LIGHT EXTENSION TO BRIDGETOWN

Light and Water Committee Decided Not Accept any Tender.

FIGURES HIGH

At a meeting of the Light and Water Committee of the Town of Newcastle held recently the tenders for the extension of the Electric Light System to Bridgetown were opened, and after going fully into the matter the Committee decided that the Town would save considerable money by having its own men do the work, so no tender was accepted.

A crew of men commenced work on the line Monday morning and it will be pushed through with all possible speed.

LIBERAL CONVENTION AT CHATHAM.

Well Attended Meeting Held Last Wednesday Afternoon in Masonic Hall.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mr. Loggie M. P. Addressed the Convention in Reference to His Work.

A representative and well attended meeting of the Northumberland County Liberal Association was held in the Masonic Hall, Chatham last Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Representatives were present from all the parishes in the county except Glenelg and Blissfield.

Mr. Loggie M. P. was appointed chairman, and Mr. McIntyre, in the absence of the Secretary was appointed secretary. Mr. Loggie briefly stated the object of the convention and read a telegram from Hon. Mr. Emerson, expressing regret that he was unable to attend.

The resignations of Geo. Watt, as President, and Robt. Murray, M. P. P. as Secretary were read and accepted.

A nominating committee was elected as follows:—Warren C. Winslow, Chatham; J. M. Troy, Newcastle; John Vanderbeck, Derby; Daniel Lewis, Hardwicke; Archibald Alcorn, Blackville; J. S. Pond, Ludlow; John Menzies, North and Southesk; John Doyle, Alnwick; Stephen Duthie, Nelson; G. Dumont, Rogersville.

The following officers were nominated by the Committee:—Warren C. Winslow, President; J. D. B. E. MacKenzie, Treasurer; Jas. M. Troy, Secretary.

Dr. Chapman moved that P. Hennessy be nominated President. Mr. Hennessy protested to having his name put in the nomination as he had no desire for the honor and if elected could not attend to the duties of his office and appealed to the mover to withdraw his motion which he refused where upon the meeting took in the situation and voted almost unanimously for Mr. Winslow.

Mr. Winslow thanked the meeting for the honor conferred on him and promised to fill the office to the best of his ability.

Mr. Loggie then addressed the convention. He said that this was the first opportunity he had had of thanking the electors, through their delegates, for the support and assistance given him at the election as he had staid during the campaign, he had given the business of the county his time and energy. At the session of the Commons he was habitually in his place and his voice had frequently been heard on important subjects. He suggested that the different Parish Associations hold meetings at an early date and elect officers so that he would be able to take up matters of interest to their localities with the authorized heads of the Liberal party of their parish.

With reference to the building of the "Missing Link" he had every assurance that the work would be done. With reference to his work he stated that he had been able to get a grant of $5,000 for an armory for Chatham. He had also been promised a dredge for work in the harbor as soon as one was available, and had succeeded in getting a wharf for Oak Point. He had also attended to numerous minor matters, and had always endeavored to look after the interest of the county.

Some necessary amendments were suggested to bye-laws and a committee composed of Messrs. Troy, Winslow and Russell was appointed to look after the matter. The meeting then adjourned.

EIGHT PERSONS DROWNED SUNDAY.

Anglesea, N. J., July 29.—Two yachts coming in from the fishing banks capsized on Hereford Inlet Bar, off here, today, and eight persons lost their lives.

COUNTY COURT SESSION HERE

Civil Cases: Only Were Tried as No Jury Had Been Summoned.

ADJOURNED TO AUG. 14.

The County Court sat here on Tuesday and Wednesday, and adjourned to August 14th. Through an oversight no jury had been summoned and the criminal cases were not taken up. Three civil cases were tried.

Hood vs. Hutchison was a claim for damages because the defendant refused to accept five stones for doorsteps which the plaintiff had agreed to give him for $45. The plaintiff offered four of the doorsteps in two steps and the defendant refused to accept them in that form. The court gave the plaintiff $1 damages for the non acceptance of the stone by the defendant.

Foran vs. Curtis was taken up Tuesday afternoon. The plaintiff, a milliner, sued the defendant for wages amounting to $26.50, and the defendant filed a set-off for goods taken from the store for which the plaintiff had not charged herself sufficient price. The plaintiff claimed that she was under agreement that any goods wanted for herself would be given to her at cost price. She kept the accounts herself and when she took anything made an entry at the cost price, what she considered a reasonable price when the cost price was not marked on the article. The defendant denied that there was any such agreement by which the plaintiff was to have goods at anything but the regular retail price, and gave what she allowed to be the regular retail charges for the goods taken by the plaintiff, and claimed a balance of some $26.00 due her over and above plaintiff's wages.

Verdict for defendant, with costs. The case of Pallen vs. Clifton Whitman (Pauline Hammond Co) was an action for damages. The advance agent of the company asked Mr. J. J. Pallen, proprietor of the Waverley Hotel, for rates, which Mr. Pallen quoted, and alleged that a contract was entered into between them for hotel accommodation.

The defendant claimed that his advance agent only asked for rates and that he had no authority to make such contracts on his behalf; that he had been given better accommodation at the Hotel Miramichi, and that there was no contract between him and the plaintiff which could prevent him from going there.

At the trial the plaintiff was the only witness called. Considerable difficulty was experienced in trying to prove Whitman to be the owner of the company.

Mr. Butler, for the defendant, asked for a nonsuit on the ground that no contract had been entered into by the defendant nor by his authority, and that it had not been shown that Mr. Whitman constituted the company, and further that no damage had been suffered by the plaintiff.

The judge reserved his decision on the point and as no evidence was offered for the defence he announced that he would give his decision at next session of the court to be held some two weeks later.

Application for naturalization of Simon Hausner was read second time and papers ordered to issue.

The Obscene Literature Case was next dealt with. Owing to a delay in the filing of the depositions no jury had been summoned to try it.

The Judge then adjourned the court until Tuesday, Aug. 14th, to allow time for a grand and petty jury to be summoned.

Newcastle mills and factories were down for circus day, and the stores closed. The town was deserted all afternoon.

The Central Telephone company will have communication established with Chatham and Newcastle in about six days, and with Carleton Place in about three weeks.

Good progress is being made in the erection of the Swedish Planing Co's factory at Nordin. The building is up, and about ready for the installation of the machinery.

A car of cement has arrived for the town and more granolithic sidewalks will be laid at once. We understand that the one along the square from the foundry to Stables street will be carried to Castle Street.

We would ask correspondents to endeavor to send in their notes to reach us Saturday morning. The past two weeks a large number reached us Monday and Tuesday and some were crowded out. We like to see these, so send them early.

It is announced that a grant of at least $5,000 has been secured by W. S. Loggie, M. P., from the Militia Department for buying and equipping an armory for Chatham. This is indeed very gratifying to the officers of the 73rd Regiment who have been striving so long to obtain this grant. It is generally understood that the Highland Society grounds will be purchased either the old brick building thereon utilized, or a new building put up, in which case at least $5,000 is a very proper beginning.

"Cousin Kate" in the Opera House last Friday evening drew a good house, but not the crowd that should have heard the piece. It is seldom that Newcastle people are permitted to have anything presented in such a manner and those who were not present missed a rare treat. The whole company took their parts to perfection and Miss Roselle Knott, as Cousin Kate was loudly eulogized as was also Mr. Ernest Hastings as Keath Desmond. The Newcastle Orchestra made its first appearance at an entertainment of this class and acquitted itself very well, making a very favorable and pleasing impression on the patrons of the Opera House. The Orchestra should be engaged permanently to supply music for entertainments.

Barnum & Bailey's circus at Chatham on Thursday drew immense crowds. The trains were late in arriving and consequently the performance was delayed, and when it was started was put on in a hurried manner, and patrons were not so highly pleased as was expected in fact many freely stated that Barnum & Bailey's was not the only show on earth and that ones with less pretensions gave a better entertainment. One feature was good and that was the live stock. The horses were fine specimens and the menagerie was well stocked.

The usual number of fights among spectators was absent and good conduct was a marked feature for circus day.

One thing, the cold water committee headed by Ald. Stothart should have done was to have the streets sprinkled to keep down the dust, but perhaps they thought the supply of cold water would not be sufficient and force some to resort to something stronger, and that it would be better to put up with the dust.

Mr. John W. Elmes, of New York, returned recently from a successful fishing trip to the South west Miramichi. He reports a very good run of salmon in that stream at the present time.

The general store and dwelling house combined, of John Hardley, Beresford, Gloucester county, was totally destroyed by fire at about 11 o'clock Monday night. The loss will probably reach $5,000; no insurance.

Many who were present at the crush of passengers for the Chatham boats on Thursday contrasted the shoving and pushing of the young men and boys to that of the orderly line of Americans who stand and patiently wait their turn instead of using brute force to get through the gate. The police should be instructed to keep the boisterous ones in order.

Newcastle is having an unusual run of tourists this season. Mine Hosts of the Miramichi is having considerable difficulty in providing rooms for all. Last Friday evening he had engaged all the available rooms in the lodging houses and had to fall back on private dwellings before all his guests could be provided. Any one having desirable rooms they wish to let should notify Mr. Foley of the fact.

Kent-Northumberland District Division S. of T. will meet with Newcastle Division on August 7th, at 2 P. M. In the evening there will be a public meeting to be addressed by prominent members of the order at which a collection will be taken for the temperance work of District Division. Each Division in the two counties is entitled to one delegate at large, and to one additional delegate for every ten members in good standing. Divisions are requested to instruct their delegates how to vote on the question of "Shall Kent and Northumberland Counties continue to have but one District Division, or shall they separate and each have a District Division?" Many temperance workers think it would be better for each county to have an organization of its own so that attendance at District Divisions would be better than now. Recording Scribes are asked to send to District Scribe H. H. Stuart, Harcourt, full returns up to June 30th; the names of delegates chosen, and also the number of Division members at last meeting in this month.

Recently a little girl was taken to London by her parents for the first time.

On her return home she was describing the places she had seen to her friends. One of them asked:

DETERMINED TO STOP ALL STEALING ON THE I. C. R.

Moncton, N. B., July 25—The suspension of the three employees of the I. C. R. freight shed is the first step which the authorities have made to suppress the petty thieving which is continually going on in the freight shed, from cars in transit, and also at the I. C. R.

The transfer shed is notoriously the scene of petty depredations, and especially the stealing of intoxicating liquor. It is rumored that men are intoxicated on duty at night, and the theft of intoxicating liquor which is being freighted to points throughout the province makes this rumor believable. Three nights in succession last week, the night freight from St. John, which is unloaded in the morning, had cars broken up. Each of the cars entered contained shipments of liquor, and the only way in which the contents of these cars could be known is from the waybills. Recently a claim of $39 for liquors stolen was sent in by the consignee. Last Friday night half a box of cat tobacco was stolen at Moncton from a car in transit; another night last week a car of liquor was broken open, a part of crate of bananas stolen, and confectionery strewn around another car. Almost every day, something is stolen and Chief Detective Williams is determined to punish the thieves. No influence will avail to protect offenders.

Provincial Constable Belya of Shediac leaves tonight for Bayfield where tempted by the offer of $500 reward from the county council he will endeavor to solve the Creamer mystery.

N. B. TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

The N. B. Teacher's bureau at Harcourt, has little trouble in placing teachers this year. But many districts cannot get teachers. Trustees, who need teachers; especially those wanting second class males should send their addresses, the class of teachers wanted; and state the highest salary they will pay, to the Secy-treas. N. B. T. A., H. H. Stuart, Harcourt.

Only Union teachers may use the bureau to get situations, as the registration fee is only 25 cents for year beginning July 1st (35 cents in Northumberland Co.) this rule should be no bar to membership. All teachers should enroll. In Northumberland Co. send names and fees to James McIntosh, Pres., Blackville; or H. Burton Loggie Chatham, Secy.

Gloucester Co.—Miss B. Loretta Mullin, Secy. Bathurst; A. J. Witzell, Tracadie; or Peter Girdwood Bathurst Village.

Restigouche Co.—L. D. Jones, Pres. Dalhousie; or Miss Kate Girdwood, Vice-pres. Campbellton or Miss Eliza Richards, secy. Campbellton.

Kent Co.—H. H. Stuart, Harcourt to whom names and fees from any county may be sent direct. The salary schedule, is for following classes:—Males 1, $300; 11, $240; 111, $170. Females 1, $175; 11, $165; 111, $130.—from districts.

AT BURNT CHURCH.

There are many nice girls at Burnt Church, but a great scarcity of young men, the lack of hotel accommodation keeping the boys away.

Miss Roberta Nicholson is visiting Miss Eileen Creaghan, Miss Crocker is there, and Mrs. Fish and daughters have a cottage there.

The girls had a Sylvan Tea in the woods, the other day. Mrs. Fish and Mrs. Creaghan were chaperones, but as such there was nothing for them to do.

Mrs. Fish gave a strawberry festival Friday evening.

The Division gave a concert, with strawberries on the side, one night last week.

Orlana called there Monday and took a dozen of young ladies out for a sail. They all asked, "Why didn't Bill come down? Why didn't you bring Fred with you?"

A dancing party is in the air, but the great question is, "Where can we get boys enough?" The boys ought to charter a steamer and go down some evening after supper.

Fruit-a-tives

Fruit-a-tives will cure the worst case of Chronic Constipation and Biliousness.

Because Fruit-a-tives are the true liver tonic. They strengthen and invigorate the liver—make the liver give up enough bile to move the bowels regularly. The bile is nature's laxative.

Fruit-a-tives are the finest Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the world.

Fruit-a-tives reduce inflammation and congestion—relieve the over-supply of blood—enable the kidneys to rid the system of waste—and thus prevent the formation of uric acid. Fruit-a-tives take away that pain in the back—and quickly cure irritated bladder.

Fruit-a-tives completely cure Headaches and Rheumatism.

Headaches and Rheumatism both mean poisoned blood. Either the skin, kidneys or bowels are not ridding the system of waste matter. Fruit-a-tives invigorate and stir up these organs—start up healthy, normal action—rid the system of poisons—and purify and enrich the blood. That means away with Headaches and Rheumatism.

Fruit-a-tives are the ideal tonic for everyone.

Fruit-a-tives build up, strengthen, invigorate. They sharpen the appetite—steady the nerves—enable one to sleep well—and keep the whole system in perfect health. HON MR. LABILLOIS GETS MUCH CREDIT

His Work in Restigouche County Praised by Chas. Marcil, M. P.

Predict Boom for Bonaventure.

Dalhousie, N. B., July 27.—Bonaventure county is receiving considerable attention from public men at the present time. In the upper end of Bonaventure, where Charles Marcil, M. P., is spending the summer with his family, there is a great stir in public matters. Mr. Marcil has already made speeches in Carleton, Nouvelle and Stomer. He spoke of the large questions that occupied the house of commons during the last session, and referring to local improvements, he said they were due to the understanding that existed between James Reid, M. P. for Restigouche, and Hon. C. H. LaBillois, chief commissioner of New Brunswick. Wharves were being built on the Restigouche river and Baie Des Chaleurs which would be greatly in the interests of the farmers, who find a ready market for their products in the towns of Campbellton and Dalhousie.

The railway from Paspébiac east is in progress, and a large steamer is discharging rails at Dalhousie to be shipped by I. C. R. and Bay Chaleur railway to Paspébiac. The county of Restigouche benefits largely by the progress that is being advanced on the Quebec side. That section of the country which was neglected for years is now waking up, and its public men deserve great credit.

WE CAN EAT CANNED SALMON

Examinations of B. C. Canneries Show that the Product is all That is Desirable.

Ottawa, July 26.—The government takes possession on August 1 of property extending along Sussex and MacKenzie avenue for a new departmental block for which $500,000 was voted.

When the announcement of the Chicago canned meat revelations came the minister of marine and fisheries ordered the British Columbia fisheries commission, which was then sitting, to inspect and investigate the salmon canneries from a hygienic and sanitary standpoint. Hon. L. B. Brodeur, has received the report. It says:—

"The commission has made a thorough inspection of the canneries operating in the Fraser River district. We were accompanied by Dr. Egan, of the provincial board found the sanitary conditions satisfactory. The salmon being packed were fresh from the cold waters of the Pacific and were placed in the cans in absolutely a fresh condition and in the most cleanly manner.

"We found no cause for complaints. The provincial governments board of health maintains a continuous and systematic inspection of all the canneries each year. "From our inspection we have to assure you that the salmon canned in this province is fresh and wholesome."

The report is signed by Commissioners Sweeney, Babcock and Brown.

Diamond Dyes VERSUS. Common Imitation Dyes.

The DIAMOND DYES are the only package dyes admitted to the homes of wise and economical women. Why? Because they have quality which true home dyes should possess. DIAMOND DYES are, to-day, the only dyes guaranteed to give decided and happy successes. All druggists and general merchants who desire to please their customers, sell the DIAMOND DYES, for the simple reason that they always give complete satisfaction.

Common and adulterated package dyes put up to imitate the DIAMOND DYES are sold by some merchants because of the extra cash profits they yield. These deceptive dyes are, in every case worthless as coloring agents. They produce weak and blotchy colors, and invariably ruin good garments and materials. Their use has caused grief and loss of money in many homes.

Always use the reliable and popular DIAMOND DYES and you will make the old and faded things as good as new. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain St., Montreal, P. Q., for new Direction Book and Diamond Dye Cook Book; all sent free to any address.

A BAD BRUISE.

Often causes a good deal of trouble. The best cure is a prompt application of Nerville's ointment which instantly stops the pain, prevents swelling, removes all blackness and discoloration. Nerville's ointment prevents blood poisoning. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to destroy pain. You may be a lot of comfort by not using Polson's Nerville's. For nearly fifty years it has been the standard liniment of Canada.

MR. EMMERSON HAS AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.

Ottawa, July 26.—The Hon. Mr. Emerson took an involuntary swim in the canal Monday evening, as he was in the act of stepping into his canoe at the Rideau Canoe Clubhouse. There was a number of visitors at the Club, and for the moment excitement reigned supreme. A rush was made to assist the minister, who was got out of the water none the worse for his experience except wet clothes. A cab was called and the Minister of Canals of Canada was driven home without delay.

"You are quite right. She has her defects—she is vain, full of pretensions and grand ideas, with a difficult character. But what will you? I adore her and feel that I absolutely cannot live without her. "But that is not the question. Can you live with her?"

NOT A DOLLAR OF SAGE'S MILLIONS FOR CHARITY

New York, N. Y., July 26.—Not one dollar of the sixty millions, more or less, left by Russell Sage, is to be left to charity. The whole of his fortune, with the exception of a small bequest to his only sister, Mrs. Chapin, who died two years ago, is left to his wife unreservedly. The numerous relatives of the dead financier are dazed at the will and are preparing to contend it on the ground that he was dominated entirely by his wife, during the last ten years of his life, and lacked the mental capacity of making a valid will. Already arrangements are being forwarded for the retaining of Charles E. Hughes, the noted insurance lawyer, to contest the will on behalf of the relatives. The will is to be read to-morrow but this forecast is given out by near relative of the aged millionaire and is authentic. There are less than sixty blood heirs of Russell Sage, living some of whom are in poor circumstances, and all of whom until today did not doubt that they would share in the millions for which they had been for many years anxious.

New York, July 26.—Mrs. Russell Sage, through her secretary, announced to-day that the will of Mr. Sage would be filed for probate to-morrow, when its contents will be made public.

A story is told of Russell Sage, illustrative of his slight regard for the loss of feathers of office life. One of Mrs. Sage's nephews, a young military man, received an appointment as attaché of the American embassy at St. Petersburg. Mrs. Sage had asked an acquaintance if he thought the billet a suitable one for a poor young man.

"Not much," said the acquaintance. St. Petersburg is the most expensive court in Europe."

"How much do you think a young man in his position ought to have to be properly provided for?"

"At least $10,000 a year," was the reply.

"My, my!" exclaimed Mrs. Sage in the gentle way she has. "What do you think of that father?"

"I think he had better stay at home," replied Uncle Russell.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES. Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.—50c.

No iceberg of such monstrous dimensions had ever before been reported within hundreds of miles of Newfoundland.

A GREAT TREAT

The ADVOCATE has succeeded in completing an arrangement by which every person taking advantage of our offer will secure the greatest treat in reading matter ever offered the Canadian public. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has lately entered into a syndicate with a few others of the leading papers of England and America by which they have secured, at a cost of $150,000 twelve new stories by twelve of the world's best authors, and they are to appear in the Family Herald before they are issued in book form. Each story is completed in a month, making twelve complete stories, that would cost eighteen dollars in book form, inside the year. It is certainly one of the greatest feats in modern journalism, and only the strongest newspapers could take the risk of the immense expenditure.

We have made arrangements to offer the ADVOCATE and the Family Herald and Weekly Star until January 1st, 1907, for the small sum of Fifty cents, and in that time those taking advantage of the offer will secure at least six of the complete stories not counting the many other interesting features of the Family Herald and their own local paper. To present readers of the ADVOCATE we offer the Family Herald for the balance of the year for only Forty cents.

Subscriptions should be sent the ADVOCATE office at once.

CANADA'S POSSIBILITIES

British journals seem to be reaching a truer realization of the possibilities of Canada. In an article on empire development the London Telegraph recently said:—

"The facts remain that Canada in a more extraordinary sense even than the United States is the land of unlimited possibilities. The resources of the Republic are vast, but they are already measurable; those of the Canadian dominion are only now beginning to be estimated, and every competent authority upon both sides of the border-line now realizes that increasing knowledge has not yet suggested where bounds are likely to be reached in the development of British America. In area it is equal to its neighbor. In population it will not in the long run be inferior. The greatest of the colonies will probably excel the mother country in the number of its inhabitants before many decades have elapsed; before the present century is out it will hardly contain less than a hundred millions of inhabitants; and it has no negro question. With two fronts on the two main oceans, with its lines of traffic by land and water running east and west rather than north and south, Canada, offering the shortest route to Japan, and mediating between the centres of population and production in Europe upon the nearer and in Asia upon the further hand, will ultimately command the greatest through routes of the globe. Upon the Pacific and the Atlantic alike the coal that will bunker its shipping is mined under its harbors. It must become the chief granary from which all the dense industrial nations of the future will draw the larger part of their food supplies. Its virgin soil is already attracting over the border some of the best elements in the farming population of the older republic. The agricultural wealth of Canada must ultimately exceed that of the United States, and the Dominion will develop manufacturing power in proportion. New trans-continental railways are seaming its territories from sea to sea, and its progress goes forward by leaps and bounds in a ratio never surpassed in the most triumphant phases of expansion in American history. This is Canada—an empire in itself, which may well aspire to become upon its own basis in some distant generation the predominant economic power of the world, and the massive keystone, as it were, surmounting and holding together not only the arch of Anglo-Saxon unity, but the fabric of the whole world's peace."

WELL HANDLED.

The I. C. R. authorities are naturally very proud of the successful manner in which they were able to handle the six big trains of the Barnum & Bailey circus. Only one slight accident occurred, and the big show was run from Chatham to Fredericton in ample time to fulfill its engagements here. The roadbed of the Canada Eastern branch has been very much improved since the government took control of the road, new bridges are being erected, station houses improved and the people who are served by the railway are very much gratified that it is now a part of the government system.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson did a great act when he induced the government to purchase the Canada Eastern, and while he and the government may feel that this constituency failed to express its gratitude, the time is already here when the people regret the hostile attitude they assumed when the administration might reasonably have expected a different line of action.—Herald.

The Grand Lodge of Acadia, district, Independent Order of Odd-fellows, M. U., which district includes New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, held their annual session in Moncton this week at which grand officers from Halifax, St. John and other points will be present. The sessions are to be held there Wednesday and Thursday, concluding with the annual dinner to be held at the Hotel Minto Thursday night and a large attendance is expected.

NEW ROSSING MILL AT CHATHAM.

The Miramichi Lumber Co., Are Putting up a Big Structure at Morrison's Cove.

Chatham, July 26.—Another step along the road that is leading Chatham into the forefront, as an industrial and commercial centre for the province, is the erection of the new rossing mill for the Miramichi Lumber Co., on the site of the old Morrison property. The mill, when finished, will be the largest and most complete of its kind in the Dominion, the machinery and all appurtenances being of the latest and most up to date variety, enabling the company to haul up, and prepare for pulp, 400 cords of lumber per day of ten hours. The cost of the big structure is estimated at $75,000, including a $25,000 power house and an immense iron refuse burner towering a height of 130 feet above the knoll immediately in the rear of the wharf. This last affair is in itself an $5,000 job.

TRIED TO MURDER AN ENTIRE FAMILY.

Macon, Ga., July 30.—Joseph Morris, a negro youth, today attempted to take the lives of the entire family of George E. Bloodworth, at their home near Macon. While the family were at supper Morris stole up to the house and fired with a shot gun. Over sixty shots struck Bloodworth's face and nearly as many struck his wife. Mrs. Bloodworth held an infant daughter, who was unharmed. The negro escaped, but is being pursued by citizens.

SCOTT ACT VIOLATORS GET ONE MONTH.

Moncton, N. B., July 30.—In the police court today, D. Hogan, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Kay to Scott Act violation, and was sentenced to one month in jail without the option of a fine—the same sentence as was imposed on three similar offenders on Friday. More is likely to be heard from these three cases. Today notice of appeal was given on behalf of two of them, and copies of the proceedings asked for.

ANOTHER BOY WAS DROWNED AT WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, N. B., July 30.—Following the fatal drowning accident of yesterday came another late this afternoon. William Craig, aged eighteen years, employed by W. F. Glidden in his livery stable, was engaged wading the horses in the river near the stable. One animal stepped in a hole about fifteen feet deep and Craig was swept off into the water and, not being able to swim, almost immediately sank, the horse swimming to shore.

A number of men were on the bridge a short distance away and the alarm was given. Lester Hull came from his workshop and assisted by Mr. Glew he dived and brought up the body.

WINNIPEG CITIZENS NUMBER NEARLY 100,000.

Ottawa, July 30.—The first bulletin of the recent census taken in the Canadian west was issued today by commissioner Blue. It is for Manitoba during the past five years. The population of Winnipeg has more than doubled. In 1901 it had 42,340, and now it has 90,216, an increase of 47,876.

The following Northumberland County pupils have passed the U. N. B. entrance examinations in the second division, Frances Lillian Fish, Harkins' Academy, Newcastle. Hazel L. Stothart, Chatham Grammar School. In the Junior leaving examinations Miss Edith M. Clarke, Newcastle passed in the third division.

The Door is Open, Says Governor General—Is Having Delightful Trip.

St. John's Nfld., July 30.—Earl Grey, at an official luncheon in his honor at the Government House, Saturday, declared that his visit to Newfoundland was proving a delightful one. He said he had been profoundly and agreeably surprised at the natural beauties and the material prosperity of the island. The earl declared he brought no suggestion of federation from Canada, for he knew that union sentiment did not exist in the colony. He added, however, that if Newfoundland at any future date should decide to a union, Canada's door would be found open, and it would not be necessary to knock. Earl Grey expressed the belief that St. John's is destined ere long to become the western terminus of a fast trans-Atlantic steamer service.

Governor MacGregor assured Earl Grey that he was a heartily welcome visitor. Premier Bond, concurred in this, and said it was the hope of the colony that a fast trans-Atlantic line would be an accomplished fact within a year or two.

Lord and Lady Howick and Lady Sybil Grey, on their recent fishing excursion, caught fifty salmon, none under ten pounds, and 120 trout weighing 180 in all.

Governor MacGregor and Earl Grey started on their fishing trip last night.

MURDER AND

SUICIDE IN N. S.

Bear River the Scene of a Dreadful Tragedy.

Halifax, N. S. July 28.—Bear River, Digby county, is again the scene of a deplorable murder and suicide. Avar Morine, a respected citizen, was afflicted with typhoid fever last winter, and since that time he has not been considered mentally strong. Yesterday he was about home all day working, but did not appear to be worried or demented. Early this morning he went to his wife's sleeping department with an axe and attacked her. The noise attracted his son who went to the room and succeeded in taking the weapon away from his father. The father then left the house and ran to the river, where, after cutting his throat, he jumped into the river and was drowned. The Morine family are well connected in Bear River and Digby. Mr. Morine has always led a good life, being a prominent member of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Morine lived a short time after the attack, and was able to go down stairs and converse with her mother-in-law for a few minutes.

RAGING IN RUSSIA

Terrible State of Affairs in Afflicted Country—Soldiers Mutiny.

St. Petersburg, July 31.—Advices received here from Tiflis dated yesterday show that a regular campaign is progressing between Armenians and Tartars in that section. Yesterday large forces of Tartars attacked Askeran Pass, which was occupied by Armenians, but were unable to break through the Armenian cordon. Fighting is now going on in the villages of Haramurt, Haladad and Karanlu-kh. The Tartars are concentrating against Askeran Pass.

On July 27, Kurds attacked the villages of Kalbaken and Xiermizhan, and were endeavoring to force an entrance into Shusha. At the latter place they were repulsed by Russian troops under General Zoloshakov.

News received here from Yelisevetpol says that communication between Agdam and Shusha has been interrupted for seven days. Fighting between Armenians and Tartars continued from July 25 to July 28. The fighting near Shusha increased in severity on July 29 and resulted in the burning of the town.

Kransnovodsk, July 30.—A company of the railway battalion, stationed here, mutined today and accompanied by a mob of workmen, marched to the jail and endeavored to set at liberty the participants in the recent disorders at Lashkert, who have been in prison here. The battalion guarding the jail remained loyal and dispersed the mutineers.

CYCLONE SWEEPS OVER

SLIGHT ACCIDENTS ON

FREDERICTON BRANCH

Circus Trains In Trouble but Little Delay Caused—Two Men Injured.

It has since been learned that the accidents to the circus trains on the I. C. R. yesterday while en route to this city from Chatham were more serious than at first anticipated and that one of the accidents, that which occurred at the Doaktown bridge, was due to one of the brakemen getting the signals disarranged, the brakemen coming within an ace of being killed while seated on the pilot of the locomotive when it had a head on collision.

Engineer Scott Copperthwaite, who was in charge of Engine No. 84, had three ribs started from his backbone by the accident and Dr. W. T. Ryan, of Doaktown, had to be called to attend the injured trainman.

Engine No. 192 had one side of its frame broken near Cross Creek and later in the day ran off the track near the round house at Gibson.—Gleaner, July 28.

The J. B. Snowball Co. Chatham received a telegram Monday stating that the Bark Pallas had gone ashore on Miminigash Reef, P. E. I. Capt. Nelson was in charge of the Pallas. There were no lives lost, and the St. George, has been sent to her assistance.

A TELEPHONE WAR

NOW SEEMS LIKELY

New Brunswick Company Will Not Exchange Messages With the Central.

The New Brunswick Telephone Company have fired the first gun in what promises to be a long and bitter war between the New Brunswick and Central companies, a war that may end in the survival of the fittest. Up to the present the two companies have been working more or less in harmony, but now the fight is on. The New Brunswick company has notified all its agents that they are not to accept messages offered for the Central Company, and not to transmit messages for them over the New Brunswick Company's long distance lines. There is an exception in this order as far as St. John, Fredericton and Moncton is concerned, but then only for delivery to subscribers of the New Brunswick Company. It is understood that up to this morning messages have been sent over the New Brunswick lines to points not reached by the Central and vice versa. Now all this will cease and it remains to be seen what the next move will be.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

I was utterly confounded by this quiet, civil spoken scoundrel, with his impressive audacity. It began to dawn upon me now in what relations these men had stood. The legacy I attributed to a piece of eccentricity on Kesteven's part. But I had more than an inkling now of the plan of treatment which he had adopted. Hood knew too much, and he was bound to keep up appearances with him. Kesteven had a good idea of the danger with which he was threatened, had probably discharged the man with that knowledge, and yet up to the close he must needs keep his secret by a feint of his former kindly relations. I remarked several occasions upon which Hood had made an appearance in our conversation, and I now recognized the way in which his name was treated.

I rode into the reach of forest beyond Llanellan and presently came out upon a more open spot, where the trees hemmed in a piece of ground tinted with bush and bracken. At a turn of the road beyond me I saw a figure, seemingly that of a clergyman, walking to meet me. As I made this mental observation and without a note of warning there came the crack of a gun, and a bullet plowed a ridge in the grass before the horse's belly. The beast reared and came down upon his hindquarters, nearly throwing me, and I was aware that the man in front was running toward me, shouting. As I steadied the horse my eyes went in another direction and lit upon Sercombe walking easily toward me, with a gun upon his arm. The two men came up to me about the same time.

"I hope there is no accident," gasped the clergyman. Sercombe put out his hand.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Morgan," said he. "How do you do, Grestorex?" he continued coolly. "No, I am glad to say there's no harm done, is there, Grestorex? But it's all my fault. This infernal undergrowth diverted the shot. I hope it did not scare you too much?" he asked, smiling at me.

I was too much astounded and far too ignorant for words. "I thought I'd got the hare all right," he resumed lamely to the clergyman. "Lucky for you, Grestorex, as well as for me." And then turning to me, "Do you know Mr. Morgan, the vicar of Llanellan? My friend, Mr. Grestorex, you know—fatefully succeeded to the castle yonder. A fine property, I envy him."

His impudence was startling. Here was a man who had just made a barefaced attempt upon my life (for that was how I conceived it), and he was egging on the conversation upon friendly terms and in the most cheerful spirit between his intended victim and the stranger who had all but actually witnessed his atrocious act of treachery. The bare audacity had left me gaping at the outset of the encounter, but the very process of his easy talk served to give me my wits again, and I was able to meet him upon his own terms, which I did, delivering a long, keen glance at him.

"I am afraid you are an indifferent sportsman, Captain Sercombe," said I after I had acknowledged the introduction ceremoniously. "You do better with the rod than with the gun. I see I must take you in hand for a lesson. When you see me shoot I shall shoot straight, even if the enemy be a hare."

Sercombe laughed, and patted my horse's flank. The vicar looked from one to the other in some bewilderment, as well he might, for we had disposed of a curious incident somewhat cavalierly.

"I am pleased to have made your acquaintance, Mr. Grestorex," said he. "And I trust we shall see more of each other."

In my heart I hoped not, but I gave him the proper rejoinder, and, taking off his hat, he moved away. Sercombe and I were left upon the roadway conversing each other.

"And now, sir," said I quietly, "what you be good enough to tell me 'what this means, and why you shoot at hares with bullets?"

"Let me walk with you a little way," responded the captain, shouldering his gun. Suiting his action to the invitation, he marched beside me. "It is very plain, Mr. Grestorex," said he pleasantly. "It means that you must have a lesson, but I need not assure you that I bear no ill will to you. On the contrary, I have taken a great liking to you. It is obvious to you that I have no place in a mere matter of business."

It is a common practice with me to carry a pistol, and certainly, if I had not entered my head before, I think that the strange fortunes of the last week would have persuaded me to the proposition. As it was, the revolver lay in my hand in my coat pocket, and I was conscious of it. Whipping round on the horse, I drew and presented it upon his heart.

"You are in the favor, Captain Sercombe," said I sharply, "to hand over your pistol."

An expression of surprise passed over his face. He was evidently taken aback, and his high color strengthened. "Oh, come, my dear sir," said he, "I ask you to consider if it be worth while. For my own part, I have no desire to fire in your back, nor dare I if I had. You see, I am plain with you."

"He couldn't do it," and I saw at once that I need fear no more for the present—at least from the captain.

"Very well," said I.

"I am glad you agree with me," he remarked. "It is a saving of dignity. I said no more, but I whistled up the horse and left him, with a mocking bow, which he returned gravely, and the last I saw of him was his bulky form leaning upon the gun and audaciously following me with his dull and fishy eyes."

I put up the horse at the Swan and hurried to the station, barely in time to catch the London train. I took my ticket hastily and, rushing down the platform, cast about me precipitately for a first class carriage. The guard had retired to the back part of the train and stood impatiently, flag in hand. I came upon two compartments of the class I wished and gave a hurried glance into each. The one appeared empty, but the other already contained two or three travelers. This latter, however, was labeled "Smoking," and for a second or two I wavered in the balance until a sharp "Now, then, sir!" from the guard finally whipped up my decision. I opened the door of the smoking carriage, but as I did so a man rudely stumbled against me, and I fell against the next compartment, the door of which had just been opened by a third person. In the flurry of the moment I merely remember getting back my clutch upon the handle, and the next instant I was in the smoking carriage, somewhat hot and angry. Out of the window by which I sat I saw in the fall of my eye the two men stepping swiftly into the next compartment, and something vaguely troubled my senses.

I settled into the cushions as the train drew out of the station and looked about at my companions. Then my mind returned to the landscape, which was now passing pretty swiftly. It struck me as a flash what was exercising my mind. A squint—that was it! Mrs. Main had described the intruder of the morning as a man with a "squint-funny-like." And the man who had got into the next carriage was a man with a squint. The coincidence was only remarkable because I was in a veritable net of suspicion. And when I examined the particulars it was his companion who had jostled me—I might, to be thoroughly suspicious, say so. Why had I been so? Perhaps it was an accident, and the two men had no relation to each other, nor the second man with the squint to Mrs. Main's friend. But, on the other hand, that above came near sending me through the open doorway of the next carriage, and but for my own obstinacy I might now be seated in the seclusion of that carriage with my two neighbors in an express that did not stop for forty miles.

At Paddington I took a cab. I could see the man with the squint nowhere, and I looked for him pretty sharply. His companion's face I had not seen, and should not, of course, recognize again. It was quite possible that he had been passengers to an intermediate station only, in which case, as I conceived, I had been using my imagination in vain. It was by this time a little after 6, and, as the dead season had fully set in, the streets in the west end were bare of carriages, but a concourse of people still streamed along the pavement—the tide of life ran, to all appearance, as populous as ever. When I reached my chambers in the

I recognized that horrid squint.

Temple I made a more suitable toilet for the town, and, that completed, found my watch stood at 7:30. The night was rapidly descending, and already the elms in the gardens of the court were enveloped in the somber shadows of evening. As I stood peering out of the window I was struck roughly into another mood by the apparition of a face on the pavement below. It came suddenly into the lamp-light and vanished in the next instant, but I had recognized that horrid squint in the flash. I drew away sharply and considered. I will confess the discovery chilled me and set the pulses throbbing in my body. There could be no doubt that the fellow had tracked me here and was watching for me to come out. Here again was the hand of my unscrupulous enemy, striking at me 300 miles away and in the heart of London. But I must needs come to a determination promptly. I saw at once that my plans must be revised. These men were after the piece of parchment I had in my pocket. I began to feel desperate. I felt the pocketbook under my hand. I certainly could not think of leaving it, as I had intended, in my rooms, for if I knew anything of these gentry I should return to find the place rifled. There was little they would stick at, as I had had proof. I made up my mind to try for Sheppard. It was possible that he was in town, and in any case I would not leave the document off my person. In the meantime I was feeling extremely hungry and was resolved to make a meal. It was certain the scoundrels would not assail me in the open.

I scrutinized the court as I came out, but naturally the spies were not likely to show themselves. Then I drove to the Cafe Royal and enjoyed an excellent dinner. From where I sat in the dining room I had a view through an open door of the great hall beyond, in which the representatives of a dozen nationalities drank and chattered and played their dominos. Halfway through my meal I looked up, and there was my friend unobtrusively slipping the doorway. It was plain that I was followed still, as I had suspected would be the case. To lose sight of me on the chance that I had bestowed what they wanted in my rooms was not a piece of their policy. I suppose the room would keep. I had a good view of the fellow, and as I leisurely drank my wine I watched him. Clearly I was to have an adventure for my pains, and the first thing was to run Sheppard to earth.

When I got out into the street I was conscious that the man was behind me, and, turning quickly, I confronted him. My action was so abrupt that it took him by surprise, but he took off his hat politely and with a "Pardon, sir!" in a slightly foreign accent, avoided the collision that had been imminent. I jumped into a cab and drove straight to Sheppard's rooms in Dowry street. As luck would have it, he was out, but it was a relief to find that he was in town. According to the maid, he was to be back in the morning. In considerable disappointment I ran down the stairs and banged the front door, and there was my man across the roadway. I confess that I began for the first time to have the feeling of being hunted. I strode over to him.

"What the devil do you want?" I asked angrily.

"Sir!" said he and looked up at me as if in surprise.

"What the devil do you want?" I repeated.

There was a slight pause, and with my hand in my pocket I ostentatiously cocked the revolver. The faint click caught his ear.

"I am desirous to walk about the street, sir," he said softly. "I have made up my mind to see London by night. It is very beautiful."

"Very well," thought I, for it was plainly of no use to deal with theascal. "You may walk as much as you like. I am for a cab."

And into a cab again I jumped. "Drive—west—anywhere," said I at last to the questioning cabman. "I'll direct you."

I had this dilemma now before me—that I dared not go back to my rooms. The risk was too extravagant. And the question as to where I was to pass the night became important, as it was now past 11. Of course I could go to a hotel, where I should be comparatively safe, but I had no fancy to spend the long hours of darkness awake and on my guard on the chance that this scoundrel would make an attempt on my room. No, I must be rid of him first. As the cab drove off I peeped through the little window at the back and saw my squinting friend in conversation with another man, no doubt the second of the gang.

The cab passed through Knightsbridge and toward Kensington, and then I turned the driver through the park for Baywater. Presently I was aware of a rattling behind and looking out through my spy hole again perceived a second cab close upon us.

"Very well," said I to myself. "You shall have your wish. A stern chase is a long chase."

I fancy my cabman must have thought me near upon a lunatic. I chopped and changed his directions a dozen times, and during the next two hours we visited quite half of the metropolis.

You will doubtless dub me a fool in that I didn't forthwith take the shelter of the law and put myself under safe custody. But I had two reasons against that—the one, that I had a sort of informal bargain with Sercombe not to bring the authorities into this feud, but to fight out a private war; the other, that I would see these scoundrels in the infernal regions before I surrendered to them. And when you come to think of it, to call in the police for help in the distinctly illegal job which occupied me would hardly be in taste. So there was nothing for it but the road, and the road it was for the next two hours and more. By that time my cab horse, a fine standing chestnut, had fairly run himself down, and so I hoped had my pursuers' cab. But of this I could not be certain, and, in any case, it was not their object to provoke an open fracas. As I imagined, they merely sought to run me to earth somewhere. And it was obvious by now that I could not drive about in cabs all night.

Somewhere between 1 and 2 I found myself again in Kensington, or, rather, in that region of respectable, desolate and gloomy houses lying about Gloucester road. The chase had to end somehow. We drove up a road dimly lighted and narrow. I suppose my cabman must have been almost as weary as I, and probably more sleepy. At any rate, I had ceased to guide him for some time. He had taken the initiative himself, constituting himself, I conceived, the guardian of this harmless knight. At all events, it was soon plain that we had entered a cul-de-sac. The situation prickled my resolution to the proper point of action. As it fell out, a flare of gas streamed from the fan lights in a large and commodious house near the bottom of the road, seeming to show that the inmates had not yet retired, and, acting on my resolution in a second, I stopped the man and jumped out before the door. As I did so the second cab also came to a pause. My cab turned slowly round and stop-

But at last, and in response to a louder peal than usual, the door was opened, and there confronted me a tall, slight man something near my own age in evening dress.

"Who the devil may you be?" says he, surveying me from top to toe with a puzzled look.

"Sir," said I, "this is no place upon your doorstep to explain to you. But I am in immediate need of a kindly hand, and if you will have the goodness

"Faith," said he, smiling rather foolishly, "if it is a hand you want, you must needs look for one steadier than mine."

And, true enough, there he was away—going somewhat unsteadily upon his legs and presenting me a face flushed with the use of liquor. But this was no moment for parrying, and I pressed my point promptly.

"Then, pray, let me shut the door for you," said I, stepping in forthwith. And without more ado I closed the great door with a bang.

He led the way docilely enough into a neighboring room and, turning up the gas, faced me. "This is all very well," says he more soberly. "But I have still to learn who the devil you may be."

"My name, sir, is immaterial," I replied. "But it is your services I want in a certain crisis, and if you be a gentleman, as I see you are, I shall have no doubt of the issue."

He stared at me for some moments in silence. "Pray state your case," he said politely and sticking the stump of a cigar in his mouth, but supporting himself upon the table.

"You ask me my name?" I answered. "Well, there is no concealment I would practice on you, and so it is Grestorex, for what use you may care to make of it."

"Mine's Winthrop," he explained—"Lord Winthrop. You may have heard of me recently—correspondent in divorce case, you know."
