"Flowers of the Valley,"

OR MABEL HOWARD,
OF THE LYRIC.

CHAPTER XXIV.
"DEFTY YOU!"

If she were not happy—and Heaven alone knew how often she fell asleep with unshed tears quivering under the lids—she was for these few days under a spell, as it were; for a few hours at least, when she stood before the footlights, she could forget the deep and terrible sorrow that had fallen upon her young life, and those hours, few as they were, were something gained.

She spent the morning in Paul's room, where they practiced together, working as hard as if her name were still to be made. Then came her lunch, and in the afternoon they would go for a walk in the park. Sometimes they took the train, and went up to one of the quiet riverside places, and there, side by side, strolled along the silver stream, or sat and talked under the shade of the great horse-chestnuts.

Then home to the quiet little dinner at half-past five, and then, two hours later, they set off for the Lyric.

Sometimes Mrs. Berry would come and dine with them, and would tell them the story of her checkered life, and make Iris smile, and Paul laugh, at the quaint stories of the scenes she had gone through.

It is generally supposed that an actress' life is made up of champagne suppers and perpetual dissipation, but this is one of the absurd ideas of which the general public is gradually getting disabused. The life of an actress—that is, if she is an actress worth her salt—is one of continual hard work, for which she has to keep up her health and spirits always at a high standard, and champagne suppers would soon lower both.

As to Paul, he was in the seventh heaven of bliss. His love for the beautiful girl who had come into his gray and sober life like an angel was as pure and sweet as that of a brother for a sister; it was the devotion of a Parson for the sun. To him she seemed something more than human, and he asked nothing more of Fate than to bask in her presence. It was generally supposed that they were brother and sister, and as Iris never contradicted the statement, it grew into an accepted fact.

A fortnight passed, and one evening Paul and Iris were sitting after their dinner talking together; Paul stretched on the luxurious couch she had bought for him, and Iris lying back in her easy-chair with the great arms, her eyes half closed, her thoughts wandering to the Revels, and wondering what Lord Byron was doing.

"The prince is coming again tonight, they say, Mabel," said Paul. Iris awoke with a little start.

"Is he, Paul? Mr. Stapleton will be very pleased."

Paul nodded.

"I should think so. And you, Mabel, aren't you pleased, too?"

"Oh, yes," she said, quietly. "It is a great compliment to us all."

"Especially to one of us," said the boy, regarding her with a smile of admiration and pride. "It is wonderful how many times the same people come again," he went on. "The Duke of Rosedale now; he is there in his box these nights a week."

Iris' brows contracted a little, and she made no response.

It was quite true that the duke was a constant visitor to the Lyric. One of the packages which Iris had returned through the parcel post had contained a diamond bracelet, with the duke's name attached; and in addition to appearing in his box, his grace had taken it into his stupid old head to hang about the stage door. Iris had seen him with the rest, but had not mentioned the fact to Paul.

"He is very fond of music," said Paul, innocently, "and I heard him telling Mr. Stapleton the other night that he would give him fifty pounds if he would allow you to sing at one of his parties."

"And what did Mr. Stapleton say, Paul?" asked Iris.

"That you never sang at private houses, and that he thought you were quite right not to do so."

"I like Mr. Stapleton," said Iris, quietly. "If his grace were to offer us a thousand guineas we would not go again, Paul," she added, with a little shiver.

There was silence for a moment; the mention of the duke's offer had created an unpleasant annoyance in her mind, and to get rid of it she said:

"Play me something, Paul; something of your own," for he had got into the habit of playing to her for a few minutes before they started for the theatre, as Iris said, to "put her in tune" for her work.

He took his violin and began to play, when there came a knock at the door and Mrs. Barker put in her head.

"Oh, you haven't started, miss! I said I thought you had, but he said he was sure you hadn't."

"He, who?" asked Iris, sitting up.

"A gentleman, miss. He's downstairs; says he wants to see you particularly."

Iris' heart beat. Could it be Lord Heron?

"I—I can see no one, Mrs. Barker," she said. "Please tell him so. What is his name?"

"I asked him, and he said it didn't matter, miss. I was to say that he was an old friend."

Iris grew pale.

"I cannot see any one," she said, quickly. "Tell any one who asks for me that I cannot see them; any one except Mrs. Berry and Mr. Stapleton."

"Yes, I know, miss," said Mrs. Barker, who had received her instructions some time ago. "But this gentleman will not take a 'No'; he's most civil and polite, I must say; but he sticks to the doormat like a limpet."

Iris' face flushed.

"I do not know any one who would call on me," she said, resolutely, "and I will see no one. Please tell him so."

"Well, I'll try and send him away," said Mrs. Barker, doubtfully. "But I've been telling him so for the last quarter of an hour, and there he stands still. Can't push him into the street exactly."

"I'll go to my room, Paul," said Iris. "If Mrs. Barker comes up again, say that I am gone."

As she spoke the door opened, and a pale, smiling face, with black eyes that flashed like beads, appeared at the opening.

Iris uttered a faint cry and shrank back, and Signor Ricardo glided in, with outstretched hands and waving hat.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, showing his gleaming teeth, and bowing with his hand upon his breast, his eyes fixed upon her pale face, upon which fear and loathing struggled for predominance. "Ah! At last! My dear Miss—"

Iris summoned strength to hold up her hand forbiddingly, and he stopped for a second, but the next glided softly on in his snakelike, insinuating voice, "Miss Howard! Excuse this intrusion. Pardon me that I, so to speak, forced my entrance, but an old friend—such an old friend—could take no denial!"

and he gesticulated with his thin lips and cunning eyes seemed to have grown crueler and more cunning.

What was she to do or say? Pale and motionless, she stood gazing at him as he stood regarding her with a smile of half-molent triumph upon his evil face. Paul, who had been staring from one to the other, amazed and perplexed, fearing that something was wrong, and yet not knowing what, got up, and, muttering something, limped shyly to the door.

The signor's keen, beadlike eyes followed him.

"Our young friend, the fiddler," he said, with a bland smile. "Do not go, my dear boy—" But Paul, fushing and shrinking, limped out.

Then Iris found her voice.

"Why—why have you come here?" she asked.

The signor smiled and stretched out his hands, deprecatingly.

"Can you ask?" he murmured, smoothly, and in a tone of reproach. "Is Baptiste Ricardo the man to desert an old friend? Saints and angels, no! And such an old friend, the daughter of his oldest and dearest friend!"

those of a hungry wolf.

Iris leaned against the mantelpiece, and swept her hair from her forehead with a trembling hand.

It was not so much fear of the man that affected her, but all that his presence recalled so vividly. Her old home, the dear, dead father, the scene in the library where she had first heard of the "shadow on her life!"

This man with the hateful face and white hands was bound up with it all, was so part and parcel of it that his presence brought it all back upon her like the sweeping of a cold wave.

The signor laid his hat upon the table, and, drawing a chair forward, seated himself in an easy and comfortable attitude.

"My dear young lady," he continued; "you are overcome! The sudden joy at the sight of an old friend—ah, yes, I know that. But take time, like yours, Baptiste Ricardo is all heart, all heart!" and he spread his right claw over his bosom. "Take time, my dear Miss Iris—"

Iris put out her hand.

"Not that name!" she said.

"True, true, I forgot. Pardon the slip," he assented, the smile growing more insolent. "Miss Mabel Howard, I should have said. Miss Howard, I know that, your delight at seeing me, the old and trusted"—he laid a marked emphasis on the word—"friend of your father, is equal to mine. For months I have been looking forward to this reunion; ever since the day when an evil conspiracy—his face darkened—"tore me from your society. And the hour has come. My dear Miss Howard, it is unnecessary to ask after your health; those blooming cheeks, those sparkling eyes are answer enough. The world has smiled—it is a wise world truly!—upon you. You are flourishing, rich and famous. Baptiste Ricardo offers you his humble and sincere congratulations," and he bent forward, still keeping his black eyes upon her pale face.

"Why have you come?" she said, using the very words that poor Godfrey knighton had spoken when the man had swooped down upon him, as he had now swooped down upon her.

The signor politely ignored the question.

Turkey Ready for Peace.

French Deputies Have Hot Reception For Briand--Government Submits New Proposals in Irish Affairs--Rioters Wreck Many Buildings in Vienna.

TURKEY AND PEACE.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 2. Mustafa Kemal, Turkish Nationalist leader, has sent the Allied High Commissioners a note stating that Turkey is anxious to become a neutral country, and expressing hope that Britain and Italy may come to an agreement with Turkey by means of equal concessions. The moment the Allies accept the pact with the Nationalists Turkey will cease to be an obstacle to peace, the note adds, but the Allies will insist on reparations as the Greeks indulged in unjustifiable exactions.

FRANCE MEETS COOL RECEPTION.
HAVRE, Dec. 2. Premier Briand returned to France today after five weeks absence at the Washington Conference. He was greeted with deference but without enthusiasm. Mr. Briand was transferred from the liner Paris by a tug to a destroyer and then to a heavy sea, running as the tug boarded the ship, but his supporters made no pretense of hiding their opinion that it was balmy as compared with the storm Mr. Briand will have to face in the Chamber of Deputies next Tuesday when he returns an account of his Washington mission. Mr. Briand was informed that a resolution with his return there would be given the composition of the Chamber of Deputies and Senate lists purporting to give the composition of the Chamber of Deputies under former President Poincaré which the Opposition expects will succeed the Briand ministry should the latter fall as a result of

Pains After Eating

Today thousands are afraid to eat because of the pains that follow even a light meal of good and wholesome food. Mother Seigel's Syrup, taken after meals, has helped tens of thousands to enjoy their food, and put an end to the pains and miseries of indigestion. Sold in 50c. and $1.00 bottles at drug stores.

ULSTER GOVERNMENT AND LOCAL BELFAST, Dec. 3.
The Ulster Government to-day made the first move for dealing with recalcitrant local authorities. Owing to the decision of the Tyrone County Council to deal with Dall Eireann, Ulster police occupied Omagh court house.

VIENNA A WRECK.
VIENNA, Dec. 2. The inner city of Vienna to-day as though it had been struck by a tornado as a result of yesterday's widespread rioting, the worst since the downfall of the Monarchy. All the leading hotels and restaurants and many of the shops dealing in luxuries were wrecked and the streets were covered with debris. No deaths have been reported, but police officials said that many had been injured. The police stood by idly watching the mobs work their will, some even expressing sympathy. Guests in the hotels were robbed, insulted and beaten and well dressed pedestrians stripped of furs, jewels and money.

LITTLE CHANGE.
WINNIPEG, Dec. 2. Little change is reported in Canadian business conditions. Improvements noted during the past month, being mainly of a seasonal character, the Canadian Credit Men's Association reports.

DILL DEFEND RIGHTS.
DUBLIN, Dec. 2. The Irish Bulletin, Dall Eireann organ, commenting on the discussion in British press regarding the possibility of warfare being renewed in Ireland, says, "The people of Ireland do not want war, and are not likely to be forced into war. If their liberties are attacked they will resist passively, and if passive resistance becomes impossible, they will resist actively, but in each case they will not easily be compelled to surrender their right to freedom."

COUNTER REVOLUTION.
MELILLA, Morocco, Dec. 2. Kabdir Naamur, chieftain of the Beni Said tribe, has started a rebellion against Abdel Krim, leader of the tribes in revolt against Spain, and intends to submit to Spain as soon as Spanish troops reach his territory, native reports say.

NEW NAVAL STAGE.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. A new stage of negotiations over the question of naval ratios was reached at a conference of Balfour, Hughes and Kato to-day, it being said that the result was very favorable, giving a basis for optimism.

OUTRAGE BEING INVESTIGATED.
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2. Acting under telegraphic instructions from the British Embassy in Washington, A. H. Hubbard, British Vice Consul here, to-day began an investigation into the flogging, and tarring and feathering, last August, of Rev. Philip S. Irwin, Archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and a British subject, who was engaged in work among the negroes of Miami. Mr. Hubbard said the enquiry would also include an investigation of similar treatment accorded George Doty, negro blacksmith in a small town of Dade County. Doty also is a British subject. Both left the country after their experience with masked bandits.

RIOTERS WRECK.
VIENNA, Dec. 2. Some of the prisoners who were in the closed military wagon, in which 64 Moplahs suffered, testified before an official commission to-day that prisoners asked for water, the first time train stopped, but their requests were ignored. After vain attempts to remove the gas from the ventilators, the prisoners began to faint, and fall on one another, survivors said. There was no fighting.

PRIESTESS WHO WAS A SPY!
The daughter of a Japanese woman, she entered a great Buddhist temple. Then came the War. The little priestess became a dangerous spy and died the death of a traitor. Her true name records show to have been Marguerite Gertrude Zelle, though the one by which she was much better--and rather more notorious--known was Mata-Hari.

IN LOVE WITH AN OFFICER.
Even before she entered the service of Buddha, she gave signs of possessing more than an ordinary talent for dancing and, during the ten years which she spent within the walls of the nunnery, Mata-Hari perfected herself in the weird barbaric measures in which the natives worshipped their gods.

You Can Make the Skin Soft, Smooth and Velvety

by using

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

It is always interesting to make a discovery.

Women, as well as men, find joy in discovering something which they can tell others about.

Many thousands of women have quite accidentally discovered in Dr. Chase's Ointment, a skin beautifier of rare value.

Because Dr. Chase's Ointment is so universally used as a treatment for eczema and the skin troubles of babyhood, its effectiveness as a beautifier of the skin is sometimes lost sight of, until using it for these ailments of the skin its benefit to the skin itself is once more discovered.

With the modern use of powders and cosmetics the skin becomes dry and harsh, irritations are set up, pimples and blackheads are formed.

The use of Dr. Chase's Ointment makes the skin soft and pliable, and restores the healthful action of the pores of the skin which have been clogged by the use of powders.

The woman who is admired for the exquisitely fine texture and velvety softness of her skin is the one who regularly uses Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can discover this for yourself by giving this delightfully soothing, healing ointment a few weeks' trial.

Many Uses

There are scores of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in the home. It is the standard ointment, and is used with great satisfaction for:

- Eczema and Salt Rheum
- Shingles, Tetter and Ringworm
- Scald Head and Baby Eczema
- Pimples and Blackheads
- Chafing and Skin Irritation
- Sore Feet and Toes
- Ingrowing Toe Nails

- Chilblains and Frost Bites
- Poisoned Skin; Poison Ivy
- Itch, Barber's Itch, Prairie Itch

Tender Skin

Many men suffer from skin irritations of an eczematous nature as a result of shaving. In its more aggravated form this is known as "Barber's Itch." If your skin is tender you will find it good to apply Dr. Chase's Ointment after shaving. Wash thoroughly with hot water, dry the skin carefully without rubbing, and apply the ointment. This heals the irritated skin, keeps it soft and pliable, and by its antiseptic influence prevents the spread of skin trouble.

Baby's Skin

Mrs. Everett Roberts, 44 Eadsfoot Ave., Halifax, N.S., writes: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for my baby, who had ringworm all over his face. I tried almost everything I knew of without success until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This completely freed him of this annoying skin trouble in a short time. I would not be without this ointment in the house, and trust this may induce others to give it a trial and be convinced of its merits."

Eczema

Mrs. Beattie Stewart, Lanark, Ont., writes: "I first took eczema on my head, and had to have my hair cut. Then the eczema broke out on the fingers of my right hand. It was so itchy I couldn't keep from scratching it, and it began to spread. In reading an old Almanac that mother had, I noticed that Dr. Chase's Ointment was recommended for eczema, so I sent for a sample box. I used the ointment every night, and soon saw a difference. I got a full-sized box at the drugist's, and later another one, but I never needed the second, because after the use of the first box the eczema disappeared from both my head and fingers."

Your Only Safe Course-- Demand Genuine Ford Parts

Every good thing is limited. Genuine Ford Parts are widely imitated and the imitations have cost Ford owners collectively a stupendous sum in extra repair costs and premature replacements.

The Canadian and U. S. field has been thoroughly exploited by the makers of these spurious parts who are now dumping them here in the hope that you will provide a market to replace the home market that has repudiated them.

Had these parts possessed merit it would not have been necessary to dump them here. Ford owners in Canada and the U. S. A. could take the entire output, but they are too familiar with the results--that follow the use of these spurious parts to touch them at any price.

Follow the example of these other Ford owners. Demand Genuine Ford Parts and refuse to be satisfied with anything else.

Two women write, "Greatly Benefited by taking Carnol"

The following letter is of special interest to those who are run-down in health—whether from over-work, worry or general weakness:

Dear Sirs—Myself and friend, would like to let you know how very highly we think of Carnol. We are now taking our sixth bottle and the great benefit we have derived from it is wonderful. It certainly does everything the advertisements say and more. It is a genuine tonic and body builder. For my part it has warded off a Bronchial trouble I am subject to every Spring.

We feel it would interest you to know this, also you are at perfect liberty to use this unsolicited testimonial, if you should so wish. We hope you will take pleasure in recommending to any one whom we know are feeling below par.

Wishing you every success, Yours truly, is indeed a true strength-giver. A course of Carnol will soon bring you back to strength and vigor. Carnol improves the appetite, helps the system to assimilate the food, makes good red blood and builds robust health. Carnol is pleasant to take. Many doctors prescribe Carnol—during convalescence and wherever a strengthening tonic is necessary.

(Name on request)

CARNOL

ST. DUNSTON'S SPORTS MEETING.

"It is a wonderful institution," remarked Sir Arthur Pearson at luncheon in referring to St. Dunstan's Institute for the Blind. There was a big crowd at the subsequent sports meeting, and the happiest people were the blind participants. They skipped, jumped, sprined, and threw balls with zest and joy. In the emancipation of the blind Sir Arthur Pearson relies to a great extent on sport. Judging by what I saw, he is right. Sir Arthur himself is one of the happiest men one could meet. His humour is the real thing. It is infectious. His proteges manifest this in their work as in their play.

THE CIVIL SERVICE DISMISSALS.

Despite the wholesale dismissals which are meantime taking place from Government offices, the economy proposals and prospects do not, as has been suggested, create "panic" in the Civil Service. This suggestion an official of a representative organization described to me to-day as ludicrous. It appears that there is widespread misapprehension as to the actual situation, a belief being prevalent in many quarters that an attack is contemplated on the established Civil Servants. The permanent staffs, however, are not affected by the steps now being taken to enforce reductions. Their attitude is one of non-interference with what is taking place, and although the removal of the temporary employees may be regarded as a discouragement by their organizations from meddling with the question one way or the other. It is pointed out that the increase in the permanent Civil Service represents only the nominal expansion over pre-war figures, and in any case the members cannot be dispensed with except on pension. The economy cut by which they will be effected is in regard to the bonus.

WILLING VICTIMS.

Where and on whom does the young barber gain that practice in his trade which makes for perfection in later years? The skilful manipulation of the razor, as many a busy man has learned to his cost, is an acquired art, the result of careful training. The budding barber cannot gain proficiency by removing imaginary beards from dummy figures. He must have flesh and blood subjects for his youthful practice, and the remarkable fact is that in London the novice is finding more willing and trusting victims than he can conveniently accommodate. In a saloon in Langlan Place a band of enthusiastic welders of the scissors and the razor shave and cut hair of 500 customers a week, and with a minimum use of sticking plaster. The benefactors are ex-service men who are being trained under one of the Government schemes, and those who benefit physically, at least, whatever they may suffer mentally from the ordeal—are mainly unemployed persons who believe that the result justifies any risk they may undertake. After six months' practice at Langlan Place and a similar period in a hairdresser's shop the apprentice period is complete.

WOMEN'S WALKING STICKS.

The use of walking sticks by women has become very popular of late. With the high heels that are now the vogue, fashionable women need something in the nature of a support to steady them as they walk. These heels may be alright indoors, but in the street the woman who wears them has to walk more or less on tip-toe, and unless a stick is used to help, it is a strain, hence the popularity of the walking stick, a popularity which, incidentally, confirms the Doctor who has just declared that heels, even low, is the first time that stained glass has been allowed to replace the clear windows on the southern wall, and the Abbey authorities rather feared that it would darken the light, but Mr. Dudley Forsyth, the designer, has overcome the danger.

STREET BANDS DE LUXE.

The itinerant bandsmen of our streets, have been playing classical pieces of the simpler sort for months. Now they are beginning to blossom out in uniform. There is one band, half a dozen strong, which has bought second hand scarlet tunics and gravelly sets up music stands in the gutter to hold its scores. Nobody seems surprised; indeed, their gratitude must be tangible, for I have seen this band travelling by motor bus from one pitch to another. After all, some main attraction of a good living in the streets by entertaining these queens, so why should the profession of street musician not become honourable and lucrative.

CONSULTING DRESS EXPERT.

A well-known dress designer, who for years has advised her friends what to wear, has suddenly discovered there is a big demand for advice of this kind, and she is now established in business as the consulting expert to women with money who wish to dress in perfect taste. She does not sell anything except ideas, but her clients find that by paying her that they receive such valuable assistance that a small dress allowance seems to go twice as far. She has made a speciality of brides' trousseaux, as there are so many young wives who within a few months of their weddings, discover that many of the things they spent large sums on are quite unsuitable for ordinary wear. Visitors also from the country are now coming to ask how to equip themselves for winter dances and theatre parties.

Y.M.C.A. WINDOW IN THE ABBEY.

Hundreds of men and women who have worked with the Y.M.C.A. in military and civilian, the battle areas, and in the Dominions overseas assembled at Westminster Abbey on Nov. 16th, when Princess Helena Victoria unveiled the Y.M.C.A. memorial window. This is the gift of an anonymous donor, and the Abbey greatly appreciates the desire of the General Council of the Y.M.C.A. that it should be placed in the Abbey. After a brief service the Dean of the Abbey delivered an address. The window, he said, commemorated not only the personality of a great man, Mr. George Williams, who at the age of 23, founded the Y.M.C.A., but the services of a great corporate institution which now has 9,000 centres in 49 different countries and a membership of over a million and a half. He dwelt on the courage, devotion, and enterprise shown by the Association during the war years and its enormous influence for good and the respect it had won from all classes. That work had a religious basis, and it was therefore fitting that it should be honoured by a memorial placed in the Empire's most sacred church. Princess Helena Victoria, who was President of 10,000 women workers in Y.M.C.A. organizations, then unveiled the window. Presently the sun shining out from behind a cloud, threw a brilliant, shifting light, first on the coloured center piece, and then made dazzling effects through the lightly-drawn figures of young soldiers from all parts of the Empire. This Going Back to School.

Lord Leverhulme, the famous industrial magnate, always has a fondness for good stories at his command, but among his favourites is one that he tells against himself. He was being shown over a school one day, and took the opportunity of delivering a little homily to the boys. "I wish I were a boy at school again," said his lordship. "Do you know why I wish that?"

For a moment or two there was an impressive silence, then from the back a childish voice was heard to say, "Cos you've forgot all you ever know."

Yellow shoes, cut very low and worn with stockings to match are very popular.

BED.

There's nothing like my downy couch (I've got nothing like the helpful h a y; when there I soon forget the grouch that made me no x i o u s through the day. When day is done with all its chores my nerves are often on the blink, for many of my tasks are bores, designed to drive a man to drink; and so my temper's all on edge, and I throw chromos at my wife; and I refuse to sign the pledge or try to lead a better life. The world appears a dismal place, the haunt of sorrow and of sin, and you might search my widespread face and never find a cheer-up grin. But when the village clock strikes nine I stop feebly to the hay, and there unconscious I recline until there comes another day. And while I sleep my troubles flee, my cranky notions all subside, and when to grub they summon me I am as cheery as a bride. My aunt has often said "Odsnail, the morning finds you good as new; and, as for me, I only wish you'd stay that way the whole day through."

American Footwear for young men; only $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00 per pair at SMALLWOOD'S Eastern Display Window—Nov 25, 26, 27

One of several good stories brought back from America by the Rev. R. J. Campbell concerns a ministerial colleague of his who was preaching at a little chapel on the subject of "Giving." During the sermon his heart was rejoiced by the fact of a member of the congregation going to the side of the chapel and placing a coin in a box, and a little later another did the same. Surely, the minister thought, his sermons had never met with so practical a response before. He received, however, a rude awakening, when, on leaving the building, he was accosted by one of the brethren who said: "I hope we didn't disturb you, sir, but ours is a slot meter, and we should have been in darkness if we hadn't attended to it."

The Sage of Chelsea.

Thomas Carlyle, who was born on Dec. 4, 1795, at Ecclefechan, Dumfriesshire, and died at 24, Cheyne Row, Chelsea, in 1835, was admitted to the bar in 1817, but never practised. His father was James Carlyle, a stone mason, who had married twice, and Thomas was the eldest son of the second wife. He was educated at the village school, the Annan Grammar School, and Edinburgh University. On leaving the University, instead of entering the Church of Scotland, for which he was intended, he became a teacher, first at the Annan Grammar School, and afterwards at Kirkcaldy, where he met his first love, Margaret Gordon, the "Blissful" of "Sartor Resartus." In 1826 he settled in Edinburgh and married Jane Walsh—a woman of great ability, who claimed descent from John Knox and Sir William Wallace. He contributed articles to the "Edinburgh Review," and in 1837 began a series of lectures which were attended by all the great thinkers of the age; from that time his fame was established, and he was recognized as a leader of men. His influence, however, has proved less enduring than had been predicted, and undoubtedly his glorification of Prussian methods in his long "Life of Frederick the Great" (completed in 1865) is not calculated to enhance his reputation for foresight in this age. Again, the revelations of Froide in the "Life" and "Reminiscences" proved unfortunate, causing a controversy of which even yet the echoes have not wholly died down. Still, his "History of the French Revolution," though later research has upset many of its verdicts, contains much memorable writing, despite the defects of a Germanized and eccentric style. The first volume of this work was completed in May, 1836, but a disastrous accident delayed publication. Lent by Carlyle to John Stuart Mill, the manuscript was mistaken for waste paper by the latter's housemaid, and went to light the fire! It was a stunning blow—all the more severe because Carlyle was in strained circumstances; but after a time, during which, as he later confessed, he occupied himself chiefly in leaning upon his back, and reading various novels, he rallied his resolution sternly set himself to begin again. So doggedly did he work that in September the volume was ready. Generally, it was received with enthusiasm, and though some criticisms struck discordant notes, a chorus of approval, the result of establishing Carlyle's reputation. Hereforward, his word always commanded a hearing, and in old age he attained to something of the public standing as the Sage of Chelsea.

Whichever you choose it will be the BEST you ever tasted.

Evening Telegram

Saturday, December 3, 1921.

The President's Address.

The "Wordy" President of the Fishermen's Protective Union has made his annual address; has issued his periodical fulmination against all and sundry who oppose him, either politically or otherwise.

Newfoundland at large can well imagine, or can visualise the spectacle of sundry paid servants of a commercial undertaking, meeting in solemn conclave and adjudicating upon the whole problem of the island's trade, whether at home or abroad.

The "Wordy" President has the happy knack of deluding his following in certain directions. He uses the English language without regard to truth or consistency, that he may make an impression upon his ultra susceptible followers: those men who hang upon him because of the huge salaries they are able to draw from the Treasury, without giving any apparent equivalent service in return.

The express with the Sagona's mails and passengers left Port aux Basques after the arrival of the ship last night, and is due here to-morrow. The Sagona was delayed by a storm in leaving North Sydney and did not reach Port aux Basques until after 7 o'clock last night.

inary way. His address to the F.P.U. Convention contains many points which are open to criticism. As such we shall treat them, and when he introduces his resolutions of condemnation of certain individuals who have dared to express sentiments in opposition to his desires, we will also consider these from the viewpoint of the populace, and not through the glasses of a subservient convention, called at the behest of Mr. Coaker, and ordered to boost him to the zenith of both commerce and politics.

Unveiling Memorial.

A Memorial Service will be held in Cochrans Street Methodist Centennial Church to-morrow morning, when the Memorial Tablet erected to the memory of our brave men who paid the supreme sacrifice during the late war, will be unveiled by His Excellency the Governor.

Municipal Elections.

PROBABLY 25 CANDIDATES. The nomination of candidates for the Municipal Election takes place at the T. A. Armoury on Monday next. There will be some 25 candidates for the office of Councillor. The following will be the probable nominees.

Declines Scholarship.

It is understood that Mr. Cecil J. Parsons who was elected Rhodes Scholar for this year, cannot accept the honour, and it will therefore be offered to Mr. Ralph LeMessurier, son of Mr. E. M. LeMessurier in an old fieldian and a veteran of the Great War.

Bodies Washed Ashore.

The Inspector General of Constabulary received the following message yesterday afternoon from Const. Carr of Grand Banks: "Body washed ashore at Muddy Hole on Nov. 26th and another body yesterday. The remains cannot be identified but are supposed to be the bodies of seamen Thornhill and Patton drowned on August 2nd."

Personal.

Mr. W. K. Chancey of Grand Falls, who was here with exhibits for the poultry show, returns home to-morrow's express. His exhibits won several prizes at the show. Mr. Joseph Sellars who has been at the General Hospital for some time has now left the Institution and yesterday was able to get down to his office.

Express Passengers.

The express with the Sagona's mails and passengers left Port aux Basques after the arrival of the ship last night, and is due here to-morrow. The Sagona was delayed by a storm in leaving North Sydney and did not reach Port aux Basques until after 7 o'clock last night.

Prime Minister Makes Additional Statement

CORRESPONDENCE IN CONNECTION WITH G.W.V.A. DEMAND. Sir Richard Squires told the Telegram this morning that he had read the interview in connection with the demands of a deputation of returned soldiers, published in this paper on Thursday, and had found it to be absolutely correct. The Telegram called upon the Prime Minister this morning to find what he had to say concerning the statement made yesterday by Mr. Purcell, a returned soldier and leader of the deputation. This statement declared that the facts given in an interview on the previous day were exaggerated in some cases, and also false in others.

Correspondence in Connection with G.W.V.A. Demand.

Dear Sir—Replying to yours of today's date, I beg to advise you that only two holders of official positions in this Department, at the present time were eligible for service during the war, viz:—Reginald Manning, who applied and failed to pass examination, and Reginald Netten, who I understand, was exempted through domestic obligations. The other officials were ineligible owing to age and other disqualifications.

THE SOLDIER'S DEMAND.

"I wrote down the demands of the deputation as made," said Sir Richard, "and as I regarded them as preposterous and unbelievable, I repeated them over to the members as they were written. Moreover, before the interview ended I went over the whole thing again to make absolutely pure that the demands made had been properly noted. The deputation said the demands noted were as made." Sir Richard proved his statement, showed the Telegram the original notes made by him at the time. The demands were as follows:—

From the Public Works Department, the deputation demanded that 25 per cent of the present officials, not including ex-service men who held jobs during the war, should be dismissed. The men named were Mr. Joyce, Road Accountant, who they said, was old and should be pensioned; Mr. R. Netten, Assistant Road Accountant, Mr. Manning, third clerk, and two other clerks, whose names the deputation did not know. They also asked for the dismissal of Mr. Woods, the fireman. These, according to Sir Richard, were specific demands for immediate dismissal, either summarily or with pensions.

The dismissal of the fireman at Government House was asked for. They also wanted five men to be dismissed from the Controller's Department out of a staff of eight. Other demands were the dismissal of one of the six civilians employed at the General Hospital; two of the four civilians employed at the Fever Hospital, and so on. Asked by the Prime Minister who should decide what civil servants should be dismissed, the deputation said it would be the duty of the various Departmental Heads. The correspondence referred to above is herewith appended.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Department of Public Works, St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 29th, 1921. Dear Sir—I beg to enclose copy of letter received from the secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, and wish to call your attention to the request contained therein. Of course as far as I am concerned, while I remain in this office, I shall never consent to such an outrage. I said to the deputation of about fifteen or twenty who waited on me with this request: "You want me then to put these men with their families on the street, and appoint you in their places, and they said YES that is what we want."

I also enclose copies of my reply to Capt. Whitty. Comment on the actions of those men I consider unnecessary, as the request carries its own condemnation with it. Yours faithfully, W. B. JENNINGS, Minister Public Works.

Life in Danger.

A man who had stowed away on S. S. Sachem on her last trip to this port, appeared before Judge Morris this morning. When ordered to go back to the ship, he protested, stating that he was in danger of his life whilst aboard. Judge Morris told him if this were true, he could make a deposition. In the meantime, if the captain of the ship refused to take account aboard, he was to be summoned.

The Right Time for Christmas Shopping.

There is a story to the effect that Napoleon lost the Battle of Waterloo because one of his Generals had a new uniform. This General was ordered to have reinforcements at a certain point at a definite time. When the time of starting came, it was raining and the General, not wishing to get his new uniform wet, delayed fifteen minutes in starting. When he arrived, the battle was over, and Napoleon lost his opportunity of becoming a world ruler, all because one man was late.

The Advent service at St. Thomas's Church last evening was short but very beautiful. It consisted of a hymn, the Litany, another hymn, an address by the Rector from the text "I will wash my hands in Innocency," then one of the Metrical Litanies sung kneeling. The Rector and congregation taking alternative verses, and the Benediction. Similar services will be held each Friday evening during Advent.

Garland—Soldier Candidate for Councillor.

Although full political equality has been denied the majority of women of the electorate, nevertheless the right of women taking their place in politics has never been disputed by voters of the opposite sex and it has been through the red tape of officialdom that they have been debarred from being co-workers with men in the wider scope of citizenship.

To the Women Voters

C. F. GARLAND, Ex-Lieut. Royal Newfoundland Regiment.

Should you honour me with your vote, thereby facilitating my election, I will endeavour to prove myself worthy of your trust and support by my determination to bring about a change in the existing law in order that the privileges now enjoyed by you may be extended to all women.

"The man with the twelve planked platform." I THANK YOU

Garland—Soldier Candidate for Councillor.

Although full political equality has been denied the majority of women of the electorate, nevertheless the right of women taking their place in politics has never been disputed by voters of the opposite sex and it has been through the red tape of officialdom that they have been debarred from being co-workers with men in the wider scope of citizenship.

To the Women Voters

LADIES.— On the fifteenth of this month we arrive at an epoch when over 1,000 pioneer women voters (about one-fifth of the eligible electors) will register their votes in the Municipal Election, thereby taking upon themselves the equality and responsibility of helping to elect the Civic Board for the ensuing four years.

C. F. GARLAND, Ex-Lieut. Royal Newfoundland Regiment.

Should you honour me with your vote, thereby facilitating my election, I will endeavour to prove myself worthy of your trust and support by my determination to bring about a change in the existing law in order that the privileges now enjoyed by you may be extended to all women.

To the Electors of St. John's.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—
Having been pressed by numerous friends to enter the Municipal contest, I have decided to offer myself as a Candidate in the forthcoming Election. The outstanding features of my policy will be the conservation of the Taxpayer, and amongst the necessary improvements which I intend advocating will be the inauguration of a Public Market Place and the extension of the Street Car Service to the Higher Levels.

TAXATION HAS REACHED THE LIMIT.
This is to be a place fit to call home; we must call a halt and get back to the simple life. Instead of looking for more sources of taxation to worry and harass the already overburdened Taxpayer, my frank and honest conviction is, if Council work was put out to tender and contracted for, there would be ample funds for all our needs if public monies were conserved. It would not play fast and loose with. We have a huge city debt, and our duty is to see that it is not increased but reduced. Our slogan must be ECONOMIZE.

PUBLIC MARKET PLACE FOR ST. JOHN'S A NECESSITY.
It is obvious to all who have visited any country outside Newfoundland the great blessing it confers on producer and consumer alike. Beside, the Town or City which possesses such a valuable asset. In Towns in England, Ireland and Scotland, where the population is from 10,000 to about 15 or 20,000, you find a weekly market, and in larger ones a daily one. It would encourage the producer to increased production, lower the cost of living to the consumer. The money that would change hands would go into the shops and stores. Market Day would be our Red Letter Day.

The development of Agriculture would be encouraged. Tens of thousands of acres of valuable land now lying waste would be tilled. Idle lands like idle hands are a curse to any country. In 1898 the late Hon. E. M. Jackman got a Government grant of Ten thousand dollars for the above purpose. With accrued interest there is available about $20,000 (now in Bank).

THE STREET CAR SERVICE TO THE HIGHER LEVELS.
Next summer this shall have my hearty support. In conclusion, you can judge best of my merits or demerits.

I thank you in anticipation for your vote and influence.

Believe me, respectfully,
THOMAS PEEL,
Late Water Street.

Youthful Criminals.

SCREENED TO SECURE WATCH.
How two boys whose ages were 12 and 14 years respectively, schemed to steal a watch, was told in the magistrate's Court this morning. The accused were charged with stealing a watch from R. H. Trapnell's. One boy was implicated in the slide robbery reported yesterday and the other, pleaded guilty to the larceny of $10 from a cash drawer. The manner in which they obtained the watch would have done credit to a much older and more skilful criminal. The two boys entered Trapnell's shop, having first decided what watch in the window they were going to take. They asked the clerk for a watch which they said was there for repair, and whilst he went to look for it, the younger boy took the watch from the window. It was found later by the police in the cellar of his home. His Honor, in commenting on the case, said he was in the unfortunate position of having to send these two young boys to the Penitentiary. He would give them a chance as it was their first offence, of paying a fine of $25, but this would be inflicting a hardship on the parents, which they could ill afford. He had no option but to sentence the accused to three months' imprisonment, unless the fine could be paid.

Union Jack Prominent.

Canadians Hugely Pleased.
Washington. (By Canadian Press.)—To Canadians who are residents of the U. S. cities a pleasing novelty, incidental to the Conference on the Limitation of Armament is the promiscuous display of the English flag in Washington. With the flags of the other Powers represented at the big international meeting, it hangs from all of the public buildings and is a prominent feature of the decoration scheme of hundreds of stores and private houses.

"It was worth coming down here just to see the old Union Jack flying," said a member of the New York Canadian Club the other day. He had run down to Washington to get a close-up view of the conference. The free display of the British flag and the sentiment of friendliness toward the British Empire which was reflected in this hanging out of Britain's banner appeared to be the feature of the gathering which impressed him most. "Back in New York," he added, "I have not seen the flag for several years, except at the Canadian Club."

No attempt has been made by the Sinn Féin faction to interfere in any way with this visible sign of the spirit of good-will which the vast majority of the U. S. citizens here feel toward their visiting cousins from the Old Country. The Sinn Féiners, if they attempted to follow the policy of their New Year anti-British brethren in the matter of flags, would have an extremely busy time pulling down all of the Union Jacks which are flying in Washington to-day. Moreover they would most likely have an extremely unpleasant time as well, for the Washington authorities have been very careful precautions to prevent the possibility of any unfriendly demonstration.

Indeed, the U. S. Government has been the sole target for abuse thus far. Pickets bearing large banners paraded in front of the Conference Hall on the days of the plenary session. The banners carried legends saying uncomplimentary things about Uncle Sam for failure to release "political prisoners," and lauding the other nations represented at the conference for having done so. The pickets were members of the American Civil Liberties League, and a number of ex-service men were included in their ranks. One banner demanded in large letters that Eugene V. Debs be given his freedom.

Peace Excluded.

WASHINGTON.—(By Canadian Press)—Dressed in white from head to foot, with a dove decorating her hat, a woman appears among the crowd which congregates daily before the building where the delegates to the Conference on the Limitation of armament meet. In one hand she carries the U. S. flag, and in the other a placard with "Peace" in large letters. At one of the full sessions she made repeated efforts to gain admission, but as she had no card she could not get past even the outer guard. "I represent Peace," she yelled, "and they won't let me in."

It was reported yesterday that a resident of Tor's Cove, named Power, had been found dead in a field near his home. Terrible Experience of Nfld. Mariners.

Four days and nights without sleep—One man washed overboard.

Of all the thrilling tales of hardship at sea reported by survivors of wrecks on the Atlantic, none were more intense in human interest than that told by Capt. George Yarn and the other five survivors of the schooner Vogue, from which they were rescued in a sinking condition on the 17th inst., about 150 miles from St. John's, Newfoundland, and who arrived here Saturday night on their way to their homes in the ancient colony.

The Vogue, a staunch craft four years old, owned by A. E. Hickman & Co., of St. John's, sailed from Quirpon, Newfoundland, on the 12th of November for Gibraltar with a full cargo of fish. Scarcely was the vessel out of sight of the little fishing port when she ran into the teeth of a wicked Nor'easter. All Sunday the wind continued in violence and to add to the troubles of the skipper and crew a very thick snow storm prevailed.

Before Capt. Yarn could prevent it the ship's canvas began to tear up. Mighty seas swept the deck, but in the face of it all Bert Power, Joseph Emery, Allan Barrett and James Dollymont managed to get out on the bowsprit in order to bend a jib. Just as they were about to return to the deck a giant sea struck the almost helpless craft, carrying poor young Dollymont to his doom.

Not a sound came from the victim, who was seen by his comrades as he struck the water. Capt. Yarn quickly brought the schooner about and the willing seamen launched a dory, but before it was possible to do so Dollymont disappeared forever from view.

The crew with difficulty secured the dory and were about to resume their places when it was discovered the ship was leaking badly. As the men began to man the pumps the fury of the sea increased, and throughout the night not a soul on board closed an eye. Next day the ship was devoid of canvas, only a few straggling remnants left swinging to their fastenings. Even the boats were either smashed into kindlings or were washed away.

The state of the men's feelings can be imagined during the awful four days and nights previous to their rescue. With not a stitch of workable canvas and the water constantly increasing in the hold, sleep was out of the question for these six hardy sons of Terra Nova. Little wonder, therefore, as one of the men told the North Sydney Herald, "we prayed day and night for deliverance, and as the day began to fade away in the solemn hours of evening on Thursday, the 17th, we finally resigned ourselves to our God, expecting every moment our end would come, when, like a phantom in the night the dark out-lines of a ship away off on our lee, now in sight.

Revived by the sight, the fatigued men—who but the sturdy Newfoundland toiler of the sea could stand such a nerve-wrecking experience?—gave vent to their feelings by a shout of joy and thanksgiving. Slowly the unknown hero down on the doomed schooner. This was about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 17th, but so boisterous was the sea that the steamer, which proved to be the Ella Clausen, on her way from Manchester, England, to Boston, was unable to launch a boat. However, the captain remained in the vicinity until about 9 o'clock that night when a friendly moon shone forth from behind the ominous clouds.

A boat was launched from the Norwegian in which were seven men who were willing to risk their lives for their fellow seamen. There was no easy task, but after a desperate battle with the elements, Capt. Yarn and his surviving crew were taken off and landed on board the Norwegian, which took them to Boston.

"Such treatment as we received on board the Ella Clausen," seaman Bert Power told the Herald yesterday, "could not be exceeded by the hands of man. The officers, all Norwegians, the remainder of the crew being Germans, did everything humanly possible for us, even giving us their beds."

It was afterwards learned that the rescue steamer had been driven 200 miles out of her course, and was seven days overdue at Boston, owing to the terribly severe weather encountered on the voyage from England. But it was a lucky thing that she was, otherwise six sturdy sons of Newfoundland would have been added to the awful toll of Old Ocean.

James Dollymont, who was washed overboard and lost about 60 miles off Cape Sable, was 21 years of age. His parents reside at English Harbour, West, Newfoundland. Mrs. Stephen Smith, who resides on the Gannon Road, is an aunt. The survivors, who will sail to-morrow night on the Sagona, are George Yarn, captain; Joseph Emery, mate; Thomas Yarn, cook. The seamen are Bert Power, Ephraim Yarn and Allan Barrett. With the exception of the latter, who belongs to St. John's, and Joseph Emery, English Harbour, the remainder of the crew belong to English Harbour, West—North Sydney Herald, Nov. 28.

No Morality by Legislation.

IMPROVEMENTS ONLY POSSIBLE THROUGH EDUCATION.

NEW YORK.—There'll be no regulation of skirt lengths, no ban on bare knees, no outcry against the bobbing of tresses, or the parking of corsets by her employees, when Miss Anna Mathews takes over, on January 1, the office to which she has just been elected as registrar of the County of New York—the richest political plum that has ever fallen into the lap of a woman in New York, if not in the entire United States. Not that the $12,000-a-year registrarship hasn't very decided ideas on clothes, and all the allied arts so precious to women. Indeed, she has spent the greater part of her 40-odd years studying the clothes problem, first as dressmaker, then a designer and finally as an importing modiste. But she has even more decided ideas on the question of personal liberty.

"I am opposed to all prohibition," she said. "It is impossible to make men or men moral by legislation. The human race can be improved only by education that will make them appreciate the good and the artistic. If any of my young women employees ask for my advice on clothes, I shall give it. And the most important thing I will tell them is to wear something appropriate for the occasion. A woman's business attire, or house attire certainly should be simple."

Busy herself at the time receiving congratulations at her campaign headquarters, Miss Mathews' attire emphasized her formula. A plain blue serge dress, softened at the throat by a bit of embroidered linen collar. Black high shoes. No jewelry. Copper colored hair simply coiffed. "Skirt lengths, bobbed hair, the question of corsets or none," she went on, with a twinkle from behind her pince-nez glasses, "are largely matters of taste—and of figures. All this talk about depravity among young women makes me a bit weary. I believe the young people are as good as young people ever were. Of course there are and always have been extremists. But—well, I don't think I will be troubled with these, for I can tell a great deal about character by the clothes one wears. Yes, even the standardized clothes of men."

Miss Mathews enters on her new job of keeping the country's debts, mortgages and leases with but one preconceived idea—that there shall be no prejudice either for or against any of her 150 employees because they happen to be women.

Liquor Cargo in Transit.

CANADIAN CUSTOMS COULD NOT HOLD VESSEL.

The little French schooner Yvette, with her precious cargo of high grade liquors and champagnes, which came into port under stress of weather, only to fall into the hands of the Customs, is still at Musgrave's wharf waiting favorable weather to proceed on her journey to Nassau, in the Bahamas, says the North Sydney Herald of Tuesday last, Nov. 29. The schooner cleared from St. Pierre, and when forced into the port of North Sydney, her skipper immediately complied with the Customs regulations in detail. The inland revenue cutter Restless, however, at once tied up on the eastern side of the same wharf, and Customs boarding the schooner taking an inventory of the rich cargo. At the same time a watchman kept vigil day and night, while a flow of telegrams in code was kept up between the department and Ottawa and the inland revenue officers here. Despite the plea of the skipper that he had no intention of violating any law, the officers were obdurate. However, all the trouble was in vain. The department lacking facts to further hold the vessel, ordered her freed, and yesterday Collector of Customs McPherson gave her her papers.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE BIGGEST OF SMALL VICES.

Is chronic irritability a cause for divorce anywhere? Because it seems to me that if it isn't it ought to be. Does anything in the world cause more unhappiness than this habit of irritability? You understand that I don't mean moments of irritability such as we all give way to under the pressure of circumstances. You bump your knee against a sharp piece of furniture and the next person who speaks to you is apt to get an irritable reply. Or you open your mail at the breakfast table and find something very disappointing or worrying in it, and when your wife asks the next minute if you want your egg boiled or fried, you say you don't care how she has it, you're sick of eggs anyway.

The New Psychology Allows An Occasional Damn.

That sort of thing happens in every family. Of course there are people who have enough self-control to overcome even these outbursts, but they are rare, and anyhow the new psychology questions the wisdom of such rigorous repression.

But what I mean by the habit of as the fortunes of war, you try to make your wife feel by your irritable comments that she is to blame. As I look I see I have fallen into the use of the masculine pronoun. There's a reason and it isn't mere carelessness. It is because there are ten men who indulge in the habit of irritability to one woman.

Why the Pronoun "He" Comes Natural.

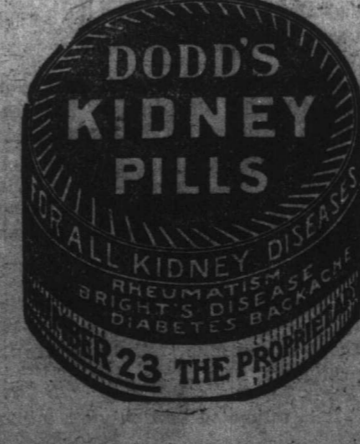

This may be partly because modern business and economic conditions put a man under a constant strain of anxiety.

But I think the larger factor in the case is that there are ten women who will put up with irritability in a mate to one man that will.

And when you can be a tyrant, it's awfully hard not to be.

The habit of reacting pleasantly, or at least matter of factly, to life, and the habit of reacting irritably—between these two lies a world of difference in happiness and peace for those about you.

Of course there are times when the habit of irritability has its seat in some form of ill health. But there are many other times when it is just a careless, thoughtless habit, an indulgence permitted himself by its possessor because he hasn't the faintest conception of how to rid himself of it.

Oldest Palace in the World.

The oldest royal residence in the world is Windsor Castle. It has developed out of the hunting lodge of Saxon Kings erected on its site long before the Conquest. Edward the Confessor turned the lodge into a palace. From Windsor, Harold virtually ruled all England. Then came William the Conqueror, and with his modern ideas rebuilt the castle with stone. Henry III. added to its size. Queen Elizabeth had a hand in its construction. William IV. laid out the best part of a million in improving it. Queen Victoria spent £20,000 on the stables; King Edward put in electric light and brought the castle up to date in every detail.

Yes, it is up to date now, this oldest royal residence in the world, but there are men still living who will tell you that in days gone by they found it a very uncomfortable place to stay at.

A certain peer once when stopping at Windsor had to go himself in search of a glass of water for an eminent cardinal who, after being shifted from one bedroom to another on his

MY COLUMN

(By The CUB-EDITOR.)
ON BEING FUNNY.

I should think the professional humorist is about the saddest fellow in the world. This may seem a very incongruous statement to some. If you are of that opinion, then take it from me, you are wrong. I do not lay claim to being a professional humorist, but I do try to be funny occasionally and meet with more or less success. From my own experience, I am convinced that trying to write a humorous article is the most difficult thing there is. If people who read funny stories knew just how much work and worry was experienced by the writer of it before they were completed, they would be more ready to weep than laugh. That may be rather a sweeping statement, but it is none the less true. Imagine a poor writer, specialising in humorous stories, wondering as he plods away, at a tale, whether he will earn enough by it to pay for his next week's rent. Around him sit his care worn wife and his large and hungry family. Some are on biscuit boxes, others on the floor, for every chair except the one on which he sits has gone to the pawn shop. He is weary in mind and body, tragedy stares him in the face, he realises that if his story is not funny enough to please an exacting editor, he will be compelled to join the habitues of the soup kitchen. In this state, he is compelled to plod away at his story. Imagine one trying to be funny under such circumstances. Ah, gentle reader, (Editor)—"That is evidently meant for me as I am probably the only reader you have." Author—"At any rate, you're the only one who reads my editorials." Well, as I was saying when the Editor so rudely interrupted, little do you realise how many of the stories which bring smiles to your homely faces, are written under conditions similar to those I have tried to describe to you. It is no joke being funny. You have my word for it.

Neatly Trapped.

Miss Edith Evans, the well-known actress, who is winning such golden opinions in Bernard Shaw's new play, "Heartbreak House," is as witty as she is pretty.

Some little time back she was at a social gathering when some men started talking teasingly about the vanity of women.

Miss Evans, being one of the very few ladies present, promptly sprang into the breach in defence of her sex.

"Of course," she said, "I admit that women are vain, and men are not."

"Why?" she added, with a glance around, "the collar of the handsomest man in the room is even now rumpled up at the back and out of shape."

And then she smiled for every man present had put his hand up behind his neck!

Moths Make Money.

HIG PRICES FOR RARE BUTTERFLIES.

At a recent auction sale of insects, considerable interest was caused by the high prices given for what appeared to be common moths and butterflies that anyone could catch.

Of course, every common moth is not worth money. Take, for instance, the magpie moth, which is a perfect nuisance to smallholders. Thousands of its species hatch out every year. When mounted it is worth a penny. But when the spots on its forewings have blurred together in a black mass it is worth two guineas!

The "woolly bear" caterpillar is notable on account of the fact that it is a weed-eater. But when it hatches out into a Tiger moth it may become valuable. Again, the value depends upon the markings. When the spots are clear the specimen is worth twopence; when blurred it is worth three guineas.

Worth Hundreds of Pounds.

Most people know that the male cabbage butterfly has pure white forewings tipped with jet-black. The female, on the other hand, has forewings marked with two very neat round black spots, which are a distinctive set-off to her appearance.

Specimens have been caught on which one of the forewings is plain white, and the other marked with spots. Only experts could detect the sex, but for such a specimen four guineas is no unusual price.

Common blue butterflies have their peculiarities too. Sometimes the brilliant blue of their wings is interwoven with dark, smoke-like bands. These are known as "trayed" specimens. They are of great interest to scientists, and as much as five guineas has been given for an insect which ordinarily would have been worth a penny.

Miss Leone is the home of really valuable insects, and while rare specimens are not found every day, there are still certain kinds which fetch the lucky finders many hundreds of pounds.

Five Thousand Muscles.

These butterflies lay few eggs, and of these fewer still hatch out successfully. Consequently specimens and their value is increasing steadily. No one has ever counted the wing spots of these rare African moths. Even the muscles number between four and five thousand. They provide thrills in hunting as great as those in big-game expeditions.

A flock of closely pleated crepe de chine is worn with a sleeveless coat of surtint.

A hat of black felt has six laquered quills thrust smartly through its brim.

Eight Persons Lost Their Lives.

FIVE BODIES WERE FOUND IN YAWL.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 27.—Latest developments in the loss of the steamer City of New York, which foundered ten miles off Sydney Point, while on her way from Oswego to Trenton with a cargo of coal, shows that eight lives were lost. Five bodies were found in the yawl, picked up late Friday afternoon by the steamer Isabelle, and Captain Harry Randall, his ten months' old child, and Stanley Papa, aged twelve of Sealey's Bay, are still missing. Four of the five bodies found in the yawl have been identified by Captain John Randall, father of the master of the ill-fated steamer. Those identified are:—

Mrs. Harry Randall, of Sealey's Bay, 31 years of age.

Mate Wesley Warren, of Sealey's Bay, aged 30.

Engineer Harry Dorey, of Kingston, aged 31.

Deckhand Gilbert Dorey, of Kingston, aged 17.

The fifth body has not yet been identified, but it is described as that of a fair haired boy, about sixteen or seventeen years of age.

It was first reported that two Gallagher brothers, of Kingston, Joseph and Frank, had been lost, but it is now believed that they were not on the steamer when it left Oswego. The description of the unidentified boy does not answer that of either of the Gallagher brothers, who are declared to be dark haired men.

Died of Exposure.

The bodies found in the yawl were all fully dressed. The death are attributed to exposure. Whether Captain Harry Randall and the two children were in the exposed yawl of the City of New York, which was picked up yesterday, will never be definitely known. But it is thought that the captain would never venture in a yawl alone with the children and determined to be the last to leave his ship must have gone down with the vessel, not having time to jump into the yawl in which the other five were, and which will hold twelve persons.

The time of the accident will never be definitely established.

The City of New York left Oswego at a quarter past three Thursday morning, and the yawl with its five lifeless bodies were picked up Friday about five o'clock. Mate Warren and the Dorey brothers were unmarried.

The Doreys were with Captain Randall for about a month. The youngster, who had a land job this summer, when laid off, said he would go sailing in order to earn some money for Christmas.

"Misteries" of London.

ABOUT THE OLD CITY GUILDS.

The Lord Mayor's Show brings into prominence again the Ancient Livery of the City of London—some of the oldest Trades Unions in existence.

The Livery is, new even now, a powerful body, and the officials of the various companies loom large in the "Show."

The Lord Mayor is, in fact, elected by the Livery, the Court of Aldermen formally confirming the selection.

The various guilds or "misteries" were originally formed for trade protection purposes, but now exist mainly as charitable institutions. The companies embrace all sorts of trades, some of which are now extinct, among them the Bowyers (makers of bows), the Brokers (or embroiderers), the Girders and the Upholders.

The Charters of Incorporation contain some quaint allusions to the various trades.

The freemen of the Bakers Company once acted as inspectors of weights and measures in regard to their own trade. They had Royal authority to "search and weigh bread to be made in the City and for twelve miles in the suburbs," and to mete out appropriate punishment to those who were dishonest. These powers existed until 1882.

When Barbers Pulled Teeth.

Barbers, as we now know them, are generally far removed from thoughts of surgery, yet once the barber practised all that was then known of that science.

One of this Company's Charters notes that the craft "has sustained great application and labour in the healing of wounds and blows and other infirmities, and in the letting of blood"—ominous phrase!—and the drawing of teeth." This Guild nowadays distributes charity to "decayed liverymen."

The Butchers, formerly had great power. In the time of Edward II. they, with full authority seized some meat which was found to be bad. Then they also seized its owner

Every Man Eager & Expectant!

TWO QUESTIONS:

"HIS" "Do They Know What I Want?"

"YOUR'S" "What Shall I Give --to a Man?"

There are many things he will want—a few of them he will get. And he will get many useless things. It is so every Christmas.

But to get the merry ripples dancing on his face Christmas morning when he uncovers to his delighted view some exquisite example of the art sartorial—a pure Silk Tie with a crisp crackle that denotes its goodness—a pair of Jaeger Slippers lined with caressing wool, enticing the feet with cosiness—staunch knit Gloves filled with a warmth that never leaves them—a snug Wool Muffler. Yes, men do like comfort, and they want it seasoned with Style and True Value. With these preferences men's buying habits have become fixed—fixed to this store. It would be cheating him out of one-half the joy that should be his if receiving your Gifts were he to find any other label than this on what you send him—

"From Kearney's".

That means A Merry Christmas!

Special quality of Fishermen! Here's the Boot for You—"EXCEL"!

"EXCEL"
Made 'All in One Piece'

"EXCEL"

The Fishermen's Friend

All fishermen know from experience what happens to ordinary boots when used in fishing. You've seen how salt water seems to take the life out of rubber and how the uppers crack and the soles wear through in a surprisingly short time.

The "EXCEL" is a different and better kind of boot. It has been made especially to stand up under the unusually hard use a fisherman's boot gets.

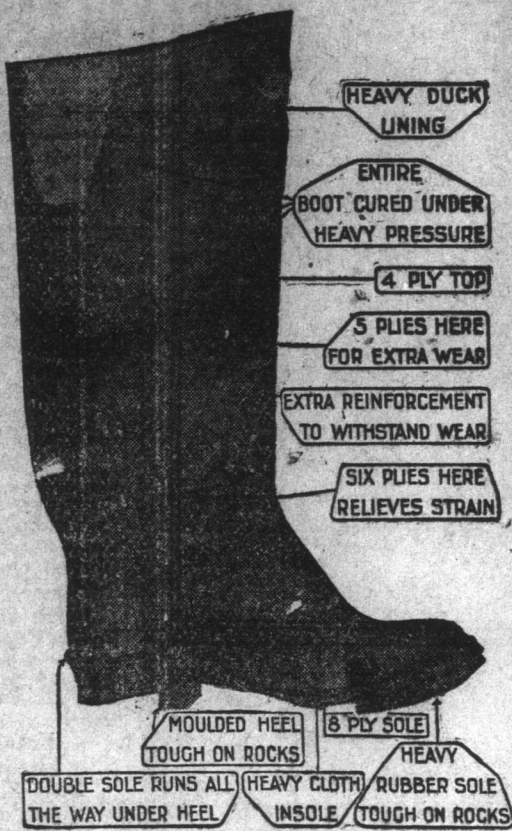

The rubber and fabric in "EXCEL" boots are of the very highest quality. But it is the special method of curing, under tremendous pressure, that makes the "EXCEL" so wear-resisting. The pressure forces the layers of rubber and fabric together so that they are actually "one-piece", without losing the least bit of the life or resiliency of the rubber. Salt water has practically no effect on "EXCEL" boots. The UPPERS remain pliable and weatherproof, and resist the drying-out action of sun, heat and extreme cold far longer than other boots. Consequently they don't crack anywhere near so quickly. The SOLES are almost wear-proof, because they are made like an Auto Tire, with 8 plies of rubber and fabric welded by tremendous pressure into a "tire-tread" sole that rivals an automobile tire for toughness and durability.

strain. There is not a single feature but what has been proved necessary and desirable by tests of several years. Your own experience will tell you that a boot with these features simply must be a better boot.

Study this picture. Learn these features. Remember them when you compare "EXCEL" boots with ordinary boots. And remember, too, that very important point which the picture cannot show, namely, that "EXCEL" boots are cured under tremendous pressure, which leaves the rubber pliable, weatherproof and wear-resisting. It is only by the use of this tremendous pressure combined with highest quality materials that the best results are obtained.

Pliable Uppers. Weatherproof and Wear Resisting. Tough Tire Tread Soles. Made "All in One Piece."

"EXCEL" Boots are sold by all reliable dealers from Coast to Coast.

MY COUNTRY.
I'd like to give my country all my best.
To feel somehow that I have earned her smile,
That she has found my little life worth while.
That I have never failed her in the test,
Never held self above her interest.
Or given ear to any traitor's glib,
But have been steadfast to the furthest mile.
And earned the right to sleep upon her breast.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"
Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.
Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Father of Shipping.

ROMANTIC STORIES OF LLOYD'S.
From a London coffee-house keeper, Lloyd's, the headquarters of the world's shipping insurance, derives its name.
Towards the end of the seventeenth century those interested in shipping matters were accustomed to meet at a small coffee-house in Tower Street. This was kept by a man named Edward Lloyd, who subsequently removed to the corner of Abchurch Lane and Lombard Street.
In 1696 Lloyd started a newspaper, which gave a list of ships' arrivals and sailings. The newspaper, which he called "Lloyd's List," succeeded until his founder published an article questioning a decision in the House of Lords.
Edward Lloyd was censured and his paper was suppressed. It was not until thirty years later that he was allowed to re-establish it. Since then "Lloyd's List" has appeared regularly.
At Every Port.
The frequenters of Lloyd's coffee-house were not permitted to enjoy their monopoly of marine insurance for long, and in 1720 Parliament allowed two other companies to be established in London.
About one hundred years later there was a Parliamentary inquiry into the monopoly, enjoyed by Lloyd's and these two companies. The House of Commons decided that Lloyd's had rendered such great service to the country by supplying the Government with information regarding maritime matters that it should retain its privileges.
Ten years later, however, an Act was passed by which marine insurance was thrown open, and since that date many other companies have been established.

When Judges Get Annoyed.

Only those behind the scenes in legal life know the strain on the nerves of counsel and judge entailed by a case with important issues.
One departed occupant of the Bench used to have his "knife into" several members of the Bar. The results were not edifying. There were squabbles which might easily have developed into feuds.
In the case of a judge long dead the feud on his side against certain counsel used to be acknowledged quite candidly. Peacemakers who went with the olive-branch were sent back to the principals with the intimation that the judge hated them. He was quite a good judge, too, but his likes and dislikes got the better of him and retarded his promotion.
A Chancery judge who had the reputation of being upset on appeal more frequently than any other was equally the victim of these particular prejudices, which led him into conflicts with counsel and even witnesses.
From Briefs to Bookmakers.
"Playing to the gallery does not go down in this court," was a favourite saying of his. The result was that if you had a spare hour and desired a little amusement you could usually get it as spectator of a "rough and tumble" in the court.
At Ascot one day a Chancery "special," who was given to "eggging" with the judge in question, was asked why he had left his briefs to attend the races. "I have been turned out of two courts to-day," he replied, genially, "so I thought I would give a miss to the only other court where I was wanted."
Lord Esher could be pettish on occasions. Here is a story well known to the Bar.
Mr. Oswald was opening an appeal at some length. Lord Esher kept fidgeting in his chair. At last he burst out: "Really, Mr. Oswald, you might give judges credit for a little common sense."
"That, my lord," Oswald answered, wincingly, "was the mistake I made in the court below."

DANDERINE

Stops Hair Coming Out; Thickens, Beautifies.

What He Sought.

Appropos the Lord Mayor's banquet, a good story was once told by Mr. Alderman Roll.
It concerned a certain invited guest who some years back, appeared in the banquet hall before any of the other guests had arrived, and was observed by the waiters to be going round the table testing the knives.
Asked if he was looking for something he replied:
"Yes, I cut my mouth with a sharp knife last year, and this year I thought I would try and find a blunt 'un."

Unsolved "Scent" Puzzles.

"Rose by any other name would smell as sweet," says Juliet, but neither she nor anyone else has succeeded in giving a satisfactory definition of the rose's wonderful perfume.
The whole problem of scent is, in fact, one of the most baffling known to man.
Rats are fond of aniseed. Some animals are attracted by musk and other repelled by it. Cats like valerian. Why? These are only a few of the many questions to which no answers is forthcoming.
No one knows why some scent will last for years, while others fade in a short time; or why, again, the perfume of certain white flowers are so overpowering.
These are mysteries on which science, with its record of astounding achievements in other directions seems able, strangely enough, to throw no light.

THE BEST COUGH SYRUP IS HOME-MADE.

Here's an easy recipe for it, and you have the best cough remedy you ever tried.
You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will surely earn it a permanent place in your home.
Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or extra syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.
It's really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.
Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give you satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ROYAL CARD PLAYERS.

The Prince of Wales has received a gift of a wonderful pack of cards, sent to him by an intimate friend.
They are hand-painted upon ivory, each of the Court cards being representative of a famous Royal personage. It would not be wise to mention the subjects selected for the "knave."
It is not likely that such a unique pack will ever be used in public; probably it will be locked away with another remarkable pack, once the property of King Edward. This set was presented by the ex-Kaiser, and was the work of a Berlin artist, who was reputed to have spent some months on the undertaking.
In this case the Court cards are represented by Kings, each face being composed of innumerable art faces—a really wonderful work of art. King George and Queen Mary are not

EXTENDED TRIP FOR FRENCH MARSHAL.

Marseilles, (Associated Press)—Marshal Joffre who left Marseilles on Armistice Day to visit Japan, will also make an extended tour of the countries bordering the Pacific Ocean, including Indo-China, Siam and China. He has been entrusted by the French Government with the task of carrying to the chiefs of the governments of the Far Eastern states that participated in the victory of the Allies, the salute and gratefulness of France. The Marshal's first call was to be at Port Said, where an official reception was planned. At Singapore, he will board the cruiser Montcalm, flagship of the French Far East squadron. At Saigon, the Marshal will visit the French possession of Indo-China for a few days as the guest of the Governor General of the colony. He will arrive at Bangkok about Dec. 20 and be received by the King of Siam which country was one of the Allied powers during the war. After visiting the states of Cambodia and Tonkin, Joffre, on the Montcalm accompanied by several destroyers, will proceed directly to Yokohama where he expects to arrive about Jan. 25. His sojourn in Japan will last about a month after which he will visit Peking, travelling by way of Seoul and Mukden. The present plans for his return trip are for the Marshal to reach France by way of Honolulu, San Francisco and New York.

Mr. McKenzie's Remarkable Statement.

Mr. Reginald McKenzie, chairman of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, and former Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech at the Chicago Commercial Club, declared Germany's payment of reparations to Great Britain and the repayment by the Allies of their war loans to Great Britain might "prove rather a curse than a blessing."

"We lose more in our country," said Mr. McKenzie, "by the existence of two million unemployed than we shall ever get in value from German reparations over a period of thirty years."

"I would rather see our people employed producing wealth than receiving a dribbling of wealth from Germany at the cost of being unemployed, and what we say of ourselves is true in a lesser degree of the United States."

"When we see these things we really begin to doubt whether it is for the benefit of the United Kingdom that reparations should be paid and whether the debts of the Allies to us, if paid, might not prove rather a curse than a blessing."

Students Dismissed.

FOR TAKING-OFF OFFICIALS.

Buenos Aires.—A number of students in the National College at Jujuy, who, while studying, also held government positions, for which they drew pay, have been dismissed from Government service for burlesquing government officials in an amateur theatrical performance which they gave at the college. They were charged with having portrayed the government officials "in a manner not consistent with the majesty of their office."

Knew Him Well.

The Bishop of Mauritius tells a good story of a visit he once paid to a small township in Australia.

As he was driving to the local church with the wife of his host, the lady asked him what his proper title was. "I really don't know what I ought to call you," she said, "should I address you as my lord, or bishop, or what?"

The bishop, who is noted for his keen sense of humor, replied jokingly, "Well, madam, some people call me a fool."

"Oh," said the lady quite seriously, "but surely they must know you very well!"

Rum Running Supersedes Fishing.

GREAT LIQUOR TRADE FROM GERMAN TO SWEDEN.

Stockholm, (Associated Press).—Run-running into Sweden from Germany has developed into something like a public scandal, says Swedish newspapers. The broken nature of the coast line and the thousands of small islands dotting the sea approach as are all in favor of smuggling enterprise. The crafts engaged in this trade are generally small, fast-sailing schooners, captained as a rule by ex-officers of the imperial German navy. The names of the skippers bear names well known in the records of submarine activity. Their daring and experience makes it very difficult for Swedish coastguards to stop them. From Reval, Rostock, Stettin, Lubek and other German ports these vessels put to sea, their cargo always consigned, according to the ship's papers, to some Finnish port. Once across the rocky archipelago of eastern Sweden, the cargo is landed piecemeal after night-fall on the rocks, from which it is later removed by accomplices ashore who have a widely ramified organization for the island distribution of the goods.

ENORMOUS TRAFFIC.

This illicit traffic is said by Swedish papers to be enormous. The papers are full of stirring stories about smugglers and their doings. They remain outside the territorial waters, cruising about until their friends seize their chance to rush out in fast motor boats, often in a heavy gale, tranship the liquor and disappear in the dangerous labyrinth of the archipelago. Lately the police have started a scheme to beat the rum-runners at their own game. The other day a police boat, camouflaged as a smuggling craft, boarded a German schooner and loaded the coast guards had boarded a ship which happened to be within the territorial limit. When the policemen tried to leave the schooner without paying, the smugglers threatened to throw them overboard and there was nothing for them but to pay for the liquor. In another case, the correspondent was told, a gale blew up soon after the coast guards had boarded a ship which happened to be within the three mile limit, and, owing to the dangerous coast, the ship had to put out to sea, taking the Swedish guards away to Germany. In Sweden and in Finland many of the coast population get their living by smuggling and refuse to go fishing and carry on their regular trade. In Finland, where total prohibition prevails, conditions are even worse than in Sweden. Fishing there has entirely ceased, it is said, because rum-running is far more profitable business.

M. J. O'Brien

A subject of special interest to those who drive motors, as well as pedestrians, is the "plank" for to-night, for many at the coming election, in the interest of all parties, that more efficient traffic control be promulgated in this city. The need of safety signals and "safety cops" which should be lighted at night and district signs instructing the drivers and pedestrians to keep to the left, is now becoming more fully realized than ever. It is recognized fact that citizens have prior rights, neither can they be blamed for using the middle of the street, when our sidewalks are in such a wretched condition, nevertheless the "powers that be" must get a handle on the cope with this traffic problem. If citizens' lives are not to be hourly held in jeopardy, as it now appears, driver and existing conditions, it puts the question to you voters: What have you to say about this present state of affairs? are you satisfied to have it as it is and be splashed and spattered with the filth and scum of our streets? by those careless drivers who should at least during wet weather drive more slowly and show some consideration for those who often through the neglect of careless ones, have spoiled what may be their "Sunday's best." Elect men on the board, who will see that this growing evil is curbed, and should not be a danger to guard your interests in this matter by working in harmony with the Motor Association for the "safety first" plan of installing those preventive devices against possible accidents, and of protection against rash and careless actions of irresponsible parties who show no consideration for the pedestrians. That these questions that O'Brien has introduced are issues that are approved of by the public is evident from the following extract which appears from to-day's "Comic Weekly":

MICHAEL J. O'BRIEN.

If Michael has been unknown to fame or has been hiding his light under a bushel in years gone by such is not the case since this campaign was opened, for he treats the citizens daily to most readable and interesting views of what could, would or should be done in matters Municipal provided that the electors decide to number him amongst our City Fathers. The most critical of civic voters cannot fail to find something of interest in Michael's multifarious pronouncements, from swings and open air rinks in the parks, to street car extensions to the remotest outskirts of the city; he has an entry a keen mind and appears to be a great student of affairs in that his statements are sensible and practical and must assuredly win him a large measure of support. As a retired mechanic he would have ample leisure to look after his civic interests and as a resident of the new annex to the city he would be specially interested in looking out for its welfare.

O'Brien deeply appreciates the Comic Weekly's corroboration of his opinion on civic affairs and assures them if he is on the winning ticket he shall do his best to introduce those measures. He concludes this subject by asking all those who want to help themselves to kindly strike on the ballot paper ONE VOTE FOR O'BRIEN.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

OBLIGED TO RETURN.
BELFAST, Dec. 3.
Three members of a Sinn Fein
Peace Delegation, bound for Dublin from England, were turned back on their voyage to-day, when the steamer
Cambria on which they were travelling, collided with a schooner soon after leaving Holyhead, England. The schooner, the name of which was not known, was carrying a crew of three, one of whom was drowned. The Cambria returned to Holyhead. The Irish delegates on board were Michael Collins, George Gavan Duffy and Erskine Childers.

HENDERSON ATTACKS ULSTER.
LONDON, Dec. 3.
Ulster's uncompromising attitude in the present negotiations for peace in Ireland was warmly attacked last night by Arthur Henderson, Secretary of the Labor Party and late member of the War Cabinet. Sinn Fein had made concessions, Henderson said, but Ulster refused to move an inch, taking shelter under Lloyd Geo-ge's pledge that he would not coerce Ulster. If Ulster entertains the wild dream that the British people will allow Sinn Fein to be dragged down because Ulster wants settlement on her own terms they are deluding themselves. Labor will oppose any such weakness.

ADVOCATES CO-OPERATION.
HALIFAX, Dec. 3.
"Stories of widespread destitution in Newfoundland have been greatly exaggerated," said Mr. A. B. Morine in an address before the Commercial Club of Halifax. He said there was readjustment common to all the world, but acute in Newfoundland.
Newfoundland, he said, was not unlike Canada, had too many railways.
They had bitten off more than they could chew. Speaking of the fish trade
Mr. Morine said there should be cooperation between those having fish to sell and exporters. He had been called the great high priest of Confederation, he said, but he was no longer such. From now on he would be anti-Confederation. Every political party in Newfoundland always charged that the other party was in favor of Confederation, but there was no champion of this cause left in Newfoundland to-day.

GREAT BRITAIN SATISFIED.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.
(By Ben Descon, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Great Britain is likely to find herself the one nation that will be completely satisfied by the results of the present Conference.
That is, because her objects in entering the Conference were so simple and clear. This statement was made to a group of Canadian newspapermen by a representative of the British delegation to the Washington Conference, who occupies a high position in the British official party. The British objects in entering the Conference, he said, were "first to aid in the prevention of a possible conflict between Japan and the United States," second,

"determination to cement Anglo American friendship." The objects were so simple that some of the representatives of other nations appeared to find it very difficult to understand the British attitude, he said.

WOULD CAUSE COMPLICATIONS.
BERLIN, Dec. 3.
Berlin financiers express the opinion that the Moratorium or long term loan would be beset with numerous complications for Germany, and would not prove to be the complete blessing that has been suggested. In the event that Germany was granted a three years moratorium, experts predict that she would have to provide France with international credit to enable her to keep up to French budget, which is based on present reparations terms.

Scalers Leaving.
A party of thirty men, comprising experienced scalers and their assistants, leave by to-morrow's express for the North where pulp wood is being cut for the Government. Twenty three of these men are returned soldiers.
The scalers must, of necessity, be experienced men, but this does not apply to their assistants. The scaling list is now completed and it is useless for any to apply for a job in this connection.

Horse Racing Preparations.
A meeting of the Horsemen's Association will likely be held in a few days, when arrangements in connection with the winter Derby will be considered.
It is proposed that the event takes place in the early part of the season, and that there should be several race days. There are a number of fast horses, which will be seen for the first time and the races should prove interesting. The race for the $50 Victory
Bund offered by Mr. H. Macpherson for the fastest 2 1/2 year old after Howard Mann, will come off this season.

UNJUST TAXATION.

Taxation is the one great burden that every House-owner and Tenant is greatly concerned about. Many are continually at their wits end to know how to meet it. In fact, we are being bled white with taxation to-day, more particularly Unjust Taxation.

I have been approached by scores of voters the past fortnight concerning the new Assessment—the City's Form of Taxation. Properties are being rated at a time when values are temporarily inflated. This tax is being unjustly levied. I have heard of cases in which the taxes are about to be increased anywhere from 10 to 250%, others to remain as before. Why such discrimination? I have yet to learn of them being reduced; is it because Householders elect to keep their homes clean and bright and take delight in decorating the exterior, thereby beautifying their locality and the city in general, that they are a mark to be fished for more taxes? The system is rotten, rotten to the core.

We are politely told by the Civic authorities that such is the Law; therefore you will agree with me that the Law should be amended. I pledge myself that with your help, that is, the help of every House-owner and Tenant in the city, that I will move an amendment to it. Voters just think of it, wages and salaries being throttled down and city taxes soaring skywards. Are you going to stand for it. You have the means; show your disapproval by voting for and down with taxes. More to follow.

FRED J. ROIL
CANDIDATE FOR CITY COUNCILLOR.
