PROVINCIAL POLITICS.

Lacking matter for its election campaign, the Ontario opposition is in a sorry plight and has to resort to strange weapons—most of them, indeed, of the boomers' order and returning on itself. It is part of the odd situation arising out of the differing complexion of the Dominion and provincial governments, that every plea urged against Mr. Whitney, applies with far greater force to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. And the Liberal organs that animadvert on this, and the other act of the premier of Ontario, would, if the principles underlying their criticism were sincerely held, have to denounce in stronger terms the much more serious aberrations of the premier of Canada. The absolute consistency in the standards they apply removes from their attacks all sting and potency.

The so-called Liberal party of Ontario is represented by its press exponents to be sincerely in favor of the public ownership and operation of public franchises and resources. Yet it is plain from the records of the last session of the legislature that no effective or honest work was done by the provincial opposition on behalf of that policy. When protest and denunciation were necessary to protect the rights of the people and would have been invaluable, they were not forthcoming. Measures were carried with the tacit approval of the official opposition, which its present course demonstrates it knew to be detrimental to the common good.

Now that the mischief has been done that same opposition is utilizing it for its own advantage, but it is careful to give no pledge that it will protect public franchises and resources from exploitation. This conduct is part of the party game, and it is this making a game of politics that the electors should resent.

Let them insist on exact pledges from all candidates irrespective of party—support measures, not names, should be the determination of the electors of Ontario to-day. And let them see that the men who give the pledges have sufficient honesty and determination to keep them in their spirit and to the letter.

A DANGEROUS LOCAL FISCAL CIRCLES

Some recent episodes in local financial circles direct attention to the methods adopted for the purpose of inducing the British investor to buy certain stocks and securities. Comment has been extensively made upon the curious spectacle of Canada appealing for British money aid, while, at the same time it is blazoned abroad that many important foreign undertakings have been engineered and financed in the country. This is a paradox naturally puzzling to the home countryman and it has already formed the subject of comment in the British press.

These same undertakings are at the present moment being boosted on the British market and in order to do it more effectually, touting companies have been organized for that special purpose. It was one of those subsidiary concerns that attempted to make headway by decrying the credit of Ontario, a course which will in the end hinder rather than help its immediate object. But what a light is thus thrown on the methods of our high financiers, who, for their own advantage, used this means of coercing the premier province of Canada into submission. It is a game that two can play at, and Ontario will not be the loser.

A NEW CAESAR IN ROME.

William Whyte, vice-president of the C.P.R., and also vice-president of the Winnipeg Street Railway, is in Europe holidaying. To a Toronto friend he writes that his joy in sight-seeing the City of Rome was marred by the fact that a street car strike was in progress for two days after his arrival.

Mr. Whyte does not say so, but if his reputation as a strike-breaker is any criterion, we can fancy that it took him only two days to size up the situation and settle the strike. His letter and cable despatches are peculiarly silent on this part in the matter, but it is not beyond the possibilities. Just Merry del Val, whom William knows well, saw the advantage of his presence in the Holy City to enlist his services. We believe William settled the Roman strike. A veritable modern Caesar come to Rome.

And by the same token, we believe William, if he were in Canada, would settle any possibility of a strike on the C.P.R., an event that rumor prophecies, owing to many recent changes in C.P.R. management. It may be that, William will be called to hasten home and prevent the total Leonardizing of the system.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING

An exceptionally able address was heard by the Empire Club yesterday from Dr. J. P. Haney, director of technical education, New York, and secretary of the National Association for the Promotion of Industrial Education.

Dr. Haney proved to be a speaker of great lucidity, and practical information. Hon. Dr. Prynne thought the address should mark an epoch in such an industrial centre as Ontario must become, and recommended that it be circulated in pamphlet form. Dr. Haney, president of Alberta University, was also present.

Dr. Haney pointed out that of 5,100,000 children entering the primary schools of the United States at six years of age, by the time they reach 12, 1,200,000 were left, 4,000,000 having disappeared from the democratic school to find work. In the sixth year only 200,000 remained, the rest of the million having drawn them away. In the eighth year, at 13 years of age, only 320,000 were left. At 14 years when the pupils are ready for high school, 240,000 remain. At 17 years old the number in the graduating classes in all the States together is only 78,000. This means that out of 1,000,000, only 78 graduates, or about one in 12.7. Either the children cannot, or will not, accept the training offered.

The quality of things appeared in the educational world as elsewhere, and there had been a feeling for years on the continent that the material side of teaching should be more considered in education. The swing of the pendulum now brought about a tendency to emphasize the material side.

Both in the States and Canada, education had formerly been for the few. It was an education of leadership for those who had brains and time, and the wherewithal to accept it. The democratic ideal of training everybody was a new ideal, but it did not work out in practice.

Fiske has pointed out that because the human animal has a long period of training he is therefore so superior in professional life. A man might be trained up to 28 years of age without earning a dollar.

The training period does not stop at adolescence, but remains all through life in the highest types, and always in the case of the real student.

The man who leaves school early has his power arrested, the spiritual side of study is atrophied. Dr. Haney pointed out that the countries which have the highest standards with regard to the training of infants was analogous. It was now a crime in Germany for any nurse or grandmother to recompose a mother not to nurse her child. It had been proven that the manhood, the stature, the power of endurance of a soldier was directly in proportion to the number of months in which as an infant he had been nursed naturally.

Similar in the matter of education, and the longer that period of preliminary training the better student was developed.

Schools for apprentices were re-established in the great manufacturing and engine works of the United States, but these only reached a minute fraction of the young.

There were thousands and thousands of boys and girls wandering about looking for work, feeding bladders into the automatic machinery of commerce, and gradually losing their powers, wasting their lives and unable to find a foothold where their intelligence could be cultivated.

"Taking the Dominion and the States together, gentlemen, we are now, declared Dr. Haney, less in size than New Jersey, has 280 technical schools, more than all the United States together. Munich, a moderate sized city has 42 different schools for 42 different types of technical training where even the chimney sweeper's boy and the baker's apprentice must attend several times a week to complete his technical knowledge of the trade he has adopted.

He did not advocate putting trade schools as such in the elementary schools, but he pleaded that preparatory opportunities should be offered to children of 12 years which would assist them in the trades to which they were destined.

Two years of such an atmosphere tending to make him understand what was good for him to know in the life he was to pursue would probably encourage him to go in to an industrial secondary school with instruction on more specific lines.

There should be no attempt to graduate a boy at the age of 16 or 17, as a finished workman. Boys so trained, however, would be sought by employers who would shorten apprentice terms and pay higher wages to such workers. Organized labor would not oppose such a system as unions were always the strongest where the workmen were best trained.

There was no more pathetic misconception than the view that culture could only be imparted through literature. The workman could also be cultured with a true culture from a consideration of the artistic of his own work, and his general relations to society. The result would be to do honor in no specious way to the man who works with his hands.

Minister of Militia Securing Report in View of Throgs Expected at Tercentenary Celebration

OTTAWA, April 23.—(Special).—Replying to R. L. Borden in the house this afternoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had received a telegram from British Ambassador Bryce, who said he had sent the new British American treaty to the colonial office and asked, if it was acceptable to the government, to have a copy sent direct. Sir Wilfrid answered in the affirmative. Referring to the creation of a new office of secretary of imperial and foreign correspondence, Dr. Spruille asked for a statement of the duties now performed by the secretary of state and the officials of the office.

The prime minister promised to bring down the order-in-council. Mr. Mackenzie had been appointed as secretary and foreign correspondence would be attached to the office of the secretary of state.

Col. Hughes Reads Letter.

Col. Hughes read a letter from a correspondent who declared a recent accident on the I.C.R. was due to rotten ties.

The minister of railways declared that the I.C.R. was not immune from accidents, but the roadbed of the I.C.R. was equal to any in the world.

A Pointed Question.

Mr. Owen (Northumberland) caused merriment by hurling the following query at the prime minister:

"Is it the intention of the government to come to the rescue of the woolen manufacturers by way of specific duties?"

Mr. Laurier was unable, he was sorry to say, to give a specific answer to-day.

Answering Mr. Gannon, the minister of customs said $383,501 pounds of gloves were imported from Great Britain in 1907-08, the value being $72,588.

Mr. Laurier said the bill of the appropriation for seed grain would be diverted from the purpose for which it was voted.

Sir Frederick Borden said he was getting a report on the safety of the Dufferin Terrace, in view of the tercentenary of the Queen's reign.

The minister of justice gave a reply to Mr. Lake's question as to what disposition would be made of the 19 creches established at the prison for a crime against decency.

On April 14 the inspector of prisons and hospitals of Ontario waited on him, bringing a letter from the deputy attorney-general. It was pointed out that there was no room in the Central Prison or the Port William Jail for the prisoners, and that the best course would be to pardon them.

The minister replied that it would be necessary to enquire into the convicting courts and a report was telegraphed for.

Another telegram asking the minister to enquire into the release of the prisoners directed. It was pointed out that the prisoners were sent to Saskatchewan. The government does not undertake to recognize any responsibility for their good behavior.

ASQUITH NOT TRUSTED BY YOUNG NATIONALISTS Older Heads Want to Give Him a Chance - How Question is Involved.

DUBLIN, April 23.—The change of prime ministers is likely to have important consequences on the political situation in Ireland. H. H. Asquith, the new premier, is not trusted by the nationalists and his accession to office is giving rise to a restlessness similar to that which followed the resignation of the Irish Councils Bill. Some of the junior members of the Irish party are eager for a campaign of actual opposition to be opened up, an attack on Winston Churchill's candidature at Manchester. The more experienced members, however, are in favor of giving Mr. Asquith a trial. The position is complicated by the production of the University Bill, which is generally approved in Ireland and which has more solid elements of politics are anxious not to imperil. The tangle of the Land Act finance has also to be unraveled before a forward movement on the National question can be safely undertaken.

A New Conference. "Mearns" William O'Brien is about to summon a new conference on the land question, with Gen. Sir William Butler as chairman. The report of the confessed districts commission is ready for publication. Sir Anthony McDonnell's recommendations have been rejected by the majority of the committee, and in consequence he is resigning his position as under-secretary for Ireland. It is possible he may be rewarded by a peerage for his services in India and Ireland, and as he is with-

No need of days when you are not at your best. No need of headaches, dullness, irritability. A Cascaret, taken in time, avoids them. All women need Cascarets. Simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. Those are Nature's ways for keeping the bowels active. But very few women employ them. The next best way is Cascarets. Nearly all the minor ills of women can be avoided by Cascarets alone. There is no need to have headaches, depression, bad breath, bad complexion. The remedy is Cascarets. Not in large doses—unless you wait too long. The best way is one Cascaret at a time—just when you need it. One every day, perhaps. It is simply a matter of keeping clean inside, as you do on the outside. You don't use soap in large quantities, and rarely. You use it frequently, regularly, just as you need it. Do the same with Cascarets. Then you are always well, always at your best. Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure you get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50c, 25c and Ten Cents per Box

OPPOSE VISIT OF FLEET TO CHINESE WATERS O.E.N. MEETING OVER LAST DAY A BUSY ONE

Spontaneous Alignment of the Powers Has Aroused Suspicion - Russo-Japanese Unity. Resolutions on Matriculation Exams - Agricultural Courses Presentation to Mr. Hodgson.

PEKIN, April 23.—American official intances in Peking are strongly opposed to the proposal that the American fleet of battleships call at Chinese ports because during the past few weeks the conditions in Manchuria have created an international situation which is regarded here as dangerous. Furthermore, the spontaneous alignment of the powers, for the first time since the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese war, and the attitude of Germany, France, and the other powers support the coming of the fleet and Great Britain's accession to the proposal, but the final position of Russia is uncertain. This is by reason of the Russo-Japanese unity on the question of the government of Russian and Japanese subjects in Manchuria, as well as Russia's self confessed dependence on a re-act of the Russo-Japanese relations to insure peace in the Pacific.

There is an impression here that secretary Root and Baron Rosen, Russian ambassador to the United States, are neither of them favorably disposed to the present plan of the statesmen in China, to accept a stipend in Manchuria, but China is convinced that the United States will not be able to retire from its position in the matter of the coast of the peninsula in Manchuria, and she, therefore, hopes for favorable consideration from Washington of her plan. China is apprehensive lest the United States may weaken on the realization of the principal clause of the Portsmouth treaty, for this would permanently defeat the effect of the principal clause of the Chinese administration of Manchuria.

Because of this apprehension it would take only a trifling precipitate a crisis, and in this connection it is interesting to note that both Japan and the United States supported the presence of coloring matter, has dropped like a bombshell among the Scotch distillers and has aroused much ire. Representatives of the distillers visited the foreign office here this afternoon and brought the matter to the urgent attention of the officials. Later it was declared that instructions have been cabled to James Bryce, the British ambassador at Washington, in the premises.

Big Sunday School Convention. What is spoken of as the greatest gathering of Sunday school workers on the continent has ever known will meet at Louisville, Ky., in 12th international convention June 12-23. All delegates from Ontario must receive appointment thru the Ontario Sunday School Association. The province is entitled to send sixty, apportioned as follows: Methodists 23, Presbyterians 18, Church of England & Baptists 7, Congregationalists 2 and smaller denominations 5.

At the close of the first week of May the entire delegation will be filled up, on the principle of first come first served. At present less than forty names are in the hands of the committee. It is expected a railway rate of approximately $20 will be available from Toronto. Those intending to go should communicate at once with J. A. Jackson, general secretary Ontario Sunday School Association, Confederation Life Building, Toronto.

Was Faithful Servant - King's Tribute Tributes From His Majesty, Colonial Premiers and Others to Dead Statesman. LONDON, April 23.—"He was the faithful servant of his country; I am sorry he has gone," is the expression of King Edward, used on hearing of the death of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and it well expresses the deep feeling of regret, as for a personal loss, underlying the tributes given in the following measure by public men and newspapers of all shades of opinion. The Chronicle in an editorial this morning says: "He was one of the examples our public life often affords of the dominance of character. It was by force of character rather than by intellect or genius or emotional fervor that he led his party to unprecedented victory." Gen. Louis Botha, premier of the Transvaal, telegraphed a warm tribute, saying: "The empire loses one of its wisest men and the Transvaal one of its truest friends. In securing self-government for the new colonies he raised an imperishable monument to himself and laid the foundation of a united South Africa."

Medical Inspection. F. W. Chapman read an interesting paper before the inspectors' department on medical inspection in the schools. The advantages of this inspection, he said, were: The prevention of the spread of communicable diseases, by excluding from school those contagious cases that are their incipient and have not been recognized by parents; the placing of every child in the most favorable condition for progress by remedying wholly or partially those defects which retard a normal physical and mental growth; and the securing of greater protection for other children, and the giving of medical advice, especially as regards defective vision, defective hearing and defective breathing.

Wherein to press the matter on the government. Agricultural Education. In an address before the college and high school department of the Ontario Educational Association, C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, said that recent years the education of the farming community had been mainly along three lines, namely, the agricultural college, the holding of public meetings for instruction, and the publication of reports and bulletins, supplementing the regular issue of papers and journals.

Little heed is given towards imparting agricultural education thru the public and high schools, altho in 1907 the legislature provided for the salaries of six such teachers, who were distributed thruout the province. At the conclusion of Mr. James' paper, L. A. Smith, high school principal of Cambridge, in the inspectors' department, questioned the efficacy of the teaching of agriculture, especially in the public schools. That the high school teachers, he said, the fault not of the schools, but of the parents.

To Encourage Teachers. "Agriculture in rural districts," was the subject of an address by G. K. Mills, Cambridge, in the inspectors' department. The lack of progress was due to the lack of properly educated and trained teachers. Mr. Mills suggested that the government defray the whole expense of the summer school course, and pay $1.50 per day to all teachers who would undertake a summer course, establish small school gardens, and give to second the third terms instruction in the elementary principles of agriculture.

Military Training. In the trustees' section, S. Trueman moved a resolution opposing the use of military instruction in the schools. The resolution met considerable opposition and it was decided to leave the matter to the department. The section decided to ask the government for four instead of two representatives on the educational advisory council.

For Remedied Text Books. Prof. S. W. Dyde of Queen's addressed the newly formed committee on "How to read and study Shakespeare." Children should be allowed to read the plays and become acquainted with the characters before being asked to analyze individual sentences. A resolution was passed in favor of the remedying of text books in geography and in cutting down the course by at least one third. J. A. Speers, Alliston, E. H. Lindsay, Toronto, and J. H. Smith, Cambridge, present these resolutions to the department of education.

In order that there may be one representative school in which there are continuation classes at the annual meeting of the section, trustees will be asked to pay the railway fares of school principals. In the training section, J. H. Putman of Ottawa model school defended the student-teacher who might be sent to the front. The committee on the public school system of Ontario before the inspectors' department, J. H. Smith, inspector of schools in Wentworth, said that the state-published text books there were not a success of a high order of excellence. He recommended the appointment of an officer in each rural school section, to take an accurate census of all the children under 18 years of age; the appointment of a truancy officer in each municipality represented in the county council; the formation of county boards of education; the levy of a uniform rate over the entire county for the creation of a salary and equipment fund.

Entitled to More. High schools were entitled to even a greater share in the expenditure of public money than they received at present, declared Dr. William Fakenham in an address before the college and high school section. The inspectors' department decided to continue the committee on the course of study for junior and senior grades in second, third and fourth forms and to add to it. Prof. George L. Fox of New Haven visited the English and history section yesterday. He was a member of the committee of seven of the American Historical Association which drew up the report on history in secondary schools. He expressed himself as an ardent admirer of the vitality and thoroughness of English schools and as preferring them to the schools in the United States.

Form of Text Books. The proper form for text books was the subject of discussion in the public school section yesterday afternoon. Papers on this subject were read by these books should be and how it should be arranged were read by Dr. J. H. Smith, Cambridge, and literature, W. E. Groves, grammar and composition. P. W. THE LICENSE BYLAW plication, the bylaw is clearly void." Quoting a case, Kruse v. Johnston, his Lordship considers that the rule is there laid down that the courts should be slow to hold that a bylaw is void for unreasonableness, and that it ought to be supported unless manifestly partial and unequal in its operation between different classes, or unjust, or made in bad faith, or clearly involving an unjustifiable interference with the liberty of those subject to it.

Justice Teetzel referring to the case of the Attorney-General v. McLeod, quoted by Justice Riddell during the argument, says that New South Wales legislature had made a law fixing a seven year term as the punishment for bigamy, and the privy council held that the law could not apply to persons who committed bigamy in America, and goes on:

An Australian Authority. "In the proper reading of the bylaw in question it is that in the council purports to restrict the issue of licenses for the license year of 1907-8, or the unexpired portion thereof, it would clearly be ultra vires of the council to pass it for the same reason that in the McLeod case it would have been ultra vires of the colonial legislature to attempt to legislate in reference to crime committed beyond the limits of the colony. The question for consideration therefore resolves itself to this: Does the language of this bylaw, in its ordinary and natural sense mean that the council attempted to enlarge its jurisdiction beyond that authorized by section 20 of the Liquor License Act, by embracing the liquor license act, by embracing within the provisions of the bylaw a limitation on the number of licenses to be issued for license year 1907-8?"

"Where, by the use of clear and unequivocal language capable of only one meaning, anything is enacted by the legislature, it must be enforced, even though it be ultra vires, unless it is shown that the words go beyond what was probably the intention, effect must nevertheless be given them. It is the duty of a judge of justice to make a statute or bylaw reasonable, but to expound it as it stands according to the real sense of the words used."

His Lordship quoted several authorities for this, and continues:

"The business of a Judge interpreting a statute is not to improve it, but to expound it. The question for him is not what the legislature meant, but what its language means."

"In other words, it is the duty of a court of law to adjudicate and not to legislate. In my view, it would be necessary in order to interpret this bylaw as contended for by the city, to interpolate either the words 'except the license year 1907-8' or the words 'beginning on the first date of May, 1908,' and in my opinion this is not such a case where the court would be justified in making such interpretation in deciding upon the effects of the bylaw."

"It is quite immaterial that as a matter of fact the counsel did not mean to interfere with the powers of the license commissioners for the license year 1907-8, for it is not a question here of what the council meant, but what its language means, and it must, upon this motion, be taken to have meant what it says, and in my opinion what it says is beyond the authority conferred upon it by statute, this appeal should be dismissed with costs."

Justice Riddell's Views.

Justice Riddell is anxious to give civic government a free hand. In his decision he says: "It may at the outset not be without advantage to state the considerations that should govern the court in dealing with applications to quash bylaws of municipal corporations."

In the present state of the law municipal councils are a part of the legislative machinery of the province and the governing body of each municipality. Every municipal council is a legislative body. The legislation of such bodies must be interpreted by the same rules as the other legislative bodies.

"In our little republics every alderman is responsible to his constituents, who will deal with him according to their good will and pleasure. The people must in the long run have their way, and it is no part of the duty of the court to interfere with the policy of the people or their representatives."

Referring to the bylaw his lordship says:

"Can there be any doubt of the meaning of the words 'in every succeeding year?' The bylaw, like the statute, had been speaking of the license year—a year which begins on the first of May of one year and ends on the 31st of April of the next, as literally 'a year.' A year is the period of the earth's revolution round the sun, the time wherein the sun goes around the compass thru the 12 signs, viz.: 365 days and about six hours. Etymologically, the idea of the spring seems to be involved, and therefore it is said that the words more accurately mean the interval between one vernal equinox and the next. But, however that may be, the literal meaning is the period of one revolution around the sun. In such a highly metaphorical language as ours it was to be expected that the word would be used in many senses and with many meanings. What the senses are and the meanings are will generally depend upon the context and the matter under discussion. In the present case I cannot see that it is at all doubtful what the council meant by the word 'year' or by the phrase 'in any one year.' And this conclusion I would arrive at even if section 2 of the bylaw were all that could be looked at."

A Strained Interpretation.

The objection that the amendment would prevent the issue of the six licenses still in the power of the council unissued, has, I think, been met by implications in what has been said. It involves, I think, a strained interpretation of the phrase 'in any one year' as meaning 'in the course of one year.'"

"The meaning in the course of the calendar year cannot be given to the phrase, if that were so then no change having been made to the original (bylaw) the issue by the council of the six licenses before the first day of May, 1908, and of 150 in and about the first day of May, 1908, would be a violation of the original bylaw, and no one pretends that to be the case. "It cannot be the license year beginning the first of May, 1907; the council have no power at all over the number of licenses for that license year; the bylaw can only refer to succeeding years—over which the council have no control."

"As well might it be considered that a bylaw of the City of Toronto providing for the supervision of all parks should be held invalid because the City of Toronto had no control over Dundurn Park in Hamilton, and that park would come within the words of 'all parks.'"

A Method of Testing.

"The question may be tested in this way: Suppose the bylaw and amendment were undoubtedly valid, and suppose the commissioners, after passing of the bylaw, were to issue the reserve licenses, would they be held to have violated the amended bylaw? Would it not be held that the object and intention of the legislation were perfectly plain, that it was obvious that there was no intention to interfere with the discretion of the commissioners in respect of the reserve license, and that only the future license years were in the contemplation of the legislators?"

"And any other conclusion would lead to the result that the new bylaw was broken as it was passed—if the license year, ending April 30, 1908, were included, there had already been more than 110 licenses issued in and for that license year. Such an absurd result should not, I venture to think, be reached, unless it be necessary under the language employed, and I think it is not."

CONFERENCES BETWEEN COMPANIES AND MEN

Situation at Winnipeg Remains Unchanged—Federation of Mechanics Formed at Montreal.

WINNIPEG, April 23.—(Special.)—The situation between the railway mechanics and railway companies remains practically the same. The C. N. R. and C. P. R. mechanics both held conferences with the companies this morning, but nothing was given out at either place. Officials absolutely refuse to talk on the subject at all, and it appears that neither party seems to know where they are at.

C. P. R. mechanics were closeted with Grant Hall for over an hour and the conference ended without a single thing being agreed upon. C. N. R. men spent nearly three hours with A. Shield and J. R. Cameron, and when the meeting ended both parties refused to give out any statement of what was reached at all.

That matters are unsatisfactory is evidenced by repeated conferences, which apparently are useless.

Formed Federation.

MONTREAL, April 23.—A federation of all the mechanics on the eastern section of the C. P. R. was formed last night at a meeting made up of delegates from Montreal, Toronto, McAdams Junction, Carleton Place and other points, and therefore largely representative of the feeling of all sections. It was the unanimous decision that local unions should join a large federated trade union and work together for the common interest. This last movement of the union men following upon the meeting two evenings ago, when the men determined to add the western mechanics in fighting the anti-union mandate of the company which comes into effect on May 1."

"I think the company does not moderate its attitude the federation will summon its delegates to Montreal, the head of the organization, and prepare for a struggle. However, it is his intention to take no steps till the course of the western union mechanics is determined."

LUTHERAN CONVENTION.

400 Delegates Gather at Galt and District of National League Formed.

GALT, Ont. April 23.—One of the most important events in the history of Lutheranism in Canada, was the convention held in the town hall today. For some years the demonstration has been steadily growing in Canada, churches having been established in towns and cities, but previous to the present occasion no opportunity to meet together and discuss the present situation and outline plans for the future.

The object was to form a Canadian district of the National Luther League societies on the continent, and over 400 Lutherans were in attendance from Toronto, Guelph, Stratford, Grandford, Port Colborne, Morrisburg, Riversdale, Preston, Haspiter, Berlin, Waterloo, Unionville, Wellesley, and from every town or city where the Lutheran denomination is represented. A large number of ministers were present, among them, Rev. Bleber, Guelph; Croushore, Brantford; F. G. Oberlander, Berlin; H. T. Weber, and J. C. Kunzmann, Philadelphia, Pa. The general work of the Luther league was discussed and papers were read by prominent clergymen and laymen. Officers were elected and delegates appointed to national convention.

The Guelph contingent, numbering about 25, came in a tally ho. Two special cars were required to bring the Lutheran delegation. The choir of Berlin Luther church, numbering 75 voices, was in attendance, and proceedings were interspersed with vocal music, and selections by the Galt orchestra. The officers of the new league elected were: president, the Rev. J. A. Miller, Galt; vice-pres., Dr. Hueniger, Berlin; recording secretary, Huergethler, Toronto, correcting secretary, Miss M. Ross, Waterloo; treasurer, J. Liphardt, Guelph; trustee, recording secretary, secretary, and treasurer delegates to the national convention will be named by individual leagues, the president choosing ten of the nominees to represent the Canadian league at Chicago on August 11, 12, and 13.

Understood Him Perfectly.

Justice Harlan is a wit who is always listened to with keen interest. Recently he was in the city, and while playing with a clergyman, Dr. Sterrett, the divine, having fooled, was gazing at the ball with beautiful eyes and presence of mind, when Justice Harlan said with a chuckle: "Doctor, if you don't mind me telling you, that's the most profane silence I ever listened to."

Bishop's Wife and Evangelist.

Lady Mary Glyn, the wife of the Bishop of Peterboro, was recently sitting in Peterboro infirmary by the bedside of a maid servant who had been taken from the palace suffering from burns, according to The London Globe. At a neighboring bed an evangelist was speaking to another patient. Mistaking Lady Mary for the girl's mother, he approached her with a handful of tracts, and the words: "Are you saved, madame? are you sure you're saved?" "As nearly as a Bishop's wife can expect to be," was Lady Mary's reply.
