Friday Morning.

The judge took his seat at five minutes to 9, and by 9 o'clock the court was ready to receive the jury. There were fewer ladies in court than on the previous day.
The colored women occupied the seat next to the prisoners.

WILLIAM STANLEY.

William Stanley is a boy 14 or 15 years old, whose parents reside in sight of Mrs. B.
Freeman's, between the house and Alexander's place. Lemuel Freeman lived with his mother, Mrs. Byron Freeman. The boy said that on Jan. 24 he had gone skating after school. When he got home a little before dark he saw Alexander Freeman come west on a horse galloping towards Lemuel's place. He was shouting as he galloped. When Alexander got to the house, Lemuel came out and jumped on the back behind Alexander and the two rode towards the place where the tragedy occurred. The boy could not fix the exact time beyond that the school came out at 4 o'clock and he had to go to the mill for his father at 6 o'clock. The boy went home and hitched up the horse to go to the mill.
At old Freeman's place he saw Alexander again at the corner of the lane on the horse. "I asked him," said the boy,
"what was the matter. He said murder.
I asked him where, and he replied, 'Right here,' pointing to the house. The boy found Dezelia and McDonald at the mill.
To Mr. Oser the boy said that he met a woman when he was going to the mill. He could not say whether she was a white or colored woman.

CHARLES BEVIN.

Charles Bevin was taking a load of logs to Bryan's mill on the day of the tragedy.
At the Freeman's he saw Alexander gallop up to Lemuel's. Old Mrs. Freeman had just driven into the gate when Alexander drove up. "Alexander," she said, "where's Lemuel?" Alexander replied that he was up home, or something to that effect. He could not catch the words exactly, as his team was moving. He did not see what became of them after he passed, as it was snowing and drifting badly, and he was afraid that his load would slide into the ditch. He met Stanley's boy a little nearer the mill, and asked him where he was going. The boy replied that he had heard that Rankin was killed, and he was going after the body. The time would be 5:30 or 5:45 in the evening.
When he first turned into the four-road road
he heard two pistol shots fired. He met Roxanna Webb coming west from the Freemans.

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser—The witness admitted that he was snowing and blowing that night, that he was excited and had all he could do to manage his horses. He could not hear very well and would not swear positively to the conversation.

FREDERICK BUMP.

This man told the same story as the previous witness about Alexander Freeman galloping up and Mrs. Freeman asking him where Lemuel was, and Alexander's reply that he was up at the house. This witness saw Alexander leave Mr. Bryan Freeman's place and gallop westward. The witness proceeded and when about opposite George Freeman's place he heard two pistol shots in the direction of Jeremiah Freeman's place.

CHARLES LANGFORD, M.D.

Dr. Charles Langford, physician, received a telegram from the Freeman about 9 o'clock at night. When he got to Freeman's place he saw Mr. and Mrs.
Jerry Freeman, William Henry Freeman and a man named Michael Dillon. They went out to the body of P. C. Rankin and found it lying partly on his left side, covered with two or three inches of snow.
William Henry Freeman turned the body over and the doctor examined it. Rigor mortis had not yet set in. In the pockets some cash was found, between $7 and $8, handkerchiefs, key and whistle, but no club or revolver. He then examined William Henry, who had a bullet in his right side.
By probing it was located between the sixth and seventh ribs, inward and downward seven inches. Alexander Freeman had a scratch on his right shoulder that might have been caused by a bullet.

TALBOT TORRANCE.

Mr. Torrance, editor of the Chatham Planet, was representing the Planet at the reporter's table. He saw Constable Mc-Donald on the day of the murder and in a warrant, which the witness identified as the one produced. It was then duly certified and sealed. He saw P. C. Dezelia that night and examined his pistol. Three chambers had been discharged; two were loaded; one of the latter had been struck, but had not exploded.

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser—Dezelia was showing the pistol in derision when he saw it and was saying that was a poor sample to arm a policeman with. He would not state whether Dezelia had more cartridges with him or not.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS.

William Douglas, clerk of the peace and crown attorney of Kent county produced the commission of Duncan McNaughton when appointed justice of the peace, in Kent county. He also produced a certified list in which the names of Alexander McDonald, Peter Dezelia and Robt. Rankin were printed in the list of county constables.

"I object to that being received," said Mr. Oser with reference to the printed and certified list of constables.

"The objection is overruled," said his lordship.

Mr. Douglas then produced the property qualifications of D. McNaughton, J. P.

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser—This commission was issued in 1893, and there was another general commission of justice issued in 1892. Did that not sue out Kent county? A.—Not to my knowledge. I have never seen it.

Q.—How many associated commissions have you received since that time? A.—
About twenty.

Q.—Why did you not produce them? A.—
I did not think it necessary.

Q.—Alex. McDonald was sworn in as constable for Dover township in 1878 was he not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Well then he has never been sworn in as a constable for the whole county? A.— Well, now you are asking me a question that I can't answer.

Mr. Oser—Well, you can't show me anything to show that he was? A.—No, I can't say that I can.

Some books that were at Mr. Douglas's hotel were needed and while he went after them another witness was called.

RANKIN'S SKULL PRODUCED.

Dr. J. B. Rutherford then took the stand. He had made the post-mortem examination in company with Dr. R. B.
Bryce, and before the latter's father, Coroner J. L. Bryce. Rankin's skull was in a very healthy state. The injuries that caused death were on the head.

Mr. Lount was by that time busy under a small square box and a silence came over the room. It was intensified when Mr. Lount produced the skull of the dead policeman and handed it to the witness.

The doctor described the injuries in medical terms. There were seven wounds, any one of which might have been caused by the weapons produced. The wounds that caused death were shaped like the letter H, and could have been inflicted by either the axe produced or by the sharp angle of the cordwood stick. Death was the direct result of the depression of the broken skull on the brain, and blood clots caused thereby. Paralysis would result and the action of the arteries grow weaker. The man probably lived for half an hour after the blows were inflicted.

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser, the witness said that Rankin's skull was unusually thin.

Q.—Taking, therefore, much less force to fracture? A.—Yes.

Q.—Would you say that the resisting force of this dome (laying hand on skull) is 50 per cent. less than the average? A.— Well, higher than that. Probably 25 per cent. under the average thickness of skull.

DR. J. V. BRAY.

Dr. J. V. Bray took the box and Mr.
Lount asked him if he agreed with the previous witness as regards the wounds.

"I agree, except in one point," said the witness, "that is with reference to the direction of wound described as number five. If I understood Dr. Rutherford right he said the wound ran from behind the right ear upward. My impression of that wound is that it ran upwards and then forward."

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser—This numbering of the wounds is simply as a matter of identification is it not? You do not pretend to number them in the order in which they were inflicted? A.—No; simply to identify the wounds.

DR. DAVID G. FLEMING.

The doctor simply corroborated the two previous witnesses, and nothing new was elicited.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS.

Crown Attorney Douglas, Kent county, had returned by this time with the sessions record, in which were the judge's minutes of the annual appointment of police officers in Kent. On the list were Robert Rankin, Peter Dezelia and Alex. McDonald.

Cross-examined by Mr. Oser—Have you any record in the office of clerk of the peace of the appointment of Alexander Mc-Donald? A.—I made a slight search for one, but could not find it.

Mr. Oser made some objection to a question Mr. Lount asked as to the appointment. "I don't think it is material," said the judge.

This closed the case for the crown.

FOR THE DEFENSE.

Lemuel Freeman was put in the box for the defense.

"I object," said Mr. Lount, interrupting him before he had proceeded very far. "I hold that evidence cannot be given by them (the prisoners) under the law of evidence, recent enactment. That I submit merely applies to cases where the accused have been committed since the act was passed."

"Well," said the judge, "I will see what the act says. I think it applies to all trials that take place after the act." His lordship then consulted his books, and in a few minutes delivered the following judgment:
"I rule that the act applies to any trial taking place after the passing of the act, without reference to the date of the trial."
"I want that objection noted," said Mr.
Lount.

"Very well, then," answered the judge,
"and, as Lemuel has been sworn, you had better formally repeat it before the swearing in of the next witness."

LEMUEL FREEMAN.

Lemuel Freeman was the first witness called. He was living at home with his mother at the time of the trouble. "I was working for Bryan's mill that day," said Lemuel, "drawing ice in the forenoon and in the afternoon hauling logs. It was not quite 6 when I left Bryan's after delivering my last load. Ben Moore was behind

Specimens of the supposed coal found at Kettle Point were recently sent to the officers of the geological department of Canada, with the result of its putting a stop to any further operations at that place, for this answer contains the following: "The occurrence at Kettle Point of any kind of coal is, to a geologist, entirely out of the question, as no coal has ever been found in strata so low down as the upper Devonian."

The funeral of the late Hugh Mackenzie, M.P., was the largest ever seen in Watford district, comprising 230 persons. The casket was borne by six Presbyterian elders—John Ross, James Laing, W. P. McLennan, E. B. McLay, Wm. A. Ross and Wm. Ryan. The funeral ceremony was simple and without display, in accordance with the wishes of the deceased.

MIDDLESEX.

A particularly sad case was the death of Miss Clara Patterson, daughter of Mr. Jayd Patterson, London township, which occurred on Sunday. Deceased, who was in her 21st year, came here a few weeks ago on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Richard Watt, and was soon stricken down. In spite of all that could be done she passed away. The remains were taken to her home for burial. [Ridgeway Standard.]

Interesting Talk With a Prominent English Manufacturer—Pneumatic Proof Bands—Next Year's Improvements in Quadrants, Etc.

Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. have just been favored with a visit from Mr. William Priest, the senior partner of the famous Quadrant Cycle Company, of Birmingham, England, and from disclosures made it is certain they will place on the Canadian market next season a machine which for beauty, design and general "up to date" improvements will exceed anything hitherto introduced. The Quadrant Company also hope to revolutionize and completely overcome the difficulty hitherto experienced with pneumatic tires. They have secured the sole control for the world of the Patent Pneumatic Proof Bands (which fact is confirmed by recent journals to hand from England) and will push the sale extensively in Canada next year through their representatives here. The band itself is of a peculiar composition and weighs only about eight ounces. It surrounds the inner tube or air chamber and can be fitted to almost any pneumatic tire. One great feature is that it doesn't affect the resiliency of the tire in the slightest. Some idea of its value may be gained from the fact that when 20,000 shares were recently placed on the market in Dublin there were over a half a million applied for. Another important improvement and a big step in advance by the Quadrant Company is the new patent crank fitted to their 1894 patterns and for which they also have sole control. The pedal fits into the crank in a very simple manner, doing away with nuts and washers entirely and reducing the tread fully 1 1/2 inches.

To a representative of the ADVERTISER Mr. Priest expressed himself as well satisfied with the business done this year by Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. "There is no reason at all," he said, "why our machines should not occupy as prominent a position in the Canadian market as they do in all the other markets of the world. Our firm is a very representative one. We employ only the most skilled mechanics and use absolutely the very finest material that money can purchase. Every component part of our machines are thoroughly tested before leaving the factory, and are subjected to a strain exceeding by far any that they are ever likely to experience on the road." Asked as to the weight of machines for next year Mr. Priest said: "There is no doubt whatever that the light machines have come to stay. When I say 'light machines' I do not mean those featherweights which are turned out by inexperienced makers, but I allude particularly to the work of representative firms and those of experience in this particular line. For your Canadian roads we build a specially fine wheel of 30 to 33 pounds, which we consider strong enough for a cyclist."

Mr. Priest is a perfect type of the successful English gentleman. Pleasant and affable to a degree, but possessing, it can be seen, those keen business qualifications which always inspire confidence and command success. The Quadrant Cycle Company is unquestionably one of the very largest cycle manufacturing industries in existence. In addition to their extensive premises in Birmingham they have depots in London, Liverpool, Manchester and Leeds, another in Paris, and others again in Boston and Chicago. These are all run at their own expense entirely, and afford a slight idea of the magnitude of the concern. They were the first people to introduce the double-crowned fork and oval tubing, also the larger size steering wheel, both of which features have since been adopted by all the principal makers.

We understand that the business hitherto carried on by Messrs. J. D. McKenzie & Co. will be conducted hereafter under the name and style of the Quadrant Cycle Company. Already they have several orders in hand, principally for racing wheels. Mr. Wm. Devine, of St. Thomas, who won two first prizes at the Western Fair, was on a "Quadrant," never having ridden at all before this year, in having a special wheel constructed, and various other promising young riders have about made up their minds. The "Quadrant" is certainly all it is represented to be. Nothing else could account for its almost phenomenal success in London and vicinity this year. They have just been awarded highest honors for Great Britain at the World's Columbian Exhibition in Chicago.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK

Accomplished by the Latter Day Saints—Election of Officers—Sunday School Reports.

The London district of the Latter Day Saints held their annual Sunday school convention in the church on Maitland street yesterday. Elder R. C. Evans, superintendent of the district, presided. There was a large attendance, many coming from outside places besides the chosen delegates, who were as follows:

Proton Union—Misses Maggie Campbell, Jane Dazell, and Eva McIndrick. Toronto—Miss Amelia Braden. St. Thomas—Mrs. John Cornish and Mr. Wm. Parkhouse.

London—Mrs. R. C. Evans, Misses Clara Timbrell and Tillie Quirk. The choice of the convention to fill the various offices for the ensuing year was made known when the following were declared elected:

Superintendent—Elder R. C. Evans, city. Assistant Superintendent—Wm. Fligg, city.

Secretary—Miss M. Campbell, Hopeville. Assistant Secretary—Miss Amelia Braden, Toronto.

Treasurer—Mrs. John Cornish, St. Thomas. Interesting addresses were delivered by Elders Lake, of Kirkland, Ont., Shields, of Grand Valley, and Taylor, of Grand Valley. The various speakers, during the course of their remarks complimented the members upon the success which had attended their labors during the past year, and gave them encouraging words for the future work of the church.

Reports were read from the London and St. Thomas Sunday schools. The local school has been doing good work, having held 17 sessions during the past four months, with an aggregate attendance of 810. Disbursements in connection therewith amounted to $24.70, leaving a balance on hand of $21.85. The school supplies 25 copies of the church paper, and has in its library 125 books.

The St. Thomas school has fared hardly so well. Seventeen sessions have been held, with an aggregate attendance of 592. The school supplies 15 papers and their library contains 89 books.

One new application for membership was received from Toronto, which was accepted. The convention then adjourned to meet on the Friday preceding the next district conference.

JENNESS-MILLER'S SISTER.

The Famous Lecturer to Women Sets Them an Example.

"A beautiful woman in a beautiful gown" is the way they describe her. "The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix finds fault with women," says the New York Sun, "for thinking more about their personal charms than about their souls, but Miss Jenness-Miller feels it her duty to instruct them as to the best use of those charms in the attainment of a 'correct and elegant carriage,' and by the proper artistic care of the body." In her view the soul expresses itself through the body, and action goes on between the two, with the result that physical grace has a moral value."

As Mrs. Jenness-Miller is known the world over for her ideas on dress reform, her likeness is given above, in celebration of her crusade for physical culture among the gentler sex.

Her system of physical training is attracting a great deal of attention. "She is herself a society girl, and yet finds time," says the Sun, "to practice her system, and in the midst of her multitudinous duties is never tired, never sick, doesn't know where her nerves are, and is a stranger to headache." The system is apparent in a letter written July 19, 1893, from Washington, D.C.:

"I was induced," writes Mrs. Jenness, "to try Paine's celery compound at a time when I was suffering from overwork and the effect of an accident. I began immediately to realize tone and blood nourishing effects. I took pleasure in saying that, 'I really consider this an excellent preparation.'"

"I have not been able to take one day's rest since I returned from my long, hard western trip. I am sure were it not for Paine's celery compound, which has a tonic effect, I should not be able to keep up my work."

"I recommended Paine's celery compound to a friend who dined with us yesterday, and on leaving here she went and bought a bottle. I shall do all I can for it for I believe in it."

So the society woman, whose health and grace are famous the country over, and who is in a position to command the best medical advice, finds in Paine's celery compound the same relief from the effects of overwork and illness that the poorer, harder working woman finds.

And this great remedy that makes people well is equally within the reach of all. It is for sale in every respectable drug store in the country, and it is in greater demand to-day than any remedy in the world.

It is the one true specific for disease arising from a debilitated nervous system, the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Washington correspondents have recently given it a great deal of attention since the cures in that city.

The medical journals of the country have given much space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well than to any other one subject. Try it and find vigor, health and new life.

DORCHESTER'S SHOW A SUCCESS—EMBO'S FINE EXHIBITION.

DORCHESTER, Oct. 6.—The North Dorchester Agricultural Society held its annual fair here yesterday, and was a decided success. The weather was fine and the attendance large. The show of root crops was exceedingly fine. A large number of live stock, especially horses, was shown. The speaking in the horse ring was the best seen in this part for some years. Altogether the fair was a great deal ahead of any previous.

EMBO. EMBO, Oct. 6.—The Embo and West Zorra Agricultural Society held their annual show here yesterday. The weather was beautiful and the crowd very large. The gate receipts were much in excess of any previous year, and the exhibits excellent in every department.

SOUTH WATERLOO. GALT, Oct. 6.—The South Waterloo Agricultural Society's annual show opened here yesterday with elegant weather and good attendance all day, but during the afternoon rain interfered to a considerable extent. Entries in livestock exceed previous years, horses especially being largely represented.

EAST HURON. BRUSSELS, Ont., Oct. 6.—The annual East Riding of Huron Fall Fair was held yesterday and to-day. The quality of all exhibits exceed any former year.

The Baby Fell from the Window. NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—While Mrs. Concochi, of 65 Gregory street, Jersey City, was sitting at the window on the third floor with her 15-month-old baby in her arms, the baby gave a sudden spring and went headlong out of the window. Death ensued in half an hour.

Mrs. Geo. Noble, about 70 years old, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. John Snively, at Leamington for some years, was found dead Friday morning. Some time through the night she had taken pills green. Domestic trouble and loss of considerable property no doubt unhinged her mind.

A LIBEL ON THE MOTHERLAND EXPOSED.

It is not a very consistent thing for Canadian newspapers to be continually proclaiming their loyalty and affection for Great Britain and at the same time running down the Motherland of the Anglo-Saxon race. To that extremity, however, have the apologists for the system of high taxation been driven. They have a stock argument. "See," they say, "the number of paupers in Great Britain; see what free trade has done for England, and then ask yourselves if you want a pauperising system like free trade to be established in Canada." Then they sum up their conclusions thus: "England has many paupers, and England has a system of free trade. Beware of free trade; it is a blighting influence. If you buy and sell freely, you will be ruined and degraded." And they add: "Canadians are better off than the British; they have a 'protective' tariff" by the way, it discriminates against Britain—"therefore it is that a 'protective' tariff should be maintained by the Dominion."

These advocates of special privileges for the few at the expense of the many would reason far more correctly and fairly if they were to put their argument regarding the old country thus: "Germany, France and Italy have 'protective' tariffs laid on for the avowed purpose of helping the poor and increasing wages. Great Britain has freedom of trade, and buys and sells in all parts of the civilized world. The British workers get more wages for a shorter day of toil than is paid in any European country, and one reason why there is pauperism in England is because poverty-stricken citizens of the over-taxed 'protectionist' nations flock to the motherland and over-supply the labor market."

Is not this a fair statement of the relative position of free trade Great Britain when placed in contrast with similarly circumstanced nations in Europe? It undoubtedly is; but where is the "protectionist" advocate in Canada who is willing to do the old land justice by telling the truth about it? For the facts we have to go to the public records and to the evidence of the workers who lived in England first under the blighting influence of the class "protective" system of collecting the revenues and afterwards under enlightened freedom to buy and to sell to the best advantage. Only the other day, the ADVERTISER received the annexed unsolicited and unassailable testimony from a respected tradesman in this city, an Englishman by birth and early training, who writes of what he knows:

What Protection and Free Trade Has Done for My Native Town.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

On Sept. 15, 1890, a public meeting was assembled in the parish church, Kettering, Northamptonshire, to take into consideration what steps should be adopted to relieve the poor, when Mr. Joseph Wright was requested to buy one or more loads of barley flour as soon as possible for the purpose of immediate supply, that the overseers sell the above-mentioned barley flour to the poor at 2 shillings and 6 pence per stone, no family to purchase more than a quarter of a stone per head; also that a committee be appointed to buy grain and flour and sell it at a reduced rate, the loss to be paid out of the poor rates.

In a case got up to present to Parliament appears the following:
 Number of poor receiving relief, 1,200.
 Number of persons rated, 500, of whom it has been absolutely necessary to excuse 285, so that only 215 contributed to the support of the 1,200, which cost £75 weekly.

From Easter, 1800, to March 3, 1801, a rate of 20 shillings in the pound had been levied; so the matter stood until 1806, when the rate was 8 shillings in the pound. Then the rate again took an upward tendency.

Until 1817 the majority of the people were reduced to poverty, and again a petition was sent to Parliament. Population then, 3,400—1,123 actually receiving relief. Total rated, 704; 440 are unable to pay the rate, 128 are assessed under 2 shillings, leaving only 196 persons to bear the great burden.

In 1818 the rate was 10 shillings. For 20 years there was not much change. In 1829 it was 20 shillings. The next ten years from 21 to 14 shillings. In 1840 8 shillings and 9 pence was paid.

Now for some reason or other there was a great change.

Protection had failed to protect. Give free trade an inning. In 1848, the "black year," the tax rate was 9 shillings and 9 pence. Then the sliding scale of reduction set in until, in 1870, when I left, it was only 3 shillings; and with all the town's improvements it is steadily decreasing. If protection does not add to the prosperity of the people neither does it increase the population. In my native town—

In 1821 there were 3,368.
 In 1824, 4,022.
 In 1841, 4,867.
 In 1851, 5,198.
 In 1861, 5,845.
 In 1871, 7,184.
 In 1881, 11,095.
 In 1891, 19,453.
 In 50 years under protection it increased 2,500. In 40 years of free trade, 14,255. And why? Because of freedom of trade. The little village of Kettering, a boy converted into iron, the iron into machinery, for the use of not only British subjects all over the world, but of our neighbors to the south. Now, sir, do you think my old schoolfellows and townsmen are likely to vote for protection or any other duty? Not much. Yours respectfully,
 JOSEPH HAWTHORNE,
 London, October, 1893.

The fact is that, for the benefit of one class in the community, Great Britain maintained a "protective" system of taxation till the people were brought to the verge of starvation—till, as our correspondent points out, an enormous proportion of the people were paupers. So soon as it cast off the incubus the condition of the populace was vastly improved, trade increased by leaps and bounds, and Great Britain became what it is today—the greatest mart of international commerce in the world. No old world nation, however great its natural advantages, approaches the motherland in point of advancement. While we say this, however, we do not mean that the amelioration of the condition of the people is complete. The breakup of the "protectionist" ring in England was but one reform. There are land laws yet to be modified, class legislation that injures the toilers yet to be repealed, and a war debt of hundreds of millions to be got rid of. But no one in his senses will ever contend that to add a "protective" tariff to these burdens would help the people of Britain to better their circumstances.

—The revolutionist in South America is apparently never out of a job. What makes the South American so much of a fighter—climate, origin or irreligion?

THE FAILURE RECORD.

Bradstreet's report of the business failures for nine months of this year and last year shows some significant results. For Ontario the statement is as follows:

	1893.	1892.
Number of failures.....	568	559
Assets.....	$2,356,062	$1,195,351
Liabilities.....	$1,102,813	$2,855,707

In the whole of Canada and Newfoundland, the failure record for the respective nine months was as follows:

	1893.	1892.
Number of failures.....	1,323	1,259
Assets.....	$7,524,137	$3,969,373
Liabilities.....	$3,162,813	$9,290,650

It must be apparent to all that if the surplus taxation wrung from the pockets of the people in the period named, and hoarded up in Government coffers, had been left in circulation, many of these insolvencies might have been averted. The best way to help the taxpayer is to leave him alone to make the most of his energies, and take not a cent more from him in taxes than the economical administration of affairs requires.

LONDON'S RAILWAY.

Secret Meeting of the L. and N.E.R. Board—Offers for the Road.

Another secret session of the London and North Eastern Railway Board was held Thursday and the doors were tiled for fear the public should get an inkling of what was done by their alleged servants.

The discussion hinged principally on the offer of Engineer Brennan, of Toledo, which practically means $15,000 a year and a percentage. Mr. Brennan offered to put up $10,000 in personal security, offering at the same time the names of two prominent American capitalists as vouchers. The mayor was the chief kicker against it. He wanted gold coin or United States Government bonds. Mr. Brennan argued against such a requirement. Col. Clark's personal security was accepted, and why not his? It was too much to demand that another $10,000 in cash should remain idle when he had promised to spend $50,000 in equipping the road. If he could comply with it now, but it was unlikely. Mr. Brennan, it is understood, promised to expend $75,000 during the first two years of the lease in line and bridge improvements, which would be equal to four years' revenue from the road. Mr. Brennan has left for home, tired of dancing attendance on the board and losing time and money. He has not withdrawn his present offer.

The terms of the G. I. R. offer as stated by Sir Henry Tyler recently, are known to the public. They offer 30 per cent. of the gross receipts if the city will spend over $125,000 in preparing the railroad bridges, etc.

The Michigan Central make an offer also. Before assuming the lease they will require the city to place the road in thorough repair; the cost thereof will be about the same as the G. I. R. estimate—over $125,000. The M. C. R. offer a straight rental for the lease. Hiram Walker, of Walkerville, has also been heard from and there may be some dickering with him.

Of course nothing definite was done at the meeting.

 SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 2.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, late yesterday afternoon after rehearsal locked herself in her dressing room and shot herself twice. One bullet entered the shoulder and the other the arm. Overwork is assigned as the cause.

Hooper's Case.
 PORT HOPKINS, Oct. 5.—The friends of Hooper, suspected of wife murder, say he is undoubtedly insane. His physicians say they believe Hooper's delirium is genuine; but it would be impossible to definitely establish this fact without a critical examination.

IN CHARITY'S CAUSE.

Annual Meeting of the Women's Christian Association.

Reports of the Year's Work—The New Homes—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of that noble organization, the Women's Christian Association, was held Thursday afternoon in the "Y" rooms. The members present were: Medienne Carfrae, Reid, Perrin, Murray, Mitchell, Burns, Cox, Hopkins, Jeffery, B. Neil, Peig, Ward, Ingram, Piper, Hyttenrauch, Fraser, and Misses Skinner, Moore, and McKellar.

ANNUAL REPORTS.
 The secretary, Mrs. Pattullo, presented her annual report. It was nineteen years, it stated, since the association was formed to help the unfortunate. They had much to be thankful for. Next spring they hoped to erect a new Women's Refuge on Victoria street—a much needed building. Twenty-nine had been admitted to the refuge during the year, and the number of inmates had been admitted to the Infants' Home in the same period and nine remained. The report alluded to the new Aged People's Home and expressed gratitude for Mr. T. McCormick's generosity in providing such comfortable quarters for the aged poor. Twenty-nine women and 40 men had entered within the year; 29 men and 21 women were still there. The relief committee had done good and faithful work. In the year 607 visits were made to 87 families and 235 individuals; 308 garments were distributed besides a great quantity of clothing. Heartfelt thanks were tendered to Miss Freeman, the "Y" rooms, the local clergy and to Doctors MacArthur, Campbell, English, Gardiner, Graham and others for kind attendance and help.

Mrs. E. Hopkins, convener of the visiting and relief committee submitted her report for the year. The usual number of distressing cases had come under their care—Jones broken up, husband in penitentiary, ill-used wife sent to hospital for treatment and children to the Orphan's Home, and others of equally painful nature. Only eleven of the eighteen members of the committee had worked, which was not encouraging. The report gave statistics of victims as mentioned in the secretary's statement. It concludes: "Now that the winter approaches, will our friends remember that any warm clothing, if sent to the 'Y' rooms and marked for 'the poor,' will be most acceptable and gratefully acknowledged by our committee. Our sincere thanks are hereby extended to Mrs. MacArthur, Gardiner, English and Jarvis, and to all who have helped us in the past."

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. Reid; first vice-president, Mrs. Carfrae; second vice-president, Mrs. Peig; secretary, Mrs. Pattullo; assistant secretary, Miss Kennedy; treasurer, Mrs. Perrin.

Donations were acknowledged as follows: From Mrs. W. Hyman, vegetables, apples and flour; Mrs. Piper, clothing; Mrs. Glen, apples, tea bags; Miss Hagenford, magazines; Mrs. Craig, clothing and books; Mr. McCormick, five baskets of grapes; Mrs. Copp, one basket of grapes.

If kindly-disposed citizens will send donations of clothing to the "Y" rooms, Aged People's Home or to the jail they will be gratefully accepted.

AT "THE LOUVRE."

The Millinery Opening the Center of Attraction—Everything Desirable Therein.

The fall millinery opening at "The Louvre," situated on the corner of Richmond and King streets, in the Masonic Temple, is taking place, and is attracting large crowds of ladies, who are seeking the latest styles for the fall season. At this favorite emporium it is to be found everything that can be desired in the millinery line. The stock is the newest, and includes the latest Detroit and New York styles of hats. To match these can be found a great variety of trimmings, and no intending purchaser will afford to miss seeing them. Miss Woodworth desires to call special attention to the north window, which contains a large and choice assortment of styles in black and white—the long crown hats in millinery this fall, and the low prices charged put everything within the reach of all.

An electric car facility occurred to-night at Montreal when a French-Canadian named Gillet was struck and killed on Amherst street.

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA Remedies twenty-eight years ago, I never would have suffered as I have from this terrible skin disease (eczema) which commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a pea. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel that I owe to you, who have cured me, what I can. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 4) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my face and limbs to scratch once in a while, but for no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me.

CARTER'S LIVER PILLS

CURE SICK HEAD

Headache, even the most distressing, is cured by Carter's Liver Pills. They are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if you only suffer from one of these troubles, you will find them of great value. They are sold everywhere, or sent by mail. Price, 25 cents per box. Small Price, 10 cents.

ACHE

It is the base of so many ills that there is where the trouble often lies. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not grip or purge, but by their gentle action they move all who use them. In fact, at 25 cents per box, they are sold everywhere, or sent by mail. Price, 25 cents per box. Small Price, 10 cents.

LUCK, OR PLUCK?

"Nonsense!" Phil exclaimed, with a laugh. "Can't a man state a simple fact in a natural history without being misunderstood?"

"Porgie me," said Lucia, prettily. "I forgot that you were always interested in the deepest and most far away side of everything. You come that stupid little Lady, though, who has my next valley. I'm going to depend upon you to take me down to supper, by-by."

A minute later, and Phil sobered again, for again Lucia was floating about the room with a man's arm around her waist. Phil took refuge in philosophy, and wondered whether the force of habit was sufficient to explain why a lot of modest girls, as all in Miss Dinon's parlors undoubtedly were, would appear so easily at dusk during no important diversion. During the while he leaned against a door casing, evidently some one was occupying a similar position on the other side of the hall, for Phil distinctly heard a low voice saying:

"Wouldn't it be great if our charming hostess were to set her cap for that young fellow from the country?"

"Nonsense!" was the reply; "she's too much the older to think of such a thing."

Not a bit of it. She'll outlive any young girl in the room. Besides, where money calls, victory is never slow in responding."

"They say he's good as engaged to Miss Tramlay," said the first speaker.

"Indeed? Umph! Not a bad match. Has he got any money? I don't believe Tramlay is more than holding his own."

Phil's face flushed, and he moved away. He wanted to repeat the remarks about his hostess, an implication that his friend Tramlay was other than rich, and still more to return at once to his hostess, who had just come in, and who lost his self-possession for an instant when he beheld the well-dressed young man before him.

"Anybody here?" drawled Marge.

"Lucia is—I mean Miss Tramlay," said Phil, in absent-minded fashion—"and lots of other people, of course."

Marge looked curiously at Phil's averted face and went down stairs. Phil remained long enough to find that his mind was in an utter muddle, and that apparently nothing would compose it but another glimpse of Lucia. As supper was served soon after he went down, his wish was speedily gratified. From that time forward his eyes sought her continually, although he tried to speak again to every one to whom he had been introduced. How he envied Lucia's father, who was to escort the little witch home! He wished that in the city, as at Hayton, people walked home from parties, and stood long time at the gate, when maid and man were pleasantly acquainted!

He saw Lucia go upstairs when the company began leaving, and he stood at the foot of the stair that he might have one more glance at her. As she came down she was an entirely new picture, though none the less charming in her wraps. And—oh, Lucia!—she saw him and said:

"See me to the carriage, Phil, and then send papa for me."

How tenderly he handed her down the carpeted steps! He had seen pictures of such scenes, and tried to conform his feelings to those which he recalled. He held her hand, and he had carried her down to Sol Manring's sleep only a short time before. No one called him "country" any longer, but he felt that he was a country boy, at least one who, in a late party, had boarded the elevated train on which he was returning to his hotel, regarded him with evident admiration. Not many days before, even this sort of attention would have made him uncomfortable, but the experience of his evening at Miss Dinon's had impressed him with the probability that he would be to a certain degree an object of admiration, and he was already prepared to accept it as a matter of course. Very much, in fact, as he had been taught to accept whatever else which life seemed sure to bring.

Of one thing he felt sure: Lucia did not regard him unfavorably. Perhaps she did not love him—she was modest enough to admit that there was no possible reason why she should—yet she had not attempted to withdraw that little hand—there it was when he was covering it with kisses. She had appropriated him, in the loveliest way imaginable, not only once but several times during the evening, showing a marked preference for him. Perhaps this was not so great a compliment as at first sight it seemed, for, hold his own face and figure in as low esteem as he might, he nevertheless felt sure that the best looking young man in Miss Dinon's parlors was plain and less than himself. But if her acceptance of him was a compliment, her selection of him as her cavalier was not enough, there was that jealous look, twice repeated. He informed himself that she did not love him; it destroyed the charm of her expression; it made her appear hard and unnatural; yet he would not lose the memory of it for worlds.

Could it be true, as he had heard while unintentionally a listener, that her father was not rich? Well, he was sorry for him; yet this, too, was a ground for hope. After what he had heard, it was not impossible to believe that perhaps the father of the country youth, with his $30,000 or $40,000 worth of good land, which had been prospecting as a possible site for a village of seaside cottages for rich people, might be no poorer than the father of the city girl. It seemed impossible, as he mentally compared the residences of the two families, yet he had heard more than once that city people as a class seemed always striving to live not only up to their incomes, but as far beyond them as tradesmen and money lenders would allow.

As to the talk he had heard about Miss Dinon, he hesitated it, and would not think of it as in the least degree probable. To be sure, he would not believe her 26, though if she were he heartily honored her that she had lived so well as to look far younger than her years. Still, he was not to be hought, even by a handsome and intelligent woman. It was not unaccountable, though, that any one should have thought him so attractive to Miss Dinon—a woman whom he was sure must have had plenty of offers in her day. But should he ever chance to marry rich, what a sweet and perpetual revenge it would be upon people who had looked and probably talked as if he were an awkward country youth!

Then came back to him suddenly in all their blackness his moody thoughts over the elaborate facts in the case. For long his butterfly day as long as his money would allow, he must soon return to his normal condition of a country grub; he must return to the farm, to his well-worn clothes of antique cut and neighborly patches, to the care of horses, cows, pigs and chickens, and take "put luck" in the family kitchen instead of carefully selecting his meals from long bills of fare. Instead of attending to the requisites in handsome houses, he must seek society in shabby, so-called and the hilarious yet very homely parties given by neighboring farmers, and an occasional affair, not much more formal, in the village.

It was awful, but it seemed inevitable, no matter how he braced his brain in trying to devise an alternative. If he had a little money he might speculate in stocks; there, at least, he would be able to keep his acquaintance with Marge; but all the money he had would not more than maintain him in New York for a fortnight longer, and he had not the heart to ask his father for more. His father!—what could that good, much-abused man be already thinking of him, that no word of the traveler had yet reached Hayton Farm? He would write that very night—or morning, late though it was; and he felt very discontent as he resolved that none of the discontent that filled him should get into his letters.

It was nearly sunrise when he went to bed. From his window, eight floors from the ground, he could see across the ugly house tops in the east and west, and some little clouds were glowing with gold under the blue canopy. Rose, blue, gold—Lucia's colors, he thought, he would think only of them, for they were his delight; his misery could wait; it would have its control of him soon enough.

BOOK AND MAGAZINE NOVELTIES.

Interesting Jottings Regarding the Latest in Literature.

One of the most successful books of the time is Prof. Hopkins' "Old England: Its Scenery, Art and People." It has reached its twelfth edition.

In the Engineering Magazine for October George S. Gee has treated the subject of "The Real Currency of Commerce"; Prof. Russell Sturgis, "Lack of Originality in Architecture"; J. B. Reuer, "Recent Progress in Steam and Diesel Engines"; Danton, "Science and Sport in Modern Yachting." (New York: The Engineering Magazine Company.)

The author of "An Englishman in Paris" has made ready another book of gossip under the title of "My Paris Note Book." Wherefore the modern craze for personal description and anecdote? Is it the unacknowledged influence of the socialistic idea which demands to share in everything? Or are human beings becoming more and more interesting to one another?

"The Psychology of Crime," by Henry Wood, is a notable feature of the October Arena, which also contains able contributions on religious, social, political and economic issues. The Arena fully maintains its position as the review which most clearly voices advanced thought and progressive ideas.

Lady Gordon in her search through English libraries for books written by women has discovered a pamphlet on rights of women, published in 1696 by Mary Astell. Its title is "A Letter to Ladies."

Babylard for October is full of most fascinating little stories and rhymes and pictures. The illustrations are this month so extremely beautiful that they would seem to be enough not only to delight, but to develop the artistic sense in every baby.

"In the New Moon Cradle" is a story of airy and graceful, and "The Tenth Egg" is a thrilling little tale in verse. Fifty cents a dozen. D. Lothrop Company, publishers, Boston.

The novel called "An Exquisite Fool," which has attracted considerable attention, turns out to be by Miss Poynter, the author of "My Little Lady." The publishers thought so highly of it that they resolved on the experiment of issuing it anonymously.

Lippincott's Magazine for October has a delightful novelette by Mary J. Holmes called "The Hopburn Line, or the Missing Link." It is written in the author's usually happy vein. There is also one of Lippincott's notable stories, "A Deed with a Devil's Foot," by Charles M. Skinner. "An Hour with Sir Frederick Leighton," is among the many other interesting studies. Price 25 cents.

The Athenian says that Matthew Arnold kept up for 20 years a close correspondence with his mother, writing her long letters, telling her of all he did, saw and read. After her death he used to write to Miss Arnold in the same full way. These letters, at least a large portion of them, will appear in the selection from his correspondence which Mr. Russell is editing and Messrs. Macmillan are to publish.

The October Atlantic contains, among other excellent contributions: "The Isthmus and Sea Power," by A. T. Mahan; the first part of "Two Modern Classicists in America," by William F. Apthorp; a paper on "Tone Symbols," by John Hall Ingram; "The Gothenburg System in America," by C. R. L. Gould; and "The Permanent Power of Greek Poetry," by Richard C. Overhousen. The eighth and ninth chapters of Charles Egbert Cradock's novel, "His Banished Star," appear in this number. (Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.)

Many of the thousands of admirers of Mr. Walter Besant's novels will be surprised to learn from the character sketch of him, which appears in the October Review, that he has found time outside of the writing of those charming novels to be a very decided man of action, in fact, one of the busiest of men. Mr. John Underhill is the author of this character sketch and evidently writes con amore, which one does not wonder at when he tells us of Mr. Besant's kindness and gentleness to himself. He tells us that Mr. Besant is one of the hardest worked literary men in the world, accomplishing an enormous variety and amount of labor. This is achieved without injuring Mr. Besant's vitality, because he is a master of method, being essentially a mathematician. In this and many other ways Mr. Underhill compares Besant to Dickens.

John Strange Winter's new novel is to wear the old title of "The Soul of the Bishop." Mrs. Kennard, the feminine novelist who delights in writing about horses, is bringing out a story to be called "The Hunting Girl."

One of the young women who won prizes in the recent English contest for the best essays written by women on Byron, Shelley and Keats is said to be a grandniece of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

A very popular feature of Harper's Young People is its Portrait Gallery. These are portraits of famous Americans, supplied engraved on wood, and printed on paper suitable for framing. The portraits for 1894 are to be Henry W. Longfellow and Washington Irving. They are just the thing for the library and the schoolroom.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC AND STOMACH AND LIVER CURE

The Wonderful HEALTH BUILDER & NERVE FOOD
Chronic Diseases are caused by Deranged Nerve Centres at base of the Brain.

LATE discoveries have absolutely proven that the Stomach, Liver, Lungs, and indeed all internal organs, are controlled by the nerve centres at the base of the brain. The manufacturer of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE has studied this subject closely for more than twenty-five years, and has lately demonstrated that two-thirds of our Chronic Diseases, are due to the imperfect action of nerve centres, either within or at the base of the brain and not from a derangement of the organs themselves; hence that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong.

As all know, a serious injury to the spinal cord, will at once cause Paralysis of the body below the injured part, it therefore will be equally well understood, how the derangements of the nerve centres, will cause the derangement of the different organs of the body which they supply with Nerve Fluid or Nerve Force.

The wonderful success of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is due alone to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. The use of a single bottle of this remedy will convince the most incredulous. It is indeed, a veritable Nerve Food and Will Relieve in One Day the varied forms of Nervous Disease and Stomach Troubles.

Nervous Diseases.
This class of diseases, is rapidly increasing each year, on account of the great wear our mode of living and labor imposes upon the nervous system. Nineteen-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent upon nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion, and a deteriorated and impoverished condition of the blood. The SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is a great nerve food and nerve builder and this accounts for its marvellous power to cure the varied forms of nervous disease, such as Neuralgia, Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, St. Vitus's Dance, Nervous Choking, Nervous Paroxysms, Twitching of the Muscles, Hot Flashes, Mental Despondency, Forgetfulness, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervousness of Females, Palpitation of the Heart, Sexual Weakness, etc., etc.

In Bed Six Years

HARTFORD CITY, Blackford Co., Indiana, June 8, '93.
South American Medicine Company.

GENTLEMEN: I received a letter from you May 27, stating that you had heard of my wonderful recovery from a spell of sickness of six years duration, through the use of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE, and asking for my testimonial. I will gladly state how I was afflicted and how I was delivered from my pain and suffering. I was near thirty-five years old, when I took down with nervous prostration. Our family physician treated me, but without benefiting me in the least. My nervous system seemed to be entirely shattered, and I constantly had very severe shaking spells. In addition to this I could not retain anything on my stomach. Many consultations were held by physicians over my case, but they all agreed that I would never leave my bed. During the years I lay sick, my folks had an eminent physician from Dayton, Ohio, and two from Columbus, Ohio, to come and examine me. They all said I could not live. I got to having spells like greens, and would lie cold and stiff for a time after each. At last I lost the use of my body—could not rise from my bed or walk a step, and had to be lifted like a child; all the time suffering intense pain, and taking almost every known medicine. Part of the time I could read a little, and one day saw an advertisement of your medicine and took a step or two by being helped, and after I had taken five bottles in all I felt real well. The shaking went away gradually, and I could eat and sleep good, and my friends could scarcely believe it was I. I saw sure this medicine is the best in the world. It was a god-sent to me, and I believe it saved my life. I give my name and address, so that if anyone doubts my statement they can write me, or our postmaster or any citizen, as all are acquainted with my case. I am now forty-one years of age, and expect to live as long as the Lord has use for me and do all the good I can in helping the suffering.

Will a remedy which can effect such a marvellous cure as the above, cure you?

A MINISTER OF THE GOSPEL SPEAKS.

PETERBORO, Ontario, June 27, 1893.
DEAR SIR,—I have much pleasure in recommending the great SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE to all who are afflicted as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers.

Sick Headache.

Is dependent on deranged nerve centres and indigestion. Hence its cure must come through building up the Nervous System and curing the Stomach. SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE will absolutely cure this dreaded malady and prevent its return.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk; I had to handle her like an infant. Doctors and neighbors gave up. I commenced giving her the SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Tonic, and the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the convulsions, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE the greatest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to everyone.

MRS. W. T. ENSMINGER.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1897.
CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

A WONDERFUL CURE FOR INDIGESTION and DYSPESIA.

Loss of Appetite, Weight and Tenderness in the Stomach, Sour Stomach, Pain in the Stomach, Wind upon the Stomach, Nausea and Sick Stomach, Sick-Headache, Hiccough, Water-Brash, Heartburn, Vertigo and Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Frightful Dreams, etc.

The Stomach suffers more than any of the other organs from disease, because into it are taken so many indigestible and irritating substances as articles of food. In its great effort to digest these, it soon becomes weakened and diseased. Under such circumstances, it is not wonderful, that so many complain of Indigestion and weak stomachs. When the Stomach fails to digest and assimilate the food, the whole body falls into a state of weakness and decay, for Nature has decreed that the body must constantly receive nutriment through the Stomach, to repair the waste of tissue constantly going on in the system.

The South American Nervine
Is probably the greatest remedy ever discovered for the cure of all Chronic Stomach troubles, because it acts through the nerve centres. It gives marked relief in one day, and very soon effects a permanent cure. The first bottle will convince anyone that a cure is certain.

WHAT EX-MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT, REUBEN E. TRUAX, SAYS.
I have been for about ten years very much troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, have tried a great many different kinds of patent medicines, and have been treated by a number of physicians and found no benefit from them. I was recommended to try SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE. I obtained a bottle, and I must say I have found very great relief, and have since taken two more bottles, and now feel that I am entirely free from indigestion, and would only recommend all my fellow sufferers to try the medicine, to give SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE an immediate trial.

It will cure you.

WINDY—SOME SHOWERS.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 6-11 p.m.—

The storm started over the Middle Mississippi Valley yesterday is to-night central over Northern Michigan. It is causing fresh gales on the lakes, more particularly west of Lake Ontario. It now shows signs of dispersal. There is a slight decrease of pressure setting over the eastern Provinces and a slight increase in the northwest.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Victoria, 40°-54°; Calgary, 30°-54°; Medicine Hat, 32°-48°; Qu'Appelle, 30°-58°; Edmonton, 30°-44°; Prince Albert, 30°-50°; Winnipeg, 30°-60°; Port Arthur, 42°-48°; Toronto, 52°-64°; Kingston, 46°-60°; Montreal, 48°-72°; Quebec, 44°-60°; Halifax, 54°-62°.

TORONTO, Oct. 7-1 a.m.—Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville) are: High winds from westward, decreasing by night; some showers, otherwise fair; not much change in temperature.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

October 7.

1829—Charles the Simple, King of France, died.

1839—Margaret, "Maid of Norway," died at Orkney while on her way to be crowned queen of Scotland, aged 7; the failure of royal succession caused great calamities.

1681—Nicholas Holman, eminent scholar and critic, died in Holland.

1777—Battle of Stillwater, wounding and capture of Major Ackland, whose wife, the noted Lady Ackland, entered the American lines to nurse him.

1840—Edgar Allan Poe, erratic poet and author, died in Baltimore; born 1809.

1864—General Sterling Price began at Jefferson City his last retreat from Missouri.

1871—Beginning of the great Chicago fire; loss over $200,000,000; 75,000 people rendered homeless.

1873—Colonel Thomas Jefferson Randolph died at Charlottesville, Va.

1892—Crono, the revolutionary leader, overthrew the Venezuelan government.

THE WHITE CITY.

Here Art has wrought her noblest will. In Beauty's name she has done this. And once, last once, Reality Has soared beyond the Dream.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Miss Daisy Acheson, of Menford, is visiting her uncle, W. T. Vanston this city.

—Dr. McNeil (of St. John's) and wife have returned from their honeymoon at Chicago.

—Rev. Robert Aylward, city, will preach in the Presbyterian Church, Petrolia, tomorrow.

—Bishop O'Connor, city, will conduct confirmation at La Salette, Essex county, next Thursday.

—The pulpit of the First Congregational Church will be occupied to-morrow by Rev. Dr. Wild, of Toronto.

—There are at present confined in the Middlesex county jail 35 prisoners—32 men and 3 women.

—Neil Cooper yesterday disposed of the small brick house belonging to Mrs. Gollop, Colborne street north, to Mrs. Kelly for $850.

—Mrs. Thomas Green and family, of Carleton place, have returned home from a two weeks' visit to the Chicago Fair.

—The treasurer's report, at the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association of this city, showed receipts $8,759.20, disbursements $7,195.05, balance in hand $1,564.15.

—The new Methodist Church at the Baker appointment, Westminster circuit, will be dedicated to-morrow morning.

—Rev. J. R. Gandy, of the Wellington Street Church in this city, will preach and conduct the dedication services.

—Half English arrived in town yesterday, having in charge five prisoners from the west bound for the Central Prison. At the county jail here the number was increased to eight, Norman Neil, John Connors and Wm. Brennan composing the trio from this city.

—Mr. Bart Howard, of this city, was welcomed at Woodstock Thursday night as the new Y. M. C. A. secretary there. Mr. C. R. Syer, the former secretary, presented him with a handsome chair, shaped like a Bible, on behalf of the association in this city. Mr. Howard was the ex-commodore of the London Y. M. C. A. Boat Club and very popular here.

—The anniversary of the Wellington Street Methodist Sunday school takes place to-morrow, when Rev. George Richardson, of Berlin, will preach morning and evening. An open session of the school will be held at 2:30 p.m., when addresses will be given by Revs. Richardson, Clement and Philip. The annual entertainment will be given on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

—The following Londoners are attending the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Missionary Association, now being held in Grace Church, Brantford: Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Boomer, Miss Smith, Miss Thompson, Mrs. White, Miss H. Syer, Mrs. Hill, Miss Marsh, Miss Labatt, Mrs. Compie, Miss Baldwin, Mrs. Whitehead and Mrs. Zimmerman.

—Miss Rhea will appear at the Grand to-night in her famous character of Tamara, Queen of Sheba, when the theatre-goers may expect to see a magnificent performance and a beautiful production of a splendid play. The costumes are gorgeous, the scenery entrancing, and the acting—Miss Rhea's mere name is sufficient guarantee of that.

—Hon. J. W. Longley, Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, and Mrs. Longley visited the asylum yesterday afternoon, and under Dr. Buckle's guidance, inspected the buildings and grounds. They were pleased with all they saw and particularly interested in the sewerage system. Subsequently Mr. and Mrs. Longley gave for their eastern home. They pronounced themselves as delighted with London, its fine buildings, shaded streets and general beauty.

—The Rev. Robt. W. Stewart, who has been in England on sick leave, is now returning to Canada, where he has served as missionary for about seventeen years. He will preach in St. James' Church, South London, Sunday morning, and at the cathedral in the evening. He and Mrs. Stewart will address a meeting in the new Croydon hall on Monday at 3:30 p.m. These faithful missionaries of the cross have had long and wide experience, passed through many hardships, and have seen some bloodshed in connection with them. Their account of the work is deeply interesting. The bishop will preach in St. James' in the evening.

—No. 3 Reading Club of South London has reorganized for the season with these officers: Mr. J. M. McEvoy, president; Mr. C. E. Jarvis, first vice; Mr. F. Wilson, second vice; Miss Clara McEvoy, secretary; Miss J. Boske, registrar; Mr. W. Greenwood, treasurer; Miss Bampton, organist; Mr. L. P. Reynolds, critic. At the annual banquet Thursday night the toast list was: The Reading Club, by the retiring president, Mr. G. N. Weekes; our country, by Mr. C. E. Jarvis; S. J. Reynolds; Mr. J. M. McEvoy—Parasites become habits; Mr. J. M. McEvoy; sister institutions, Rev. M. P. Talling; our guests, Mr. Weekes; the learned professors, Mr. J. W. Green; Mr. H. P. Harding; medicine, Mr. W. A. A.

—Every month have come and gone the cold weather will be with us, and we will naturally be making preparations for the winter. Does not your house or outbuilding need some repairs? We can recommend you a first-class firm of whom you may purchase your lumber, shingles, doors, sashes or house trimmings. That firm is W. D. Willis & Co., corner York and Adelaide streets. Phone 756. ywt

Howell; divinity, the ladies, Mr. T. H. Gorman and Mr. K. Wilders; the press, Mr. W. Greenwood. An instrumental duet was given by Messrs. C. E. Jarvis and H. L. Turner; recitations by Miss Griffith and D. C. Wilson; vocal duet, Misses Winnie Atkinson and Jessie Boske.

Young Liberal Club.

Great interest is being manifested in regard to the election of president of the Young Liberal Club on Monday evening next. The candidates are R. K. Cowan, registrar, and L. W. Burke. The poll will open at 8 o'clock and close sharp a half hour later. Only those holding membership tickets will be permitted to vote.

Good-natured rivalry has characterized the contest thus far, and no doubt will continue to the end. All Young Liberals are cordially invited to be present on the occasion. Apart from the election other matters of an interesting character will engage the attention of the gathering.

With the Hounds.

The London Hunt Club had a very successful run yesterday afternoon. The route chosen lay almost directly west of the kennels, and, notwithstanding the rain which fell shortly prior, was in excellent condition. The riding of Miss Gibbons, the only lady, was as usual greatly admired. Among the gentlemen noted were Messrs. George Bowman, George C. Gibbons, C. C. Major Smith, Dr. Abbott, George Nasse, George Lecker, Dr. Niven, Hugh Niven and Westcott Graydon. The Hunt have leased the Houseman property opposite Hellmuth College. The buildings, which will be utilized for kennels, are in good condition and are surrounded by 35 acres of beautiful land.

Wants the Duty Removed.

The Toronto Trader, the organ of the manufacturers, has this to say of a London firm which wants certain duties removed: "Mr. Fred T. Treblelock, manager of the Canada Smelting and Refining Company, of London, complains that the Government has not yet placed jewelers' sweeps, etc., on the free list, and that unless this is done so that his company can have the same chance to refine United States sweeps as the refiners of that country have to refine ours (as they admit them duty free), his company will have to remove their works across the line, where the bulk of their work is naturally expected to come from. In our opinion this request of Mr. Treblelock's company is well founded, and these imports should at once be placed upon the free list. Such an action on the part of the Government is distinctly in line with their expressed desire to foster and encourage all legitimate Canadian industries, and we know of no reason why this action should have been so long delayed. If the present duty is retained, American sweeps cannot possibly be refined in Canada, and some of our citizens will lose an opportunity of turning an honest penny from work now done in the United States. As this matter cannot possibly affect the revenue one way or the other, it would seem to be wisdom on the part of the powers that be, not only to make the desired concession gracefully but to make it at once."

Corporal Punishment.

A case of insubordination on the part of a boy formerly attending Talbot street school was tried before No. 1 committee of the Education Board last evening. A letter was read from Mr. S. Turner, complaining that Principal Stewart did not properly investigate a complaint which had been laid against his son before suspending the youth. Principal Stewart explained that young Turner had fought with another boy and that when asked to take punishment had refused. A resolution was passed approving of the principal's action, and stating that the boy would be permitted to return to the school. Mr. Turner was highly incensed at this decision and insisted with a determination to apply to the board for his son's entrance into King street school. He said he would move rather than have the boy again in school. Mr. S. Turner, Principal Merchant was authorized to spend $800 in properly equipping the Collegiate Institute library. No action was taken in regard to the suggestion of sending Inspector Chan to visit the school systems of several large cities. The solicitor will be asked to give his opinion as to the right of children in one school district to attend another; whether payment of taxes in two districts can affect the matter; and whether non-residents paying taxes can attend city schools. James Barr wrote applying for the entrance of Elizabeth Mackenzie, formerly of Kingston, into the Collegiate Institute. The secretary was instructed to inform Mr. Barr that a legal paper affirming his guardianship of the young lady would have to be presented prior to granting his request. Miss Agnes C. Brown, a student, was appointed kindergarten assistant in Queen's avenue school. Nine assistants in the Model School wanted to know how they were to be paid. A recommendation was made that they be paid out of the Model School appropriation.
