WRIGHT'S SUICIDE.

He Had Said He Would Not Survive Conviction.

Stranger Grasped His Hand on Way out of Court; May Have Passed Him the Poison—Some Facts About the Man's Meteoric Career.

(Copyright by New York World.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Whittaker Wright, recently one of the most powerful figures in the financial world, died tragically today within thirty minutes after he had been sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

The correspondent of the World is informed that Wright died of poisoning, probably by prussic acid taken in a capsule.

The correspondent saw Wright, when disappearing down the stairway in custody after sentence had been imposed, thrust his hand into his coat-pocket, withdrawing it swiftly.

The supervision of the prisoner was perfunctory, and he had full opportunity, if so disposed, to swallow a poison capsule.

When reaching an adjoining chamber Wright was seized with a sudden illness and died in agonizing agony for twenty-eight minutes before he died.

Wright was exceedingly nervous throughout the trial, but tried to assume a confident manner. He said to the World correspondent a week ago:

"No, I will call no witnesses, but will make a full, straightforward statement that will dispose of this charge."

the prosecution. Proceeding to deal with the charges, comprising some sixty counts, the judge asked the jury to find a general verdict of guilty or not guilty. If they were satisfied that Wright was guilty of one or more of these charges they were not to be deterred from finding a verdict of guilty by the suggestion that such a verdict would cast a slur on the memories of Lord Dufferin and Lord.

Dealing with the evidence, Justice Bigham described as singular the way in which thousands of pounds sterling were hoarded up in the London and Globe and the Standard companies were gambling concerns, excited his indignation.

Wright, who had stood up to receive his sentence, said in a firm voice: "All I can say is that I am an innocent of any intention to deceive as any one in this court."

The sentence was followed by a commotion in the distant part of the court, and the faint cry of a woman in distress was heard. A stranger was observed to shake hands with Wright as the prisoner left the court.

A friend pressed forward to offer his condolences. "Oh, never mind," said Wright. "I don't mind a bit" and with a firm step and looking in perfect health the convicted man strode to the consultation room to take farewell of his biologists.

Wright ate a fairly hearty luncheon and said nothing about feeling badly. The general opinion tonight is that while Wright fully deserved the verdict of guilty, the judge's whole conduct of the case was most peculiar and that while none of his co-defendants were punished, Wright alone had to bear the entire punishment.

"I AM LIKE MORGAN AND SCHWAB," HE SAID. "What happened to me might happen any day to the men who stand at the head of any of the great American industrial combinations," said Whittaker Wright to James Creelman, who interviewed him in the prison last March at the time of his arrest in New York.

Wright was confined in Ludlow street jail, Wright told another prisoner that he always carried a deadly poison in the shape of a harmless appearing powder, and that if he were completed on his extradition to Great Britain he would swallow the powder and end his life. The powder, a keeper, and Warden Sullivan searched all Wright's clothes and luggage, but could find no powder.

"If I believed that the powder I was carrying was a deadly poison, I would have taken it with me to America," he said.

was his niece. Later he acknowledged he was J. Whittaker Wright, and said his companion was his stenographer, Miss Florence Brown. Wright's wife, who was an invalid and whose children had been left in London. The arrest was made on a criminal charge in connection with the conduct of the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited. Extradition proceedings resulted in his starting back to England on July 29 on the Oceanic in the custody of two English detectives.

Samuel Untermyer of the firm of Gunzinger, Untermyer & Marshall, who defended Wright in this country and "Mr. Undermyer, who was the attorney for the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Ltd., said last night that he was a victim of the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Ltd., and a good illustration of the difference in the criminal law of Great Britain and the United States."

THE RISE AND FALL OF WHITTAKER WRIGHT. Meteoric in his rise, and meteoric in his fall. Yesterday marshaling millions, and dazling the world of finance and the world of his dizzy height, and ending as the court declared him a criminal.

Such was the career of Whittaker Wright, the promoter of the modern South Sea bubble. His ingenious Corporation—the London and Globe Finance Corporation—less like a bubble than a network of almost diabolic construction.

THE COLLAPSE AND EXPOSURE. In the following year affairs were in a worse state. The corporation had experienced a loss of $800,000 but the balance sheet again showed a value of $2,000,000.

THE GREAT FLOTATION. By 1911 Wright had wormed himself into the confidence of a number of men of high standing in Great Britain. He was regarded as a wealthy, successful, and withal a safe operator in mind.

THE PLOT DEEPENS. Meanwhile other companies were formed to assist the projects of Wright. One of these—shows was the British-American Corporation, which had a capital of $7,500,000. Next the Standard Exploration Company, another Wright venture, was capitalized at the same figure.

FRAUDULENT STATEMENTS. In the first year of its existence the London and Globe Finance Corporation was by its means enabled to gratify the investing public by declaring a dividend of 10 per cent.

ST. JOHN AND HALIFAX. MONCTON GOLD BRICKED.

Hon. A. G. Blair Believes the Quebec-Moncton Section of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Is Only a "Possibility."

(Montreal Star.) Mr. Emmerson, seeking re-election as the new minister of railways, is endeavoring to make the people of New Brunswick believe that the Quebec-Moncton section of the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific railway will not be abandoned by the government.

Mr. Blair, however, has not much faith in the "possibility" under the scheme, "as now proposed." If Mr. Blair's opinion is correct, it means that the winter traffic of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be taken to the Grand Trunk terminals at Portland, in American territory, just as was predicted by the conservatives during last session.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL

The Annual Meeting of the Local Society

Held Saturday Afternoon in the Rooms of the King's Daughters—President's Address—Reading of Reports—Election of Officers.

The St. John Council of Women was in annual session Saturday afternoon at the King's Daughters' Guild. There was a good attendance of ladies.

At the request of the committee appointed by the National Council to investigate the matter, an official visit was paid to the Immigration Department...

The present age has with much reason been called the woman's age. Truly the last fifty years have produced a revolution in the position, responsibilities and opportunities of women...

These associations which have now grown to such vast proportions, and which were barely begun, have been and are full of usefulness.

We always had in this council a strong hope, so far only partially realized, that the younger women would enter upon our work with great energy.

The rapid growth and development Canada brings with it great opportunities and responsibilities for its women. The tide of immigration which leaves on our shores men, women and children of all nationalities and conditions...

The reports of our treasurer and secretary will cover our general work and our financial condition. Since our last annual meeting we have to record the death of an old and valued member of the council, Mrs. Alford.

It is not necessary to touch at any length upon the transaction at the annual meeting of the National Council last year in Toronto. At this late date, and as the year book, containing a full report of the proceedings, is now in your hands, it seems hardly necessary to go over ground effectively covered.

With pleasurable anticipation I have long looked to retirement from the honorable position in which you have been three years ago, the duties of which, I fear, have been but inadequately discharged.

Another Delay in Answering the Japanese Note.

It Will Not Be Forwarded Until Tomorrow and May Be Taken as on the Side of Peace—But?

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Another delay has occurred in framing and forwarding the Russian answer to the latest Japanese note and this will result in further averting the culmination of the crisis.

The official advices received here from St. Petersburg today, although somewhat negative, gave definite details of the status of the note and the programme it was intended to follow.

This new delay is interpreted as slightly improving the situation as it indicates that Russia is making extreme efforts to bring the answer within limits acceptable to Japan.

It is understood that the Empress of Russia, besides being in a delicate condition, has an affection of the ear which may necessitate an operation.

The correspondent of the Morning Post at Chefoo cables that a British vessel and some other engaged in a regular service to Port Arthur had been stopped when about to enter that port.

Under date of January 26 a correspondent of the Daily Express at Kobe sends via Shanghai a statement that the Japanese fleet sailed from Sasebo on Saturday, January 23, for Masampo, Korea, and says that his despatch went through a transmission office.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that officials there have received news that Russian troops are occupying Kiveron, north of the Gulf of Liao Tung.

Measures That Demand Few Men—A Strong Back Slap at the Traditions of the Old Regime.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The report of the royal commission, known as the Lord Esher commission, which was appointed last November for the purpose of devising the government concerning the creation of a chief of the administrative business of the war office, has been issued, and it confirms the change forehanded by the Associated Press on November 28, namely, that the post of commander-in-chief of the army will be abolished.

With the approval of the King, and acting upon the recommendations of the commission, the government has decided to appoint an army commander-in-chief of the army, and to create a new post, that of inspector general, whose principal duty will be to inspect and report on the efficiency of the military forces.

The report is divided into three sections, the first of which relates to the defence committee, the second to the army council, and the third to inspection. It points out the necessity of greater permanence in the defence committee in order to ensure a consistent policy.

It is necessary to make up the committee of a permanent secretary holding office for five years, two naval officers selected by the admiralty, two military officers chosen by the Viceroy of India, and, if possible, other colonial representatives holding office for two years.

With regard to the war office the commission suggests that the secretary of state for war will be placed in the same position as the first lord of the admiralty, directly responsible to the crown and to parliament.

The commission considers the abolition of the post of commander in chief to be imperative, and it urges the divorce of the administrative from the executive department.

MR. EMMERSON AND THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

It is time now for Mr. Emerson to get leave to explain what changes in the Grand Trunk Pacific contract are proposed, or rather what new measure it is proposed to substitute for the old one that has lapsed. Mr. Emerson says that the modifications asked are reasonable and unimportant. That sufficiently indicates his point of view. We do not believe that he knew what the proposed changes were when he made that statement. We doubt whether he has a better idea now than Mr. Blair had when the dealings between Senator Cox, Manager Hays and three ministers were going on behind his back.

That is Mr. Blair's statement. Mr. Emerson heard it read, and knows that the statement is true. He has justified the course of the premier in concealing from his old and experienced minister of railways the negotiations which heads of other departments were carrying on for the most important railway measure of this decade. This treatment of Mr. Blair was of course discourteous to the verge of brutality, but it was also grossly unfair and unjust.

exclusively connected with his department, was in process of secret settlement by the premier, the postmaster general, the minister of the interior, the minister of public works, Senator Cox and Manager Hays.

Does any one believe that Mr. Emerson is a larger man at Ottawa than Mr. Blair was? Then he is greatly mistaken. Mr. Emerson will know that the ministers who are managing this thing think proper to tell him. There is no reason for keeping secret the particulars of this new deal. No obligation of secrecy exists except what the ministers and the contractors impose.

TOO LATE.

President Schurman of Cornell University is a Canadian born, who has coiled in his lot with the United States, not as a teacher and head of a great university only, but as a citizen and a public man.

When Dr. Schurman was a Canadian citizen he was vice president of the Imperial Federation League of Halifax, and a strong advocate of closer trade relations within the Empire.

Mr. Blair and the Grand Trunk Pacific. Mr. Blair was prepared to support the G. T. P. if it terminated in St. John. Of course Mr. Blair was not prepared to do anything of the kind. He condemned the measure on general principles, declaring that it was entirely unworthy of support on any possible grounds.

PROVINCIAL VACANCIES.

The appointment of Mr. Dunn to the collectorship and the candidature of Mr. McKewen will make two vacancies in the provincial legislature. Two others would follow the appointment of members of the legislature to the offices they hold. It is possible, however, that one of these may be avoided by the reappointment of Mr. McKewen, after the election to the position of solicitor general.

The Toronto Globe, which is regarded as the chief organ of the government, says that "the failure of the promoters of the transcantal railway to fulfill the conditions of their agreement leaves the government free to consider the whole situation anew."

THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION.

The unanimous and wonderfully hearty nomination of Dr. J. W. Daniel, with the splendid rally which followed, is a most encouraging and significant opening of the Liberal Conservative campaign in this city. Larger crowds including ladies and young people have been seen in the building, but seldom if ever have so many electors been there together as composed last Monday's gathering.

Does any one believe that Mr. Emerson is a larger man at Ottawa than Mr. Blair was? Then he is greatly mistaken. Mr. Emerson will know that the ministers who are managing this thing think proper to tell him.

THE MONTREAL MAYORALTY. The election of Mr. Laporte as mayor of Montreal closes a decidedly exciting contest. While the successful candidate is the one who was really in the light in a leading conservative and the defeated aspirant a leading liberal, the contest was not run on strict party lines.

DR. J. W. DANIEL THE MAN.

Liberal Conservatives Last Monday, at a Large and Enthusiastic Meeting.

Chose a Former Mayor of St. John and a Gentleman of the Highest Standing in the Community as Their Standard Bearer.

At half-past seven the delegates to the nominating convention gathered in one of the assembly rooms down stairs where the roll was called.

Wellington-Delegates Thos. Kitching, J. D. Hazen, A. W. Macrae, Chas. Nevis, John Campbell, Geo. Shaw, J. T. Hart, S. C. Drury, J. McE. Morrison, John Alexander, Geo. A. Kimball, Dr. M. MacLaren, T. M. Robinson, Dr. W. A. Christie.

After the president had answered to their names the chairman, J. D. Hazen, M. P., announced that they would proceed at once to the selection of a candidate.

The name was received with universal approval, and as no other was proposed, Dr. Daniel was declared unanimously elected.

After some reports from the chairmen of the different wards the party as a whole was organized.

Dr. Daniel had been selected as the candidate for the liberal conservative party was greeted with applause, the audience rising and cheering.

not care whether the bill passed or not.

In referring to E. L. Borden he believed him to be a man of ideas, with ability to express them. He did not advocate one policy in the east, another the west, and a third in the interior.

The chairman then called upon Dr. A. Stockton, who was enthusiastically speaking for the liberal conservative party.

Dr. Daniel then arose to speak, the audience rising, cheered him again and agreed to make the bill their standard.

Dr. Daniel thanked them for their enthusiasm. He assured them that although he had accepted the nomination with a great deal of diffidence, he had not been disappointed.

After the people of St. John had spent $800,000 on harbor improvements, it was natural that they condemn any contract which would take away from them this money.

John Kileen, president of the Ship Laborers' Union, was next called on and made a speech in which he congratulated the party on their success.

Mr. McInerney referred to the elevator which Mr. Blair had built in this city, and the state of uselessness it had been in.

everything would be done to attain that end. (Cheers.) Dr. Daniel was greeted with cheers. He said that everything had been prepared in the liberal ranks for the coming elections.

Resolved, that this meeting of liberal conservatives heartily endorses the programme of imperial work advocated by the Right Honorable Joseph Chamberlain and which has for its basis those principles of devoted loyalty to the British crown and the maintenance of British supremacy which have always been upheld by liberal conservatives.

Dr. J. W. Daniel is a native of St. Stephen and is a son of the late Rev. Henry Daniel, one of the best known and most highly esteemed ministers of the Methodist church.

It is not necessary to say that Dr. Daniel holds high rank in his profession, and that he enjoys in a high degree the confidence of the public and of his professional brethren.

IDA LEWIS.

The Heroine, As She Is Today.

Darling Girl Life-Saver of Lime Rock Light—Rescues by Which She Won the Title of "Grace Darling of America."

It is now nearly 35 years since the world rang with the praises of Ida Lewis, and yet the thrilling stories of her daring rescues in Narragansett Bay are still being told as incidents of great interest.

When Mrs. Lewis saw him at 8 a. m. she had gone to the very top of the spar and the water was already up to his neck and the waves were lashing his face.

Ida Lewis' last rescue, which was the most sensational of them all, gave her the world-wide reputation she has.

It was an incident of March 29, 1869, when the young woman in a bitter cold, with a howling wind and rain, was blown overboard by a gale.

Mr. Lewis made her first rescue in March 1858, when she was but 16. Four young men had put out from Newport in a sailboat on pleasure bent.

The names of the other two young men were also a Philadelphia and DeJours of Newport. A few years later young King, then a lieutenant, gave his life for his country in the employ of the United States.

It was not till February, 1866, that Ida Lewis had another opportunity to save a life.

At its May session, 1869, the legislature of Rhode Island, sitting at Newport, passed a resolution in acknowledgment of the valuable services rendered by Miss Ida Lewis of Newport.

Ida Lewis was her third rescue. The wind was blowing a gale when Ida Lewis made her third rescue.

Moreover, the temperature was much below the freezing point, when three Irishmen, the banker, father of August Belmont, the banker, father of Perry, August and Olive H. P. Belmont, were driving one of the Belmont sheep to pasture one morning in January, 1867.

The sheep became refractory and ran overboard; the three Irishmen, who greatly feared the displeasure of their employer, boarding a skiff to go to its assistance.

They were, though, too many for the little boat, which soon swamped, turning them into the cold water of Narragansett Bay.

But he will recover. HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 31.—Word has been received from the bark Malay at Buenos Ayres, which left Weymouth on October 18th for Rosario, stating that during a squall Myers Rogers fell from aloft and broke his arm, leg and nose. He will recover.
