R. 368; see also Lau v. Lung, 18 P. R. 1.

1200. Where the plaintiff sues as an informer, or seeks persons to recover any penalty given to an informer, or person who sues for the same, under a statute or law by which a penalty

Rule 1201. is given to any person who sues for the same, either for his sole benefit, for the benefit of the Crown, or partly for his benefit and partly for the benefit of the Crown,—the person sued may apply to the Court or a Judge for security for costs upon affidavit made by the applicant shewing that the action is brought to recover a penalty, and that in his belief the plaintiff or informer is not possessed of property sufficient to answer the costs of the action in case a judgment is rendered in favour of the defendant, and that he (the applicant) has a good defence to the action upon the merits, as he is advised and believes; and the Court or Judge may make such order for the giving of security for costs by the plaintiff or informer, according to the practice in cases where a plaintiff resides out of the Province, and for the staying of the proceedings until security is given, as may seem just. Con. Rule 1244.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 71.

The former Rule 1244, from which this Rule is taken, provided only for the giving security for the costs "to be incurred," under which wording it was held that security for costs already incurred could not be required: Thompson v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 368; Worth v. Bell, 10 P. R. 544; but the Rule as consolidated here contains no such limitation, and the security to be given under this Rule should therefore be for all costs.

Seable, when the defendant is a corporation aggregate it is entitled to obtain security for costs under this Rule; see Maryland Consolidated Bank, 45 U. C. R. 163, and Bank of Montreal v. Cameron, 2 Q. B. D. 536.

The affidavit on which the application is based need not state the merits, it is sufficient if the deponent swears that he has "a good defence upon the merits, as he is advised and believes"; Buck v. Nat. Electric Co., C. P. Divisional Court, 1898.

Amount of security for costs.

1201. In all cases in which security for costs may be ordered the security shall be of such amount and be given at such time or times, and in such manner and form, as the Court or Judge may direct. Con. Rule 1245.

Taken from J. A. Rule 429.

See the Eng. R. February, 1876, R. 7.

In fixing the amount of the security the circumstances of the case and the probable costs are to be considered: Udall v. Charlebois, 10 P. R. 45.

Ordinarily two sureties are required: see Rule 1205, but on a special application the Judge or judicial officer to whom the application is made has a discretion as to the number of sureties.

1202. The Court or Judge may, by the order for security, or by any subsequent order, require the security to be furnished within a time to be limited, and may stay all further proceedings in the meantime, and, in the case of a plaintiff required to give security, may direct that in default of the security being given the action shall be dismissed as for want of prosecution, with costs, as against the defendant entitled to the security, unless the Court or a Judge, upon special application for that purpose, otherwise orders. See Con. Rule 1246.

Rules
1202-1204.

Time for giving security for costs
may be limited.

See Lea v. Lang, 18 P. R. 1; Weekes v. Underford Stoker Co., 19 P. R. 299.

Where pending the stay of proceedings, the defendant prepared affidavits for the purpose of opposing a motion for injunction, pending when the order for security for costs issued, the costs of such affidavits were allowed to the defendant on the subsequent dismissal of the action for failure to give security: Whiteleg Exerciser v. Gamage, 1898, 2 Ch. 405; 79 L. T. 20.

As to the effect of a stay of proceedings pending the giving of security, see supra, p. 1439.

1203. Where an order for security for costs provides that, in default of security being given, the cause or matter shall be dismissed with costs against a defendant, the Court or a Judge, upon default being made in giving security pursuant to the order, may, upon an ex parte application, order that the cause or matter be dismissed with costs against such defendant. New.

Dismissal of proceedings
on default.

Where an appeal has been lodged against the order for security, that is a sufficient ground for not dismissing the action until the appeal has been disposed of, and the motion may be adjourned to be heard with the appeal: Bennett v. Empire, 15 P. R. 430.

This Rule is an affirmation of Burns v. Chisholm, 2 Chy. Ch. 88, which had not been followed in Hollender v. Foulkes, 16 P. R. 225, 315, which latter case must now, it is presumed, be taken to be superseded by this Rule.

1204. Where security for costs is ordered, proceedings in the action shall be stayed, from the service of the order until the security is given, and, if given by bond, until the bond is allowed. New.

Stay of proceedings till security given.

The stay of proceedings continues the whole of the day on which the security is actually given, if by payment into Court, or, if by bond, of the day on which the bond is allowed, and the time for taking the next proceeding does not begin to run until the following day:

Rule 1205. see formerly Campau v. Randall, 17 P. R. 325. The stay of proceedings does not prevent a motion by the plaintiff to set aside an order for security for costs obtained on præcipe: Walters v. Duggan, 17 P. R. 359; but proceedings on a pending motion for an interim injunction are stayed: Whiteley Exerciser v. Gamage, 1898, 2 Ch. 405; 70 L. T. 20; Weeks v. Underfeed Stoker Co., 19 P. R. 293.

Where the right to security only arises in respect of a particular cause of action: semble, the action should only be stayed as to that particular cause of action, e.g., where the action is for libel against a newspaper, or for slander of a woman, and other causes of action as to which no right to security for costs exists, are joined: see Lancaster v. Ryckman, 15 P. R. 199.

Security
for costs where given by bond.

1205. Unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs, a bond to be given as security for costs shall be given to the parties or persons requiring the security, and not to an officer of the Court, and shall be executed by two sufficient sureties. Con. Rule 1247.

Adopted from J. A. Rule 430.

For form of bond, see Chitty's Forms, 11th ed. 220; H. & L. Forms, No. 1613.

The bond need not be executed by the plaintiff who is liable without it, but must be executed by two sureties. Formerly one surety might be sufficient, and the plaintiff was ordinarily a party, but the execution of the bond by the plaintiff might be dispensed with: Delap v. Charlebois, 15 P. R. 325. Where a guarantee company is approved by order in council, its bond may be given and accepted as sufficient security without any affidavit of justification: see 62 Vic. (2) c. 12, and Aldrick v. British Griffin, &c., Co., 1904, 2 K. B. 850; 91 L. T. 224.

The plaintiff should not now be named as a party to the bond, unless he executes it: see Grotke v. Pearce, 15 P. R. 195.

The plaintiff's solicitor should not be a surety: Beckett v. Waring, 1 Chy. Ch. 5; G. T. Ry. Co. v. O. & Q. Ry. Co., 3 C. L. T. 173.

The sureties must be solvent: Cliffe v. Wilkison, 4 Sim. 122; and residents within the jurisdiction: Hall v. Mackenzie, 31 C. L. J. 700; and if the security becomes altered by the death, or insolvency, of a surety, fresh security may be required: Lautour v. Holcombe, 1 Ph. 262; Fitch v. Irvine, 11 Sim. 122; Gage v. Canada Publishing Co., 10 P. R. 169; Morgan & Wurtzburg, p. 22.

Where the order is made on the application of one or several defendants, it may provide that the security to be given shall answer the costs of all of the defendants: Delap v. Charlebois, 15 P. R. 325.

As to procuring the allowance of the bond, see Rule 1206.

The plaintiff, instead of giving a bond, might formerly ex parte obtain an order giving leave to pay $400 into Court: Cliffe v. Wilkison, 4 Sim. 123; Gannon v. Finch, 3 Chy. Ch. 296; see also Re Housland, 1 Chy. Ch. 6; Luthy v. Ward, 2 Chy. Ch. 175; and may now under Rule 1207 pay in not less than $200 without an order. The money should be paid into Court in the usual way: see Rules 107 et seq. Payment to a Local Registrar is not regular or sufficient: Pratt v. Luthier, 2 C. L. T. 48.

1206. Upon filing a bond for security for costs with affidavits of execution and justification with the proper officer, either party may apply to the Court or a Judge to allow or disallow the bond; and in case no application is made to disallow the same within fourteen days after notice of filing it is served, the bond shall stand allowed. Rules 23 June, 1894, 1318.

Rules
1206, 1207

Bond for security for costs, how allowed.

Where a bond filed as security for the costs of an appeal was disallowed because leave to appeal had not been obtained, and subsequently, upon leave being obtained, the same bond was relied, it was held that it was properly disallowed a second time, because the sureties might object that it had been improperly used by the appellant, and the respondent was entitled to security free from any objections of that nature: Jones v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 535.

The party opposing the allowance of the bond may read the sworn statements of a surety made in another action: Id.

A surety may be cross-examined on his affidavit of justification; but a surety, justifying on his private property, cannot be compelled to answer questions as to the liabilities of a firm of which he happens to be a member: Douglas v. Blackey, 14 P. R. 504.

No affidavit of justification is necessary where a bond of a guarantee company approved by order in council is given: 32 Viet. (2) c. 12.

A bond of a foreign guaranty company doing business in this Province, if otherwise unobjectionable, may be received as sufficient security: Aldrick v. British Griffin Co., 3004, 2 K. R. 850, 31 L. T. 229, 2 K. R. 850.

1207.—(1) Instead of giving a bond as security for costs, a party may, without special order, pay into Court, as such security, a sum of money not less than half the penalty of the bond required. Con. Rule 1248.

Money may be paid into Court.

(2) The party paying in the money shall, when paying the same in, state the purpose for which it is paid in, and shall forthwith serve a notice upon the opposite party specifying the fact and purpose of such payment. Con. Rule 1249.

Notice to be served.

See note to Rule 1205.

If the money paid in is not sufficient the opposite party may apply under Rule 1208, to have "further" security given.

The money must be paid into Court to the credit of the cause, in the same way as other moneys are paid into Court: see Rules 405, et seq., pp. 616, et seq.; and the præcipe for the direction to the bank, necessary under Rule 406, should contain a statement of the purpose for which the money is paid in. Deposit of the money with a licencié is invalid: Leroux v. Luthier, 2 C. L. T. 48. After payment of defendant's costs, any surplus of money paid into Court under this Rule may be made exigible by means of a stop order to Rule 1208. satisfy any other claim which the defendant may have against the plaintiff: see Evans v. Huntsville, 7 O. L. R. 540.

Money paid in in answer to any order obtained by one of several defendants may be ordered to stand also as security for the costs of the other defendants: Syracuse Smelting Works v. Stevens, 2 O. L. R. 141.

A plaintiff is not entitled to get money out of Court, paid in by him under this Rule, merely because the defendant pays money into Court in satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, except on the terms of first paying the defendant's costs: American Aristotype Co. v. Eukles, 7 O. L. R. 127.

After the receipt of the notice mentioned in sub-section 2 of this Rule, the defendant is entitled to at least one day to ascertain if the money has been paid in before the plaintiff can take further proceedings: The Northern Elevator Co. v. N. W. Transfer Co., 6 O. L. R. 23.

Amount may be varied.

1208. The amount of security, whether directed to be given by an order issued on praecipe or otherwise, may be increased or diminished from time to time by the Court or a Judge. Con. Rule 1250, amended.

This Rule is said to be merely declaratory of the inherent power of the Court: see D'Irry v. The World, 33 C. L. J. 202.

Where the order for security is made upon motion the Judge or officer making it may name such amount in which security is to be given, as the circumstances of the case warrant: Delap v. Charlehois, 15 P. R. 45.

Security to the amount of £500 was ordered in Dona, Braccu v. Lister, 104 L. T. 127; and to the amount of $1,000 in Dechip v. Charlehois, supra.

The security given under a praecipe order under Rule 1199, could not formerly be reduced without reason being shewn, and it was held that such reduction was not authorized by Rule 1201: Riddell v. McKee, 11 P. R. 439. See now Rule 1207 (1).

Security given under a praecipe or special order might even before this Rule have been in a proper case increased. This was refused where the usual amount, $400, was likely to be insufficient only by reason of an adjournment of the hearing, owing to the Judge having to close the Sittings to take another Circuit, and it was not shewn that defendant might not at the outset have applied for a larger sum than $400: Bell v. Landon, 9 P. R. 100. Also where the trial was postponed on terms, and the giving of security was not imposed as one of the terms: Simon v. La Banque Nationale, 7 P. R. 422; and also where it was alleged to be necessary for the defendant to issue a foreign commission to take evidence, there having been delay in making the application, and the effect of granting it would have been to delay the trial: Trevethan v. Myers, 15 C. L. T. 135; 31 C. L. J. 284; and see D'Irry v. The World, 33 C. L. J. 202.

In a suit by a foreign government £120 security for costs had been given before The Judicature Act came into operation. A large amount of costs would be incurred before the suit was heard, and further security to the amount of £500 to cover future costs was under the Rule corresponding to Rule 1201, ordered to be given: Rule 1209. Further security, it was said, could not be ordered to be given for past costs: Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 132.

In a matter in the Surrogate Court security was directed to be given to the amount of $200. Subsequently the matter was removed to the High Court, nothing at the time being said as to further security. On motion, further security was ordered: Johnston v. Wilson, 4 C. L. T. 291.

Obtaining a procipe order does not preclude a subsequent application by defendant for increased security, and no reservation of the right to make a further application is necessary in the procipe order: Standard Trading Co. v. Seybold, 3 O. L. R. 5; but the application for further security must not be made an excuse for checking of proceedings at every step in the action: see S. C., 6 O. L. R. 379.

Additional security for the costs of a motion by the plaintiff for a new trial was ordered: Bentzen v. Taylor, 1893, 2 Q. B. 193; 69 L. T. 333.

The application for additional security should be made in Chambers: Ib.

1209.—(1) Where an action is brought by a plaintiff resident out of Ontario, and liable to give security for costs, who has indorsed the writ of summons with particulars of his claim in such manner that, upon motion under Rule 603, final judgment might be awarded, he may, on being served with an order for security for costs, pay into Court the sum of $50, as a partial compliance with such order, and thereupon he shall be at liberty to proceed with a motion for judgment under Rule 603; but the order for security shall, nevertheless, in all other respects, have its full operation and effect. Con. Rule 1251.

(2) Such payment into Court shall not prejudice any motion that may be made to set aside the order for security. New.

(3) In actions in the County Court the amount of the partial security shall be $25. New.

(4) Where, upon motion under Rule 603, the plaintiff is awarded judgment for a portion only of his claim, he may issue the judgment and execution thereunder, but, subject to clause (2) of this Rule, shall not take any other proceedings in respect of the residue of his claim until the order for security has been fully complied with. Con. Rule 1252.

This Rule is intended apparently to remove the obstacle which formerly existed in the way of the plaintiff's taking any proceedings

Rules until he had complied with an order for security for costs, or obtained 1210, 1211. its discharge: Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165.

Where a plaintiff against whom an order for security for costs had been obtained, moved to set it aside, and also for judgment under Rule 603, without paying $50 into Court under this Rule, the motion was refused with costs, and Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165, and Anglo American Co. v. Rowlin, Ib., 391, were held to be no longer in force: Payne v. Newberry, 13 P. R. 354; but where there was an admission by defendant of the debt sued for, sworn to and not contradicted, an order for security was set aside, notwithstanding that the plaintiff might, under this Rule, have paid $50 into Court and proceeded to move for judgment: Thibodeau v. Herbert, 16 P. R. 420, following Doer v. Rand, 10 P. R. 165.

This Rule does not extend the time for putting in security for costs. It only enables a plaintiff to remove the stay of proceedings for the sole purpose of moving for judgment under Rule 603. If he fails on that motion he must put in the security within the time limited, or, in default, the action will stand dismissed, unless the defendant himself treats the action as still alive: Hollender v. Ffoulkes, 16 P. R. 225; but the time for putting in security may be enlarged upon an application under Rule 331: S. C., 16 P. R. 315.

A plaintiff may move to set aside a procipe order for security for costs, without first giving security under this Rule: Walters v. Duggan, 17 P. R. 359.

See Rule 1199 and notes, supra, p. 1439.

Delivery of bond out of Court.

1210. A bond given for security for costs may be delivered up for cancellation or suit upon consent of the solicitors in the cause without order. Rules of 1st January, 1896, 1499.

Where the party giving the security has succeeded on an appeal to the Court of Appeal he is entitled to have the bond delivered up to be cancelled, or where money has been paid into Court as security he is entitled to have it paid out to him, notwithstanding that the opposite party is prosecuting an appeal to the Supreme Court: Marsh v. Webb, 15 P. R. 64; Hamill v. Lilley, 19 Q. B. 11, 83; 56 L. T. 620; Centaur Cycle Co. v. Hill, 7 O. L. R. 411.

Payment of money out of Court.

1211. Where money has been paid into Court as security for costs or with a defence, it may be paid out to the party entitled thereto on the consent of the solicitors in the cause or matter, without order. New.

The party entitled means the litigant entitled, and not his solicitor. Where it is desired to obtain payment to the solicitor of the party, an order is still necessary. Such applications are usually required to be supported by evidence shewing either that the money was actually advanced by the solicitor, and is still owing to him by his client; or by the written consent of the client, and proof of its execution, and that he was informed that he was entitled to have a cheque for the amount issued to himself personally.

CHAPTER XVIII.

COUNTY AND LOCAL COURTS.

1212. All writs in the County Courts shall be issued by the Clerk and shall be under the seal of the Court, and shall be tested in the name of the Judge thereof; or in the case of the death of such Judge, then in the name of the Junior or acting Judge for the time being. All writs to be under the seal of the Courts, and tested etc. Con. Rules 122, 1253.

See Rules 120-124 and notes.

1213. The County Courts may issue writs of subpoena Subpoenas. ad testificandum, to enforce the attendance of any witnesses resident within Ontario, and also writs of subpoena duces tecum, to enforce the attendance of and the production of deeds and papers by any such witnesses; and may proceed against persons who, having been duly served with a subpoena, disregard or disobey the same, with the same powers, in like manner and by the same mode of proceeding as belongs to and is practised in the High Court. Con. Rule 1254.

See Rules 478-482 and notes.

1214. Subject to Rules of Court, the Judges of the County Courts shall have power to sit and act at any time Judge may sit at any time. for the transaction of any part of the business of such Courts, or for the discharge of any duty which by any statute or otherwise was formerly required to be discharged out of or during Term. Con. Rule 1255.

This corresponds with the powers given to the Judges of the High Court of Justice, and the Court of Appeal, by sec. 19 of the J. A. Act, 1881 (see now sec. 62).

1215. Where the plaintiff fails to recover judgment in an action or other proceeding brought in a County or Division Court by reason of such Court having no jurisdiction Costs where action fails for want of jurisdiction over the subject-matter thereof, the County Court, or the Judge presiding in the Division Court, as the case may be, shall have jurisdiction over the costs of such action, or proceeding, and may order by and to whom the same shall be paid, and the recovery of the costs so ordered to be paid may be enforced by the same remedies as the costs in actions or proceedings within the proper competence of the said Courts respectively are recoverable. Con. Rule 1256.

Not in the English Rules.

But for this Rule, the Court, having no jurisdiction over the subject matter of the litigation, would have no power to grant costs to either party: Brown v. Shaw, 1 Ex. D. 425; see also Abbott v. Fearp, 20 L. J. Ex. 476; Peacock v. Reg., 4 C. B. N. S. 268; Powley v. Whitehead, 16 U. C. Q. B. 589; Dempster v. Parnell, 3 M. & Gr. 375.

But where a case was stated by Justices under a statute, but, in consequence of the appellant not having complied with the conditions required by the Act, there was no jurisdiction to hear the case, and the respondent moved to strike the case out of the paper, the application was granted with costs: Great Northern, etc., Committee v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crowther v. Boulton, 33 W. R. 150; not following Peacock v. Reg., supra; see also Royal Canadian Bank v. Stevenson, 22 U. C. C. P. 562; Cote v. Halliday, 33 C. L. J. 159, Re Isaacs, 4 My. & Cr. 11; Watson v. Petts (No. 2), 1890, 1 Q. B. 430.

This Rule is held not to apply to proceedings under the Ontario Winding-up Act (R. S. O. c. 222): Re Cosmopolitan Life Ass., 15 P. R. 185.

See also Sherk v. Evans, 22 Ont. App. 242.

Procedure
in County Courts.

1216. These Rules, and the practice and procedure in actions in the High Court of Justice, shall apply and extend to actions in the County Courts. Con. Rule 1257.

This Rule is intended to refer to the whole body of Rules so far as applicable, and not merely to those mentioned in this chapter.

See Leach v. Bruce, 9 O. L. R. 380, and other cases in note to Rule 520 (b).

Motions against judgments.

1217. Motions against judgments and for new trials in actions in the County Courts shall be disposed of upon the like grounds and principles as in the High Court. Con. Rule 1258.

See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 292.

Notice of motion.

1218. A motion against a judgment or for a new trial shall be upon two clear days' notice, and the motion shall be set down at least one clear day before the first day of the ^{Rules} sittings for which the notice is given unless otherwise ordered. Con. Rule 1259. ^{1219, 1220.}

See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 293; Rule 348 and notes.

1219. In all actions brought in a County Court the Judge of the County Court where the proceedings were commenced, [or the Master in Chambers,] (subject to appeal in either case as if the case were in the High Court) may change the place of trial according to the practice in force in the High Court; and in the event of an order being obtained for that purpose, the Clerk of the County Court in which the action was commenced shall forthwith transmit all papers in the action to the Clerk of the County Court to which the place of trial is changed, and all subsequent proceedings shall be entitled in such last mentioned Court, and carried on in such last mentioned county as if the proceedings had originally been commenced in such last mentioned Court. Con. Rule 1260. ^{Change of place of trial in County Court.}

See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 155.

The wording of the Rule would seem to indicate that the effect of an order to change the place of trial is to transfer the action to the County Court of the County where the trial is to take place, and as "all subsequent proceedings" are to be entitled in that Court it would seem the judgment should be entered there.

The papers in an action under this Rule should be entitled in the County Court, and not in the High Court of Justice: Ferguson v. Golding, 15 P. R. 43.

The jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers doubted in Brigham v. McKenzie, 10 P. R. 406, was made clear on the consolidation of the Rules in 1888 by the insertion in this Rule of the words in brackets.

Doubts were entertained formerly whether an appeal lay from an order of the Master in Chambers made under this Rule: see Milligan v. Sills, 13 P. R. 350; McAllister v. Cole, 16 P. R. 105; Cameron v. Elliott, 17 P. R. 415; but an appeal is now explicitly given by this Rule.

The costs of an application to the Master in Chambers under this Rule are taxable on the County Court scale, but the costs of any appeal to a Judge, or from the Judge, are taxable on the High Court scale: Re Hicks v. Mills, 18 P. R. 123.

Rule 520 (b) applies to the County Courts: see note to that Rule.

1220. Every Clerk of a County Court shall keep his office open for the transaction of business on every day except ^{Office hours of Clerks of County Courts.}

Rules 1221, 1222.

holidays, and except as hereinafter provided from the hour of 10 in the forenoon to the hour of 4 in the afternoon, and in Toronto on Saturdays from 10 in the forenoon till 1 in the afternoon. On and between the 1st day of July and the 31st day of August, and on and between the 24th day of December and the 6th day of January, the Clerk shall keep his office open for the transaction of business from 10 in the forenoon until noon. Con. Rule 1261, amended; 60 V. c. 14, s. 89.

Payment of money into Court.

1221.—(1) Money to be paid into the County Court or Surrogate Court of any county by any person, shall be paid into some incorporated bank designated for that purpose, from time to time, by order of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; or where there is no such bank, then into some incorporated bank in which public money of the Province is then being deposited, and which has been appointed for this purpose by any General Rule in that behalf; or if no bank has been appointed, into any bank in which public money of the Province is being deposited.

Procedure

(2) The money shall be paid in to the credit of the cause or matter in which the payment is made with the privity of the Clerk or Registrar (as the case may be) of the Court, and in no other manner: and such money shall only be withdrawn on the order of the Court or a Judge thereof, with the privity of the Clerk or Registrar of the Court.

Withdrawal

Plea of payment
into Court.

(3) Where money is paid in under a plea of payment into Court, the Clerk, on the production of the receipt of the bank for the money or other satisfactory proof of such payment, shall sign a receipt for the amount in the margin of the pleading. Con. Rule 1262; Rules 23 June, 1890, 1267.

Clerk or Registrar to keep books and render statements.

1222. The Clerk and Registrar of said Courts shall each keep a book or books containing an account of all moneys so paid into their respective Courts, and of the withdrawal thereof; and shall prepare in the month of January in every year a statement of all moneys so paid in and withdrawn respectively, and a statement of the condition of the various accounts upon the thirty-first day of the preceding December, and shall transmit to the Provincial Secretary and to the Judge or each of the Judges of such Courts, a copy of such Rule 1223. statement, with a declaration thereto annexed made before a Justice of the Peace or Commissioner for taking affidavits, according to Form No. 212. Con. Rule 1263.

For Form 212, see H. & L. Forms, No. 541.

1223. The book so to be kept shall be open for inspection within office hours; and the Clerk or Registrar shall give a certificate of the state of an account or an extract therefrom at the request of any party interested, or his solicitor, on payment to the Clerk or Registrar of the sum of twenty cents for such inspection or certificate and the sum of ten cents per folio for such extract. Con. Rule 1264.

Books to be open for inspection. Fees for extracts, etc.

See R. S. O. 1877, c. 42, s. 25.

FORMS.

Forms to be used.

1224. The forms contained in the Appendix hereto shall be used with such variations or modifications as circumstances may require; but any variance therefrom, not being in matter of substance, shall not affect their regularity. Con. Rules 458, 766; Rules 1 Jan., 1896, 1508.

See Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 52.

In Turquand v. Fearon, 40 L. T. at p. 545, Thesiger, L.J., said, "although the forms given in the Judicature Acts are not absolutely binding, they are still of assistance as illustrating the meaning of the Act." Applications to quash Convictions.

The following Rule passed by the High Court on November 17th, 1886, under the authority of 49 V. c. 49, s. 6 (D.), now Crim. Code, sec. 822, is not mentioned in the above schedule, as it does not relate to civil matters:—

"No motion shall be entertained by this Court, or by any Division of the same, or by any Judge of a Division sitting for the Court, or in Chambers, to quash a conviction, order, or other proceeding which has been made by or before a Justice of the Peace (as defined by the said Act) and brought before the Court by certiorari, unless the defendant is shown to have entered into a recognizance, with one or more sufficient sureties, in the sum of $100, before a Justice or Justices of the county or place within which such conviction or order has been made, or before a Judge of the County Court of the said county, or before a Judge of the Superior Court, and which recognizance, with an affidavit of the due execution thereof, shall be filed with the Registrar of the Court in which such motion is made or is pending, or unless the defendant is shown to have made a deposit of the like sum of $100 with the Registrar of the Court in which such motion is made, with or upon the condition that he will prosecute such certiorari at his own costs and charges, and without any wilful or affected delay, and that he will pay the person in whose favour the conviction, order, or other proceeding is affirmed his full costs and charges, to be taxed according to the course of the Court, in case the conviction, order, or proceeding is affirmed."

This Rule remains in force since the Criminal Code of 1892: Reg. v. Robart, 13 P. R. 49; and is now applicable to applications to quash convictions under Provincial Statutes: see 1 Ed. Vil. c. 13, ss. 147, 148, which repeals 542 & 19 as to same.

The defendant is a necessary party to the recognizance: Reg. v. Johnston, 7 P. R. 525; it must be taken before a Justice of the Peace for the county in which the conviction was made: Id. The affidavit of the sureties must negative the fact of the sureties being sureties in any other matter, and must state that they are worth $100 over and above any amount for which they may be liable as sureties: Reg. v. Robart, supra. An affidavit of justification by the sureties is necessary: Reg. v. Richardson, 17 Ont. 29; 13 P. R. 303.
