FOUR RIVAL INSURANCE AGENTS.

A short time ago, on the train between Windsor and Chatham, an agent for a leading Canadian company said to me, "Well, German, you have a magnificent company to work for." Within three hours, at the dinner table in Chatham, agents of two other good Canadian companies volunteered the remark, "German, if you can't get business, nobody can, for you have a splendid company." Their testimony is worth something.

WOULDN'T BE KISSED

President McKinley Refused to Touch Lips With Giddy Girls — The PeaceJubilee Parade.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—After the ceremony of conferring the degree of LL. D. on President McKinley at the University of Chicago, the president was driven to the armory, where thousands of people greeted him. For an hour and ten minutes he shook hands with people who streamed by him.

During the hand-shaking a number of young women and one or two not so young, tried to kiss the president, but none of them succeeded. A number of men and women, however, kissed the president's hand.

Later the president attended a dinner given in his honor at the Auditorium by the jubilee reception committee.

Yesterday came the spectacular and crowning glory of the week of jubilee, the great street parade. It started from the corner of Michigan avenue and Congress street, promptly at the time scheduled, and for four hours it moved swiftly and with scarcely a single halt through the principal streets in the business portion of the city. The one drawback was the weather, for the rain persistently kept on falling. All along the line of march numerous stands had been erected for spectators, and fully an hour prior to the moving of the pageant every seat was occupied. President McKinley reviewed the parade from the grand stand erected in front of the Union League Club, on Jackson street. On the stand with him were Gen. Miles, Gen. Shafter, Gen. Chaffee, Secretary Wilson, Judge Emery Speer, the Chinese and Corean ministers, and a host of others. About 30,000 men were in line.

So Says Robert Meikle About Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Ont., Oct. 17.—Robert Meikle, a member of the staff of the Star Dining Hall, is kept busy answering the questions asked him by his many friends at present. They all want to know how he recovered from what the doctors said was a fatal attack of Diabetes.

And he invariably answers: Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me when every other earthly means had failed. They are the only medicine on earth that can cure Diabetes, and they do it every time.

If Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mr. Meikle they will cure you. Try them.

GREATER EVILS THAN WAR

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on Fashoda.

Britain Will Take No Step Backward.

Comments of the British and French Press—A Grave Matter—The Duke of Devonshire's Opinion.

London, Oct. 20.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking at North Shields last evening, announced that the government had opened negotiations with the powers with a view of securing to the subjects of the various powers the right of developing the respective spheres in which each country is especially interested.

Regarding the Fashoda question, he said he wished cordially to acknowledge the desire evidenced in the speeches of Lord Rosebery and Mr. Herbert Asquith to help the government in the matter—"a matter which might develop to the utmost gravity." "It is impossible," he continued, "for France to maintain that she has political rights at Fashoda. She has naturally and properly asked for time to receive Major Marchand's report; but until the contrary is proved, I decline to believe that France will refuse to withdraw. If she refused, the matter would assume an aspect as grave as is possible between two great nations. The government is animated by the friendliest spirit toward France, and does not wish to inflict humiliation. What we desire is fair treatment. Our work in Egypt is not completed. Africa is big enough for us both—for France in the west and ourselves in the east. Surely we ought to be able to agree to respect one another's rights and claims. I hope, trust and believe the question is capable of but this country has put her foot down. If, unhappily, another view should be taken by France the Queen's ministers know what their duty demands. It would be a great calamity if, after peace for upwards of 80 years, our friendly relations should be disturbed, and we should be launched in a great war; but there are greater evils than war, and we shall not shrink from anything that is coming, knowing that we are supported by a united people."

PRESS COMMENT.

The speech of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach at North Shields has deeply impressed England, and the utmost concern is felt as to how France will receive it. The idea has been prevalent that the French have not realized how seriously England felt on the Fashoda question, which has been coupled with a desire that France would not force England to an armed support of Lord Salisbury's stand.

Most of the London papers refuse to accept the explanation that French activity is merely in pursuance of M. Lockeroy's scheme. Several exhort the government to answer the preparations of France by mobilizing the British fleet. Some of the more conservative organs, notably the Times, practically ignore the French movements, and decline to perceive any war cloud.

"A DANGEROUS MAN."

The Daily Cronicle remarks: Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has been at it again. He is a dangerous man. He has honesty without tact."

Others hint that the plain speaking of the chancellor at a time when a crisis is approaching is an indiscretion.

THE OUTLOOK GRAVE.

London, Oct. 20.—Most of the morning papers elaborate some of the existing descriptions of the belligerent preparations of France.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "In Toulon and Brest every nerve is strained to get ready for war which may break out on short notice. The Paris press is growing more and more determined to back up extreme measures, even a resort to arms. Today there was a prolonged war councils at Brest of the chiefs of the various services, and M. Lockroy is hastily returning to Toulon on account of the gravity of the situation."

The Paris correspondent of the Standard says: "If England keeps on saying that Marchand must go, France will reply that Marchand will stay; and if he is removed forcibly, there can be little doubt as to what the consequences will be."

On the other hand, the Paris correspondent of the Daily Graphic wires: "I have good reason for stating that Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, has discouraged French resistance in the matter of Fashoda."

DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE'S OPINION

In a speech at Glasgow last night, the Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council, said that since the blue book giving the correspondence between Great Britain and France concerning Fashoda was issued, nothing has passed between the two countries that in the slightest degree modified the situation. He did not believe the matter was likely to lead to serious trouble. The case was too clear and the facts were undisputed.

A FRENCH STATEMENT.

The Temps, commenting upon the sensational stories of naval mobilization, says: "While the political situation necessarily induced unusual vigilance and activity, it must not be forgotten that the present naval movements are principally an inauguration of the reforms planned by M. Lockeroy when he was appointed minister of marine, and which he desires to have completed prior to Jan. 1 next — reforms whereby the squadrons and ports will always be ready and clear for action and fully equipped within a few days." The Temps concludes as follows: "Ashore our military works are quite ready, and certainly the best disposition is being made of the means at the disposal of the navy, even if before the date mentioned the hoped-for solution, agreeable to both countries, should be found for the Fashoda question."

TURNOUT OF THE TURKS

With Arms and Baggage the Sultan's Men Leave Crete.

Emperor William Is Having a Good Time in Constantinople.

Candia, Island of Crete, Oct. 20.—The Turkish troops, with arms and baggage, started for Suda Bay yesterday, where they will embark for Turkey. The merchant ships in the harbor have on board many families of officers and officials who are returning to Constantinople.

THE KAISER'S OUTING.

Emperor William furnished the staid Turks yesterday at Constantinople with one of the most interesting days in the annals of their capital. The city was crowded, and the sight-seeing and ceremonials would have exhausted a less enterprising potentate. Wherever he went he was greeted with throngs of cheering inhabitants. Early in the morning he proceeded to Eyout, in the state caique, propelled by 14 black oarsmen. He made a theatrical progress around the old walls. In the meantime the empress made an excursion to Mount Tchamlidja, on the Asiatic coast of the Bosphorus. Their majesties returned to the Yildiz Kiosk at noon and gave a reception to the foreign envoys, after which they went on an excursion to the Upper Bosphorus, dining with the Turkish minister of marine on board the Turkish imperial yacht Sultanish. Then their majesties boarded the German gunboat Loreley and returned to the Yildiz Kiosk. The German warships were brilliantly illuminated in the evening. It was the first display of the sort Constantinople had seen. The exchange of souvenirs continues. Emperor William has presented the sultan with busts of Emperor William I. and the late Empress Augusta. The honor of the Black Eagle has been bestowed upon the grand vizier. The sultan has decorated all the members of the kaiser's suite.

POLICY OF THE NEW CAPE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. W. P. Schriener, the new premier and leader of the Afrikander Bund, made a statement of the policy of the new colonial government in the Cape Assembly. The government, he said, would recognize the independence of the South African republics and work harmoniously with them, leaving external relationships with them to be dealt with by the British high commissioner, whom the government would support in the development of South Africa. The government would also carry forward a bill for a new customs convention with the South African republics and introduce a proprosal for a contribution on the part of the colony to the British navy.

CALLED AWAY

Harold Frederic's Busy Career Closed by Death.

London, Oct. 20.—Harold Frederic, the well-known writer and London correspondent of the New York Times, died yesterday at Henley of heart disease. Harold Frederic was born at Utica, N. Y., on Aug. 19, 1856. He was educated in the common schools of Utica until he had reached the age of 13. He began works as a draughtsman, became a reporter in Utica in 1876, and editor of the Utica Observer in 1880, and editor of the Albany Evening Journal in 1882. In 1884 he went to Europe for the New York Times, and did correspondence work for that paper until his death. Frederic's most important newspaper work was done in connection with the cholera in Southern France and Italy. He told the cause of that disease, and described the heroism of the sisters. Subsequently he went to Russia and wrote up the persecution of the Jews, for which he was practically driven out of the country, and had never been able to return. He described also the funerals of the Emperor Frederick and of President Carnot.

RALPH DISRAELI DEAD.

London, Oct. 20.—Mr. Ralph Disraeli, brother of the late Earl of Beaconsfield, is dead. He was in his 89th year. For along time the late Mr. Disraeli was deputy clerk of parliament.

CABLE NOTES

Brisson, the French Premier, Wants to Retire.

The Matin (Paris) says that the health of the premier, M. Brisson, is such that he wishes to retire from the cabinet.

A special dispatch from Vienna says that an employe in the bacteriological department of Prof. Nothnagel's establishment died of plague.

The Madrid correspondent of the Times says: Capt. Aunon, the minister of marine, has received a dispatch from Manila, announcing a naval engagement between the Americans and the rebels in consequence of Admiral Dewey forbidding the latter to fly the rebel flag from their ships. The navy department at Washington has not received any such intimation.

The bank of France has raised its rate of discount from 2 to 3 per cent.

The Spanish peace commissioners have not yet received from Madrid either instruction or permission to bid adieu to Cuban sovereignty without further seeking to attach to this sovereignty some conditions providing for the assumption of the Cuban debt by the United States.

Inquiry made at the general postoffice shows the postal authorities in London know nothing officially of the fact that the assistant postmaster-general of the United States will in his annual report this year recommend the reduction of ocean postage between Great Britain and the United States to 2 cents a half-ounce.

Major-General Merritt, who has arrived from Paris, where he has been giving the United States peace commissioners the benefit of his observations as commander of the American forces at Manila, says: "I do not believe the insurgents will resist the Americans. My study of the British colonies has greatly interested me. They ought to prove a valuable object lesson to the United States. The British system is as perfect as devisable."

To the Public.

The popularity of the new toilet lotion, Hazeline, has encouraged a host of imitators, who endeavor to sell some article of their own manufacture when Hazeline is wanted and asked for. This new toilet luxury is a secret scientific combination, and differs entirely from any other lotion. It is healing and soothing, keeps the face and hands delightfully smooth and velvety, prevents tendency to wrinkles, improves and beautifies the complexion. There is a charm about the use of Hazeline that you do not find in any other preparation.

—Petrolia Topic, on Saturday's football game: Hobbs was the whole thing for London. London's scrim. should learn how to heel the ball out. The Londoners carried home a fine sample of pure Petrolia mud, as well as a nice assortment of bruises. Morrison played a great game, but was unfortunately laid out by a pair of London knees, and will rember the game for some days to come.

—Simcoe correspondence of St. Thomas Journal: Mr. Andrew Jeffrey's many friends will be very sorry to hear that he is in a very critical state in the London hospital. About a year and a half ago he was taken sick with appendicitis, and he has never been well since. For the last six months he has been growing worse. About four or five months ago he secured a position in London, and while there he decided to go to the hospital, where they decided to perform an operation on him. His parents received news yesterday that he is in a very low condition and chances for recovery are very doubtful.

MR. TARTE AT GODERICH.

Goderich, Oct. 20.—The Hon. J. Israel Tarte, minister of public works, accompanied by Mr. Coste and Mr. Gelinas, arrived here Tuesday by special car from London, and inspected the harbor works. Mr. Tarte expressed himself as pleased with the progress made in dredging, and the completion of the new elevator. He instructed the engineer in charge to continue dredging until the desired depth is obtained, so that the largest vessels can safely enter and discharge at the elevator. It is evidently the intention of the government to further the interests of Canadian ports, and thus build up the carrying trade in Manitoba grain.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellog's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. Alleges That the Prisoner Was Denied Extradition—Evidence of Witnesses Who Heard the Shots—Testimony as to the Prisoner's Indentity.

Marion Brown, alias "Tom Allen," of Texas, is a name now known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the owner of it was arraigned before Police Magistrate Parke this morning at the Carling street police station on the charge of murder. When a prisoner of any note is arraigned in London, there is always a most curious crowd of spectators who wedge their way in to scrutinize the poor unfortunate. This morning was no exception to the rule. Long before the court was opened the witnesses began to arrive and created a buzz and stir in sharp contrast to the usual impressive silence of the police station. There were about 50 witnesses present, and these, together with the overabundant quota of lawyers and spectators, among whom were many ladies, augmented the gathering to proportions seldom seen at the court.

Brown was brought from the county jail to the police station in the patrol wagon early in the morning, in order that he might be arraigned without any unnecessary difficulty. As the prisoner entered the court by the rear door and hobbled over to a seat near the cage, there was a general shifting about and craning of necks. Brown looked about him and smiled as he took his seat, and then an inquiring look overspread his face.

"Marion Brown, otherwise called Thomas Allen," said the magistrate, "it is charged that you, on the 24th of June, 1898, feloniously did shoot and kill one, Michael Toohey."

At this point Mr. P. McPhillips, the prisoner's counsel, arose before the prisoner had time to plead, and said he had an objection to make, not that he feared the ultimate result of the examination, but he objected to the examination going on. The prisoner, he said, was not properly before the court on the charge of murder, as had just been read. Brown was a natural born American and an American citizen, domiciled in the United States at the time of the arrest. He had been arrested on the charge of selling liquor to Indians, and was in jail at North Yakima for fifteen days, and then removed to Seattle, under the pretense, as Mr. McPhillips understood, that he was going there for trial. He had been brought here without anything of the charge having been mentioned, and under the Ashburton act selling liquor to Indians was the only charge on which he could be tried. The prisoner had been brought without the usual means being resorted to, and if the examination went on, he would offer the objection that he was not properly before the court. The prisoner had been deprived of the right of extradition by illegal means. He was entitled to extradition under the provisions of the treaty, and he (the prisoner's counsel) objected to any examination taking place until the prisoner had been taken to Yakima, and brought back properly. He had notified the attorney-general, the minister of justice, and the American authorities of the matter, but had not yet had time to receive a reply.

Mr. Magee—There is no other charge than the one of murder. The prisoner was found in Canadian territory, arrested, and brought here.

The magistrate asked Mr. McPhillips what material he had before the court upon which to base his argument. When none was produced, the magistrate overruled the objection.

Mr. McPhillips then made a formal objection to the issue of the warrant by a Victoria, B. C., magistrate, on the ground that there was no evidence of authority for it.

The examination was proceeded with under protest from Mr. McPhillips, after the crown had consented to the witnesses being excluded from the room.

THE FIRST WITNESS.

Wm. McKerricher, 931 Lorne avenue, was the first witness. On the night of June 24 the witness had been on the camp grounds. He described the place where the fatal deed was done, and how he came to be in the neighborhood that night. On the way down Ontario street he saw a person as though standing near the bush on the west side of the street. On the way south he met three soldiers going towards the camp grounds. He had not spoken to the man in the shirt-sleeves as he passed near him. A little farther down towards the corner the witness met a policeman. He was going in the direction of the bush. Witness followed the policeman until the shots were fired. He had heard voices, one of which came from the direction of the man in the shirt-sleeves, and the other appeared to be that of the policeman, who said, "Hi! hi! Hold on there!" A moment afterwards there were and as soon as help came witness walked up to the place where the shots appeared to come from. He found the policeman lying face downwards on the ground.

IN HIS SHIRT-SLEEVES,

When asked by Mr. Magee why he did not speak to the object in the shirt-sleeves, witness said it struck him as peculiar that a man in his shirt-sleeves should be standing in such a place in that condition, and he got away from it as soon as possible. While going away from the place he met the policeman, followed by many boys.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips, witness said he fixed the time by the discharge of the 9:30 gun a few minutes later. Witness admitted that it was so dark that he could hardly distinguish anybody or anything much farther than eight feet away. He could not say whether or not the policeman had his baton out, or whether the policeman's belt was undone or not. He saw no handcuffs. He thought that the shots had been fired at the policeman, who said, "Hold on there!" He could not recognize the black hat found near the spot that night as being the same as produced in court.

CUTHBERT BALL.

Cuthbert Ball, aged 13, of 526 Ontario street, was called, and said that when the policeman passed Elias street, going up Ontario, he (witness) was on Elias street with Sam Yates, Roy Cox and Roy Dealy. They followed the policeman, but when the policeman got near the tree the boys fell back. The policeman had his lantern shining it along the fence. Witness could not say whether the lantern was on his belt or in the policeman's hand. The policeman was a little ahead of them shining the lantern all the way from Elias street. When the policeman got to the tree, witness heard a shot and then the policeman said "Here, here, there," and immediately there was a second shot and the boys ran back. Witness had heard a scuffling sound near the fence. After the shots were fired the boys went back to the corner and met three soldiers and followed them up to the place. When the boys and soldiers got to the bush they heard groans, and going a little further saw the policeman, who was not dead when they got to him. His helmet was a short distance away.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips—Witness could not say how far away they were when the shots were fired, but they were on the opposite side of the bush to the policeman. He saw no revolver, but after Dr. Seaborne turned the body over witness saw a revolver picked up from under the officer's head. Before the shots were fired the policeman was looking along the fence with the lantern. He could not say who fired the shots, nor had he seen any of the pieces of Toohey's watch before Dr. Seaborne moved the body.

EDWARD GRIMSTEAD.

Mr. Edward Grimstead, of 507 Ontario street, was the next witness. To Mr. Magee the witness said he did not know whether he lived on the east or west side of the street. He did not know the name of Elias street, as he was a stranger in the city. Witness noticed a policeman go by his place on the night of the shooting, about 9:30 o'clock, and shortly before that he noticed a man with a peg-leg on the opposite side of the street, also going towards the railway. Witness could not say which leg was the peg-leg, nor whether the man was light or dark. Witness remembered people passing both ways, and on both sides of the street, between the time the man with the peg-leg and the policeman went by. Witness was sitting on the veranda reading a newspaper at the time. While admitting that he could not be clear nor exact as to the time, witness believed it was ten or fifteen minutes after he noticed the man with the peg-leg that the policeman passed. Witness could not describe the face of the former, but said he wore a soft black felt hat on the back of his head. The hat was like the one in the crown attorney's hand. After watching some soldiers fooling for a few minutes, witness walked up the street towards the track. He was the third to arrive at the scene of the tragedy, two gunners from the camp having got there before that.

Witnesses described the position in which the officer was lying, and said the officer's revolver was in his hand. The body had not been disturbed before the witness arrived. Witness described how he found the works of a watch, a lead pencil and the officer's helmet lying on the ground. Nothing was done to disturb these articles or the body before Dr. Seaborne arrived, further than what was done by the witness, and that was to pick up the parts of the watch.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips—Mr. Grimshaw explained the position of his house, where he had lived for a year or more. He did not know the name of the streets. When the man with the peg-leg passed he was sitting on the veranda—from which place it could be plainly seen that the one-legged stranger was of a very dark complexion.

Q.—Of course, you wouldn't undertake to say that the prisoner here is the man? Ans.—No, sir, i would not—the hat resembles the one the peg-leg wore.

Q.—You saw nothing of the shooting? A.—I heard a couple of shots—they sounded like a fire-cracker from where I was.

Q.—Could you say about what sized ball it would be. A.—About a 32-calibre shot.

Witness explained that he had seen Dr. Seaborn take a bullet out of the policeman's pocket. He had not seen any handcuffs, but saw the baton in the policeman's hip pocket. The revolver he saw was about the color of a rifle.

The revolver of the dead policeman was produced and this, witness said, looked like it. Witness would not swear that the hat produced as the one picked up at the place of the murder was the one the tramp wore. Witness remembered that the watch-pocket of the policeman was torn. When asked to identify the bullet taken from the policeman's watch-pocket, witness took the cold lead in his hand and said, "it doesn't look like the same bullet."

EDWARD H. ROWE.

Edward H. Rowe, teamster, Strathroy, who lives in a house adjoining the railway property, said he remembered the night of June 24.

Mr. Magee—Did you see anyone pass through your yard on that night? A.—Yes.

Q.—Could you give me a description?

Witness said he was a short, stout man, dark complexion, almost a colored man. When asked if the man were in court the witness pointed to the prisoner near the dock, and said, "There he is."

Q.—Where did he come from? A.—I don't know. There was a train just pulled in, and it stopped in front of my house to let a passenger go by.

Witness described the movements of the prisoner after passing through the yard. He went east, and then turned west. Witness didn't know where the prisoner went to then. After a while prisoner came back. Witness had just had supper, and was pumping a pail of water, and the peg-leg passed through witness's yard again, when the tramp said: "Will you give a fellow a drink of water?" After taking the drink the peg-leg made for the freight train, which by this time was pulling out towards London. Witness watched the man, and saw him jump on the freight, and was surprised at the manner in which he did it. It struck witness at the time that the prisoner was a mighty active fellow for a peg-legged man.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips—I suppose tramps are a daily occurrence around your place? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you see any other tramps that day? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why did you notice this one particularly? A.—Because he was a different color to most tramps. Colored tramps, the witness said, were not so numerous as white tramps, and he did not see any other colored tramp that day.

Q.—Which leg was off? A.—The left one.

Q.—Have you ever seen him from that time until today? A.—I have never seen him from then until now.

Witness was asked if he had heard the next day about the shooting in London. His answer was "Yes," but the prisoner was not dressed the same then as now.

When asked if he had put two and two together to reconcile the identity of the peg-leg, who passed through his yard with the one who is supposed to have shot Toohey, witness said, "No." He had told Wm. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Steppler, and several others about the man.

Q.—Will you swear that he is the man you saw in your yard? A.—Yes.

Q.—Are you positive? A.—I think so.

Q.—You think so—but you are not quite sure?

Witness demurred a little at the point, not wanting to say positively whether or not the prisoner was the man. Prisoner's counsel then put the question again emphatically, and asked: "Are you positive, upon your solemn oath, that this is the man? A.—I am pretty confident.

Prisoner's counsel pressed the witness, and finally Mr. Rowe swore positively to the identity of the prisoner, as the man to whom he gave the drink, and could not be swerved from that position.

Q.—Is there any possibility under heaven of your being mistaken? A.—Well, I don't see how.

Q.—It is said every man in the world has his double, an image—so you may have seen the other fellow? A.—I don't know.

Witness could not swear positively to the hat; but the one the prisoner wore at the time was very much like the one produced.

MISS EMMA HORNER.

Miss Emma Horner, of Strathroy, on being called, said she had seen the previous witness in Strathroy. On June 24 she was living in Mr. Steppler's house, where a tramp called. He was a short, stout fellow, very dark complexioned.

Q.—Which leg was off? A.—I don't know, but I think it was the left.

Q.—Will you kindly look around and see if he is here?

Witness (looking at the prisoner)—That is the man.

Witness said the prisoner went to Mr. Steppler's and asked for something to eat, and waited at the door until it was brought. He was not dressed then the same as now.

Mr. McPhillips cross-examined the witness, who said that after hearing of the shooting in London, and reading the description in the papers, she concluded that the man who did the shooting was the mulatto peg-leg she gave the food to.

Q.—Upon your solemn oath, would you swear that the prisoner is the same man? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Is there any possibility of your being mistaken? A.—Yes, there is.

Q.—Then you believe he is the man? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that is as far as you'll go? A.—Yes, sir.

Mr. Magee—You have no doubt about his being the man? A.—No, sir.

The court then rose for an hour.

GAINED THIRTY-NINE POUNDS.

The Experience of Miss Flora Ferguson, of Sydney—For Five Years She Was An Almost Helpless Invalid.

From the Sydney, N.S., Reporter.

Many of our Cape Breton readers, especially those residing in Sydney and vicinity, will remember the subject of this article, and also knew Miss Ferguson when residing at her home on Hardwood Hill, just on the borders of the town. From 1890 to 1895 sickness preyed upon Miss Ferguson, and from a bright and healthy girl she became an invalid, completely given up to weakness and despondency. In the spring of 1895 she left her home and went to the States, where she has a sister and other friends, thinking that a change of climate might benefit her. While there she was attended by medical men, but without any improvement; in fact she gradually grew worse, until she used to spend the greater part of every day on the lounge at her sister's. Friends came to see her, only to go away with the sympathetic remark, "Poor Flora, she is not long for this world." From the beginning of her sickness up to the time when the first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was taken, she had tried upwards of twenty different kinds of medicine—some from doctors and some of the many patent drugs for sale at druggists'. Hearing from the friend of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Miss Ferguson resolved to give them a trial, and requested her sister to get her a box. As day by day went by she began to feel better and her spirits to return, and in the course of a few weeks she walked a mile to the postoffice and home again. Miss Ferguson continued taking the Pills until she had used eight boxes, when she was completely restored to health and happiness. While ill she had greatly run down in weight, and at the time she began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, was reduced to 102 pounds, and when she had completed the eighth box her weight, had increased to 141 pounds. Recently she called at the home of the editor of this paper to leave her address to have the Reporter forwarded to her at Arlington, Mass. During the conversation with her the above facts were told to Mr. Richardson, the editor, and with beaming countenance Miss Ferguson agreed to have him tell the people "How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brought her from the gates of death to the enjoyment of health." He was astonished, as being well acquainted with her when in Sydney, knowing how ill she was and seeing her a physically changed person was enough to be amazed at the change.

AGONIZING PAINS OF SCIATICA.

Probably no trouble that afflicts mankind causes more intense agony than sciatica. Frequently the victim is utterly helpless, the least movement causes the most agonizing pains. To those who are suffering from this malady, the following statement from Mr. John Hayes, of Hayesville, York county, N. B., will point the road to relief and cure. Mr. Hayes says: "For upwards of twenty years I have suffered from weakness and pain in the back. Some four years ago my trouble was intensified by sciatica settling in my leg. What I suffered seems almost beyond description. I employed three doctors, but all to no purpose; I had to give up work entirely, and almost despaired of life. This continued for two years—years filled with misery. At this time I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using six boxes both the sciatica and the weakness in the back which had troubled me so long were gone. I was again a well man and feeling fifteen years younger than before I began the pills. Nearly two years have passed since I discontinued the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in that time no symptom of the trouble has shown itself. Under God I thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for what they have done for me."

Mr. Hayes voluntarily testifies to the truth of the above statement before Edward Whosead, Esq., J. P., and his statements are further vouched for by Rev. J. N. Barnes, of Stanley, N. B.

CURLING.

O. C. A. MEETING.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association, held in Toronto, in the absence of the president, Judge Dartnell, Vice-President A. F. McLaren, of Stratford, was in the chair. Over 40 clubs were represented, and Napanee, a new club, was admitted. The secretary reported that 30 clubs have decided to enter for the Ontario Tankard and 14 for the District Cup, and the committee recommended that this year two District Cups be allocated—one for the east and one for the west. The following suggestion was added: One district cup shall be put up for competition between associated clubs having a membership of 50 or over, but the players be restricted to such members as have never played for any club in tankard or primary competitions. The report was adopted, and the executive was authorized to rearrange the tankard groups to suit the new conditions.

Mr. E. B. Edwards' weight of stones motion, to amend clause 16 by striking out the words "50 pounds," and putting in "45 pounds," was defeated by a vote of 23 to 18. The association will therefore stick to 50-pound stones.

BASEBALL.

NATIONAL LEAGUE AVERAGES.

Billy Keeler, the little bunting, left-handed wonder of the Baltimores, leads the batsmen of the National League. Keeler is not a slugger, but a bunter, and fast sprinter on infield bounders. So is Hamilton, who stands second. Buck Freeman, of Washington, who hit for .366 on his first season, is the hardest straightaway slugger of the lot. Delehanty leads in base running. Hamilton is second. None of the New York of Brooklyn players show up very well in the hitting line, Van Haltren being the best New York hitter, and Jones leading for Brooklyn. Pat Tebeau leads the first basemen by dint of good, hard work. Tom Daly, whose second time on earth was quite a festive occasion, leads the second basemen. Wagner, of Louisville, has the laurels on third, and George Davis leads the stortstops, the only New Yorker to lead in anything. Freeman has the record in right, Kelley in center, and Delehanty in left. Morgan Murphy precedes all other catchers. Tebeau, Cleveland, leads the first basemen with an average of .987; Daly, Brooklyn, the second baseman, .976; Davis, New York, shortstop, .936; Wagner, Louisville, third baseman, .943; Freeman, Washington, right fielder, .976; Kelley, Baltimore, center fielder, .979; Delehanty, Philadelphia, left fielder, .972; Murphy, Philadelphia, catcher, .977.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

President Powers, of the Eastern League, held an informal conference with Messrs. Franklin, of Buffalo; O'Neil, of Montreal, and Kuntsch, of Syracuse, on Wednesday, regarding the outlook for next season. While nothing definite was decided upon, it was the unanimous opinion of those present at the conference that the league would have to be reorganized, and that Wilkesbarre and Ottawa should be dropped. A meeting of the league will be held in New York city about the first week in November to take definite action.

COLLISION ON THE SEA

Disaster Off the Coast of Nova Scotia.

Vessels in Collision—One Sinks in Ten Minutes—The Crew Saved—Newfoundland's Coast Storm-Swept.

North Sydney, N. S., Oct. 20.—The schooner Brisk (Capt. Sealey), laden with fuel and provisions for Chaunelfeld, and the schooner Mary Hannah, in ballast, bound in from Push Through, Nfld., collided eight miles off Cranberry Head yesterday. The Brisk sank in ten minutes, the crew and one lady passenger barely having time to escape in the boats, and saving nothing.

The Mary Hannah, disabled and leaking badly, was towed into port by the tug Gladiator. Both vessels were 200 tons register.

SCHOONER ASHORE.

The Nova Scotia schooner M. and E. Jackson, 70 tons, is reported ashore at Buctouche, N. B., and likely to prove a total wreck.

LOST IN A GALE.

The schooner Elma Marell (Capt. Absalom Thomas) from Harbor La Carenfeld, bound to North Sydney, C. B., is supposed to have been lost in the recent gale.

GREAT HAVOC FEARED.

St. Johns, Nfld., Oct. 20.—The entire coast line of the island has been swept by the recent storms, and it is feared that there has been great devastation in the northern sections and along the Labrador coast.

LIVES LOST.

It is already known that two men were drowned at Roseblanche, 255 miles west of St. Johns, and it is feared that many others have shared the same fate, because a number of vessels were driven seaward near that point. Serious damage to shipping is inevitable. The steamer Merrimac, from Montreal for Liverpool, reports a stormy and boisterous passage across the Gulf of St. Lawrence and through Cabot Strait.

FOUR VESSELS AND MANY LIVES LOST.

London, Oct. 20.—The Norwegian Bark Frivold has stranded off Spurn Head. Two of her crew were swept overboard and drowned.

The Norwegian brigantine Augvald has been wrecked off Gourdon Harbor. Six of her crew were drowned.

The Russian schooner Wilhelm has been wrecked on the St. Andrew's Sands. One of her crew was drowned.

Montevideo, Oct. 20.—The Italian bark Ester was lost off Cape Santa Maria. Four of her crew were drowned.

The steamship Tacoma brings the report that nearly 5,000 houses were washed away or wrecked, while 26,000 more were inundated in Japan. The loss of rice and other crops is enormous. Seventy thousand persons are receiving government relief. A terrific rainstorm swept over the northern part of Japan, cousing the Ishigari and Shilotsuga Rivers to overflow their embankments, washing away whole villages.

A MANITOBA MAN

Suffered Agony From Kidney Disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Completely Cured Him.

There is scarcely any place in this Dominion where Doan's Kidney Pills are not held in high esteem on account of their wonderful power in conquering kidney diseases and disorders after other remedies fail.

Mr. Alexander Fraser, a well-known and prosperous farmer of Miami, Man., went the rounds of many remedies—they failed to relieve his suffering and cure him—Doan's Kidney Pills did. His experience, therefore, is well worth reading:

"I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from the Miami Drug Store, determining to give them a chance to cure me of the kidney complaint, from which I have suffered for some time, and which has become so bad latterly that I could scarcely endure it. I may say that it resulted from a fall which I received a few months back. After using several kidney pills and cures of several kinds, but without receiving any benefit, I am pleased to testify to the great benefit I have derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. I have used only one box up to this date, and the change in my condition is so great that I cannot refrain from recommending them to any person afflicted as I have been, or troubled with any kidney disorder, for I believe that if they would cure me they would cure almost any case. I will be able to resume my farm work now, as usual, and it is not the lightest work, either." —Alex. Fraser.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific remedy for Backache, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, Dropsy, Diabetes, Rheumatism, and all Urinary Troubles. Price 50c a box, or three boxes for $1 25, at all druggists. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Reorganizing the Seventh Battalion.

Major-General Hutton, the new commander of the Canadian militia, is apparently the right man in the right place. He has broken through the trammels of official reserve which have bound most of his predecessors and prevented them from doing effective work. He has shown a wholesome disregard for rigid military conventions which are more suited to the old world than the new. He has also brought with him a refreshing enthusiasm, which, if backed by determination and good judgment, will work wonders in our military establishment. He promises to be something more than an ornamental commander, a transatlantic military deity who is with us, but not of us. Already the major-general has made himself popular by his democratic methods and genuine interest in his new sphere of duty.

It did not take the major-general long to discover the real condition of the Seventh Battalion It has been a matter of common knowledge that the battalion has been retrograding for years, despite the efforts of a few competent officers to keep it alive. The causes of this decline from its once proud position are also a matter of common knowledge; but it is better not to recall these causes, now that there is to be a sincere attempt to reconstruct the corps on sound principles. The speakers at the city hall laid emphasis on the vital necessity of keeping politics out of the battalion. The people of London will gladly sink their partyism in their patriotism, and will lend their unanimous and hearty support to the movement for reorganizing the Seventh. There is plenty of material in this city for the creation of a battalion that will do London as much credit as did the Seventh Fusiliers when duty called them to the front in 1885. Local military enthusiasm only needs the proper stimulus, and we believe the action taken yesterday will supply it. The officers are the nucleus of a good battalion. Much depends on the personality of the commandant. There are a number of men in this city who have the requisite social and military qualifications. We believe one will accept the position who will meet with the approval of all.

Let all parties work together to regain London's military prestige.

Terrible Adventures of an Englishman.

The world was shocked not long ago by a report of the barbarities inflicted by the natives of Tibet upon a young English traveler, Arnold Henry Savage Landor—grandson of the noted author, Walter Savage Landor. Mr. Landor has now published his experiences, and a thrilling tale they make. It breathes the fearless spirit which has sent Englishmen into the most barbarous recesses of the earth, from pure love of adventure and discovery. Mr. Landor knew that he risked his life when he set foot in Tibet—the Forbidden Land; but he could not have foreseen the horrible tortures awaiting him.

On July 13, 1897, he entered the country from India, with a following of 30 men, but was permitted to proceed with only seven. Even this permission was withdrawn next day, and the party had to return. Mr. Landor determined to gain entrance by a wild, unfrequented route. He circumvented the Tibetan guards, and succeeded, with nine men, in reaching Mansarowar Lake. Here five of his men deserted him, leaving him with only four. Three marches farther on, two of these four turned traitors and carried off all his servants' supplies. Landor pushed on with a bearer (Chanden Sing) and a coolie (Mansing). They crossed Malum Pass, at an altitude of 16,000 feet. While crossing the Nio Tsambo River, one of their yaks upset. The yak was saved, but its valuable load, consisting of all the tinned provisions, 800 rupees in cash, three pairs of shoes, one slaughtered sheep, wearing apparel, razors, skinning instruments, and some 300 rifle cartridges, was lost. This accident was directly the cause of Mr. Landor's capture, as he and his two followers, who were footsore, starving and disheartened, were driven to seek food and horses in a place called Toxem. The people received them with apparent cordiality, and Landor suspected no treachery. While he was picking out ponies offered for sale, the crowd suddenly rushed on the three travelers and cruelly bound them. Tibetan soldiers, who had lain in ambush, took possession of the trio. Chamden Sing, the bearer, was given 200 lashes with whips. Landor was placed on a horse, his seat being a spiked, packed saddle. His arms were still tied. His horse was started at a gallop and along the road was thrashed into full speed by mounted Lamas. Twice Mr. Landor was shot at by soldiers kneeling on the roadside, but neither bullet took effect. Then a cord was tied to his handcuff, the other end being held by a soldier on horseback. While at full gallop the soldier tried to unhorse the Englishman by pulling the cord. Had Landor fallen he would have been crushed to death by the horses behind him. Upon reaching Galshio, Landor, bleeding from many wounds, was taken off the horse and told that he would be beheaded. He was then tied to the sharp edge of a log so tightly that the cords cut his flesh. He was seized by the hair and a red-hot iron drawn close to his eyes—so close that it burnt his nose. A matchlock was placed on his forehead and discharged upward, giving him a terrible shock. To add to the refinement of cruelty, the Pombo, or chief official, took a sword, and made pretence to cut off his head. He was then blindfolded by the fiends, who told him that Mansing, his servant, was being executed. Landor was kept stretched on the log for 24 hours, in the rain, part of the time lying in a pool of water. When his legs were unloosed, the cords were so numbed and swollen that he did not recover their use for 16 hours. His spine was permanently injured. Mansing and Chanden were also tortured, the latter being deprived of food for four days. Landor and his servants were taken back to the frontier, and while en route, found a friend in Rev. Harkua Wilson, of the Methodist Episcopal Mission at Taklakot. Happily the clergyman was a medical man, and examined their injuries, which were frightful. Here the Tibetan officials made full confession of their atrocities. Some of Mr. Landor's property was restored to him, but the most valuable is still missing. Mr. Landor's book shows the native Tibetans to be one of the lowest and vilest races on the earth. Cowardice, cruelty, ignorance, treachery, polygamy, polyandry, and occasionally cannibalism, are their chief qualities. They are utterly degraded. They have no decency even at the grave. They invite birds and dogs to feed on their dead. When the birds and dogs have almost torn the corpse to pieces, the people drive them away and eat the remaining flesh until the bones are dry and clean.

Mr. Landor, though he has suffered terribly for it, has given to science a book of great ethnological and geographical value. Fortunately he preserved about 250 of his photographs and drawings, giving excellent views of some of the finest scenery of the world and the most picturesque things and people. But the chief interest will be found in the chapters describing experiences more agonizing than perhaps any other living man has suffered. It is a story, every detail of which is substantiated by the testimony of eye-witnesses. It is told by a splendid writer, and a man of character and heroism.

A Good Man Gone.

In losing the Rev. Dr. Cochrane, who was regally buried in Brantford today, Canadian Presbyterianism and Canadian citizenship lose one of their brightest ornaments. Whether as pastor, preacher, educationist, or moving force of important denominational committees, he was the tireless worker, the cheerful and courageous leader, the man richly endowed with the saving grace of common sense. It is hard to part suddenly with such an one; but it is matter of comfort to reflect that the good influences set in motion and fostered by such men resemble Tennyson's Brook, in this, that they go on forever.

Gen. Hutton is not afraid to "speak out in meetin'."

London's militia battalion was once second to none, and it can be made so again without importing military talent.

Uncle Sam is not entirely selfish. He does not want to deprive Spain of everything. He is quite willing to leave her the Cuban debt.

It is well for peace and order that Conservative journals do not circulate in the Klondike, else the miners there might really think the Government was oppressing them.

The Berlin Post says that the Sultan is a great reformer and resembles the Kaiser in many ways. The Kaiser's worst enemy could not give him an unkinder cut that that. Still, there may be some truth in it.

The American capitalists who are offering 5 per cent loans to the Transvaal are evidently banking on the Anglo-Saxon alliance. They know that when the Transvaal is merged in the British Empire, Great Britain will not repudiate debts owing to Americans.

The Quebec journal Le Soleil objects to the statement "that they are still voting against prohibition down in Quebec," and asks the pertinent question whether they are still voting in British Columbia and other parts of the Dominion from which later and more complete returns are coming in. In this we think Le Soleil takes a reasonable position, and on behalf of that journal which has been attacked for reporting such large and rapidly increasing majorities in the sister Province, we must say that immediately after the poll it pointed out the incomplete nature of the returns, and vigorously protested against the action of the telegraph company, declaring its determination not to pay the money demanded for such a fiasco. In the case of a plebiscit there is no such complete returns on the polling day as is possible at a general election, therefore those who wish to read lessons from the statistics must be content to wait a while.

The fact that the Ontario Legislature does not meet before the municipal elections should not prevent the electors of this city from expressing their opinion in January of the reforms suggested in Ald. Graham's motion, namely, the abolition of the wards and the reduction of the number of aldermen. It would greatly facilitate matters to take an informal vote of the ratepayers then. If the verdict is favorable to the reforms, and we think it will be, the council will then have a mandate from the people to apply for legislation to effect the desired changes. An amendment providing for the submission of the question to the electors in January next should there be introduced at the next meeting of the city council.

The Moniteur du Commerce maintains that the sale of the Isle of Anticosti to Mr. Menier was a grave mistake, and that the French colony of that island will never be a Canadian colony, and that the Government ought to nominate a commission of inquiry to know whether Mr. Menier has exercised his proprietary rights within proper limits. On this La Patrie remarks that Le Moniteur outrages common sense, and its article might have been written in the Witness office. Of course it is the opinion of La Patrie that we ought all to be grateful to Menier of chocolate wealth and fame for coming to make the desert isle rejoice and blossom as the rose. There is something in that view, but there is also something in the thought that every part of this land should be as far as possible the abode of freedom, where rich and poor, Catholic and Protestant, have the same rights and privileges.

Willing to Take Chances.

The remarks of a contemporary on the fact that school books carry disease are timely. By the way, so do dollar bills, but we hear of no objection to carrying these.

Sticking to Conviction.

[Toronto Telegram.]

A few horse races would seem to be trifling impediments to the advance of a great public man. But Lord Rosebery will not give up his race horses, and the Nonconformist Liberals will not give up their conviction that the turf is entirely evil. Therefore Lord Rosebery is impeded by the cold indifference of a great section of the English Liberal party.

Discussion Will Do Good.

[Ottawa Free Press.]

The general discussion of the subject of municipal government and the numerous suggestions now being made throughout the Dominion and all tending to one end, cannot but be productive of good ultimate results. It is evident that public opinion is thoroughly aroused and that it is a guarantee that the reforms sought will be accomplished.

LIGHT AND SHADE.

Go Up Head.

"Now, children," said the teacher of the juvenile class, "can any of you tell me the meaning of 'vice versa'?"

"Yes'm, I can," replied the youngster at the foot of the class.

"Well, Bobby, what is it?"

"It's when you sleep with your feet toward the head of the bed," answered Bobby.

Through the Door.

"So poor old Fleecy is gone, eh?"

"Yes; he did not consult a physician until he was at death's door."

"And the doctor pulled him through."

Not to Blame.

"Ouch! Great Caesar! Couldn't you see my feet?" exclaimed the portly man to the cadaverous passenger who had just entered the crowded car.

"Not very well, sir, on account of your stomach," replied the offending passenger, apologetically.—Chicago Record.

Judgment.

When she lay dead,
The many looked upon her face and said,
"The life is gone, so filled with shining deeds,
So full of ministry to human needs;
And we who loved her are bereft.
What have we left?"

When she lay dead,
A man looked sternly on her face, and said,
"Thank God, the evil of her life is past;
What I have known the world would know at last;
Now all is silence, peace; for me—
I shall be free!"

When she lay dead,
The great God looked from his wide heaven and said,
"Only the one who made it knows the whole
Of strength and weakness in a human soul.
Cease, then, thy wonder; peace, let be,
Leave her to me."

Affinity.

"To me," said Willie Washington, feverishly, "you represent all that is most sublime. I believe that destiny intended us for each other."

"Are you alluding," inquired Miss Cayenne, icily, "to the popular affinity supposed to exist between the sublime and the ridiculous?" — Washington Star.

ASPHYXIATION SEASON IS ON

Three Young Ladies Have a Narrow Escape.

Sewer Gas, Too, Gets in Its Deadly Work in a School.

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 20.—The three daughters of Mr. Robert Pearson, of this city, Bella, Jeanette and Mary, narrowly escaped losing their lives by escaping gas Tuesday night

Mr. Pearson is away from home, and the girls were alone in the house. They put up their heater and got a fire going before they went to bed, and in some matter the gas escaped from the stove and filled the house.

At 6 o'clock yesterday morning Bella awoke, and at once realized the terrible position she and her sisters were in. She ran from the house in her bare feet and knocked at the door of a neighbor's residence As soon as the door was opened she fell on her face on the floor, muttering almost inaudibly, "Come in."

The neighbors went to the Pearson house and found Jeanette and Mary in a serious condition from the effects of the gas. A doctor was sent for and applied restoratives, succeeding, after a long struggle in bringing the girls out of danger.

SEWER GAS IS DEADLY.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 20.—Within two weeks 25 children, pupils in public school 28, have died of what was believed to be diphtheria. Investigation shows that a sewer pipe, leading into the building had been tapped. The sewer gas, which accumulated at night, was fanned into the class rooms through the cold-air pipes during the day.

WAS WORTH $501,367.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—The will of Sir Casimir S. Gzowski, filed in the surrogate court yesterday for probate, deals with an estate of $501,367, of which $2,151 is in realty. His wife receives "The Hall," the late residence of deceased, as well as all the household furniture. He sets aside $150,000 as a sum from which $9,000 is to be derived for her annual allowance during her life. On her death this goes to the children. The income from $30,000 goes to a grandchild, Catherine Gzowski, who receives the principal on becoming of age. Should she die before that the $30,000 goes to the other children, among whom the residue of the estate is also divided. The real estate is composed of lands in Toronto, in North Colchester township, in South Sandwich, and in Washago village, Simcoe county, and in Hamilton.

A Maiden's Dream.

Thousands of young women dream day-dreams of the youthful hero and husband that is to lead them to the altar of wed-lock—dreams that are fated never to come true because of the ill-health of the fair dreamer. Young heroes now-a-days are hard-headed rather than hard-hearted. They know from reading and hearsay that a young woman who suffers from weakness and disease in a womanly way cannot well prove a happy, helpful, amiable wife and mother.

Physicians tell young men that weakness and disease of the feminine child-begetting organism make women sickly, nervous and despondent in spite of the best of natural dispositions. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes these organs strong, healthy, vigorous and elastic. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and steadies the nerves. It does away with the qualms of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It frees maternity of peril. It insures the newcomer's health. Dr. Pierce is an eminent and skillful physician, who, during his thirty years' experience as chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., has treated thousands of women. He will answer letters from women free.

Very many women who have become happy, healthy wives and mothers through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have permitted their experiences, names, addresses and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This great work used to cost $1.50. Now it is free. It contains 1,008 pages and over 300 illustrations. Several chapters are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover customs and mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth binding, 50 stamps.

HAVE SEEN A CENTURY

Remarkable Cases of Longevity Reported to the Advertiser.

A Southwold Lady 110 years Old—A Wentworth County Centenarian.

The Advertiser's recent reference to centenarians has elicited the following very interesting letter, which explains itself:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I saw in your valuable paper that you give the age of Donald Waters, also that you would like to hear of any other authentic cases of extreme longevity. My father was born in the year 1798, Feb. 20. He was 100 years old the 20th of last February, and is living yet. He is smart and his intellect is as good as that of most men. He lives in the township of Beverly, county of Wentworth. He was born in the State of New Jersey and came to Canada when he was 2 years old. His father settled in the township of Crowland on the Chippewa River. My father went to the township of Beverly when he was 20 years old, and has resided there since that time. He voted at the last Ontario election. He has been a life-long Reformer and has raised a family of ten, all living but one. Yours truly, N. MISENER,

Warwick Postoffice, Ont.

Oct. 18, 1898.

Aged 110.

The Belmont correspondent of The Advertiser writes:

"Your correspondent had an interview with Mrs. Mills, of Southwold, relict of the late James Mills, on Monday, at the picturesque residence of James Mills, jun., with whom the subject of this narrative has resided continuously during the last 21 years. He was greeted warmly. This estimable lady celebrated her 110th birthday on Monday, and she is hale, vigorous and alert. During the last 21 years of sojourn with her son and daughter-in-law she was slightly indisposed one day only. The only malady with which she is afflicted is rheumatism. She knows all the roads, and frequently visits the neighbors, her only assistance being a cane. Her maiden name was Mary Ann Coulter. She married James Mills, and ten children were born to them. Her husband died 32 years ago. Mrs. Mills is a native of the Emerald Isle, having quit the land of the shamrock 45 years ago last June. The good people of Southwold can boast of having the oldest person in Ontario, or, perhaps, the Dominion of Canada."

DEATH OF MR. JOHN MILNE

A Worthy and Popular Citizen—Typhoid the Cause.

A worthy citizen joined the great majority yesterday, when death ended the sufferings of Mr. John Milne, of 36 Byron avenue. Until laid low with typhoid fever a few weeks ago, Mr. Milne, who had just reached the prime of life, his age being 41 years and 10 months, was in the best of health. But the fever claimed him, and in spite of the best nursing and medical attendance obtainable, he succumbed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The news will be learned with deep and widespread sorrow, for his was a fine character, and he had a host of warm friends. Although of a retiring disposition, he came much in contact with the public for several years past as lessee and manager of the Sulphur Springs baths and boat houses, and there were none who knew his worth but were his devoted friends.

It was while attending to his duties he was taken sick, and from the time typhoid fever began to manifest itself he has been hovering between life and death, conscious at time, and at others quite delirious. He leaves a widowed mother and a sister, Mrs. W. A. Reid. Deceased was a member of King Solomon's Lodge, No. 378, A., F. and A. M., West London; Eureka Lodge, No. 38, I. O. O. F.; Clan Fraser, Sons of Scotland; Court Brighton, A. O. F., and other fraternities, in all of which he was popular. Mr. Milne was a strong Liberal, but made no political enemies. The widowed mother has the heartfelt sympathy of all.

The Second Quarter Century.

Twenty-five is a distinguished and significant age. Old men say, "When I was twenty-five," and boys say, "When I am twenty-five." It is a desirable age. For we are beginning the second of the three laps, and the most telling of the race. The first quarter century is past—we are on the threshold of the second. We have left off seeking education, directly, and are hunting for wealth and other things. The real battle of life starts at this age. Youth is full of hope, illusions; manhood is full of struggle, disillusionment. On your fitness to withstand that struggle depends the success of your life. Neglect of health will ruin your prospects. Only the healthful win success.

WILKIN—HUDSON.

A choice gathering it was that assembled at the residence of T. L. Belcher, 30 Ridout street south, last night, to witness the marriage of Mr. Joseph Hartman Wilkin to Miss Edith Hudson, both of London. The impressive ceremony of the Methodist Church was performed by Rev. John Morrison. The assembly of guests were from the congregation of York Street Mission, of which the contracting parties are members. A beautiful tea set from the choir, together with other individual presents showed their friendship and esteem. All join in wishing them a long and happy life.

THE NEW G. T. R. RULES.

The trainmen employed on the middle division of the Grand Trunk Railway are in a flutter over the report that the new train running rules adopted by the Grand Trunk system are to be put into effect at once. Mr. Fitzhugh, however, says the new train running rules will not be put into operation till the new employes are thoroughly conversant with them. Every employe on the entire system will have to pass an examination, to test his acquaintance with the new rules. If a man, however, fails to pass, he will be given another chance, and the railway company will, in fact, instruct the men themselves. All the men, though, will have to have a competent acquaintance with the rules.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gair, for many years residents of this city, now living in Chicago, celebrated this month their silver wedding, when their residence at 185 Lincoln avenue, was tastily decorated for the occasion. They were the recipients of many costly and beautiful presents and hearty congratulations from American and Canadian friends. Among those present from Chicago were: Capt. Ollie Steel, Quartermaster-Sergeant J. A. Wye, heroes of the Spanish-American war, and their wives; Mr. and Mrs. Alb, Mr. and Mrs. Remicker, Mr. and Mrs. Batchler, Mr. and Mrs. C. Gair, Miss May Kavanaugh, Mr. John C. Russ, C. W. Munro. Those from Canada were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Munro, Misses Florence and Eva Munro, of London; Charles Munro, of Toronto; Mrs. Colson, of Montreal, and many others. A bountiful supper was served, after which singing and dancing were kept up until early morning, when the party broke up, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Gair many happy years of life. Among the many presents given was a handsome silver set from Mr. and Mrs. Sam Munro, of London.

A BYRON WEDDING.

Woodside, the residence of the Misses Flint, Byron, was the scene of a very interesting event on Wednesday afternoon, being the marriage of their sister, Mary Bertha, to Thomas Arthur Baker, of Woodbank. Rev. Wm. Quance, of Belmont, performed the ceremony. The drawing-room was very beautifully decorated with flowers and plants for the occasion, and while the Wedding March was being rendered by Miss Edna Flint, the bride entered, leaning on the arm of her cousin, Mr. Robert Blinn, who gave her away. Miss Fanny Flint, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while little Miss Mary Blinn made a sweet maid of honor. The groom was assisted by his cousin, Mr. Basset Blewett, of St. Thomas. The bride looked lovely, attired in a white silk gown and bridal veil, and carrying a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid was charming in a dress of white organdie and carried pink carnations. After the ceremony a dainty lunch was served. The young couple were the happy recipients of many handsome and expensive presents. Mr. and Mrs. Baker left on the 8 o'clock evening train for a trip west, amid a shower of rice and with the best wishes of their many friends.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS

On the Part of France the Great Topic of Discussion.

A flotilla of torpedo boats was detached to make an endeavor to force the entrance of the harbor, and the whole garrison was called to arms, and the forts and batteries were manned ready for instant action. The result of the experiments has not been made public

Vice-Admiral Barrera presided yesterday at a secret council of war, at Brest, in which part of the maritime forces took part. Confidential orders were issued to the garrison.

The Aurore asserts that five classes of naval reserves around Brest have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for active service.

PRECIOUS DUST AND PAPER

Arrival of Two Steamers With Klondike Passengers and Their Diggings—A Wail From Kotzebue Sound.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—The steamer Roanoke arrived yesterday from St. Michael with about 500 passengers and gold dust, estimated at $2,000,000. Of this the Canadian Bank of Commerce has $600,000, and the Bank of British North America $750,000. The richest individual on board is said to be K. Langlois, of Tacoma, Wash., who is credited with $100,000. The Roanoke left St. Michaels on Oct. 8.

The steamers Portland, Protection and Garonne were in port. They expected to leave in a few days. All sailing vessels had left St. Michaels, and St. Michaels was soon to be deserted for the winter.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 20.—The steamer Danube has reached port with between $125,000 and $150,000 in Klondike gold dust and paper. There were about 30 miners on board. Reports say that a great improvement has been noticed in the postoffice since Mr. Ogilvie reorganized the staff.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 20. — Charles Farnsworth, of Massachusetts, has returned from Kotzebue Sound. He says that eight hundred hungry, and, for the most part penniless, prospectors are living in tents there. He believes that before this time starvation exists among them. Among them were several dozen women and children.

Valette, Island of Malta, Oct. 20.—A hail cyclone has swept over the island, doing an enormous amount of damage to property, some of the hail stones weighing a quarter of a pound.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 20.—There was a snowstorm in the Catskills on the Wittenburg mountain, in the town of Shandaken Tuesday and another snowstorm yesterday.

St. Johns, Nfld., Oct. 20.—Capt. Wm. Bartlett, brother of Capt. John Bartlett, the commander of the steamer Windward (Lieut. Peary's), now supposed to be in far northern waters, after landing Peary's expedition, has arrived from a summer's fishing at Turnavick, Labrador, where Capt. John intended calling for him on the Windward's homeward trip from Greenland. Capt. William declares that he never knew the ice to form more rapidly and heavily than while on his way here, and he has almost abandoned hope that the Windward will escape from Arctic regions this fall.

Rev. A. B. Simpson a Wonder as a Money-Getter.

New York, Oct. 20.—At the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Rev. A. B. Simpson proved himself a wonder as a money-raiser. After depicting in glowing phrases what the god of battles did for the United States in the Philippines, Porto Rico and Cuba, and making a fervid plea for money to send missionaries to those parts, he ordered the brethren to pass the hat. Cash came flying in in fistfulls, bills in wads, and checks galore, until the sum total was $113,000.

One poor washerwoman in the excitement gave $20 which she had earned at the tub.

THEY ATE TOADSTOOLS.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 20.—The family of Harry Goldbach, consisting of seven persons, is seriously ill from eating toadstools. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Goldbach purchased a basket of what she supposed were mushrooms from a peddler and cooked them for supper. The family ate heartily of them, and were soon taken violently ill. Drs. Struble and Schoening worked over the sick ones all night. A slight improvement in the condition of the parents is reported, but they are not yet out of danger.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

There are 40,000 native pupils in the Sunday schools of the Fiji Islands.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

A DINNER PILL. — Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indiges-

Lost Husband for Cigarette—Sensational Scene at the Altar.

Midvale, Neb., Oct. 20. — At the altar Harry Keldar refused to marry Miss Genevieve Ransom because he smelled cigarette smoke on her breath.

Shortly before the hour set for the marriage ceremony one of the bridesmaids offered her a cigarette. The young lady could not resist, so she smoked. A few minutes later she stood beside the bridegroom in her parents' drawing-room. The house was filled with guests. As the clergyman commenced the ceremony, Keldar sniffed suspiciously. Then he leaned forward with his face close to the bride's.

"You've been smoking!" he exclaimed.

Miss Ransom vouchsafed no reply. Without another word Keldar turned and walked out of the house. The bride fainted. The bridegroom's friends hurried out to bring him back. But Keldar would not go. The match has been declared off and Keldar is preparing to leave town.

A FRIEND IN NEED

"No! Will you take that for an answer? I have tried hard to be excused, but you will accept from me no reason for staying at home, so you must take a plain refusal."

"It will be the last thing you will ever refuse me."

Charlie Thornton hastily quitted the breakfast room without another word or look for the lady who presided at the table, and who was wholly disconcerted by this unlooked-for proceeding on his part.

With flashing eyes she looked out of the window, saw her husband mount his horse, and dash madly away from her sight.

"I'll pay him for this in his own coin; on his return he will find me in the same mood as he left me."

Turning away from the window, her eyes caught those of her old friend, Miss Potter, fixed on her in sad surprise.

"What words are those you mutter so angrily, Sarah?" asked the elderly lady.

"I was saying I would pay that husband of mine for the exhibition of such temper; he never even said good morning as he left."

"Sarah, dear, were you not much more to blame than he for the manner of his leave-taking?"

"I to blame for Charlie's abominable temper, Aunt Potter? How can you attach blame to me for his rudeness?"

A shower of tears was imminent, but Miss Potter, nothing daunted, kept on:

"My dear, does it not occur to you how severely you may have tried his temper by so persistently refusing to go to his father's — to this family reunion?"

"Yell, I don't care; why will he tease me to go to that old farm house to meet all those dreadful people!"

"You do not care? Do you really mean what your words would imply?"

"I mean just what I say," Sarah replied, with slightly elevated brows.

"Nay, Sarah, if I believed you really knew the cruel meaning of those words, I should also know you had not one mite of unselfish love for the man you so fondly at times call husband, and the advice I am about to offer you would be worse than thrown away."

"Nonsense, auntie, it is not a question of love at all; but because I have a perfect horror of meeting all those country friends and relatives of his, and be bored to death by an incessant talk of 'stocks' and 'crops' I must need be accused of not loving my husband."

"Sarah, you must forgive me, but for the sake of your future happiness I must talk plainly to you. Shall I go on, darling?"

"My dearest auntie, you know you could say nothing of your wayward Sarah that could possibly require forgiveness. So pray go on; let me see the full extent of my natural wickedness."

"Sarah, when you married Charles Thornton, you knew his life was to be lived among his country friends, yet you seemed happy in your choice, and more than contented with the home in the country which he had spared no trouble or money to make as much like the old one in the city from which he had taken you. Once here, he welcomes any of your friends whom you choose to gather around you; nor does he leave you to the task of entertaining them, but makes himself such an agreeable host that your friends go back to the city thinking you the most enviable of women."

"Oh, I know he is just the dearest fellow in the world if he would only cease tormenting me about visiting here in the country."

"Wait, my dear, hear what I have to say of you. For all this love and kindness shown you by one of the most indulgent of husbands, you have made a most wretched return. For all he does for your happiness you have paid him with an utter, selfish indifference, and by such a course longer persisted in I tremble for the consequences. Sarah, your husband is but human; his forbearance will not last always; are you not afraid you may lose the priceless treasure of such a man's love?"

Sarah Thornton's face had undergone many changes while her friend had delivered, in such grave tones, her short speech; and when Miss Potter finished, and waited for an answer, she only looked up with a startled, grieved look in her brown eyes, and the sweet childish lips trembled, but gave forth no sound. Liking this indication of repentant sorrow, the old lady talked long and earnestly, pointing out many errors, giving much advice where Sarah seemed so entirely ignorant, until she was fully awakened to a sense of wrong and remissness of wifely duty and love.

"Oh, auntie, auntie! is this ugly picture of selfishness me, really your Sarah?" came at last in broken words as she lay sobbing in the arms of kind Miss Potter.

"It is, truly, dear. Now do you forgive me for talking so plainly?"

"Do not speak of forgiveness, dearest friend, but show me the right way. Lead me until I am in the right path, that I may gain a stronger hold on the love hitherto so slightly prized, so nearly lost!"

"Willingly will I do all I can for you; but don't begin by bewailing the past; let that go, only serving as a foil to the bright picture of the future which you shall make by studying the happiness of your husband as closely as he watches over yours. Lay aside all thoughts of self; be sure Charlie will not forget your welfare. In time you will find purer joy in his pleasure than ever you did in pleasing yourself."

"Thank you, dear aunt; you will see that I am going to profit by your advice; and with you always at hand to help me, I think it will be an easy task to do right. But I do wish it were already time for Charlie's return. Oh, dear! it is only 12 o'clock, and he will not be here until 5. I am so anxious to tell him that I want to go to Father Thornton's with him, to meet all who will receive me as a friend or relative for his sake."

"Now, dear, rather be glad you have so much time to prepare for his coming! Is there no little thing you can do for his comfort—nothing that you can do for him to assure him you thought of him in his absence? And when it is done, remember that Charlie likes you to dress expressly for him, even though you know no other company is coming. Now, run away and be ready; but be sure you are dressed in something he likes particularly, so that when he catches the first sight of you he may know all is peace."

"It was a bright picture that met Charlie Thornton's sight as, riding moodily up the bridle-path leading to his home on the afternoon of that day, he saw the small figure of his wife standing in the doorway of the handsome house, with an eager, expectant look on her face. And Sarah, noting the listless, dejected air with which he threw himself from the saddle and came up the steps to her, felt a great twinge of remorse.

"Charlie, you are late. What has detained you?" she asked timidly.

"Nothing of importance. Have we company? I am sorry to have kept you waiting," said the husband, glancing at the pretty dinner toilet of his wife.

"No, Charlie, we have no company; but may I not have the kiss you ought to have given me this morning?" and Sarah looked up shyly.

"A dozen, my treasure, if you like. But how is this, Sarah? I expected to see frowns on this brow, and, to speak truly, that is why I loitered so long." And he pressed a kiss on the low, broad forehead upturned to him.

"Oh, Charlie, you cannot even guess how sorry I am for past naughtiness! And instead of frowning, I intend to smile always," said Sarah playfully; but there was the sound of tears in the light words which caused Charlie to whirl her suddenly around to face him.

"See here, Sarah, what have you been doing to my little wife today?"

"Oh, Charlie, I have been taking her severely to task for her abominable selfishness, and laying out an entire new course for her in future."

"Selfishness, darling? I don' understand——" began Charlie.

"Understand—I know you don't; it is impossible for one like you to guess at it. But you will soon know what a different person I mean to be in future."

"I do not want a different person in my wife, so pray do nothing rash." And passing his arm around her waist he executed a dizzy waltz once around the room.

"I say, Charlie, be quiet! I want to ask you something."

"Say on, Sarah," and he had already made up his mind to let her go for a visit of some weeks to the city.

"Will you take me to father's on Thursday to meet all our friends usually assembled there on Christmas Day?"

"Sarah, are you in earnest, and do you really wish to go?"

"I truly do, Charlie, and I feel sure of a day of real enjoyment."

"I am certain everything will be quite different from what you have always fancied it, darling; only consent to know my mother and sisters, and you will never regret it. And father, too, he often talks of other things than "stock' and 'crops.'"

"Oh, Charlie, forgive me; I am sorry for such silly talk. I feel that I can never forgive myself for such utter foolishness."

And Sarah lay sobbing on his shoulder, where she had hidden her face at the mention of "crops and stock."

A most delightful day the next Thursday proved; and no one was happier than our little lady, who was in great danger of being as badly petted and spoiled by Charlie's father and mother as ever she had been by himself. And the two pretty young matrons who called her little sister looked so much like Charlie that her heart went out to them, and she felt sure of peace and love from them always. Before the day was half-spent she felt herself becoming interested in their stalwart husbands, and although they spoke of their crops to her she did not once feel like resenting it.

No one of the party wished more heartily for the return of the day than did Sarah.

"I knew her heart was right, and her head only needed setting—the pretty head her husband had nearly succeeded in turning by so much petting and spoiling. But, hoping much from her good common sense, I determined to save her from trouble, perhaps utter misery, in the future; for who can tell where such conduct might have led her to? I am glad I tried to save her." And elderly Miss Potter nodded her head in satisfaction.

Nasty Skin Disease Permanently Cured.

B. B. B. is making medical history. No other remedy anywhere can produce such cases of "permanent cures" as are being published from time to time.

Even in the severest and most chronic diseases of the skin and blood, where other treatment has utterly failed, Burdock Blood Bitters makes cures so thorough and perfect that after many years there is no sign of the disease returning. We don't ask you to accept our statement that this is so. Here's proof from Mr. N. Mitchell, Carman, Man.:

"During the winter of 1892-93 I was covered with pimples on the inside of my right leg, between the knee and ankle. As I never had anything of the kind before I was anxious about it, and sought medical advice, but getting no relief from the doctor, I tried a bottle of B. B. B., applying some of it to my leg, as well as using it internally, and to my surprise the nasty disease, whatever it was, disapeared within three weeks, and I am thankful to say it has never reappeared to this day."

SO SAMPSON SAYS

The Dons Must Evacuate Cuba by December 1.

Havana, Oct. 20.—A conference lasting three hours was held yesterday between Gen. Wade, Gen. Butler and Admiral Sampson, as to the contents of the five official notes delivered to the American commissioners yesterday by the Spanish evacuation commission. The Spaniards claim that it would be practically impossible to evacuate in the short period of time fixed by the Americans. They disclaim all authority to treat of any political subjects outside the strict limits of military occupation. They insist that the sovereignty of Spain will continue until the final treaty of peace is signed in Paris. In reply, Admiral Sampson personally dictated a brief, terse note, stating emphatically the Dec. 1 would positively be the date on which Spain's rights, claims and sovereignty in the Island of Cuba would cease to exist.

A Substantial Gain.

"I was very weak and hardly able to walk. My blood was thin and I was as pale as death. Being told about Hood's Sarsaparilla I began taking it and in a few months I had gained 20 pounds in weight. I kept on with it until I was as well as ever." Arthur Mills, Dresden, Ont.

THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back, and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claim to public confidence.

There are coal mines in Cuba, but none of them have been developed, and all the coal used in the island is shipped there from America.

BAPTIST HOME MISSIONS.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Baptist home mission board, held in Toronto, the principal business in the morning was the passing of an appropriation of $6,000 to supplement salaries of missionaries for the last six months. It was reported that the treasury is in a much better condition than it was last year, when there was a deficit of about $3,000. The appropriation for supplementing salaries of missionaries for the next six months was fixed at about $6,000. The board passed a resolution advising Baptist churches' ordination councils to strongly advise young men entering the ministry against marrying until after college graduation.

SECRETARY SANDERS COMMENDED.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, provincial superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, arrived in the city yesterday, and will address the annual meeting of the local society at the city hall this afternoon, and the reception in the art club rooms this evening. Before returning to Toronto Mr. Kelso will visit Detroit, and speak at the Twentieth Century Club on child-saving work in Ontario. He will also go to Sarnia with a view to establishing a children's aid society there. Mr. Kelso finds the London society about the best in the province. For the amount of money expended, London has comparatively a better record than Toronto, he said yesterday, and for this excellent showing he congratulates Inspector Sanders.

FALLING HAIR RESTORED

Soon after I was taken ill my hair commenced to fall, so that each day more came out than I thought I had in my head. I was turning gray rapidly. Finally I became afraid to have it combed, but the nurse said that wouldn't do, and used vaseline to keep it in, then used beef's marrow, then quinine tonic, and finally (CUTICURA ointment), which helped it immediately. The nurse said she rubbed up a fine white dust from the scalp where she could see nothing before commencing, and the scalp looked healthier and more natural every day. Now I haven't as many gray hairs as when I commenced using CUTICURA, and I have a crop of fine brown hair all over my head about an inch and a half in length. I only lose a few hairs when combing every day, and always more gray than brown. My nurse is delighted because the new hairs are brown. I never had very luxuriant hair, even in my youth. It is as thick on my head today as it ever was, and CUTICURA did it. Mrs. J. M. LAWSON, March 5, 1898. 302 Hamilton St., Albany, N. Y.

COMEDY AND VAUDEVILLE.

What is said to be one of the best comedy and vaudeville companies of entertainers will be seen at the Grand on Saturday matinee and night, at popular prices. Some of the best specialists in vaudeville, beside the great ex-champion of pugilism, John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, head the list. Among other things to be witnessed will be a sparring and boxing match between the great John L. and his partner, in gloves, Jake Kilrain, and each will give the other plenty to do. Among the specialists engaged are Edwards, Rochefort and May, Petching Bros., Bertina and Crouch, Lowry and Francis, that petite and charming female athlete in sparring and bag-punching act, which is considered one of the most clever and interesting features of the evening; Begley and Lee, in their fancy act of "Muldoon the Fiddler;" Reyford Sisters and Darmody, the great juggler. The play is one ladies and children may witness without being offended at anything seen or heard. It is one of Mr. Sullivan's great points to have his show clean and above reproach.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS.

There is an old saying that, "Nothing is certain in this world;" however, on the face of that, it is almost safe to state that Col. J. H. Haverly's American-European Minstrels are certain to command the attention of the amusement patrons of this city, Tuesday evening, Oct 25. The "Haverly Minstrels" have traveled "this wide world over," and have won golden opinions from all sorts of people. From Orient to Occident they are well and favorably known, and each visit is hailed with delight. This season they will "do themselves proud," and present a programme that will excel any they have yet given.

COWLEY—WILSON.

The residence of Mr. Wm. Wilson was made unusually bright and attractive last evening, when his eldest daughter, Nellie, was married to Mr. Albert E. Cowley. The wedding party entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Annie Wilson and Miss Doherty. The bride, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses, looked very charming in a gown of white dimity muslin, and her bridesmaid, Miss Sadie Wilson, was daintily attired in pink dotted Swiss, and carried pink carnations. The groom was assisted by Mr. John A. Rose, of Toronto, formerly of this city, and the nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Dr. Saunders, of Dundas Center Methodist Church. After the ceremony the guests to the number of forty partook of a tempting repast. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. Nicholas Wilson, the well-known Collegiate Institute teacher, and the groom is a very popular traveler for the Hobbs Hardware Company, with which firm he has been connected for a number of years. Beautiful and numerous wedding presents testify to the warm place which the young couple hold in the hearts of their many friends; they included a handsome couch and stove from Mr. Cowley's fellow-employes, and onyx table from the employes of Smallman & Ingram. Mr. and Mrs. Cowley departed amid the usual showers of rice, old shoes and good wishes, and will be at home to their friends at 77 Askin street, South London, after Nov. 1.

GRAY—PARKINSON.

In the presence of a large company of friends and relatives last evening, the marriage of Miss Mattie, only daughter of Mrs. Parkinson, of 525 Hamilton road, to Mr. Wm. Gray, of this city, was solemnized at the family residence. Rev. J. G. Fallis officiated. The bride was supported by Miss J. Gray, of Orillia, sister of the groom, and the latter had as best man Mr. J. G. Angus, of this city. Masters Erie and Harry Nelles, cousins of the bride, acted as pages. The bride, who carried a bouquet of white roses, was attired in a handsome gown of white corded silk trimmed with chiffon lace, with a veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid wore white organdie, with lace trimmings and cream sash, and she carried pink roses. The traveling dress of the former was of national blue broadcloth, trimmed in black satin. The beautiful ceremony was followed by the wedding breakfast and a few hours delightfully spent. Mrs. Gray is very popular, and received a large number of handsome gifts, among them being an opal ring, with clusters of diamonds, from the groom. The happy couple left for the east on an early morning train. Among the guests were Mr. J. S. Gray and daughter, and Mrs. McLeod, of Orillia; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lewis, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Young, Gravenhurst; Mrs. H. A. Nelles, Beaconville, and Mrs. M. Burgess, of Petrolia.
