For the Third Time in Less Than Two Months

Toronto Suffers From a Devastating Conflagration.

This Time the Loss Foots Up

Nearly One Million Dollars. Simpson's, Jamieson's and Other Large Establishments Burned Out.

Knox Church Damaged and Other Institutions Narrowly Escape-Three Firemen Hurt-The Losses and the Insurance.

TORONTO, March 3.-For the third time within two months Toronto has been visited by a most disastrous conflagration. On Jan. 6 the Globe newspaper building, D. F. McKinnon's wholesale millinery establishment and adjacent places were destroyed with a total loss of about $700,000. Three days later fire broke out again in a spot adjacent to the ruins, and damage was done to the extent of three-quarters of a million dollars.

At 12:30 this morning a third fire started. This time at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets.

SIMPSON'S ESTABLISHMENT. The central feature of it was the vast departmental store of Robt. Simpson, which was burned to the ground, the building and stock being a total loss. Numerous buildings around were burned, and the total loss will amount to between $800,000 and $900,000. The insurance will probably reach two-thirds of this amount.

A MYSTERY. The origin of the fire is a mystery, was incendiary in character. Simpson's store was a six-story building standing at the southwest corner of Yonge and Queen streets. It was put up last summer, and a portion of the carpentering work was hardly finished. Four of the floors were stocked and two empty. The building was worth $125,000 and the stock about $350,-

WHERE IT BEGAN. The fire started in the rear of Simpson's, and the flames spread with great rapidity. A general alarm was run in at 12:35, and the full force of the fire brigade was soon on the scene. By 1 o'clock the flames had spread to each of the four corners, and the fire threatened to engulf several blocks. The steam fire engine was in action, and gave valuable aid. The water pressure was good, but the firemen could not pretend to cope with the flames at the top of the high Simpson building. Wall after wall fell, and myriads of sparks were scattered over the eastern portion of the city.

JAMIESON'S The clothing store of P. Jamieson, on the northwest corner of Queen and Yonge, was soon a total ruin with all

OTHER LOSSES. Sutcliffe & Sons, millinery and dry goods, immediately north of Jamieson's, on Yonge, was gutted, with a total loss of stock.

G. McPherson, boots and shoes, next north, was half burned. South of Simpson's, on Yonge, Wanless, the jeweler, suffered severely, the rear part of the premises being gutted, though the front was not much hurt.

Neil C. Love, druggist, next south, suffered slightly. VALUABLE RECORDS DES-TROYED.

Over Jamieson's store opposite Simpson's was what is known as Agricultural Hall, the property of the Ontario Agriculture and Arts Association. In it were a very valuable collection of records of cattle pedigrees and other official stock-breeding records, which cannot be replaced. All were a total loss with the building.

Further west on the same side of Queen street was the Queen street front of Sutcliffe & Sons', which was gutted Next came the Queen street front of T. Eaton & Co.'s great departmental establishment, which was but little in-

ACROSS YONGE STREET. the fire again did great damage. At the northeast corner stood the Henderson block, occupied by J. Bonner, gents' furnishings, and Miss M. E. Brislay, milliner. Both were burned out.

The C. F. Adams Company came next north, and the roof of this place was badly burned, and their stock greatly At the southeast corner of Yonge and Queen stood the Imperial Bank building. This escaped damage in the lower part, but F. J. Brown, with a large stock of furniture, upstairs, was burned out.

Milne & Co., next south, stove merchants, were burned out. C. M. Henderson, next adjoining, lost everything.

Dunfield & Co., gents' furnishings, and the Tremont House-hotel-further south, were about three-quarters burn-

Around on Queen street east, again, the Pythian Hall was somewhat damaged, but fortunately escaped severe in-

EXCITING FEATURES. The two features of the fire, after the Simpson building had gone, were the questions as to whether Eaton's great store would be saved and the burning of Knox Church steeple. Knox Church stands next to Simpson's on Queen street. On the south side a fire brand lit on the steeple, about the middle, at 1:45 o'clock, and burned steadily for nearly an hour without making any great blaze. The firemen could not reach it, and it was a foregone conclusion that the steeple would go in an

THE STEEPLE FELL about a quarter after three o'clock. The steeple fell into the street, the bell having fallen out a few minutes earlier. With regard to the Eatons, the store would undoubtedly have been burned but for the aid rendered the fire brigade by the specially drilled brigade of the Eatons' employes. These were early on the spot, and with strenuous exertions, playing on the roof and fronts, the fire was prevented from preading to their building.

UNDER CONTROL.

It was about 3:15 before the fire was fully under control. Three firemen were injured, some-what seriously, by falling walls and LONDON, March 3.—The influenza is otherwise, but none fatally. Chief Graham sustained a sprained ankle.

THE LOSSES.

The losses are estimated roughly as Simpson, on building, $125,000 to $150,-000; on stock, $350,600. Insurance, on building, $100,000; on stock, $250,000.

P. Jamieson's loss on stock, $125,000; insured for $25,000. Loss on building (owned by the Arts Association), $15,-000; insurance, $10,000. Insurance on stock-breeding records, etc., $4,500. Sutcliffe & Sons, loss, $100,000 on stock; insurance, $45,000. Loss on two separate buildings, facing on Yonge and Queen streets respectively, $10,000 each. Insurance, two-thirds. Loss on Knox Church, $10,000, insured

Gourlay, Winter & Leaming, pianos, loss by water and fire, $5,000; insured. Tremont Hall, loss $18,000; insured for Dunfield & Co., $5,000; insured. Henderson & Co., auctioneers, $5,000; insured. Milne & Co., $40,000; insurance, $20,000. T. F. Browne, loss, $25,000: insurance, $15,000.

Miss M. E. Brisley, stock loss, $7,000; insurance, $2,000. J. Bonner, $8,000 on stock; insurance, Pythian Hall, loss, $1,000. The fire spread to St. Michael's Hospital and the Metropolitan Church, but only for a moment, being fortunately quickly extinguished. SIGHT - SEERS. The scene of the fire was today visited by probably 100,000 people. The congregation of Knox Church held service in he school room, there being still all day a flicker of fire in the tower of the church, which is not, however, considered likely to spread.

The young Grand Duke was conveyed in a dying condition from Russia to the Riviera two months ago, suffering from galloping consumption, and his old father, the only surviving brother of Alexander II., was summoned to San Remo a few weeks ago to attend his death-bed. The deceased was a brother of the Grand Duke

A NAVAL VETERAN FALLS. LONDON, March 3.—Admiral Sir G. T. Phipps Hornby died today at Lordington, Hampshire, of pneumonia, resulting from influenza. Admiral Hornby was born in 1825. He entered the service in 1837, and was present as midshipman at the bombardment of Acre by Sir Robert Stopford and Sir Charles Napier. He afterward served under Admiral Percy at the Cape of Good Hope under his father, Sir Phipps Horn-by, in the Pacific and on various other stations. He became vice-admiral in 1875. He was commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean, and had a responsible position during the trying times of 1878. He served as Lord of the Admiralty in Lord Beaconsfield's Adminis-tration, as his father had served in that of the late Lord Derby.

ROSEBERY MAY RETIRE. Ballard Smith cables from London to the New York World: "I can assert the very strong probability of the speedy resignation of Lord Rosebery for personal reasons, even while the present majority in the House of Commons re-mains assured to him. He is still suffering from a severe attack of influenza. but that would give little concern to his friends and physicians if it were not complicated with insomnia, which has been almost chronic for a year or more. The sleeplessness began after an attack of scarlatina seven years ago, but it has increased lately to such a degree that for several months he has found it impossible to sleep in London, going nearly every night to one of his two country seats near London, to Brighton or to the residence of one of his Rothschilds connections. The depression which is the invariable consequence of the influenza, has so affected him, I have authority for saying, that only the influence of Lord Tweedmouth, a man of strong will, robust courage and highly-trained political knowledge, has prevented the Prime Minister's resigna-tion within the past two days. Lord Tweedmouth and other intimate friends fear that no influence can prevent it within the next 48 hours, unless Lord Rosebery's present temper changes. The renewed bitter attacks of Mr. Labou-chere and Sir Charles Dilke in the House of Commons the other day, both being members of his own party, lave in his present condition, affected the Prime Minister greatly. On the other hand it is well known that Lord Rosebery is intensely ambitious, has worked unceasingly for the Premiership since unceasingly for the Premiership since his entry into public life, and, there-fore, would not throw it away lightly. Nevertheless, his highly excited and nervous physical condition makes him obstinate in his present purpose."

A GREAT CONTEST. LONDON, March 3.-The great county council contest ended yesterday in London after a bitter, exciting and longcontinued canvass. There were two parties-the Moderates and the Progressives. The former included practi-cally all of the great property lords of London—the Duke of Westminster, Lord Portman, and the rest of the aristocracy and the Tory party in general. Representatives of the State Church were almost unanimously on that side, and allied with them were the whole liquor interest, the proprietors and the shareholders in the music halls, the frequenters of those institutions, the big water companies, the street car lines and other private monopolies. The Marquis of Salisbury and Mr. Arthur Balfour, the two leaders of the Conservative party, gave their powerful aid to the Moderate candidates, adjuring every member of the National Conservative party to vote for them. So it might appear that the Moderate party was really the respectable party it has was really the respectable party in this contest; but the fact is that it represented all that is worst in London municipal life. The outrageous corruption and scandals of the old board of public and scandals of the old board of public the margin of cultivation during the works, never fully exposed because the press of London was and is muzzled, led to the overthrow of that body six years ago and the establishment of an elective county council. The Liberal party in National affairs captured the council, and has controlled it from the start. The council has in a large measure reformed the municipal administration and the hospital and the alms house management, and has improved the streets and the fire department, has given thousands of acres of new parks to the public, and has made vigorous efforts to reform the present inequitable system of taxation by which the grand landlords escape their due share of municipal taxes. nicipal taxes. These efforts at equalizing the burdens have been defeated thus far by the House of Lords. The council has also been very rigorous and watchful in the licensing and the control of public houses (that is to say barrooms), and has broken up such dens of iniquity as "The Promenade" in the Empire Music Hall. It has many reforms yet to achieve, among them the proposed purchase by the city of the water supply system and the street railways. There are arrayed against the Progressive party all the interests above mentioned. The Established Church here is always on the side of the landlords. The Moderate programme approves a return to the old contract system, which was prolific of scandals in the board of works. The Progressives have estab-lished a system of day labor under competent supervision, which has secured more efficient results at far less cost. The county council is an unpaid body of 118 members. Both parties presented candidates of unimpeachable character.

The elections resulted in the choice of 59 Progressives and 49 Moderates. The Moderates gained 21 seats and the Progressives one seat formerly held by the Moderates. In four districts the re-results will not be determined until Monday.

THE OPEN FORUM.

OPEN QUESTIONS FOR HENRY GEORGE.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": Kindly permit me to address the folowing two open questions to the well-known social reformer and advocate of single tax, Henry George, with a request that, if convenient, the questions may be answered from the Opera House platform at the close of Mr. George's lecture on Tuesday evening next. Yours respectfully,

HENRY B. ASHPLANT. To Henry George, Esq., Dear Sir,—In Book III., chapter i. (on the law of distribution) in your famous book, "Progress and Poverty," you define wages as "that produce which constitutes the reward of human exertion," "wages of superintendence being included." It must therefore be clearly understood that when you use the term wages in your discussion of single tax you do not mean the common wages of the so-called working classes; but you mean the sum total of wealth which comes as the return to human exertion after ground rents and interest for original capital is paid. Your term wages therefore means to include the full income of all employers and superintendents. lawyers, doctors and professional men, after the payment of the two last named charges from the total product.

It is with a full understanding of this sense of the term wages "as the full returns to human exertion" that you have based your argument for single tax on the further statements in chap-ter viii. of the same book, viz.: "Noth-ing can be clearer than the proposition that the failure of wages to increase with increasing productive power is due to the increase of rent." "Rent swallows up the whole gain and pauperism accompanies progress." Now here is a statement which is a fundamental plank in your argument, viz., that the increase of wealth, or produce, which has sprung from the exertions and applications of mental and muscular energy on the part of the employers and superintendents of labor in the com-mercial world during the age of ma-chinery and division of labor has gone entire into the pockets of the pure and simple ground owner, or landlord; and the income of superintendence, as also common wages and professional salarles, have failed to increase above the margin of cultivation. I beg to submit that your whole argument for single tax as a solution to the economic pov erty of the common wage earner falls to the ground if this position is not maintained; and I further beg to sub-mit that the facts of modern commercial economy during the era of increased productive power in the age of ma-chinery exhibit a fatal error in the basis of your argument.

As I understand you are willing to aswer questions bearing on your pro-positions from the Opera House platform, I respectfully submit the follow-

1. Apart from an increase in wages how do you explain the increase, the immense increase, of produce, or wealth. which the labors of the past 50 years have brought in return for human exertion to the superintendents and employers in the manufacturing and mer-cantile industries, after charges for simple ground rent, and interest on original (not compounded) capital are paid? and which increase of wealth in eturn for human exertion is directly the cause of the growth of the entire middle class in England, Germany, France, Canada and the United States giving these wage earners a social and political power which is swamping the simple land-owning aristocracy, notwithstanding ownership of land backed by the laws of primogeniture? In short, how do you account for the rise of wealth of the commercial middle class in face of your statements about "rent swallowing up the whole gain by increase of productive power above the margin of cultivation?" 2. If the absolute private ownership of land is all sufficient to secure an income which cannot be affected by the acts of labor and capital, will you kindly explain why the old and one time wealthy landed aristocracy of England is becoming poorer by the drop in rents, while the wages of agricultural laborers in England today are higher in value than 50 years since, while at the same time the commercial superintendents and employers of labor in England are ecoming wealthier not only in produce, which is the return for human exertion, but in social and political power? the margin of cultivation during the increase of productive power by machinery: and I assert that economic rent has not swallowed up the whole gain, nor anything approaching the whole gain. The rapid growth of the commercial middle class in all countries where manufacturing goes on is to my mind a standing proof that you are fatally wrong in asserting that "rent swallows up the whole gain," and that the "wages of superintendence have failed to increase with the increase of pro-ductive power." Historic facts deny your theory. I recognize fully the immense value of the impetus your labors have given to the cause of social and commercial reform, but the result of 23 years practical experience as a wage earner in the wholesale manufacturing earner in the wholesale manufacturing and retail distributing commercial world, added to a careful study of my surroundings, has convinced me that in "Progress and Poverty" you have not correctly guaged the economic conditions of the social problem, and I cannot second single to a social problem. not accept single tax as a plan possessing the ability to free the common wage earning classes from the bondage. Trusting you may not find it difficult to answer the above questions, I am yours respectfully,

Another Meeting Necessary to Deal With Electric Railway Matters.

Disagreement Encountered Relative to Bridge Crossing.

Ald. Dreaney Gives an Important Casting Vote-Route Suggested and Discussed.

The electric railway franchise took a turn for the worse about 4:30 on Saturday afternoon, and absolute rest will be required before this coquettish piece of paper can be discussed again. For reasons which will appear further on progress will be reported at tonight's meeting of the city council, and the committee will meet again about the middle of the week. It was all because of the bridges-and Ald. Dreaney's casting vote! The meeting began in the best of humor and ended in the same way. But about half way through a breach between the company and the committee appeared which was only prevented from becoming a serious rupture by the moderation of both parties. Ald. Dreaney was moved into the chair to facilitate matters until Ald. Jones appeared, and Mr. Jones when he did arrive courteously allowed the man from ward 5 to continue to hold the reins. Mayor Little, Ald. Carrothers, Ald. Armstrong, Ald. McCallum and Ald. Brener were also present. The meeting began with a discussion between Mr. Ivey and Ald. Dreaney as to whether Egerton street was the first side road this side of Ingersoll merely the dividing line between Dorchester and Nilestown. This important point had not been settled when a quorum was announced. "It's too bad," said Manager Carr (who was present) to the chairman, as the meeting adjourned, "that Ald. Dreaney should be the only man standing between horse cars and electricity.' "Well, I was voting for the city, not the company," replied Ald. Dreaney.

THE LABOR DIFFICULTY
SETTLED.

strengthening it to suit the services of "I suppose we might as well go on with the 'Knights of Labor' clause,' said Mayor Little. Ald. Dreaney read it as follows: Clause 4-Ten hours to constitute a working day; the average week's labor

"That is so you can make it eleven hours one week and nine hours another," said Ald. Dreaney. After a discussion in which Ald. Carrothers wished to stipulate the wages and to which Mr. Ivey refused to acquiesce the clause was adopted.

It was pointed out that it was satis-bor councils. THE BRIDGE DIFFICULTY. The bridge clause read as follows: 10-Should the extensions required by the city make it necessary to cross Clark's bridge, the company to have the right to cross the same on the present structure, replanking and strengthening the same if necessary to the satisfaction of the city. The company to have the right, in so far as the city has the power to grant it, of extending the abutments of Dundas street bridge and building a bridge for its own use at the side. The company to have the option of either extending the abutments of Victoria bridge and building their own superstructure, or to replace the present structure with a new twenty-foot roadway. The material in the old bridge to be allowed the company, they to have a half proprietary interest in the new superstructure. The company to have the option of either extending the abutments of the York street bridge and building their own superstructure or to remove the present structure and replace it with a new twenty-foot roadway on the same terms as those relating to Victoria bridge, or to have the further option of building their own bridge across the river at the foot of King street, in which case the bridge and abutments will be the sole property of the company. The city to grant the privilege in so far as they have the power of crossing Oxford street bridge upon the same terms as relate to Clark's bridge. The company to have the right to place double tracks on any twentyfoot roadway bridge if there is a double track on the street up to the bridge. THE STORM BREWED.

"Now, gentlemen," said Mr. Ivey,
"we have tried to meet you there." But the aldermen objected to the triple option wanted by the company. They wanted the company to make a positive declaration of which method they would adopt to get over the difficulty. Failing in that, the aldermen wanted the city to have the option of saying which course should be pursued. The aldermen pointed out that Stanley street would have to be releveled and the lawns demolished, and sidewalks moved back to their original position. Then the amount of farm traffic passing over the bridge was urged against its use, and the committee tried to get Mr. Ivey to consent to build a new bridge at King street. Mr. Ivey put forward the argument that Becher street was not in it with Stanley as a

against the crossing of York street. "Well," said Mr. Ivey, "we can split just as easily on bridges as on fares, or routes, or anything else." And the mayor proceeded to point out that the farmers had Blackfriars bridge to enter the city on the west side, on which no cars would be crossing. He held that the city should have a similar entrance on the south. There were bound to be accidents, and the damages that would have to be paid might just paying line, and still wanted the option of crossing York street. The mayor said that he personally would hold out as well be expended now on bridges.

AND IT BROKE. "Nothing short of what is there, so far as we are concerned, will go through," said Mr. Ivey. Continuing, he said that he had been twitted on the street and in the newspapers for con-tinually backing down to the city's wishes, and he would give in no further. Mayor Little again objected to the use of the York street bridge, and stated that he was prepared to take the responsibility of refusing the fran-chise on behalf of the city. "And I am prepared to take it on behalf of the company," retorted Mr.

The aldermen were grave and silent and Mr. Ivey resolute and uncomprom-

"I think we had better adjourn until we get in a little better humor," one of the members suggested sotto voce. Ald. Jones broke the silence by again asking Mr. Ivey to build the King street bridge and strengthen Clark's bridge. "You have between now and Monday night," said he to Mr. Ivey, "Will you write to Mr. Everett?" "I will not write a single line to Mr. Everett," said Mr. Ivey sharply.

Ald. Jones—If you refuse right here to build the King street bridge why do you put it in the clause?

Mr. Ivey—Because you want me to build on King street and not give me the option of any of the other methods of crossing. IVEY'S NEW PROPOSITION. Another brief silence followed. Mr.

Ivey thought for a minute and then made a new proposition to the committee. "I tell you what I will do," "We will use Clark's, York street and Victoria bridges, and add a side structure and new superstructure on each."

"Gentlemen," said Ald. Jones, "I will accept it for one."
Mr. Ivey-That is to apply the Victoria bridge proposal to the whole three. Ald. Jones-But I understood you to say that you would put an extended abutment on the whole three. I am still willing to accept it. Ald. Parnell, who was in the room, here asked permission to speak. He rather favored the Stanley street route, provided one track only was laid down, and that the company would build around the bridge. Then there would be no necessity of removing boulevards. Mr. Parnell also pointed out that the farm traffic, even if the road went down Becher street, was sure to meet the line on Askin and the Wharncliffe.

Mr. Ivey said that they could operate the street with a single track, but would need a long switch at the curve on the hill leading over the railway bridge. ALD. DREANEY CASTS THE DIE.

Then Ald. Carrothers pressed his motion that the city have the option as to the manner in which the river should be crossed. Mayor Little, Ald. Brener and Carrothers supported it—3.

Nays—Ald. Jones, McCallum and Armstrong-3 This left Ald. Dreaney, who was in the chair, to cast the die. He hesitated, and explained that he was in a "hole." "Better vacate the chair," someone "Well, I vote for the city having the option," said Ald. Dreaney, after consideration. "Then that is the report of the committee," said Ald. Jones. Before dealing at all with York street bridge Clark's bridge was discussed. "We will go to the bridge," said Mr. Ivey. "If you require us to pass it we will cross it on the present structure, the company. Mayor Little-In case it was found unsafe to use the bridge, provided the city should pay one-half, would you consider the paying of the other half of the cost of a new bridge?

Mr. Ivey—On the spur of the moment I would certainly advise the company to do it. I think that it is fair, but of course I can't bind the company to do

ROUTES THAT ARE WANTED. The matter of routes was then discussed. Ald. Brener expressed satisfaction with the service in No. 1 ward, and Ald. Jones had no fault to find with

"I am not at all pleased with the layout of No. 3 ward," said Ald. Carrothers. "I want a line from Wellington street on Hill or South to Adelaide, and north to the Hamilton road.' The present proposed route includes a line on Simcoe a couple of blocks north of the line wanted by Ald. Car-

"A great many ratepayers have asked me to try and get a line through w No. 4 from north to south, instead of the proposed line from east to west, said Ald. Armstrong. "I would suggest that the company build on Colborne from Dundas street to Oxford." "If you can show us that the people the company will be willing to make the change," said Mr. Ivey. Ald. Dreaney held out for a service on Egerton street from the Hamilton road to Dundas. "If you will guarantee the railroad con mittee's and privy council's consent to a level crossing at that point we would be willing," answered Mr. Ivey. On behalf of No. 6 ward Ald. McCallum said that he and another member of the committee were pledged not to desire that route instead of the other support the franchise unless the line was extended over Clark's bridge.

ROUTES SETTLED ON. The company is willing to place services on the following streets:

CANADIAN PILLS ABROAD.

A Specific Which is Obtaining a Foothold

in Foreign Countries. TORONTO, March 1 .- Among the thousands of orders which weekly pour into the offices of the Dodds Medicine Company, Limited, in this city, are many from Austria, Great Britain, Germany and other countries. The curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills in cases of Bright's disease and concomitant ailments have been brought to the attention of friends abroad by patients who were cured here; they in turn have called the attention of their acquaintances to the marvelous effects resulting from the use of the pills, until now there is a steady and growing demand for the specific, and each foreign mail exhibits an increase in the orders.

Astor's Grief.

NEW YORK, March 4 .- The Morning Advertiser says: William Waldorf Aster. it is now expected, will within the next few weeks completely sever his connection with his various foreign properties and again become an American resident. He is still mourning the loss of his wife, and in this is doubtless to be found the reason for his withdrawal from English affairs.

It was a very difficult thing to do, for Saul had either slain all um down at the village of Endor." "Do you?" said the king. Night falls. Saul, putting off his kingly robes, and putting on the dress of a plain citizen, with two servants, goes out to hunt up this spiritual medium. It was no easy thing for Saul to disguise himself, for the tallest people in the country only came up to his shoulder, and I think from the strength of the man and the way he bore himself, he must have been well-proportioned. It must have been a frightful thing to see a man walking along in the night eight or nine feet high. I suppose, as the people saw him pass, they said: "Who is that? He is as tall as the king"—having no idea that in such a plain dress there really was passing the king. Saul and his servants after a while reach the village, and they "I wonder if this is the house;" and they look in and they see the haggard, weird and shriveled-up spiritual 20c YARD medium sitting by the light, and on the table sculptured images, and divining rods, and poisonous herbs, and bottles, and vases. They say, "Yes, this must be the place." One loud rap brings the woman to the door, and as she stands there, holding the candle or lamp above her head, and peeing out into the dark-ness, she says: "Who is here?" The tall king informs her that he has come to have his fortune told. When she hears light, for she knows there is no chance for a fortune-teller or spiritual medium in all the land. But Saul having sworn that she trembles, and almost drops the that no harm shall come to her, she says: "Well, who shall I bring up from the dead?" Saul says: "Bring up Sam-uel." That was the prophet who had died a little while before. I see her waving her wand, or stirring up some poisonous herbs in a cauldron, or hear muttering over some incantations, or stamping with her foot, as she cries out to the realm of the dead: "Samuel! Samuel!" Lo, the freezing horror! The floor of the tenement opens, and the gray hairs float up, and the forehead, the eyes, the lips, the shoulders, the arms, the robe, appearing to the astonished group, who stagger back and hold fast, and catch their breath, and shiver with terror. The dead prophet, white and awful from the tomb, begins to move his ashen lips, and he glares upon King Saul, and cries out: "What did you bring me up for? Why did you break my long sleep? What do you mean, King Saul?" Saul, trying to compose and control himself, makes this stammering and affrighted utterance, as he says to the dead pro-phet: "The Lord is against me, and I have come to you for help. What shall I do? The dead prophet stretched forth his finger to King Saul and said: "Die tomorrow! Come with me into the sepulchre. I am going now. Come, come with me!" And low! the floor again opens, and the feet of the dead prophet disappear, and the arms, and the shoulders, and the forehead. The floor closes. Nothing is left in the room but Saul and the two servants, and the spiritual medium, and the sculptured images, and the divining rods, and the bottles, and the vases, and the poisonous herbs. Oh, that was an awful scene! learn first from this subject that Spiritualism is a very old religion. It is natural that people should want to know the origin and the history of a doctrine which is so widespread in all the villages, towns and cities of the civilized world, getting new converts every day—a doctrine with which many of you are already tinged. Spiritualism in America was born in 1847, in Hydesville, Wayne county, New York, when one night there was a loud rap heard against the door of Michael Weekman; a rap a second time, a rap a third time; and all three times, when the door was opened, there was nothing found there, the knocking having been made seemingly by invisible knuckles. In that same house there was a young woman who had a cold hand passed over her face, and there being seemingly no arm attached to it, ghostly suspicions were excited. After a while Mr. Fox and his family moved into that house, and then every night there was a banging at the door; and one night Mr. Fox said: "Are you a spirit?" Two raps answering in the affirmative. "Are you an injured spirit?" Two raps answering in the affirmative. And so they found out, as they say, that it was the ghost or spirit of a pedler who had been murdered in that house, many years before, for his five hundred dollars. Whether the ghost of the peddler had come there et at the door, so Mr. Weekman declared, and Mrs. Weekman, and Mr. Fox, and Mrs. Fox, and all the little Foxes. The excitement spread. There was a universal rumpus. The Hon. Judge Edmonds declared, in a book, that he had actually seen a bell start from the top shelf of a closet, heard it ring over the people that were standing in the closet; then, swung by invisible hands, it rang over the people in the back parlor; and floated through the folding doors to the front parlor, rung over the people there, and then dropped on the floor. N. P. Talmage, United States Senator, afterwards Governor of Wisconsin, had his head completely turned with spiritualistic demonstrations. A man, as he was passing along the road, said that he was lifted up bodily, and carried towards his home, through the air, at such great speed he could not count the posts on the fences as he passed; and as he had a hand-saw and a square in his hand, they beat, as passed through the air, most delightful music. And the tables tipped, and the stools tilted, and the bedsteads raised, and the chairs upset, and it seemed as if the spirits everywhere had gone into the furniture business! Well, the people said: "We have got something new in this country; it is a new religion." Oh, no, my friends. Thous-ands of years ago we find in our text a spiritualistic seance. Nothing in the spiritualistic circles of our day has been more strange, mysterous and wonderful than things which have been seen in KEEPS THE THROAT CLEAN AND HEALTHY.

* Behold, there is a woman that hath a those who by taking poisonous drugs familiar spirit at Endor. And Saul see everything, and hear everything, and tell everything; dreamers, people who in their sleeping moments can see the future world and hold consultation with spirits; astrologers, who could read a new dispensation in the stars; experts in palmistry, who can tell by the lines in the palm of your hand your origin and your history. From a cave on Mount Parnassus, we are told, there was an exhalation that intoxicated the sheep and the goats that came anywhere near it, and a shepherd approaching it was thrown by that exhalation into an excitement in which he could foretell future events and hold consultation with the spiritual world. Yea, before the time of Christ the Brahmins went through all the table-moving, all the furniture excitement, which the spirits have exploited in our day; precisely the same thing, over and over again, under the manipulations of the Brahmins. Now, do you say that spiritualism is different from these? I answer, all these delusions I have men-tioned belong to the same family. They are exhumations from the unseen world. What does God think of all these delusions? He thinks so severely of them that He never speaks of them but with livid thunders of indignation. He says: "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." And lest you might make some important distinction between Spiritualism and witchcraft, God says, in so many words: "There shall not be among you a consulter of familiar spirits, or wizard, or necromancer; for they that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord." And He says again: "The soul of those who seek after such as have familiar spirits, and who go whoring after them, I will set myself against them, and he shall be cut off from among his people." The Lord Al-

of delusions. After that be a Spiritualist if you dare! Still further: We learn from this text how it is that people fall into Spiritualism. Saul had enough trouble to kill ten men. He did not know where to go for relief. After a while he resolved to go and see the witch of Endor. He expected that somehow she would afford him relief. It was his trouble that drove him there. And I have to tell you now that Spiritualism finds its victims in the troubled, the bankrupt, the sick, the bereft. You lose your watch, and you go to a fortune-teller doctor to find where it is. You are sick with a strange disease, and you go to a fortune-teller doctor to find out by a lock of hair what is the matter with you. You lose a friend, you want the spiritual world opened so that you may have communication with him. In a highly-wrought, nervous and diseased state of mind, you go and put yourself in that comunication. That is why I hate Spiritualism. It takes advantage of one in a moment of weakness, which may come upon us feet, the entire body of dead Samuel, at any time. We lose a friend. The of debauchery and intemperance. If ial is keen, sharp, suffocating, almos maddening. If we could marshal host, and storm the eternal world, and recapture our loved one, the host would soon be marshalled. The house is so lonely. The world is so dark. The separation is so insufferable. But Spiritualism says: "We will open the future world, and your loved one can come back and talk to you." Though we may not hear his voice, we may hear the rap of his hand. So, clear the table, Sit down. Put your hands on the table. Be very quiet. Five minutes gone. Ten minutes. No motion of the table. No response from the future world. Twenty minutes. Thirty minutes. Nervous excitement all the time increasing.

Forty minutes. The table shivers. Two raps from the future world. The letters of the alphabet are called over. The departed friend's name is John. At the pronunciation of the letter "J," raps. At the pronunciation of the letter "O," two raps. At the pronunciation of the letter "H," two raps. At the pro-nunciation of the letter "N," two raps. There you have the whole name spelled out. J-o-h-n, John. Now, the spirit being present, you say, "John, are you happy?" Two raps give an affirmative answer. Pretty soon the hand of the medium begins to twitch and toss, and begins to write out, after paper and ink are furnished, a message from the eternal world. What is remarkable, the departed spirit, although it has been amid the illuminations of heaven, cannot spell as well as it used to It has lost all grammatical accuracy, and cannot write as distinctly. I received a letter through a medium once. I sent it back. I said: "Just please to tell these ghosts they had better go to school and get improved in their orthography!" Now, just think of spirits, that the Bible represents as enthroned in glory, coming down to crawl under the table, and break crockery, and ring tea-bells before supper is ready, and rap the window shutter on a gusty night. Is there any consolation in such poor, miserable work compared with the thought that our departed Christian friends, got rid of pain and languishing, are in the radiant society of heaven, and that we shall join them there, not in a stifled and mysterious half-utterance, which makes the hair stand on end and the

"And none shall murmur or misdoubt. When God's great sunrise finds us out." Yes, my friends, Spiritualism comes to those who are in trouble and sweeps them into its delusions. Saul, in the midst of his disaster, went to the witch of Endor. The vast majority of those who have gone to spiritual mediums have been sent there through their misfortunes. I learn still further from this subject that Spiritualism and Necromancy are affairs of the darkness. Why did not Saul go in the day? He was ashamed to go. Besides that, he knew the spiritual medium, like all her successors, performed her exploits in the night. The Davenports, the Fowlers, the Foxes, the spiritual mediums of all ages, have chosen the night or a darkened room. Why? The majority of their wonders have been swindles, and deception prospers best in the night. Some of the performances of spiritual mediums are not to be ascribed to fraud, but to some occult law that after a while may be demonstrated. But I believe now that nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand achievements on the part of spiritual mediums are arrant and unmitigated humbug. The mysterious red letters that used to come out on the medium's arm were found to have been made by an iron pencil that went heavily over the flesh, not tearing it, but so disturbing the blood that it came up in great round letters. The witnesses of the seance have locked the door, put the key in their pocket, arrested the operator, and found out, by searching the room, that hidden levers moved the The sealed letters that were mysteriously read without opening have been found to have been cut at the side, no wonder it chooses darkness. You have all seen strange and unaccountable things in the night. Almost every man has at some time had a touch of hallucination. Some time ago, after I had been over tempted to eat something indigestible before retiring I don't know about you and about the at night, after retiring I saw the president was a sound about the unseen world." If God is ever slapped at night, after retiring I saw the president of one of the prominent colleges dent of one of the bad, while he medium puts down her hand on the demanded of me a loan of five cents! When I awakened I had no idea it was anything supernatural. And I have to advise you, if you hear and see strange things at night, to stop eating hot mince pie and take a dose of bilious medicine. It is an outraged physical organism, and, not to deceive the very elect after sundown, does nearly all its work in the night. The witch of Endor held her seances at night; so do all the witches. Away with this religion of spooks. Spiritualism is a curse to its disciples. Still further: I learn from my text that Spiritualism is doom and death to its disciples. King Saul thought that he would get help from the "medium"; but the first thing that he sees makes him swoon away, and no sooner is he resuscitated than he is told he must die. Spiritualism is doom and death to every one that yields to it. It ruins the body. Look upon an audience of spiritualists. Cadaverous, Weak, Nervous, Exhausted. Hands clammy and cold. Nothing prospers but long hair-soft marshes yielding rank grass. Spiritualism detroys the physical health. Its disciples are ever hearing startling news from the other world. Strange beings crossthe room in white. Table fidgetty, wanting to get its feet loose as if to dance. Voices sepulchral and ominous. Bewildered with raps. I never knew a confirmed spiritualist who had a healthy nervous system. It is incipient epilepsy and catelepsy. Destroy your nervous system and you might as well be dead. have noticed that people who are hearing raps from the future world have but little strength left to bear the hard raps of this world. It is an awful thing to trifle with one's nervous system. It is so delicate—it is so far-reaching-its derangements are so terrible. Get the nervous system a jangle, and so far as your body and soul are concerned, the whole universe is a jangle. mighty, in a score of passages, which I Better in our ignorance experiment have not now time to quote, utters his us dead, or with an engineer's steam indignation against all this great family boiler that may blow us to atoms, than experiment with the nervous system. A > with no eyes, and be happy, as men have been under such afflictions, but woe be to the man whose nerves are shattered. Spiritualism smites first of all, and mightily, against the nervous system, and so makes life miserable. I indict spiritualism also, because it is a social and marital curse. The worst deeds of licentiousness and the worst orgies of obscenity have been enacted under its patronage. The story is too vile for me to tell. I will not pollute my tongue nor your ears with the re-Sometimes the civil law has been evoked to stop the outrage. Families innumerable have been broken up by it. It has pushed off hundreds of young women into a life of profligacy. It talks about "elective affinities," and "affinital relation," and "spiritual matches," and adopts the whole vocabulary of free-lovism. In one of its public journals it declares "marriage is the monster curse of civilization." It is a source spiritualism could have full swing, i would turn this world into a pandemonof carnality. It is an unclean, adulterous, damnable religion, and the sooner it drops into hell, from which it rose, the better both for earth and heaven. For the sake of man's honor and woman's purity, I say let the last vestige of it perish for ever. I wish I could gather up all the raps it has ever heard from spirits blest or damned and gather them all on its own head in one with a chemist's retort that may smite man can live with only one lung, or thundering rap of annihilation! I further indict spiritualism for the fact that it is the cause of much insanity. There is not an asylum between Bangor and San Francisco which has not the torn and bleeding victims of this not where it is, and the presiding doctor, after you have asked him: is the matter with that man?" will say: "Spiritualism demented him;" or "What is the matter with that woman?" he will say: "Spiritualism demented her." It has taken down some of the brightest intellects. It has swept off into mental midnight judges, senators, governors, ministers of the Gospel, and one time came near capturing one of the Presidents of the United States. At Flushing, near this city, a man became absorbed with it, forsook his family, took his only fifteen thousand dollars, surrendered them to a spiritual medium in New York, attempted three times to put an end to his own life. and then was incarcerated in the State lunatic asylum, where he is today, a raving maniac. Put your hand in the hand of this witch of Endor, and she will lead you to bottomless perdition, where she holds her everlasting seance. Many years ago the steamer Atlantic started from Europe for the United States. Getting mid-ocean, the machinery broke, and she floundered around day after day, and week after week, and for a whole month after she was due people wondered, and finally gave her up. There was great anguish in the cities, for there were many who had friends aboard that vessel. Some of the women, in their distress, went to the spiritual mediums and inquired the fate of that vessel. The mediums called up the spirits, and the rappings on the table indicated the steamship lost, with all on board. Women went raving mad, and were carried to the lunatic asylum. After awhile one day a gun was heard off Quarantine. The flags went up on the shipping, and the bells of the churches were rung. The boys ran through the streets, crying; "Extra! The Atlantic is safe!" was the embracing as from the dead when friends came again to friends but some of those passengers went up to find their wives in tht lunatic asylum, where the cheat of infernal spiritvaiism had put them. A man in Belleview Hospital, dying from wounds made by his own hand, was asked why he tried to commit suicide, and he said: "The spirits told me to." Parents have strangled their children, and when asked why they did it, replied: "Spiritualism demanded it." It is the patronizer and forager for the madhouse. Judge Edmonds, in Broadway Tabernacle. New York, delivering a lecture in behalf of spiritualism, admitted, in so many words: "There is a fascination about consultation with the spirits of th dead that has a tendency to lead people off from their right judgment, and to instil into them a fanaticism that is reolting to the natural mind." It not only ruins its disciples, but ruins the mediums also, only give it time. The Gaderean swine, on the banks of the Lake of Galilee, no sooner became spiritual mediums than down they went, in an avalanche of pork, to the consternation of all the herdsmen The office of a medium is bad for a man, bad for a woman, bad for a beast.

I bring against this delusion a more fearful indictment: It ruins the soul immortal. First, it makes a man a quarter of an infidel; then it makes him half an infidel; then it makes him whole infidel. The whole system, as I conceive it, is founded on the insufficiency of the word of God as a revelation. God says put your hand on the table, and say "Now let the spirits of the future world come and tell me something the Bible has not told me." And although the Scriptures say: "Add thou not unto his words lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar," you risk it and say: "Come back, spirit of my departed father; come back, spirit of my departed father; come back, spirit of my departed parted spirit of my departed parted parte parted mother, of my companions, of my little child, and tell me some things table, invoking spirits departed to make revelation. God has told you all you ought to know, and how dare you be prying into that which is none of your business? You cannot keep the Bible in one hand and spiritualism in the other. One or the other will slip out of your grasp, depend upon it. Spiritualism is adverse to the Bible in the fact that it has in these last days called from the future world Christian men to testify against Christianity. Its mediums call back Lorenzo Dow, the celebrated evangelist, and Lorenzo Dow testifies that Christians are idolators. Spiritualism calls back Tom Payne, and he testifies that he is stopping at the same house in heaven with John Bunyan. They call back John Wesley, and he testifies against the Christian religion which he all his life gloriously preached. Andrew Jackson Davis, the greatest of all the spiritualists, comes to the front and declares that the New Testament is but "the dismal echo of a barbaric age," and the Bible only "one of the pen and ink relics of Christianity." They attempt to substitute the writings of Swedenborg and Andrew Jackson Davis, and other religious balderdash, in the place of this old Bible. I have in my house a book which was used in this very city in the public service of spiritualists. It is well worn with much service. I open that book, and it says: What is our baptism?

Answer: Frequent ablutions of water. What is our inspiration: Plenty of fresh air and sunlight. What is our prayer? Abundant physical exercise. What is our love-feast? A clear conscience and sound sleep." And I find from the same book that the chief item in their

but you will be if you keep on in the track you have started. "But," says someone, "wouldn't it be of advantage to hear from the future world? Don't you think it would strengthen Christians? There are a great many materialists who do not believe there are souls; but if spirits from the future world should knock and speak to us, they would be persuaded." To that I answer, in the ringing words of the son of God: "If they believe not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." Now I belive, under God, that this sermon will save many from disease, insanity and perdition. I believe these are the days of which the apostle spake when he said: "In the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits." I think my audience, as well as other audiences in this day need to have reiterated in their hearing the passages I quoted some minutes ago: "There shall not be among you a consulter of familiar spirits, or wizard, or necromancer; for they that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord"; and "The soul that turneth after such as have familiar spirits, I will set myself against them, and they shall be cut off from their people.

But I invite you this morning to a Christian seance, a noonday seance, This congregation is only one great family. Here is the church table. Come around the church table, take your seats for this great Christian seance, put your Bible on the table, put your hands on the top of the Bible and then listen, and hear if there are any voices coming from the eternal world. I think there are. Listen! "Secret things belong unto the Lord our God, but things that are revealed belong to us and to our children." Surely that is a voice from the spirit-world! But before you rise from this Christian seance, I want you to promise me you will be satisfied with the Divine revelation until the light of the eternal throne breaks upon your vision. Do not go after the witch of Endor. Do not sit down to table rappings, either in sport or in earnest Have your tables so well made and their legs so even, that they will not tip and rattle. If the table must move, let it be under the offices of industrious housewifery. Teach your children there are no ghosts to be seen or heard in this world, save those which walk on two feet, of four, human or bestial. Remember that spirtfualism at the best is a useless thing; for if it tells what the Bible reveals it is a superfluity, and if it tells what the Bible does not reveal it is a lie. Instead of going out to get other people to tell your fortune tell your own fortune by putting your trust in God and doing the best you can. I will tell your fortune: "All things work together for good to them who love God." Insult not your departed friends by asking them to come down and scrabble under an extension table. Remember that there is only one spirit whose dictation you have a right to invoke, and that is the holy, blessed and omnipotent Spirit of God. Hark! He is rapping now, not on a table or the floor, but apping on the floor of your heart, and every rap is an invitation to Christ and a warning of judgment to come. O, grieve him not away. Quench him not. He has been all around you this morning. He was all around you last night. He has been around you all your lives. Hark! There comes a voice dropping through the roof, breaking through the window, filling all this house from door to door and from floor to ceiling with tender and overmastering intonation, saying: "My spirit shall not always strive."

The Stratford Herald is more pleased than otherwise to receive a notification from a rural postmaster that the copy of that paper addressed to A-Bhas not been taken out of his office for the "following reasons": "Removed to Kingston Penitentiary." That seems be a very valid reason for the discontinuance of the paper.

-Mr. Massey, having built a fine new hall for the citizens of Toronto, at a cost of $100,000, now proceeds to reduce the wages of his employes, much to their dissatisfaction. Torontonians could better afford to do without the new hall than the Massey workmen can afford to do without living wages.

-The trade returns at Buffalo and elsewhere effectually meet the stupid argument of the high tax advocates who say that the United States market is not the best for many Canadian products. On the other hand, the British market is the best for other products. As far as can be fairly arranged, let us have both markets. That is Mr. Laurier's policy.

AFRAID TO FACE A PARLIA-

MENTARY INVESTIGATION, For the first eight months of the financial year there is a deficit in the revenue of the Dominion Government of almost Three Millions of Dolars. In the same time, the men in power have increased the net debt of the country, upon every dollar of which the taxpayers have to pay interest, from $241,883,-263 to $249,269,848.

Is it any wonder that the high tax leaders are afraid to meet Parliament to have their extravagance and corruption exposed and to say from where taxes are to come to make up the $5,-000,000 shortage in the revenue that is foreshadowed by the most favorable returns that they can produce?

Assuredly the country needs a change.

Cream of the Cable Gossip in a Column.

Influenza Strikes Down Thousands, Doctors Included.

Remarkable New Method for Curing Insanity.

The Canadian Cantatrice Seriously III.

Every cable correspondent this week chronicles the enormous increase in the ravages of the "grip." Millions of Britishers suffer from influenza. A prominent London West End doctor, almost too much exhausted by his weary round of visits to hold up his head said to me today:

"Yes, it is more prevalent than ever before. The form of the disease is severe, but rarely serious; at least, so we judge now, for we do not know yet what results may be the sequel. The peculiarity of the affliction is its tendency to affect the hearts of the victims. Four days seem to be its average duration, while four years ago the attacks lasted much longer. There is no possible doubt of its infectious nature. Patients are liable to communicate the disease from its inception until convalescent. We have no reliable pro-phylatic and no specific for its cure." In case the epidemic follows its usual course and within a few days invades America, it is worth while to mention two or three points in European experience of the latest form of this mysterious scourge. Its first symptoms are almost always lassitude and persistent fits of yawning. Then follow sudden, severe pains in all parts of the body, especially in the head and limbs, and a high fever is not uncommon. The temperature rises from normal to 103 or 104 in three of four hours. The doctors all say: "Don't take quinine or antipyrine." The important point is to break up the fever by inducing perspiration. Hot drinks, alcoholic or otherwise, are recommended for this purpose. It is a most distressing process of an hour or two, generally, before the pores can be induced to act by this means. The remedy usually given to reduce pain and bring rest is penacetin in various combinations. A member of Parliament who is just recovering from his fifth serious attack writes to the papers today advising the sufferers to mix fifteen grains of citrate of potash in a tumbler of hot water with the juice of one lemon, and to sip this mixture day and night.

"THE MANXMAN" THROWN OUT. It has remained for the Public Library Committee of the English town of Ealing to discover that Mr. Hall Caine's latest novel, "The Manxman," is a highly improper and immoral book. The committee have unanimously voted to withdraw it from circulation. The clergyman, who is chairman, denounced it as disgraceful. A woman member declared it to be shameful.

MODJESKA'S NEW TROUBLE. have this week taken revenge against Mme. Modjeska for the criticisms she expressed before Chicago audiences during the World's Fair. She spoke there about the "barbarity of the Poles," and other kindred subjects. Mme. Modjeska had an engagement at the Warsaw Theater this week, and the police forbade her to appear, assigning no reason. The late Viceroy would have expelled or arrested her. ARTIFICIAL RUBIES.

Artificial rubies made in Paris a few years ago were regarded as scientific curiosities. They are now making a serious disturbance in the jewel market. Large numbers are being sold in London as natural stones. They closely resemble, in all essential respects, the rubies of Burmah. When tried for hardness, specific gravity, luster, and subjected to all tests which are usually applied to precious stones they cannot be distinguished from the natural ruby. They are actually crystallized, red alumina only differing from the natural ruby in the process by which they have been produced. When examined with a microscope they betray their origin by the glassy inclosures which they contain, and sometimes by their streaky appearance.

NEW CURE FOR THE INSANE. An interesting new method of curing mental diseases was expounded by Prof. Wagner, head of the psychiatric department of Vienna University at a meeting last week. The cure is based upon the fact, frequently experienced, that mental maladies disappear if the patient gets another illness of another different kind, particularly fever. Prof. Wagner, following nature's inexplicable cure, has produced fever in the insane by applying Dr. Koch's tuberculine in grave cases. The effect of this treat-ment was that, after every tuberculine injection, the insane patient felt asier, the insanity recurring several times but finally disappearing for good. Prof. Albert, the well known surgeon of Vienna University, corroborated this testimony by a recent case in his department. A patient who was suffering from melancholia had to go through the operation of transfusion of blood. This caused a high fever, during which the state of the patient's mind was remarkably improved. When the fever ceased his mental condition was, to the professor's astonishment, entirely nor-

WHO DISCOVERED AMERICA? The latest contribution to the litera ture about the supposed pre-Columbian discovery of America is an important article in the current number of the Geographical Journal by Mr. Oldham. The evidence adduced is an inscription on a manuscript map executed in London during 1448 by Andrea Bianco, the famous Venetian cartographer. On this doc-ument, now one of the most valued treasures of the Ambrosian Library in Milan, it is recorded that in 1447 an authentic island was discovered, and it is portrayed on the map in the shape of a long stretch of coast line 1,500 miles southwest from Cape Verd. The only land in such a position is South America, and Mr. Oldham therefore concludes that Bianco's map was intended to illustrate the latest Portuguese expedition before he made his map. He thinks a Portuguese vessel may have been driven to the South American coast. Ingenious though this inference is, the opinions of Mr. Markham and other eminent geographers appended to Mr. Oldham's paper are, for the most part, rather against the conclusions which he reaches. They think it is more the group discovered to the west of Cape Verd, or else some mythical country, such as Antilia, which so long oc-cupied the position of the Azores. GREAT INCREASE IN DRUNKEN.

NESS. Drunkenness has increased alarmingly in Belgium in the last 40 years, according to M. Lejeune, lately Minister of Justice. The revenue from the excise in 1851 was 4,000,000 francs; now it is 33,-000,000; the number of saloons has increased from 53,000 to 175,000, and the annual consumption of spirits is 12 liters per head of the entire population, or 48 liters for each adult. Crime has increased 200 per cent and insanity 138 per cent, and of every 100 deaths among males 80 are traceable to alcohol.

THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL.

Resolutions Adopted at the Closing Session.

Characteristic Address by Lady Aberdeen. President of the International Council.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.-The National Council of Women held its last day's session behind closed doors. The session was principally devoted to the adoption of a series of resolutions relating to work. One resolution declared that "We urge that co-operation, instead of competition, should be adopted as the standard to which industrial relations should be brought. As an immediate remedial measure we urge that all disputes between capital and labor be referred to national, state or voluntary tribunals of conciliation and arbitration and that the whole strength of public opinion be brought to bear to compel such reference and the acceptance of the decision.' Another resolution demands that the United States Government shall set the standard for the country by paying its employes wages for equal work and by holding women equally eligible for all competitive examinations and for employment and promotion.

Dress reform was not indorsed but commended to the serious attention of women. A national divorce law was favored, and it was urged that a peace committee be appointed by the United States to confer with other nations with the view of establishing an international court of arbitra-

The council listened in the closing hours te an address from Lady Aberdeen, wife of graceful reference to the honor conferred on her by her election to the presidency of the International Council, Lady Aberdeen spoke of the growth of the woman's movement all over the world and said: "As an illustration I may be permitted to use my own council, that of Canada. Our organization is in some small ways different from yours. But I may truly say that in this and the other councils spreading from the Atlantic to the Pacific we have the most representative women of every nationality and faith. We have received assistance from governmental officers, the clergy and scientific women. "I think you may well be proud of the work being done by the Canadian council. It is supposed, I know, that it is chiefly for woman's suffrage, but the scope is broader than that. Any organization, suffrage or anti-suffrage, may join. The truth is, we desire to represent in our councils every phase of activity and thought, that all may work together for the universal application of the golden rule. The women who have taken up this work are those who believe implicitly that home is woman's mission. They are those who have learned by experience that self-sacrifice is the most glorious crown of human work.

"In point of religion we are all united by the commonest bond of the Lord's Prayer, which opens all the sessions of our councils. Those of you who know the wide divergence of religion in Canada cannot fail to see what is the significance of the council's work in this.

"Out of our discussions of course have come common action. The election of women on school boards, the introduction of manual training in schools, public libraries and associated charity work, have all been taken up in the past year."

Rev. Dr. Burns Preaches for Rev. Mr. Annis.

Feeling References to the State of the Stricken Shepherd.

Anniversary Services at Adelaide Street Baptist Church-Coming Events.

THE DYING PASTOR.

Both the morning and the evening services of the Queen's Avenue Methodists in the Opera House yesterday were attended by the unusually large multitude which has filled the building during the last few Sundays. Rev. Dr. Burns, the talented principal of the Hamilton Ladies' College, preached two instructive sermons. In the morning Miss Land and the Misses Edith and Minnie Hartson sang "Holy Redeemer," and in the evening Miss Land sang "O Rest in the Lord," and Miss Maud Fow-ler "Galilee," with a violin obligato by Miss Evelyn Allen. The three numbers were given in a very accomplished manner. Rev. Dr. Burns made special mention of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Annis, in his morning prayer, and the congregation was pleased to learn from Dr. Sanderson that Mr. Annis had spent a restful night. A day brings forth many changes, however, for at the evening service Dr. Sanderson announced that the pastor was not so well. "He has grown weaker since this morning," said the doctor, "and the end cannot be far off. Let your prayers go up that if it pleases God to take him hence his last hours may be blessed by the divine presence." The congregation was visibly affected.

ADELAIDE STREET BAPTISTS. Two large and sympathetic audiences gathered on Sunday morning and evening in the Adelaide Street Baptist Church to listen to anniversary sermons by their late esteemed pastor, Rev. H. C. Speller, who is now in charge of the church at Sarnia. Mr. Speller, in consideration of his health, was obliged to resign a desirable position in De Land, Florida, but his many friends throughout the Province will be pleased to know that the bracing air of Ontario (barring the recent blizzard) has already affected him favorably, as his appearance yesterday fully showed. At the morning service the seating capacity of the building was fully tested, and it was necessary to place chairs in the aisles. The preacher took as his text Matthew, ix., 9: "And as Jesus passed forth from thence he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me, And he arose and followed him." The reverend gentleman in describing the incident noted the quiet, but incisive, authoritative nature of Christ's comthe wonderful readiness with which Matthew obeyed the summons, and the importance of the transaction. The preacher emphasized the necessity of continuous persistent following of Christ regardless of mere feeling. Above and beyond all joy, all satisfaction, all experiences, one thing towers grandly and supremely above all. "Follow me," is the one command that dominates all others-the grand panacea for all the ills of afflicted humanity. Nowhere in Scripture is any emphasis put upon experience or emotion—but the acceptance of Christ as a living personality—as our Master and our Lord. Our joy is in God's unchangeableness, not in our own experiences. Christ's life is photographed into our life until he is "formed in us the hope of glory."

The largely re-enforced choir under the efficient leadership of Miss Nellie Rendell, and assisted by Miss Benson at the organ, gave in a very effective manner Jackson's "Te Deum," while the male quartet-Messrs. Maynard, Freeland, Moorhead and Drew-sang "Watching for the Bridegroom" with touching pathos.

In the evening the church was packed to its utmost capacity, when Mr. Speller discoursed with his old-time vigor and earnestness from Matthew. xiii., 5, 6, 20, 21—the parable of the sower. The special music at the closing service was the anthem, "Oh, Radiant Morn," and a duet by Miss Hartson and Mr. Charles Maynard, both numbers being given in a manner that would have done credit to a far more pretentious musical organization.

A SKULL IN EVIDENCE.

Sensational Scene at the Hyams Preliminary Hearing.

Medical Testimony Most Damaging to the Prisoners' Case.

TORONTO, March 3.—In the Hyams case yesterday Dr. John Caven, who in conjunction with Dr. A. J. Johnston conducted the post-mortem on the body of young Wells after it was exhumed at Oshawa, entered the box. The skull of young Wells was produced in court, and the doctor's evidence was of a most damaging character. He swore posi-tively that the fractures which he found upon the head of young Wells could not possibly have been inflicted by a weight falling upon his head. Certain of the fractures might have been occasioned by an instrument similar to a sandbag, and the other by the side of the weight being tilted over upon the head. He was positively of the opinion that at least two distinct blows caused the in-

The defence endeavored to show that the weight descending might have first struck Wells and knocked him to the floor, and then followed the body down and alighted on the floor and tilted over, but the doctor was equally positive that had the weight struck Wells on the head in the manner claimed it would have occasioned more injury than the diffused blow which the top of the head showed had been inflicted. At this stage the case was adjourned.

MR. McNEIL'S CASE. TORONTO, March 2.—The case of Mr. McNeil, member-elect of the Ontario Legislature for South Perth, came up this morning in Osgoode Hall for final judgment. The case of the petitioner was dismissed with costs. A CABINET ROW.

MONTREAL, March 3.—There is evidently a nice row in the Cabinet over the recent visits of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. John Haggart to this Province to consult with the party followers as to the advisability of an election. The Minerve (Con.) warns the English members of the Cabinet to keep away from Quebec and to leave the management of the Province to the French Ministers, Messrs. Caron, Oui-met and Angers. It says: "Those who think there will be a dissolution note as a sign in their favor the fact that the Prime Minster, without being ac-comparied by any of his French colleagues, visited Montreal and Quebec to consult the friends of the party on the question which overtops all others, if not in importance, at least in interest. They adduce another argument in their favor from the recent visit of the Minister of Railways to Montreal. We attach no more importance than is necessary to these Ministerial movements, which would have been badly inspired if they had had the aim which has been lent them. That is why we refuse to believe that their aim was to sound opin-ion. The Province of Quebec receives orders from its own chiefs only, and these give orders only when they have consulted their friends. Since the day when Lower Canada made an alliance with the Conservatives of Ontario, it has shown itself under Lafontaine and Cartier, jealous of its privileges which Sir John Macdonald always respected. We believe that his successors would not run counter to tradition of the party, certain as they are that their interference would be badly received. The Quebec ministers would regard it as an impertinence on their part to interfere in the organization of other Provinces, and they have the right to expect the same circumspection on the part of their colleagues. The word of order ought to come to us from our friends, and when we shall hear it we shall know how to reply." THE VOTERS' LISTS. OTTAWA, March 3.-The voters' lists are now practically all in the hands of the Queen's printer. Mr. Dawson today, speaking to a reporter, said that 100 of them were up in type, and he had strong hopes of finishing the entire lot by the end of the present month. An election may now be set down from any time after the 15th of April.

VICTORIA LIBERALS. LINDSAY, March 3.—The Reform Association of the south riding of the county of Victoria held a convention here yesterday. About 200 delegates were on hand, and great enthusiasm prevailed. The choice laid between Mr. George McHugh and Mr. Thomas Stewart, and as neither candidate could secure a two-thirds majority the convention was adjourned to meet in the same place on Saturday next at 2 p.m. CONSERVATIVE NOMINATIONS.

Frontenac Conservatives have nominated Chas N. Spooner, of Glenbourne, for the Commons. North Waterloo Conservatives have selected M. Seagram, the distiller. In Peel, Mr. A. F. Campbell, ex-M.P.P. for East Algoma, was induced to accept the Conservative nomination. In Prescott the Conservatives will support Mr. D. Seabourne. TUPPER CHALLENGED.

At the Pictou Liberal convention last week Mr. D. C. Fraser publicly chal-lenged Knight Tupper to run for Guysboro, promising him if he did so to give him a handsome whipping. Big Duncan is a man of his word. MAJORITY IN QUEBEC.

Mr. Tarte asserts that the Liberal majority from Quebec, after next Dominion election will be from 15 to 20. Gains are reported everywhere.

NOTES. North Oxford Conservatives have chosen D. W. Karn, of Woodstock. Hon. John F. Wood received the Conervative nomination for Brockville. Mr. Hugh John Macdonald states definitely in Winnipeg that he will not enter public life again.

A convention of North Essex Conservatives will be held at Windsor on March 9 to select a candidate. Dr. Landerkin, M. P. for South Grey, and Mr. H. P. O'Connor will address meetings at Hanover on March 5, and at Durham on March 11. Mr. John Charlton, M.P., will speak in North Bruce next week, at South-ampton on Tuesday, March 5, and at Wiarton on Wednesday, March 6.

The prospects in Cardwell are for a three-cornered fight between W. B. Willoughby, Conservative; Stubbs, Mc-Carthyite, and Dr. Robinson, Reformer. Mr. Laurier is expected to visit Montreal early this week, and there is a strong movement among local Liberals to induce him to be a candidate in the St. Lawrence division of Montreal. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will speak at Alexandria on Tuesday, March 19; at Prescott on Wednesday, March 20; at Brockville on Thursday, March 21, and at Bowmanville, Friday, March 22. Al the meetings will be held during the afternoon. Steamers Arrived.

MR. BATZNER HONORED

By His Former Fellow-Employes on the G. T. R.

Presented With an Address and a Well-Filled Purse-A Jolly Evening.

Mr. D. J. Batzner, of Cincinnati, Ohio, ormerly chief clerk in the Grand Trunk offices here, was in town on Saturday, and his former fellow-employes took advantage of the occasion to present Mr. Batzner with a substantial purse and an address. The presentation took place in the G. T. R. offices at the station at 8:30 on Saturday evening in the presence of about 20 persons, including R. J. Munro, W. White, W. T. Vanston, J. A. McHarg, Dr. Davis, A. D. Huff, Robt. Logan, Sid Dulmage, Wm. J. Element, J. S. Dewar, Alex Frazer, W.

Clark, Brandon McFadden and others. Mr. Munro read the following address, and Mr. White handed Mr. Batzner the purse at the appropriate phrase:

"D. J. Batzner: Dear Sir,-We your fellow-employes cannot allow you to sever your connection with the Grand Trunk Railway without conveying to you in some tangible way the esteem and regard in which you are held by us all. You have been connected with the Grand Trunk for many years, and during that time your amiable disposition, court cousness of manner and faithful discharge of your duties have won for you not only the recognition of your employers but the golden opinions of all those with whom you have come in contact. Although we regret very much your departure from amongst us, yet we rejoice that it is occasioned by your advancement in life, and we are confident that wherever you may be placed that you will gain, not only the approval of your employers but also the good will and esteem of your companions. We would now ask you to accept of this purse and contents, not for its intrinsic value, but because it conveys to you the expression of our regard and friendship. And now in conclusion we desire to convey to you and Mrs. Batzner our heartfelt congratulations and pray that both of you may live long and enjoy the blessings and favors of this life, and finally that you may reach that golden shore where partings shall be no

Signed on behalf of the employes of the Grand Trunk Railway by W. White, R. J. Munro, W. T. Vanston and J. A. McHarg, as representing the different departments. In replying Mr. Batzner said that he prized the piece of paper on which the address was written a hundred times more than the amount represented in the purse. It bore the good-will of his former fellowemployes, and it was that he cared for most. He went on to say that he felt keenly the parting from old friends. The short time he had been away made it even harder to look around and see the old familiar faces that he had been associated with for the last 18 years. He assured them that his connection with the Grand Trunk had been very pleasant. His whole period of labor in the service of the railway had always been one of the greatest of pleasure, and the employes had always shown him the greatest of courtesy. It had always been his endeavor, no matter what turned up, to serve an employe in trouble. and had even looked to his interests first, although possibly he should have looked first to those of the company. But he had at all times tried to give to the employe any assistance he could, conscientiously and consistently. Then Mr. Batzner fell into a reminiscent mood and detailed the history of his connection with the road. from 1876 when he commenced as operator at Newbury, Ont. Then he went to St. Thomas and then to Jarvis where, as Mr. Batzner put it, "I first had my eyes opened to what might have been a serious accident in which I was concerned." He fell asleep with a signal in his hand and a train passed by. It was luckily saved from destruction, and the agent and another operator smoothed the matter over for him. "It was the best lesson I ever had in my life." Mr. Batzner said, "and from that time on I saw the necessity of great care." Then he referred to his late position which he held under four different superintendents, and stated modestly that he thought they had all been perfectly satisfied. After a few remarks in a patriotic strain the party adjourned to the refreshment rooms down Here the party were soon seated around the table, Mr. Batzner officiating as chairman and Mr. Munro as vice. A large number of toasts were drank in the heartiest possible manner, the rule being that everyone present had either to make a speech, sing a song or tell a story. Addresses were given by Messrs. McHarg, Vanston, White, Frazer, Armstrong, Dr. Geo. C. Davis, J. C. Miller, A. Huff, J. S. Dewar, S. Dulmage, R. Logan, R. Munroe, Butler and others, expressive of the deep regret at losing such a genial and fair-minded companion as Mr. Batzner, and wishing Mr. Batzner every success in his new home. Mr. Munro and Host Butler were toasted. and Messrs. Element, Wilson and Batzner sang. The party broke up about 11 o'clock with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

PERFECT MEASUREMENTS. Preportions Which Women First Lament and Afterward Exaggerate.

Physical culturists give us measureents by which we can tell whether or not we are developed in correct proportions. These measurements have been the cause of great grief to many a proud woman. Women who have always consider ed themselves models of the most beautiful form known to art are cast down from their of self-aduldation and confronted with the fact that their waists are several inches too small, and that other measurements do not conform to the artistic criterion of perfection.

One measurement which is particularly trying to the average woman is the ratio of the size of shoulders to that of the hips. "If shoulder measurements are smaller than hip measurements, "says the physica culturist, "there is something wrong with the chest. The lungs are not sufficiently developed, and you must take breathing exercises.

Some women set to work in earnest and remedy this defect by judicious exercise. Others, whose bump of discumlation is developed out of all proportion to anything else in their make-up, fall back upon their unfailing art of concealment, and, as usual, everdo the matter.

Such a woman says to herself: "Big shoulders is it? Well, I'll fix that," and she ruffles them and puffs them until the physical culturist wishes be had never said anything about it, for he, as well as the rest of suffering humanity, find the result very trying.

The above picture substantiates my statements. This costume went to a tea the other evening, and if there had not been rules against turning round in an area of less than six feet square there would have been less toa and many ruined dresses. There are nine divisions across the front of the bodice, which in itself would be sufficient to give apparent breadth; but the stiff sleeves and the wide flounce of lace, give the breadth of dress at least, and the hips—well, they are eclipsed.—Washington Post.

They Lost Their Shees.

Charles D. Hart, of Philadelphia, who as an extensive traveler has spent considerable time in Japan, says that the interesting people of that country, though their advance in civilization has been rapid. retain some of their primitive simplicity. The Japanese always leave their shoes at the door of a house when they enter and walk inside in their stocking feet. When the first railroad was started from Yokohema to Tokio all the Japanese gentlemen were crazy to ride. They hurried to the station, kicked their shoes on the platform and entered the train. When they arrived at Tokio they eagrly looked around the platform for their shoes, and great consternation prevailed when these shoes were nowhere to be found.

A Pointer From Gladstone. Not long ago (says a writer to the Realm) was walking in the garden at Hawarden with Mr. Gladstone. "What would you do with that?" he said suddenly, pointing to a bit of newspaper lying on the lawn. "I think I'd pick it up and carry it away." I answered, astonished. "Ah! Well, this is what I do with it," said Mr. Gladstone. Thereupon he placed the point of his walking-stick on the middle of the scrap of paper, twisted the stick around and around, and with much dexterity left the bit of paper in the soil and out of sight. 'The Duke of Buccleuch taught me to do that," he said, as we resumed our walk; "it is good for the ground," delicate things. Now, in the name of common sense, what's the use? When you can get Pearline, in powder form for this very reason, why do you want to work over soap, which, if it's good for anything, gets very hard and difficult to cut. Besides, Pearline is vastly better than any powdered soap could be. It has all the good properties of any soap-and many more, too. There's something in it that does the work easily, but without harmmuch more easily than any other way yet known. 302

Since our last report there has been a decidedly better movement in cheese, between 10,000 and 15,000 boxes having changed hands on the Montreal market at prices ranging all the way from 8½ to 9½c, the bulk of the business being reported at 9½c to 9½c. Regarding stocks in Montreal city the Bulletin estimates them at from 45,000 to 55,000 boxes, but in the West they have been considerably over-estimated. At this time last year, Canada had got rid of nearly all her surplus cheese, though prices were fully 1½c higher than at present; but the production of Canada during the past season was the largest on record, and consequently our shippers have found greater

-Levi Plank, of Strathroy, today pleaded guilty to stealing a silver watch from Bert Moore, of Ekfrid, and asked Judge Wm. Elliot to let him go on suspended sentence. The judge could not accommodate Plank, and remanded him until Wednesday for sentence. Plank and Moore, it appears, worked on a farm in Ekfrid. They roomed together, and one morning when Moore awoke his watch was gone. He and Plank hunted around the house and barnyard for the timepiece, but could not find it. Plank had stolen it in the night. He afterwards tried to sell it to his brother, but the latter, before purchasing, took the watch to a jeweler in order to learn its value and the jeweler immediately recognized the timepiece as the one he had sold to Moore. This led to Plank's arrest. Ald. Powell Unseated.

STILL A MYSTERY.

Was Robert Hewson's Death Caused by Murder, Suicide or Accident?

His Brother Thinks It Was Murder-Hewson Was in Financial Straits -A Prop Knocked Out of the Murder Theory,

The question as to whether Robt. Hewson's death was due to murder, accident or suicide is still an open one and unless there are some new and startling developments it will probably remain so. Some new evidence has been obtained that will throw light on the matter of the two mysterious men who passed Corp. Pinel on the west ed on this the first visit to the city of side of Adelaide street in the vicinity of the C. P. R. on the night in question. It -Diphtheria has appeared on Peter will be remembered that at the inquest Pinel said that he met them coming south, that one was a small man, who stepped behind the other to let him pass. Their names are Densmore and Kipp, and the latter lives in the neighbornood of the Tuletts. Mr. Kipp is also a short man, or, as Pinel said, "a small man." Pinel's evidence was looked upon as important, especially as it has since been learned that two tramps stole a ride on a freight train from Woodstock to the yards in the East End. Murder theorists have virtually put "two and two" together and accepted the coincidence as an indisputed fact that Hewson was murdered by the tramps, and that they were met by Pinel when coming away from their nefarious work. In view of the new evidence secured by the crown this tramp story > loses some of its significance. WAS GOING TO BUILD. An ADVERTISER reporter learned that Hewson had called upon a carpenter on the day of his death to make arrangements for the building of an addition to Miss Tulett's house. The young lady owns a cottage of her own on Elias street between English and Elizabeth, on the south side. It was this place that Hewson had reference to when he called on Mr. Joseph Simmons, builder, Queen's avenue east. "I knew Bob well for at least five years," said Mr. Simmons to a reporter. 'On the Monday on which he was killed I was working in the Oddfellows' lodgeroom in the East End Hall, and was rather surdinner. He had been over to the house and had come from there. He wanted me to give him a price on a kitchen extension on Miss Tulett's cottage. He gave me to understand that he wished the matter shortly become public property."

"Did Hewson say anything about paying for the work ?"

"Well, from what he said I understood that there would be no difficulty about the payment providing the work was satisbrother-in-law.

"He did not show you any money?" "No," replied Mr. Simmons, "but I remember him distinctly looking at his watch when one of us mentioned the time. This was 10:45 in the morning."

Mason, and deceased had asked him to try and get him a job. A BROTHER'S THEORY. WINDSOR, Ont., March 4.-Alderman Hewson, when asked about his brother's death in London, said: "I am a railroad man myself, and know perfectly well that my unfortunate brother was not killed by accident, but was murdered. I have spent several days in examining every bit of evidence, and am certain that my brother Robert was never accidentally killed. At first I was of the impression that he was, but when I came to look into the matter I am certain that he was mur-

"What about the report that your brother had a wife from whom he was divorced or separated?" he was asked.
"That is a lie, pure and simple. My brother was born in Jarvis, Haldimand county, and lived there till he went to the Military School in London. He has been up here a few times, but only on excursions, and then only for a day or two at a time. I know for a positive fact that he has never been married, and has no wife here."

"Have you ascertained anything here which has a bearing on the case? "No, I have not; but I have been sending messages to St. Thomas, and have ascertained something there which will prove what I have all along claimed."

"Then you do not intend to let the matter drop?" "No, sir; the police are still working, and I will return to London on Tuesday. I have been warned not to tell what evidence will be brought out at the adjourned inquest on Tuesday night but it will be in support of my theory that my brother was murdered. Gorgeous Ceremony at the Gould Homestead.

Archbishop Corrigan Gfficiates - The Bride's Dress-Elaborate and Costly Array of Presents.

NEW YORK, March 4 .- At high neon today, his Grace Archbishop Corrigan officiating, Miss Anna Gould became the Countess de Castellane, and the fortunes of one of America's richest heiresses were linked with those of a French nobleman of ancient name and proud connections. The wedding, which took place at the house of Mr. George J. Gould, Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street, will be marked with stone in the chronicles of magnificent society events. The palatial dwelling of the head of the Gould family, with its spacious rooms furnished in Oriental splendor, was a fitting place for the ceremony, which could not be held in the cathedral owing to the fact that the bride is a Protestant. The canons of the Church of Rome prescribe baptism in that faith before solemnizing the rite of matrimony before the altars of the church. The bride is an Episcopalian, and while she consented to THE CATHOLIC RITUAL, she declined to join the church. A special dispensation was therefore obtained, and the nuptial mass was omitted from the ceremony. The invitations were acordingly limited to the relatives and about 50 intimate friends, making less than 100 in all, as the house would not accommodate more. Numbers of curious people gathered about the resi-

Palms and pot plants were distributed throughout the house in great profusion. Over the stairway, garlands of asparagus plumes, entwined with white roses and lilies of the valley, were hung like the ribbons of a May pole. The ends of these garlands were framed to form a canopy over the bride walk, which was from the foot of the stairs across the hall through a doorway into the music room, reaching the center of which it turned to the right into the East India room, and ended at a raised dais, placed at the front of the room, and over which a

CANOPY OF ROYAL PURPLE was suspended. White ribbons attached to potted plants inclosed the walk. The circular alcove formed by the tower prised to see Hewson walk in just before at the Fifth avenue corner of the East India room was a dream of fairyland. It was paneled with lilies of the valley, over which hung garlands of pink and white roses. Suspended from the ceiling of the alcove was a mammoth Horn understand that he wished the matter of Plenty showering lilies upon those kept quiet, as he evidently did not care to beneath. An orchestra of stringed inhave the fact that he was to be married struments concealed behind a bank of palms, an organ in the hallway, and a quartet furnished the musical programme. The guests were all asembled at 11:45 a.m. Mrs. Geo. J. Gould, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Kingdon, received them. Promptly at 12 o'clock all payment providing the work was satis-factory. However, we did not discuss that the Cathedral, touched the keys, and part of the deal very closely then. Grouped about in the front of the room were the relations of the bride and the Marquis and Marquise De Castellane, parents of the groom. Count De Castellane entered from the hallway a moment later with his best man, Count Jean De Castellane. They took positions at the side of the dias. THE BRIDAL PROCESSION scended the stairs and passed along the floral-canopied walk through the music room and into the East India room in the following order: First came the ushers, Prince Deldrago, Roul Du-val, Brackholst Cutting and Howard Gould. Then came the bridesmaids, all in white. They were Miss Helen Gould, Miss Beatrice Richardson, Miss Catherine Cameron and Miss Adelaide Montgomery. Following them were George J. Gould and the bride. The two nephews of the bride, Masters Kingdon and Jay Gould, carried the bride's train, which was of great length. The ushers parted when they reached the dais and stepped back. The bridesmalds took positions in front of them, and Mr. Gould and the bride walked between the two lines until the groom stepped forward and took his place at the side of the bride. Mr Gould remained close at hand and gave his sister away. The archbishop read the brief Catholic ritual, the bride and groom made the responses promptly in firm tones, the quartet chanted an anthem, and his Grace pronounced the couple man and wife and gave them his benediction.

Then the count and his bride stepped across the room to the alcove in the corner where they stood beneath the showers of lilles of the valley and the Horn of Plenty and received the congratula-tions of their relatives and friends. The orchestra and the singers rendered several selections while the breakfast was in progress. Then the guests were taken up to the library and the presents were THE BRIDE'S DRESS.

The bride, who is small and dark, with jet black hair, wore a gown of heavy ivory white satin, high in the neck and supplied in effect with one side of shirred satin and the other in real old lace of Duchess pattern falling over the right shoulder and meeting the folded belt on the left side. The sleeves were very full at the shoulder and fastened at the wrist with four small satin graceful folds. It measured three yards and on the skirt.

COSTLY PRESENTS.

Among the rarest of the bride's presents was a brooch fastened in the shape of a heart. In the center was the rare and world-famed Esterhazy diamond. Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould's present was a collar of superb pearls. Frank Gould presented a chain of 200 diamonds. Howard Gould gave a large knot or cluster of diamonds. The Marquis and Marquise de Castellane presented to the bride a superb and unique necklace, consisting of five ropes of pearls, each string of which has historical interest. Another pres-ent by the Marquise de Castellane was a ring of two stones, a superb ruby and sapphire. Count Jean de Castellane's present was a diamond hat pin of exeeding beauty of design. Prince Del Grago presented a diamond horseshoe pin. Gen. and Mrs. Eckert presented a superb diamond star, but the finest was a magnificent tiara of diamonds presented by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould. In addition to these were many lesser ones of great value. On the bookshelves were fans of every description, clocks in leather cases, Dresden servers and ornaments, tiny watches studded with jewels, silver, gold and glass jars with gold tops, decorated with curious workmanship and ornamented with monograms, surrounded with coronets, silver pitchers, salvers, loving cups, silver in every shape and of every form, bowls, decanters, etc.

type of his sex-a man whom men appreiate, even as the woman whom women are fond of it is certainly the noblest kind of woman. And now that his fate was settled his wife chosen, his home made, he took his place among men as a man and a citizen, ready to help on in the world's work, without doubts or drawbacks, he found his position both pleasant and honorable. Sure of it and of himself, and finding himself among people who evidently neither knew nor cared how much he had a year, and whether he kept two servants or twenty, the young man's spirits rose, and he enjoyed himself heartily—so heartily that it was not until Lady Symington said something about a New Year's gift to his wife, that he remembered what night it was, and how Silence was sitting alone at home. All the party were to wait up together, Scotch fashion, to see 'the old year out and the new year in,' but he hastily made his adieus and walked off. rather vexed with himself and yet not much, since he had good news to bring home. And he knew his wife was not one of these foolish women who exact endless outside observances; she was content to lie safe in his heart, knowing that she was as completely a part of himself as that true heart which went on silently beating, keeping fresh all the springs of life, whether he ever noticed it or not.

Walking rapidly through the starlighted night, strangely mild and still, as often hap-pens on New Year's eve, just as though nature took a pleasure in this motionless watch over the old year that 'lies a-dying,' Roderick felt a softness almost like spring in the air. It seemed to stir all his young blood-he, with life all before him to will and to do. And some of the talk that night had given him a nenewed impulse both as to "I must tell her at once. I know she will approve of it," said he to himself.

'It' was an idea started by the kindly 'man of letters'—that did Mr. Jardine's imaginative writing fail, there was a subject very popular just now, and likely to attract attention, which, with a little pains, he might examine, read up for, and write about so as to make an excellent quarterly article, sure of at least a moderate audience. The first step on the ladder, which if taken cautiously and firmly, might lead him either by literature or politics, or both to

She would keep my heart up so that I could not fall. Bless her! I am sure of that." So thinking, he came to his own door, stepping lightly across the grassy lawn, half in boyish mischief to look in at the parlor window-she liked to keep her light visible-and see what his wife was doing now the household had all gone to bed.

Sitting quietly and alone, beside her a pretty box of sandalwood, which looken like a present, for it had a Christmas card on the top, she was emptying it, layer after layer, and spreading its contents on her lap. Only little clothes - the 'little clothes,' that women and mothers think the prettiest in all the world. One after the other she unfolded them, putting her fingers through the tiny empty sleaves, looking at them admiringly, smilingly, and yet again with a strange sadness. All at once Roderick called to mind what Lady Symington had said to him, and her tone of saying it; he had been full of his own affairs just then, and had not noticed much else, but now as he slipped quietly in-doors, and kneeling down beside his wife, helped her to examine her New Year's gift-man as he was-it touched him deeply.

"And the little fellow only lived seven years, yet his mother has remembered him all this while! Poor Lady Symington!" He said it with a curious awe, as with his slightly awkward fingers he helped his wife to refold the wonderful little garments and replace them, as they had lain, untouched for nearly forty years. Then they put the box away and sat down by the fire, hand in hand, and he told her all his new hopes, new ambitions—the life that somehow seemed opening before him, if only he had strength to carry it out.

"I shall do nothing rashly. 'Authorship,' they say, 'is a capital staff, but a very bad crutch.' I shall stick to the mill at present. But you were right to send me away to-night. It does me good to have something beyond the mill, to mix with men and feel myself one of them, with life all before me, and power to do my work in it, with what poor old Tommy Moore calls, conceitedly,

"The mind that burns within me, And pure smiles from thee at home."

That quiet home smile, serene and pure it beamed upon him now, and his whole heart was satisfied.

'That is the first new year we ever spent together, my wife. Shall we go outside and greet it in the open air, as is our Scotch fashion? My father always did so, and my mother, too—my poor mother!" he sighed. "I wonder whether Bella's being with us will do good or harm? whether they will be thinking of me just now? We always had a grand family gathering at Hogmanay-my two elder sisters, their husbands and children. They never cared for me much; I was a mere boy when they were married. Still, to have quite forsaken me! Well, well, I wish them all a happy new year-my 'ain folk,' as we say in Scotland." ence had no 'ain folk'-only two faraway graves-but she had her husband. He and she walked up and down in front of the hall-door talking of this and that, and especially of his work in the future, which seemed already to have taken a strong hold on his imagination, till in the dead stillness the distant stable clock at Symington was heard beginning to strike twelve. Until then there had not been a breath stirring, the night was so wonderfully calm the house still showed faintly the belt of the house still showed faintly the belt of trees round the lawn, and even the dim outline of the distant hills. Above, the sky was parseme—no English word expresses it—with myriads of stars. When the last stroke of the clock ceased, there seemed to descend from it, right down from these, a sough of wind equally mysterious. It rustled through the treetops, wandered round the house, and then passed away into stillness, almost like a living thing. stillness, almost like a living thing.

"Listen, listen, Roderick!" "It is the sough of the air-the old year's last breath. I have often noticed it, and heard other people notice it too. And now —our new year is begun. May it be a very happy one to you-to us-my darling!"

He kissed her, and then seeing how mute and passive she was, made a little innocent oke about not being able to add the usual Scotch wish of 'a happy New Year, and a man afore the end on't,' because she had al-ready got her 'man,' and must make the best of him, bad as he was, to the end of the

"Which is such a long way off, my love.
Quite alarming Only to think that thirty, forty, even fifty years hence, you and I may be standing-two old people, old and grayheaded—under these very stars. I remember looking up at them this time last year, and thinking of you wondering if we should ever be married."

"You were in love with methen; you love me now. And you will love me even when I am 'old and gray headed' as you say. I Though he had not liked going, when he really was there Roderick found he liked it very much. He had always been that best some at all. Nothing on earth could ever part us: nothing-"What is wrong, dear? Are you cold? We will go in. "No; wait—just one minute."

He wrapped her closely in his plaid, and she nestled in his arms, but still kept gazing up, far up into that mystic floor of heaven, which, though we see it every night of our livos, never loses its wonder, glory, and "I should like to live to be an old woman; I should like us both to be old, and yet love one another as dearly as when we were young. It makes one feel immortal, this ove. I should like, as you say, fifty years hence to stand with you under these stars, feeling that nothing could kill our love—or us. But if things were to be different; if this time next year I am—not here, but away—beyond the stars!"

For the Combines, but Rebuffs for the Great Mass of the Population.

Revelations Made that Should Set the Farmers and Other Workers Thinking.

Light is thrown upon the history of Mr. Foster's tariff measure last year by the proceedings of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The secretary declares that Mr. Foster in making his tariff speech spoke from a "brief" pre-pared by the association; that many of the changes made were the result of the "brief"; that in many cases the language used in the speech and in the "brief" was "substantially identical," and that in many instances where the manufacturers suggested that "no changes be made in the duties upon articles thesein anymented are above. ticles therein enumerated no changes were made.'

If there is any doubt in the mind of any man that it is wrong for a servant of the public, dealing with a great public question, to act as the counsel of a class having an enormous private and pecuniary interest in that question, that doubt may be removed by reading the Minister's own promises and declarations of policy.

There was a vigorous and widespread agitation for tariff reform in 1892 and 1893. Early in 1893 the late Premier announced that his Government would deal with the question, and it was supposed that a measure would be intro-duced in the sesion of that year. But the Government said they wanted time for consideration and for consultation with all sorts and conditions of men. Mr. Foster's promise was published repeatedly and in the most conspicuous way in the Empire. It was in these words:

"Information is being gathered by the Government, and by myself in particular, and it will be gathered during the next year by the Minister of Trade and Commerce and by our two levelheaded business men who control the customs and inland revenue. After this is done we propose during the coming year not only to listen to the complaints of people who come to Ottawa to see us, but to supplement that by a personal inspection and investigation of the various industries of the country.

"We propose to go further than that.
"It shall not be said that only one class has the ear of the Government, but that every class in the country, the agricultural class, the artisan class, the manufacturing class, the producers of any class, shall have ample and abundant opportunity to state their case before the Government or some member of the Government, and a conclusion come to by the Government in the matter." Accordingly the Government took plenty of time. The entire revenue-raising force of the Ministry—the Min-ister of Trade and Commerce, the Minister of Finance, the Controller of Customs, the Controller of Inland Revenue —were at work inspecting, investigating and hearing complaints for a year. At the end of the year, when the work of inquiry was supposed to have been completed and the Ministers had sat down to prepare the measure, the manufacturers sat down to prepare theirs. It took them considerably less than a year. They knew what they wanted, and there was no reason to waste time in discussion. They began work on Feb. 12 and they had their brief all ready and transmitted to Ottawa on Feb. 26, just twelve days, instead of the Ministers' twelve months.

It must have been a very convincing brief. The Minister of Finance had it in hand only one month before his budget speech, yet it appears to have had more effect upon him than the year's work of himself and his colleagues. Let the Manufacturers' Association bear

"It is but an act of justice to the committee to direct attention to the large number of changes that have been made in the tariff along the lines suggested in the recommendations, and that in many instances the language used in both is substantially identical. This is particularly noticeable as regards the iron schedule, the duties upon textiles, the duties upon drugs, chemicals, alcoholic preparations, etc., as well as upon an extended list of miscellaneous articles, and large and most important additions to the list of non-dutiable arti-

"In many instances where the recom mendations suggested that no changes be made in the duties upon articles therein enumerated no changes were

"It required the best generalship on the part of Mr. Foster and his protectionist colleagues and supporters to withstand the onsets of the free trade enemy. Quite a number of amendments were made to the tariff bill, and before its final passage it became modified to an extent that gives much satisfaction to the country—certainly to the friends of the Government."

All this after Mr. Foster's solemn promise, "It shall not be said that only one class has the ear of the Government," and "every class in the country, the agricultural class, the artisan class, the manufacturing class, the producers of any class, shall have ample and abundant oportunity to state their case." What opportunity had the farmers, the artisans, the taxpayers to pro-nounce their views upon the proposals of the protected manufacturers, who declared that one item in the tariff might be modified and that another must stand unchanged?

The meetings with the farmers were Everybody knows what they public. Everybody knows what they wanted, and how cleverly the Controllers fenced with them and told them the folly of their demands for reform. Then the protected manufacturers, knowing all this, with their opponents' case before them, prepared their own in secret, transmitted it to Ottawa in secret, and saw it secretly Ottawa in secret, and saw it secretly incorporated into the speech of the Min-ister. "Ear of the Government," forscoth! Both ears, faculties and intellect, body and bones, seem to have been handed over to the privileged class.— Toronto Globe.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

A Reaper That Never Tires. Consumption carries off one-fifth of the human race, hence called the White Plague. Certain individuals, families and races show marked tendency to contract consumption when exposed to its exciting causes. The disease is no longer held to be hereditary, but liability thereto may be SCISSORS, inherited. Consumption is eminently a contagious disease. The home of the consumptive-the railway car, the public hall, the church and the school, one and all, are often infested with the consumptive germ floating in the air. Consumption, like most other grave diseases, is often curable. Millions have recovered. The first stage is the decisive time. Suitable medicine is important. Good sanitary conditions, good digestion and abundant nourishment none the less so. In the way of medicine, Pine-Malt and Hypophosphites, the new lung remedy, cannot be excelled. It relieves the most urgent symptoms in all cases. Mrs. Gitty, of Enniskillen, Ont., writes her experience under date of December, 1894, as follows: "For a year or two I had been in failing health, but about a year ago I became seriously ill. I had fever, and was much troubled with a hacking cough. My voice gradually got weak, and after a time I could not speak except in a low whisper. The doctors said I had consumption of the windpipe and one lung. To and my voice began to come back. In a few weeks I could talk and sing. -The trustees of school section No. 8 Lobo, have given the following decision in the case of the boy Albert Sharpe, whose punishment has been so unjustly misrepresented through the country: "That the course pursued by the teacher, Mr. G. P. Smith, was justifiable under the circumstances, and that the boy be allowed to return to school on making an-apology."

-The Chicago Herald has a page devoted to debating the success of Canadians who have made their mark in that city. Among others it mentions several Londoners-Messrs. Harry T. Strong, W. A. Johnstone, W. J. Jefferson and Dr. Harry S. Brown. Of the last named, it says: "Dr. Harry S. Brown, of London, Ont., is another McGill man who has won both fame and fortune here. His palatial home on Drexel boulevard alone cost $100,000. Dr. Brown now spends much of his time in Europe, where his daughters are finishing their education." -Mr. Lely is an able entertainer, thoroughly conversant with Scottish history and familiar with the bards and musicians whose stirring or pathetic lays have done so much to keep alive the patriotism of Scotia's sons and daughters wherever found. Mrs. Lely accompanied her husband on the piano and played two pleasing selections, consisting of a medley of Scotch airs. Mr. Lely's songs took a wide range, embracing the pathetic, the patriotic and the humorous, in all of which he was most excellent, his versatility being one of the most noticeable features of his performance.-[Springfield (Mass.) Union. Mr. and Mrs. Lely will appear in the Opera House on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society.

Snazelle's Reappearance.

A splendid audience greeted the famous entertainer, "Snazelle" at the Grand Opera House Saturday afternoon, the auditorium and balcony being filled, largely with ladies and children. The entertainment was described on Snazelle's former appearance here and gave the best satisfaction. He appears again Monday night in a new and choice programme, when Messrs. Carrol and Snazelle will sing the duet, "The Moon Hath Raised Her Lambs Above" with scenic effect.

The Late John Dearness. The death of Mr. John Dearness, which we chronicled last week, removed an old resident of the northern portion of this county. Of all the farmers whose sturdy axes were widening the clearing along the "Jermyn Line" in Biddulph where he settled over 30 years ago only four survive him-Messrs. Wm. Grant, Albert Beatson, James Grant and Albert Leavitt. The subject of this notice was a native of the Orkneys, whence he emigrated to Canada in 1849 at the age of 25 and entered the employment of Messrs. McQuesten & Co., in Hamilton. In 1856 the Crimean war boom tempted him to try farming; he located on a farm beautifully situated near where Fish Creek, then a considerable stream, enters the River Thames. In the financial crisis that followed the war he lost everything, and five years later removed to the Jermyn Line, near where the village of e remained until his decease. He was consistent Presbyterian, indeed he was one of the founders of the Fish Creek Church, in which while he lived there he served as elder, Sunday school superintendent and usually as precentor. He was twice married, and leaves to mourn his loss a widow, one son who bears his name and who is inspector of public schools in East Middlesex, and three daughters. Mrs. E. S. Holmes, of Cambridgeboro, Pa., Mrs. W. Cunningham, of Bolton, Ont., and Mrs. R. Raycraft, of Granton.

Women in Council. A special meeting of the local branch of the National Council of Women was held in the "Y" rooms, Dundas street, on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of coming to a final decision regarding a recent resolution on the question of prayer. A most thorough discussion was given the subject, and the following resolution was passed: "That the local council of London memorialize the National Council to open its meetings with silent praver, followed by an audible recital of the Lord's Prayer. The resolution was carried by a vote of 40 to 1. The question, "How many shall constitute a quorum in the council meetings?" was also raise, and it was decided that one-third of the total membership could legally transact the business of the branch. Mrs. (Rev.) E. N. English was in the chair. Miss Macdonald was secretary. and the representatives present were: Orphans' Home, Mrs. Morphy, Mrs. T. R. Parker, Mrs. C. Hutchinsou; Convalescent Home, Mrs. Boomer, Mrs. W. T. Edge, Mrs. W. F. Bullen, Miss Hamilton, Mrs. W. J. Reid; Y. W. C. T. and Miss Geeson. A Check-Raising Swindle.

DENVER, Col., March 4. - One of the most ingenious check-raising swindles ever successfully tried in America has just been unearthed in this city, the victims being the Union Pacific Railway Company, nearly every bank in Denver and several drygoods and other houses. Early last month the Union Pacific pay car left Omaha on its regular monthly trip to Salt Lake tized in a report to be presented to the City with wages for the company's employes. Closely following the car was a gang of check-raisers, and its members left the marks of their skill with acid, ink and pen in nearly every town where Union Pacific employes reside. The check raisers netted thousands of dollars by these swindles. It is supposed the gang worked west to Salt Lake and then escaped to the
