Those who have gone through the experience of being forcibly fed describe the method of feeding scores of shrieking, struggling and fighting women who are held down, by wardresses, while a physician pours liquid food into a tube stuffed into the mouth, as barbaric and inhuman.

WHAT CAUSES SOCIAL VICE AND AILING CHILDREN? "WOMEN'S SILLY DRESS!" SAYS DR. WALKER

By OLIVER P. NEWMAN

(Times' Special Correspondence) Washington, D. C., May 20.—The widespread immorality among men and women, boys and girls, the horrible menace of social disease, the physical weakness of nearly all women and the ill from which so many children suffer are all directly traceable to one thing—the immoral, unhealthy and ridiculous style of women's dress.

DR. MARY WALKER

"No man can know the agony of the ordinary costume worn by woman," said Dr. Walker, who is in Washington for a few weeks delivering a series of lectures. I could hardly realize I was not conversing with a man. Dr. Walker drew her coat tails about her just like a man as she sat down, threw one trousered leg over the other like a man getting ready to read his evening paper, put on her gold-rimmed spectacles, folded her hands in her lap and expounded her views.

THE FIRE LOSSES

There are two statements in a page devoted to insurance in this week's issue of the Maritime Merchant which set the reader thinking. One is: "The current year has far to break all records for fire losses in the maritime provinces"; and the other is: "If all the owners of buildings were as careful as they should be, the majority of present day fires would never occur at all."

In reviewing the situation the Merchant finds that the underwriters have had a prolonged streak of bad luck, beginning with the Campbellton fire, when the loss amounted to a million dollars over the combined premiums for the year, and reaching in Halifax a little over a year ago. Since then there have been frequent fires, the latest being those at North Sydney and Moncton, with others involving smaller loss in St. John, Halifax and several other towns.

The Merchant is surprised that there are still people who do not carry insurance, and points out that no going business can afford to have a fire, even when it is well insured; and hence, when there is no insurance at all, the result of a fire cannot be other than disastrous.

THIS GIRL CAN THROW A BASEBALL FARTHER THAN ANY OTHER GIRL

And She's an All-Round Amateur, Girl Champion Athlete—She Was Her Brother's Chum—That Explains It!

MISS ELIZABETH A. HARDIN.

Miss Elizabeth A. Hardin, a Vassar freshman, beat the shotput record established by Miss Inez Millholland, making a new record of 38 feet, 8-4 inch. Miss Millholland had thrown a basket ball 77 feet, Miss Hardin tossed it 90 feet. She rounded out her remarkable performance by throwing a baseball 208 feet, 7 inches, thus breaking the record held by Dorothy Smith, 204 feet, 8 inches. Miss Hardin's father is inclined to dismiss lightly the subject of his daughter's prowess. "Elizabeth is just a healthy, vigorous girl who loves outdoor life and is filled with the exhilaration of youth," he said in his Newark, N. J. home. "From her childhood she has excelled in athletic achievements. This was very largely due to the fact that she was her two brothers' companion and chum."

A THEATRE FOR THE CHILDREN

Amherst's Effort to Solve The Problem

HOW THEY SUCCEED

Specially Selected Programmes Please the Youngsters While Benefiting Them — Plan Has Great Possibilities

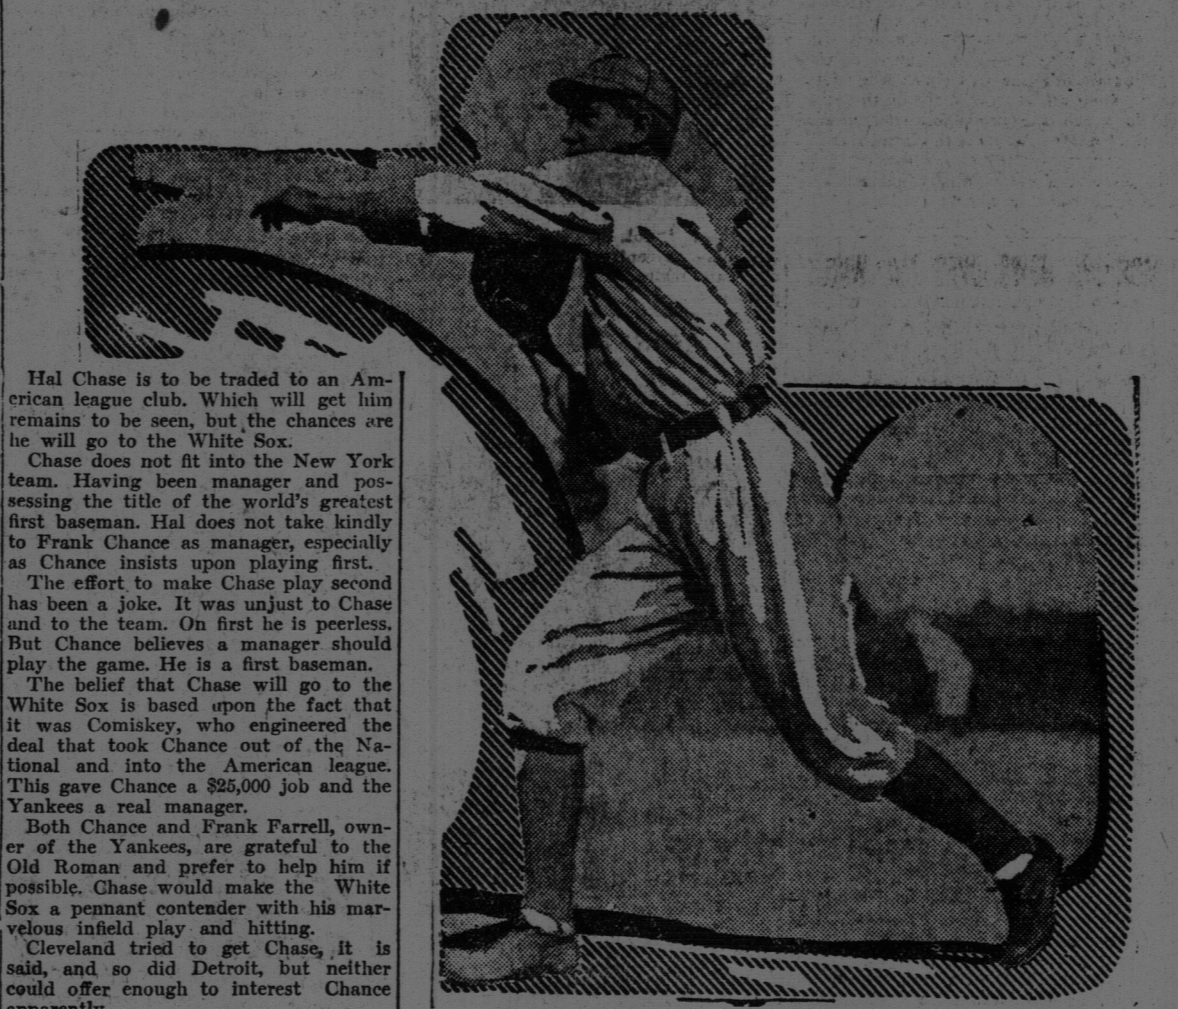

(John Bradford in Amherst News) To the student of Child Life the theatre and the moving picture show are at once a source of hope and discouragement. The possibilities are so large, the opportunities so great, but the fulfillment so meager that it seems at times, as though the problems could not be solved. However, given co-operation and an understanding of the needs to be met, there are always possibilities in an experiment of a constructive character and this is what the Amherst Children's Theatre has become. An investigation among all classes of children showed that regular attendance at the picture shows was almost universal, that a majority went at night, that many went more than once a week and most interesting of all, that the average performance was not greatly enjoyed because of not being understood. The first need was for a suitable house, this was found in the Empress Theatre, a model of its kind from the standpoint of sanitation, ventilation and lighting. Seating 878 with the fire-proof room containing the moving picture apparatus outside of the building, it left nothing to be desired. Next an experienced woman of recognized standing in the community was secured as matron and to assist her a large volunteer corps of young women, teachers, leaders of Camp Fire groups and others was organized under the supervision of the nurse in charge of the

HALL CHASE TO BE TRADED

Hal Chase is to be traded to an American league club. Which will get him remains to be seen, but the chances are he will go to the White Sox. Chase does not fit into the New York team. Having been manager and possessing the title of the world's greatest first baseman. Hal does not take kindly to Frank Chance as manager, especially as Chance insists upon playing first. The effort to make Chase play second has been a joke. It was unjust to Chase and to the team. On first he is perfect. But Chance believes a manager should play the game. He is a first baseman. The belief that Chase will go to the White Sox is based upon the fact that it was Comiskey, who engineered the deal that took Chance out of the National and into the American league. This gave Chance a $25,000 job and the Yankees a real manager. Both Chance and Frank Farrell, owner of the Yankees, are grateful to the Old Roman and prefer to help him if possible. Chase would make the White Sox a permanent contender with his marvelous infield play and hitting. Cleveland tried to get Chase, it is said, and so did Detroit, but neither could offer enough to interest Chase apparently.

the mind of the child with scenes and thoughts of beauty is the task confronting the promoters of our Children's Theatre and the tremendous possibilities for true Christian development offered are reward enough for the thought and effort involved. To hear the gasp of wonder and delight as some beautiful colored bit of France or Italy is thrown upon the screen, to hear the peals of merry laughter which greet the comical antics of the kittens in that delightful nature film, to catch the applause that followed upon the just punishment which overtakes the cross old King in the "Enchanted Fifer," to watch the animated faces as the children recognize the unfolding of the story of "Tom Thumb," to which they have listened breathlessly as it was told just before the picture was shown, is surely worth the time and effort necessary to make it possible.

The Story Teller The addition of a story teller to the programme adds very greatly to the enjoyment as well as to the understanding of the pictures. In the wonder tales of childhood, to understand that what seems wonderful or perhaps impossible to a grown-up, is only a natural every day happening in the world of childhood, to know that as a boy here sees the unfolding of a heroic tale that the hero in his own mind, is what he himself will be a few years removed, and to grasp the significance of the influence of these things upon the days to come, is what this experiment means to those who love and understand the child.

Again the average vaudeville act has been an equally destructive influence in the education of the child so where any introduction of this feature is made there is a conference of the performers at which the ideals of the theatre are explained and the best of co-operation is always the result. To these things are added from week to week the children's songs and music, the singing of patriotic songs and

The result was that he picked up Betts and looks upon him as a valuable addition to his hurling staff.

Harry Lewis to Return and Seek Battle With Clabby

By TOM ANDREWS

Harry Lewis, a former Philadelphia welter weight boxer, who has been in England and France for the last three years, writes me that he expects to be in America almost as soon as his letter reaches here unless something unforeseen happens to delay him. Harry is now a full fledged middle weight and likes the 160 pound mark the same as Frank Klaus and most of the present day middle weights. His principal object in coming over at this time is to arrange a match with Jimmy Clabby before the Denver Athletic club, which has made Lewis a good offer.

When Lewis had his unfortunate battle with Mike Ward at Grand Rapids, Mich., back in 1906, Ward dying from the effects of a fall on a hard board, Harry wanted to get out of the game entirely and for a time it was hard to get him into a contest, but after a couple of years brooding he left for Europe and has been there most of the time since.

His one setback in the French capital was his defeat at the hands of George Carpentier, the French champion, in 1911, and it has rankled in his mind ever since, but he has never had a chance to wipe out the defeat. Writing of affairs, Harry says: "Have received a splendid offer from the Denver club to meet Clabby and expect to be over here soon. I had a great reception at Liverpool the other night after I had beaten the best of the time since."

It may interest you to know that Jen Driscoll, the little British feather weight champion, has decided to give up his trip to America and will no doubt retire from the ring for all time. He was anxious to get a match with Johnny Kilbane for the world's title, but word came here that there was little chance, as Kilbane wanted 125 ringside, which Jen would not make, the limit here being 125 pounds. Driscoll, to my way of thinking, would have given Kilbane the fight of his life and it would have been a great international battle. There is no other good feather weight here outside of Owen Moran, and he is nearing the end of his career. They will go a long way from here they get another like Driscoll, who combined cleverness with fighting ability."

Didie Kid. I would like to get on a big match over here, but most of the best fighters are away just now and I think it best to visit the states. I was anxious to get a go with Carpenter again, but they have side-stepped me. He will meet Billy Wells instead. I may get him later on, and if I ever do you can gamble it will be a different story.

London, May 22—Speaking at Glasgow George Barnes, M. P., former Labor leader, criticized Premier Borden's Toronto speech. He doubted the wisdom of Great Britain accepting battleships in the way proposed by Canada. He would prefer to see it done in the same way Australia had done it, by having her own fighting men.

ROUND THE WORLD SERVICE FOR THE G. T. P. RAILWAY

Construction of New Steamers Under Consideration—Canadian Northern and C. P. R. Also Will Have Fleets

(Montreal Star Cable)

London, May 22—The Grand Trunk Pacific directors are considering a scheme for the construction of a large amount of tonnage for trading, both in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

The final details have not yet been decided upon, but it is anticipated that within eighteen months the new Trans-continental will be able to transport passengers from England, not only to the Canadian seaboard, but thence to the eastern hemisphere, either via Liverpool or Honolulu.

The Canadian Northern line is also adding to the tonnage of its Royal service, while the C. P. R. has decided to add two more vessels to the Atlantic service which are larger than the Empress boats and will be comparable to the new Allan lines, the Alsatian and the Calgarian.

It is being more than realized that the success of any company engaged in the express passenger service to and from Canada is based upon the possession of the mail contract. Without this support it is very difficult to compete hence the importance of the developments now under discussion for the British-Canadian mail service upon the expiry of present arrangement with the C. P. R. and the Allan companies.

SAYS PRESENT CHECK TO BUSINESS NOT HARMFUL

Toronto, May 22—President G. T. Somers in moving the adoption of the yearly report at the annual meeting of the Sterling Bank held yesterday, called attention to the fact that the profits for the year, amounting to $118,000, were equal to 10.23 per cent on the bank's average paid-up capital.

"I feel," said Mr. Somers, "that the present policy of conservatism should be rigidly maintained, as it is to this policy attribute our successful position today. Monetary conditions have been greatly disturbed for some time and caution is most necessary, but the future of this country is assured and the present check on business will do no harm."

COMMISSIONER AGAR MAKES A SUGGESTION

"The residents of King street East should be under no misapprehension," said Commissioner Agar today, "in regard to the work which is being done in King street East. The coating of asphalt oil which is being placed there, is not intended to be a permanent improvement. If the people of King street East wish a permanent pavement all that is necessary is for the property owners to sign a petition under the local improvement plan and submit it to the city commissioners. The street certainly could be improved and with a grass plot through the center of the road one of the prettiest spots in the city would be formed. I think that the property owners in King street East should get together and have their roadway improved."

NOTICE TO KINGS AND QUEENS COUNTY SUBSCRIBERS

THERE GOES A BOY WEARING AN OAK HALL SUIT

This is not exaggerated, but was heard the other day. The woman had good reasons for supposing it was an Oak Hall suit, because it fitted him perfectly and the style was up-to-the-minute. If examined closely it would have revealed the superior tailoring that it possessed.

Gray and Brown are the predominant colors this Spring, but many prefer a blue suit.

STREET REPAIR WORK IS PROMISED FOR NORTH END

Transformation of "Victoria Square"—The Bachelor Maids—Novelty Shower—Another Fire

The need of repairs for the streets in the North End has been agitating some of the citizens of that district of late, and complaints have been heard from one or two concerning the matter. In response to a query concerning this, Commissioner Agar, of the public works department, said yesterday that just as soon as the department could attend to the matter, the work on the streets complained of would be pushed forward with all possible haste. In one place in particular, the hill towards the foot of Indian town, it was realized that there was need of repairs, and in a short time he said the department intended to commence work there. He would like to see it started immediately but this was not possible on account of prior demands, but just as soon as it could be attended to, the work would be begun and rushed to completion.

The department is certainly receiving the hearty thanks of more than one citizen of Indian town through its action in attending to the filling in of the old public dumping ground, the so-called "Victoria Square." During the last few days loads of filling in material have been deposited upon the place which has been an eyesore to the surrounding neighborhood for many years and already an improvement is noticeable. But there remains much more to be done. Within two "no-dump" signs have been placed in position upon the "square" these are not meant to bar the dumping of ashes or sediment but provided there is no rubbish of any other nature included, because the former are valuable aids in filling in places, and citizens in that district having any could easily rid their yards thereof by dumping it on the ground in question. There is still a wide section which has to be attended to, but it is understood that the intention of the department is to fill this also, particularly as in another month or so the place will be in use as a public playground, one of the chain organized in the city. When the former dump has been transformed into something which would justify its being termed by the fill-in title "Victoria Square," a unanimous vote of thanks and appreciation will be tendered to the citizens of Indian town who have waited patiently for such a transformation for years.

J. P. McBay, grocer, of Victoria street has purchased from George W. Dunlop his summer cottage at Riverside. It is said to be Mr. Dunlop's intention to go west and that that is his reason for disposing of the property, which is very remembrances. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

Three letters are awaiting an owner at 249 Main street, addressed to T. Collins in care of the parties residing at that number, but strange to relate he is entirely unknown to them. He is thought to be a young Englishman from Rotherhithe, England, but his whereabouts are not known. They have been kept at the address in question in the hope that they would be called for, but so far no claim has been made upon them.

Fire started early last night in a barn connected with Policeman Garnett's residence, North End, and the chemical engine, which responded to the alarm, extinguished the blaze before much damage resulted. During the reign of the fire started in the same building and it was thought that the incendiary was responsible.

BIG LUMBER BUSINESS

(Campbellton Tribune.)
To give one an idea of the vast amount of business done here in the lumber trade it is only necessary to state that the I. C. R. alone has since November last shipped for the lumber dealers some 1,200 cars of shingles and long lumber. There yet remains some 600 cars to be shipped to finish up the winter's work. The railway men are kept quite busy trying to catch up with this work which has got behind through the shortage of cars. At present much lumber and shingles are being moved, cars being more plentiful. While large quantities of lumber are shipped by rail the larger portion of the cut is shipped by water during the summer months.

Today there are three large steamers in port to load lumber for the Shires Co. and the Wm. Richards Co.

The W. H. Miller long lumber mill will start sawing on Monday morning next, when all Campbellton long lumber mills will be at the shingle mills will be in full swing.

"That's right, but as I know Julius, my birth month is going to be April."

BRITISH AID FOR SOUDAN COTTON

Guarantee of Interest on Loan of $15,000,000

COUNTRY FORGING AHEAD

Gaining in Population and Revenue—Prince Louis of Battenberg on Defence Matters—Not One of London's Aldermen Lives in the City

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, May 6.—A very rosy picture of the cotton-growing capabilities of the Sudan was presented to the House of Commons this week by the chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George, who was asking the house to agree to a resolution for guaranteeing the interest on a loan of $15,000,000 to that country. Briefly, the proposal is that the British government shall guarantee the interest at 3 1/2 per cent. on a loan, which is not to be raised all at once, and is to be devoted to improving and developing the railways in the Sudan, and to irrigating and growing cotton upon certain large tracts of country, especially in the Ghatreh Plain and near Tokar. The experts say that finer cotton can be produced in these regions than anywhere in the world, that it is superior to the best Egyptian and that it is exactly the sort of cotton which Lancashire requires for the finest counts of yarn. There has been a marked falling off recently in the quality of Egyptian cotton, owing to the inferior seed supplied to the smaller growers, and Lancashire would gladly take the whole crop that the Sudan can produce. Lloyd George said that Lord Kitchener was exceedingly sanguine as to the prospects of the scheme, and he then gave remarkable figures showing how rapidly the Sudan was recovering its old population; how the nomadic peoples were settling down to industry, and how the revenue had grown from $655,000 in 1899 to $1,200,000 last year, while the exports had increased from $1,225,000 in 1906 to $1,000,000 in 1911. The guarantee of this Sudan loan is a new experiment, and there was a certain amount of criticism—some of it based on the ground that it was a measure of protection. But Lancashire members of both political parties gave their hearty support, and the resolution was agreed to without a division.

Army and Navy

The First Sea Lord, Prince Louis of Battenberg, has disabused England of the idea that her great fleets are of themselves sufficient for home protection. At the annual meeting of the Union Jack Club the prince said:—"When the great problems which are occupying public attention are being discussed by the two services, army and navy," he said: "I trust that one great truth will always be remembered—that no one service can dispense with the other. One hears a good deal of loose talk on the matter; it sometimes takes the shape of friendly chaff, but all the same it exists.

"There are people who go about saying, 'If war comes the fleet alone is quite enough to keep anybody' from coming near the shores of this island kingdom."

"There can be no more foolish or mischievous statement. The fleet alone could not do it, and the presence of a sufficiently-trained professional army in this island at all times is quite as necessary as the other arm of the service. 'If the two services have to fight together and work together they must know each other, and that is where the advantage of meeting in a place like the Union Jack Club comes in.'"

Prince Louis of Battenberg is recognized as one of the leading strategists of the day. He was born at Graz, Austria, fifty-eight years ago, and is

HERE IS GOOD ADVICE TO TAKE

It Will Help Those Who Have Kidney and Bladder Trouble

There are other "old enemies" similar to the one mentioned in this testimonial. Kidney and Bladder Troubles are always enemies to good health. As soon as you start to take GIN PILLS these ailments begin to disappear. It is the same in cases of lumbago, Sciatica, and like complaints. This letter illustrates the benefits of GIN PILLS.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6th.
"I have been a sufferer from lumbago for some years past and during Christmas week had a very acute attack which confined me to the house. About the latter part of April, I met your Mr. Hill and mentioned my complaint to him. He advised me to take GIN PILLS. I have been taking them at intervals during the early part of the present winter, and up to date have had no return of my old trouble—in fact, I feel better than I have for years and think that my old enemy has vanished for good and all."

Not a single alderman lives in the city of London. All these potent, grave, and revered signiors have their city addresses, but their residences are elsewhere. The town clerk does not live in the city, nor does the recorder, nor the chamberlain of the city, nor the mayor, nor the common sergeant, nor do the masters of the city companies, nor do a good many of the city clerks. The Mansion House, and, perhaps, one or two of the city mansions, like the city almshouses, will be removed.

Miles of Moving Pictures

Some imposing statistics of the cinematograph industry are supplied by the German official returns recently published. Germany is not the chief producer of cinematograph films, because more are imported than are exported from Germany. During the last financial year thirty-seven million yards of film were imported, while twenty-two million yards were exported. The chief exporter of films to Germany is England, followed at a considerable distance by France, Italy and Denmark.

The real figure for England is considerably smaller, because most of the American films pass through London and are counted as English. Of the German export six and a half million yards went to France and nearly five and a half millions to Italy.

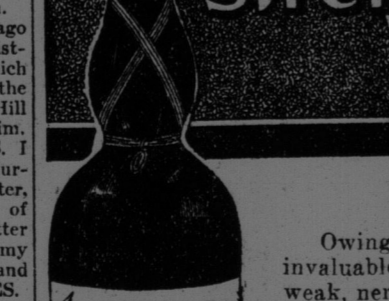

The immense amount of work entailed upon the German censorship of films is almost incredible. According to the official returns during June alone 154,000 yards of film (67 1/2 miles) were examined by the censor; and in July 174,000 yards (78 miles). It is difficult to estimate the average cost of manufacturing a film, says the reporter, because the managers grossly exaggerate the fees paid to the artists acting for the purpose of advertisement. However, it is a matter of common knowledge that M. Max Linder, "the film king," proclaims that he has received $200,000 in three years as "cinematograph stage manager" for a famous French firm. The same house produces sixty miles of film every week at a cost of $20,000, which produce $1,600 of revenue weekly, or $80,000 a year.

DOGS OF WAR THAT SAVED AN ARMY

"There are only two respects in which dogs are valuable auxiliaries to men for night sentry duty, the major went on. Unlike men, there is no danger of their going to sleep, no matter how exhausting the previous day has been, nor do they suffer from timidity, a quality which, in man, is increased by the consciousness of being alone in the darkness. A human sentry, too, is apt to be deceived by harmless noises such as wind which the dog interprets as their true value, and in cases of attack in fog or rain, the dog is simply invaluable. Most of the attacks on Scutari, by the way, have made under cover of fog.

"It is as sentries and scouts that dogs are especially useful in war," the major added, "though they also can be trained to carry messages and convey ammunition into the firing line as well as to assist the ambulance corps—and never have they given better proof of their utility in these first two respects than in the recent war in Tripoli. Early in the campaign I went out there and at once saw the immense advantages that he gained by having the trenches and outposts guarded by dogs at night. I only mention that it was the habit of the Turks to attack twice during a single night—not a single assault having, in fact, been made by day—once at about eleven and again about three, and coming up cautiously over the soft sand they nearly always had succeeded in surprising the Italian troops.

"Returning to Rome, I made representations to the war office, with the result that, in a few weeks' time, between 500 and 600 dogs were serving with the troops, this great number being required because the area of attack was so long. They were used with the cavalry as scouts for tracking out hidden Arabs in the oases, and as aids to the nocturnal guards, 500 to 600 metres beyond the trenches and by the barbed wire entanglements, and the infantry also found them useful for discovering hidden ammunition.

"The Italian army had no trained dogs, but fortunately they were able to obtain those belonging to the customs house officers, which were kept by day—being required because the area of attack was so long. They were used with the cavalry as scouts for tracking out hidden Arabs in the oases, and as aids to the nocturnal guards, 500 to 600 metres beyond the trenches and by the barbed wire entanglements, and the infantry also found them useful for discovering hidden ammunition.

"Saved Italian Force
"At Derna, on the evening of Feb. 11-12 they undoubtedly saved a large force of Italians from extinction. Let me read you the cold, official account of what happened.

"In the early part of the evening the Turks, under cover of the darkness, advanced against the Italian position, one column of about 500 men to the right, the other, consisting of about 1,000 men with a stiffening of Turkish officers. The whole of the country is difficult in the extreme, without roads, and crossed by a series of tracks for the most part known to the natives only, running on the edge of precipices. This force took every advantage of the sinuities of the ground, and crawled practically undisturbed to the Italian position. The alarm, however, was given by the dogs chained to the entanglements and at 1:30 began an engagement at this point, which lasted the whole night, the Turks finally being repulsed with heavy loss.

"Here is the fellow who first gave the alarm," added the Major, showing me a lantern-slide picture of a cross-bred hound, which with the best of reasons, looked exceedingly proud of himself.

"The dogs of mine which went with the punitive expedition against the Aborigines, in November, 1911, did equally well," said Major Richardson, "and gave warning of at least three unexpected attacks by the savage tribesmen. The names of these dogs, which the wife of an English officer presented to the expedition, were 'Bob' and 'Jumbo' by the way, though nearly all my dogs, for the sake of brevity are named 'Jack.' They were late in getting out to India, and were strange to climate and men, besides having had a most terribly trying voyage, in the hottest season of the year, but apparently they were 'on the job' right from the start. On the evening of Nov. 7, the Aborigines attempted to surprise our men, but 'Jumbo,' which was with the advance guard, gave the alarm in time to put the men on the alert, and the savages met with a grilling fire which killed off a lot of them.

"Later in the march, too, when word had been received that a stockade might be met with, and the Gurkha scouts, who had my dogs with them, were ordered to keep a sharp look out, the dogs again proved of use, as they gave warning to the outposts of the presence of the enemy's scouts before they were seen by the Naga coolies. Here, too, is a private letter written me by Major Wilson, under whose supervision the dogs were, and who says:

"My dogs never once failed to give notice of an enemy on the path, with the result that the advance guard and main body were never ambushed."

"These," said Major Richardson, "are, of course, merely the doings of my own 'dogs of war,' and simply items in the long list of uses to which canines have been put in recent campaigns. The Japanese, when fighting the Russians, often used dogs as scouts on long leads, and in the same war the entire trans-Siberian railroad was guarded by dogs, and to this may be greatly ascribed the reason that it was never cut. The dogs of my own which were used by the Russians in this campaign, by the way, were specially trained for ambulance work, and it was in recognition of the good work they did in finding the wounded that I received the watch you see there from the Czar and the order of merit from the Empress Marie. These four-footed Manchurian veterans, by the way, are now kept, and made much of, at the Riding School in St. Petersburg.

Were Used in the Balkans

"In the present war in the Balkans, dogs have been used by all the allied troops, and during the transportation of Greek troops into Turkish territory, canine sentries were used, for want of men, to guard the railway lines. The results were excellent. At Larissa, especially, the entire railroad line was guarded by dogs."

"Then it seems," said the writer, "that Shakespeare was unconsciously prophesying a bit when he wrote, in 'Julius Caesar,' 'Cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war.'"

"As a matter of fact," answered the Major, "Shakespeare was not prophesying at all, either consciously or unconsciously, for Caesar actually used dogs to guard his camps, and so did Frederick the Great and other famous generals of the past. Shakespeare himself wrote to Marston, in June, 1790, 'They ought to have with them in Alexandria a large number of dogs, which should be fastened a short distance from the walls' in the Civil War in America, too, dogs seem to have been used by the Northern and Southern troops, both as sentries and for tracking work, and also the Russo-Turkish war of 1878.

"It is only in recent years, however, owing greatly to the changing conditions of warfare," Major Richardson went on, "that the subject of training dogs systematically for use in the field has had scientific attention. Germany used them to some extent in her war with France in 1870 and since that time, with her usual thoroughness, has made the canine arm of her service a big and mightily efficient one. She has watch-dogs in all her fortresses, as well as in her dock-yards and, counting her splendidly trained police dogs, has a force of at least 8,500 for use in war.

"By a scheme perfect to the last detail, they can be mobilized in short order. In France they are paying great attention to the training of dogs, there being a special training establishment at Fontainebleau, built by the French government. Dogs are used with the Chasseurs and Alpine regiments, and are a great success out in Algeria and Tunis. Both the Germans and the French, by the way, believe in dogs as messengers and ammunition carriers, and a correspondent who was with the Boer expedition wrote of the dogs which accompanied the German artillery that it was always delightful and interesting to watch their movements. Once, when it was necessary to shell a Chinese patrol, the orders were brought by a dog five miles in a few minutes, but though such incidents are picturesque, I, personally, have little belief in the dog as a dependable messenger in actual war, where he is away from his native environment, not to mention the fact that in an actual conflict, regiments become scattered and hopelessly mixed.

"In the Belgian army, dogs are used as sentries, and for dragging machine guns, while Austria, Holland, Sweden and Russia also make extensive use of canines both as scouts and sentries and for ambulance work.

Urges Britain
"Compared with the continental armies," said the Major, in finishing his talk, "our British forces have hardly any war dogs worth speaking of, and I am continually trying to impress on our War Office the vital necessity of having an adequate supply of these animals specially trained. For the striking fact in connection with the use of dogs in war is that where dogs have failed, as, for instance, in German South-West Africa, the mistake has been made of hurrying collecting large numbers of them at the last moment and sending them with the troops."

Major Richardson's career is as interesting as his wide experience as a trainer of dogs, and what he has to tell about them. His initials stand for the impressive names of Edwin Hasbrouck, and he first opened his eyes upon this world in Ireland in 1868. He studied at Sandhurst, and in 1892 joined the 4th Regiment, the Sherwood Foresters. Anxious to see some real fighting, when the trouble broke out in the Balkans, in '98, Major Richardson threw in his lot with the Bulgarians, and fought throughout the campaign, emerging with two decorations. When, in 1908, he first took up the study of dogs for war purposes, he was a member of the West York militia, being afterward attached, with ambulance dogs, to the Royal Army Military Corps.

It was Major Richardson's dogs which first brought him to the notice of Abdul Hamid, the late Sultan of Turkey. The latter, he decided, one day, that two trained watch-dogs would add to his safety at Yildiz, so he ordered two from Major Richardson, a bloodhound and a collie, which the major delivered in per-

"I found the late Sultan a delightful employer," said Major Richardson to me, "though, of course, I saw his best side. I found him one of the kindest and most interested in every detail of their training, so we had this common interest."

Whatever Abdul Hamid's feelings were, Major Richardson went on, "he inspired loyalty, which the new regime in Turkey has failed to do, and therein lies the weakness of the Turkish Empire today. Things have changed a lot in Constantinople," he added, musingly. "In my day there, the stranger who attempted to enter the royal palace would have been shot on sight; now anybody can get in for a shilling."

HUNGARIAN NOBLES BLEED BY SHYLOCKS

Three of the Wealthiest Magnates Declared Bankrupt—Lost Many Millions

Berlin, May 22.—An explanation of the financial difficulties in which Countess Szechenyi, formerly Gladys Vanderbilt, and her husband are involved, and which are believed to have caused them to leave Budapest and take up their residence in London, is looked for in the bankruptcy proceedings brought in the Austro-Hungarian court against three of the most prominent members of the Hungarian nobility, whose fortunes have been swallowed up in enterprises similar to those which have caused Count Szechenyi to lose several million dollars.

The three nobles, against whom the suits have been brought, it was learned here today, are Count Paul Szapary, who, besides being immensely wealthy, married one of the richest Polish countesses, who had a dowry of $1,000,000; Count Karacsony, who owned the finest mansion in Budapest, where he entertained the Emperor Francis Joseph and the King and Queen of Spain and was Count Szechenyi's keenest rival in the magnificence of his entertaining, and Count Emericch Degefeld, the owner of a famous racing stable of Hungary, the bulk of whose fortune has been swallowed up in speculative enterprises.

These three nobles are regarded as among the wealthiest magnates of Hungary, and rumor connects their failure with the loss of Szechenyi millions, but no confirmation can be obtained of the report that it was due to the enterprises in which Count Szechenyi invested the bulk of his wife's fortune. The three men finally got into the hands of Shylocks, who got the remnants of the capital left over after they had been taken in by visionary schemes.

"Is your wife going away this summer?"
"No—I'm sending her."

When, in 1908, he first took up the study of dogs for war purposes, he was a member of the West York militia, being afterward attached, with ambulance dogs, to the Royal Army Military Corps.

It was Major Richardson's dogs which first brought him to the notice of Abdul Hamid, the late Sultan of Turkey. The latter, he decided, one day, that two trained watch-dogs would add to his safety at Yildiz, so he ordered two from Major Richardson, a bloodhound and a collie, which the major delivered in person. It ended in his being engaged by the Sultan as instructor to his Albanian Guard, and he remained at Yildiz for several months.

"I found the late Sultan a delightful employer," said Major Richardson to me, "though, of course, I saw his best side. I found him one of the kindest and most interested in every detail of their training, so we had this common interest."

Whatever Abdul Hamid's feelings were, Major Richardson went on, "he inspired loyalty, which the new regime in Turkey has failed to do, and therein lies the weakness of the Turkish Empire today. Things have changed a lot in Constantinople," he added, musingly.

"In my day there, the stranger who attempted to enter the royal palace would have been shot on sight; now anybody can get in for a shilling."

Major Richardson's career is as interesting as his wide experience as a trainer of dogs, and what he has to tell about them. His initials stand for the impressive names of Edwin Hasbrouck, and he first opened his eyes upon this world in Ireland in 1868. He studied at Sandhurst, and in 1892 joined the 4th Regiment, the Sherwood Foresters. Anxious to see some real fighting, when the trouble broke out in the Balkans, in '98, Major Richardson threw in his lot with the Bulgarians, and fought throughout the campaign, emerging with two decorations. THE STAGE AND ITS PEOPLE; MANY WELL REMEMBERED HERE

FORMER ST. JOHN MAN MANAGER OF COMPANY LED BY JESSIE BONSTELLE

Lyn Harding Going Back to London Next Month—A New Opera Company—T. D. Frawley Breaks Away From Savage Interests

Bertram Harrison, a former St. John man, is manager of the company at Shea's theatre, Toronto, which is headed by an old favorite here, Jessie Bonstelle.

Lyn Harding, who is remembered in St. John as seating man with Grace George, will return to London early in June to assist Sir Herbert Tree in the Shakespearean festival.

The fall will probably find him added to the list of actor-managers.

Fred Frear, who has the role of "Nan" in "The Merry Widow," when it was presented here, is now with the Payton Music Company Co., playing in the New England States.

The formation of a new opera company is announced by Albert Clerk-Jean-Bata, general director of the Montreal Opera Company, during the three years of its existence.

It is probably he called either the Canadian or the Dominion company, which will be an entirely new enterprise and unconnected in any way with the old Montreal company.

Although several singers who appeared with the disbanded troupe will join the budding company, the season will consist of eight weeks in His Majesty's theatre beginning early in November.

The company will then go on the road, visiting Toronto, Quebec and Ottawa, in Canada, and Rochester, Albany, Buffalo and other cities in the United States, the entire itinerary covering some twenty-two or twenty-three weeks. The repertoire will include six to ten operas.

Jessie Stamer who sang the prima donna role here with "The Atsank" a couple of seasons ago at the Opera House, and who was also here with one of the "Madame Sherry" companies, is going to Minneapolis and other western cities on a stock circuit, alternating in comic opera and musical comedies about two weeks each place.

A vaudeville act is going to get St. John's attention again. Miss Hamnerstein is a "vaudeville" with "Mary Sheridan" and a work named "Getting the Goods."

Miss Hamnerstein believes she can also play it, and will try, with a comedy play, and will play about it.

James S. Barrett, who played here with the Helen Grayce Stock Co., and also in "The Light That Failed" Co., and Miss Genevieve Blynn, sister of Guy Blynn, have been prime favorites during the season with the stock company playing in Lynn since early in the year, have closed for the summer.

The grain of dust was the closing production of the company.

Lillian Russell has deferred her departure for Europe until the first week in July, when she will pursue her work in visiting Havana and Germany, to study conditions of women's life in those countries and arrange for moving pictures for her use.

Miss Russell will not forsake the stage, numerous stories to the contrary notwithstanding.

"I can't lead an inactive life, at least not just yet," she says with one of the incomparable Russell smiles. "And don't forget, I've been on the stage since I was sixteen. It is still my home."

Edward Edward Ellis, a prime favorite in this city some years ago, has attained remarkable success in New York with the playlet "Any Night," of which he is the author, and in which he plays the chief role.

T. Daniel Frawley who is well remembered by St. John theatre goers, and who has been in charge of the engagement bureau of the Henry W. Savage office, New York, has severed connections with the Savage interests. He may be seen in London.

THE LONDON STAGE

Engagement of Gaiety Girl and Nobleman

ONE PLAY; MANY PRODUCERS

Managers Discover a New Way to Advertise Their Shows—William Waldorf Astor is Said to Be Backing Sir Herbert Tree

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, May 10.—I suppose you have heard the outlines of the latest of the stage and theatre romances which are rapidly uniting these two almost opposite conditions of society.

The engagement which I have in mind is that of Lord Edward Fitzgibbon, younger brother of the Duke of Leinster, premier duke of the Emerald Isle, and Fay Eberidge, who plays a small part at the Shaftesbury theatre.

Julius Stirling is to impersonate a vaudeville act next season under the management of John Costigan.

Henry W. Savage will produce "The King of the Governors," early next season as the first joint stock work of Franz Lehar and Victor Leon since they collaborated on "The Merry Widow."

Grace George who will be fondly recalled here for her work as star in "Just to Get Married," may be seen again in London in Sardonic comedy, Divorcement, which she is now playing at William A. Brady's Playhouse, New York.

Miss George appeared in the play at the Duke of York's theatre six years ago. At that time she gained an international reputation in the role of Cypriane.

William Greet has called to William A. Brady offering the choice of two London theatres, and it is quite probable that next season will see Miss George playing Cypriane once more in London.

Eddie Roy has concluded an arrangement with the United Booking Office for next season for himself and seven children for a weekly consideration of $1,750.

He declares that he will permanently retire from the stage at the conclusion of the next season.

Emma Dunn who played here with Harkins years ago and whose splendid work in "The Governor's Lady" at the Belasco this season stood out so conspicuously, contemplates returning to vaudeville in her former sketch "Over the Hill."

It looks as though the vaudeville time for Norman Bayes next season at $2,000 weekly is off. It is alleged that Bayes could not secure contracts from the United Booking Office for the weeks promised her and would accept nothing less.

Miss Bayes had an offer to go in the New York Fields show on the New York 44th street theatre roof this summer, but did not accept.

James T. Powers is to star in "The Girl in the Red Coat" at the Lyric.

George Ade the playwright, is to be run for congress at LaPorte, Ind.

Thomas Hardy has given permission for the dramatization of "The Woodlanders."

William Faversham and Julie Opp will this week for London, to superintend the construction of scenery for two new Shakespearean revivals.

Finley's "The Schoolmistress" is to be turned into a musical comedy.

During the summer the leaders will produce "The Melting Pot" in London, and this will be the first invasion of this firm upon the British metropolis.

Robert Lovaine who is on his way home to play "Cyranos de Bergerac" in London, has talked an American airplane with him and will take up flying again this summer.

The financial affairs of His Majesty's Theatre, under the direction of Sir Herbert Tree, has always been more or less a closed book, especially to the general public.

In some way known only to himself, Sir Herbert has succeeded in making his theatre independent of his box office.

It has always been understood that the chief backers were members of the enormously rich Rothschild family, but it came to me from a trustworthy source yesterday that many of the new owners have gone to ease Sir Herbert's mind of financial worries.

Some of the most interesting of the most recent men alive and although he spends a large part of his immense income every year he does so in a quiet unostentatious way.

He is greatly interested in the theatre, especially in anything approaching art with a capital A, and the writer remembers his surprise when calling for a check upon the bank of tea with Maud Allan, the original Salome dancer, to discover in the tiny sitting room of her Bloomsbury flat an immense floral offering from him.

"Women are certainly trying hard to become men's equals." "Oh, I think you're wrong. All the women I know seem ambitious to go forward rather than backward."—Houston Post.

M. Prevost described how he once had the idea of presenting a simple bourgeois piece. At the final rehearsal he discovered that the producer had had the actresses dressed in 250 dresses, with hats and fans on a similar scale. He had them all sent back and made the company wear simple middle class clothing.

The result was that the piece ran for exactly twelve nights. It was immediately said that "Prevost's show has no dresses in it," and was consequently ignored.

One of the most curious characteristics of the contemporary stage, in the famous dramatist's opinion, is its conception of age. People nowadays, he says, refuse to grow old, and cited Balzac's "old man" of forty-four and George Sand's aged lover of thirty. He prophesies a change, however, and even reversion. At the end of the twentieth century, he concludes, we shall have another Balzac writing a drama of passionate love, entitled "The Woman of Forty-Five."

PAUL J. RAINEY'S AFRICAN HUNT

Marvellous Exhibition in Cinematography at Opera House Next Week

The Paul J. Rainey African Hunt pictures which will be seen at the Opera House all next week, represents the highest attainment ever achieved by those interested in cinematography.

An expedition of over 850 men spent a year in the depths of the African jungles and died by death from the fever and wild beasts in order that this wonderful entertainment might be produced.

There have been many who have hunted big game, but Mr. Rainey was the first to provide that the wonderful scenes he saw, and the experiences he passed through should be preserved for the benefit of the American public.

Accompanying the Rainey expedition was a large corps of expert photographers and motion picture camera operators.

And these men were often in greater danger than those who stand in line in battle.

The Rainey expedition consisted of 35 white men, 825 black men, 185 camels, 40 horses, 60 dogs, 54 oxen, and 150 sheep on the hoof to be used as food.

The Dollar Standard. (Argonaut.) "Edward Everett Hale," said a lawyer, was one of the guests at a millionaire's dinner.

"The millionaire was a free spender, but he wanted full credit for every dollar put out. And as the dinner progressed, he told his guests what the more expensive dishes had cost. He dwelt especially on the expense of the large and beautiful grapes, each bunch a foot long, each grape bigger than a plum. He told, down to a penny, what had figured out that the grapes had cost him apiece. The guests looked annoyed. They ate the expensive grapes charily. But Mr. Hale, smiling, extended his plate and said:

"Would you mind cutting me off about $187 worth more, please?" France has one automobile for every 500 people, one cycle for every thirteen and one motorcycle for every 1,382. Between 1910 and 1911 there was the enormous increase of 800,000 cycles.

UNION JACK IN PICTURE DRAMAS FOR CANADIAN PATRONS OF THE MOVIES

News of Another Big Combination of English Capital for Investment in Silent Drama—A Big Exposition in July in New York

For some time in Canada and Great Britain there has been strong opposition to the American flag being prominently displayed in motion picture productions.

Jack Rose, Sam Schrepps and Harry Vallon, whose testimony in the Herndon Rosenthal vs. Becker-gummen resulted in their being sent free, and the defendants being sentenced to death, have been posing before the picture camera, playing principal roles in a special gun-man-derworld film which the pilot Co. is getting out to be called "The Wages of Sin."

There is a strong rumor that the Vitagraph Co. is contemplating the establishment of a motion picture plant at Hastings, Eng. Coupled with this, reports of another big combination of English capital for investments in a moving picture plant for taking, developing and producing films of an all-British manufacture.

This combination furnishes the nucleus for a very interesting story. It will be remembered that Miss Florence Turner, leading lady of the Vitagraph Company for long time, sailed for London on April 29, accompanied by her manager, Lawrence Trimble. Previous to sailing for London, Miss Turner played a number of vaudeville engagements.

Miss Turner, before sailing, announced that she would be at the head of a film company in England, to be known as the Turner Company. Miss Turner, during her engagement at Music Hall in Cincinnati, was interviewed by a Billboard representative, and stated that all arrangements for taking pictures had been completed, and that a fully equipped studio was awaiting her in London.

If the persistent rumor is true that the Vitagraph Company has established a plant in London, the question arises as to whether or not Miss Turner will again become affiliated with Vitagraph, with which concern she was not in contractual terms at the time she was in Cincinnati. The Billboard has it on good authority that the Vitagraph Company film is more popular in England than it is in America, and while it is said they are selling 50 reels (or more) per week in America, they are disposing of 100 reels.

There can be no doubt but that the success attained by the Vitagraph Company is a measure due to the popularity of Florence Turner, and if she is not to be affiliated with the Vitagraph Company, London and will work at the head of her own company, there is great likelihood of the Vitagraph Company losing some of its business in England.

Mr. Trimble was at one time a director in the Vitagraph Company and also acted as manager for John Bunny during the comedian's stay in England.

Weather conditions in the British Isles are decidedly against the practicability of successfully producing films, but the temptation of supposedly large returns from business, of course, is so great, that capitalists have been willing to take a chance.

Already complicated situation in the trade will be further agitated in the event of an all-British movement in the manufacturing of films. The American film is well established, their system of importing negatives and manufacturing their output in Europe making them at great a factor in English competition as are their nearer neighbors on the continent.

Ediswan, Edison Selig and Vitagraph are films as frequently seen in London, as in proportion, they are in America; this in spite of active competition in an open market.

An exchange says of it: "General interest in the exposition to be held in the New Grand Central Palace in July was to be expected, but up to the present time the response of manufacturers, exhibitors and in fact all concerned in the motion picture business has exceeded the most optimistic expectations of the committee in charge."

More than two months before the date of opening practically all of the floor space was rented, and no branch of the industry will be without a fair representation. The exposition will be national in scope, even more than that, for important foreign manufacturers will send samples of their products to Grand Central Palace.

ITCHY BURNING ECZEMA ON FACE

Very Bad Case. Little Blisters Broke and Formed Scabs. Thought Would Be Disfigured for Life. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment a Month. Completely Cured.

Cold Brook, St. John, N. B.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured my little girl of a very bad case of eczema. She had eczema on her face for almost two years. Fine little white blisters covered her face, then those would break and form scabs, and they were very itchy and burning. I used to have great trouble in getting her to sleep at night. She scratched so I had to all I could to prevent her, for sometimes she would scratch the scabs off and then it would be very sore and burning. She was certainly a great case. I treated her for it and also used different kinds of blood medicine, and ointment but got no cure. I thought she would be disfigured for life.

"I had lasted about two years when one day I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper so decided to give them a trial. I had not used them for more than a month when she was completely cured. I cannot praise Cuticura Soap and Ointment enough. Of course I continue to use Cuticura Soap as I find it the best soap on the market for children." (Signed) Mrs. John Newman, Dec. 30, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 25-cent, send post card to Foster Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 303, Boston, U. S. A.

SAYS WOMEN ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR BRAINLESS PLAYS

(Chicago Tribune) Marcel Prevost, the French playwright in a lecture has given it his opinion that women are responsible for most of the empty and brainless plays, parts of plays, which are seen on the Paris stage.

He had often remarked, he said, when he found himself near ladies at a "first night," that their remarks had generally nothing to do with the piece itself. What he heard were such remarks as "That dress of Brande's is ideal," or "The light spoils that blue part," or "O do look at that cloak which Doriat has."

Women were thus responsible for most of the useless feminine roles in modern pieces, and for the number of empty acts in which the scene was laid at a ball or at the seaside, simply to furnish an excuse for a great display of dresses.

They were equally responsible for the poor welcome which greeted plays rich in interest but poor in toilettes.

M. Prevost described how he once had the idea of presenting a simple bourgeois piece. At the final rehearsal he discovered that the producer had had the actresses dressed in 250 dresses, with hats and fans on a similar scale. He had them all sent back and made the company wear simple middle class clothing. The result was that the piece ran for exactly twelve nights. Duke of Connaught Also Possesses a Wonderful Collection of Foreign Decorations

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, May 10.—If ever there should be a general mix-up among the great powers of Europe, the position of the Duke of Connaught, the king's uncle, Governor-General of Canada, would be a trifle embarrassing, for it seems that he holds one rank or another in the army of almost every one of them.

Besides holding this rank, the Duke of Connaught is a colonel of the Kieff Regiment of Russian Dragoons, and of the 4th Austrian Hussars, as well as an honorary officer of the Spanish Chasseurs of Arapiles. He is a general in the Swedish army and a field marshal of the Italian army, and he is the possessor of almost as many foreign decorations as the king himself.

Among the most famous of these are the Black Eagle of Prussia, the Legion of Honor of France, the Golden Piece of Spain, the St. Andrew of Russia, the Elephant of Denmark, the Seraphim of Sweden, the Annunziata of Italy, the Tower and Sword of Portugal, and the Chrysanthemum of Japan.

Among the many distinctions held by the duke is that of being the second oldest member of the privy council, the exalted body which is supposed to advise the king, and which once really did so, but which has been superseded, to all intents and purposes, by the cabinet. The duke became a privy councillor on reaching his majority in 1871, and his only senior is the venerable Earl of Dufferin, who has been a member of the council since 1859.

TRUE PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE

Determine once for all that you are never going to pity yourself. You are to take things as they come. You will not whine because you have no chance, but will make the best of whatever happens. You will adjust yourself to events and not complain because you cannot have things as you would like them, says Dr. Frank Crane, in Woman's World.

Decide that you will be uniformly cheerful. You will put away all sulking gloom and morbidness, as being poison. You will steadily cultivate brightness and cheer as a habit. You can do this. What happens to you has nothing to do with the case. It all depends upon you. Resolve to cultivate courage. Say to yourself that you will not be afraid, whatever comes along. The coward never did amount to anything. It is by being afraid that people become low, vile weaklings. All goodness is a form of moral courage.

Resolve also to be honest with yourself and with the world; that you will never seek to have any merit you do not possess, nor take any money you have not earned, nor desire praise when you do not deserve it.

Borden's Dreadnoughts

There is scorching wit in this passage from Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech on the third reading of the Naval Bill: "What a triumph for those men whose souls were tortured with the fear that their sons would be disembowelled fighting for the flag of the Empire. Methinks that the government would best perpetuate Canadian appreciation of its proposals if it named the three battleships—the three empty battleships which are to represent Canada, not on the firing line, but under the protection of the guns of the Gibraltar Citadel, the Pellicier, the Nantel and Codre." (Prolonged laughter and applause.)

Thirty years ago dentists didn't look for "acid-mouth"—they didn't know there was such a thing. Today dental authorities agree that practically all tooth decay is caused by "acid-mouth."

Instinctively you say, "That may all be true but—I haven't got 'acid-mouth.'" Have you looked for it? Nine out of ten people have an "acid-mouth," but never heard of it until Pebeco Tooth Paste was introduced into this country. Pebeco "Acid-Test-Papers" will determine the presence of an "acid-mouth"—the use of Pebeco will overcome it.

Pebeco Tooth Paste not only SAVES the teeth by neutralizing these acids—it destroys the very bacteria which cause these mouth-acids. Lyman Bros. & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ROSY CHEEKS STRONG NERVES

Should Be the Birthright of Every Woman and Growing Girl

Many women and growing girls who should have bright eyes, rosy cheeks, strong nerves and clear skin, are a good appetite, are seen to decline in health. Their spirits grow sluggish, the cheeks become pale, temper irritable, and the nerves over-sensitive. They may have inherited a tendency to ill-health, or they may have over-worked, over-studied or worried until the strength of the body was not equal to the demands made upon it.

To guard against a complete breakdown in health the blood must be kept pure and rich. No other medicine can do this so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they act both on the blood and nerves, restore the appetite and keep every organ toned up. All women cannot rest whenever they should, but this strengthening medicine is within every woman's reach, and will keep them in the enjoyment of good health. And it is especially important that in every stage of woman's life the blood supply be kept pure and rich. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is well illustrated by the case of Mrs. David Chambers, Bensford, Ont., who says: "Some years ago I suffered greatly from impoverished blood. I was very pale and thin and had no strength. I took a lot of doctor's medicine without getting any benefit, and at last decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I had heard highly recommended. It was not long before I began to feel better, and after taking the Pills for perhaps a couple of months my health was fully restored, and although some years have passed I have continued strong and healthy, and I think I owe it entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

MONTREAL CONTRACTOR TAKING NO CHANCES

Warns City That Plans of Filtration Plant He is Building are Defective.

Montreal, May 22.—Charging that the designs and plans of Montreal's big filtration plant, being built at Verdun, are not such as to ensure the safety and permanence of the structure, Norman McLeod, the contractor, is this afternoon serving a protest on the city.

Mr. McLeod declares that in proceeding with the work according to the designs, plans and specifications furnished by the city and its engineers, he does so under great responsibility of any liability for any failure of the structure in whole or in part, or lack of efficiency of the same when completed, due to defects in the design or plans and will hold the city liable for any damage which may be suffered or sustained by him by reason of such defects in the design or plans.

UNDERWOOD INCOME TAX WILL STAND

Stacks of Protests From Insurance Companies and Railways Unheeded.

Washington, May 22.—No amendment to the income tax section of the Underwood tariff bill is likely to be proposed by the senate finance committee or Democratic caucus, according to leaders who have consideration of that part of the bill in hand.

Senator Williams, Shively and Gore have the income tax in hand. Though their room is piled high with protests and suggestions from every source, the measure is believed to have been well handled in the house and the objections made to it in its original form are thought to have been sufficiently met in amendments before the bill passed the house.

Among the loudest protests coming now are these from mutual insurance companies, conducted for profit, but the house amended the original bill as relating to insurance companies and insurance policies and the senators on the finance committee, after a study of the bill, believe that it is sound.

Complaints from railroads and other holding companies that the law will alter them twice an dividends paid, are reported to have been held unavailing by members of the committee.

Early in the day the finance committee majority met and framed an amendment to the resolution proposing a longer list of tariff questions in which some of Senator La Follette's queries were included. The questions will relate to production, raw material, and transportation costs here and abroad; proportion of tariff duties when cover production cost differences here and abroad, and the proportion which amounts to a manufacturer's profit and other tariff problems.

Senator Simmons said that there would be about twenty-five questions in all, but he will withhold the list until he is certain the Republican leaders intend to bring the matter up again.

MIKADO ILL

Tokyo, May 22.—Emperor Yoshihito is in a state of high fever. Eight court physicians are in constant attendance on him.

The emperor caught a slight cold on May 18, but it was announced that it was unimportant and that his majesty would soon resume his activities.

Tonight the Japanese nation will be shocked by the issue of an official bulletin from the imperial palace in the following terms:

"The emperor, who has been suffering from a slight cold, developed today inflammation of the lungs. We do not consider his condition justifies great anxiety, but his temperature is high."

The physicians in attendance declare he is suffering from inflammation of the lungs.

The Emperor of Japan, who succeeded his father on July 30, 1912, is in his 94th year. He has three sons, the eldest of whom is Crown Prince Hirohito, who is just twelve years old.

The emperor has previously suffered from lung trouble, and in the course of one attack early in 1908, his condition was very serious.

SUMMER HAIR TONIC

Parisian Sage, the Hair Renewer is Now Sold All Over Canada

Since its introduction into Canada, the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them, they are not the genuine. See that "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package.

Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most efficient hair tonic in the world.

It is made to conform to Dr. Sangerbon's (of Paris) proven theory that dandruff, falling hair, baldness, and scalp itch are caused by germs. Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs and removes all trace of dandruff in two weeks or money back; it stops falling hair and itching scalp and prevents baldness.

Remember that baldness is caused by dandruff germs, those little hard-working persistent devils that day and night do nothing but dig into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality.

Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed hair dressing, not sticky or greasy, and any woman who desires luxuriant and bewitching hair can get it in two weeks by using it. Comes in large 50-cent bottles at all druggists and all drug or toilet goods counters. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Canadian Makers.

MORE BIG ENGINES

Moncton Times.—Among the fifty-four locomotives ordered for the Intercolonial, are ten more of the big Toronto class, engines which are proving such successes in the freight service on the north shore between here and Campbellton.

These engines make steam easily and do not burn a great deal of coal doing it. They are rapidly coming into favor with the men on the long freight runs of the north shore. Some of the ten new ones will be placed in service in the Matapedia valley, above Campbellton.

CORAL REEFS AND BARNACLES

By J. R. HAMILTON. Former Advertising Manager, Danamaker's, Philadelphia (Copyrighted)

THE CORAL and the barnacle are cousins of the deep. They have the same shell formation. They live in the same way. Yet the coral reef is the basis of new land and new life, while the barnacle is a parasite which fastens itself to other life and slowly destroys it.

The business world is made up of coral reefs and barnacles. The one is equally useful; the other equally dangerous. And in the business world the barnacle imitates the coral as closely as possible.

Every street in every city has its coral reefs and its barnacles side by side. In one block you will find a thriving business, with clean stocks of merchandise, with hurrying elevators and busy crowds.

Next door you will find the barnacle, clinging to the side of the street, feeding off the life that the coral reef has made, supplying nothing new to society and taking everything from it.

In one place you will find the active merchant, buying his goods with care, seeing that his custom is giving the best that can be had acting as your agent, watching for opportunities for you and advertising those opportunities to you when they are found.

Next to him you will find the parasite, buying everything he can as cheap as he can, selling everything he can as dear as he can; promising everything, vouching for nothing—merely a useless barnacle on the ship's side.

To which one are you going to trust the little argosy in your pocketbook? Where are you going to buy the things you are planning for now?

The active merchant, the coral reef of society, the solid, substantial, reliable man is sending his message to you through this paper today. He is your representative. He has been watching out for your interests. And he will watch out for your interests even after your money is in his safe. He is the builder, the leader, the reliable member of our business world.

Then, of course, there is the barnacle—but why go further? The advertising in this paper will tell you who are the live ones and where to go.

Anyone would rather anchor to a coral reef than have a barnacle fasten itself to him.

THE MISSION OF BAHAIISM

New Eastern Movement Would Resuscitate All That is Best in All Religions.

(Written for the Quebec Chronicle by J. M. Harper, M. A., Ph. D., F. E. I. S., Author of "Sacrament Sunday, Moral Training and The Pedagogy of the Master," etc.)

Amid the inebriate noise of modernism, which so many men say, they have time to regret, there are every now and again the subdued millennial notes that make one's soul vibrate with the peace and light of the East.

There has been an uprising, possibly Bahaiism, just as there was an uprising against the Christ and His mission on earth. But that need not deter any one from giving the old doctrine of love to God and man, as re-established in Bahaiism, its chance of securing a firmer hold on the human race, as a means of arriving at the highest civilization.

There are so-called Christian organizations in the land today that would turn a cold shoulder upon the man Christ as a prospective member of their communion. We are to appear on the earth as a new religion, not as a sect, but as a new religion, not as a sect, but as a new religion.

In fact, the main object of Bahaiism is to promote religious unity and loving kindness within its inner courts and all around them. It would not have its members segregate themselves from other people who are not of their belief nor denounce or antagonize those holding views which are not of their own.

SUPPLIED THE DYNAMITE FOR LAWRENCE PLOT

Pitman Named as the Man by the One Who "Planted" It suicided Rather Than Face Prosecution—Was Contractor Who Built the Mills for the American Woolen Trust.

Boston, May 22.—Ernest W. Pitman supplied the dynamite that was "planted" in Lawrence during the textile strike, according to evidence introduced by the state today.

The suicide of Pitman on the morning that he was to have appeared as a witness before the grand jury which was investigating the alleged conspiracy to discredit the strikers, created a sensation at the time. He was a building contractor living in Andover and was widely known. He built the Wood mill at Lawrence, owned by the American Woolen Company, of which William M. Wood is president. Rumors that he had knowledge of the dynamite plot were met with the assertion by his intimates, that the contractor had been driven to take his life by business worries.

When John J. Breen, who had confessed to actually "planting" the dynamite, had concluded his testimony at the trial of the alleged conspirators, William M. Wood, Frederick Atteaux, and Dennis J. Collins today, the prosecution called William H. Rice, a quarry owner of Milton.

Rice testified that Pitman came to him and asked him for a quantity of dynamite for a construction job. The witness told of getting the dynamite from his quarry and of accompanying Pitman to Boston, where he saw the contractor deliver the explosive to Breen, as Breen had already testified. Rice said that he knew Pitman well but never saw him after the night of January 19, 1912, when they came to this city with the dynamite.

Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux, today completed his cross-examination of Breen. The latter admitted that he had lied repeatedly concerning the dynamite plot, but insisted that he had told only the truth on the witness stand. He admitted that he had asked Atteaux for money with which to settle damage suits, which had been brought against him for false arrest by persons who had been taken into custody after the "planted" explosive had been found on their premises. He claimed, however, he was asking only for money which he thought Atteaux should furnish because he was involved in the conspiracy. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

FIFTEEN MILLION SCHOOL CHILDREN IN NEED OF HELP

Great Campaign for Medical Attention — International Congress on School Hygiene to be Held in Buffalo

"Fifteen million school children in need of medical attention" is the slogan which educators and scientists in the United States will carry to Buffalo last week in August, for the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene, and the first to be held in this country. One of the great objects of the Buffalo Congress will be to make plain the facts regarding the present condition of school children in relation to their health and just how little is being done in the United States toward conserving it. Various estimates have been made by specialists on the physical condition of school children all of which tend to show that of the 20,000,000 school children enrolled in the United States at least 15,000,000 today are in need of attention for physical defects.

Dr. Thomas H. Wood, professor of physical education at Teachers College, Columbia University, has made the following classification of our 20,000,000 school children:

About five per cent, or 1,000,000 have spinal curvature, flat foot or some other moderate deformity serious enough to interfere to some degree with health.

About five per cent, or 1,000,000 have defective hearing.

About 25 per cent, or 5,000,000 have defective vision.

About 35 per cent, or 7,000,000 are suffering from mal-nutrition in many cases due in part at least to one or more of the other defects enumerated.

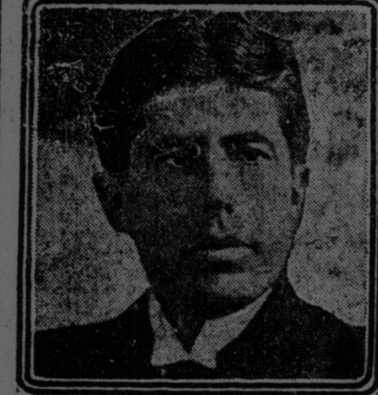

Over 30 per cent, or 6,000,000 have enlarged tonsils, adenoids, or enlarged cervical glands which need attention.

Over 40 per cent, or 10,000,000 (in some schools as high as 98 per cent) have defective teeth which are interfering with health.

The amount of time lost by educators in attempting to teach those children regular lessons, the danger to which these children are exposed and the danger to which all children are exposed in the class rooms through contagious diseases, the constant suffering of this enormous number of school children from defective vision, defective hearing, from defective breathing and from other ailments; the great injury which is resulting from bad seating, from poor lighting, poor ventilation, and bad sanitation—these are a few of the topics which will come up for discussion at the forthcoming congress and which it is hoped will be the basis of reform shortly to be carried into all the individual communities of the United States, if not indeed to all those countries of the world in which special attention is being paid to the welfare of the child and the community.

The inquiry into the death of David Bely, foreman aboard the steamer Briardene lying at Pettigill's wharf on May 3 last in charge of the stevedore work, was completed last evening in the court house, when the jury returned a verdict that he had met his death by accident while engaged in the performance of his duties, and that there was no evidence of neglect on the part of any one concerned. The jury recommended that gay ropes be used in future in the removal of staging from steamers so as to prevent oscillation and accidents.

MAY HAVE TO SERVE SENTENCE YET

English Linen Merchant Who Called Congressmen Crooks Wanted by Police for Breaking His Parole.

New York, May 22.—A warrant was received here from Washington today calling for the arrest of Henry W. A. Page, a wealthy English linen merchant, convicted in Washington a year ago for libelling members of congress. At that time he was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and fined $1,000, but was released under suspended sentence.

The order for re-arrest, it is understood, was issued on the ground that he had violated the terms under which sentence was suspended by writing of his grievances to the president attacking the department of justice.

Page's conviction followed his circulation of pamphlets calling congressmen "crooks." He believed that the courts had treated him unfairly in giving his wife the custody of their three children, after granting her a separation. He memorialized congress asking for the impeachment of certain New York judges, and when the house judiciary committee, to which his petition was referred, gave him no satisfaction, he printed and mailed to members of both houses pamphlets containing a lurid attack on various congressmen. Page could not be found at his office this afternoon, and it was said he was out of town.
