Britain Will Send 3,000 Selected Families To Canada

AGREEMENT CALLS FOR SELECTED FAMILIES

British Government Will Send Out Thousands to Dominion.

CANADA HAS CHOICE

Hon. James A. Robb Completes New Arrangement With Imperial Authorities.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—The settlement in Canada of 3,000 British families to be selected by the dominion is provided for in a new immigration agreement which has been concluded between Hon. James A. Robb, minister of immigration, and the British Government. Under the agreement the British Government provides all money for equipment and sailing, which will total between four and a half and five million dollars, the settlers to repay the amount expended over a period of 25 years.

The function of the immigration department of Canada in the matter consists in directing the settling of these immigrants when they arrive in the dominion and assisting them through the services of the field staff of the department. The settlers will be given choice of land in any part or province they select, but it is assumed the major number will choose to settle in the Northwest.

The administration of the scheme over here will be in the hands of the immigration department.

Sailings of immigrants under the new agreement, which is regarded as an excellent one here, will begin some time next March.

The principle on which Mr. Robb proceeded in negotiating the agreement was that settlement of British people was a matter for the British Government. Naturally Canada proposed to assist in the movement of settlers to the Dominion, but the responsibility must primarily be that of Great Britain. Mr. Robb is expected in Canada about the end of the month, when fuller details as to negotiations which have been carried on with the overseas settlement board will be available to the government.

BRITISH OPINIONS.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 21.—Authorities here who possess a practical knowledge of emigration and colonization matters, particularly with regard to Canada, are disposed to anticipate really tangible results from the agreement signed in London yesterday by Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian acting minister of finance and minister of immigration and colonization, on behalf of Canada, and Lord Arnold, under-secretary of state for the colonies, on behalf of the British government for the settlement of 3,000 British families on Canadian farms.

The Canadian Press learns that what the Canadian government has had chiefly in mind in connection with the negotiation of the new agreement is the filling of the twelve per cent or so of the farm lands, which are left over now that the soldiers' settlement board has closed down. These are the "suitable farms containing a sufficient area fit for immediate cultivation in settled and established districts in the various

U. S. WORLD FLIERS LEAVE ICELAND

Weather Conditions Are Ideal When Hop Off Is Made.

Associated Press Despatch.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 21.—The United States round-the-world fliers and Lieut. Locatelli, Italian airman, hopped off from here at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The fliers passed the United States cruiser Richmond on patrol about 70 miles off the coast from Iceland at 9:35 o'clock.

Lieut. Locatelli was leading his companions, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik M. Nelson, by five miles.

The weather was fine and flying conditions were excellent when the aviators set out. Lieut. Smith's plane lifted from the water a few minutes after 8 o'clock, and Lieut. Nelson's plane was off two minutes later.

Lieut. Locatelli, who caught up with the United States fliers in order to accompany them across the Atlantic after a lone flight from Pisa, Italy, got off eleven minutes after Lieut. Nelson. All of the takeoffs were made easily, none of the fliers having the slightest difficulty in jockeying from the water.

U. S. FEARS GOLD STORE MAY BE BURDENSOME

Negotiates With Britain To Have Debt Paid in Other Currency.

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, Aug. 21.—A flood of British gold expected to come into this country is worrying treasury officials and giving concern in Great Britain, according to talk in treasury circles. The gold which is causing concern is that to be paid out by the British government on principal and interest of its debt to this country. In December the British government is obligated to pay about $90,000,000 and the present outlook is it will be paid in gold. In the next year about $160,000,000 will be paid. The British can pay in gold or U. S. government securities, but as the latter are above par the natural course is to pay in gold. The outlook is for such an influx of gold to be burdensome to the United States, while the tendency will be to drain Europe of its gold supply.

Reports are that Secretary Mellon while abroad has taken up with British officials the question of how to arrive at some adjustment in the matter which will be to the advantage of both countries. Already large amounts of gold have been paid this country by the British on the debt.

CANADA CALLED HOPE OF FOOD FOR WORLD

Sir Henry Rew, Noted Expert on Food Problems, Studies the West.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Aug 21.—"With Canada lies the solution of the problem of the world's future food supply." This was the statement to the Canadian Press yesterday of Sir Henry Rew, an authority on world food problems, who is well known for his researches and writings on this subject. Sir Henry Rew has made a preliminary survey of agricultural conditons in the eastern part of the United States and is now studying the situation in the Canadian west with the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, who arrived here last night.

Sir Henry Rew supports the proposed plan of development along agricultural lines of the clay belt of Quebec and Northern Ontario. "It is a matter of finding and producing grains which are successful in this district," he stated.

Dock Strikers Return To Work

Sailings at Havre Again Normal as Men Come Back.

Associated Press Despatch.

Havre, France, Aug. 21.—The dock employees who went on strike recently returned to work today on the terms of the companies.

The strike started in the early part of August and seriously affected a number of the trans-Atlantic lines. The French Line steamer France, which sailed Aug. 16, for New York, was manned by a crew made up of French naval seamen, which took the place of the striking employees. Other vessels had to postpone sailings because they were unable to complete their crews. The strikers had demanded an increase in wages.

Associated Press Despatch.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 21—Engineer John Donnell was crushed to death and Fireman Lee Simons was scalded, when the engine of passenger train No. 12, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad turned over in the railroad yards at Mitchell, Indiana. None of the passengers were hurt.

The members of the Philadelphia National League baseball club were in the train, but they escaped injury. They were en route from St. Louis to Cincinnati, where they are scheduled to play today. It was reported that only the engine and mail coach left the track after going through an open switch.

PRINCESS GIVES BIRTH TO A SON

King's Second Grandson Is Born at Goldsborough Hall.

Associated Press Despatch.

Goldsborough, Yorkshire, England, Aug. 21.—Princess Mary, daughter of King George and wife of Viscount Lascelles, gave birth to her second child, a son, this morning at Goldsborough Hall, one of the seats of the Lascelles family.

Princess Mary was married to Viscount Lascelles in Westminster Abbey on February 28, 1922. Their first child, also a boy, was born in London on February 7, 1923, and was christened George Henry Hubert Lascelles.

HOPED FOR DAUGHTER.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 21.—The afternoon papers devote long stories with big headlines to the news from Goldsborough of the birth of a second son to Princess Mary, daughter of King George, and wife of Viscount Lascelles. There are long descriptions of Goldsborough Hall and its surroundings, and mention of the fact that King George and Queen Mary recently visited their daughter there, but left for Scotland before the event occurred. Some of the newspapers record Goldsborough village gossip to the effect that the princess had expressed the hope to her intimate friends that her second child would be a daughter, but that Viscount Lascelles had desired another son as a playmate for his heir, who is growing to be a sturdy little chap.

All the newspapers combine in wishing joy to the mother and son who are progressing favorably, according to the latest bulletins from Goldsborough.

COURT ORDERS OPERATORS TO CEASE PICKETING

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Labor men, according to an order made this morning at Osgoode Hall by Justice Wright, are restrained from picketing the Reed Mill Theatre in Hamilton, from carrying placards and signs protesting against labor men locked out.

The injunction application was made by David E. Stewart, manager of the theatre, who denied he had dismissed any union men, but alleged that motion picture operators were cluttering up the sidewalk in front of the Red Mill from 7:30 to 9:30 in the evenings. The claim of the union motion picture operators was that they were unjustly dismissed.

HERRIOT'S PLEA MEETS WITH JEERS AND CHEERS

French Premier Points Out the Fallacy of Failing To Ratify Plan.

UP TO DEPUTIES

Emphasizes Fact That Arbitration Was Main Principle Established.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Premier Herriot put the Dawes reparations plan and the agreement for making it effective before the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon and told the members:

"I, for my part, have chosen, but nothing final has been done, and parliament, in its turn, can choose."

Evacuation of the Ruhr, said the premier has dominated everything at the international conference at London, and he had had to choose between the re-establishment of an inter-allied entente and the continuance of isolated action."

M. Herriot emphasized that arbitration was the great principle established at the London conference, and asserted that France would gain by it, for it would need a great deal of optimism to believe that France, in the future, could again get the majority of votes which enabled her to enter the Ruhr."

The premier received a genuine ovation from his friends when he entered the chamber, but the hostile demonstration was quite marked, the Communists crying "Amnesty!" and hoisting banners. The Communist deputy, Henri Marty, led the cat-calls and booing, but the opposition subsided when M. Herriot took the rostrum and began to speak.

Before he had launched into his statement, however, the booing began again and M. Marty held aloft a banner bearing the phrase "Another Crime."

Great enthusiasm was displayed when M. Herriot declared that the application of the Dawes plan would dissipate the war spirit and when he told of France's horror at the thought of war.

The premier also was applauded when he said he could not refuse the Dawes plan, which was based on cooperation, and then he emphasized the importance of arbitration. He was interrupted by the Communists who cried, "Down with war!" and "Long Live Peace!" These interruptions were frequent, but the premier's supporters gave him rousing cheers when he told the method which had been adopted for determining when Germany was in default. This method,

City Officials Favor Plan To Forbid Girls Under 18 Visiting Public Dance Hall

Would Pass Bylaw Insisting Younger Girls Have Chaperone.

DIFFER ON POINTS

Manager Would Place Age at 16—Others Support Mayor.

While both Police Magistrate Graydon and Rev. Quintin Warner, judge of the juvenile court, agree with the suggestion of Mayor Wenige that some sort of regulation over the control of public dance halls, preventing girls alone being admitted, should be instituted, providing the city can get the necessary legal power to do so, W. H. Baines, manager of the London Winter Garden (though also in agreement), would limit the application of the regulations to girls under sixteen years of age.

Mayor Wenige mentioned eighteen as the age under which girls unaccompanied should not be allowed to enter a public dance hall. The police magistrate and the judge of the juvenile court state that the actual age is not so important as the individual girl in the case, stating that some girls of sixteen are better able to take care of themselves than other girls much older.

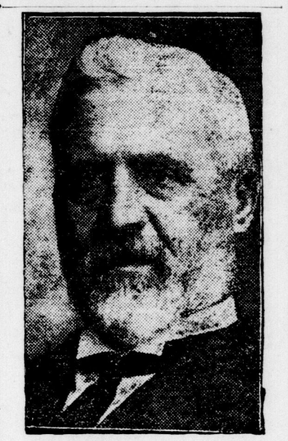

Police Magistrate Graydon said: "Yes, I think some kind of regulation over the public dance hall would be a good thing. Girls, at least up to eighteen, should not be allowed in these places without adequate escort. There is no doubt that this enforcement would lessen the number of cases that come to court, and would surely lessen the trouble that often follows from girls going alone or with another girl to a public dance hall."

Realization by Parents.

Rev. Quintin Warner suggested that the greatest need of the present time in connection with the public dance hall is a realization by parents of their responsibility and duty towards their girls.

"I think," he said, "the suggestion of the mayor is sound and that some regulation is absolutely necessary. The law, however, can only do so much. The real responsibility rests on the parents. When a girl gets into trouble through making acquaintances irregularly in a dance hall, or anywhere else, the parents are necessarily seriously involved. If the parents are so lacking in this realization, then the law must do what it can. I am strongly in favor of the suggestion and hope it will be given effect. However, that doesn't relieve the parents of young girls from their proper responsibility, and if they would realize what risks their girls

YOUTHS' PLAN WEAK IN ONE RESPECT

Failed To Hide Sufficiently Body of Their Victim.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Failure to hide sufficiently the body of Robert Franks was the breaking point in the plot of Nathan Leopold, Jun. and Richard Loeb, according to the state's analysis of the crime given today before Judge John R. Caverly by Joseph Savage, assistant State's Attorney.

In impasioned denunciations of the defendants Mr. Savage declared that if Leopold had forced the body well into the culvert instead of pushing it with his foot, it would not have been found.

He described the attempts to get $10,000 ransom from Bobby's father.

Mr. Savage asserted that Leopold and Loeb had drawn their plans so fine that if the father had followed direcetions and gone to a drug store in a cab furnished by the kidnappers, he would have been sent scurrying to a railroad depot, there to board a train to leave in a few minutes later.

In the parlor car the boys had placed a letter addressed to Mr. Franks and giving full directions on how to throw the money from the train.

"They would have reached the designated point in the automobile at the precise moment of the train were on time," said Mr. Savage.

A number of buildings were damaged at Kamsack, but no estimate of the loss has yet been obtained. No reports of loss of life has been received.

BOYS CONFESS SENDING OUT EXTORTION LETTER

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Two brothers one 11 years old, the other 9, have confessed, according to the police that they wrote a letter to Jacob Franks, father of the murdered Robert Franks, demanding $8,000, and threatening the death of Mr. Franks' wife and daughter if the money was not paid.

Earl Smith, 11, was arrested yesterday as he searched through a rubbish box for two decoy papers, left there in place of the money according to instructions in the extortion letter. He implicated his elder brother, Fielding, who admitted, detectives said, assisting Earl. The letter instructed Mr. Franks to place the money in $2 and $5 bills in baking powder cans, and throw them from an elevated train into the rubbish box.

THREE DIE IN EFFORT TO ESCAPE BOAT FIRE

Severn Falls, Muskoka, District Scene of Triple Drowning.

WOMAN IS SAVED

Heroism of Mrs. Charles Wilkinson Cuts Down Death Toll.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Severn Falls, Ont., Aug. 21.—While attempting to escape in a rowboat from a burning motor boat near here last night, three young men, Percy Beatty of Severn Bridge, Gerald Garrity and Arthur Heels of Waubashene, all between 20 and 30 years of age, were drowned when the rowboat capsized. Miss Ethel Fontaine of Toronto, who was also a passenger in the motor boat, was saved by the heroism of Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, of Severn Falls, who had put out to the rescue.

The three men who lost their lives were employees of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission at the big chute power plant near here. They left the chute after supper last evening to come to Severn Falls to spend the evening, and picked up Miss Fontaine at the cottage on the Severn River, where she was staying. Everything went well until within a quarter of a mile of their destination the boat took fire. The flames, in spite of all their efforts, crept rapidly towards the gasoline tank. An explosion seemed inevitable.

Puts Out to Rescue.

The cries of the motorboat passengers for help were heard by Mrs. Wilkinson at her home on the east bank of Severn River. She immediately secured a rowboat and put off to the rescue. By that time the flames had practically enveloped the motorboat, and the four occupants were compelled to jump and swim for the approaching rowboat. The struggling quartet, as they tried to get into the craft upset it and Mrs. Wilkinson herself was thrown into the water. She is a strong swimmer, however, and managed to grasp Miss Fontaine and get her to shore alive. The three men sank and their bodies were found this morning. It is believed that Beatty, who is a strong swimmer, might have reached shore had he not stopped to help Miss Fontaine and Mrs. Wilkinson.

Miss Fontaine was unconscious when she reached shore, but was revived by artificial respiration. It is believed that she will recover. Mrs. Wilkinson is quite well after her heroic experience.

HOME IS BEST PLACE IN OPINION OF MAYOR

Fails To Turn Up at Either the Liberal or Conservative Rally.

Mayor Wenige stayed at home yesterday and refrained from visiting either of the two political rallies in the afternoon. He had both the Woodstock rally, where the prime minister was to speak, and the Stratford meeting, where Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was speaking down on his book of engagements, and he had personal invitations from both camps.

"Oh, well, I just stayed at home," he told The Advertiser today. "I found that I was busy and had plenty to do. I never intended going to either of them in the first place. As it was I had a good time at home."

There had been some discussion at the time as to which meet the mayor would attend, and some speculation as to his political preference. In his diary the Conservative meet comes at the head of the page, and just below is the Liberal rally in brackets. He can't give any good reason for the brackets, or at least one that will satisfy everyone.

"Those brackets might have been to denote the meeting I was going to attend or the meeting I was going to miss. On the other hand they may have been used to denote the best show or the worst. I really can't explain them any further. It doesn't matter now, does it, because I didn't go to either."

Americans Anxiously Await Coming Visit of British Heir

U. S. Citizens in All Walks of Life Seek To Welcome Prince.

TOPIC OF THE DAY

Will Be His First Visit to the Republic Since November, 1919.

New York, Aug. 21.—After an interval of five years, Edward, Prince of Wales, comes to this country, where awaits him a welcome unchanged in its warm sincerity. The hold which the visitor has on the imagination is indeed amazing. A people intensely hostile to thrones and crowns, sharing this post-war antipathy with several other republics, the citizenry of the United States received this royal guest with open arms and heartfelt appreciation. That was back in November, 1919.

Today this country anticipates his arrival with the same generous sentiments, since increased many-fold, surpassed only by the intensity of the affection entertained by his future subjects in the realm.

Older, more experienced, a thorough-going man of the world, Wales, as the press of this country headlines the heir-apparent to the British throne, need fear none of the hostility that might have been expected five years ago. He has proved himself a likeable chap, a "game" sportsman, a "man's man."

Debutantes Are Anxious.

Citizens of the United States like his fresh complexion, nervous yet apt speech, spontaneous, whimsical smile, love of clean sportsmanship and pleasure, and his appreciation of service rendered him.

Efficient businessmen, hard laboring farmers, and shrewd professionals alike are interested. And, of course, the gay society belle is en-

PARCELS SHOULD NOT BE PLACED ON LETTER BOXES

Do not place parcels on street letter boxes. Such is the advice handed out by the postoffice department at Ottawa today. In many cases parcels which have been lost it can be traced to those who not finding a parcel box in the neighborhood have left the parcel on top of a letter box.

The postal department warns against this practice, pointing out that such parcels are at once at the mercy of the weather, dishonest people and mischievous children.

Soviet Hails Trade Treaty With England As a Triumph For Red Diplomacy

TREATY VICTORY CLAIMED BY REDS

Moscow Soviet Acclaims Delegates to British Trade Conference.

RUSSIA NEEDED

Associated Press Despatch.

Moscow, Aug. 21.—The negotiation of a treaty between Soviet Russia and the British government at the recent conference in London was hailed as a triumph for the red diplomacy at a meeting last night of the Moscow Soviet. The government will begin work on the further details of the agreement Saturday, after the Soviet delegation makes its report to the council of commissars.

Christian Rakovsky, who headed the London delegation, and Foreign Minister Tchitcherin spoke to the workers at last night's meeting. M. Rakovsky, after recapitulating the progress of the negotiations and the terms of the agreement, said: "The treaty was not signed without scratches, as its birth was most complicated."

"The world crisis," said Foreign Minister Tchitcherin," has now persuaded the world capitalists to recognize that, without regularizing its relationship with Russia, Europe cannot be reconstructed."

The meeting adopted a resolution thanking the delegates for their efforts and urging the government in future negotiations to adhere to the same program and not agree to principles which would place new taxation on the working class.

AGREEMENT CALLS FOR SELECTED FAMILIES

provinces," which form the basis of the agreement.

The official particulars of the agreement published here today are silent concerning the payment of passage money, which is always a vital point in emigration ventures, large or small. It is understood that this matter has been purposely left indefinite.

May Raise Own Passage Money.

Most of the farming families who offer to migrate are expected with some confidence to raise their passage money without difficulty, and for the families who are unable to do so, but are otherwise entirely suitable, there are ways and means under the existing regulations to surmount the difficulty.

One railway authority here indeed says families possessing transportation money are constantly offering to emigrate. Another equally reputable critic, however, noting the agreement signed yesterday by Mr. Robb and Lord Arnold, speaks of the settling of 3,000 families in Canada as likely to require at least three years' time, beginning next spring, according to the agreement.

It is understood that the agreement stipulates that each emigrating family shall possess "at least £25 on reaching their destination in Canada." This, however, is regarded as an elastic stipulation. The Canadian authorities have a firm belief that with many families this sum will prove a very modest estimate of their full financial resources.

Britain May Suffer.

Agriculture in Great Britain for some years past has been notoriously on the down grade. Realizing this, it is suggested that the young farmers in the United Kingdom, with the help now offered them by the home government and the Dominion government, may take their courage in both hands and resolve to pull up stakes and emigrate to Canada.

"A fine thing doubtless for themselves and for Canada," declared one critic with reference to the suggestion that the young British farmers should migrate under the terms of the new agreement, "but what about the old country? Are our fair meadows and hamlets to become a broad picture of Goldsmith's Deserted Village?"

SCIENTISTS START ATTEMPT TO ATTRACT MAR'S ATTENTION

"Wonder Planet" Becomes the Center of Interest As It Nears Earth.

GLIDES IN SKY

Opinions Are Varied as to the Result of Present Action.

Once again Mars comes into the limelight. Mars really basks in its own reflection, for it is one of the brightest of the bright lights of the heavens these nights.

The brilliant orange planet has been gliding across the sky each night and gradually drawing nearer to the earth, nearer than it will be in the next hundred years.

Scientists have been watching it carefully. They have brought into play every scientific means to increase their knowledge of the "Wonder Planet," for there has been much speculation as to whether it is inhabited or not.

In 1909 an attempt to talk to Mars was considered. It was to take the form of code flashings of light. Huge panes of glass were to be set out in the open in California. They were to be manipulated to reflect the sun's rays toward Mars.

With the coming of radio the flashing of light takes second place. Scientists will now try it by radio. From today until Saturday they will listen in. They hope to "get a message from Mars."

Sir Oliver Lodge, noted scientist, thinks it improbable that there will be any communication with Mars. He says that it is pure speculation as to whether there are any human beings on the planet. There might be some of the lower animals, and evidence points to vegetation on Mars.

The scientist believes it would be difficult to have a code or establish any intelligent communication. However, the world's largest and most powerful telescopes will be brought into play this week in an effort to penetrate the mystery.

One difficulty that will present itself is that the earth is in darkness while Mars is visible. Therefore the earth will be practically invisible to Mars, both being on the same side of the sun.

Professor Samuel G. Barton, astronomer of the University of Pennsylvania, thinks Mars will go past the earth without uttering a word to the mortals here. He does not believe that the planet is inhabited by beings like ourselves, nor is he optimistic concerning the piercing of the veil of mystery that hangs in the distance between the earth and the bright red Mars.

HABITABLE PLANET.

Associated Press Despatch.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 21. — Captain T. J. J. See, professor of mathematics, United States navy, and government astronomer at Mare Island, in a statement made today said that astronomical research has proved beyond doubt that Mars is a habitable planet and, therefore, it is inhabited by vegetable and animal life of some kind. Of that opinion, he is certain. All other details are speculative, according to his statement. It follows in part:

"The observations of astronomers since 1638 show that Mars rotates in 24 hours, 37 minutes and 22.67 seconds; that the obliquity of Mars ecliptic is about 38 degrees, so that the seasons on our neighboring planet are about the same as here, though the year is nearly twice as long—687 days.

"Mars has polar caps of ice and snow, which melt with the advance of the Martian summer and build up again with the return of the Martian winter. We can see this very distinctly in the several large telescopes I have used during the last 30 years. And, wonderful to relate, we can see the clouds floating in the atmosphere of Mars. The clouds were distinctly photographed in 1907, 1916, 1920, and will, no doubt, be seen again this year when Mars is unusually near the earth."

CITY OFFICIALS FAVOR CHECK ON YOUNG GIRLS

Limit Operation.

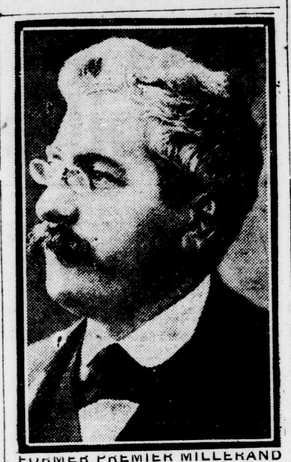

W. H. Baines, manager of the London Winter Garden, supports the arguments of these two men, but would limit the operation of any restrictive regulations to girls under sixteen years old.

"No one," he says, "wants to run a public dance hall in a healthier or cleaner manner than the directors of the Winter Garden, and that also is my own ideal of management. We want people to be able to come here without any possible chance of offence. I agree that young girls should not be allowed to attend a public dance hall without proper chaperonage, but I think that sixteen would be the correct age to limit this to.

"I would have a lady supervisor in the hall, who would be responsible for correct behavior, and who would report anything not right to the manager, who would, of course, use his own judgment. Any girls who were alone would then have someone to go to if they were in any difficulty.

"Everyone admits that dancing is a healthy, beneficial exercise, and a properly operated public dance hall is a civic asset in any city. The other kind is not wanted, either by the city or the owners. A girl over sixteen in these times is generally quite able to look after herself, but under that age she should not be allowed in a dance hall.

"In Toronto the city council took such drastic steps that as a result the dance halls were forced to close. This is not in the best interests of the people, for they will dance somewhere in any case. Any form of regulation which the city council can put into effect that will make the Winter Garden a better place of entertainment will have my full support."

BOTTRILL RAPS TENDER REBELS

Will Vote Against Reopening Controversy at Council Meeting.

Alderman Harry Bottrill, who today is acting mayor, is adamant in his determination not to vote for the reopening of the printing tender question at tonight's special meeting of the city council.

"I see no valid reason," he says, "just why the matter should be opened up for discussion. The matter of letting this tender was handled in the regular routine way by the council, and now that there have been some accusations made by certain aldermen is no reason why the procedure of the council should be altered. I am quite satisfied that there is nothing reprehensible in the way that this tender was let, and I shall not vote for the reopening of the matter tonight."

"In any case, if there were accusations to be made they should have been made in the proper way, to the individual aldermen, and not given all the unnecessary publicity which they have had. The method pursued to bring about the opening of the matter of the tender was not the correct one, and does not help the position of those making the charges."

CABINET APPROVES TERMS.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The French cabinet met this morning and approved the terms of the declaration on the results of the London reparation conference which Premier Herriot is to read in both chambers of parliament this afternoon.

Most of the political groups also held preliminary meetings. Those belonging to the governmental majority decided to vote solidly against any motion that might be introduced in opposition to the premier. The opposition groups decided to abstain from voting with the exception of certain deputies of the extreme right, who are determined to vote against M. Herriot.

Whether by coincidence or design, the Nationalist newspapers this morning print lengthy extracts from an interview with former President Millerand, which is to appear Saturday in the Revue Hebdomadaire. In the course of this, the ex-president announces that he is ready to resume political life and states his creed, not without considerable criticism of the present officeholders, of whom later he remarks:

"Dictatorship by a handful of men in the chamber is a negation of the republic."

As to resumption of relations with Russia, desired by Premier Herriot, says M. Millerand, it is to be feared that it would be "useless and dangerous."

The two great nations hitherto have maintained the same attitude toward Russia—France and the United States—he remarks. Their policy has been inspired by good sense and in the interest of the two countries, and what passed in London during the Anglo-Russian negotiations was not of a nature to cause them to repent of the course they had followed.

GERMANS WILLING.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The German government has begun the big program required to carry out the agreement reached at London conference for launching the Dawes' reparation plan. A bill presented to the Reichstag provides, firstly, assent to the London protocol; secondly authorization for the minister of finance to float a loan of 800,000,000 gold marks and thirdly, authorization for the government of the reisch to take measures with a view to the surrender of state railway bonds to the value of 11,000,000,000 gold marks and bonds to the value of 5,000,000,000 gold marks under the law relating to taxation of industry.

EAR WORM SEEN IN CORN THIS YEAR

Another Parasite Makes Its Appearance—Enemies Soon Destroy It.

On the heels of the corn borer another parasite, equally voracious, has appeared to worry district farmers It is the ear-worm, an insect that became very plentiful about three years ago, and which eats the kernels off the ears of corn.

R. A. Finn, district agricultural representative, stated today that the ear-worm had appeared in great numbers this year. Damage done by the bug so far this season has been substantial. Canning factories and growers of sweet corn have been the largest sufferers, as the worm ruins parts of the cob, thus rendering them useless for canning purposes or for human consumption.

"Ensilage corn will not be affected," Mr. Finn stated, "but serious damage is being done to sweet corn for table use. The worm is very obnoxious. About every three years it appears and creates widespread injury. Then its enemies begin to combat it and almost exterminate the worm altogether. It takes several years for the ear-worm to regain its destructive powers. Many farmers mistake it for the corn borer, but the two parasites are different in many respects. The ear-worm only attacks the ear of the corn, while the borer digs down into the stalk.

"Owing to excessive moisture the ear-worm, the corn borer and the potato leaf hopper have propagated at a fast rate. The potato leaf hopper is working havoc with thousands of fields, sucking out the juice and reducing their value enormously. The worst feature is that when produce is attacked in this way it becomes more susceptible to disease."

AMERICANS ANXIOUSLY AWAITING BRITISH HEIR

thusiastic about the honor he pays this nation by his presence at the international polo matches and attendant dolness. Hearts palpitate and bright eyes sparkle at mention of his name. It is heard in earnest conversation at the movies, in the tearooms, and on the subway. Debutantes vie with one another in seeking places on programs where he will be entertained, and that quite royally, too.

Coming-out parties, scheduled at first for the gay fall season when society has settled down after its northward pilgrimage to Saratoga Springs, and its invasion of Europe, have been advanced to the immediate future, just prior to the arrival of his royal highness. The reason is most obvious.

Everyone who has met this royal gentleman, and thousands who have not, lose no opportunity to inform their envious acquaintances of the fact, or fiction.

An Exclusive Set.

Down in Washington, D. C., there has been formed a most exclusive society, a superlatively choice inner circle, called "The Prince Danced With Me Club." Few as are the American girls with whom this prince charming has shared a gay fox trot or graceful waltz, these few are preserving their separate identity as is the wont of the small, select group in the institution called society. The others who did not lure the idol of Britain on the ballroom floor simply do not belong, and in United States' slang "That's that."

Meanwhile New York has been buzzing with the rumor that already he is here—this occasioned by the presence in the metropolis of a perfect shadow of the prince, a young man of thirty or thereabouts, who is possessed of the same delicate features, the same tilt of the eyebrow, the same slightly one-sided smile, and the same quick adjustment of his parti-colored tie. Conscious of the likeness, he goes his way through the crowds. Non-committal, he has earned the name, "The man of mystery."

At the same time, with the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont intend to entertain the royal party in their sumptuous Newport home—this despite the statement that the program has been already closed—numerous others of New York's famous "Four hundred" are endeavoring also to have this honor. The mail that every day continues to pour in is appalling.

HOUSE FLY ARMY ATTACKS PARTY

Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton Tells of Motor Trip Over Mountains.

The Lackawanna Trail over the Pocono Mountains in New York state was part of a 2,000-mile trip taken by Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton and his wife, together with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Handley of this city from August 5 to August 18, on his annual holiday.

Leaving in his car on the morning of August 5, Mr. Stratton made his first run to Geneva, N. Y. From there they motored over theL ackawanna Trail, cut in the solid rock over the mountains. He passed through several large American cities in the nexttwo days, arriving at Atlantic City on the night of August 7. Here the party rested for a couple of days, and the diary, which wa skept by Mrs. Handley on the trip, shows that they were bothered by a swarm of house flies, which bit with the avidity of a misquito. They also had real salt water fish at the city, and flounder and sea trout were part of the menu.

On the way back, just outside Albany, N. Y., Mr. Stratton counted six motor accidents in five miles, in one of which a man was killed. They finally reached Montreal, on the last lap of the journey on Aug. 12. After staying five days, they started on the home road, and made the whole run from Montreal to London in one day, a distance of 548 road miles, and a pretty good record for the last day.

The finest tourist camp on the trip was found in Montreal, run by a James Sheen out on Notre Dame east. Here, says Mr. Stratton, the service was of the best, and everything done to make tourists comfortable.

That the trip was a real camping tour is obvious from the list of things carried, which included: One double tent, ten blankets, four folding cots, four army waterproof sheets, three suitcases, four camp chairs, one camp table, a camp cooker, one gallon can of water and another of gasoline, four cooking pans, one frying pan, and last but not least, a large box on the starboard running-board with all the necessary groceries.

On the whole trip, only three hours were lost in making repairs, and the same set of tires carried the party through the whole distance. This, Mr. Stratton, in part, attributes to the very fine highways on the American side. He states that the Lackawanna Trail is a wonderful road, cut out of the rock, and sloped on an angle at the turns, so that a car doing almost any speed can make the corners in safety. They came back through the Adirondacks and the Catskills in New York State, and enjoyed the trip. The two men took four-hour shifts at the wheel, which was found to work out very satisfactorily.

PENSION CLAIMS MUST BE FILED BY AUGUST 31

A rumor that pension claims will be allowed to be made against the government after Aug. 31 is current in the city. The officials of the G. W. V. A. warn everyone that such is not the case and unless all applications are in by the end of the month, then the person applying will have no chance whatever to receive money from the government for war service.

The rumor was probably started from the fact that the time for the hearing of pension claims by the appeal board has been extended for one year, but this does not concern in any way the people that have not come before the pension board.

AUSTRALIA SEEKING BETTER AGREEMENT

Negotiations on Immigration Policy Continue With the Imperial Cabinet.

Associated Press Despatch.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 21.—Negotiations between the commonwealth and imperial governments with regard to the details of the new migration agreement between them are still in progress. It is generally understood that the British government under the new agreement will advance £34,000,000 including £14,000,000 arranged for under the existing agreement and will share half the interest thereon for the first five years and one-third of the interest thereafter.

In the meantime there is little activity in assisted migration between Great Britain and Australia. Only one settler has arrived in New South Wales under the government's agreement providing for 6,000 immigrants. Apparently it is difficult to obtain settlers possessing the minimum sum of £300 capital which the New South Wales government stipulates each new settler must have.

The Sydney Sun criticizes the severity of the medical examination which prospective migrants must pass.

"Australia does not ask for supermen," the Sun says, "but just good healthy average British people."

Mr. Henry has not yet presented his credentials, but it was said today the league officials were going to welcome him as a representative American, anxious to learn about the league, and particularly as the governor's impressive document concludes with the words: "I do hereby confer on him all rights, privileges and powers useful and necessary to the just and proper discharge of duties to his appointment."

ELGIN TOBACCO CROP EXCELLENT

West Lorne District Proves a Good Yielding Locality.

Four years ago James Scott came from Kingsville to West Lorne and planted four acres of tobacco. He was successful, and the following year four of his brothers joined him and they planted ten to fifteen acres each and all had a fair crop. Last year Mr. W. H. Bole and Ed. Gammon went into it with fifteen acres each.

These men, profiting by the experience of tobacco growing, branched out in general this year. H. C. McKillop, M.P., who ownss farms in the neighborhood, has a man by the name of C. L. O'Brien working for him. He is a real tobacco man.

Seventy-five acres grown on the McKillopp farm, every leaf very even and of fine texture. They expect to cut the first kiln on Monday. The Imperial Tobacco Company, who had representatives view the crop, said the other day that the piece of tobacco was the finest they had ever seen in the province.

E. E. Haviland and H. J. Miller have thirty acres Warne Flue cured in spite of its shape the coloring is fine. They will start cutting in the course of a week.

Arthur Gammon and J. Henderson have 20 acres of the same kind. It is also rapidly maturing.

is also rapidly maturing.

There have been 40 kilns erected this summer in the district around West Lorne. Growers have erected a dozen greenhouses for the young plants.

The tobacco crop all over the township is very encouraging. The light soil is proving to be the right thing for the growing of good tobacco.

The soil has been judged by experts to be the finest in the province; the total acreage is three hundred acres in the township of Aldboro this year. If the growers miss frost and hail for the next two weeks the crop should go 1,000 pounds per acre. If the prices of recent years hold it will net $150,000.

There is an unlimited amount of this land in the section.

SCIENTISTS' ADVICE WILL BENEFIT WEST

Development of Resources May Be Speeded Up as Consequence.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 21.—That more rapid development of the resources of the west may be the result of the visit of members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, who reached here Wednesday on their tour of Canada, was the opinion expressed by Hon. John Bracken, premier of Manitoba, in a statement last night to the Canadian Press.

Premier Bracken, who is the only cultivator of experimental science on the roster of Canada's premiers, received the visitors at the parliament buildings. He said: "The visit should be an inspiration to the teaching profession; should serve as a stimulus to research workers, and I hope it will lead in the direction of more rapid development of the resources of the west. I trust the intimate contact into which the scholars are being brought with the possibilities of western Canada will result in their being able to offset unjust criticism of conditions here, and that this will encourage the inflow of the two things most needed for development—population and capital. The west is fortunate in having as visitors so many men who have contributed to the advancement of science, particularly along agricultural lines."

PLEA OF NOT GUILTY ENTERED BY SEARLES

Canadian Press Despatch.

Oshawa, Aug. 21.—Alvin Searles, arrested on the charge of "doing grievious bodily harm to one Burton Clifford," following an investigation by the attorney-general, appeared in police court here today.

The case arose out of the death of Clifford at the Oshawa General Hospital a few hours after Alvin Searles had placed a hose, carrying 90 to 100 pounds of compressed air, against the body of Clifford, causing him to "be blown up," as the deceased termed the nature of his injuries before he died. Clifford was a brother of Lawson O. Clifford, M. P. for South Ontario, and had been employed in the plant of General Motors of Canada, Limited, where the fatality occurred, for a number of years. Through his counsel, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M. L. A., Searles pleaded not guilty to the charge, and elected to be tried at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

POWER BILL WILL NOT BE DROPPED

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., Announces Plan Will Again Be Laid Before Parliament.

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., announced today that the Confederation and Power Company bill which was presented to parliament this year and laid over, will be again introduced by Dr. Rankin, M.P., of Perth, at the next session. The bill is sponsored by private interests and aims to give the Confederation and Power Company exclusive rights to further a deep waterways scheme which would create a passageway for ocean liners to the head of the great lakes.

"Both the United States and Canadian governments have appointed a committee to investigate the deep waterways project," Mr. McEvoy said, "and when they report their findings we believe the government will bein a position to give our bill favorable consideration. We ask for power to make canals by alternative routes either through the St. Lawrence or by the Ottawa River. Of course the enterprise will be under government control, but the capital will be supplied privately.

"The bill also enables the company to use water diverted from the high levels to the low levels by means of canals and to sell it. Dr. Rankin and I had a conference yesterday and he decided to re-introduce the bill next session. If we could sell to the hydro commission at a cheaper rate than they could get elsewhere we would be glad to do it. Our bill does not interfere with American rights in an" way and I see no obstacle to it, indorsation by parliament. The benefit to Canada of making a deep waterway route and augmenting power development would, of course, be tremendous."

Printing Tender Question Is Expected To Be Reopened At Session Tonight

ALDERMEN WILL RENEW DEBATE

Printing Tender Will Be Discussed at Session Tonight.

DIVIDED ON STAND

The question of opening the matter of the printing tender for the voter's lists will come up again at tonight's special meeting of the city council called by the mayor for half past seven.

Alderman Towe made a notice of motion at the last meeting asking for the re-opening of the question, and this is the reason of tonight's gathering.

While the mayor, Aldermen Greer, Towe and Smith are seeking to have th ematter discussed, some of the other councillors believe that to reopen it up is to refute the former action of the council in letting the tender. The argue that they had all the necessary information at the time of letting the tender and that to go back again is uncalled for.

Meanwhile Alderman Towe has been building up the case for an investigation during the week, and says he has the information necessary to satisfy the most exacting of aldermen.

BUSINESS BOOMING ON PACIFIC COAST

Vancouver Sun Publisher Reports Trade Conditions as Improving.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—"Business is good on the Pacific coast," remarked R. J. Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, who is now in Montreal, on one of his periodical business visits.

Discussing affairs in Vancouver, Mr. Cromie said. There is a building program under way amounting to some thirty million dollars, involving the construction of grain elevators, docks, power plants and homes."

Of the flow of Canadians towards the United States, Mr. Cromie expressed the opinion that it had definitely ceased and he found that many Canadians were now returning to the Dominion. "What will bring new life into this whole Dominion," said he, "is to bring into Western Canada several hundred thousand settlers, and the attraction that will do the trick is a readvertisement throughout the United States and Europe of the Peace River. The millions of acres of rich virgin soil together with the romance of the Peace River offer a wonderful attraction on which to base a great colonization campaign. Not only would the Peace River country benefit, but the movement of settlers once started into Western Canada would help Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

STEADINESS OF LONDON REFLECTED IN TAXES

Only $1,000 Difference in the Amounts Collected in Two Years.

This year's record for the payment of the second installment of the city taxes is over the top, and accordingly City Treasurer Bell is elated. He was expecting that this installment would net the city about $277,000, and now finds that $293,000 has been paid into the coffers.

The steadiness of the City of London financially may be reflected in the very small difference between the amount of the taxes gathered in at this time last year and the figures for 1924. Last year the amount was $2,103,000, and this year the total is $2,104,000, another fact that helps to keep the treasurer smiling.

AUTO MECHANIC LOSES FINGER IN ACCIDENT

Ernest Draycott, 365 Adelaide street a mechanic at the Durant Motor Sales Company, King street, had the index finger on his left hand so badly smashed yesterday afternoon when caught in a drill that it had to be amputated this morning.

Draycott was drilling a hole in a steel plate and his hand was caught in some manner by the metal he was working on. Before he could extricate his hand the drill had come down and caught his finger. Dr. Leonard Pritchett was called and rendered first aid, but the finger was so badly damaged that it was impossible to save it.

LITTLE PROGRESS SHOWN BY SWIMMING VICTIM

Edward Caron, who had his skull fractured while in swimming at Thames Park, is reported by Victoria Hospital authorities to be progressing as favorably as can be expected. Caron is a patient at Westminster Hospital, and was a member of a party from the hospital which visited the city playground on Monday.

Spanish Prisoner Frauds Cause Government To Act

Public Is Warned Against the Famous Old Hoax of Barcelona.

TELLS SAD STORY

Seeks Sum of Money To Extricate Himself From Prison.

The poor old Spanish prisoner is again confined to the dark, deep, dungeons of he castle in Spain. Years ago the plight of the Spanish prisoner was news. That was when he was first testing the gullibility of Canadians with his heart-breaking pleas for release and his promises of great rewards of glistening doubloons.

It is news today that the old Spanish prisoner is still satisfied that trusting Canadians are still sympatetic and will respond to his efforts to extricate himself from his imaginary prison. It costs money to get out of the prison in Spain.

The postal department at Ottawa once more draws attention to the Spanish prisoner fraud. The letters addressed to Canadians are posted from Barcelona, Spain. They come in gray envelopes measuring about four and one-half inches by five and three-quarter inches. Any such letter will be forwarded by postmasters to the general superintendent, postal service inspection division, Ottawa.

The letters contain a message to the effect was the writer is very wealthy and is in possession of currency to the value of several fortunes. He is in prison for wrongs he has not committed. He needs money for his release. If the kind Canadian to whom the letter is addressed will send him a small fortune to get him out of prison he will share his own larger fortune upon his release.

The postal authorities are directing their efforts to see that the letters are not circulated in Canada.

WAR HORRORS BLAMED FOR YOUTH'S INSANITY

G.W.V.A. Strives To Get a Pension For Shell-Shocked Londoner.

A London boy who enlisted with the 33rd Battalion when 16 years old and served in France four years and was shell shocked has become mentally unbalanced since returning home. When he returned from overseass he appeared to be in good Health and started to work on the dredge at Port Burwell. He worked there for several years, but his war experiences seemed to prey on his mind and he lost all control of himself. This was first noticed when one day he walked out into the water with all his clothes on, and had it not been for men working near at hand he would have probably been drowned.

He has been at home now for several months, but his condition has become such that application has been made by his relatives to have him removed to a hospital for treatment. He has a wife and child, and the G. W. V. A. will strive to obtain a pensiou for him.

The association have in its possession letters from several prominent men about the city stating that they knew him before going across to France and all state that he was a clever young man and showed no symptoms of insanity then.

BIG SWIMMING MEET WILL BE HELD SATURDAY

The annual swimming meet of the civic playgrounds, which was to have been held at Thames Park yesterday afternoon, has been postponed to next Saturday at 2 o'clock. All the entrants have been advised of the change in date and have promised to be there. A large program has been arranged for the day. The prizes will be presented at the playgrounds festival at Tecumseh Park on Aug. 30.

STRANGERS MAY NOT CASH POSTAL MONEY ORDERS

Postal money orders are not to be cashed for strangers. Such is the latest advice to postmasters from the department at Ottawa.

Stolen money orders are the reason for the increasing care on the part of postal officials to see that the proper person cashes the money orders.

Money orders stolen from the postoffice in Valier Illinois, in August have been cashed, and the department is exercising special care in cashing money orders.

DEMAND IS KEEN FOR MARKET HAY

Buyers Report Scarcity and the Price Goes Up Slightly.

Unless hay supplies grow materially within the next few weeks, a district famine in this product looms as a real possibility, prominent buyers stated on the market this morning. Every hope is held that the situation will improve next week, but grain men call attention to the fact that farmers are now in the vortex of the usual harvest turmoil, and will not be bothered in drawing hay to market during the crucial period.

For this reason, buyers are loath to be too optimistic in their predictions for a bountiful supply for the next month. They urge conservation of supplies on hand, wherever possible. In this way it is hoped to offset in a measure any grave developments.

Only six loads have found their way to the local square within the last three days. Two loads comprised this morning's offerings, and from twenty to thirty loads could have been easily disposed of.

As a natural consequence of the present scarcity, the price shows a marked tendency to fluctuate to fairly high altitudes. Two weeks ago the prevailing figure was from $9 to $10 a ton. This week, loads of only fair quality went at $11. This morning one load was sold before it was brought to town for $11, and the other farmer refused $12 on the open market. The prospects for a much higher figure were all in his favor.

Buyers assert that stables in this territory do not boast of large supplies at the present time. The fact that the season has not been as strong as in other years is given as one reason for the smallness of quantities available.

A conservative estimate of one buyer gives three weeks as the outside limit of present supplies lasting.

BELMONT JUNIOR FARMERS GET MOVIE INSTRUCTION

The Belmont Junior Farmers were the guests of R. A. INTER-CITY PICNIC DRAWS THOUSANDS

Many Attend Great International Outing at Port Huron.

INDIANS TAKE PART

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Aug. 20.—Gloom was turned into joy for several thousand Sarnians today when, after a continually threatening and partly rainy morning, the sun shone for the double event of the international picnic and the annual outing of the builders and supply men. The former picnic was held for the first time at Port Huron and proved splendidly successful, with an attendance of ten thousand. The many events were about evenly divided between Sarnia and the American competitors. The aquatic sports were particularly successful, and great interest was taken in the Walpole Island Indian band in full war paint. At Lake Huron Park the Sarnia builders ran off a splendid program which closed with a supper.

Orangemen Uninterested.

Orangemen are taking no official interest in the case of sacrilege that is causing much discussion in the city of the Ku Klux Klan being connected, by report, with the taking of sacred articles from St. James' R. C. Church, for which offence an American named George Garner appears in police court here on August 26. County Master J. C. McDonald today issued a denial that reports of factional action in this case were authentic. Mr. McDonald said that the Orange Order had no association with the case in any manner or form, and that the order did not recognize or approve of the actions of any one attacking any form of religious belife so long as the laws of the land were complied with.

SUBMARINE ARTIST ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

City Employee Guides Scraper Along Bed of the River.

Quite a large crowd gathered yesterday afternoon to watch the submarine performances of a member of the city engineer's department at the foot of Wellington street.

The department is working on the syphon system, which is being installed in the Wellington street storm sewer, and was engaged in scooping out a ditch in the bed of the river in which to lay the pipe.

Accordingly they detailed one of their best swimmers to guide the scraper, which was used for the job. Girded in boots, a swimming suit, and overalls this son of Father Neptune labored at the handles of the scraper, following faithfully in its train, even when it took him out of his depth. It seems that there are not holes in the bed of the river, and whenever he came to one of these he simply disappeared from view, and the crowd had a wonderful time guessing where he would come to the surface.

The scraper was hauled at the end of a long rope by a team of horses across the river, and there was plenty of power to two the passenger, as well as the scraper full of mud. As the water was warm he was not greatly inconvenienced and seemed to be enjoying himself. He made a good job of his work, according to the city engineer, and will probably finish his submarine stunts today.

WARNING IS ISSUED TO CITY DOG OWNERS

If this can be done the owner will be served with a summons and will have to appear in police court and a heavy fine will be imposed, as extreme measures will have to be taken to curb the present plague of dogs which are now running around.

Immigration Chief Solves Vexing Language Problem

With Czecho-Slovakians, Finlanders, Swedes, Russians and other foreigners depending on him for aid in getting work, John Farrell, head of the immigration department here, made a momentous decision recently. His decision was to purchase sixteen dictionaries containing the words of sixteen different languages with their English equivalents, and become a linguist.

So many foreigners, coming from Montreal after their sea voyage, did not know a word of English that Mr. Farrell concluded a working knowledge of practically every European tongue was an invaluable asset for an immigration official. He, therefore, bought the dictionaries, and his work has been greatly facilitated as a result.

This morning, two prepossessing-looking natives of Finland, a man and his wife, entered Mr. Farrell's office and asked him for work. The latter recognized their language and immediately opened a Finnish dictionary. With the help of this, he managed to understand what his clients wanted, and gave them directions accordingly.

"I am gradually becoming familiar with numerous languages," Mr. Farrell said. "Hundreds of foreigners come here who cannot understand English, and the only efficient way of dealing with them is by speaking their own tongue. That's why I secured the sixteen dictionaries. The system is working out very satisfactorily."

The immigration chief added that it pleased foreign laborers very much to hear a few words spoken in their native language on their arrival here in quest of a job.

French Airman Welcomed Home

Capt. Doisy Arrives at Marseilles After Long Flight.

Associated Press Despatch.

Marseilles, France, Aug. 21.—Captain Georges Pelletier Doisy, the French airman who early in June successfully completed a Paris-to-Tokio flight, arrived here today on the steamship Porthos, accompanied by his mechanician, Besin.

The arrival of the Porthos had been purposely delayed in order that the aviator's welcome should not be spoiled by debarking at night. The welcome was worthy of a returning conqueror or monarch. While a regimental band played the Marsellaise, and while the crowds cheered, Madame Flaissieres, wife of the senator-mayor, presented to Captain Pelletier Doisy a large bouquet of flowers.

Laurent Eynac, under-secretary of state for aviation, on behalf of the government, Count Delavaux on behalf of the Aero Club of France, and Marc Ambroci, on behalf of the Aero Club of the department, vied with each other in congratulating their countryman on his exploit.

DAVID MILLS ADDRESSES WOMEN'S LABOR PARTY

"The Position of Women in the Community" was the subject of an interesting address given by David Mills last evening at the regular meeting of the Women's Labor party. He compared the political women of Canada with those in England and France. He was also high in his praise of the work of the Women's Labor party.

Plans were made for a sale of home cooking, also for a rummage sale to be held in the near future to augment the Welfare Fund, which is to be used during the winter months to help unemployed men and their families. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. J. R. Nixon, Mrs. J. Pickles and Mrs. Thomson.

NAUGHTY FIREMEN STEAL WIVES' FRUIT JAR RINGS

A stranger passing the fire hall this morning looked in and saw several of the men practicing what looked like aesthetic dancing. He then went around to the backyard where he could get a better view of the proceedings and there he discovered the men trying to throw fruit jar rings over a nail attached to the wall. This, besides clearing up the mystery of the weird movements being performed, also explained where the fruit jar rings which the firemen's wives have been complaining of losing, have disappeared to.

PARROT PUTS TO SHAME ANY CITIZEN'S WELCOME

Harry Warner Proud Possessor of Unusual Bird—Has Great Vine.

A parrot that goes a long way towards proving the Darwinian theory of evolution, and a Concord grape vine, the largest within a radius of 30 miles, are the proud possessions of Harry Warner, 340 Lyle street.

When The Advertiser reporter called this morning he was immediately greeted by a babel of sound that would shame the most talkative Conservative in the country.

"Jack, the hydro man is at the door." "God bless you." "Kiss me." Then an afterthought, and incidently proving that flappers are not confined to the human species. "Who are you?" "All right, come and kiss your mother. Oh, oh, oh, oh, I've got a bad cold. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Good-bye."

The grape vine covers an area of over 300 square feet, and is about 10 feet high. The vine is covered with grapes in bunches the size of a man's two hands, and show in no small way the extent of Mr. Warner's skill.

Would-Be Brewer Has Fond Dreams Shattered

One of London's oldest citizens, bent and gray, decided recently that he would install a home brewing apparatus to give pleasure to his declining years. "Brewing your own," he believed, would not only prove much more economical than buying alcohol, but would also eliminate the possibility of drinking impure stuff.

Yesterday, however, all his theories regarding economy were blasted. Cecil Webbe, inspector of inland revenue, got wind of the ancient man's activities and seized two gallons of liquor, a distilling apparatus and other appurtenances from his home, and brought the would-be brewer to court on a charge of violating the inland revenue act. This morning the prisoner was fined $200 and costs.

"My client is no doubt guilty," J. M. McEvoy, K. C., told the magistrate. "He was making the liquor for his own use which, of course, is contrary to the act."

"It's a pretty expensive business," remarked the court.

"It's mighty expensive for a fellow as poor as he is," returned Mr. McEvoy.

When sentence was passed the old man looked resignedly at his attorney and whispered that he would have to take the six months. His two sons heard of their father's predicament, however, and entered the court. After a consultation they decided to pay the fine, and the aged offender departed with good spirits restored.

WESTERN FAIR'S FIELD EXPANDS

Exhibits on Increase for Places Farther Away—Grounds Nearly Ready.

GAINS IN RANK

That the Western Fair is a high-ranking exhibition among the countless annual shows on the continent is clearly shown in the fact that the entries this year are embracing more territory than in any previous season in the history of the association.

Entries have been received from Alberta and other western provinces, Quebec, and from many points in the United States, Secretary W. D. Jackson said this morning. Ontario, of course, still holds a commanding lead, but the big increase in entries from outside points, has convinced the officials that London's exhibition is becoming more metropolitan in its character as each year rolls by.

The Fair's generous prize list is attracting exhibitors from every section of the country. Many leading American live stock breeders have requested information about the Forest City show, and from the tenor of the requests the secretary expects that the majority of them will exhibit.

The exhibition grounds are taking on a new appearance as the work of putting the park and buildings in shape for the opening day, Sept. 6, nears completion.

Exhibitors are already actively engaged in erecting booths, painting and constructing equipment to be used in displaying the instructive and novel exhibits which will feature this year's show.

The demand from manufacturers, merchants and dealers for space in the buildings to display their products has shown a remarkable growth and the new Manufacturers' Building, acclaimed the finest of its kind in Canada, will be filled to capacity this year with concrete examples of Canada's industrial achievements.

DRIVE STARTED TO HALT GRAVEL PIT ACCIDENTS

Owners Forwarded Instructions on Damages and Proper Method of Work.

In a widespread drive to lessen the number of accidents resulting from cave-ins in gravel pits throughout Ontario, provincial government authorities have forwarded to every pit owner definite instructions on the maintenance of such pits. Great pains have also been taken to show the precautionary measures that should be taken to avoid cave-ins and slides.

The name of every pit owner is on file in government offices, and the co-operation of operators is sought to safeguard employees, whose duty it is to work in pits.

Prominent posters, pointing out to owners, foremen, teamsters and loaders that undermining in gravel pits and clay banks is extremely dangerous and is prohibited by law have been sent to every corner of the province and are now posted in the centers of every community.

Infractions of the gravel pit law make the guilty parties liable to a fine of $100.

All gravel pits and clay banks in Ontario are under the jurisdiction of the chief inspector of mines.

Accidents, which officials claim could have been avoided if proper precautions had been taken beforehand, have taken a toll of two or more lives in Western Ontario this year.

CHARGES LIBEL.

John Hueston, represented by McEvoy and Henderson, local solicitors, has filed a writ against the Strathroy Granite and Marble Works asking damages for alleged libel. The plaintiff charges that libellous statements were employed by the defendants in a letter written by them to the London Granite and Marble Works on July 22.

Another suite in which Mr. Hueston claims damages for slander has been issued against Frank R. Hambly of Strathroy. Both cases will probably be heard in county court next month.

WRIT IS ISSUED.

Brickenden and McCrimmon, local wholesale firm, has issued a writ against G. H. Hosenflug, claiming $518.99, which, they allege, is the balance due for goods sold and delivered for which drafts were selected by the plaintiffs.

CANADIAN PACIFIC HARVESTERS' EXCURSION TO LEAVE SEPT. 3RD.

Owing to backward ripening weather, the Canadian Pacific harvesters' excursion, which was scheduled to leave points in Ontario west of Toronto, and including stations to Owen Sound and district, on Aug. 26th, has been set back to Sept. 3rd. This has been done at the request of representatives of the employment services of Canada and the Manitoba government.

As in the case of the first excursion special cars will be provided for the exclusive use of ladies, children and their escorts, while lunch counter cars, in which hot food and refreshments may be obtained at reasonable prices, will be attached to all special trains.

Last year the majority of harvesters from Ontario travelled via Canadian Pacific, and it is confidently expected that they will do so this year, as Canadian Pacific trains leaving Toronto on Sept. 3rd will be the first into Winnipeg leaving Ontario on that date.

Any Canadian Pacific agent will gladly supply all information, etc., to those intending to take advantage of this excursion at the low rate of $15 to Winnipeg, plus a half cent per mile to points not west of Edmonton, Calgary and Macleod.—Advt.

WEDDINGS

COLEMAN—DUDLEY.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Matthews Church, Alvinston, at 9 o'clock Monday, Aug. 18, when Marie Catharine Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dudley of Inwood became the bride of Herman M. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Coleman of Bothwell. The church was beautifully decorated with roses, gladioli and sweet peas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Kelly of London.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in white georgette over white satin, shirred at the hips and trimmed with streamers and pearls. Her veil of tulle hemmed with narrow ruffles was arranged with a bandeau of silver and caught with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and carnations and wore the groom's gift, a necklace of pearls.

Miss Margaret Brown of Glencoe, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore whirlpool blue satin crepe trimmed with ecru lace, black velvet hat and black satin slippers. Little Miss Marjory Dudley, sister of the bride, made a winsome flower girl. Her frock was of white satin trimmed with lace and streamers. George Dudley, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, the guests numbering thirty. The dining-room was prettily decorated in pink and white, with table centered with sweet peas and dahlias.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman left by motor for Sarnia, from where they left on the Hamonic for Duluth. The bride travelled in a sand-colored suit of Poiret twill, with a fur choker and hat and shoes to match.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a barpin, to the groomsman gold cuff links and to the flower girl a ring.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman will reside on Chestnut street, Bothwell where they will be home to their friends after Oct. 1.

NATTRESS—ROWE.

St. James Anglican Church was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when Edna Margery Rowe, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowe, was married to Joseph Nattress, son of Joseph Nattress and the late Mrs. Nattress of Brampton, Ont. Rev. H. P. Charter of Long Branch, a brother-in-law of the groom, performed the ceremony.

Promptly at four o'clock the bride entered the church, which was decorated with palms and gladioli as the Bridal Chorus was played by Mr. Anderton. She was given in marriage by her father and wore a rich gown of beige Spanish lace with hat and shoes to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Blanche Rowe, who was gowned in gray georgette with a hat of powder blue panne velvet, and carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. T. H. Rowe, brother of the bride, and Mr. A. T. Wyley, acted as ushers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a check, to the bridesmaid a silver mesh bag and to the ushers silver cigarette cases. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Ridout street south. A wedding supper was served later. The bride's mother was gowned in black georgette, with a black picture hat, and she wore a corsage of red roses. It was also the thirty-fifth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Nattress left later on a honeymoon to Toronto and Muskoka, the bride travelling in a cocoa georgette dress, with a beige wrap and hat and shoes to match. Upon their return they will reside at 106 High street, Toronto.

HILL—BENDLE.

A pretty wedding took place yesterday at 1:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 966 Dame street, when Pearl May Bendle was married to George Frederick Eugene Hill, also of London. Rev. A. Burgess, of Egerton Street Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

The rooms were decorated with quantities of gladioli and ferns, making a pretty setting for the bride, who wore a gown of hydro green brocaded silk crepe with a French embroidered veil. Miss Edith Hill, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and was gowned in pink crepe de chine. Little Miss Emma Bendle, frocked in white silk, made a dainty flower girl, and Mr. Jack Hvatt was best man. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Rivers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held, and the groom's mother was gowned in navy blue paillette silk, and Mrs. Bendle, mother of the bride, wore a gown of sand-colored paillette.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond barpin, to the bridesmaid an onyx and pearl ring, to the pianist an onyx pin, to the best man cuff links, and the flower girl received a ruby and pearl ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left later by motor on a honeymoon which will be spent in Hamilton and other eastern points. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Westminster Township, and will be at home to their friends after Sept. 15.

MRS. MISENER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Branchton, Ont. — "When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by curiosity. I wondered if I, too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken, I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' I worked on munitions, and, in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing inflammation from which I suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctored for years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines." — Mrs. GOLDWIN MISENER, Branchton, Ont.

Sick and ailing women everywhere in the Dominion should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before they give up hope of recovery. c

How to Get Rid of Grafting, Self-Invited Relatives—Curing the Father Who Is Jealous of is First Child—The Wife Who Resents Her Husband's Lodge Dues

Dear Miss Dix—What should one do about grafting relatives? My husband is only the average working man, getting a moderate salary, yet we have a number of relatives who seem to think that we should always be giving them money and gifts, and that they have a perfect right to come and make a free hotel of our house. We do without many things we need ourselves in order to give to these people who are able-bodied and just as able to work as we are. They are never grateful for anything we do for them, but they are furious with us when we refuse them anything. What do you think we should do about it?

SIMNE.

Answers

I think of all the pests in the world sponging relatives are the worst. Likewise, they are the hardest to get rid of. It is easier to free your house from the Argentine ant than it is from cranky Aunt Sally, and to drive away the rats than the nibbling cousins.

Perhaps the parasitic relatives are a hangover from the patriarchal days in which the head of the family looked after all of the tribe to the remotest generation and supplied their needs. At any rate, whatever the reason, the clinging vine relative who clasps his or her tendrils around your pocketbook and clings to your doorstep is still with us, and still believes that the blood bond is good for a handout.

Everybody who lives in the country knows what it is to have hordes of self-invited city relatives descend like a cloud of locusts upon them in summer. Everybody who lives in the city knows what it is to have a small apartment packed like sardines in a box with country cousins who want to see the city without money and without cost. Everybody who has a steady job gets a continuous stream of begging letters from relatives who are too temperamental to work. Everybody has an Aunt Jerusha or an Uncle Hiram who arrives self-invited, and stays on for an endless visit, and who is so disagreeable that he or she sets the whole family by the ears.

Why we all stand these inflictions, heaven alone knows. Probably because we are just too cowardly to defend ourselves. Possibly because we are all still victims to the old superstition that we ought to be fond of our relatives, no matter how unlovely they are and how they treat us. So we continue to be the goats of the lazy, greedy, worthless, stingy deadbeats.

Of course, the remedy for this is perfectly simple, and it is in our own hands if only we have the nerve to use it. It is merely to say "No" good and hard to the next request for money and to shut the door in the face of the next self-invited guest. Of course, this will make enemies of the panhandlers, for there is no wrath like that of the grafter who is foiled. But along with their dislike you have won their respect, which is something you haven't now.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married several years. The first few years were spent very happily and my husband was always nice and kind to me, but after a child was born to us his attitude changed. He has always been jealous of the child, seems to have no affection for her, and has become cold to me.

Do you think there is a way of bringing back his love for me, and making him love the child? HOPEFUL.

Answer:

Many men are apt to be jealous of their first child for a while, but this feeling usually wears off in a short time if the wife and mother has enough tact to handle the situation diplomatically.

You see, up to the time the first baby comes, the husband has been the cock of the walk, the one on whom the wife expended her devotion, whom she flattered and caressed and tried to please. Then along comes King Baby and husband is a deposed monarch. Wife neglects him. She loses interest in him. She won't play with him any more. He is nothing but baby's father, a slave to work and make things for baby.

Can you wonder that the man doesn't enjoy having his nose put out of joint, and that he is jealous of the little pink fist that knocked him out in the first round?

Perhaps you made this mistake of being all mother, instead of being wife first and mother afterward. If you did, retrieve your mistake and win your husband back again by turning the home spotlight on him. Devote yourself to trying to please him. And if your daughter is old enough, send her off to school for a year or two. That would be good for her in any case, and it would give her father a chance to miss her and find out that he loves her in spite of his jealousy. The absent-treatment cure is a specific for all domestic problems of this nature. DOROTHY DIX.

* * * *

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think it is right for a husband to belong to lodges and organizations of which his wife is ignorant, and also to carry life insurance unbeknown to her? It seems to me a man has no business to belong to any order if his wife does not know it, as his dues have to be kept up and she should know where the money is going. WIFE.

Answer:

Who makes the money, lady? Don't you think that the man who works and earns a dollar has a right to spend a few cents of it on himself, in any way he pleases, without giving an account of it to his wife? Don't you think that a grown man who is old enough to be married has a right to join a lodge if he wants to, or to make any move whatever without asking his wife's permission?

Evidently your conception of a wife is a jailer, and it doesn't take much of a Sherlock Holmes to deduce the fact that the reason why your husband doesn't tell you what he does is because you nag the life out of him and begrudge him every penny that he spends on himself.

I believe that every husband and wife would like to be confidential with their wives and husbands, because we all like to talk over things that we are interested in; but that when they are not confidential it is because their husbands and wives make it impossible for them to be so by their fault-finding and criticisms.

Just remember this, sister, that every husband hates the wife who ties him to her apron strings, so undo the knot in yours.

DOROTHY DIX.

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It Is In Preserving Health and Beauty and Yet It Is Not a Drug.

Pure willow charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature.

And the more you take of it the better. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the injurious gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking or eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, whitens the teeth, disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh, and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best and most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; composed of the finest quality Willow charcoal, powdered to extreme fineness, compressed in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box at drug stores. For a free trial send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 12 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. You get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.—Advt.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

SYNOPSIS.

To Sir Oliver Tressilian, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, comes Peter Godolphin, insulting and threatening, to forbid Oliver's marriage with his sister, Rosamund. Rosamund's guardian, Sir John Killigrew, Peter reports, is unwilling that his ward should wed a "pirate." Sir Oliver knows the real opposition from Sir John arises from a matter of conflicting land interests; and Peter unwittingly lets out the fact that his own interests, too, are involved.

"Soho!" crowed Sir Oliver. "Now at last the sun of truth peeps forth from all this cloud of righteous indignation at my bad Tressilian blood and pirate's ways! You, too are but a trafficker. Now see what a fool I am to have believed you sincere, and to have stood here in talk with you as with an honest man."

His voice swelled, and his lip curled in a contempt that struck the other like a blow.

"I swear I had not wasted breath with you had I known you for so mean and pitiful a fellow."

"These words—" began Master Godolphin, drawing himself up very stiffly.

"Are a deal less than your desserts," cut in the other, and he raised his voice to call—

"Nick!"

"You shall answer for them," snapped his visitor.

"I am answering now," was the stern answer. "To come here and prate to me of my dead father's dissoluteness and of an ancient quarrel between him and yours, to bleat of my trumped-up course of piracy and my own ways of life as a just cause why I may not wed your sister, whilst the real consideration in your mind, the real spur of your hostility, is no more than the matter of some few paltry pounds a year that I hinder you from pocketing. A God's name, get you gone!"

Nick entered at that moment.

"You shall hear from me again, Sir Oliver," said the other, white with anger. You shall account to me for those words."

"I do not fight with—with hucksters," flashed Sir Oliver.

"D'ye dare call me that?"

"Indeed, 'tis to discredit an honorable class, I confess it. Nick, the door for Master Godolphin."

Chapter II.

ROSAMUND.

Anon, after his visitor had departed, Sir Oliver grew calm again. Then being able in his calm to consider his position, he became angry anew at the very thought of the rage in which he had been, a rage which had so mastered him that he had erected additional obstacles to the already considerable ones that stood between Rosamund and himself. In full blast, his anger swung round and took Sir John Killigrew for its objective.

He bellowed for Nick and his boots.

"Where is Master Lionel?" he asked when the boots had been fetched.

"He be just ridden in, Sir Oliver."

"Bid him hither."

Promptly in answer to that summons, came Sir Oliver's half-brother—a slender lad favoring his mother, the dissolute Ralph Tressilian's second wife. He was as unlike Sir Oliver in body as in soul. He was comely in a very gentle, almost womanish way; his complexion was fair and delicate, his hair golden, and his eyes of a deep blue. He had a very charming stripling grace—for he was but in his twenty-first year—and he dressed with all the care of a court gallant.

"Has that whelp Godolphin been to visit you?" he asked as he entered.

"Aye," growled Sir Oliver. "He came to tell me some things and to hear some others in return."

"Ha! I passed him just beyond the gates, and he was deaf to my greeting. 'Tis a most cursed, insufferable pip!"

"Art a judge of men, Lal?"

Sir Oliver stood up booted.

"I am for Arwenack to exchange a compliment or two with Sir John."

His tight-pressed lips and resolute air supplemented his words so well that Lionel clutched his arm.

"You're not—you're not—"

"I am."

And affectionately, as if to soothe the lad's obvious alarm, he patted his brother's shoulder.

"Sir John," he explained, "talks too much. 'Tis a fault that wants correcting. I go to teach him the virtue of silence."

"There will be trouble, Oliver."

"So there will—for him. If a man must be saying of me that I am a pirate, a slave-dealer, a murderer, and heaven alone knows what else, he must be ready for the consequences. But you are late, Lal. Where have you been?"

"I rode as far as Malpas."

"As far as Malpas?"

Sir Oliver's eyes narrowed, as was the trick with him.

"I hear it whispered what magnet draws you thither," he said. "Be wary, boy. You go too much to Malpas."

"How?" quoth Lionel, a trifle coldly.

"I mean that you are your father's son. Remember it, and strive not to follow in his ways, lest they bring you to his own end. I have just been reminded of these predilections of his by good Master Peter. Go not over often to Malpas, I say. No more."

But the arm which he flung about his younger brother's shoulders, and the warmth of his embrace, made resentment of his warning quite impossible.

When he was gone Lionel sat him down to dine, with Nick to wait on him. He ate but little, and never addressed the old servant in the course of that brief repast. He was very pensive. In thought he followed his brother on that avenging visit of his to Arwenack. Killigrew was no babe, but a man of his hands, a soldier and a seaman. If any harm should come to Oliver—

He trembled at the thought, and then almost despite him his mind ran on to calculate the consequences to himself. His fortune would be in a very different case, he reflected. In a sort of horror, he sought to put so detestable a reflection from his mind; but it returned insistently.

All that he had he owed to his brother's bounty. That dissolute father of theirs had died as such men commonly die, leaving behind him heavily encumbered estates and many debts; the very house of Penarrow was mortgaged, and the moneys raised on it had been drunk, or gambled, or spent in one or another of Ralph Tressilian's many lights o' love.

Then Oliver had sold some little property near Helston, inherited from his mother; he had sunk the money in to a venture upon the Spanish Main. He had fitted out and manned a ship, and had sailed with Hawkins upon one of those ventures, which Sir John Killigrew was perfectly entitled to account pirate raids. He had returned with enough plunder in specie and gems to disencumber the Tressilian patrimony. He had sailed again and returned still wealthier.

Buster Resumes His Feast As Soon As He Sees Farmer Brown's Boy Depart

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Buster Bear had preserved his self-respect. He had preserved it in his own eyes. He had preserved it in the eyes of Farmer Brown's boy. And he knew that if any of the little people of the Green Forest or the Green Meadows had happened to be looking on he had preserved it in their eyes.

Who has no self-respect will have very little respect from other people. The respect of other people is sure to be given to one who keeps self-respect. It had taken Buster Bear a long time to find this out. Yes, it had taken him a long time. But he had found it out, and could you have seen him slowly and with dignity moving away from the berry bush where he had unexpectedly come face to face with Farmer Brown's boy you would, I am sure, have had the greatest respect for Buster Bear.

Farmer Brown's boy hadn't moved. He had stood perfectly still until Buster finally disappeared in the bushes. He had been tempted to yell at Buster to try to make him run. But he hadn't done it. He had kept his mouth closed. You see, he understood just how Buster felt.

"Buster remembers," though Farmer Brown's boy, "the first time we met here in the Old Pasture and how he ran away in such fright that he didn't even see where he was going. That was because he was young and foolish. Now he is older and wiser; much wiser. Down in his heart he is still a little afraid of me, but he doesn't intend that any one shall know it. The old rascal is pretending. He is pretending that he hasn't seen me. He is pretending that he doesn't know I am anywhere about. He is anxious to get away from here, but he isn't hurrying a step. He knows that I am watching him, and he wants to make me think that he doesn't care a flip of a paw about me. He wants me to understand that he respects me and my rights, and that he expects me to respect him and his rights.

"I suppose some people wouldn't stay here a minute knowing that there is a fully grown Bear in the Old Pasture. But I know that I have no more to fear from him than I would have if he were miles away. He has shown me that as plainly as if he said so in so many words. Poor old Buster. He had set his heart on these berries. I could see it in his eyes when he was heading for this bush. But I was here first, and so these berries are mine. Anyway, there are plenty of other berries for Buster."

So Farmer Brown's boy resumed his picking, and it wasn't very long before he had his pail full. All the time, without appearing to do so, he watched for another glimpse of Buster Bear. But he didn't get one. He neither saw nor heard anything more of Buster. But he knew that this didn't mean that Buster had gone back to the Green Forest. He suspected that Buster wasn't far away. He had a feeling that though he didn't see Buster, Buster saw him. He was right, Buster had gone only far enough to get out of sight and then had hidden where he could watch Farmer Brown's boy but unseen himself.

Just as soon as Farmer Brown's boy started for home with his two pails of berries, Buster resumed his feast. He wasn't in the least nervous or upset. Once he would have been; he would have kept looking to see if Farmer Brown's boy was returning. Age had brought wisdom and understanding to Buster Bear.

COATS SMOTHERED WITH FUR.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Fur almost smothers the newest coats. Of sumptuous materials, they end at the neck in high ermine collars—or collars of mole or seal, as the case may be—and they disappear at the knees into a fluff of 12-inch wide fur banding.

GRAY PEARL POPULAR.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The gray pearl is very much in vogue today. It not only makes up the necklace, often alternating with white or pink pearls, but it also makes up earrings in hoop or pendant shapes.

London, Aug. 21.—Whole sprays and branches of leaves and flowers ornament the latest formal afternoon frocks. These decorations, done in beading, are placed—one spray to a gown—slantwise across the front of the skirt.

NECKLACES HANG BETWEEN SHOULDERS.

London, Aug. 21.—The fashionable woman today does not dream of wearing her necklace with the loop in front. She ties the long strand of beads or jewels into a loose knot at the back of the neck and lets it hang between her shoulders.

PANSY PURPLE LINGERIE.

New York, Aug. 21.—Lingerie in the new pansy purple is especially beautiful when made of georgette. This shade of purple is becoming usually to brunettes as well as to blondes, and is effective when trimmed with lace dyed orchid, pale green or maize.

GREEN FUR SHOWN.

New York, Aug. 21.—Among the woolen topcoats for early autumn shown here today those in soft shades of brick red and of rose are notable. Sometimes these shades have fur quaintly dyed to match; even green fur is seen.

HOSIERY IN VARIED SHADES.

New York, Aug. 21.—Many and varied are the hosiery shades permissible for street wear now. Those most favored include peach blow, pear, rose, ashes, tanbark, silver and skin.

SWAGGER WRIST BAGS.

New York, Aug. 21.—The new swagger wrist bags that fasten with a key lock are striking accessories. They come in nearly any combination of colors, both in silk and leather, but Airedale-brown striped silk, lined with orange, is especially pleasing.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia, and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach, and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five-grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate, and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."—Advt.

Orient Seniors In Hard Battle Defeat Bards 5-4 To Tie St. Thomas For Serie

London Nine Given Scare By Bards' Rally In Ninth

With Sacks Loaded, Down Whiffs Flanigan For Last Out.

FITCHETT TRIPLES

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Aug. 20. — The London Orients haven't regained their natural facial color yet, following the fright the Stratford Bards threw into them here tonight in a Southern Counties League game which the Forest City lads won, 5 to 4. The win ties St. Thomas and London for the leadership of the second series of Group A. The Bards were hopelessly out of the running before the game started, while a loss for the Orients would have given St. Thomas the series and the undisputed right to meet the Orients, winners of the first series for the group championships. The Bards scored the first two counters, making two runs in the third frame, and while the Forest City crew slapped three tallies down in the fourth and two more in the fifth the homesters almost upset all the dope in the final spasm.

With the score, 5—2, for the visitors, Dolson, the first man up for Stratford in the ninth, singled to center and got as far as third when Griffin hit to the same place. Griffin drifted to second, and then Edwards raised the ball into short center. It looked like a sure hit, but Armstrong raced back from second base and made a pretty catch, after which he doubled Griffin at second. Dolson held third. The double play crushed most of the hopes in the breasts of the fans, but Packham laced a triple into left which brought Dolson in. McKenzie then went in to pinchhit for E. Marks and crashed out a hot drive to Down which burnt the big boy's glove as it tore through to the outfield.

Packham counted, and the score was 5—4. Lavelle singled into right field, and when Armstrong messed up W. Marks' grounder the bases were loaded. Flanigan then came to bat and with two out and the score 5 to 4 and the bases groaning went down before a final burst of speed on the part of Hank Down.

Answered by
BOB CRUICKSHANK,
Runner up in national open championship, 1923, and the man who, in 1921, defeated Hutchinson, Sarazen and Barnes in an invitation tournament at St. Joseph, Mo. Runner up in Pittsburg tournament for professional golfers, 1922, being defeated only by Sarazen.

* * *

To know a really good shaft one has to be working among them for years. A good clubmaker can tell right away. Therefore I would advise the amateur to go to the pro or clubmaker and explain to him that he wants a really good shaft. The best way to try out the shaft is to take the club by the grip and press the sole or toe of the club-head on the ground. Do it smoothly till the shaft bends slightly and it should spring back equally smoothly to its original position. Do not take a shaft with a very heavy head, as it makes the shaft too "whippy." It will warp or bend quickly nine times out of ten. Just "feel" the head on the shaft so that the shaft has that spring feel about it. If the average man would go to his pro and tell him exactly what he wants he is almost sure to get real service any time.

INGERSOLL ELIMINATED BY BRANTFORD CORDAGE

Special to The Advertiser.

Ingersoll, Aug. 20.—The local baseball team was eliminated from the O. B. A. A. running this afternoon, when the Brantford Cordage nine won the semi-final game 18 to 1. The visitors jumped into the score column in the first inning, and Ingersoll was always trailing. Kelly's generosity, coupled with errors, were largely responsible for the one-sided score.

The locals had difficulty in connecting with the offerings of Wilkes, who had speed, control and a splendid assortment of curves. He was given gilt-edged support, as two flies that seemed impossible were taken care of. Batteries—Wilkes and Baird; Kelly and Henderson.

VETERAN COMES THROUGH.

Casey Stengel, late of the Giants, but now holding forth in a Boston uniform, yesterday played a big part in the Braves' two shut-out wins over the Cubs. He was responsible for both runs in the opener and accounted for three of the five tallies in the second game. Casey is married now, and yesterday was his first game since returning from his honeymoon.

On the Side Lines

With C. S. G.

NOT GYPSIES.

One fan, trying to analyse the London team's slump on their present stay on the home lot, came to the sudden conclusion that the Londoners were essentially a "road" team. Contrasted with their present home stay, their last prolonged trip on the road, during which they fought their way from last place to second, makes it look as if they ought to be called Nomads instead of Tecumsehs. However, the figures for their home games since July 10 do not bear out the Romany theory. The chart to date is:

Won 3, lost 1 against Kalamazoo.
Won 2, lost 2 against Muskegon.
Won 1, lost 2 against Grand Rapids.
Won 3, lost 1 against Saginaw.
Won 1, lost 2 against Bay City.
Won 1, lost 2 against Hamilton.
Won 0, lost 3 against Kalamazoo.
Won 0, lost 2 against Muskegon.
Total—Won 11, lost 15.

FAN JUDGMENT.

Sometimes the fans are right. More than half the time they're not. Starting the 9th yesterday two runs behind, it was Coogan's turn at bat. There was an audible demand for a pinch hitter. Whether Beatty had a hunch on a pitcher starting his own rally, or whether he remembered that the London pitcher has at times the knack of cracking out the timely hit will never be known, but, whatever it was, Beatty was right. Coogan delivered the necessary hit. The fans also asked for a pinch hitter for Sandquist. Had Sandquist batted and been struck out, or called out, as Turk was, there'd have been the hue and cry raised that the game was lost on judgment. There may be some judgment to baseball, but a lot of it's gamble.

THE REASON.

NURMI—THE NEW DISCOVERY.

Like every other man who saw Nurmi in action at the Olympic games, Captain Cornelius, coach of the Canadian team, comments on his strange style of running. The great Finn has a style that is all his own and decidedly different to what coaches would suggest to budding young athletes. A. B. George, the great English coach, studied the Finn as closely as any man at the games and draws the following deductions:

"Thousands of keen followers of athletics have puzzled their brains in an effort to discover the secret of Nurmi's wonderful running. Some incline to the belief that his stride, so contrary to the orthodox, may have something to do with it. He does not bound along from the ball of the foot alone, as do most short and middle-distance runners. Nor does he lean forward in what is generally regarded as the correct poise. His carriage of the head and body is upright, just as one would walk along the street at an ordinary pace. The arms are bent at the elbow, so that they conform to the latter L.

"The swing is forward and a very little inward, the hands being opposite the center of the body at the end. It is not a violent swing, the hand only moving backward and forward over a distance of about nine inches, the elbows just showing behind the body at the moment the hands are drawn back on a level with the front of the chest. This will illustrate the important point that the forearm and hands are in front of the body mostly.

"Nurmi's stride is marked in its difference from the orthodox. At first glance he would appear to run flat-footed, but this is not the proper description. Certainly the heel first makes contact with the ground, but Nurmi comes up onto the ball of the foot for his spring or bound. Another striking feature is that Nurmi has a pronounced throw out from the knee in his stride. An obvious advantage of his stride is that the feet are always close to the ground, so lessening jar. Having studied his style closely, I am satisfied there must be something in it, particularly for long distance running. All the same, we need not conclude that it is the correct stride just yet.

"W. Ritola and E. Wide, who were the two next best long distance runners at the games to Nurmi, run on the ball of the foot, as do most American and British athletes. Nor need any one imagine that Nurmi's style of striding is something new. The first amateur who won an English A. A. A. 100 yards championship in 10 seconds ran flat-footed. He was Arthur Wharton, a West Indian, his success being in 1886. It may be added that he later learned to run on his toes, when he improved four yards in 100."

ST. THOMAS KIDS TIE FIRST GAME

Rally in Eighth Ties Up O. B. A. Juvenile Playoff Here.

The St. Thomas Falcons tied the London East A. C. Juveniles in the first game of the Juvenile O. B. A. A. playoffs at Queen's Park last night before a crowd of about one thousand spectators.

Although Cook allowed but four scattered hits, the Saints took advantage of the three walks given to them, with a hit which scored their three runs in the eighth.

The East crew started their scoring in the second, when Lindsay walked, Ross beat out a bunt, Johnston walked, Mahon struck out but, the catcher dropping the ball, had to throw to first base, Lindsay scoring.

In the second they got three hits off Kennedy but failed to tally.

Cook scratched a hit towards first, stole second and third and scored on Ross' single to center in the fifth.

In the eighth the Falcons tallied all their counters. Taylor walked, stole second, went to third on Coleman's wild peg. McFarland walked. Taylor scored when Cook mussed up Clark's grounder. Knight got a hit to Cook, McFarland scoring. Palmer, pinch hitting for Stewart, came through with a hit, scoring Knight.

Lindsay walked in the Athletic Club's half of the eighth, stole second and third, and scored on Ross' hit to short. Ross also stole second and third. Playing in the dusk, Howard and Johnston struck out, and Ross attempting to come in on a passed ball, was out for the last out.

Cook and Kennedy both pitched good ball, the former having ten strike-outs and the latter thirteen.

The London East Club will play the return game in St. Thomas on Saturday.

Anglers Need Freak Hits To Make Tecs Lose Second

Lusty Hitting To Offset Breaks Not Forthcoming.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

The Beattymen extended their losing streak to an even half dozen yesterday, dropping the second game to the Anglers 5—4. Failure to hit McCauley's fork-handed offerings after the first inning explains the London loss, but surprising as it may seem, the seventeen hits Ryan's men combed off Coogan do not explain his defeat. It doesn't seem possible that any amount of diligent searching could find two alibis for defeat amongst seventeen hits. It is. The run Myers scored in the first inning was the result of his freak hit, which bounced high over Gehringer's head, and in the seventh Clancy's triple was that caliber by virtue of the fact that Tice, all set for the mitt, slipped for a second time during the afternoon on the wet grass. And if Coogan on his alibi search delved deeper he'd find an error cost another run.

A Rally.

Coogan, with a single in the ninth, created one of his own breaks and symptoms of a rally. McCauley hit Stimpson and walked Tice filling the bases and the air with threats. Big "Tiny" Rynearson, who had been pitching every inning in the bull-pen and had 23 unofficial strikeouts, was hurriedly called into real action. He was given a leg out of a bad situation when Elmore after a run pulled down Beatty's short liner and pegged Coogan out on a fine throw to the plate. Nason singled past the box scoring Stimpson, but Eiffert, pinch-hitting for Sandquist, was called out on strikes.

Elmore's double scoring Myers' freak hit lifted the curtain.

Singles by Stimpson, Tice, Nason and a double by Beatty scoring two runs greeted McCauley, and he permitted Sandquist, who hasn't done much exercising on the bases of late, to walk. Beatty and Sandy worked a double steal of home plate. The Anglers redoubled, however, Baker lining into O'Brien's hands for a double-play.

An error by Gehringer, scored after two infield outs, when Sandquist knocked down McCauley's hard smash in the second inning. McCauley grew unsettled in the third. With one gone, he walked Beatty and Nason. As Sandquist bunted down the third base line, Stutz put himself in reverse gear, finally coaxing the ball fair until within a pace of the bag, when he nonchalantly picked it up and touched third with the minimum of effort and the maximum of execution for the force-out. Baker's single put Nason on third, but Gehringer flied out to Elmore.

With one gone in the fourth, Coogan made the visitors waste three hits in one prodigal cluster, forcing Stutz to hit into a double-play at the plate and first.

A walk to Kline and O'Brien's double turned into a brace of runs on McCauley's hard infield smash and Stutz's scratch hit to the knoll. Clancy's lucky triple and Kline's double hung up another run in the next frame. Kline made a bandit catch of Nason's tremendous drive to score London in the seventh.

Coogan pulled a fine piece of pitching in the Muskegon ninth. Clancy and Elmore started with singles. Coogan threw Clancy out at third on Kline's attempted sacrifice. Dunn refilled the bases with a single, but Gehringer pulled down O'Brien's pop behind first and Connolly popped to Baker.

OH LADY! LADY!

OLD RELIABLE.

Injuries at the first of the season and a further lay-off near the close of the first series kept Earl Stimpson from getting into his usual batting stride. He's hitting it now though and as well fielding sensationally. During the last few games he has had to show something sensational at times on hard chances. The left gardener plays the batters so that a good many of his chances look easy.

He got on base four times in five trips yesterday.

Connaught Ranges, Ottawa, Aug. 20—At the end of the third day's shooting in the annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet, the aggregate of the individual rifle men to date gives an indication as to who will form part of Canada's 1925 Bisley team. Freeborn, Hamilton, third, with 362 points.

Sergt. Desmond Burke, King's prize winner at Bisley this year, is shooting steady, and under exceptionally bad shooting conditions, today brought himself up to fourth place with 360 points. Sergt. Major W. A. Hawkins, Toronto, Canada's other king's prize winner, and a regular Bisley attendant, has only 347 points, but his shooting is improving daily. WEST LORNE BEATS ST. THOMAS TEAM

Flower City Intermediates Drop First of League Playoffs.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 20.—The local intermediates lost their first game of the play-off for the championship of the West Elgin League to West Lorne by a score of 11 to 10, in an exciting encounter here this evening. Arlein for the locals was touched for 15 hits, while his supporters made five errors. The locals collected 14 hits, 13 from Thompson, and one from Edwards, while the visitors made eight errors.

West Lorne got two runs in the first on a hit and two errors. The locals retaliated with a single and triple by Connell, and an error, for two runs, tying the score. The locals got another run in the second. In the fourth West Lorne pounded Arlein for two doubles and a brace of singles which, coupled with errors, counted four more runs. In the seventh they got three more, and in the eighth another pair, making eleven. The locals, however, were not dismayed, and scored two in the fifth and with a regular batting rally in the eighth, touching Thompson for five hits and one error scored another four runs, but were unable to get the tying counter.

The hitting of A. Thompson was one of the features. He got four hits, including a double, in five trips. Although Umpire Davis was fair nearly all the game he made a bad mistake when he called Dodson out with only two balls thrown to him. The first ball Dodson fouled. Then he fanned the air at the next, but Davis called him out.

DRESDEN WINS FIRST OF KENT PLAYOFF 7--2

Blenheim Team Secures Only Four Safeties Off Johnston.

Special to The Advertiser.

Dresden, Aug. 20.—Dresden won the first game in the final play-off of the Kent League series from Blenheim here this afternoon by a score of 7—2. Dresden put over three runs in the first, two being scored on a double by Babbitt. Blenheim got a man on third in this inning, and two of the visiting batters sacrificed in an effort to score him, but without success. In the sixth Dresden again scored two and added two more in the seventh, while the others suffered a score of goose eggs until the eighth, when one runner succeeded in reaching the plate.

In the ninth Blenheim again tallied, but some good playing on the part of the local fielders stopped the score with a man on the third. Johnston did not appear in form at the start and walked a couple of men, but tightened up and allowed only four hits. Beauclair was walloped for nine, but pitched a good game, and was splendidly supported by his fielders. Errors were at a premium on both sides, and the fans witnessed one of the best games of the season.

Blenheim changed batteries in the eighth, but the opposing score was too large to be overcome. Johnston and MacFadden did the battery work for Dresden, and Beauclair and Davis for Blenheim.

Umpires Legg of London and Shaw of Windsor gave splendid satisfaction.

McTigue To Help Stribling Prepare For Next Battle

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Stribling family—Pa and Ma and the battling youngster—started last night from Johnson City, Tenn., for Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where Young Stribling will condition himself for his forthcoming affair with Paul Berlenbach, which is scheduled to take place at the New York Velodrome, 225th street and Broadway, on the evening of Aug. 27.

In connection with this news item there is a slant that would seem to corroborate the idea that truth is stranger than fiction. This is the fact that Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, will be in the same camp with Stribling, and will aid him in getting ready for Berlenbach.

Those who witnessed the scrap between Young Stribling and Mike McTigue in Newark several months ago will probably find it difficult to believe that this pair could ever become so amicable as to lend each other assistance in preparing for an important bout.

In the best informed boxing circles hereabouts it was predicted very freely that Mike McTigue would move right out of Saratoga on learning that Young Stribling was to make his headquarters there. This, apparently, is the last thought that entered Mike's head. One of the light heavyweight champion's representatives in this city yesterday said Mike hadn't the slightest hard feeling toward the Georgia schoolboy, and would be glad to help him in any way he could—although the same representative admitted that Mike didn't enjoy some of the tactics that the youngster used in the Newark affair.

Mike thinks that Young Stribling is an acrobat and not a fighter, but he holds no unalterable grudge against him on that score. Mike, it is said, would like to have another smack at young Mr. Stribling, and will listen to almost any reasonable financial proposition in order to wipe out that mean blot that was dropped on his record in Newark.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKE ONE OF TWO

Bisons Win in First Home Game Under New Manager.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Toronto opened the final home stand of the season today, breaking even in a double-header with Jersey City. The Leafs took advantage of some weird fielding on the part of the Skeeters and won the first game, 9 to 5. They had a five-run lead in the second, but Reynolds faltered in the fifth inning, five hits, including a home run by Holt with two on base, giving the visitors five runs and the game, 6 to 5. Holt and Hodder hit home runs in the first game, while Sullivan of the Leafs and Holt clouted for the circuit in the second affair. The Leafs fielded brilliantly. The scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
Jersey City	110 000 030—5	11 2
Toronto	030 021 03x—9	14 1

Hanson, Franks and Freitag; Doyle and Stanage.

Second game:		R.H.E.

Anderson hit a home run and two singles in three times at bat.

BRITISH GOLF STARS SAIL FOR AMERICA

Will Compete For Walker Cup Against the World's Best.

Associated Press Despatch.

Southampton Eng., Aug. 20.—The team of British amateur golfers who will compete for the Walker cup sailed for the United States today on board the Homeric.

Without E. W. E. Holderness, British amateur champion, and Roger Wethered, former champion, the team, according to critics, has the odds against them as the United States is said to have lined up the most powerful team of amateurs ever brought together.

The British, however, are young and optimistic with unquestioned fighting qualities which may pull them through. It is stated that Cyril J. H. Tolley, French open champion, and captain of the British Walker Cup team will endeavor to get the United States to agree to have the sides composed of ten men each instead of eight as in previous international matches.

The other members of the British team are O. B. Bristowe, West Byfleet; C. L. Heslet, Royal of Port Rush, Ireland; W. L. Hope, Turnberry; D. H. Kyle, Roehampton; W. A. Murray, West Hill; Robert Scott, Jun. Glasgow; Michael Scott, Royal St. George; T. A. Torrance, Sandy Lodge and E. F. Storey, Cambridge University.

CHATHAM BRISCO NINE LOSES TO ST. THOMAS

Railroad City Seniors' Victory Due To Visitors' Errors.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 20.—In a snappy exhibition game of ball this afternoon the local seniors defeated Chatham Briscos, 3 to 2. The visitors got only one hit off "Tiny" Monk, while they touched Billings for four, including one double. The locals, however, touched Miller for only four hits, the victory being won by Chatham's five errors. With the exception of a misjudged ball by Binns, the locals played errorless ball behind Monk and Billings.

The game was an excellent practice for the locals in preparation for their game against the London Orients on Saturday. Miller, the Chatham pitcher, was the best hitter, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Greenaway connected with one of Miller's bafflers for a triple to center field.

Score by innings:		R.H.E.
Chatham	000 020 00—2	5 5
St. Thomas	010 020 0x—3	4 1

Batteries—Miller and Morgan; Monk, Billings and Graham.

Galt Team Takes Opener Of Playoff In Intercounty

First it looked as if the "brakes" were against the Londoners. Yesterday it was the breaks that were against them.

Breaking a losing streak would be a nice dish for today.

Poor old George Stutz! With his falling eyesight, the old dogs going back on him, and aging mental processes, the veteran third sacker is in a bad way.

On a hot day he can't run any more than a couple of hundred yards after fouls.

He's slowed up so badly in a mental way that he can only think about twice as fast as any third sacker in the league.

He's only got three hits, two sacrifices and been robbed of several more in two games. That means glasses right away for the venerable George. It may be worse than that—a tin cup and a card, the oculist may say.

Poor old Stutz!

It will be either Achenbach or Delman today. It's the latter's turn.

President Halligan is receiving praise for the quick way in which he assembled a new team for Grand Rapids. The Orphans' headlong pace has been checked, but they are putting up a good brand of ball considering the haste with which they were gathered together. London won't get a chance to judge for themselves, as the Homoners do not make another appearance here.

Pitcher Johnny Schelberg of the Hamilton Club, released outright after Wetzel had failed to land him with an International League club, may go direct to the Boston Red Sox. Duke Farrell, scout of the Boston Red Sox, who watched the Muskegon and London game Tuesday may have something to do with the switching of Schelberg from the dinner pail to the big show.

Schelberg has only one lack—control. Wetzel figures that if the former Ham could get into the big leagues, where they have more time to eradicate faults, he would stick. He is said to have everything else but the one essential, whether its in the minor or the major leagues—the beforementioned control.

* * *

Cousin Egbert Barrow recently pulled a real Sherlock Holmes trick himself. He saw a seedy old gentleman coming into the grounds lugging a heavy bag. "Aha," says Egbert, "bottled stuff! A low bootlegger. Grab him and search him, my merry men."

Ed. was right. The old gentleman had plenty of bottled stuff. When his bag was searched it contained five bottles of sweet pickles and a bottle of ketchup.

Kress Turns Away Royal Ci[ty] Crew With Four-Hit Total.

EIGHT ERRORS

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Aug. 20.—Guelph Leafs dro[p]ped the intial game of the senior Inte[r] County play-off series to the G[alt] Terriers in a one-sided argument th[is] afternoon. The game was featured [by] anything but good baseball, and bo[th] squads had their full share of miscu[es,] Galt players mussing up five, and t[he] locals having three discredits.

Henry, who did the mound work f[or] the Leafs, twirled the entire route und[er] the severe handicap of a lame l[eg] which prevented him from fielding h[is] position with any degree of effectiv[e]ness. He was hit mercilessly in [all] periods of the encounter, the fightin[g] Terriers nicking him for a grand tot[al] of fourteen safeties.

The Terriers after a see-saw strugg[le] until the fifth, jumped into the le[ad] for the first time, only to lose it aga[in] in the seventh, when the Dolanit[es] notched the tying counter again. A[n] additional two spasms, however, cook[ed] the Dolan goose, and the locals we[re] unable to get back the then mountai[n]ous lead.

Kress turned the trick for the Gal[t]onians, allowing only four safe conne[c]tions. The Leafs were unable to fatho[m] his sharpshooting at any period, a[nd] although his support was far from pe[r]fect, especially in the infield, the Lea[fs] were unable to push across the counte[r] when needed, several golden chanc[es] being lost. The locals were successf[ul] base thieves at all times, and Oliv[er] was nicked for pilfered cushions.

The return game will be played [in] Galt next Saturday. A Guelph win w[ould] necessitate a third game.

The score:		R.H.[E.]
Galt	010 120 002—6	14
Guelph	101 100 100—4	4

STONE TOWN NINE BEATS LONDON-ST. MARYS TEAM

In an exhibition game in the town o[f] St. Marys yesterday the local St. Mary's Holy Name League team lost to the Stone Town outfit, 9—8, in eleven innings. The Londoners took an early lead, but the home crew overtook the visitors with a hitting slamboree in the sixth and added another in the next frame.

Kelleher tied the count in the ninth by stealing home. With two gone in the eleventh Riddell of Lucan, who was pitching for the Stone Town, laid down a bunt that brought in Spivins from third with the winning run.

The Western Fair.

The Western Fair will open its gates to the public in a little more than two weeks time, and the people of London and Western Ontario will be given both the responsibility and the opportunity of adding another step to its progress.

The Empire Exhibition at Wembley has served to give thousands of people a new conception of the empire's magnitude. It has combined entertainment and education in graphic form. It has brought the far places of the world together with the benefits which exchange of ideas and information always brings.

The Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto gives annual proof of the advantages of similar activities; it has demonstrated that a small beginning is no handicap where there is sufficient enterprise, imagination and determination.

For Western Ontario the Western Fair performs the same functions as Wembley and Toronto have performed for the empire and the Dominion. The difference in degree should not be a discouragement, nor should it lessen for this district the importance of the fair. Western Fair for Western Ontario is an annual meeting place; a convention for the assembly of Western Ontario's best achievements; a free exchange of Western Ontario's most enterprising ideas; a huge community picnic for the creation of goodwill and understanding.

This year is unusually important for the Western Fair, because its directors have indicated their faith in the future by adopting the policy of a 25-cent admission fee on all days of the week. Faith in the future, to be more specific, means faith in the loyalty and interest of the people of this district, and the answer will, of course, rest with them. The Advertiser believes that the decision to establish a lower and uniform admission is sound. The Advertiser believes also that the people of the western counties will respond to the challenge.

No Unemployment Doles.

London will probably be represented at the employment conference in Ottawa next month by Mayor Wenige and Alderman McKay. These two men will have the duty of expressing London's opinion regarding a choice between undertaking public works or establishing financial relief as a means of correcting unemployment.

If the unemployment forecast for the coming winter renders such a choice necessary there should be little hesitation in the decision. Creating employment is infinitely preferable to encouraging unemployment, and if public works of a necessary character are awaiting construction, they should certainly be chosen in place of giving out charity.

The dole system in England has proved most unsatisfactory. The man who has honestly but vainly sought work finds himself on a level with the slacker. The doles have encouraged laziness and given rise to numerous schemes by which vagrants have been able to delude the government.

There is nothing constructive about unemployment doles. They do not remove the cause of trouble. They are merely a soothing syrup which must be administered in ever increasing doses, and which eventually leaves the pain more severe than ever. They provide no incentive to find employment. Instead, they tend to remove incentive and to place a premium on inability.

It may be that the conference will find neither plan necessary. But if a choice must be made, London's delegates should set their faces firmly against the delusions and dangers of free allowances.

A Way to End War.

It is rather extraordinary and well worth notice that both the late president of the United States, President Harding, and the present premier of Great Britain, two men opposite in experience and political views, should agree on one of the most important points of modern social safety.

Probably unknown to each other they made a similar plea for the conscription of wealth as a means of preventing war. The American president made the suggestion tentatively in a public address, and the British premier includes the theory as one of his long established beliefs.

It can be assumed with fairness that a prewar knowledge of the policy and practice of conscription would have tempered the utterances of British statesmen. If they had been fully certain that conscription was part of the war that was to come, and if the people had had the same knowledge, it is possible that the course of events might have taken a different angle. But if a policy of conscription of wealth had been certain, it is not too much to suggest that there would have been no declaration of war in 1914.

After the war, immediately following the signing of the Versailles treaty, we heard a good deal of the possibilities of this new conscription. Lately we have heard less. In the war years, at home and in the Dominion, the temptation to profit at the expense of national necessity was too great to be shorn of its attractiveness by any of the government formations.

It is not so very illogical to suppose that if nothing more lasting and substantial than glory is offered as the reward of venturing money in the very risky trade of war, money will be as scarce and as chary in offering itself as it was formerly eager and insistent in seeking a place for national service.

Premier King and the Senate.

Premier King's attitude toward Senate reform is statesmanlike in its restraint and wise in its purpose. Government by the will of the electors is a fundamental principle of Liberalism, as it is the basis of democracy, and in his intention to assure the people's authority, the prime minister is merely acting consistently as its elected defender.

The only objections to curbing of the Senate's autocracy have come from a few Conservative papers, which find it impossible to find merit in anything Liberal. These objections have been chiefly attempts to attribute to the announcement of reform motives of vindictiveness and petty spite. The prime minister's statement of his attitude is an effective reply. He has made it clear that certain precautionary functions of a second chamber are essential to safe government. The need for reform is created only when the Senate exaggerates these functions to a point where they become an autocratic hindrance to the wish of the people, as expressed by the men who have been elected for such purpose.

The Senate today is an old man of the sea, and an expensive one, who must either be vitalized into usefulness or be removed.

Honor the Jesters.

Not so long ago France awarded academic palms to three clowns, the Fraterlini Brothers, in token of their "beneficial effect on the public morale." Britain knights her playwrights as freely as her men of wealth and her great distillers. On this continent only the men of wealth achieve fame by recognition of governments.

We have no scientists in our Senate chamber, neither are there writers, nor poets, nor artists, nor musicians, nor—heaven forbid—comedians. It takes money to rest easily in the cushioned throne of a senator, and in none of these professions is there a large harvest of dollars for the reaping.

The better comedians of vaudeville, and even of the movies, often deserve recognition as truly as the man who has become prominent because of the success of his business promotions. His efforts have, at best, been directed from a personal aim, and if any outsider has benefited, it was usually because it could not be avoided.

But we are deeply in debt to the people who make us laugh. If effect on public morale, as finds favor with the French, is to be the criterion by which men shall be judged fit for public gratitude and recognition, the list of great Canadians is due for a startling revision.

One of these days we shall see our neighbor, Rex of the Rarebits, wearing the sword of a senator, or whatever those fellows wear. Provided, of course, that someone does not crown him instead.

This Sounds Better.

Some of the discomfort regarding Sir Henry Thornton's reported statement that the Canadian Nationals face a deficit of thirteen or fourteen million dollars for 1924 has been removed by Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways and canals.

In an interview at Brockville, Mr. Graham expressed the opinion that Sir Henry has been misquoted in his Calgary speech, and that he intended to say that the operating surplus would be $13,000,000 less than last year.

Last year the operating surplus was $20,000,000. Mr. Graham's correction means a surplus of about $6,000,000. A surplus of $6,000,000 is a great deal better news than a deficit of $13,000,000.

PUNG.

It's nice to have a family
Of six or eight or twenty;
Though on my meagre salary
A couple's more than plenty.

Some folks like girls, some like a boy;
Some like 'em mixed and varied;
Some claim a son gives greater joy
To parents when he's married.

Just now, however, when I play
Mah Jong (my worst of sinlets),
The kind of family that I most
Admire is the twinlets.

People do not go to China any more. If they want to see Chinese junk, they go ahead and buy a Mah Jong set.

The trouble with starting Mah Jong is that you have to buy the accessories. A real Mah Jonger must have a special silk table and should be dressed either as a Pink Dragon or a Rainy Season.

The only people who haven't mastered the game are bricklayers. They claim their union won't allow them to lay more than one tile an hour.

We know a woman who plays every morning until 3 o'clock. She usually collects circles and now has two beauties under the eyes.

In every family there is always one person who knows how to keep score. That person is always the winner.

FATHER WILLIAM.

"You are old, Father William," the young man said,
"You are fond of bezique and of rum,
And yet you won't get this Mah Jong through your head,
Do you call that advanced, you old bum?"

"At first," Father William replied to his son,
"I feared it might injure the brain;
But now I am certain this game calls for none,
Why, I'll play it again and again."

A few months ago, when a man told you he saw three green dragons you attributed it to bootleg whiskey. Now it merely means that he's a Mah Jongist.

Times change. Two years past if any person claimed to be the east wind he would find a night's lodging in an asylum.

In those days a man was thought to be a hero if he saved one person. Now he can save the heavenly twins without a word of thanks.

They say, however, that Mah Jong gives a fine opportunity for character study.

When you lose at Mah Jong there is always consolation in knowing that the game requires little or no brain. When you win there is always much satisfaction in thinking that it does.

The fact that Mah Jong has created a shortage of ivory should not worry players as long as they can keep their heads about them.

Another advantage is that when you are short a tile you can always pick one off the bathroom floor.

It is said the game was invented by a Chinese laundryman. That is why persons who play for high stakes are likely to lose their shirt.

The Revolt of Youth.

In dealing with what is known as "the revolt of youth" we must take into account what education is.

Much of the revolt of youth is an expression of the spirit of independence, a revolt of the young person against adopting the ideas or methods that are not his own.

According to Dr. W. S. Howard, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church, one phase of what has been called the revolt of youth may truthfully be called the collapse of restraint.

"Parents have almost quit raising their children," said Dr. Bovard, "teachers wear no badge of authority, and society in general refuses to train up children in the way they should go."

This, of course, is not so.

The children of today are as good as they ever were and the children of tomorrow will be better. Dr. Bovard's alarm is merely at a revolt against authority, and it is not authority that children need so much as the proper development of their individuality.

This is not a plea for the absence of restraint among children, but it is rather a plea for placing the restraint in the right place. It should be within them.

Attention has been called to the collapse of authority. There is no collapse of authority. The only right place for authority is within one's self. No amount of training or discipline will do anyone any good if it is training and discipline in response to an outside stimulus.

It must be inside. The child should be trained to exercise and use his own faculties. In the using of these he will develop the necessary strength.

If more attention is paid to the development of children in the proper way and less attention to the sustaining of certain standards of society for children, more good will be done.

We should always keep in mind in matters of education that in a short time we will be gone and the responsibility of the world will be placed upon the shoulders of the children. Anyone who realizes this will realize that it is more important to develop strength in children than it is to develop our own authority over them.

FIRST AROUND WORLD BY AIR STILL MacLAREN'S AMBITION

British Aviator Keeps Goal in Sight After Five Months' Flight.

PLANE TAKEN ASHORE

Remains of Wrecked Craft Will Be Shipped From Vancouver To England.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, Aug. 20.—To be the first around-the-world-by-air—that ambition which launched Major A. Stewart MacLaren and his party on the globe encircling flight five months ago—is still the goal at which the daring aviator aims.

"Of course, it all depends upon the Americans," he commented as H. M. S. Thiepval dropped anchor off the Jericho air station today. "If they get around it is all up. The thing has to be done."

When the little trawler let her anchor drop today she ended a cruise which began on March 1. Within a few minutes under the direction of Pilot W. H. Plenderleith, the crew of the vessel, assisted by men from Jericho, were at work lowering the hull of the ill-fated flying boat from its perch on the after deck of the trawler into the water. The engine which never missed a beat in the fourteen thousand miles of flying was deposited in a dory and the remains of the tiny craft which met its doom in the storm waters of the Northern Pacific, were taken ashore to await shipment to England.

It was a great test for the plane, declared Major MacLaren. Flying eight and nine hours every day for months on end, and without the opportunity of having the craft gone over thoroughly, was much more of a test than daily flights of commercial planes which are overhauled at the end of each trip.

Major MacLaren stated that he had never in his life experienced such continued bad weather as that encountered in the North Pacific.

King Would Unite Liberals and Progressives—Meighen Paints Gloomy Picture

PREMIER URGES ALL WHO CHAMPION INTERESTS OF PEOPLE AS A WHOLE UNITE TO ASSURE LIBERAL POLICIES

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Invites Those Who Stand Opposed To Rule For Benefit of Few To Align Themselves in One Political Group.

TO STRENGTHEN HAND OF GOVERNMENT

Five Thousand Electors From Several Counties and Cities Gives Premier Tremendous Ovation at Woodstock Park —Graham and Murdock Also Speak.

TIME ONLY NEEDED TO BRING PROSPERITY

Special to The Advertiser
By a Staff Reporter.

Woodstock, Aug. 20.—Amid a scene of wild enthusiasm and the ringing cheers of 5,000 electors of Oxford, Middlesex, Brant, Perth and South Waterloo who attended the Liberal picnic in Southside Park yesterday afternoon, Premier King sounded a clarion call to all the members of the House of Commons who stand for the interests of the people to align themselves in one political group and give battle to those who stand for the privileges of the few. This was interpreted as an invitation to the Progressives to join the Liberal party with the object of strengthening the hands of the government and enable it the more readily to carry out its program of sound Liberal policies.

"Yes, we want the Liberals and Progressives to unite," said the premier, when asked the direct question after the meeting.

Hon. Mr. King was in excellent speaking form, and received a tremendous ovation from the immense crowd which had turned out in spite of the threatening weather. The call for a showdown between the forces of progress and privilege came as a climax of one of the most brilliant speeches he has ever delivered. Optimism was the keynote of his address.

Other Speakers.

Addresses were also delivered by Hon. G. P. Graham, Hon. James Murdock, W. G. Raymond, M.P., Brantford, Dr. Rankin, M.P., South Perth and Dr. D. J. Sinclair, M.P., North Oxford.

Mayor E. A. Rea and Warden L. E. Peterson extended a civic welcome to the premier. Malcolm Schell presided.

"I said the other day that we will have no election this fall," said the premier.

"Why?" he continued. "Because the people are well satisfied with the present government. They don't want a change.

"No announcement was ever more welcome to the people of Canada than the announcement that there would be no election. Was it the same prior to 1921? Everyone then was begging for an election. Everyone wanted a change of government and it could not come too soon. But today they are saying to us 'Don't bring on an election now, don't disturb industrial conditions.' It means that the people have acquired confidence in this government and believe it will continue to administer the affairs of the country in an honest, progressive, and straightforward way. We cannot do all we want at once or in one, two, or three sessions. Time will be required. The main thing is to be sure we are proceeding on the right lines."

Compares Positions.

The premier alluded to comparisons which are being made between the position of the Liberal Party today and its position years ago.

"You will recall that when Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power in 1896, he faced a condition of great depression. It took him time, but year by year he made the change that seemed necessary in the tariff of that day, with the result that we had 15 years of peace, prosperity and plenty —the golden era of the country's prosperity was during these days of Liberal rule. Now we are hoping to be able in the course of time to give to the people, government similar to that, but, ladies and gentlemen, remember that conditions which we face today are vastly different to those which Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues faced in 1896."

The premier pointed out that Sir Wilfrid had substantial majorities, while he himself did not know whether he was in the minority of majority.

"We are on the border line. On an official count I think perhaps with the speaker, it is just even. But we have opposed to us to all appearances, in the groups opposite, more than or as many as are actually sitting on our side. It does not make my position or that of my colleagues any easier. In the matter of policies we cannot do what we would like to do with the same free hand as if we had a strong majority."

Knew His Enemies.

The premier also recalled that Sir Wilfrid's opponents sat directly opposite to him.

"He knew his enemies, he knew who were opposed to him, and he could fight them in open battle before the people. But we have two groups opposed to us and these two groups are more opposed to each other than any other groups in the House. They hate each other. So we have to weigh and consider the result of our actions in every particular. That doesn't make the task of government any easier, and I hope the people will come to realize, as I believe they are beginning to, that for strong and stable government it is much better to have the type of men who will defend the people's interests grouped together as one strong political body. Then those who care more for the privileges of the few than the rights of the many may align themselves in an opposing other group.

"Let us have a battle, then, between those who stand for the rights of the many as against those who are seeking to keep within their own control the special privileges and gifts of the day."

Notwithstanding its handicap, Mr. King continued, the government had sought to carry out the will of the people, as expressed in Parliament, regardless of political labels. Despite taunts that they had exhibited weakness, the government sought to discover how the House would view their actions and find out what opposing members thought.

Strongly Supported.

"We brought forward our measures and in return received the strongest support any government got since confederation," said the premier. Referring to the majorities of over 100 on the votes on the amendments to the address and the budget. The explanation was that the government sought to embody sound Liberal doctrine in the policies laid down, and its actions had commended itself in the House.

Further instancing the stupendous task which his government had faced, the premier pointed out that when Mr. Fielding took office as finance minister under the Laurier regime, he had to raise only $40,000,000 in taxation, as compared with $400,000,000 when the present government took office. The interest on the public debt when Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power was $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 as against $135,000,000 today. Then the present government had to meet the deficit on National railways, and unlike Sir Wilfrid who succeeded upon an era of peace, the present administration had to provide for pensions, civil re-establishment and land settlement for soldiers, as a consequence of the war.

"None of us begrudge that, but it means increased taxation," commented Mr. King.

Again in Sir Wilfrid's day there were miles upon miles of land to hand out to railway companies for construction purposes, and settlers were attracted from all quarters of the globe by offers of lands which today were pre-empted.

Relieves Taxation.

"Notwithstanding all these differences we have succeeded in a little over two and a half years in so reducing public expenditures and increasing revenue so that we were able to show a surplus of $35,000,000 and relieve the people of $25,000,000 in taxation at the last session."

"We have succeeded in uniting the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We have helped to restore the old feeling of optimism and confidence and helped to unite the different elements and we believe that, given time to work out our policies, that we will be able to restore that condition, contentment and happiness which was the pride of all Canada in the past, and which will once again be the pride and glory of the Liberal party in carrying on the government of this great nation."

In opening, the premier expressed appreciation for the warmth of the reception accorded him, and the very courteous welcome extended by the mayor, who, although not of the same political color, had stayed to receive him, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Meighen was addressing a Conservative rally in Stratford.

"It is a proud moment for me when I visit Woodstock," he continued.

Tribute To Oxford.

There is a no more historic county in the history of Liberalism, unless it be North York.

Mr. King paid a tribute to Drs. Rankin and Sinclair, and Mr. Raymond for their loyalty and their valuable advice given over a long period.

Discussing the Liberal policies, the premier in answering a question of the mayor, explained to the satisfaction of the audience how it was possible to enact legislaton to benefit all classes, and how the well-being of the consumer depended on the well-being of the producer.

"It is exactly the same thing in the making of human laws as it is in the ordination of divine laws. If a thing is right it will be good for all. If it be wrong, sooner or later, it will work injury for all."

Admitting that industrial life in Canada was depressed to a certain extent, he denied that this was the result of the policies adopted by his government.

War Results Felt.

"You don't get the benefit of a policy in a week or a month," he said. "It takes time for these things to work out. The conditions in Europe are affecting conditions in Canada in a thousand ways and our whole life is being affected by that colossal waste which the war occasioned in four years. There was lost to the world all the purchasing power that was represented by what was spent in the war, and also what was represented by the increased production that would have taken place if there had been no war. As we get away from wars and their consequences, if we shape our policies aright, we will see conditions reviving."

The premier's speech covered much of the same ground he has taken in his present campaign, with particular reference to the abolition of tax on implements of production, which action, he said, was destined to vastly increase the output from the mines, fisheries, soil and forests, and benefit not only the industries, but the entire nation and renew confidence between the east and the west.

The premier recalled that at the last general election the Liberals had promised to reduce duties on these implements because they believed it was essential to Canada's development. That promise was carried out at the earliest possible opportunity.

"We have carried out our pledge and I hope the people will believe us when we come before them again, as we may in another two years, that when we say we intend to do a thing we mean to stand by our pledge and promise."

His words were greeted with wild applause.

Station With Surplus.

In the course of a short and felicitous speech, Mayor Rea expressed the hope that when Hon. Mr. Graham got a little surplus from the National Railways Woodstock would have a new station.

"We will do it as soon as we get a surplus," responded the minister of railways amid loud cheering.

"During his tenure of office the premier has exhibited that wisdom and patriotism that does him credit and must gain for him the confidence of the people," said W. G. Raymond, M.P. Mr. Raymond, introduced Hon. James Murdock, whom he declared had the confidence of organized labor throughout Canada. Although an attempt had been made to destroy the character of the minister of labor he had come unscathed through the investigation at Ottawa over the Home Bank case. "An honest man is the noblest work of God," Mr. Raymond added.

In a lengthy speech Mr. Murdock said he had endeavored to advance the interests of Labor, while not overlooking the proper claims of the rest of Canadian citizenship. Canada had benefitted from the persistent administration of a Liberal policy as applied to Labor when its railway service was not interrupted in 1922 at the time the transportation service of the United States was demoralized through the strike of shop-craft employees.

Work for Everyone.

Touching on the unemployed question, he declared there was work for every able bodied man willing to take it, and advised all the unemployed to take work at the price the industries could afford to pay. (Applause).

"We have got to create a more healthy sentiment of understanding on the part of the unemployed, and let them realize we expect them to get out and hustle and make something of themselves as others who built up Canada had to do."

Dr. Rankin, M.P., introduced Hon. G. P. Graham as an indefatigable worker who was always watching the people's interests and was respected by opponents and loved by his friends.

The minister of railways complimented the farmers of the district for having devoted themselves to diversified farming, with the result that they had never had a really bad year for crops. He described Sir Henry Thornton as a man with a human touch who had, instead of issuing hard orders to the staff and employees of the National Railways, treated them as men and women and thereby gained their confidence and received the utmost in service.

Speaking of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, Mr. Graham said that the present conditions, under which Brantford did not have the benefit of the lower rate, was irritating, and could not be allowed to continue. The railway board would shortly investigate the whole situation, and he hoped they would arrive at a schedule of rates that would give fairplay to every city in Canada.

Seek Lower Rates.

Regarding freight rates generally, the minister agreed that one of the things most needed was a reduction, and the railways would have to get together in the months to come to see if operation costs culd be reduced so as to bring about the desired result.

The premier held a reception after the meeting.

WAITS ALL DAY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—L. C. Mason, who, following his return to the city, was today placed under arrest in connection with the recent bond scandals, was late tonight admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000 furnished by his father, mother and brother. Mason, who is the husband of Mr. Matthews' stepdaughter, spent the entire day in the office of Deputy Commissioner of Police Alfred Cuddy, awaiting the arrival of Attorney-General Nickle from Kingston. Mr. Nickle arrived at the Parliament Buildings at 10 o'clock, and immediately held a conference in the provincial treasurer's office, at which Hon. W. H. Price, Crown-Attorney McRuer and Inspector Cuddy were present. Later Magistrate Cohen was called in, and J. C. M. MacBeth, Mason's counsel, stated what arrangements he had been able to make for bail.

"Mason is to be bound over as a material witness in $10,000, furnished by his father, mother and brother," stated Hon. Mr. Nickle after the conference. A warrant was issued against Mason charging him with conspiracy with Charles A. Matthews to commit a breach of the secret commissions act, but it has not been executed.

RETAIL DEALERS PASS RESOLUTIONS

Will Endeavor To Secure Amendment To O. T. A. On Sale of Extracts.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—This morning's session at the convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was occupied with the discussion of the report of the secretary and treasurer, which were placed in the delegates' hands yesterday, and this afternoon the delegates attended the opening of the Eastern Ontario and Ottawa District Retail Merchants' Association convention. The meeting of the dominion association are being held in camera.

The delegates were the guests tonight at a banquet given by the local association, the speakers being: W. J. McAulay, president of the Ontario provincial board; E. A. Stephens, president of the local association; and Col. R. F. Parkinson of Ottawa.

Stewart McClenaghan of Ottawa was today unanimously elected president of the Eastern Ontario and Ottawa Retail Merchants' Association, at the sixth annual convention, and the old slate of officers was re-elected by acclamation.

The convention dealt with 15 resolutions, including one which recommends the amending of transient traders and peddlers, act to provide that all merchandise sold in a municipality shall bear a share in the taxation of that municipality.

By a small majority another resolution carried asking that the Ontario provincial board of the Retail Merchants' Association endeavor to secure an amendment to the Ontario temperance act whereby sales of flavoring extracts in lesser quantities than two and one-half ounces will not have to be recorded. The discussion brought out forcibly the widespread trade in extracts and flavoring that has developed since the introduction of the O. T. A. Several delegates testified to the excellence of certain extracts as a beverage, and it was stated that some contained as high as 90 per cent alcohol. The chief opponent to the resolution was Lorne Rockester, local druggist, who thought he could make a fortune out of sales of extracts if such an amendment was passed.

AGNES McPHAIL, M.P., SCORES GLORIFYING WAR IN SCHOOLS

Member For Southeast Grey Addresses Meeting at Hensall.

O. T. A. REFERRED TO

Rev. F. E. Clysdale, Exeter, Upholds Present Temperance Legislation in Ontario.

Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P. for Southeast Grey, and N. W. Trewartha were speakers at a public meeting in the interests of social service in Hensall Town Hall Tuesday evening.

Scoring what she considered false and hypocritical in Christianity, and emphasizing how necessary it was to have good, active and constructive conditions and high ideals of life, Miss McPhail spoke on "Present-Day Conditions." "The grasp of nations for control of trade and markets was the chief cause of war," she declared. Nations could not be independent of each other because of trade, produce and markets.

Britain was more of an exception in this matter than other nations, because she was more for free trade.

"The prosperity of a country was in the hands of the farmers," she said, "and at the present time, effort should be made to do away with war for good and all."

Miss McPhail criticized school teachers and school books in failing to teach the most essential ideals of life. "Too much was made of war in schools," she said. "Training for war makes war."

The speaker briefly referred to the manner in which members of the federal house were selected, and declared that by a new system they should be made more responsible to their electors.

Mr. Trewartha spoke on "Citizenship." He felt proud of the county of Huron because of the splendid record of the industrial school, the children's shelter and the juvenile court. "These institutions made for better respect of the law among the younger generation," he declared, "and that is one of the essentials of citizenship."

Mr. Trewartha's address was followed by a solo, sung by Miss Harvey of Exeter, which was greatly enjoyed.

Rev. F. E. Clysdale, Exeter, spoke briefly on the present temperance situation. He stated that the present temperance legislation was the best Ontario had ever had, and declared that under it drinking had been reduced to a fraction of what it was.

Mr. Clysdale brought out many convincing facts in the course of his address. He said there was a vast difference in the temperance situation now in comparison with 25 years ago. Although there was a certain amount of illicit traffic in liquor, he declared it was only a drop in the bucket to what it used to be. He declared that if the electors showed the same fine front as they did in 1921 the premier of Ontario would indorse the O. T. A. If the electors failed, he said, liquor, with all its evils, would be brought back again.

"It is up to the voters to stand true and firm in the forthcoming vote," Mr. Clysdale concluded.

Mrs. Edwards of Komoka, provincial president of the Women's Institute, delivered an address on "Co-operation of Women's Societies in Social Work."

GERMANY TO IMPOSE WHEAT IMPORT DUTY

Heavy Tax Would Make People Consume More Home-Grown Products.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—A report was received today from Europe by the export branch of the Winnipeg grain trade and corroborated in other official quarters that the German government had expressed its intention of introducing next week in the Reichstag a bill providing for the placing of a heavy import duty on wheat and flour.

The particulars received indicate that the duty to be imposed will be equal to 35 cents a bushel on wheat and 50 cents a barrel on flour.

Germany, it is learned, has a very excellent potato crop this year, and the purpose of the import duty on wheat and flour is to make the people consume potatoes and potato flour and other home products as they were compelled to do during the war years.

From this tree fruit was used for instruction at the high school last year, and further that Mr. Dickenson has in his possession seed from that fruit.

It is generally understood that the prime minister will speak in the interests of Alderman W. J. Hushion, and other Liberal speakers will include Hon. Ernest Lapointe and Hon. H. S. Beland.

SCIENTISTS ARE AMAZED AT INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

Nakina, Ont., Aug. 20.—Eminent Britishers, accompanying the transcontinental tour of the British Association for the Advancement of Science have a new conception of Northern Ontario as an industrial center. Amazement has been expressed at the rapid growth of the mining industry on each of the occasions when the trains stopped to permit a survey of mines and concentrating plants, but the conviction that the use of the most up-to-date methods has been a feature of the big development of the past decade, was brought home with telling force today by a visit to Iroquois Falls and the properties of the Abitibi Paper Company.

Engineers, agriculturists and economists alike were impressed by the welding of what are virtually several minor chemical industries into the newsprint plant, eliminating superfluous organization and middle profits. The town itself came in for praise as a proof that it is possible for rapid development and the operation of a thorough town planning scheme to go hand-in-hand despite the fact that this has not taken place in the case of the mining communities.

LEADER OF OPPOSITION SEES ONLY DARK SIDE

Leader of Opposition Visions Homes Boarded Up, Factories Closed.

PREMIER ALL WRONG

Hon. Arthur Declares Only Right-About-Face Can Save Country.

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Correspondent.

Stratford, Aug. 20. — "Workmen banished, homes boarded up, factories closed, stagnation in business and despair in the hearts of our artisans," is the gloomy picture of Canada, pointed today by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and they were all the fruits of the policy of Mr. King's government. Mr. Meighen was addressing a crowd of 4,000 at the Conservative picnic in Queen's Park today.

In his address he dealt largely with the record of the King government, the chief characteristic of which he said was "duplicity."

He charged that changes in the tariff had closed over 2,000 factories and had banished over 300,000 Canadians to the United States, and then, his own arguments driving him into near despondency, he prophesied that the coming winter would witness hardships untold which the government would be powerless to deal with, without backing up on all its actions and revoking all its pledges.

Ridings Represented.

Associated with Mr. Meighen on the platform as speakers of the day were Hon. Hugh Guthrie of Guelph, and Hon. John S. Martin, Ontario minister of agriculture. Representatives of practically every riding in the Western Ontario Conservative Association were in attendance, and most of the members were on the platform. E. R. Dennis of London, president of the association, was the chairman of the day, and he was assisted in introducing the speakers by Dr. J. D. Monteith, M.L.A., of Stratford; J. R. MacNicol of Toronto, president of the Ontario Association, and Harold Barnum of Aylmer, vice-president of the Western Ontario Association. An official welcome was extended to the visitors by Mayor Brown, who said he was a Conservative for the day.

When Mr. Meighen appeared he was greeted with applause and cheers and was presented with flowers by a wee maid.

"Mr. King in professing boundless optimism states that the people do not want an election but are satisfied and content under the rule of the beneficent government over which he presides," said Mr. Meighen, who devoted most of his time to a rather bitter criticism of the speeches and actions of the premier.

"Because he professes such optimism it doesn't follow that he means it," Mr. Meighen doubted. "There are five electoral vacancies in the country at present. Mr. King intends to test the country in two places in Quebec. Why is Hastings left unpresented? Why is Yale or Northumberland left unrepresented?" And then he held up W. Hastings, the stronghold of E. Guss Porter, as a glaring example. The speaker doubted if the government could depend on a solid Quebec much longer, and said that by-election after by-election had shown the lack of confidence in the government.

On Public Debt.

Taking a statement of Mr. King's that he had found the country in debt and had put it on the road to solvency again, Mr. Meighen quoted figures in an effort to prove that the public debt had increased from $2,366,861,000 to $2,391,451,000 during the King regime. And on top of that he used $27,000,000 for government railways and $32,000,000 less in note circulation as ammunition against the government.

"Today Canada is $127,000,000 deeper in debt than when Mr. King came into office," said the speaker, who could say nothing better of the government's action in indorsing a railway bond issue than that it was mere sham. "Shame is written over every page of their record," he declared as an added touch to his arguments.

Speaking of export trade he pointed out that in 1920 the export trade amounted to $1,062,000,000 and in the past year $1,066,000,000, an increase of about $4,000,000. Yet in that time the export of crops and lumber had increased some $160,000,000. "Where, then, is the difference?" he queried. "Simply that the trade of this country has contracted that much."

The speaker referred to the statement of Mr. King, quoting Thomas Bradshaw of the Massey-Harris company that the lowered rate of customs on agricultural implements had helped business. The statement was swiftly contradicted, Mr. Meighen pointed out, and in that connection said: "King closed factories, put workmen on the streets by thousands, reduced the output of industries, but has not reduced the price of a single implement.

Sees Factories Closed.

"Of the 70,000 textile workers in this country over half have been forced over to the United States to live: 24 mills making agricultural implements have been closed; these are samples of the conditions that Mr. King says are all right," he said. "I have a list of over 1,000 factories Mr. King has closed."

Ridiculing Mr. King's statements at Markham, Mr. Meighen pointed out that the tariff on cement, lumber or food had not been touched. "Mr. King says he believes in protection in some cases," he said. "I'll tell how he means that. He has a manufacturer in his riding who manufactures pencils; he is also the chairman of his association. Mr. King wasn't in power six months before he had an order in council passed that gave preference to Canadian pencils.

Mr. Meighen said that more harm had been done by threats of what might be done to the tariff than by actual changes. It had been, and would be, the policy of the Conservative government to conceal nothing. He said that the policy needed and the policy to be followed was that conceived by Sir John A. Macdonald. At the conclusion of his address he brightened up sufficiently to express the hope that the time was soon coming when Canada would "move forward to that destiny which is her right."

Hon. John S. Martin.

Hon. John S. Martin, minister of agriculture in the Ontario cabinet, dealt largely with the need of protection for farming industries. He pointed out that from January 1 this year to the first of July, 3,952 cars of fruit and vegetables were shipped into Ontario, all of which might have been grown in the province. He stated that a lack of a proper tariff was the reason, and that fruit and vegetables were thrown in from the States just early enough to kill the market for the Canadian grower. The shoe is on the other foot now when the Canadian goes to ship to the other side, he said, and pointed out that the U. S. amply protected their people.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie also referred to the contretemps at Markham, and the contradiction made to Mr. King's statements regarding the implement industry, and went on to point out that despite the statement of Mr. King that there was a surplus last year, there had actually been a huge deficit when all the accounts were considered.

The speaker said that he had been a Liberal for years, and that he knew that up to the last year or so there was a definite fiscal policy of which protection was the root. This had been lost sight of, he said, and in conclusion prophesied that Meighen would have a policy that would suit every man in the country.

The first planes arrived this week, bringing Berlin evening newspapers and the early morning editions to Germans here in time to read them at breakfast the same morning.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—The volume of business transacted on the stock exchange this morning showed a decided increase, the turnover being nearly double that of the corresponding period yesterday. Gains outnumbered losses by a wide margin, and were decidedly more substantial. Spanish River common and preferred were first and second respectively in point of activity, and were both firmer. The common closed at 111¼, for a net gain of 2⅞ points, while the preferred registered an advance of 3½ to 119½, which made it the strong point of the list. The balance of the papers were quiet and steady. St. Maurice, on a small turnover, moved up 3 points to 90. Abitibi at 62½, and Brompton at 35½, were both unchanged. Price was up a point at 45. Montreal Power finished the morning with an advance of ½ to 175.

INVITES GLADIOLUS SOCIETY FOR 1925

American Organization May Hold Convention in St. Thomas.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 20.—At the same time as E. H. Caughell asks the executive of the Canadian Gladiolus Society to hold the 1925 annual exhibition in St. Thomas, Mayor Sloggett will invite the members of the American Gladiolus Society to hold their 1925 convention in this city. The 1924 convention is being held in New York City, and Mayor Sloggett left on Wednesday evening with an official invitation from the council, asking them to hold their 1925 convention in this city. Dr. F. E. Bennet, president of the local Horticultural Society, is also president of the American Gladiolus Society, and it is thought that with the combined efforts of these two citizens, the convention might be brought to St. Thomas. It may be possible to have the two shows, the American and the Canadian exhibits, held here at the same time next summer.

The fire department was called out shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon to a small fire in Spackman's garage caused by upsetting and ignition of a small can of gasoline. The damage was limited to a front wheel of an automobile.

Mild excitement was caused on Talbot street, when a coupe driven by Harry Williams, local colored barber, collided with a touring car, owned by W. Ashton, about 2 o'clock this afternoon. The damage was small and limited to a bent axle on Mr. Ashton's car.

A quiet wedding took place in Toronto on Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Greek Orthodox Church, when Miss Stella Atoniou of Tibes, Greece, became the bride of Theodore Choras, proprietor of the Diana Sweets confectionery of this city. The bride came to Canada recently, accompanying the groom's father, George Choras, who is remaining for a visit with his son. Mr. and Mrs. Choras will reside in the city.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Alma Street Presbyterian Church at noon today, when Miss Lillian Chute, daughter of Mrs. Sidney Chute, 118 Alma street, city, became the bride of Claude Everett Henry of Barrie county, Michigan. Joseph Banner presided at the organ. Mr. and Mrs. Henry will spend their honeymoon in Toronto.

Local Market

The scarcity of hay took on a more serious aspect this morning when only two loads were brought to the local market. One load was sold before it was hauled in, for $11 a ton. The other load was held for a price higher than $12, offers at this figure being refused. Only six loads have been offered in the last three days.

Ten dollars a ton was asked for a load of new straw, but the demand was not forthcoming.

Oats are scarce at $1.70 a cwt., while wheat is steady at $1.20.

One load of new rye sold yesterday afternoon at $1.65 a cwt.

Little change was registered in the prices of vegetables today. Potatoes are in good demand at from 75c to 90c a bushel and the supply seems adequate.

Good quality tomatoes are new being sold at 50c to 75c for the 11-quart basket.

Apples still abound and are rather slow at 75c to $1 a bushel.

Raspberries are lingering, but the quality in most cases has fallen below average. The prevailing wholesale price is from 22c to 25c a box, while the retail figure hovers between 25c and 30c.

Live hogs are firm at $10.50 a cwt.

New York, Aug. 20.—A better inquiry developed in the raw sugar market today, at unchanged price, or $5.53 for Cuban, duty paid. Sales included about 60,000 bags Cuban to local and outport refiners for August and September shipment.

Reflecting the increased demand in raws and the firmness abroad, raw sugar futures advanced 4 to 6 points on covering and buying by houses with Cuban connections. Realizing checked the upward movement, with final prices 1 to 5 points net higher, September $3.69, December $3.76, March $3.35, May $3.41.

Although new business in refined sugar was light, there were good withdrawals on old orders. Prices were unchanged, at $6.75 to $6.90 for fine granulated.

Refined futures were nominal.

WINNIPEG

Associated Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20—The wheat market was extremely dull and featureless today with the trade volume the lightest for some days, the operations being more or less of a scalping nature with a little buying on the dips and further liquidation by "Longs" on the bulges. Liverpool cables were 1-8 to 5-8 lower.

Shortly after the opening considerable selling pressure came out and the October future was forced down to 134 3-8, a new low level on th this movement. Reports of rain, together a lessening of pressure, sent prices up again and the market held steady the close being 3-4 lower for October, and December, and ¼ down for May.

The local trade were not active on either side of the market today, being inclined to mark time awaiting developments with sentiment somewhat divided.

The future coarse grains were quite firm on a small trade with the undertone to oats and barley strong. At the close prices were fractionally higher. Flax lost about 2c on a light and featureless market.

Beyond a light inquiry from the seaboard, near the close the cash wheat market was practically at a standstill, with prices unchanged to 2c lower. The cash coarse grains and flax continue to be a carlot proposition.

CHEESE

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Influenced by an unexpected advance at Liverpool, the wheat market here today took a decided upward swing during the early dealings. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c to 1c higher, were followed by material further gains.

Corn prices showed a downward tendency as a result of a heat wave over parts of the corn belt. After opening ¼c to 1⅜c lower, the market underwent a moderate further setback, and then rallied, but later sagged again.

Oats were easy, owing to corn weakness. Starting unchanged to ⅜c off, the market hardened a little and then steadied at a trifle below yesterday's finish.

Futures opened:
Wheat—Sept., $1.28; Dec., $1.33⅛.
Corn—Sept., $1.19½; Dec., $1.15.
Oats—Sept., 53⅝c; Dec., 56⅞c.

FINE PICNICS ARE HELD AT SPRINGBANK PARK

Knights of Columbus Gather Three Hundred Strong For Big Outing.

HOLD BABY SHOW

Employees of Silverwoods Also Enjoy Splendid Annual Outing.

The Knights of Columbus of London held their annual picnic at Springbank Park yesterday and it seemed for a while that the rain would again stop the picnic proceedings. The picnic was planned for the park on July 16, but due to the bad outlook of the weather it was thought best to postpone it until yesterday. There were 300 in the picnic party and all arose to the occasion and had a splendid time.

The large program of sports was enjoyed by all and competition was not lacking in any event. A number of the prominent members of the Catholic clergy of London were present, Rev. Father Karney being presented with a box of cigars in recognition of the splendid work he has performed while a member of the London diocese.

From the women's point of view the baby show was probably the greatest event on the program. Every mother who could find it convenient to attend was there with the family pride, and all were positive that their baby possessed the hardest muscles and the most shapely legs. E. C. Killingsworth and B. C. McCann had the job of judging the entrants in the baby show, and although things were pretty hot when the decisions were awarded, both were able to go home on their own feet.

Baseball games were aplenty, and all seemed to join in these with a spirit of revelry. Ed. Ryan, P. Flaherty and George Quigley, men who were prominent in the world of sport when young, came to the front and demonstrated their prowess for the younger folks yesterday.

The tug-o'-war was won by the married men in three pulls, only after the single men had become exhausted after two pulls.

Race Results.

The results of the races were:

Boys under 10—John MacLean, Bob MacLean and Pat Richardson.

Girls under 10—Edith Aitkins, Mary Corcoran and Irene Pettit.

Baby Show.

Winners in the baby show were: First, Betty McCarron; second, Joseph Comiskey, son of Mrs. Nellie Comiskey; third, Dorothy Howard, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Howard.

The afternoon's entertainment was brought to a fitting climax when all sat down to supper made all the more tasty by the clever recitations of Grand Knight Barney McCann.

Those in charge of the successful outing were: T. Hayes, general chairman; Ed. Ryan, P. Flaherty, Jack Donohue, B. McCann, Gerald Loughlin, Harry Ranahan, E. C. Killingsworth and P. Murray.

ARVA METHODISTS.

Over a hundred were present yesterday at the Arva Methodist picnic of St. John's, which was held in Springbank Park. This is the largest picnic undertaken by this church for some years.

Results of the races are: Boys and girls, 5 to 7—Edna Turner, Marion Fysh, Lottie Turner. Boys and girls, 8 to 10—Margaret Webb, Alta Hudson, Evelyn Peters. Boys and girls, 11 to 13—Angela Robb, Gwendolyn McClary, Bruce Turner. Girls, 11 to 14—Marjory Webb, Olive Turner, Annie Webb. Young ladies' race—Nioma Peters, Vera Bartlett, Edith Wyatt. Mr. Bartlett.

In a baseball game between teams captained by Miss Olive Turner and Miss Ida Carmiachael, the former team won by the score of 17 to 13.

COCHRANE FAMILY.

The gathering of the Clan Cochrane held yesterday at Springbank was attended by 126 descendants of the original family, which settled in this district from Scotland years ago. The threatening weather did not dampen the spirits of the Clansmen who were present from a dozen towns in the district.

Cochrane families were on hand from Nilestown, London, Mount Elgin, Salford, Tillsonburg, Aylmer, Straffordville, Delhi and St. Thomas. They were present with their children, great grand-children and elder members of the family, who recalled the time when Ontario was a veritable forest. In the matter of sports, the committee in charge arranged one of the most varied programs to be run off at any picnic. Baseball games for girls and boys, novelty races for the children and events for granddad and grandmother, were included in the program.

Following the sports all sat down to a sumptuous repast served by the ladies, and which brought to a climax one of the most successful outings the Cochrane family has held in a number of years.

Race Results.

Result of the races were: Boys and girls, under 3—Roy Knott, Norma Warren. Boys and girls, under 5—Marion Campbell, C. B. Caswell, Bernice Kilty. Fat women's race—Mrs. Garlick, Mrs. G. Cochrane, Mrs. Cooper. Father and son race—D. L. Cochrane, W. B. Cochrane, G. A. Cochrane and J. W. Cochrane. Married daughters' race—Mrs. D. Kilty, Mrs. G. Barker and Mrs. W. Knott. Wheelbarrow race—Mrs. Kilty and D. H. Cochrane. Olive Wilson and Raymond Martin. Cochrane daughters' race—Zella Cochrane, Hope Cochrane and Mrs. W. Knott. Sons-in-law race—G. Barker, Wilson Hodgins and Robert Garlick. Backward race—H. Wilson, D. L. Cochrane and Edward House. Free-for-all race—Alfred Warren, Harold Wilson and Eddie House.

In the ball game between the girls and boys the former were victorious by the score of 6 to 8.

The committee in charge of the picnic were: J. W. Cochrane, chairman; George House, secretary; Ben Bryan, starter.

SILVERWOOD'S LIMITED.

Silverwood's Limited held their annual picnic at the park yesterday. The number present was 300, including all branch office employees.

The feature of the afternoon and the one that provided the most enjoyment for the spectators was the ball game between the office force and the warehouse. It is thought that the office team won, but nobody was sure because when the pencils of the scorers become worn and all the chalk used up and the scoring still continued, there was nothing to do but try and remember the number of runs scored. This was satisfactory for awhile, but when some one declared that there was dirty work being done in somebody's mind, then the game was declared a draw by the officials.

Results of the races were: girls, six and under—Gertrude Beaton, Francis Murphy. Boys, six and under—Alex. Beaton, Ross Baker. Girls, eight and under—Mary Beaton, H. Dowdell. Boys, eight and under—P. Sullivan, Sutherland, F. Merill. Girls, under 14—Marion Galbraith, H. Galbraith. Boys, under 14—Tom Young, Fred Caton. Single ladies' race—Miss Oatridge, Match box race—Mr. Fingy and Mrs. Lane. Married ladies' race—Mrs. Crappe, Mrs. Ball. Men's 100-yard dash—Douglas Wanless, H. Gillies. Elopment race—Mr. Ball and Miss Liddle. Branch representatives' 100-yard dash—Mr. Ball, Mr. Brodie. Associated Press Despatch.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—A blow was dealt today on the structure of defence built for Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist indicted yesterday for the murder here on Aug. 12 of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors, with whom he was living.

McCoy's sister, Mrs. Jennie T[illegible]mas, turned over to investigators $5,000 worth of jewels which she said McCoy gave her after the death of Mrs. Mors, and which Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of the dead woman, declared were stolen from her body.

SHIN BONE IS REMOVED TO PATCH UP MAN'S BACK

Taking a piece of shin bone out of the right leg of a man and shaping it into a piece of vertebrae to patch up his backbone, is the unique operation carried out at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore yesterday. The operation was successful.

Forrest Wieford met with an auto accident at Winchester, Ky., three years ago. He suffered a dislocation of the vertebrae, and since that time has been growing worse. Four weeks ago complications set in, and it was decided that the diseased vertebrae would have to be removed.

The surgeons at Johns Hopkins decided to take the new bone from the shinbone of the man's leg. He is now encased in a cast from his neck to his ankles, to insure a proper setting of the bone.

PLAYGROUNDS TANK MEET POSTPONED

Events Will Be Run Off Saturday Afternoon Next.

The city playgrounds aquatic meet planned for yesterday at Thames Park was, owing to the weather conditions, postponed until Saturday afternoon

The water was icy cold, and with rain falling until 3 o'clock, it was decided to postpone the event so that the spectators would be comfortable.

"The program will be the same on Saturday as that which was to have been stroked off yesterday," said Chief Supervisor Goodman last night. "It was a big disappointment, yesterday's weather, but we expect even a bigger crowd on Saturday with half a week's more notice."

The bleachers moved from Queen's Park to accommodate the crowd will be kept at Thames Park until Saturday, and even more seating accomodation is being sought.

Brownie Team City Champions

Will Meet Knits at Port Stanley Labor Day.

The Brownies gained the right to meet the Cleveland Favorite Knits at Port Stanley on Labor Day by coming out on top at the softball tournament at Port Stanley yesterday. The Brownies had by far the strongest aggregation on the grounds, all being superior batters and expert players in the field. The final game of the tournament was the feature match of the afternoon, when the Brownies swamped the Red Arrow crew to the tune of 15—3. This was a five-inning affair. Langford, Lindsey and Gramlick starred with their hitting for the winners, while M. Dowdell and B. Tilbury were the best for the Red Arrows.

In the first game the Molly'Os succeeded in pulling the blanket over the Thistles by trouncing them 15—9. This affair was one-sided from start to finish.

In the next game the Brownies handed the Jersey Cream lassies the cold shoulder by a 20—13 score.

In the semi-finals the Red Arrows and Molly'Os clashed. The game was fast and exciting throughout, both crews dishing out a great class of ball. For the first five innings the score was a tie, but the Red Arrows came to the top and handed the Biscuit Makers a 9—5 beating.

The Red Arrows then lost to the Brownies in the final game.

The line-ups were:

Brownies—Daniels, Gramlick, Holland, Taylor, Brown, Clark, Langford, Lindsey, Graham, Ford, Mullans.

Red Arrows—Marley, Dowdell, Kyle, McIntosh, Tilbury, Barnes, North, Wills, Moss.

Siki Refuses To Finish Fight

Associated Press Despatch.

Lorrain, Ohio, Aug. 20.—The scheduled ten-round bout between Battling Siki and Mike Conroy came to a sudden ending tonight when Siki refused to go on with the bout after the eighth round.

When the gong sounded for the ninth round Siki walked to the middle of the ring and exclaimed:

"I'm getting nothing for this; I quit." It was the main bout of a show for the benefit of the Lorrain relief fund.

Referee Tommy McGinty of Cleveland then awarded the contest to Conroy, who had been the master of the situation throughout, Siki making a comedy of the bout from the start. Conroy took four of the rounds by a wide margin, closing Siki's left eye in the sixth.

Locatelli, Italian aviator, who will accompany them on their flight to the North American continent, will take off on the long lap to Frederikdal, near Cape Farewell, East Greenland at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was decided today.

NOTED CONCERTINA PLAYER TO ACCOMPANY MUSICIANS

Among the musicians who will come to London on August 27 with the Salvation Army band of Winnipeg will be Adjutant James Merritt, who plays the English concertina. Adjutant Merritt is a brother of the bandmaster. There are five Merritt brothers in the Winnipeg band.

The adjutant is a musician of considerable ability, having written and arranged the selection, "Songs of Canada," as well as the euphonium solo, "The Maple Leaf," both of which are being played on this tour.

He is, however, best known as an English concertina player, and his solos on that instrument will be a feature of the program given by the band.

HURON AND ERIE WINS.

The Huron and Erie softball team defeated the city hall crew at Thames Park last night by the score of 10 to 2 in a Commercial League game. The Huron and Erie team has won every game in the second series and qualifies to play the city hall team in the finals. W. Gidley pitched good ball for the winners and was given excellent support. D. McCallum and J. Reid featured with some brilliant catches. The hitting of D. McCallum and H. Grierson also featured. Garrett pitched fine ball for the losers, but was given poor support at critical times. The batteries: Huron and Erie—W. Gidley and G. Pierce; City Hall—Garrett and Roberton.

W. H. PROWSEY BETTER.

W. H. Prowsey, 89 Elias street, who suddenly became quite ill at Port Stanley a week ago, is recovering, and is now in a favorable condition, his physician states.

YOUTHS AT AVON CAMP HAVE SPLENDID OUTING

Evening Visitors Help to Add to Entertainment of Boys.

The Knights of Columbus boys at Avon Camp are having the time of their young lives. The holiday has been all that could be desired. Camp fires in the evenings and athletics throughout the day have made the camp life ideal.

Visitors from Stratford have spent evenings about the camp fires with the boys, and the company has been appreciated. Camp fire stories and songs have been the night program of life in the open, and prepared the campers for sound sleep.

Three more days remain of the two weeks outing. Yesterday morning Rev. J. A. Jordon of Stratford said mass at the camp. The boys received Holy Communion. It is part of the camp life to see that the boys combine a spiritual program with the sports, states Brother Silvin, camp director.

Last night several preliminary events in athletics were completed. These preliminaries counted for group competition, and the best three in each group will compete for honors this afternoon. The standing by groups is as follows:

Running broad jump—Group 1 with an average jump of 10 feet 3 inches; Group 2 with an average of 9 feet 11 inches; Group 3 with an average of 9 feet 8 inches, and the Scouts with an average of 9 feet 7 inches.

Standing broad jump—Group 2 with an average of 5 feet 11 inches; the Scouts with an average of 5 feet 10 inches; Group 1 with an average of 5 feet 3 inches, and Group 3 with an average of 4 feet 1 inch.

The swimming contests were held this forenoon. The results are as follows:

Fifty yards, free style—David Robb, Bruce Ronan, Melville Powley.

Breast stroke—Powley, John Duggan, John Hanlon.

Crawl stroke—John Duggan, Bruce Ronan, Melville Powley.

Swimming on back—Melville Powley, John Duggan.

Neatest dive—Bruce Ronan, Neil Reynolds, John Duggan.

The last event was a race in which all the boys who learned to swim since coming to camp participated: Rob Purcell, Albert Lorentz, Ivan Bonfonti.

FORMER CITIZEN RETURNS AFTER 50 YEARS' ABSENCE

When J. W. White left London for New Zealand, London West was bush and farm land, the Hamilton road was scrub. On returning yesterday, after an absence of fifty years, a great change in these sections met his eye.

Mr. White, who is a retired rancher, stated to The Advertiser that market conditions in New Zealand have never been better, mutton, wool, fat lamb and all dairy produce finding a ready sale.

Factories making articles needed by the farmers and ranchers are all run on the co-operative system. All the local buying and selling is carried on by farm clubs.

Economy

ECONOMY does not consist of cheapness—but of getting the best value for the money you spend. To call a car the cheapest car in the world would be a doubtful compliment. To call it the most economical car in the world is to identify it as a Chevrolet.

Because no other car will take you where you want to go, so comfortably, so conveniently and so expeditiously as Chevrolet—and no other car will do it at such a small expense.

Ask any Chevrolet owner for the facts of Chevrolet economy and let your Chevrolet dealer give you a demonstration.

"I'D TRUST MY BOY TO BUY A CAR HERE—"

THAT IS THE compliment that one man paid us yesterday after he heard the story of the Motomart.

"I'D DO THAT," explained this man, "because I'm convinced that your cars are priced fairly and I would get full value for my money. I know if I gave him $300 and he walked in here and selected any car with that price he would be getting his money's worth."

AND THAT IS JUST the reason why this institution is different from so-called "used car markets."

HERE THE MOTOMART sticker never goes on a car until it is certain the car represents a real value for the money.

YOU PAY NO PROFIT on a Motomart car because this is a public institution, operating purely on a cost basis.

IS IT ANY WONDER that so many people are able to own good automobiles that are delivering satisfactory service every day?

YOU, TOO, CAN OWN a good car worth the money if you buy at the Motomart.

ASK YOUR banker about the Motomart.

HON. J. A. MARTIN SPEAKS TO ROTARY

Declares Ontario Farmer Is Better Off Than European.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Aug. 20.—Co-operation between city and country and the development of a national sentiment in Canada were urged by Hon. J. S. Martin, Ontario minister of agriculture, addressing the Rotary Club at noon today. The minister gave a short review of conditions in the Old Country as he viewed them during his recent visit there, and concluded by saying that of all the places he visited the conditions prevailing in this province could not be surpassed.

Rotarian Dave Wright presided, and the speaker of the day was introduced by Rotarian M. Steele, former member of parliament. There was a good attendance, including a number of visitors.

"We must develop a national sentiment in this country," Mr. Martin declared. "I was surprised and pleased at what I saw in the Old Country. The use of the flag in Denmark impressed me. Each home had its flagpole and the flag is flown every Sunday."

Ontario Farmer Better Off.

One thing which the minister found in his trip overseas was that the Ontario farmer was much better off than the farmer in any other country he visited.

He felt many things were to be learned from these places, but they were not living in the same scale as we in Ontario. Ontario farmers live better. The old tenant system injured farming in England. Very few farmers own their own land. After the war many of the land owners decided to sell their farms. Everything was inflated at the time, and those who bought are now loaded with mortgages. Then taxes in England are very heavy.

The contrast between England and Denmark is very marked. England devotes a great deal of land to parks and meadows. Wages on English farms average about 35 shillings a week. Unskilled laborers in the city of London receive about 30 cents an hour and skilled labor about 40 cents. Their rents, however, are not so high as they are here.

In closing, Mr. Martin expressed pleasure at being back in Ontario, the banner province of the Dominion. This year would stand out agriculturally in Ontario, he said. This province is the leader in every branch of agriculture. Say what you like about other provinces, but you cannot beat old Ontario, he concluded.

Charge Dismissed.

Judge Barron this morning dismissed the charge against C. R. Hildebrand of "causing bodily harm to one James Doyle, by reason of wanton, furious or reckless driving of a motor vehicle in his charge on May 24."

CHICAGO SLAYER IS CALLED FIEND

Prosecution Fails To Stir Loeb's Equanimity in Calling Him Bitter Names.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, today without a perceptible quiver, heard themselves denounced as "fiends" and "dastardly cowards," by assistant state's attorneys who were summing up before Judge John R. Caverly the law and circumstances of their kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks.

They were outwardly unmoved, even when the prosecutors urged hanging as the only fit punishment for them. And once after Joseph Savage, who devoted himself to the facts in the case, pointed directly at Loeb and called him "this fiend," the younger of the youthful defendants turned to Leopold and arched his eyebrows quizzically.

Another time when Thomas Marshall was describing the youths' discussion as to what kind and grade would best destroy the features of their victim, Loeb looked around and asked Leopold: "Which was wrong?" The words were as plainly visible as though they were uttered by a moving picture actor.

Leopold merely glanced at his companion in crime on these occasions. Throughout the day he sat almost motionless, fingers intertwined and forearms resting easily on the arms of his chair. Occasionally he leaned forward to whisper to his attorneys or to watch Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defence, make notations on the cases cited by Mr. Marshall.

Mr. Marshall consumed all except 45 minutes of the court session with his argument on the law applicable to the case. Having yesterday discussed the legal aspects of mental responsibility, he turned today to mitigation and turpitude.

Mitigation, he argued, was applicable to the offence rather than punishment. He declared the defence had offered nothing in mitigation of the facts, and that they had attempted to draw the court from the letter of the law into a consideration of mental conditions, which were not recognized by either statutes or decisions as effectively modifying the penalties of crime.

Inability to distinguish between right and wrong was the only legal barrier against punishment for criminal acts, was the theme of Mr. Marshall on this point.

HOTEL WORKER CONFESSES TO SMOTHERING HER CHILD

Canadian Press Despatch.

Halifax, N. S. Aug 20.—Hilda Reynolds, the young hotel employe who was arrested yesterday afternoon after she had told the police that the body of a day-old infant found in the hotel basement had been placed there by her and that she had given birth to a child in a Kentville hotel a month ago and had since carried it in her trunk, later confessed to the police that she had smothered the infant with a towel.

AMBITION.

I'd like to be a Pullman car,
And have a funny name,
And carry people everywhere—
Where things are not the same.

To north, to south, to east, to west,
Oh, everywhere, in fact,
With nothing else to do but ride
The long and narrow track.

But in this life it cannot be,
It's really just the deuce,
I'm on a one-horse railroad freight,
And I'm the darn caboose.

Red Letter Day.

Dudley—"What was the biggest surprise you ever had?"

Jameson—"When my wife broke even in a bridge game."

Proof.

"How do you know Claribelle wasn't asleep when you kissed her in the hammock?"

"She didn't wake up."

Accusing a man of having bad manners is equivalent to saying that he has none at all.

Doubtful.

"Setting out on his porch, over there, is old Sammy Sussions," stated the landlord of the tavern at Peeweecuddyhump. "He is ninety-two years old, and the flies annoy him dreadfully. So hour after hour he sets there on the open porch and kills all of 'em he can hit with his fly swatter. But no matter how much longer he lives and how industriously he keeps at it, I don't much believe he will ever get 'em all killed off."

O TEMPORA!

Young Architect—"How attractive is your daughter?"

"'Twould drop straight to de groun', brudder," explained his companion. "'twould drop straight to de groun'. De two fohces would nutualize."

Not Much.

Ted—"Am I the only man you have ever loved?"

Enid—"Why, the idea! Do I look as simple as all that?"

"How much to send this letter to England?"

"Is it first-class?"

"Well, it's the best I could write at 3 o'clock last night."

Acme Razor Co.,

Gentlemen.—I have nothing but praise for your excellent razor. I have used it several years to my great satisfaction. A few days ago I cut the throat of one of my friends, Julius Caesar by name, and used your razor. There was scarcely any "pull," and, altogether, it was the smoothest and neatest job I ever did.

Thanking you for your help to me, I am, sincerely, BRUTUS.

Dear Queen Elizabeth:

I'll bet you don't know where I am. Guess? Well, I'm in jail! That's what I got for discovering the "land of the free!" No sooner do I get to America than they put me in the cooler!

I don't know for sure what the charges were—violating the prohibition amendment I think they said, as I had three casks of rum on board each vessel, and a barrel of ale for my own use. They even charged me with conspiring to break the immigration laws, when I tried to land my sailors. Never again, Eliza! Never again!

Write soon, in care of this prison and get me out on bail if you can. As ever, yours, COLUMBUS.

SEASON'S CROP BURNED IN BARN

Heavy Damage Caused by Fire On Harwich Township Farm.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Aug. 20. — Spontaneous combustion caused a fire which destroyed two large barns of Sam McKibben, Gravel road, Harwich Township, last night. The barns contained the season's crop of hay and 750 bushels of new wheat. Mr. McKibben succeeded in getting all the live stock out of the building in safety, with the exception of four calves. In an attempt to get their motor car out of the barn, Mrs. McKibben suffered painful burns about the neck and shoulders.

Magistrate Carscallen in the county police court today decided that the truck seized by License Inspector Side near Thamesville on July 27, while transporting a load of beer, should not be confiscated by the government, but returned to the manufacturers. It appears that while negotiations had been under way for the purchase of the truck, the deal had not been closed and the vehicle was turned over to the prospective purchasers by an employee without authority. The first knowledge the company had of the delivery of the truck was after it was seized. The magistrate held that as the truck had been delivered without the knowledge of the company by an employee without authority, and that delivery was not known until after it was seized, the government had no right to confiscate it.

HEATED DISCUSSION ENDS IN REFUSAL OF REQUEST

Trades Council Declines To Support Unemployed in Appointing Executive.

TITE IS CRITICAL

President McGuire and Supporter of Motion Hold Lively Intercourse.

Last night at its regular meeting the London Trades and Labor Council declined to acquiesce in the request of the newly-elected committee on behalf of the unemployed of the city to appoint five representatievs to act on the committee along with five representatives of the London Labor Party and five representatives chosen from the ranks of the unemployed.

The decision was arrived at only after heated discussion upon a motion proposed by William Tite and Albert Graves that the request be concurred in and the representatives appointed. The motion was declared lost on a vote of 10 to 3, John Lewis being the only other delegate to support it, besides the mover and seconder.

In moving the motion Mr. Tite declared that it was not a communist movement, though unfortunately or otherwise a number of communists were connected with it. He stated that for over a year he had been trying to get the unemployed to organize and do something for themselves, with the result that recently some action was taken and the meeting for the unemployed called last Friday night.

John McGuire, president of the council, emphatically declared that he was opposed to the council appointing representatives on the committee at the present time and under the present circumstances.

Mr. Tite rose to his feet to exclaim: "If that is all the sympathy the council is going to give the unemployed I think you'll see some of the unions will take strong action in the matter."

"That's just an opinion," rejoined Mr. McGuire.

Supports Tite.

Albert Graves supported Mr. Tite in his motion and pointed out that the unemployed were not after charity, but had begun a campaign to secure work.

R. H. Hessel, vice-president of the council, criticized those behind the formation of the new organization for not having attended the meetings of the council in the past, and for failing to assist the council in its recent campaign to improve the conditions of organized labor in the city. "We know there are those in this movement opposed to the propaganda of the international labor party," he said, "though I am not prepared to say that they are using it that way."

Mr. Tite expressed the hope that the press would give full scope to the stand taken on the question by the president and vice-president, and promised that when he placed their stand before his local, action would be forthcoming.

Mr. McGuire—I am entitled to my opinion.

Mr. Tite—Yes, and I'm entitled to censure you for it. You're only one member, the same as anybody else.

Mr. McGuire—The president desires the privilege of making himself plain, and he doesn't care to monopolize the meeting to do so either.

John Darling, secretary of the council, remarked that it seemed strange only 150 unemployed has registered at the city hall when there are supposed to be 1,000 men out of work in the city.

McGuire Objects.

Mr. McGuire objected to any delegate claiming that the council was unsympathetic because of any opinion expressed by himself as president. The council, he explained, was willing to help the unemployed, but not to help others who were taking advantage of the unemployed.

Mr. Tite—Who and what organization are taking advantage of the unemployed? I'm entitled to that information, am I not?

Mr. McGuire—Are you? You've got your own intelligence.

Mr. Tite—Yes, I've got my own intelligence, and very little opinion of yours.

Mr. Graves arose to point out that communists were everywhere. "They might criticize us if we were members of the committee," he said. "To oppose it because they are on the committee is ignoranee."

Mr. McGuire—I would like to point out to Delegates Tite and Grave that they have been the only ones to use the term communists at this meeting.

Mr. Tite—That's what both you and the vice-president have reference too, though. You told me to use my intelligence.

Mr. McGuire—Well that's all right.

Mr. Hessel rose hurriedly to protest. "No, I didn't say anything of the kind, Delegate Tite. Don't you start putting words into my mouth. I'll do my own speaking."

Fred Burke, who had come in late, asked: "Are we discussing the question as to whether we should or should not be sympathetic toward the Communistic movement?"

Upon being informed of the question under discussion, Mr. Burke stated that he was not in favor of following the lead of men, who stayed out of the unions to save their own little dues, and then finding themselves in a tight box, started a new movement. He declared that he had no sympathy for such men, and opposed the appointment of any representatives on the committee.

The Request.

The request to the council was contained in the following letter, signed by R. Foxcroft:

"At a mass meeting of unemployed held on Friday, August 15, it was agreed to form an unemployed council. Such councils are being formed throughout the Dominion of Canada, consisting of unemployed, Trades Councils and Labor organizations. The executive is made up of five members of unemployed, five members of both councils, five from labor parties and three from labor organizations. Will you please elect your delegates to attend the executive on Tuesday evening, mass meeting on Friday evening at the Labor Temple at 8 p.m."

"It is unnecessary to impress upon you the urgency of this movement."

Out of Order.

The following resolution, forwarded by the Guelph Trades and Labor Council, was ruled out of order by the president on the score of "no jurisdiction."

"Whereas, the minister of labor, Hon. James Murdock, is credited with saying, during the postal strike, that the postal workers could stay out till hell freezes over; and whereas the said minister has repeatedly adopted an attitude unfavorable to organized labor, and whereas it has been customary for the minister of labor to address the Trades Congress at its annual convention, therefore be it resolved that this local union, No. 880, Steam and Operating Engineers, unanimously and emphatically protests against the present minister of labor being allowed to speak at the coming convention in London, and be it also resolved that we respectfully request the Guelph Trades and Labor Council to send a similar protest to the executive of the congress, and also send copies of this resolution to all local unions in Guelph and to the trades councils of the province asking them to send similar protests to the trades and labor congress."

Adopt Resolution.

The following resolution, proposed by Mr. Tite, was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the legislature of Ontario has an agreement with the Dominion government to establish an advisory board, to wit., the Employment Service Council of Ontario, and whereas, the late provincial government in appointing the personnel to the above board, did appoint four for one year, four for two years, and four for three years, the terms of service of the first and two years having been completed, the present government has not reappointed or appointed any other persons to the board, thereby allowing this useful body to die a slow death, be it resolved that the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada request the legislature of Ontario to place this most important body on a sound working basis."

Acommunication from Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, regarding information to be placed before the unemployment conference being held in Ottawa on September 3, with regard to the condition of the building trades, was passed on to the carpenters' district council.

Mr. Moore wrote that the purpose of the conference is said to be "to agree upon a plan to encourage the carrying out of construction and building work during the winter season as a means of preventing unemployment."

The meeting was brought to a close by addresses by E. W. A. O'Dell, Hamilton, general organizer of the Shoemakers' Union, and John Flett, Hamilton, representative of the American Federation of Labor in Canada.

BELIEVES CANADA SHOULD HAVE NAVY

Admiral Field Declares It Would Be Great Help To Britain.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Quebec, Aug. 20.—"When you ask me as to the naval defence policy to be adopted by the overseas dominions of the Empire, I would say that it is a very delicate question to consider, but if you would like me to express my opinion on the subject I am willing to state that providing the Dominion of Canada or any other overseas dominion within the British Empire is desirous of maintaining their own navy, it would be, to my mind, the finest thing that could possibly happen the Dominion thus affected; while at the same time it would be a magnificent help to Great Britain." This was the statement in an interview this morning of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field, K.C.B., C.M.G., in command of the British special service squadron, now here on its around-the-world cruise.

In enlarging on this theme, Sir Frederick said: "As you are no doubt aware, recent reports that have been accredited in the press as having emanated from me were not strictly accurate in so far as the full text was concerned, I wish to impress upon you the fact that I am not advocating any naval defence policy for Canada to follow. That matter rests entirely with your federal government, but since you put the questions to me in a personal way, I don't mind answering in the same sense, always provided that the impression given does not indicate that I am here advocating any such policy.

"Under the terms of the Washington disarmament conference," he proceed, "the strength of the British navy was limited, to a certain extent, and while we have diminished the number of our naval fighting units, you will readily understand that the vast territory of the British Empire remains as it was, and, perhaps, has even been increased. This is to say that that territory must be defended by a smaller fleet."

S. AFRICA'S POVERTY IS REASON FOR ACTION

Report States Government Will Not Continue Exhibition at Wembley.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 20.—Commenting on a report from Cape Town that the government of South Africa had decided not to continue its exhibit at Wembley next year, if the British Empire Exhibition is open again in 1925, a South African authority in London says this is probably due to the fact that the South African government is hard up, and cannot afford to spend the money that would be required for a second year of the exhibition, South Africa not being in as good a financial position as either Canada or Australia.

MAJOR C. A. CAMERON FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Letters Left Show Noted English Soldier in Financial Difficulties.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 20.—Major Cecil Aylmer Cameron, commander of the 46th Battery, Field Artillery, was found shot to death at his quarters in the Sheffield Barracks today. Letters left by the deceased indicated that he was in financial difficulties, and was suffering from disappointment because his wished-for appointment as military attache at Riga, Letvia, had failed to materialize. Major Cameron was a son of Col. Aylmer Cameron, V.C.

Thirteen years ago Major Cameron and his wife were sentenced to three years' imprisonment for attempted fraud in connection with a claim against an insurance company for theft of a necklace. Mrs. Cameron confessed that she alone was guilty of the attempted fraud. Her husband, she said, had refused to give evidence at the trial, which, while clearing himself, would render her conviction inevitable.

Major Cameron had been removed from the army on account of his conviction, but was permitted to re-enlist in 1914. Subsequently, on account of his distinguished services in the army, he was granted a full pardon and was reinstated in rank, and figured prominently in the military honors' list of 1917.
