forefaw the Protection of Seven Provinces would not be Work enough for so capacious a Soul: Hero's, through each degree, collect and gather their Ancestors Perfections, to which they add their own, therefore This Prince is to be ally'd to the English Crown, that this Tie might engage him to extend his Care to these Islands, which by the Supine Negligence and superstitious Bigottry of Governors had been put into equal, if not more eminent Danger, than the rest of the Neighbouring World. Impotence was their Excuse, we had Power, but the Force and Edge of it was turn'd upon our Selves. A Neighbouring Flood, that with miserable great Desola-tion had over-run part of Europe, was with additional Force too near approaching to us: What Precaution did we use to prevent it? Our Workmen were digging down the Banks that should oppose and keep it out, feem'd to invite the Ruin. Here this Great Prince interposes; he opens the Eyes of most, and holds the Hands of those unfortunate Men that still continu'd blind or engag'd, and kindly hinder'd 'em from doing Things, that tended to the Destruction of both Themfelves and their Country. Then in 1688. the mighty Scene opens, in 1689. the War Power or Heaven for some time begins. feem'd to favour the Mighty Monarch, doubtless it was to try the Opposer's Constancy and let them know, That no Disasters or Dif-

Disappointments should discourage Engagements, founded upon the Principles of Justice and Common Sasety. Then for Four or Five Years the Bloody Game seem'd doubtful, and the making of a Stand look'd like a Presage of Victory: For when Powers that assume to themselves the Titles of insuperable Strength and immortal Glory, meet with Difficulties, and are check'd in their ambitious Progress; this casts Disparagement upon their high Pretences, and makes suffering Mankind hope they are not to great as they would willingly look to be: Like Men that affect the Character of being Rich, Couragious or Religious, yet are not really so, this assumed Shape may for some time command Awe and Respect, but when at last, by the Effects, the Disguise appears, the Hypocrites become more contemptible and ridiculous. I shall not fay, That the Events of the Two or Three last Years of the War make it appear probable, this was the Case of the Enemies of our Monarch and Country, for they had Substance, Conduct and Courage; though I must take it to be as plain, that their Power and these Qualifications were by no means equal to the Union form'd against 'em, and manag'd by the same Incomparable Head and Hand that first gave it Birth. For when Savoy lest the Confederacy in 1696. one would have thought fo considerable a Weight taken out of our Scale, would have given the Con-

HE Title of this Book informs the Reader, That it contains the Acts and Negotiations of the General Peace concluded at Ryfwick, and likewife of the particular Peace concluded at Turin, faithfully Translated from the Original published at the Hague: The Editors of it in English thought they had good Reason to put it into that Language, because Our Nation hath, in this long and bloody War, contributed such mighty Weights towards the reducing the Kingdoms and States of Europe to the happy Ballance they at present enjoy.

The Efforts of the English Nation, in Concurrence with the Illustrious Confederates, have, in Nine Years time, broke those Chains, which cost the Expence of above 30 Years in their Contrivance, and by which the Liberty of Europe was so strangely and artisticially entangled and encompass'd, that even well-meaning Men thought it more advisable patiently to submit to the insuperable A 2 Evil.

Evil, than by vain Attempts to hasten or exasperate the Misery; Let the Lyon sleep, say they, and let us by our Gentleness and Flatteries engage him so to do; Time may lessen or wear out that Rage, which, should we provoke, we are not able to resist. Thus while evil Men cherish'd, and unthinking and mistaken Men submitted, the mighty Mischief grew and prosper'd: Like some irresistable Fleet it commanded and aw'd even those distant Countries, that had not yet seen or selt its Power. Roman it was in the Wisdom and Conduct of its Arms, but of how far different a Spirit from that Heroick Common-wealth? who with Hardships to themselves conquer'd and subdu'd Nations, with the same tender Designs we chastise our Children, only to make 'em better and more happy than they were before.

In this disconsolate Posture was Europe, not expecting Sasety, the Delay of its Ruin seem'd to proceed but from the Pleasure or Frolick of the Conqueror; when Crown'd Heads and States were bid to hope for that Liberty, which they before only durst secretly desire. This great Design is laid by a Prince, whose Descent seem'd to entitle him to become a Deliverer: His Ancestors, of the same Name, rescu'd his Country from Powers not indeed so well sounded and numerous, but still as destructive, as these the distant Nephew was to engage with; Providence fore-trary a mighty Advantage; and the costly and even mean Flatteries and Cares that were employ'd to detach that Prince, and the Triumphs us'd on that Success, should confirm the Opinion: But what Effect had it? None to the Advantage of our Adversaries. Some casual Deficiencies at Home defeated the Designs abroad, otherwise our Enemies might in this last Interval have felt more Evils, then, I hope, we shall ever now have occasion to wish to 'em. For the Great King condescends that the House of his Maiefty shall become the Place of Treaty for Peace. and there settles to the Empire and Spain, Barriers to firm and strong, that their Enemies cannot by Force, in Ten Years, recover what was by Agreement reftor'd to 'em here, except groß Negligence, Treachery or Difcord open their Gates, which are Evils the Possession only can provide against. For, in the present Circumstances of Europe, all any lingle State should reasonable wish, is, to be in a Condition to prevent Surprize from a Neighbourhood, and to have a Power fufficient to defend it self for some time; and then doubtless those Potentates whose Interest it is, that the Aggressor should not, by the Ruin of another, grow too powerful, will come to the Affistance of the Oppressed: For the late celebrated League does demonstrate, That the Gross of Mankind seldom vary from their Interest, when they know it and arc are at Liberty to act as they have a Mind to; and this makes it probable France would never have submitted to Terms so disadvantagious to her Power, if she suddenly intended the like Exercises of it, that have been practis'd some Years before: Therefore the Reader may reasonably hope the Duration of this Peace will add to the Glory of it: he will admire the Contriver of that wonderful Machine, that made and forc'd a way for it; he will wish the Hero a long Enjoyment of it, and this is for every English Man's own Interest; for it may be this Peace carries fomething in it resembling the Nature of Creation, its continuance may in some meafure depend upon the Being of its Maker.

A C T S A N D NEGOTIATIONS OF THE PEACE Concluded between the French KING

Duke of Savoy.

Mareschal Catinat's Letter to the Marquis of St. Thomas, Dated the 29th of June, 1696.

Royal Highness's Desire of knowing the Advantages which the King is pleased to grant him, in case his Royal Highness consents to loyn with his Majesty, either to procure a Peace or a Neutrality in Italy, because I had then no B

Orders to explain my felf, farther than what was mentioned in the Two Letters I have had the Honour to write to you. But as foon as I had given his Majelly an Account of the Answers you made, he gave me leave to be more plain, and that in Writing too, altho' it be not usual to lay open Matters of this Consequence in Letters, especially since I know that his Royal Highness will certainly communicate them all to his Allies. But, methinks, the Contents of this I now write to you are of such Importance that they ought to be managed with greater Privacy. However, I am allowed to add thus much to what I have already writ to you, That the King is disposed to restore Pigneral to his Royal Highness, together with all the Dependencies which did formerly belong to the House of Savoy; yet so, as that all its Fortifications shall be demolished. But in case the House of Austria should be unwilling to agree to this Neutrality, neither will suffer Italy, nor the Dominions of his Royal Highness especially, to be in Peace, such Measures will then be taken, as shall oblige them to it. And to that End his Royal Highnes shall joyn his Forces with his Majesty's. giving the King only such Security as shall be thought reasonable. His Majesty moreover will afford greater Demonstrations of Amity to his Royal Highness, and Kindness to the House of Savoy, for his Majesty intends to match the Duke of Burgundy to the Princels of Piedmont, and to take her into France, where they shall be immediately contracted, but the Consummation of their Marriage is to be deferred till they both come of Age. His Majesty likewise to satisfy his Generosity is willing to give her a Portion, and allow her a Dowry, without putting his Royal Highness to any any more Cost or Charges on her Account. On these Essess of his Majesty's Bounty will depend many other Advantages in Favour of his Royal Highness, provide he expresses himself but willing to lay hold on these Offers in the Answer he shall order to this Letter. But in case of Non-compliance, I assure you, his Majesty will be so far incensed to see his kind Prossess slighted, that his Royal Highness must expect no more Favour, but to be treated as an obstinate Enemy, although it should be never so prejudicial to the King. I am persuaded that his Royal Highness will make such due Ressections on this Assair as the Importance of it, in respect to his own Interest requires, I am. &c.

Monsieur St. Thomas his Answer. Dated the 3d of July, 1696.

La IS Royal Highness is as well disposed as you could wish, to lay hold on the generous Offers, of his Majesty, which you propose in the Letter you did me the Honour to write to me, on the 29th of the last Month. But as he must acquaint his Allies with the Contents of it, he cannot reasonably expect their Answers (at least that from Spain) in less than Six Weeks, unless you will be pleased to send Pasports for Two Couriers, the one to be dispatcht by his Royal Highness, the other by the Marquis de Leganez, to go through France; During their going and returning, and while we wait for the Answers they shall bring, his Royal Highness will keep the Forces of the Allies and his own beyond the River Po, and you shall keep the Troops under your Command on this side of that River, without attempting any Act of Hostility, either against his Royal Highness's Forces, on against any of his Fortisted Towns, he being verily, persuaded that you will retain your Troops in such good Order, as that on one side they may not want Subsistance, and on the other, act suitably, to those Sentiments which you did me the Honous to signify to me, who am,

SIR,

His Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter to the Pope, concerning the Peace of Italy.

Most Holy Father,

Cannot but think my self oblig'd to acquaint your Holiness (who always vouchfased to be so kindly concern'd for the Welfare of my Family) with the first News of the Offers that have been made me by Mareschal de Catinat, in order to establish a Neutrality in Italy. This humble Letter is to let your Holiness understand that Count Gubernati, my Resident at Rome, will declare to your Holiness the Particulars of this Affair by Word of Mouth. The Substance whereof Consists in the Restitution of all that has been taken from me during this War, and even of Pignarol it self.

felf, whose Fortifications are to be demolished, the Importance of which Place your Holiness is well acquainted with. A Marriage is lo proposed between the Princess, my Daughter, and the Duke of Burgundy, to be consummated when they are of Age, and in the mean time she is to be received and conducted into France, where the King affigns her a Dowry, and gives her a Portion without putting me to the least Charges, besides many other Advantages, which I need not here mention) on Condition that I shall concur to fettle a Neutrality in Italy. But if the House of Austria should delay giving their Consent to it, after being thereunto exhorted by your Holiness and the Republick of Venice; in such case, I am to Joyn my Forces to those of France, in order to make them comply. Having made serious Reflections on this Matter, and thinking that the House of Austria can have no Intentions to force me to reject these advantagious Offers made me by France, I have taken a Resolution to let the Principals of the Confederacy know that I cannot possibly let slip this present favourable Opportunity of recovering Pignerol; neither can I think it proper to commit a Matter of fo great Importance to the House of Austria, to all Italy, and to my self, to the uncertain Event of War and Futurity. is to this purpose that I intend to write to the Allies, especially to the Emperor and to his Catholick Majesty, earnestly intreating them not to be against a Proposal that is of such Advantage to them as well as to me. The Assurance I have that your Holiness does extreamly wish for such a Neutrality, has not a little contributed to determine me so much in its Favour. It is also that which makes me most humbly and earnestly to beg of your B 2 your Holinels, that you will please to give Orders to your Nuncio's at Vienna and Madrid, to fecond your Fatherly Offices by their vigorous Sollicitations for obtaining the speedy Consent of those Crowns for a Neutrality in Italy, which would be a welcome Fore runner to acquaint the World with the so much long'd-for Tidings of an approaching Peace, whereof Christendom stands iq much in need. I wait impatiently for this Favour from your Holines's Bounty. As soon as your Holiness's Orders are come to my Hands by this Courier, I will forthwith fend Dispatches to the aforesaid Courts. In the mean time I continue to implore the favourable Influences of the Paternal Protection of your Holiness, to whom I wish a long Life, accompanied with all manner of Prosperity, and I do also in a most humble manner kis your Holines's most Holy Feet, as being ently convince me, that your Clemency will never require of me that I should finish the Ruine of this miserable Country, neglect to accept the Restitution of the Territories that have been taken from me by the Enemy, and refuse the Offer of Pignerol to be deliver'd up to me. Your Imperial Majesty's Generosity will not certainly suffer you to look on my Losses with Unconcern, especially seeing that the Advantages proposed to me, are perfectly consistent with your Majesty's Interest, without which I would not look upon them as luch. I therefore most humbly intreat your Imperial Majesty to be pleased to give a favourable Audience to my Embassador, who will give your Majesty an Account of the Proposals made me by Mareschal Carment and who will further urge fuch Reasons, as will, I hope, incline you not to disapprove those Offers. In the mean time, I protest to your Imperial Majesty, that the Obligations I owe you, shall ever remain engraven on my Heart in such deep Characters as shall never be effac'd; and I esteem this as one of the Chief which I owe your Majesty, that these advantagious Proposals made me, are also the Esses of your Imperial Majesty's Protection, intreating your Majesty to be assur'd, that no private Interest shallever make me (werve from the firm and inviolable Stedfastness, which I shall always maintain for your Imperial Majesty's Service, &c.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter to the States General.

High and Mighty Lords, TE cannot better begin our Letter than by repeated Acknowledgments of our Obligations to your Lordships, the Sense whereof is always present in our Thoughts, and which we shall ever keep in our Minds; I mean the Remembrance of your generous Succours afforded us in Distress; after which we earnestly intreat your High and Mightinesses to take in good part, the Notice we give you of the Proposals made us by Marelchal Catinat, by Order of the King his Master, the Particulars whereof shall be laid open to you by the Councellor and President de la Tour, our Embassador: We hope your High and Mightinesses great Prudence, joyn'd with the Affection which you are wont to bear towards our Interest, will incline you not to disallow of the Resolution we have taken, not to refule the offer made us of restoring Pignerol, with all the other Places we have lost during this War, without depending in a Matter of so great Consequence, on the uncertain Events of Time, or the Revolutions which may happen in France. The aforesaid Count de la Tour will also lay before your High and Mightinesses, the Reasons which oblige us thereunto. And the means you shall use towards promoting the Execution of this Design, will more and more increase our Acknowledgments, which shall be always accompanied with an earnest Desire of giving you pregnant Proofs of our ardent Wishes for compleating your Prosperity and Happines, and that we are,

His Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter to his Electoral Highness the Duke of Bavasia.

Most Serene Electoral Highness,

THE indissoluble Ties of Interest, Consanguinity and Affection, which engage me in lo extraordinary a manner to your most Serene Electoral Highness, make me to look on all that happens to you, as if it had been to my felf: and I am also convinced of the share you have in all that relates to me. It is this Confidence that makes me Impart to your Electoral Highness the Offers that have been made me by Mareschal Catinat, in his Master's Name; and to give you likewise Notice of a Letter which that Mareschal has writ to me, wherein he mentions the refloring of Pignerol, after demolishing the Fortifications, together with all the Dependencies which formerly belong'd to the House of Savoy. He Propoles likewife a Marriage of the Duke of Burgandy with the Princels my Daughter, to be Consummated when they both come of Age; and to lettle on the faid Princels a Dowry and Portion, to have them Contracted forthwith, and she to be received immediately into France; and all this on Condition, That I shall Concur to a Neutrality in Italy: Of all which Advantages, what feeths most Considerable in my Eye, in the present Conjuncture, is the Surrender of Pignerol to me. Your Highness knows well the Importance of that Place, and may judge how feriously I ought to think of this Proposal, and not loose this savourable. Opportunity; nor put a Matter of so great Consequence to the Hazard of suture Events, or change of Minds, which may happen in case I should delay to close with these Offers, which being as advantagious to the House of Austria as to me, I am apt to believe the Princes of that Family will not oppose me in it. I also hope your Electoral Highnesses Prudence and Goodness will incline you to acquiesce in my Sentiments. In the mean while I wish your Royal Highness a continued Series of Happy Successes, being with all imaginable Fidelity and Constancy,

Your Electoral Highnesses

Terin July 6. Most affectionate Servant and Cousin, Victor Amadeus.

His Electoral Highness the Duke of Bavaria's Answer, to his Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter.

Shall always as largely Participate in the good and bad Fortune of your Royal Highnesses Person and Estate, as the Obligations of Consanguinity, and the particular Amity of your Royal Highness to me do justly Challenge. It would be therefore with an unspeakable Joy, that I should look on the Articles of an advantagious Peace proposed by France to your Royal Highness, if I could be convinced, That the Neutrality which is offered you, did truly tend to your Royal Highnesses nesses greater good, or to the advantage of the Common Cause of the Considerates. But because I do not question, but that such a Neutrality will be extreamly displeasing both to his Imperial, and to his Catholick Majesty; therefore in Answer to that Letter wherein your Royal Highness Communicated to me the Proffers that are made to you by France, your Royal Highnels will give me leave to Exhort you to persevere in the League, and to continue the War with that Constancy, which has rendred your Name so glorious hitherto, and made your Conduct to be highly applauded. I cannot deny, but that (besides those other offers which France makes to your Royal Highness) the Restitution of Pignerol, tho' Demolish'd, is an Article of great Consequence. But, considering the Magnanimity and Generosity of the Confederate Princes, the great Power of their Armies, and what I know of their Intentions, I think my felf bound to promise your Royal Highness, that you shall at length, when the War is at an end, reap as great, nay far greater and more fecure Advantages, not only as to Pignerol, but likewise toward the raising of your Family to a higher Degree, and more agreeable to your Interest. All which I refer to the mature Reflections your Royal Highnesses great Prudence is capable of; being always ready, with inviolable Conflancy, to render to your Royal Highness all possible Service.

From the Camp at Normont the 22th of July, 1696, &c.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter, to his Serene Highness the Elector of Brandenburgh.

HE Singular Demonstrations of Friendship I have received of your Electoral Highness, (the acknowledgment whereof shall last to my Death) do engage me to Conceal nothing from you of what happens to me: fo that I must by these Lines inform you, of the Offers which Mareschal Catinat has made me, by Letters, which I have Communicated to the principal Heads of my Allies; those Proposals I send, hereunto annext, together with the Answer which I caused to be returned to them; and I Communicate the Copies of them to your Electoral Highness, with as much Confidence as I know I may put in the affection you bear me; to which, I on my part. will answer by all the Devoirs which may be most effectual to convince your Electoral Highness of my fincere and constant Love. You will see in the faid Letters, that I am offered the Restitution of all that has been taken from me during this War; wherein no Body but my felf has lost so much; That the important place of Pignerol, shall be furrendred to me, tho' Demolish'd, with all the Territories that depend on it, which heretofore belonged to my Ancestors; That a Marriage shall be agreed upon between the Princess my Daughter, and the Duke of Burgundy; that a Portion and a Dowry shall be given her, without any Expence to me; and all this on Condition I shall contribute to a Neutrality in Italy, which is equally advantagious vantagious to the House of Austria, especially that Pignerol be taken out of the French Hands; so that I hope your Electoral Highness will not condemn the Resolution I have taken, of not rejecting the asoresaid Offers, and not to put the Recovery of such an important place as Pignerol, to the uncertain Contingency of Time, or to the mutability of Princes Wills; especially since this my Country is reduced to that Desolation, as makes it quite unable of longer bearing the Charges of the War: Your Electoral Highness is also to observe, That to secure the Neutrality of Italy, and before I can Partake of these Advantages offered me, the most Christian King desires, That the Confederate Froops do withdraw, and that I reduce mine to leven thousand five hundred Foot, and five hundred Horse; which, together with the loss of Subsidies and Taxes, that will be no longer continued to me, obliges me earneftly to entreat your Electoral Highness, to give such Orders to your Troops as are necessary, in order to withdraw them out of my Country, so soon as I shall have given them the pay that was agreed upon And I do assure your Serenity, That the Obligations your Highness has laid upon me, shall be always fresh in my Mind, and the lively Sense I have of the same, shall for ever remain engraven on my Heart, with an extream defire of finding the Opportunities of giving effectual Demonstrations to your Electoral Highnels, of the steddy Affection with which I shall continue till my last Breath,

His Electoral Highness the Duke of Brandenbourgh's Answer, to his Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy.

OUR Royal Highnesses Letters of the 7th Y of July, brought to us by a Courier, have informed us with the surprising News of your separate Peace with the most Christian King. League into which your Royal Highness did enter with the Emperor, the Empire, with the Kings, Electors and Princes, Confederated in this present War; and which your Royal Highness not many Months ago, has by a solemn Act given fresh promiles of observing most exactly; together with the liberal Supplies of Men and Money, wherewith your Royal Highnels has been abundantly furnished, did not permit us to have the least Suspicion, that your Royal Highness could resolve. or even so much as think of abandoning so advantagious a League, by which we labour to secure the Safety, Liberty, and Tranquility of Europe; and that too, without being reduced to it by any fresh Necessity or extraordinary Disaster; but only on the fingle reason alledged in your Royal Highnesses Letter, that is. That you may embrace the advantagious Offers made you by France, which indeed are specious, and suited to take with your Royal Highnes: But we question very much whether you will find that Safety, Honour, and Advantages in them, which you would find in the Confederacy you were engaged in, if your Royal Highness had continued in it. We wait nevertheless to hear the Opinion of the rest of the Confederates.

federates, on this Resolution of your Royal Highnesses; and in the mean time we have sent Orders to our General de Varennes to bring home our Forces; not questioning in the least, but that though your Royal Highness has changed Sides, you will nevertheless allow our Troops what is due to them, according to the Treaties made with your Royal Highness. God grant, &c.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy's Letter, to his Majesty the King of Spain.

Secred and Royal Majesty,

YOUR Majesty's Bounty is too great, to shew it self unwilling to give a savourable Audience to my Ambassador, which I beg of your Majesty for him, when he hath the Honour to give your Majesty an Account of the Proposals made to me, by the Mareschal de Catinat, and of the Reasons which prevail with me in this Affair, which I hope will so far perswade your Majesty, as not to refuse your Approbation. I cannot certainly believe, that your Majesty's Goodness and Equity, so generally esteem'd, would suffer you to give way, That this Country (which every one knows is brought to an extream and intolerable Defolation) should by my means be exposed to its utter Ruine; or that I should resuse the Restitution which is offered me of all that has been taken from me, together with the Surrender of Piguerol; seeing that those great Losses, and these confiderable confiderable Advantages are of no less Consequence to your Majesty's Interest than they are to mine, which shall be inseparable.

I doubt not therefore, but that to the innumerable and perpetual Obligations I owe to your Majesty, you will add this one more, which I look upon as one of the chiefest. I beseech your Majesty to be perswaded, That the deep sense I have of all the Favours received at your Majesty's Hands, and the inviolable Zeal I bear to your Service, shall not leave me but with the last Breath of my Life, being your Majesty's Affectionate Servant and Cousin, Victor Amadeus of Savoy,

King of Cyprus.

A Copy of the Articles of the Treaty between his most Christian Majesty, and bis Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy, as it was sent from Madrid.

I. THE most Christian King shall Restore to the Duke, all he has taken from him during this present War.

II. His Majesty will restore Pignerol, with all its Dependencies, and the Fortress, after it is Demolish'd, receiving in Exchange from the Duke, the Valley of Barcelonetta.

III. The King will give the Duke of Burguny in Marriage to the Duke's Daughter, with-Out expecting any Portion with her.

IV. To repair and make good the Damages sustained during this present War, the most Christian King shall pay to the Duke Four Millions of Livres.

V. In case that any Prince whatsoever shall undertake to make War against the Duke, his Majesty will assist him with eight thousand Foot and sour thousand Horse, which shall be maintained at his Majesty Cost.

VI. For the better Security of this present Treaty, the most Christian King will give the Guartantee of the Pope, and the Republick of Venice.

The Treaty of Peace, and Neutrality for Italy, between his most Christian Majesty and his Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy. Concluded and Signed at Turin, Aug. 29. 1696. and Delivered at the Hague to the most Illustrious Allies, Aug. 15. 1697.

THE most Christian King having all along during this War maintained a sincere desire of procuring the Quiet of Italy, and it having pleafed Almighty God to inspire his Royal Highness with the same thoughts, his Majesty has given his full Power, Commission and Command, to the Sieur René de Troullay, Count de Tesse, Knight of the Orders of the King, Lieutenant General of his Armies, Colonel General of the Dragoons of France, Governor of Ipres, Lieutenant General for the King in the Provinces of Maine and Perche, and at present Commanding for the King in the Countries and Places on the Frontiers of Piedmont. His Royal Highness having likewise on his part given his Power and Commands to the Sieur Charles Victor, Marquifs de Saint Thomas, Minister of State, and his said Royal Highnesses Principal Secretary of State; the faid Plenipotentia. ries having reciprocally Exchanged the Original of their Commissions, by virtue of which they Treat, have agreed on these following Articles.

J.

That there shall be from henceforth and for ever. a firm and a fincere Peace between the King and his Kingdom, and his Royal Highness the Duke of Savoy, and his Dominions, as if the faid Peace had been never interrupted; and the King resuming the fame Sentiments of Bounty he hath heretofore had for his Royal Highness, which he desires his Royal Highness to be perswaded of; his Royal Highness doth by this present Treaty entirely renounce all Engagements, and all Treaties made with the Emperor, with the Kings and Princes comprehended under the Name of the League of Confederacy; and doth undertake to employ all his Endeavours, and to do all that he can, in order to obtain of those Sovereign Powers, at least of the

the Emperor and King of Spain, a Neutrality for Italy, until the general Peace shall be Concluded; and to signific their Consents by a particular Treawhich shall be made to that purpose; or for want of fuch a Treaty by Declarations, which the faid Emperor and the King of Spain shall make to the Pope, and to the Republick of Venice; and which shall be at the same time followed by the Retreat and withdrawing of all the Forces which the Allies have at present in kaly, as it shall be hereafter more particularly specified: And in case the abovementioned Princes do not Consent to such a Neutrality in Italy, at his Royal Highnesses Instance, to the Emperor and to the King of Spain; his Royal Highness dock engage to enter into an Offensive and Defensive League with the King a unril a General Peace be Concluded, acting 'loyntly with his Majesty's and his own proper Forces, as becomes good and fincere Allies for the Common Interest, and to make War against the State of Milan, and against all those who shall op-Pose this present Treaty's taking effect. And as an evident Demonstration of a Return of the King's Amity towards his Royal Highness, his Ma-Jeffy does willingly Consent, and doth Promise, That the City and Cittadel of Pignerol, the Fort of St. Bridges, the Perouse, with other Forts depending on the same, shall be Demolished as to the Fortifications only, at the King's Charges; and after the aforesaid Fortifications are Demolished, they shall all be Restored to his Royal Highness, as well as all the Territories and Dominions compriled under the name of the Government of Pignerol, and which did belong to the House of Savor, before the Cession or Surrender, that Victor Amadem, the first Duke of that Name, made C_{2} unio unto Lewisthe XIIIth. The which City, difmant tled Cittadel, and Demolished Forts and Textito ries, shall be likewise Surrendred to his Royal High: ness, to be held in Soveraignty, and to be by him enjoyed fully and perpetually, by him and his Succeffors from henceforth, as things to him of Right belonging. By vertue of which present Surrender. his Royal Highness doth Engage and Promile, as well for himself, his Heirs and Successors, or others by any ways Claiming, neither to Rebuild, nor cause to be Rebuilt the aforesaid Forcifications; nor to cause any new ones to be Built upon, and in the space and limits of the said Territories, Funds and Rocks, neither in any place whatfoever, to furrendred by this present Treaty; according to which, his Royal Highness, or the Inhabitants of the faid Town of Pignerol, shall be allowed to inclose it with a bare Wall only, not Terrassed, and without Fortifications. withstanding these mentioned, his Royal Highness shall be free to Build any strong Places or Fortifications in this said Territory now delivered up, as he thinks fit, without the King's taking any exception at it. That moreover, the King shall restore to his Royal Highness, the Countries, Cafiles and Places of Montmelian, Nice, Villefranche, Suze and all other the Conquer'd Places, without Exception, entire, and undemolish'd or damag'd, and with the same quantity of Ammunitions of War, Provisions, Stores, Canon and Artillety, and such Places to be left furnished, as they were when they fell into his Majesty's Hands; and so that the Buildings, Fortifications, Inlargements and Improvements, made by his Majesty, shall not be ces are restored, it shall be lawful for his Royal - High

Highness to repair and enlarge the Fortifications as things belonging to himself, that the King may not therefore molest him, or be displeased there-Provided nevertheless, That the King shall Carry off from Pignerol, all the Artillery, Ammunition of War and Provisions, Arms, and all mo-Table Effects belonging to him, of what Nature foever they be. That as for the Revenues and Incoms of Pignerol and of its Dependencies, the King does yield them up to his Royal Highness in the same manner as the King injoys them at pre-Ent; and the Leafes or Settlements which the King has made of any of the faid Lands, shall stand good, according to the Form of the respe-Give Centracts, Tenures or Acquisitions: That the faid restitution of these Coultries and Places belonging to his Royal Highness, as also the deli-Fory of Pignerol with its Dependencies above mentioned, shall be made after the signing of this preent Treaty; the Foreign Troops being first quite tetired out of Italy; and after that the Germans, . the Troops of Bavaria, the Brandenbourg Protestants in the English Pay, and other Auxiliary Troops are actually arrived in Germany; and that the Spaniards and others which are paid by his Catholick Majesty, are returned into the Territories of Milan: so that the Execution of any of these Articles, nor the Restitution of any of those Placas, shall not take Effect till after the said Troops are all of them, and entirely retired, in such manher as has been now exprest: Which, notwithstanding, is to be so understood, as that the Evacuation of the said Foreign Troops out of Italy, shall be deemed to be fully compleated, although the Maniards should take out, as possibly they may, lome Men out of those Foreign Regiments, to fill up those that are in their own Pay; or that some of those Foreign Troops should List themselves, and enter on the Territories of the Republick Venice, it shall be taken as if they were arrived in Germany, as soon as they are upon the Venetians Ground, and are delivered over to the Service of that Commonwealth: And after the Ratification of the pefent Treaty, Labourers shall be immediately fet at work to fink Mines, and to do all other things that are necessary for the demolishing of the faid City, Citadel and Forts of Pignerol. in case his Royal Highness should think fit to keep this Treaty as yet secret, beyond the time limited for the said Ratification, it is agreed upon, that to avoid the Noise which the working of such Mines might create, that they shall be begun but at such time after the Ratification as his Royal Highness shall think fit: The said demolishing Work shall continue and go forward in such a manner, as that in Two or Three Months after the Evacuation of the said Troops above mentioned, all shall be delivered up into his Royal Highnes's Hands: whereupon it shall be allowed to send a Commissary to affilt upon the Place, until the Execution of His Majesty is also willing, for the faid Work. his Royal Higness's greater Satisfaction, to send him, when he shall require it. Two Dukes and Peers of France, to remain as Hostages in his Royal Highness's Hands, who shall treat them according to the Dignity of their Rank.

His Majesty shall make no Treaty of Peace, or Truce with the Emperor, or the King of Spain, without comprehending his Royal Highnes, in suitable and effectual Terms; and the present Tres ty, as well as those Querasque, Munster, the Pireness Peace, not only as to the Four Hundred Ninety Four Thousand Crowns of Gold (which are particularly mentioned in that of Munker, in Discharge of his Royal Highness, and for which the King continues to be still a Guarrantee to the Dune of Mantua) but also as to all other Matters contained in the said Treaties, not contrary to the present Treaty, which are to be irrevocable, and to remain in full Force and Validity, notwithstanding the present Delivery of Pignerol and its Dependencies: And as for other Interests, Claims, or Pretensions which concern the House of Savoy, his Royal Highness reserves to himself a Power of Treating about them by way of Protestations, of Memorials, or by Envoys, so that this Treaty may in no ways be prejudicial to the said Protestations.

III.

That a Marriage between the Duke of Burgundy, and the Princess, His Royal Highness's Daughter, shall be treated on out of Hand, to be confirmated when they are of Age, and the Contract between them to be made so soon as this Present Treaty takes effect; after Publication whereof, the Princess shall be put into the King's Hands. That in the said Marriage-Contract, which shall be considered as an effential part of this Treaty, and wherein the Princess shall make the usual Renunciations, with a Promise to pretend to nothing of his Royal Highness's Estate or Succession, surther than the following Porcion: His said Royal Highness shall give as a Portion to the Princess his Daughter Two Hundred Thousand Crowns of Gold; toward the Payment of which, his Royal Highness shall give a Discharge for One Hundred Thousand Crowns of Gold, which remained due (by France to the House of Savey) as part of the Dutches Royal's Portion, together with the accruing Interest of that said Sum, which was also promised to be paid: And the Remainder, (viz. One Hundred Thousand more, which the Duke of Savey should pay to France, to make up the Portion aforesaid) the King doth Remit, in Consideration of the present Treaty; his Royal Highness engaging moreover, to give to the Princes, his Daughter, at the Celebration of the Marriage, that, which in the Language of Piedmont, is called Fardle; and in French, the Bundle, or Marriage Present, for Cloaths; and in the Contract of Marriage, the Dowry shall be agreed upon, which the King will give according the Custom of France.

IV.

That his Royal Highness, renouncing from this present time, truly, and effectually, and sincerely, (as he hath done in the fore-mentioned Articles) all the Ingagements which he might have had with the Enemies, doth likewise hope, that his Majesty will answer thereunto, with all the Sentiments which his Royal Highness craves and wishes for: and that having the Honour to be so nearly related to the King, and of entring into a new and glorious Alliance with him, his Majesty doth Grant and Promise, to his Royal Highness, as he doth demand. his powerful Protection, as formerly, in all its Extent; and as his Royal Highness is desirous to maintain a perfect Neutrality with the Kings, Princes, and Sovereign Powers, who are at present his Allies, his Majesty doth promise, not to put any manner of Restraint on the Inclinations which his Royal Highness hath, of continuing and using rowards them, all the external Measures of DecenPrince, who hath Embassadors and Envoys at the Courts of those Princes, and receives and entertains, at his own Court, Envoys and Embassadors from them; and that the King shall in no ways take ill his so doing: comprehending under that Word Princes, the Emperor, Kings, and Sovereign Powers of Europe.

V.

His Majesty doth ingage and declare that the ordinary and extraordinary Embassadors of Sashall receive at the Court of France, all the Honours without Exception, and with all the Cir-Camiliances and Ceremonies that are paid to the Embassadors of Crowned Heads, that is to say, they shall be received as Embassadors from Kings; and that his Majesty's ordinary, as well as extraordinary Embassadors in all the Courts of Europe, without Exception, and even the King's Embassadors at Rome and Vienna shall likewise treat and use the faid ordinary and extraordinary Embassadors Envoys from Savoy, as they do those from ings and Crowned Heads. But in regard that this Addition of Honour, as to the Treatment of the Embassadors from Savoy, has been never hithere fettled nor railed to that Degree that his Majesty doth now allow it, His Royal Highness is fasible and doth acknowledge, that it is in Consideration of this Treaty, or Contract of Marriage of the Duke of Burgundy with the Princess his Daughter; and his Majesty doth promise that this Augmentation of Honour shall take Place from the Day that the aforesaid Treaty of Marriage is Signed.

That the Trade between France and kaly shall be renewed and maintained in the same manner # it was settled before this War, from the time of Charles Emanuel II. his Royal Highness's Father's and the same shall be observed, and practifed in Points, and in all Places between the Kingdo and the feveral parts of his Majesty's Dominions and those of his Royal Highness's, which was used and practifed in all things in the Lifetime of the faid Charles Emanuel IL on the Roads of Suza is Savoy, and Pont Beauvoifin, and Villefranche, every one paying the Duties and Customs on both Sidesi the French Ships shall continue to pay the ancient Duties at Villefranche, as it was wont to be paid if the time of the faid Charles Emmanuel; about which there shall be no Contest or Opposition made, any more than used to be done in those Days. The Couriers and ordinary Posts of France shall pass, at formerly, through his Royal Highnels's Effaces and Countries, and according to the Regulations there they shall pay the Duties for the Merchandize wherewith they shall be charged.

His Royal Highness shall cause an Edict to be published by which he shall upon the Penalty of several corporal Punishments, forbid the Inhabitants of the Vallies of Lucern, called Vaudois, to have any Communication, in Matters of Religion, with the King Subjects; and his Royal Highness shall ingage, not to suffer at any time from the Date of this Treat amy of his Majesty's Subjects to make any Settlement in the Protestant Vallies, under Colour of Religion, of Marriage, or for any other Pretence of Settlement, Conveniency, taking Possession Inheritances, or any other Pretence whatsoevers.

and that no Protestant Minister shall come from thence into any of his Majesty's Dominions, without incurring the severest of Corporal Punishments. That however, his Majesty shall take no Cognisance of his Royal Highness's Usage towards the Vaudois, in regard of their Religion; yet his Royal Highness shall be bound not to suffer the Exercise of the Reformed Religion in the City of Pignerol, nor in the Territories that are restored to his Royal Highness, in like manner as his Majesty neither doth, nor will allow the exercise of it in his Kingdom, VIII.

That there shall be on both sides a perpetual Act of Oblivion and Indemnity of all that has been done since the beginning of this War, in what Place soever the Acts of Hostility have been committed; That in this Act of Grace, all those shall be comprehended who have served his Majesty in what Station soever, although they were his Royal Highness's Subjects; so that no Prosecution shall be made against them, neither shall they be molested, either in their Persons or Estates, by Repussals, Executions, or Judicial Processes, or upon any pretext whatsoever; and the King's Subjects that have served his Royal Highness shall be used in the like manner.

IX.

That Ecclesiastical Benefices in such parts of his Royal Highness's Country as hath been conquered by the King, having been filled up by his Majesty from time to time, as the same became vacant, during the time that his Majesty possessed the said Countries; it is agreed, that the said Collation to Benefices shall be valid, and the Persons who have been promoted by the King, and invested by Authority of the

Pope's

Pope's Bulls, shall remain in full Possession thereof. But as to Promotions to the Livings belonging to the Military Order of St. Maurice, or to Places of Judicature or Magistracy, his Royal Highness shall have Liberty to alter the Nominations made by the King; and all Grants made by his Royal Highness of Offices in the Law, become vacant by the Person's leaving them during the War, shall remain good and valid.

As for Contributions that were imposed on the Lands of his Royal Highness's Dominions, altho' they are lawfully imposed, and are become due, and that they amount to considerable Sums, his Majesty does, out of his Liberality, sully discharge his Royal Highness of them, so that from the Day of this Treaty's Ratification, the King will not pretend to, nor require any of the said Contributions, leaving his Royal Highness in full Possession of his Revenues throughout his Dominions, as well as in Savoy, Nice, about Pignerol, and Suza; his Royal Highness on the other side, not demanding any Contributions of the King. Contributions of the King.

As to the Pretensions of the Dutchess of Nemours on his Royal Highness, his Majesty leaves those Controversies to be determined among themselves by due Course of Law, without concerning himfelf further therein.

XII.

That it shall be Lawful for his Royal Highness to send Intendants and Commissaries into Savoy, the County of Nice, the Marquisate of Sula and Barcellones, into Pignerol and its Dependencies; in order to Regulate his Interests. Rights and Revenues nues, and to settle his Customs and Excises upon Salt and other things. And the said Deputed Persons shall be admitted and authorised in their Ossimmediately after the Ratissication of this present Treaty; after which the said Duties shall belong to his Royal Highness, without Exception of Contradiction.

XIIL

• That if the Neutrality for Italy be accepted, or that a General Peace be Concluded, as in fuch Cales a great many Troops would become altogether Weless and Chargeable to his Royal Highness; and that besides the excessive Charges requisite for the maintaining of them, they commonly become an Occasion of creating a mil-understanding among Princes, when more Troops are kept on foot then are necessary in a State, either for its own Conservation, or for the maintaining of the Digthity of a Sovereign Prince; his Royal Highnels doth therefore oblige himself, not to keep in times of Neutrality, any more than Six thousand Foot on this side the Alps, and One thousand five hundred on the other fide of the Mountains, for the Garrilons of Savoy, and of the County of Nice; and One thousand five hundred Horse or Drasoons; and this Obligation is to continue only till the General Peace be Concluded.

We the above-mentioned Plenipotentiaries have Agreed upon, and Signed these present Articles; and we do promise and engage to procure them to be ratified and confirmed by his Majesty, and by his Royal Highness; promising likewise, that they shall be kept secret till the end of September next; and if at that time new Articles are made, to the same sense.

The most Christian King's Letter to the Archbishop of Paris, to cause Te Deum to be Sung for the Peace Concluded with Savoy, &c.

Confin,

A S in this War which I have alone sustain'd for these Nine Years past against the Consected Force of Europe, I had no other Aim than Desend Religion, and Vindicate the Majesty of Kings: God has protected his own Cause, he has Guided my Designs, and Assisted my Enterprises. The happy Successes which have accompanied my Arms, have been the more agreeable to me i because I have always Flatter'd my self they would Conduce to a Peace; and I have made no other Prosit of those Successes, than to offer my could hope for, even the they had obtain'd that Superiority Superiority over me, as I have gain'd upon them. I have omitted nothing that might advance the Happiness of Europe; and I have made use of all means to convince my Brother the Duke of Savoy, with what ardor I defired to see that good Corre-spondence renewed, which has been established for so many Ages, founded upon such Bonds of Confanguinity and Friendship, and which had never been interrupted but by the Artifices of our Enemies. My Vows have been heard; this Prince has at last acknowledg'd his true Interest and my good Intentions, and the Peace is Concluded. It is to be hoped, that the Confederated Powers, touch'd by this Example, and the Evils that their People fuffer, will follow his Example: Or if they will still persist in the same Sentiments, they shall more than ever be made sensible, that nothing is impossible to Troops accustomed to Victory, and which are Conducted by a Desire of Peace. to give thanks to the God of Armies, who has been pleased to shew himself a God of Peace; and to pray him to give to all Europe a Tranquility so necessary, and which he only can give; That I have resolved to cause Te Deum to be Sung in the Cathedral Church of my good City of Paris, on the Thirteenth of this present Month, as the great Master of Ceremonies will more particularly inform you, whom I have ordered to invite also to this Ceremony my Courts, and those that use to assist at it. Whereupon, &c.

An Extract out of the Register-Book of the Mediator, his Majesty the King of Sweden's Publick Minister.

At the Hague, February 10. 1697.

THIS Day, at Eleven in the Morning, Morning Caillieres, his most Christian Majesty's Minister came in Company with Monsieur Dyckwelt, to the House of the Swedish Minister the Mediator, and having produced and shewed to the said Mediator his tull Power, and that of his Imperial Majesty's Minister being also read, and Copies of both (after being compar'd with the Originals) exchang'd; He, the said Monsieus Cailleires, made the following Declaration.

Preliminary Articles.

I. THE King of France doth consent and agree, That the Treaties of Westphalia and Nimegues shall be the Basis and Foundation of the Negotiations for a General Peace with all the Consederates.

II. To restore Strasbourg in the same Condition

it was in when taken by his Majesty.

III. To restore to the King of Spain, Luxur burgh in the Condition it is now in.

IV. Also the Cities of Mons and Charleroy, in the same Condition they are in at present.

V. The several Places in Catalonia that are now in the King's Hands, being taken since the Peace of Nimeguen shall be restored in the Condition they were in when taken.

VI. To restore to the Bishop of Leige, the Town and Cittadel of Dinant, in the same State they were in when taken.

VII. To restore all Places that have been taken by Virtue of Re-Union, since the Treaty of Nimeguen.

VIII. And Lorrain according to the Condition of the said Treaty of Nimeguen.

This done, the said Minister of France and Monfieur Dyckvelt, went together to the House of Monsieur Boreel, who by Reason of Indisposition, was hindred from being present, and the Swedish Minister resorting thither also, the said Ministers, Boreel and Dyckvelt, did declare to the Mediator, in the Presence of Monsieur Cailleires,

That over and above the recited Preliminaries, it was also agreed, That provided the Peace be concluded, the most Christian King shall at the time it is signed, own and acknowledge the Prince of Orange, as King of Great Britain, without any Dissiculty, Limitation; Condition or Reserve; to which the said Monsieur Cailleires did reply, and declare to the Mediator, That in the Name of his Master, the most Christian King, he did confirm and agree to what Messieurs Boreel and Dyckwelt had said.

After the Preliminaries were adjusted, it was agreed, that the Ambassadors and Publick Minihers of the Allies should Reside at the Hague; but that the Ambassadors of the most Christian King should make their Residence at Delfi; and that the Conferences for the General Peace should be held embourgh. The Bishop of Liege to have Dinant 10 This is the Method of Treating that was demanded of France, and which is very commen dable. But as it has been found necessary to re quire this Security beforehand (which has been termed a Prelimenary) I find it necessary to infil upon it, that the same may be done, in regard to the Restitution of Lorain. Not according to no Terms of the Treaty of Nimeguen; because a Re stitution on such Conditions, is not to be accept ted of; and the Queen, both as a Mother and Guardian of her Children, cannot allow of it, the cannot act contrary to the Duke, her Hull band's Deed, who was never willing to accept and a Restitution on those Terms. Neither ought the Treaty of Nimeguen, to stand as a Prelimenary a Foundation of this Treaty, fince the King by France himself, has in a manner disanuled it, cit declaring by his Ambassadors, that it was as is had never been; and the deceased Duke of Loral on his part, made a Declaration, That he would not be held by it. Nevertheless, that pretended Treaty, to which he had never consented, nor a greed unto, nor figned by his Plenipotentially but on the contrary protested against, has been concluded notwithstanding his Dissent: then can that Treaty be revived without him, and made use of it against an August Widow, and Four most Serene Orphans, whereof the eldest Duke Leopold of Lorain, the first of that Name descended of Sixty Seven Dukes of a continued Line, of so illustrious a Blood, that there is has King nor Prince in Europe, now living, but here drops of in it. drops of it in his Veins, and even the most Chir than King himfelf. Whence it cannot be imaging that his Majesty could be willing that this most Serene Family, which has in former times rendered fuch fignal Services to the Crown of France, should be now destroyed and brought to nothing.

II. By the Laws of Nature, for the Sake of the Quality of this Illustrious House, and by the Obigation of Alliances, the High Confederates ought to support its Cause. The Emperour hath made Solemn and Authentick Treaty with the States General of the United Provinces, in which there is an express Article, importing that the Dukedoms Countries thereunto belonging, shall be fully restorated. ted to the late Duke of Lorrain, of Glorious Memo-He was then alive, and contributed very much to promote that Treary; and if that Article which related to him had not been admitted to be comprehended in it, that Treaty would have hever been concluded nor ratified. Mynheer Hop, who was one of the Publick Ministers concerned in it, and figned it, knows this to be true. the States General have the Substance of what I have been faying, in their own Records.

The Monarchy of Spain, the Crown of England, and other confederated Powers confented to that Treaty, did concur in it, or rather run to take upon them the common Defence of it, and engaged themselves into the same Obligation to see this Article relating to Lorrain duly performed, whereof they gave their particular Assurances. There was no Elector, Prince, or State of the Empire that opposed it; on the contrary, the Three Collectors for this Colledges gave their Votes and Resolutions for this Restitution to be made to the full, and with allowthe Lor Damages. These are the Engagements of the high Allies for the House of Lorain, against which which which, France does peremptorily declare, by Mon fieur Cuillieres, That the King will not restore Lor. rain, but on the Conditions mentioned in the Tres ty of Nimeguen. Does there need more Argument to move the Allies to cause the Restitution of La rain to be put among the Prelimenaries, according to the Tenour of their Obligations? Before Monsieur Caillieres had declared this Negative, gave us some Ground to hope by what he had faid at Meastricht and elsewhere, that Lorain would be restored on certain Conditions, or on Terms more Advantageous than those of the Treaty Nimeguen. These Advantages were then to Part of the Preliminaries, in order to draw on the But that those fair Promises were to taken but for meer Complements, appears at prefent plain enough, by this absolute Negative of his viz. The King will not: Which may give sufficient Warning to the Allies, to make use of more caution in their Transactions, and this obligi them the more to make this so just a Reliable tution part of the Prelimenary, and that without it the Congress should not be held. Seeing with out it there can be no Peace, unless that the King of France be permitted to triumph doubly the Allies, and fubdue them, which I hope must not expect, or pretend that they must not without his Leave, keep their Promises and for gagements.

Signed, Canon.

Another Memorial which the same President Canon presented to the same Assembly of the High Allies on the 22d of May, 1697.

Gentlemen, &c.

Y Age and ill Disposition of Body will not permit me to wrangle, nor use many words, and therefore all I shall say is, That we are come hither to make a Peace, and not to Dispute or Reput Sulate Ranks and Places. Every one yields the first to the Emperor only, and no Body disputes it with him, no not our Enemies themselves. We have, with common Consent, and by the Intervention of our Mediator, made an Act of Reservation, because of the several Titles; which Act has been thought very Prudential and Necessary; for it is a precedent, and at the same time secures all other retentions of Place and Precedency which every one may arrogate to himself. For my part, I do not intend to take place of any Body: But at the fame time I will not fuffer any thing to be done that can prejudice the Queen my Mistress, or the most Serene Duke her Son, who is a Sovereign, and that's enough. Otherwise I shall call my self hall come another that will entitle himself King of Come another that will states General will call prace; Their Lordships the States General will call themselves Kings of several Kingdoms in the Indies; for they are so indeed; but that is not the question: Gentlemen, as I said before, we are not here to dispute or regulate what is de gloria mundi, E but but only and folely to Treat of the Peace, which shall be concluded, and God Almighty will send, if we have it first among us the High Allies.

Between the

Emperor & Empire

On one Part; and his Most

Christian Majesty

On the other Part:

As it was deliver'd in by the French Ambassadors the 20th of July, 1697.

With the Answer of the Imperial Ambassadors to the said Project, given in the 5th of August, 1697. Translated from the Latin.

CONDITIONS

Upon which his Most

Christian Majesty

Agrees to make

Peace with all the ALLIES.

The Preamble. E it known unto all Men, both present and to come, that in the Course of a most bloody War, under which Europe has so long groan'd, it has pleas'd Divine Providence to prepare at last for Christendom a happy Conclusion of its Miseries, by inspiring an ardent Desire of eace into the Hearts of the most High, most Excellent, and most Potent Prince, Leopold, Elected Emperor of the Romans, always August King of Germany, Hungary, &c. of the most High, most Excellent, and most Potent Prince, Lewis XIV.by the Grace of God most Christian King of France and Navarre; of the most High, most Excellent, and most Potent Prince, Charles II. by the Grace of God Catholick King of Spain; and of their High and Mightinesses the States General of the United Netherlands: All of which Princes and States, being equally desirous to concur bona side, as far as in them lies towards the Re-establishment of the Publick Tranquility, they think of nothing less than rendering it Solid and Lasting by the Equity of the Articles in the ensuing Treaty. Whereupon in the first place their Majesties and the said States General ral have for this purpole unanimously consented, to accept of the Mediation of the most High, most Excellent and most Potent Prince, Charles XI. by the Grace of God King of Sweden, Goths and Van dals of glorious Memory. But whereas an untime ly Death afterwards took away that Prince, and disappointed the Hopes, which all Europe had just ly conceived of the happy Issue of his Counsels and good Offices, their faid Majesties and the States General being still resolved to put a speedy stop of the Effusion of so much Christian Blood, have thought they could not make Choice of a Median tor more agreeable to all Parties concern'd and terested in the War, than by continuing to knowledge under the same Character the most High, most Excellent, and most Potent Prince Charles XII. his Son and Successor, the prefet King of Sweden, who has already us'd the same by deavours to promote the Peace between his Ink rial Majesty and his Allies on the one part, and he most Christian Majesty on the other part, in the Conferences actually held for this purpose in 1. Ry/wick in the Province of Holland the Ambassadors Extraordinary, and Palace at between Plenipotentiaries nominated and deputed by port Parties.

On behalf of the Emperor, Count Cannitz, Count Straatman, and Count Seylern, &c.

On behalf of his most Christian Majesty, the Sieurs Harlay, Count Crecy, and Cailliere, Och

On behalf of his Catholick Majesty, the special on Bernardo de One Don Bernardo de Quiros, and Count Tirimonts, and On the behalf of the States General, the Sieur's Who Boreel, Dyckwell, and Van Haren, &c.

Who having implored the Divine Assistance, and communicated respectively their full Powers (the Copies whereof are inserted word for word at the end of the Treaty) and having caused them to be duly exchang'd by the Intervention and Mediation of the Baron of Lilieron, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the King of Sweden, who acquits himself in the Office of a Mediator, with all the Prudence, Ability and Equity requisite for the Re-establishment of a General Tranquility, They shall agree together for the Glory of God, and the Welfare of Christendom upon the Articles of Peace and mutual Amity which follow.

The Answer of the Imperial Ambassadors to the Project of Peace deliver'd in by the French.

Answer to the Preamble.

A Ccording to established Custom 'tu requir'd, that in all Treaties between the Emperor and Empire on one part, and France on the other, the Latin Tongue should be made use of, and especially that what is deliver'd in writing on either side should be in that Language. Therefore it was but reasonable for them to demand, that this Custom might be observed with respect to the Project, and in all suture Negotiations. Tho' in this Project there is no mention made but only of Three Allies, set it is to be supposed, that the Treaty of Peace should the manag'd and concluded with all the Allies engaged in drawn up according to the Number of them. Lastly, they will readily agree at the end of thu Negotiation to the remaining part of the Preamble.

Artisle

Article I.

There shall be an Universal, Perpetual and Chris Mian Peace, and a true and fincere Amity between his Imperial Majesty and his Allies on the one part, and his most Christian Majesty on the other parts their Heirs and Successors, their Kingdoms and provinces, especially between the Princes Electors and other States of the Empire comprehended in the Treaty of Peace, with their Heirs and Successor This Peace and Amity shall sincerely and faithfully be observed and continued in such a manner that each Party shall be for promoting the Honour Welfare, and Profit of the other. There shall sh passed on both sides a perpetual Amnesty and Oblivion of all Acts of Hollility, exercis'd during War, in what place, or howfoever committed So that for the future no Redress shall be sued for either by Course of Law or otherwise, within Empire, the Kingdoms and Territories of his most Christian Majesty, his Catholick Majesty, nor the States General and Allies, notwithstanding all greements, which may formerly have been concluded ded upon to the contrary. But all Injuries, lences, Hostilities, Damages, and Expences, with out any Distinction of Things or Persons, which may have been caus'd on either fide, whether by Words, Writings, or Deeds, shall be entirely cell'd, so that whatever may be pretended under this Colour by one against the other, shall be bust ed in an Eternal Oblivion.

Answer to Article I.

When this Article was last debated, the Imperial Am bassadors urg'd, and the French agreed, that the Empire and Emperor should not be separated, but be joyn'd together according to ancient Custom, and as it was observed in the Treaty of the Twenty years Truce made at Ratisbonne: That it was requisite, not only to express what might conduce to the preserving the Peace, in order to observe it; but likewise to take notice of what might obstruct or destroy it, in order to avoid it. That lastly, it would be no difficult matter to adjust a general Amnesty, when once an Agreement was made about the Reparation of the Losses sustained, and the Charges they had been put to: adding withal a necessary Limitation with respect to Ecclesiastical Benefices to be bereafter mention'd. From these Proposals two Arcicles do Arise:

1. There shall be a Christian, Universal and Perpeual Peace, and a true Amity between bis Sacred Impe-Tial Majesty, and bis Successors, the whole Roman Em-Pire, the Kingdoms and Hereditary Dominions, his Vaf-Sals and Subjects, and all his Allies, on the one part, and bis Sacred Majesty, the most Christian King, and his Successors, bis Kingdom and the Subjects of France, on the other part. That this Peace shall be maintain'd and Preserv'd with that Sincerity, that neither Party shall attempt any thing to the rain or prejudice of the other, under what pretence soever; nor directly or indirectly aid or assist any Person or Persons who shall or may endearour any thing to the prejudice of either Party; That neither Party shall receive, protect, or abet the Rebellious and Refractory Subjects of the other Party; but both shall Promote and advance the Welfare, Honour, and Interest of each other, all Promises, Contracts, and Alliances made or to be made to the contrary notwithstanding, all which are null'd and made void by these Presents: Always provided that the Amnesty granted by this Peace, and contain'd in the following Articles, shall remain in ful

Forasmuch as the Treaties of Munster and River guen ought to be the Basis and Foundation of present Transmission present to be the Balis and Foundation of present Treaty, and just as they are joyn'd to each other by the second at the second of the second other by that of Nimeguen, so that this latter may he said to contain both: The foresaid Treaty of meguen shall have the meguen shall have the same force here, as if inserted word for word word for word, and executed in all its Points and Articles, unless the lame torce here, as it into and articles. Articles, unless it be otherwise expressly provided

Answer to Article II.

It is very true, if things be duly consider'd, that the Treaty of Westphalia and that of Nimeguen, may and ought to be reckon'd one and the same: since the former a so ratified and confirm'd by the latter, as if the Instrument of the Westphalian Treaty, were inserted word for word in the Treaty of Nimiguen, unless in such cases wherein the former was abrogated by the latter: so that in effect, by promising to renew the one, it was likewife promised to renew the other. However because in reality they were two distinct Treaties of Peace, made at several Times and in several Places, carried on by different Ministers, for several particular Reasons, and drawn up in different Forms: It is likewise requisite, that in settling the Foot of this present Peace, which is the Subject Matter of this Article, a particular mention Should be made of both Treaties; since there are real Differences in the Second Treaty, from what his Excellency Monsieur Cailliere agreed to in the Preliminaries, which were exhibited on the Tenth of February last.

Article HI.

Whereupon there shall be an entire Oblivion of all that has pass'd during the present War, and all Things shall be remitted on either side, in the same state wherein they were by the foresaid Treaty.

Article IV.

To this purpose, whereas divers Re-unions of several Territories situated in the Empire, have been made by the Chambers of Metz and Bezancon, and the Soveraign Council of Brisac, since the said

Treaty of Nimeguen, of which his most Christian Majesty has been put into Possession, his said Mariant does commended to the said Mari jesty does covenant, that they shall be entirely re vok'd, without regarding the Sentences which have been pals'd by the forelaid Chambers and Council, and Things shall be restor'd in the same State and Condition wherein they were before the faid Sent tences and Re-union, and as they were at the Time of the Treaty of Nimiguen.

Article V.

His most Christian Majesty promises upon Ho nour to withdraw his Forces from all the Countries and Places they have been posses'd of in the Em pire during the present War.

Answer to Article III, IV, V.

The former part of the Third Article has been alread discussed in the Second. What follows is part of the Restitution to be made by the ensuing Peace. In confe quence whereof all Decrees of Union and Re-union are be Cancell'd and Abolish'd, some of which have been printed at Paris, Cum Privilegio, and consequently the King's Authority; among the rest Two, whose Me tles run thus, A Decree of the Soveraign Council of and Sace sitting at Brisac, importing that the King has be put into Possession of the Soveraignty of the Lower Alsace: it bears date March 22, 1680. entituled, A Decree of the Soveraign Council of Allace, fitting at Brilac, importing that the King shall be into Para into Possession of the Soveraignty of the Lower Alface, and of other Territories and Seigniories situated in the Upper Alace; this is dated August 9. 1680. Especially small formers to the sent and August 9. 1680. ally since these Expressions, and others to be met with be (67)

the whole Body of the Decree, concerning the detaining and possessing of other Territories at that time acknowledged, do sufficiently manifest the state of things by the then Treaty of Nineguen, and the time ensuing. This likewife was evident, and particularly in the Right pretended to Strasburgh, Landau, and Cronweissem. berg, by receding from performance of the Peace of Nimeguen, the first Article whereof was drawn up in these Terms.

The Emperor shall forthwith cause his Forces and Troops to withdraw from all the Provinces of the Em-Pire; which do not by an Hereditary Right belong to the House of Austria, namely from the Circle of Suabia and Franconia, as well as from the Electoral Circle of the Rhine, and from that of the Upper Rhine, and from the Towns and Forts situated thereon, From Bon, Strasburgh, Offenberg, Hockberg, Landau, Cron-Weissemberg, and in general from all such places, as neither by the Treaty of Munster, nor by that of Nime-Buen belong'd to his Imperial Majesty, so that immedibefore the Tenth of August, the faid Forces shall be drawn into Bohemia, and into other of his Patrimonial States.

Therefore 'tis evident that Bon, Strasburgh, Offenberg, Landau, Cronweissemberg, and all the other Places of the Empire, which were not look'd upon as belonging by an Hereditary Right to the House of Austria, neigh by an Hereditary Right to the House of Nimeneither by the Treaty of Muniter, nor that of Nime-Ruen, were yet consider'd and absolutely esteem'd to be Part of the Empire, and comprehended in its Eircles and Dependencies. From whence it plainly follows, that by the Articles propos'd by the French Ambassadors, all these Places are to be restor'd and re established. Since the Case stands thus, and these Places are the Chief of what ought to be restor'd, the Emperor's Amhassadors, and 160'e of the Electors, Princes, and other States here pre-F2 sent, do reasonably hope that there will be less difficults about the other Articles to be agreed upon for the flets, Re-establishment of Re-establishment of a firm and lasting Peace, and there fore they desired fore they desire that an immediate Consent may be given to the two follows: to the two following Articles, as the Foundation and neral Rule of the neral Rule of the present Peace.

1. The Treaty of Westphalia, together with that of Nimeguen, shall be the Basis and Foundation of his present Peace, which shall be executed with respect both Church and State Church and State, immediately after the Ratifications (hall be exchange) shall be exchanged; and for ever after maintain din new full force, unless in such things as shall be otherwise and wided for by the present Treaty. Therefore whate it after the faid Peace of Munster, and the Treaty of me Execution made at Nuremberg, has been to this fart in the Date Sint in the Possession of his most Christian Majesty, he der pretence of Right, or by open Force, or in any manner whatever manner whatever, and which was before possessed by sight Emperor, or by the Empire and the States depending thereon, including the Three Nobles, with their Industrial diate Desendents and I. A mail of visions, as well such as were in the Places when taken and since quitted and demolished by the Garrisons that were in them, and such as are in any other Places whatever, together with all Papers and Writings, where and bowever seiz'd. That whatever Alterations or Innevations have been made, by his most Christian Majesty, after the said Peace, and the Treaty of Execution made at Nuremberg in Civil or Ecclesiastical Affairs, under the Name and Pretence of Suntgau, Landgrave of Alface, Provincial Prefecture of Haguenau, and the Feudal Union of Dependencies, Appendencies, Submissions, Surrenders, Engagements, all manner of Grants, whether Absolute or Limited, or upon any other Cause or Reason whatever, shall be cancell d, and re-setiled upon its first footing; and after it has been thus resettled, hall remain in the perpetual possession of bis Imperial Majesty, as his Property or Fief. 2. For the farther illustrating the foregoing Articles and to cut off all occasion of future Debates, without mentioning the Reference to be made to Commissioners Umpires, and their Decisions; it is farther agreed, The bis most Christian Majesty, and the Kingdom of France shall rest satisfied and shall rest satisfied with what has been granted to them by the Peace of M. - O by the Peace of Munster in Westphalia, namely, it of the Jurisdictions of the three ancient Bishopricks Merz. Toul and Vand Metz, Toul and Verdun, as far as they had regard to them at the time of the said Peace; and likewise with the Rights and Daniel the Rights and Priviledges of Suntgau, the Landgravall of Aliana and fine of Alface, and of the Provincial Government, in the family manner as they were formerly possessed by the most Setell House of Anthria House of Austria, and which are not to be alter a upon the Account the Account of any Compensation to be made for Danie ges done, or for the Jake of making the Peace more from and lasting; and that they shall not pretend, demands or exact from any State Vassal or Subject of the Emple, any Oath, Obligation, or Dependence, except within her furifdictions of the said three Bishopricks, as far as the concern'd them at the time of the faid Peace, or except within the said Rights possessed by the House of Austria, and which are not at present alter'd under any Presents Reason, or Matter of Fact or Right whatever is his State of the Case, as to the Surrendring up of the Right of the House of Austria, being the same now as fact merly, except only the Manner of Possession; forament as what the most Serene House of Austria has received in Fief formal in Fief from the Empire, and beld under its Jurisdies on, shall be held and posses d with the Right of South raignty, by the Kingdom of France, and after and same manner as what belongs to the said three Bishop ricks within their Jurisdictions, is therein included And by Consequence all those in general comprehended. which are reckon'd, and are of Right the States, and California lals, and Subjects of the Empire, whether Such as more particularly mention d in the Treaty of the Peace of Munster, or in the Treaty of Execution made at Nuremberg, or in the Treaty of Nimeguen, all which are supposed to be repeated bere, or such me were therein omitted, of what degree or place soewer they be, shall from benceforward be ever exempted free from all Obligation, Tye, or Trouble that may thence ensue, towards bis most Christian Majesty and the Kingdom of France.

Article VI.

Though the City of Strasburgh was put into the Hands of his most Christian Majesty, by a parti-Cular and voluntary Agreement, and has been fince possessed and fortified by the Arms of his laid Majesty, even after the Treaty of Nimeguen, Which his Majesty is willing to observe in all its Particulars, he consents to withdraw his Forces out of the said City, on Condition the Fortifications made by his Orders, as well about the faid City as the Citadel, be first demolish'd, the Fort of Kell, and other Forts of the Isles of the Rhine, and of the said City of Strasburgh, remaining for its Fortification, in the same Condition it was in before it was possessed by his Majesty, and the Cirestor'd to all its Rights and Priviledges of an Imperial City.

And because the demolishing the said Fortifications requires the Space of about Eight or Ten Months, his Majesty Promises to do it with all posfible Diligence, and likewise Consents that the Emperor may have a Commissary at Strasbourgh to be Eye-witness till the said Demolishment be entirely finish'd.

His Majesty shall keep in the City, Citadel and Fort of Strasbourgh, a sufficient Garrison to carry on the Work. F 4 To teral Corolorary, which is as follows: Whereas the City of Strasbourgh was put, into the Hands of his most Christian Majesty in the Year 1681. and continued in his Possession till the Expiration of the Truce, in 1684. The Emperior fror and his most Christian Majesty, for the much tual Benefit of the Frontiers of their States, are agreed with respect to that Place, as follows That the Emperor for himself, his Successors and for the Empire, shall renounce all Rights of Sove raignty over the City of Strasbourgh, shall for ever grant for himself, his Successors, and for the Empire, to the King and Crown of France City of Straiburgh, with all in Appurtenances and Dependencies, to be injury by the King and the Crown, with all Right Property and Soveraignty, so as never to be mo e lested therein for any Cause, or upon any Occafion whatever.

In Exchange, his Most Christian Majesty shall Surrender to his Imperial Majesty, the City and Castle of Friburgh, in the State they are in at present, together with the Villages of Hen, Mer Shausen, and Kirkzand, with all, and such Rights of Sovereignty and Property as were surrendered to him by his Most Christian Majesty, by Fifth Article of the Treaty of Nimeguen.

Moreover, his Majesty is willing to deliver up to the Emperor the City of Brifac, feated on the other side the Rhine, in the same Condition wherein it is at present; with all its Dependent cies, except some Villages in Briggau, are on this fide the Rbine. And that the Rbine may be the constant Barrier between this Place and his Majesty's Territories, it is agreed, That the new City of Brifac, and the Fort in the Island, as also the Bridge, shall be utterly demolished, never to be raifed or re-built again; But that the Fort called the Mortar, seated on this side the Rhine, shall remain in the Possession of his most Christian Majesty.

His Majesty also Promises, to raze the Fortifications that have been made at Hunning ben, beyond the Rhine, as also the Horn-Work of the Island, and to demolish the Bridge of that Place which is apon the Rhine.

He likewise agrees to restore to the Emperor and Empire the Fort of Kell, seated at the End of Strasburgh-Bridge, and to raze those of the City, the Islands, and the Rhine, reserving only to miles the City and Citadel of Strasbourgh, and the Redoubt on this side the Rhine. He will also cause to be demolish'd the Horn-work of the Marhistore, and Fort Lewis upon the Rhine, and all the Works on the other side that River; together with Part of that Bridge which has Communication with the Fort of that Horn-work.

He also engages to restore to the Emperor the City of Philipsbourgh, which has been possessed by his Forces during this War: But to the end that the Frontiers of France and the Empire may be abfoliutely bounded by the Rhine, the Bridge of Phihipsburgh, and the Fort at the End of the faid Bridge, and the Fort at the Line, shall be demolish'd. Whereas the Treaty of Nimeguen has regulated the King is to restore the Conditions, upon which the King is to restore Lorrain to the deceased Duke of that Name: And whereas the Duke his Son, supported by the Recommendation of the Emperor, has defired his Majesty to grant him new and more favourable Conditions; his most Christian Majesty, in Con-

fideration of the Emperor's Recommendation and inefin'd thereto by the Good Will and Affecti on which he bears to the Duke of Lorain, is willing to relinquish the Conditions which were granted him by the many him by the Treaty of Nimeguen, and to re-enfiall the Duke of Lorain in possession of his Territories fuch as his Uncle Duke Charles possess d in the year 1670. in manner following. To this effect will make the control of Majesty will restore to him the Old and New Town of Nancy, upon Condition that the Fortiff Cations of the New Town shall be entirely demonstrated lish'd, and never rais'd again for the future; the Bastions and Curtains of the City shall remain untouch'd, but the Outworks and Half-moons shall be raz'd: that the Gates of the New Town shall stand, and that the Duke of Lorrain shall us permitted to enclose the said New Town with dry Wall, not Terrals'd, and without a Flank that the Roads which had been granted by the fact Treaty, and which were to remain in the reignty of his most Christian Majesty, to facilitate the Passage of his Ton the Passage of his Troops from S. Dizier to er, from Nancy to Alface, from Nancy to Petron, and from Nancy to Merz, shall be restored to Soveraignty and Property of the Duke of Larrich His Majesty desisting from all the Rights which had been granted him upon the Point by the Tra ty of Nimeguen, upon Condition however that Duke that Duke shall grant his Majesty's Troops a paller through he through his States as often as shall be required, paring such to ing such Dury as shall be agreed upon between Majesty's and the Duke of Lorrain's Commissioners. His Majetty also promising to withdraw his risons out of Bisch and Hambourgh, after having be molish'd the Fortifications, which are never to fell rais'd again. rais'd again. His Majesty reserving to himself only Saar Lewis, which he caus'd to be fortified, in order to possess it hereafter as his Soveraignty, with the Compass of a half League round about, as shall be regulated by Commissaries appointed to this Effect by the King and the Duke of Lor-firms the Sixteenth Article of the Treaty of Nimeguen, touching the Recompence which is to be Riven to the said Duke of Lorain for the City and rovostship of Longui, as if the said Article were here let down word for word; it is stipulated, that it shall have its full force of Execution.

The 20, 21, and 22th Articles touching the Provisions made for the Benefices, Sentences, and Decrees given by the King's Officers and Judges, and the Restitution of the Archives and Charters of the Chambers of Accounts of Nancy and Barr, may be re-settled, as they are in the Treaty of Nimeguen.

Answer to Article VI.

Every Body knows what was the Opinion of the Re-Publick of Strasburgh, when it was put into the hands of his most Christian Majesty after the Peace of Nime-Buen, and also what was the Opinion of all the Inha-buents and Bishops of the said City, of the Count of Hanault, of the Baron of Fleckensteim, and of the Immediate Nobles of the Lower Alsace, nam'd in the Treasy of Rendition, Septemb. 20. 1681. and of all the other Subjects of the Empire, both mediate and immediate. And it is very evident by the preceding Artiele, what upon the whole ought to be resolved, and what upon the wove one to be bad conformable to the Treaties of Muniter and Nimeguen, which are suppo-(ed fed in all these Respects to be here repeated; and most particularly with regard to the full and entire Reftituly on of the City of Strasburgh, with all its Dependencial and Appurtenances. and Appurtenances, situated on both sides the Rhines without demolishing or prejudicing the Edifices or, Las tifications thereof, together with its Arsenal, which been transferred 110 been transferred elsewhere; and lastly, of all the Right which belonged the which belonged thereto, before it was taken by Franch and especially of its immediate Dependance on the man Empire, which things are to be expressly set down in the Treats of D in the Treaty of Peace; rejecting all manner of Equipor lent that that the lent that the state of the state o lent that shall be offered, always excepting a more particular Designation ticular Designation, as far as shall be judged necessary and which shall at any time be produced. As for active Affairs of I amount of Affairs of Lorrain, and others contained in this Article than cle, they are referred to the ensuing Articles.

Article VII.

And because his most Christian Majesty with constrain'd to seize upon the City of Treves, and Said Maiesty liberis said Majesty likewise promises, after the Ratiscal tion of the present Treaty, to restore it to Mon fieur the Elector of Treves.

Answer to Article VII.

According to what has been already determined France is not only oblig'd to restore to bis Excellency full Elector of Treves, the City of Treves, but also a and Entire Dearest and Entire Restitution ought to be made to him of that belongs to him that belongs to him to him the state of that belong to him, by virtue of the Archbishoprick and Treves, Bishoprick of Spires, Abbey of Prum, Provostship of Weisemberg; wherefore the following Article is to be inserted in the Treaty of Peace, viz.

The Elector of Treves shall be restored to all the Places, Fiefs, Revenues, and Rights, both Ecclesiastical and Secular, which belong to him by Virtue of the Archbishoprick of Treves, Bishoprick of Spires, Abby of Prum, and Provosiship of Weisemberg, and their Dependencies, which either be, or his Predecessors have mjoy'd and possessed after the Execution of the Peace of Munster, whether particular mention has been thereof made or omitted, with all the Acts and Decrees, to be by him benceforward possessed and enjoy'd without any Molestation or Trouble to be given him by France on this Account; with Satisfaction for the Losses he has suftained, of which a Separate Article shall be made, and have the same force as the present Treaty.

Article VIII.

Whereas his Majesty thought it requisite to fortisse Montroyal, and the Castle of Traarback, he is pleas'd to oblige himself to demolish Montroyal, and the New Fortistications of Traarback, leaving the Castle in the same Condition as it was before. Montroyal also being so raz'd, and never to be fortissed again, and the said Castle of Traarback being to be restor'd to the Proprietors to whom they did belong, before they were possessed by the King's Forces; his Majesty will do the same with respect to the Forts of Kirn and Ebernberg.

Answer to Article VIII.

An entire Restitution of all that belongs to the Empire, and consequently of all the Places mentioned in this Article, follows from what has been said upon the Third and ensuing Articles; leaving it, as Justice requires, to the Liberty of the Emperor and Empire, to dispose of what is their own, as they shall think fit, in what Place soover it lies.

Article IX.

Whereas by the Fourth Article of the Treaty of Nimeguen the most Christian King had restord to the Emperor Philipsburgh, with all and such Right which his Majesty had to the said Place, his most Christian Majesty, to set things on the same for with the Galler with the said Treaty of Nimeguen, does promise in restore the said City, with all its Fortifications, at the same Condition as now it is, only destroying the Bridge which his Majesty had caus'd there to be built.

Answer to Article IX.

There is so little need to explain and prove the Great ness of the Damages, which all the Members of the Empire, and especially the Emperor have suffered by no War, the necessity of Redressing them, and the small her mands that have been made on that Account, that the need not fear to refer these things to the Testimon, it Determination of France it felf; provided it would it induc'd to consider, what is so obvious to all the Worlds not with that Exactness and Perspicuity as is requisited but only with half an Eye. Therefore, whereas after the entire D. C. the entire Restitution of Friburgh, founded on the this and enfuing Articles, with the three Villages which the pend thereon, and which, contrary to the Intention of set Peace of Nimeguen, and the Execution thereof. Possessed by France under the Notion of Appurtenance and Dependencies, except the Right of Diocesan, and of ther Right. ther Rights and Revenues reserved to the Bishoprick of Constance by the Fifth and Tenth Articles of the Ires ty of Nimeguen, they may and do accept as part of that Satisfaction due to bis Imperial Majesty, that which is offer'd afresh, and has formerly been possessed by the Empeor and the most Serene House of Austria, viz. Brisac and Philipsburgh, without any prejudice to the Bishoprick of Spires. But upon the account of the manifest Justice of the thing in debate, and to make the ensuing Peace the more lasting, thu Restitution shall be full and intire, with all the Fortifications which belong thereto on both sides the Rhine, and the Bridge, with all the Ammunitions and Provisions, which are therein at present: and Justice likewise requires that a more particular re-Bard should be had to what is contain'd in the Tenth Article of the Demands of the Imperial Ambassadors: excepting always a more particular Account of the Damages and Expences which the States of the Empire have been at; leaving the Decision thereof (for the sake of Equity, and of a good and solid Peace) to the known Rections and Endeavours of bis Excellency the Me d_{tator}

Article X.

The same Treaty of Nimeguen having regulated the Conditions upon which his most Christian Monsieur the Majesty oblig'd himself to re-invest Monsieur the buke of Lorain in his Territories, his Majesty being Willing that the faid Treaty should have its full lorce, does yield that 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, and 22th Articles of the faid Treaty of the fail Treaty of the f Nimeguen, shall have the same Force in the prelent Treaty, as if they were inferted here word for word therein.

Article XI.

His most Christian Majesty having caus'd Sant Laws to be fortified, shall keep that place in the same Condition with a series of the same condition with the same condition Condition as it is, with half a League of Country round about it, as shall be regulated by Commission ers appointed by his Majesty and Mons. the Duke of Lorrain; and the City of Lorrain; and the faid Duke shall surrender to Maiesty the faid Discounter that Maiesty the faid Discounter that the fa Majesty the said Place, and half a League round, to be enjoy'd for the to be enjoy'd for the future by his Majesty, est all Right of Soveraignty and Propriety: in this change, his said Majesty shall recompence the said Duke in such a manner of recompense the said Duke in such a manner as shall be to his Contest and Satisfaction and all the state of the satisfaction and all the state of the satisfaction and all the satisfactions and all the satisfactions and all the satisfactions are satisfactions. and Satisfaction; and that which shall be given lared in Exchange and which shall be given lared in Exchange, and which shall be likewise regulated by the said Committee by the said Commissioners, shall for the suture of possess'd by the said D posses'd by the said Duke, with all the Rights Soveraignty and December 1 Soveraighty and Property.

Answer to Article X. and XI.

As to what concerns the Affairs of Lorain, as comprehended under the protection of the Empire, and a being a Fief thereof upon the Account of several partiality, in the first place what has been said above concerning the Vassals and Clients of the Empire, and partiality with respect to the Unions and Re-unions, as to be apply'd here. In the next place, such things as the Proprieties of other States of the Empire, ought to be mix'd and confounded with the Affairs of Lorrain Much less by virtue of restoring Lorrain, which by manner of Equity becomes due, ought they to detain any other Places, which are alike to be restored to sempire, or to the States dependent thereon. In shorts, is reasonable to have regard to what was formerly produc'd by the Plenipotentiary of Lorain upon thu Subject, as if it were bere inserted word for word.

Article XII.

His faid Majesty shall take out of all the Places which he promises to demolish, or restore to the Imperor, all the Provision and Ammunition, together with all the Artillery, which hall be there at the time of Demolishing or Surrender.

Answer to Article XII.

Instead of this Article is repeated what had been ex-Pres d in the Third, and which is founded on so much the clearer and more indubitable Title, as that the Artillery, the Ammunitions and Provisions which are at Present in the places which are to be surrendered or were there, when they were taken, or carried thicker from other places of the Empire which were ruin'd or ageried; or which were rais'd in the Countries belonging to the Empire, or gain'd by the Money or Industry of its Subjects, together with the Fortifications of such Places, were raw'd, augmented or alter'd after the same manher do belong of Right to the Empire without all di-Pute. Not to lay, that they may be look'd upon as a mall Recompence of the Losses which is has suffer'd.

Article XIII.

The Elector Palatine shall be resettled in the Possession of the Palatinate, as his Predecessors have Dividic fince the Peace of West phalia: and the Dutches of Orleans her Majesty's Sister-in-Law, shall be put into possession of all the Rights, Territories, tories. tories, and Effects, which belong'd to her as Heir ress of the late Electors Palatine her Father and Brother, according to the Laws and Constitutions of the Empire of the Empire.

Answer to Article XIII.
