Local and General

The Epworth Leaguers are planning to have a social evening together on August 12th.

Miss Maggie Pinkerton of Westport has been for a few days the guest of Mrs. H. C. Leggett.

The household goods of Mrs. Wright are being shipped to-day to her new home in Bannockburn.

Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin spent Sunday and Monday this week in Montreal with her daughter, Mrs. Claude Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Berney and daughter, Miss May, are at Charleston Lake this week, occupying the Beecher cottage.

A lawn party and entertainment is to be held at Glen Ruell on the evening of Friday, August 16. Refreshments will be served from 6 to 8 and then a first class programme will be presented in the church, consisting of male quartettes, solos, duets, readings, &c. Among those invited to take part in the programme are Rev's J. H. Philp, I. Nelson, T. H. Billings, G. Stafford, Mr. R. P. Stafford, Miss S. Orton, and Miss G. Forth. Tickets, 25c.

A Clayton minister was approached some time ago by a young man who wished to arrange with him to perform the marriage ceremony. The time was set, but at the appointed hour the bride couple did not put in an appearance. Meeting the young man on the street a week or two later his reverence inquired if he had some one else tie the knot. "No," he replied. "I changed my mind and bought a motor boat."

Mr. G. W. Sherman returned to his home in Plum Hollow last week from Micksburg, near Renfrew, where he had been making cheese. He reports a great shrinkage in the milk supply in that section owing to the dry weather. Mr. John Chamels, writing from his cheese factory near Gouverneur, N.Y., reports a similar shortage in the milk supply, and thinks that several factories in that district will close before the season ends.

The Railway Commission has given judgment in the application of W. N. Robertson, of Toronto, under Section 26 of the Railway Act, directing the Grand Trunk to issue third class tickets at the rate of one penny per mile, and to run third class passenger carriages attached to one train per day each way throughout the length of the line. The rate was provided for in the original charter of the railway. The Grand Trunk will appeal against the order.

The pupils, teachers and friends of the Athens Methodist S.S. had a very enjoyable outing at Delta Park on Thursday last. There was a good attendance from Athens and Glen Elbe and a number from Delta spent the day at the Park. The baseball match and numerous athletic events for young and old formed an interesting programme. Following refreshments, the ladies of the W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting in the pavilion. It was rather rough on the water for boating, though a few indulged in this pastime.

The Reporter draws attention to the appeal made last week, and repeated this week, in behalf of Adam Emmons. His condition is such as should enlist the practical sympathy of all who recognize their Christian duty as burden bearers and burden sharers. A Brockville resident, reading the appeal, has contributed $2.00. The whole amount asked for could be raised without unduly taxing any person, and in this section, where all the particulars of the case are well known, it may reasonably be expected that there will be a generous response. The Reporter will be pleased to acknowledge, from week to week, all contributions to this fund.

C. Hanson and A. Belier, the two whisky "spotters" of the Ontario Government who have been making trouble for hotelmen at Ottawa, Almonte, and other places, are said to be under bail to appear before Police Magistrate Beckett of Beckett's Landing on charges of being drunk and disorderly. The two informers it is alleged, had been trying to stir up some trouble in Kempsville and Oxford Mills, and it was in the latter place that they are said to have gone past the limit in the amount of liquor they consumed themselves and the quality of language they used towards all and sundry.

Local and General

Mr. B. Loverin has just secured a very desirable building site and grounds near the Hermitage, Charleston Lake, and will at once proceed with the erection of a cottage.

The farmer bends the knee to none, and is less disturbed by the world wide reign of graft and greed than any of his fellows. May he live long and prosper—this son of the soil who is the balance wheel of the universe.

Florence and Master Gerald Scovill have been in Newboro this week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bolton. From there Miss Florence will join Smith's Falls friends for a holiday on the Rideau, the guest of her cousin, Miss Lillian Layng, M.A.

While on the ledges at Cold Springs, Charleston Lake, this week, Mr. B. Loverin and party found bushes heavily laden with ripe fruit resembling red currants, but larger. They are said to be the original wild currants of this country, now very rare. Mrs. Loverin canned a quantity and they were pronounced delicious. A sample of the fruit may be seen at the Reporter office.

Messrs. A. M. Eaton and Henry Hegerman are engaged in making a very desirable improvement in the lower hall of the high school. The partition that divides the hall into two rooms is being removed and an arch substituted; then access is given to the cloak rooms so that students entering late can reach their respective rooms without disturbing any other room. It is a very commendable change.

The Athens Public School Board has engaged Mr. James E. Burchell of Spencerville as principal of the school. He is fully qualified and will have charge of the Model department this fall term. For several years Mr. Burchell has been doing successful continuation class work in Spencerville, and comes here very highly recommended. He expects to move his family to Athens this month.

Athens won a fair share of the prizes given at the mammoth picnic at Delta on Monday. M. Milroy won 2nd in the mile race, Miss Birdie Gainford 1st in the girls race, Miss Gladys Gainford 3rd prize in the little girls' race, Col. Mullen 2nd in the fat man's race, and last, but not least, the prettiest baby bailed from Athens, Miss Zella Topping. A goodly number of contestants were in every race, which made them very interesting.

When a little girl many Athenians had the pleasure of seeing Miss Birdie Griffith dance at parlor gatherings, and they were naturally interested when they learned that as a professional she was to give an exhibition at Delta on Monday. Of her performance the Brockville Times says: Miss Beatrice of Rice and Barton's Stock Co., New York, delighted the spectators with vaudeville features. The toe and heel dancing by this talented young lady, who is Miss Birdie Griffith, formerly of Brockville, was never excelled in these parts. She ranks high and deservedly so, in her profession.

With no previous knowledge of the subject, and after only three months' study, a student of the Shortland Department of the Kingston Business College completed the shorthand-typing course and accepted a lucrative position as stenographer in the Head office of the Temiskaming & Northern Railway where he is now employed. What this school has done for others it can do for you. Enter at any time. Rates are very moderate. Send for catalogue. H. F. Metcalfe, Principal.

As the first civic holiday train, loaded to the limit, whizzed through Athens a passenger desiring to get off at this station decided to risk a jump. He struck the ground alight at the crossing and then did a few vaudeville stunts that were not on the regular programme of the day. Fortunately, he escaped injury, and may comfort himself with the reflection that he is not the first person to miscalculate the speed of a train.

AT THE BIG Summer Sale

The goods and not the talk about them, makes this sale. It isn't because of large type and big space in the newspapers, it isn't because of persuasive argument, it isn't because of any special public preference for this store. It isn't for any of these reasons that this sale is in records of sale far beyond anything in our history. It is because of the high quality of the goods and the extreme low prices that the chief July activity centres here.

Chief of China's Beggars

In China beggars at once attract a strange attention around every corner, and on the main roads, in market places, at the city gates, on the banks of the river, and especially in the temple parks, there are beggars, here, here, here, and there, everywhere, and a more pitiable sight one cannot see. Many of them are crippled or afflicted with leprosy, and all are dressed miserably in rags.

I made a trip in a houseboat to Soochow, moving through the numerous canals in the city and stopping when I wished to take a view. I landed by a clean, fresh painted, large yamen, spicily white, with blue black tiles on the roof, and placed my camera against the wall near a photograph of a big pagoda on the other side of the canal, writes Carl Beck in the Gentleman's Magazine.

This led me to make inquiry about the system of begging in China, which is wonderfully well organized and a serious business, like all other institutions in the Middle Kingdom. The chief function, so to speak, concludes by the half dozen and very fine clothing, and is a most interesting part of society—but only where he is not known. As a mark of his dignity he moves about with his hands in his pockets, and is allowed to beg by the city authorities. He also has the power of life and death over his beggary subjects and punishes all offences committed by them.

The beggar chief is a regular attendant at the marriage ceremonies and funeral processions of private families in order to get his pay for keeping away his hungry crowd of beggars, who are always under the festival or procession in a disagreeable, noisy way. I was told that the beggar chief of Soochow has an income of about $1,500 a year. The chief of the one in Shanghai city is worth about $5,000. Most storekeepers have an agreement with the beggar chief to keep his "staff" away. They pay about $1 a year each, and in return for this trifling amount the chief gives a printed receipt to the storekeeper, which the latter has paid his tax and is exempt from the demands of beggars.

There are different kinds of beggars. In the case of the "old man's button" have probably been parallel in the world, as some of them are descendants of the ancient Chinese dynasty or directly related to the present reigning imperial house. They are scattered all over the country, and are a number in Peking, 10,000 and are specially recognized because they are allowed to wear garments of the imperial yellow of different shades. Characters are painted in black on the back and front of their robes to denote their profession. They wear either a straw hat or a velvet cap ornamented with a brass button.

When first I saw them I took them to be old degraded officials, for there are hundreds of them in the city. They carry a wooden bell in their hands to announce their arrival. As a rule they are over 60 years of age and have no family to support them, and they are all allowed to beg for more money than the ordinary craft and are furnished with a license from the Magistrate. They are, of course, too aristocratic to be under the rule of the ordinary beggar chief.

In Nanking the beggar chief is a member of the family of the Ming dynasty, who was a beggar himself. The rise from beggar to imperial beggar is the record of any dynasty in Europe. In Nanking the beggar chief is a member of the family of the Ming dynasty, who was a beggar himself. The rise from beggar to imperial beggar is the record of any dynasty in Europe.

MAKING THE "BIG STICK" RIDICULOUS.

A fire which broke out near the powder magazine of the French battleship Hoche at Toulon on the night of Friday last very nearly resulted in a duplication of the recent disaster whereby the battleship Iena was destroyed, accompanied by great loss of life. The Hoche was saved by sinking her in a slip to prevent the spread of the flames. Since the beginning of the year an extraordinarily large number of more or less serious mishaps have occurred in the French navy. Here is the list:

On January 11 the submarine Algerian sank at her moorings at Cherbourg. On the same day the submarine "X" became unmanageable at sea, but was rescued and towed to port.

On February 2 the battleship Brennus broke from her moorings during a storm and went ashore near Hyeres.

On February 8 torpedo boat No. 339 lost nine men by an explosion aboard during a speed trial.

On February 19 the cruiser Jean Bart went ashore on the northwest coast of Africa and became a total loss.

On February 28 the destroyer Kabyle lost three men through an explosion in her boiler room.

On March 5 the submarine Gymnote, while manoeuvring under water, struck a rock and parted her seams, but succeeded in rising to the surface and was towed ashore. She has since then been sunk and lost.

On March 12 the battleship Iena was rent by the explosion of her after-magazine at Toulon, the vessel becoming a total loss, over one hundred of her crew being killed.

On March 14 the coast defence ship Fulminante was struck by a torpedo during a manoeuvre off Brest and towed to port in a sinking condition.

On March 17 the destroyer Epee rammed torpedo boat No. 263 off the coast of Corsica, bursting a steam pipe and scalding three men to death. The torpedo boat was beached.

On March 18 the battleship Martel returned to Toulon from a trial trip leaking badly by the stern.

On May 19 the cruiser Chancy was wrecked on the Sardinia Islands off the coast of China and abandoned.

On May 29 a condenser tube on the battleship Patrie burst, scalding a number of stokers and the vessel was obliged to give up her trial trip.

On May 30 the machinery of the battleship Democritee broke down in the course of her trials and she had to be laid up.

On July 3 a joint of the main steam supply of the battleship Justice gave way, filling the stokehold with steam and causing a panic, though only one stoker was seriously injured.

This is an exceptionally bad record, but it shows what may happen even in a fairly well disciplined navy and in time of peace. It shows how dependent a fleet is on well-equipped and nearby bases, where repairs can be made with neatness and dispatch. It shows that drydocks and navy yards are essential accessories. Without which war at hand a war fleet would soon become an assembly of cripples. It shows that if it is desired to "mass our naval strength" even temporarily on the Pacific it will not suffice to mass our battleships there; the accessories will have to be moved out along with the ships. There is a drydock at Mare Island; but, says a Washington news despatch, "it might as well be in China until a channel shall be dredged to bring it within reach of big ships." At the Fremont navy yard the trouble is the lack of skilled labor, and "some special inducements will have to be held out by the department to get trained workers to make their homes at this place." We might get ready for a "massing of the fleet" on the Pacific in five or six years; the precipitation of the battleships into those waters at this time is likely to result in a fizzle. The "Big Stick" would look like a fool's rattle.

ITCH

Be Careful in the Water.

As to the paralytic cramps, which sometimes seize those in the water, this is a mishap which cannot, of course, be foreseen. Every swimmer, however, should take the possibility of such a disaster into consideration before he makes a venturesome effort. The individual who cannot swim should never wade in water that is above the waist line without wearing a life preserver. Better still, he should never go out over knee-deep until he learns to swim. As to the fool that rocks the boat, what more can be added to the columns of literature that have already been published for his discouragement? Apparently he cannot be weeded out; it is impossible to eliminate him as the evil genius of the festivities of many and many a summer outing. It would not, perhaps, be a bad idea to organize a vigilance committee for every pleasuring party that goes down to the seaside or to the riverside. Such a committee might observe preliminary symptoms of the boat-rocking craze and deal with the boat rocker in time to prevent tragic consequences.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

The most prized decoration in Austria corresponds to the British Victoria Cross, and its value arises from the rigorous conditions for obtaining it and the fidelity with which they have been observed. It is known as the Maria Theresia Cross, and a few days ago there occurred the 10th anniversary of its foundation. Since that time there have been only 83 recipients. "It shall be an inviolable rule," says the foundation statute, "that no person, whoever he may be, shall be admitted to the order on any other condition, no matter how long service or wounds received before the enemy, and not any reasons other than long and meritorious service on his hands on this subject," adds the Emperor's founder. The recipients of the cross are ennobled ipso facto.—From the London Globe.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, etc.

Ranji's New Life. (London Daily Mail.) Kumar Shri Ranjitsinhji, now the Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawangrain, is not likely to visit Great Britain for some time. Writing to a Cambridge friend of long standing, he says that he is busily engaged in his spare hours in improving the surroundings of his palace. Before Maclaren left a cricket match was arranged, the Lancashire captain leading one side and "Ranji" the other. The match ended in an easy victory for Maclaren, who secured all the best men, the Jam having to be content to take on his side a large array of pines. The Jam says there is no possible chance of his being able to bring an Indian team of cricketers to Great Britain, as at present there is no developed talent to be had.

Tomb of Romulus?

A monumental tomb of colossal size was found the other day during the excavations which are being made on the Palatin Hill at Rome. The archaeologists believe that the monument dates from the seventh century before Christ and that it marks the burial place of Romulus or another of the early Kings of Rome.

RIVER OF SALT WATER.

Flows inland in a Greek Island and Then Disappears.

One of the most curious phenomena of geography is found on the southern coast of the Island of Cephalonia, in Greece. It is a stream of salt water which for an unknown period has left the almost tideless sea and flowed inland with a volume sufficient to furnish water power to two mills. For some generations the mills were operated by undershot wheels which took their power from this little river of ocean water. They supplied flour to the people of the island until recently, but now they have been dismantled owing to the competition of larger and better equipped mills.

The sea enters the land at four points where the coast is practically on a level with the salt water surface. The four initial streams unite to form the little river that flows inland in a broken rocky channel until it finally disappears in the limestone rock and sinks into the earth.

This inland flow has continued almost certainly for several centuries. It is far too great for removal by evaporation, chemical combination, or even physical absorption by pores or caverns in the limestone. What comes of the water that is constantly flowing inland and disappears finally in the fissures that have opened in the limestone?

The question has been the subject of much study, but no conclusive answer has been given. It is probable that there is an underground channel which carries the water back into the sea at no great depth below the surface. The constant influx of salt water at Cephalonia is duplicated, as far as is known, at no other point of the world.

His Attention Elsewhere. (Washington Star.) "Do you think your name will be handed down in history?" "I can't discuss that," answered Society Sororism. "I'm too busy keeping my brush being passed up by the 'lecturers'."

THE SAND CURE

The Many Uses It Can Be Put to Preserve Health.

A writer in the New York Sun says: "To those who are at the seaside I would like to offer a little advice which, if followed will improve the general health; at least I have found it beneficial to me for a number of years. Instead of propping up along the shore in the hot sun, go in bathing, and on coming out of the water go through the following sand formula: Fill your hair with sand and rub the scalp thoroughly; this will remove all dandruff. Rub your face with sand; this will remove all skin impurities, such as blackheads, pimples, and will help to flatten out wrinkles and improve your complexion. Wipe your mouth with sand and rinse it; repeat this often, and it will improve your speech. Rub your teeth with sand, also the gums in order to harden them. Rub sand between your teeth. Rub sand in your nostrils in order to harden and smooth the skin and mucous membrane. This will make you less susceptible to colds in the head, besides being conducive to cleanliness. Rub your feet with sand until the callous skin is removed. If the skin is very coarse use a brush. Rub sand between your toes in order to harden the skin. Rub your chest with sand. Have somebody rub the hollow of your back with sand."

It has often been remarked that wheat is thrown into the garbage can in our rich country would feed all the poor, says Harper's Bazar. There are half loaves of white bread—that a number of good dishes could be made from them. If you know how good this bread is when dipped in water and put back into the oven for a little while; and why do we have anything like cracker dust when we can have fine grated bread?

No Occupation There.

The artistic girl who arranges the furniture of her own room to suit the demands of her own nature is apt to think that in the case of penitentiary pressure she would be able to earn an easy and lucrative living by undertaking house decoration for the general public. In this idea she is utterly mistaken, for those who have succeeded in this branch have done so by arduous labor and a course of study in the decorative and applied arts.

When you Leave Home. The holiday season is the burglar's busy time. The deserted appearance of most houses where owners are off on holiday gives their emptiness away to every passer-by. It is far wiser to leave the house looking as much occupied as possible, with the blinds up.

Take care that your letter box in the front door is a box, and not a mere opening, or an open wire cage. If a burglar can pass his hand through he will soon get a wire loop over the latch, and so gain admission.

Bolts are of very little use as door fastenings. They can be cut through easily with a small saw of hardened steel. Have your front door fastened by a chain. The chain can't be cut, because it is loose and offers no resistance. The ordinary window catches can be pushed back by the insertion of a knife between the sashes. Where this is not possible all the burglar needs do is to use his jemmy as a lever and force up the lower sash, when the screws of the catch come away from the woodwork or the catch breaks. Fasten your windows with sash bolts or thumb screws.

When a burglar knows that he cannot enter downstairs he will frequently make an attempt from the roof. All trapdoors should be kept bolted on the lower side, and all upstairs windows should be fully fastened as those on the ground floor.

Drowned at Manoeuvres. (London Daily Mail.) While the 3rd Dragoon Guards and the 11th Hussars were conducting manoeuvres on the seashore at Rush (Co. Dublin), a bridge of boats, constructed across an inlet of the sea, collapsed and precipitated thirty-seven men into deep water.

Great gallantry was displayed by the swimmers in their efforts to save those who could not swim, and in the end all the men got ashore except Private Easton, of the Dragoons, and Private Peach, of the Hussars, who lost their lives in attempting to save their comrades.

Buried Alive. (London Daily Mail.) The risk of premature burial at the present time is greater than twenty years ago, said Dr. J. Stenson Hooker in presiding on Friday at a meeting held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet street, under the auspices of the Association for the Prevention of Premature Burial.

Formerly it was an uncommon thing to keep a body some six or seven days, but the hurry and scurry of modern life seemed even to have entered into the death chamber.

Statistics compiled by two members of the association from medical sources along showed that 149 people were known to have been buried alive, 219 to have had narrow escapes from premature burial, while ten had been dissected alive.

Resolutions were carried supporting the association's bill, which urges the establishment of waiting mortuaries where doubtful cases may be kept until the fact of death has been conclusively ascertained.

It is said that once when the late Dr. Tanner, the Irish M. Take care that your letter box in the front door is a box, and not a mere opening, or an open wire cage. If a burglar can pass his hand through he will soon get a wire loop over the latch, and so gain admission.

Bolts are of very little use as door fastenings. They can be cut through easily with a small saw of hardened steel. Have your front door fastened by a chain. The chain can't be cut, because it is loose and offers no resistance. The ordinary window catches can be pushed back by the insertion of a knife between the sashes. Where this is not possible all the burglar needs do is to use his jemmy as a lever and force up the lower sash, when the screws of the catch come away from the woodwork or the catch breaks. Fasten your windows with sash bolts or thumb screws.

When a burglar knows that he cannot enter downstairs he will frequently make an attempt from the roof. All trapdoors should be kept bolted on the lower side, and all upstairs windows should be fully fastened as those on the ground floor.

Drowned at Manoeuvres. (London Daily Mail.) While the 3rd Dragoon Guards and the 11th Hussars were conducting manoeuvres on the seashore at Rush (Co. Dublin), a bridge of boats, constructed across an inlet of the sea, collapsed and precipitated thirty-seven men into deep water.

Great gallantry was displayed by the swimmers in their efforts to save those who could not swim, and in the end all the men got ashore except Private Easton, of the Dragoons, and Private Peach, of the Hussars, who lost their lives in attempting to save their comrades.

WIVES WHO NEVER SPEAK

The Silent Korean Bride—Woman That Knew Her Oath. (London Tit-Bits.)

The Korean woman who speaks or even nods on her wedding day immediately becomes an object of ridicule and loses caste. Neither threat nor prayer must move her, for the whole household is ever on the alert to catch a single muttered syllable. Her period of silence of ten lasts for a week or more, and when complete silence is broken she only uses her tongue for the most necessary uses.

Some sixty years ago a native of Pennsylvania undertook, for a wage of $30, to remain mute for the first month of her marriage. Her husband, not being in the secret, left her, only to return later when he was apprised of the real reason of her silence.

A Brussels couple named Dupont quarrelled so bitterly on their wedding day that the wife vowed that her husband should never hear her voice again. His entreaties went for nothing, and to her dying day she kept to the letter of her oath.

A Brunn woman whose husband was in hiding from the authorities inadvertently betrayed his whereabouts to a police spy. As a result, the man was taken and received a term of imprisonment. So much did she take to heart this misfortune, brought about by her gossip, that she resolved to remain mute to the end of her life.

Kings Making History.

History used to be made by Bismarcks and Cavouris, by Metternichs and Thierses, by Gortschakovs and Beaconsfields. Now it is being made by Emperor Williams and King Edwardes and Victor Emmanuel. At least four continental monarchies have rulers more important than they have statesmen in them, including the venerable Emperor who is holding together the explosive fragments of Austria-Hungary. It cannot be denied that the personal element lends a new picturesqueness to current history. It is far more curious and interesting to see King Edward and Emperor William competing in the Mediterranean for the alliance of young Alfonso and Victor Emmanuel than it was to see the dust of Prime Ministers pulling wires in the administrative antechamber of Parliament.

Mercy Practising.

"I wonder," said the tall man in the suit of faded black, "if I could interest you in a new and cheap edition of the works of Anthony Trollope?" "I don't know," answered the man at the desk. "Go ahead and let me hear what you have to say."

The book salesman began at once. "Every student of literature knows," he said, "that Anthony Trollope was one of England's great novelists. It is true, perhaps, that he wrote for a limited class. And so on, for ten minutes. "No," said the man at the desk, turning again to his work, "you haven't succeeded in interesting me."

"That's all right," rejoined the tall man in the suit of faded black, replacing the manuscript in his pocket with imperturbable composure. "I have just started out canvassing with these books, and I was only practising on you. Good afternoon."—From the Chicago Tribune.

A Hopping Match.

A match, twenty hops for 10 guineas, took place at Loughborough, Leicestershire, between James Shipley of Nottingham, and a person named Moore, of Leicester. It was very closely contested, so much so that bets of 4 to 1 were laid and taken on each side. The match, however, was won by Shipley.

On measuring the distance it appeared that Shipley had hopped 75 yards 9 or 10 inches and Moore something more than 75 yards. The latter was to have run against Shipley on the same day, 140 yards for 40 guineas, but declined, and in consequence forfeited his deposit.

Religious Fervor of Danish Smart Set. The Queen of Denmark will hardly appreciate all the gay doings got up in London in her honor, for she is a royalist devoted only to good works and caring less than nothing for the sinful pride of worldly affairs. I understand it causes real distress to her Majesty when she has to attend a ball. This brought a social revolution in Copenhagen, which, once the most light-hearted and frivolous of capitals, now given over to somber and a rigorous pietistic revival such as once in fifty years or so seems to sweep over northern Europe.

One who knows the "inside track" in Copenhagen assures me that it is now the fashion in that once lively city to give parties at which the guests get up in turns and confess their sins aloud. This is a custom, which, if introduced into London, would add considerably to the piquancy of our present monotonous entertainments and give an interest to the season. Her Majesty would stare from Arctic skies and lack of social enterprise.—From the London Sketch.

JUMPED TO A WATERY GRAVE.

Mother and Son Go Down to Death in Canal Trying to Escape From Explosion of Gasoline.

Rochester, Aug. 5.—Jumping into the canal to escape being burned to death, when their motor-bus burst into flames, Mrs. Margaret Clark, of No. 265 Sherman street, and her son, James Clark, aged 9 years, were drowned at 7:30 o'clock last night. Three others jumped into the water, but they managed to reach the bank. The fire was caused by the head of a match used by one of the excursionists to light his pipe, flying off and landing on a gasoline soaked matting in the bottom of the boat.

Besides the drowned persons, those in the boat were Claude Heindbrook, James Maddock, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Immediately after striking the match the recently and this was its first trip. The party embarked at the Lexington avenue canal bridge and had proceeded only a short distance when it was found that gasoline was leaking from one of the pipes. Mr. Gregg stopped the leak and soon afterward started to light his pipe. Immediately after striking the match the boat burst into flames. Urged on by the heat of the flames and believing it impossible to extinguish them, all of the party except Heindbrook jumped into the water. Mrs. Clark and her son were close together when they jumped and didn't rise to the surface after sinking the first time. A young man standing on the bank jumped in and rescued Mr. and Mrs. Gregg and Maddock swam ashore unaided. Heindbrook, although hard pressed by the flames, steered the boat ashore. The flames subsided almost immediately and the boat was scarcely damaged. The bodies of Mrs. Clark and her son were recovered soon afterward.

RESPIRE FOR FRANK CAPELLI.

EXECUTION POSTPONED BY JUSTICE BRITTON.

Mr. F. H. Keefer, Counsel for the Condemned Man, Says He Has Evidence Which Will Reduce the Crime to Manslaughter—Were Authorities Afraid?

A Toronto despatch: The execution of Frank Capelli, fixed to take place this morning at Port Arthur, has been postponed. Yesterday Mr. Justice Britton granted a stay until August 15th, owing to the application of Capelli's counsel, Mr. F. H. Keefer, through their Toronto agent, Mr. C. A. Moss, alleging that he has new witnesses, one of whom can give evidence to show that the man Dove, whose death Capelli was convicted of causing, died as the result of a drunken quarrel in which Capelli was struck over the head on a place where he had been previously wounded. He will also, he says, call Dr. Robertson, of Port Arthur, who attended Capelli on the occasion when he was first wounded, to show that as the result of those injuries he would be unable to withstand sudden strain or excitement.

Mr. Keefer believes this fresh evidence would change the jury's verdict from murder to manslaughter. The trial was conducted before Justice Teetzel, and Marano, another Italian, was charged with Capelli, but was acquitted. The order made yesterday by Mr. Justice Britton is the first instance in Canada of a Judge other than the trial Judge granting a stay of execution. Mr. Keefer had previously petitioned the Cabinet, who, after hearing the report of the trial Judge, decided not to interfere. An application for a new trial will now be made.

Capelli was found guilty before Judge Teetzel and sentenced to death, while Marano was adjudged not guilty of complicity in the actual murder, but was sentenced to three years in Kingston on a charge of assaulting McCormick.

Parry Sound and the surrounding district is full of Italians employed on railway construction work, as both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern are building lines through here. These men naturally resented the cause of their fellow-countrymen and contributed so liberally to a defence fund that, after paying all the expenses of their trial, the two prisoners have now to their credit in the bank here over $4,000. Capelli's sentence was received with bad grace by the Italians of the district, and for weeks there had been mutterings of discontent, culminating in open threats that the law would be allowed to take the prisoner's life.

It would have needed only a hot-headed leader and a few scores of violent-passioned aliens to precipitate an attack on the jail in the early hours of the morning. Repairs now being made to the registry office, adjoining the Court House, would have furnished a besieging mob with abundant ammunition in the shape of loose bricks while the ever-ready dirks which the Italians carry, or the revolvers with which many are armed, would have placed in jeopardy the lives of the jailer, the turnkey and the three or four constables, who represent the militant force of the law. So far there have been no over moves on the part of Capelli's sympathizers, but the undercurrent of intense feeling was apparent and the authorities were decidedly uneasy, as they wondered what tomorrow morning would bring forth.

The most regrettable feature of the fatal affray was that the slain, who was little more than a boy and very respectable connected, was the only sober man of the party, and he interposed in the row with the intention of protecting old Mrs. McCormick from what he considered a wanton insult. There are not lacking, however, many citizens who favor the imposition of the extreme penalty on Capelli. They point out that the Italians are much too prone to indulge their propensities for taking sudden and violent vengeance by the use of desperate weapons, and they say that it is time a punishment was inflicted which would act as a deterrent. If Capelli escapes the gallows, say those who hold this view, there will be an increase in the reckless use of lethal weapons by the foreigners, who now form so considerable a portion of the floating population of the district. Capelli himself, as already stated, has all along believed that a term of imprisonment was all he deserved or need fear.

Radcliffe, the executioner, arrived in town Saturday night, registered at one of the hotels, and spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the jail superintending the erection of the gallows. It was completed to-day and tested. The jail is on a knoll and as the wall surrounding the yard is not high the

WAS A COWARD.

PATROLMAN EXPELLED FROM NEW YORK CITY FORCE.

Stephen Walsh Stripped of His Shield in the Presence of His Comrades—The First Man to be so Humiliated in Thirty Years.

New York, Aug. 5.—For the first time in thirty years one of New York's patrolmen was to-day adjudged guilty of cowardice, and was expelled from the force. He was Stephen G. Walsh, who, according to the charge made against him last week, fled from an armed man who had shot and killed a woman. The keen interest with which the unusual case was followed rose to a point of dramatic intensity when Police Commissioner Bingham, who had presided personally at the trial, announced in a voice choked with emotion that the charge against the unfortunate man had been proven.

The commissioner turned to Inspector Richard Walsh, in whose district Stephen Walsh was a patrolman, and directed the inspector to strip Walsh of his shield and uniform buttons so that he might not leave the trial room with the emblems of his former position as a policeman in good standing on his person. Walsh objected to having his buttons torn off before his former comrades, and was escorted to the door and ejected by his inspector.

The specific charge against Walsh was that he had fled from Frank Warner last week and permitted the latter to escape after killing Esther Norling in 42nd street.

KINGDOM A UNITY, BUT KING OF DENMARK SAYS ICELANDERS ARE A FREE PEOPLE.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 5.—At a banquet given in his honor last night King Frederic of Denmark, who accompanied by Prince Harold, Premier Christensen and forty members of the Rigsdag, arrived here yesterday, announced his policy regarding the future relations between the Danish Crown and Iceland. "I have inherited the Kingdom as a unit," said King Frederic, "and as such it shall remain from generation to generation, but I have also inherited from my father the tradition that the Icelanders are to be a free people who cooperate with the king in framing the laws under which they are to live. I have, therefore, established a commission consisting of members of the Danish Rigsdag and the Icelandic Althing to arrange for legislation to define the constitutional position of Iceland in the realm and to find a form under which the freedom of Iceland may be built up and protected while at the same time the unity of the realm is preserved and ensured."

BED GAVE WAY.

GREAT HOLE IN THE ERIE CANAL AT SYRACUSE.

Arches of Masonry Supporting Aqueduct Over Onondaga Creek Broke Down—Four Canal Boats Drawn Into the Break—Some Narrow Escapes.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The arches of masonry which support the bed of the Erie Canal at a point near the centre of this city where it passes over Onondaga Creek gave way this afternoon, and four canal boats were drawn into the bed of the creek beneath. Fifty feet of the wall of the three-story Empire flouring mill were precipitated into the water, and the Bartels and Greenway breweries, respectively on the north and south banks of the canal, were threatened with demolition. The Peter J. Roller, loaded with gravel, was carried into the break in two parts.

Fred. Race, the owner of the boat, left his wife and eight-year-old daughter on deck, and when the boat neared a safe section of the wall all jumped to shore. Henry Race, 80 years old, father of the owner, was pulled off the boat by some employees of the Standard Milling Co. The canal level at this point is five miles in length and Division Superintendent Thomas Wheeler immediately ordered the water drawn off. He said that the break was caused by the arches of the aqueduct over Onondaga Creek giving way. When the level is emptied the danger of flood in the creek section north to Onondaga Lake will pass, and the backed-up waters of the creek will flow uninterruptedly by the boats. All canal traffic is tied up, and it will be several days at least before the damage can be repaired. The boats and cargoes are total losses.

LUCKY ESCAPE.

GO HORSE-POWER CAR TURNS TURTLE AND TOSSES MILLIONAIRE.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—E. R. Thomas, the millionaire turfan, and two Chicagoans narrowly escaped death yesterday when the big ninety-horse power Dedrick automobile belonging to the race track man turned turtle when rounding a curve near Lake Bluff, throwing the occupants to the ground. The three men were bruised and shaken by the fall, but none was seriously injured. The automobile, which is said to be the largest touring car in America, was completely demolished.

A SISTER'S GRIEF.

Miss Beatrice Niehrgang Hears of Her Brother's Death.

A Guelph despatch: Another sad incident in connection with the drowning of the nine young men in Humber Bay, Toronto, was witnessed on the train going to Palmerston this morning. Miss Beatrice Niehrgang, of Palmerston, who has been visiting in the Northwest for the past month, came home to-day as a surprise to her friends. In coming from Toronto this morning a lady sitting behind her was reading an account of the drowning of nine Toronto Junction men on Friday morning. Miss Niehrgang happened to hear the name of Niehrgang, and found that one of them was Dawson Niehrgang, her brother. The young lady was prostrated with grief, and she was weeping violently on the arrival of the train here. The remains of her brother were conveyed yesterday to Palmerston for interment.

MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

DEAD MAN WAS PROMINENT CITIZEN OF MOUNT PLEASANT.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 5.—Amos R. Rumbaugh, who shot himself yesterday rather than testify at the inquest over the body of a friend, Miss Laura Matthews, died today. Pittsburgh, July 31.—The suicide of Amos R. Rumbaugh, at Colorado Springs yesterday, has cleared the mystery of his disappearance from his home at Mount Pleasant, Pa., near here two weeks ago. Rumbaugh was married and was one of the most prominent citizens of Mount Pleasant. Two weeks ago last Monday he left home without informing anyone where he was going.

CAN SEE INTO THE EYE.

French Optician Uses Light From Mercury Vapor Lamp.

Paris, Aug. 5.—A new contrivance likely to be of great service to eye diagnosis is reported by the Academy of Science. Dr. Fortin has discovered that light from a mercury vapor lamp, passing through two sheets of blue glass and reflected into the eye by a new lens, reveals the internal condition infinitely better than ordinary white light. By placing a screen with a pinhole between the light and the eye a magnified image of vessels at the back of the retina, which have been hitherto almost invisible, has been obtained. Capillary veins, the diameter of which is only two-thousandths of a millimeter, are seen to distend with each heart beat, and it is even possible to count the blood globules.

A SUMMER MUFF.

The Queen of England Has Set a Novel Fashion. London, Aug. 5.—The Queen has set a new fashion which, it is said, is likely to become one of the most popular fancies of the year. This is the summer muff, a dainty trifle made of flowers, feathers and chiffon or tulle, which must match the wearer's toque and ruffe. Besides being declared artistic, the summer muff will be a boon to the wearers of pocketless gowns, as it is fitted with a pocket large enough to hold a handkerchief and purse.

STATE OF NEW YORK WANTS CRUISER ON LAKE ONTARIO.

There Will be No Guns on Board and Canada May Not Object.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—(Special).—The United States Government has made another application for a training ship on the great lakes. Some time ago an application was made and granted for a United States cruiser to go through the Canadian canals to be utilized as a training ship on Lake Erie. This time the application is made for one on Lake Ontario. While the United States has formally made the application to the Dominion, it is really from the State of New York and made on behalf of the naval militia, with headquarters at Rochester. It is understood that the application will be granted. There are no guns on these old cruisers, which are to be used as training ships. Whatever guns are required for the naval officers and cadets will be kept ashore. The granting of three applications in no way interferes with the arrangement as to cruisers on the great lakes which exists between both countries.

FOUR KILLED.

ENGINE BOILER EXPLODED NEAR MEMPHIS, TENN.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 5.—A despatch from Milan, Tenn., says: Four persons were killed outright, another was fatally injured and ten others seriously hurt at a late hour last night, when the boiler of an engine attached to a fast Illinois Central fruit train, north bound, exploded near here, wrecking the train as well as another freight train standing on an adjacent siding. The dead: Engineer Maloney, Chicago; Robert Henderson, fireman, Jackson, Tenn., two tramps. Fatally injured: A. B. Lynch, trainman, Jackson, Tenn. The train was running at a high rate of speed when the explosion occurred. Both trains caught fire and were destroyed.

STRANGLER WOMEN.

NO ARRESTS MADE YET—ONE WAS A TORONTO WOMAN.

New York despatch: No arrests have been made so far in the cases of the two young women choked to death in this city on Monday and yesterday, and the police to-day are seeking a trail that will lead to the character of the strangers. The bodies of the dead women are at the morgue unclaimed. One of the bodies has been identified as that of Sophie Kehrer, of Buffalo. Her maiden name was Traynor. She was about 27 years old. The dead woman's home was originally Toronto, Canada. She came to this city about ten years ago and about a year later was married to Jacob Kehrer, who at that time kept a hotel at Military road and Chandler street. The body of the other strangled woman has not been identified.

IRISH MEETING FORBIDDEN.

Gathering of United League at Bella Stopped.

London, Aug. 5.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Government has proclaimed for the first time a meeting convened under the auspices of the United Irish League. It was to have been held to-day at Bella, County Roscommon, Ireland, where there is a boycotted grazing ranch. The Government, suspecting that the meeting would lead to intimidation, notified its promoters, including Laurence Ginnell, M. P. for North Westmeath, that the police would prevent the gathering, using force if necessary. A large number of police were sent to Bella. The meeting was nevertheless held at a place two miles distant. Mr. Ginnell told his hearers that the anti-grazing movement had the support and encouragement of the Irish Parliamentary party, and urged its continuance.

CHOSE HER OWN CASKET.

Woman's Strange Action Before Committing Suicide.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 5.—At the Coroner's inquest held to-day regarding the death of Miss Laura Matthews, whose body was found lying with a bullet hole in her head. Miss Green, the nurse, who has been the dead woman's companion while in Colorado Springs, admitted having written several letters to friends of Miss Matthews in Chicago and elsewhere, stating that Laura had taken her life before she had been informed of the finding of Miss Matthews' body. She explained this by saying she had anticipated such an event. Miss Green also testified that several days ago she and Miss Matthews had selected a casket, the latter remarking: "This is the kind of casket I wish to be buried in." Richard Rumbaugh, of Washington, D. C., the witness who it was believed could shed light on the death of Miss Matthews, shot and killed himself late this afternoon, while the Coroner's jury was awaiting his appearance to testify.

RAILWAYMEN'S UNION.

British Roads Refuse to Recognize the Organization.

London, Aug. 5.—Lord Claud John Hamilton, chairman of the Great Eastern Railway, and Henry Cosmo Bonsor, chairman of the Southeastern Railway, speak at the annual meetings of their respective companies to-day, both emphatically refused to recognize the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, the executive committee of which had demanded the right to represent the railroad employees in an effort to settle their grievances. Both the chairmen, however, declared that their directors always were ready to discuss grievances with the employees themselves. It is understood that the managements of all the railroads in the United Kingdom have reached a similar decision.

A JUDGES' SQUABBLE.

DEADLOCK IN SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Mr. Aikman, Who Has a Criminal Appeal on Hand, Appeals to the Minister of Justice, and Criticizes Justice Martin Freely.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 5.—The sharp difference between some members of the British Columbia judiciary, notably Chief Justice Hunter and Mr. Justice Archer Martin, have caused public comment for a year past, and have now culminated in a more serious form, which has been brought to the attention of the Minister of Justice at Ottawa. Some time since certain rules were laid down by the Chief Justice with regard to the hearing of the appeals, and one of these constituted an appeal court of three members, to be designated. Some days since an appeal was made to the full court by J. A. Aikman for the trial of his client, who was committed for one year for house-breaking. When the court assembled only the Chief Justice and another Judge were present, and it transpired that Mr. Justice Martin declined to sit, not having been notified in writing, although he evidently was verbally, of being required to sit on the case. Yesterday Mr. Aikman appeared before Judge Irving in chambers applying for a writ of habeas corpus, which Justice Irving refused. In making the application, however, Mr. Aikman commented adversely on Justice Martin's action. He said he had wired and written the Minister of Justice, asking the department to intervene. The Minister of Justice replied that it was not within his province to give directions to Judges in such matters. With this Mr. Aikman took issue, and submitted the department had full power to compel the administration of justice. He further contended where the liberty of the subject was concerned there should be no such restriction as was placed on between the Judges of the higher court in the Province. He again urged the department to intervene. Concluding his appeal to Justice Irving, Mr. Aikman said it was contrary to justice to leave a man detained in prison on a legal quibble. It was just such action as Justice Martin's, he said, which had earned the passage of the habeas corpus act.

NAVAL DEFENCE.

LORD TWEEDMOUTH SPEAKS OF SHARE OF THE COLONIES.

Regrets That Canadian Government Cannot See Its Way to Becoming More Active in Naval Matters—Canada Has Materially Assisted in Taking Over Harbors.

London, Aug. 5.—In the House of Lords to-day Lord Brassey called attention to the proceedings at the Imperial Conference respecting naval questions, and said the country had heard with satisfaction the Government's assurance that the all-red route would receive careful consideration. Lord Tweedmouth said he thought the conference had gone a long way towards coming to an arrangement with the colonies regarding naval defence. He gave details regarding the colonial contributions to the navy which, he declared, showed that it was unfair to say that the home Government had been indifferent to the interests of the colonies. The case of Canada was different from that of the other colonies. Canada had always refused to contribute directly to the cost of the navy, though now the Dominion had taken over certain harbors which would be of great service. He regretted, however, that the Canadian Government could not see its way to becoming more active in naval defence. But the Dominion had its own views, and the line taken by the home Government was that it should be very much a matter of their own judgment in what way the colonies should help. Dealing with the general naval policy, Lord Tweedmouth said the Admiralty had in view a new extended cruiser construction policy.

STOCK CLERK INJURED.

His Head Pinned Between Hoist and Floor in Toronto Warehouse.

Toronto despatch: John Fraser, a stock clerk, had his nose and face badly injured at the warehouse of Wm. Lailey & Co., 18 Front street east. He just started work there yesterday. This morning he was standing on the second floor, and while signalling for the hoist he leaned on the guard gate. The elevator was coming down and he did not notice it, as he was looking down the elevator shaft. The elevator pinned his head between the floor and hoist, and remained there until his head was released.

OVERRATED MAN.

HISTORIANS ERRED IN CALLING RAMESSES II. GREAT.

The King Had Vulgar Vanity—He Liked to See His Name Displayed in Conspicuous Places on Every Temple and Monument.

London, Aug. 5.—Certain Egyptologists claim to have discovered that Ramesses II. was a much over-rated man, and that he is not entitled to the appellation of Great with which historians have honored him. Recent researches convinced explorers that the numerous temples and monuments bearing his name, and therefore supposedly his work, pre-existed him by quite a thousand years. Further investigations persuaded them that the King had vulgar vanity in seeing his own name, which he caused to be cut everywhere. Prof. Naville, one of the official explorers of antiquities in Egypt, says: "The more we discover about Ramesses the more convinced we are that he was a fraud. He was not great in any way, but he reigned for 60 years, which was far too long. "His vanity was colossal, and not content with the adulation of his own people, he arranged that posterity should take him at his own valuation. To this end he conceived the notion of causing his name to be inscribed on every temple, statue and monument that he imagined would stand the test of time. The plan succeeded only too well for many years. In consequence of it explorers united in deciding that he must have been a great king. "Now we are beginning to find him out. Some of the antiquities on which his name appears must have existed quite a thousand years before he was born. Occasionally he went to the length of erasing the name formerly borne by a statue, substituting his own. He was never particular as to whose name was erased. Prof. Naville glows with satisfaction over the fact that Ramesses is now smugly lying mummified in the Bulak Museum, unable to perpetrate further deceptions."

BANK LOSSES.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS BY FORGERIES OF GOVERNMENT CLERK.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 5.—(Special).—The Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council, by a judgment just received, has refused the appeal in the case of the Bank of Montreal vs. The King. This means that the bank, and not the Government, is responsible for the loss by the forgeries of Martineau, the military department clerk, who was prosecuted and convicted and is serving a term in the Penitentiary. The whole amount of the forgeries are about between sixty-five and seventy thousand dollars. A part of this was refunded by Martineau. The auditor-general of the day, Mr. McDougall, held that the Bank was responsible. The Bank held otherwise and the judgment is now against the Bank.

MILITARY FORCE FOR BELFAST.

Garrison of 6,000 Men to Subdue Police and Strikers.

Belfast, Aug. 5.—The failure to reach a settlement of the industrial trouble, and the unrest among the police here have caused the Government to decide to concentrate a large military force in this city. One regiment, the Cameron Highlanders, with a machine gun, arrived to-day. Others are due to arrive to-night and to-morrow. The garrison here will then number 6,000 men. An official inquiry shows that the discontent of the Belfast police is largely shared by the Royal Irish Constabulary throughout the country. It is nowhere political, but is due to dissatisfaction with the pay and conditions of service. The head constable here says there will be dirty work if the Government refuses to consider the grievances, but if the Chief Secretary of Ireland will give a promise to deal with the matter at the earliest opportunity, he does not think another word will be said.

EMIGRANTS FROM WOOLWICH.

Two Hundred Coming—Many Arsenal Mechanics Among Them.

London, Aug. 5.—Two hundred emigrants from Woolwich are sailing to-day. They include many arsenal mechanics. It is suggested that the Canadian bowling team, due here next year, should combine curling engagements, using artificial ice in London. Sir Henry Primrose has been appointed chairman of the Pacific Cable Board.

GROCERS' WEIGHTS LIGHT.

New York State Inspector Makes Discovery at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Fritz Reichmann, State scaler of weights and measures, has begun an inspection of measures of grocers in the various cities of the State, starting to-day with Albany, where he visited twenty grocery stores and in nearly every place found the weights and measures deficient. He says the grocers of the State by the use of inaccurate weights and measures, purposefully or otherwise, defraud the people of the State out of $20,000,000 annually.

NOT GOING ON THE STAGE.

The Thaws Give the Lie to Dame Stumor's Story of Evelyn's Future.

New York, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw gave authoritative statement that she has no present intention of returning to the stage, but will devote her energies to the study of music. This statement was called out by a published report that Mrs. Thaw intended to take a leading role at a Broadway theatre.

My Hair is Scraggly

Do you like it? Then why be contented with it? Have to be? Oh, no! Just put on Ayer's Hair Vigor and have long, thick hair; soft, even hair. But first of all, stop your hair from coming out. Save what you have. Ayer's Hair Vigor will not disappoint you. It feeds the hair-bulbs; makes weak hair strong.

LANSDOWNE

Miss Maggie Landon of Detroit is spending her holidays here with her sister, Mrs. D. H. Sliter, and brother, Mr. Mack Landon.

Mrs. Will Robeson of Snowflake, Manitoba, was here last week visiting her cousin, Mrs. Erastus Warren and other friends.

Miss Helen Dixon of Brockville is visiting her cousin, Mrs. H. C. Mulvaugh.

The Misses Allyn of Delta were here recently, visiting their cousins, Mrs. Erastus Warren and Mr. Sliter, and the Misses Sliter of Dulsemane.

A good many of the farmers are through haying. The crop on the whole has been rather light.

Mr. and Mrs. Deans and family of Elmira, N. Y., are occupying Miss Findlay's cottage at the river.

CHARLESTON

Our well known summer resort was very quiet through the month of July, but August has brought visitors from all quarters.

Mrs. C. C. Slack, Athens, was recently the guest of Mrs. C. M. B. Cornell at Point Geraldine.

The Victor gramophone which Mr. E. S. Clow has added to the many attractions of his island home is much appreciated by lovers of music.

Among the recent visitors we notice, Miss M. Miller, Salem, Mass.; Miss M. McLean, Chesterville; Miss Ella Elliott, Kemptville; Mrs. A. E. McLean and Miss Lulu McLean, Athens; Miss Mary Burns and Miss Katie Burns, Ogdensburg; Mr. J. Dillon, Lyndhurst; Miss J. Forde, Gananoque.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Connerty and family are occupying Dr. Lillie's cottage.

Rev. W. W. Giles goes to New York every Friday and returns on Monday in order to preach to his congregation there on Sunday.

HARD ISLAND

Mr Maurice Middleton of Hamilton has been visiting friends here for a week.

There are many things we can get along without, but unfortunately hay is not on the list.

Misses Violet and Annie Robeson are spending a few days at Sweet's Corners and Elgin.

We were much pleased to learn, through the kindness of the Temperance Lake correspondent last week, of the good health enjoyed by our venerable friend, Mr E. Mansell, but so far as energetically making the work go is concerned, wasn't he always a hustler? Nor can we quite understand the need of erecting the new woodshed referred to where there is no one to keep warm.

A load, mostly of young people, drove to "The Lilacs" on Wednesday evening where a most enjoyable time was spent.

Mr and Mrs C. W. Robeson of Hammond, N. Y., made a short visit to friends here this week.

Mr P. F. Yates is an earnest advocate of Odd Fellowship.

Ask your neighbor to become a subscriber to the Reporter. This we just did, and he immediately responded by offering the dollar, but knowing the love of money to be the root of all evil, we, of course, declined, but referred him to the editor, who is less scrupulous.

FIRE AT LANSDOWNE

Lansdowne, Aug. 6—Last night about eleven o'clock a fire broke out in the Merrill block, Lansdowne, that for a time looked as though the whole village would be wiped out. The fire was located in a frame building opposite the Stewart Hotel, and just northwest of the G. T. R. station. How it originated is not known, but the blaze was discovered in a millinery store conducted by F. H. Wolfe, in the Merrill block, and quickly spread to the general store of A. R. Latimer and the shoe shop of Frank LaTour. The brick wall of the building occupied by G. F. Dean proved fireproof and the flames were confined to the buildings named.

The loss will be considerable. The building where the fire started was known as the Darling property. A R. Latimer carried $1,500 insurance and F. H. DeWolfe $1,000.

How Cheese was Raised

An exchange in the Old Country says that the competitive struggles between a few large firms for the monopoly of Canadian cheese last year had a considerable effect in artificially raising the price, and the new amalgamations which have recently taken place among the larger cheese operators will certainly increase the severity of the struggle to obtain a control of the Canadian market. It is very probable that the profits to be made during the coming season will not be the greatest object for which this conflict will be carried on.

ATHENS VICTORIOUS

A feature of the Methodist S.S. picnic at Beverley Park on Thursday was a baseball match between Athens and Delta teams. The players with their positions were as follows:—

ATHENS	Position	DELTA
Jacob Wilson	1b	Craggan
Lee	2b	Danby
Foley	3b	Gardiner
Lillie	R.F.	Guy Curtis
Gainsford	L.F.	Conrad
Wiltse	C.F.	Sloan
Farish	S.S.	Jackson
McClary	P.	Johnston
	C.	Landon

It early became evident that neither team was in first-class form. Athens had had no practice since 1st July and Delta found it necessary to put on several players from Lyndhurst in order to complete their team. The game, however, was closely contested and proved very interesting. The Delta aggregation proved to be pie for the visitors, as the score of 11 to 3 in favor of Athens plainly indicates. Only four innings were played, as the ball rolled under the pavilion and could not be recovered. It was a very friendly match with no unseemly wrangling or disputes. Geo. Holmes of Athens gave entire satisfaction as umpire.

No date has been fixed for a return match with Delta, but the Athens team will probably play Lyndhurst next Saturday or the following Saturday, the match to take place in Athens.

LETTER FROM MANITOBA

Dauphin, July 26th, 1907.

Editor Reporter

Dear Sir,—I have seen a great many places in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but think there is no place equal to dear old Athens.

You hear some very flowery talk about the Great West. True it is the Great West, and a place that is blown out of sight by wind and push, all to get the people here. Some do well, some don't. To read what the papers say you would think everything was booming. It is not so. The papers don't say that in southern Manitoba the farmers are plowing up their wheat and that the crops are so late they are sure of being frosted, which means a big loss. The papers have not said that the banks are refusing to loan money as in previous years.

Dear people of Athens and vicinity, you know but little what the people are up against here—you get the sunny side of everything. That is not my way—you have it just as I have seen it for the past two months. I am now in Dauphin, the "Garden of the West," and I am not able to do near the business I have done before. I have seen a number of old friends and had long talks with them. They all say a man can do well here if he has a good season. Some horns blow very loud in announcing that the West is the best place in the world. Now, give me the East with its mixed farming, its beauties and pleasures, and keep me out of the Manitoba mud for the time to come.

Dauphin is the best of the many towns I have seen. We go from here to Grand View and Gilbert Falls and then start for dear old Athens once more.

This, in brief, is my view of the situation out here.

E. D. WILSON.

WILTSE—GIFFORD

On Wednesday, July 31st, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gifford, Plum Hollow, was specially animated at noon, being the marriage of their daughter May to Clifford S. Wiltse. Among the guests were the grandfather of the bride, Mrs. Gifford, and the grandfather, Mr. Benedict. The witnesses were Percy Gifford and Lena Wiltse. Rev. W. Henderson of Frankville officiated. The wedding march was played by Miss Dunham. A beautiful and delicious dinner followed, and the young couple started on the wedding tour. There were many gifts to the bride, useful and ornamental.

Vegetable Crop

Mr. H. B. Cowan, secretary of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' association, has issued the following summary of the vegetable crop reports sent in by members.

"The vegetable crop in Ontario is late, but is looking well. Frost in the southwestern part of the province did some damage.

The potato crop of the province promises to be only fair. Table roots, including turnips, parsnips, carrots and beets, are doing well, and will be plentiful. The celery prospects are bright. It is probable that there will be a large crop of celery. The onion crop will be quite late but it is expected that the yield will be fair to good. Corn will be medium. Melons promise to yield an average."

Any amount, however small, will be helpful, and appreciated. Offerings can be made at hand, or by letter, to the Reporter office at Athens. ### BROCKVILLE'S HOLIDAY

Monday last was a great day for Brockville and incidentally for a large number of people along the line of the B.W. & N.W. The civic holiday was well advertised—people were led to expect great things—and they found them. First and most important was the crowd. The people of Brockville endorsed the Beverley Park event in no uncertain way. Of course, many spent the day at the various river resorts, but the number buying tickets for Beverley was sufficient to tax to the full the managerial skill of Supt. Curie. It was a typical Old Boys' Reunion crowd. Every train was filled and even the tops of the cars were occupied.

The first train filled at Brockville and passed Athens without stopping, leaving about 150 people standing on the platform. The crowd realized that they were up against something unusual in the excursion line and good naturedly awaited the next train. When it arrived it, too, was filled so full that there was no room for the Athenians, and a further wait occurred until an east bound train left off several cars.

At the Park there was a great crowd, estimated to number from three to four thousand. The proceedings at the Park showed good organization, and the all-day programme of sports kept everybody interested. Refreshment booths, well served, were liberally patronized. The Brockville Band furnished good music and an orchestra supplied the necessary inspiration for dancers at the pavilion. Many enjoyed the lake, boating, bathing, and fishing.

Among the Athletic events Athenians were chiefly interested in was the mile open race, in which one of our harriers, Mr. Melvin Mitroy, was a contestant. Eight entered and the list included several with reputations for speed. Athens' representative did no sprinting but his even gait brought him in a good second, Barton of Prescott taking first and Rappell of Toronto the third prize. Mitroy has trained for a ten or fifteen mile contest, and when he enters one of these long distance events we expect to see him make good. He is a member of the Brockville Harriers' Club.

The merchants and clerks of Brockville have good reason to be satisfied with the measure of success that attended their holiday event. Everything on the bills was presented, and all seemed well satisfied with the manner in which the rather large undertaking was carried out.

AN INTERESTING CASE

There have been interesting developments in connection with the death of Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha, son of the late Supreme Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters. Dr. Acland was for sometime a member of the divorce colony at Sioux Falls, S.D., and information of his death has resulted in the discovery that his first wife, from whom he was divorced in Sioux Falls, has instituted an action for the annulment of the decree. This means a hot contest in the courts between the first wife and the woman whom Dr. Oronhyatekha married after securing his divorce, with the valuable property left by the dead man as the bone of contention. His first wife was Miss Natalie Brandon, an actress, whom he married in London, Eng., on April 22nd, 1897, when she was playing in the Prince of Wales Theatre.

Following their marriage the husband took her to the home of the Mohawk Indians on the Tyndings reservation at Deseronto, where they lived in considerable splendor. His wife became known among the Mohawk Indians as Caygenarah, which in English means "fair flower."

Later they travelled over England and the United States, and in 1901 went to New York, making their home at the Ashland Hotel until February, 1902. Then Dr. Oronhyatekha departed for Australia, informing his wife that he had to visit that country for the purpose of carrying an important message to the people from his father. He agreed to send her money, and for two months did so. Then the remittances ceased and she lost all trace of him. Dr. Oronhyatekha returned to Canada and in 1905 went to Sioux Falls where he later applied for a divorce. The courts at first refused the decree, but six months later it was granted. Within a few days after securing the divorce Dr. Oronhyatekha was married at Canton, S.D., to Theresa Hennike Hansen, whom, one report has it, he first met while he was travelling in Australia.

REMARKABLE INVENTION FOR THE CULTURE OF HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL! The Company's Guarantee

An EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. LOVE, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots), without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. MOORE, referring to the invention says that the principle upon which the Evans Vacuum Cap is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable. An illustrated and descriptive book of the Evans Vacuum Cap will be sent, post free, on application.

FRIENDSHIP WHAT DOES IT COST YOU

A few days ago two farmers off the B. & W. were seen comparing each others suits.—The taller man said, "You were beat out of $3.00. Why don't you try Semi-Ready?" The other replied that he was a personal friend of this other merchant and did not like to go past him.

EARLY SETTLERS

In May last the Reporter published a marriage certificate issued by Squire Phillips, grandfather of Mr. H. C. Phillips, in 1815. The groom's name was Joseph Slack and the Reporter asked for information concerning him. Mr. Aden Wilcox of Clinton writes in this connection as follows:—

Editor Reporter,—You ask for information of the Slack family. Joseph Slack's first wife was a Wright and she had a brother, Israel, who lived one and a half miles from the village. They had three sons and one daughter, all dead before I left Farmersville. The widow of one son, Chelson, and her son are now in the village. Squire Phillips was one of the first settlers in that part of the country and was on the Daniel Phillips farm when my grandfather came to Canada. He had two sons—one James settled in Philadelphia and it is said he was shot at the Battle of the Windmill; the other son, Delorma, was there when I left.

Joseph Slack had a brother Samey who settled on the edge of Charleston Lake, and his son Israel lives there now.

Of course, it was before my time that Dixon was in Farmersville. My mother told me she worked for Mrs. Dixon when she was a girl. After marriage, when I was born, Mrs. Dixon gave me my name. The Dixons kept a little log tavern on the corner where Lewis Lamb's store now stands.

Joshua Bates built the first store in Athens and sold to W. Landon and he to S. Taplin. Bates then bought 300 acres of land, farmed a few years, and then built the mills.

Joseph Slack's second wife raised a family of both boys and girls, but I think all are dead excepting Mrs. Boyce.

It's hard work to take care of children and to cook, sweep, wash, sew and mend besides.

It makes a shop of the home—a shop, too, where sixteen hours make a day and yet there is much working overtime.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. George Nash and family wish through the medium of the Reporter to thank their many friends for kindness extended and sympathy shown during the illness and death of their late husband and father, Mr. George Nash, especially the trustees board of the Methodist Church for their generous and very kind thoughtfulness at the last.

A FARMER'S SOLILOQUY

Oh, my scanty crop of hay,
Scarcely filling half the barn,
My waking thoughts are now of thee
As I on my pillow turn.
Thought I saved it all with care,
And have mowed the corners round,
What will Jake and Barney do
When the snow lies on the ground?
Ah, my good and faithful steeds,
We will do the best we can,
If 'tis to feed you baker's bread
At thirty cents a pan.

One of the Dominion Government's military observation towers is to be erected near Newtown. To afford a comprehensive view of this section of the country, a tower should be erected at Eloids and another one on top of Blue Mountain. These would command a great stretch of country, including the leading roads. The towers, twelve miles apart, would be in plain view of each other.

Do we Canadian grumblers at the weather recognize how much there is for which we ought to be thankful when we read of Austria suffering in July from the degrees of frost, and of 2,500 heat prostrations in a single day in Philadelphia? Men of little faith were panic stricken last spring about the Canadian crop outlook; to day it is admitted that the crop prospects of the Dominion are far from discouraging.

VOTERS' LIST NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections five and six of "The Voters' Lists Act," the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that said list was posted up at my office, at Glen Elbe, on the 5th day of August, 1907, and remains there for inspection. Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and if any omissions or other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have said errors corrected according to law. Dated this 5th day of August, 1907.
R. E. COENEL, Clerk of said Municipality.

Rough on Flies

The United States Department of Agriculture has started a crusade against the common house fly and is carrying on extensive experiments, as to the best way of banishing it from the abodes of man. The fly has been found to be not only a nuisance, but a menace to man's health. It's hairy body carries both disease and death. Many epidemics which sweep over communities in the hot season have been traced to the fly. Having its origin in filth, it brings with it the bacteria which breed in filth. And as it moves about, now crawling over refuse, now over food on the table, flying from the lips of the sick to the lips of the healthy; it is said to be more dangerous to modern society than were the wild beasts to primitive man. Perhaps this attitude of the U.S. government accounts for the very pronounced shortage in the fly crop this summer.

The Modern Public Library

"The Modern Public Library" is an article of educational interest in the September number of the New Idea Woman's Magazine. There is probably no other public institution which has undergone a greater awakening within the last twenty-five years, and the writer gives an outline of the principal movements which have taken place for the development of the modern library system. The methods which enable the introduction of the best reading matter into the remotest homes, as well as the many inducements which are made to young and old to become interested in good literature, are told about. The child's story hour and the "gangroom" for boys may not be found in every locality, but they are an incentive to reading, make a universal appeal. Every one ought to be interested in this account of one of the greatest influences of modern times.

Business For Sale

Zutoo

Regarding your Zutoo Tablets I beg to say I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market, till warned by my physician to discontinue their use on account of their bad effects on the heart. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never fail to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. Let ways carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost.

LESSON VII.—AUGUST 11, 1907.

The Day of Atonement.—Lev. 16: 5-22.

COMMENTARY.—I. Offerings for the people (vs. 5, 7-10). 5, shall take—Carefully select of the congregation—at the expense of the congregation. Two kids of the goats—"the goats."—R. V. He-goats were used, as sin offerings for princes and for the people on high festival seasons. Both goats are for a sin offering, though only one of them is to be slain. Sin offering—This offering brought the sinner into reconciliation with God. It was more general and comprehensive than the trespass-offering, burnt offering—This offering was wholly consumed. It was a type of the completeness of Christ's sacrifice for the sinner, and also symbolized the complete consecration of the reconciled sinner to Christ. 7, before the Lord—the two goats were presented with their faces to the west, where the holy of holies was, and where the divine majesty was especially revealed.—Rawlinson.

8, cast lots—Two lots were put into an urn. On one was written "Name," Jehovah being too sacred a word to write, and on the other was written, "For Azazel," the Hebrew for scapegoat. The high priest drew out the lots with both hands and laid the lots on the heads of the goats. The goat on which the lot for Jehovah fell was to be slain as a sin offering, and the goat on which the lot of Azazel fell was to be sent away into the wilderness. 9, 10. See vs. 15, 20-22.

II. Offerings for the priests (vs. 6, 11-14).

6, 11, offer his bullock—On the Day of Atonement a special sin-offering was appointed for the high priest and his house. "The bullock stood between the porch and the altar, with its face toward the tabernacle, while the priest faced the worshiping people in the open court in the east. Aaron then laid both his hands upon the head of the bullock and confessed his sins, and the sins of his household, and also those of the priesthood."—Eldersheim. The high priest then killed the bullock. The blood was caught in a vessel. 12, 13, he shall take a censer, etc.—The censer was a vessel in which fire and incense were carried. Fire from off the altar—The fire was to be taken from the altar of burnt-offering which stood in the court. This fire had been kindled by God himself, and was never allowed to go out. Sweet incense—Aromatic spices. Sweet incense was the symbol of prayer, beat an small—it was pulverized, that, when thrown into the censer, it might instantly produce a cloud of smoke, to soften the intense brightness of the Shekinah between the cherubim.—Steele, within the veil—in the holy of holies.

13, Mercy seat—The cover of the ark was called the mercy-seat. The testimony—The two tables of the law. The mercy-seat covered the ark, and was a symbol of the mercy and forgiveness offered the true penitent. That he did not—The ordinary priests burned incense every day at the altar in the sanctuary, without the veil, but only once a year, after the most careful preparation did the high priest enter into the most holy place, and if he failed in meeting any of the requirements he was liable to die. He must envelop himself in a cloud of incense as he approached into the presence of God. 14, Seven times—Seven denotes perfection. Sprinkling seven times the blood, that a perfect expiation was made for sin.

III. Various rites established (vs. 15-19). 15, Kill the goat—The high priest next killed the goat which had been slain as the sin-offering for the people (vs. 8). He then took the blood of the goat, and sprinkled it on the bullock. 16, He shall make an atonement—The blood of the bullock and the goat was now mixed together and sprinkled seven times upon (1) the sanctuary (the holy place), (2) the table of the congregation, and (3) the altar—probably the altar of incense had the blood upon it (Exod. 30: 10). "The object of this solemn ceremonial was to impress the minds of the Israelites with the conviction that the whole tabernacle was stained by the sins of a guilty people, that by their sins they had forfeited the privileges of the divine presence and worship, and that an atonement had to be made as the condition of God's remaining with them."—J., F. & B. 17, During the time the high priest could not enter the tabernacle.—IV. The scapegoat (vs. 20-22). Verse 10 records the statement of what was actually done at this time. In the slain goat we see the first aspect of the atonement, the sin actually taken away. "The word 'Azazel' is regarded as a proper name for the evil spirits; and the Azazel goat was thus banished to the desolate regions of the price of darkness. Others regard the word as meaning 'complete separation,' and the sins represented by the scapegoat were completely removed—even the sins for which atonement had been made, but the consciousness of the people were not yet free from a sense of personal guilt and sin. Laying both his hands on the head of the scapegoat, the high priest confessed the sins of the people, and made an earnest plea to God for them. After the confession the goat was committed to the charge of some person previously chosen for the purpose, and carried away into the wilderness, where it was set at liberty.—Eldersheim.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

The law has a "shadow of good things to come," for which both light and substance are necessary. The light which outlines these "figures of the true," is the great eternal purpose of redemption. The substance here represented is the person and work of our Lord Jesus Christ, in whom dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead, and who "gave himself that he might redeem us."

Atonement. At-onement includes both the means and the result. It presupposes both legal and moral antagonism between the creature and the creator. Sin and separation are synonymous. "Your iniquities have separated between you and your God." As a result, men are "enemies to God." To effect a reconciliation there must be a daysman who can put his hands on both and unite in himself the interests of each. Christ has made in himself "of twin one new man, so making peace." He was "sent forth to redeem them that were under the law."

1,500-MILE WALK.

DOUKHOBORS LEAVE WINNIPEG TO MARCH TO MONTREAL.

Childlike in Their Faith—Expect to Live on Berries, and Will Not Be Dissuaded—South Europe Their Mecca.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 5.—After a day spent in rest and recuperation at the "All People's Mission," the Doukhobor pilgrims are away again. The party, 33 in number, bundled up their belongings, not a difficult matter for each carries little more than a handful, and despite all the efforts to persuade them otherwise, went out of the city towards the east on foot. The Doukhobors earnestly desire to seek an ocean port on the Atlantic, Montreal preferred, and with childlike faith are preparing to march through Canadian territory to that city. It was explained to them that the physical difficulties of such a hazardous undertaking made the feat an almost impossible one.

"But what will you do with your women and children? The women will probably be maltreated on the march in the various construction camps." "God will take care of us," one woman answered. "On a fifteen hundred miles to Montreal and part of the country is uninhabited and rocky. How will you live?" "We can live on berries, and God will feed us."

Their ultimate destination, they say, is South Europe, where they can live in peace. In consideration of the women in the party they will probably go southwards. They have bought new boots with the money collected. They aver that they had been badly treated by the Dominion Government when their lands were taken away from them. They feel bitterly.

The Doukhobors spent the morning very quietly. They arose at an early hour, and then several of the members of the band went out on a hunt for provisions, when they returned the pilgrims breakfasted, the menu consisting of bread, water and onions.

About nine o'clock they all gathered together, 33 in number, including children, in the central room of All People's Mission, where several people spoke to them, and a prayer meeting was held. Dr. Sparling and Rev. Wigle spoke to them and tried to instill into them some idea of what they ought to do. The whole morning was spent in trying to persuade them to return to their homes at Swan River, but that seemed impossible. Various pleas were urged that the journey to the south would not suit the women and children, but to no avail. The women persisted in their determination to go wherever the men went.

REACH OUT FOR BRITONS.

Ontario Government About to Inaugurate Active Campaign.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—The Ontario Government is laying plans for an aggressive immigration campaign in Great Britain and Ireland, and the Department of Colonization is now, it is said, giving special consideration to the methods which shall be adopted in directing attention to this Province. It is probable that an Agent-General will be appointed who will have general charge of a number of immigration offices to be established in London, Liverpool, Belfast, Dublin, Cork, Manchester, Cardiff, Glasgow, Edinburgh and in several of the cities of the midlands. These offices will be in charge of a competent booking agent and will be supplied with literature bearing on the country, etc.

To the immigration staff it is proposed to attach several experienced Canadian agriculturists, chosen because of special knowledge of agricultural matters and conditions of life on the farms of Ontario. These men will have to be sufficiently well versed to discuss freely with British agriculturists such questions as the alternation of crops, the raising of bacon, the breeds of cattle, and, in fact, all questions that would naturally be proposed by British farmers thinking of emigrating to Ontario.

SICK MAN ESCAPES.

Simon Marshall Missing From the Barrie Hospital.

A Barrie despatch: Simon Marshall, of Lindsay, who was brought to Barrie Hospital by the Orillia police on Friday morning suffering from pneumonia, disappeared from the institution at midnight. His own clothes had been put out of his reach, but he managed to secure a youth's coat and pants and made his escape through a window. So far the police have been unable to discover any trace of him.

TRAIN FOR THE ARMY.

McGill Will Institute the Teaching of Military Subjects.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—At a meeting of the Board of Governors of McGill University to-day announcement was made that McGill would take a forward step this coming session in co-operation with the Militia Department at Ottawa, to institute teaching military subjects. The view has for some time prevailed that one source for the supply of officers might be the universities of the country. It is proposed now in McGill to provide such instruction during the university course as will qualify candidates for commissions both in the Imperial army and in the Canadian forces. It is in contemplation to provide short courses of lectures, averaging 24 lectures in each course, on such subjects as military history, tactics, military law and administration, military engineering, military topography.

No grain is offering yet, and prices are nominal. Hay was in good supply, with sales of 50 loads at $15 to $17 a ton for old, and $12 to $14 for new. Straw steady, two loads selling at $12 to $14 per ton.

KAISER MEETS LIFE SAVERS.

Landers Unexpectedly at the Skaw and Praises Heroism.

Copenhagen, Aug. 5.—Kaiser Wilhelm, who is believed to be in Norwegian waters, caused surprise yesterday by arriving at the Skaw, Denmark, on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern. There is no landing stage at the Skaw and his Majesty went ashore in a fisherman's boat. He wanted to see the members of the life-saving establishment there, who have rescued many persons from the perils of the sea. He was introduced by an interpreter to one man who has saved more than 200 lives, and conversed with him for half an hour.

Afterwards the Kaiser visited the graves of drowned sailors and placed wreaths on them. He seemed to be deeply moved. He said that the population of the little place certainly must be one of the noblest in the world, as they were always prepared to sacrifice their lives in saving others. He declared that he was proud to make their acquaintance.

JUMPED TO SAFETY.

Two Junction Young Men Narrowly Escaped Death.

Toronto Junction despatch: A rumor spread rapidly over the town to-day that Joseph Lerocq, brother of Gordon Lerocq, one of the victims of the Sunnyside drowning disaster, was killed by a C. P. R. train. The rumor was not true, for Lerocq was not killed, but had a hair-breadth escape. Lerocq, who is a car checker, with William Greenshields was on a handcar checking off the numbers of cars. They were laboring hard to catch up in their work, after the half-holiday yesterday for the public funeral, and did not notice the approach of the Muskoka Express, due at the Junction at 4:11, coming down the Bruce track.

The express struck the handcar as it was crossing the diamond, and both young men saw it barely a second before it struck and jumped to safety. The handcar was smashed to fragments.

NO BAIL FOR PETTIBONE.

He Must Remain in Prison Until Trial Day Arrives.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 5.—Formal application was made in the District Court to-day to have George A. Pettibone admitted to bail. The motion was submitted without argument, and was promptly denied by Judge Wood. It was announced that the bond for H. Moyer will be ready by noon to-day, and will be signed by Timothy Reagan, President of the First National Bank of Boise. The bond is guaranteed by $25,000 cash on deposit by the Butte, Mont., local of the Western Federation of Miners.

Port Hope Citizens Present Reynolds With $50 in Gold.

Port Hope despatch: Port Hope's 50-year-old walking barber, Jimmie Reynolds, who recently made a plucky attempt to walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return in 38 hours, was the recipient this evening of a purse of two hundred and fifty dollars in gold at a public reception given in his honor in the drill shed by the local band and citizens of the town. Mayor Williams in the presentation and Reynolds made a suitable reply, in the course of which he announced his intention to again attempt the feat in October.

JUMPED TO SAFETY.

Two Junction Young Men Narrowly Escaped Death.

Toronto Junction despatch: A rumor spread rapidly over the town to-day that Joseph Lerocq, brother of Gordon Lerocq, one of the victims of the Sunnyside drowning disaster, was killed by a C. P. R. train. The rumor was not true, for Lerocq was not killed, but had a hair-breadth escape. Lerocq, who is a car checker, with William Greenshields was on a handcar checking off the numbers of cars. They were laboring hard to catch up in their work, after the half-holiday yesterday for the public funeral, and did not notice the approach of the Muskoka Express, due at the Junction at 4:11, coming down the Bruce track.

The express struck the handcar as it was crossing the diamond, and both young men saw it barely a second before it struck and jumped to safety. The handcar was smashed to fragments.

NO BAIL FOR PETTIBONE.

He Must Remain in Prison Until Trial Day Arrives.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 5.—Formal application was made in the District Court to-day to have George A. Pettibone admitted to bail. The motion was submitted without argument, and was promptly denied by Judge Wood. It was announced that the bond for H. Moyer will be ready by noon to-day, and will be signed by Timothy Reagan, President of the First National Bank of Boise. The bond is guaranteed by $25,000 cash on deposit by the Butte, Mont., local of the Western Federation of Miners.

PURSE FOR WALKING BARBER.

Port Hope Citizens Present Reynolds With $50 in Gold.

Port Hope despatch: Port Hope's 50-year-old walking barber, Jimmie Reynolds, who recently made a plucky attempt to walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return in 38 hours, was the recipient this evening of a purse of two hundred and fifty dollars in gold at a public reception given in his honor in the drill shed by the local band and citizens of the town. Mayor Williams in the presentation and Reynolds made a suitable reply, in the course of which he announced his intention to again attempt the feat in October.

THE MARKETS.

TORONTO FARMERS' MARKET.

No grain is offering yet, and prices are nominal. Hay was in good supply, with sales of 50 loads at $15 to $17 a ton for old, and $12 to $14 for new. Straw steady, two loads selling at $12 to $14 per ton.

KAISER MEETS LIFE SAVERS.

Landers Unexpectedly at the Skaw and Praises Heroism.

Copenhagen, Aug. 5.—Kaiser Wilhelm, who is believed to be in Norwegian waters, caused surprise yesterday by arriving at the Skaw, Denmark, on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern. There is no landing stage at the Skaw and his Majesty went ashore in a fisherman's boat. He wanted to see the members of the life-saving establishment there, who have rescued many persons from the perils of the sea. He was introduced by an interpreter to one man who has saved more than 200 lives, and conversed with him for half an hour.

Afterwards the Kaiser visited the graves of drowned sailors and placed wreaths on them. He seemed to be deeply moved. He said that the population of the little place certainly must be one of the noblest in the world, as they were always prepared to sacrifice their lives in saving others. He declared that he was proud to make their acquaintance.

CAUSE OF COLLAPSE.

WITNESSES SAY BUILDING WAS WEAK INTERNALLY.

Centre Walls Weakened by Previous Fires—Very Heavy Stock Kept in Them—Setting in North Wall.

London, Inq., Aug. 5.—At the adjourned inquest into the Reid disaster the plans of the proposed alterations were shown by the architect, Mr. William G. Murray. The only alterations made that would affect the building were the windows on the east side. Mr. George Hammett, the contractor, thought the centre walls were not strong owing to the two fires in the past. The mortar was rotten and the bricks came out easily. He believed that the weakness was in the centre of the building. On the second and third floors there were heavy cases of crockery, and he had spoken to the architect about it and also to Mr. Reid. Goods were coming in all the time.

Mr. Walter Tell, an employee of Mr. Hammett, had noticed a settling in the north wall before placing pillars in the centre wall. He had also noticed the amount of heavy merchandise stored on the upper floor.

Charles McWain, a plasterer, was working on the first floor when the crash came from above and goods began to tumble down. The first noise he heard sounded like dishes falling, and then the timbers came down, followed by the cases and articles which were on the floor.

MORE PASTIME THAN ART.

President of Teachers' Dance Society Deplores Popular View.

London, Aug. 5.—To raise the tone of the ball room is the avowed object of a conference at the Imperial Society of Dance Teachers, which is now being held at the Hotel Cecil. A majority of those attending are British, but there are a number of foreign delegates, including an American, a German and an Austrian, who will be present later. Two new Dutch dances, the Apollo waltz and the motor polka, were illustrated and discussed yesterday.

There is great interest in the new Cecilian waltz, invented by Mr. Crompton, the society's president, which, it is claimed, will be the dance of the season. Mr. Crompton thinks there is a tendency toward improvement in dancing, but it is regrettable that it is regarded as more of a pastime than an art. It ought to be recognized, he declares, in the schools and universities as a necessary adjunct to a polite education.

DROPPED OFF THE BRIDGE.

Joseph Grau Fell Over One Hundred and Eighty Feet and Lives.

Quebec despatch: To fall a distance of 180 feet and still live was the thrilling and remarkable experience of Joseph Grau, an old country Frenchman, who has been a resident in Quebec for three months past. Grau was visiting the Quebec bridge, now in course of construction, and walked out to the end of the superstructure. In turning to retrace his steps he missed his footing and fell from a dizzy height into the water below.

He landed on his side with terrific force, but was quickly extricated and a doctor summoned, when it was found that the limit of his injuries was a fractured rib. He was brought to the city to-day and placed in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where he is now resting comfortably, though naturally much shaken up by the shock.

The average woman is foolish about her age. It is better to tell it than have it guessed at.

Cupid Tries Again

"By all means," returned Carrington, and they managed to escape unperceived.

"You play, I suppose?" said Morton, beginning to knock the balls about, "all Indian officers do."

"Yes, I am rather fond of the game." In a few minutes they were trying their strength. Sir Frederic soon found his opponent knew what he was about, and roused himself to exercise all his skill, which was of no mean order. Nevertheless, but for one or two oversights on Carrington's part, he would not have risen, as he did, the winner of all his antagonists' loose cash, and a five-pound note into the bargain.

"You would be a foeman worthy of one's steel," observed Morton, as they strolled out on the terrace before the club to smoke a last cigar, "if you kept your attention fixed on your game; but you made one or two mistakes."

"I know I did. My hand is out. I'll come all right with a little practice. You must give me my revenge."

"With great pleasure. When?" asked Morton.

"My movements are very uncertain, but I shall stay on a few days."

"Let us dine together quietly to-morrow," said Morton, "if you will give me the pleasure of your company, and we will have a trial of strength afterwards."

"Thanks; I shall be very happy. A little more talk of cards and billiards, and then, after a brief pause, Carrington asked: "Who was that pretty woman in a grey you were talking to on the links to-day?"

"Mrs. Fane? Who is she—a widow?"

"A grass widow; rich, charming, spirituelle, everything a woman ought to be, except that she is encumbered with an unreasonable husband, who will neither enjoy his own good fortune, nor clear out of the way and let some more sensible fellow have a chance."

Carrington smiled, grimly.

"A dog in the manger, eh? I fancy I have met this man Fane in India. He commands a corps of irregular cavalry, doesn't he?"

"I know nothing about him. Probably you have made our Indian Empire is a big place, yet everyone seems to run against everyone else there."

"I should like to speak to the lady if it is not intrusive to ask for an introduction."

"No, by no means. I shall be happy to present you. But do not mention the husband. I fancy she does not care to have him brought to her notice—a case of mutual repulsion, I fancy."

"She does not look like a repulsive woman," said Carrington, thoughtfully, as he flicked the ash from the end of his cigar.

"No, not exactly; quite the other way round," returned Morton, with a laugh that somehow jarred upon his companion.

"Well, if you are on the links to-morrow about 12 o'clock," said Sir Frederic, "you will meet the whole party. Mrs. Fane is going to watch her friend, Miss Onslow, play against myself. I'll introduce you to them all. Mrs. Fane generally has a sort of confidential friend with her, to do propriety, and that sort of thing. The present incumbent is a capital, jolly old woman—a sort of relation of mine. Oh, you are going? Well, good night, we'll try our luck to-morrow," and Morton turned back to the club to see if he could find any other adversary at billiards.

Carrington, left to himself, strolled along the beach by the light of a splendid moon, thinking, dreaming, hoping perhaps, though his memory was generally more active than his imagination. He had a warm appreciation of such beauties as are offered by a glorious night—the music of murmuring waves, the still grandeur of the starry heavens—and wandered on in a vague reverie rather than consecutive thought, till the striking of a distant church clock warned him to return to his hotel.

Mrs. Bayley, though fresh and smiling outwardly, was internally bored and disappointed with the result of their first day in St. Cuthberts. They had had only an hour or two of Sir Frederic's company on the whole. He had been quite taken up with that stupid girl. It was all very well, she was saying that his old boyish love of the game had revived. She (Mrs. Bayley) shrewdly suspected that he had backed some of the players, and hence arose his interest. He was not too lucky, and might seriously diminish his supply of ready money. Mrs. Bayley only proposed to stay a week, and he should not throw away a chance, and it was such a chance to have Mrs. Fane all to themselves in that sleepy little out-of-the-way corner. If only the rich grass widow could be moved to use the information Mrs. Bayley was willing and able to bestow, she might free herself from the loosened, yet still hampering fetters of her unfortunate marriage, and form an alliance which would give her rank and assured position, and really not a bad husband, as husbands go.

So she mused as she stood in the pleasant window of Mrs. Fane's sitting-room, waiting for that lady, who was putting on her hat, in expectation of Sir Frederic Morton's arrival to escort them to the links.

"Well, my dear Mrs. Bayley, what profound problem occupies your mind?" cried Morton, entering unperceived.

"Those who lie down with the dogs, eh? You know that graceful proverb. You dined with a brace of professors yesterday, didn't you?"

"A brace—a trio! I never was more bored. We had the humanity man, and the Greek professor, who succeeded Dr. Methvin, and they talked quite over my head. One of them had a terrific accent! I was almost provoked with Mrs. Fane, she was quite interested and animated, and asked all sorts of questions, and the old creature—at least two were old—seemed ready to eat her up; she is such a puzzling woman. I never know when she is in earnest; wasting her money too, as she does; she sent off a cheque this morning for £200—I saw it myself—to that designing woman, Mrs. Riddell, who used to be with her, for the Girls' Refuge she worries herself about. She really wants a husband to guide her."

"What hideous waste of money!" cried Sir Frederic, laughing. "But here she comes. Mrs. Bayley has just been abusing you for enjoying your dinner yesterday, and for talking over her head. I suspect you did not give her a chance with either Herr Professor."

"I do not believe you, Sir Frederic!" returned Mrs. Fane, smiling, as she buttoned her glove. "I assure you the dinner was charming, and the humanity professor is an old dear! His profound book-learning seems only equalled by his ignorance of the world; and he said such quaint, original things."

"Well, I honestly confess I did not care for the conversation," said Mrs. Bayley, with her accustomed good-humored candor—candor was her line. "But the mere material dinner was excellent. The doctor gave us a glass of really good port wine, which is not to be despised, in my opinion. Good port is very rare now," and Mrs. Bayley laughed in her pleasant, hearty way, as she often did in the pauses of her speech, which had just enough Scotch accent to give raciness to a good story.

"What will you say to your diligent employe," said Morton, bending an admiring glance on Mrs. Fane, "if I have found and captured the bold intruder of your story?"

"Have you, really? How, and where?" asked Mrs. Fane, with some interest.

"I sat next me at the golf dinner last night, and we had a game of billiards after; then he confided to me his wish to make your acquaintance, and as old Leslie Morton, who seems to know him, said he was all right, I shall, if you will permit me, present him to you. I believe he has been walking about the links since daybreak, lest he should lose a chance of meeting you. Another admirer added to your long list, Mrs. Fane."

"Admirer!" she exclaimed, laughing. "I never saw eyes express doubt and disapprobation more distinctly. It is this that has aroused my curiosity. How can I have offended him?"

"Clever fellow!" cried Sir Frederic. "He knows how to make himself interesting! But if you are ready, let us come on. I fear Miss Onslow will be waiting for us."

The weather was still fine, but the sky was more overcast, and the shadows of slow-sailing clouds gave variety to the aspect of the bay.

On their way to that portion of the ground called "The Ladies' Links," they overtook Miss Onslow, who was accompanied by her uncle, himself an enthusiastic golfer. He had devoted some hours each day since she was his guest in instructing his niece in the mysteries of the game.

As they grouped themselves to see Miss Onslow strike off, a tall figure came up from the beach between two sand hills and approached them; but it was not till he had put his ball safely into the first hole that Sir Frederic exclaimed:

"What you have come to see this exciting match? I assure you I expect to be shamefully beaten. Mrs. Fane, allow me to present my friend, Colonel Carrington. Mrs. Bayley, Colonel Carrington. Mrs. Bayley understands the game and will expound its complications. Now, Miss Onslow, for No. 2. Capital! Well driven!" and the combatants moved to the next hole, followed by Dr. Methvin and Mrs. Bayley.

"I am glad to have an opportunity of explaining to you that my intrusion the day before yesterday was involuntary," said Colonel Carrington. "The guard opened the door, and—"

"You were in the lion's den," put in Mrs. Fane, with a pleasant smile, as he paused. "Pray, do not think it necessary to apologize, or, if you will, address yourself to Mrs. Bayley, who is more disposed to uphold her rights than I am."

She looked with friendly frankness into his grave eyes, instinctively seeking to dispense whatever prejudice against herself might exist in his mind, and endeavoring to recall his face and figure to her memory. She had met so many people, she had had sentimental platonies friendships with so many men, that it might be possible her new acquaintance had quarrelled with her, though in truth her eyes that looked into hers did not change or soften as he replied:

"It is a sound principle to uphold one's rights. People come to grief who lose grip of what is justly theirs."

"Provided they do not clutch what belongs to others. Rights overlap sometimes, you know."

"Not often," he returned, and they walked on a few paces in silence, which Mrs. Fane broke by asking:

"Is this your first visit to St. Cuthberts?"

"It is. I came with an old friend, a man of this country, who is an enthusiast in golf. The attraction of the game."

"Yes, I am told there are men here who spend their lives on the links. I cannot understand it. Fascination in the effort to win anything," said Carrington. As he spoke, their eyes met, and Mrs. Fane was startled, even annoyed, at the new expression in his—and at the effect it produced on herself. A sudden glow, a gleam of sudden resolution, lit up the deep-set windows of his soul, and sent a thrill of apprehension through her veins.

"Come on!" said Morton, waving his driving towards them. "It is mortifying to see how indifferent you are to the splendid play going on under your eyes! Miss Onslow is beating me hollow—three holes up."

"I am proud of my pupil," said Dr. Methvin, in high delight. "Now, then, Sir Frederic, it is your turn. You must go on; there are others behind us."

They all kept together for the remainder of the game and talked only of the game. Finally, to great exultation of her uncle, Miss Onslow came off victorious.

"Suppose," said Dr. Methvin, "we walk on to the flagstaff and go down on the sands. The wind has gone round to the east, and is rising. We will have a view of the waves beating over the castle rocks. I am afraid we shall have a wet day to-morrow."

"A terrible prophecy," exclaimed Mrs. Fane, "but I have a French novel, so am forewarned."

Still conversing with the ex-professor, she walked on over the short, elastic turf, Carrington keeping at the other side, so that it was impossible for Sir Frederic to approach. When the flagstaff was reached, they all grouped round Dr. Methvin, who pointed out some of the dangerous reefs, and then Mrs. Bayley said:

"We had better go homewards, the wind is getting disagreeable."

"Very disagreeable, indeed," cried Mrs. Fane, as a sharp gust caught a light shawl she was trying to wrap round her rare nose," and Mrs. Bayley laughed in her pleasant, hearty way, as she often did in the pauses of her speech, which had just enough Scotch accent to give raciness to a good story.

King of Dancers Clodoche, is Dead

Paris—Clodoche, the last of the giants of the dance, is dead. Reaching the height of his fame in the days of the Second Empire, in his later years he kept a small restaurant on the outskirts of Paris. He was a melancholy person, and very uncommunicative. His only distraction was fishing, in which he was a great adept.

Clodoche belonged to a remarkable quartette. The other members of the band were Flageolet, La Comete and Normande—all, of course, assumed names. The two latter were dressed as women, the others retained their masculine attire. When they appeared for the first time at the opera ball, in the winter of 1865, they achieved an instant success. They were voted the most humorous thing in humanity that had yet come out. The gay assembly at the dance continued for the drolleries of the four. The pseudo "dances" surpassed themselves in their unexpected and brilliant effects. They seemed to be able to do everything with their legs except to stand quietly upon them as ordinary mortals did.

All Paris flocked to them.

Mabile, proprietor of the celebrated gardens which held the same place in Paris as the renowned vespertine Cemonard did in London about the same period, engaged the magic four on the spot. It was a happy stroke of business. All Paris flocked to see them. The rotunda, in the centre of the grounds, was packed with time at the opera ball, in the winter of 1865, they achieved an instant success.
