AWFUL TRAGEDY OF THE SEA

White Star Liner "Titanic," largest in the World, carrying 2300 Passengers, founders off Newfoundland Coast.

OVER 1300 LIVES LOST.

Survivors transferred to Steamer "Carpathia" on way to New York. Mostly Women and Children Saved. Astor and Guggenheim Among the Many Multi-millionaires on Board.

Sister Ship "Olympic" tells the Story of the Tragedy.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The following statement was given out at the White Star offices to-night:

"At 2.20 a.m. Titanic foundered. Carpathia proceeding to New York with passengers."

Vice-President Franklin positively refused to give out the full text of the message which he received from Captain Haddock of the Olympic reporting the sinking of the Titanic. This attitude led to the belief that the message intimated a loss of life which the Company desired to confirm before spreading alarm.

Mr. Franklin said that Captain Haddock's message was very brief, and neglected to say that all the crew had been saved. It said that the Carpathia had six or seven hundred of the Titanic's passengers on board, including all of the first cabin, and that the vessel should reach New York Friday morning. No information had been received from the Virginian or Parisian at the White Star Line offices, although it was said "to be known" that many of the Titanic passengers were on board these vessels.

Vice-President Franklin said that he had cancelled arrangements for the special trains which they had planned to send to Halifax to bring the rescued passengers to this city by rail, as it was believed that the boats which had the Titanic's passengers on board would steam direct for New York.

Vice-President Franklin at 8.40 o'clock to-night conceded that there had been "a horrible loss of life" in the Titanic disaster. He said that he had no information to disprove the Associated Press despatch from Cape Race to the effect that only 675 of the passengers and crew had been rescued. He said that the monetary loss could not be estimated to-night, although he intimated that it would run into the millions. "We can replace the money," he added, "but not the lives." "It is horrible," Mr. Franklin continued.

"As far as we know it has been rumored from Halifax that three steamers have passengers on board, namely, the Virginian, the Carpathia and Parisian.

Now we have heard from Captain Haddock that the Titanic sank at 2.20 this morning. We have also learned from him that the Carpathia had 675 survivors on board. It is very difficult to learn if the Virginian and the Parisian have any survivors on board. We have asked Captain Haddock and our agent at Halifax."

Mr. George Hannah, Passenger Agent of the Allan Line, discussing the disaster late to-night, expressed his belief that the Virginian arrived too late to be of any assistance.

"In all probability the Titanic sank before any of the boats reached her. The 675 passengers on board the Carpathia were probably picked up from the Titanic's life-boats. I imagine it will be found that the Titanic sank before any boat reached her. The Carpathia got to the scene of disaster first and picked up survivors. Later she was joined by the Parisian and Virginian, and the three boats would cruise around looking for survivors who might be clinging to wreckage. As soon as they make careful search they will proceed to their respective destinations. The Carpathia goes to New York with the survivors, while the Parisian is heading for Halifax. We have no knowledge of any survivors being on board either of our boats, and will probably not know for another 24 or 30 hours. They may have a stray survivor on board, but I think it would be found that they are practically all on the Carpathia."

GEORGE WRIGHT ON TITANIC.

So far as could be learned the only Halifax passenger believed to be aboard the Titanic was George Wright, whose name appears in the cable passenger list. Mr. Wright has been in Europe for several months, and it is feared that he was on the steamer.

Montreal, April 15.—The terrible loss of life on the Titanic was admitted late tonight by Mr. James Thom, Canadian manager of the White Star Line. Mr. Thom admitted to your correspondent that upwards of 1,500 perished when the boat took her fatal plunge at two o'clock this morning. Just who were saved and who went down is not known. "I suppose the women and children were taken off first, and as only 675 were rescued it looks as if all the men went down. It is a terrible disaster, and we are prostrated as a result," said Mr. Thom.

PROMINENT MONTREAL CITIZENS.

A dozen of Montreal's most prominent citizens have probably met a watery grave.

Mr. Charles M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was a passenger, together with his wife, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Davidson. Mr. Hays left here about six weeks ago on his semi-annual trip to consult the directors of the Grand Trunk. He is one of the best known men in Canada, having brought the Grand Trunk from a state of bankruptcy to present prosperous condition. His wide experience on both American and Canadian roads makes him one of the most widely known men on the continent.

His son-in-law, Mr. Thornton Davidson, is one of the youngest and best known stock brokers in Montreal.

Mr. H. Markland Molson is a director of Molson's Bank and an ex-Alderman and prominent financier.

Mr. H. J. Allison, wife and children were also on board. Mr. Allison is a member of the firm of Johnston. Other prominent Montrealeers were mentioned.

Boston, April 15.—A wireless message picked up late tonight, relayed from the Olympic, says:—

"The Carpathia is on her way to New York, with 866 passengers from the steamer Titanic aboard. They are mostly women and children," the message said, and it concluded: "Grave fears are felt for the safety of the balance of the passengers and the crew."

MULTI-MILLIONAIRES ABOARD

Untold wealth was represented among the passengers on the Titanic, there being on board at least six men each of whose fortunes might be reckoned in tens of millions of dollars.

The wealthiest of the list is Colonel John Jacob Astor, head of the famous house whose name he bears, and who is reputed to be worth $150,000,000. He is connected with most of the large corporations of the country and for years has had direct control of the vast estate left by his father, the late William Astor.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR WAS RETURNING WITH BRIDE.

Mr. Astor was returning on the Titanic from a tour of Egypt with his bride, who was Miss Madeline Force, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Force. Benj. Guggenheim, probably next in financial importance is the fifth of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, who founded the American Smelting and Refining company, the great mining corporation, and is a director of many corporations, including the International Steam Pump company, of which he is also president. His fortune is estimated at $95,000,000.

He was another passenger, as was Mr. Leopold Weisy, sculptor.

THOUGHT STEAMER WAS UNSINKABLE

New York, April 15.—Mr. Franklin, the President of the White Star Co., said that there was a sufficient number of life boats to take all the passengers from the Titanic. He said that he was confident today when he made the statement that the Titanic was unsinkable, that the steamer was safe, and that there would be no loss of life.

The position in which the Titanic sank, in Lat. 41.16 N. and Lon. 50.14 W. is about 600 miles southeast of Halifax and just outside the southern edge of the great ice circle.

An earlier bulletin is as follows:—

Montreal, April 14.—The Allan Line officials received a wireless message tonight from Captain Gambell of the steamer Virginian saying that the White Star liner Titanic had struck an iceberg and was requested assistance. The Virginian is now on the way to the Titanic.

The Allan liner Virginian, Capt. Gambell, sailed from Halifax for Liverpool at 9.20 on Saturday night, and had on board in the vicinity of two hundred passengers. She would therefore have ample accommodation for at least the passengers of the Titanic, if it became necessary to transfer them from the damaged steamer.

The Titanic, which is the new White Star liner, and a sister ship of the Olympic, is now on her maiden voyage, having sailed from Southampton with 350 first-class passengers. She has accommodation for 3000 passengers altogether, but it is not known how many she has in the second and third cabins on this trip. The Titanic has a gross tonnage of 66,000 tons, and a registered tonnage of 46,000 tons.

When leaving Southampton last week she narrowly escaped a serious collision with the steamer New York. The suction of her triple screws drew the New York away from the pier, breaking seven hawsers and causing the New York to swing out into the stream, so that a collision was very narrowly averted.

1,302 MISSING

New York, April 17.—Only a faint hope remains tonight that any of the 1,302 passengers and crew who have been missing since the giant Titanic sank have been picked up by trans-Atlantic liners. The 868 survivors rescued from life boats by the Cunarder Carpathia, now on her way to this city, are the only known saved.

The brief and meagre wireless messages that came to hand today extinguished the hope that some of the ill-fated passengers may have been picked up at sea by the steamships Virginian and Parisian of the Allan Line. Both of these steamers sent word that they had no passengers of the Titanic on board.

326 ACCOUNTED FOR.

Of the 868 persons rescued by the Carpathia, the names of 326 passengers had been received by wireless up to half-past four o'clock.

The Carpathia evidently was out of wireless range toward noon, after that efforts to reach her with wireless communications were futile, and a score or more of messages from the Cunard Company and other sources were unanswered.

Captain Rostron in his last wireless report to the Cunard Company stated that the Carpathia was proceeding slowly through a field of ice to this port.

MILLIONAIRES ARE MISSING

Col. John Jacob Astor is believed to be among those drowned. His wife and her maid are safe on the Carpathia. Isador Strauss, the millionaire merchant, Benjamin Guggenheim, the copper magnate and president of the International Pump Company; Edgar J. Meyer, vice president of the Braden Copper Co., and W.T. Stead, the famous London journalist, are still unaccounted for and their names are not found among the survivors.

HAYS' FATE UNCERTAIN

Whether Chas. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, was saved was not known tonight. His name was not among those reported rescued by the Carpathia. A Canadian despatch early in the day gave the information that Mr. Hays was saved. His wife and daughter were rescued.

Large vs. Small Farms

(J. Myers, in St. John Telegraph) My sympathies were aroused very much one day this fall, while visiting a young friend of our township.

His father, being in fairly good circumstances, gave this young man fifty acres of fairly good land on which there were a good barn and a fairly good, rather old frame house.

It wasn't very long before my young friend got a notion in his head farm was too small. He had always been used to working on his father's 200-acre farm, and he seemed to think he was too cramped on fifty acres.

LAND POOR. The fact was plainly to be seen, this young man was land poor. Had he never bought that other hundred but put all his time tilling and caring for some special crops on the fifty acres, he wouldn't have been such a miserable looking object and would have had far more money to show for his labor.

He answered: "Humph! Haven't had that driver hitched up three times this summer—hadn't time."

His good wife came to the door just then to throw the dishwater out and oh, dear me, the looked as if she too were very nearly ready to go to the graveyard, haggard and thin, and seemed as if she could hardly put one foot before the other.

This is not an imaginary story. No indeed, these are real facts. And the pity of it is, there are too many of just such cases as I have described to have any need to make up any imaginary ones.

CORRESPONDENCE THE FISH MARKET.

In appreciation of the open columns of the Monitor-Sentinel for the discussion of topics of public weal, I would crave a small space to reply to "Subscriber" writing in your last issue re topic "Our Fishermen."

It appears to be laboring under some "false impressions" also, and now as the smoke of the political canvass has blown away and people have again got down to their usual routine of business, it is quite as apparent as ever that reciprocity is what the fisherman needs above all else.

PLEASURES OF COUNTRY LIFE

Why, there is hardly a week when the days are long but wife and I hitch the horse in the buggy and take a spin either into town or around the country after tea.

I'll never forget the remark made to me by a friend when he heard I had bought a farm. "Well," said he, "I am surprised at you going to make a slave of yourself on a farm, at your age, and you not strong either."

Why, bless you, I don't make a slave of myself. Certainly, there are times when we have to work hard, but these periods are only of short duration, and I never enjoyed life as I do to the city to live again.

Halifax, N.S., April 3.—A message from the department of marine and fisheries at Quebec, in response to an enquiry from your correspondent, states that Mrs. Peter Borque has been temporarily appointed lightkeeper of Bird Rock, the lonely station in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, where her husband died at the post of duty.

CHINA'S NEED CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY.

Editor Monitor-Sentinel.— In Asia the 20th Century is China's as it is Canada's in America. China is now the scene of a transformation the most marvelous in history, and what is happening there is of importance to us since in this shrinking world Canada and China are now neighbors.

Famines at any time is grievous affliction, but added to political revolution as China it must stir the sympathy of a people so favored as Canadians are with stable institutions, and blessed with abundant prosperity. Here then is a unique opportunity to show practically our good will to the new Chinese nation in the time of their sorest need.

The refunding of part of the boxer indemnity by the United States made a deep impression on the Chinese people. By emulating the good example of the United States, Canada may prove that this part of the British Empire is not behind any nation in good will to China in this crisis.

A Central Canadian Committee has been suggested through which aid may be sent direct to the "Central China Famine Relief Committee," the International body with headquarters at Shanghai which has made an appeal to the world for aid to the famine sufferers, and which is composed of European and Chinese men of standing.

Staging Fire Scenes For Motion Pictures

Interesting Account of How Film Companies Make Them Seem Realistic.

"The first thing to do when we have a fire scene to stage," says Barry O'Neil, the managing director of one of the Lunin stock companies, "is to find a vacant house standing in a row of pretty cottages not too far from our plant. The owner of the house is generally willing to loan his property for our purposes on condition that we do not really burn it down and that we pay for all doors and windows which we have to smash in putting on the scene realistically."

"Now everything is ready. From one of the upper windows comes a puff of smoke. Up the street the engine dashes at a furious gait, followed by the volunteer mob."

"Action picture audiences like a lot of door smashing and window breaking with their fires and waiting to spare any expense to give them all they want. Of course the front door is always locked and a half dozen husky firemen batter their way through it with axes. Others smash in the windows on the lower floor with utter disregard of the cost of plate glass. All the time—thanks to the chemist—the smoke is growing denser and fiery tongues of flame show at every window."

"Now the work of rescue begins. A little child is brought out through the front door. Several men and women are dragged through the upper windows and brought down the ladders. It's all so realistic that the crowd does not need any coaching to applaud the rescues."

"One of the men who frequently has a part in our fire scenes has a little dog which is always at his heels. When he dashes into the burning house the dog fearlessly follows. Presently the dog is seen to leap from one of the upper windows. The feat always gets a round of applause just as it will later when shown in the films."

"Of course there's always one woman left in the burning building—the heroine of the play. Quite often this part falls to Miss May Buckley, who plays the leading role in so many of our dramas. The rescued people beg the firemen to save her."

"But after a breathless moment or two he is sure to re-appear with one arm around Miss Buckley's apparently senseless form. Out through the window he drags her and down the ladder."

"All this time, of course, the engine has been pumping water on the flames and various other things incidental to fire-fighting have been happening for the benefit of the camera. But with the heroine safe at last the usual fire scene comes an end. The manufactured smoke and flames quickly fade away and the house which has played such an important part is as good as ever save for the broken doors and windows."

Toronto, April 1st.—Official figures of the Methodist vote on the proposed union between the Methodist, Presbyterian churches of Canada, were compiled today and show a proportional vote of almost eight to one in favor of organic union on the proposed basis.

DEFIES THE BLOWPIPE.

New Material For Safes That Proves Invulnerable.

An experiment of interest to safe manufacturers recently took place at Birmingham, England. It was a test of a material designed to make it impossible for the oxy-acetylene blowpipe to be successfully used by burglars for opening safes.

A safe door section had been built up of two sheets of half inch steel, with a layer of this resisting material between. A drill was first employed, but while it easily bit its way through the outer case of steel it failed to make any impression on the inner filling, and when the drill was withdrawn after five minutes' application all the edge had gone from it. In fact, it had been ground perfectly smooth.

Next the oxy-acetylene blowpipe was brought into play, the cone of intense light giving off a heat of 6,300 F. and exerting a pressure of fifty pounds to the inch. Almost directly the steel covering the region of the drill hole became incandescent. Then came a shower of white hot particles, and the metal began to bubble over like a miniature crater, but as soon as the outer steel had been burned away and the inner material had been reached the blowpipe "back fired" and was extinguished.

Time after time it was repeated, but after a second or two's application it was put out of action. The material, in fact, proved absolutely invulnerable, and when the blowpipe was examined the cone was found to have been completely burned away. This was the first time in the discoverer's experience that such a thing had happened, and while affording evidence of the immense heat employed it also provided convincing proof of the resisting power of the new material. Indeed, when later the blowpipe was played on a slab of the material it simply reached a glowing heat, while, strangely enough, it was subdued immediately an extra jet of oxygen was put on. This is quite contrary to usual experience, for the extra oxygen is employed for cutting purposes.

When the blowpipe was withdrawn the sign of its application was a slight unevenness on the surface. A similar application would have been to make a cut of at least a foot in steel three inches thick. Later the jet blew a considerable hole in a fire brick which presented a glossy appearance, and while the discoverer regarded this experiment and also a further one with plumbago as being moderately satisfactory there was no comparison in the resisting power of these mediums with that of the earlier material.

SMOKE BURNING FORGE.

Device That Provides a Better Utilization of Coal.

Coal smoke is nothing else than unburned carbon. When great clouds of smoke go up from a forge heat is wasted, writes a correspondent of Popular Mechanics. I hit upon an idea to prevent this waste and worked it out, as shown in the sketch, successfully.

Using a common forge with hood attached, I connected at D a tin pipe of the same size as the opening into the suction side of the blower, as shown at C. When the blower is in use the smoke that rises from the fire passes in the direction of the arrows back through the blower and up to the fire without escaping into the open. By using this method I have been able to get much more heat out of a given quantity of coal.

Traveling Telephones.

The military authorities in India have made use from time to time of a form of movable telephone which can be employed with great facility in the field. The cable weighs only seven pounds per mile, but it is so well insulated that it can be stretched across a stream without loss of current. It withstands a strain of 120 pounds. An apparatus for placing and removing the cable, working automatically and capable of being attached to a saddle, is employed. Recently in the Punjab a horseman, proceeding at a gallop, placed the cable over a distance of two miles in seven minutes. To remove it eighteen minutes were required.

Sharpening Razor Blades.

Safety razor blades, says Popular Mechanics, can be sharpened by immersing them in a solution of one part, by weight, of muriatic acid and twenty parts of water for thirty minutes, then removing them and honing each one to a polish.

Cheap Electric Railways.

Taking all items into consideration, the saving of the electric locomotive over steam working is at least equal to 25 per cent.—Engineering.

GREETINGS

THE MONITOR entering its 40th year today extends greetings to its contemporaries and to its readers, one and all.

—The tragic loss of life by the foundering of the giant steamship Titanic is the awe-inspiring topic of the day. Only a brief time ago this monster of the sea, was launched with world-wide publicity. Her immense capacity and her wonderful equipment as described in the despatches sounded like some unbelieveable fairy-tale. Over ten millions of dollars was spent on her and every conceivable luxury was furnished for her presumably fortunate passengers.

Her owners claimed and believed her to be also absolutely sea and storm-proof, "unsinkable," and yet on her maiden voyage a few hours from port, relentless Nature dealt this massive structure, this masterpiece of the would-be conquerors of sea,
one crushing blow—and all was over.
How puny, after all, are the mightiest efforts of man! Were this world the limit of his existence how vain his striving! Were Nature his only God, how cruel his fate!

School Board Meeting

A meeting of the School Board was held on Monday. The resignations of four teachers were received and accepted by the board, viz.—Miss

Phinney and Mildred Wheelock. To replace them the following appoint-

Chute, Grade I; Miss Cora Lloyd,
Grade II; Miss Florence Cochran,
Grade V and VI; Miss Mary Phinney,
Grades VII and VIII. Miss Mary
Palfrey remains as teacher of Grades

Belleisle

Belleisle, April 16th:—Mrs. Frank
F. Bent, who spent Easter week with her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Crowell at Arcadia, Yarmouth Co., has returned home.

Mrs. Fred Chipman of Nietaux is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
A. W. Parker.

Mrs. Lambert Nichols of Aylesford, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Israel J. Parkes.

Mrs. Harry Marshall and little son, Lawrence, are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
H. N. Gesmer.

Mr. Sylvester Bent, our veteran lumberman, informed our reporter that he placed his mill at the base of the North Mountain near Granville Ferry, commenced sawing middle of November, got through last week of March. During that time he sawed a broad margin over a million feet.
We doubt very much if there is another mill of like capacity in the country that can match this record—and he has it all hauled to a place of shipment. He is a hard man to beat.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A PROTEST!

Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—
I have read on frequent occasions, articles in your paper, asking the citizens of this Town to spend a little time occasionally in the beautifying of the grounds surrounding their residence and of the good effect a well kept lawn must have in the judgment of the many visitors to our town in the summer season, and I would like to go a step farther, and ask those housekeepers who make it a custom one or two days out of every week to decorate their verandahs with a fantastical display of washes under garments, now that the warm weather is here to put forth a little more energy and display these garments on a line in the back yard where they will be somewhat hidden from the public gaze and where they rightfully belong. There is nothing that gives to a place more the appearance of a cheap western mining town, than this display degrading a fine residence. I trust in the interests of the town to which every housekeeper as well as every citizen should subscribe, this habit will soon be a thing of the past.

BISHOP—BANKS.

On Thursday morning, Apr. 4th a few near relatives gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs. B. S. Banks to witness the marriage of their daughter, Carrie Louise, to William B.
Bishop, both of Lawrencetown. At ten o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Mattie Dexter, the bridal party stepped under a beautiful arch of cedar and Easter lilies. The bride was becomingly dressed in a travelling suit of navy blue.

The ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. G. Mellick of Lawrencetown.

The newly married couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents. They will reside in Lawrencetown.

Mr and Mrs. Bishop will be "at home" on Thursday and Friday, April 25th and 26th.

A CHARITY CONCERT.

Gayarre Sang and Schurmann Passed the Hat in the Street.

The famous Spanish tenor, Gayarre, was once at Barcelona in company with the impresario Schurmann. They were strolling down the Rambla and met two street musicians, one of whom was singing while the other begged. Gayarre was touched at their wretched appearance and suggested giving them a couple of lous, but changed his mind and said that he might do better still.

"I will sing and you shall go round to collect the money. Nobody will ever have heard me sing so cheaply, and the contributions will be a charity. Let us begin at once."

No sooner said than done. The celebrated tenor asked the poor singer for his repertoire and then attacked the grand air of "La Traviata." Scarcely had the first notes been heard before a crowd began to assemble, and a whistle went round: "It is he! It is Gayarre."

The applause was tremendous, and as an encore he sang "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," finishing up with a popular Spanish song. The enthusiasm then broke all bounds, and Schurmann, having filled his own hat, had to borrow Gayarre's. The contents, amounting to a little over $183, were then poured into the hands of the astonished and grateful musicians, and the two improvised street performers had the greatest difficulty in forcing their way back to the hotel, where Gayarre remarked:

"Well, I hope you are pleased with the takings. As for me, I have never sung with so much pleasure. It is good to help others."

MODELS OF BREVITY.

Gems of Correspondence in Which There Were No Words Wasted.

A couple of Quakers hold the record for brief letters. One of them, wishing to learn if a correspondent in a distant town had any news to communicate, posted to him a sheet of paper on which only a note of interrogation was written. The reply came in the form of a blank sheet, indicating that there was nothing at all to communicate.

Actors seem to carry off the palm for brevity in letter writing. Quip had a misunderstanding with Rich, the manager of Covent Garden, which resulted in Quip's leaving in an unceremonious manner. He soon regretted the hasty action and wrote to the manager, "I am at Bath—Quip." Rich did not think this a sufficient apology and accordingly replied, "Stay there and be hanged."

Everybody remembers the letters that passed between Samuel Foote and his mother. "Dear Sam," wrote the lady, "I am in prison for debt—Your loving mother." Foote's answer was even shorter: "Dear Mother—So am I."

March 19, 1790, was a notably dark day in Boston. A certain lady was induced thereby to write the following note to the famous Dr. Byles: "Dear Doctor—How do you account for this darkness? To which the doctor simply replied, "Dear Madam—I am as much in the dark as you are."—Pearson's Weekly.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Late one afternoon a western senator chanced to run across his colleague, who sat musing idly in a committee room.

"Hello, Tom," said the second senator. "What are you doing here?"

"I was merely reflecting upon the peculiar difference oratory has upon different people," said the other statesman.

"And what induced that train of thought?" asked the first senator, much amused, by reason of the fact, well known to him and to others, that his colleague was anything but an "oratorical" personage.

"My speech of this afternoon," explained the senator. "Do you know that speech kept me awake for four nights, and today it put all who heard it asleep?"—New York Press.

Queered by Suicide.

"What do you think of $20 in one week for new razors?" said the boss barber. "That's what we spent this week. We got an entirely new set. Had to do it or lose our trade."

"A man cut his throat with one of our razors last Saturday. Other customers heard about it, and they got afraid they might be shaved with the fatal razor. The only way we could convince them there was no danger was to swear that we had thrown all the old razors away and show them a bill for the new lot."

"That has happened to us twice before. A suicide with a barber shop razor will force the proprietor to lay in a new supply every time."—New York Times.

CORRESPONDENCE

THE SONS OF TEMPERANCE.

To the Editor of Monitor-Sentinel—The undersigned, a humble sojourner for a short time in the County so favored by nature—the County of Annapolis—begs the privilege of a few words to those who dwell in the district named, to those who admire what is good and great in the character of our people and our institutions.

First, as the Agent of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, I desire to congratulate the people of Annapolis Royal and the people of the County as well, upon the recent knock out bowl delivered to a lawless, body and soul-destroying traffic in the shire town.

Sixty years ago the Hon. J. W. Johnston, peerless advocate the man whose high character, whose brilliant gifts and attainments in the light of history, shine forth today with increasing brightness, this great and honored representative of Annapolis County presided over the proceedings of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance of Nova Scotia, which body at that time adopted a series of resolutions, including the following clause:—

"That no license whatever ought to be given to any traffic so injurious to the public welfare as the liquor traffic."

The recent action of the authorities at Annapolis Royal and the action of the County officials in suppressing the illicit traffic furnish cause for congratulation provided that this brilliant and successful skirmish leads on to further triumphs, final and complete victory. The Pioneer, edited for many years by F. S. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, published in April, 1909, the returns of convictions for drunkenness, and for all other offences, for ten years, 1898 to 1908, which show for those ten years an increase of 107 per cent. for all other offences, and of 164 per cent. for drunkenness in the Dominion, while for Nova Scotia there is an increase in the first of 90 per cent. and in the latter of 134 per cent. as compared with 267 per cent. and 56 per cent. in New Brunswick, and with a decrease of 49 per cent. and 50 per cent. in Prince Edward Island. The Pioneer comments:—

"It would be difficult to ascertain exactly what conditions and forces have combined to bring about a moral deterioration which every patriotic Canadian will deplore. Various causes have contributed to the total result and the exact effect of each cause cannot be defined. Among the general factors which strike one most forcibly as explanation of the statistics quoted, may be mentioned the following:—(1) General material prosperity; (2) a large influx of settlers from the other countries; (3) a regrettable relaxation in organized temperance work along moral suasion lines. Each of these factors may be considered by itself, although all are related."

After discussing the two first causes the Pioneer goes on: "The third cause of deterioration that statistics show is more discouraging than either of the others. . . . The falling off in temperance effort has no redeeming feature. It has probably come about because of three separate though related causes: (a) Reliance of workers too exclusively upon legislative methods; (b) the dying out of temperance organizations specially devoted to temperance work; (c) neglect or indifference of churches to the necessity and claims of the temperance reform. . . . Temperance societies are becoming forgotten. Thirty years ago the Good Templar Order in Ontario had a membership of more than 35,000. Today it has less than 1,500. Other organizations have a similar record. . . . What has killed the temperance society? To some extent the development of fraternal organizations in general. The country has become full of councils and circles and tents and lodges and camps and courts of all kinds, most of them providing their members cheap insurance, or some other financial advantage. . . . Shortly after the fraternal organizations began to absorb a great deal of attention, another important movement came into existence, the effect of which may be more appropriately considered under the next heading.

"When temperance societies had reached their best and become an important feature of the social life of the young people of the country, the church came to recognize the opportunities that existed in the enthusiasm and activity of these young people. The Christian Endeavor movement was launched with its subsequently developed phases of Epworth Leagues, Young Peoples' Unions, and all the many forms of organization which that movement has taken. Into these societies came many of the young men and most of the young women from the lodges and Divisions. Originally temperance work was expected to be an important part of the new movement, but that plan was not fully carried out. The temperance work done by the Young Peoples' Church Societies has been insignificant compared with the work of the temperance societies which they replaced." (or displaced.)

"The result is that the temperance question has not been studied as it used to be studied. Sunday School teachers and ministers are not in contact with the stimulating influence of the old societies. Temperance sermons are fewer, and are looked upon as of less importance. There are thousands of churches in which a temperance sermon is not preached once in months. The righteousness of the temperance movement and the duty of temperance practice are not brought home to the people of the church as they were in days gone by. Today the church realizes that the bar-room is one of its worst enemies, and that if its mission among men is to be accomplished, the thwarting influence of the liquor traffic must be overthrown."

"What about work among the young people? Bands of Hope in Canada are rare. There is little doubt that the great progress recently made in Great Britain has been aided by the splendid work done among girls and boys during the past quarter century."

"Connected with United Kingdom Band of Hope Unions, there are today over 30,000 juvenile societies with an aggregate membership of about three and one-half million. . . . If Canada had a juvenile temperance work proportionately equal to that of Great Britain we would have nearly 5,000 juvenile temperance societies with a membership of 400,000. What a mighty force for temperance would be developed in a few years when the boys and girls came to take their places in the life and activity of our growing Dominion."

In the above we have made, brief extracts from a lengthy article in the Pioneer the organ of the Dominion Alliance devoted to the promotion of legislation, etc. While the conditions were those existing in the whole Dominion three years ago, it is safe to assume, they have not changed very much. We may safely assume that the same causes have operated and are operating in Nova Scotia. The opinions of the Dominion Alliance as to the necessity for the temperance orders to prepare the way for, and give stability to the work of legislation coincides exactly with the opinion expressed repeatedly by conventions of the Nova Scotia Temperance Alliance. And yet in Nova Scotia today I find an alarming tendency on the part of former workers to desert the preparatory department without which legislation Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Mr. Sanders tells plainly what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine did for it. will prove a mockery.

Sitting at table in a hotel in one of the principal towns of this County I overheard the conversation of some teachers at another table discussing the seizure made at Annapolis and the opinion was expressed that the traffic should be licensed so as to get rid of the bad liquor. The only reply made was that the ministers would be after the person who would make any such proposition.

Now, dear editor, I have taken up a large amount of your valuable space for which please accept my sincere thanks and may I venture to ask space in a future issue to consider a new idea offered for abolishing or remaining outside the temperance organizations.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silke, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by druggists and dealers.

COMMON EXPRESSIONS.

"I hope I make myself perfectly clear," said the water, as it passed through the filter.

"Experiences like this tend to harden one," the egg said, as it was dropped into boiling water.

"A little of this goes a long way," remarked the aviator aloft, as he flicked the ash off his cigar.

The Medicin's Question

Reform diets, mental healing, suggestion and many other methods for the drugless cure of disease break out sporadically and sometimes epidemically in various journals and periodicals. These are reports of movements that spring up for the instant banishment of disease from the face of the earth, and with an air of authority as if it were the Divine instruction: "So shalt thou put away evil from Israel."

While mankind is mortal these can never succeed, except in a partial degree. There can be no doubt that that by will, mental force, optimism, courage and other attributes of that character much of it is often avoided. Reform movements, especially in the matters of health, are often to be commended. The Home Health Club is a reform organization in a certain sense. It seeks the return to natural remedies and simple ways in the terms that are pompously and pedantically used in the practice of healing.

The earth and all that is in it or on it, mankind included, is subject to the laws of disorganization, decomposition and dissolution. The human body is composed of elements found in our food, in the soil, in the water and in the air, and to it at times certain chemical elements must be supplied to replace their loss by disorder and disintegration. For instance, seventy per cent. of the human body is water and the supply must be kept up to the standard. Besides, these are of the constituents of the human organization—iron, lime, soda, salt, potash, chalk, magnesium, many phosphates, chlorides, nitrates and sulphates and many many other chemicals under technical names not necessary to this writing. There are times when these must be supplied on the same principle that water is, and all of them are supplied in health through our food.

Thus it will be seen that to discard all medicine is to discard the very elements of physical structure. It is as if to refuse food when nature insistently demands that it should be taken to avert hunger.

A skilful dietist can incorporate into the daily food the herbs and extracts, phosphates, chlorides, etc., necessary to the perfect maintenance of the human body for many years beyond the present average span of life, and as the science of biochemistry—chemistry of life—advances this is already being done. Nature helps in all this in the very production of the season. The early spring vegetables are such as help to cleanse the system of impurities. Rhubarb, for instance, is a mild laxative to cleanse the alimentary canal and asparagus acts upon the kidneys and bladder, preparing the system for the claims of the summer. Tea made from the root bark of the sassafras is an old-time and effective agent for cleansing and thinning the blood to the same end. The fruits and vegetables of summer do not heat the auts and cereals full of fat and warmth to prepare us for winter.

Among the herbs are to be found herbs for almost every ill that flesh is heir to, and these, with the other biochemical agents of mineral extrac-

DECLINE OF SHAD FISHERY

The shad fishery of the Maritime Province is dwindling away to very small proportions. Some idea of the falling off in catch may be had when it is stated that the quantity caught has declined from 10,036 barrels, in 1903 to 5,242 barrels in 1910. The fishery is confined to the Bay of Fundy and its tributary waters. The chief causes of the decline are the catching of the fish when they go up the rivers in the spring to spawn, and the lock of fishways in dams on streams flowing into the Bay—a circumstance which prevents the fish going up into fresh water to deposit their spawn. The catching of the spawning shad is the more indefensible because, when the fish are ready for spawning, their flesh is foul and unfit for human consumption.

The Dominion Government appointed the Dominion Shad Fishery Commission to enquire into the cause of the decline in the fishery in 1908. This Commission made a thorough investigation of the subject and recommended that steps should be taken to rehabilitate the fishery, but so far, no action has been taken by the Government.—Exchange.

You wouldn't be satisfied to use a scythe to cut your grain, when a modern harvester can do it so much better, would you? Nor to use the old soft-iron plough-share that your ancestors walked behind, when you can get a up-to-date riding plough? Every Canadian farmer realizes the advantages of Twentieth Century implements.

The next step is

The 20th Century Material—Concrete

Concrete is as far ahead of brick, stone, or wood as the harvester is ahead of the scythe or the riding-plough is ahead of the old iron plough-share.

Concrete is easily mixed, and easily placed. It resists heat and cold as no other material can; hence is best for ice-houses, root-cellar, barns, silos and homes. It never needs repair; therefore it makes the best walks, fence-posts, culverts, drain-tiles, survey monuments, bridges and culverts. It cannot burn; you can clean a concrete poultry-house by filling it with straw and setting the straw afire. The lice, ticks and all germs will be burned, but the house is unharmed.

It is cheap—sand and gravel can be taken from your own farm. Cement, the only material you must buy, forms from one-seventh to one-tenth of the whole volume.

Do you want to know more about Concrete on the Farm? Then write your name and address in the lines above, or on a postcard, mail it to us, and you will receive by return mail a copy of

TO KEEP UP WITH CURRENT EVENTS.

A friend of mine showed a surprising fund of information on the subject of labor unions.

"How do you happen to know so much about labor organizations?" I inquired. "I didn't know you were particularly interested in economics."

"I never was," she said. "It's just our Saturday evenings."

"And what might that mean?"

Why, I don't know as it's worth telling about," said she, "but it's lots of fun and we learn a great deal. It's this way. You know the crowd that usually drifts about to my house, or sister's, or Mrs. C's, on a Saturday night. There's sister and her husband and Mr. L., John and I, Marie and the man she's going to be engaged to Mr. and Mrs. C. and sometimes other people who happen in. Sometimes we play cards, but more often we just have a chaffing disa and talk. Well one Saturday night at our house we got to talking about woman's suffrage. We all had a lot to say, but when it came right down to it, we found that no one knew much that was definite. Someone said that women didn't need suffrage in the United States, because there were no laws that discriminated against women, and someone else said that there was a larger proportion of uneducated women than men in the country, and someone else said it was the other way round. Finally Mr. L. said, 'I don't believe any of us know what we are talking about. Suppose we all try to find out and finish our talk next Saturday.' We did and you don't know how much fun it was to talk on something about which we really knew a little. We learned a lot, too, because everyone had found out facts along different lines.

"Well, that night someone happened to say, 'Who's going to be the next President?' and sister said, 'Instead of arguing that, let's have a game of what now, and leave that until next week, so we can find out about it.' We did and that was interesting, too. Everyone picked his favorite candidate and tried to find out something about him during the week, and I learned more about politics than I ever knew before. Another night we had a tariff discussion, and last week we talked labor unions and the McNamara's, and next week it's going to be socialism and government ownership in general. You'd better come next Saturday night. Be sure and know something about socialism—not just have an opinion, but know some definite facts."

My informant said that her Saturday nights were scarcely worth telling about. I differ most emphatically. Don't you? It seems to me that there is a seed of suggestion in the story of these little informal debates which cannot be scattered too broadly.

I've no doubt that all those people got more out of one of those Saturday night discussions than they would from hearing a paper read on the same subject at some formal gathering. Besides, some of them would never go to the formal gathering.

Intelligent conversation is one of the greatest educative forces in the world. I wish that this Saturday night club—no, I will not call it a club, that's too formal, and the surest way to kill a custom like that is to formalize and organize it—these Saturday night conversations, I'll say, might be a suggestive ancestor for many such.—Ruth Cameron.

TO CURE BLACKHEADS.

Blackhead is not as a rule due to dietetic errors, although an excess of pork, buckwheat and syrup may aggravate the condition. In some cases the difficulty is aggravated by being around a hot stove or where there is an abundance of steam. This causes the little sweat glands to open and become thoroughly relaxed, so that little dirt lodges inside the opening and clogs it up. The perspiration, in attempting to escape, is held back by the dirt and forms a hard lump or mass, which, upon being squeezed out, looks like a worm with a black head. It is not, however, but is simply accumulated waste matter with a little dirt at one end of it. Every night before retiring you should very thoroughly wash your face with mild antiseptic soap and soft water, after which apply the following solution:—One ounce commercial (32 per cent.) acetic acid, 2 ounces witch hazel, 1 ounce glycerine. This will cause a little smarting, but you can put it on without any fear of injuring the skin. Let it remain on fifteen or twenty seconds, then rub the face thoroughly with a soft cloth. You will see that a great deal of dirt which has been left on the skin by the soap and water will readily come out. You will be surprised at the amount of dirt you get off in this way. After rubbing carefully, apply the liquid again and leave it on. The next morning you will find the skin looking cleaner and clearer, and it will be soft and flexible. Wash every night before going to bed with soft water and a mild soap, and apply the acetic acid solution two or three times a week only.

DISAGREEABLE TOPICS.

"I have made up my mind that many unpleasant things are said and done," writes one of my letter-friends most charitably, "simply because people have not had their attention called to them, and I think you might really surprise some people by letting them know that operations are not pleasant subjects for a luncheon table. I have several times had my appetite leave me on account of some vivid description of an operation, the speaker even going so far as to tell what the doctor found and the amount of pus removed. Now I know that everybody will say it must have been a very ignorant person who would talk of such things, but that is not so. I have in mind a woman of education and standing who did this very thing."

I trust that my friend's optimistic belief that people do things like this simply because they have not had their attention called to them will be justified.—Exchange.

RUST REMOVER.

Nothing answers the purpose of a rust remover like rice. A recent stain, or one of long standing, can easily be removed by using it, says Good Housekeeping. Boil a cupful of rice in two quarts of water for thirty minutes. Let it stand over night, then strain through a cheesecloth. Soak the iron-rust spots in the rice water for four or five hours and then rinse in clear water. No matter how old the stains they will be effectively removed.

LORD STRATHCONA.

Lord Strathcona's recovery from his recent illness directs attention to his wonderful vitality. So vigorous is his constitution that his recovery has been unusually rapid and it is expected he will soon take up again the official duties which he discharges so effectively. Only those Canadians who have experienced it, realize how immense is the assistance he is able to give to visitors from the Dominion. That great drafts are made on his good nature goes without saying, and many Canadians coming to London to engage in difficult fields of endeavor have found almost insurmountable obstacles cleared away by the genial and generous high commissioner.

At his London residence, his country place in Essex and at his Scotch seat, Lord Strathcona entertains extensively as the seasons come. Canadians who are favored with his hospitality find themselves brought into touch with some of the most famous men and women of the kingdom, for his picturesque career and vigorous and attractive personality have made him one of the outstanding public figures.

A HOME PRODUCTION.

Sackville gets into line in the forward movement by the publication of a very attractive booklet advertising the attractiveness of the town, issued by the board of trade. The booklet sets forth in an interesting way the commercial, industrial, educational advantages which Sackville offers. The agricultural conditions and possibilities to be found in Sackville are also ably dilated upon. Some fine illustrations give a finishing touch to the book, which is in every way designed to serve as an attractive booster. The committee having to do with the publication of the booklet consisted of Alderman T. R. Anderson, F.A. Dixon, G. R. McCord, A. H. McCready and C.O. Ayer, chairman. The booklet was printed by the Tribune Printing Company Limited, and is a credit to that establishment as well as to the town.—St. John's Telegraph.

THREE BAGS OF MAIL STOLEN.

The police are investigating a mysterious theft of three bags of mail from the post office on Saturday night. The bags came in on the Woodstock train and included the mail from Woodstock, Edmondston and other river points. The mail driver brought them in from the station about nine o'clock and deposited them in the porch at the rear of the post office. When the clerks went out to look for them a short time afterwards they had disappeared. It is supposed that the bags contained some registered matter.

A Plan for the Horse

In a strong, thoughtful article on "The Humane Treatment of the Horse," by Mr. George Foster Powell, published in The Team Owners' Review, among many other paragraphs that deserve a wide circulation wherever the horse is found as man's servant and helper, are the following:—

"Horses are not deaf, so do not shout at them. Neither are they blind. Their hearing and sight is just as keen as ours and very often keener, as they frequently see and hear things long before we can see and hear them.

"When you see a horse cruelly treated call a policeman and have the driver arrested. The humane laws of nearly all the states make it obligatory upon the policeman to arrest the offender after a citizen has made a complaint to him. "Treat the old horse as kindly and considerately as you would an aged man or woman, and do not expect him to 'get up' as you would a two-year-old. Their bones, muscles and joints become stiff, just the same as yours will if you live long enough. Always be doubly kind to a poor old horse. Treat him as you would like to be treated if you were old enough to be a great grandfather."

Parker's Cove

Parker's Cove, Apr. 6th.—Death entered our community and saddened it by claiming one so young in life as Miss Abbie Anderson, third daughter of Capt. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson. At the age of twenty-seven years that dread disease consumption claimed her as its victim. She leaves to mourn their loss, mother, father, three sisters and one brother. One sister was called home from Boston. Interment took place in the Parker's Cove cemetery. Rev. Mr. Davis officiated at the house and grave. The floral tributes were many from friends of the deceased. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Aaron Oliver, Clifford Rice, Stuart Robinson and Austin Weir, friends of the deceased.

WHY HE WAS LATE.

"What made you so late?" "I met Smithson." "Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper." "I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble." "Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?" "Sure, that is what he needs." Sold by druggists and dealers.

MAY LOCATE GAS AT SUSSEX

The Sussex Record says that a few years ago when Dr. Henderson and his associates came to New Brunswick in search of oil and gas, they had in mind the boring of wells near Sussex. The recent transfer of the gas properties at Albert instead of lessening this probability will, it is understood, strengthen it. It is understood the company will make a careful examination of the whole shale belt. Sussex is among the central points they have in mind, and it is probable that if gas were struck here, St. John would be supplied from this centre.

A MAN'S BIRTHPLACE.

Man's birth is a lottery; it may be in the pleasant home of ease and affluence, or in the hut of poverty; in either case it may be a stain or an honor. If he is born in poverty and his future life throws a lustre over an humble birth, the reward will not only be great, but his name will stand higher on the roll of honor and virtue than he who can only boast of his proud descent.—James Ellis.

Assault and Robbery at Garden Lots

(Lunenburg Progress.)

Lunenburg, for many years noted as one of the most law-abiding towns of the province came under the spot light on Saturday morning when it became known that a daring robbery and assault had been committed at Garden Lots at the home of Charles Melner, familiarly known as "The Glebe" property. The house is far off the main road and though stories of the incident vary the tale told down is as follows:

"Somewhere around seven o'clock Mr. Melner who is a well-to-do farmer, and generally known to have money in his house, went to his barn to feed his stock, with him were his two boys, and the only person left in the house was his daughter, Miss Annie, a young lady about twenty years old. When Mr. Melner came back to the house, he called his daughter, and as he got no answer, he went up stairs to look for her. He was horrified to find the girl lying unconscious on the floor, near the head of the stairs with a mark on her right temple apparently made by some blunt weapon. After an attempt to resuscitate his daughter, Mr. Melner made a search of the room and found that a chest containing money and valuable paper was broken open, but the thief in his hurry had cleared a cash box containing papers of no value except to the owner. The surprising part of the matter is that a pocket-book containing $250 lying near the cash boxes was undisturbed. The two cash boxes were alike and the caller broke one of the boxes open and emptied the contents as they were valueless to him, and then evidently assuring himself that the other must contain money, he attached himself to it and disappeared. The affair remains wrapped in mystery.

COME OUT IN THE GARDEN MAUD

(A Spring Idyl.)

Come out into the garden, Maud, Come out and get the air, Perchance the sun is shining, Perchance the sky is fair, Or else the rain is pouring, Or snowflakes dropping there.

Come out in the garden, Maud, And look for tender shoots, Perchance the birds are trilling, Like animated notes— But you'd better bring your skates, Also your rubber boots.

Come out in the garden, Maud, And wear your thinnest tulle; But bring along your ear-lars, And keep your mittens full, You'll want your fan and sunshade And thickest coat of wool.

Come out in the garden, Maud, And try your Christmas skis, You'd better bring your rubbers And creepers, lest it freeze; Also bring the garden hoe To plant the early peas.

Come out in the garden, Maud, And feel the cold blast blow, And breathe the balmy breeze, And water the tulips grow, And see the hail and sunshine And rain and mud and snow! —John Doe, in Judge.

BRIQUETTING PLANT FOR INVERNESS, C. B.

We understand, says the Inverness News, that the Inverness Railway & Coal Company, contemplates the erection of a washing plant and a briquetting plant. The briquetting of coal is very common in England, and on the continent of Europe, and has proved very profitable, as it eliminates all waste and the briquettes can be stored for an indefinite period without danger of heating, which sometimes occurs when large quantities of slack coal are stored. These briquettes will be available for domestic use, and can also be used to advantage in locomotives. By washing the coal, thereby removing all impurities, a very superior grade of briquettes will be produced.

Last Monday morning only ashes and charred remains remained of the house and barn of Mrs. Annie Beaton, of Upper Leitches Creek. She, in the house and the cattle in the barn were burned to death. No one knew anything about the fire until the buildings were missed from the landscape Monday morning.—Exchange

IN MEMORIAM

DEACON ROBERT MARSHALL.

"A Prince has fallen in Israel." On March 25th there passed peacefully away to his eternal home Deacon Robert Marshall, of Clarence, Annapolis Co. aged ninety years and eleven months. Our brother early in life was converted and gave himself to the service of his God. His early manhood, his middle life, and his old age were ever marked by a faithful devoted service; his home ever open to the servants of God, many of them finding here a sweet resting place; his heart ever open to a call to God's service which kept him ever watchful for the seasons of refreshing; his hand ever open to the needs of the denominations and the church; his was a life of active service for God. One of the last acts of his life was a substantial bequest to Home and Foreign Mission in memory of his deceased daughter, Ella, not forgetting the Paradise and Clarence church of which he had been a member for seventy-three years. The denomination has lost a generous supporter; the cause of Christ and the church in particular has lost a faithful worker; his family has lost a kind and devoted father.

The funeral services were conducted by Pastor McNinch at the home of Mr. H. F. Williams, a son-in-law, also at the Clarence church and burial at the Daniels' cemetery, Lawrenceston.

Deacon Marshall was twice married first to Miss Schaffner, of Williamston and later to Miss Anne Saunders, of Clarence, who predeceased him fifteen years. Of his family only two are living, Gertrude, wife of Mr. E. K. Leonard, and Annie, wife of Mr. H. F. Williams, his daughter, Mary Eliza, wife of Deacon Norman Conlly, Paradise, having died only a short time ago.—COM.

The Bitter Chaff Removed

The men who blend, prepare and pack Red Rose Coffee know well what will please good judges of coffee. They crush—not grind—the fresh-roasted bean into small, even grains which brew readily and settle quickly to pour bright and clear. The chaff is removed, and with it the bitter essence you have disliked in other coffees. You will surely like
