BEAVER FLOUR

COSTS LESS - IS BETTER - AND GOES FURTHER THAN ANY WESTERN WHEAT FLOUR

"BEAVER" FLOUR makes a real home-made loaf of bread, close grained, beautifully white and tempting, with the delicious old-time flavor that "mother's brand" always had.

"Beaver" Flour makes Pies and Pastry that far excel anything made of western wheat flour, and with less shortening. And do you know why? Western wheat flours are strong and absorb much water, but they lack flavor. Ontario fall wheat has the nutty flavor, and pastry-making qualities, but lacks strength. "Beaver" Flour contains the choicest Ontario wheat with a little Manitoba wheat to increase the strength.

The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the Agricultural Colleges—and thousands of homes through Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any western wheat flour and is equally good for Bread and Pastry. Try it. DEALERS—Write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals.

WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Lady Eastwell's denunciation of Guy Stuart and Shirley Glynn was bitter, and vindictive to a degree which was terrible to contemplate. Even Major Stuart's guilt could not have justified it. She never spoke of the matter without a calm cold bitterness which startled her husband and caused her friends to say among themselves that her ladyship would make a bitter enemy. It was solely by her means that the reports of Guy's reason for hating Sir Hugh Glynn got abroad and were circulated far and wide, the threats he had uttered long before being repeated to one and all; and it was in vain that Oswald Fairholme, terribly distressed, not only on poor Shirley's account, but because of the effect these rumors had in influencing public and private opinion against Guy, remonstrated earnestly and seriously with his sister and entreated her to desist and let her enmity rest now in this time of terrible distress. Alice listened to the remonstrances in silent silence, and answered the entreates by an hysterical attack which entirely routed her brother, who was glad to escape and leave her to the ministrations of her long-suffering maid.

Oswald had come down immediately on hearing of Guy's arrest, leaving Ruby at Fairholme Court, where his little daughter had been born; and although he had made every effort for Guy's behalf, he had found it quite impossible to get bail accepted. Already Lady Eastwell's insinuations, and so much weight, and Guy had spent all the long summer days in prison, shut out from the warmth and beauty and sunshine.

That he had borne his captivity bravely and patiently Oswald knew; and he had won the esteem and regard of the officials, from the governor himself down to the humblest warder. He was sanguine and cheerful as to the results of the trial; but the close imprisonment was telling on his health, and he was looking worn and haggard and ill.

It was well known that the ablest lawyers had been retained for the defense, that the great Q. C., Edward Montagu, had arrived by the night-mail; and Major Stuart's friend and solicitor, Mr. Harcourt, of the London firm of Harcourt & Clarendon of Lincoln's Inn, had little doubt as to the result of the trial. Still, confidently as he spoke, there was a great anxiety in his eyes, which belied the calm professional smile upon his lips as he entered the crowded courtroom and glanced over the sea of living faces.

The court-house had been full many a time before, but never had it contained such a number of distinguished visitors. The entire gallery was thronged with ladies in rich somber mourning attire, silk and velvet. Lord and Lady Eastwell and a few distinguished guests occupied seats near the bench, while Oswald from his seat near Mr. Harcourt glanced up once or twice anxiously to a slight dark-robed figure which sat in as retired a part as was consistent with a good view of the judge and prisoner; and beside the sable-clad figure were Lucie Grey and her father, Shirley's slim deathly color had been held in Lucie's tender clasp.

Lucie and Mr. Grey had come to Exminster on the previous day with Shirley, who had spent the intervening weeks at the Vicarage, and they were staying at the cottage of one of the Vicarage servants who had married and settled at Exminster. Her house would be quieter and more private for Shirley than an hotel, Mr. Grey had decided; and Ada had accompanied her sister. Shirley was stronger now, but she was still very delicate, and it was doubtful whether she would ever regain her former health. For three weeks she had lain between life and death in the spare room at the Vicarage, and it was thought only her youth and naturally good constitution and the tender devoted nursing which had won her back to life and suffering; for, although she struggled bravely against her sorrow and forced a smile to her lips, she suffered a lifetime of agony during those weeks which intervened between Guy's arrest and the trial. It seemed to her cruel beyond all words that Guy, who had forgiven so nobly and pleaded with her so earnestly in behalf of the husband she had despised and hated, should be accused of so base and terrible a crime; and the thought that she should have to bear witness against the man she loved, accused of the murder of her husband, seemed to stupefy her and numb every thought and feeling into one ceaseless pain.

She had entered the court early—for Mrs. Grey had been anxious to save Shirley as much as possible from the curious glances and observations of the crowd—and few guessed that the closely veiled woman sitting so quietly was the widow of the dead man about whom so much had been said and thought and hinted during the long summer days.

The yhad entered the court early—the judge and sheriffs in their; and there was a momentary pause ere the prisoner was brought in. Mr. Montagu, the clever ugly face impassive as usual under his wig, glanced round the court with his gold-rimmed eye-glasses, let his eyes linger for the sixtieth part of a minute on Lady Eastwell's handsome eager face, looked away across the court again, said something with a little smile to the junior beside him, and then sat calmly as the accused was brought into court, tall and stately and grave, with the proud earnest look in the deep gray eyes which Shirley had known and loved so well.

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why.

Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Works fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanon, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

He was looking somewhat worn and pale, but there was no other trace of emotion about him as he bowed courteously and took his place; and the noble face, so true and earnest, made public opinion veer round in his favor. Surely such a man could not be a murderer! If he had caused Sir Hugh's death, it had been done in fair fight. He was no coward, no traitor.

Watching him intently and curiously, with eyes that saw his every movement, the eager audience noticed that, after one swift searching glance around, he sat, with downcast eyes and folded arms, grave, attentive, and proud, with no bravado or indifference, but equally without fear or nervousness, waiting.

The indictment was read. Ah, how every word pierced Shirley's heart! She had lifted her veil now, and sat with her eyes fixed upon Guy, whose profile she could partly distinguish; but, when Guy's grave, deep, musical voice answered steadily, "Not Guilty" she dropped her veil and sank back, shrinking as if all eyes were upon her.

Then the lawyer for the prosecution commenced his speech, and Shirley heard, with a faint sickening feeling of horror and anguish, the whole story of her marriage laid before the public in polished eloquent words. They were told how Miss Ross had been betrothed to the prisoner at the bar; how the deceased had loved her with an overwhelming passion which had let no obstacle hinder its course; how he had either induced her to consent to or deceived her into a Scotch irregular marriage, which was from various circumstances concealed until the very day when she was to become the wife of the prisoner. The lawyer drew a vivid and impressive picture of the trembling bride, the irate bridegroom, the husband claiming his rights and insisting on the possession of the wife which the Scotch marriage laws had given him. He described the furious resentment—natural, even just resentment—of the man who had been betrayed—how he had sworn vengeance against the man who had stolen from him the woman he loved, a woman whose beauty had dazzled an honorable man to a degree which prevented him distinguishing right from wrong. The act of the deceased with regard to his marriage with Miss Ross was not one that would bear palliation or excuse; it was one which he had surely repented when in the possession of his saner judgment, one which, perhaps he would have undone had it been possible.

The Estimates.

Yesterday the Minister of Finance and Customs, the Hon. M. P. Cashin, moved the House into Committee on Supply, and after doing so made a statement on the Estimates of Expenditure for the fiscal year July 1st, 1914, to June 30th, 1915. The estimated expenditure for that year is roundly $106,000 over that of the year ending June 30th next, the two estimates being:—

1913-14 $3,736,034.41
1914-15 3,842,091.85

NEW RAILWAY LOAN.

Yesterday the Minister definitely announced what the Prime Minister impliedly admitted on Wednesday in his reply to Mr. Lloyd, who pointed out last week that there was not a red cent to go on with railway work and that under the contract the Government was obliged to continue building this year. Mr. Cashin's announcement took the following form: "I might add that we have yet to introduce resolutions to provide for a sum to meet the interest on an additional loan to complete the branch railways. We are waiting for the Government Engineer to furnish an estimate of the exact amount that will be required and at a later date will submit our proposals in the usual form."

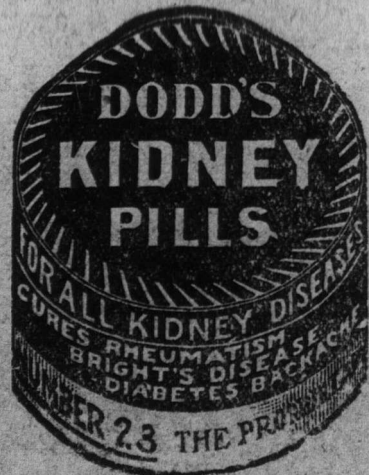

In view of this need to venture into the money market, it is gratifying to learn that the money market has been becoming easier since the beginning of the year and that yesterday the Bank of England discount rate fell to 3 per cent.

GOVERNOR'S SALARY AND ALLOWANCE.

The Governor as his predecessors the salary of the Governor from $10,000 to $12,500, and to increase the entertainment and travelling allowance from $1,000 to $2,500.

The Governor as his predecessor have done has made a strong representation in the matter and shows that he cannot live on his salary and allowance and keep up Government House as is expected. The cost of living has gone up and the salary is $2,500 less than it was 20 years ago, when money went much further.

To-day we publish a letter from Mr. E. M. Jackman on the salaries of the Ministers. He takes the position of Minister of Finance and Customs and shows that the office fifty years ago was worth roundly twice as much as to-day. This remark applies to other like offices. We believe with Mr. Jackman that the Civil Service is overmanned and underpaid. We ought to insist on hard work and efficiency and pay adequately from the top to the bottom. Cut out all sops, patronage, timber grants and other concessions to Ministers, members of the legislature, civil servants, and pay them good salaries and insist on adequate returns and it will come cheaper in the end to the country.

OTHER INCREASES.

Deputy Minister of Justice	$1,800 to $2,000
Miss Kelly	350 to 400
Mr. Hutchings (Marine & Fisheries)	$200 increase
Mr. Pearce	1,000 to 1,100
Mr. Churchill	600 to 750
Capt. Bonia	1,000 to 1,200
Mr. Murphy, Road Inspector	700 to 800
Mr. Parsons, Road Inspector	700 to 800
Miss Power	200 to 300
Auditor General Messenger	240 to 350
Mr. Brien	500 to 700
Wm. Cochrane	312 to 374.40

AGRICULTURAL VOTE CUT DOWN TO HALF.

The vote for the encouragement of Agriculture is reduced from $40,000 to $20,000. The explanation of the Minister of Finance is as follows:—"We feel that the improved stock seeds, etc., brought in during the past few years are sufficient for the immediate requirements and it is proposed now to give this additional material an opportunity to manifest itself in improving the agricultural position."

The votes of $2,500 for sparsely settled localities, $10,000 for augmentation and $1,500 for additional inspection, voted last year in Supplemental Supply, have now been transferred to the regular estimates. Inspectors and their assistants are to be voted $200 each for travelling expenses.

At the House.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Halford from Cat Harbour, Joe Batt's Arm and Seldom Come Bay on various public matters; by Mr. Stone for elective road boards, and New Perlican for a road; by Mr. Targett, from New Chelsea for a slip; and by Mr. Grimes, from Cupids, for a public wharf and other works.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on Supply, the Speaker vacating his chair. The Minister of Finance and Customs tabled the Estimates after which the Committee rose to sit again on Monday.

A Bill to amend the Sealing Law, introduced by Mr. Coaker, was read a first time.

Notices of questions were given by Messrs. Grimes, Stone and Abbott.

The House adjourned to meet again at 4 this afternoon.

Digby Arrives.

The Furness Liner Digby, Captain Trinick, arrived at 10 o'clock to-day from Halifax, after a two days' passage, bringing a small freight. She sails late to-night or early to-morrow morning for Liverpool, taking in saloon—J. Ross, N. Snow, J. Williams, J. Stick, Miss M. Stick, Miss Seymour, Mrs. L. O.B. Furlong, Miss Marguerite Furlong, M. Meyers, J. P. Baird, P. C. Mars and Mr. Walbank.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARGET IN COWS.

At the Theatre.

Another crowded house witnessed the second performance of "Is Matrimony a Failure?" by the W. S. Harkins Players at the Casino, last evening, and laughter reigned supreme at the bright and catchy dialogue. To-night, by request of many who did not see last week's performance, the Company will repeat The White Sister, F. Marion Crawford's dramatization of the famous novel of the same name. By many this is considered the Company's strongest play. Seats are selling rapidly for it, and those who intend going should apply early to-day. In response to many requests from parents who wish to have their children see The Confession, it has been decided to present this great play at the matinee as well as the farewell performance at night.

Big Night To-Night

AT ROSSLEYS.
To-night there will be an extra special night at Rossleys Theatre, the St. Andrew's Society, of which Mr. Jack Rossley is a member, will turn out to enjoy the great Scotch pantomime, "Bonnie Wee Mary." There will be special songs, dances, jigs and reels for their benefit. This has certainly been a record week at Rossleys for they have been crowded out each night; a large party occupied the private box last night, and all were very much pleased with the show. There will be another pantomime on Monday, all new costumes, new songs, new dances, new scenery and many new novelties and pictures. When the a.s. Digby called in here before proceeding to Halifax Jack Rossley had one of the largest shipments of films ever brought here at one time direct from Liverpool where his agent is collecting the best there is on the market from the large cities in Europe. There will be good pictures, special features, vaudeville and good orchestra at the old reliable show shop. See it to-night, Hoch eye, it's a grand affair, and Saturday's matinee special for the bairns.

Cochrane Street Methodist Church

The congregation of the above church is uniting with the Gower St. congregation for their Friday evening service. This arrangement will probably continue until the new church is ready for worship. All the members of the Cochrane St. congregation are urged to join with their Gower St. friends at this evening's service at 7.45. Dr. Cowperthwaite will be in charge. At the close of the service the official and trustee boards of Cochrane St. are to hold a united meeting. Every member of both Boards is asked to attend without further notice.

Match Will Take Place.

Although the ice is not in prime condition the hockey match between the Feldians and Victorias will come off to-night and a lively exhibition is expected.

Diversified Investment

No investor, particularly if he is dependent on the income from his funds, should place his entire capital in any one industry or in any one security—no matter how safe he considers it.

The best and safest plan is to diversify your investments—divide your capital among several different securities of solid worth.

(1)—You then strike an average of solidity and safety.
(2)—Your income is higher and does not depend on one enterprise.

Yours faithfully,
E. M. JACKMAN

The Governor's Salary.

CIVIL SERVICE OVERMANNED AND UNDERPAID.—MINISTER'S PAY NOW AND FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In reading the speech of the Hon. Mr. Cashin, on the estimates for 1914-15, I am pleased to see that the Government have restored the Governor's salary to what it was before "the crash." A few years ago in London, I met our much respected Governor Boyle, and he told me his salary as Governor of Newfoundland, was not sufficient to meet his expenditure, and that he had to dispose of some investments to meet the deficiency. This is a reflection on us as a people, and both Governor and Government, have done right in meeting the situation, openly and above board. I regret, however, that the Government did not go a step further and restore the salary of the Ministers, and also raise the sessional indemnity of the Members of the House, to at least $500.

I anticipate that the first objection will be that no change should take place in the pay of Ministers or Members of the House. I think our services are overmanned, and underpaid, and it is on the whole the most miserably paid Civil Service in the world.

I am of opinion, that if the Government would appoint a non-political Commission, from both branches of the Legislature, and ask the co-operation of the Opposition for the treatment of this question, on a non-partisan basis, that their report, if enacted into law, would place the Civil Service of the Colony on a much better, more efficient and more highly paid basis, and by the cutting off of some useless services it could be done without increased cost.

The reason that I ask, that the salary of the Ministers be restored, is that all the other salaries have been restored, and in cases where officials had a substantial increase have been made from time to time, but the salary of the Ministers is still the same as voted in the estimates of 1894-5.

Take for instance the salary of the Minister of Finance. In 1856, the salary of the late Hon. Thomas Glen was as follows:—
Salary as Receiver-General $ 2,400.00
Sessional Indemnity 200.00
Chairman of Revenue Board 200.00
$ 2,800.00

To-day the Hon. Mr. Cashin receives the following:—
Salary as Minister $ 2,000.00
Sessional Indemnity 200.00
Chairman of Revenue Board 200.00
No Salary 0.00
$ 2,200.00

Mr. Glen's salary of $2,800.00 in the year 1856, was equal to $4,000.00 of to-day.

As the country has progressed in wealth and development, and the earning powers of the people, has more than doubled since 1856, surely it is not unreasonable to ask that the salaries of the Ministers of the Crown be placed back to where it was over half a century ago.

Yours faithfully,
E. M. JACKMAN

Special Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
President Wilson reiterated to-day that the Mexican policy of his administration for the present would continue to be one of watchful waiting. No decision had been reached on lifting the embargo on arms, and no pre-charge in policy might occur. The practical operation of the embargo has been to deny munitions to Constitutionalists from here, while the Huertista Government has been buying abroad. The President has been pointed out to those with whom he has discussed the subject that while nations generally were showing friendly spirit and doing all they could to prevent assistance to Huertista Foreign Governments could not legally stop the shipment of arms. The United States has not asked Foreign Governments to impose restrictions and therefore has not objected to the shipment of arms from Japan or any other country.

QUEBEC, To-day.

The outstanding feature of yesterday's happenings in the Quebec Legislature, was the resignation of J. O. Mousisseau M.P. for Soulanges, Chairman of the Private Bills Committee in the Lower House in connection with graft charges.

Fell Thro' Ceiling

Barely Escapes Serious Injury.
Mr. H. Ross, of the Reid Newfoundland Company, while making repairs to the telephone at the Postal Telegraph Office this morning, fell through the ceiling to a distance of about thirteen feet, and barely escaped serious injury. Mr. Ross was working in the room over the delivery department, and in walking along, instead of stepping on the joists, stepped between them, with the result that the ceiling which is only half an inch thick gave way and he fell to the ground floor, inflicting some ugly wounds in his leg. Considering the height and the position of the appointments of the lower room, Mr. Ross was very fortunate to have such a narrow escape from broken limbs. The affair had the effect of releasing from the ceiling an accumulation of twenty years dust which nearly smothered the occupants of the several departments. The doors were opened up and it was fully an hour before the dust cleared out.

Prehistoric Monster.

The largest known find of an extinct monster is the giantosaurus, a huge lizard, dug up in German East Africa about a year ago. The skeleton was almost complete and measured 100 feet in length. It was found in the lower cretaceous rocks and must have lived from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 years ago. The creature was herbivorous, as shown by its teeth, and is supposed to have lived an aquatic life. Several very large extinct dinosaurs have been found in the United States. The most noted of these was discovered in 1890, when the Carnegie exposition (searching for fossils in Wyoming) unearthed an almost complete skeleton of a dipodocid, about eighty-seven feet long. It has been mentioned in the museum at Pittsburgh. Mr. Carnegie later presented reproductions of this skeleton to five of the leading natural history museums of Europe—

MURDO'S LINIMENT CURES DIS-

How Will She Look When She is Old?

About the most delightful foolish thing a man does is to let a woman set the stage for her attentions—moonlight through trees, appealing perfume, soft music, etc.—and then ask her to be his partner for life. And about the most delightful foolish thing a woman does is to take a fancy to a man's smile or the color of his eyes or the way his hair grows above his forehead and accept him on that basis as the earning partner in their little firm of matrimony. Goodness knows this sort of thing causes enough trouble in marriage without carrying it on into the other businesses of life.

Yet for the most part that is just what we do from the buying of a piano to the choosing of a pair of shoes.

Because we insist upon choosing our husbands and our wives or our partners why we should throw a glamour about the purchase of a brass bed or a petticoat.

Everything looks good when it is new, but like the Scotchman's is not what we want to know is how it is going to look twenty years from now. How is that piano going to last after our expert has shown us how beautiful it is? How are our shoes or our clothes going to look three months from now? How is our furniture going to look three years from now? There is only one way to buy a thing when it new and that is to buy it from a firm that guarantees it when it is old.

Now how are you going to get that guarantee? Why from the men who advertise of course.

They are the men who go on record concerning the things they sell. They are the men whose asset is their name. They are the men who have something more than their cash drawer to protect.

The time will come when the person who buys anything that is advertised by boys from a firm that does not advertise will be looked upon as needing a guardian.

It is bad enough to have a husband or a wife who does not fit or wear that was probably a matter of sentiment. But there oughtn't to be much sentiment in the buying of a piece of furniture or a pair of shoes.

Tramping the World For a wager.

While the Tit-Bits man was in Cornwall recently he made the acquaintance at Newquay of a very remarkable personality, Mr. Fred E. Moore. "the tramp journalist" of New Zealand, who for a wager of six thousand pounds is walking for ten consecutive years. Our representative learned that Mr. Moore started his tramp in the year 1907, and he has to finish it in August of 1917. Up the present he has walked through various parts of Europe, Asia and Africa, and in the course of the six years which have gone by has covered something over 47,000 miles on foot.

A Roving Life and a Merry One.
His agreement contains no fewer than thirty-five clauses. It is provided that he must neither "beg, borrow, nor steal." He must not accept a lift upon the road, but must tramp the whole way on foot. If he is discovered riding he has to forfeit to the man who "traps" him the sum of one hundred pounds and he loses the wager. He says that he is perfectly confident of completing the ten years walk and, by that time he will have covered upwards of 70,000 miles.

"Now," said the Tit-Bits man to him, "how do you like the life?"

"It is a good life," he said, "and I quite enjoy it. As I sign my postcards, so I make my life—'yours' merrily." I have to make my living by working, being skilled in all agricultural labour, or to trust to what I may obtain by luck. I am not allowed even to sell picture postcards I give them away, and I depend upon the generosity of the public as to what they pay for them. As a rule, they are most encouraging.

"I have had many strange experiences, but my contract will not allow me to tell you all of them. I sleep where I can and when I am tired. If the weather is fine I will take shelter under a hedge, and I find that four hours' sleep in the open is far better than eight hours' sleep within four walls. Of course, if the weather is wet and I arrive in a town in the small hours of the morning I go to the police-station, and all along I have found the police to be my very best friends. Although I have never committed a crime, I have more than once slept in a cell and put in a good night's rest.

"Another thing is that I must be what you call 'broke.' If I was found upon the road by anyone—and there are people who are, of course watching that I fulfil my contract the walk would automatically cease, and I should loose. When I started from New Zealand all I had in cash was the sum of one shilling. I worked my passage to Australia, and from Australia to Europe. I always carry an odd farthing so that even should I spend my other money I am still left with visible means for subsistence to that extent. Of course it is a long cry from August, 1907, until 1917, but I am strong and fit and I can carry easily the fourteen pounds weight which this satchel I have upon my back weighs, and barring any unforeseen accident I feel perfectly confident that I shall win the wager.

Good for the Bootmaker.
"What about boots?" queried the Press man.

"Oh boots,—I have worn out forty-two pairs already and I expect to wear out a great many more before the end of the ten years is reached. I have also filled seventy-three notebooks with copy and data which I have gathered upon my tramp. Altogether I have thousands upon thousands of words as the basis of the book which I am going to write when I return to New Zealand. In these notebooks are either the postmarks of every town through which I have passed, with the signature of the postmaster, or else a verification by the chief constable. I have to show them as the proofs that I have passed through all the towns which I am instructed to visit en route.

Fine Scenery en Route.
"The only place where I was ever greeted in the native tongue of the Maori was at Weymouth, the first time on the whole tour. Many well known men have taken a share side by side in the walk with me, including Mr. Russell Barr, the son of the well known novelist Mr. James Barr.

"I tramp on the average twenty-four miles a day. It is a case of go as you please. I walk till I am tired, and then I sleep. I sign off and am fast asleep in a couple of minutes.

"Among the pieces which have fascinated me most," he added in reply to a question, "are the Campo Sotio, in Genoa, and the Bay of Naples, white of course, I have seen many wonderful things in South Africa. Let me say this, however, that, although I have seen beautiful scenery all over the world, the coast of North Cornwall will take a lot of beating."

"It was just on the stroke of four o'clock, the time that Mr. Fred E. Moore was scheduled to depart for Bristol, and so shouldering his pack he said farewell to the crowd gathered to wish him "a merry time," greeting them in the native tongue of the Maori, "Kia Ora! Pakema," which being interpreted, is, "Good luck to the white people."

On An English Train

"The British custom of locking passengers into compartments in railway carriages," says an American railway man, "is productive of all manner of curious and amusing results."

"On one occasion I was a witness of this one. At one station a woman with a large net entered. She gazed sternly upon the man opposite. Before seating herself, she opened the carriage window and sent it down with a bang. At the next station another woman entered. As she sat down, she gave a look at the open window and shivered pathetically.

Then she shot an appealing glance in the direction of the male person. "I shall be frozen to death," she cried.

"If that window is closed, I shall suffocate," retorted the woman with the large net.

"Just then the porter came round. At the request of the second woman, he began to raise the window. Then, at a furious glance from the large net, he desisted. Clearly, he was in a predicament.

"What, sir," asked he of the man "what would you say as 'ow I should do, sir?"

"It's quite simple," said the man, as he rose to leave the train. "Leave the window as it is until one lady is frozen to death, then close it and suffocate the other. I am getting off here."—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Primitive Race.

Eskimos Think Amundsen Drops From the Moon.

The "North Pole natives" alluded to by Captain Amundsen in a recent lecture were discovered by him while he was navigating his little craft, the "Gjoa," through the Northwest Passage in 1903-7.

He christened them "Nechilli," and considered them to be the most primitive race on earth. No white man had ever before invaded their icy fastnesses. Consequently they were ignorant of the use of iron. Their fishing implements were long spears fashioned out of reindeer horn. They knew no other method of procuring fire than that of rubbing two pieces of wood together. They were, in short, still in the stage of civilization reached by our ancestors of the stone age.

So out of were they from others of their kind that they imagined their tribe was the only one in the world, and displayed the utmost astonishment when told of populous countries far to the south, where neither ice nor snow was. The "Gjoa" and its crew they thought to have dropped from the moon, and the best Nechilli to come aboard felt the lack, masts, boats, oars, all the while whispering to one another in amazement: "How much wood there is in the moon—how very much!"—Answers.

Had Close Call From Drowning.

Last night Mr. J. Culleton, over 50 years of age, Tidewaiter in H. M. Customs' night Boat, had a very narrow escape from drowning. The boat which is used by the Tidewaiters for visiting vessels that enter port was moored at the King's wharf and Mr. Culleton attempted to get into the boat to remove some stores out of it. While getting over the slip of the pier he slipped and fell into the water. He began to struggle as he cried loudly for help. The Tidewaiters, who were in the house alongside, did not hear him. He was in the water, it is said, five minutes, nearly exhausted from struggling when his screams were heard by constables Tucker and Vall, who were standing on Water Street. The officers hurried in the direction the voice was heard. It was a bright night and on reaching the wharf they observed the aged man clinging to the side of the pier, his head above water. The victim was in a bad state and it was thought at first would succumb from chill and exhaustion, besides a large quantity of salt water cornered his body. After being wrapped up warmly, Mr. Culleton was conveyed to his home on King's Road. He had a close call from a sad ending, and his many friends hope that he will not suffer any after-effects. No doubt, the timely rescue of the police officers prevented a fatality.

YOONG MAN GETS HAND CRUSHED.
This morning a young man named William Hackett met with a serious and painful accident. He was engaged operating a sausage machine in a meat factory on Pleasant Street when in some unaccountable way one of his hands got caught in the machine and was crushed to a pulp. The bones and flesh as far as the wrist were terribly mutilated. The blood flowed copiously from the wound which was temporarily dressed by a doctor after which the victim was conveyed to hospital, where an operation was performed. No doubt, the timely rescue of the police officers prevented a fatality.

Laughs That Cost Lives

For a Joke One Man Threw a Walnut Into a Friend's Mouth. The friend was suffocated.
To one practical joke—eighty lives were the last big tragedy booked the account of 1913.
Seven hundred people, mostly children, had congregated at a Christmas entertainment which was being held at a large hall in Michigan, U.S.
The happy kiddies were all lined up in the aisles, ready to receive their prizes when a half-drunken man called out "Fire!" He did it for a joke to see what would happen.
A stampede took place immediately, and a rush was made for the only exit, which was soon jammed with the fighting mass, and the result was the terrible loss of life already mentioned.
The records of fun that proved fatal are long and ghastly. A blue-jacket was asleep in the mess on a British warship which was in the harbor. He was snoring, and "Just for a joke," another man put a pinch of pepper up his nose.
The man woke with a violent start, and the first thing that came heady was a carving knife—and flung it at the other. It missed him, but struck another able seaman who was entering the mess full in the throat, and wounded him so severely that he died within an ace of bleeding to death.
In a north-country town a young man riding on top of a rickshaw, noted an acquaintance driving along in an open carriage close beneath him. The cab came alongside, the occupant leaned back and yawned. The man on the car tossed down a walnut which he had in his pocket. "Just for a joke," of course, but, as it happened, fell squarely into the other's mouth. Once he began to writhe horribly, his face grew purple, his hands twitched the air. Before anything could be done to help him he was dead of suffocation.
This case calls to mind a tragedy that happened a few years ago in a London working-men's club. One man offered to bet another that he could not sing a verse of a certain popular song holding a bagatelle ball in his mouth.

He accepted the bet, amid roars of laughter and began his song. Before he reached the end of the verse he became short of breath. He gave a gasp, the ball slipped back into his throat, cutting off the passage of air to the windpipe. As in the previous case, he was suffocated before help could arrive.
Two men were tried some little time ago at the Central Criminal Court for the results of what the judge called "the maddest trick he had ever heard of." The two men were working together at a biscuit factory at Limehouse, and for a joke one of them inserted the hook of a hoisting crane in the muller of a third workman.
The other of the two prisoners started pulling the rope, and as the muller was firmly tied the third man was hoisted high into the air. Then the muller gave, and he came down with a fearful crash breaking his left thigh in two places and smashing his fingers. He was in hospital for fourteen weeks and came out a cripple for life.
Killed by Compressed Air.
A new hand in a Lancashire factory was killed as the result of a similar insane piece of practical joking. The young fellow, who was only seventeen, had just come on, and in the dinner-hour five of his older companions jokingly declared that they must initiate him. Amid shouts of laughter they hauled him over to a crane which was driven by compressed air, and forced the air tube in his mouth.
One of them turned the cock. At once the compressed air rushed down the poor fellow's throat, causing the most fearful internal injuries. He was removed to hospital, but died within a few hours.
This horrible business was nearly responsible for another death, for the father of the victim, hearing of what had happened, attacked one of the jokers, and would have killed him if he had not been prevented.

A Modern Solomon.

Another good story is told of Menelik, by which it would appear he had studied the judicial methods of King Solomon.
Two Abyssinians were gathering fruit, one up a tree shaking the branches, and the other below collecting the fruit as it fell. A branch snapped suddenly, and the man up the tree slipped and fell. He landed on his companion on the ground, breaking the unfortunate man's neck, but himself escaping without fatal injuries.
The family of the dead man demanded blood-money; and when the accidental murderer replied that he had no money they demanded his life. This the man declined to part with, and the case went before the judges, finally working its way up to the supreme tribunal of Menelik himself.
The claimants by this time refused to accept blood-money even if offered and demanded their full right of a life for a life.
"Very well," said Menelik in delivering judgment, "you have undoubtedly the right to claim this man's life; but the law says that the murderer must be killed in the same manner as his victim. Therefore let one of the dead man's relatives climb a high tree and fall on the accused until he kills him."
But none of the dead man's relatives cared to take the risk, so the innocent murderer was set free.

M.C.L.I. Debate.

There was a record attendance at the debate held in the M. C. L. I. Rooms last night, the subject: "Should Native British Subjects from Asiatic Colonies be excluded from any part of the British Empire?" proving an interesting one.

The leaders for the affirmative were Mr. R. A. Squires, Dr. M. C. Roberts and Mr. M. L. Butler; and for the negative, Mr. G. Grimes, Mr. A. Mews and Mr. P. H. Cowan.

The leading arguments of the affirmative were that the question referred to undesirable and that any part of the Empire holding responsible government had a perfect right to make laws excluding those they wished from their borders. It was also submitted that the Indians, because of their training could not become part of a new country, and their settling down as such would only tend to disturb economic conditions.

The negative side contended that debarring British subjects from entering any part of the British Empire would only lead to disintegration of the Empire. Viewing the matter from a broad human aspect we might encourage them with a view to educate and christianize them, because the Indian was a good type and in proper surroundings would become a good subject.

Following the debate came a general discussion in which those who took part were:—Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Cap-

Notice to Sealers.

Always when the sealing voyage is approaching, especially about this time or a few days later numbers of outport sealers assume their own risk and consequent loss by coming to the city here on the possibilities of getting a berth to the ice. They are not registered on any ship and put themselves in an awkward position. All are anxious to get in the steel ships. It is impossible to accommodate all and few, if any of them, will go in the wooden steamers with the result that a great many have to return home. At present there is scarcely a berth to be procured in a steel ship and we would advise outport men to judge for themselves and avoid inconvenience and expense that they are liable to suffer.

Mother Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Presentation of Trophies.

The joint presentation of the football trophies at the C.C.C. Armoury, last night, was witnessed by a large gathering. Before the presentation took place, Major Kent announced the following promotions: Staff-Sergt. John Walsh to be Lieutenant Com. Dec. 14, 1913; Q. M. Sgt. George Knight to be Lieut. Com. Dec. 15, 1913; P. M. Sgt. John Campbell to be Lieut. Com. Dec. 16, 1913; Mr. John J. Mahoney to be Lieut. Com. Dec. 17, 1913; Lieut. G. Knight to be Quarter Master, in place of Lieut. Halley, resigned; Bugler Pte. J. Plumb, to be Lance Corporal attached to Q. M.'s Dept.; Sgt. J. Murphy to be Armoury Sgt. in place of Sgt. W. Clare, transferred to Reserve. The Lt.-Col. has been pleased to promote the following in No. 5 Company: Sgt. W. Ryan promoted to Company Sgt. Instructor; Corp. F. O'Toole and L.-C. G. Kavanagh to be Sergeants; L.-C. G. Keen to be Corporal; Acting L.-C.'s C. Moore and James Murphy to be Lance Corporals; Privates J. Vaughan, E. Kavanagh, L. Horan, F. Gallisay, to be Acting Lance Corporals.

President Chaplin, of the League, then presented the Cup and Gold Medals to the Star team, who won first place in the Senior League, and the Silver Medals to the C.E.I. players, who took second place. The Cup won by the C.C.C. in the inter-brigade competitions was also presented. Congratulatory speeches were made in reference to the winners of the different trophies during the evening, by President Chaplin, of the League, E. M. Jackman, of the Star, W. J. Higgins and Rev. Fr. Pippy. The proceedings closed with the rendition of the National Anthem by the C.C.C. band.

Moscow.

By GEORGE FITZ.

Author of "At Good Old Swish."
Moscow, the understudy of St. Petersburg as capital of the Russian empire, is as large as Philadelphia and resembles that city as closely as whiskers resemble Dutch cheese.

Moscow is so foreign, in fact, that the moving picture show has scarcely obtained a foothold there, and the horse still competes successfully with the automobile.

Moscow lies on the banks of the river Moskva, which wanders through the city at will in the springtime and is connected with St. Petersburg 400 miles north, by the night express which is four hours late. Viewed from a distance the city looks like a gigantic turnip patch, bottom side up. This is an optical illusion, however, as the turnips are merely church spires. There are more churches in Moscow than there are cabarets in New York, but their effect upon the civilization of the city does not seem to be quite so good.

Moscow is profusely afflicted with old cobblestone paving, and a trip through the city in a drabby behind a team horse with a tall soiled collar is as interesting as a trip down the Coney Island bump-the-bumps. The citizens, judged from the streets, seem to be composed equally of priests, soldiers and long-haired men in fur-lined dressing gowns. It is not up to date, but it has managed to accumulate its million people and enough manufacturers to keep them busy without a commercial club, which is better than any American city can do.

Moscow is 800 years old and was once the capital of Russia, but owing to the difficulty of moving the Baltic sea into the city it lost its title 200 years ago and is now merely a winter resort for royalty. Among the prominent men who have been entertained in Moscow was Napoleon, who visited it in 1812—at which time the city was burned in his honor. Moscow is famous for its gigantic bells. One of them weighs 220 tons, but they don't ring it. They keep it on a pedestal and use it for a chapel. If it were not so large it would do finely as a meeting place for the Progressive party of Moscow.

STOP COUGHING.

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since

PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE is sold all over Newfoundland and is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and are not able to get rid of it. Don't let a cough or cold hang on you day after day and run the risk of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE at once. Price 25 cents a bottle, postage 5 cents extra.

Prepared only by
DR. F. STAFFORD & SON,
St. John's, Nfld.
(Manufacturers also of Stafford's Linctant and Prescription "A.")

BUYERS LEAVE—A number of buyers for various business houses in the city, will leave for the Old Country by the Mongolian to-night and Digby to-morrow to purchase spring goods.

Enjoy your meals by taking a teaspoonful of Stafford's Prescription "A" before eating. It cures Indigestion and Dyspepsia, etc.—jan22,tf

LONDON, Jan. 29.
The Bank of England discount rate has been reduced to three per cent. This is the third reduction since the beginning of the year.

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 29.
The Merchants' Exchange Building, one of the most important business blocks in the retail centre of the city, was burned to-day. Loss, $300,000. The building was a four storey brick structure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.
Direct communication by radio between Germany and the United States, without any relaying, has been established, the first message being sent by Emperor William to President Wilson.

LONDON, Jan. 29.
Earl Fitzwilliam has instructed his lawyers to strenuously fight the allegations contained in the petition naming him as co-respondent in the Leslie Melville case. The petitioner claims $100,000 for alienation of the respondent's affections. King George has written the Earl saying he must clear himself at the earliest possible moment. The Earl replied asserting his absolute innocence.

LONDON, Jan. 29.
According to the Daily Mail, Premier Asquith proposed a course, at the recent conference, to Bonar Law, Unionist Leader, on the subject of Home Rule, to concede to Ulster administrative autonomy on condition that Ulster submit voluntarily to the legislative authority of the Parliament at Dublin. Law refused to accept this solution, alleging that his acceptance would bind Ulster to concede what Unionists have sworn not to concede.

LONDON, Jan. 29.
President Wilson's policy towards Mexico is the subject of lengthy despatches to-day from British correspondents at Washington, but there is little editorial comment. The Pall Mall Gazette says the President has laid himself open to the charge of having chalked up 'No Huerta,' and then run away, and concludes by saying that the position becomes worse for the Washington Government every day that nothing happens. Financiers here interested in Mexico are becoming impatient at lack of action shown by the President.

City Club's Annual.

The annual meeting of the City Club took place last night, President R. B. Job in the chair. There was a goodly attendance of members. The reading of the annual report and the presentation of the accounts by Secretary F. H. Donnelly, were received and adopted. The election of officers for 1914 then took place and resulted as follows:

President—Mr. J. S. Munn.
1st Vice-Pres.—Hon. R. Watson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. C. A. C. Bruce.
Secretary—Mr. F. H. Donnelly.
Committee—Hon. S. Milley, Messrs. W. S. Monroe, J. Morey, P. C. O'Driscoll, W. T. Reay and J. Fenelon.
Auditors—Messrs. H. W. LeMessurier and F. W. Bradshaw.

A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers. At the close the papers for 1914 were sold by Mr. P. C. O'Driscoll.

For the Children's Use

"Can you," I said to my Druggist, "suggest anything for irritable skin in children? Mine are very prone to skin irritation in winter. A new woolen garment, a slight chafe, exposure to cold winds, and there are in trouble at once. Is there anything to relieve it?"

He handed me a cake of soap, saying: "You will find in this what you need. This is Zylex Soap, and is really first rate for the purpose. Try it."

I did so, with most satisfactory results too. Zylex Soap (as well as the Ointment which I always keep at hand) has proven its value to me. Zylex Soap is 25c a cake; the Ointment 50c a box. At all druggists. jan28,odtf

"The Retreat from Moscow."

The historical retreat of Napoleon's army from Moscow in 1812. Reconstructed with the aid of ten thousand of the Imperial Russian Army. Every phase of the epoch-making incident is shown with an accuracy which makes this production one of the most remarkable motion pictures ever produced. The burning of Moscow after Napoleon's arrival, and the pathetic plight of the retreating army are re-enacted in all the grim tragedy of war. The scenes are photographed on the actual sites, and the ensembles were modeled after the famous paintings by Verestchaguine.

The Fate of Old Buildings.

Many of Britain's ancient buildings, famous for their historical associations, are being lost to the nation, owing to the progress of this utilitarian age.

At one time or another millionaires have offered to buy old houses connected with famous men of past generations, while others are maintained in a state of repair by the money subscribed by visitors.

Just over twenty years ago the cottage at Chalfont St. Giles, Buckinghamshire, in which Milton took refuge from the plague while finishing "Paradise Lost," was only saved at the last moment. Americans were arranging to buy it and take it to the United States, where it was to be re-erected. Fortunately public sentiment was too strong, and a fund was at once raised—to which Queen Victoria was a contributor—to buy it for public use.

Try a bottle of Stafford's Phorotone Cough Cure if you are suffering from a cough or cold. Price 25c.; postage 5c. extra.—jan22,tf

WILFRED M. LOADING.—The schr. Wilfred M. is now loading fish at Alan Goodridge & Sons, which she will take to the Brazilian market.

John Masfield.

Another noble bard has risen, "a planet new swims in our ken;" no lily-fingered muse is his'n. He sings for strong, be-whiskered men. With things to say, he says them plainly, so man may know his thought; he sings his songs and sings them sanely, and gives his harp a rugged swat. Life is too short and man too busy to wrestle with the highbrow bards, who with allusions dim and dizzy are always loitered to the guards; who waste good ink and pens bewailing Prometheus upon his rock, or round the shores of Ireece so sailing to get a string of gods in stock. John Masfield writes for folks now living, and of the people now on earth; in every line he writes he's giving a lot more than your money's worth. His verse is great, and when you know it, you'll murmur, as his lines you scan: "Here speaks a Man who is a Poet, here sings a Bard who is a Man!"

At the Crescent.

The Crescent Picture Palace concludes its week-end bill with a strong programme of pictures and song which will be found very interesting to its patrons, to-day and to-morrow. A big two-reel feature "In Love and War" contains a strong plot with many situations that will be appealing to all lovers of "Movies." "The Knight of Her Dreams," a fantastic comedy production on a huge scale is very favorable. Another comedy "All Through a Turkey," is certainly a cure for solemnness. Mr. David Parks, popular baritone, sings an illustrated song, "And the Green Grass Grew all Round." The Crescent during the past week has won many friends; the pictures are, besides educational and interesting, very enjoyable. The usual big matinee to-morrow.

Forbids Officers

Taking Hold of Arm of a Woman While Walking.

London, Jan. 21.—A Berlin despatch to the Daily Mail says that the Kaiser has issued a cabinet order forbidding any officer to take the arm of any woman, even his wife, while he is walking with her. The order says that if there is any amicable it must be done by the woman and not by the officer.

The Kaiser holds that leaning for support on the arm of a woman is not conducive to manly bearing. It is quite common for men in Germany to take the arm of a woman whom they are escorting.

Healthy and Un-healthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vilitate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a ball which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity; the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of apoplexy.—Vivian B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov5,tf
