Yearly Report of the Grand Trunk Railway Company—Debate on the Home Rule Bill Resumed—Mrs. Maybrick Attempts Suicide.

Mrs. Maybrick Attempts Suicide.

LONDON, April 17.—The report is circulated and generally credited in Woking that Mrs. Florence Maybrick tried to kill herself in the Woking prison on Saturday. She is said to have stabbed herself severely in the throat and chest with a table knife, which was taken from her barely in time to save her from inflicting mortal wounds.

British Parliament—Home Rule.

LONDON, April 17.—In the House of Commons to-day a bill to provide for the submission of labor disputes to arbitration was passed to a first reading without debate.

Debate on the second reading of the Irish Home Rule Bill was resumed to-day, and the Rt. Hon. Geo. J. Goschen (Tory) addressed the House in opposition to the bill. He devoted his attention almost exclusively to the financial features of the measure.

Not Smooth Sailing After All.

BELGRADE, April 17.—The general acquiescence, if not approval, with which King Alexander's coup d'etat was hailed is already interrupted. The Liberals have gathered courage since Thursday, and now apparently propose to incite people against the Government. The Liberals have issued a manifesto in which they describe the new Ministry appointed by King Alexander as usurpers of power and as having incited the King to the coup d'etat in violation of the constitution and laws of Servia.

Disappointing Results.

LONDON, April 17.—The Grand Trunk report was issued to-day. It states that though the utmost efforts have been exerted to effect all possible economy in every department, the result of the working of the past year has been disappointing. This, the report says, is due to a further reduction in freight rates. The directors will endeavor to restore the position by offering further encouragement with the object of increasing passenger traffic, which is expected to be more than usually large in view of the World's Fair.

A Very Unlikely Story.

LONDON, April 17.—The statement is made to-day in regard to the Irish Home Rule Bill to the effect that when the bill reaches the committee stage a large section of the Radicals will support a proposal to leave the counties of Londonderry, Antrim, Down and Armagh, in the Province of Ulster, under imperial rule, those being the counties in which the Unionist element is strongest, and the antagonism to Irish home rule therefore pronounced. It is considered doubtful that Mr. Gladstone would assent to such a scheme, even if the Irish Nationalist leaders were willing to do so. The proposition means the division of Ireland, and the Irish Legislature created under it would represent only a portion of the country.

Belgium's Industrial Revolution.

BRUSSELS, April 17. — The industrial revolution against the Chamber of Deputies is in full progress, and every day fresh accessions to the ranks of those who demand universal suffrage are reported. To-day 1,000 dock laborers in Antwerp joined the movement. The strikers have cut off communication with the vessels lying at the quays by throwing their gangways into the river. They became so threatening that the military had to be called out. The strikers at Mons have resorted to the use of dynamite. They also determined to take possession of the town for a labor procession and a desperate hand-to-hand conflict ensued between the civic guards and the strikers. The battle was long and bitterly contested, but finally the civic were victorious. It is known that four of the miners were killed. Many of the rioters were wounded and taken to the hospital. The killing of the four strikers has added greatly to the excitement in the town, and there is danger of a more serious outbreak. Men and women from the adjacent mining villages are flocking into Mons, and the authorities are anxiously awaiting the events of the night. Mons is the center of the great Borinage coal mining district. Three-fourths of all the miners in Belgium are employed in this district.

The Governor of the Province of Brabant has instructed all mayors of cities of towns within his administrative district that they must prohibit all public demonstration for universal suffrage.

The Government has issued a decree calling out all the militia for the defense of the State. This means the mobilization of some 45,000 troops against the workingmen.

In the fight in the streets of Mons to-day fourteen soldiers were wounded. Three will not recover.

BRUSSELS, April 18.—Extraordinary military measures will be adopted to-day to preserve order in the city. Strong reinforcements of chasseurs and carbiniers are arriving with every train. All officers have received a map on which is marked a neutral line from which the crowds are to be excluded. In this ground are where Parliament meets, all the ministerial bureaux and the royal palace. It is reported the Premier has proposed to the King that Parliament be dissolved and a general election be held. Janson, the Radical leader, is said to have demanded an audience with the King. The news from Mons and Antwerp has stricken the more prosperous classes with panic. The strikers gathered repeatedly in large crowds throughout the northern district of Antwerp yesterday. As often as the police dispersed them they summoned hundreds more to their aid and reassembled. A squadron of police riding with drawn swords against the workingmen were overwhelmed with showers of stones and timbers. The police retired in confusion. While the reserves were being summoned the strikers threw up barricades in the streets. Women and children hastened from their h[illegible] firearms. When another brigade of police, supported by a detachment of the civic guard, tried half an hour later to drive back the mob, they were met with volleys from the rifles and revolvers of the men behind the barricades. Many of the soldiers were wounded and were removed to the hospital. More military were summoned, and after two charges carried the barricade.

It is Possible.

BERLIN, April 18.—The London correspondent of the Post reports an interview with Cardinal Logue in which his Eminence said there were good grounds for the assertion that if the present Home Rule Bill should be defeated the Conservatives would offer the Irish a still more sweeping measure on the condition that a Conservative-Irish alliance be concluded for the overthrow of the Liberals.

Judge Ricks' Decision.

LONDON, April 18.—In a leader concerning the decision of Judge Ricks in the case of the Ann Arbor boycott, the Daily Chronicle says: "The Toledo decision gives a great stimulus to railway nationalization. The American railway monopolist, anxious to escape the Scylla of workingmen's dictation, have fallen into the Charybdis of public control, for the decision can be accounted for only on the principle that railways are practically public property."

FOUND OUT IN TWO ROUNDS.

"Mystericus" Billy Smith Wins the Feather-Weight Fight.

A Brutal Exhibition Witnessed by a Big Crowd.

CONEY ISLAND, A. C., April 17.—A large crowd of people visited Coney Island to-night to see the two fights scheduled to take place before the Coney Island Athletic Club. At 8:30 p.m. Johnny Van Heest, of Chicago, tackled Danny Russell. Three rounds were fought, but Russell was outclassed, and the fight was given to Van Heest.

The fight for the feather-weight championship of the world between Tom Williams, of Australia, and "Mysterious" Billy Smith, of Boston, then took place. In the first round they went at it hammer and tongs. Smith pounded Williams hard, and it was give and take with some of the hardest fighting ever seen at the Island. In the second round the men went at each other like two wild beasts and slugged away like two crazy men. Neither man paid the slightest attention to science, but made the bout one purely of brutal force. They were both badly marked and bruised from the terrific punishment they received. Williams was knocked down several times in this round before he received the finishing. Smith, too, was quite unsteady on his feet, even when he struck the final blow on the point of William's jaw. Time, 2 minutes 35 seconds.

THE "JOHN BULL" TRAIN.

Departure for the Fair of America's Oldest Locomotive and Cars.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The queerest railroad train that has been seen in many a long year drew out of the Pennsylvania depot at 10:16 this morning amid the cheers of a big crowd. The train consisted of engine No. 1 of the Pennsylvania Railway and cars Nos. 3 and 5. Engine No. 1 of the Pennsylvania road is also engine No. 1 of the United States, being the first railroad locomotive used on this side of the Atlantic. It is called "John Bull," and started this morning to puff its way laboriously to the World's Fair, where it will be an object of wonder to millions. John Bull shows no sign of his great age except his antique construction. He is painted and polished so that he shines as fair as the latest born of modern locomotives. The coaches look like stage coaches on railway wheels. They, too, are in gala attire, being painted a bright green, with the inscription "John Bull train." The train is manned by veteran railroaders.

BURNED OUT.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Three dwellings were destroyed by fire this afternoon at Mechanicsville, a suburb of this city. Loss about $10,000; no insurance.

Imprisoned in a Burning Mine.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 17.—Fire is raging in the Crystal Ridge mine, about a mile from here. Five men are said to be in the mine.

D'Alton McCarthy to be Banquetted.

KINGSTON, April 17.—The Whig says: "D'Alton McCarthy's supporters have decided to invite him to visit Kingston soon, and address a public meeting, the meeting to be followed by banquet.

Flattened to a Pulp.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 17.—A fourteen-ton gun belonging to the United States Government exhibit at the World's Fair grounds fell while being hoisted into position to-day and killed Sergt. Jas. Warwick and seriously injured Pte. Wm. J. Kearnies. Warwick was flattened into a pulp.

Purchased the Polson Plant.

TORONTO, Ont., April 17.—Frank B. Polson and Jas. B Millar have become the purchasers of the equity of redemption of the Polson iron works property, including the dry dock at Owen Sound and the works in Toronto. The mortgage encumbrance on the property amounts to $200,000, and the offer accepted is $500 in excess of that amount.

Hastings Assizes—Several Murder Cases.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 17.—Justice Falconbridge opened the Assize Court here this afternoon. Charles Luckey is to be tried for the murder of his father, mother and sister at New Bliss last October, and Charles Shipman will be tried for the murder last month of John Fitzsimmons, of Rockport. His son Thomas and Albert and Emma Jeels will also be tried for aiding and abetting in the murder. It is likely the Luckey trial will be to-morrow.

Fastest in the World.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 18.—The United States cruiser Detroit, has proved herself the fastest cruiser of her displacement in the world. In her four hour trial trip yesterday, she exceeded her contract requirements in the matter of fast speed by three knots per hour, which will secure her builder $150,000 extra. She crossed the finish line at a speed slightly over twenty knots. Her average speed is estimated at eighteen and a half knots.

THE WORLD OF LABOR.

Six Hundred U. P. R. Mechanics Go Out.

The English Dockers' Strike Still Unsettled.

OMAHA, Neb., April 17.—Six hundred men employed in the Union Pacific shops struck at noon to-day.

LONDON, April 17.—At the meeting to-day of shipowners of London and provincial ports the various phases of the strike of dock laborers and the general course of union workmen towards the shipping interests were discussed. The shipowners resolved to make a united fight against dictation on the part of the workmen whether the latter should attempt to enforce their dictation by a general strike or by strikes in detail. It was pointed out that all the members of labor unions in the United Kingdom did not number more than 800,000 out of 13,000,000 of workers, the remainder of the 13,000,000 being non-unionists.

The agitation regarding Hull strike continues to increase in London and elsewhere. Two thousand seamen and firemen gathered to-day on Tower Hill, and displayed great enthusiasm in support of the Hull strikers. The leading speaker declared that 100,000 men would go on strike to-morrow, as a protest against treatment of their comrades in Hull.

The meetings of Clyde, Bristol and Newcastle shipowners approved the action of the Shipping Federation against the unions.

It has been decided that the eastern country will be divided into districts, and one member of the executive board will be assigned to each district, which will bring organizers into the work at once. The entire membership of the Order of Railway Carmen have already voted to join the new order. This will start the new union with 154 lodges, having a membership of 10,000.

MURDERED IN JAIL.

An Auburn Prisoner Fatally Stabs Two Men and Injures Two Others.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 17.—John Johnson, who is known as the "Blue Nigger from Clyde," ran amuck in the broom shop of Auburn Prison this morning. He was armed with a sharp knife, used in cutting broom corn, and first attacked Charles Peck, a fellow-convict, from Westchester county. Leaving him dead in his tracks he next fatally stabbed another convict and wounded two others before he was shot by a keeper and rendered powerless.

The cause of the trouble is said to have been an old grudge held by Johnson against a number of convicts in the shop, and he had made a threat that as soon as Capt. Baker had a day off he would do up the shop. Baker was not on duty to-day and Johnson started in early to carry his threat into execution.

Daniel Britton, another of Johnson's victims in this morning's stabbing affray at the prison, died this afternoon. Two others are in the hospital, but their wounds are not serious.

LOCAL TEMPERANCE WORK.

The Royal Templars Will Organize a District Council Here—The Work Progressing.

The Royal Templars of Temperance will organize a district council for East Middlesex on Thursday, April 20, the meeting to be held in Somerset Hall, commencing at 3 p.m. Representatives from Ailsa Craig, Dorchester, Komoka, Crampton, Nilestown, Poplar Hill, Thorndale, and the two councils in the city will aggregate a gathering from about 80 to 100 delegates.

The order has lately been making considerable progress in this locality. On Monday, April 17, a new council was organized in Mount Brydges. The formation of a district council here is enthusiastically looked forward to by the Royal Templars as a boon to the cause. The prospects are that before the district year ends, the number of councils will be more than doubled. An open meeting on the night of the 20th will terminate the business of the first district council. Rev. Mr. Bell, Toronto, missionary superintendent; T. A. Bellamy, Ingersoll, D. C. of Oxford, and other temperance workers will briefly address the meeting, and an interesting programme will be provided by the city councils. Mayor Essery will occupy the chair.

CULLED AND CURTAILED.

A. G. Yates, the wholesale coal merchant of Rochester, N. Y., and H. H. Warner, also of that city, are involved financially. The Bank of Monroe has filed two mortgages of $100,000 each held against the property of Warner and Yates as collateral security.

A Chicago dispatch says the statement that the Leslie E. Keley Company had sold out its plant for the cure of inebriates at Dwight and its 110 branches in this country and ten in Europe for $10,000,000 is incorrect.

WILLIAM BROWN'S DEATH.

Inquest in the Case of the Brakeman Killed at the Bear Creek Bridge.

The inquest into the death of William Brown, the brakeman who was killed at the Bear Creek bridge on the Kingscourt branch of the G. T. R., was held last night in the Court House, before Coroner Maclaren. Mr. J. B. McKillop appeared for the crown and Mr. Edmund Meredith for the relatives of the deceased. The jury comprised: Messrs. R. A. Jones (foreman), Wm. Spence, R. Mountjoy, J. W. Edwards, John Lord, John Lackie, Richard Hammond, Thos. Board, A. Stewart, D. W. Fuller, John Brodie, A. R. Murdock and John Moir.

The train on which Brown was brakeman was in charge of Conductor McAuliffe, with Edward Lowe, driver, W. J. Lister, fireman, and Joseph B. Major, brakesman.

The first witnesses called were Mrs. W. Brown and Mrs. Mason, but their evidence was chiefly in reference to the identification of deceased and his habits.

George Earhart—Am an employe of the G. T. R. on section northwest of Glencoe; saw Brown come out of the cab; was standing beside the track at the time, and the train was going about ten miles an hour; deceased had evidently lost his footing on the tender and fell head foremost on to the gravel car; and before he could regain his footing he rolled off and fell a distance of about 60 feet to the ice below.

Arch. Livingston—Was a section man at the time of the accident; saw signal given for the train to stop by section foreman when the engine was in the center of the brige; when Brown made the leap from the tender to the gravel car he struck on his shoulder, rolling over the bridge to the ice below; could not say whether it was before or after the whistle to apply brakes, and could not say how fast the train was going at the time; the gravel on the car was frozen so hard that they could not use the plow to unload it, but had to use shovels.

Dr. Waugh read his report of the examination of the body. The organs of the body were in a very healthy condition. The collar bone was broken and one arm was fractured near the shoulder; as was also the shoulder blade on the left side; there was a mark on the left temple, and on exposing the bones there were found to be several fractures to the frontal bone, which had injured the brain, these injuries being the cause of death.

Wm. Earhart gave evidence corroborative of the witnesses, Livingstone and Earhart.

Leo White was on the train at the time of the accident, but could not say whether he heard the signel or not; he noticed a jolt as though the engine had been reversed; he was in the caboose at the time and the jolt was so severe that it threw him up against the end of the car.

Samuel Thomba—Was foreman of the construction gang on the day of the accident and flagged the train, after which the engineer immediately called for brakes; knew nothing of Brown falling until after the train stopped.

Wm. J. Lister—Was fireman on the construction train on the day Brown was killed and had been such five months on this engine; the safest method of getting to the cars from the cab was over the tender; the engine was reversed immediately on seeing the signal, and Brown started out to apply the brakes; they had no telegraph signals, and everything in that line was done with the hands; it was not necessary to jump from the tender, as there was a draw bar on which the brakeman could step.

J. F. McAnliffe, conductor, and J. B. Major, brakeman, were the next witnesses, and gave no important evidence.

The jury after being out for some time brought in verdict of "Accidental death."

Her Last Party.

ABBEVILLE, La., April 17.—Miss Evelyn Wall, one of the most prominent society ladies in this section of the State, committed suicide last week by taking four ounces of laudanum. She procured the drug ostensibly for her sick horse. The young woman evidently arranged her plans carefully, as in the early part of the evening she entertained a number of her intimate friends at a dinner party and presided at the table with all the vivacity of youth. She probably gave this dinner in order to once more see all her friends assembled and take leave of them.

Earthquake at Zante.

ATHENS, April 17.—Since 7:30 o'clock this morning two more heavy shocks have shaken the whole island of Zante. The people are fleeing from all the towns to find safety on the plains and hill sides. Thousands are without shelter and sufficient food.

The Brisitish Minister resident has telegraphed to the British Foreign Office a request for war ships to be sent at once with men and building materials, that temporary sheds may be erected for the shelterless.

Aluminium slate pencils are being manufactured by an Illinois firm, and are reported to find a good market. They are about the length and size of an ordinary slate pencil, and similar in general appearance. The marks made by the aluminium are erased by a wet sponge. The pencil is light, and indestructible.

The phenomenon of phosphorescence is not universally understood. Objects possessing this property absorb light during the day and emit it at night. An estimable old lady had a dark closet in her house and she painted it with phosphorescent paint, expecting to illuminate it. But as the paint had no opportunity to absorb light it couldn't emit any, and the old lady continues to search for her dress-pockets with a candle.

COMPARE

A careful comparison of our delicious Flavoring Extracts with the other extracts offered for sale will convince any person that for strength, purity, delicate and natura flavor the extracts made by Cairncross & Lawrence, the chemists, are far superior. Ladies of taste once having enjoyed the delicate flavor that is given to cakes, puddings, creams, etc., by our Vanilla, Lemon or Orange Extract, could not be induced to use any other. Mrs. Ewing, at her cooking class in this city, used our Flavoring Extracts and Baking Powder exclusively.

A Year's Fatalities on Canadian Roads—Testing M. C. R. Men for Color Blindness.

The railway statistics for Canada for 1892 show that during that year 233 persons were killed on the railways in Canada as follows: Falling from cars or engines, 27; getting on or off trains in motion, 20; at work in making up trains, 5; coupling cars, 10; collisions and derailments, 22; striking bridges, 2; walking or being on track, 89; explosions, 1; other causes, 57; total, 233.

The M. C. R. commenced Saturday night testing their engineers as to color blindness. Every trainman will be so tested, but it being most important that an engineer shall not be color blind, they are being tested first. By the system of operating trains on the M. C. R., trainmen are only required to be able to distinguish between red, green and white, but as they have now to run on the N. Y. C. and G. T. R. where lights of all colors are used, it is necessary that they should be tested as to color blindness.

Pure Baking Powder

is as necessary in making good light biscuits and pastry as good flour. The market is full of cheap, trashy baking powders, made from alum and soda. Users of the article should only buy brands that are well known for purity and fine quality. The old established Pure Gold brand, put up in small packages and cans, is always reliable.

A great deal has been said as to the slowness of the turtle's movements, but all we can say is he generally arrives in time for soup.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

One single oyster will produce 128,000,000 young oysters in the course of a year. It must give an oyster some anxiety to look after its family.

The great lung healer is found in the excellent medicine sold as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

Juxtapositions are sometimes peculiar. Underneath an article in a daily paper on "How to Be Beautiful" appears an advertisement, "Use So-and-So's insect powder."

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. JEAN VALCOURT, (Signed.) General Merchant, Wotton, P.Q. 2

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Mr. Marter's Anti-Retailing Bill Comes Up Thursday.

A Bill to Amend the Pharmacy Act Introduced—Grape-Growers Have a Grievance.

(From the ADVERTISER'S Own Correspondent.)

PARLIAMENT HOUSE, TORONTO, April 17. —The House only sat three-quarters of an hour to-day. Among the petitions introduced were a number favoring a plebiscite on the prohibition question. It is not likely any action will be taken on the liquor law question before Thursday next. Then the debate on Mr. Marter's bill for prohibiting the sale by retail comes up. As there is a case in the Superior Courts attacking the right of municipalities to prohibit liquor-selling, it is not improbable that a settlement of the question will be delayed until the highest court pronounces on the subject. Meanwhile Mr. Davis (North York) has introduced a bill making provision for taking a plebiscite on the question of prohibition. It will have many supporters.

There were the unusual cries of "Lost" when Mr. McKay (Oxford) brought in a bill to amend the Pharmacy Act. This is the measure which the College of Pharmacy is promoting to curtail the powers of grocers in the matter of patent medicines, etc. The bill was read a first time.

Mr. Balfour to-day gave notice of a resolution to the effect that "this House places on record its disapproval of the growing amount of special legislation sought for the consolidation of floating debts of municipalities contracted without authority of law, as tending to extravagant expenditures by municipal corporations and the growth of irresponsibility among the individual members of said corporations, all of which is contrary to the spirit and intent of our municipal laws; and is further of the opinion that such legislation should only be granted under very exceptional circumstances." It is likely the motion will carry.

The private bills committee begin to sit to-morrow, and legislators will be busy from this out. The session is not expected to be prolonged.

NOTES.

Hon. David Mills had a seat on the floor of the House with Hon. G. W. Ross to-day.

The annual report of the Toronto General Trusts and Loan Company was laid before the House this afternoon. Among the shareholders are the following Londoners: Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Betts, $17,000; Miss Maud Goodhue, $34,200; John Labatt, $34,200. The original stock was $200,000. It is now increased to $1,000,000.

G. W. Cline, president Fruit Growers' Association, T. H. B. Carpenter, Winona, J. M. Foran, Winona, and G. W. Cline, grape growers, T. Lloyd, president of the Farmers' Institute, and Mr. Pettit, Grimsby, accompanied by Mr. Waters, met Sir Oliver Mowat and the other Minister to-day. They ask that farmers be exempted from the provisions of the Workingmen's Compensation for Injuries Act—or that they be allowed to make their own arrangements with men.

L. B. P. Stewart, student-at-law, this city, who died in February, 1892, bequeathed $20,000 to the Law Society of Upper Canada, to purchase law books for the law school, provided they are empowered by law to accept the property. If not, the money is to be given to the Sick Children's Hospital. The Law Society now provide a bill to take over the property, but there is a decided feeling in favor of reversing the legislation and letting the money go to the hospital, which is a most deserving institution.

Hon. Mr. Ross, on behalf of the council of Strathroy, has introduced a bill authorizing the town to grant aid by loan or bonus to secure industrial establishments, or to take stock in such establishments to an extent not exceeding in the aggregate $20,000. One half of all the taxpayers entitled to vote must give assent to the proposition as well as a majority of the ratepayers voting. This action is taken because of the loss sustained the town industries through recent fires.

The Rideau Club, Ottawa, which recently blackballed Hon. Clarke Wallace, Controller of Customs, asks power to increase its stock from $15,000 to $30,000.

TEXT OF THE FOUR GOSPELS.

Syrian Manuscript Recently Discovered at Mount Sinai.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Independent publishes the following additional particulars and comments concerning the Syrian text of the Four Gospels, the discovery of which at Mount Sinai has been announced by cable:

"The text is in Curetonian Syriac. We are not informed whether it contains the whole New Testament or not, but it does contain at least the Four Gospels, substantially complete. It is a Palimpsest manuscript, and the work of reading it is not easy. The Curetonian is the earliest Syriac version of the New Testament, going back, it is believed, to the second century, and was replaced in common use by the Peshitto, which is the ordinary Syriac version and hitherto the most valuable of all the versions of the New Testament. Only fragments of the Curetonian Syriac were before known, obtained from old leaves of parchment found in the Nitrian monastery. Scholars will be much interested to know that this new manuscript, which we hope will be published before long, does not contain the last eight verses of Mark, although the Nitrian fragments do contain part of them. We can hardly say what may yet be expected. Within the last few years there have been discovered a commentary, from which we recover much of the Diatesseron of Tatian, the teaching of the apostles, the Apology of Aristides, portions of fragments of the Jerusalem Syriac version of the New Testament and the gospel and revelation of Peter. If we went back a little further we would have to add the Sinaitic manuscript, the Philosophumena of Hippolytus. Now what we most want to find are the writings of Papias and the other interesting item that a very fine old copy of the Samaritan Pentateuch has lately been brought to this country by the Rev. William S. Watson, of Guttenburg, N. J., and that it contains a colophon stating that it was written in 629 A. H., by Abraham Ben Israel Ben Ephraim Ben Joseph, the prince king of Israel. This would be A. D. 1241, more than 100 years earlier than the earliest dated Samaritan manuscript in the British Museum."

ESSEX.

Little Addie F. Copp, aged 14, the only daughter of Warren P. Copp, corner Curry avenue and London street, died very suddenly at her parents' home the other night. The child has been in delicate health for a long time, and about midnight on Wednesday she called, "Papa, papa! Come to me, I am going to die!" When Mr. Copp went to her bedside her hands were icy cold and she failed to recognize him. "Oh, where is mamma?" she asked. When her mother entered the room with tears streaming down her cheeks she raised her child and asked, "What is it, my darling?" "Oh, mamma," she cried, "I'm going blind; I'll be dead in a minute." Her head dropped forward and she lapsed into unconsciousness, and she died in almost an hour afterwards. Her little Sunday school classmates were her pallbearers on Saturday.—[Windsor Record.

MIDDLESEX.

At the last meeting of the township council of Westminster, the bill calling for tenders for gravel for the roads were ordered to be printed, the tenders to be opened at the council on May 2. The reeve, Jas. Murray and R. M. Piper were appointed a committe to meet the county engineer and arrange for the repair of a washout at Byron bridge, and also to see about repairing Moore's bridge. Harry Shore presented a petition from the Patrons of Industry, praying the council to take a vote of the electors on the erection of a town hall. Laid over until the next Westminster meeting. Bylaw No. 520, to appoint Thomas Tomlinson, thistle inspector for wards 2 and 3, and Henry Bennett, for wards 1 and 4 was passed. Mr. Shoebottom applied for the deepening of the ditch on the sideroad from his buildings towards the creek. The council agreed to pay for four inch tile if he put them in himself. It was decided that the bounty on wire fence, where the council consider them of public benefit, shall in future be 15 cents per rod instead of 25 cents.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE.

After Four Years Absence an Ottawa Man Returns Home to Find His Wife Dead in Bed.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Mrs. George Chambers, of Cyrville, a suburb of this city, was on Saturday afternoon delivered of a child. At 6 o'clock in the evening Dr. Midd left both mother and child well. Yesterday morning George Chambers, who appeared at the home of his wife late on Saturday night, after an absence from the county of four years, came into the city and reported to Coroner Mark that his wife was dead. The husband told a reporter that he had been about four years away from home, working mostly in the silver mines in Montana. His wife was well provided for, and besides what the farm yielded he sent her money. Recently at Butte City he received an anonymous letter, stating that all was not right at home, and advising him to return. When he came back on Saturday "there were," he says, "three or four young fellows in the house, and also an old woman named Scarff. When they saw me all, including the old woman, ran away. I went into the bedroom, where my wife was in bed. I took her hand; it was still warm, but she was dead. This morning I came to the city and sent word to Dr. Mark, the coroner."

NEW ORDEAL FOR LOVERS.

A Young Couple Quarantined and Fumigated En Route to the Altar.

NORTHFIELD, Minn., April 17.—The city authorities at Faribault took a novel part in a wedding here recently. As John Meyers and Lucy Archambault, of this city, were on their way to church to be married they called at the house of a friend.

There was scarlet fever at the house, and at the church their friends hastily deserted them and notified Chief of Police Geiger, who forthwith quarantined the pair and sent for Health Officer Jackson, who fumigated bride and bridegroom with sulphur candles before restoring them to liberty. They were married immediately afterwards.

London, Tuesday, April 18.

Edward Blake in Scotland.

Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., has been making himself heard with effect in the country as well as on the floor of the Imperial Parliament. While Mr. and Mrs. Blake were on a visit to the widow of the late George Brown in Edinburgh, the honorable gentleman received many earnest requests to address mass meetings of the electors upon the topic that he has so thoroughly mastered—the policy of the Gladstone Government. He addressed a mass meeting in the Edinburgh Music Hall and another at West Calder, the mining center of the constituency represented by Mr. Gladstone. At both places the Canadian statesman had a magnificent reception, and the ability and grasp which he has exemplified in discussing British public affairs was generously acknowledged. The Scottish Daily Leader, referring to a remark by a local M. P., puts it thus:

"The opinion which Edinburgh Liberals have conceived of Mr. Blake is well expressed in Mr. Paul's apposite story of Pitt's sentence on Grattan: it is not only that 'he will do,' but that 'he is very great.'"

But Mr. Paul, M.P., carried his appreciation of Mr. Blake's ability further, when, referring to his first speech in the House, he said:

"When I heard that speech I thought it was on the whole the ablest constitutional argument that I had ever heard in favor of home rule for Ireland. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) I have since refreshed my memory by reading it, and I am confirmed in my original opinion, and I think the triumph of that speech was not the less conspicuous because it was delivered in reply to the most consummately dexterous debater that can be produced on the other side of politics. (Name.) Mr. Chamberlain. (Booing and laughter.) You have, I daresay, heard that the House of Commons is very jealous of reputations made anywhere except within its own walls. (Laughter.) I don't suppose that since the days of Henry Grattan—(cheers)—there has entered the House of Commons a gentleman with such a high reputation in any other legislative assembly as Mr. Blake—(hear, hear, and cheers)—but notwithstanding that, to say that his speech was a success would be to say far too little. It took the House of Commons by storm."

And Bailie Gulland, who proposed the vote of thanks at the close, also warmly commended the address by Mr. Blake. "For calm reasoning and for fair and reasonable treatment of our opponents," said Bailie Gulland, "we could not have had a better address than that by Mr. Blake—so calm and so reasonable that if Mr. Blake had not told us he was of Irish extraction, we would have said that he must be a Scotchman. (Laughter and cheers.) I think we have to congratulate ourselves and the British nation for having a man of such experience. We look forward to him occupying a very prominent part in the Cabinet of Ireland—(cheers)—which we very soon hope will be established on College Green." (Cheers.)

Mr. Blake began his great speech in Edinburgh by pointing out that the Liberal party, with whose fate and fortunes justice to Ireland appeared to him to be indissolubly linked, must continue to be more and more a body devoted to the amelioration of the condition of the masses, as opposed to the classes. They must sympathetically search after real grievances, wants and sufferings of the people, and make persistent effort to remedy them. "And," he added, "glorious as has been the past of the British Liberal party, its future, though stormy, will be more glorious still, because it will have conferred still greater benefits than it was in its power at any former time to confer upon the whole nation."

It was a comparatively easy thing for Mr. Blake to at once launch into a brief discussion of the reforms now on the Liberal programme. Taking up the question of disestablishment, he said:

"It is now some years ago since in your wisdom you decided to disestablish the State Church of the minority in the sister island. (Cheers.) You will remember that your efforts in that direction were met with threats of separation. You will remember that the crown of our most gracious sovereign was to be kicked into the Boyne—(laughter)—and that numerous other equally terrible events were to take place if a fraction of the Protestants of that country were disestablished. How many men are there all over the United Kingdom, how many men are there is Ireland itself, who would seek to re-establish that church to-day? (None.) And this circumstance has lessons for us all. It enables us to estimate to a certain extent at their just value exaggerated apprehensions which are always entertained by certain classes of minds, and are flung upon the community upon the occasion of any proposed great reform. Why, there has not been a serious constitutional change which has been made with reference to this country or any of its divisions that has not been preceded during the necessary agitation which prefaced its adoption by declarations that we were going to destroy the whole of the sacred fabric—(hear, hear)—that it would never stand the changing process to which it would be submitted, that ruin and decay were to follow on every change."

Mr. Blake asked the intelligent electors not to be daunted with the bogeys, now raised against similar measures of reform. They are the accompaniments of all ameliorating legislation. Continuing, he said:

"This question of disestablishment presents to-day in the programme of the Government in three different forms. First of all, with reference to my own country of Ireland—(cheers)—it is proposed that for that country at any rate you should recognize as a fundamental principle of the constitution as applicable to her, the principle of religious equality—(cheers)—of religious freedom, of the non-establishment and the non-endowment by the State of any church whatever—(cheers)—that you should insure to the people of the island the blessing or the bane of dissociating religion from the functions of the State, that you should take care that there, at any rate, whatever be the case in other parts of the United Kingdom, a man's religion shall be a thing between his conscience and his God—(loud cheers)—shall be no longer an affair in which a secular body shall interfere, and that men shall stand in that domain of the State free and equal. (Cheers.) You may say that is not home rule, because it is restraint. I shall point out to you when I come to deal with home rule that it is no infringement of the principle of home rule, and to record in the most solemn manner as fundamental articles in the constitution what you believe to be the true principle of civil and religious liberty, and in my judgment it is a blessing and not a misfortune that they should be placed wholly beyond the sphere of conflict, doubt and agitation, and that once and for all the evil should be removed." (Cheers.)

× × ×

The refusal of the State to favor one religious body, to the disadvantage of others, had no defense from Mr. Blake. He was able to point to Canada as a country that had solved that difficulty by placing every church on an equality. Said he:

"When we began our political life or took some of the very early steps in it a hundred years ago or so, you grafted upon our constitutional tree—not unnaturally according to the notions of the day, I admit—the rudiments of the State Church, but it did not flourish very well and we cut it out—(laughter)—and the cause of true religion, the spiritualities of religion, the agreement and Christian concord between the various Christian denominations into which we are divided, have all in our experience greatly profited by the adoption amongst us of the doctrines of civil and religious liberty and equality." (Cheers.)

+ + +

Taking up the question of local veto, Mr. Blake gave his adherence to the view that when localities so desired it they should be able to vote that no liquor selling should take place in the midst of them. Local option is easier to manage than prohibition through a wide area. Mr. Blake leant to the view that a general prohibitory law could not be enforced unless it were first ascertained that there is a large proportion of the people in favor of continuance. We have discovered that in Canada, hence the benefit of the plebiscite, locally, in the Provinces, and in the Dominion as a whole. Nothing like getting at the opinion of the people on the subject, unentrammeled by the consideration of other questions.

Turning to home rule, Mr. Blake said:

"I believe it to be the fact that there exists, based on these desires and intelligence and recollections, and most of all upon the sad experience of the Government of the Imperial Parliament, the desire and determination on the part of the people of that island to obtain the control of their own affairs, of which you have had the management for a long time, and with the results of which none of you are likely to be proud. I believe also they have recognized as most important to their daily life and also in view of the true situation geographically and otherwise of Ireland to Britain, it is in the interest of both that for the purposes for which reasonable men can say they ought to be united for common and imperial purposes they should be and remain one country. (Cheers.) Is it not a great thing that the British people are conceding the principle of autonomy to the Irish people and making that bargain with them? By it Britain shall obtain a strength which it has never had since the Union—a right to say 'we made you a fair and honorable bargain before the world, which you professed was to be a practical settlement of the question, and now to demand more is dishonorable and unjust to yourselves as well as to us.' Britain having, as it will have, a physical power over Ireland to prevent a separation, and the moral power over Ireland will be such as Britain never had before. (Cheers.) Now, therefore, one question I ask you, and it is to take up this whole question in the large and generous spirit in which international questions should be taken, and in which questions between the people of these islands should be taken. Do not believe that we are deceiving you. Take us at our word, as we are ready to take you at your word. (Loud cheers.) Make a compact; do justice, give contentment and trust with all good heart, that you will reap the results of such conduct." (Loud cheers.)

+ + +

Mr. Blake said that he has always been in favor of retaining the Irish representatives at Westminster. Under the Act of Union Ireland's representation in the Imperial Parliament is fixed at 103, and must continue to remain at that number, if local self-government is not granted to Ireland. Under the Home Rule Bill the number is reduced to 80, and they will not be able to vote on any questions pertaining to the local government of England, Scotland and Wales. How this will affect Parliament is thus stated by Mr. Blake:

"Instead of 103, as now voting on all British questions, you shall have 80 voting. Would it, or would it not, be any improvement upon the situation? I say it would. It would be an improvement from two points of view. First of all, from the point of view of the adversary who sees nothing good, who regards the Irishman as an unmitigated nuisance, as unalterably depraved, as sure to use his power for mischief, whom he would like to root out for good. Well, if that be so, then there are fewer of us. You have instead of 103 unmitigated nuisances, only 80. The power is reduced by more than one-third, or by about 22 per cent. is that evil power diminished. (Laughter.) That, from the point of view of the adversary, is clear gain. (Laughter.) Then there is a far more important reason which you men, not our opponents, may take, as to its being an improvement. It is the reason that the Irishmen in old days used their powers of voting, not upon the merits of a specific measure, not to carry on the proceedings of Parliament as they ought to be carried on. It is because you propose to settle the great quarrel, to leave to Irishmen for their own management their strictly local affairs, and because, therefore, you remove any reasonable cause for that action which made the Irishmen in a sense a foreign and disturbing element in the British Parliament. (Cheers.) Therefore, you have fewer men, and you have those men actuated by the feeling of kindliness instead of alienation, by the feeling of common interest instead of distrust and separation."

× × ×

Some fear that this arrangement would give rise to a double majority—and much trouble for an administration. But Mr. Blake claims that out of the development of home rule must come a British executive over British affairs, and that would end all difficulty. Moreover, it would be competent for the British people to establish home rule on the same lines for the other divisions of the kingdom. Why should not such a development naturally and speedily follow. It would enable the Imperial Parliament in reality, to be that which its name implies, leaving purely provincial concerns to the local legislatures.

Dealing with the question of protecting the religious minority, Mr. Blake said that in point of creed and extraction he belonged to the minority, and if he for one moment believed that the Irish minority would not be generously and fairly treated under the new law, he would vote against its adoption. To reassure their fellow-citizens, the Irish members had consented to the introduction of most stringent restrictions into the bill.

"We have not hesitated," said Mr. Blake in conclusion, "to accept with cordiality the restrictions which prohibit us, if we were so foolish, so wicked as to propose the establishment of the church or interfere with the conscience of any child in any school supported by public money, and we agreed to a higher chamber possessing higher franchise, which includes only a section of the country, and a chamber which shall have the power of discussing and throwing out for two years any bill, and after the two years, or a general election, has the power of adding its votes and the votes of those who think with it, even in the popular assembly, on the final decision of the bill. We have consented and agreed to the veto of the crown; the principles on which we are to manage our affairs are laid down in our charter. If we violate these principles, attempt to violate them, then our act is void, waste paper. If we attempt to violate them in the spirit—as it is suggested that such things may be—well, that is provided for also, because having consented to them is the spirit of our legislation. If we break the spirit, the veto of the crown subsists, and the Imperial Ministry, upon its responsibility to the whole of the people of the two islands as represented in the Imperial Parliament, has the right, and it will befits duty to refuse to give the assent to a law which shall attempt to violate in spirit the fundamental provisions of the charter. (Cheers.) Thus every security is taken which the wit of man can devise, and most of these securities are securities which were intended as adequate; suggested in the earlier stages of this controversy by those who now condemn them as futile and insincere. And you have, after all, the best security that you are making a national compact between the two countries; that you are settling the old grievance, healing the old sore, giving contentment to Ireland, and that you are therefore sowing the seeds from which a wholesome harvest will be reaped. (Cheers.) I, therefore, trust that this the greatest measure of the generation destined to heal the deepest sore, to accomplish the greatest reform of freeing your Parliament, now chocked and embarrassed and incapable of discharging its legitimate duties—(cheers)—destined to permit the people of the one island to manage their own affairs, and at the same time, and by the same blessed act, to permit the people of the other island to manage their affairs—(cheers)—destined to take away what has been the shame, disgrace, and the weakness of Britain, and to substitute for it equal strength and honor, will by your assistance, your voice, your enthusiasm, your stimulus, and if need be, your vote be passed as speedily as may be into law."

CHAPMAN'S

CALL ATTENTION TO THEIR

SMALLWARE DEPARTMENT.

The little things, the small purchase, the 25-cent article, often demands more time, and attention, and hunting up, than the larger purchase of a hat, a suit, a mantle or a dress. Chapman's smallwear department is one of the most complete in the city.

Take for instance laces, ribbons, kid gloves, corsets, handkerchiefs, Windsor ties, embroideries, hosiery (small and large), gloves, collars, spools, knitting cotton—all these things and many more you will find with us. And the prices are the best part of the story. Buying in large quantities and in the best markets of the world enables us to do as well for our customers as can be done in this part of the country.

KID GLOVES.

You are interested in having the best. We draw your attention to our $1 line; every pair guaranteed. This is a beautiful glove; tans, and grays, and black. The tans and grays have colored bands to match the new shades in dress goods. We have the cheaper lines at 75c and 50c, as good as the money get.

CORSETS.

Very special value in corsets. Prices commence at 30c, 45c, 50c, 60c, 75, $1 and $1 25. Our stock is assorted with the new and popular brands. Ask to see our 75c and $1 brands.

PARASOLS.

The time is coming when this article will be greatly in demand. Where to get the best value is a problem with many. We say: See Chapman's stock first. Beautiful handles in colored and black. 'Tis a great surprise the handsome parasols you can now purchase for $1, $1 25 and $1 50, and of course up higher as you like.

WASH GOODS.

Let us tell you a little about our wash goods, such as ginghams, chambrays, zephyrs, crepon effects. Beautiful goods; must be seen; we cannot describe them here; look like silk. Large checks and small checks, and plain colors. Handsome goods. Price, only 25c; color warranted in every particular.

MILLINERY.

'Tis well to know where the best millinery can be purchased for the least money. We say again Chapman's. You want quantity to select from, quality, becoming shapes, style, new goods. We don't know where you could get these things outside of Chapman's. Try and be convinced. We have sold more millinery to date than any previous season. There must be a reason for it. We explain it in the following sentence: "Millinery at dry-goods prices."

MANTLES.

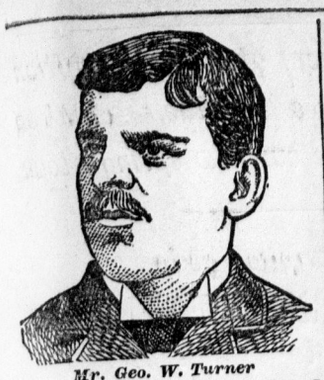

Here again you want the best for the money. We claim to have it for you. The quantity we sell convinces us that our styles and prices are all that the most fastidious could desire. Two first-class cutters are employed; none better in London. Any style desired can be made on a few hours' notice. The Free Library Question To Be Voted on Again.

Aldermen Find the Estimates a Puzzling Problem,

And Decide to Wrestle With Them at a Special Meeting.

The Elliott Company's Assessment Reduced from $60,000 to $25,000—Street Railway Matters Stirred Up—The Matter of Poles Discussed Various Bylaws Passed

Last night's council meeting was protracted until fully an hour after midnight. The estimates created a lengthy discussion, and it was decided to make them the subject of a special meeting. The oft-recurring free library question also evoked a long debate, the result of which is that the matter goes again to the people for their verdict. The street railway question was stirred up and numerous other matters were touched upon, as the subjoined report shows.

There were present Mayor Essery, Ald. Taylor, J. W. Jones, Coo, Moule, Thomas Jones, Carrothers, Stevely, James Fitzgerald, Scarrow, Garratt, Dreaney, Welford, F. J. Fitzgerald, Parnell, Shaw, Pritchett and City Clerk Kingston.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

No. 3 committee's report was submitted by Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald, chairman. It recommended: 1. That the tenders of the following for fire department supplies for current year be accepted: Gutta Percha Rubber Manufacturing Company, for rubber coats; R. Kirkpatrick, boots; T. W. Hess, wire; A. Anderson, electric supplies; W. A. Brock, alarm keys. 2. That new uniforms be procured for the firemen, and that your committee be empowered to call for tenders for same. 3. You committee beg to submit their estimate of expenditure for the year as follows: Street lighting, $20,300; street watering, $5,000; market, $1,258; fire department (exclusive of water), $15,750; total, $42,308. Adopted.

No. 2 committee's report was presented by Ald. Garratt, chairman. It recommended: 1. That the communications of Bowman and Henry New, re Hamilton and Toronto sewer pipe for city sewers, and communications from A. Benoit, re permanent buildings for camp, be filed for future reference. 2. That Mr. Geo. T. Mann be instructed to remove forthwith the hedge fence complained of in the communication of Mr. T. W. Routledge. 3. That the application of T. C. Bartlett, for use of Agricultural Hall for drill purposes for Court Maple Leaf, No. 16, A. O. F., be granted. The said lodge to leave the building in the same state as at present. 4. That the use of Victoria Park be granted to the Salvation Army for religious purposes during the summer months on Sunday afternoons and on Thursday evenings, if not engaged for band concerts. 5. That six dump carts be procured for the city's use, and that your committee be empowered to call for tenders for same. 6. That a new water closet and a band stand be constructed on Victoria Park. 7. That tenders be advertised for rental of old waterworks land in No. 5 ward for one year. 8. That the petition of Wm. Ellis et al., for tile drain on Carling street, as a local improvement be filed and that the petitioners be granted permission to open the said street to lay a private drain, on depositing $25 with the city treasurer, to be retained until the engineer certifies that the street has been left in as good a condition as before work was commenced. 9. That your committee be empowered to procure a car load of crossing stone. 10. Your committee begs to submit the resolution of the Court of Revision on the proposed tile drain on Becher street, between the Wharncliffe road and the Ridgeway, as follows, viz.: That No. 2 committee be recommended to take over the private drain, allowing the owners of same such reasonable allowance for tapping it as the engineer may certify to. And your committee recommends that the said resolution be confirmed and said private drain taken over by city, and that the engineer's recommendation that $75 be divided among the owners pro rata, be adopted; and further, that your committee be empowered to call for tenders for construction of the said drain. 11. Your committee begs to submit resolution of Court of Revision, re proposed drain on Wortley road between Bruce and Stanley streets (recommended by Board of Health), as follows, viz.: That the drain already laid from Bruce to Alma streets be extended from Alma street to Chas. Morton's property, less the sum of $200 to be centributed by the owners along the line of the drain already laid; and your committee recommends that the matter be referred to the Board of Health to see if they wish the drain constructed between the streets they recommend.

12. Estimates for current year, $63,046. This included $3,850 for extraordinary expenses.

The clauses all passed without amendment until clause 12 was reached. Then the aldermen representing the different wards each and all wanted a little more for their own ward.

Ald. Coo wanted to know why No. 2 ward had been cut down from $8,740 to $7,786. Ald. Garratt replied that the engineer had cut down the estimates since they were first made up some $8,000. No. 2 ward was one that was reduced.

The reduced estimates are as follows:

No. 1 ward	$ 5,400
No. 2 ward	7,786
No. 3 ward	7,900
No. 4 ward	9,000
No. 5 ward	8,450
No. 6 ward	7,220
Total	$45,756

Mayor Essery took the floor and advised that extra care be taken this year to keep the taxes down to 20 mills. He urged that the council have a meeting and go over the estimates and cut out everything that could be done without for a year or so.

Ald. Parnell moved to that effect, seconded by Ald. Stevely.

Then Ald. Taylor drew attention to the fact that the estimates of No. 3 committee had already been passed, and he moved in amendment that No. 3 committee's estimates be reconsidered.

Ald. Scarrow objected strenuously to the estimates of No. 3 being overhauled. He was confident that they could not be reduced one 5-cent piece. It was all for work already ordered.

Ald. Thos Jones did not see the necessity or the use of holding a special meeting to discuss the matter. He advised that a motion be made asking for a general reduction of 20 or 25 per cent. He afterwards moved in amendment a general reduction of 10 per cent., but Ald. Coo said that ward 2 could not reduce worth a cent unless the residents walked in mud. He advised the cutting off of about 50 per cent. in wards 3, 4, 5 and 6, but not from No. 2.

Ald. Carrothers seconded Ald. Thomas Jones' amendment. No. 3 ward, although needing all the estimate called for, would, he said, do its part in keeping down taxation.

Mayor Essery asked what the rate would be for the year.

Ald. Shaw—Twenty-three mills.

Mayor Essery—Well, you gentlemen will have to hide next December with that rate. This year it should not be a game of grab.

Ald. Garratt—Well, if your Worship will do away with the Board of Education and police commissioners the rate could be made 20 mills.

Ald. J. W. Jones advised the council to rise above the pernicious system of ward-grabbing. The taxes of the city should not be over 18 mills, and with care that rate could be struck. He put in a good word for the single tax system, advising the taxing of real estate whether tenanted or not.

Chairman F. J. Fitzgerald announced his readiness to reconsider No. 3 committee's report, and Ald. Parnell's motion to lay over the estimates for a special meeting was carried.

No. 1 committee's report (Ald. Moule, chairman), recommended: 1. The payment of No. 1 committee's account, $286 15; No. 2 committee's account, $948 89; No. 3 committee's account, $484 19. 2. That in the master of petitions of J. G. Rakestraw, H. C. Allison and W. J. Blackburn, re advertising the city, the council name an amount to be placed in the estimates, to be applied to expense of advertising the city, and that your committee be empowered to call for tenders, 3. That the petitions of Thos. Hopper and J. P. Rice be filed. No power. 4. That the communication of the McCormick Harvesting Company be acknowledged, and the company be requested to state the terms they would require to establish and maintain a Canadian branch of their industry at London. 5. Your committee begs to submit the correspondence relating to the L. and P. S. R. bed and bridges, and recommends the council take immediate steps to have the said railroad inspected as per terms of agreement. 6. That the petition of Chas. Clarke, re sewer rate, be granted, and that the clerk be instructed to correct the roll of 1892, and note the engineer's report for future years. 7. That the petitions of Eliza McKee and Mrs. Blanish, for remission of taxes, be granted by allowing a rebate of $4 and $6 respectively. 8. That on the petition of Joseph T. Marks re publication of assessment roll, no action, the petition having been withdrawn by the petitioner. 9. That the assessment of J. Elliott & Co. be reduced from $60,000 to $25,000. 10. That the petition of Rebecca Adams, Mary Brown, Sarah Johnston, Isabella Riddle and Gast & Co. be filed. 11. That the tender of H. O'Hara & Co., 95 18-100 for $725,000 four per cent. city of London consolidation debentures, be accepted, it being the highest. 12. Your committee begs to report progress on the petitions of Robt. Aylward and J. Homister.

Clause 2 was left over to be discussed with the estimates.

Relative to clause 5, Mayor Essery moved that the correspondence on the subject of repairing the Port Stanley road bed be read. By it it was shown that Engineer Jennings, of the C. P. R., had expressed his willingness to attend on Saturday or Monday, but Mr. Ivey, on behalf of the syndicate, urged a delay in the matter, as the lessees of the road were not supplied with an engineer just at present.

Mayor Essery took the floor and urged immediate action. It was necessary, he said, to find out the exact state of the road when the syndicate took hold. They (the syndicate) were making alterations, and very soon it would be a hard matter to state just in what state the road was in when they took hold. They were taking up rails from the beach and spreading along the track, and had pulled out the bottom of an old fish house and used the planks for a station platform at St. Thomas.

Ald. Thomas Jones moved that the matter be left with No. 1 committee and the L. and P. S. Railway Company with power.

Ald. Taylor suggested that if the syndicate would not go on with the repairs the city take it in hand.

Ald. Jones' amendment carried.

Clauses 6, 7 and 8 carried.

Mr. T. H. Purdom spoke on the clause recommending the decrease of John Elliott & Co.'s assessment from $60,000 to $25,000. The works, he said, had been put up at auction, and they could not sell it. They wished to have these works occupied, but the present assessment was a millstone around their necks. It was mortgaged for $23,000, but those holding the mortgage never expected to get their money out of it.

The Mayor—If we take the money off these, are we to put it on poor taxpayers? The assessment commissioner swears the value is $30,000.

Mr. Purdom—Put it where it is just. The building may have cost that, but you can't sell it for that. The value is the selling price. The Ontario Investment Society, which has the mortgage, was an object of pity. Mr. Purdom asked that the assessment be $10,000.

A lively dialogue between the mayor and Mr. Purdom ensued. The latter pleaded strongly for consideration for Mr. Elliott, who had been a heavy taxpayer and had never grumbled.

Ald. Stevely moved that the taxes on realty be reduced to $15,000. Lost.

The clause of the report carried and the balance of it passed.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Ald. Parnell, for the Board of Health, reported estimates of $2,000, and recommended that the mayor sign the petition asking that greater powers be conferred on municipalities in dealing with hospitals and pest houses. Carried.

THE FREE LIBRARY.

Ald. Coo reported the result of the negotiations between the special committee and the Free Library Board, the majority of whom favored a new building at a cost of $20,000.

Ald. Parnell moved that the debentures for the required amount be issued. They would not fall due this year.

Ald. Stevely seconded it heartily. He had made an inspection and found that to put in shape the Mechanics' Institute would cost about as much as a new building.

Ald. Welford favored using the Mechanics' Institute, if possible.

Ald. Taylor moved that the ratepayers vote on a bylaw to raise $30,000 for the purpose.

Chairman Macklin of the Free Library Board, said a majority of 2,500 of the people voted for a free library, and the board was elected to carry out their expressed wish. They found that it would cost $7,000 to put the Mechanics' Institute in shape. Three-eighths of a mill for 20 years would pay the whole outlay, the interest and the running expenses of a new building. They need not loose the books or the grant of the Institute if they were astute enough.

Mr. E. R. Cameron argued that it would not be fair to submit the matter to the people, for it was a foregone conclusion that the whole thing would be voted down.

Mayor Essery—Have you the plans of the buildings?

Mr. Cameron—No. We have no funds, and it would be an expense to have plans and specifications prepared.

Ald. J. W. Jones said there was a ring of insincerity about Ald. Taylor's motion. He would vote for a free library, and for a building erected for that purpose only. If a free library were established the Ontario Government would continue their grant.

Ald. Stevely said he had a good general knowledge of buildings and was satisfied that the building could be put up for the price named.

Ald. Coo—How much would you take and put a tin roof on it?

Ald. Parnell—Put the question.

Ald. Coo—I am putting it. (Laughter.)

Ald. Pritchett moved in amendment to the amendment that the Free Library Board get plans and specifications and call for tenders at the expense of the city. No seconder.

Ald. Welford moved that the whole matter lay over for a week, during which time the council will look into the Mechanics' Institute scheme and the plans as prepared by the board.

Ald. Moule could not favor the expending of such a large sum of money this year.

Ald. Taylor's amendment was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Mayor Essery and Ald. Taylor, Coo, Moule, Thos. Jones, Carrothers, J. Fitzgerald, Scarrow, Garratt, Dreaney, F. J. Fitzgerald, and Shaw—12. Nays—Ald. J. W. Jones, Stevely, Welford, Parnell, and Pritchett—5.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Coo—Who authorized the hen coop on four wheels drawn by a horse and driven by a man, followed by a man with a fish net, and a policeman with a club to go through the city scooping up respectable inhabitants and imprisoning them without first serving a warrant?

Mayor Essery—I believe the chief of police ordered them out.

Ald. Coo—Then I move that the chief be drawn around in the hen coop.

Ald. Fitzgerald moved that the clause in No. 3 committee's report regarding their estimates be reconsidered at a special meeting of the council. Carried.

Ald. Coo moved that Ald. Taylor, Stevely, Scarrow, Dreaney and Shaw be a special committee to interview the London Street Railway Company on the question of substituting electricity for horses and extending their lines, to report at the next meeting of the council. Carried.

Ald. Coo then charged Ald. Parnell with having done his best to burk the street railway question every time it was proposed. If London did not get an electric street railway it would be his (Ald. Parnell's) fault.

On Ald. Parnell's objection, Ald. Coo's motion was ruled out of order, Ald. Parnell then moved that the matter go to No. 1 committee. Carried.

Ald. Garratt moved that the city engineer prepare plans for the proposed removal of all the city offices in the hall to the ground floor. Lost.

Ald. Coo moved that the chief of police be instructed to take the dog catchers off the street.

Ald. Welford—I would like to know if Ald. Coo is afraid?

Ald. Coo—I am not afraid about myself, but I have serious doubts about Ald. Parnell.

The mayor called Ald. Coo down and ruled the motion out of order.

Ald. Coo gave notice that he would move the motion again at the next meeting.

BYLAWS.

To regulate the erection of poles and wires for the use of the Canadian General Electric Company.

Ald. Parnell's amendments to provide that no interference should be caused to any electric undertaking by the city, and that 5 per cent. of the gross earnings of the company should be paid the city after five years were both lost.

The bylaw was then finally passed.

Bylaws to regulate the erection of poles and wires on city streets, to provide for the construction of an artificial stone walk on north of King street, and to provide for watering certain streets were passed, and the council adjourned at 1 a.m.

No one can tell just exactly what an article is like by reading about it; nor can one tell whether it be worth the price asked without seeing it. As this is an age of imitation, it often becomes extremely difficult to detect the good from the spurious. You doubtless have discovered this to your sorrow. We pride ourselves that all our goods bear inspection and are exactly as represented.

To-day we are showing a rare line of French Challies that have just come to hand from Paris. Last season the same quality of goods was sold by us for 45c per yard, and the price was not thought too high. Nor was it. Now we are offering these beautiful goods in dark and light colors at 35c per yard. You see the difference and will doubtless appreciate it.

A consignment of Whip Cords is also to hand. They are all-wool French goods and come in a variety of colors. The price is 37½c per yard. Really the best value ever offered. A better line may be had at 45c.

Apart from Dress Goods, our Parasol, Mantle and Millinery Departments are replete with this season's attractions. Your wants in any of these departments may be supplied, and you can rely on courteous treatment by an efficient staff of obliging assistants. The price on every article is marked to the lowest limit consistent with business principles, and if you should forget to ask for a reduction it will make no difference. We sell for one price only. A Street Railway Improvement.

The Street Railway Company have a gang of men at work on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, laying a new switch which will prove a great convenience. It will directly connect the Richmond street north track with that on Dundas street east; at present this connection has to be made at the G. T. R. station double track, with much loss of time. This will give the company independent lines running from Dundas street to Mount Hope and London South alternately every five minutes, thus making a much better service.

Londoners Get a Windfall.

The will of Mr. Richard Puddicombe, who, until his death on March 17, was reputed to be Stratford's wealthiest citizen, was filed for probate to-day. The estate covered by the will is the largest ever filed for probate in Perth county, and is made up of personal estate valued at $232,070 and real estate valued at $6,925. The executors are Mr. Robert B. Puddicombe, of New Hamburg, and Robert W. Puddicombe, of London, nephews of the deceased. The estate is divided as follows: To Mr. Thos. Puddicombe, of England, a legacy of $10,000; to Robert Puddicombe, of England, $6,000; Mr. John Puddicombe, of London, Ont., $10,000; Mr. Thos. Puddicombe, of Haysville, $6,000; Fanny Osborne, of London, $6,000; to the three daughters of Mary McClary, $6,000, to be equally divided between them; to his three nieces, Mary B. Tye, Frances B. Puddicombe, and Annie B. Puddicombe, a legacy of $51,000, to be equally divided between them. All the rest and residue of his estate is bequeathed to his executors.

A Large Gathering.

One of the largest and most important religious gatherings held in London is that which commences this afternoon at St. Andrew's Church, this city. It is the annual convention of the Women's Foreign Mission Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada (western division). Delegates have been arriving all day. They came from as far west as Winnipeg and as far east as the Maritime Provinces. Local representatives are meeting them and escorting them to St. Andrew's, where they receive their billets.

A Job for Mr. Carling.

An Ottawa dispatch says: Mr. J. S. Larke left last night for Chicago. He was yesterday appointed executive officer for Canada for the World's Fair. Hon. John Carling and Hon. Joseph Tassie have been appointed honorary commissioners.

"Side-Tracked" To-Night.

"Side-Tracked," the mirth-provoking comedy-drama, with the original "Chicago cast," is the attraction at the Grand to-night. The play is full of realistic and powerful mechanical effects, and is gemmed with mirth and pathos. The adventures of the "tramp" in travel by rail form the nucleus around which is woven a network of comedy situations. The railroad scene in "Side-Tracked" is wonderfully realistic, and positively the funniest ever produced. All the other sensational and comedy scenes in "Side-Tracked" are original conceptions. Incidentally there are a number of specialties of a high character, including the musical specialty by Murphy and Mackin, and Rawson, the world's greatest club manipulator. Mr. Rawson's act of swinging four clubs at one time, blindfolded, is a wonderful piece of work.

The Cleveland Syndicate.

Mr. Miller, of the Cleveland syndicate, in talking to an ADVERTISER reporter today, laughed at the idea that the road would again revert to the city. "I don't think any one is fool enough to lose $25,000," he said. "At least I know we are not." As regards the proposed change of presidency, Mr. Miller said be knew nothing about the alleged succession of Mr. Zerbee. There was no president of the road just at present from the fact that there was no company organized, and would not be until May 8. But in the meantime he was going to remain in charge and the road would be run as usual.

The Big Cheese Here.

Fully 1,000 people gathered at the C. P. R. station here this afternoon to see the monster Canadian cheese—the largest ever made—which is on its way to the World's Fair. The crowd waited patiently for the freight train from the east, which arrived about 2:15, and was side-tracked for an hour or two. The car bearing the huge burden was instantly surrounded by the curious throng. To be sure they could not see the cheese itself, but they could appreciate its enormity by the dimensions of the covering. It is being borne to its destination on an extra strong flat car. The cheese weighs 13 tons, stands about 11 feet in height and is of proportionate circumference. On its journey it is protected by a half inch steel casing. Mr. J. A. Ruddick, who has the cheese in charge, told an ADVERTISER reporter that on the way up from Perth, from which place it was shipped on Saturday, it had been viewed by a curious crowd of men, women and children at every station. Owing to the difficulty experienced in distributing the weight of the cheese, four truss-rods of the car which bears it have been broken on the trip so far. The car was supported with some heavy timbers at Toronto Junction on its arrival there, and it is hoped that the rest of the journey to Chicago will be safely accomplished. The exhibit will probably arrive at the World's Fair grounds on Thursday next. A second car bears the weight of the huge truck or lorry upon which the cheese is to stand at Chicago, and upon which it will be carried about in England. Four cheeses, each weighing 1,000 pounds, and a number of smaller ones were also upon the train. Both cars were profusely decorated with Union Jacks. The omnipresent photographer was on hand with his camera.

EASTER VESTRIES.

Christ Church.

Rev. Canon Smith presided at the adjourned vestry meeting of Christ Church. Among those present were: Messrs. McCormick, Robinson, O'Brien, Minhinnick, Chittick, Parkinson, Cousins, Wicks, Irwin, Grieves, Welch, Loney, Winder, A. G. McCormick.

The auditors' report, which was adopted, showed voluntary offerings of $1,232, leaving a small balance, though there is some debt on the new school.

The wardens reported that arrangements had been made whereby Rev. A. Rhodes would officiate until June, and then again in October owing to the rector's illness. The rector's offer to receive the amounts of the synod assessment in lieu of pew rents was accepted. The sexton's salary was increased by $22.

A discussion arose over the free pew system, which the rector supported heartily, though it required some consideration first. The matter was laid over for inquiry.

St. James' Church.

The adoption of the auditors' statement was the principal item of business at St. James' adjourned vestry meeting.

The report showed yearly receipts of $4,308 31, a balance of $43 over disbursements. Votes of thanks were passed to the choir and Sunday school workers. Rev. Canon Davis presided.

THE POLICE COURT.

A Deal of Trouble Over a Stove Deal—Barbers Must Shave at Home on Sunday—Boys Must Keep Off the Street Corners—The Usual Drunks.

There was considerable trouble over a stove deal at Mrs. Johns' house, on Bathurst street, one day lately, and, as a result, Max Goldberg had Charles Harris charged with assault at this morning's Police Court. They are both peddlers, and were in Mrs. Johns' house bidding on a stove. Harris was the fortunate bidders and then the fun commenced. Mr. Goldberg took the stand this morning, but before taking the oath went back for his cap. After placing it on his head he kissed the book and then removed the cap. This is evidently a Hebraic custom. He claimed that Harris had assaulted him in the house by throwing stove lids and a sugar bowl at him. He then finished the assault on the street by means of a stone. Mr. Goldberg's feelings were also considerably hurt by reason of a choice string of unmentionable adjectives that Harris made splendid use of. Harris had chased him out of the house, and he swore positively that he did not strike Harris until after the latter struck him.

L. Rosenberg, also took the oath with his hat on and corroborated Goldberg's statement, with the additional information that Harris had threatened to kill him if he went witness for Goldberg.

Charles Harris, the defendant, swore that Goldberg had struck him first on the back of the head as he was working over the stove. He denied the stone-throwing charge and said that Goldberg had taunted him by stating that he dare not do anything because he was under a $200 bond to keep the peace.

Cross-examined by Mr. Love—He was not under bond to keep the peace, but acknowledged having been up twice before on the charge of assault.

Joe Gleason, Fred Vanderlip and Mrs. Johns gave testimony and the magistrate dismissed the case.

Mr. Hugh Sharkey admitted that his barber shop was open on Sunday, April 16, but it was for the convenience of his bath customers. He did not think it was against the law for a barber to shave himself with his own tools, as one of his employes did on that day. The blinds were up and there was no public shaving going on.

The police magistrate thought it was a violation of the law to even have his place open on Sunday. All employes of barber shops must, he said, shave themselves at home on that day. On condition that Mr. Sharkey follow this rule, the charge was dismissed.

Four prominent citizens paid $1 each for the privilege of having a policeman find them riding their wheels on the sidewalk.

Wm. Smirch, Henry Smirch, Geo. S. Anderson, Charles Smythe and Henry Ryson were East End youths who were charged with being disorderly around the streets at night. They were all respectable working boys, and the police magistrate gave them each a good lecture and dismissed them with the warning that if they appeared again they would be punished.

One drunk was remanded for a week, one fined $1 and another discharged. A tramp will be seen out of town.

His Repentance.

"Do you dislike Mr. Cray, Uncle Richard?"

"Dislike him! no, child. Have I not made him my partner? I like him personally very much. I don't know whether he has much stability," continued the doctor, in a musing tone, as though he were debating the question with himself. "But let that pass. My objection to him for you, Caroline, is chiefly on a pecuniary score."

"I am sure we shall have enough," she answered in a lower tone.

"If I give my consent, Carry, I give it under protest; and make a bargain with you at the same time."

Caroline lifted her eyes. His voice had turned to a jesting one.

"What protest?—what bargain?" she asked.

"That I give my consent in opposition to my better judgment. The bargain is, that when you find you have married imprudently and cannot make both ends meet, you don't turn round and blame me."

She bent her eyes with a smile and shook her head in answer, and began twisting the chain that lay upon her fair neck, and the bracelets upon her pretty arms. She wore the same pretty dress that she had worn in the afternoon, and so did Sara; but the high bodices had been changed for low ones, the custom for dinner at Dr. Davenal's.

"I will not withhold my consent. But," he added, his tone changing to the utmost seriousness, "I shall recommend you both to wait. To wait at least a year or two. You are very young, only 20."

"It is Sara who is only 20."

He smiled at the eagerness. One year seems so much to the young.

"Twenty-one, then; since last week I believe. And Mark has barely completed his 25th year. You can well afford to wait. A year or two's time may make a wonderful difference in the position of affairs. Your share of that disputed property may have come to you, rendering a settlement upon you feasible; and Mark, if he chooses to be saving, may have got chairs and tables together by that time. Perhaps I might increase his share at once to help him do it."

"Would you be so kind as to enlighten me as to the nature of your conversation with Caroline, Dr. Davenal?"

The interruption came from Miss Bettina. Deaf as she was, it was impossible for her not to perceive that some subject of unusual moment was being discussed, and nothing annoyed her more than to fancy she was purposely held in the dark. For the last five minutes she had sat ominously up in her chair. Very upright she always did sit, at all times and all seasons; but in moments of displeasure this stiff uprightness was unperceptible. Dr. Davenal rose from his seat and walked towards her, bending his face a little. He had a dislike to talk to her on her very deaf days; it made him hoarse for hours afterwards.

"Caroline wants to be married, Bettina."

Miss Bettina did catch the right words this time, but she doubted it. She had not yet learned to look upon Caroline as anything but a child. Could the world have gone round in accordance with the ideas of Miss Bettina, nobody with any regard to propriety would have married in it until the age of thirty was past. Her cold gray eyes and her mouth gradually opened as she looked from her brother to her niece, from her niece to her brother.

"Wants to be what, did you say?"

"To be married, Aunt Bett," cried out the doctor. "It's the fashion, it seems with the young folks now-a-days! You were not in so great a hurry when you were young."

The doctor spoke in no covert spirit of joking—as a stranger might have supposed, Miss Davenal being Miss Davenal still. Bettina Davenal had had her romance in life. In her young days, when she was not much older than Caroline, a poor curate had sought to make her his wife. She was greatly attached to him, but he was very, very poor, and prudence said, "Wait until better times shall come for him." Miss Bettina's father and mother were alive then; the latter a great invalid, and that also weighed with her, for in her duty and affection she did not like to leave her home. Ay, cold and unsympathizing as she appeared to be now, Bettina Davenal had once been a warm, loving girl, an affectionate daughter. And so, by her own fiat, she waited and waited, and in her 30th year that poor curate, never promoted to be a rich one, died—died of bad air, and hard work, and poor nourishment. His duties were cast in the midst of one of our worst metropolitan localities; and they were heavy, and his stipend was small. From that time Bettina Davenal's disposition had changed; she grew cold, formal, hard; repentance, it was suspected was ever upon her, that she had not risked her prudence and saved his life. Her own fortune, added to what he earned would at least have saved him from the ills of poverty.

"Who wants to marry her?" questioned Miss Davenal, when she could take her condemning eyes away from Caroline.

"Mark Cray."

The words seemed to mollify Miss Davenal in a slight degree, and her head relaxed a little from its uprightness. "She might do worse, Richard. He is a good man, and I dare say he is making money. Those civil engineers get on well."

"I said Mark Cray, Aunt Bett," repeated the doctor.

"Mark! He won't do. He is only a boy. He has got neither house nor money."

"Just what I say," replied the doctor. "I tell her they must wait."

"Mad! to be sure they must be mad both of them," complacently acquiesced Miss Davenal.

"Wait, I said, Bettina," roared the doctor.

"You need not rave at me, Richard. I am not deaf as a post. Who says anything about 'fate?' Fate, indeed! don't talk of fate to me. Where's your common sense gone?"

"Wait, I said, Aunt Bett! Wai-a-it! I tell them they must wait."

"No," said Aunt Bett. "Better break it off."

"I don't think they will," returned the doctor.

Miss Bettina turned her eyes on Caroline. That young lady, left to herself, had pretty nearly done for the damask napkin. She dreaded but one person in the world, and that was stern Aunt Bettina. Miss Bettina rose in her slow, stately fashion, and turned Caroline's drooping face towards her.

"What in the world has put it into your head to think of Mark Cray?"

"I didn't think of him before he thought of me," was poor Caroline's excuse, which, of course, Miss Davenal did not catch.

"Has it ever occurred to you to reflect, Caroline, how very serious a step is that of settlement in life?"

"We shall get along, Aunt Bettina."

"I'll not get along," said Aunt Bettina, her face darkening, "I attempt to say a little word to you for your good, for your own interest, and you tell me to 'get along!' How dare you, Caroline Davenal?"

"Oh, Aunt Bettina! I said we should get along."

"I don't know that you will get along if you marry Mark Cray. I don't like Mark Cray. I did not think——"

"Why don't you like him, aunt?"

"I don't know," replied Miss Bettina. "He is too light and careless. I did not think it a wise step of your uncle's to take him into partnership; but it was not my province to interfere. The Crays brought matters to nothing, you know. Lived like princes for a few years, and when affairs came to be looked into on Mr. Cray's death, the money was gone."

"That was not Mark's fault," returned Caroline, indignantly. "It ought to be no reason for you disliking him, Aunt Bettina."

"It gives one prejudices, you see. He may be bringing it to the same in his own case before his life is over."

"You might as well say the same of Oswald," resentfully spoke Caroline.

"No, Oswald's different. He is worth a thousand of Mark. Don't think of Mark, Caroline. You might do so much better—better in all ways."

"I don't care to do better," was the rebellious answer. And then, half frightened at it, repenting of its insolence, poor Caroline burst into tears. She felt indignant at the disparagement of Mark. Fortunately for her, Miss Davenal mistook the words.

"We don't care that you should do better! Of course we care. What are you thinking of, child? Your uncle studies your interests as much as he would Sara's."

"More!" impulsively interrupted the doctor, who was pacing the room, his hands under his coat tails. "I might feel scrupulous in opposing Sara's inclinations."

"You hear, Caroline! The doctor opposes this inclination of yours!"

Caroline cast a look to him, a sort of helpless appeal; not only that he would not oppose it, but that he would set right Miss Davenal.

"I don't oppose it, Bettina; I don't go so far as that. I recommend them to wait. In a year or two——"

A loud knock at the hall door startled Dr. Davenal. Knocks there were pretty frequent—loud ones, too; but this was loud and long as a peal of thunder. And it startled somebody besides the doctor.

That somebody was Neal. Neal's mind was by far too composed a one to be ruffled by any sort of a shock and Neal's nerves were in first-rate order. It happened, however, that Neal was rather unpleasantly near to the front door at that moment, and the sudden sound, so sharp, so long, did make him start.

The Combines and Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act.

[Specially Reported for the ADVERTISER.]

Toronto, April 15.

What was reported as the most influential deputation that has waited upon the Dominion Government this session was received by Sir Oliver Mowat and his colleagues in the council chamber yesterday afternoon. It represented the Patrons of industry, and was composed of the grand president, C. A. Mallory of Warkworth; the grand vice-president, T. O. Currie, Strathroy; the grand secretary, L. A. Welch, Strathroy; A. Gifford, Meaford; Fergus Kennedy, Camlachie; and F. Lockie Wilson, Alexandria. Messrs. Peter Hempinstall, Jabel Robinson and Henry Glendinning, of the Dominion Grange, were also present. The deputation was accompanied by Mr. Waters, member for North Middlesex, and Mr. Wood, M.P.P. for North Brant, and Mr. George Wrigley, editor of the CANADA FARMERS' SUN.

Grand President Mallory said: We appear before you, honorable sirs, representing 2,000 local associations of the Patrons of Industry—an organization that is constantly extending its influence and adding to its numbers. We are authorized to present for your consideration the following memorial in favor of legislative changes:

1. To cause that mortgages, railway, bank and all company stocks and debentures be withdrawn from the list of properties exempted from taxation; and that taxes be required to be paid upon the values of such mortgages, in lieu of the properties so encumbered, and such stocks and debentures, instead of upon the incomes derived therefrom, as at present.

2. To cause that the superior courts of the Province be decentralized, and that the jurisdiction of division courts be increased.

3. That the Government will take such action as will give effect to plank No. 8 in the Patrons' platform: "A system of civil service reform that will give each county power to appoint or elect all county officials paid by them, except county judges."

4. That chapter 30 of 55 Vic., known as the "act respecting compensation to workmen in certain cases," be amended as follows, sub-section 2 by adding the following words after the word "act": "Save and excepting where such employes shall be engaged in the ordinary work of the agriculturist, including husbandman, gardener or fruit grower." And that sub-section 3 be amended by striking out on the third line therefore the words "servant in husbandry."

5. That it be made the duty of the county crown attorney to prosecute any persons who conspire, combine or associate themselves in any wise, or do any act, for the purpose or when the tendency thereof would be to control the price of any manufactured or commercial article; and that a test case be made under the present act for the prevention and suppression of combinations formed for the restraint of trade, and that the Province bear one-half the expense of such test case.

In regard to the last named reform, the grand president said that an anti-combine act existed, and when the Patron delegation visited Ottawa it was told that the Dominion Government would pay one-half the cost of making a test case to see whether it would meet the purpose for which it was put on the statute book if the Province would pay the other half.

ASSESSMENT OF MORTGAGES.

Grand Trustee Gifford said: I have been requested to explain the first proposition. The Patrons of Industry ask that an important change in the assessment law take place. They desire that a mortgage should be taxed the same as other capital that farmers have invested in their operations. They propose that a man who holds a mortgage shall pay the tax on the interest he has in the property mortgaged, while the man who gave the mortgage will pay taxes upon his interest in the property.

Sir Oliver Mowat—Would you have the mortgagee pay his share of the taxes to the municipality where he resides?

Mr. Gifford—No; I would have him pay it where the property is. We feel that the system now in vogue in reference to the assessment and taxation of mortgages tends to draw the community away from agricultural pursuits, because they feel that they are placed at a great disadvantage.

Hon. Mr. Hardy—How are you going to get at it? If, for instance, John Smith, who owns a farm, gives a mortgage for $2,000, held by a building society or a bank or a private individual living in Toronto, how are you going to assess the mortgagee?

Mr. Gifford, in reply, proposed two ways of reaching the mortgagee. One would be for the occupant of the land mortgaged to pay his interest to the mortgagee less the amount of taxes which the mortgagee should pay. Another plan would be for the mortgagee to file in the registry office a receipt for the money that had been paid on the mortgage. The assessor would ascertain the amount of the occupant's mortgage indebtedness and then he would apportion the taxation between them.

Sir Oliver Mowat—That would be complicated, but the first plan seems more simple.

Mr. Hardy—It is simple, but it does not give the mortgagee the right to appeal, should the assessment not be equitable. There might be a dispute as to the amount due.

Mr. Gifford—He could inquire at the registry office.

Hr. Hardy—Yes, but he would have to pay for the search.

Mr. Gifford—I think provision could be made for that. At all events, he would not be in any worse position than non-residents now are. Provisions could be made whereby the assessor could notify the mortgagee.

Mr. Hardy—But he may not always know who holds the mortgage. The mortgagee may have given the mortgage to a bank as security.

Sir Oliver Mowat—Suppose the mortgagor were to be given credit in the payment of interest or principal for the amount he had paid in taxes. That might be a simpler way of getting at it.

Hon. Mr. Gibson—Don't you think that if the taxes were collected in this way provision would be made in the mortgage for the extra charge against the property?

Mr. Gifford—No. The system we ask for has been introduced in some of the States.

Mr. Hardy—Where?

Mr. Gifford—In Michigan.

Mr. Hardy—I thought it had been tried there, and repealed because it did not come up to expectations.

Mr. Gifford—Our information is that it has been re-enacted. At first the law was called "granger legislation" and was objected to by the money lenders, and they managed to have it repealed.

Mr. Hardy—Money lenders are a small fraction in the community. How could they overcome the non-money lenders.

Mr. Gifford—We find in this country that a few men can wield a great deal of power when they combine together.

Mr. Hardy—Perhaps a few can wield great influence when they control railways or combines.

Mr. Gifford—Yes, we have suffered enough from these combines.

DECENTRALIZING THE COURTS.

Grand Vice-President Currie supported that portion of the petition which prayed for the decentralization of the superior courts and for increased jurisdiction for the division courts. He said: Much inconvenience is caused by provisions of the law which compels so much of the business of the superior courts to be transacted at Toronto. I have seen myself four days elapse between the time when a western man notified a Toronto lawyer to apply for an injunction and the time when the injunction was granted. Such delay might prove very detrimental to the persons affected, and a failure of justice might ensue.

Mr. Gibson—The act passed last session provides for the hearing of this class of motions for interim injunctions by the county judges.

The Premier—What other objections have you?

Mr. Currie—The fault is we feel that there should be a superior court judge in the west and the east. With judges as with affairs, we feel that the few should go to the masses and not the masses go to the few. The change I outline would be a great saving to the people of the Province. Then we believe the jurisdiction of the division courts should be increased. When last the jurisdiction was extended a great boon was conferred on the people. Their law was much cheapened. We ask why it should not be rendered still less costly by further increasing the jurisdiction of the division courts. At present many men are contented to lose money on debts representing over $200 so as to reduce the sum sued for to that amount, and thus enable them to collect through the Division Court instead of by the more extensive County Court. We feel that justice could be meted out just as fairly in the Division Court, with or without a jury, as might be agreed upon, as in the County Court. There would be a large saving to the people by the change, and they would value it very highly.

APPOINTMENT OF PUBLIC OFFICERS.

Mr. Wilson said: I desire to support that portion of the petition asking that all public officials except judges, shall be appointed by the municipalities. School inspectors have for years been selected by the county councils, and no one can take much exception to the men selected. Why should not license inspectors and registrars be also appointed? It is true that these officers are not entirely paid out of county funds, but after all the money that does pay them comes from the people. Often members of the Government lived far from the localities in which the officers to be elected were found, and necessarily had to take their information from other parties. We contend that the municipalities are better able to judge of the fitness of persons to fill offices than the members of the Government can be.

COMPENSATION FOR INJURY TO WORKMEN.

Mr. Kennedy said: We desire to be relieved of the responsibility for damages imposed by the Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act. It is unreasonable to expect us to pay damages to a workman. The hired man of the average farmer does not occupy the same position as a factory hand. The factory operative can be constantly under supervision. He has a foreman to look after him. The farm hand is foreman as well as an ordinary employe, and he is boss in his employer's absence. It is utterly impossible to prevent these men from being careless or from inflicting on themselves injuries for which they can claim $1,500 damages. These imported laborers are not at all reliable, and we should not be placed in their power.

Mr. Gibson—I saw a piece in a paper the other day, evidently written by a city man, stating that the manufacturers complain, on the other hand, that every time a jury of farmers have to deal with these cases they sock it to them right up to the hilt. The juries have more to do with the hardships under this law than anybody else.

Mr. Kennedy complained that the character of the hired help upon the farms was not what it used to be. There were too many young Englishmen of very poor ability about nowadays.

Mr. Hardy—I am inclined to think that the Attorney-General might be of the opinion that the hired help should be Yankees if they are not to be Englishmen. (Laughter.)

Mr. Kennedy—Some of these young Englishmen are so unprincipled that they would cut off two or three of their toes for the sake of getting the $1,500. They could not earn that amount on a farm in 50 years.

THE COMBINES.

Mr. Welch, in supporting the request of the deputation relating to the enforcement of the law against combinations in restraint of trade, said that a deputation representing the Patrons had waited upon Sir John Thompson, who told them that if the act were found to be insufficient the Dominion Government would be willing to propose an amendment. It was the duty of the Provincial Government to put the law into effect.

Sir Oliver Mowat—We generally carry out our own laws and they theirs, unless they are criminal laws.

Mr. Hardy (to Mr. Welch)—Who informed you of that?

Mr. Welch—The Premier, Sir John Thompson. Continuing, he said that large manufacturing concerns were more public than private in their character, and any impositions by them were impositions on the whole people. It was not fair to expect the individual to defend the public interests, but the Government being the protectors of the public interests should prosecute in cases under this law.

Sir Oliver Mowat—Gentlemen, we are glad to see you. The representations that you have made will have our most careful consideration.

—The attention of ADVERTISER readers is drawn to the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to be held in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. A Pleasant Gathering.

The Sunday school teachers and choir of Christ Church, to the number of 40, met at the rectory last evening and presented Miss F. Smith, late organist, with a kindly-worded address and a beautiful silver tea service as an expression of their esteem and regard, wishing her much happiness in her new position in life. The address was read by Mr. A. F. Wicks, and the set was presented by Miss M. Pococke. The rector replied in behalf of Miss Smith, and the company joined in singing "God be with you till we meet again."

Not To Be Trusted.

We confess to a settled distrust of this kissing traitor of a month, be its occasional kisses ever so warm and balmy. It is a slander on every blushing, honest girl to portray April, as the poets do, as a maiden arch, sweet-breathed and debonnair. He is a middle-aged humbug, in this latitude, the color in his cheek is not skin deep, his hair is white with hoar frost, his gayety is cruel, his breath malarial. You cannot trust him an hour from home without your ulster and umbrella. He can be "trusted only as the fox, who ne'er so tame or cherished will have a wild trick of his ancestors."—[Minneapolis Times.

"Gloriana" at the Grand.

One of the liveliest, breeziest comedies given here for a long time was that presented at the Grand last night before a good audience. "Gloriana" as produced by Charles Frohman's excellent company is a highly laughable production, abounding in sprightly dialogue and absurd complications and situations which assist in unraveling a cleverly-conceived plot. The action is exceedingly lively, and sustains a continuous whirl of fun. The work is pretty evenly divided among the members of the company, in whom there is not a noticeably weak spot. To praise one is to praise all. "Gloriana" was preceded by a curtain-raiser. "Out of the Storm," a very attractive one-act drama.

My Life Saved—Nine Years a Dyspeptic and Sufferer of Liver Complaint—Three Bottles Royal Crown Remedy Effected a Complete Cure—Now Twelve Years and no Symptom of Return of the Disease—Read for Yourself.

LONDON, Aug., 30, 1889.

TO MR. WILLIAMS:

It is not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to you and the suffering world that I add my testimony with the many you have already received. Royal Crown Remedy cannot be too highly praised. It has saved my life. For nine years I suffered extremely with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and could not retain anything at all on my stomach without excessive vomiting. Erysipelas set in, which confined me to my bed. Doctors could do me no good. I also tried many other plans with no success. I was induced by Mr. I. Williams to try his medicine, which I did after much persuading. Three bottles completely cured me, and for twelve years I have had no symptoms. Your medicine is worthy of praise. I advise all suffering humanity to try it, for it is the best.
