MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 30, 1874.

Town and County News

This week is known as "Holy Week," and includes Maundy (or Holy) Thursday, Good Friday and Easter Even.

Mr. Joseph Pattullo has commenced legal proceedings to unsettle Mr. McCarty, and to place himself in the position of Mayor of Orangeville.

ARRESTED.—A scoundrel in Ruthven, Essex, who had made a wager of $50 that his team could outrun another, and then disabled the other team by driving nails in their hoofs, has been arrested, and is out on bail awaiting his trial. If he is guilty he ought to be transported for the balance of his life.

GRIP.—Mr. J. Anderson has sent us Grip for last week. In the cartoon "exits and entrances" we have a good representation of the Local members marshalling out after the labours of the session, and the entrance on the scene of the Dominion members headed by Mr. McKenzie and Sir John Macdonald.

CHEAP COTTON GOODS.—Mr. Williamson, of the Golden Lion, has purchased all the cotton goods damaged by wash water at the fire which lately took place at the Lybster Cotton Mills, Thorold. They consist of shirtings, bed ticks, towels, &c. All splendid goods, and not any the worse when dried. They will be sold far under cost. Now is the time for great bargains.

VETERINARY CARD.—Mr. E. A. A. Grange, V.S., who has during the winter months been acting as Assistant Demonstrator of Anatomy in the Veterinary College, Toronto, has returned to Guelph, the session having closed. He will now be able to give his whole time to the practice of his profession, and will attend all calls relating to the diseases of horses and cattle. See his card in another column.

THE TOWNSEND FAMILY.—This talented troupe advertise entertainments for tomorrow and Wednesday evenings, when two new plays will be introduced. The bill for to-morrow night contains the play of "A Wonderful Woman," to conclude with a farce entitled "Taming the Shrew." The programme for Wednesday evening will be entirely different, and we have no doubt that on both occasions large houses will greet this really first-class company.

CHURCH SERVICES.—Rev. Mr. Inglis, of Toronto, conducted the services yesterday in Chalmers' Church, and Professor MacLaren, of Knox College, preached in Knox Church, to good congregations. The Baptist Church was filled in the morning on the occasion of a sermon, on "What the Baptists Believe," and the immersion of 14 candidates. At the conclusion of the evening services in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Howard baptised 16 adults, who have been converted during the revival now going on.

SUDDEN DEATH ON A FREIGHT TRAIN.—Mr. William Carter, one of the oldest and most respectable citizens of Brampton, in returning from Guelph on Saturday night, missed the passenger train, and went into the caboose of the freight train just leaving. In a few minutes he was observed to fall from his seat. The conductor had him put back, but being a stranger, supposed him to be under the influence of drink. On arriving at Brampton he called on the station-master to remove him. On approaching him, however, they found he was dead. He had been subject to heart disease for some months past, and there is no doubt he died from this cause when he fell from his seat, just after leaving Guelph. Being a man of sterling character, his sudden death has cast a gloom over this community.

RUNAWAY AND ACCIDENT TO A MARE.—This (Monday) forenoon as the team belonging to Mr. Jas. W. Benham, of Eramosa, was approaching the Eramosa Bridge, the pole by some means got loose and the horses being frightened started off. The driver fearing they would come against the bridge, jumped out. The horses ran down Wyndham-st. at full speed, and when near the Wellington Hotel one of the wheels of the wagon came in contact with another wagon, by which the pole was by some means broken and a large splinter of it was run into the off hind foot of the off mare. They, however, continued to run till they reached the Market Square, where they were stopped. It was found on examination that the poor brute had run all the way from the Wellington with this splinter in her foot, and in order to detach it from the rest of the pole it had to be sawed off. It had entered the fetlock just above the hoof, and so great had been the force with which it was driven in that it came clear through on the other side, and had actually burst the shoe. We never saw an uglier looking wound. A great pool of blood lay where the animal had stopped, and it kept bleeding profusely after she was unhitched. The splinter must be six or seven inches long, and over two inches in width. It is doubtful whether the mare will recover, but she was taken to Parker's stable, and Mr. Taylor, V.S., succeeded in extracting the splinter. Even if she recovers she will be lame for life, and be of very little use.

POLICE COURT.

(Before the Police Magistrate.) Monday, March 30.

Thos. Simpson was charged with breach of the market by-law in selling meat within the limits prescribed in the by-law, namely on the west market square. He was fined $2 and costs.

John Roberts, charged with exposing meat for sale in his shop on Upper Wyndham street, contrary to the provision of the market by-law, was fined $2 and costs.

Death of Dr. Munro of Fergus. Telegraphed per Montreal Line.

Fergus, March 30.—A deep gloom has been cast over this village and surrounding country by the death of our old and respected townsman Dr. Munro, who died this morning about two o'clock, having only been sick since last Saturday, with inflammation. The Dr. was well known throughout the country and was loved and esteemed by all parties. He will be buried on Wednesday, at two o'clock.

Legal and Other Items.

DAVID Kalakua, the new King of Hawaii, is about forty years of age, and has held a seat in the House of Nobles, and been Chamberlain to Kamehameha V. He is a native, and opposed to foreign control. His grandfather was hanged for poisoning his wife.

Rev. Mr. Anthes, Minister of the German Evangelical Church, Berlin, died on Wednesday, 25th inst., after an illness of a few days. He was a young man of much promise, and his death is deeply regretted by all. He was buried on Saturday.

A WEIGHTY Miss.—The London Advertiser says Otterville has a girl, twelve years of age, who weighs 246 pounds. A correspondent vouches for the correctness of the account, and asks: Beat this can who.

PROHIBITION ON THE G. W. R.—A by-law has been issued to the employees of the Great Western Railway which prohibits the drinking of intoxicating liquor while on duty, or an hour previous to the commencement of labor. A violation of this by-law subjects the offender to instant dismissal, or the forfeiture of 30 days' salary.

BURGLARY IN HAMILTON.—On Friday night last, or early on Saturday morning, the establishment of D. Moore & Co., stove dealers, Hamilton, was entered by a party of burglars who had evidently made themselves acquainted with the premises, but failed to secure more than about fifty cents. Strangely enough, they were not molested by the guardian of the public peace, or the night watchmen who were on their regular beats close by.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.—The returns of this road for the first eight weeks of 1874 show an increase of $49,700, nearly a quarter of a million dollars, over the same number of weeks of 1873. A Bill has been passed through the New York Assembly authorizing the Company to hold real estate in Buffalo, which will tend to increase the business of the road in that city, and give the Company a permanent position in the United States.

CHEESE AVERAGES.—The average number of pounds of milk to a pound of butter and to a pound of cheese at the Avilla Creamery, Ellington, N.Y., for 1874, was, for butter, 38.95 lbs. of milk to one pound of butter, and 12.025 lbs. of milk to one of cheese. It is an easy matter from this estimate to account for the present scarcity and high price of butter. The farmer has evidently discovered that his cows yield more money when their milk is transferred into cheese than when made into butter.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE SESSION.—The Ottawa Free Press says:—"The Government have decided to proceed with the work of the session with all possible speed, and with that view have decided not to adjourn during Passion week beyond the least time necessary to be occupied in the transaction of the business to be done. There is a large amount of legislation to be considered by the House, and as it will be the first of April before this work can be entered upon, it is easy to see that it will be with difficulty that the House will be enabled to get through with it this session. Indeed, we surmise that a fall session may be found necessary."

THE WHITBY SCANDAL.—About nine months ago Mr. Robert Campbell, of R. J. Campbell, merchants, Whitby, suspected that an immoderate intimacy had arisen between his wife, a daughter of Rev. J. T. Byrne, Congregational Minister, and Mr. George Gordon, a young farmer. Having occasion to go to the old country, he instructed his brother, and partner in business, James, to keep watch in his absence. On his return, matters were reported as rather unusual, and he thought it best to take his children away from their mother. While on his way with them to Southampton, a vigilant watch was kept by his brother and a brother-in-law named Anderson, who concealed themselves on the verandah of Mrs. Campbell's house. Here they heard a conversation between Gordon and Mrs. Campbell that excited greater suspicion, and led to a trial of Campbell vs. Gordon for criminal connection, when damages were brought against the defendant of $3,000. Mrs. Campbell then brought an action for defamation of character against James Campbell, the principal witness against her, and the moving spirit of the whole affair, laying the damages at $10,000. The case has just been concluded in Toronto, where the former case was tried, and a sealed verdict returned granting her the sum of $1,000.

London, March 28, 3 p.m.—The annual race between the Oxford and Cambridge boat crews, came off this morning over the usual course on the Thames, from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of four miles and two farlongs, and as has been the case in the past four years, resulted in a victory for the Cambridge boat, which came in two lengths ahead of its rival. The weather was beautiful, and a more propitious day for the contest could not have been selected. The crowd that assembled to witness the race was unprecedented. On the Surrey side of the river, from Putney to Mortlake, there was one compact mass of people 150 feet wide, and at the latter place carriages, five deep, stood in long rows. The Princess of Wales and the Duchess of Edinburgh, who were expected to be among the spectators, were absent. Upon the part of the choice of positions, the Cambridge won and selected the Middlesex or northern side. The Oxford crew rowed into the stream at one minute past eleven o'clock. Five minutes later, the Cambridge boat appeared and was received with immense cheering by its friends. The betting at this time was 5 to 2 in favor of Cambridge. All things being in readiness at 14 min. past 11 the signal for the start was given, and the boats got away almost instantaneously. Cambridge had the start from the first, rowing at the rate of 37 strokes per minute, but both crews pulled steadily. After an exciting contest Cambridge reached the ship at Mortlake at 37 min. 35 sec. past 11 o'clock, winning the race in 23 min. and 35 sec. The water, though not so smooth as was desired, was fairly calm.

London, March 28, 4:30 p.m.—The University race was won by Cambridge by four lengths, not by two as first announced.

It is rumored that there is trouble between Roumania and Turkey, growing out of the action of the former in fixing customs tariffs with other European powers.

London, March 29.—The Standard's special from Berlin reports that Bismarck threatened to resign in consequence of the opposition of the Reichstag to the Army Bill.

London, March 30.—The Queen will review the troops of the Ashantee Expedition at one o'clock, at Windsor. After the review a dinner will be given to them at the Castle. A Baronetcy will be conferred on General Wolseley, who will also receive the orders of Knighthood.

The times correspondents at Marshall Serrano's head-quarters, telegraphs that the losses in the battle of Friday before Bilbao was enormous. Gen. Primo de Rivera was mortally wounded. When the national troops heard this they refused to give quarter. Gen. Lomas was seriously wounded and two colonels were killed.

New York, March 29.—A Herald special from London says:—"The steamer Galway arrived at Suez on Saturday with the remains of Dr. Livingstone. The following account is given of Dr. Livingstone's illness and death:—He had been ill of chronic dysentery for several months. He was well supplied with stores and medicine, but had a presentiment that the attack would prove fatal. At first he was able to ride, but soon had to be carried. Arriving at Mulala beyond Lake Bemba in the Biss country, he said:—"Build me a hut to die in." The hut was built by his followers. On the first of May he was confined to bed and afterwards suffered greatly, groaning night and day. The third day he said he was very cold and requested more grass to be put over the hut. His followers did not speak or go near him. Kitumbo, Chief of Biss, sent flour and beans and behaved well towards the party. On the fourth day Dr. Livingstone was insensible and died about midnight. Makooboo, his servant, was present. Dr. Livingstone made his last entry in his diary April 27th. He spoke much and sadly of his home and family. When he was first seized by the fatal attack he told his followers he intended to exchange everything for ivory to give them, and then to push on to Ujiji and Zanzibar and try and reach England. The doctor prayed much before his death and often said, "I am going home." His followers dried the body in the sun, packed it in salt, and wrapping it in bark travelled with it for six months to Ujiji. The remains followed two days after. Weib, American Consul at Zanzibar, has letters from Dr. Livingstone by Mr. Stanley. The only geographical news is as follows:—After Stanley's departure the doctor left Unanyambe, rounded the south end of Lake Demba, crossed it from south to north, then proceeded along the east side, and returning north through the marshes to Mulala. All his papers, sealed and addressed to the Secretary of State, are in charge of Arthur Laing, British merchant at Zanzibar, who accompanied the remains.

Paris, March 29.—Great excitement was created here on Saturday, by a rumor of the death of ex-President Thiers which proved unfounded.

Republican candidates for the Assembly are elected in the Departments of Haute-Marne and Gieronde.

Rome, March 28.—It is reported that King Victor Emmanuel burnt an address sent to him from a number of citizens of Trieste, because it contained treasonable sentiments towards Austria, and that he will send to the Austrian Government a formal disclaimer of sympathy with the address.

Boston, March 28.—The fifth ballot was taken at noon to-day with the following result:—Messrs. Dawes, 88, and Hoar, 75; Curtis, 68; Adams, 13, and Banks, 7. Messrs. Whittier, Washburne and Pierce received each one vote. The whole number of votes is 254; necessary to a choice, 128. The Convention adjourned till Monday.

Detroit, March 29.—The Academy of Music at Mackegon, Mich., was destroyed by fire to-night.

Susquehanna, March 30.—One thousand more troops from Philadelphia are at Corbendale en route for this place, and will reach here at 9:30; and if the strikers decline the proposition at a meeting this morning, the Sheriff will at once begin offensive operations backed by the troops.

The Late Outrage.

MAN ARRESTED IN BROOKVILLE ON SUSPICION.

The Brockville Recorder says: A few days since Mr. W. Gillchrist received information that a man was working for Mr. Chatterton near Lyn, answering the description given of Sullivan, alias Jack Dunn, who committed rape in Guelph a short time ago. He called in Constable Abbott and with that official went out to Lyn this morning and they arrested the man referred to, who gave his name as W. A. Kemy. When brought before the Police Magistrate on Friday afternoon the prisoner was examined and found to differ from the description of Sullivan, alias Dunn, in two particulars. He had no marks on his face, no tattoo marks upon his arm, while he claimed to have come from Lindsay. Mr. Chatterton said the prisoner had entered his employ on the 10th ult. He appeared to be an honest upright sort of a fellow. Their being no further evidence against the prisoner, he was discharged, but was re-arrested on a charge of committing some crime in Almonte and remanded till Monday.

Hon. Mr. Killy, of Toronto, well known in political circles some years ago, died at Pictou on Saturday morning at eight o'clock, from the effects of a cold which settled on his lungs.

By an Order in Council, nineteen places in Ontario are constituted ports for the registration of shipping, six in Quebec, six in New Brunswick, and twelve in Nova Scotia.

Some two weeks ago one of the Lucknow merchants left that place with a large sum of money to go to Toronto to purchase goods. He has not returned, nor has anything been heard of him. It is supposed he has levanted.

A great many Italians emigrate to the United States, but more are going to South America. Five hundred Neapolitan laborers recently sailed in a body. Distress and bad treatment are driving them from their homes.

The St. Catharines News says:—"On Tuesday last, Customs Officer Fleming captured nine hundred and thirty black silk at Suspension Bridge, which property was being smuggled by a man and two women from the other side of the river."

It will be surprising to those who had not previously noticed the fact that over 60 per cent of the total foreign imports of the United States are received at the port of New York alone! The exports of the United States last year exceeded the imports by about thirteen millions.

A Danbury man who recently lost his wife was asked by a friend whether she died suddenly. "Indeed she did," he explained, with much feeling; "why, only a week after there was a man around here that wanted to insure her, but I never dreamed of anything happening. And," he added, apologetically, "I don't believe anybody would have thought it to look at her."

Turkey and Russia are said to be quietly preparing for war against each other. Turkey is purchasing cannon and pushing the construction of railways, and Russia is rebuilding Sebastopol, making all the men of this empire liable to military duty, and adding iron monitors to her Black Sea fleet.

Two young men, named respectively Graves and Hunt, of the village of Somers, Ont., were paying their addresses to the same young lady. They quarrelled about the object of their mutual admiration, and fought in consequence; strange to say, both came away with military honors, and were followed in two weeks thereafter by 50 girls, with the intention of placing them with respectable families where they may severally earn a livelihood till their majority.

Mr. Wm. McDougall on the Pacific Railway.

Mr. Wm. McDougall, who is at present in London, has written a long letter to the Standard in that city, correcting some errors and misapprehensions into which that paper had fallen in its attacks on the present Canadian Government in reference to its policy on the Pacific Railway.

Mr. McDougall further says that his statement of Mr. Mackenzie is justified by the clause in the act of union with British Columbia, which received the unanimous assent of the representatives of that Province and which says that "the said railway should be constructed and worked by private enterprise, and not by the Dominion Government, and that the public aid to be given to secure that undertaking should consist of liberal grants of land, and such subsidy in money, or other aid, not increasing the present rate of taxation, as the Parliament of Canada should thereafter determine."

He then combats the assertion of the Standard that the scheme for the construction of a branch line from Fort Garry to Pembina, to use the words of the Standard, "an insidious attack on the independence of Canada," and reminds that journal that "this branch line to connect the Pacific with the American railway system formed an essential part of the scheme of the late Government; that charters for it were granted to two rival companies, either of which might be authorized by the proclamation to build it; and that all the great lines in Canada not only connect with American lines, but practically extend their own systems east and west into the territory of the United States. As far as my observation enables me to judge, Canada is more independent to-day commercially and politically than at any previous period of her history. The number of those who desire "political assimilation" with the neighboring Republic at no time formidable, diminishes at every turn of the political wheel."

Mr. McDougall concludes his letter with an expression of confidence in the honesty and patriotism of the present Government. He says:—"Let us not be unjust to those who have undertaken the responsibilities of administration in a difficult crisis. Your apprehension that the present Liberal Ministry may attempt to abolish the noble Dominion which has fallen into its hands to govern is not shared, I assure you, by intelligent Canadians. I know all its leading members well. I have opposed them in Parliament and on the platform with a vigor which they will neither forget nor forgive, but my opposition was limited to specific questions, and although some of these—notably their motion to reject the Washington Treaty—involved, as I thought, the success of Confederation, to which I was pledged as a public man, I never doubted the loyalty or the patriotism of Mr. Mackenzie or of the leading members of his Government. Party spirit runs high in all young communities of English origin. Its heat has not abated in Canada under the influence of the federal system. But in the present case I must ask you to remember that Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues, with the distinct repudiation of the railway policy of their predecessors, and indicating the changes now under discussion, have been sustained by a large majority of the people in all the provinces."

Hon. Dr. Tupper will likely lead the Opposition in the Commons. Senators Campbell and Chapais will lead the Opposition in the Senate.

The Free Press of Ottawa has turned another somersault, and come out squarely as a supporter of the Administration.

Judging from the proceedings in the North York Election case, it seems to be pretty plain that the petitioner's name was obtained by fraud.

It is believed that Sir Robert Hodgson, the present Administrator of the Government of Prince Edward Island, has been offered the Lieut. Governorship of that Province, and will shortly be gazetted the Lieut. Governor thereof.

The Montreal Star says it is rumored that the Hon. Geo. Brown is "authorized" to throw in our fisheries as a "sop" to our American neighbour to secure Reciprocity. If we mistake not that "sop" was disposed of by the late Government, consideration nihil.

We have the authority of the Canadian Illustrated News for the assertion that the new Finance Minister "will have to meet a deficiency of nearly three millions in the year's budget." A nice legacy from the spendthrift Administration of Sir John.

It was remarked that at the brilliant gathering in the Senate Chamber to do honour to the Governor-General and Lady Dufferin on Friday evening no member of the late Administration except Senator Aikens was present. Many other leading Conservatives were also conspicuous by their absence.

The Western express on Friday night ran into a locomotive near Gananoque, doing considerable damage, and injuring several passengers, besides the fireman and engineer.

Two Bodies Found.—The Daily News says that on Saturday morning, on drawing off the water from Lock 24, the body of a man, having the appearance of a contractor or boss on the Canal, was found with hands bound behind his back. The body is in an advanced state of decomposition. Strong suspicions of foul play. Also on the level of Lock 25 there was found the body of an infant not much decomposed. It was enclosed in a rough box of pine. It is to be hoped the unnatural parent will be found out.

DEATH OF DR. MUNRO.—We regret to record the death of Dr. Munro of Fergus, after a very short illness. The doctor was attacked with inflammation on Saturday, and died this (Monday) morning. He was an old resident of Fergus, enjoyed a very extensive practice, and was greatly esteemed, not only for his skill as a physician, but for his uniform goodness of heart, and kindness to the poor. He will be greatly missed in and about Fergus by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Affairs in the United States.

The monthly circular of Henry Clews & Co., bankers, of New York, has again appeared. The principal feature in it is a complaint of dullness in nearly all departments of business, a matter which cannot create any surprise in view of the severe panic of last fall, and of its consequence in compelling economy and curtailment. That measure of economy are being heartily entered on is the most hopeful sign of the condition of the country. A nation is like an individual. If a person exceeds his income for several years in succession, he can tide over the difficulty by borrowing, provided his credit be good. But this process cannot go on for ever. So long as it lasts he may go on spending. He may spend, in fact, more than he ever did before, and enlarge his house and improve his grounds, adding a carriage drive here and a conservatory there, besides squandering money in expensive law-suits with his neighbors or tenants. All this time his family, servants, and friends may suppose him in a high state of prosperity. But pay-day comes at last, and then the only possible course is to stop the leaks that are draining away his fortune, and by severe economy endeavor to bring things round. Servants are dismissed, equipages sold, expenditure on improvement stopped, and a new style of living entered upon. All this is "had for trade" in a certain sense, and shortsighted people would cry out against such a policy; but it is the best for trade in the end. It enables him to pay his debts honorably, and he will be a far safer customer bye-and-bye.

CHAPTER XXIV.

CAMERON AND IAN BEGIN TO FEEL UNEASY
—FLORA MACGREGOR AND ANNE M'LEOD PRISONERS AT DROGHDAIRCH
NEWS OF THE ASSASSINATION OF NED GORDON AND HIS SISTER JEANNIE—
"HECTOR MUST DIE!"

It is almost needless to say that Hector M'Leod was now terribly in earnest in his pursuit of Ian M'Kenzie and Cameron. Nothing but a hunting of them to the death seemed sufficient to satisfy the craving for retaliation which burned in his bosom. But he felt that he had been forced to this desperate extremity. This pursuit of the old, wild, relentless clannish spirit—the spirit which his judgment, his reason, pronounced to be wrong; yet the impulse under which he acted was so powerful that he felt unable to resist it. It was true that he had gone forth to rescue Flora and his aunt, but it would be difficult to say whether that motive or the desire for vengeance more strongly actuated him at the present moment. Each in itself was enough to cause him to sweep everything before him from his path, and he felt more inclined to nurse than to stem the torrent of his passion.

But if he was now roused to desperation, none the less so were the two men whom he followed, and to whose proceedings, now that we have seen Hector fairly started in pursuit, we must at this stage direct our attention.

Cameron and Ian had, before they left the inn at Kinloch-Ewe on their way to Dingwall, and long before it became known to our friends in old Murdoch's hut, learned that the military had come upon the Caterans, and, assisted by the Cian M'Leod, taken them prisoners. This was a terrible reverse, the calamitous nature of which upon themselves could only be averted by the most prompt and decided action—though what shape such action should take was a point very difficult to solve. They were almost beside themselves with rage when they learned from Gregor that M'Leod had again escaped them, and feeling uneasy where they were, resolved to make with all possible speed for Dingwall, where the marriage with Flora and Anne M'Leod could, with assistance of Mr. Fender, be easily consummated. They were now beginning to dread the fury of Hector M'Leod. They knew they had roused him against them, and that, unless they could manage to overpower him by a master stroke, he would know no rest until he had executed summary vengeance upon them. Both felt that he was the greatest barrier in their way to success—indeed, but for him their path yet appeared tolerably smooth—and it was of paramount importance that he should be secured from disturbing them farther. They had been, though at a terrible sacrifice, up to this point highly successful in their scheming in all other respects save in regard to him, personally. Neither they nor any of their gang had been able to deal him a finishing blow. Both regretted they had not put an end to his life, and his action against them, when first they had him secure, a prisoner in their hands; and the more especially did they regret saving him, since they had failed in all the objects for which they had spared his life. And then, sometimes, the sacredness of his vow to his father returned to Ian with full force and caused him to grind his teeth in exasperation.

Germany and Russia.

The Goloss, of St. Petersburg, prints an article on Count Moltke's speech on the new German Army Bill. Referring to the Field Marshal's statement that "Germany has everywhere won respect, but nowhere attachment," and that "the German army may have to confront its adversaries on two opposite sides," the writer says that there is only too much reason for the suspicion with which Germany is viewed by other nations. At the beginning of the war of 1870 all Russia sympathized with the Prussian Government, and she only turned in favour of France when the further continuance of the war could no longer be justified. "We always regarded," continues the Goloss, "the annexation of North Silesia by Prussia as a great mistake, and this mistake has been made still greater by the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine."

In the face of these facts, the arguments advanced by German journalists and statesmen in proof of their love of peace are worthless. They complain of dislike and distrust; but how can we believe their words when they inspire suspicion by their deeds, or have a friendly feeling for those who have no sense of justice in their dealings with other nations? Germany knows that she has nothing to get from us; but she plays a dangerous game in provoking the hostility of a neighboring nation which is twice as large as she is, which is young, strong, and full of patriotic spirit. Germany thinks she will have no peace from France for fifty years to come; how many centuries would she live in constant anxiety if she had an unfriendly neighbour on her Eastern frontier? We value highly the friendship of Germany, for we desire peace for ourselves, but we are not to be alarmed by any provocation, for we know what the Russian nation is capable of when it is interfered with. It seemed to us indeed strange to hear from the Count Moltke that Germany is preparing to confront two enemies at once, at a time when the most friendly relations seem to exist between the three European Empires, and when events occur before our own eyes which show that even old enemies approach each other in the interest of peace and progress.—Pull Mall Gazette.

Distribution of the Geneva Award.

The House Judiciary Committee held a meeting of three hours on Friday on the subject of distribution of the award at Geneva. By a vote of the majority it was decided, after a long discussion, that no provision should be made for reimbursing any insurance companies for any losses sustained by them under policies insuring vessels which were destroyed by the rebel cruisers. A portion of the majority were in favour of distributing out of the award the amount paid by insurers as war premiums, but as this kind of damage is expressly excluded by the Geneva Tribunal in fixing the gross sum it is considered very doubtful whether the Committee will recommend it to be paid by the United States. This question, and others of importance connected with the general subject, are, however, yet to be decided by the Committee.

On the Red River, (Manitoba) there are now four steamers plying, where in 1872 there was but one. Others are building, with a view to breaking up monopoly and cheapening facilities.
