SHAVES AND HAIR CUTS AT A PREMIUM; LONDON BARBERS ON STRIKE TODAY

Bosses Refuse the Wage Increase Asked, and the Knights of the Razor Resolve to Give Battle Forthwith.

Employers and Men Appear Confident—Latter Issue State- ment to the Public.

The local tonsorial artists who hold union cards are on strike today. They worked till the usual hour Saturday night, trimming customers for Sunday, and then said au revoir to their employers.

The wages are now saying that it is a bad scrape, and that somebody is going to be singled. Both sides seem determined, though it is by no means certain whether they are filled with

The stern delight that warriors feel in foemen worthy of their STEEL.

Barbers Meet.

The barbers met yesterday and discussed the matter at some length. There was not a unanimous vote for a strike, but those in favor won out, and the terms of the bosses were refused. So none of them turned up for duty this morning. About 35 men are out and 20 shops are affected.

They then prepared a letter for publication in the papers, in which their side of the matter is presented. It is given in full below. It is self-explanatory. The men are confident of winning, and will fight it out.

The bosses are confident. They contend they cannot pay the increase, and refuse to do so.

Bosses Working.
"We are working, and they are not," said one of them. "We gave them our answer last Wednesday, and we have not changed our minds a particle lyng shops all manned and open. Mr. Cambridge has his full complement working as his shop had no card. The bosses expect that this will be sufficient today, and that tomorrow the new men will be here.

The journeymen barbers held a special meeting this afternoon with their organizer, H. J. Halford, present. Every journeyman in the city was in attendance and one and all are of the opinion still that our demands are not too exorbitant and that we do not intend to recede from the position already taken. We think our demands are right and just and we do not think the bosses are justified in saying that they cannot pay the wages demanded. In view of the fact that living has almost doubled within the last year or so, and also in view of the fact that the prices have been raised, we cannot see where the bosses have "any kick coming" in paying the scale demanded. Our scale of wages up to the present. Continued on page nine.

Russell Inquest Completed To-Night

It is expected that the inquest into the death of the late Miss Agnes Russell, the young woman who died under what were alleged to be suspicious circumstances at the Brown House, in this city, some time ago, will be completed tonight, when the evidence of five or more important witnesses will be heard, and the result of the analysis of the stomach of the deceased, which was sent to Toronto for examination, will be made known. The evidence of the two doctors, Stevenson and Drake, who conducted the post-mortem, and of a specialist from Toronto, will be heard, and possibly the evidence of Mr. William Brown, proprietor of the Brown House, where Miss Russell was employed.

Bill Haywood Not Guilty, Say the Boise Jurors

Acquitted of Charge of Con- spiring to Kill Steu- nenberg.

Boise, Idaho, July 28.—Into the bright sunlight of a beautiful Sabbath morning, Wm. D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, walked a free man today, acquitted of the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg.

Probability of acquittal was freely predicted after Judge Fremont Wood read his charge, which was regarded as strongly favoring the defense. It was also freely predicted that in the event of Haywood's acquittal, the state would abandon the prosecution of his associates, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Federation, and Geo. A. Pettibone, of Denver.

Statements from counsel and from Governor Gooding, issued today, dispel this report.

Governor Gooding said: "The verdict is a great surprise to me, and I believe to all citizens of Idaho, who have read or heard the evidence in the case. The state will continue a vigorous prosecution of Moyer and Pettibone, and Adams, and of Simpkins, when apprehended. There will be neither hesitation nor retreat."

Moyer May Be Freed.

Application will be made to Judge Wood tomorrow to admit Moyer and Pettibone to bail, and it was said tonight that as to Moyer, whom it is admitted the state's case is weakest, a favorable consideration would not be unexpected. Not the least interesting of the comments made upon the verdict today was that of Harry Orchard, the confessed murderer of Steunenberg and the witness on whom the state chiefly relied to prove its charge of a conspiracy among certain members of the Western Federation of Miners.

Statement by Orchard.

When told at the state penitentiary that Haywood had been acquitted, Orchard said:
"Well, I have done my duty. I have told the jury what I could do no more. I (Continued on Page Nine)

BEACH HOTEL BURNS; GUESTS FLEE FOR LIFE

Mammoth Summer Hotel at Long Beach, N. Y., Wiped Out.

Long Beach, N. Y., July 29.—Eight hundred guests of the Long Beach Hotel, one of the largest seashore hotels on the Atlantic, had to flee for their lives early today when the hotel was burned to the sand. No one was killed. The guests lost all their clothing and personal effects. The fire was discovered on the first floor shortly after 9 o'clock. Hall-boys and bell-boys hurried through the smoky corridors and roused the sleeping guests. The flames gathered quick headway in the great wooden structure, and the guests had barely time to seize some scanty clothing and escape. The guests fled to the beaches and were taken care of by the cottagers. The hotel burned like tinder, and within a short time was a smoldering mass of ruins. Loss $200,000.

RAN THEIR TRAIN THROUGH FLAMES

Brave C. P. R. Employees Avert Terrible Disaster to Chinese Special.

Fort William, Ont., July 28.—That another terrible wreck did not occur on the C. P. R. yesterday morning is due to the bravery of two of the company's employees, who risked their lives to save a trainload of Chinamen, who were going through to New York on a special train.

Engineer McAdam, who was on the engine drawing the Chinese special, was approaching the Rideout River at great speed, when, glancing ahead, he noticed that the big bridge was a mass of flames. He threw on the emergency brake and called to the fireman to jump, which both men succeeded in doing without any injury.

When the engineer gathered himself together he noticed that the train had run right into the middle of the burning bridge and that already some of the coaches were on fire. He immediately climbed aboard and ran forward to the engine through the cars. The engine was in the center of the flames, but the engineer pulled open the throttle and ran part of the train across the bridge. When safely across it was discovered that six coaches were still on the bridge, the coupling having broken loose when the brakes went on. Another train was also due in a few minutes, and there was grave danger of it running into the rear of the coaches.

Brakeman Wilson rose to the occasion and swam across the river, climbed up on the bank, hurried down the track and flagged the approaching train. The engine was soon uncoupled and three of the cars were pulled away in safety. Three others were totally consumed by the flames, but the occupants all escaped. Ten sections of the bridge were also destroyed, and all traffic was tied up for over seventeen hours.

GEORGE WATSON DIES, AGED 96

One of London's Oldest Residents Passed Away This Morning in South London.

The death occurred at his late residence, 90 Wellington road, this morning, of Mr. George Watson, a well-known architect of years ago, and one of the oldest inhabitants of London.

THE LATE GEORGE WATSON.

years, had been until a short time ago in his usual good health, which was something remarkable for a man of his age. He was born in England, but came to this country at an early age.

Three sons and one daughter survive their father. They are: James and Richard, of this city; John, of Chatham, and Mrs. Gammage, of Port Huron.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery.

Twenty Perish in Tenement Fire

New York, July 29.—After an all-night search of the ruins of the six-story tenement at 222 Christie street, which was burned shortly after midnight, the police announced that there were twenty victims of the fire. The bodies of the dead were found in all sorts of unexpected places.

Almost all of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, many to such an extent that it was impossible to distinguish the sex. A majority of the victims were women and children.

Only five of the victims had been identified up to an early hour today.

The burned building was one of those old-fashioned tenements common to the east side, with a store on the ground floor, with the apartments upstairs crowded with tenants, mainly Italians. The fire started in the store and swept through the building with such rapidity that a fifth of the one hundred tenants in the place met a horrible death. Another score, though they escaped with their lives, were more or less burned, or otherwise injured.

Foreman Had Ride in Ambulance

Stranger even than the pipe story of the lady who never swam in her life until she undertook to save, and which was paraded in the daily papers the other day, is the story of the Indian rubber qualities of one William Proctor, who resides in East London, and is foreman for the London Street Railway Company with its street-paving gang.

Saturday evening Mr. Proctor, for some unaccountable reason, attempted to get off a rapidly-moving street car at the corner of Dundas and Waterloo streets.

And worst of all, he attempted to get off in a manner affected by ladies—that is, the opposite to which the trolley was moving.

The result was he landed in a heap, bounced in the air several times, like a rubber ball, and then rolled into the gutter on the north side of the street.

Everybody thought he was killed. The car was stopped, the exact time of the accident was noted, and the conductor began looking around for witnesses.

In the meantime, several men carried the man into Dr. Piper's office. The physician looked him over carefully, but he could not find a blemish on the patient. He appeared sound in wind and limb. But he didn't move, though he was not dead.

The ambulance arrived by this time, and Proctor was sent to his home.

Those who thought he must be very badly injured at least were astonished an hour later when they met him at Springbank, enjoying the vaudeville there, as though nothing had happened.

And today he is at work on Richmond street south, bossing the gang which is paving the street.

Rifle Bullet Crashes Into House Past Two Children

Close Call for Youngsters in the Home of Mr. Joseph Ploe, Muir Street.

A young fellow with a gun nearly brought about an accident at 6:30 Saturday evening. The two little children of Mr. Joseph Ploe, of Muir street, were seated at their supper, when a bullet entered the window, passing just behind their heads, and embedding itself in the wall.

It has been discovered that the bullet was fired by a young man whose name is known to the county police, but is withheld for the time being.

This careless shooting has been going on for weeks in this vicinity, the inhabitants being in constant fear of the stray bullets.

Had the bullet's course been changed a few inches, two lives would have been snuffed out, and the young man would have been forced to answer to a very serious charge.

The police say that possibly he does not realize how serious his action is, but if he knows anything of arms he must know that the practice of shooting in the city or county is most dangerous.

A Rifle Bullet.

The bullet was fired from a .303 British army rifle, and its carrying power may be known from the fact that, after covering the distance from where it was fired to Mr. Ploe's house, it penetrated the bedstead, partition, and intervening light brick wall, and lodged itself deep in the brick of the outside wall.

As has been said before, this is not the first case of such shooting, but whatever the object of the rifle practice may be, the authorities are bound that it will stop.

PASSENGER TRAIN ON WRONG TRACK

Pere Marquette Express Runs On to Siding at Horton Street, Saturday Night.

Saturday evening the Pere Marquette passenger train, which leaves London at 7:05, narrowly averted an accident.

It seems that after the train came in from the Port a few minutes before 7 o'clock, the switch was left open, and when the 7:05 train pulled out it ran into a siding south of Horton street.

Fortunately the siding was clear of cars and no damage resulted.

The engineer pulled the train up within a short distance when he found he was on the wrong track.

SLIPPED BENEATH WHEELS

M. C. R. Brakeman Crushed to Death in the Windsor Yards.

Windsor, Ont., July 29.—Oliver Caldwell, a switchman, aged 26, and married, whose home was in Windsor, was killed in the Michigan Central yards here last night. He was riding on the tailboard of a yard engine, and started to get off when he slipped, and in spite of the heroic efforts of James Rourke, a fellow switchman, to save him, fell on the track, was run over by the first car, and instantly killed.

FATALITY AT BARRIE.

Barrie, July 29.—A fatal accident occurred in the Allandale G. T. R. yards shortly before 12 o'clock last night, when the night foreman of the yards, J. B. McDonald, was knocked down by some shunted cars, two of which passed over his body, killing him instantly. A widow and one daughter survive him.

"The laws passed during the last session of the Dominion Parliament, as well as those enacted by the various provincial legislatures, will afford much room for discussion, and will require the exercise of the best thought in the world of labor. See to it, therefore, that your delegates are on hand."

Labor's Immigration Policy.

"The advent of thousands of immigrants, and the promise of thousands more, have brought the immigration question to the forefront, and today it ranks as one of the most difficult problems confronting organized labor, affecting, as it does, our wages, our hours of labor, in fact every condition that surrounds us in the sale of our labor. As every province has its own problems in this regard, every province should be well represented at the convention."

Tangier, July 29.—The Sheerfian troops on Saturday attacked villages belonging to the Kmasse tribe, in whose territory the bandit Raisuli holds Kaid Sir Harry MacLean prisoner. The troops burned and looted the villages, killing many of the inhabitants and taking a large number of prisoners. The government forces were completely victorious, but as the battle was fought within six hours' journey where Kaid MacLean is believed to be located, his position is regarded as most precarious now ever.

The Sheerfian troops were under the command of Kaid Bouchta, who has a personal account to settle with Raisuli, having been wounded by the bandit in a former encounter.

Having reached the walled town of Sheeshan on Saturday, the head of the Kmasse village met Bouchta and offered to discuss with him terms for the release of Kaid MacLean. The go-between official declined to discuss the rebels who had not been killed. Kaid Bouchta, who has been completely victorious, will now advance upon other villages, saving the inhabitants in an endeavor to destroy Raisuli's influence.

The Sultan is mobilizing the troops to assist in the search and capture of Raisuli.

LADIES' POLITICAL CLUBS

One To Be Opened in London by Prominent Society Leaders.

The enterprising British woman politician of today is no longer meekly content with the privilege of being entertained to tea on the terrace at the National Liberal Club during a certain stipulated period of the year. The remainder of the spacious club house being regarded as forbidden territory except on annual ladies' nights, she yearns for a political club of her very own. The Primrose women, firm adherents of the Tory party, have the Ladies' Imperial, in Dover street affectionately known to its intimates as the "Ladies' Chatterbox," and now the ladies attached to the members of the National Liberal are embarking upon an ambitious scheme for the establishment of a club for the women of the Liberal party, to be called the "Ladies' National."

Associated with the scheme are many prominent women politicians, Lady Pearson, the wife of the great contractor, Sir Westman Pearson; Lady Kinlock and Lady Cornwall, among them. The preliminary committee is now, it is understood, negotiating for an important west end club house which is in the market. When the "Ladies' National" opens its doors it will be in every respect a fully equipped political club, for, in addition to the usual reading, writing, reception and dining rooms, the women's club will have a hall for meetings, receptions and conferences.

FELL OFF TRAIN.

Hamilton, July 27.—Wm. Morton, 46 Grand Trunk brakeman who lives at Sarnia Tunnel, fell off manifest train, No. 94, at the Junction, a short distance west of this place this morning. The train was going at a rate of 35 or 40 miles an hour, and it is thought that Morton lost his balance. He was brought back on an engine, and taken to the city hospital. His right wrist and ankle were dislocated, and he was badly bruised along the right side. His right shoulder was also hurt, and he received a cut on the forehead, but his injuries are not thought to be serious.

Union Cigarmakers Spent Enjoyable Day at the Port

Splendid Programme of Sports Was Carried Out—26th Band Furnished Music.

The union cigarmakers of this city picnicked at Port Stanley on Saturday, when they besieged the port about 1,000 strong, headed by the Twenty-sixth Regiment band. A lengthy programme of sports added greatly to the enjoyable nature of the outing.

A tug-of-war between the married and the single men was an interesting number, but the married men proved to have a stronger pull than their less fortunate brethren, and eventually pulled them all over the beach.

Mr. Chatterbox captained the married men's team, while Adolph Schrieber was the chief tugger for the singles.

A step dancing contest was also productive of much amusement, and out of three entries, it was impossible to pick the winner. R. Frezell, J. Madden and M. Delaney entered, and all danced to perfection, while each rendered a song after his dance, which brought forth great applause. The dining hall of the Fraser House was the scene of a dance in the evening, when many took advantage of the splendid dance music furnished there.

The Sports.

The following committee was in charge: R. E. Schrieber, A. Borland, J. Kelly, W. Hyslop, A. Grant, Chas. Meaden, W. Crossland, W. Gregory, J. Sweeney, E. Toleski, A. Lattenville, J. B. Heavey and W. Jones. These gentlemen saw that the following programme of sports was carried out:

Boys under 12—Clair Steele, H. Deleny, W. Jennings.

Girls under 12—Misses Decker, Shes-son, Meaden.

100-yard dash—J. Sweeney, R. Donehue, S. Deleny.

Three-legged race—W. Slesser and J. Durnon and Singer, Singer and Carroll.

Broad jump—M. Deleny.

Hop, skip and jump—M. Deleny.

Ladies' biscuit race—Misses Douglas Trudell, Finch.

Ladies' 50 yards (members of the union)—Misses E. Finch, L. Allsopp.

WHEN EDWARD USED BLUE PENCIL

Rejoiced Heart of "Outsiders" by Inviting Them to Court Ball.

London, July 23.—King Edward, I hear, freely used his blue pencil in editing the list of invitations for the court ball last night. Outside the court circle, which is always privileged, a certain number of people were allowed to come to such festivities again and again, while others with equal claims were sometimes passed over.

In the present case his majesty corrected this state of affairs, and many people rejoiced that, owing to the King's personal supervision, they were remembered.

This season, too, the rule of presenting cards for all royal functions has been most rigidly enforced. A year or two ago two enterprising American women made a wager that they would go to the Buckingham Palace state ball without invitations.

In those days the presentation of cards was not enforced. The daring ladies won their bet, and by all accounts had a real good time.

News of the adventure reached his majesty, hence the vigilance with which the invitation card has been demanded throughout the present season.

King Edward, it has been generally remarked, has lately been looking the picture of health, but it has also been noted that he is growing stouter again, so he has, I am told, been advised by his physicians to take a greater amount of walking exercise than he has been in the habit of doing.

Walks in Palace Grounds.

During the time that he has been at Buckingham Palace his majesty, in order to try to keep down his increasing weight, has been having an hour's walk in the grounds every day. He has already felt the benefit of the change of habit. When the King is on the continent he, of course, walks a good deal as part of his "cure," but at home he finds in ordinary course very little time for this, or indeed any other, form of exercise.

Queen Alexandra has been suffering this week from a slight cold. It was that which prevented her majesty opening the new buildings of the Hotel de St. Luke, she having been advised to remain indoors, very much against her will, at the very last moment.

Queen's Illness Not Serious.

Instances where either the King or Queen has been unable to keep charitable engagements are very rare. Indeed, I do not remember another such last minute postponement as this. It was suggested that the Queen should deputize some one else to perform the duty, but her majesty set her word and wanted herself to perform the ceremony next week.

Naturally many rumors went around about the Queen's sudden illness, but it was only in view of the state ball last night that her medical advisers deemed it prudent for her to remain indoors till after that function.

The King and Queen are paying a week end visit to King Edward's quarry, Major Holford, at Westonsblir House, Tetbury, this week, when he will inspect their hosts' wonderful gardens and orchid house.

Major Holford, who owns about 16,000 acres, is well-known as an enthusiastic horticulturist and one of the most successful orchid growers in the country. He owns several individual plants whose value runs into four figures sterling, and his great bank of magnificent orchids which won the gold medal at this year's Temple show covered an area of more than 280 square feet.

Chameleons can be kept alive for years by making a frame to fit over a plant in a flowerpot and covering it with mosquito netting, which must be long enough to tie with a string about the pot. Keep the pot in the sunniest window and water the plant every day through the netting. You will be surprised to see how eagerly the little creatures will drink the running water after they get over their fear. Set a wire flytrap for flies, which you can liberate under the netting. The chameleons will not be backward about helping themselves.

The foot of a woman should measure one-seventh the length of her body.

SHEDS MORE LIGHT ON CONGO HORRORS

Lemaire Tells How He Was Trained into the Burning of Villages.

Brussels, July 23.—The newspaper La Dernière Heure publishes an installment of the memoirs of Major Charles Lemaire, the Congo administrator. In the introduction, Major Lemaire recalls that on Jan. 24, 1906, he was entrusted with a mission for the delimitation of the boundaries of Albert Edward Nyanza. Four days before his departure the Government of the Free State canceled his appointment. The reason for this action, Major Lemaire declares, was that the judicial authorities of the Congo were ready to open proceedings against him, and against a number of his former agents who were in Congolese territory.

"I resigned from the Congo service," the major continues, "and I asked to be returned to my regiment on account of wounds received in the Congo. A royal decree awarded me the magnificent pension of 1,495 francs per annum."

Defended the Negroes.

Major Lemaire then gives an account of his career. He was, he says, when he first arrived in Congo, and he at first followed the example set him there. "My African education," he says, "began with cannon shots and the burning of villages; in a word, with the abuse of force and with all its consequent excesses. It took four years for my eyes to be opened to realities."

"Since then I never gave up defending the negroes, and when I returned to Africa I did not kill any longer, but I was merciless in regard to soldiers who had been corrupted by the rubber regime. I enforced upon them the respect of the native, and I succeeded in the infliction of punishments which today are characterized as being out of the regulations. I had to choose my punishments, either by the whip or setting the country to fire and sword on the excuse of military conquests."

The Congolese Troops.

Major Lemaire sketches a significant picture of the moral condition of the Congolese troops which he commanded. He recalls his mission to the Bahr-el-Ghazal, and declares that no native ever had occasion to complain of his conduct. He understands what joy it must have given the soldiers he commanded to be able to revenge themselves upon him by their depredations before the public prosecutor who was sent from Boma. Major Lemaire's account was given on Jan. 16 to the secretaries of the interior and of foreign affairs of the Congo State, who instructed him, says the major, to tell his story at Boma.

"I pointed out," says Major Lemaire, "that I was unpopular at Boma. The secretary of the interior observed that he would never have tolerated the flogging of women, and said that the passage in my report, in which I spoke of the flogging, completely escaped his notice. In taking my leave, I said that the first article in the newspapers would not come from me. The secretary for foreign affairs said, 'The press will not speak.'"

Letter to the King.

Major Lemaire also publishes the text of a letter he addressed to King Leopold upon being informed that the command of the mission to determine the 30th meridian had been withdrawn from him. He also publishes the text of a note in which he tells how much he disliked taking measures against savannas carried out from the Lambert Rapids to M'Vol, between Dec. 14 and Dec. 25, 1902.

The secretary-general of the interior for the Congo, in replying to the letter addressed to the king, said: "The Government has decided not to let you go on the mission to determine the 30th meridian, for, as you have already been informed, the bench has notified upon Congo Free State territory, of instituting proceedings against you. This makes your mission to the Congo impossible without running counter to the provisions of justice."

"If the Government," adds the major, "does not recognize that circumstances of extreme gravity, not

ENGLISH CHILDREN BORN TO SLAVERY

Terrible Condition of Child Labor in London Described in a Book.

London, July 23.—The searchlight has rarely been turned so relentlessly on the amazing conditions under which thousands of baby hands earn their "living" in London, almost as soon as they can talk, as by Miss Olive Christian Malverly (Mrs. Archibald MacKibby) in her book, "Baby Tollers," published by Messrs. Hutchinson & Co.

"The home-workers seldom leave their rooms," says the writer, who goes on to tell of three baby tollers who help their mother to make elastic belts at five farthings, or, perhaps, three-halfpence per dozen. One of them, five years old, helped to stretch the belts and hold them taut. The whole family work from twelve to fourteen hours a day on tea and stale bread.

"Babies born into a slavery," she describes them.

A whole family occupies a single room. "In many and many a corner of such rooms a mangle may be found, and at this dreary machine from dawn to dark little children toil, earning with infinite labor perhaps a penny an hour. The little backs are bent, the arms grow twisted and terrible eye-strain results, for the tremendous muscular force put forth by these tiny bodies causes the eyes to protrude."

Sometimes the little ones are packed off to school, "with aching bodies and dull eyes, to pick up such knowledge as they can. But almost to the hour of starting, and again on their return for many hours they take their turn at the mangle."

Exactly the same kind of story is told of baby "sweaters," staggering under extraordinary bundles; baby needleworkers and boxmakers—the story of hunger, weariness, illness and often ill-treatment.

"And these children," says Miss Malverly, "are the heritage of the foremost nation of the world."

THE FIELD OF CULLODEN.

On April 16, 1746, on Drumossie Moor, was fought the battle of Culloden, the last act in the "great domestic tragedy" of Bonnie Prince Charlie. A cairn marks the site of the engagement—for a battle it should hardly be called—which resolved itself so soon into a rout and massacre. And need we wonder? The prince's army was a huge composite mass; torn by internal dissensions, wearied by needless marches and countermarches, unpaid, unfed, utterly disorganized, and in some cases mutinous, what fighting strength had they? On April 15 they lay all day under arms, their whole sustenance for that time being one biscuit per man—do much on which to sustain a fighting courage—and when the eventual sixteenth dawned it was to find 2,000 of the Highlanders absent in search of much-needed provisions. The remainder prepared to do battle with Cumberland's forces. Against these—well-rested, well-disci-

LADIES' POLITICAL CLUBS

One To Be Opened in London by Prominent Society Leaders.

The enterprising British woman politician of today is no longer meekly content with the privilege of being entertained to tea on the terrace at the National Liberal Club during a certain stipulated period of the year. The remainder of the spacious club house being regarded as forbidden territory except on annual ladies' nights, she yearns for a political club of her very own. The Primrose women, firm adherents of the Tory party, have the Ladies' Imperial, in Dover street affectionately known to its intimates as the "Ladies' Charlton," and now the ladies attached to the members of the National Liberal are embarking upon an ambitious scheme for the establishment of a club for the women of the Liberal party, to be called the "Ladies' National."

Associated with the scheme are many prominent women politicians, Lady Pearson, the wife of the great contractor, Sir Westman Pearson; Lady Kinloch and Lady Cornwall, among them. The preliminary committee is now, it is understood, negotiating for an important west end club house which is in the market. When the "Ladies' National" opens its doors it will be in every respect a fully-equipped political club, for, in addition to the usual reading, writing, reception and dining rooms, the women's club will have a hall for meetings, receptions and conferences.

FELL OFF TRAIN

Hamilton, July 27.—Wm. Morton, 6 Grand Trunk brakeman who lives at Sarnia Tunnel, fell off Manifest train, No. 94, at the Junction, a short distance west of this place this morning. The train was going at a rate of 35 or 40 miles an hour, and it is thought that Morton lost his balance.

He was brought back on an engine, and taken to the city hospital. His right wrist and ankle were dislocated, and he was badly bruised along the right side. His right shoulder was also hurt, and he received a cut on the forehead, but his injuries are not thought to be serious.

Why Women Have Coarse, Rough, Sal-low Skin

Because Poor Digestion and Improper Elimination Have Clogged the Stomach.

Womanly beauty is largely the outward expression of health. Every woman with pale cheeks and poor complexion needs medicine—needs a potent tonic to regulate her system.

To tone up the stomach—to insure good digestion—to give new life and vitality to the whole system—where is there a remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Dr. Hamilton's Pills enable you to eat what you like—their correct composition—make nourishing blood—insure force and vim into a rundown system.

If nervous and can't sleep your remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they search out the cause of your condition and you rise in the morning refreshed, strong, vigorous, ready for the day's work.

Dr. Hamilton asks every weak and debilitated person to use his Mandrake and Butternut Pills. They make old folks feel young, and weak folks feel strong. Their effects upon insomnia and languor are marvelous. Hundreds declare they soothe and quiet the nerves so that a good night's rest always follows their use.

To look well, to feel well, to keep well, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are mild, cleansing, strengthening—good for the young or old. Sold by all dealers in 25c boxes.

Union Cigarmakers Spent Enjoyable Day at the Port

Splendid Programme of Sports Was Carried Out—26th Band Furnished Music.

The union cigarmakers of this city picnicked at Port Stanley on Saturday, when they besieged the port about 1,000 strong, headed by the Twenty-sixth Regiment band. A lengthy programme of sports added greatly to the enjoyable nature of the outing.

A tug-of-war between the married and the single men was an interesting number, but the married men proved to have a stronger pull than their less fortunate brethren, and deliberately pulled them all over the beach.

Mr. Chatterville captained the married men's team, while Adolph Schrieber was the chief tugger for the singles.

A step dancing contest was also productive of much amusement, and out of three entries, it was impossible to pick the winner. R. Prezell, J. Madden and M. Delaney entered, and all danced to perfection, while each rendered a song after his dance, which brought forth great applause.

The dining hall of the Fraser House was the scene of a dance in the evening, when many took advantage of the splendid dance music furnished there.

The Sports.

The following committee was in charge: R. E. Schrieber, A. Borland, J. Kelly, W. Hyslop, A. Grant, Chas. Meaden, W. Crossland, W. Gregory, J. Sweeney, E. Tolezki, A. Lattenville, J. B. Heavey and W. Jones.

These gentlemen saw that the following programme of sports was carried out:

Boys under 12—Clair Steele, H. Delany, W. Jennings.

Girls under 12—Misses Decker, Shearson, Meaden.

100-yard dash—J. Sweeney, R. Donehue, S. Delany.

Sack race—H. Jar, C. Finch, Earnest Singer.

Three-legged race—W. Slesser and Tupe, Durdon and Singer, Singer and Carroll.

Broad jump—M. Delany.

Hop, skip and jump—M. Delany.

Ladies' biscuit race—Misses Douglas Trudell, Finch.

Ladies' 50 yards (members of the union)—Misses E. Finch, L. Allsopp.

Consolation race—W. Bugg, R. Pemberton, J. B. Adams.

Members of union over 50 years—Wm. Crossland.

Ladies' race (wives of cigarmakers)—Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Hyslop, and Mrs. Finch.

WHEN EDWARD USED BLUE PENCIL

Rejoiced Heart of "Outsiders" by Inviting Them to Court Ball.

London, July 29.—King Edward, I hear, freely used his blue pencil in editing the list of invitations for the court ball last night. Outside the court circle, which is always privileged, a certain number of people were allowed to come to such festivities again and again, while others with equal claims were sometimes passed over.

In the present case his majesty corrected this state of affairs, and many people rejoiced that, owing to the King's personal supervision, they were remembered.

This season, too, the rule of presenting cards for all royal functions has been most rigidly enforced. A year or two ago two enterprising American women made a wager that they would go to the Buckingham Palace state ball without invitations. In those days the presentation of cards was not enforced. The daring ladies won their bet, and by all accounts had a real good time.

News of the adventure reached his majesty, hence the vigilance with which the invitation card has been demanded throughout the present season.

King Edward, it has been generally remarked, has lately been looking the picture of health, but it has also been noted that he is growing stouter again, so he has, I am told, been advised by his physicians to take a greater amount of walking exercise than he has been in the habit of doing.

WALKS IN PALACE GROUNDS.

During the time that he has been at Buckingham Palace his majesty, in order to try to keep down his increasing weight, has been having an hour's walk in the grounds every day. He has already felt the benefit of the change of habit. When the King is on the continent he, of course, walks a good deal as part of his "cure," but at home he finds in ordinary course very little time for this, or indeed any other, form of exercise.

Queen's Illness Not Serious.

Instances where either the King or Queen has been unable to keep charitable engagements are very rare. Indeed, I do not remember another such last minute postponement as this. It was suggested that the Queen should deputize some one else to perform the duty, but her majesty sent word she would herself perform the ceremony next week.

Naturally many rumors went around about the Queen's sudden illness, but it was only in view of the state ball last night that her medical advisers deemed it prudent for her to remain indoors till after that function.

The King and Queen are paying a week-end visit to King Edward's querry, Major Holford, at Westonsblirt House, Tetbury, this week, when he will inspect their hosts' wonderful gardens and orchid houses.

Major Holford, who owns about 16,000 acres, is well-known as an enthusiastic horticulturist and one of the most successful orchid growers in the country. He owns several individual plants whose value runs into four figures sterling, and his great bank of magnificent orchids which won the gold medal at this year's Temple show covered an area of more than 280 square feet.

Chameleons can be kept alive for years by making a frame to fit over a plant in a flowerpot and covering it with mosquito netting, which must be long enough to tie with a string about the pot. Keep the pot in the sunniest window and water the plant every day through the netting. You will be surprised to see how eagerly the little creatures will drink the running water after they get over their fear. Set a wire flying for flies, which you can liberate under the netting. The chameleons will not be backward about helping themselves.

The foot of a woman should measure one-seventh the length of her body.

SHEDS MORE LIGHT ON CONGO HORRORS

Lemaire Tells How He Was Trained Into the Burning of Villages.

Brussels, July 29.—The newspaper La Dernière Heure publishes an installment of the memoirs of Major Charles Lemaire, the Congo administrator. In the introduction, Major Lemaire recalls that on Jan. 24, 1906, he was intrusted with a mission for the delimitation of the boundaries of Albert Edward Nyanza. Four days before his departure the Government of the Free State canceled his appointment. The reason for this action, Lemaire declares, was that the judicial authorities of the Congo were ready to open proceedings against him, and against a number of his former agents who were in Congolese territory.

"I resigned from the Congo service," the major continues, "and I asked to be returned to my regiment on account of wounds received in the Congo. A royal decree awarded me the magnificent pension of 1,485 francs per annum."

Defended the Negroes.

Major Lemaire then gives an account of his career. He says that he arrived in the Congo, and he at first followed the example set him there. "My African education," he says, "began with cannon shots and the burning of villages; in a word, with the abuse of force and with all its consequent excesses. It took four years for my eyes to be opened to realities."

"Since then I never gave up defending the negroes, and when I returned to Africa I did not kill any longer, but I was merciless in regard to soldiers who had been corrupted by the rubber regime. I enforced upon them the respect of the native, and I succeeded by the infliction of punishments which today are characterized as being out of the regulations. I had to choose my punishments, either using the whip on setting the country to fire, and sword on the excuse of military conquests."

The Congolese Troops.

Major Lemaire sketches a significant picture of the moral condition of the Congolese troops which he commanded. He recalls his mission to the Bahr-el-Ghazal, and declares that no native ever had occasion to complain of his conduct. He understands what joy it must have given the soldiers he commanded to be able to revenge themselves upon him by the depredations before the public prosecutor who was sent from Boma. Major Lemaire's account was given on Jan. 16 to the secretaries of the interior and of foreign affairs of the Congo State, who instructed him, says the major, to tell his story at Boma.

Letter to the King.

Major Lemaire also publishes the text of a letter addressed to King Leopold upon being informed that the command of the mission to determine the 30th meridian had been withdrawn from him. He also publishes the text of a note in which he tells how much he disliked taking measures against women in connection with a reconnaissance carried out by the Lamermont Rapids to M'Volé, between Dec. 14 and Dec. 25, 1905.

The secretary-general of the interior for the Congo, in replying to the letter addressed to the king, said: "The Government has decided not to let you go on the mission to determine the 30th meridian, for, as you have already been informed, the bench has notified its intention, should you ever be found instituting proceedings against you. This makes your mission to the Congo impossible without running counter to the provisions of justice."

"If the Government," adds the major, "does not recognize that circumstances of extreme gravity, not

ENGLISH CHILDREN BORN TO SLAVERY

Terrible Condition of Child Labor in London Described in a Book.

London, July 28.—The searchlight has rarely been turned so relentlessly on the amazing conditions under which thousands of baby hands earn their "living" in London, almost as soon as they can talk, as by Miss Olive Christian Malvery (Mrs. Archibald MacKibby) in her book, "Baby Tollers," published by Messrs. Hutchinson & Co.

"The home-workers seldom leave their rooms," says the writer, who goes on to tell of three baby tollers who help their mother to make elastic belts at five farthings, or, perhaps, three-halfpence per dozen. One of them, five years old, helped to stretch the belts and hold them taut. The whole family work from twelve to fourteen hours a day on tea and stale bread.

"Babies born into a slavery," she describes them.

A whole family occupies a single room. "In many and many a corner of such rooms a mangle may be found, and at this dreary machine from dawn to dark little children toil, earning with infinite labor perhaps a penny an hour. The little backs are bent, the arms grow twisted and terrible eye-strain results, for the tremendous muscular force put forth by these tiny bodies causes the eyes to protrude."

Sometimes the little ones are packed off to school, "with aching bodies and dull eyes, to pick up such knowledge as they can. But almost to the hour of starting, and again on their return for many hours they take their turn at the mangle."

Exactly the same kind of story is told of baby "erranders" staggering under extraordinary burdens; baby needleworkers and boxmakers—the story of hunger, weariness, illness and often ill-treatment.

"And these children," says Miss Malvery, "are the heritage of the foremost nation of the world!"

THE FIELD OF CULLODEN.

On April 16, 1746, on Drumossie Moor, was fought the battle of Culloden, the last act in the "great domestic tragedy" of Bonnie Prince Charlie. A cairn marks the site of the engagement—for a battle it should hardly be called—which resolved itself so soon into a rout and massacre. And need we wonder? The prince's army was a huge composite mass: torn by internal dissensions, wearied by needless marches and countermarches, unpaid, unfed, utterly disorganized, and in some cases mutinous, what fighting strength had they? On April 15 they lay all day under arms, their whole sustenance for that time being one biscuit per man—not much on which to sustain a fighting courage—and when the eventful sixteenth dawned it was to find 2,000 of the Highlanders absent in search of much-needed provisions. The remainder prepared to do battle with Cumberland's forces. Against these—well-rested, well-disci-

lined, well-informed, well-fed—what chance had they? The clans, loyal to their prince, fought bravely against such overwhelming odds; but the end was visible from the beginning, and defeat soon turned into rout. The prince himself was forced from the field, and fled, first to Lord Lovat at Gortaleg, and after many weary wanderings to France. The slaughtered clansmen were buried in trenches where they fell, and each of the gray stones that dot the moor is carved with the names of the clans who fought and died around it. Every sixteenth of April a little party of faithful Jacobites makes a pilgrimage to the spot, to hang wreaths of flowers upon the cairns in memory of those loyal hearts who lie there, faithful to their chieftains and their prince.—The Caledonian.

THE NEST OF TRAITORS AGAIN.

The inner history of the "nest of traitors" episode is coming out by degrees. The other day an Ottawa newspaper, referring to Sir Mackenzie Bowell's betrayal, inadvertently coupled Sir Adolphe Caron's name with Foster's. Sir Adolphe wrote to the paper in white heat as follows:

"A greater display of crass ignorance than shown by him, in bracketing me with Hon. George E. Foster, as one of the bolters in 1896, would indeed be hard to find.
"The very worst-informed parliamentarian, or newspaperman who has followed parliamentary events is perfectly well aware that I was one of those who stood by the Prime Minister of the day, Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and that I led the House during the crisis referred to in your editorial."

Sir Adolphe's indignation at being classed with Foster is not very flattering to the member for North Toronto. A writer signing himself
"Iquoto" eulogizes Sir Adolphe, saying that he remained faithful to his chief and led the House with great ability during the strike. Iquoto throws this sidelight on the conspiracy:

"It was partly on account of this that, shortly after the dissolution of Parliament, and on the day when,
in defiance of all constitutional precedent, Sir Charles Tupper became premier, a meeting was held in the drawing-room of the speaker of the senate, having amongst other objects that of arranging for the "knifing of Sir Adolphe Caron."

"I was present and shall never forget the suppressed fury in the voice of one of the new ministers when he,
speaking of Caron, exclaimed, 'Knife him, knife him, knife him!' and those utterances accompanied by the imitation of passing a knife through the heart, were greeted with vociferous applause."

"The time has not yet come for the writing of the history of that fight, but it is drawing nearer."

The odium of the affair was sufficient to keep Foster out of public life for years, and prevent anyone of the bolters from aspiring to the leadership of the party. None of them will ever outlive the scandal, and it is probable that none will ever enter another Canadian Government.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS.

An interesting blue-book recently issued at Ottawa is that containing the criminal statistics for the year ended Sept. 20, 1905. This is a year behind many other departmental reports, but as the number of these returns is increasing year by year, and this particular blue-book contains a mass of statistics, the collection and compilation of which in the form given must have required a vast amount of labor,
the cause of the delay is apparent.
During the year covered there was an increase over the year preceding in the total number of convictions for indictable offenses in all the provinces, with the single exception of Nova Scotia. The number of convictions of this kind and their ratios, according to population, by provinces, was as follows:

Province	Ratio per 1,000 of population.
British Columbia	59.23
Manitoba	60.9
Territories	56.9
Ontario	3.236
Quebec	3.065
Nova Scotia	3.84
New Brunswick	1.28
Prince Edward Island	3.7

Drunkennes takes the lead in the matter of summary convictions, the number of which for that offense being 21,621, or 39.40 per cent, as compared with the figures for 1904-18,995, or 39.21 per cent. The standing by provinces is:

Province	Per cent of total convictions.
New Brunswick	1.734
Nova Scotia	2.520
Manitoba	3.544
Prince Edward Island	1.72
British Columbia	1.284
Quebec	4.781
Territories	1.530
Ontario	6.047

There was an increase in 1905 over the preceding year of 14.43 per cent in the number of convictions for drunkennes throughout the Dominion, as follows: Manitoba 14.07, Quebec 19.94,
the former Territories 18.92, Ontario 4.45, Nova Scotia 7.89, New Brunswick 3.46. Two provinces showed a decrease—Prince Edward Island of 2.28 per cent, and British Columbia of 1.37 per cent. Manitoba's increase in the number of conviction for drunkennes, it will be seen, is more than double that of Quebec, the province next in order. A comparative statement of the number of convictions for drunkennes per 1,000 of population in 1904 and 1905 places Ontario near the bottom, notwithstanding the slight increase:

Province	1904.	1905.
Manitoba	8.19	10.70
Nova Scotia	5.96	5.48
New Brunswick	5.51	5.12
British Columbia	5.38	5.15
Territories	4.32	4.25
Quebec	2.34	2.77
Ontario	2.47	2.72
Prince Edward Island	2.34	1.70

Convictions for violation of the liquor license laws in 1905 show a marked falling off in Ontario, as compared with 1904, as is shown by the following table:

Province	1904.	1905.
Ontario	1,028	861
Quebec	583	568
Nova Scotia	371	446
Territories	347	379
New Brunswick	375	327
British Columbia	133	254
Manitoba	122	85
Prince Edward Island	59	74

The blue-book deals with offenses in detail and contains other information, and as a work of reference will prove of no little value.

INVESTIGATING RAILWAY WRECKS.

Are the block signal systems and other so-called safety devices in use on United States railways trustworthy? To what extent does the human element enter into the equation for the imperiling of life? These are questions which an attempt is being made to solve by a commission now sitting in Washington, and which was appointed as a result of the recent series of railway disasters which caused the sacrifice of much human life, and almost led people to suspect that the entire transportation system of the country was in a state of demoralization. That such an investigation is needed the record of railway horrors of recent years across the line is evident, and that, if intelligently and faithfully carried out, it will be productive of good, there is reason to believe. By no means are all such catastrophes due to neglect of those in charge of the running of trains. Presently when equipment breaks
the flaw is traceable to poor workmanship or poor material, and with proper care might have been prevented. Although the majority of railway accidents are due to the negligence of employees, and there can be no safeguard against such blunders, the danger from this source may be minimized or reduced by changes in system and mechanical contrivances. Possibly the commission will endeavor to ascertain to what degree dangers of the rail are preventable, to what extent they are traceable to corporation greed to the overworking of equipment or operatives, to individual incapacity, and to the untrustworthiness of mechanical appliances.
It is hoped that as a consequence of the commission's report much needed federal legislation on the subject will be forthcoming.

"Is Anglo-American relations strained," asks the front page of a local contemporary. It is to be hoped they are not.

The barbers' strike will have one good result, if it teaches indolent men to save time and money by shaving themselves.

The Calgary Albertan announces that "for every woman in Calgary there are 2 8-10 of a man." Go west, young woman!

The Thames embankment is one of the beauties of Old London. It is to be hoped the reception committee will steer the English journalists away from the Thames embankment here.

The city has not felt the pinch of the water shortage this summer very severely. Citizens would feel easy if it were not for the inadequacy of fire protection in the business and manufacturing districts. The more it is considered, the more the independent system stands out as the proper solution.

ON THE WAITING LIST.

[Exchange.]
The Bachelor—Then you are not engaged to the count, after all?
The Widow—Not exactly. I merely have an option on him.

RELATED.

[Charlotte.] The second time I saw him I was engaged to him?
Kit—What caused the delay?

THE MAN WHO DIDN'T KICK.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
A man who kicked and a man who didn't together set out one day.
And the man who kicked could be heard complaining forever along the way;
And the people frowned when they saw him coming, and gladly they saw him go.
But always he got the things he wanted,
for letting the people know.

The man who never was heard complaining got much of the people's praise.
And they gladly smiled when they saw him
coming, because of his cheerful ways;
But they let him pass with his pockets empty, for the people are still inclined To forget the needs of the patient workers who never appear to mind.

AN OPPONENT'S TRIBUTE.

[Toronto World, Conservative.]
And what does it all mean?
It means, unmistakably that Sir Wilfrid Laurier still has the Province of Quebec in the hollow of his hand. This was seen no less plainly at Sorel and Three Rivers than at the City of Quebec.
How far was enthusiasm artificially stimulated?
Brass bands, sky rockets, parades and the like undoubtedly bring people together and generate a certain enthusiasm. President Roosevelt, for example, if he visited Canada, would no doubt be accorded a big reception. But, after all is said and done, there was everywhere manifested an unmistakable pride in and affection for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Discontent and disaffection as we may, the Canadian people look upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier differently than upon any other man in Canada.

Here is one test: Suppose the Emperor had gone down and the Premier had been lost, would there not have been universal grief, a feeling of personal affliction in every home in Canada? We were, all of us, proud to have our country represented by him when the nations of the empire assembled in London. We, all of us, had a comfortable feeling, "way down in our hearts, that Canada led, even though our feeling might be voiced in the refrain:
"I don't know where I'm going,
But I know I'm on the way."

THE SHEPHERDESS.

[Archibald Sullivan, in Smart Set.]
If I could choose my path of life
From out this world of tangled ways,
I think I'd sooner live and tend
A little flock of all the days.

Upon the bluest hills that are
The fairy hills of Dreams Come True,
I, shepherdess, would tend the flock,
My bread a rose, my cup the dew.

And all the timid days of May,
The blustering days of winter weather,
The burning days of August time,
Would wander wide with me together.

And ere the sun made silver lace
Upon the pillow of the sky,
I'd call a little day to me,
And kiss its mouth—and say "Good-bye."

And to the world that lay so far—
Away from those my pastures blue,
Each morn I'd send another one
From those dear hills of Dreams Come True.

And as the weeks crept slowly by,
And as the months went drifting on,
I, shepherdess, upon the hills,
Would find my flock was nearly gone.

And then when there were fewer still—
Perhaps just only two or three—
My ravished flock upon the hills
Would be exceeding dear to me.

When one December day was left
A little day—and grief and sorrow,
I'd place my kiss upon its brow,
My last farewell—and bid it go.

Then would I quietly creep away
Behind the sunset of my days,
To dream how I had tended well
My little flock of all the days.

MULTUM IN PARVO.

[Meggendorfer Blatter.]
Dinner—Waiter, bring me a cutlet, and also a big bone for my dog. I will pay extra for that.
Waiter—Yes, sir.
Dinner (when the cutlet arrives)—Where is the bone for the dog?
Waiter—In the cutlet, sir.

LEADING LONDON LAWYER.

[Dundee Advertiser.]
Rufus Isaacs, K.C., M.P., whose work on the commission to inquire into police methods is proving so excellent, is an example of the advantage of a specialty in life.
But the brilliant K. C. had his specialty rust, as it were, upon him, for as a younger he went into the City. He did very well, but a friend thought he might do still better if he took his financial experience to the bar. So he did, and stepped as a city specialist almost at once into the fatness of commercial cases.
Not since the days of Lord Russell has a counsel so completely captured the foreign world as has Mr. Isaacs. His is today, says the Outlook, the name to consult with at the bar. Three-figure "retainers" and "retainers" rain on him, yet
the trim, pale-faced, thin-featured K. C., with his deadly bright eyes and his quiet put-you-off-your-guard voice, rises to cross-examine in some intricate case as if it was the only one he had ever handled in his six months. "That is the man's secret," a gigantic power of concentration, for he is not a great orator, but for marshalling evidence he is second to none. He is still young, and can afford to wait for that promotion which in his case can only end in the woolstack.

M'CLARY'S AND THE STARS WIN

a-rosy as Jeffries' fly fell harmlessly among them.
Fitzmaurice was hit and the bases were full. Tierney scored on Wilson's hit to short, and W. Jeffries didn't hit the ball, but induced it to hit him, thus forcing a run. Gatecliff's out ended the inning.

Two in the Eighth.
The Stars scored their last two runs in the eighth session, on a two-bagger by Graham, Clark's single and O'Rourke's smash to the left field fence, which fast fielding made good for only two sacks.

Perrins got onto the score board in the third round, when with one hand down, Beaton was safe on Tierney's muff, and got to third on his bad throw to second, Tozer's hit bringing him home. Gregory sent a stinger through second, and Ward's baby bunt to Clark was fumbled, filling the bases. Wantless was almost as bad a failure as mighty Casey of old, but little John Edward Lawrence Stein was given four wide ones by Clark, evidently fearing what the husky catcher might do if given a chance, and a run was forced.

Perkins' foul fly to Tierney, however,
prevented further run-getting.
Another counter came in the fourth on a base on balls and Tozer's twobagger.

In the seventh division, Beaton opened with a single, stole second, took third when Gregory was safe on W.
Jeffries' error, and scored on Ward's long fly to left.

There were runners on bases again in the ninth, but fast fielding prevented runs resulting.

Umpire, Mr. Smith.

A FEW BULLETS.

Mines' work behind the bat was very good. He gathered in the foul flies in great shape.

Eccleston covers ground very fast in left field. He needs to, for he plays very deep.

Ball made a wild throw to first in the 2:30 game. He doesn't often make a mistake, though.

McHugh's work at first is good. High or low look the same to him.

The Stars are a very dangerous team on the bases. They take chances, and moreover, get away with them.

Wally Jeffries made a single of the first ball pitched to him in the big league. Keep it up, Wally.

Gatecliff, of the Stars, made a great attempt for a short fly. It was a pretty run, but not baseball, for it was the first baseman's ball.

Clark pitched a good game throughout. He was a little shy on fielding his position, however.

Umpire Smith's "ball tuh" is quite a feature.

Stein's throwing arm could hardly be improved. A man has to side some to steal on him.

Tozer certainly landed on the ball.
At that he could have had another safe smash by a little faster running.

Rooter, to Ward of Perrins: "You should have 'went' to the picnic."

Gibson fielded his position excellently.

"Doc" Sippi started to run to first, believing he had four balls, but was called out on three strikes. Doc never said a word, but, oh my, he looked some.

Wantless, the Perrins' human stepladder, made a great stop in the ninth.
He bounded into the air and just managed to pull down a high ball, completing the out. It was about as sensational a play as has been seen at Tecumseh.

Tierney made all three outs for the Stars in the fifth innings.

My Lady Cinderella

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson

Author of "My Friend the Chauffeur," "Lady Betty Across the Water," Etc., Etc.

They had been whispering together of a wonderful change that was to come into their monotonous life, all through a letter which had arrived that morning—a change the mother could not explain then, but that the little girl would understand by and by, when it came, when everything was different, and they were happier than they had ever been.

The two spoke in low voices, but an old clergyman (with beautiful white hair and a long white beard) who had got in at a station after theirs seemed interested in the couple. When they relapsed into thoughtful silence he kindly offered the mother a share of his papers and magazines. Later, when she complained of a headache, he took from his bag a bottle of smelling salts, begging her to keep it as long as she liked.

She went to sleep with it in her hand at last; and, rather than wake her, the child gently withdrew the bottle from the clasping fingers when the old clergyman was about to leave the train, returning it to him with a grateful smile.

He had bent down to take it, and as he did so the little girl looked up into his eyes. They were curious eyes—one brown, the other grayish-blue, with a mottled line round the pupil. For years the child had not thought of those strange eyes, because a few moments after the clergyman had left the compartment a thing had happened which made all the past seem dim and far away.

At the next station the slender figure in black had fallen sideways, with a slight jerking of the train as it stopped. The little girl, frightened, had attempted to rouse her mother in vain. The sleep into which she had sunk had been that dream sleep which knows no waking.

"Heart failure," the doctors had said; but that was afterwards. The picture which had risen to blur the features of the handsome, commonplace room in Addison road held only the sleeping mother, the white-haired clergyman with the curious eyes.

Advertiser Patterns

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

A SMALL FRENCH DRESS WITH SEPARATE GUIMPE—4144.

A pleasing little frock built on the chic French lines, and worn with a separate guimpe is shown. There is no style which renders the small maiden more quaintly attractive than this same long-waisted, style, and while it is simple to make it is sure to prove becoming. The dress shown is unique in its stole berth, which joins the giraffe in front, and may be adorned or left plain. The dress is equally fetching in a supple cloth or a lingerie fabric, the lincens, chambrays or Swisses being very charming. For the medium size 1-5-8 yards of 27-inch goods are needed for the guimpe, and 3-4 yards for the dress. 4144—Seven sizes, 2 to 9 years. The price of this pattern is 10 cents.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT, ADVERTISER, LONDON, ONT.

Yet I could do nothing. My body refused obedience to the brain. The mat gathered me up in his arms and moved across the room. A minute more and my dress was drenched with eau de Cologne. I wondered mistily if it were meant to drown the odor of the chloroform. At all events, it was not dashed into my face, and evidently was not used with the intention of reviving me.

Once more Mr. Wynnstay moved with me in his arms. To my surprise and almost incredulous joy he was going toward the door that led into the hall.

I heard him call in a fussy, anxious tone: "Denby! Denby! come here, quick!" The door squeaked faintly, and the janitor's startled accents responded: "Well, sir? Why, whatever's the matter, sir?"

"Good gracious! can't you see for yourself the girl's fainted?—fell over in her chair before she could finish a letter I was dictating to her. She must have been ill when she came—most inconsiderate, I must say. Call a four-wheeler, Denby, as quick as you can. I shall take her to my doctor's house. I can't stand a fainting woman on my hands."

"Pshaw, sir, she'll soon come round again," soothed the janitor. "I won't trust to that. I'm not the man for this sort of thing. The cab, and make haste about it, Denby. I'll follow you out of doors with her, where it's dark. Not very pleasant for me if anybody should be coming in and catch me with a fainting woman in my arms. A nice situation!"

"All right, sir, if you're bound to have her out of the house," the janitor acquiesced, with a humorous quaver of indulgence in his voice. "I'll have whistled you a four-wheeler inside a couple of minutes, I dare say, though it's a bad time for cabs in this neighborhood, I'm afraid."

Mr. Wynnstay was carrying me out of the house. A cool air blew on my face, and a flurry of rain that had begun to fall from long threatening skies spattered my forehead.

"Confound it!" the man muttered, and with what secretiveness I could imagine, once more pressed over my mouth and nose the chloroformed handkerchief, which he must have hidden in his pocket.

He was afraid of the very thing which had occurred, and behind Denby's back was endeavoring to counteract the restorative effect of wind and rain.

I had been summoning all my strength, all my energies, for an effort to break my invisible bonds; and now I was to be defeated in the moment of success. If I could only hold my breath, and not draw in those deadly fumes—

There was the whistle for the cab which was to take me away—where? To my death, perhaps. I believed now that I must be in the hands of a madman, for he could have no sane motive in wishing to compass the destruction of so insignificant a creature as I. A madman would stop at nothing. It was now or never with me.

Again and again the whistle, and then came the rattle of wheels. A cab had driven through the gates, and the horse's feet were crunching the gravel of the short drive that led up to the house.

The man who held me started forward, the handkerchief no longer covering my face; then I heard him draw in his breath sharply, stepping back so hastily that he stumbled.

Involuntarily, in the instinctive effort to save himself from a fall, his grasp was loosened. I felt myself slipping out of his arms, and with one supreme effort, staggering, panting, quivering, I threw him off, keeping my feet as they touched the ground.

"Help! help!" I whispered feebly, when I would have shrieked aloud. My eyes were wide open now and staring, though everything swung before them, as if I had been made giddy with the long-continued motion of a merry-go-round. What I saw, what I heard, mingled together in clamorous confusion—a pair of bright lights like great eyes, a hansom, and two men getting out of it.

The yellow light shone on the face of one. I remembered it, and was vaguely glad. But, strangely, being glad caused me to weep, and through my weeping I could still hear down by the gate the shrill whistling that was to summon a four-wheeled cab.

"Save me!" I articulated hoarsely; and tottering forward I kept myself from falling by seizing with both hands a black coat sleeve which seemed to stretch itself protectively toward me.

"Don't be frightened. Of course, I'll help you," a voice said soothingly. "Has this man been annoying you?" I pressed closer to him, farther from Mr. Wynnstay, whom with clearing vision I could distinctly see, his whiskered face now benevolent of aspect than ever now that the smoked glasses once more hid the queer disparity of his eyes.

"He—he was going to kill me, I think," I panted. Somehow, looking at that mild countenance, my words sounded unconvincing, foolish. I realized this, and was abashed.

Mr. Wynnstay laughed good-naturedly. "There!" he exclaimed, "that's what an old bachelor gets for meddling with what doesn't concern him. It's just what I was afraid of." He lifted his voice, and called to the janitor, "Never mind the cab, Denby. The lady has come to herself."

FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Old Lady Sued by a Gay Lothario, but Case Fails.

Vienna, July 29. — Frau Poeckh, who is 70 years of age, was sued in the high court here yesterday for $10,000 damages for breach of promise.

Herr Johann Eggenberger, a retired shopman of Baden, who brought the action, said Frau Poeckh had lived at his house, and some time ago insinuated to his daughter that it was a pity he did not marry again.

He thereupon proposed to the old woman, who has considerable wealth, and she consented on condition that he give up his business. The engagement was ratified by a handshake and a kiss.

Herr Eggenberger disposed of his shop, when Frau Poeckh changed her mind, and advised him to get a wife from some almshouse, as she could never think of marrying anyone who had been a shopman.

Frau Poeckh denied that she ever became engaged, and added that she would rather hang herself than remarry. The court accepted her version and gave a verdict with costs accordingly.

STRANGE SCENE AT VANCOUVER

Philado's Consul Collects the Passports and Twenty-Five Dollars
From Each.

Vancouver, B. C., July 23.—One of the most extraordinary scenes ever witnessed in Vancouver was enacted here this afternoon during the landing of 1,200 Japanese from the tramp steamer Kumeric.

M. Morikawa, Japanese consul, who superintended the debarkation, was requiring each man to drop his passport and $25 in a bag as he passed down the gangway to the dock.

The trades and labor council were on the alert, and immediately telephoned Mr. Macpherson, M.P., who went to the dock and protested against the proceedings as an infringement of British justice and liberty. So strong was the protest, and so well-founded on British law, that City Solicitor Cowan had nothing to urge against the soundness of the contention. Mayor Bethune joined the others and identified himself with the championship of the Jap under the Union Jack. As a result of the protest Cinsul Morikawa was not only stopped in holding out the bag for $25 apiece, but was told he would have to return the deposits already collected.

It is an open secret that the action of the trades council was not dictated entirely by devotion to the rights of the Japanese under the British flag, nor yet perhaps by devotion to the abstract principles of British justice. The impression is gaining ground that there is something about the collecting of the circulating medium requiring explanation, especially in view of the fact that Honolulu reports show there is an idea among the Japanese there that they must qualify financially, and it is believed here that the importers are putting up the qualification. Mr. Macpherson stated positively his belief that this was the case.

While the captain of the Kumeric had in his possession a sum of money totaling exactly $25 per head, which he distributed to them before they came on shore, Dr. Monro, the port doctor, states his belief that the money was really the property of Japanese who had given it to the captain so that it could not be gambled away.

Mr. Morikawa and several Japanese employment agents were on hand to take charge of the newcomers. Shortly before debarking the consul boarded the vessel and addressed the Japanese laborers in their native language: "I want you to understand that your coming here has been unwise, and you should have remained where you were. There is not enough room for you here, but we have made arrangements for you which you will have to comply with. On leaving the vessel you shall place in a canvas bag, which will be held by a Japanese at the gang plank, $25 and your passport, given you by the captain. This I shall hold in trust, and return to you immediately upon your getting employment. You must do as you are told, and go where sent."

In explaining why the laborers should turn over the $25, the consul stated he was afraid that if the money was left with them they would be cheated out of it, so it was placed with himself in trust until they got employment. It was stated that 1,500 more Japs are to come under the same conditions, and more to follow.

At a meeting of the Liberal Association last evening the party endorsed the stand taken by Mr. R. G. Macpherson, M. P., and the secretary was instructed by a unanimous vote to forward the following resolution to Ottawa:

"Whereas a large influx of Japs into this province is detrimental to our best interest, and threatens to unsettle the labor conditions, therefore be it resolved that this executive strongly urge upon the Dominion Government the necessity of taking immediate steps, by arrangements with the Government of Japan, or otherwise, to restrict such immigration; and further, that this executive strongly approves the steps taken by Mr. R. G. Macpherson, M. P., in the matter."

COLLEGE STAFF CHANGES.

Sandwich, Ont., July 27.—Important changes are announced for the staff of Assumption College here. Rev. Father McBrady, for the past six years superior of the institution, has been appointed to a similar position in the Toronto house of study, and will be succeeded here by Rev. Father Forster, formerly president of the college in Waco, Texas, who already has arrived to enter on his new duties. Father Semande, parish priest of Assumption Church for 25 years, is to join the staff of the college as bursar, succeeding Father May, who is to be bursar of St. Michael's College in Toronto. Father Cote, St. Anne's Church, Detroit, is transferred to Sandwich to succeed Father Semande, and Father Granotier, of Owen Sound, becomes parish priest of the church in Amherstburg.

POISON FOR FEVER AND AGUE.—Parasitic vegetable pills are compounded for use in any climate, and they will be found to remove their power in any latitude. In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way into the blood. They convert the impurities which find entrance into the system through debauching water by food, and if used as a preventive fever is avoided.

BACK TO FACE HIS TRIAL

Alleged Philadelphia Embroider To Be Extradited From Montreal.

Montreal, July 23.—Benjamin Shelnholtz will have to go back to Philadelphia, there to stand his trial on the indictment found against him by the grand jury, charging him with robbing his former employer of $1,200. This was the decision handed down by Mr. Justice Cross in the court of king's bench today, reversing the jurisprudence established by the full bench of the court of king's bench in the Gaynor-Greene case. Mr. Justice Cross held that the habeas corpus might have lain at an earlier stage in the proceedings, but could not be invoked at the present time to secure the liberation of the accused, either on a defect of substance or form in the proceedings leading up to the commitment for extradition.

FAKE BULL-FIGHT STARTS A RIOT

Hamilton Folk Put in Night
Like Time of Street Car Trouble.

Hamilton, July 23.—The exhibition between Prof. Athos and a mad bull at Britannia Park tonight ended in a serious riot, in which a number of people were hurt and one arrested was made. It was like the nights of the street car riots. When it was advertised that Athos was to wrestle with a mad bull the police decided to stop the affair, on the ground that it was cruelty to animals, but later it was decided to let the exhibition go on. This only served to advertise the affair, and a crowd of 3,000 men and boys went to the park. Athos appeared in red tights, and when the bull appeared there was a laugh. It was about the size of a Shetland pony, and did not look dangerous. Boys amused themselves by pulling its tail. When the spectators saw that they had been let in for it they swarmed on the ground, and it was with difficulty that the police got Athos away. The crowd became dangerous and stoned the patrol wagon, and began to demolish the grandstand. A hurry-up call was sent for more policemen, and when they arrived they pulled their batons and dispersed the crowd in a businesslike manner. Stones were thrown and several men injured. It was some time before order was restored. John Kenny threw a stone at a policeman and was arrested on a charge of riotous conduct. Augustus Jopson, who boards at the Stock Yards Hotel, was hit on the head with a stone and seriously injured. He is in the hospital. It is estimated that $700 was taken in at the gate, and none of it was refunded.

PANIC ON STEAMER

Bursting of Feed Pipe Scared Peterboro Excursionists.

Peterboro, July 23.—As the excursion steamer Otonabee was leaving the wharf at Idyl Wyld, Rice Lake, last evening, a two-inch globe valve on the water feed pipe blew out, flooding that part of the boat with steam and scalding several persons, some very severely.

The whole steamer was thrown into a commotion, and a serious panic was with difficulty averted.

About 200 excursionists on board were brought to the city by another steamer.

MONTREAL'S INDEBTEDNESS

The City Now Owes Over Thirty-two Millions.

Montreal, July 23.—Figures compiled at the city hall show that at the close of the present year the city's debt will be no less than $32,040,000. Montreal has one of the largest debts per capita of any city on the continent. This big debt is made up as follows: Consolidation of the debt in 1899, $27,000,000; loans made since 1899 on the yearly increase in the value of real estate, $1,960,000; debts that the city has recently incurred by annexing new municipalities, $2,700,000; special loan to be floated in 1907, an increase in value of real estate, $380,000. Total $32,040,000. The interest to be paid is a trifle over $1,300,000 a year.

MEMORIAL FOR MRS. CRAIGIE

Portrait Plaque in Honor of the Late Gifted Authoress.

London, July 23.—The attention of American visitors to England is being called to the fund which is being raised for the purpose of a memorial to Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes). It is proposed to commemorate the authoress by a portrait plaque to be placed in University College, London; a replica of the plaque to be sent to the United States; scholarships for the study of modern literature to be given periodically in England and the United States. It is interesting to learn that of the $3,500 already subscribed over $100 has come from Mrs. Craigie's native country, the United States.

CONVENT, ON

Convent, rather Mr. Edward O'Brien, who occupies a prominent position in connection with the bicycling industry of the city, has been struck with a brilliant idea. It is nothing more or less than a twentieth-century Godiva. Forgetful of Earl Leofric and Saxon simplicity, it is proposed that this actor day Godiva shall wear a bicycle costume, and ride a bicycle. Mr. O'Brien even offered a choice wheel to La Mille, but La Mille announced that she prefers the old-fashioned horseback ride, and the committee in charge announces that it has had too much in the way of trouble already without new complications.

GOVERNOR HUGHES PLAYS LONE HAND

New York's Chief Executive Ignores the Bosses.

UNITED STATES AS A "FENCE"

The Show Girls Are Back, and Brood-way is Once More Looking Up.

New York, July 23.—Now that Gov. Hughes has finished the work that he had left to him by the Legislature at the regular and extra sessions, old-time politicians here are discussing his methods with a good deal of interest. A veteran Republican pointed out today that President Roosevelt, while he was governor, was in the habit of coming to New York City nearly every Saturday to confer with Senator Platt, then the acknowledged leader of the party. He even invited Platt to Albany as his guest, and had him make the executive chamber his headquarters where he received the members of the Legislature.

Gov. Hughes has consulted with no leaders, nor asked for any help from them. Instead, he has appealed directly to the people with almost incredible success.

President Roosevelt was a great diner, but Gov. Hughes went him considerably better on the matter of going to banquets and accepting other engagements, for he believed that he should accept them to get in touch with the people. In this he has succeeded beyond expectations, and it is well known now to almost everybody in the state.

For the last six weeks Gov. Hughes has been in the executive chamber nearly every night until midnight. No other governor ever worked so hard as he devoted so much time to his official duties. But he likes it, and instead of breaking him down he feels in fine health and has gained twelve pounds. The clothes that fitted him before he went to Albany have had to be let out.

Uncle Sam as a "Fence."

Andrew Mason, who has resigned his place as superintendent of the New York assay office after fifty-seven years of service, is the oldest manufacturer in this country of the sort of "gold bricks" which Uncle Sam makes and guarantees as the genuine article. There were $23,000,000 worth of such bricks in Mr. Mason's keeping this morning. As a matter of fact that is a small showing, for back in April, before America began to ship gold to Europe, the amount was nearly $75,000,000.

Besides being able to sell a government "gold brick" at all times, the superintendent of the assay office has the distinction of running in the country. Unlike other "fences," Mr. Mason and his subordinates are entirely guiltless of complicity in the crimes of which they harbor the proceeds. But the fact remains that in spite of the fact that the Government can do the assay office in Wall street is of the greatest assistance to thieves and burglars who take gold and silverware in their loot.

Unable to Discriminate.

One object of the institution is to afford citizens a means of having gold and silver bullion refined and measured and reduced to cash and the Government finds itself unable to distinguish between the legitimate dealer in old metal and the pawnshop or other "fence" which presents stolen property at the assay office.

Mr. Mason tells of one woman who came to him with six large boxes containing a massive tea set and other large pieces of silver worth about $1,800. She wanted them turned into cash instantly.

Her beautiful dress and rings and things did not indicate that she had been forced to sacrifice the beautiful were because of poverty, and when a clerk was reducing the pieces to scraps with a big hammer she explained that they were her wedding presents and that she did not want to look upon them again because she had divorced her husband.

Long Board Walk.

One of the longest board walks in the country is being built in the vicinity of Long Beach, L. I. It will be ten feet above the mean high tide, fifty feet wide, and will extend from the life-saving station at the west end of the beach to the one at the eastern end, a distance of five and a half miles. Two miles of the walk will be finished next season and all of it will be completed in 1909.

A five-mile bulkhead is to be built there too, supporting a roadway along which automobiles can speed till their hearts are content or their necks broken. It will be reserved for them exclusively.

A land syndicate is making the improvements and incidentally building hundreds of cottages. It is said that more than $100,000 worth of property in the vicinity was sold last week.

Show Girls Amusing, Now.

With rehearsals under way and the show girls called back for their summer vacations, Broadway is beginning to look like itself again—like itself, and yet different, for the countenances one sees hurrying in at the old stage doors certainly have been altered by the sun and winds at seashore or inland farms.

Some of the effects are strange, not to say amusing, particularly in the near-blond class, for wheaton tresses above a face the color of a new tan are a trifle too impressionistic to appeal very strongly to the bald-headed row. Add to this peeled nose trimmings and parboiled garnishings and you get a broad smile.

But the crop of early stars that is here for the harvest is busy between rehearsals with its peroxide bottle and chat, together with the artistry of the make-up will restore it to its long-familiar loveliness.

It's hard on the pop girls, though, to have to spend the rest of the summer in the fastnesses of painted forests and to sit on a canvas bench by a

THE LARDER LAKE EXPLORATION & DEVELOPMENT CO.

CAPITAL, 500,000 SHARES—PAR VALUE $1.00 PER SHARE

15c First Allotment of 50,000 Shares at Fifteen Cents Per Share. 15c

Our Option on this small block of Underwriters' Stock expires Aug. 3, 1907. Subscriptions postmarked at later date will be returned.

Do you realize that investments of a hundred or a thousand will grow rapidly into hundreds and thousands and millions of dollars? The over-conservative and skeptical will smile—they will laugh at these predictions, some will even consider this a joke—but remember COBALT, if you please, two or three years ago? Then it was a "vision," it was a "dream," "a flash in the pan," "a bubble," somebody was "crazy," but now it is different. Those crazy men are now classed among the smartest and keenest business men of the day. The actual value of a few mines are worth at the present date more than one hundred millions of dollars. These are facts.

In presenting this investment for subscription we appeal to the good judgment of sensible persons as to its merit.

It embodies, we believe, a correct method for developing and establishing successful and paying mining enterprises.

We desire to conduct, first of all, a successful Mine Development. We intend this to be done in a way that will be absolutely fair and honest, and bring the largest profit possible to those who co-operate with us.

We, therefore, desire this proposition to be well understood by investors. We wish it to be known just how we propose to develop, establish and operate dividend-paying Mining Companies by and through this investment.

THE PLAN.—The plan involved in this proposition is that of uniting or consolidating the investments of a limited number of persons into one sum, and under one management, to be used in acquiring and developing Mining properties in this wonderful region.

THE PRINCIPLE involved in this investment we believe is one of absolute fairness to all interested. The "promotion interest" common to all mining companies, and which is the great unfair feature to investors who put their money into stocks of these companies, and whose money develops and makes the mine, if a mine is developed—does not exist in this proposition. There is no "promotion interest" set aside, and against the interest bought and paid for by the investors.

In this proposition the investors, and all the investors, become promoters. They take the "promotion interest" and all the interest. They own the whole enterprise. No matter how large or small the investment—all stand on an equal basis. Our plan of operation is probably one of the greatest, and without doubt the richest, mineralized region in the world.

For its basis, upon which we will establish and build up several great producing, paying mining companies, we will exploit and develop in a mining-like and careful manner extensive mining properties now known to us, and other properties which we may acquire for the mutual benefit of all investors in this Company.

Subsidiary Companies.—The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company will incorporate a series, not to exceed five, of Subsidiary Mining Companies upon only the real proven properties acquired.

In each and every Subsidiary Company incorporated, whether Mining, Milling, Smelting, Water Power, or Electric Light, the Exploration Company will take 90 per cent of the capital stock of each Company so incorporated, and will put 10 per cent of the capital stock of each Company in its treasury. It will probably never become necessary to sell any of this Treasury Stock.

Out of the total Capital Stock of each Subsidiary Company, the Exploration Company will retain 50 per cent as its "Holding Stock." This will always control the Company. It will take and hold 40 per cent for the mutual benefit of all stockholders in the Exploration Company. This 40 per cent will be known as "Selling Stock," and as a market is created it will be sold, and the proceeds received will be distributed pro rata to the stockholders in the Exploration Company, as their interests may appear.

The stock of the Subsidiary Companies will be listed on the New York Curb and Mining Exchanges of the country, and started at 50 cents a share, where it can be bought and sold according to the daily market quotations. This will afford a channel by which stockholders can sell the 40 per cent "Selling Stock" from time to time, if they wish.

PROPERTIES.—Many different mining properties will be acquired and developed as stock in the Exploration Company is subscribed. For all properties will be described, and reports submitted regarding same, as soon and as often as they can be examined by the engineers.

The mining properties that will be acquired for this proposition will be located in the gold and silver belt, extending from the Montreal River through Northern Ontario, eastward into Quebec, and will include properties in the Lady Evelyn District, the new Montreal River Silver District, Cobalt District, and the gold districts around Round Lake, Larder Lake, Lake Abitibi, and in the great undeveloped mineralized section of Quebec lying just east of Larder Lake and extending northward to Lake Abitibi.

We shall try and make every dollar count, and make as few mistakes as possible. We hope to create such an interest in this enterprise with investors, that will result in extensive and widespread co-operation.

Under this plan no one can truthfully say that it is not a great mining investment. We want every investor to feel a personal interest in this mine development. The investors in this company will own this enterprise, and we want them to co-operate with us and our associates to make it a great success.

We are now organizing The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company with what we consider sufficient capital ($500,000). We now have options on, and propose to acquire five distinct and separate properties which will be incorporated at $100,000 each (100,000 shares—par value $1.00). The Exploration Company will at all times hold a controlling interest in each of these companies, so that 60 per cent of the dividends earned and declared will be paid into the treasury of the parent company, and the other 40 per cent distributed among the stockholders on record. This in our opinion will enable us to pay dividends and large ones in the very near future.

The board of directors of The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company will be composed only of engineers of national repute, setting a precedent in this line—Mr. Robert Morton will be president, which fact in itself guarantees conservative and able management.

Investors have been pouring their money into over-capitalized mining companies, they have been plunging about wildly in the hope of some day "striking it rich" never stopping to think for one instant that the greater part of their money never reaches the ground, as a rule 75 per cent of the money invested in stock schemes goes into the broker's hands. He pays his salesmen 20 to 50 per cent on every dollar turned in, he must get his own commission and engineers must be paid.

We never have had associated with us a stock salesman, we require no commission and our engineers will be our directors, so that every dollar invested with us on this proposition will be honestly used in the purchasing and developing of the different properties.

We are now offering for subscription the first allotment of stock in The Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company—every one hundred shares entitles the holder to forty shares of stock in each of the subsidiary companies to be incorporated, making in all 200 shares of stock in five separate companies, which, as soon as development work is started and dividends announced, will make the stock of the Larder Lake Exploration and Development Company almost invaluable. This first allotment of only 50,000 shares ($1.00 par value) will probably be largely oversubscribed in a few days.

The next allotment will be put out Sept. 25, 1907, at 75c per share or higher.

This price (15c) will positively be withdrawn August 3, 1907. If this allotment is over-subscribed remittances will be promptly returned. Checks, drafts and money orders must accompany all applications and be made payable to the financial agents.

Interim certificates will be promptly returned to subscribers. The stock certificates of the company representing the shares purchased will be issued and delivered as soon as allotment can be made after August 3, to all subscribers who purchase at the first underwriting price prior to that date.

Employees of John Marshall & Co.
Picnicked at Quaint Village on Saturday.

The employees of the John Marshall Company held their annual picnic at the grounds of the London Gun and Fishing Club, Dorchester, on Saturday. From the time the special train left at 1 p.m. till the picnickers returned at night, there was not a dull moment. Prof. Telepathy De Bowen, clairvoyant, of New York, as he was announced, read ladies' palms, proving quite "handy" at the game, but it is just as well that the young ladies did not realize that the noted professor is known in private life as plain Mr. D. H. Bowen, or he might have suffered tortures, for his prognostications were not always flattering.

The feature of the afternoon was a baseball match between young ladies representing the cap and the fur departments. For six innings the ladies tore the cover off the ball and then their fury suddenly directed itself against Empire Magistrate Love. It looked for a short time as though the "vags" at the police court would have a few days' respite owing to the enforced absence of his worship through illness, but Judge Love, the magistrate's faithful dog, rushed to his master's rescue, and the onslaught was stopped.

The score and teams were as follows:

Englishman's Impression of London

Reynolds' Newspaper, one of the best known in London, England, runs a series of letters from Englishmen who have emigrated to Canada, giving their impressions of the country, and other information.

They are interesting to Canadians, as they show what kind of an opinion newcomers have of Canada, and also how they are advertising this country. There is one letter from a resident of this city, an Englishman, of course, and it is rather interesting. Some of his conclusions are good, but some of his information is bad. His views may be due to a lack of intimate acquaintance with the country. That conclusion would inevitably be drawn from his statement that men are sent down for four months merely for being unemployed. Here is the letter:

Englishman's Letter.

Dear Reynolds,—London (Ontario) is a large industrial center, obviously having a big demand for unskilled labor. The factory managers complain of their inability to secure enough labor of this description, and during the busy summer months doubtless the difficulty is real. Canada is only a six months' country, and during these six summer months all goods destined for the great North-west have to be shipped before the blizzards come and tie up transportation utilities. Then, besides being a large industrial center, London is the biggest distributing point for agricultural produce in Western Ontario. Thus, during the summer months there is a continuous demand for labor. Matters go fairly well during the busy months; and after the winter orders are shipped, and the harvest gathered in, the cities are simply glutted with the paid off out-of-work.

"Make Hay," Etc.

You might say that these people should "make hay while the sun shines." Five out of six emigrants—I mean family men just now—land here as good as penniless, and it takes all their earnings to get a decent home together in order to have a little comfort to meet the rigors of a five-months' winter. Houses here are not provided with grates at home, and a secondhand stove cannot be bought for less than £10 or £15, and rents are fearfully high. They are as high in London (Ont.), as in London (Eng.) and I am inclined to think they are more reasonably priced when considering comfort and convenience, in London (Eng.).

Speaks of Rental.

I pay $10 a month for a small five-roomed cottage, and I consider I have a snap! I know I could get a house with modern conveniences and up-to-date sanitary arrangements, in London (Eng.) for the same price. Speaking of sanitary matters, let me tell you that this garbage collection system, and house refuse and ashes are allowed to accumulate for twelve months, and then men, who make a special business of such work, are paid so much per load to cart the garbage away to a dump! Isn't that lovely? Proportionately, there is, as much privation and suffering and absolute destitution in the large cities of Canada as the large cities of England—and the severity and length of the winters here, and the big price of the very necessities only add to the trouble. It is a criminal offense here for a man to be out of employment, and it is no uncommon thing for a sentence of four months' hard labor to be handed out to some poor devil whose unemployment is his only crime! I certainly agree with many of your correspondents who condemn as criminal the inhuman dumping of unskilled—yes, and skilled, too, in many cases—laborers in the Dominion.

With 25s. a week at home a man is more favorably circumstanced than with $10 here.

Yours very truly,
"REYNOLDSITE" FOREVER.
"King street, London, Ontario."

THREE-QUARTER CROP OF HAY

Outlook Not So Good This Year.
But It Might Easily Be Worse.

Some of the farmers in this locality are a little dissatisfied with the crop prospects this year, but from all accounts there will be a better return here than in many other parts of the country.

The hay is nearly all cut, and varies greatly in different parts of the country. The new meadows appear to be very good, but the old fields are, in the majority of cases, poor. The general idea seems to be that hay will average about a three-quarters crop.

According to Market Clerk James Dean, the wheat crops around Niagara Falls and St. Catharines are very poor, while, considering the quantity sown, that in this district is expected to be a splendid crop. Cool weather was very good for this crop, giving it a chance to head out and harden. Grain is also expected to be heavy, but although it cannot be definitely told as yet, it is generally believed that the oats will be away below the average. This grain has turned red all over the country. Different reasons are given for this. Some blame the frost, while others think it is a blight, or rust.

Last year's corn crop was the heaviest in years, but this year's harvest does not seem so promising. The early cold gave it a bad set-back. Late apples, in all likelihood, will be very plentiful, but a late frost is reported to be a failure, good prices will be obtained for them. It is likely that plums will be plentiful, but all small fruits are scarce.

DRUNKS FOUGHT AGAINST ARREST

A Hot Mix-Up on Richmond
Street Early on Saturday Evening.

Nearly all the cases at the police court this morning arose out of a too free use of intoxicating liquor. Miss Emily Scott, a colored woman, who imbibed too freely, and who is not noted for her industry, was remanded to jail for one week on a charge of vagrancy.

William Kane was fined $3 or ten days.

Arthur Lanahan, a drunk, was fined $2.

Edward Moxley and James Coursey, two colored men, who fought, while intoxicated, were each fined $2. The two aforesaid attacked a white man in front of the Richmond House on Saturday evening about 7:30, and were making pretty fair headway, when two trusty limbs of the law gathered them in. Both men objected to being arrested and fought hard but without avail.

Richard Scott and Charles Morlarty, for being drunk and disorderly, were each fined $5 or 21 days.

COULDN'T PAY THE FINE

So This Vagrant Must Go to Jail
for Twenty Days.

Mrs. Harriet Chrysler, who some time ago was arrested for vagrancy, being financially embarrassed, was unable to raise her fine, and as a result became a resident at the county jail for twenty days.

Thomas Twenden, who was committed for trial on Saturday on a charge of criminal assault, appeared before Judge Elliott this morning. The young man was not ready to elect, whether he would be tried before the judge or jury, and the case was indefinitely postponed.

PRISONER PLOTTED MURDER

Conspired to Kill Jail Officials at Telegraph and Times.

Galt, Ont., July 29.—That Malcolm Macdonald, the self-confessed perpetrator of the burglaries on East Main street residences on May 23, is a desperate character, is indicated by a circumstance that has just come to light. Yesterday morning Chief Gorman received a telephone message from Governor Cook, of Berlin jail, stating that a plot had been discovered, hatched by this convict, to brain the governor and turnkey and set the prisoners at large.

The plot was disclosed by one of the prisoners, and immediate steps were taken to nip it in the bud. Macdonald was removed to a corridor by himself, where he will be kept under close surveillance until his removal to the Central Prison.

DON FRASER DEAD.

Windsor, Ont., July 29.—Don M. Fraser, aged 28 years, of this city, is dead, after a two-years' struggle with the "White Plague." Mr. Fraser had been with the Canadian Pacific Railway for seventeen years, filling various positions in the freight department. He had been traveling freight agent for some time past, in which position he had made many friends by his kind, courteous ways.

RAISULI MAY MURDER MACLEAN

Loss of Influence With Tribes May Drive Bandit to Desperate Deed.

Tangier, July 29.—People in Tangier are endeavoring to ascertain the extent to which the idea of the restoration of Raisuli, the brigand, to his lost governorship. Although, as the officials carefully reiterate, the negotiations for Sir Harry Maclean's release have not yet reached a stage where Raisuli's terms can be formulated, still it is quite certain that that will be the first and chief of his demands.
He did not need the capture of Kaid Maclean in order to obtain the Sultan's pardon for his past misdeeds, since that was already granted, but it was extremely desirable to obtain a license for future depredations. Moreover, ransom is quite a secondary consideration in Raisuli's mind, since a restoration to power implies opportunities of extortion which make any ransomable ransom seem trifling.
At the same time, however, ransom the Moorish Government may pay, or a British source provide, will be necessary for the distribution of his largesse among the surrounding tribes, who, since being included in the Sultan's pardon, are no longer completely under the outlaw's control.

Indeed, the general attitude of the seven or eight tribes in the surrounding Khasa Mountains is expected, surprisingly favorable to a return to allegiance to the Sultan, while two tribes in particular, the Besman and Elaseri, through whose country Sir Harry Maclean passed on his way from Aleskar, are reported to be anxious as to the extent of the responsibility which will attach to them in case anything happens to the kaid.
One of the chief causes of anxiety as regards Sir H. Maclean's personal safety is the desperate situation to which Raisuli's loss of influence in his following may reduce him. The two tribes named have been seriously considering the advisability of capturing both captives and bringing them together into Tangier. The Moors in the Khasa region are low caste, poor tribesmen, and will do anything for a little money. It is not doubted that Raisuli, in order to keep them in hand, has promised them a share in his spoils.

It is obvious that this commercial instinct, which with equal or greater effect, has appealed to the Moors, has also attracted others interested or having sold at command. But the difficulty is that Raisuli, in order to maintain his position, must be able to pay the ransom, and this is why Raisuli's restoration to authority is regarded as completely as possible. It is pointed out that the ransom would not necessarily be permanent.

Former Londoner in Indiana Writes of London in Early Days

Mr. W. J. Ashton, of Greencastle, Speaks of the McClary Firm—Was Once Apprentice.

The articles in The Advertiser of a couple of weeks ago, which dealt with the 60th anniversary of the McClary Manufacturing Company, have caused widespread interest, and many notices of them have been received from Advertiser readers.
One of the most interesting of these is from Mr. Walter J. Ashton, a former Londoner, who served his time as a tinsmith in the McClary works half a century ago, and who is now a justice of the peace at Greencastle, Ind. Mr. Ashton's letter, which is as follows, makes interesting reading:
An Old-Timer.

Greencastle, Putnam County, Ind., July 27, 1907.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
I received a copy of your paper of July 13, containing an account of the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the McClary Manufacturing Company. I have some recollections of the early days of the McClary tin-shop. On the 2nd day of January, 1850, I was bound an apprentice to Oliver McClary, as follows:

Indenture of Apprenticeship.
"Made this 2nd day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty, by and between Walter James Ashton, of the age of 15 years, and John Ashton, of the town of London, county of Middlesex, and Province of Canada, yeoman, of the one part, and Oliver McClary, of the same place, tinsmith, of the other part."

"Witnesseth, that for and in consideration of the covenant and agreement hereafter expressed and contained, he, the said Walter James Ashton, doth put himself apprentice to the said Oliver McClary, to learn his art, and with him, after the manner of an apprentice, to serve from the day of the date of these presents unto the full end and term of five years and two months, from the day of the date of these presents, from thence next following to be fully complete and served, during which term the said apprentice, his master faithfully shall serve, his secrets, keep his lawful commands everywhere gladly do; he shall do no damage to his said master, nor see to be done by others, but to his power shall let or forthwith give warning to his said master of the same, he shall not waste the goods of his said master, nor lend them unlawfully to any."

"This Was Strict."

"He shall not contract matrimony, nor shall he play at cards, dice, tables or any other unlawful games, whereby his said master may have any loss with his own goods or others during the said term, without leave of his said master. He shall neither buy nor sell. He shall not haunt taverns or playhouses, nor absent himself from his said master's service day or night unlawfully, but in all things as a faithful apprentice he shall behave himself towards his said master, and all his during the said term."

"The Other Part."

"And the said Oliver McClary, in consideration of the faithful service of the said Walter James Ashton, doth bind himself to teach him, to instruct and to instruct, finding and providing unto his said apprentice sufficient meat, drink, lodgings, and all other necessary comforts during the said term, and shall further, pay the sum of £10 in each and every year during said term, and shall likewise provide his said apprentice with all other work which he may be enabled to execute during the last year of said term, and shall pay and allow him for the same at the usual and customary rate for such."

"And for the true and faithful performance of this agreement and all and every, the said covenants hereinbefore expressed, the said parties doth bind themselves unto the other in the penal sum of £25, of the lawful money of Canada, firmly by these presents."

"Witness whereof the said parties above named have set their hands and seals the day and year first above written."

"Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of
"WALTER J. ASHTON
"OLIVER MCCLARY.
"H. Hull."

The above Ironclad document was executed by a man of the name of Benson, and signed, sealed and delivered at the Golden Ball Hotel, situated on the north side of Dundas street, between Richmond and Clarence streets, the landlord being Anson Strong, one of the early residents of London.

Mr. John McClary, the present head of the McClary Manufacturing Company, was at the time the foreman of what we thought the biggest tin shop west of Buffalo, N. Y.

In reading the account of the anniversary of this large and prosperous manufacturing company, my mind naturally went back to the early days—the beginning of the company. London was then but a small town, and was still smaller when my father, with his family, arrived in the village in 1844. I expect there are but few people now in London that lived there at the time of the date mentioned above.

Remembers Mr. Gibson.
I remember Mr. Gibson, the carpenter, and the site he built for Oliver McClary was the same shop I went to work in. It was situated on York street, west of Wellington street. The corner lot was afterwards occupied by a tavern and brick building and belonged to James Cousins, who occupied it. He was the old wood pump-maker. He made pumpkins and trees. At that time London, like the McClary shop, was a small place. It always gives me pleasure to learn of the advancement of London, and the old Londoners, as it is now 48 years since I came to reside in this, the prettiest town in Indiana. During that time I served in the Union army to help preserve the Union, and we did it.

I am now serving my fifth term of four years each as justice of the peace in my county. I remain, respectfully,
WALTER J. ASHTON.

OPEN-AIR SERVICES IN TECUMSEH PARK

A Very Large Crowd Was Again in Attendance on Sunday Night.

The open air services in Tecumseh Park, West London, being held Sunday evenings at 8:15, are meeting with success beyond all expectations of those who inaugurated the idea.
The work originated with the Kensington Mission, and its pastor, Rev. J. B. Freeman, assistant to Rev. W. L. Routledge, of the First Methodist Church. The other congregations in the west side were invited to join in. It was felt that during the hot weather, it would be more agreeable to meet in the open air, and also to reach large numbers who were not attending the services in the churches.

Tecumseh Park is situated right in the heart of the congested district over the bridge. It is large and commodious, and with its covered grandstand, affording seats to thousands of people in the open air, is an ideal place for the good work. The park is leased for the summer by the City Baseball League, and the president of the league, Mr. Arthur Beale, and the executive very cheerfully and readily granted the use of it, free of cost, to Mr. Freeman for the good cause they were undertaking.

The hearty and noble response of the people has encouraged the pastors to plan for even better facilities, and more workers. If possible, electric lights will be installed, and more musical instruments provided, and more speakers engaged.

One fact worthy of notice is brought out by these meetings. That is, that the churches are not reaching the people, and that vast numbers are not availing themselves of religious services when held in the open air and in a convenient place. Chief Williams has lent his kindly aid and sympathy to the cause, and the officers on duty have been untiring in their efforts to assist in the work.

Last evening the meeting was in charge of Rev. I. B. Wallin, pastor of Empress Avenue Methodist Church, and the address of the evening was given by Rev. J. Ross of the Talbot Street Baptist Church. A number signified their desire to lead a new life.

Mr. Ernest Littlejohn, of the Kensington Mission, had charge of the singing. Next Sabbath evening Rev. Mr. Ross will be in charge, and addresses will be given by prominent workers to be announced later on.

The attendance last evening was fully one-third larger than the great attendance of the Sunday before.

NEWS OF PORT STANLEY

Carnival of Fun at Erie Rest—Fire Promptly Extinguished.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Port Stanley, July 27. — This has been a great carnival week for Erie Rest. On Monday evening a very large representation of the summerites at Erie Rest, gathered on Mrs. John Macpherson's spacious veranda to discuss ways and means of conducting a great social function on the sands of Erie. Mr. Vivian Reeve was appointed master of ceremonies; Mrs. Charles Keene, secretary; Mr. T. Knott, treasurer; Mrs. H. P. Lang, convener of sporting committee; Miss Knott, convener of refreshment committee; Mr. Cuttle, convener of grounds committee, and Miss Whittingham, convener of the programme committee. Every person at the meeting took hold of the scheme with enthusiasm, and contributions were liberally made. Mr. George Peters, of London, was engaged to cater for the occasion, so on Wednesday evening he was on hand with the goods. At 6 o'clock 125 beachers sat down to a repast fit for royalty. Every thing went merrily on. Even the small boy got his fill of pastry and then commenced (for there is never a picnic without races), when, lo! the sky grew dark, the wind began to blow, and then the games were called off till Friday evening. Everyone succeeded in gaining shelter before the terrific storm broke over the beautiful valley. On Friday night at 7 o'clock sharp an even larger crowd than that of Wednesday evening assembled on the beach, and the postponed games were once more commenced. First came the biscuit contest. Every gentleman was required to eat two and win the prize. The man who could whistle first was considered the victor of the contest. Mr. Vivian Reeve managed to get away with his biscuits before the others got nicely started. The fat women's race was very amusing. Mrs. John Macpherson showed herself to be very swift and won the prize. Mr. Wm. Ward was the funmaker of the evening. His witty sayings almost convulsed the ladies. A monster bonfire was started and a lengthy programme of songs and recitations was run off. Last, but by no means least, there was a beautiful display of fireworks. Everyone then clasped hands around the camp-fire and sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King," the party breaking up about 11 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Delapant, of Buffalo, are visiting Mr. John Croden at the Unedarest Cottage, New Orchard Beach.

Miss May Belton, of London, and Master Bert Delapant, of Buffalo, have been the guests of Miss Gladys Croden at Unedarest Cottage, Orchard Beach.

What might have been a very destructive fire was narrowly averted last evening. A gasoline stove in the cottage of W. K. Cameron, Orchard Beach, exploded. The cry of "Fire!" was sounded and the neighbors rushed to the scene with pails of water. The blaze was soon extinguished, and no damage was done, save giving the inmates of the house a bad night.

Dr. Luton, of St. Thomas, is the guest of Mrs. Turnbull, Fraser Heights.

A new organ costing in the neighborhood of $350 will be installed in the Methodist Church next week.

Advertiser Correspondence

The Swearing Habit.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: At the band concert on Friday evening I was strongly impressed by the fact that our city is one of the worst places, if not the worst, I have ever been in with regard to the wholesale use of foul language in public places, especially before ladies. I have heard several women complain of this and have noticed the evil many times in the park and on the streets.

Even in the Western States I did not hear indecent expressions from the toughs so much before ladies. This lack of civility and many other vulgaries, forces me to believe that there is a certain amount of truth in an editorial I saw in the San Francisco Chronicle about two years ago as follows: "The divine Sarah Bernhardt accused the Canadians at Quebec of lack of culture and they, to prove the truth of her statements, mobbed her."

Of all forms of vice, swearing is the most senseless. Chewing, drinking, smoking, or even fighting, have certain elements of pleasure in them, gratification of appetite, that all the lower animals share with men. But this cannot be said of swearing or using obscene language. It is a vile habit that ought to be eradicated, even if the city has to resort to the whipping post.

The habits of hanging around street corners and of spitting on the sidewalk and on ladies' dresses, so prevalent in this city, are other evils that ought to be stamped out. London is about as tolerant of these vices as towns and villages generally are, although it is large enough to be more civilized.

AT GRAND BEND

Visitor From Coney Island—Storm on the Lake—Bathers in Trouble.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Dr. O. Sanderson, of Detroit, G. M. Wedd, of Berlin; Capt. Burley, Mrs. Brown and Capt. Reaburn and family, of Port Frank, came down from Port Frank in the yacht.

Mrs. Alley and Miss Lillian Alley, of Detroit, are staying at the Levitt House.

The Misses Irene Gray and Annie Milroy, of London, are the guests of the Misses McCrimmon, at Re've d'ete. Mrs. McDougall and family, of Stratford, are occupying Restholm.

Sam Crawford, of London, is the guest of Mr. Klinger at Ruffaurede. Messrs. Norman Racey and Harvey Laey, of St. Marys, and Melvin Hoskin, of Stratford, are tenting here.

Mrs. Conrad B. Smith, and family, of London, who have spent the past two weeks here at Neverdunhill, left for their home on Friday.

The Grand Bend summer resort is honored this year by having amongst its campers no less a celebrity than Mr. Robert Alexander Weldon McDonald, of Coney Island. Mr. McDonald has made himself a great favorite in camp, and his departure will be regretted by his many friends here.

Mrs. Ruby and family, of Berlin, are encamped here at Hurona.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mathewson, and Mrs. and Miss King, of London, motored here on Friday, and spent the day at the Imperial Hotel.

One of the heaviest storms of this year took place on Thursday night. Early Friday morning the heavy sea was an interesting sight for the early risers. Later in the morning the water grew rougher, and by 10 a.m. the waves had completely washed across the pier and formed an island of it, coming around in front and joining the "cut" there. This is the first time this has occurred this season.

At the Brenner House there are: Messrs. H. Ellis, S. J. Prices and Geo. E. Beatty, of Toronto; W. H. Beatty, of London; and Mrs. Rogers and Beatrice Reid, of London.

The heavy undercurrent in the lake near the pier almost caused a couple of fatalities on Thursday afternoon. Two young men, tired out by repeated efforts to gain shore, had to be pulled up on the wharf and ad summum. It was some time before they were in a fit condition to be on their feet again. However, luck favored them this time, but "luck" took the form of a nearby people, who were able to assist them to shore.

The Theaters

Tonight at Springbank the Stoddart Stock Company will open an extended engagement. This company needs no introduction to Londoners, for it played the entire season at Springbank last year, and by sheer merit it made money.

Manager Stewart is authority for the statement this season that the company will be found to be stronger than when it last appeared in London, and he asks to be judged on the merits of his plays and players alone.

Bennett's Opening.

Tonight Bennett's Unique will open in the Oddfellows' Block, corner of Dundas street and Park avenue.

Manager Efner declares that this new little theatre will be found to be the finest of its kind in Canada, and that every effort will be made to cater to ladies and children.

Arrangements have been made to secure the latest moving picture films and also the very newest illustrated songs as they come out, so that Londoners can rely upon seeing all that is bright, crisp and up-to-date at the Unique.

The admission will be only 5 cents for the entire show.

Opening of the Grand.

It is scarcely likely that the Grand Opera House will open its doors to the public earlier than the first week in September.

Work on the redecorating of the house has been going on for some weeks, and it looks as though several weeks more will be required to complete the job.

The loges have been done away with on the lower floor, and the boxes have been lowered a foot or more, so that they do not now obstruct the view to the stage.

THEMES OF LONDON PULPITS SUNDAY

Sermons Preached in Many Churches to Large Congregations.

Though many are holidaying at the different summer resorts, the congregations are keeping up very well in all the city churches.

Rev. Mr. Coldille, of North Shields, England, for a number of years assistant to the late Rev. Dr. Watson (Ian McLaren), preached at both services in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. Mr. Coldille is a very impressive speaker, and both his addresses were very much enjoyed.

Rev. James Livingstone, of Wellington Street Methodist Church, preached special services at St. Johns, yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Langford of that place, occupying the city pulpit. The St. Johns Church has just been renovated, and both pastor and people have reason to be proud of its beautiful appearance.

Mr. Livingstone occupied his pulpit at night, preaching from the text, "Visiting the iniquities of the fathers upon the children." He put aside the idea of environment molding a man's character, pointing out many great characters of history that had attained their position from the very humblest surroundings. The reverend gentleman emphasized the necessity, however, of parents living pure lives that no discredit might fall upon the children.

Rev. W. L. Rutledge preached morning and evening at the First Methodist Church. In the morning, speaking on "The relations of Christians to one another, and to Christ." The evening subject was "The perspective of right living." Mark viii, 21.

Miss Pearl Ellar sang at the morning service, and Miss Beatrice Hunt rendered a beautiful solo in connection with the evening service. She sang under difficulties, as the organ failed temporarily, but the young lady continued unaccompanied in a manner to delight the congregation.

Rev. J. J. Ross occupied the pulpit at both services in Talbot Street Baptist Church yesterday, in the morning speaking from James vi, 1, "The Necessity of Thinking Alike." His evening's theme was "A Sunday Evening Walk in the Country."

Rev. G. A. Andrew spoke especially to young men in the Memorial Church on Sunday evening. The remarks were based on the life of Daniel.

Rev. F. E. Malott preached morning and evening in Colborne Street Methodist Church. The morning's text was I. Peter ii, 15. "For so is the will of God, that by well doing we may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men."

In the evening Mr. Malott spoke on "The Best Things in the Best Places." The best thing was, the speaker pointed out, the Bible, and many illustrations were used showing what a power a mastery of its contents had given some great men.

PERRINS PICNIC
GRAND SUCCESS

A Thousand People Took in the Big Outing on Saturday.

The employees of D. S. Perrin & Co., on Saturday held their 35th annual picnic to Port Stanley. There were fully 1,000 of the employees and their friends present, and the day proved an ideal one from all viewpoints.

The picnicers say they suffered only one disappointment, and this was in the coldness of the water, which made it rather unpleasant for bathing. Otherwise, all who went to the picnic had the time of their lives, and when they arrived home Saturday night they felt the better for the outing, even though they were good and tired.

The bakers and the confectioners played a game of water polo, and the sharp exercise kept them from feeling the cold. The confectioners had the satisfaction of beating the bakers.

Praise for Committees.

In the evening a dance was held, which was patronized by several hundred couples. Many valuable prizes were won and awarded promptly, so that many who were at the picnic brought back with them dainty souvenirs of the Perrin picnic.

Great credit is due to the following gentlemen who composed the different committees: Master of ceremonies, T. W. McFarland; chairman, C. Fitzwalter; secretary, C. H. McNeill; starters, Alf Gregory, C. H. McNeill, Charles Fitzwalter, Wm. Evans, Geo. Anderson and J. Middleton; judges, T. W. McFarland, W. J. Knott, T. Motley and H. Bayley; storekeeper, J. Baldwin; dance committee, W. Evans (chairman), Alf Gregory, J. Middleton

In the roof of Durham Castle, England, there has been discovered a bucket containing bullets and gunpowder. It is believed to have been walled up about the year 1641, when the castle was being prepared to withstand a Scottish raid. The bullets are molded spheres of two sizes and consist of a little over 99 per cent of lead, with iron and silver, the traces of bismuth arsenic and antimony. The gunpowder is
