Coronation Pageant Makes Spectacle of Splendor

Sun Bursts Through Clouds, Illuminating the Greatest Royal Pageant the World Has Ever Seen.— A Wonderful Day for English Subjects and Visitors in London.

London, June 22—A drab sky and small showers early this morning, though they dimmed the freshness of the coronation decorations, could not dull the enthusiasm of the multitude who for months had been planning to make June 22nd, a red letter day in their lives.

SUN ADDS ITS GLORY.

Later as the royal coach bearing King George and Queen Mary to Westminster Abbey for their crowning, emerged from the yard of Buckingham Palace, the clouds gave way and the sun burst through in all its glory permitting what might have been a bedraggled procession to become a spectacle of splendor.

After the early morning rush of enthusiasts, mainly of the humbler classes and great numbers of ticket holders eager to secure places of vantage from which to witness the royal procession before the expected crowds arrived on the scene, there was some falling off observed and as late as five o'clock, when the front gates at Buckingham Palace were closed, there was little difficulty in moving freely at any point between the palace and Westminster Abbey. There afterwards the crowd rapidly increased and by the time the troops began to take up their positions along the line of the procession route at 7.15 o'clock, there were dense masses of spectators at every point.

The pressure became so intense at Charing Cross and at Whitehall that the police cordon was broken by the surging people. With the aid of the troops, however, the authorities soon regained control.

The military bands were now playing in the Mall: Waterloo Place, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, Hyde Park, Coronet, Parliament Square and other central places. Gaily attired people taking their places on the stands formed a brilliant and lively scene somewhat marred to be sure by showers which were just beginning to fall.

General Kitchener, in command of the troops, and 12,000 police, hurried here and there and was everywhere cheered. Sixty thousand of the empire's picked men lined the procession route and as they swung along to their assigned places, with a cocksure stride they were cheered by every spectator who had a chair in him.

THREE PROCESSIONS.

There were three processions, one for the royal guests, another for the Prince of Wales and that of the royal family other than the king and queen and the imperial procession.

The first was made up of fourteen dress carriages occupied by the royal guests and the distinguished court officials and officers attached to their staffs. The carriages were drawn by pairs of famous bay and black horses from the royal stables, driven by royal coachmen and attended by footmen in scarlet livery.

Trumpeters and an escort of the royal horse guards preceded the royal guests, few of whom were recognized by the crowds. A light rain was falling and the carriages were closed but their occupants could be distinguished through the windows.

ROYAL CHILDREN CHEERED.

Immediately followed the second procession with members of the British Royal family including the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary and their younger brothers. The appearance was the signal for the heartiest demonstration up to that time. The cheering began as the royal children came from the palace and was carried along from row upon row of seats and taken up by the crowds behind. Four carriages were occupied by others of the royal family and their suites.

Hardly had these passed when the signs in the palace yard told of the assembling of the great procession of the day, that which was to escort the king and queen to the Abbey and back to the palace. There was a brilliant scene to the quadrangle but this was reserved for friends of the royal family officials and their families and court servants who had seats at the windows and on the roofs of the palace itself.

THE GREAT PROCESSION.

Exactly at 10.30 o'clock booming guns announced that the king and queen were leaving the palace end by a happy coincidence which, however, has become almost traditional in British royal functions, the sun suddenly broke through the clouds and the rain ceased.

The staff officers appeared under the archway, the guard of honor, big six footers from the Guard regiments, blue-jackets and troops came to attention with a clang of swords and musketry while the bands struck up the National Anthem.

Following the staff officers was the advance guard, a sovereign's escort of the Life Guards, in their steel breast plates and helmets with plumes and white breeches and riding on their white chargers. The king's horse master and twelve water-men, in quaint costumes, reminded the sightseers that there was a time when the king travelled by water when he went to Westminster to be crowned, and next came the king, Naval and military officers of the headquarters staff followed in their modern uniforms, and then came another quaint touch with the Yeomen of the Guard, the "Beef-eaters," carrying long staves. Equerries to the king, escorts of colonial and Indian cavalry followed.

The colonials in Khaki and the Indians in bright colors, passed in rapid succession.

THE GREAT MOMENT.

As the first division of the sovereign's escort of the Royal Horse Guards trotted slowly through the gates the booming of cannon announced that the royal coach with the king and queen approached. The long awaited moment when Their Majesties were to look into the faces of their subjects and their subjects upon their king and queen had arrived. There was a momentary hush broken only by the trumpeters and the crash of brass and then as one voice the multitude acclaimed the sovereigns with a roar of cheers that preceded and followed them from the gates of the palace yard to the very doors of Westminster Abbey.

Smiling and bowing their majesties acknowledged the greetings. The king wore a long purple robe and velvet cap trimmed with ermine. The queen made a beautiful picture in her robe of cloth of gold decorations.

The floor space in the transept was wholly occupied by the white upholstered chairs of the peers and peeresses, those of the peers on the south side and the peeresses on the north. Back of these were immense stands in ascending tiers filled with the members of the House of Commons and their ladies. Many commoners were uniformed and wore decorations, while the dresses of the ladies were rich and striking.

At each angle of the transept were smaller stands for the accommodation of the foreign and colonial representatives and other high personages. There were the heirs to most of the thrones of other countries. The crown Princes and Princess of the German Empire, Prince Henry, the emperor's brother and his princess, the Duke of Austria, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Yusuf Izet Din, the heir to the Turkish throne with a red fez on his head, Prince Fushimi of Japan, with the heroes of the Russian war, Admiral Ogo and Ren. Nogi in full uniforms with much gold lace and rows of decorations on his breasts; the American special Ambassador John Hays, Hammond with his aides; Ambassador Reid with his staff, almost the only officials wearing plain clothes, and the Chinese Prince Tsai-Chen robed in gorgeous embroidered silks. There, too, was Manuel, the deposed King of Portugal.

Above the choir stalls were arranged tier after tier of seats, the boxes displaying the embroidered arms of the three kingdoms. Above the choir stalls were other tiers of seats and altogether nearly 7,000 people were congregated as closely together as they could be packed.

Above the choir screen was an orchestral platform on which there was an orchestra of eighty players and several hundred male singers selected from the male choirs of the kingdom.

The centre of all interest was the area between the choir and transepts which was called the theatre. Five broad steps led up to it. It was covered with a carpet of rich blue on which embroidered the emblems of the Order of the Garter.

The arrival of the sovereign at the abbey was proclaimed by the ringing of the bells of the abbey and St. Margaret's church, the firing of a gun and another outburst of cheering from the throng on the official stands in Parliament square.

At the entrance of the cathedral Their Majesties were received by the Earl Marshal the Duke of Norfolk and the pages-in-waiting.

Westminster Abby the lodestar of all of today's ceremonial was ready and waiting the arrival of Their Majesties by the time that the imperial procession left Buckingham Palace. Nothing could be more impressive than the customary aspect of the interior of the abbey but this was all transferred today. Where usually is a gray and somewhat gloomy atmosphere now was a mass of blazing color.

All the tombs and the floor of the great building were concealed under immense carpets and hangings of deep blue and amber. The color scheme was rich and impressive while it afforded a subdued background to the marvellous mass of theatrically colored robes of state and variegated uniforms and flashing swords.

With the Bridgetown Boy Scouts

The first months existence of the local organization has now passed. About twenty boys have allied themselves with the movement and bid fair to become real "Boy Scouts"; although it is being realized that for this a certain amount of stick-to-it-iveness is required. Meetings have been held on Monday evenings (indoors) and on Saturday afternoons out of doors, and the boys are already attracting attention.

Last Saturday an attempt was made at a real Scout game. The Beaver Patrol, under the Patrol Leader Rex Harlow, were given a position near the County Home to defend. On this an attack was made by the Cuckoo Patrol under the Patrol leader Ronald Ruggles. In theory the defenders should have won out but with them patience had evidently not become a virtue. Apart from this, however, the attackers had crept up reconnoitering very carefully and were within striking distance, even attacking, before the "Beavers" knew it. Then came real fun—a veritable melee, in which a few unintentional scratches were received, until the last of the defenders was hors-de-combat and the flag was hauled down by the enemy.

After a brief rest, positions were reversed,—the "Beavers" being sent out to return as the attacking party, with the "Cuckoos" defending. And as the positions, so the result, the "Beavers" this time being victorious. Thus, honors were even, and the boys returned to headquarters in high spirits.

Coronation Day will long be remembered. To begin with, the Scouts, turned out in the morning under Assistant Scoutmaster Hiltz, twenty strong, for their first church parade. This was to St. James' church for the special Coronation Service. Thus they embraced the opportunity to keep that part of the Scout's promise indicated by the first finger in the salute. It was a nice coincidence, too, that this service was conducted by the Scoutmaster, Rev. E. Underwood.

In the afternoon they again paraded for the children's service, after which came the flag-raising and the singing of the National Anthem on the school grounds, during which they stood at full salute.

Then the contests. What a tug of war! Feeling ran high even amongst the spectators. Some even lent a hand. It nearly upset the boys. But the second pull, (under somewhat altered conditions) went the same way, and the side under Patrol leader Rex Harlow was declared the winner. But the losing side under Patrol Leader R. Ruggles, though defeated, were by no means vanquished. At any rate they were able to talk afterward.

In the foot races the prize winners were—

1. Paul Longmire, 2. Rex Harlow, 3. Raymond Bent.

1. Jack Ruggles, 2. Jack Michie, 3. Fred Cam...

At 5.30 three rousing cheers went up alike for the Mayor and Council, Town Clerk, H. Ruggles, the Scoutmaster and the Assistant. Return was then made to headquarters and the boys dispersed having had a most enjoyable day.

NOTES.

The Patrol-Leaders appointed thus far are Ronald Ruggles and Rex Harlow.

The Scouts particularly desire to thank the Mayor and Council for the prizes on Coronation Day. Also Mr. C.H. Strong for a donation of flags. These were carried in the afternoon procession and are to be used for signalling practice.

A supply of Staves is expected this week and uniforms are to be ordered just as soon as the money is in hand.

It is hoped to hold a camp the first two weeks in August. Particulars later.

Saturday being Dominion Day, it will be observed as a holiday even from scouting. No meeting that day.

The Scoutmaster says he is learning some interesting facts and making notes. He hopes the boys are doing the same.

ONLOOKER.

STRIKE AT CAR WORKS COLLAPSED.

Two Thousand Employees Have Returned to Work Unconditionally.

Montreal, June 28—The strike in the Canadian Car Co.'s plants at Dominion and Turcott was called off this morning, the men returning to work unconditionally. Two thousand employees went out six days ago for a two cents an hour increase. The Company refused to consider the demand. The strike leaders were unable to hold the men together, and each day more and more have been returning to work. Today the balance decided to call the strike off and were allowed to return to their jobs under the old conditions.

A Red-Letter Day For

Bridgetown School-Children

Coronation of George V. Fittingly Observed in Bridgetown by Flag-Raising at School Grounds, with Big Procession of Children and Citizens Displaying National Emblems.

The Coronation Day of King George V. will long be remembered in Bridgetown. There was not a big display of bunting but flags were in evidence in all sections of the town and the hearts of the people were well attuned to the occasion.

The proceedings peculiar to the day commenced with a special service in St. James' church at 10.30. This was attended by the Mayor and Town Council, and the Boy Scouts, twenty strong, under assistant Scoutmaster Hiltz, the boys meeting at their headquarters in the Ruggles Block and marching to the church, returning in the same order after the service. Besides these there was a large general congregation. The service (for which forms had been specially printed for distribution) commenced with the singing of the well-known hymn "O God our help in ages past," to Croft's equally well-known tune—St. Ann's. Then came the introductory sentence, which really gave the keynote of the whole—"Zadock the priest and Nathan the prophet anointed Solomon King, and the people rejoiced and said, 'God save the King. Long live the King, May the King live forever.'" to which the congregation replied "God Save the King". The special psalm was 121, and sung to chant 379, Cathedral chant book. The lesson was 1 S. Peter, 11 v. 13-18 and St. Matthew XXII, 15-23—passages forming the "Epistle" and Gospel" in the actual Coronation service. After this the National Anthem was sung as the Canticle, followed by the Apostles' Creed, the recital of "the Solemnities of the Coronation," special suffrages and memorial prayers embracing the Anointing, The Delivery of the Sword, The Investiture, The Crowning, The Delivery of the Bible, together with a general Thanksgiving and Commemoration. The Anthem was "The King shall rejoice" by C. Simper and specially composed for this Coronation. It was well rendered, especially the soprano solo by Mrs. H. Ruggles. At this point came the sermon which was listened to with marked attention, the Rector taking for his text, Exodus XIX, v. 26, "What mean ye by this service?" It appears on another page of this issue. Then came a most appropriate hymn "God of Nations, King Eternal" written by Amy S. Woods and sung to a soul-stirring and inspiring tune by Caleb Simper, which, with special collects and Benediction brought a memorable service to a close.

Then followed the sports for which cash prizes were awarded to successful competitors. The many children and spectators present will hold the occasion the Coronation Day of George V. as a "red letter day" in their memories.

The Bridgetown Band which added much to the pleasure of the day by their music, held a "tag day" and found themselves over fifty dollars better off as a result of the "tagging" in which they had the assistance of some of the most popular young ladies of the town.

Credit for the success of the celebration is due Town Clerk Ruggles, who had the principal charge of the arrangements, and Councillor Anderson, who acted as marshal.

Sermon Delivered by Rector of St. James at Coronation Day Service

Exodus 12, 25. “WHAT MEAN YE BY THIS SERVICE?”

This, or some such, is undoubtedly the query in many a heart, if not on lip, today.

What are the facts? Let us mark them well. George V. is not made King of Great and Greater Britain today. By virtue of his descent he has been such, proclaimed by heralds, acknowledged and acclaimed by lusty cheering crowds for over a year, and we have prayed for him as such.

Why, then, today the great function which we, in common with fellow-citizens in every part of the world, are celebrating—this function of the King's Coronation, as we call it? And why, we may further ask, does the actual crowning take in Westminster Abbey—a sacred shrine? Why not in Westminster Hall—a building of secular fame? Or, why is the King crowned by an Ecclesiastic—a Prince of the church of the living God, assisted by other Bishops and church dignitaries, and not by the Lord Chancellor of England or other great officer of State? Why this solemn religious service here this morning?

I doubt not that many who find themselves in London today, find themselves there attracted by the sight with which a great people surround and accompany so august a ceremony as “the Crowning of the King”—undoubtedly the greatest in our national life, and “with blare of trumpet, roll of drum.

The King comes to His Crowning,” but if we would give an adequate answer to the question raised by the words of our text used in connection with the great event which brings us here today, if we would in any sense get at the true inwardness of our Monarch's Coronation, we must look beyond the crowds, beyond the singular pomp and ceremony which undoubtedly attracts many and enter, in spirit at any rate, the sacred shrine wherein is the heart of it all.

It was not without point that we read, as part of this service today, what we called “a recital of the solemnities of the Coronation.”

As a matter of fact the Coronation of our King is no mere State function. True, the State honors it with a large outward adornment and accompaniments befitting so great an occasion, but the Coronation itself is from beginning to end, an essentially religious office.

The truth is, this new King now goes before God to be consecrated, to be sealed, and set apart, by prayer and unction and benediction as God's minister, God's officer, God's deputy. He goes not merely to invoke God's blessing on his reign and his realm, not merely to be admonished as to his duties, but also and chiefly to receive the grace of God for the discharge of his solemn obligations. In a word, he goes to be marked and stamped before his subjects and before the world as holding his exalted office under God, and by God, and for God.

He enters the church as the undoubted and lawfully constituted Monarch of Great and Greater Britain; he leaves it as the anointed and ordained viceroy of the Most High, returning to his people with the imprint of God on the crown of his head, upon his breast and upon the palms of his hands, and, we trust, with the strength of God in his heart and soul.

“The Sacring of the King,” was the ancient title of the service, and to stamp our King as God's King, and to procure for him God's grace—this is what the Coronation really means, and to this we bear our public witness today.

Did the time allotted for this sermon permit, we might trace very clearly and distinctly the Scriptural authority for the ground thus taken. But it has occurred to me to suggest that our own history provides us with a very distinct indication of the mind and will of God in this matter.

Just a little over nine years ago we were looking forward to a momentous event in the history of our world-wide empire.—An event which was to be memorable in the annals of the new century. I refer to the Coronation of King Edward VII.

Never before had such plans been made, never before had so many people in every part of the world vied with each other to offer and do homage. Of course there was a reason. We had not had a Coronation for over three score years since when the Empire had grown and enlarged by leaps and bounds, so much so that the eyes of the whole world, and particularly of the British Empire in every part of the world, were turned to London, making Edward VII. the central figure of their gaze as, in imagination, they saw him progressing through his capital amid magnificence and splendor such as had never been seen in the long series of Coronations of British Sovereigns.

Suddenly, as in a moment, within forty-eight hours of the actual pageant and the placing of the crown upon the King's head, all was abandoned for the time being. The King was laid low, and, instead of the Crown in the hand of the Archbishop there was the knife in the hand of the surgeon.

Of the thousands upon thousands who, from every part of the world, had gathered for that great ceremony and procession, there was only one man indispensable to it, and on him the hand of God was laid in sickness.

Brethren, for dramatic suddenness, for immediate pathos, for pictured contrast, nothing in modern times had quite equalled this—certainly nothing in our history. In a moment even to the most casual observer, the knowledge was driven home to awe-struck crowds that there is a Power in the eyes of which all terrestrial powers are as naught. In a moment the outward signs of our monarch's (for there the trouble lay) the flags and lights and draperies, seemed to crumble into worthlessness. In a moment the petty talk of trivialities was hushed; we were face to face with the verities of life and death. God had spoken. The earth was keeping silence before Him.

Yea! this sudden contrast was not caused by the maniac's bullet or the assassin's knife. It was caused by the finger—the voice of God—“The splendours that we blindly planned

Were stricken worthless by His hand.” Now believing as we do that God sitteth in the heavens from the beginning ruling over all, we could not but feel that this tragic event was visited upon the people of this Empire for some beneficent purpose.

You will observe that the sickness that all King Edward might have happened any man at any time—even the King. But this being so it surely was doubly significant that it not only happened to King Edward, but that it happened precisely when it did, which was at a time when the nation and the Empire was fast losing its balance—becoming intoxicated, drunk with the sight of power and place, as Potentate after Potentate, Representative after Representative, Troop after Troop, Man-o-war after Man-o-war arrived to do homage and to add outward magnificence to the scene.

Amidst such stirring scenes as these, the deep religious significance of the Coronation was being largely lost sight of by the mass; the ceremony was to be, in the eyes of most not so much a solemn appeal to the King of Kings, as a pageant typifying the unique splendour of the British Empire. Then it was that God spoke to the King and through the King to the nation and the Empire. “By Me Kings reign and princes decree justice.”

And thank God, the lesson was not given in vain. This has been quite evident throughout the period preceding the Coronation taking place today.

For splendor, and as indicative of earthly greatness this Coronation together with the functions preceding and to follow, is probably without parallel and may afford us justifiable pride. But it has been approached and is being conducted with an undercurrent of sobriety as conspicuous as it is pleasing to all God-fearing people.

On “Good Friday” of this year a procession of 4,000 men wended its way from Trafalgar Square to St. Paul's Cathedral, to testify their personal acceptance of the Atonement wrought by Jesus Christ upon the cross, and some of the marked features of this event were special hymns and prayers for London in this Coronation year. On Tuesday of this week some of the most prominent men in England met in London. I believe at the call of the Duke of Devonshire, to testify the realization of their responsibilities to the Empire and to follow, is probably without parallel, and may afford us justifiable pride. But it has been approached and is being conducted with an undercurrent of sobriety as conspicuous as it is pleasing to all God-fearing people.

And all the world over today, in every part of our great Empire are being held such services as this, and thus amidst the tumult and the shouting, the indications of the earthly wealth, and power and greatness, we bear public witness to the Sovereignty of the Almighty in the Coronation of our King. Thus we make our great national and imperial recognition of Him who is “King of Kings” and “Lord over all.”

But the Coronation having taken place what remains?

I ask the question because it was almost useless should we gather here and depart with no resolution. Anointed, and crowned, and fortified with the “Bread of Life” the King goes forth from Westminster Abbey to discharge the high duties and fulfill the sacred trust of his exalted position. As was said of King Edward, so it is of King George. On his character his purity and equity, his honor and discretion, his single mindedness and piety, more perhaps than on anything else hangs the prosperity of this Empire and the progress of the world.

Whether we advance or recede, whether we are to give and to receive, nations and kindreds and peoples and tongues that own our sway, Christianity and liberty and prosperity, or whether our sun is to set and this beneficent is to be broken up and brought to naught, like the Empires that have preceded it—this depends to a very considerable extent, on the rule, the action, the example of our King. An unwise word, a false step on his part, and the foundation may be broken up; Europe may be in a blaze, India in revolt, Africa, Australia, New Zealand, and even this fair Canada of ours may become hostile, to the undoing of the Empire and the destruction of our great and common interests.

Never, therefore, did a man more need a wise and understanding heart, high principle, devotion to duty, and victory over temptation.

What an opportunity, then, for prayer—our prayers, not only today but every day that God will bless our King in giving Him a wise and understanding heart to enable him to live “worthy of the high traditions he represents, and as the vicar of the Most High.

And, then, for ourselves, lest we should be tempted to rash boasting or, indeed, any form of forgetfulness, let us oft recall and make our prayer Kipling's magnificent lines—

“God of our Fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle line,
Beneath whose awful hand we hold Dominion over palm and pine:
Lord God of hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

The tumult of the shouting dies;
The Captains and the Kings depart;
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
A humble and a contrite heart:
Lord God of hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Far called our navies melt away,
On dune and headland sinks the fire,

FOR 25 YEARS HE SUFFERED

Well Known Merchant Of Sarnia Cured by “Fruit-a-tives”

SARNIA, ONT., Feb. 5th, 1910.
“I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever.

Finally I read an advertisement of “Fruit-a-tives”. I decided to give “Fruit-a-tives” a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them. I have now taken “Fruit-a-tives” for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended “Fruit-a-tives” to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly!”
PAUL J. JONES

Thousands now use “Fruit-a-tives”. Thousands more will try Fruit-a-tives” after reading the above letter. It proves, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that at last there is a cure for Constipation and Stomach Troubles.
“Fruit-a-tives” is Nature's cure for these diseases, being made of fruit juices and valuable tonics.
50c. a box, 6 for $3.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Lo, all our pangs of yesterday
As one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

If drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues we have not Thee in awe,
Such boasted as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the law.
Lord God of hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.

For heathen heart that puts her trust
In reeking tube and iron shard
All valiant dust that breeds on dust,
And guarding calls not Thee to guard,
For frantic boast and foolish word,
Thy mercy on Thy people, Lord.”

SOCIALLY LAUNCHED

In his native town Jimmy had always been most popular with young and old, but when he was sent away to boarding school he was for a time too homesick to make friends. His first letter was little more than a wail. "I'm way behind the others in everything," he wrote, dolefully. "I can't study, but it's gymnastics and banjos and everything. I don't believe they'll have much use for me." But the second letter, written after a week in the new school, was quite different in tone. "I'm all right," he wrote to his mother. "The boys say they'll teach me all they know, for they're proud to have me here. I can stretch my mouth half an inch wider than any other boy in school, and my feet are the longest by a full inch. So you needn't worry about me any longer."

EASY MONEY.

Veering trotted blithely to business. He had arisen before daylight and worked two hours at clearing up the yard around his house. The thought of the pleasant surprise awaiting his wife brought forth a chuckle. At luncheon Mrs. Veering remarked: "That man did his work remarkably well." "W-what man?" gasped Veering. "The man you engaged to clear away the rubbish in the yard. He was just finishing when I came down this morning and I gave him a dollar."

HELPING DAD.

Johnny—"Papa, would you be glad if I saved a dollar for you?" Papa—"Certainly, my son." Johnny—"Well, I saved it for you, all right. You said if I brought a first-class report from my teacher this week you would give me a dollar, and I didn't bring it." A Scotch minister had been away on a vacation, says a writer in "Lunch" and on his return asked the sexton how all had gone in his absence. "Very well, indeed," was the cherishing response. "They do say that most ministers leave some one worse than themselves to fill the pulpit when they go away—but you never do that, sir."

GET IN LINE.

We like a man who knows how to seize an opportunity, and have nothing but admiration for the dentist who is advertising: "Coronation Year. Why not have your teeth crowned with gold?" "I have neither time or inclination to pass paragonies on the diseased," remarked a funeral orator. "Panegyrics," corrected a person present. "As you please, sir," remarked the orator stiffly; "the words are anonymous."

THE "NE TEMERE" DECREE

THE CATHOLIC TRUTH SOCIETY DEFINES THE POSITION OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH ON THE MARRIAGE QUESTION (Published by request) As there has been much misunderstanding and not a little misrepresentation of the position of the Catholic church on the Marriage Question the Catholic Truth Society of the Archdiocese of Halifax authorizes the following statement: 1. The Catholic church does not, as has been falsely stated, regard as invalid the marriage of two Protestants by a Protestant minister. On the contrary, she has always upheld the validity of such marriages as being contracted in good faith. The best proof of this is the fact that, when married Protestants decide to enter the Catholic church, they do not have to be re-married. 2. The Catholic church does not regard as invalid the marriage of two Catholics, or of a Catholic and a Protestant, by a Protestant minister or by any civil authority, which has been contracted since the promulgation of the Ne Temere decree. The main object of that decree is to prevent hasty and ill-considered marriages and the many evils admittedly resulting therefrom. Matrimony being a sacrament of the Catholic church, she has the right to lay down the conditions for its valid reception by her own children. 3. The Catholic church does not and cannot interfere with the civil law. Consequently, a mixed marriage contracted before a Protestant minister, though invalid in the eyes of the Catholic church, is not illegal, except in the Province of Quebec for the reasons stated below. Outside of that province, if one of the parties were to desert the other or attempt to marry again, he or she would be liable to the penalties prescribed by the civil law. 4. It is not true that, when the Catholic party to a mixed marriage desires reconciliation with the church, he or she is required or advised to abandon the partner to the union and the children that may have been born of it. In such cases, the parties are urged to the union validated in accordance with the laws of the church. 5. As regards the Herbert case, about which so much has been said, the Catholic church did not, as has been falsely stated, appeal to the civil law to annul the marriage. That appeal was made by one of the parties to the union who desired to desert the other. When French Canada, now the Province of Quebec, was ceded to Great Britain, the Catholic church was guaranteed the free exercise of her laws, and subsequent Acts of Parliament enacted that the marriage regulations of any religious body in the province should be of that body. Consequently, the marriage of these two persons, who, he it remembered, were both Catholics, by a Protestant minister, being null and void in the eyes of the church, was decided by the courts to be also null and void under the civil law. The case is unfortunate, but the Catholic church is in no way to blame, the parties themselves and the clergyman who aided and abetted them in performing an illegal act being altogether responsible for the sad results.

Get-Rich-Quick Sheldon is Given Five Years Term

Montreal, June 16.—The culmination in the great Sheldon drama was reached this morning in the court of special sessions when Justice Langelier meted out a five-year sentence to Charles D. Sheldon, the man whose financial exploits dazzled all Canada. The charge upon which he was sentenced was theft of $15,000. Other charges of securing money under false pretences, will be held in abeyance. Justice Langelier in announcing his decision said that he found Sheldon guilty under a section of the criminal code which provided a penalty for unlawful failure to account and unlawful conversion. Sheldon heard the verdict calmly. SELDON PLEADED FOR CLEMENCY Before being sentenced he pleaded for clemency on account of his advanced years, adding that the sentence be made as short as possible in order that he might be able to pay back the money he had taken. "To this purpose," he declared, "I intend to devote the balance of my declining years, and they will be all too few for the purpose." About three years ago he came to Montreal and started operating in a small way to a bucket shop. His eloquence started him giving lectures to Y. M. C. A. youths over a St. Catharines street shop. The youths fell for it, and entrusted Sheldon with their tens and twenties to "invest." Sheldon did so well with these sums that more money came rolling in. He set up with dock room in an office on St. Francois Xavier street and began to advertise in a quiet way. Twenty per cent a month what he claimed to pay by beating the market. "THE WIZARD" TALKS HIS VICTIMS WELL. Newspapers began to question Sheldon's profits. Here it was where the wizard showed persuasive powers. In the face of a battering ramming opposition, he was able to talk his victims round so well, that money poured in by the hundreds of thousands. One day he took in $375,467 but on the other hand the public got frightened. After paying out several hundred thousands of dollars, Sheldon found he could not stem the tide. He disappeared. On Columbus Day, October 13th, 1910, the New York market was closed. Sheldon's place of business was also closed. A neat sign on the door said it was closed for Solumbus Day and that it would re-open on tomorrow. The morrow found the office left to the mercy of creditors and spiders. On the 25th of March, 1911, Sheldon was located in Pittsburg under the name of Ross. He had been playing the market again and apparently did not have a cent. He was brought back by Chief McCaskill, arriving in this city on April 1st. He elected a summary trial before a judge, and was tried last Thursday, June 8th, before Judge Langelier. Sheldon had operated under different names in several of the United States cities.

ACADIA TOWARD MOVEMENT.

It is well known to the Acadia constituency that about a year ago John D. Rockefeller consented to contribute $50,000 on condition that $150,000 was pledged by June 1st, 1911 and paid by June 1st, 1912. In speaking of this today, Dr. Cutten remarked that much more time was given only a few years ago to raise $100,000, and that accordingly an extension of time had to be asked for about two weeks before June 1st. But on the last day, when over $21,000 was lacking, a pledge was received from outside the province promising any amount required up to $25,000. This means that the payment of pledges received before next June will result in the bringing of $200,000 into its funds of the institution and will provide for larger endowment and for the erection of new buildings.

My wife used your EARTHWALL PLASTER for throat and lung trouble and found immediate relief. Two months ago I was badly hurt by a falling tree. For six weeks I tried various remedies with little help. The two plasters I got of you removed all soreness in four days. I am now a well man and have you to thank. I trust you will be successful in marketing your remedies. I believe the plaster to be worth ten times what you ask for it. I will reply to letters asking for information. DAVID LYONS, Shelburne, N. S.

STRUCK A WHALE.

Chronicle 16th Inst.—Some one hundred and fifty passengers aboard the Prince Arthur, the Dominion Atlantic line steamer which arrived in Boston from Yarmouth, N.S., Sunday afternoon, were aroused from their sleep at two o'clock in the morning and frightened when the steamer hit a huge whale broadside. The sudden collision with the sea colossus jarred the whole ship, throwing some of the passengers out of their berths. The steamer was going at a rapid rate on a choppy sea. The sudden impact with the whale reduced the speed to less than one-half. Passengers rushed on deck in their night robes, and on being informed of the trouble, they went forward and lined the railings to watch the sea monster lashing up the waves.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28, 1911.

There is a marked contrast in regard to the way the farming industry and its representatives are now looked upon compared with the way they were regarded even a decade ago, and their standards are rapidly advancing. "Back to the land" is a popular movement today, and the man who follows the plough no longer follows in the ruts furrowed out by his forefathers.

The following from an exchange gives a humorous but clear-sighted view of the farmer's position today—

"Let the farmer throw down his old shovel and become a boss, a superintendent, instead of a superan-nated ditch digger. If a man with forty years' experience on a farm is not able to employ erudite labor and train it and make it profitable, it is time the old man was sent to the hospital for harmless insane and provided for at public expense. There need be no sympathy wasted on the grizzled patriarch of the plough. If he cannot live in peace, plenty and comfort it is entirely his own fault. All he requires is to use his brains a little and give his arms a rest."

From the Scoutmaster

Saturday being Dominion Day, there will be no meeting, but a full attendance is requested on Monday nouncement will also be made regarding the proposed summer camp.

Coronation Pageant Makes Spectacle of Splendor

There were two thrones for the king and queen, covered with crimson velvet and silk and before them marvellous oriental rugs that are hundreds of years old. On the south side before the peers were chairs for the young Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught.
THE STONE OF DESTINY.

In front of the thrones and facing the alter was the historic King Edward's chair with the Stone of destiny set in its frame, on which British sovereigns have sat for nearly a thousand years.
Peers in their purple velvet robes and crimson mantles carrying their coronets had hours previously escorted in peeresses in evening dress and stately trains borne by pages and wearing diamonds and with feathers in their hair.

There were ambassadors and ministers in full regalia, law lords in wigs and wearing robes laden with gold, judges in scarlet and members of the House of Commons all in court dress or uniforms.

The wait for the arrival of the procession was made less tedious by the music of the orchestra.

At 9.30 o'clock the entry of impressive procession of clergy composing the chapter of Westminster Abbey, put a stop to the hum of conversation and inaugurated the services of the day. The crowns and regalia were lifted from the altar and conveyed on cushions and in great state down the aisle to the robing room, the choir meantime chanting "Oh Lord,
our Help in Ages Past."

The chimes in the tower pealed a loud accompaniment. Upon the arrival at the robing room the regalia was handed over to the hereditary bearers who awaited Their Majesties.

The royal guests making up the first procession had been seated when the second procession entered. The Prince of Wales, a boyish figure, was the centre of all eyes and the cheering of the crowd outside as he entered the abbey could be heard within its walls. Merrily ringing bells sent echoes throughout.
There was a pretty incident as the junior member of the British royal family entered. They were saluted with a blast of trumpets and every one rose as they were conducted to their seats. The Prince of Wales in garter robes, took his seat beside the throne. Princess Mary wore her hair down her back in girlish style, but had a long train which attendants carried. The three younger princes were in highland costumes with jackets and plaid kilts.

KING AND QUEEN ARRIVE

Nothing remained to complete the picture but the arrival of Their Majesties with the great state officials. Everyone was on the tip toe of expectancy and excitement and a solemn hush reigned over all within the ancient fane as at a few minutes after 11 o'clock a fanfare of trumpets announced the entrance of the king and queen.

Again everyone rose to their feet. The scene was marvellously impressive, as the leading figures emerged from the robing room. Many who looked on sorely restrained themselves from cheering, but the joyful notes of the anthem "I Was Glad" intoned by the choir, suppressed the impulse.

Lining the avenue of the approach to the throne were the picturesque Yeoman of the Guard in their scarlet uniforms and carrying their pikes, a company with out whom no British ceremony of state would be complete.

First entered a little group of the clergy, then came the chaplains of the Chapels Royal, the Dean of Westminster, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Bishop of London, and other bishops. Next moving with great deliberation, five pursuivants followed by heralds in quaint medieval costumes, then the officers of the orders of knighthood, first those of St Michael and George, after them the Star of India, the Order of St. Patrick, and the Order of the Thistle, then the gentleman usher of the green rod, the scarlet rod, and other functionaries of the royal house, hold, altogether an impressive and picturesque band.

Then came the standards of the kingdoms and the great colonics borne by some of the most eminent men of the empire, the Royal Standard by the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Union Standard by the Duke of Wellington, that of India by Lord Curzon, of Canada
by the Earl of Aberdeen and South Africa by Lord Selborne. After them were the four Knights of the Garter selected to bear the canopy at the king's anointing—Lord's Cadogan, Rosbery, Crewe and the Earl of Minto—then the queen's regalia borne by various nobles and finally the queen herself, in her wonderful coronation gown with the jewels of the Garter presented to her by the Marys of the empire.

Her long purple train, embroidered in gold was borne by six young women, daughters of the earls. The queen carried a charming bouquet of pink carnations presented to her by the Gardeners Company, one of the ancient guilds of the city of London. The flowers were of the variety known as Lady Heraione, a purely English species, the bouquet was offered to Her Majesty in a beautiful silver basket of Jacobean design copied from the basket represented in the crest of the Gardeners Company.

The queen was followed by the mistress of the robes, the ladies of the bedchamber and the maids of honor.

After them the king's regalia was carried by the highest nobles of the kingdom attended by their pages. The Bible was borne by the Bishop of Ripon, the chalice by the Bishop of Winchester,
the paten by the Bishop of London. St.
Edward's crown by the Bishop of Northumberland, the orb by the Duke of Somerset, the sceptre by the Duke of Richmond, the sword of state by the Earl of Beauchamp, the second sword by Earl Roberts, the third sword by Viscount Kitchener, the golden spurs by the Earl of London and Lord Grey de Raby, the sceptre with cross by the Duke of Argyll, and St. Edward's staff by the Duke of Roxburgh, attended by their pages and by a considerable retinue of high officials all in the most striking costumes. The group as it moved slowly up the aisle made an imposing spectacle.

After them walked the king in his crimson robe of state, the train borne by eight noblemen of high rank, the collar of the garter around his neck, and on his head the cap of state. Following him more court dignitaries and gentlemen in waiting completed the procession.

Their Majesties passed on and proceeded to chairs of state on the south side of the altar, where they knelt at the footstools. On the king's right stood the lord chancellor, the lord great chamberlain, the lord high constable, the earl marshal and the garter-at-arms, and the noblemen bearing the sword of state, and on either side his episcopal supporters.

The Dean of Westminster wearing a cope of crimson velvet took place on the south side of the altar. The Archbishop of Canterbury was on the north, and beyond the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of London with twenty-one other bishops, all in convocation robes. Rising, the King replaced the cap of state, which he had removed while kneeling. Then the service proper began. The ancient ceremonial familiar for 1,000 years, was performed with the same symbols and the recital but little changed. It was the ancient scene with some new factors.

A great outburst "God Save the King" marked the close of the ceremony.
The procession then reformed and returned to Buckingham Palace and the great pageant was over.

Arrested in Parrishboro

Parrishboro, June 19—Burton Gilbert chief of police, yesterday arrested two young men named White and Carter, who are suspected of having robbed the priest's house at Barachois, N.B., last Tuesday. The prisoners arrived here on Saturday and spent considerable money in the purchase of clothes and jewelry. They had about sixty dollars on them when arrested. It is thought they have hidden the greater part of the thousand dollars, said to have been stolen.

A later dispatch says—The young men who were arrested at Parrishboro on Sunday on suspicion of their being concerned in the robbery of the priest's house at Barachois, have been released, in accordance with instructions received from Moncton.

The Parrishboro Leader reports—On Sunday morning Chief of Police Gilbert arrested two young men stopping at the Hotel Cumberland, on suspicion, as they answered to the description given of the two men wanted for burglarizing the house of Rev. Father Massey, of Barachois, N. B., and carrying off over $1,000. The description, as published and with which the two men arrested corresponded, was as follows—"One a tall, well built fellow, walking erect, wearing a brown suit and a soft felt hat; the other considerably shorter than his companion and somewhat stooped when walking; wears a grey suit and a cap. He had short overalls on." The men walked into town on Saturday and purchased complete new outfits of clothing. Chief Gilbert got in touch with the Chief of Police of Moncton and was instructed to arrest and hold the men, which he did. On Monday morning he was called up from Shediac and told to let the men go as there was no one to appear against them. They were at once given their liberty and left on the Prince Albert for across the Bay.

Methodist Conference Favors Church Union

Yarmouth, June 19—At nine o'clock this morning Rev. C.W. Porter-Shirley gave a helpful address to the Nova Scotia conference.

At ten o'clock the conference took up the question of church union. Rev. Dr. Jost submitted a resolution favoring union and supported it by saying he felt deeply the gravity of the present situation. In each of the negotiating bodies there were those who loved the history and the doctrines of their own church, yet he felt these should be put aside for that which is larger and deeper, namely the kingdom of God. If there were anything good in any of the churches, that good was obtained from the gospels. If we have anything peculiarly valuable, it is our business to distribute it. He believed that in essentials there should be unity, in non-essentials liberty, and in all things charity.

The resolution was seconded by Judge Chesley and was ably supported.

Rev. David Hickey opposed the resolution. He believed articles 12, 3 and 6 of basis to be false. He was a Methodist on doctrinal grounds and on doctrinal grounds opposed the union. His presentation from the extreme Arminian standpoint was strong and eloquent.

THE DAY OF EXTREMES HAS GONE BY.

Dr. Morton believed that the day of Calvinistic and Arminian extremes had gone and gone forever.

Dr. Hertz said he was convinced that each of the negotiating bodies believed that it was found by Jesus Christ. The move to-day was to get back of the Wesleys, Knox and Calvin to Christ, and new light and new conditions required changed positions and relationships. Acts 12 had in it the best of the Westminster Confession combined with the best of Wesley, and put in a form whereby every Methodist minister could preach the depravity of sin and the universality of the atonement.

Rev. Mr. Coffin brought in an amendment to Dr. Jost's motion.

The debate adjourned until the afternoon. The following is the combined resolution agreed upon by Dr. Jost and Mr. Coffin and accepted by the conference.

"Believing that the basis of union formulated by the joint committee of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist churches of Canada conserve the best features of these respective bodies, and that an organic union effected between these churches would contribute to the advancement of the cause of God in the home and foreign field, to a degree not possible by the continuance of existing conditions of organic separation between these churches.

"Therefore resolved, that we express our hearty approval of the principle of union as embodied in the basis submitted for our consideration, and that we accept the proposition therein as a satisfactory working basis, looking towards the ultimate accomplishment of the proposed union, with whatever modifications of the said basis further consideration thereupon may be found to be desirable."

A strong vote was recorded in favor of union. The poll will be left open until the close of the conference in order that those absent at the time of balloting might record their votes.

CONFERENCE MESSAGE TO THE KING.

The conference message to His Majesty King, Emperor George V., was as follows:—

"The Methodists of Nova Scotia, in conference assembled, send their heartiest congratulations to our king on his coronation, express loyalty to his person and crown, rejoice in our liberty and benefits under British rule and pray that our sovereign may be long spared with his illustrious consort to sway the scepter of empire and ultimately receive the reward of heaven."

Rev. Mr. Gibson, of Yarmouth, was introduced to the conference and brought the greetings of the Congregational Union of Canada.

Rev. Dr. Borden, president of Mt. Allison university, addressed the conference in the interests of that institution. He was followed in the same interests by Dr. Hertz, who represented the board of regents. At the close of these addresses the resolution was passed and a subscription list opened.

THE CONFERENCE SERMON.

Rev. Dr. Carman preached the ordination sermon on Sunday morning, taking as his text II. Tim. 1:13: "Hold fast the form of sound words which thou hast heard from me, in faith and love, which is in Christ Jesus."

As might naturally be expected, the sermon was somewhat colored by the experience in the ecclesiastical trial through which the doctor has recently come.

The doctor emphasized what he called the hydro-electric policy. As he went over the country he saw capitalists establishing great plants, and in doing so they established strong firm foundations, secured effective appliances, and then connection with the powers above the catharts. There is the policy for us: imperishable foundations and effective appliances linked up to unfailing source of energy mighty and divine.

THE TIME MAY HAVE ALREADY COME.

"Time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine"—is it not here in a measure now? The conversations and controversies of men and the courts of the land reveal it. If I am a minister called to preach the gospel of the grace of God, how dare you turn away? You do so, if you do, at the peril of your soul. We have standards of doctrine and as men who have accepted them and vowed to preach them, we must do so as honest men, or look for fields of service elsewhere.

The question put to the early Christian in the Roman court was: Do you keep the Lord's Day? The answer was: I am a Christian and I cannot do otherwise.

The world waits for certainties. To put up, pack down and pound together all the wisdom piled into the Apostle's Creed, and do it by the third century was one of the mightiest intellectual triumphs of the ages.

THREE MINISTERS SET APART FOR PREACHING.

The sermon was followed by the impressive ordination service, when P. T. Meek, W.H. Hughs and A.W. Dyer were set apart for the Christian ministry.

METHODIST CONFERENCE RECEIVED MESSAGE FROM KING.

Yarmouth, June 20—There was great enthusiasm in the Conference when it received a message from the King in answer to the cablegram of yesterday. The Conference received a message standing and joined in "God Save Our Gracious King."

The Annapolis district presented Rev. Joseph Gaetz, supernumerary of Middleton, with a beautiful cane in recognition of the jubilee year of his ministry. The President presented the cane in a humorous and happy speech. Brother Gaetz replied.

The report of the Temperance and Moral Reform Committee caused a little stir, but the Conference was determined to rush matters through and it was passed with slight additions. The action of the Government was commended, except in the establishment of a canteen at the Halifax Dockyard, and further additions to the legislation were sought.

The Conference memorial session was held after the education meeting, and several of the brethren feelingly and reverently spoke of those who had passed away. Father Richard Smith, of venerable and honored memory, and Messrs. G.F. Day and J. B. Gile.

"Listen, Rose."

"Madam, your own white hands are the first to touch FIVE ROSES."
"For nearly one mile it travels through "hygienic automatic processes—more "and more spotless."
"Till in a clear creamy stream it flows into "clean new packages, filled full-weight by "infallible machinery—sewed automatically."
"Goodness!" said round-eyed Rose.
Rose reads eagerly:
Hand-proof, Germ-proof. Every littlest bit of machinery is bright—polished like "those piano keys of yours. FIVE ROSES is "healthy flour, wholesome, rose like it. "Unbleached, too."
"Nobody touches my flour—but me" said Rose.

Kingston Standard:—The boys can be taught all that a scout should know without filling their heads with the nonsense of militarism. Unfortunately that comes only too soon in a good many cases. We want to make these boys scouts good citizens. If they are good citizens they will turn out good soldiers when the necessity for that kind of work arises, which we hope will be never.

No Excuse for Profanity

There is nothing more useless than profanity. It serves absolutely no purpose. It affords no gratification or satisfaction to the user, and is undignified in its wantonness. There may be an excusable appetite for drink, drugs or any of the other vices. No one has a natural craving for profanity. Swearing is a habit based on thoughtlessness, and is without a single mitigating feature. It has become so common that the seriousness of it is lost to view by a very large percentage of the people.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.

Windsor, Ont. Record:—The indiscriminate use of slang is deplorable enough when it comes from male lips but it grates on the ears when uttered by the daughters of Eve. It robs womanhood of one element that has commanded the respect of mankind—refinement. A woman has as much right of freedom of speech as a man and she usually exercises the prerogative, but the slangy girl blocks her own advancement by displaying her lack of culture.

INTERNATIONAL HYMN WAS SUNG IN THE CHURCHES.

"In many churches of the United States on Sunday, 18th particularly the Protestant Episcopal, what is known as a new international hymn was sung. The air is "America" or "God Save the King," and the words voice the sentiment for peace and arbitration and general good feeling between Great Britain and the United States. Part of the hymn follows:—

Two empires by the sea,
Two nations great and free,
One anthem raise,
One race of ancient fame,
One tongue, one faith, we claim;
One God, whose glorious name
We love and praise.

What deeds our fathers wrought,
What battles we have fought,
Let fame record,
Now, vengeful passion, cease,
Come victories of peace;
Nor hate, nor pride's caprice,
Unseath the sword.

Now, may God above
Guard the dear land we love,
Both east and west,
Let love more fervent glow
As peaceful ages go,
And strength yet stronger grow,
Blessing and blest.

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

READ the conditions of the Prize Contest we are conducting for the farmers of Canada. $400.00 in prizes will be awarded to each Province. These prizes will be divided into four groups, consisting of:

- PRIZE "A"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who will use during 1911 the greatest number of barrels of "CANADA" Cement.
- PRIZE "B"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who uses "CANADA" Cement for the greatest number of purposes.
- PRIZE "C"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who submits the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of work (shown by photograph sent in) was done.
- PRIZE "D"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who submits the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of work (shown by photograph sent in) was done.

Every farmer in Canada is eligible. Therefore, do not be deterred from entering by any feeling that you would have little chance against your neighbor. For remember, Prizes "C" and "D" have no bearing whatever upon the quantity of cement used. As a matter of fact, your success in this contest will depend to a great extent on your careful reading of our 160-page book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." In this book—sent free on request to any farmer, full instructions are given as to the uses of concrete, and plans for every kind of farm buildings and farm utility. You'll see the need of this book, whether you are going to try for a prize or not. If you have not got your copy yet, write for it to-night. Simply cut off the attached coupon—or a postcard will do—sign your name and address thereto and mail it to-night.

HOW HAIR SHOULD BE BRUSHED.

Every girl knows that beauty is a great asset in her equipment for life, and women generally have it in their power to become, extremely attractive, if not beautiful, and they are prompt to avail themselves of their prerogative. The cultivation of good looks is nowadays accepted as a part of woman's education.

Every girl cannot hope to be beautiful, but she can make the best of her individual points and become attractive. Now it is admitted that woman's chief charm is her hair. So the girl who wishes to become good looking should begin by conscientiously and systematically caring for her hair. It is no good to begin hair culture if one does it in spurts. It should be done with regularity and begun while one is still young. A young girl would highly offend if she were told that she neglected her teeth. Yet how few of them begin early the care of the hair, which is just as essential to good looks as the teeth.

There are two rules for the care of the hair that every girl should remember. First, that absolute cleanliness must prevail, and, secondly that the hair must have daily ventilation. With the young school girl this second requirement is met by the manner of doing the hair which is fashionable for girls today, letting it hang without being plaited, or else tied loosely with a bow half way down the back.

It is when the hair is just beginning to be tucked up that every girl should be impressed with the necessity of ventilation. To ventilate the hair thoroughly shake it down, letting it hang loosely; spread the fingers of each hand and pass them into the hair on each side of the head above the ears; lift the hair from the scalp, moving the fingers a trifle, near the roots of the hair, backward and forward and then upward until the fingers meet at the crown.

Repeat this movement several times and be sure to shake the hair gently, to insure thorough ventilation; then part the hair into strands, shake side ways and stroke downward. Comb well with a coarse comb, and braid loosely. Do this every night and it will soon become a habit.

It is a great mistake to think that a vigorous brushing of a hundred strokes every night will make the hair grow faster. It is granted that it leaves one in a highly virtuous state, with the feeling of a duty well done, but it does nothing more for the hair than to give it a gloss, and may even be injurious if the brush is used with too much vigor.

Brush the hair with a gentle movement, and never brush from the forehead backward toward the nape of the neck, for it strains the hair contrary to the direction in which it grows.

Always brush lengthwise, parting the hair into small strands, holding one side back while brushing the other. Go over the entire head in this manner, twist the hair loosely with the left hand, throwing it forward over the face, then brush the roots at the hair line at the nape of the neck and from ear to ear.

The frequency of a shampoo every girl must decide for herself. If the hair clings to the scalp or looks dull or dusty a shampoo is needed—whether it is every week or every month.

FAMILY LOYALTY.

Family loyalty is a tradition which the world respects and insists shall be respected.

He who violates it, no matter how good his reason, is running his head against the blank wall of tradition and is mighty likely to get bruised if no more than that.

To have in your own family persons whom you would have chosen as intimate friends, even if there had been no tie of blood between you, is the best of good fortune. Family loyalty is easy then.

To have in your family persons whom you should never have spoken to twice if they had not been your relatives, persons even whose every act irritates you and rubs you the wrong way, is one of the greatest misfortunes that can befall one. Family loyalty then becomes difficult, but not impossible.

You need not associate with these uncengential relatives any more than absolutely necessary, but you can keep your tongue chained in regard to their faults.

And if you do not want to throw a boomerang of criticism which will probably hurt you more than them, you will surely do so. —Ruth Cameron.

THE MODERN CHILD.

Born scientifically,
Studied terrifically,
Clothed very carefully,
Dieted sparefully,
Aired systematically,
Played with quite drearly,
Bathed most emphatically,
Punished Spencerially,
Sweet infantility,
Steeped in gentility,
Santa Claus banished,
Mother Goose vanished,
Where are the babies,
The real human babies,
The olden time knew?

Harnessed scholastically,
Drilled superdrastically,
Cultured prodigiously,
Lectured religiously,
Classified rigidly,
Reasoned with frigidly,
Dosed with the 'ologies,' Rushed through the colleges, Crammed pedagogically,
'Finished' most logically,
Where is the childhood,
The fresh, happy childhood,
The olden time knew?

Children successively,
Reared thus aggressively,
Posing eternally,
Wearied infernally,
Planned for initially,
'Formed' artificially,
Will they submit to it?
Never cry 'Quit!' to it?
Will not analysis
Stop from paralysis?
Till our distraction
Ends with reaction,
Brings back the childhood,
The bright, careless childhood,
The olden time knew?

—James F. Morton, Jr., in the C. E. World.

LAUGHTER MEANS HEALTH.

Keep track carefully of your children as they smile and laugh. Fewer smiles, less hearty laughter in children, are serious danger signs.

If your little boy or girl comes home from school with the tendency to laugh and smile gradually diminishing, take the child from school, for no schooling can make up in your child for the loss of the mental happiness that laughter reveals. The child too tired to laugh and smile freely is much too tired to study—remember that—and if the boy or the girl for any reason seems less inclined to smile, find out the reason and do away with it.

Remember that laughter is a real and important remedy for illness—the greatest remedy for illness. The greatest medical authorities will tell you that laughter actually keeps off apoplexy and other troubles that come from excessive pressure on the blood vessels. The moment a man laughs, pressure on the blood vessels ceases and if a man were threatened with rupture of any artery or vein, not all the doctors in the world could do as much for him as hearty laughter.

Remember also that laughter is vibration, and that vibration destroys disease germs.

HOW TO CURE ROUND SHOULDERS.

Stand erect with the weight of the body over the balls of the feet. Stretching the arms out on either side of the body as far as possible and well back until the shoulder blades almost touch. Then take a deep breath rotating the arms in very small circles, holding the breath while doing this. Drop the arms and expel the breath, then another deep breath, raising the arms and rotating as before. You should practise deep breathing. Drawing in deep breaths of air, inflating the lungs and chest, swinging the arms forward, upwards and backward, in large circles, and at the same time breathing deeply, will tend also to overcome round shoulders.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

"At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

You must watch yourself very carefully all the time so as not to allow your shoulders to drop. By practising these exercises it will soon become natural for you to stand correctly and hold your shoulders in a normal position. Teachers, are any of your pupils round-shouldered? If there are, teach them how to correct the tendency.

SPOILING THE CHILD.

To encourage a small child to ask for things, and then to do all she can to ensure her getting them, is one of the cruellest things any mother can do. It is natural for a child to clamor even for the moon, as the only thing any child knows is to wish to possess whatever seems pleasant to her. But what can a mother be thinking about if she encourages the little ones in order to receive? She may try to excuse herself by saying that she is too tender-hearted to cross the child! It is just the opposite, she is selfish; she is indulging her own feelings at the child's expense. For it will not be very long before the world will teach the child a very different lesson—that it is not enough to ask in order to get—and then will come the disappointment and the headache she ought to have got over long before—got over in little things and by degrees, if the mother had not been indulging her own feelings.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

The New Fire-proof Sleeping Car

Have you ridden in one of the new "steel sleepers"? "You will, Oscar."

And when you do you will make your own reflections. Mine concerned themselves largely with yours, so to speak. What is the average American going to make of this upsetting of his habits of mind, this dislocation of his preconceived standards? It was remarked of the American sleeper after a specially grewsome "holocaust" that, as Dr. Johnson maintained that being in a ship was being in a jail with the chance of being drowned, so being in this was being in a jail with a chance of being burned to death. Now that is the precise peril which is evidently and ostentatiously averted from you in the new sleeper. Whatever happens to you in the night, it will not be combustion. This is assured by the sheets of smooth steel which surround you, garnished with nothing but a pustulation of rivets, and you feel through the floor covering, presumably of asbestos, other sheets of the same. But what strikes you next to this grateful sense of incombustibility is the violent break with all the traditions of the Pullman. The builders have not troubled themselves in the least to excogitate a system of appropriate, or inappropriate, decoration for the new construction. If to paint sheet steel a dull maroon and to mark the borders of its panels with a thin black line be decoration, this is "decorative." If not, not; for there is nothing else to be seen, nothing but a sea-green silk-curtain draping the portal of the dressing-room at each end, within your respective one of which, to be sure, your baser nature may still receive such solace as tobacco, and your aesthetic as the sheen of exposed and nickel-plated plumbing; can supply. The plumber, it appears, unlike the steel-worker, refuses to be reduced to his simplest expression. But the plumber alone exceeds the irreducible minimum. Elsewhere the essential, the quintessential, is all. The passenger never before had it so borne in upon him that to the railroad a passenger is but a package. The way-farer innocent of French, for the first time understands why, in that ridiculous language, a "sleeping" is also a "wagon bed."

After the shock has subsided of finding yourself in a cell instead of a boudoir, you discover that you like it. Why should he who does not live in a palace travel in a palace, or, for that matter, in a wagon bed?

After the shock has subsided of finding yourself in a cell instead of a boudoir, you discover that you like it. Why should he who does not live in a palace travel in a palace, or, for that matter, in a wagon bed?

Brains and the Countryman

The townsman has often a very confused idea of the intelligence of the farmer, and criticises in ignorance farming operations which he does not understand.

To the average person life on a farm has many attractions. It is without doubt the most healthy life a man can find; and as to its advantages to the nation, a moment's consideration will suffice to show that farming is our greatest national industry, and on its success and prosperity depends the comfort of many millions of people.

The farmer is one of the few real producers. In addition to procuring food for man and beast, farm life produces men—such food and such men as our country needs.

The farmer's business actually calls for many qualifications in a man. He must be scientific nowadays, and cultivate his fields on scientific principles; he must understand machinery and be something of a mechanic, as farming machinery is every year becoming more costly and varied. It goes without saying that he must understand stock of all kinds, their ailments and how to treat them in times of urgency; he must organize his work so as to get the best results from his land and his work-people, and he must also be a man of business and a man of some means. He does a good deal of buying and selling; has to know what he is doing when he calls on the local bank manager, and it is well for him if he is good book-keeper and accountant—able to show by his farm books which fields, which crops, and which flocks and herds have paid him best.

Surely few businesses call for more all-round ability and never-flagging energy than that of the farmer.

Long talked of "Cronation Day" passed off pleasantly, "queen weather" prevailing, and was duly celebrated in a befitting manner in our town, reflecting credit on all those who helped to make the day a pleasant memory. The service in St. James church was a joy to those who love it, full of comfort alike to King and peasant and to every loyal subject. It should be an inspiration to sing anew "with heart and voice" "God Save the King" and should make us realize more and more that unto him and his subjects belongs a goodly heritage with ever old and always new responsibilities.

Have Faith in Your Own Province

(Dartmouth Patriot.)

A great number of persons from various parts of this province have gone west this year hoping to better their chances. A number of them, those who were fairly well fixed, have returned. They say Nova Scotia has many and remarkable advantages which the west does not possess. There are two classes, they say who can succeed there better than here. The young single man who has no ties, who is willing to rough it good and hard for a few years can do better than here. So also the man with a fat roll of ready money, Nova Scotia offers opportunities vastly superior to the west. That is just about the fact. No man with a family and small means has any business out there, unless he is absolutely forced to go through adverse circumstances and some of his boys at least are well grown.

The fact is the people of this province have not yet learned to appreciate the real value of their own country. The land itself affords a royal means of support if properly attacked. The returns from small farms under intensive farming are really surprising. Ten acres is farm enough, as another article in this issue proves. This paper has printed many reports from reliable men regarding yields which not only proved the fact that an excellent income can be made from intensive farming but that money is to be made at it, while all the time the risks are not nearly so great as in the west. Nova Scotia is a good enough for any man, in so far as it is concerned itself, but there is no denying the fact that for the most part the people here frightfully unprogressive. They are slow to move, frightened of every venture which involves a dollar and are the very epitome of pessimism in regards to the development of the natural resources of the state. They will put their money anywhere rather than in home enterprises. This has discouraged and frightened most of the young men out of the country. In most of the walks of life opportunity does not open to them. Therein lies the real cause of the stagnation which meets the eye in very many localities.

This is the spirit which needs changing. It will surely change, but it is here at present. Persons from a broad always speak well of the country, but all notice the lack of optimism on the part of the people.

BURNED TO DEATH IN THEIR BERTHS.

Boston, June 19—Asleep in their cabin between decks, Harriet Kelley, the stewardess, and Lizzy McNeil, an assistant, were burned to death, when fire destroyed the Boston and Nahant passenger steamer Governor Andrew, lying at East Boston. Five deck hands who were caught in their berths suffered severe burns about the face and hands in making their escape through the blazing superstructure.

Boston Post—A tragic death between the decks of a burning steamer has revealed the fact that Harriet Kelley, stewardess, who was burned to death in the fire aboard the steamer Governor Andrew early last Sunday morning was a man, and had for thirty years lived, dressed and conducted himself as a woman.

The secret so carefully guarded for thirty years was disclosed at the autopsy over the charred remains of "Miss" Kelley.
