Trade Figures

In view of the Imperial Reciprocity talk at the Chamberlain Banquet last night, and of the discussion on the Reciprocity Bill now under consideration in the legislatures at Ottawa and Washington a few figures about the trade between Canada and the United Kingdom and Canada and the United States may be illuminating. For the past fourteen years Canada has been giving a preferential tariff to Great Britain, while the latter has been admitting Canadian goods mostly freely. During that time the total trade between these countries has increased from $105,000,000 to $247,000,000. In 1897 Canada sold to the United Kingdom $85,000,000 of her produce, last year she sold $132,000,000, an increase of $47,000,000. Her purchases from the homeland were $29,000,000 in 1897 and $109,000,000 last year, showing an increase of $80,000,000. During the same period her trade with the States has gone up from $11,000,000 to $104,000,000. In the case of the trade with the United Kingdom she sells far more than she purchases, but in the case of the States the opposite is the case and the discrepancy is increasing year by year. In 1897 she spent $81,000,000 on the States and sold there $44,000,000 of her produce. Last year she spent $253,000,000 and sold American by $194,000,000 of what she raised.

Investiture of the Prince of Wales.

To-day the King's eldest son will be formally invested as Prince of Wales at Carnarvon Castle. Some time ago the honour, which is always conferred on the King's eldest son, was conferred on him by His Majesty the King, but a formal investiture is a new feature of the honour. Directly after the ceremony an address is to be presented in Welsh and English on behalf of the people of Wales. It is expected that one of the Welsh members of the House of Commons, supported by his colleagues, will read it. Premier Asquith and Mr. Balfour are among the guests. The two Standards, representing the Welsh Dragon and the White Wolfhound, will be carried by Sir Herbert Winton Williams-Wynn and Sir Martine Lloyd, respectively.

GOING NORTH FOR FISH. - The schr. Western Queen, belonging to Mr. M. T. Flynn, of Mortier Bay, arrived here yesterday on her way to the French Shore fishing. Mr. Flynn will accompany the skipper north in her. She carries a crew of nine men and two traps. The fish is so scarce about Burin that the fishery was given up as hopeless.

Western Fishery Poor.

From Mr. M. T. Flynn, of Mortier Bay, who arrived here yesterday in his schooner Western Queen, we learn that the fishery about Burin is a blank especially with traps. There are 200 traps from Lunenburg in use, but have not 50 qts. amongst them. No caplin. At St. Mary's, Peter's River and Holyrood it is much better and traps average about 100 qts. At Trepassy there is not a trap out yet. At Cape Pine and Cape St. Mary's fair work has been done to date on traps. Renewers, Fermouse, Ferryland and Aquaforte, very little with traps, fair on trawls and jiggers. The dogfish are destroying half the fish that get caught on the trawls.

Sad Drowning Accident

The Lunenburg banker Doris V. Myra, Capt. Clarence Myra, arrived here this morning from the Grand Banks with her flag at half mast. She was a week fishing on the Banks with caplin bait and secured 25 qts. fish, having now to her credit 700 qts. for 7 dories. Monday, the 10th inst., a sad accident occurred which cost a groom on the crew of the banker. On that day Obadiah Schrader, of West Dublin, Lunenburg County, N.S., went out to haul the trawls with Chas. Bell, and was gone from the vessel about 25 hours when a heavy N.E. wind sprung up, causing a nasty sea. The men had the dory filled up to the "trials" when a sea hit her and capsized her. The men were thrown into the water but Schrader managed to get hold of the plug straps and clambering on to the bottom of the boat was soon joined by his comrade, Bell. Both men were repeatedly swept off the bottom of the boat but managed to climb up again. Schrader all the while holding on to the strap. Being a heavy man he eventually became exhausted by so many immersions and sank a constant struggle against death and relaxed his hold on the line which he held and was swept from the dory and drowned. The accident was seen by Capt. Myra from the vessel and a dory was sent to the assistance of the men, but too late to save Schrader. Bell was over half an hour clinging to the dory and was immersed most of the time. He was almost gone when picked up by Math. Aker and had to be given every attention on board ship. The body of the drowned man was found floating near the scene of the accident, air having got into the oil clothing and sunk the body above water. It was brought on board, preserved in salt, and on arrival here to-day Undertaker J. T. Martin took charge of it and brought it to his mortuary rooms where it was confined and will be sent home for interment. The deceased leaves a wife and 4 children in Dublin West, who were advised of the sad accident by wire to-day. Schrader was a man whose sterling qualities of heart endeared him to all his shipmates.

A Present for Capt. Delaney.

Capt. P. Delaney who took Lord Brassey around the coast in the R. N. Co's yacht last year, received from him lately a presentation copy of his book "The Saga of the Sunbeam," written by himself. He has recently been honoured with the title of Earl Brassey. The book is nicely illustrated and contains Capt. Delaney's photo on the bridge.

The Florizel Here.

The s.s. Florizel, Capt. Smith, arrived here at 1 p.m. to-day. She left New York Saturday afternoon and arrived at Halifax Monday. She left there Tuesday at 3 p.m. and had thick fog all the way down with vivid lightning all last night. On the way from New York to Halifax she had fine weather but some fog. She brought a half cargo and 62 saloon passengers, mostly round travellers, and 20 in steerage. She brought a small mail.

Died of Her Injuries.

The fire that destroyed the house of Mr. Farrell, at Marystown, a few days ago will now likely be responsible for two deaths in the family. The eldest girl who risked her life by going back into the flames to warn her mother, died of her injuries two days afterwards having suffered excruciating pains. The second eldest sister who was also badly burned, is expected to recover from her injuries.

Police Court.

There was a clean docket in court Tuesday, Wednesday and to-day. A chaffeur, a taxicab, summoned by Const. Whalen for driving over the speed limit was dismissed, the case not being proven. A woman summoned her husband for assaulting her. He had to give his securities in $50 to keep the peace towards her in future.

Believes He's at Grand Falls.

Mrs. Woods, boarding mistress, with whom Mat Tierney was staying at Water St. West, believes that he went to Grand Falls. He drew his week's wages from the Glove Laundry the morning that he disappeared and it is believed that he went out by the accommodated train. Though he left his clothes behind at the boarding house, Mrs. Woods is not alarmed over this suspicious circumstance, as he would be able to get along for a couple of weeks with the clothes he had on. She expects that he will send for the rest soon.

Here and There.

AT THE DOCK. - The s.s. Eagle, ss. Fife and two schooners are away on the R. N. Co. dock being repaired and painted.

SOME FINE PHOTOS. - Mr. Wm. Parsons, now in London, sent here by the last English mail a number of excellent photos of the Newfoundland exhibits at the Festival of Empire in the Crystal Palace, London. They are artistically done and show the excellence of our display.

HADDOCK VERY PLentiful. - Wm. Holwell, of the South Side, had 40 qts. of fish in his trap yesterday, three-fourths of which were haddock, a fish which generally grades as West India. Silas Lewis, of the Battery, landed his boat this morning, most of which was haddock. These fish strike the shore in shoals sometimes at this season of the year.

The schr. Grise, Capt. Loughlan, is here from Flat Island, P. E. He has an outfit for the fishery including two traps, and goes north.

The schr. Pioneer, Capt. J. Drake, arrived here last evening from Odebin on the way north in search of fish.

He Apologised.
The editor of an "out West" paper was sarcastic, if not original, and when Major Dido was to be appointed mayor, he made the following remark in the "Chester Times":

"We can sit on our good authority that Major Dido will wash himself before he takes over the duties of mayor."

Of course, the mayor was furious, saw the editor, who retracted and promised to apologise in his paper. And so he did, as follows:

"At the request of the mayor himself, we wish to withdraw our previous announcement, and state that, after all, Major Dido will not wash himself before taking up his new appointment."

MARRIED.
On Wednesday, 12th July, 1911, at St. Thomas' Church, by the Rev. G. R. Godden, M.A., Rector of St. Thomas' Parish, Rev. Ernest L. Birchby to Constance Donahoe, eldest daughter of Chas. S. Pinnent, Esq.

DIED.
Passed peacefully away on Wednesday night, Lewislyn Dudley, darling little child of Mrs. Snow's aged 5 months. "Safe in the arms of Jesus."

Cadets Defeat Guards.

The match between the Cadets and Methodist Guards brought an interesting and large gathering of spectators to St. George's Field, Tuesday evening. The weather was fine, cool and almost calm. Winning the toss the Guards played the eastern goal in the first half. When the ball was kicked off the Guards took a run west but the ball was sent back by the Cadet backs, when Caul took a run along the right wing and the Cadets scored a fruitless corner. The Guards, once more got up field and Squires had a try for goal, when the Cadets returned the compliment and Kent passing to Barney Hart who took a nice shot from the wing but the ball went wide. Shortly after W. Hart sent along a nice one for Cadets, followed by another from Rawlins, but both failed to find the twine, and still another sent by Rawlins went over the goal posts. The Guards now put some ginger into their work; Ayre got the leather west and made a fine shot which, however, Walsh, the goal tender, handed out in good style. The boys in blue and red now pressed the Guards goal—hands, a foul and off sides were recorded against them, but still they kept the ball in the Guards territory when Caul got a run on the ball, passed it across to Rogers, in the goal mouth, and Rawlins safely breast it into the twine, scoring the first goal for C. C. C. For several minutes after the kick off the Guards goal was again in jeopardy, several corners were conceded Cadets, the last one of which was placed right opposite the goal by Rogers, there was a short, sharp scuffle when Kelt hit in No. 2 for the Cadets amidst great applause, and soon after half time was announced, the teams crossing: C. C. C., 2 goals; Guards, nil.

HALF TIME.
In this half the Cadets had by far the best of the game, though the Guards made several dangerous rushes and on a couple of occasions Walsh in goal barely saved difficult shots sent him. Rogers, Caul, Kent, Rawlins and the Hart brothers worked like trojans for the Cadets, and Peet, Ayre and Barrett for the Guards. Conliss who was unavoidably absent from the match, was missed by the Guards. Shortly after the half opened a "penalty" was given against the Guards for Peet fouling Rogers inside the penalty line. It was kicked by Walsh, but the goal keeper, Thistle, saved splendidly by driving the ball out, and was accorded well deserved praise for the balanced play of the game the Cadets were almost continuously bombarding the Guards goal, but no further scoring occurred and the game finished: C. C. C., 2 goals; M. B. G., nil. Mr. W. J. Higgins referee.

POLICE MEDAL WON.—Constable O'Sullivan won his police medal in the shooting contest yesterday. He has taken first place in all the contests he figured in for four consecutive years.

A BIG TRAFFIC.—The Reid Nhd. Co. carried 1,500 passengers on their train yesterday. There was not a single serious accident. There were 15 cars attached to two engines coming in last night.

A FALSE REPORT.—Yesterday the report got about that a fireman on the railway had been killed by the explosion of a boiler. The report, we are glad to say, was one of those senseless canards which are started occasionally by whom and in which there is not a word of truth.

Nerves Are Exhausted

And nervous prostration or paralysis is creeping steadily upon you. You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some form of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months or years of warning. They haven't slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headache. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing. Had they but known that these symptoms tell of exhausted nerves or had they realized their danger they would have restored the feeble, wasted nerves by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great restorative treatment cures by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove of lasting benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all druggists or Eimmason, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden. Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that and not in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles it can be obtained at

Laurier at Home.

Special to Evening Telegram. OTTAWA, To-Day. Premier Laurier returned to the capital last evening. In replying to the addresses he did not discuss the Imperial Conference or Canadian politics, but urged his fellow-citizens at Ottawa to make the Capital presentable for the coming of the Duke of Connaught. "The Royal Family," said Sir Wilfred, "is our greatest asset as a people. It is the British Crown which unites the self-governing nations, scattered all over the world in one common Empire." The Mayor of Ottawa declined to present a civic address of welcome to Sir Wilfred Laurier on the ground that the taking of such an official action, he would also have to welcome officially Mr. Borden, the Opposition leader.

Pretty Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. John's Church, Newton, Lower Falls, June 28th, the contracting parties being Mr. P. T. Coleman and Miss B. Ryan, both of Newfoundland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Callahan at Nuptial Mass. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss M. A. Ryan, while Mr. R. Fowler acted as groomsmen. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was partaken of at the bride's friends, Lower Falls, after which the happy couple left for their future home at Balmurst, Canada.

Jewels at the Durbar.
Precious Stones of Huge Value Lie Concealed in Indian Treasures.

$400,000 For One Diamond—Indian Princes, Bedecked in Gems of Magnificent Splendor, Will Attend Great Function.

By a Traveller in the London Telegraph.)

The official keepers and protectors are already taking thought for the necessary transport of the Crown jewels from London to Delhi. If the great Durbar of 1911 is destined to go down to history for no other reason, it will probably survive in the world's memory because of the surprising splendor of the jewels that will be there gathered together at Delhi. The mere idea that, after long and troublous wanderings, the Koh-i-nur will once more preside over the Durbar of an Emperor of India is enough to stir the blood by a pulsation of two that strange, ill-fated stone will remain paramount and unrivalled at Delhi, except in mere point of size, compared as a jewel with either of the Stars of Africa, the Koh-i-nur is, of course, but a splendid pebble. But these huge crystals are but newcomers in the galaxy of famous stones. There have still their spurs. If the phrase may be used, the terrible claims of the Koh-i-nur has already a long past—and such a past! But apart from the distinction lent by these imperial gems, the jewels of the Indian princes who will be present at the Durbar would of themselves form an attraction that could be equalled nowhere else either in the world to-day or in history. It is difficult and invidious to make comparisons between them, but a suggestion of the huge wealth that lies concealed in Indian treasures in the form of jewels may be of some interest. The Nizam of Hyderabad, as befits the senior prince of India, owns the largest diamond. This, the "Nizam," is of 277 carats, and is the larger half of a much greater stone. It is either uncut or merely "fatted," and, therefore, would hardly be noticed among cut stones of half its size. The Nizam also owns another diamond, the "Victoria," of 180 carats, which, it is said, probably falsely, he bought some years ago for the enormous price of £400,000.

The Gaekwar of Baroda has three famous stones in his possession, the "Star of the South," the "Akbar Shah," and the "Eugenie." The first weighs 125 carats, and is a Brazilian crystal of the first water. In the rough it weighed 254. His highness is said to have given £80,000 for it when cut. The second (sometimes called the "Jehangir") is of about 74 carats. Somewhat unwisely it was recut as a brilliant. The last is a singularly fine stone of 51 carats, which, as its name implies, was once in the possession of the ex-Empress of the French.

The Maharaja of Patiala, perhaps still owns the famous Sancy diamond. This stone has had a chequered career. From Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, Emmanuel King of Portugal, and Nicholas de Marlay, Sieur de Sancy (who gave it its name), it seems to have passed through the hands, at one time or another, of our King James II.—who fled with it into the Crown Jewels in 1688—of Louis XIV., of Louis XV., of Napoleon, of Napoleon's brother, Joseph King of Spain, Prince Domicoff, and of the Maharaja of Patiala. It weighs a trifle over 53 carats. Another stone that has found its way back to India in recent years is the "Agra Diamond." Readers may remember that some twelve years ago it formed the subject of a curious law suit in London. It is of an exquisite form and rare color, and, at a guess, is about 35 carats in weight.

Other Jewels of India.

In India the habit of wearing stones, as a rule, only a small part of are as often actually smaller than others, of the heirlooms in Indian places. Most of those I have mentioned have been re-acquired by India, because of their world-wide reputation. Yet somewhere in the treasury of a native chieftain, handed up uncut and loose, with imitation pearls, or set in cheap gilt mounts or even sewn, unpolished and uncut upon some discarded robe of State more splendid diamonds than these probably still exist. At the 1907 Durbar the Maharaja of Patiala wore the famous £90,000 necklace that Jang Bahadur, Regent and Marshal of Nepal, took from the terrified fugitive Nana Sahib. The pearls of Gwalior are famous, but it is seldom that the extremely modern taste of Scindia cares to put them on, and in consequence they cannot fall, sooner or later, to lose their condition. Besides a necklace of twelve or thirteen rows of perfectly matched pearls as large as filberts, the Prince of Gwalior wears on State occasions a curious sash of crimson velvet depending from his left shoulder to his right knee, the material of which is almost hidden by pearls in the shape of pearls of the Maharaja of Travancore. His dominions about the Ceylon pearl-fisheries for one thing, and, for another, he claims the throne by female descent. These two advantages have endowed the Maharaja with a parure of pearls with which the finest of European sets, though no doubt in more beautiful condition, cannot for a moment be compared. I remember, too, seeing at Delhi a sword hilt cut from a single emerald. It was hardly conspicuous.

Perhaps the visitors to the Durbar will make no unworthy addition to this exhibition of bright stones. The Maharaja of Nepal, whose emeralds started London three years ago, will be there. There, too, will be some of the finest English gems in private hands. If a certain Duchess attends the ceremony she will have the curious sensation that another great diamond, the "Nasik," which once formed part of the same collection as that to which the "Naulakha" belonged, has temporarily gone back to its old home, and is once more adorning the same durbar, with its old companion, the necklace of the butcher Nana. Another very famous Indian diamond may perhaps revisit Delhi from the banks of the Thames. Moreover, a certain English Peeress would cause some interest if she were present and wore the famous polished, but uncut, ruby that bears the names of Akbar and his Imperial successors. There are several of these huge rubies, one being in the possession of His Majesty, and two or three are known to be in the Dholpur treasury; but his lady's is probably the largest and finest in existence. It is perhaps an inch and a quarter in length and half an inch in width and depth.

The Koh-i-Nur.

But this reference to royal jewels brings me abruptly to the greatest diamonds of all. As I have said, the first place is at right due to the Koh-i-Nur. The history of the stone since it has been definitely identified is familiar enough. We all know that it was the chief jewel of the Mogul Emperors, and how, in later years, our Prince obtained it from his brother's sugarcane, and how the official deputed to bring it to England after the Sikh wars accidentally sent it to the wash with his waistcoat. Nor do we forget that the size of the stone was severely reduced (from 186 carats to 106) by the re-cutting ordered by the Prince Consort; and the occasional exhibition of the gem at the opening of Parliament or other ceremonial occasions has made the English people familiarly well acquainted with the most famous diamond in the world. But a tale of mystery, which has not even yet been dispensed, hangs about the long time hung round certain periods of its history. Turnover, a French jeweller of observation and capacity, reported that in the seventeenth century he had seen in India a huge diamond belonging to the Emperor of Westminister. The stone weighed, he was said, 787 1/2 carats in weight, and he estimated its value at the quaint sum of £879,245 19s. 1 1/2d. It was either uncut or merely "fatted" on one side—he compares it somewhere to an egg cut in half. One Horstense Borgia, a dishonest or unskilful Italian diamond cutter, was then called in, and recut it to 268 (or 280) carats. He nearly lost his head when the Emperor saw what had been done to his favorite gem. It is possible that there was some cause for his anger. It is considered by many experts that the Orloff diamond, said by some to have been the eye of an idol at Srirangam, of the Russian regalia (193 carats in weight and cut, as the Koh-i-Nur originally was, in what may be called a decenter-stopper pattern), and a large fragment of 132 carats—recovered by Abbas Mirza on the taking of Kucan, an old capital of Khurasan, in Persia—may have been cut from the remains of the Mogul diamond. However this may be, the Koh-i-Nur, which Ranjit Singh used sometimes to wear in the socket of his blind eye, continued to represent the original gem, and remains to this day the symbol of imperial authority.

Other Great Jewels.

But though, historically, the return of the Koh-i-Nur to India will, in native eyes, set the final seal upon the great ceremony at Delhi, some of the other gems that will accompany it will not fail to produce their effect upon a people that is more accustomed to symbolism than ourselves. The great Aquamarine ruby—won and worn in England long before the Moguls introduced splendor of life into the imperial palaces that they built so lavishly—will be watched with keen interest by Rajput eyes as it glows from the central cross of the English crown. The sapphire that was bequeathed back to the regalia by the Stuart Cardinal of York may touch their imagination, too, but the pale sapphire in the topmost cross above the orb is a glittering testimony to the perpetuity of a throne than anything they have ever known in India. For it came from the Confessor's tomb in Westminster Abbey, and has a 100-year-old record behind it.

But when all is said, it is to the new unhistorical Stars of Africa that the triumph of the Durbar will belong. In a way they will bring home to the native of India the majesty of the occasion better than proclamations, or QUEEN CLUB, Eng., July 11.

With England and the United States tied at four victories each, Baker, of King's College, Cambridge, turned the scale for the Home Team by winning the one mile race. The run was the most exciting international university field contest yet witnessed. The staying power of the Englishmen at long running was decisive to-day. The only running event captured by the Americans was the half mile, won by Preble, of Harvard. Baker won by the deciding event by 5 yards. Amid great enthusiasm the crowd swarmed on the field. The hand played "God Save the King," and Baker was carried away on the shoulders of his comrades.

N. T. A.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Rule 3, Article XII. of the Constitution of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association reads:—"Notice of a general meeting, specifying the place, the day, and the hour of meeting, and the business to be transacted at such meeting, shall be posted to all members of the Association at least six weeks beforehand."

It is a fact that all of the members of the N. T. A. did not receive notice of the last general meeting recently held in St. John's. Why some were overlooked is not quite clear. I think the Secretary should take care that not one be lost sight of on such an occasion. There is no excuse for such an omission seeing that by Rule 4, Article X, a register is to be kept of the members, with their respective last known places of abode.

Wishing the newly elected officers, the Executive Committee and the Association a full measure of success in the coming year, and trusting the Secretary will be courteous enough to extend to all an invitation to the next Convention.

Yours, etc.,
A MEMBER.

Savage Sense of Humor

There are whole people who cannot laugh. When some of the Veddas of Ceylon were asked why none of their people ever laugh they solemnly replied that they never see anything to laugh at. On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humor than their civilized brethren. Dr. Livingstone tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter" and spoiled their clothes. If they had but known what clothes would cost them!—London Chronicle.

A Valuable Find.

From passengers who arrived here by yesterday's train we learn that a man named Gooby, of Northern Bight made a valuable find in a thick wood some miles from that place last week. It was no less than the discovery of the lair of a black fox where there was a brood of young of the same species. In a very ingenious way he caught the old fox and his litter of young alive. He has them now all in his possession and will scoop a rich harvest from them, as the pelts of these foxes are very valuable. He is seriously considering the advisability of starting a fox farm with these and rearing only this particular species.
