Advice to Young Married People.

So many weddings have taken place within the last few weeks it makes us feel that a little advice will not be out of the way. Advice is cheap, but then it is good. It is a young couple once, "may all your troubles be little ones," but you could wish you no troubles at all. Don't go into debt. If you do you'll have trouble. Start right in now and pay as you go. Don't be beguiled into buying what you can't pay for on the spot, as many a man cannot sleep at night, worrying over his indebtedness. Goods can be bought cheaper if cash is paid. Credit prices are long prices. Money is hard to get in this country, so make it go as far as you can by buying where you can get the best value for your money, but pay as you go.

HIGGINS TRIAL.

Goodspeed Accused of the Murder.

HIGGINS ON STAND.

Swears That Goodspeed Was the one who Shot Doherty.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 19.—All through the morning session Goodspeed stood under the fierce cross fire of Mr. Mullin's questioning and bore up well. Confused, he involved himself in several serious discrepancies, but each time extricated himself without greatly damaging his credibility. The burden of the questions hurled at him tended to elicit admissions that he knew more of the crime than he had previously acknowledged, and after he had been under the strain that day nearly two hours he was confronted with a fire of questions charging him directly with the commission of the crime. To each of these he gave a hesitating and emphatic negative.

"Didn't you fire the shot?" "Didn't you borrow the pistol?" "Didn't you want to burn the body afterward?" brought a succession of indignantly decisive "No sirs" as the little witness, grasping the sides of the dock, put the whole force of his diminutive body into the reply that hurled back the counsel's imputations.

During it all, though nothing of great importance was detracted from his original testimony, he incidentally removed with his own hands the halo of innocence which sympathizing friends have placed upon his brows. For even admitting his total freedom from the greater crime, he stands convicted by his own admission of several burlesques which have heretofore puzzled the police.

FRANK HIGGINS CALLED.

Then came the afternoon session with its crowded expectancy, and the defence opened its case. Mr. Mullin in eloquent introductory sketched his line of battle and revealed what he had hitherto successfully concealed, that the defence by putting the prisoner on the stand in his own behalf would attempt to fix the burden of the crime upon the boy whose convincing testimony had drawn the suspicion of all to his own chest.

A couple of minors testified to the previous good character of the prisoner and then Frank Higgins himself was called.

The crowd about and within the railing leaned forward with a rustle of expectancy. The prisoner stepped serenely from the dock and walked forward. As he stepped into the dock his face, pale as ever, was serenely confident and betrayed no nervousness. But the arteries in his neck throbbed flutteringly and his hand as he grasped the outstretched Bible, trembled a little. He looked the administrator of the oath straight in the eyes as he kissed the book.

Then he told in carefully selected words, spoken with rapidity that took the stenographers off their feet, of meeting Goodspeed and Doherty in the tanyard Friday, of Goodspeed suggesting that they go out to the park and shoot birds and squirrel, after he had found that Higgins had the revolver with him. The walk out Gilbert's Lane was described exactly as by Goodspeed, and his account of the route through the Park differed but little from the previous testimony.

GOODSPEED CONTRADICTED.

The difference between the two stories began when he told of the three sitting down on a hill about a half mile back of the Park, an occurrence which Goodspeed, in answer to repeated questions, had strenuously denied, insisting that there had been no rest of this kind.

"We went up in the rear of Connell's," he said, and up about one half mile back of the park, where we sat down on the side of a hill. Goodspeed asked me for the loan of the revolver, saying he wanted it to shoot crows out at Black Rock.

I took it out of my pocket and gave it to him. He pointed it at me and at Doherty and asked Doherty:

"What do you think of the things in there?"

"Goodspeed replied, smilingly, sure, my father didn't eat things."

DOHERTY HAD THE REVOLVER.

Then Doherty took the cartridges out of the revolver and pointed it at Goodspeed and pulled the trigger. Then he gave it to Goodspeed again and Goodspeed put it in his pocket. Then we started back toward the back of the park.

I felt Goodspeed and Doherty and told them to wait for me at Lord's Lane.

CRY FOR HELP.

Then I went into the bushes and had been there only a few minutes when I heard four or five shots and heard Doherty cry "Help, Higgins help!"

Then I went out from the bushes and ran as fast as I could to the scene. I saw Goodspeed standing with the revolver in his hand. Willie Doherty was on his back on the ground with his chest heaving up and down.

GOODSPEED'S SHOTS.

I asked Goodspeed if he did fire the shots and he said yes.

I ask him how and he said "Doherty asked him for the revolver and I refused to give it to him. Doherty tried to take it and I pulled it at him not intending to shoot, and he turned and ran away to get a rock to throw at me and I fired at him as he was running."

I went to Doherty and spoke to him but got no answer. His chest and stomach had stopped moving. I told Goodspeed I thought he was dead.

GOODSPEED FROZEN.

Goodspeed said: "Take your damned revolver. If you had kept it this wouldn't have happened."

I wouldn't touch it and told him he could keep it now. Then Goodspeed ran with the revolver in his right hand and left with his left hand down inside Doherty's shirt and said:

I'LL BE HUNG FOR THIS.

"My God, he's dead, and I'll be hung for this."

Then he raised his right hand and brought the revolver down on Doherty's head several times. I caught hold of him in my arms and held him till he was quiet again.

Then he turned and said look here Higgins, if you tell on me I'll swear to God you shot, him and as it was your revolver they'll believe me."

I was scared and I said I wouldn't tell. Goodspeed put the revolver in his pocket and asked if I'd help bury the body and I said yes.

ROCK ON THE DEAD FACE.

Then he picked up two big stones and pegged them one after the other on Willie's head. I told him to stop, and then I helped to get sticks and brush and long grass to cover him up.

I picked up a piece of paper and hung it on a tree near the body so that it might be discovered. Then we came to town, down Lover's Lane, out Gilbert's Lane to the I. C. R. track, across the Marsh Bridge and along Erin Street. Here Goodspeed offered me the revolver again and I told him I wouldn't take it, that he could keep it now. He said he would chuck it in the Marsh Creek, and I said all right."

THREW REVOLVER IN CREEK.

Goodspeed asked me to walk to the creek with him and we went to Sandy Bank and down to the edge of the water, where he checked the revolver in. We both came up along Eldon Street, in along the track to the foot of Brunswick street, then up to Clarence street, where I left him and went home. He went on up the track.

TO SET DOHERTY ON FIRE.

After supper I saw Goodspeed about 7.30 coming down Union Alley, and he asked me to go out and set Doherty on fire.

I said I wouldn't, and he asked me to come on out to the Park anyhow. I said I would but that I wouldn't go near Doherty. We went out Waterloo street and Gilbert's Lane to the Park, going by the refreshment house and out Lover's Lane. I waited in the lane till Goodspeed went out to see the body, and came back and said it was all right. Then we went back to town by Gilbert's Lane and Brunswick street to the graveyard about nine o'clock. John Goodspeed and Will Kelly joined us about 9.30.

Continuing, Higgins told in minute details of his actions every day until he was arrested, mentioning that on the Monday the body was found and Goodspeed had again gone out to the park and Goodspeed had another look at Doherty.

It was 3.15 when he took the stand and he remained there until six o'clock. The last hour and a half he was subjected to a searching cross examination by Mr. McKeown, but in every respect he adhered to his original story, varying not even a word. The cross-examination will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

AT THE MORNING SESSION.

When Frank Higgins walked carelessly into the court this morning the room was already filled by the crowd who were prepared for a session of more than usual interest.

The opening formalities over, the cross-examination of Fred Goodspeed was resumed. He swore positively that neither Mr. Morril nor anybody else had been talking to him since he gave evidence the day before.

Questioned regarding his evidence of the preceding day witness said he remembered being out to the park the morning of the Monday that the body was found. He did not remember of being in the refreshment house. He said he was there with Frank about five weeks before that. He acknowledged that he had told the coroner he had never been there, and he was alone with the coroner at the time.

DIDN'T SAY "BURN THE BODY."

The night after the murder I went to the tanyard and met Frank Higgins. We went right up to the graveyard.

Didn't you go out to the park?

No, sir.

Didn't you say to Frank Higgins, Let's go out and set fire to Willie Doherty's body and burn it up?

No, sir. I did not. I'll swear I did not.

Will you swear you didn't go to the park that night and return to the graveyard about nine o'clock?

No, sir. We were at the graveyard long before that. When we left the tanyard there were several boys there. There were Willie Mackin, Willie Short, Walter Brown, and BIG GAME.

Over Thirty Parties on the Miramichi.

GUIDE'S BUSY.

Trophies Commencing to Arrive in Town. All Delighted with Sport.

Twenty teams, loaded with provisions, with rifles sticking out from under seats and well dressed hunters conversing at the hotel is an every day scene in Newcastle at this season of the year, but never before have they been as prominent as this year and the livery stables have been taxed to supply teams and heavy wagons to transport sportsmen to the banks of the river.

Chief Game Commissioner Robinson has handed us the following list of parties who are at present in the Miramichi woods.

Messrs. Edwin Holmes and Edwin P. Holmes of Brookline, Mass., are in the Bald Mountain District with Arthur and David Pringle, guides.

H. A. Pitman and W. B. Long of Boston, Mass., are at North Pole, L. S. W., with Hiram and Duncan Manderville, guides, and E. Mullin, cook.

W. H. Goodwin and N. C. Nash of Boston, Mass., are in the Bald Mountain District with Sydney Thomas and Wm Pringle, guides.

Dr. A. G. and John C. Carster of New York, are on the North Branch of the L. S. W., with Edward and Robert White, guides, and A. Matchett, cook.

Fred Talcott of Providence, R. I., is at Day Brook, Southwest, with Ernest Lyons of Doaktown, guide.

A. C. Meisel of New York, is on the Little Seveque with Charles White, guide.

C. C. Curtis of New York is on Cain's River with Hazen Lyons as guide.

Frank B. McDonald and Jos. H. Williams are on the Duganovon, with Jas. Manderville Sr., and J. B. McDonald, guides, and Albert Astles, cook.

Wm Ely Jr., and Alice Clute Ely, are on the Sabbin River, with Ben and J. A. Warren, guides.

Geo. E. Brigham and R. A. Thomson of North Adams, Mass., are at Tannockoppa River with Geo. and Wm A. McKay guides and James Cain, cook.

E. W. Gainsay of New York was at Bay du Vin Lake with Donald Fraser and got a splendid head. This was the first moose shot in this county after the season opened and guide Fraser is to be congratulated on his success. Patrick O'Donnell was cook.

Richard B. Ware and Thos. Talcott of Boston, are at McKeenrick lakes, Renou, with David and Howard Manderville, guides, and T. Cochran, cook.

W. A. Crawford of New York and R. H. Armstrong of Newcastle are at Catamaran Lake, L. S. W., with Sandy Johnson as guide.

S. O. Stanley of Lawrence, Mass., is on Little South Branch, Renou, with Norris Manderville guide and Jerry. Strling, cook.

Wm K. Holmes and Clifford Gates of New York, have gone to Bacabogues with John Connell, sr., as guide.

Lumbert Suydon and Geo. B. North of New York, are on Cains River with Cippus Bartlett and Frank Russell, guides.

Among the above will be found many names which are familiar to our readers, as they have been hunting here for a number of years, but there are several new names. This goes to prove that the Miramichi has attractions which bring former hunters back to its banks and they in turn bring others to share their sport.

UNKNOWN WOMAN KILLED.

ST. HYACINTH, Sept. 22.—An unknown woman walking on the railway track near St. Roch's Saturday evening was struck by the Intercolonial train and instantly killed. From papers found on her person it is believed her name was Dolores. No name attached to the trainmen.

A fellow named Doherty that lives on Beauvoir street and a boy named Fleberry. I went to the tanyard about a quarter past seven. Higgins came along about five minutes afterwards, then Walter Brown, Willie Fleberry and the others. They came about half past seven, after they camp. Sir Wilfrid White in Paris Is Interviewed By Le Journal. The Views of Canadian Premier as Set Forth by a Parisian Journalist.

The following is a full translation of the interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier published in Le Journal of Paris portions of which were cabled across at the time it appeared:—

FUTURE OF FRENCH CANADA

"Have the French settlers in Canada no other prospect than to become British citizens?" asked the interviewer of Sir Wilfrid being seated close by at the time.

"In Canada," he replied, "we are all Canadians. We are a bilingual nation, like the Swiss; English and French are the official languages. A Frenchman settling in Canada will find himself among French-Canadians. He continues to speak French if he wants, and to profess whatever religion he likes! He is free and unfettered."

"But why do you ask this question? Your people do not emigrate. France is such a beautiful country that Frenchmen prefer to remain in it. It is true that we receive a few hundred French emigrants every year, but what they are in comparison with the great Anglo-Saxon onflow? Thousands of settlers from the British Isles come in every year and Americans also are beginning to cross over the borders in large numbers. The Yankees realize that Canada is an immensely rich country. They find that the climate is not too rigorous, that our laws are as good as theirs—perhaps better, that justice is more speedily executed, and that the security of the subject is absolute."

A GIGANTIC CRUCIBLE.

"But," said the interviewer (recalling what had often been told him), "French immigration is not desired by the French-Canadians?" Sir Wilfrid Laurier heard the question, and replying to it himself said:

"Like the United States, Canada is a gigantic crucible. We harbor people of all races and creeds—Anglo-Saxons, Germans, Scandinavians, French, Latin, Slaves. Anybody is welcome who will respect the laws of the land."

CHANCE FOR AGRICULTURISTS.

"What class of people," the interviewer asked, "have the greatest chance of success in Canada?"

"Agriculturists undoubtedly. Strong, industrious, hardworking peasants possessing a capital of $200 at least have great chance of succeeding."

WE SHOULD DISAPPEAR.

"Why does not Canada incorporate itself with the United States? It seems to me that the French-Canadians would be in a much better position then."

"We should disappear," Sir Wilfrid's quick reply. "The French Canadian could be swallowed up in that gigantic furnace (fournaise). All who desire the French language to take root on the American continent ought to wish us to remain forever Canadians."

"In that case the permanency of the French language is assured in Canada?"

"That is a problem for the future in the affirmative. On the other hand, persons ignorant of our situation believe that French will disappear in Canada as it disappeared in Louisiana. Nothing at present points to such a change. French-Canada—the Province of Quebec—seems enclosed in the Dominion as in an intangible block, unmixed with any foreign element."

FRANCO-CANADIAN TRADE RELATIONS.

Speaking once more to Sir Wilfrid's friend, the interviewer asked him whether the Canadian Premier's journey to Paris would not result in increased commerce between France and the Dominion?

"Sir Wilfrid hopes so," was the reply. "But he is a little discouraged by previous fruitless efforts. The great drawback is that there is no direct line between France and Canada. We have several times given an annual subsidy of £10,000 to companies which, either through bad organization or lack of perseverance, have had only an ephemeral existence. As a matter of fact the commercial relations between the two countries are governed by the Convention of February 6th, 1883, signed by Lord Dufferin, M. Develle, Sir Charles Tupper, and Mr. Jules Siegfried."

Some negotiations have already taken place by M. Develle and Sir Wilfrid Laurier through the intermediary of the French consul at Montreal. These negotiations Sir Wilfrid will continue himself in Paris. He is anxious to bring about an agreement somewhat on the following lines: Canada would treat France much in the same way as she treats England. She would consent to a reduction of 15 per cent in her tariff upon French products. In return, Canadian products would enter France under the minimum tariff. As such an arrangement would be useless without a direct line between the two countries, France and Canada would each undertake to subsidize it annually to the extent of £20,000.

A mutual agreement passed upon community of interests would be the most durable of links between old and new France.

CANADA AND THE TRUSTS.

Have not the American trusts threatened to swamp Canada financially and gain possession of our great Pacific Railway? another Canadian was asked.

"These are pure tales," he replied. "Myself, I have no fear of the trusts. Obviously it is always possible for a group of financiers to get control of an individual company, but it is still easier for the Canadian Government by simple administrative measures to modify the position of the Canadian Pacific Railway."

Generally speaking, intervened Sir Wilfrid, I do not consider trusts as a scourge, but rather as an inevitable result of intense industrial organization. There can be good and bad trusts, but only the good ones can endure. Why, for example, do people continually complain of the Standard Oil trust when it has always kept down the price of petroleum? Our speech seems to be dominated by a sort of law—that of gigantic combinations vast syndicates and rings (unifications).

SIR WILFRID AND FRESH GOVERNMENT.

What do you think, Sir Wilfrid of the social and political life of France?

Now you ask too much of me. Even in this private chat I hesitate to answer the question. It seems to me that, all things considered, the Republic is still the form of Government that suits you best. Ah! to be sure. I agree with Renan—the ideal form of government would be that of a liberal tyrant. But there is merely an epigram. Where is the liberal tyrant to be found humane, compassionate, mindful only of the welfare of his people? I may tell you that I am a great admirer of France and that I desire nothing so much as to see it glorious and prosperous.

AN ANGLO-FRENCH ALLIANCE

"What do you think of our foreign relations?"

"It is my opinion that universal peace would be assured, for years by an Anglo-French alliance. I can see no serious obstacle to a rapprochement between the two countries. Is not England your most important customer?"

NEW WORLD OR OLD?

"One more question," remarked the interviewer. "In your opinion, is it better for a young man without a fortune, but intelligent and industrious, to be born in the New World or in the Old?"

"There need be no discussion about that," broke in Sir Wilfrid. "In the New World, whether in Canada or the United States, a young man endowed with a fair amount of brains will find the fullest employment for his faculties and sufficient remuneration for his talents. In Canada patriotism is almost unknown, whilst in England it is frightful. Moreover, in the Old World you live with a perpetual menace of war. Across the ocean we never even think of it. We do not want to think of it. For myself, as well as for my compatriots, I think Heaven for having been born on Canadian soil."

POOR COPY

Some of Events gathered by ADVOCATE Reporters

Legislature and the other of new or old men. We understand the old members as formerly, are out and out-keepers of Mr. Tweedie and his administration, while the new ticket will support Mr. Tweedie if no straight Liberal Administration in New Brunswick, and if Mr. Hazen and his colleagues come into power they will be in opposition. This ticket is composed of Messrs. Curran, Boudreau, Morais, two men from the end of the county and one from Carleton. It is known particularly as the Turgeon Ticket.

Gloucester is a peculiar county in many ways and it is yet too early to attempt a forecast of the result of the struggle, but the old members have so far given good satisfaction and excellent service, and the people will think carefully before making a change.

Business in Bathurst is very good this autumn, the good crops and excellent fishing in the lower end of the county making money fairly plentiful, and we understand there is less grumbling than usual among our merchants. The large lumber firms are getting started at their winter operations, in fact, several teams are at work already, and it is thought if prices hold up as well as they have all summer that the cut of logs will be larger than last year.

Mr. John Robertson will again operate the Carquet mill next year and is already getting his teams to work for a good winter's operation in the woods. We hear of several new rotary mills being imported to work principally on ground land, and are glad to learn this. If the people about the North Shore knew how these mills are made to pay in the southern part of the province and in Nova Scotia, where the logs are so small and few, they would consider they had a fortune on the backs of every farm in Gloucester.

Mr. Wm J. Kent, our popular merchant, is away from home on a well-earned vacation, and his partner, Mr. Allan Pearson is conducting their large business in Mr. Kent's absence.

We regret to have to chronicle that our much respected Magistrate John E. O'Brien, Esquire is laid up at his home owing to a serious accident which was caused by a bolt belonging to the Squire, whether in a playful manner or not is not known, knocking him down and breaking his collar bone. Mr. O'Brien though a man of mature years retains his love of a good horse and always has one or more young ones.

Mr. W. A. Mott of Campbellton was in town on Saturday attending to some probate matters. We understand that Mr. Mott has cut himself loose from his former colleagues and will not support Mr. Tweedie's administration at the approaching election. Mr. Mott's principal grievance is that Mr. Tweedie refused to cancel leases of the Muskoka Lumber Co., a syndicate which several years ago leased a large tract of land on the Baginouch and branches from the Government. Mr. Mott claims that the Muskoka people had no mill and did not comply with the terms of their lease, which required them either to cut or pay for at least ten thousand superficial feet of lumber annually, and that they were merely holding the lands by paying the rent, for speculative purposes in proof of which they have lately sold out their licenses to another syndicate for a very large sum of money. Mr. Mott protested against the transfer of the licenses, but Mr. Tweedie, we understand, considered if he refused the Muskoka people the right to transfer, he would be doing something which might make the lumbermen all over the Province consider that leases were insecure, consequently having the courage of his convictions, he preferred losing Mr. Mott to interfering with the rights of the Muskoka Lumber Co.

In our notes of next week we propose giving the public some information regarding the fishing and hunting in Gloucester. At the present time there are several parties hunting on the head waters of the Nepisiquit, and we hear with great success.

On, Yes! There is going to be an election this fall, and how the people of Northern New Brunswick do love an election! At the first blast of the trumpet you can see them, like King Henry's young men at Harlequin, "Land the eye a terrible aspect" and men go around handling assessment rolls, and lists of voters, with an air of mystery.

By even telegraph pole or horse back, you may see two or three prophets waving their arms, and in animated accents proclaiming their convictions. We learn there are already two tickets in the field, one composed of the present members of the Legislature and the other of new or old men. We understand the old members as formerly, are out and out-keepers of Mr. Tweedie and his administration, while the new ticket will support Mr. Tweedie if no straight Liberal Administration in New Brunswick, and if Mr. Hazen and his colleagues come into power they will be in opposition. This ticket is composed of Messrs. Curran, Boudreau, Morais, two men from the end of the county and one from Carleton. It is known particularly as the Turgeon Ticket.

Gloucester is a peculiar county in many ways and it is yet too early to attempt a forecast of the result of the struggle, but the old members have so far given good satisfaction and excellent service, and the people will think carefully before making a change.

Business in Bathurst is very good this autumn, the good crops and excellent fishing in the lower end of the county making money fairly plentiful, and we understand there is less grumbling than usual among our merchants. The large lumber firms are getting started at their winter operations, in fact, several teams are at work already, and it is thought if prices hold up as well as they have all summer that the cut of logs will be larger than last year.

Mr. John Robertson will again operate the Carquet mill next year and is already getting his teams to work for a good winter's operation in the woods. We hear of several new rotary mills being imported to work principally on ground land, and are glad to learn this. If the people about the North Shore knew how these mills are made to pay in the southern part of the province and in Nova Scotia, where the logs are so small and few, they would consider they had a fortune on the backs of every farm in Gloucester.

Mr. Wm J. Kent, our popular merchant, is away from home on a well-earned vacation, and his partner, Mr. Allan Pearson is conducting their large business in Mr. Kent's absence.

We regret to have to chronicle that our much respected Magistrate John E. O'Brien, Esquire is laid up at his home owing to a serious accident which was caused by a bolt belonging to the Squire, whether in a playful manner or not is not known, knocking him down and breaking his collar bone. Mr. O'Brien though a man of mature years retains his love of a good horse and always has one or more young ones.

GRANDANSE.

Daniel Murphy of Black Rock and Miss Mary Whelton of Pokeshaw were married in the R. C. church here Sunday afternoon. After the ceremony the party drove to their future home in Black Rock where a pleasant evening was spent by residents of Black Rock and relatives of Waterloo and Pokeshaw. The party returning to their respective homes about 12 o'clock well pleased with their evening's enjoyment.

Kate Coughlan was visiting her cousins in Waterloo Monday. James Madden and Nora Whelton are to be married next Sunday. Other weddings are spoken of in the near future.

J. W. Dumas contractor of the building of the Grand Anse breakwater has the block nearly completed. Mr. Dumas had many difficulties to contend with in the commencement but he has overcome all difficulties and has the work nearly completed with the exception of the dredging of the harbor which I understand will not be undertaken before winter or next spring. It is hoped said breakwater will shortly be extended another hundred feet or more towards the shore and made to serve the double purposes of breakwater and wharf. In fact it will be of no practical benefit more than a shelter for small boats until this is done and it is too bad so much money is already spent, not to have the work completed. I know there is the scarcity of water, but after the harbor is dredged I believe fair sized craft could load or unload at the wharf if freight could be hauled on and off breakwater by team. I was a little surprised the other morning to see a fair sized schooner bound for Stonehaven to load grindstone sail into Grand Anse harbor and a soon as they discovered they made a mistake, hoisted anchor and sailed away without getting into any trouble and when the harbor is dredged there will be much more water.

P. H. Melvin of C. Railway was the guest of friends here this week. Mr. Melvin recently returned from P. E. I. where he spent some days purchasing horses for Adams, Burns & Co. Mr. Melvin thinks the Island the granary of Canada. Crops good, farmers all seem prosperous.

The Misses McKenna of Bathurst stayed at Grand Anse hotel Thursday night on their way from Tracadie, Mizonette and other places. They say they had a fine cruise.

Lizzie Sullivan, Waterloo, entertained a number of her friends Thursday evening. Among the number were N. Baldwin, J. Nixon, Mand Salter, M. Murphy and M. Coughlan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sullivan's home has been gladdened by the arrival of a daughter.

I met a few of the boys at Therault hotel on Monday evening: some of them were Jos. Sullivan, N. Baldwin, F. J. Cousens, A. Holmer, H. Salter.

John O'Neill was here Monday hiring men and horses for the Tracadie Lumber Co. He got the largest part of one crew here. He will be wanting two more camp crews in a few days. There have been several parties from Bathurst and Campbellton here lately also looking for men for the lumber woods. Men seem scarce, many are going to the States.

Frank Coughlan, Dan O'Neill and Jos. Sullivan were here on Thursday.

With the exception of Wednesday's rain storm we have had fine harvest weather for some time and the harvest will be much earlier than was expected a month ago.

Rev. S. J. Donnet is preparing a large class of boys and girls for confirmation which is to take place the latter part of this month.

P. J. Foley Esq. drove to Pokemouche Friday returning Saturday. The blue-berry season is nearly over. Not near the quantity of berries picked here or vicinity as there were last year. One reason is, the barrens were all so wet. W. S. Luggie & Co. were the only canners they caused at Pokeshaw.

Maud Salter, clerk for W. S. Luggie, Blue Cove, and James Nixon, manager for Hoeg & Co., Mizonette drove through here Monday. Mabel Knowles, the popular telegraph agent, Stonehaven, visited friends here recently.

Mr. B. Murphy of Pokeshaw passes through here on his way to Waterloo often. So we to be an attraction there. Missie Sink spent some days in Bathurst lately.—Events.

BISHOP ROGERS VALEDICTORY CIRCULAR LETTER.

The expected kind acceptance by our Holy Father the Pope of my resignation of the Administration of the Diocese reached me on the evening of the 7th inst., and thus the Coadjutor Rt. Rev. Bishop Barry by virtue of the tenor of his appointment, enters into the right of succession and is now Bishop of Chatham.

In communicating the official document relating to the same, I gladly avail myself of the occasion which this gives me to address a few valedictory words of paternal greeting to the flock over whom a new venerable pastor is now to rule but which flock for the past forty-two years has been the object of my solicitude as well as my consolation and joy.

The sacred bonds of mutual affectionate relationship between pastor and people can not be severed suddenly without a pang; and it is to ease and soothe this painful separation that a few words of valedictory farewell—on the part of the pastor becomes useful if not necessary.

The family relationship—the union of husband and wife—gives birth to children and this mutual love between father and mother, parent and children, is the most strong and lasting in the natural order. But the supernatural transcends the natural, and the same Heavenly Father who gives the parent love the instinct to live knowledge, and so on, to provide nest and food for their young, in the natural order, gives the needed spiritual light and grace which animate and lead in natural love, officially, pastor and flock—priest and people. Many often wonder at the strong manifestations of love and respect which Catholic people in every land entertain for their clergy. But a little reflection on the work and words of God in connection with the institution of their church, and the appointment and ordering of her ministers will make this easily understood.

The greatest benediction God can give to any people is to give them good faithful priests, wise and enlightened guides and rulers; and such has been the favor which the people of this diocese have been enjoying, and hence the intense mutual love and esteem existing between clergy and people. I feel it is a sacred duty of justice and truth to testify that I always admired the spirit of true Catholic piety existing among the flock of this diocese; the people upright, intelligent, humble, charitable—wishing to do to others as they would wish others to do toward them. "Give the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."—Yes in this love for their clergy was especially emphasized their love for the chief pastor, our Holy Father the Pope. And here let me express gratitude and felicitations to all, not only the members of my own flock, but to all my fellow-citizens of whatever creed and nationality, from whom I received kindness and good will; may God bless them and ever have them in His Holy keeping. I wish also to express congratulations for the devoted pastor now happily succeeding me in the flock from which I am permitted to withdraw. As one of the native priests of the diocese, he was a model always successful in every position in which he exercised his ministry, and beloved alike by both the good Acadian French people as by the others whose tongue is English. May this holy union and love always endure. In conclusion, Dearly Beloved, although it is some few days since my resignation was kindly accepted, and I was thus relieved of the administration by our Holy Father yet I have preferred to await this date to address to you my last words of farewell on the anniversary of my first address on that occasion of my installation—the 22nd, Aug. 1860, may God make us worthy and grateful.

Dogs, Cows and the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mr. Editor, A society for the prevention of cruelty to animals was a few years ago established in our town. Meetings were held from time to time for the discussion of subjects affecting its welfare. I presume the society still exists, theoretically, at least.

But the bicycle having, to some extent, replaced the horse, the gentlemen composing the Association appear to think that "cruelty to animals" is a thing of the past. The horse, however, is not the only animal demanding protection. A certain number of dogs appear to have established a "club"—a canine club, not to prevent cruelty to animals, but to harass them in every conceivable way. The members of this new club understand the business thoroughly. They have their leaders as a matter of course. They issue forth, night after night, attack cattle with a fury of wolves. Commencing on the fields adjacent to the Douglastown high-road, these dogs, a half-dozen in number, move upwards toward the railroad track, cross it, pass on to the cattle on every field until they have reached the Chaplin Island Cross-roads, attacking them in the vicinity, does immense injury to cows, especially milk-cows.

Your correspondent, Mr. Editor, with others have been all this summer, nighting for relief. The leader of this extraordinary club was some eight or nine weeks ago, shot dead on "the field of battle." Mourning among the members was demanded by the rules of club etiquette—or, mayhap, the members were stricken with temporary paralysis—the result being temporary relief.

But the "society" has been bought together again; its members forgetting the loss of their chief, or having one in its stead, have resumed operations on a larger scale than ever, and with renewed activity. They were on the rounds this morning at 2 o'clock Cows bellowing ran in every direction. The dogs enjoyed the sport immensely.

Mr. Editor, is there no relief from this? Can our civic authorities, if the humane society be no longer in existence, do nothing for the protection of cattle within the town limits? What are dogs for? Are they intended as a source of annoyance to the public, a continual and threatening nuisance?

Your correspondent volunteers to give two dollars for each and every dog caught in the act of worrying cattle, conditions being that it be brought dead and shot by the bearer in flagrant delicto. Here is a chance for making money. Six can be shot in five minutes. Times will be getting a little dull in the immediate future. A good shot will be of some value.

Your Correspondent,
Newcastle, Sept., 23, 1902.

The following letter is self explanatory.
Mr. Wm. Murray, Sec., Mechanics' Institute, Newcastle, N. B.

Dear Sir,
Principal McKenzie of Harkins' Academy, of this town informed me to day, that he received from you the sixty-four "Bound Books" and several Magazines, generously donated to the school library by members of the Mechanics' Institute and for which the Board of School Trustees ordered a vote of thanks to be recorded in the minutes of their last meeting held on the eight inst.

Thanking you very much for bringing the books to Library of Harkins Academy, and seeing them safely deposited there.
I remain,
Sincerely yours,

CHASED BY A MOOSE.

A Railroad Employee and his Wife had an Exciting Ride.

Last week while Mr. Victor Fornier and his wife were proceeding on a railroad trolley between here and Hartington they observed a large bull moose near the track but thought nothing of it until quite near, when the moose instead of being frightened seemed to react their intrusion on his quiet repast and proceeded to show his displeasure by shaking his massive horns in a threatening way and walked towards the track. The occupants of the trolley became alarmed and exerted their utmost efforts to get up speed and dashed past the monster when he was quite close but his majesty also worked up speed and made a lively run and but for the fact that Mr. Fornier had a slight down grade, would have speedily overtaken the trolley. As it was he kept up the chase for a mile or more when he fell out. Mr. and Mrs. Fornier regard their escape as a lucky one.

OBITUARY.

Francis Amelia Clouston, born March, 29th 1877, departed this life Sept. 16th, 1902, after a painful illness of over twelve months, born with exemplary christian fortitude and patience. Strong hopes were entertained of her ultimate recovery. He who is the disposer of life and death willed otherwise. With the expectation of obtaining relief she was taken to the hospital in St. John last Monday morning for an operation. After arriving there it was found that she was too weak for any operation and she was made as comfortable as possible. On the following day the vital shock left her, and her sorrowing mother brought the remains home in the evening express, where after a short service in the house on Thursday by Revs. Bayles and Cuthbert all that was mortal of Amelia was interred in the graveyard of St. Peter's Church, Derby, there to await the final remuneration at the last day. Rev. Cuthbert and D. Bayles also read the burial service in the church and at the grave. The funeral was largely attended.

THE BIRMINGHAM DISASTER.

Fifty Dead Bodies Identified.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 20.—The various undertaking establishments were crowded this morning with hundreds of persons, mostly delegates to the National Negro Baptist convention, searching for missing friends and relatives who might have been killed in last night's stampede at the Shiloh Baptist colored church, which grew out of a panic caused by a fight and a cry of "fire" while Booker T. Washington was addressing the convention. Up to 9 o'clock about fifty bodies had been identified, the greater number of them being those of local residents who were visitors to the convention. In front of each undertaking establishment where the corpses lie is a squad of policemen, keeping back the surging throng. Every effort is being made to identify those bodies which have not yet been claimed. Those who have missing friends and relatives have been requested to make a round of the undertaking establishments and also to make known through the newspapers the names of the missing. The fact that delegates to the convention were here from all parts of the country, many of them being strangers, renders the work of identification somewhat slow.

DAWSON—MAHONEY.

A very interesting event took place at St. Bridget's church, Tuesday, Sept. 9, when Miss Cecilia Mahoney of Grandfield was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Thomas A. Dawson of Upper Nelson. The Rev. Fr. Murdoch was the officiating clergyman. The bride looked charming in an elegant costume of pearl gray broadcloth with large white picture hat and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her cousin Miss Gertrude Dunn daintily gowned in green, with white hat and bouquet of sweet peas. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's father where a sumptuous repast and a large number of invited friends awaited them. A very enjoyable evening was passed and all united in wishing the young couple a happy and prosperous journey through life. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & CO. Gentlemen,—In June '98 I had my hand and wrist bitten and mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal, until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using, and the effect was magical. In five hours the pain had ceased, and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Well,—I hardly know, stammered Saunders. You see, I am the only member of the family.

Do you drink coffee, asked the doctor of an aged patient. Yes, was the reply. Coffee, continued the M. D., is a slow poison.

Yes, very slow, replied the old man; I have taken it daily for nearly eighty years.

FELL EXHAUSTED AND UNCONSCIOUS. Mr. R. W. Edwards, 33 McMurray St., Bradford, Ont., suffered for five years with nervous exhaustion, headache and dyspepsia. "The pains in the head would almost drive me crazy, I could not sleep nights but would walk the floor in agony until I fell exhausted and unconscious. For the past nine months I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and from a mere skeleton this medicine has built me up in flesh and weight until I am strong and well." It would be scarcely possible to produce stronger evidence of the wonderful power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

FERROZONE

A TONIC--LAXATIVE WHICH CURES CONSTIPATION AND A HOST OF OTHER DISEASES MORE OR LESS COMMON.

The entire length of the intestinal canal can be gently and thoroughly cleansed of all foul decaying matter, by taking Ferrozone after each meal.

Ferrozone helps the kidneys and liver to do their work, and by preventing the poisons of the skin from being clogged up, it clears and beautifies the complexion. Ferrozone relieves irritation and pressure on the brain and nerve centres, and insures a healthy vigorous condition of mind and body.

The great merit of Ferrozone is that it instantly relieves constipation, and permanently cures it without interfering with business or pleasure, and never causes inconvenience or distress. It keeps all the bodily functions regular, and is the only medicine for constipation that acts gently, effects quickly, acts surely, without griping or grippes.

Ferrozone will keep the entire family in perfect health. It regulates the bowels, cures headache and stomach troubles, and effectually cleanses the blood from all impurities. It builds up muscle and sinews, strengthens debilitated constitutions, and permanently remedies all manner of skin blemishes.

Ferrozone is especially efficacious in cases of over-work, headache, brain fog, torpid liver, weak memory, and melancholia. It relieves that "tired feeling," and puts elasticity into every movement. Ferrozone gives strength to the respiratory organs, and for the relief of nervous prostration, nervous debility, or decline of mental or physical power, is certainly superior to any curative agent the world has ever seen.

The range of adaptability of Ferrozone is simply wonderful. It is entirely vegetable in composition, and quite free from any possibility of injurious effect even under long continued use. It is after each meal. Buy a box from your druggist for 50c. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Sold by A. E. Shaw.

THE POLICEMAN'S EVIDENCE. Policeman Peter Morris, Toronto, says that for years he was troubled with habitual constipation, and though he spent much money for medicine, was only disappointed with the results. He now recommends Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to his friends, and cured him of his troublesome ailment. You can be cured of constipation by this treatment. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Mother, said Hardy Higgins Mr. Trivitt sent his little boy on an errand to get a hundred things and I didn't forget one.

That's the right kind of a boy to have, replied Mrs. Higgins. I wish you were like him, because you always forget one or two.

But I could remember all the things Mr. Trivitt told Jimmy to get.

What were they? A hundred postage stamps.

Nerveine is highly recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, and Toothache. Better try a 25c. bottle, it's all right.

A Prominent Clergyman Says,

"Paine's Celery Compound Purifies the Blood and Revives the System."

No Other Medicine in the World Has Ever Achieved Such Wonderful Victories Over Disease and Suffering.

Paine's Celery Compound has wrought marvellous cures for suffering men and women in every section of the Dominion. It has the endorsement of the best men and women in Canada, because they have found the great remedy to be exactly what was claimed for it. Scores of prominent clergymen have gratefully written in its praise, and recommended it when they have opportunity. Rev. J. D. Leishman, of Angus, Ont., gives his own personal experience as follows:

"I have always found Paine's Celery Compound an excellent tonic, and have frequently recommended it to persons suffering from nervous debility and sleeplessness. I believe it to be a most powerful medicine. It also purifies the blood and revives the system. Give it a fair trial and it will in these cases be found helpful."

There is being exercised in the 20th Century, more talent on the art of advertising than on English literature. The business world to-day is in a whirl of advertising, its feature is the recognized important nine-pin of every energetic enterprise.

Advertising, with practically nothing to back it has made some men millionaires, while others have made a miserable failure of capital and a good article. Advertising like every thing else won't run itself but to the man who makes of it a means to success, he invariably recognizes it as a most important factor of his business, that which supplements honest dealing in continued good favor with the surrounding community.

The times have changed; the question is no longer, shall I advertise, but how best can I advertise, what way can I best, with printer's ink, attract the attention of people. It used to be that people hated advertisements in papers especially in local papers, since in this they didn't think they were getting their dollar out of the paper, but to day they realize that it is decidedly to their advantage to pursue the advertising columns, in fact it is through such a clerk they do their buying. Years ago a professional man would be considered almost guilty of high treason, by his fellow-men in the local press that he existed officially, but now it is no longer considered a sin but on the contrary adds a dignity to the character of his business, besides the convenience of letting all know of his office location and generally speaking, what are the office hours.

The never failing principle underlies advertising, that if you want to deal with people, you have to go to them and not wait for them to come to you. The merchant may hang a pair of Jumpers outside his shop, (this may help a sale) but they may dangle there faded by the sun and tattered by the wind, but noticed only by frightened horses and the few passers-by whose minds are not pre-occupied. Let your show window be well dressed and voicing your Advt., but your direct intercourse with the people is through the columns of the press. Yet a trader through his own error may advertise and realize little on his outlay. This man we can size up very quickly, with little exaggeration he is advertising his last year's Xmas goods when a mid-summer sale should be on or simply says, "socks for sale" and can't understand why he doesn't do the business of the place. If he had spent half the time in putting up his Advt. right that he spends in complaining that times are dull, the tables would turn.

To those merchants and others who are not advertising, our asking you to give it a fair trial, is not purely from a selfish standpoint it will pay you and that well and if we can do business mutually beneficial that is gratifying.

TRAPPED THROUGH A TRAP.

The New York-Boston game was responsible for the quarrel.

Alice Everton, the soubrette of the Star of the Desert company, was an enthusiastic Fan and would have staked the last cent of her salary on the result of the game. Hugh Truscott, business manager of the company, accommodated the young woman to the extent of a small wage, and losing, paid the price, a two-pound box of bonbons, without a murmur. Edna Brink, the leading lady, who was Truscott's fiancée, was not interested in baseball and resented the presence on Miss Everton's dressing table of anything sent by her intended.

Without stopping to inquire the motive of the gift she returned Truscott his ring with the following note: My Dear Mr. Truscott—Since you find it necessary to make gifts to Miss Everton may I suggest that the enclosed may prove useful! It is valueless to me. You need attempt no specious explanation. I will read no letter you may send, nor will I listen to you should you be insolent enough to engage me in conversation.

EDNA BRINK. For three days Truscott had made every effort to explain the affair and renew his happy relations with the girl whom he really loved with the strongest emotion of his life, but he had failed ignominiously. And now he stood fingering a telegram from the New York backer of the company ordering him to report to the metropolitan office for the purpose of organizing a No. 2 company. He had twenty minutes to effect a reconciliation with Edna, and he knew that, if he left the company without making his peace he need have no hope.

He rushed back on the stage, determined to speak with her at any cost. The curtain had just risen on the third act, showing the encampment of desert robbers. Miss Brink, as their captive, lay at the rear of the stage. For the climax of the act the comedian would cut her fetters, and after a stirring scene they would fight their way to liberty. But in the meantime she must lie there, and Truscott stood helpless in the wings.

He sought the stage manager. Ashton, he whispered, I leave for New York in twenty minutes, and I must speak to Miss Brink. Don't see how, old man. She's on there now for at least twenty-five minutes.

Truscott grasped him by the shoulder. I tell you I must. Don't say I can't. It means all the world to me. Ashton had heard of the broken engagement. He was sympathetic, but not resourceful.

Can't I go on as an Arab and get speech with her? pleaded Truscott. And break up the scene! Not on your life. Look out, there's my cue! And away hurried Ashton.

Truscott grained. Three minutes of the precious twenty had already been wasted. A stage hand, seeing the troubled look, asked if there was anything he could do. Truscott grasped at this straw of hope.

I want to speak immediately with Miss Brink. Can you figure out any way? The stage hand shook his head then suddenly grinned. Come on! and he drew Truscott down the dark stairway leading under the stage. Presently they paused directly under the center of the stage. Truscott could hear the gruffing of the stage robbers' steps overhead. The stage hand was pushing a small table forward and studying the beams above him.

There, he said, is the trapdoor they used for Faust last week. Drop it carefully, and you'll be looking almost into Miss Brink's face. She'll hear what you say all right; only for the love of heaven and my job don't show your head above the hole.

The stage hand slipped away, fingering a crap ball. Very gently Truscott mounted the rickety table and lowered the trapdoor. Edna turned slightly at the sound, and her eyes expressed great displeasure as they met his pleading gaze. More than this she could not do. She faced the audience.

Edna, he whispered, I must leave here in ten minutes for New York. The governor's sent for me. Write me at the Criterion. Tell me you're not angry.

The face so tantalizingly near his own was that of the sphinx.

Don't hold this miserable misunderstanding against me, he urged. You wouldn't give me a chance to explain. I lost a bet on the New York-Boston game, and I had to be decent and pay it. Miss Everton will tell you so. She is nothing to me.

Polite surprise in Edna's eyes. I give you my word. I have cared for no woman since I met you. Have you had cause to doubt me before?

The eyes were expressionless again. As a matter of fact, Miss Everton is engaged to marry Clark of the Hilson Opera company. It was only on Clark's account that I was polite to her.

The eyes looked perplexed. Truscott began to hope. Show me you forgive me, he pleaded. We were so happy. Don't you remember the night you promised to be my wife? You said you'd never misjudge me.

The eyes were reminiscent. Don't send me away with malice in your heart. Haven't we both suffered enough in the past three days? Let me sleep on the train tonight, happy in the knowledge that you still love me.

There were tears in the eyes now. If you forgive me, close your right eye. Slowly the lid dropped. A tiny smile crept round her mouth.

If you love me very much, close both eyes, he murmured. Both blue eyes were now shrouded by the lids. Truscott sighed happily. After that, he declared, I must kiss you. My time is almost up. Quick—if you can, roll over the trap.

Edna glanced at the stage manager. His back was turned. The audience saw the captive roll over, apparently to ease her strained position, but to the man beneath the trap the move had a different meaning. He stood on tiptoe, and for one brief instant their lips met in a kiss of reconciliation.

I will leave the ring for Ashton to give you, and God bless you, sweetheart, he whispered. One more kiss, and the trap was closed. Two minutes later Truscott was on the stage.

Ashton, give this package to Miss Brink when she comes off and tell her I'll wire from New York. Sure, old man, but how did you manage it?

Truscott's eyes were dancing with happiness and triumph. That was easy. I trapped her through—a trap.
