A Pig that had a Chance. A STORY FOR THE WEE ONES.

Most pigs never have any chance to be spectable. They are fed on the coarsest food and shut up in a dirty pen, where they have no freedom, no society, and not even pure air and a clean bed. If a little boy should be shut in a pig-pen and fed upon slops, and should have nobody to teach him or talk to him or play with him, he would grow up coarse and brutal if he lived to grow up at all. I once knew a pig who had a good time the first balf year of his life. and as it is a true story I will tell you all about

When he was about a month old he was very plump and pretty, with white bristles over pink skin, and the farmer who owned him took a facey to him and resolved to give him a chance to improve. So he took him from his Novum Testamentum Grace, 1 2 bd. dirty little brothers and sisters, and gave him Pearson on the Creed, a nice little shed all to himself; in the shed was Neander's Commentary, a soft bed of clean straw, and the door was left Baird's Religion in America, open. It was only the pig's bedroom where be slept at night and in wet'weather. In pleasant days he ran about the yard and over the green in front of the house, and he would have gone into the house if a friend of his had not taught him better. This friend was Mattie, the farmer's little daughter. She had entire charge of pig, and fed him three times a day with sweet brown bread and milk, and often ran and played with him as if he had been a dog. He was fond of Mattie, and when she sat down in the doorway he would come and lay his head in her lap. It was a clean head, for his bed was clean and his food was clean, and he was very often washed: I have seen many boys and girls in Springfield who were dirtier than this little fault, but that was a sad one, and made his Mornings in Patmos, Anna Clayton, friend Mattie a great deal of trouble. He insisted on following her wherever she went, except when she went in the house. If she picked Mick Tracy, violets or strawberries he was always with her. The Forest Boy, and she never could visit her little playmates. The Pioneer Boy, with his "tegging," as children call it, One day Calldren of Lake HuronSix Years in India, she set out when he was asleep, and ran down Merchant Enterprize, Christian Statesmen, the road out of sight round a turn. Very Havelock, soon she heard piggy trotting after, so she Mother's Request, climbed a wall and hid herself behind it, waiting Milton's Life and Times, Life of Hawking, till be should go by. But she could not deceive him in that way. When he came near where him in that way. When he came near where Medical Common Sense, in the Prevention and Little Gold Keys. Fisher Boy, began to smell in the bushes, and soon after there was a great clatter among the stones, and the head of the pig came over the wail where the child was hiding. He was delighted to find her, and she could not make him understand that he was troublesome. So at last this bad habit was the cause of his death. He grew larger and heavier than herself, and often knocked her down in his clumsy gambols. without in the least meaning it; she was obliged to complein to her father, and the pet pig went were all other pigs go. He died and was buried in the pork-barrel .- Springfield Republican.

Little Jenny's Sunday Dress.

I have known other little girl besides Emily Stuart to fret and complain a great deal because a new hat did not come home on Saturday night, to be worn to Sunday-school. Emily pouted, and did not wish to go with her old has on, she said, when all the girls had on new ones. But her mother was too kind and wise to let her have her own way in the matter. So she went to Sunday-school in a very uppleasant frame of mind. God looked at her heart far more than at her dress. If that is pleasing it his sight, it is of little consequence about the outside tress, so it is clean and decent.

I think the example of little Jenny in ou Sunday-school, is quite a rebuke to those chil dren who are always fretting, because their good clothes are not nice enough. Jenny loved the Sunday-school very much; but her father was poor, and could not dress all his family suitably tor church, so Jenny was often obliged to stay at home. At last her grandmother sent her from Ireland a new calico dress by some one it reached her, she had grown so much, the Bleahurn, A good Fight, well as she could, and thus made up the skirt. not very skulfully, of two kinds of calico. But Annals of American Pulpit, Kurtz History, Jenny was pleased with her new dress, and Missions in Tongs and Fiji, Canadian Metho wore it faithfully to Sunday-school, until, a frierd gave her another.

Now. I do not think one of you love the Charlotte Eigabeth's Recollections, The Oasis, Sunday-school as well as that. Neat, tasteful Shepherd King, Richard Cobden, clothing, suitable to our station, is right and Schoolmaster and Son, Ancient Egypt, proper; but when our hearts are set upon it, fhe Climbers, Judah's Lion, then it becomes sin to us.

THE GREAT WANT SUPPLIED. It is a well known fact that Physicians have long sought to discover a vegetable purgative as a substitute for Calomel, and that would cleanse the Alimentary Canal of all diseased and retained humors, as thoroughly as Lobelia will the stomach, without producing sickness at stomach, weak-ss, or irritation of the mucous membrane. In Dr. Radway's Pills, this very important and essential principle is secured. A dose of two to six (according to the condition of the system) of Dr. Radway's Pills will produce all the positive alterative change-from a sluggish or torpid, to a healthy action of the Liver-as the phyician hopes to obtain by a dose of Blue Pills, or Calomel; and will as thoroughly cleanse the Stomach, and purge from the bowels the diseased and retained humors

Chapman, aged thirty-four, was seized on the night of the 22nd of October with inflammation of the bowels; was called at 10 r.m.; he had then been suffering over three hours; had not a passage for six days; I gave him six of your Pills, and griplied the Kandy Relief to the abdomen; in a few mugates the pain ceased, he fell into a calm sleep; at 4. In all cases of inflammation of the bowels, I succeed in removing all danger by a single dose of from six to eight in six hours.
