A Clear, Beautiful Skin

There are millions of tiny openings or pores in the skin and these must be kept open and clean if the beauty of the skin is to be maintained.

Because it cleanses these pores and encourages the healthful action of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment is most effective as a skin beautifier. Roughness, redness, pimples and all sorts of skin blemishes disappear by its use, and the skin is left clear, smooth and velvety.

At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit

STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XVI.

"No; I pledge you my word that I never did. Before I loved you and every thought of my heart was concentrated on you, I was perhaps given to admiring every pretty girl I saw. I could not help it," acknowledged the handsome young fellow, blushing for his weakness; "and I may have admired her. But I was on my guard, Dolores, from the first moment I saw that she was kind enough to take any interest in me. I have never misled her in any respect—neither by work or look. You believe me, do you not?"

"Yes, implicitly. I see no motive for deception. If you had wished to marry her, you could have done so. My faith and trust in you are perfect, Karl."

In the troubled after time, those words, "My faith and trust in you are perfect, Karl," came to her again and again; they pierced her heart with their memories and stood before her like letters of fire.

"You must see for yourself, Dolores," he continued, "that our wedding will put a stop at once to all this kind of things. Now look at me with your sweetest smile. Say 'Yes,' and let me have the infinite happiness of beginning to prepare Scarsdale for you."

She whispered the word; and, if ever any man felt grateful to Heaven, felt his heart thrill with happiness, it was Sir Karl Allanmore.

The secret of her engagement was well kept for a time. The re-decoration and refurbishing of Scarsdale excited no surprise. It had long wanted doing, and it seemed only natural that Sir Karl should embellish his mansion on his return, and after so long an absence. But the news got wind at length through the indiscretion of the old squire. He was delighted that his beautiful Dolores was to be happy at last. Speaking of her one day to an intimate friend of hers, he said that she had carried off the two best prizes in the neighborhood. This remark awakened the visitor's curiosity, further inquiries were made, and then the whole affair came to light. Certainly Sir Karl was in love with his daughter.

It happened that Madame de Ferras had driven over to make a call on Mrs. Marabout; and, when she entered the drawing-room of that lady, the news was being discussed. Lady Fielden was present. She was kind of heart as a rule, and seldom said ill-natured things; but even she had waxed indignant at the information that Lady Rhysworth was to marry Sir Karl. She had two daughters of her own, and she felt it rather hard that Dolores should have carried off the two most eligible men in the neighborhood. Lord Rhysworth she had not grudged her. It was a good match for the girl who had no mother to help her in the most important event in her life—getting married. But it was hardly possible to feel so well disposed when Sir Karl, who would have made so excellent a husband for one of her own daughters, was taken captive by the same fair hands.

All the pleasure of her visit was over for Madame; she took no further interest in the gossip that was going on around. Pale and troubled, she rose to go home.

When she had departed, Lady Fielden said, laughing—
"Mademoiselle Lois will be vexed at the news. I have always fancied she had a liking for Sir Karl!"

Madame drove home, her heart filled with grief for her daughter.

"I would rather have to tell her anything than this," she said to herself. "If she loves him, as I fear she does, it will almost kill her."

When Lola saw her mother's face, she knew that something terrible had happened. She sprang to meet her, crying:

"What is the matter, mamma? Why do you look so sad?"

But Madame was afraid to tell her. "I am tired, my dear. It is a fatiguing drive, and the weather is very warm and oppressive."

"My dearest mamma, it is not the weather that makes you look so unhappy. Have you had bad news from France?"

"No. I am not quite sure, Lola, whether I have heard bad news or not; you must decide. When Sir Karl called here first on his return to England, and I saw how delighted you were at his coming, I fancied that there was something between you, that it might have been for his sake you had sent so many of your lovers away, and that you liked him. Was I right, Lola?"

"Quite right, mamma. I should have said nothing about it unless you had spoken first. But the real truth is—why should I disguise it—that I love him with my whole heart."

She did not blush or avert her face; she shadowed none of the sweet, natural shame that a girl feels when she speaks first to her mother of her love affairs. The beautiful face had grown perfectly white.

"I feared so," said Madame. "I have heard something about him which I hope and pray may not be true."

"What is it?" asked Lola, eagerly. She went up to her mother, laid her hands upon her shoulders, and looked straight into her face.

"Tell me what it is. I can bear anything but suspense. Is he ill? If so, I will go to him. No one has more right than I have."

"It is not that," replied Madame; "it is something quite different. He is well and happy—too happy, if all I hear be true. He is supposed," faltered Madame—"remember, Lola, that not one word may be true—he is supposed to be on the point of marriage."

Madame never forgot the haggard, stricken, despairing look that came over her daughter's face, which seemed all in one moment to take the youth and beauty from it. Lola did not speak, but from the white, set lips came a long, low, lingering cry.

"It may not be true," continued Madame, falling back on the only comfort she could give. "Things are so often exaggerated. Lady Fielden was the first to mention it; she said that Sir Karl Allanmore was to marry Lady Rhysworth in two or three weeks' time, that it was for his bride the Hall had redecorated."

Suddenly the hand that had been clasping her shoulders relaxed their hold; the white face was raised for a moment with a faint cry, and then Lola fell, a senseless, helpless mass, at her mother's feet.

Madame called for no aid; with her own hands she raised her daughter, and laid her upon the couch; then she knelt by her, weeping bitterly.

"It has broken her heart," she moaned, "my only child—broken her heart."

Presently she thought of the sorrowful awakening, and she fancied that it would almost be better for her daughter to die then and there. It was her warm kisses that brought life back to Lola, that caused the dark eyes to open and the locked lips to unclose.

She murmured a few words, and then Madame drew her head to her breast, but Lola sprang from her arms—she would not listen to the soothing voice.

The Wizard of the Underground

CAN YOU THINK AND ACT IN A SECOND?

The Controller of the London Tubes Is Doing This All Day Long.

One of the busiest men in London is the Controller of the Underground Tube Railways. And while some busy men develop a certain "fussiness" of manner, there's nothing of that sort in his make-up. Indeed, the cool way in which he manages the very complicated duties of his position is hardly credible.

When I stepped into his office the other day I found him seated before a small telephone switchboard.

"I hope I haven't come in at an inconvenient time," I said, when I had explained the purpose of my visit. He smiled.

Efficiency Without Fuss.

"Well, we never have any slack periods here. There's always—"

Just then the telephone bell rang. "This is what is happening every half-minute," he said. "They don't leave me alone for long. You'll have to excuse me for a moment."

The tiny lamps on the switchboard began to light up one after another, and here and there a metal indicator dropped impudently. In rapid succession he answered each call making brief notes on a pad before him.

"Don't you ever get confused with so many calls?" I asked, when at last he was free.

"No," he answered; "it wouldn't do for the Controller to get confused. I must admit, though, that at times it is a little trying. I have sat in this chair for eight hours at a stretch, and had practically every lamp on the switchboard burning. That makes you feel a bit stiff."

"You see, whenever anything goes wrong, I am informed directly. Whether the trouble be connected with trains, lifts, escalators, signals, permanent-way lighting, or what-not, I have to see about getting it put right. And when you consider that, apart from the rolling stock, there are 112 miles of track, 107 stations, 18 escalators, 22 sub-stations, and 8 depots, this is no small matter."

"A man would be of little use as a Controller unless he had a long and wide experience on the railway. He must be conversant with every inch of the system. Otherwise he would be hopelessly at sea when the first trouble came along."

Getting a Move On.

"Suppose, for instance, a mishap occurs to a train at a certain place on the line. While the stranger is fumbling about with diagrams, trying to locate the position, your experienced man has visualized the whole scene in a flash, and, with the picture before him, is able to attend to the accident as if he were on the spot."

FIRST AND PARAMOUNT ABSOLUTE SECURITY TO POLICYHOLDERS

"I'm not going to leave insurance money for my thriftless son-in-law to squander," you say.

This may happen to other property which you are accumulating, but can be prevented in the case of an Imperial Life policy which need not be paid in one sum at your death.

Instead, you may specify that the Company shall send direct to your daughter—regularly—each month—as long as she lives—a cheque for the income which the insurance money and the interest earned thereon will provide.

By means of Imperial Life policies you can provide legacies which cannot be dissipated either by the beneficiaries or by others.

Our booklet "Safeguard your Legacy" tells all about this feature of Imperial policies. Write for a free copy to-day. Address:

skill and endurance, and everybody will join in acclaiming his victory over almost insuperable difficulties and his unflinching resolve to accomplish what he set out to do.

But his feat is more than a personal triumph. It is a triumph for aviation itself. The speed with which his successful journey was made opens up possibilities of a remarkable kind. It brings the East closer to the West than it has ever been brought before, and is, indeed, almost as significant as a pioneering event as the first flight for the Dally Mail price across the Channel, the first flight to Australia by Sir Ross and Sir Keith Smith in 1919.

The name of Captain d'Oisy will go down in the history of aviation as one worthy of high honour. Other aviators have shown us that it is possible to fly from one end of the earth to the other, but he has shown us that such flights can be accomplished with extraordinary despatch. It is on the union between safety and speed that the future success of long-distance flying depends.

Mosquitoes and Malaria

It is estimated that the deaths annually from malaria number some two millions, and this figure may probably be multiplied by two or three hundred if we would arrive at the total number of people in the world effected by the complaint.

Malaria is mainly a disease of the tropics, and is caused by a minute parasite in the blood. The parasites in one malaria patient may number anything from one hundred to a thousand millions. In many cases there are more parasites in the system of a malaria patient than there are people on the earth, and for ages it was believed that marshes and malaria were in some way connected.

Sir Ronald Ross discovered that it was not the marsh but the mosquito which bred in the marsh which was the originator of the disease, and he declares that the parasite of malaria is, to the mosquito which carries it, as a threepenny-bit would be to a hippopotamus!

When a disease-carrying mosquito bites, it injects a saliva in which are the human circulatory system and so throughout the body.

The cure for malaria is quinine, but the prevention of malaria is the destruction of the mosquito in which it breeds.

Chopped green pepper, diced tomatoes and olives mixed with a well-seasoned boiled dressing make a rather delightful vegetable "cocktail."

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 2 months. I would have had headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You will quite welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial?

Lemon and Roast Chicken on Price Parity in Russia

Berlin, June 16 (A.P.)—Roast chicken, eggs, black bread and cakes and other edibles produced locally, are reasonable in price in Russia, but when it comes to fruit, toilet articles, anything else which has been imported, they usually are nearly worth the weight in gold, according to Dr. W. K. Thomas of Philadelphia, executive secretary of the American Friends Society.

Dr. Thomas recently completed an inspection trip of several weeks to Russian districts where the Quaker organization is still assisting the inhabitants. At the railroad stations of different routes he noted that an entire roast chicken sold for approximately 75 cents, while a lemon, which had been imported, cost as much as the chicken.

Delicious Mayonnaise Without Eggs

THE mayonnaise makes the salad—and Carnation makes the mayonnaise—without eggs—the smoothest, creamiest, most delicious dressing you ever tasted. So easy to make—so economical too. Try it—the recipe is given below. And write for the free Carnation Recipe Book.

Carnation is just pure milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. It is sold by your grocer in tall (16 oz.) cans and in cases of 48 cans.

NO-EGG CARNATION COOKED SALAD-DRESSING:
1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons butter or substitute, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 cup water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk. Mix dry ingredients and add to melted butter or substitute. Add milk diluted with water and cook in double boiler until it thickens. Add vinegar slowly, then cool. This recipe makes 1/2 cup salad dressing.

Germany's Request for Removal of Military Control Denied

Canadian Immigration Officer Fatally Wounded—San Francisco en Fete to Welcome British Fleet—J. W. Davis Elected Democratic Presidential Nominee.

DAVIS NOMINATED.
NEW YORK, July 9. John W. Davis was elected by the Democratic Convention at the Presidential nominee on the 103rd ballot.

MCADOO RELEASES SUPPORTERS.
NEW YORK, July 9.

The Democratic National Convention adjourned at 4 a.m. to-day, after taking another ballot in a fruitless endeavour to choose a Presidential candidate. The feature of the session came in the early hours of the day when chairman Walsh read a letter from William G. McAdoo releasing his supporters from their pledges. In his letter he attacked the "wet" and reactionary forces which he said had opposed his nomination. McAdoo's vote fell to 190. Smith stood at 351½ and John W. Davis rose to second place with 203½.

THE 102nd BALLOT.
Madison Square Gardens, July 9.

On the 102nd ballot, Texas with her forty votes flipped to John W. Davis. Davis supporters hailed the occasion as a break which would carry their man to victory. On the 102 ballot the leaders stood: John W. Davis 415½; Underwood 307; Meredith 66; 1-3 Walsh, Montana 123. This was a gain of 99 2-3 for Davis a gain of 117½ for Underwood, a gain of 25 for Walsh and the loss of 63 2-3 for Meredith. On this ballot McAdoo had 21 votes still sticking to him and Smith 44.

OTHER CANDIDATES.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 9.

John Zahnd, of Indianapolis, was nominated for President of the United States on the National Independent ticket here to-night, while Roy M. Harrop, Nebraska, was proposed as the Vice Presidential nominee.

JOINT NOTE AGREED ON.
PARIS, July 9.

A joint note to the Allies suggesting how the different questions connected with the application of the experts plan might be settled was drawn up at a conference yesterday and this morning between Premier MacDonald and Premier Herriot the British Premier announced to-day.

GERMANY'S REQUEST DENIED.
PARIS, July 9.

Germany's request that inter-Allied military control of her armaments cease on September 30th, was denied by the Allied Council of Ambassadors in a note handed to the German Ambassador last evening. It was announced to-day. Satisfaction was expressed, however, that Germany had agreed to the main point demanded by the Council—the resumption of the Control Commission's activities.

KING'S MESSAGE OF CONDOLENCE.
LONDON, July 9.

King George has sent a message of condolence to President Coolidge over the death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr. The British Monarch said in his cablegram: "The Queen and I have heard with most sincere regret of the grievous loss which has befallen you and Mrs. Coolidge in the death of your dear son, and we assure you both of our heartfelt sympathy in this time of your deep sorrow."

ENTERTAINING BRITISH TARS.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.

The special services squadron of the British Navy which came through the Golden Gate on Monday rested in San Francisco Bay, yesterday, at the only anchorage in continental United States waters to be made during the world cruise and the personnel of the fleet prepared for three days whirlwind entertainment. The first item on the programme yesterday was a reception by Mayor James Rolph, to Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field, and the senior officers. The next was a luncheon proffered to the British Officers by the Old Country Club at Fairmont Hotel. In the afternoon a reception was held aboard the flagship Hood, the greatest war craft afloat. Sight seeing was the order of the day for enlisted men of the fleet. The day was closed with banquets, theatre parties, and dances for officers and men.

SOCIALISTS CONDEMN KLAN.
CLEVELAND, July 9.

The Socialist Party late last night officially condemned the Klu Klux Klan by name after the sharpest debate in the National Convention that has been meeting here for three days. The Convention also passed resolutions denouncing the Fascist movement in Italy and the assassination there of Socialist Deputy Mattoli.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION OFFICER FATALLY WOUNDED.
BUFFALO, July 9.

Near midnight last night, Lloyd Ault, United States Immigration Inspector, was fatally wounded on the banks of the Niagara River, presumably by smugglers or Aliens. Ault was patrolling with Inspector Bruce and was surprised by four men armed with shot guns. The officers were disabled by their captors, one firing at close range a charge of shot into Ault's abdomen. The assailants then fled.

INTERMENT AT PLEMOU, VERMONT.
WASHINGTON, July 9.

A brief, simple funeral service was held in the East Room of the White House late to-day for Calvin Coolidge, Jr. At the conclusion the President and Mrs. Coolidge and other members of the funeral party prepared for the journey to Plymouth, Vermont, where interment will take place.

INVITATION WAS SENT.
NEW YORK, July 9.

An invitation to the Prince of Wales to attend the British-American Polo Matches, on Long Island, in September, was issued nearly a month ago, officials of the United States Polo Association say, and reports concerning the Prince's contemplated visit are accurate. Negotiations looking toward the Prince's visit were handled through the British Foreign Office, it is said, and Polo men expect an announcement of acceptance of the invitation to be made on the other side of the Atlantic.

STILL LOOKING FOR SMALL.
TORONTO, July 9.

The Misses Florence and Gertrude Small, sisters of the missing Ambrose J. Small, were given permission this morning by the Board of Control to excavate a portion of Rosedale Dump in an endeavor to locate the body of the theatrical magnate, who disappeared in 1919. The dump was excavated some time ago, but the sisters maintain that digging operations were not carried far enough. The Board's assent was given provided Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, offers no objection to the proceedings.

U.S. ATHLETES IN THE LEAD.
OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—The fourth day of the Olympic track and field sports saw the large and powerful United States team drawing away from its world rivals in the struggle for gallant athletic honors. With twelve events completed the nations stood: United States 135, Finland 75, Great Britain 34 1-2, Sweden 34 1-2, Switzerland 5, South Africa 5, Norway 4, New Zealand 4.

KILLS AGED WIFE AND SUICIDES.
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 9.

Charles N. Wilcoxon, President of the Chicago Lake Shore and South Bend Railroad Company, killed his wife, aged 70 years, with axe, razor and pistol, and then hung himself at their home at Long Beach, some time Monday night. The bodies were discovered last night.

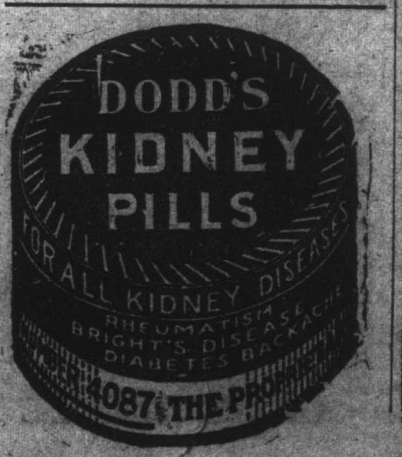

BUM CARGO SEIZED.
AMHERST, July 9.

One hundred and nine kegs of rum, valued at $20,000, were seized by the Customs officials at Parraboro yesterday. The rum was lightered from the schooner Buttletown, alleged to be a vessel from rum row. The Buttletown has been in the stream at Parraboro for several days, during which time she has been under constant surveillance.

NO REPRIEVE FOR MUIR.
OTTAWA, July 9.

There will be no interference in the sentence of death pronounced on Walter Muir, the young New Yorker, convicted of murder at Valleyfield, Quebec, it is officially announced. The former order in council was announced this afternoon and Muir will be executed at Valleyfield on Friday.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

PRINCE LEAVES FOR CANADA IN AUGUST.
 SOUTHAMPTON, July 9. It is announced that the Prince of Wales will sail for Canada with four or five friends, on August 25th and will return to England about the beginning of October. No elaborate arrangements are being made for the trip, and the Prince at his own request will travel as an ordinary first class passenger.

A WAVE FOR DAVIS.
 NEW YORK, July 9. Welling up through all the bitterness of the days and nights that have gone, a mighty formless roaring about like a great sigh of relief blasted its way through the dingy trappings of Madison Square Garden to-day to tell that a miracle had happened, and that a decision had been reached, and that John R. Davis, of West Virginia, had been nominated by acclamation to 1924. At last against all the bitter carry the Democratic standard for cross currents of the sweltering days and nights that lay behind, the deadlocked National Democratic Convention had broken through the Jones jam of conflicting opinion. Almost without realizing what it had done, it hurled itself as one man into the rush that brought Davis' votes flooding faster than clerks could write the record.

PIRACY ON RUM ROW.
 HALIFAX, July 9. An amazing tale of piracy among the liquor ships on the Jersey Coast, "rum row," involving the theft of a million dollars worth of liquor and three thousand dollars in cash, has been related by members of the crew of the French steamer Mulhouse which arrived here yesterday. It is understood there will be an investigation locally held by the French Consul General to decide whether or not the piracy tale is bona fide. According to the story the Mulhouse was boarded some days ago by thirty "highjackers," who drove the crew below decks and after manaculating the officers kept them prisoners for ten days while they unloaded thirty-five thousand cases of liquors into small boats. The story was told that the prisoners were half starved, and that those of them who agreed to help in discharging the cargo for which they would be paid by the pirates were afterwards robbed of their earnings at the point of guns. Another rum runner in port to-day reported that in the attack on the Mulhouse one of the pirates was shot and killed. Those on the latter steamer, however, refuse to give any details.

BRAZIL REBELS IN HOPELESS POSITION.
 BUENOS AIRES, July 10. Sao Paulo rebels were still holding their positions in Luz barracks this morning, according to advices from Rio de Janeiro quoting the official account. The account added the assertion that rebels would be unable to hold much longer owing to desertions and exhaustion and the fact that they are surrounded and without possibility of receiving reinforcements.

CANADIAN FISHERY THE LEGISLATION.
 OTTAWA, July 10. Virginia lawyer and diplomat swept away the great waves of bitterness churned up during the 13 preceding days of stormy conflict. Then taking command immediately, the new head of the party guided the convention swiftly towards the selection of a running mate the brother of Wm. Jennings Bryan his most vigorous opponent throughout the balloting. When the convention adjourned at 2.24 a.m. to-day it had filled many new pages of Political History, rising in dramatic force from the violent struggle twelve days ago over the naming of Klux Klan in the party platform, to the record breaking deadlock between McAdoo and Smith supporters.

VALUABLE FIND OF SILVER.

St. Andrew's S.S. Picnic

AT COWAN'S FARM, BROOKFIELD. The annual Sunday School Picnic of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church took place yesterday afternoon at Cowan's Farm, Brookfield. The scholars with their teachers and friends assembled at the Hall at noon, and were conveyed almost immediately to the grounds by motor busses kindly loaned for the occasion. During the afternoon the children spent an enjoyable time in various games and other forms of amusement. A sports programme consisting of sprint racing, football exercises, conducted under the supervision of R. E. Innes was a special attraction. The various events proved very exciting and added greatly to the success of the day. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Power were amongst those present on the green, the latter presenting the prizes to the winners. Following the partaking of delicious teas the children feeling happy though tired boarded the busses and returned to town at 7.30 p.m. The annual Picnic was one of the most successful yet held.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

July 8th.—Lay long, being ill of a cold which trouble me mightily. So up, and going into the kitchen, found my wife making a salad to try her own with, but not knowing the nature of it, did heat it too hot, and so a little overbake her things, but knows how to do better another time. But Lord, I twitting her about it, she flies into a towering passion, and causes me to quickly quit the kitchen. This day the members of the Assembly are sworn in, the House meeting to-morrow for the despatch of business. I learn how Mr. Fox, the Attorney, will be speaker and like to be a very good one having a wide knowledge of the rules of Parliament. Mr. Fiddler will be Chairman of Committees and a new Sergeant-at-Arms to be appointed. Mr. Lake, the member for Burin, will make the motion for the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne and Mr. Linegar to be his seconder. The session like to be a short one, and among other things, authority to be sought for the raising of a new loan, the Treasury being exhausted when the Monroe Government did come in. I learn how there is much trouble between the miners on Bell Island, and the mine owners. Nor is there like to be a settlement arrived at for some little time, since the owners may not agree to the demands which the men make on them. The nights now grown very cold, much like the fall. So I not abroad, but read all the evening before a good fire.

INTERNATIONAL MERCANTILE MARINE.

Director Brouner in Hospital Interview—No Dividend Resumption in Sight.
 (Boston News Bureau.)
 NEW YORK.—"From present indications I expect earnings of International Mercantile Marine for the year to be better than they were last year," said Harry Brouner, a director of the company, sailing for Europe. "The company will safely earn its fixed charges and depreciation, both of which amount to a little more than $7,000,000. The company will not, however, be able to resume dividends this year."
 "I do not look for any big boom in business generally," Mr. Brouner continued, "because the country has caught up on its housing, plants, automobile and railroad programs. This has caused business to slow down. Slowing-down in business has caused cheap money, which is now idle and looking for a place for investment. This has caused a rising of security prices."

JUNIOR LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

Double Header Staged At St. George's Field.

St. George's Field was given over to the Junior Football League yesterday. In the afternoon the Scouts and R.I.S. tried conclusions, the latter team winning by four goals to one. At night a game was played between Holy Cross and Wesley teams, in which Holy Cross won out by one goal to nil. A large attendance of fans and spectators were present at both games. The brand of football was all that could be desired, particularly the Holy Cross and Wesley game, which proved to be the hardest fought and best contested match thus far played in the series. The Holy Cross lads blossomed forth in their new sweaters and were much admired by all.

FOOTBALL.

Alterations To Laws—Goals May Be Scored From A Corner Kick.

International Football Association Board has approved of several alterations to the laws of the game. The following footnote is to be added to the official rule: "It is not a breach of the law for a player to be in an offside position, but only when in that position he interferes with an opponent or with the play. If a player who is in an offside position advances to touch an opponent or the ball and in doing so causes the play to be affected, he should be penalized." There were two decisions regarding the corner kick. Law 10, which states that when a free kick has been awarded the kicker's opponent shall not approach within ten yards of the ball until the kick is taken, will not in future apply to the corner kick, or from a free kick which is awarded because of any infringement of Law 8 but not from any other free kick. Under Law 9 player are penalized for dangerous play, hands, holding, pushing, violent or dangerous charging, and charging from behind. The present decision of the International Board respecting Law 13 (Duties and powers of Referee) will be substituted by the following: "If, in the opinion of the referee a player has been seriously injured, the game shall be stopped, the player at once removed from the field of play and the game resumed. If a player is slightly injured the game shall not be stopped until the ball has ceased to be in play."

ENGLISH WOMAN TENNIS STAR WON WORLD'S TITLE.

Miss Kathleen McKane Defeated Miss Wills In Finals For Title At Wimbledon.

WIMBLEDON, July 4.—Miss Kathleen McKane, ranking British woman tennis player, won the supreme honor in the women's tennis world to-day when she defeated Miss Helen Wills, the United States champion, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the final of the women's championship at the Wimbledon tournament.

MISS MCKANE BY DEFEATING MISS WILLS

in a three set match in which the honors were almost evenly divided, attained the title which Miss Suzanne Lenglen, of France, has held against the opposition of the world since the war.

The advantage which the British girl held over her rival from the United States was in more deadly stroking from close to the net. The real margin between the two players seemed to lie in the fact that Miss McKane was audacious while Miss Wills was cautious.

From first to last the pace was tremendously keen. Miss Wills was far speedier both with racquet and about the court than she had been on any previous appearance, but she was not as quick-limbed as the slimmer built Miss McKane, who, because Miss Wills failed to smash hard at the net, was able to pick up many of the United States player's volleys.

The British girl, on the contrary, usually put points in her favor with hard ungettable swipes at the ball, whenever she caught it near the net.

From back court to mid court there was little to choose between the two players. Both stroked hard with good aim, the duel varying from back hand to fore hand, with each chasing the other unmercifully. Both were obviously tiring from the strain of constant running before the last set ended.

Both players had a fine variety of strokes, often sending sizzling placements past each other's reach. Each received brilliantly at times shots that seemed impossible to reach, keeping the crowd in a constant state of excitement.

Miss Wills was very near the peak of her best game.

ST. MARY'S S. S. PICNIC.

What proved to be, according to the general opinion, the best picnic in its history, was run off by St. Mary's Sunday School yesterday at Mount Pearl. A special train left the city at 10.30 a.m., conveying over 400 all told to the field—the return being made at 8 p.m., when a weary but happy crowd came back. The hours were taken up in the enjoyment of all sorts of games and sports to which the teachers and scholars applied themselves with zest. At 4 p.m. a splendid tea was served and an unusual quantity of first class food noticeably disappeared! Everyone was sorry when the train was heard approaching and "all aboard" was called. Ideal weather, lots of good things to eat, plenty of amusements, valuable prizes, and above all one of the finest bunches of working teachers combined to provide for the St. Mary's children a day which will be remembered for a long while. What more could boys and girls desire?

FOOTBALLERS FOR GRAND FALLS

The city footballers will be leaving for Grand Falls to play a series of football games on August 23rd, and all those who are desirous of taking in this trip are asked to communicate with Mr. R. E. Innes at once.

BOXING TOURNAMENT TO-NIGHT.

Six Lively Bouts Will Be The Attractions.

The sporting attraction for to-night will be the big boxing tournament in the Prince's Ring. All arrangements have been finalized, an excellent programme of events has been provided and a good night's fun is in store for all fans. The feature of the evening will be the eight round contest between E. Butler (ex local champion) and A.B. Davis, Light Heavyweight Champion of the North Atlantic Squadron. The local heavy has rapidly got into form, during the short time left at his disposal, and gives promise of putting up a good exhibition. Butler will outweigh his opponent by a few pounds. The bout between Marshall (the local) and Vanderveen (Constance) will undoubtedly be one of the chief attractions. Both men will enter the ring at even weights. This will be a six round bout.

ST. PAUL'S GARDEN PARTY AND FIELD DAY

The annual Garden Party of St. Paul's Church, Hr. Grace was held at Shannon Park yesterday afternoon under ideal weather conditions. There was a large attendance, and the grounds with its display of bunting made the scene a pretty one. The committee of management prepared an excellent sports programme for the occasion and with the appearance of the Guard's Track Team and Ronald O'Toole, Newfoundland Champion Long Distance Runner, the citizens of Hr. Grace, Bay Roberts and Carbonar turned out en masse to witness the athletes in action. Although the ground were by no means conducive to good running, the competitors put up an excellent performance, and created a wonderful impression. The course was measured 220 yards to the lap, and a generous handicap was given in all flat races. The feature event was the hotly contested Relay Race between the Guards' and Hr. Grace. The Harbor Gracians with a handicap of 50 yards held the lead until within a few yards from the finish, when Parsons (Guard's) with a splendid burst of speed won for his team by a scant two feet. The three mile race was looked forward to with much interest and proved a thrilling race from beginning to end. O'Toole had one competitor, named Envil Rusted of Carbonar, to whom he was compelled to give a handicap of two laps or a full quarter of a mile. Rusted, an ex-pupil of Bishop Field College, and 5 mile steeplechase winner last year, was greatly supported by his backers and the progress of the race was followed with the closest attention. O'Toole took the lead at the start, but was unable to shake his map until leading up in the first mile. In the second mile he made rapid progress on his opponent, but was forced to extend himself to the very limit to overcome the handicap. With but two laps to go Rusted held a 50 yard advantage, and with excitement at fever heat, O'Toole made a spectacular dash and crossed the line the winner with 10 yards to spare. Both boys received a splendid reception at the finish. The performance of Hawker, the Carbonar boy in the 1/2 mile event, was very creditable indeed, while Yetman's running in the 100 yards dash is also worthy of mention. Parsons, Oakley, Johnston and Press, caused plenty of excitement in the sprint races, while Perry's running in the mile was greatly admired. The programme of events and winners are as follows:—

ST. MICHAEL'S GARDEN PARTY.

The annual garden party of St. Michael's Parish took place in Lester's Field yesterday afternoon under ideal weather conditions. A large crowd was in attendance and patronized its many attractions. During the afternoon the Ladies' Committee was kept busy serving teas and in this end alone a goodly sum was realized. The chief centre of attraction was the sports programme. The events, which comprised flat races, tug-of-war, pyramid exhibition, football sixes, cavalry tournament, proved a real source of enjoyment to all. There was not a noticeable hitch in the whole proceeding and the committee in charge rendered yeoman service. The salted runners from H.M.S. Constance provided a great deal of amusement for the gathering. The clowns particularly excited a great deal of interest and fun. The C.L.B. Band, in attendance all evening, rendered a delightful selection of music and their presence helped materially in making the garden party a success.

ST. MARY'S S. S. PICNIC.

Reserved seat holders are assured of their places for to-night. The meet is being held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. and with all plans and arrangements perfected a successful and enjoyable evening is bound to follow.

The Guards Track team speak in glowing terms of the splendid reception accorded them during their brief stay, and feel thankful to Rev. Mr. Higgitt and committee for their many kindnesses. The Garden Party was an unqualified success from every standpoint.

At night an enjoyable dance was held in the Academy Hall. Upwards of 200 people attended.

The Price of Milk

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—May I thank you for expressing so frankly, in your Editorial of yesterday, the sentiments of every family man who is to-day struggling under the burden of excessive taxation and high prices of necessities?

Referring to but one item of your Editorial—the price of milk. The Farmer's Union announced through the daily papers of April 22nd that the price of milk would be reduced from that date; the new prices being 10c per pint, retail, 70c per gallon wholesale, two gallons and over 65c. Whether these prices were made effective from the date advertised, I do not know; but, I do know that the consumer is not yet getting the benefit of the reduction announced by the Farmer's Union on April 22nd. Shopkeepers are still selling at the old price, and the householder buying direct from the farmer has not been favoured with the reduction, or, at least, it is so in my case. I am still paying 80c per gallon. Might I say also, that the reduction announced by the Farmer's Union in April, was not at all commensurate with the decreased cost of feeds outlined in the Telegram when this matter was under discussion in April month, and the Farmer's Union have given no explanation why milk cannot be given to the consumer at 60c per gallon, particularly during the summer season. Will the Farmer's Union kindly let us have an explanation?

Yours truly,
PARENT.

London Suffers Slump in Furnished Apartment Rents

London, June 18 (A.P.)—Despite the great inflow of visitors for the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, furnished houses and flats in London are renting at a slightly lower figure than at the same time last year, according to estate agents.

Flat owners who expected to rent apartments to Wembley visitors at high figures found to their disappointment that the newcomers preferred to stay at hotels, and prices dropped shortly after the influx of travellers began.

One estate agent said that the slump in furnished house and flat property was greater than for some years.

The Coming Session.

The Legislature opens to-day under circumstances which, if somewhat unusual, in that it is the second time within three months that the event has happened, are none the less propitious. All the signs point to an era of prosperity, and the return of the Government by such a large majority is the outward and visible sign that the country is determined that the turn of the tide shall be taken full advantage of.

The staple industry gives every indication of energetic prosecution, and with the markets abroad favourable, the chances of a successful season may be anticipated.

Our pulp and paper activities are in full swing, and from all accounts it will not be long before other operations of a similar kind will be undertaken. With the extension of the Grand Falls plant and the work on the Humber progressing favourably, the Railway seems to have taken on a new lease of life and gives promise of becoming an asset instead of a liability. Perhaps the most accurate barometer to register the change in economic conditions is the business community. The various firms are actively engaged, and the depression so evident everywhere a few months ago has disappeared.

Indications are not wanting that the public service is already showing signs of improvement since the Monroe Government took office, and with wise counsel prevailing in the Assembly, the session gives promise of marking an epoch in our history.

There is a responsibility which rests upon each and every individual at such a time as this. Working with a common accord and a sincerity of purpose; united in our determination to rid the country of reproach and to re-establish her reputation in the eyes of the world, we can soon attain to that position which is rightly ours by reason of the wonderful endowments with which Providence has blessed us, and the sterling character of the people.

In encouraging industrial development in every direction by measures which will bear heavily on none and will tend to the advancement of the country as a whole, the Government can hasten the time when prosperity and happiness will be restored, and when those who have left our shores in search of congenial and remunerative employment will learn that in no country are there greater opportunities than those which offer in their homeland.

The New Speaker.

The House of Assembly conferred a high honour on Mr. Cyril Fox yesterday in electing him to the Speaker's Chair, and he was afterwards warmly congratulated on his appointment. In the representative of St. John's East, the House has chosen a Speaker who, we feel certain, will well maintain the high standard set by those who have formerly presided over its deliberations, will jealously watch over its rights and privileges, and will always exercise his authority with impartiality and fairness. Since the Hon. Mr. Fox was first elected by St. John's East in 1919, he has proved himself an eloquent and able debater, and his ability and knowledge of procedure make him eminently qualified to fill the Speaker's chair with dignity and to the satisfaction of all. The Telegram extends congratulations to the first Commoner on the distinction which has been conferred upon him and upon the confidence which the House has shown in his judgement and tact.

Destruction at Flat Islands CAUSED BY HAIL STORM.

An electrical storm, accompanied by hail, visited Flat Islands, Pleasant Bay, Tuesday, and caused considerable damage. A message received by Mr. Clyde Lake, M.H.A. from L. R. Riggs, gives particulars of the destruction as follows:—"Hail storms played havoc with the houses here yesterday, smashing the felt and glass of fifty or more houses and stores. None of the people are in a position to replace their damages. It is impossible for me to supply their requirements. We need 160 rolls of 2 ply felt, six and nines, 5 boxes 6 x 10 glass, 4 boxes 19 x 20. Will probably want more than this. Will try and get exact requirements as soon as possible. Assistance from the Government urgently requested. Please reply."

On receipt of the message, Messrs. Lake and Long interviewed the Premier who, whilst sympathizing with the victims of the storm, regretted he could not assist to Government funds being applied to meet cases of this character. Mr. Lake immediately replied to Mr. Riggs:—"Interviewed Premier. Government standing firm against relief. Unable to see their way clear to render assistance except in case of life or sickness."

A message from Mr. Riggs, giving further particulars, followed. The message reads:—"Conditions are serious here. It needs thousands of pieces of glass and 300 rolls of felt to replace the damages. Water is running down spoiling beds and furniture. Fish is being spoiled in the stores with water. People cannot help themselves."

Great sympathy will be extended to Flat Island in the serious loss which has been inflicted on them by such an unusual occurrence and one against which no provision could be made. The decision of the Government in the matter is one which is based on principle and which will generally be approved. Through the action of the members of the District, Messrs. Lake and Long, a public subscription to relieve the necessities has been opened, and will no doubt receive the generous support of the public. Already an amount of $65.00 has been subscribed, as follows:—

Hr. Deep Operations MOONEY TO CUT 50,000 CORDS PULP WOOD.

Active preparations for big logging operations at Harbour Deep this winter are now under way, and late in the fall Dr. Mooney expects to have 600 men cutting pulp wood on his White Bay limits. Winter operations are expected to start on September 1st. Work is at present progressing on a roasting mill, and the mill superintendent will be D. M. Groves, who was the first to install and operate a roasting machine in this country. F. J. Dove of Springdale will be in full charge of all operations. Mr. Dove has had considerable experience in logging operations, having worked with the A.N.D. and the A.E. Reid Co's at various times. The business manager of the Hr. Deep industry is Mr. M. W. Cornish, formerly of the Bank of Montreal. There is at present at Hr. Deep accommodation for from 70 to 80 families, and eight camps for men will be erected. For the benefit of family men who are working from the Grenfell Association, to look after the education of the children. All wood cut by Dr. Mooney this year will be done by the men under contract, but horses will be provided to draw the cut wood to the water's edge. (But what we should prefer to hear would be news of arrangements made to start manufacturing in this country)—Ed.

Ceremonious Opening of Legislative Assembly

The Twenty-Sixth General Assembly opened for despatch of business this afternoon. The proceedings of swearing in the members took place shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday in the Legislative Council Chambers before the Commissioners, Hon. J. D. Ryan, E. Milley and A. B. Morine. Following the ceremony the members returned to the Assembly. At three o'clock they were summoned to the Legislative Council Chambers before the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod where they were directed to elect a Speaker. On motion of the Prime Minister, W. S. Monroe, and seconded by Mr. A. E. Hickman, leader of the Opposition, Mr. C. J. Fox, member for St. John's East, was unanimously elected. The House then adjourned until this afternoon at 8 1/2 o'clock.

The formal opening of the Legislature took place this afternoon with the usual ceremony.

The Honourable Mr. Ryan, Minister of Finance, presided at the opening of the session. The members of the Government and Opposition were present. The House opened with the reading of the King's Speech. The members then proceeded to the election of a Speaker. Mr. C. J. Fox was elected by a large majority. The House then adjourned until this afternoon at 8 1/2 o'clock.

Sportsman Drowned

A message was received to-day by the Deputy Minister of Customs, from Mr. A. H. Ingraham, Ramea, stating that the body of E. J. Myers, drowned at Grey River had been recovered. Particulars of the tragedy are not available. It is supposed that the deceased was an American sportsman, and a gentleman of that name has for years fished our rivers. He is thought to have met his death by upsetting of a canoe. The message reads as follows:—

"Body of E. J. Myers, drowned at Grey River on the 7th inst., recovered. Arnold Koehler is taking the body to New York."

Mrs. Arthur Hammond will be "At Home" on Saturday, July 12th, from 3 to 5.30 p.m. at the residence of Mrs. N. P. Hunt, 118 Barnes' Road.—July 10, 1924.

A drunk and disorderly was convicted and fined $10.00 with the option of ten days imprisonment.
A man for assault was fined $1.
A resident of the Higher Levels for assault was fined $5 with the option of ten days.

Const. P. Lee summoned a labourer before court this morning charged with a breach of Section 4, Prohibition Act. The defendant was convicted and fined $100.00.

Disorderly House Raided

A resident of an outside settlement who was some time ago convicted of keeping a house of ill fame and fined $50 was convicted of a similar offence to-day and fined $100. The husband of the accused who has been summoned to answer a charge of complicity was unable to appear owing to illness. His case will come up for hearing later. The prosecution followed a raid made on the premises by the detective force on Saturday night last. Head Constable Byrne was the only witness called. He stated that the police had knowledge of whom they might find there. It was admitted to him that before the police entered an attempt was made to get a girl who was in the house out through a hatch in the roof. Only one man was found on the premises. Both went to the house in a motor during the afternoon. According to Head Constable Byrne, quite a number of men and women who are married frequent the place. Judge Morris in passing sentence severely reprimanded the accused.

Pet Goat to be Exhibited

Among the animals to be exhibited at the Children's Pet Show at Bannerman Park to-morrow afternoon, under the management of Mr. Barton, the Children's Playground Director, will be the large Mascot Goat from St. M. Swinger a schooner almost directly opposite to the Court House and in full view of the police detective force is not always a successful way of getting away with any booze that might be on board, as was proved on Tuesday evening, when some cases of White Rum were smuggled ashore from a Portuguese schooner which had a couple of days ago arrived here with a cargo salt. The police, who were on the qui vive, spotted a suspicious looking package being transferred from a boat, and making an investigation found that it contained liquor and was in possession of another party from shore. Following the seizure the Customs authorities got busy, and yesterday some 40 bottles and a number of demijohns succeeded to have arrived by the same schooner were located and confiscated.

Disorderly House Raided

A resident of an outside settlement who was some time ago convicted of keeping a house of ill fame and fined $50 was convicted of a similar offence to-day and fined $100. The husband of the accused who has been summoned to answer a charge of complicity was unable to appear owing to illness. His case will come up for hearing later. The prosecution followed a raid made on the premises by the detective force on Saturday night last. Head Constable Byrne was the only witness called. He stated that the police had knowledge of whom they might find there. It was admitted to him that before the police entered an attempt was made to get a girl who was in the house out through a hatch in the roof. Only one man was found on the premises. Both went to the house in a motor during the afternoon. According to Head Constable Byrne, quite a number of men and women who are married frequent the place. Judge Morris in passing sentence severely reprimanded the accused.

Pet Goat to be Exhibited

Among the animals to be exhibited at the Children's Pet Show at Bannerman Park to-morrow afternoon, under the management of Mr. Barton, the Children's Playground Director, will be the large Mascot Goat from St. M. S. Constance, now in port. The goat will be exhibited by Master Douglas Campbell, son of Captain Campbell of the Constance, and will appear in its full regimentals.

Motor Boat Driven Off

The following message was received from Bar de Verde this morning by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries:—"Hogans motor boat, with engine, from Red Head Cove, broke from her moorings last night and drove off. The boat is painted green with black bottom."

Funeral This Afternoon

The funeral of the late J. T. Croucher takes place at 4 p.m. from Carnell's Mortuary Rooms, Duckworth Street. The body arrived last night by express and was taken to Carnell's Mortuary Rooms and prepared for burial. Interment takes place at the Chapel of Restland Cemetery.

FOR EARL HAIG AND GOVERNOR ALLARDICE.

On Friday evening last when it became known that Field Marshal Earl Haig and his Excellency Governor Allardice and party were passing through to Salmonier, quite a display of hooting flew to the breeze in their honor. A delegation of twenty prominent townsmen led by Rev. Father Finn, P. P. Capt. Kennedy, W. R. R. Peyer, J. P. Constable Grouchy and W. P. Walsh proceeded at 5:30 p.m. in six motor cars to the Power House at Seal Cove to meet the distinguished visitors. Upon their arrival here Gen. Nangle introduced the Earl and Governor to Father Finn and also the several members of the delegation to the Field Marshal and his Excellency in turn. After a short interview they left for Salmonier followed by a train of motor cars to Holyrood, and when passing Wall's Hill they were greeted by volleys of musketry and cheers from the assembled crowd there.

A Letter From the Author

"I am truly enraptured at the magnificent and artistic way in which you have interpreted my romance.

"I consider it superior to any of the films I have seen for its magnificence, its artistic production, and for the excellence of the actors, from the most important to the smallest.

"I know you have taken the greatest care in making this work without regard to the expense.

"For a whole week I abandoned my literary work to live the life of a film star. I got up at 5 o'clock each morning and at 6 o'clock was at Monte Carlo, where I stayed with the company until night, always beside Mr. Crosland to smooth out difficulties and help along with the work. I put him in touch with people who have lived more than thirty years on the Blue Coast and who know all the picturesque spots, even those which are most mysterious and unknown by outsiders. I also arranged matters with Miss Mary Garden so that the Casino at Monte Carlo gave us the permission to film scenes in the Casino and on the terraces of the garden.

"After this I talked with the Ministers who constitute the government of Monaco and they gave me permission to take pictures of the Prince's Palace, and also in the Prince's garden, from which there is a magnificent panorama of the sea.

"This is the first time that the government of Monaco has given such permission.

"This film will be one of the most extraordinary that the screen has produced.

"As the author of 'Enemies of Women' I congratulate you and I thank you."

(Signed)
VICENTE BLASCO IBANEZ.

Report of Successful Service UNITED BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Valuable service has been rendered by the commercial day and evening classes of the United Business College of Newfoundland held in the Victoria Hall and the Grand Building during the year. The report presented at the closing on Friday last was encouraging. "The International Business College Reporter" recorded the names of the following students from the institution who passed the tests recently held and won their certificates:—Jean Thomas, Flora Green, Mary Fisher, Helen Clarke, Lillian Dwyer, Muriel Garberry, Robert Bishop, Cecil Whitten, Bertram Quinton, Harold Pippy, Fred Rowe, Gerald Hennebury, Maxwell Puddister, Samuel Christopher, James Dove, Allen Richards, Douglas Scott, Ross Gullifer, Harold Dwyer, Alexander Duffell, Albert Christopher, Gordon Squires, Kay Clouston (Evening Class), Donald Andrews, Edwin Swyers, Chas. Whithers, James Wiseman and Jack Thorpe.

The first prize, a gold medal, for Mathematics, Bookkeeping and Accounting, was won by Miss Jean Thomas; the second by Mr. R. Bishop. The examination results in the Stenographic Department in Sloan and Greg shorthand were:—Sloan Speed, 100 words per minute, Stella Peckford; 90, Ethel Down, Emmie Morgan, Lillian Dwyer, Doris Stick; 80, Florence Conway, Hilda Milley, Harold Pippy; 70, Gerald Hennebury, Ole Saunders, Doris Murgford, Clarence Whitten; Sloan Theory: Vera Miller, Roy Phillips, Nora Ryan, M. Pickford, G. Perry, Kay Clouston, W. Tifford, Cecil Whitten, Blaine Barbour, Helen Clarke, Donald Andrews, Jean Thomas, Mary Howe, Flora Green, Harold Dwyer, Anora Cummings, James Wiseman, Catherine Campbell, Mary Fisher, Gregg Speed, 100 words per minute; Dorothy White; 80, Fern Mann; 70, Mary Howe, Elsie Barbour, Flora Green, Anora Cummings; Gregg Theory: Bertram Quinton, Edwin Swyers, Douglas Scott, Jack Noseworthy, Valda Bursell, Jean Mew, Eugenie Mews. The prize for 1st place in this Department, a medal presented by an old pupil, was won by Miss Dorothy White. Teachers and students who could not attend during the year owing to other duties will be able to participate in the advantages afforded in a Summer School opening this week. This is the first Business College Summer School in the country. The Business College has been fortunate during the year in affording the advantage of lectures by business men, salesmen and by the Principal of the institution, and this will be continued during Summer School. Those who cannot attend are permitted to study the course at home and to send in their work for correction at a small charge.

A gold medal was donated by an old student, Mr. C. H. Synyard, Civil Engineer, 85 Ten Broeck St., Albany, N.Y., who recognized the good work that the school is accomplishing and sent this valuable gift as a token of appreciation of what the institution had done for him. Several students have been placed in good positions in the city and elsewhere recently.

Costly Urban Settings in "Enemies of Women"

FAMOUS ARTIST AT HIS BEST IN DESIGN FOR LAVISH SETS FOR PRINCE'S PALACE AND VILLA.

"Enemies of Women," Cosmopolitan Corporation's gigantic production of the latest story, which will be screened at the Nickel Theatre on Monday next, proved a happy hunting ground for the scenic artist, Joseph Urban. It is full to the brim with atmosphere. Mr. Urban reveals in stories that hold atmosphere, for it is his task at the Cosmopolitan's studios to reconstruct for the camera's devouring eye the particular scenic atmosphere of the story being prepared. Coming to the screen with his rare gifts, Mr. Urban has set up a higher, truer, more imaginative type of picture setting than the films had ever known before.

The artist's favorite setting of his many in "Enemies of Women" is the boudoir of Alicia, Duchess De Delle, the role played by Alma Rubens. It is done in grey, striped in silver, for colors photograph of course. The walls hold intriguing niches for bits of rare statuary, a dressing table set in a half-circled enclosure, raised two steps from the remainder of the room, is exquisitely done in silver and silk, crystal bottles and the myriad of exquisite details of an exotic woman. The seats are soft masses of cushions, and a triple chignon certain, hanging from ceiling to floor, swings half way across the room to insure absolute privacy to the dressing table. In the center of the room is a bright blue fountain, a figure in blue Ceramic rearing itself from the center of the water; goldfish slither around in the fountain. It is a room exalting the personality of an utterly exotic and extravagant woman.

OUR NEW COLOURS.

The other day I wrote about a pink dress that was the envy of my childhood, and afterward I got to thinking about when I had last heard that word "pink." As a color it is pretty much out of date. In place of pink we have rose; in place of pale pink we have flesh; and instead of salmon pink (a popular color in my girlhood) we speak of peach.

What Can "Lariat" Be!

The whole color vocabulary has undergone a tremendous change. I wonder what our grandmothers would think if they were to read one of our modern advertisements featuring "all the wanted shades, such as nude, lip stick, beige, almond, lariat, mauve, orchid and shantung." Indeed, I'm often puzzled myself. Take that advertisement I have just quoted, which, by the way, was taken from an ad of a big city department store. I haven't the faintest idea what colors lariat, almond, and shantung may be.

I was looking at gowns in a smart shop not long ago and admired a lovely black lace over a soft colored slip. "The under dress is a coffee color, isn't it?" I asked. "No, madam," said the clerk gently, as one would correct a child, "it's beige." All the same it was the color of coffee with cream in it, and if the name must be disguised I would suggest cafe au lait as at least translatable. When "Electric Blue" Was New. Do you remember how we used to love to play colors when we were youngsters? I remember one variation of the game in which sides were chosen and when one side guessed the color chosen by the other side a wild game of tag ensued. To this day I recall the indignation we felt one summer evening when the opposing side claimed a forfeited victory because we had to give up after guessing every color in the spectrum and some we invented. The evasive color proved to be "electric blue." A howl of protest went up. We declared that no such color was ever heard of nor ever would be.

But if those children of another day ever think as I do of those vigorously contested games when they read of silks for sale in all the "lovely shades of open, koko, maize and henna," they will have to admit that compared to modern inventions electric blue was a mild origination. Some of the new names, however, are picturesque as well as suggestive. For instance, mulberry, rosewood, azure and geranium. And by the way, I wonder why more color names have not been chosen from the flower world. There are many flowers whose names instantly conjure up mental pictures of vivid colors, and which besides are pleasant to hear. Forsythia, Canna, salvia, calendula, gentian, goldenrod, lilac, azela, buttercup, wild iris, arbutus.

For me, at least, these names bring to mind far happier color visions than do beige and koko and open.

Ex-Kaiser's Wire to Kruger

HOW IT CAME TO BE SENT.

Berlin.—The true story of the famous telegram sent by the ex-Kaiser to President Kruger on January 3, 1896, after the Jameson raid in South Africa, is revealed in the diary of the late Baron von Marschall. On the day of the despatch of the telegram the baron made the following entry:

At 10 o'clock conference with his Majesty, at which there were also present the Chancellor (Prince Hohenlohe), Hollmann, Knorr, and Senden (Admiral). H.M. unfolds rather marvellous plan protectorate over Transvaal out of which I at once talked him.

Mobilisation of marines. Despatch of troops to Transvaal, and to the Chancellor's objection "that would mean war with England," H.M. said, "Yes, but only on land."

It is then settled to send Scheele (Governor of German East Africa to February 1895) to the Transvaal for reconnoitring. Finally, H.M. advised a telegram of congratulation to President Kruger: "Joy at the defeat of England is great."

This remarkable extract from Marschall's diary is given by Dr. Frederick Thimme in an article, appearing in Europaischen Gespraechen, on the Kruger telegram.

It shows that William II, stirred by the success of the Jameson raid, wished to take measures which, in the opinion of Hohenlohe, would have led to war with England, and further that the idea of a telegram to Kruger was deliberately put into his head in order to dissuade him from such a plan and in order to soothe him. Dr. Thimme points out that the telegram idea came from Kayser, the director of Colonies, who whispered it to Marschall in the ante-room of the council chamber.

The diaries of Marschall and Senden have been given to Dr. Thimme by relatives, and he is able to show that, on the evening of the eventful day, William II, regretted that he had sent the telegram and tried to get it back. It was too late.

A Stage Revolution

A new idea in theatrical construction has been evolved by the French architect Perret, who built the Theatre des Champs Elysees, considered by many critics the most beautiful playhouse in Europe.

M. Perret's plan is an auditorium which will be longer than it is wide. At the narrow end there will be a small stage, suitable for drawing-room comedy and intimate scenes. Running along one of the sides there will be a much larger stage designed for tragedy and spectacular drama. Both stages may be used during one play, as all the seats in the theatre will swing round on pivots, so that the audience can turn from one stage to the other as the action changes.

What Electric Light is Best for the Eyes

The increasing use of electric light, even in rural neighborhoods, lends fresh importance to the question as to which of the various types of electric light is the one best suited for the human eyes. This is answered definitely by La Presse Medicale (Paris), which says:

"There are three principal types of electric lamps—the old-fashioned bulb having a carbon filament, the lamp having a long metal filament in a vacuum, and the lamp having a shorter filament in nitrogen. This last is more costly but has a higher degree of lighting power for an equal amount of electricity. The light of the three types differs considerably to the eyes. The carbon filament gives a more yellowish light, while the nitrogen light, which is the most brilliant, exhibits a sort of halo. When analyzed by the spectrophotometer the radiation of the three lamps is shown to differ greatly. The spectrum given by the nitrogen lamps is not only the most intense but the most extensive, and includes the ultra-violet rays, while the lamp with the carbon filament has a spectrum which includes a number of infra-red rays, the visible radiation consisting mainly of yellow, orange and red. This carbon filament lamp contains too many of the infra-red rays to be comfortable to the eye. The nitrogen lamp, on the other hand, contains too much of the ultra-violet radiation and thus renders the crystalline lens fluorescent, whence comes the halo mentioned above. Preference should therefore be given to the vacuum lamp, since the light furnished by it is better balanced and more complete. With regard to the nitrogen lamp it may be said further that it is inadvisable that a source of light should be too rich in ultra-violet rays, since these tend to diminish the sensitiveness of the retina and cause congestion of the conjunctiva."

But if those children of another day ever think as I do of those vigorously contested games when they read of silks for sale in all the "lovely shades of open, koko, maize and henna," they will have to admit that compared to modern inventions electric blue was a mild origination. Some of the new names, however, are picturesque as well as suggestive. For instance, mulberry, rosewood, azure and geranium. And by the way, I wonder why more color names have not been chosen from the flower world. There are many flowers whose names instantly conjure up mental pictures of vivid colors, and which besides are pleasant to hear. THE WORLD.
Each day the sun comes up at dawn to smile upon us all. To see us toiling at our tasks, so great and yet so small; And here it finds a dream begun and there a dream complete, And where stood trees but yesterday now runs a city street.
How many, many years ago the sun bestrode the sky. And saw a few brave figures put their barbarous habits by. And fell the trees for comfort's sake, and alope the ugly stone, And start to build a better world than life had ever known.
Perhaps it was the fight to live, the urge to cheat the storm, To meet the winters, cold and long, with shakers safe and warm; But day by day the sun arose and looked on earth below And saw that man was upward bound, his eyes with light aglow.
Each day the sun comes up at dawn and sees us as we are; It sees the buildings we have reared, the ships we send afar, And patiently I think it waits and watches each better thing which man at last achieves.

Clocks as Clerks
The efficient business man, nowadays, we hear, keeps an alarm clock in the office—not necessarily to wake him when it is time to go home, but as a reminder of appointments with callers.
The clock is ingeniously constructed, and if, say you have to keep an appointment at 2.30, you merely insert a card in a slot opposite the half-hour mark, and forget it until the bell reminds you of your duty.

How Decorations Should be Worn

(BY FONTHILL BECKFORD.)

During the London season there are many occasions when orders and decorations should be worn both with morning and evening clothes, and the long list of regimental dinners scheduled to take place this month has a very close bearing on the subject. The correct dress at functions of this kind is full evening clothes; by this I mean tail coat, white tie and white waistcoat; the dinner jacket should under no circumstances whatsoever be substituted.

The correct position for the wearing of orders, miniature decorations, and medals is, of course, of the utmost importance. The regulations laid down by His Majesty's command are as follows:

With evening dress one badge only is worn round the neck, and as a rule it is the senior one, unless a junior should appear to be more appropriate to the occasion. The ribbon from which this badge is suspended is worn under the white tie, the badge hanging about an inch below. All badges are worn also in miniature on the lapel of the coat on the left side, horizontal and on a line with the button-hole, but members of the Order of Merit, of course, never wear miniatures.

Roughly speaking, it is the knights of the second and third classes who wear their decorations round the neck, and members of the fourth and fifth who fasten theirs to the left lapel of the evening coat.

The word "Decorations" on the invitation card is sufficient intimation that some member of the Royal Family is to be present or that the entertainment is an official one, and that consequently orders and decorations are to be worn.

The method of wearing the insignia of orders, also decorations and medals, on official occasions and at public functions with morning dress is as follows:

Knights Grand Cross, Knights Grand Commanders, Dames Grand Cross, Knights Commanders, and Dames Commanders should wear the Star only on the left breast of the coat or in a corresponding place on the dress.

Men who are members of the Order of the Companions of Honour, Companions of the several Orders of Knighthood, Commanders of the Royal Victorian Order, members of the Order of Merit, and men who are Commanders of the Order of the British Empire should wear the ribbon to which the badge is suspended under the tie which should be a bow, the badge hanging about three-quarters of an inch below the bow.

Members of the fourth and fifth classes wear the badges, decorations and medals on the left breast of the coat.
Only one ribbon and badge—i.e., the senior one—is worn round the neck and under the collar of the uniform coat, so that the badge hangs about an inch outside and below the front of the collar. All other badges are worn one below the other, commencing about an inch below the senior badge, each suspended on about three inches of ribbon emerging from between the buttons of the uniform coat. A small eye is stitched inside the coat, to which the ribbon is fastened by a hook.

Long Eye of the Law

Except for two divisions, all the Metropolitan and City Police are now equipped with the new electric lamps designed by Mr. Wootton, chief of the engineering department of Scotland Yard. With the lamps objects 100 yards away can easily be seen with the concentrated beam. By means of a simple focussing device wide-angle illumination can also be obtained.
Already the lamps have been responsible for several arrests of suspects who have been detected in warehouse doorways, while the police were still some distance off.

Capt. R. A. Bartlett

The following appeared in the June edition of The Girls' Companion, published at Elgin, Illinois, U.S.A., under the heading "Seeking a New Continent," by Thomas F. Gilliam: The hazardous conquest of the unexplored regions in the Far North has been entrusted to Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, Lt.-Commander in the Naval Reserve, to whom the hardships of the enterprise will not be a new experience. Capt. Bartlett was for many years chief aide to Admiral Peary, and is known as one of the most intrepid ice pilots and navigators of the North. As commander of the Roosevelt, he accompanied Peary on the successful expedition to the Pole in 1909.

Captain Bartlett is now in his middle forties, combining strength of vigorous manhood with the ripe experience of a quarter century of Arctic exploration. Since 1917, his life has been one expedition after another, all in the Arctic, and all of them efforts of major importance, involving extraordinary qualities of endurance.

The idea of reaching the north pole by air is not a new one. In 1895, S. A. Anderson, a Swedish aeronaut built a balloon with the intention of flying to the top of the world. Almost on the eve of the date set for departure, he decided his balloon was not suitable for the trip, and began to construct a larger one. Two years later he set sail from Spitzbergen, but was never heard from again.

Mohican Sails

The steam yacht Mohican, Captain Sumner, sailed yesterday morning for a cruise along the coast, later going to Newfoundland and to Gaspe for fishing. Lady Gordon, wife of Sir Charles Gordon, President of the Dominion Textiles Co., Montreal, owner of the yacht, and her three sons, arrived in Halifax on Saturday from Montreal and joined the yacht.

Chicago Will Spend $2,679,000,000 IN DEVELOPMENT WORK.

CHICAGO, July 4. (A.P.)—Projects which will entail an expenditure of approximately $2,679,000,000, are in various stages of development for the beautification, utility, health, commercial and industrial progress of Chicago, according to the Chicago Chamber of Commerce.

Projects under way, or soon to be, total $1,374,557,000, a summary shows while those in the preliminary stage will cost $1,305,100,000. The latter include the various terminal propositions, municipal purchase of the surface and elevated lines, construction of a subway and proposed new post-office and federal buildings.

Widening, opening and extending numerous streets and boulevards, new bridges, sewage plants, new buildings, hotels, and stores, the union station and Illinois Central project, and telephone improvements are among the activities now under way. The cost of the projects, the summary stated, would equal in value all the farm property in the state of Wisconsin.

Nine major projects of the Chicago Plan Commission are yet to be completed, dealing chiefly with street and boulevard revisions. A continuous lake front development extending from Jackson Park on the far south side to the Chicago river near downtown, is pointed to as a "clivic marvel."

Utilization of the "air rights" over several hundred acres of railroad tracks in the heart of the city represents a $195,000,000 project. Transportation extension as outlined involves an expenditure of $589,943,000.

Railway terminal solution is forecast by the association in plans which call for $318,000,000 to be spent. Seven new hotels are valued at $94,000,000. Educational institutions have a program with a total of $54,500,000; reconstruction of the Stadium, Shedd Aquarium and Prospective Zoological park, $10,500,000; clubhouses, $47,000,000; public utilities, $73,250,000; sewage treatment works, $120,000,000, and $200,000,000 worth of minor buildings.

Upwards of 100 major projects are itemized and the status given in the report of the association.

The Wiles of the Convict

A TRUE EPISODE OF PRISON LIFE.

So much has been written about the drab severity and dull routine of penal servitude that one overlooks the lighter side of a convict's life. The attitude of the average warder to a convict is summed up in the simple formula: "You set straight with me and I'll set straight with you. If you don't, Heaven help you!"

But warders do not all get their own way if they start bullying a gang of men or behave generally in an obnoxious manner. The following incident from my prison career is a case in point.

A Daring Plot.

Warder G. was a weak, vacillating officer who alternately bullied or cajoled his gang of convicts. He was neither a martinet nor an easy-going official, but went from one extreme to another in order to have a quiet life. He was on the permanent duty of guarding B party, who were employed outside the prison building new quarters for the prison staff.

For a little time Warder G. was a very lax disciplinarian, and the convicts imagined that he was an easy-going sort. But there came a sudden change. Prisoners found themselves reported, bullied, and badgered for no apparent reason. A resolution was passed by B Company to make things hum for him.

Now, when a gang of men arrive at their appointed place of labor, tools are served out to them, and when they knock off the tools are returned to the warder, who checks them and locks them away. If a tool is missing, every man is made to search for it. If it is not then found, the party is marched to the bath-house, and every man stripped to the skin. This rigorous proceeding is, of course, to prevent smuggling tools into prison in order to effect an escape. This searching is carried out twice a day for a fortnight, unless the tool is found.

Warders do not, naturally, like to lose tools, as it involves a great deal of extra work and inconvenience for them. Tools are often lost quite accidentally, and if the warder in charge of the working party concerned is on good terms with the men, he will quietly replace them next day.

On the other hand, if a warder is a bully and unpopular, the convict's favorite method of revenge is to dump a tool purposely. This happened in the case of Warder G.

One Saturday morning a convict reported to Warder G. that he could not find an eighteen inch chisel. He had buried it beneath a foot of concrete!

It could not be found, and finally the warder asked his men not to mention the loss, as he would replace it on the Monday. The gang agreed. Then on Sunday morning the cunning revenge of B gang came into operation. On that day the principal warder in charge of A hall noticed a folded slip of paper at the foot of his desk.

His lynx eye immediately detected that it was a note from one convict to another which had been dropped accidentally. The message read: "Dear Bill,—I've got that chisel all right. I'm not going to use it yet because Warder G. knows that it is missing. He hasn't reported it and it is too late to report it now. I'm going to start the get away next week. If I get through I'll look after your wife."

Away dashed the principal warder to the Governor. That was the end of Warder G. so far as that prison was concerned. He was suspended, and B gang's lot thereafter was a happy one.

Teaching School by Magic

London's Schools of Miracles and Happy Faces.

For the person who is disoriented with his or her lot in life there could be no better mental corrective (writes the T-B. man) than a visit to the London County Council's Special Schools, where deaf, dumb, blind, and lame scholars are taught not only the ordinary school lessons, but also that which will enable them later in life to compete on equal terms with the normally endowed.

The L.C.C. maintains altogether more than a hundred and fifty of these special educational centres, giving employment to 8,638 teachers for the classes are necessarily small.

There are thirty-four schools for deaf children, fourteen for the deaf, twenty-eight for the mentally defective, forty-three for lame and otherwise physically defective children, and five for those with tubercular trouble, the classes in the last-named being conducted in the open air.

In the schools for the deaf scholars are taught to speak by means of their lips, lip-reading completely displacing finger-speech, which, like articulation, is prohibited. In the hearing classes the scholars begin the study of lip-reading by placing their fingers on the teachers' throat and feeling the words as they are spoken. The vibration of the muscles conveying the word to the scholar's intelligence. They then watch the teacher's lips and tongue, and note at the same time the object spoken of, after which they write its name on the blackboard.

In the older classes one may see the scholars doing physical exercises with the word of command of the teacher, whose voice not one of them has ever heard! Yet, by means of lip-reading, the commands are interpreted and acted on as quickly as they would be by a normal class.

I saw them dancing, of which they were very fond, and although they could not hear a note of any kind, they insisted on the piano being played in accompaniment, for there is nothing they desire more ardently than to be treated as normal children.

At Norwood there is a school for London's blind scholars, who attend from all parts of the Metropolis, nearly all of them unguided. A feature of the organization of this school is the elaborate system of changing classes, by which it is impossible for more than one stream of scholars to pass through a doorway at the same time. There are, in fact, special exits and entrances, so that there shall be no colliding. "Keep to the left" being a rule that is followed as scrupulously in play as in work.

A Blind Girl's Triumph.

Never was the slogan "Victory over blindness" more wonderfully exemplified than it is at this school. Miss Sadie Isaacs, the blind girl student whose feat in gaining first place in the first-class Honours List of the University of London in the Bachelor of Arts degree recently attracted so much attention, passed the early part of her brilliant educational career at this school.

It is only when one comes to the schools for the mentally defective that one is aware of the pathos underlying the work of this department of the L.C.C. Here are the real dunces, whose inability to imbib even elementary instruction would drive most ordinary teachers to distraction.

But not so the staff of these schools. Patience is their supreme virtue, one which often brings its reward in the shape of gradually awakening faculties and a glad dawning of intelligence. First and foremost, an effort is made to find out in which direction this latent intelligence is most likely to manifest itself. One boy may show interest in boot repairing; another in bookbinding. Clues of this sort are carefully watched for, and, where practicable, encouraged.

The English-Speaking World

MR. MACKENZIE KING AND LAUSANNE.

(By Evelyn Wrench.)

"I think the aim of effective co-operation within the Empire would be best obtained by giving the Dominion full recognition respecting self-governing rights, and that any steps we take to make clearer our full rights to self-government will conduce to the security and permanency of our allied nationhood within the Empire."—The Canadian Prime Minister in the Parliament at Ottawa.

The question of Canada's position in the British Commonwealth has been much in the public mind lately as a result of the discussions in the British and Canadian Parliaments on the ratification of the Lausanne Treaty. Considerable space has also been devoted to the subject in the British and Canadian Press. Two or three times I have dealt with the matter in the Spectator, Canadian Government or to Mr. Mackenzie King that I desire to return to the subject and to make reparation where it is due. In passing a tribute must be paid to Lord Beaverbrook for his share in dispelling, in the Daily Express, the mists of misconception. The attitude adopted by that journal during the controversy shows effectively how useful it is to have someone with an intimate knowledge of the Empire controlling one of the great organs of public opinion in this country.

The reason why the present discussion revolving round the Lausanne debates in Great Britain and Canada is of such special importance is that it concentrates our attention on the two most vital problems which the Empire will have to deal with in the near future: (1) the status of the self-governing nations within the British Commonwealth; (2) the international status of the British Empire and its relations to foreign powers. Whatever may be the outcome of the present discussions concerning Canada—the nation furthest along the path towards nationhood in Great Britain—it will establish a precedent for all the other Dominions, some of which may not yet feel the thrill of nationalism quite so acutely as does British North America.

In two sections of the British Commonwealth the fight for autonomy which the Canadian Government has been carrying on is, however, being watched with the closest attention. In South Africa and in the Irish Free State. In government quarters in Dublin, the Times correspondent tells us, the authorities "are anxious, for various reasons, to extract the last ounce of political independence" from the Anglo-Irish Treaty as the status of the Irish Free State was explicitly declared in that document to be the same as that of the Dominion of Canada. The Southern Irish Government is therefore quite willing to allow the Ottawa Administration to make the peace for it, and "to insist that every privilege that is won by Canada shall apply also to the Free State."

Just one further comment before coming to the subject itself. When I wrote an article in the Spectator last year defining the three alternatives before Canada as independence, annexation to the United States or free nationhood within the British Commonwealth. I was taken to task by several Canadian journals and told in polite terms that I did not know what I was talking about, and that as far as Canada was concerned "all was well in the best of all possible worlds." And yet within a year of the appearance of that article we have the Prime Minister of the Dominion in a considered speech defining the three alternatives before the Canadian people as those of independence, annexation to the United States or "a more clearly recognized relationship as a self-governing nation within the Empire"—the last solution being the one he favoured.

If the Canadian people complain of the nature of the comment in the Times and in the British Press before publication of the Parliamentary White Paper they have every reason to do so. Justice was not done to Canada. All who believe that the future welfare of the British Empire depends in no small degree on the freedom of each part of the Empire and the recognition by the people of Great Britain of a complete equality of status among all the nations making up the British Commonwealth must appreciate the fight Canada has been making.

The British Government in power in October 1922, no doubt with the best intentions in the world, made a gross blunder in deciding upon the British Empire representation at Lausanne without previous consultation with the Dominions. When Mr. Mackenzie King was informed of the proposed procedure he was confronted with a fait accompli. The Dominions were informed that as a result of agreement with France and Italy the British delegation at Lausanne was to consist of two delegates. They were then asked whether they would agree to allow Lord Carson and Sir Horace Rumbold to represent the whole British Empire. As Sir Edward Grigg said in an able speech in the House of Commons, "the important thing was that they were given no choice, no alternative in the matter."

When the British Government agreed with France to limit the Empire's representation to two, it probably did not realize how much importance is attached overseas as a consequence of the War. It is no exaggeration to say that from the Empire's standpoint one of the most far-reaching results of the War was the equality with the Mother Country which the Dominions obtained and the international recognition of that fact. For as Mr. Mackenzie King pointed out in the Ottawa debates "this equality status which Canada has maintained logically and persistently" was accepted at Versailles, Washington, Genoa and the Hague.

The reason for the British Government's departure from the procedure at Versailles, and for its giving away the status expressly granted to the British Empire in the Covenant of the League of Nations, is commonly believed to have been due to French pressure. If the various sections of the British Empire was entitled to representation at international conferences why not sections of the French Empire such as Morocco and Algeria?

Doubtless there was much in the French claim, and probably it will be recognized in the distant future when the outlying sections of the French Colonial Empire possess a similar autonomy to that of the self-governing nations within the British Empire. I am not dealing here with far-distant probabilities but with conditions as they are. The essential fact therefore remains that in the Versailles Treaty Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and India were accorded a definite status and the French Colonies were not.

All the subsequent discussions about Canada and the Lausanne Treaty, in which, doubtless, there have been mistakes on both sides, must be regarded in the light of the revelations of the above-mentioned White Paper. However much some people may wish that the Canadian Premier has spoken out more definitely at the recent Imperial Conference, the fundamental fact emerges that Canada was given a certain status in the Peace Treaty and the British Government's handling of the Empire's representation at Lausanne derogated from the status. The right of the people of Canada through her elected representatives to approve of any treaty which she is asked to sign must be recognized.

A reading of the debate at Ottawa convinces me that the Daily Express was quite correct when it stated:—"The claim of a Dominion to be an international party to a treaty made by Great Britain, while retaining the right to fight in defense of that treaty only by special and local parliamentary approval, is admitted by the practice of the whole Empire since 1914. This is all Mr. Mackenzie King claims, and since the Canadian Opposition leader, M. Meighen, refused his challenge to put the entire Lausanne Treaty to the vote it must be assumed that he speaks for Canada."

At the request of the British Cabinet all the correspondence between the British and Canadian Governments has not been published. The assertion that the Canadian Premier did not make any protest as regards the Empire's representation at Lausanne is, I am informed, incorrect. It is true that when Lord Carson made his speech to the Conference on the Treaty Mr. King made no protest but I believe he did clearly put the Canadian position on several other occasions.

BOTHERED WITH SCALP TROUBLE

Itched All the Time. Caused Blisters. Cuticura Healed.

"I was bothered with scalp trouble for a year. My scalp itched all the time causing me to scratch. This caused blisters, and my head was so sore that I could hardly comb my hair. My hair fell out in handfuls and I was nearly bald."

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. I was completely healed after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Bertha Holderby, Mold, Wash., June 9, 1922.

In a great concern like the British Commonwealth there will, undoubtedly, every now and then be friction-producing incidents such as the Lausanne episode. They are inevitable among the nations just as they are given to the subject will not have been in vain if it brings home to us two lessons. We in Great Britain must do nothing which could give rise to the idea that we have any desire—which we certainly have not—to derogate from the national status of the Dominions, from their complete equality with ourselves. Our brethren in Canada, for their part, should appreciate the difficulties of devising a workable scheme for arriving at a common foreign policy for the Empire. The more we all think about the subject the better; just such an incident as we have been confronted with was required to clarify our views.—Spectator.

OLD WIVES.

It is pleasant, when we're falling, when we're burdened by our age, when we know we'll soon go sailing from this transient mundane stage, to have loyal wives beside us, walking in the evening haze, though the modern folk deride us for old-fashioned, foggy ways. Jane Aurelia Goodspeed Michaels married me when I was young, and it seems like forty cycles since the wedding bells were rung; hand in hand in sunny weather, hand in hand when shadows fell, hand in hand we walked together to the dusk and curfew bell. Jane Aurelia's old and wrinkled and her youthful bloom has died, but her eyes, that always twinkled, view me with the ancient pride. And I think when I behold her that old wives more lovely grow, and I tell her what I told her in the starlight long ago. It is pleasant in the gloaming to be resting with our wives, done with all the vagrant roaming, and the labors of our lives; it is good to end our courses with the setting of the sun, not recalling, old divorces, but with hearts that beat as one, talking of the world receding, talking of the world before, where we'll walk the glades of Eden hand in hand for evermore.

Blackmailing War Widows

ROGUES WHO REAP RICH HARVESTS BY CALLOUS METHODS.

The worst form of blackmailing is one of which the public seldom hears. It is that practised on a class who have every claim to our consideration and sympathy—war widows.

Such women are exposed to terrorism owing to a peculiarity of the pensions regulations. As a rule a man's pension is a stick, not a crutch; a widow's, her whole support. Yet, while a man's pension is an absolute right, and cannot be taken from him except for some very grave offence, such as high treason, a widow's is awarded as a favour, and may be stopped for misconduct, which includes neglect of children.

It is this contingency which gives some despicable folk a power over war widows, who are coerced into acceding to their demands by the threat that certain information will be given to the authorities. "I will get your pension stopped!" This menace is generally effective.

Many of those who thus prey upon war widows are neighbours. A curious case in point happened in the North of England. For some time a war widow worked, and so supplemented her pension. One of her neighbours told her that this was against the regulations, and caused her to throw up her job, which was then secured by one of the neighbour's relatives.

Subsequently the circumstance that the woman had worked while drawing a pension was used as a lever for extracting money from her, and she was foolish enough to pay a comparatively large sum in the aggregate for the preservation of a "secret" which might have been proclaimed from the housetops without harm to her. As a fact, there is nothing to prevent a war widow from working for pay.

Another case was discovered by a member of a local war pensions committee. A war widow actually gave £5, or 10s, a week hush money to a neighbour—a woman—in order to avoid the least breath of scandal.

Other blackmailers of this class are on hand in lodgers of war widows. One woman was forced to let a man remain in her house for three years after she first tried to get rid of him, and every week to give him money for drink.

Among the blackmailers, too, are some of those nondescript who live on nothing a year. An officer's widow met one of these wastrels at a dance hall, and eventually he wrung more than £500 out of her. To satisfy his demands, she was obliged to have recourse to moneylenders, a friend in one instance giving a bill of sale on her own furniture to help raise some cash to appease the blackmailer.

A Scoundrel's Deserts.

Of the same order was a scoundrel who terrorized a captain's widow by threats to get her pension stopped. This man was insatiable. On one occasion he bought a piano for his sister in the name of his victim, who subsequently had to pay £75 for it. Shortly afterwards he staggered her with a demand for £50 to meet gambling debts.

Ultimately, when she was on the verge of ruin, she mustered sufficient courage to disclose everything to her only brother, who gave the blackmailer a hiding that completely disposed of him.

Sometimes, indeed, victims have been bled to such an extent that in the end they have turned upon their persecutors. In a particularly sad case a war widow narrowly escaped having to answer a charge of murder, and in a similar happening it was only by mercifully ignoring certain things that a coroner's jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death."

Freckles for Beauty

The new Sunlight League might have counted on the blessing of George Meredith, for whom sunburn and freckles were beauty's greatest adjuncts.

In one of his pastoral poems he urges the companion of a walk to give both a welcome, declaring: "Thou art no nun, vetted and vowed; doomed to nourish a withering palor."

City exotics beside thee would show like bleached linen at midday Hung upon hedges of eglantine."

And elsewhere he wrote in happy recollection of "a gracious freckled lady; tall and grave," whose sunburnt beauty made her unforgettable.

New Secrets in The Air

ARTHUR R. BURROWS, Assistant Controller and Director of Programmes, B.C.C.

Several varieties of "death ray" are to be on offer for the next war. It is not impressed. This does not mean that I decline to admit the possibility of projecting energy in electrical form across space in a desired direction. Such a thing is possible, and is actually happening in the case of the beam systems of short-wave telegraphy and telephony now occupying the attention of wireless engineers.

But the amount of energy transferred from the transmitting station to the receiving station specially tuned to receive it is very small; neither is the energy of the character required to dislocate the machinery of an aeroplane or to set fire to an airship.

Beating the Death Ray. The inventor of the "death ray" really matters will have to find out only a means of transmitting a considerable amount of energy across space, but also one of focusing the energy at a moment's notice. Furthermore, this ray must be capable of penetrating over all efforts made to protect men and materials from its influence.

I have no doubt that there are a number of people to-day who will give hair-raising demonstrations within the limit of their laboratories—demonstrations based on directly sound scientific principles. If you asked them if they were prepared to reproduce the results of grand scale over intervals of many years they would generally admit their inability to do so.

As an example of the necessity for making a distinction between laboratory effects and commercial practice one may cite a demonstration in several countries at various times before the war. Various metal plates were made to rise from the earth under electrical influence and were suspended in the air. The experiment was carried to the extent of a model train in the air, and in some cases it was carried forward over a considerable course.

The demonstration was witnessed in a country by Cabinet Ministers, engineers and financiers, and one may be certain that the principle would have been employed in the war for the observers to a height had a reduction of the experiment on a large scale been possible.

The death ray will probably find its discoverer by some other scientist. How effective can be the use of energy from outside electrical sources is demonstrated in the case of aeroplane telegraphy and telephony. I remember that shortly after the war, efforts were being made to fly across the Atlantic, a Handley-Page bomber was equipped with wireless for the purpose of keeping in touch with stations throughout the crossing.

The engines of this great machine consisted of six sparking plugs and six magnets, each generating small electric waves within a few feet of the delicate wireless apparatus. At first the prospect of receiving an outside wireless signal appeared hopeless, yet within a few days wireless engineers had succeeded successfully in screening the receiver that it was possible when in flight over North London to hear the signals of the power station at Glace Bay in Canada.

At the time being my interest lies in the experiments now being made in the much more pleasant matter of telephonic telephony. It may be years before business men will be able to converse with New York as if they were in New York, but I am hopeful that, with a judicious selection of sites for the stations and American stations, extended periods of uninterrupted conversation may be possible on most days of the year.

Net Navy Fears Seasickness More Than Guns Of the Enemy. Latvia, June 15 (A.P.)—Seasickness is a great handicap to the crews of the Soviet navy, says a report by Lukashovich in an article in the Soviet press discussing the necessity of long-distance cruising for the fleet. It is impossible, the writer says, to talk about the preparedness of the navy with such cruising. At present the fleet is manned by the factory workers, and he expressed the belief that more than half the crew would be put out of action by seasickness in their first acquaintance with wind and waves. The Caspian sea during the Civil War, Lukashovich added, seasickness disabled 60 per cent. of the crew, and the remainder had the same difficulty in saving the ships.

CLEAN UP and KEEP CLEAN

This is what the New Government intends doing. We have been doing this for 25 years, as Cleaning, Pressing and Dyeing is our sole business. We devote our entire time to it and therefore we can give you better satisfaction than you can get elsewhere. Owing to the growth of our business we have had to remove to larger premises on the opposite side of the street (No. 22 opp. A. V. Duffy), which gives us ample room. We use the first flat, shop and showroom; second flat, repairing and pressing rooms; third flat, dyeing and renovating.

We would like you to see some of our work before sending elsewhere; all prices reduced since the New Year. Cleaning Orders given our first and personal attention. A rush job is our specialty. We call for goods and deliver them in two hours, if necessary. Suits Pressed while you wait; a nice dressing room to change in. We can handle over one hundred pressing orders daily. In addition to Cleaning and Pressing, we clean and shape hats.

Gents' Suits Dry Cleaned—Hats Cleaned.
Ladies' Costumes Dry Cleaned—Suits Renovated.
Ladies' and Gents' Suits Dyed. Blue Serge restored to its original color.
