ROBBER WHO JUMPED FROM TRAIN CAUGHT

Says He Was on Way to Give Himself up --- Liberal Candidate Chosen in Brome---Promotion for a Veteran--- A Murderer Respited.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 7.—(Special)—Jacob Getzfeld, the Chatham fur robber, who made a sensational escape from Sheriff Hemmell and two guards from a moving train Tuesday night was captured at midnight last night near Odessa, twelve miles west of here and removed to the penitentiary this morning. He claims he was on his way to Kingston to give himself up as he was nearly starved. He was somewhat seriously injured. He had a long jump from the train, his left breast and right leg being badly bruised. He says the shackles on his wrists and legs were sufficiently large to allow him and his son to slip them.

THAT DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST THE CITY

The case of Collins vs. the City of St. John was resumed this morning in the circuit court before Judge Landry, and Harry Stackhouse, who was a deck hand on the Ontonagon, who was a deck hand on the Ontonagon, was examined, and told how he and a stranger assisted Mrs. Collins to her feet when she fell between the boat and the floats. He also stated that the gang plank was used largely for teams. Recorder Skinner, acting for the duty of negligence, on the ground that the boat was well lighted and the gang plank placed, but Mrs. Collins had not used it in coming ashore. This he regarded as negligence on her part. Under the evidence of one of the doctors, a woman, her condition might have died at any time. He told the jury that it was for them to decide how much she would have saved her husband had she been better, considering her health, further expenditure might have been necessary. G. V. McInerney, acting for the plaintiff, claimed that it was not reasonable to believe the accident due to negligence on the part of Mrs. Collins, who was a perfect stranger in the city; the floats were dark and she had not been told either about regulations or existing conditions. He then reviewed the case to the jury and pointed out that a woman of her age (65) and weight must have been affected seriously by falling as she did and being obliged to sustain herself by holding by her arms to the floats till she came in. In closing, Mr. McInerney argued strongly for damages for the plaintiff. The court adjourned at one o'clock and will resume again at 2.30, when the judge will deliver his charge to the jury and the case will be handed over to them.

STARTED FOR NEW YORK, PAUSED IN FARVILLE AND WOUND UP IN JAIL

The old judge is responsible for the unwilling appearance of a weary looking group of five on the long wooden floor at this morning's session of the police court. That his honor was impressed by "the picture" was quite evident from the fact that to each of the offenders he vouchsafed some very wholesome advice. John Syron was released from jail only a few days ago and now he is in trouble again. Syron was charged with drunkenness and begging and annoying passengers in the I. C. R. station, yesterday, the arrest having been made by Policeman Scovell. The prisoner pleaded guilty to intoxication but denied begging beyond having asked for a piece of tobacco. Officer Scovell stated that Syron had begged for both cigars and tobacco. He had warned him and told him to go out, but he refused to go saying that he was going to New York. He put Syron out of the depot, but he came back when Detective Killen advised his arrest. The prisoner said that Mr. Clayton had promised him a passage to Boston which he did not get, but gave him $1 each. He had tried his best to get to Boston, he said, having walked as far as Farville, but he did not remember much about coming back. His honor reminded him that he was

Diploma and bronze medal, St. Stephen and Milltown. 3rd. Diploma, Campbellton. Special award, St. Andrews. CARNEGIE WRITES OFFENDING TEDDY

Roosevelt Did Not Attempt to Make Proposed Spelling Reform American ---Changes Were Submitted by London Philologists.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A London despatch to the Times says that Andrew Carnegie in a letter to the London Times returns to his defense of President Roosevelt's spelling order and his advocacy of spelling reform. He says: "So far from being distinctly American the president's proposed changes in spelling are selected by the simplified spelling board from fully 3,000 words agreed upon and jointly recommended in 1887 by the Philological Society of London and the American Philological Association after serious consideration. The list will be found at the end of the last volume of the Century dictionary, and also the ten rules agreed upon in making the changes. "The reform, therefore, comes from Philologists of the whole race. Indeed

Professor Skeat states in the Scotsman that the list was actually prepared in the modernism. "There needs only that one step be taken by your government to continue this great reform, namely, the appointment of such a committee as advised our government what words to select from the larger list for immediate adoption. If such a committee were appointed I doubt not that it would endorse the selection made for the president by the American board and the language would be one. "It is never to be forgotten that amended spellings can only be submitted for general acceptance, it is the people who decide what is to be adopted or rejected, that the two governments agreed jointly to submit certain changes, however, would not doubt result in the eventual adoption of many."

NO TIDINGS OF MISSING BOY

FREDERICTON, N. B., Sept. 7 (special). Dr. Inch received a telegram from Prof. C. Jones this afternoon stating that he had decided to accept the chancellorship of the university. He will enter upon his duties September 20th. There are no tidings yet in regard to the whereabouts of Edward Dayton, of St. Mary's, who has been missing from home since Tuesday. His parents are much worried over his strange disappearance, and are making every effort to solve the mystery. School life was rather irksome to the young man and the impression is that he has gone away to work for a change. A man named Fitzmaurice was brought here from McAdam last night by Police-Master Gardner on a warrant charging him with aggravated assault. The case is being tried in the police court this afternoon. On account of the absence of Senator Thompson from the old country, the meeting of the stockholders of the New Brunswick Telephone Co., to ratify the merger with the Central, will not be held until September twenty-eighth. Charles Gardner's engineering party, which has been working on the transcontinental survey near Chatham, has finished the work and disbanded.

THE FRENCH SHORE UNDER NEW ASPECT

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 7.—The French shore question has been revived under a new aspect. A French vessel being within territorial waters on the northeast coast having complained that people on the coast destroyed her nets, British and French warships investigated and the imperial government invited the colony also to investigate and punish its subjects if found to be in the wrong. The full cruiser Frons, with officials, has been despatched to the scene to hold a formal inquiry. The incident is likely to lead to the adoption of Anglo-French regulations for conducting the fisheries on the French shore.

EQUITY COURT

In the case of the Eastern Trust Co. vs. The Cushing Sulphate Fibre Co., Ltd., an order for costs of a reference was made on application of Dr. Earle and Mr. Teed. In the case of Everett vs. Suberland, an order was made confirming the referee's report, on application of Stewart L. Fairweather.

THE CHARGE WILL STAND

Elizah Ross and George Deives of the west end were in court this morning, having been reported for being disorderly on the public streets. The trouble arose out of a dispute over a boat race that had taken place at Westfield about three weeks ago. J. B. M. Baxter asked his honor to overlook the matter, as both men were good citizens, and the offense would not be repeated. His honor said he would let the matter stand a week, during which time he would make inquiry and would send them back up if the result were unfavorable.

IRREGULARITIES SHOWN IN DEAL BETWEEN HOME LIFE AND PEOPLE'S LIFE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 7 (Special)—The two files were all right, for they were Ostrom's stock, but I told him the rest could not be used. "Where they cancelled?" "Not then, but coming back from Winnipeg I got them from him and marked them cancelled." "You were never asked to sign 1,400 shares direct the Winnipeg meeting?" "No, the understanding was they were not to be signed." "The Home Life, of which Hon. J. R. Stratton is president, was next taken up. The commission at the hour of adjournment had not learned all the details in connection with the absorption by the Home Life of People's Life business. From documents filed it appeared there was a payment of $80,000 made to A. J. Davison in computation of the interests of John Firstbrook, president of the Home Life, and himself, as manager under the fifteen year contracts they held. How this amount was divided did not transpire. This payment is to be met out of the fund which is formed by the subscription by the shareholders of the Home Life providing funds to carry out the transaction and also to pay to subsequent purchasers upon the security of stock. Mr. McCutcheon was unable to say whether it was contrary to law. It transpired also that one Third the business of the People's Life was the Home Life expected to get when the transaction was arranged was "undisputed" consisting of lapsed policies which had not been cancelled. Some other ir-

HIRAM AT THE FAIR A JIMMAG HORNBEAM. Hiram desires to state that the Hornbeam who put his names on the fender of the street car, as described in the Telegraph yesterday, was not his brother, and did not come from Hornbeam Settlement. He is only a third cousin and comes from Jimmag's estate on the fender yesterday trying to eat a banana without removing the skin, and later in the day discovered him reddeally squandering money on the Pike in an effort to get a gold watch for ten cents. "I guess," said Hiram, "the critter ain't got his eye teeth out yet. But he's learned—he's learned all the time. Two more exhibitions an' a how trade, an' he'll be a man of the world. I mind his father come to our place worst an' sold my father a horse. Great horse, he said. So it was—kicked the stall down first night. Since that we don't have much truck with the Jimmag Hornbeams. This here fellow's one of 'em. If he don't pick up some ideas here to work off on the neighbors when he goes home I miss my guess."

The imputation that Hiram took a young lady into the tent to see the San Francisco earthquake pictures last night, and sat there in the darkness and squeezed her hand for an hour, he indignantly denies. He says the yarn was started by Meyer Cohen, and "there ain't nothin' in it."

BOY HAS CHARMED LIFE

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—For the second time in his life, 7-year-old Fred Darcy of Chelsea had a remarkable escape from death falling from a house to the sidewalk last night. While flying a kite from the roof of his home, he walked off the edge and fell a distance of 30 feet. He escaped without injury at that time.

He escaped without injury at that time. Miss Rose Booth, of the staff of Mount Allison conservatory of music, went to Sackville yesterday.

THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL

BY BARONESS ORCZY.

And the next moment Lady Blakeney, gently pushing mine host on one side, had swept into the coffee-room.

There are many portraits and miniature copies of Marguerite St. Just—Lady Blakeney as she was then—but it is doubtful if any of these really do her singular beauty justice. Tall, above the average, with magnificent presence and rosy figure, it is small wonder that even the Countess paused for a moment in involuntary admiration before turning her back on so fascinating an apparition.

Marguerite Blakeney was then scarcely five-and-twenty, and her beauty was at her most dazzling stage. The large hat, with its undulating and waving plumes, threw a soft shadow across the classic brow with the aureole of suburban hair—free at the moment from any powder; the sweet, almost child-like mouth, the straight classical nose, round chin and delicate throat, all seemed set off by the picturesque costume of the period. The rich blue velvet robe moulded in its every line the graceful contour of the figure, whilst one tiny hand held, with a dignity all its own, the tall stick adorned with a large bunch of ribbons, which fashionable ladies of the period had been taken to carrying recently.

With a quick glance all round the room, Marguerite Blakeney had taken stock of every one there. She nodded pleasantly to Sir Andrew Blakeney, whilst extending a hand to Lord Antony.

"Hello! my Lord Tony, why—what are you doing here in Dover?" she said merrily.

Then, without waiting for a reply, she turned and faced the Countess and Suzanne. Her whole face lighted up with additional brightness, as she strove out both arms toward the young girl.

"Why if that isn't my little Suzanne over there! How little, little citizeness, how come you to be in England? And Madama too!"

She went up effusively to them both, with not a single word of embarrassment in her manner or in her smile. Lord Tony and Sir Andrew watched the little scene with eager apprehension. English though they were, they had often been in France and had mixed sufficiently with the French, to realize the unending luxury, the bitter hatred with which the old nobles of France viewed all those who had helped to contribute to their downfall.

Armand St. Just, the brother of beautiful Lady Blakeney—though known to hold moderate and conciliatory views—was an ardent republican; his feud with the ancient family of St. Cyr—the rights and wrongs of which no outsider ever knew—had culminated in the downfall, the almost total extinction, of the latter.

In France, St. Just and his party had triumphed, and here in England, face to face with these three refugees driven from their country, living for their lives, he felt the bitter hatred with which the old nobles of France viewed all those who had helped to contribute to their downfall.

"Susanne," she said, mimicking the Countess's voice, "I forbid you to speak to that woman!"

The laugh, which accompanied this sally, sounded perhaps a trifle forced and hard, but neither Sir Andrew nor Lord Tony were very keen observers. The mimicry was so perfect, the tone of the voice so accurately reproduced, that both the young men joined in a hearty, cheerful "Bravo!"

"Ah! Lady Blakeney!" added Lord Tony, "how they must miss you at the Comedie Francaise, and how the Parisians must hate Sir Percy for having taken you away."

"Mad, mad," rejoined Marguerite, with a shrug of her graceful shoulders, "it is impossible to hate Sir Percy for anything; his witty sallies would disarm even Madame la Comtesse herself!"

The young Viscount, who had not elected to follow his mother in her dignified exit, made a step forward, read to champion the Countess should Lady Blakeney sin any further shafts at her. But before he could utter a preliminary word of protest, a pleasant, though distinctly incisive laugh was heard from outside the door, and the next moment an unusually tall and very richly dressed figure appeared in the doorway.

CHAPTER VI.

An Exquisite of '92

Sir Percy Blakeney, as the chronicles of the time inform us, was in this year of grace 1792, still a year or two on the right side of thirty. Tall, above the average, even for an Englishman, broad-shouldered and massively built, he would have been called unusually good-looking, but for a certain leary expression in his deep-set blue eyes, and that perpetual inane laugh which seemed to disfigure his strong classical mouth.

It was nearly a year ago now that Sir Percy Blakeney, Bart., one of the richest men in England, leader of all the nobles, and the intimate friend of the Prince of Wales, had astonished fashionable society in London and Bath, by bringing home from one of his journeys old madame de Morny, a French noblewoman, French wife. He, the sleepiest, dullest, most British Britisher that had ever set foot on British soil, had secured a brilliant matrimonial prize for which, as all chroniclers aver, there had been many competitors.

Marguerite St. Just had first made her debut in artistic Parisian circles, at the very moment when the greatest social upheaval the world has ever known was taking place in this very city. Scarcely 18, lavishly gifted with beauty and talent, chaperoned only by a young and devoted brother, she had soon gathered round her charming apartment in the Rue Richelieu, a coterie which was as brilliant as it was exclusive—exclusive that is to say, only from one point of view, Marguerite St. Just was from principle and by conviction a republican—equality of birth was her motto—inequality of fortune was in her eyes a mere untoward accident, but the only inequality she admitted was that of talent. "Money and titles may be hereditary," she would say, "but brains are not," and thus her charming salon was reserved for originality and intellect, for brilliant and wit, for clever men and talented women and the entrance into it was soon looked upon in the world of intellect—which even in those days and in those troublous times found its pivot in Paris—as the seal to an artistic career.

Clever men, distinguished men, and even men of exalted station formed a perpetual and brilliant court round the fascinating young actress of the Comedie Francaise, and she glided through republican, revolutionary, bloodthirsty Paris like a shining comet, with a trail behind her of all that was most distinguished, most interesting, in intellectual Europe.

Then the climax came. Some smiled indulgently and called it an artistic eccentricity, others looked upon it as a wise provision, in view of the many events which were crowding thick and fast in Paris just then, but to all, the real motive of that climax remained a puzzle and a mystery. Anyway, Marguerite St. Just married Sir Percy Blakeney one fine day, just like that, without any warning to her friends, without a service de courtois, or dinner de fiancailles or other appearances of a fashionable French wedding.

MONTREAL SHIPLABORERS ON STRIKE

Montreal, Sept. 6.—One hundred and fifty ship laborers who have been working for the Canadian Pacific Steamship and the Donaldson lines are at present on strike and there is every reason to believe that, when they are ready to return to work, they will find their places filled.

They have been receiving twenty cents an hour for day work, thirty for night work and forty for Sunday. They demand twenty-five, thirty-five and fifty cents an hour and their demands were refused.

The C. P. R. at once put fifty sailors at work and several carpenters and this afternoon a good sized crowd is going from the railway to the strikers. With them the company claims the work can be done and meanwhile men are being hired to permanently replace those who are out. The Donaldson line is also filling the vacancies.

H. Morton, of Penobscot, was registered at the Metropole, Vancouver, Aug. 30.

SIGN OF A GOOD SHOE STORE.

THE "Sign of the Slate," hung in front of any Shoe Store is sure testimony to four significant facts.

1st—that store is the most reliable in that town or it couldn't get the agency for "The Slater Shoe."

2nd—that it pays its bills promptly, in cash every thirty days, or it couldn't hold "The Slater Shoe" Agency.

3d—that it is satisfied with a reasonable profit on goods or it wouldn't be selling "The Slater Shoe," which is price-controlled by the Makers.

4th—that it sincerely intends to give the best value possible, and to deal "squarely" with its customers every time, or it wouldn't have signed such a contract as must be signed to control "The Slater Shoe."

Whether you buy Slater Shoes or not, a safe place to trade is at the store where swings "The Sign of the Slate"—for the four reasons given.

The genuine Slater Shoe has the slate frame brand stamped, with the Makers' price ($4.00 or $5.00) on the lining.

MONTREAL AND ST. JOHN

What Montreal is to the summer trade of Canada, to a large extent St. John must be to the more limited winter trade of the country. Therefore St. John watches with interest the growth of Montreal, and St. John people will be interested in this statement made by the Montreal Herald:

THE PRESS MEN

There was not a large attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the New Brunswick Press Association in this city yesterday afternoon, but the discussion was interesting and valuable, and left no room for doubt that publishers, having so much in common, even when in competition with each other, may derive much benefit from membership in the association.

A POOR SERVICE

The Globe last evening referred in vigorous terms to the inadequate street car service, and especially to the fact that the line has never been extended to the exhibition grounds. "The complaint," says the Globe, "is an old one as to the distance at which the cars stop from the gate. This is a matter that ought to be remedied before there is another exhibition; and the city authorities should compel a remedy."

CHANCELLOR JONES

The new chancellor of the University of New Brunswick is perhaps embarrassed by the universal praise bestowed upon him, and the predictions made concerning that which he will accomplish. Prof. Jones is fortunate in having so many friends. That he has no critics is an unhappy condition which will mend as time passes. He is young and vigorous and progressive, and as such must sooner or later encounter criticism and opposition.

SOUTH AFRICA DEPRESSED

Industrial and commercial conditions in South Africa are far from satisfactory. Mr. Kitchin, Canadian commercial agent at Cape Town, sounds a note of warning Canadian exporters.

mere department, he emphasizes the fact that trade depression is general there with no immediate prospect of improvement. He advises Canadian exporters to be extremely cautious in their credit dealings in South Africa. A number of well-known firms have gone to the wall. He understands that Natal and the Transvaal, in the near future, will either materially reduce or entirely remove the existing duties on flour and grain.

THE Y. M. C. A.

In a limited sphere the Young Men's Christian Association is doing an excellent work, with a gradually increasing membership. The figures setting forth the membership do not convey an adequate conception of the extent of its influence. There are now over 400,000 members, in 1761 branches. A New York exchange gives the following summary from the new Year Book:

MISSIONARY OF GOOD-WILL

The Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa were in New York this week, paying a return visit to the 71st New York National Guard. When Lieutenant-Colonel Dore was asked if he had any message to give, he read this poem, written by an American author in Canada and dedicated to the Governor-General's Foot Guards and the 71st Regiment in commemoration of the visit:

God watch our rulers o'er— Edward and Theodore— Right and true as ever, Send them victorious, Long to rule over us, In peace most glorious, Right Thou shovest.

The world's most potent weapon, Rulers of mightiest main, Peace and brave Quads Thou dost stamp right In justice and in might, Let them dip the night O'er land and wave.

Loyal to each era we, Right and for liberty, Loyal are we, When shall we be white and blue, Colors marked in the two, Blooded we'll ever do, Loyal are we.

Though we remain apart, One shall we be in heart, One for earth's good, Wars must forever cease, Love in eternal peace, In all the world increase, For Earth's best good.

Brothers may we ever be In peace and liberty, Forever more, Joints will withstand the world, Hammers on high unfurled, 'Till peace war's flag has faded Forever more.

Boundage shall be dispelled, We shall by love be united, When peace shall reign, All nations far and near, Trembling no more in fear, Shall about our grand, good cheer, Warm peace shall reign.

IN LIGHTER VEIN NOT JUST WHAT HE MEANT.

"My!" exclaimed Mr. Klumasy at the summer hotel hop, "this floor's awfully slippery. It's hard to keep on your feet."

"Oh!" replied his fair partner, sarcastically, "then you were really trying to keep on my feet. I thought it was accidental."—Philadelphia Record.

POOR FELLOW.

Mr. Upmore—You know Bilford? He tries to put up a bold and plausible front, but I understand his case thoroughly. He's nervous, through and through.

Mr. Garwell—Why—er—I thought he was operated on for that a few months ago.—Chicago Tribune.

BLAME ROOSEVELT.

"Yes, sir; I'm the publisher of this paper. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"I am looking for a job as a proof-reader."

"We don't need proof-readers any more. We have adopted the spelling reform."—Chicago Tribune.

CONVENIENT KNOWLEDGE.

School Director—Hear about Angle? He's a successful school architect.

"Did you adapt the spelling reform? He doesn't know the difference between a Greek note and a dog kennel."

School Director—No, but he can plan a $10,000 schoolhouse which cannot be built for less than $15,000.

A high school teacher was examining the physiology class.

"How many ribs have you, Charlie?" he asked.

"Why—er—I don't know," said Charlie.

"Didn't the text-book state?" he then queried, somewhat sharply.

"Yes—oh, yes—of course. But, you see, I'm long waisted."

THEY HAVE MADE A HIT

Robinson Opera Company Has Had Great Success in Present Week's Engagement.

Maie Kiboyne, by her artistic interpretation of the rather difficult role of Zerlina, won many new admirers last night. Her singing and acting were very sweet, and in St. John hearts she is established as a prima favorite.

Frank Nelson has a very intellectual conception of Diavolo and his interpretation last night was that of a first-class artist.

Harry Burnham, the leading comedian, is really funny, and his and Frank French's imitation of Zerlina's bed-chamber antics was very clever and a big hit with the audience. The other principals gave a good account of themselves and the chorus, which by the way, is an exceptionally good-looking and well-dressed one, drilled and sang well.

Tonight and tomorrow at the two performances Olivette will be presented. This is an exceptionally pretty, open, beautiful of good comedy and fine music. By special request Frank Nelson will sing "Soldiers of the King" in which he made such a big hit here a few years ago. The company's engagement closes here tomorrow night. Manager Macadam says that early in January they play a return engagement when they may be sure of an enthusiastic reception.

CIRCUIT COURT

The case of Collins v. the City was resumed in the circuit court yesterday, several witnesses were examined and the case for the plaintiff closed at the morning session. In the afternoon several witnesses for the defence were examined and at 4 o'clock the court adjourned till ten this morning, to allow the defence to call Harvey Stackhouse a deck-hand at the time of the accident. The case will probably go to the jury this morning.

Geo. V. McInerney, K. C., represents the plaintiff and C. N. Skinner, K. C., the defendant.

EXHIBITION

Notwithstanding the showery weather, 14,331 people passed the turnstiles of the exhibition Thursday.

The weather was perfect and the result was nearly 3,000 more paid admissions than yesterday.

Thursday was another busy day for the live stock judges, and except in one or two classes for horses and in the poultry exhibits their labors are concluded.

DOG SHOW CLOSING.

The dog show closed Thursday evening and the majority of the owners removed their pets from the building.

TALK MATTERS OF INTEREST TO PAPERS. The New Brunswick Press Association held an interesting meeting in one of the rooms of the Pugsley building yesterday, with the president, J. T. Hawke, of the Woodstock Press; R. E. Armstrong, of the St. Andrews Beacon; J. D. McKenna, of the Sussex Record; M. McDade, of the New Freeman, and representatives of the Telegraph and Times. The resolutions adopted last year relative to postage rates, which were since adopted also by the maritime board of trade, were reaffirmed and will again be presented to the government. It was decided to hold the annual meeting in St. John instead of Fredericton. Mr. Hawke gave a very interesting account of successful efforts put forth in Moncton for a more satisfactory post office service, and difficulties encountered in St. John in regard to mails were also discussed. Mr. McDade dwelt upon the importance of placing the association on the best possible working basis, and all the speakers agreed that there were many ways in which the publishers of the province could be of service to each other, and all the attendees still to his own affairs. The problem of securing enough practical printers was considered. At the present time there is a shortage of printers in these provinces, partly due to the larger number required as a result of the eight-hour day, and partly because there is a shift westward, while very few apprentices are learning the work. The fact that Toronto and Montreal department stores find advertising profitable in provincial papers was noted by several of the visitors from other towns, and Mr. Vincent expressed the hope that St. John merchants do not enlarge their business by more liberal use of printer's ink in the same direction. The various publishers told of their experience with advertisers and advertising agencies, and the whole discussion was very interesting and profitable. The president and secretary (Mr. Maloney) will endeavor during the interim before the annual meeting to arouse greater interest in the work of the association, and the annual meeting in February will no doubt be of service of great interest to all newspaper men in the province.

FEARS FAIRVILLE. Mr. John Gallivan, of Reddy street, Fairville, fears that his son John has been drowned at Windsor Mills (Que.). According to a despatch a man of that name was drowned in the place mentioned on Wednesday last. Yesterday a message reached the authorities in Woodstock (N. B.), asking if they knew of any relatives of John Gallivan, a millwright, who had been drowned at Windsor Mills. The reason the inquiry was sent to Woodstock was that it was thought Mr. Gallivan had at one time resided there. There is no man of the name in Woodstock, so a telephone message was sent to Mr. Wilson, druggist, of Fairville, explaining the inquiry from Quebec, and word was sent by him to Mrs. Gallivan. John Gallivan, her son, is about thirty years of age, and a married man. He was in the employ of the C. P. R. at Madocam, and elsewhere. Two months ago he left for the west with the intention of ultimately locating in Winnipeg. At one time he worked in Woodstock, and the facts compelled to believe that the drowned man in question was his son. Last night she wired her son Stephen, in Hamilton (Ont.), to make sure of identification and also wire the chief of police at Windsor Mills. Once identification is established, she wishes the body brought to Fairville for interment.

HALIFAX TO SPEND $10,000. Halifax, Sept. 6.—If there is one thing more than another that Halifax people are interested in it is the public gardens. At a recent meeting of the city council it was decided to remove the fence. This action was rescinded tonight when the aldermen voted, almost unanimously, for reconsideration and for the erection of a new iron fence to cost $10,000.

FOUND GENUINE. Ottawa, Sept. 6.—The chief analyst of the dominion has examined 319 samples of milk taken from all over the dominion. There were 189 genuine, eighty-five doubtful and forty-five adulterated. None of the samples from Nova Scotia or New Brunswick were adulterated. There were two adulterated from P. E. Island, two from Quebec districts, six from Montreal, seven from Toronto, six from London, five from Manitoba, three from Calgary, four from Ottawa, and six from British Columbia. The imperial dockyards at Halifax will in all probability be transferred to the Canadian authorities about the middle of October. The minister of marine is now in communication with the admiralty in regard to the transfer. Canada's offer was accepted some time ago by the home authorities. The order-in-council appointing W. T. Preston trade commissioner to Japan, R. Preston trade commissioner to China and Corea, has been approved by the governor-general. It is likely that he will assume his new duties at an early day. Mr. Preston will report direct to the minister of trade and commerce.

In Which the Author Tells How He Got His Start in Life.

A Popular Ballad for Young Lovers.

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I AM sitting near the fireplace in my lonely Yonkers home, While the robins sing divinely as the gloaming starts to gleam. I am thinking of a maiden young and fairer than the day Whom I met one night this Summer in a table d'hote cafe. Something told me that I loved her when I looked into her eyes, So I bought her some carnations, half a dozen, medium size. I sent them to her residence, but sobe came to my throat When I received the following morn the following cruel note:

CHORUS:

"Take back them cheap carnations which you to me did send— A shilling went so very far to win a lady friend. I ain't no mercenary girl, keen for the Golden Calf. But I cannot throw my steady beau for twelve cents and a half."

II.

HER steady beau kept calling, and, of course, I stayed away. And this morning's paper stated they were married yesterday. I sit here sad and lonely and my heart is like a stone— Wouldn't YOU be sad in Yonkers if you lived there all alone? Seek you the flower-strewn path of Love, o'er which young Cupid flits? Strew it not, then, with carnations, a dozen for two bits; For if you do, young suitor, you will get the following day A note from her you sought to please, and likely it will say:

"Take back them cheap carnations," etc.

A Warm Weather Novel.

By WEX JONES.

Ellen gave him a chilling glance. "I get the frumpy bits and the cold shoulder," sighed Jack Buster. With a frigid "Good evening," Ellen coolly left the room. Outside the mercury was trying to remember what zero looked like. "That has cast a wet blanket over my hopes of a career," said Jack. "My prospects are frostbitten, and me for the simpler life."

II.

A huge ice-doe was drifting over the wintry sea. In a little hut of snow sat Jack Buggins, muddling ice. "A cold world," he murmured, the words falling frozen from his lips to the floor. "There is a coolness between me and the old life," he added, gazing across the vast ice-fields. "Taking off his pajamas, Jack dived into the freezing water. "But at least," he said, "I have one advantage over the ordinary American—I can take things coolly."

To Avoid Getting Stung.

A beekeeper of New Hampshire was showing a city man his ability. The hives were ranged in line on the side of a mountain, and the air was sweet with the smell of clover, pine trees, carnations. A bee lit on the keeper's hand angrily, and the man held his breath. "Don't stir you if you hold your breath," he said afterward. "To hold your breath closes the pores of the skin, or something like that. At any rate, if a bee goes for you hold your breath, and I'll guarantee you won't be stung, though the bee jab its sting at you till the thing breaks—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Publicity.

By WEX JONES.

SAYS old John D., "I think," says he. "Publicity is right; It's fair and just, and the wealthy must Keep nothing out of sight. So, come, my lads, and learn my fads; No question will I foil. Unless, perhaps, some prying chaps Should ask of Standard Oil."

"I'll rest right off my scores at golf. And tell you of my wig; At length I'll treat of what to eat And why I never swig; I'll give advice without a price To every son of toil; I'll nothing hide—that is, beside Affairs of Standard Oil."

"I'll bare my life to every knife. And keep no secret hid. Nor shrink nor quail, but tell the tale Of everything I did. Publicity," says old John D., "Most crooked games will spoil; So every day I'll spout away— But not of Standard Oil."

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

STRANGER—Yes, these are my grounds, but you can fish here all you want. But you'll never catch any fish at this spot. Try the other side of that tree.

MR. E. Z. MARK (two hours later)—Either that Mr. Owner was deceiving me or else the fish have gone off on a picnic. Well, I guess I might as well put on my coat and vest and go home.

MR. E. Z. MARK—Ye gods! Where's my wallet! Three hundred dollars! GONE! And my watch! GONE! Ye gods! I see it all. That man was no owner—he just wanted to get me away from this spot.

Macaulay Bros. & Co.'s stores are filled with new goods, new and attractive styles in ready-to-wear costumes, skirts and coats. In this department the Nov-Modi garments are being shown. Messrs. Macaulay Bros. & Co. have the exclusive sale of these celebrated garments for this province. In other departments the selections made by Mr. Brown, of the firm, who has just returned from his European buying trip, will be found completely in every detail, as he made a special point to get the newest London and Paris novelties out early this season. All in want of first class dry goods should call at Macaulay Bros. & Co.'s stores and inspect their stock.

J. M. JOHNSON FOR REPRESENTATIVE

John M. Johnson is the republican candidate for the legislature from Calais, and he will be elected. Republicans will give Mr. Johnson their full vote because they have confidence in him, they know that he is a man of character; and they know that he will diligently care for the interests of Calais in the legislature at Augusta. They also recognize in him a man who has done very much for this city in many ways, and who is now on the point of doing more.
Besides being a large payer of taxes, Mr. Johnson is interested in industries here that are of immense value to the city. Among them are the Calais Tanning Company and Trimble Bros. & Co.
If it were not for Mr. Johnson's kindly disposition and practical assistance the shoe factory near the steel bridge would not be running today. He is a direct partner in this company. The factory is constantly enlarging and branches out. It is now making 400 pairs of boots each day, has nearly 100 hands on its payroll, and places in circulation every week almost $800 in wages.
For years Mr. Johnson has given Calais people employment in his wool and tanning plant at the lower wharf. Last year in the spring that employment was taken away through the action brought against him by the government. This spring Mr. Johnson very successfully defended himself against the government and won his case. The people of Calais were enthusiastic in their interest and congratulations and met him at the train in numbers on his return from the trial in Bangor.
Before this time Mr. Johnson had bought a noted farm in Massachusetts, the famous Forbes farm. He did this because he is a great horse enthusiast and breeder, and here on the Forbes farm he found the conditions for his stock that suited him.
The result, a few people said that he had given up living here in Calais and was to live in Massachusetts. And then he re-opened his tannery on a small scale, and the same few said he was doing it for "a bluff".
This is what the bluff has developed into: He has increased his tannery operations until now, at this time, he is doing double the business he ever did at the tannery before. Last Monday morning, two days ago, Mr. Johnson began pulling wool again, not over people's eyes, but sheep and lamb skins at his wool ginning plant. He will within a few months be more largely engaged in this business than he ever was. He has an agent in Maine, and especially in Washington county, L. C. Stackpole, who is to buy all the lamb and sheep skins that are possible to purchase, and ship them to Calais to Mr. Johnson's plant. The payroll at the plant now is over $300 and the business in the next six months will reach between $500 and $600.

COME AND SEE US
The Times extends a standing invitation to its friends to visit its new premises, Canterbury St., at any time during the Exhibition. There are few manufacturing processes that surpass in interest, the process of manufacturing a modern daily newspaper, and to visitors The Times, as an afternoon paper, has this advantage, that the entire plant may be seen in operation during the daytime. The typesetting machines are in operation from 8 o'clock in the morning, the stereotyping department is busiest between 12:30 and 3, and the big Goss press is in operation from 3 o'clock on. The Times plant in completeness and up-to-dateness is not surpassed in Eastern Canada, and we think you will be interested in seeing it in operation.
Come and bring your friends.

NEW INDUSTRIES AT PORT WILLIAMS
Fruit and Vegetable Evaporator and Vinegar Factory Will Soon be in Operation.
CORNWALLIS, N. S., Sept. 6. — The pear crop will be lamentably small this year and plums will be even more scarce. Already the latter are quoted at four dollars per bushel, whereas last year they sold at one and a quarter dollars per bushel.
Dr. Eugene Eaton, of Madras, India, is visiting his parents, Dr. I. W. and Mrs. Eaton, at Canning.
Judge Bishop, of Sicamore, Illinois, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bishop, of Grand Falls.
The large vegetable and fruit evaporator at Port Williams is about completed. The vinegar factory is to be begun at once and will be run in connection with the evaporator. Both of these industries will be of immense value in this fruit growing country and should prove to be great success financially.

BIG PROGRAMME TONIGHT
The management of the St. Andrew's Rollaway have arranged for another big treat for their patrons tonight. Here is the programme: Up to 9:30 the band will provide music for skaters; at 9:40 the La Rey children will give their exhibition, after their performance there will be two races, the first a half mile between Finley, the eleven year old wonder, and Black of Amherst. Both boys are very fast skaters and a great race will result. The next race will be between Dalton and Merritt, the five mile world's champion. Dalton challenged Merritt for this race and declares he can defeat him. That remains to be seen. Certainly, for one mile, Dalton has few superiors, but Merritt is also very fast, and whichever wins it will be a great race. Any one of the above events is alone worth the price of admission, but there will be no extra charge for the three. Visitors who have never seen real fast roller skating should see these races tonight.
SCHOONER ASHORE; TOTAL LOSS
CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 7. (Special)—Schooner Alma, from Pictou to Charlottetown with coal for her owner, A. Down, was dismasted and driven ashore at Point Prim yesterday. She was a total loss. The crew was saved. The loss is $600 and no insurance.

PAID $2 FOR HIS TEAM
A man named Galbraith, who wanted to attend the Moosepath races yesterday, and not caring to take the train, went to Thos. Hayes' stable on Union street, and procured a horse and carriage, the property of James Smith, who had not consented to the loan. On returning in the evening he was met by the owner, who was anything else but friendly.
Galbraith wanted to settle by arbitration, but Smith thought otherwise, and handled him over to the police. Before the station was reached, however, a settlement was arranged, as the matter closed up for a two dollar bill.
