

Great Britain Triumphs in the Famous Fisheries Dispute

BRITAIN TO REGULATE FISHERIES; BAYS ARE TERRITORIAL WATERS BRITISH WIN TWO BIG POINTS

Longstanding Dispute Between Great Britain and the United States Settled By Decision of Arbitration Commission Today—Decision Favors United States in Five Points Out of Seven, But All Are of Minor Importance.

THE POINTS AT ISSUE.

1. Must regulations made by Great Britain, Canada or Newfoundland be subject to the consent of the United States? The American contention is that the treaty of 1818 limited British sovereignty by forming an international "servitude."
2. Have Americans, in fishing on the coast waters, the right to employ persons not inhabitants of the United States? Americans have been filling up skeleton crews by hiring Newfoundlanders, which is contrary to the Newfoundland laws.
3. Can Great Britain require Americans to report at the Imperial custom houses and pay lighthouse and harbor dues?
4. Can Great Britain restrict Americans in certain matters relating to shelter, repairs and supplies of wood and water?
5. What is a "bay"—the shortest and most difficult question on the list. American fishers must keep beyond the three-mile limit, but what are their rights in a bay whose entrance is a little over six miles wide? There are geographical bays and there are legal bays.
6. Have the Americans identical rights in Newfoundland and in Labrador? The wording of the treaty is ambiguous.
7. Are American fishing boats entitled to the commercial privileges on the treaty coasts allowed to American trading vessels generally?

[Associated Press Cable.]

The Hague, Sept. 7.—The century-old fisheries dispute, the source of constant diplomatic friction between the governments of Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland and the United States, was finally closed today with the award by the international court of arbitration.

The American Government is sustained on points two, three, four, six and seven out of the total of the seven points of which the issue was framed.

BRITISH WIN BIG POINT.

Great Britain wins on points one and five. Point five has been held by Great Britain as the most important of those submitted. The fifth point was stated in the form of this question: "From where must be measured the three maritime miles of any of the coasts, bays, creeks or harbors referred to in Article I of the American-British Treaty of 1818."

United States fishermen claimed the right to take the measure from any part of the British North American shore, and therefore the liberty to fish in the middle of any Canadian bay or estuary having a radius of more than three miles. The British contention was that the limits should be measured from an imaginary line connecting the headlands.

The peace court sustained the British contention.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH.

Point one, upon which Great Britain was also sustained, embodied the question of whether any local laws adopted by a British colony must be submitted for approval to any foreign power having a treaty on a similar subject with the imperial government. This point was considered of great importance also to the British, and their triumph will be a matter of much satisfaction to them.

WHAT UNITED STATES GETS.

On the other hand, the Americans win important concessions. By the decision they will be enabled to employ foreigners in their fishing, and are not liable to lighthouse dues. They are not compelled to enter their vessels at the customs houses.

The words "bays, harbors and creeks," referring to Labrador in the treaty of 1818, apply also to Newfoundland, and American vessels when fishing do not lose their right of trading.

The question of the right to make laws regulating the fisheries is decided in favor of Great Britain.

The court also upholds the British contention in relation to large bays being territorial waters.

In connection with point one, the United States has raised certain questions of equality, which will be submitted to a special commission for determination.

GLOUCESTER GLOOMY.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 7.—News of the decision of the international court at The Hague was received with doubtful sentiment by Gloucester fishing interests. The points won by Great Britain give that country the right to regulate the time and methods of fishing, and the implements used, and establishes the three-mile limit around Newfoundland from headland to headland, and not following the line of the bays, as contended by the United States.

THE DEATH ROLL

Demise of William Holman Hunt, the Noted English Painter.

London, Sept. 7.—William Holman Hunt, the painter, who, with Rossetti and Millais, founded the pre-Raphaelite school, died today. He was born in London in 1827 and exhibited his first picture at the Royal Academy in 1848. The artist had been in feeble health for some time and his death was not unexpected.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—Lieut.-Col. George Dowker died yesterday at his home, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, in his 84th year. He was a son of the late George Fowler Dowker, of Salton, York, England, and came to Canada in 1847. He took an active interest in the militia for many years, serving with his regiment at Stanstead during the Fenian Raid, and later commanded the Montreal Garrison Artillery.

INSURANCE CONGRESS.

The Hague, Sept. 7.—The International Congress of Social and Industrial Insurance is in session here today. W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian minister of labor, is the representative from Canada.

MISSIONARIES FOR CANADA

Rev. Dr. MacLaren Secures Fifty for West.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Rev. Dr. MacLaren, of the Presbyterian home mission department, recently returned from an extended absence in the old country. He has been physically indisposed for the past two weeks, but was sufficiently recuperated to appear in his office yesterday.

The purpose of Dr. MacLaren's trip was to secure men for missionary work in the West, and he stated that he had been successful in getting fifty men to come out this fall. These will be followed by a company of 25 men next summer. They will be located principally throughout the western provinces.

FLOODS IN JAPAN.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—Serious floods threaten the cities of Osaka and Kobe on the island of Honshu. River banks are collapsing and much damage is probable.

Noted American Politician and Lawyer Who Led the U. S. Counsel at Hague Fisheries Dispute.

GREAT HUMIDITY OPPRESSES NEW YORK

Four Deaths and Twenty Prostrations Due to Sultry Weather.

[Associated Press.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Four deaths and more than twenty prostrations were caused by excessive heat and humidity in New York during the past 24 hours. The highest temperature during that time was 90 degrees. This is four degrees below the summer's maximum, but the suffering because of the moisture in the air was intense.

EVERYTHING BOOMING AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Exhibits Pouring In and All Will Be Placed by Friday.

Queen's Park will be a veritable hive of industry all this week. Superintendent Brown reports everything will be ready for the big exposition, which opens on Friday. Exhibits in the machinery hall are "today coming in rapidly, and the other exhibits will follow on Thursday and Friday."

A special feature of this year's Western Fair will be the "Made in London" exhibition, which will be held in the south wing of the main building, in former years used as an art gallery. This year the art exhibit will be located upstairs in the main gallery.

REFUSED THE WORK

Engineer Glaubitz Too Busy To Superintend at Horton Street Plant.

At a session of the water commissioners held in Mayor Beattie's office at noon today, Engineer Glaubitz submitted seven contracts for the electrical equipment at Springbank, all of which were ratified. The tenders were awarded some time ago, and Mr. Glaubitz has now succeeded in having them properly vouched for. The board suggested that Mr. Glaubitz take charge of some work the city must do in connection with the Horton street plant, but he refused to take charge of it.

He pointed out that there would probably be some delay at the station, and he could not spare the time at the present moment.

It was expected that the distribution station would be ready to receive Niagara power at least by Oct. 15, but it is quite possible that the city will not be ready by that time. The plant is not completed. The waterworks end will be ready within a reasonable time.

The water commissioners wanted to name Commissioner Philip Pocock as chairman to succeed the late A. T. McMahon. Mr. Pocock refused to accept the position until the new member was appointed, and a full board present.

Those at the meeting were Acting Chairman Phil Pocock, Mayor Beattie, Commissioner W. Wyatt, Mr. Glaubitz, Manager Dark, and Secretary Ellwood.

Convention Adjourns to Meet in Heaven

[Associated Press.]

Indianapolis, Sept. 7.—"It now becomes my sacred duty to adjourn the National Association of Mexican War Veterans to meet again 'on that beautiful shore.' I ask you to rise and declare the National Association adjourned forever."

With these words Mrs. Moore Murdoch, secretary of the association, disbanded at the close of its final convention late yesterday. The twenty-eight survivors were too old, it was felt, to keep the organization together. None of the delegates present was under 79 years of age.

A TON OF SILVER BULLION STOLEN FROM COBALT MINE

Gang of Desperadoes Bore Through Concrete Wall and Carry Off Bars to the Value of Seventeen Thousand Dollars.

Cobalt, Ont., Sept. 6.—Last night a gang of desperadoes broke into the mine of the Nova Scotia mines and stole a ton of silver worth about $17,500.

From circumstantial evidence the story can be reconstructed with little possibility of error. Between 11 o'clock last night and 7 this morning the mine was closed. The gang of desperadoes, numbering about twenty, entered the mine by a tunnel, and two or more men stepped out. They carried with them a lantern and a long bar known as a drill column, which they used to open a window in the mill, pried it open and went direct to the safe, which was concreted into a corner of the mill. They immediately set to work to bore a hole in the concrete with a revolving drill column, with a screw in the end of it. One of the band was posted as sentry to see that one of the two men working in the mill did not walk that way, but the heavy metal hood over the vault and the amalgamated process, prevented the workmen seeing anything without coming down in this particular corner of the plant and the noise of the stamps drowned very effectively any grinding of the screw in the concrete.

Carried Off Bars.

The gang worked for an hour or more. Having bored through thirteen to fourteen inches of concrete, a pick was used to widen the hole so as to admit the body of a man. Through the aperture thus made bar after bar of pure silver, weighing on an average 85 pounds each, were carried off by the thieves.

Don't Take the Muzzle Off Fido Yet

All police officers, when they went on duty this morning, were instructed to still keep a sharp lookout for canines at large without muzzles and summon all owners who broke the law by allowing their dogs loose.

"The order to muzzle dogs is still in full force," said Chief Williams to

The Advertiser this afternoon. "I have received no instructions whatever from the council to stop prosecuting people who break this law. Only the council can rescind the order, and they have not yet done it. Even if the Government rescinds the order it would still be in force here until the council rescinds it."

THE GOOBERS BEATEN IN BOUT WITH POPCORN

Lively Mix-Up Last Night Between Greek Merchants of the Toothsome.

Zephyr Zetterson, the peanut magnate, who usually disposes of his wares with great profit at the corner of Clarence and Dundas, and Peter Michels, president and general manager of the London popcorn merger, appeared in the police court today on a charge of being disorderly. It seems that the enterprising manager of the popcorn merger, having an eye to business, selected as a stand the corner where the gentlemen with the name that sounds like spring hands fought goobers.

With a big stock he arrived on the scene during the absence of Mr. Zetterson. By the time the latter got through with his tea, and was back on the job, P. Michels had inaugurated a rushing business in popcorn.

Mr. Zetterson demanded that Mr. Michels move away, but Mr. Michels, in polite Greek, intimated that there was absolutely "nothing doing," whereupon a fight started, and for a few minutes the air was filled with peevish roasters, noisy commentators, and cans that held melted butter, melted sugar and sundry other melted things. When P. C. Handy's slides arrived there was a crowd of 50 people collected, and both combatants were covered with melted butter, sugar and fat marks. Both were promptly marched off to the station.

In court this morning Magistrate Love held that as Mr. Michels was there first last night, he had a perfect right to the stand, no matter whether Mr. Zetterson had been there before or not.

"If you go for Michels again as you did last night, I will fine you," the court told Zetterson. "I will let you go this time."

TRACING THE TRAIL OF ALLEGED GRAFT

Connection of Albany With Wall Street Schemes To Be Exposed.

New York, Sept. 7.—Tracing the trail of alleged "graft" between Albany and Wall Street was the programme today at the first public hearing by the special legislative committee to investigate charges of corruption. A wagonload of the books of the defunct brokerage house of Ellingwood & Cunningham were ready to be produced. From these volumes former Judge John M. Linn Bruce, counsel to the committee, was expected to attempt the development of the connection between the alleged speculative activity of certain legislators now living and legislation affecting various corporations.

After the conclusion of the probing into the Wall Street end of the graft charges it is expected that the Alldis-Conger scandal, which so stirred the state at the last legislative session will be taken up for a further sifting. Any trail of legislative graft that is struck will be followed to the end, Attorney Bruce has announced.

With the conclusion of this feature of the investigation it has been indicated that there will be further inquiry into the recent history of insurance legislation, particularly that relating to fire, marine, industrial and security organizations.

COLONEL GARTSHORE CANNOT ACCEPT

Unable to Accept Water Commissionership at Present—Other Names Mentioned.

Col. W. M. Gartshore will not accept the position of water commissioner, made vacant by the death of the late Mr. McMahon.

It was expected that the city council would make the appointment last night, but word was received that Col. Gartshore would not be in a position to accept at this time. In the meantime, a sharp lookout has been kept for other good men who might be induced to accept.

Mr. Frank E. Leonard is one of these, and Mayor Beattie is of the opinion that Mr. Leonard would fit in admirably. He may be induced to take the place.

Other names mentioned are Dr. Harry T. Reason, vice-president of the board of trade; Mr. William Wright and ex-Mayor Samuel Stevely. There is some talk that the council would name Mr. Geo. W. Rowntree, but this could not be confirmed.

"We want to get the very best man possible," said Mayor Beattie. "We will not act hastily in the matter, but it is important that we get the best man as soon as possible."

STAGE CARPENTERS SIGN LONG AGREEMENT

Union and Grand Opera Management Smooth Out All Difficulties.

The stage carpenters have signed up with the management of the Grand Opera House for five years, at a satisfactory scale.

For some time there has been ground for debate between the union men and the management, and on Saturday, Mr. Sam Loughrey, president of the local union, Mr. Lee Hart, of Chicago, the international secretary, and Mr. J. R. Minihinnick, manager, left for Toronto to confer with Mr. A. J. Small. After some debate the matter of dispute was most satisfactorily settled, and a contract signed for five years.

"We have settled all our differences, and the men have signed up for five years, on a basis satisfactory to all parties concerned," said Mr. Hart to The Advertiser. "When we got together we soon arrived at a settlement. I think better results will accrue not only to the men, but to the management and the public generally. All parties will be absolutely protected, and the danger from any source whatever reduced to the minimum."

"I want to congratulate the local management on their improvements this year. Seldom in any city do you find such care taken of the patrons, and the Grand Opera House will, when completed, be clean and healthy. The improvements made are excellent, and are bound to have a beneficial effect."

"Business prospects in Canada look bright, and the business of the year should be most satisfactory."

FINE, LARGE NEW STATION FOR C. P. R. AT QUEBEC ST.

The New Shops and Roundhouse To Be Erected Just East of Quebec Street and Work Is Likely To Be Rushed On Them This Fall.

The plans for the C. P. R. improvements in this city have arrived in the city from Montreal, and show that the company will build a larger new station at Quebec street, a new roundhouse, capable of accommodating 26 of the largest-sized engines, machine shops, and office buildings, and very extensive improvements to the yards. Just when the work will be commenced is not known, but word is expected from Montreal at any time, and it is not unlikely that the work will be rushed through this fall. It is imperative that something be done as quickly as possible to provide more room for the company's rapidly-expanding business. The present station will remain where it is, but the new station, which will be much larger, will contain all the main offices and the operators and other members of the staff will have quarters there.

The New Shops.

The new shops will be located just west of Quebec street, and the roundhouse will be immediately adjoining. The yards will be more than doubled. "Our business has more than trebled in the last few years," a C. P. R. official stated to The Advertiser this afternoon, "and our present yards are absolutely inadequate for the speedy handling of traffic. The improvements cannot be made too soon."

COOK USED WAITER AS HOUSE DUSTER

Latter Had Helped Himself to Dish Intended for Guests.

John Poullas, a waiter in a local restaurant, being hungry about midnight last night, investigated the contents of the refrigerator, and helped himself to a dish of kidneys. As it happened, James Kaes, the cook, had the delicacy on order for a party of guests. When he learned that they were inside of Poullas, he grabbed Poullas by the hair and started in to do the family dusting with him. Poullas, when he came to court this morning, looked as if he had been through a vacuum cleaner. Magistrate Love found Kaes guilty of common assault, and fined him $1, and $35 costs.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING WAS IRREGULAR

But Assessment Rolls Recommendation Did Not Come Up.

Ald. Richter had all his plans laid to prevent tampering with his pet scheme, the publication of the assessment rolls by the council last night. His own private opinion was that the meeting last night was illegal. In fact, he had expert opinion to that effect, and it is stated that there were several members of the council, including the mayor, who were satisfied that last night's meeting was irregular.

Had the council, during his absence, taken the recommendation of the committee that the rolls be published, and recorded an adverse vote, it is understood that Ald. Richter would have seen to it that the legality of the meeting was questioned, and if found illegal, to make of non-effect the resolutions passed.

The aldermen, however, were quite prepared to deal with the matter, and prevented trouble by refusing to be drawn into any controversial matters. It was a sort of armed truce, and both sides finished the evening's entertainment quite satisfied. This will allow the matter to be brought up again. There are grave doubts expressed that the roll can be published, and it will be required that at a former meeting the committee recommended that tenders for the printing of the rolls be called for. That motion was defeated, and it is understood that it will require a two-thirds vote of the council to bring it up. The work cannot be done without tenders, and this will be prevented by the necessity of a two-thirds vote.

However, there are many ways of getting round things, and it is quite possible that the council will see a way out of the difficulty provided they deem it proper to call for tenders.

CAR TURNS TURTLE PASSENGER INJURED

Mansfield, Ohio, Sept. 7.—Twenty passengers were injured, some seriously, when an interurban car on the Cleveland and Southwestern road jumped the track and turned on its side at the city line today. The car was travelling at 40 miles an hour.

SUIT OVER A CAT

Violent Demise of a West London Tom Gets Into Court.

The case of Ernest Cripple, the West Londoner, who charges his neighbor, Harry Tozer, with killing his house cat, will come up before Squire Chittick at the court house tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Tozer has engaged a lawyer, and a lively battle is expected. The complainant claims that one Tozer did shoot, maim and kill one law-abiding house cat, while the defendant avers that the owner of the said cat was warned that if the feline did not discontinue such little pleasantries as drawing himself on the outside of prize chickens something would happen. The next day the cat yielded up his remaining lives, a post-mortem revealing quantities of metal in different parts of his anatomy. Mr. Cripple then commenced the case which will be heard tomorrow.

NIAGARA FALLS MAN MAY BE ENGINEER

Some Indications That Mr. Van Cleave Will Secure the Appointment.

There will be something done in reference to appointing a head engineer very soon.

Some of the aldermen were quite put out because the board of works did not bring in a recommendation last night, and Ald. Underwood and Ald. Jeffries prodded Ald. Tancock on the delay. However, it looks as if there will be something definite within a very short time.

There were several conferences today, and it is understood that it has been practically agreed that Mr. Van Cleave, of Niagara Falls, be chosen. At the present time he has the call, and it would not be at all surprising if he were named at the next meeting of the council.

ROBBED OF JEWELRY ON ENGLISH TRAIN

Gems to the Value of $20,000 Taken From Lady.

[Associated Press.]
Bordeaux, France, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Amice Soglie, an American woman, has reported to the police that she was robbed of jewelry valued at $20,000 yesterday, while on a train bound for London.

MOCHA TEMPLE

Next Ceremonial Session to Take Place on December Seventh.

The next ceremonial session of Mocha Temple will be held in this city on Dec. 7.

Mr. J. Milton Pike, K. C., Chatham, the imperial potentate, met a number of the shriners, and it was decided to hold the session on that date.

A large number of candidates are expected, including many from Detroit, Buffalo, Toronto and other cities.

A large number of candidates will be initiated.

HIS AUTO TOO SLOW

Sarnia Man Says He Couldn't Smash Speed Limit.

A Sarnia man, who was in this city with his auto a short time ago and whose number was taken by a constable on the Proof Line road a short distance north of Brough's Bridge, has given notice that he will be in London on Saturday to defend his case, claiming that his machine is not capable of making fifteen miles an hour. He will in all probability be asked to give a demonstration when the case is called.

Esperanto Would Have Helped Here

A Chinese laundryman and an Italian shoemaker had a verbal setto on Talbot street Tuesday night. Both parties to the affair were exclaiming and wildly gesticulating, each in his own language, and it was impossible to discover the cause of the trouble. As it was, the Chinaman was not very aggressive, and the bout lasted only a few minutes. Each combatant, thereupon, withdrew to his own, and explained his wrongs to a sympathetic audience.

BRITISH DIPLOMACY AT HAGUE TRIBUNAL

Not Sacrificing Canada to Curry
Favor With the United States.

The Hague, Sept. 6.—Now that the last word has been said concerning a controversy which has so nearly led to war, one outstanding feature has been developed by the research necessary for the presentation of the facts, which should not go unnoticed, and which should be said by a Canadian.

In times past, and even not very remote, it has been said in Canada, and with a persistence designed to drive home the suggestion, that the desire on the part of England for friendly relations with the United States has led to the sacrificing of Canadian interests. This suggestion has been based upon the assertion of a weak or lukewarm diplomacy by England when dealing with questions in which Canada was vitally interested.

Now, this statement is easily made, and it has created at times a deep impression. Nothing could be more mischievous than such a statement, all the more dangerous because though easily made, it could not be denied without even a full knowledge of all the facts concerning any one dispute. It has taken years of research, the expenditure of thousands of dollars, the searching of the archives of Great Britain, Canada and Newfoundland to present the history connected with this fisheries dispute, which has gone into the third month of discussion, producing a record of some 2,000,000 words, besides printed cases, counter-cases and official documents, covering perhaps 1,000 pages, already placed before the tribunal. In the last protocol issued the president, Dr. Lammasch, said:

"You have led us through the maze of a hundred years of diplomatic correspondence, through the dark forest of almost metaphysical problems, in which it was sometimes difficult to see our path."

This statement shows what research has been necessary to obtain a knowledge of even one dispute.

Now, with all the facts marshalled at this great expense, a Canadian who would let the opportunity pass and not state what the result has shown, would be neglecting an opportunity to do justice to English statesmen.

Examples of British Diplomacy.

I would not assume to be competent to express an opinion on any subject in the columns of your newspaper, especially in a case looked upon as the most important ever decided by the court which England's attorney-general described as "the world's greatest court," but, having had the responsibility of certifying to the tribunal the words that form the record of the oral statements, upon which the case will be decided, I feel competent to state a fact. A perusal of the records will demonstrate beyond a doubt that this great fisheries dispute should form a fair example of British diplomacy. As a Canadian I feel justified in saying that should any statement hereafter be made that Canadian interests were sacrificed at any time, in this case, in all the hundred years of British diplomacy in dealing with international law, it would be a cruel misrepresentation and unfair.

Time and again the tribunal have listened to documents which showed that the two great nations were on the verge of war, and that war was averted only by the good sense, not weakness, of a statesman, first in one country and then in the other. Senator Root testified to this in the hour of his great speech when he told the tribunal that during all these years each country had held to its ground, and that neither being willing to recede, there were only two solutions, war or arbitration.

Common sense, he said, had prevailed, and there were here as an example, not only to Great Britain and the United States, but to other nations.

It must not be inferred that because counsel are fighting to win, there is not the best feeling animating all concerned. Natural pride in country, and patriotism have inspired great effort, and sometimes counsel have warmed up to their work in the old hall of the knights, at the Binnenhof, which is a story for the world. The place seems quite suitable for the settlement of disputes. We are away up in the little neck of land, dyked out from the ocean, between the North Sea and the Zuyder Zee, and near the cities of Utrecht and Ghent, where treaties were made of which we have heard so much. The Government of Holland graciously placed the splendid hall at our disposal, a room hung with rich tapestry, weird in appearance, into which one has to climb by one of four spiral solid granite staircases, manned by soldiers. The staircase towers have loopholes, out of which the knights used to look at their enemies. Once in Binnenhof, one is far away from any outside influence as it is possible to get in these days of telegraphs and newspapers. It is a place quite suitable for a peace meeting, because just across the courtyard stands a building erected some six hundred years ago, where one can see all the torture instruments used in those days, and where there is an iron cage into which people were placed to slowly starve to death, within a few feet from where the cooking was done.

If I were asked what court most nearly corresponds to the peace tribunal I would say by all odds our Canadian railway commission. The man with a technicality to present does not make much progress. The only counsel here who had to leave for a rest at the close of his argument was the man who had to deal with the technical branch.

Mr. Shepley Prepared to Step In.

Having just learned that owing to the danger of a political crisis in England during the early part of this case, which would have demanded the return of Sir William Robson and Sir Robert Finlay, Mr. Shepley had to be prepared to step in. The tribunal and counsel came from different parts of the world, and an adjournment would have been impossible. In that event Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. Shepley would have taken the places of the two great English counsel.

The organization of our case and the legal organization has been simply perfect. British officials, with Mr. Ewart and Mr. Tilley, have spent over a year in research here in England. At the trial, the British, Canadian, and Newfoundland counsel worked in sections, building up the case step by step, until at last they should know that the work was as complete as has been ever listened to in any court.

ABRUZZI'S GOOD LUCK

Bought Lottery Ticket From Beggar and Drew $18,000.

Rome, Sept. 6.—The Duke of the Abruzzi has had a stroke of good luck which can be attributed directly to an act of generosity.

Attracted by a little girl who was begging in the street, and desirous of helping without making her an object of charity, the duke purchased from the child a lottery ticket, which at the next drawing was cashed in for a prize of $18,000.

Believing that one good turn deserves another, the duke announced today that he would give the money to the girl.

REV. R. W. MILLIARD DEAD

Was Resident of Forest, and Ex-President of London Conference.

Fort William, Sept. 7.—Rev. R. W. Milliard, of Forest, an ex-president of the London Conference, died here yesterday in McCall's Hospital, from gangrene, in his 69th year. Rev. Mr. Milliard was taken ill about a week ago while en route from the Victoria conference to his home.

Deceased is survived by five sons, one of whom is Rev. J. E. Milliard, of Hensall, Ont. Mrs. Milliard died at Forest eight months ago.

The body was taken to Woodstock, where Mrs. Milliard was buried.

BARCELONA'S STRIKE.

Madrid, Sept. 6.—Premier Canalejas, in a statement covering the first day of the general strike at Barcelona, which was called by the Workmen's Federation, in sympathy with the striking miners at Bilbao, says that everything is calm. Precautions have been taken to preserve the peace. The railroads and telegraph lines are being guarded by troops.

A majority of the workmen, the Premier says, are ignorant of the reasons for calling the strike, and are obeying the order of the Workmen's Federation apparently out of fear. Signor Canalejas says that the Republicans are not connected with it.

ANALYSIS OF
St. Lawrence
Sugar
THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co.'s EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99.99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

THE PRESBYTERY ON EVANGELISM

Special Services Likely To Be Held This Winter.

LOCAL PULPIT CHANGES

London Presbytery Disposes of Hamilton Road and Knollwood Church Affairs.

The London Presbytery met at 10:30 a.m. yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. John Currie was moderator pro tem, and Rev. Dr. McCrae acted as clerk. Dr. Ross was elected as moderator for the next six months in the usual manner. Thanks were tendered to the retiring moderator, Rev. Mr. Rollins, for his services, and the sympathy of the Presbytery was extended to himself and family in their recent bereavement.

Evangelical Report.

Rev. T. A. Watson, of Thamesford, presented a report on evangelism, and recommended that simultaneous evangelistic services be held in the various congregations of the presbytery in the coming winter or spring. Mr. Watson resigned as convener of the committee, his reason being that he will shortly leave Thamesford. On the motion of Mr. Currie, the two committees on moral and social reform and evangelism, were amalgamated, and Dr. Nixon was made convener of the new committee.

Rev. G. F. Atkinson, of Appin, presented a call from Melbourne and Riverside, in favor of Dr. C. Stephen, of the Halifax Presbytery, offering a stipend of $850, with manse and holidays. The congregations expect to soon be able to increase the stipend to $1,000. The call was sustained. The commissioners who supported it were Messrs. Thomson, Campbell, and H. D. McKenzie, of Melbourne, and Donald Fletcher, and Archibald Murray, of Riverside. The call was forwarded to the Halifax Presbytery, requesting the translation of the Rev. Mr. Stephen. Rev. R. W. Ross, formerly of Glenora, and now of Halifax, was requested to support the call before the Halifax Presbytery.

Should Mr. Stephen accept the call, the induction will take place at an early date, the moderator of the presbytery to preside, Rev. M. A. Lindsay, of Newbury, to preach, Mr. Weir to address the minister, and Mr. McKay, of Cowell, to address the people.

Rev. R. M. Pigeon, of St. Thomas, presented a call from Springfield, in favor of Rev. J. M. McGillivray, B.A., of Queen's College, and at a stipend of $1,000, with manse and four weeks' holidays. The call was sustained, and the induction was fixed at Springfield, on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 4 p.m. The presbytery will meet in Knox Church, St. Thomas, for examination of the Rev. Mr. McGillivray, at 2 p.m. on the day of the induction.

The moderator of the presbytery will preside at the induction service, Rev. Mr. Pigeon will preach, Mr. Currie will address the minister, and Mr. Wood will address the people.

Mr. Kenneth McLennan was certified to the Montreal Presbytery College as a student for the ministry.

The Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session opened at 2 p.m. sharp. The resignation of Rev. James Malcolm, of Dutton, which was left over from the last meeting, was first considered. Mr. Malcolm pressed for the acceptance of his resignation. Commissioner J. E. Dwyer, of Dutton, Black spoke highly of Mr. Malcolm, but at his urgent desire his resignation was accepted, to take effect Sept. 26. Rev. Walter Nichol was appointed moderator of the session during the vacancy.

A call from St. George's Church, London Junction, to Rev. John Lindsay, of Kintore, was presented by Rev. Walter Moffatt, of Kintore, and supported from London Junction by Messrs. George Cairncross, George Angus and A. Armour. The call was opposed by Dr. J. A. Murray and Messrs. J. W. Sutcliffe, D. Mackay, John McPherson, Jos. McMurray, F. Day, A. Shaw, and J. McColl, of Kintore. The call was left entirely in Mr. Lindsay's hands, and he decided to remain with the Kintore congregation. The Presbytery then considered a translation. On motion of Dr. McCrae, a resolution of sympathy was offered to St. George's, in their successive disappointments in securing a pastor.

The Presbytery arranged for a special meeting the first Tuesday in November, to consider church union and other questions sent down by the general assembly for discussion in the presbyteries.

Regret was expressed that Rev. Mr. Watson has tendered his resignation from Thamesford, but his retirement was accepted.

It was next resolved to raise the Hamilton road congregation to the status of an "augmented charge," and a special grant from the augmentation fund will be made for their assistance. Rev. John Smith, who is at present in charge of this church, will be regularly called by the congregation to become their pastor. Chelsea Green will now be united with this church, and Rev. Mr. Nichol will take charge of the two churches.

The Presbytery adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

"OH YOU FRESHY!"

Medical School Authorities Intend to Curb You This Year.

An effort is to be made this year to curb the freshies of the Western Medical School. In order to do this the faculty intend taking firm steps as soon as school opens, and any students found guilty of acts of rowdiness will be severely dealt with. One of the plans that will be tried in order to make the freshies less unruly is to get them interested in Y. M. C. A. work. It is likely that all will become members of the Y. M. C. A. at an early date after school opens.

"Our only trouble so far has been with the first year men," said one of the professors to The Advertiser today. "After that he settles down and behaves himself as becomes a medical student. There is no reason why the freshies should not have a good time without making the exhibition of themselves that they have in the past. They realize afterwards that it has not done either their own reputation or that of the school any good."

LEARN TO BOOST TRADE OF NATION

The Young Austrians Are Given
Thorough Training for Consular Service.

Vienna, Sept. 6.—In these days of international scrutiny of diplomatic and consular efficiency, it is interesting to note that Austria-Hungary possesses the best equipped consular academy in the world. Opinions differ as to whether the balance of utility is altogether against the man who gets his job because he has political "pull," but here, at any rate, they believe in equipping the consular service thoroughly with men who have been specially trained to nurse their country's commerce in the business centres of the world.

I have just spent an instructive time in the company of this year's thirty-five students who are being trained in their palatial new building to represent the dual monarchy. Graduating from this academy, these students enter the best-paid of all consular services, with the assurance of permanent positions and substantial pensions at the end of their active career. Further, these fortunate young men are educated, housed, fed and clothed for a period of five years practically free of expense to their parents or guardians.

Brass Buttons and Swords.

Upon entering the academy the student is furnished with a uniform, consisting of a dark green tunic with a double row of brass buttons, black trousers, patent leather boots, white gloves, a military cap and a sword in a leather scabbard. He must bring with him—like a boy going to an Anglo-Saxon boarding school—a full equipment of clothing, set out precisely as 18 shirts, 12 undershirts, 18 pairs of socks, 24 handkerchiefs, 5 pairs of shoes, one pair of slippers, one pair of suspenders, a hair brush, clothes brush, nail brush, tooth brush, two combs, a pair of nail scissors, a sponge and a trunk. But this is only upon entering; afterwards he is supplied with clothes and requisites of every kind—including medical attendance and dentistry twice a year—at the expense of the state.

Nominally there is a charge for the five years' course in the academy, of five hundred and twenty dollars a year. But there are twelve state scholarships of this value and fifteen of four hundred dollars, making twenty-seven out of the total of thirty-five places in the academy. Moreover, if the new student is willing to enter the Oriental division of the service, he is given a free place. And in the few cases where the $520 is paid for the first year, it is remitted for the next four years if the student's conduct has been satisfactory. So that practically the academy course is given free of charge.

Once fairly launched on his career, the "Akademiker" is confronted with an appalling list of subjects of study. These are divided into six sections—law, political and military history, economics, commerce, languages and physical culture. Law comprises the encyclopedia of constitutional law, civil law, commercial and banking law and procedure, state law, public law and administrative law. History includes Hungarian history, diplomatic state history, consular and military affairs, and military geography. Economics comprises political economy and finance. Commerce includes commercial geography, international trade and science, and the art of commerce generally. The scheduled languages are German, Hungarian, French, English, Italian, Turkish, Persian, Russian and Chinese. Physical culture includes tennis, hockey and skating.

No less than 33 professors are engaged in teaching these subjects to the 35 candidates. In addition there are the directors of the academy of various subjects, so that the governing and teaching staff outnumber the student body.

Have Splendid Quarters.

The academy is splendidly housed in an imposing stone building of three-story elevation in the French Renaissance style and cost nearly half a million dollars. It contains the residence of the director and quarters of the 35 "Akademiker." The students live on the upper floor, each in a room of his own, each having a large room and an alcove to himself. An iron bedstead and stationary wash-stand with running water are in the alcove, while the room is plainly but sufficiently furnished with wardrobe, bureau, writing table, bookcase, and two chairs. Study is permitted after 11 at night in these rooms, but only in couples.

The accommodation on the other floors includes a magnificent large hall where the examinations are held, which contains portraits of foreign ministers and former directors of the academy. There is a large dining hall closely connected with the kitchen, a particularly fine well-lighted salon for fencing, and numerous small classrooms. Perhaps the most interesting apartment is the "Warrenmuseum," containing samples and specimens of all the raw articles and manufactured products of Austria-Hungary. It is a most interesting study of development. The students are expected to familiarize themselves thoroughly with all these things to enable them to promote the economic and commercial interests of their country abroad after they have completed their course.

GOOD SHOOTING.

Dungannon, Sept. 6.—J. Johnston, of the Dungannon Rifle Association, made ten straight bulls-eyes at the 500-yard range while practicing here this afternoon. When he was shooting it was very dark and there was a mist rising from the river in front of the range, but that apparently did not make much difference to Mr. Johnston's marksmanship. Last week Capt. Elliott made six bullseyes at the same range.

Rabbit furs have doubled in value within the last few years, while some skins have advanced 500 per cent.

DECLARES WAR ON CORPORATIONS

President of the Municipalities
Association Says Big Concerns
Must Be Watched.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—"We are out to fight the corporations," declared the president of the Ontario Municipalities Association, Mayor George Geddes, of St. Thomas, at the opening session today in the city hall.

"The telephone companies, the railways, express companies and other corporations that are becoming wealthy on the municipalities, must be watched," he added.

President Geddes made reference to the new broad act giving satisfaction to the majority of the municipalities. He favored a uniform system of municipal accounting, as advocated by the Union of Canadian Municipalities, and a more effective system of municipal auditing throughout the Province.

A number of resolutions submitted by the committee on resolution will be discussed tomorrow. These include a resolution passed by the Ottawa city council on Aug. 5, asking that the Provincial Government be petitioned to pay over to the municipalities a just proportion of the amounts collected in permits, and fines and penalties in the operation of motor vehicles on the highway.

Another resolution, offered by W. C. Mikel, of Belleville, asks the amendment of the municipal act to give cities and towns power to hold municipal nominations on the last Monday in January, and the elections on the first Monday in February of each year.

Owing to the increase of its work and importance, the association at this morning's session decided to form two sections, the rural and the urban, these, of course, to work together as heretofore.

INSURANCE JURISDICTION

President of Underwriters' Association Sees Trouble if Matter of Jurisdiction Rests With Provinces.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—President Macchum, of the Life Underwriters' Association, in addressing the convention yesterday, said he saw a strenuous future for the association in case it is established that jurisdiction in insurance matters is invested in the provinces. The Minister of Justice has submitted a special case to the supreme court to settle the question.

"One cannot look otherwise than with concern on the possibility that the decision may be in favor of the provinces," said Mr. Macchum. "If the necessity arises I take it that our first line of action should be an endeavor to induce the legislatures to forego their rights in the matter and consent to an amendment of the B. N. A. act to give federal jurisdiction."

WOMAN LYNCHED BY FLORIDA MOB

With Negro Who Shot at Sheriff She Is Hanged From Railway Trestle.

Graceville, Fla., Sept. 6.—Hattie Bowman and Ed. Christian, both negroes, were taken from the jail here by a mob, led to a railway trestle near town and hanged. Their bodies were found dangling from the structure this morning.

Several days ago a warrant was sworn out for Christian, charging him with the theft of a watch from a local physician. When Sheriff Burns, accompanied by the physician, went to Christian's home to make the arrest, his call for Christian to come out was greeted from within by a volley of shots, one bullet striking Burns in the breast and another in the arm. His condition is considered critical.

Poses were organized to capture Christian, but he escaped. The Bowman was a union member, was placed in jail, suspected of having had a hand in the shooting of the officer. Late yesterday Christian was brought back here from Donnan, Ala., where he was captured.

Two million acres in New South Wales have been reclaimed by irrigation.

THE FISHERIES DECISION.

There is no time for extended comment in this issue upon the decision of The Hague tribunal in the fisheries case.

The two main contentions in the British case have been upheld. Great Britain has always maintained that the "three-mile limit" does not follow the windings of the coast, as the Americans assert, but should be measured from a line drawn from headland to headland across the mouth of each bay, or estuary. This position has been sustained by The Hague tribunal.

The tribunal has also rejected the American doctrine of "servitude," by decreeing that no foreign nation shall have a treaty right to override the laws of a British colony. This means that American fishermen will be bound by the regulations imposed by the Government of Newfoundland upon Newfoundland fishermen.

It would seem at first glance that the decisions of the tribunal is a substantial victory for Great Britain, the points upon which the Washington Government has been sustained being comparatively minor ones.

ADAM McMAHEN.

Mr. McMahon's death is a loss to London. He was an excellent type of citizen. He had much public spirit, and gave his time ungrudgingly to municipal affairs. It is a pity that this should be considered unusual in a successful businessman, but it is the case in most communities, London not excepted. His fellow-citizens trusted him; they knew that he would fill any position with integrity and painstaking attention. They were fortunate in enlisting his services this year on the waterworks board, which has had new and important duties thrust upon it by the Niagara power project. It is to be hoped that some one equally trustworthy and competent will replace him, in justice to the city, and to the other members of the commission.

Mr. McMahon was a pronounced party man, but never an offensive one. He filled various offices in the local Conservative Association for years, but maintained the goodwill of local Liberals. He was a citizen first, not a partisan.

An active member of the Board of Trade for years, and the head of a large wholesale house, he was a force in the commercial life and development of the city. London needs such men, and never more than now. Mr. McMahon's death at the comparatively early age of 61, when he was in a position to enjoy leisure and reap the fruits of a life of industry, has a touch of pathos.

NATIONAL DEFENCE AND ITS COST.

Discussing during a recent speech the national defence of Great Britain and its cost, Mr. Herbert Samuel, postmaster-general, said there was little in the fact that the naval estimates had again been increased by a sum of several millions in which he, for one, could take satisfaction. Necessary though the increase was, it was a most unfortunate necessity, he said. It is the growing and rapid increase in the navies of other powers which compels Britain against her will to spend each year a larger and larger proportion of national treasure in providing armaments against the risk of war. It is a most lamentable thing that the nations of the world should now be spending $2,250,000,000 every year merely in maintaining armies and navies. The position of England in this matter has been made absolutely clear, and if other countries would agree with her to check the increase of armaments nothing would please her better than to enter into an agreement of that character.

Mr. Samuel has no sympathy whatever in the movement of the National Service League, which is endeavoring to secure compulsory military service for the whole male population of the country. That men should go through a course of drill might be of some physical value, but those physical advantages can be better secured by the physical training of boys and girls in the schools. By that means not only would both sexes be affected, but the physical training would be given at an age when it would be more effective for its purpose. Compulsory military service is unnecessary, Mr. Samuel maintains, because, living on those islands, so long as Britons have a navy of overwhelming strength they run no risk of invasion. In the event of there being some small raid or attack from foreign shores there are within the isles hundreds of thousands of men, already voluntarily trained to arms, who would be amply sufficient to repel any attack. The expense of a scheme of compulsory military service would be a colossal addition to the nation's already heavy burden of expenditure for armaments, and, worst of all, such a scheme would force men against their will by the compulsion of the law and the fear of punishment, into activities for which they feel unfitted. Mr. Samuel warns all classes against the dangers and harmfulness of the agitation now being carried on in many of the constituencies the end in view of which is conscription.

PEERS WHO PREACH.

[London Daily News.]
Now that the Rev. the Hon. Percy Arthur Amherst has succeeded his brother as Earl Amherst, the ranks of the peers (other than the spiritual peers) who preach has been increased. They are not a large, but they are a very hard-working number. For among them is Lord Nelson, who has been identified with religious work for well over 60 years. The Marquis of Normandy took orders when he was vicar of St. Mark's, Worsley, Manchester. Lord Kinnaird's enthusiasm for religious work is greater than his interest in football, and those who know him best will admit that no higher praise could be given.

Before he succeeded to the title, Lord Kinnaird had a great reputation on both sides of the Atlantic as an evangelist, and he still carries on that work whenever his other duties will permit. Lastly, one might mention Lord Radstock, who has been in nearly every civilized country of the world as a lay preacher. Thirty years ago he was preaching in St. Petersburg to those of the educated classes who understood English, and was able to convert Col. Paschkeff, of the Imperial Guard, a close friend of Alexander II. The colonel followed the Scriptural injunction to sell all he had and give to the poor, and went through Russia preaching the gospel with such fervor that a high official interfered, and had him exiled to Siberia, where he died.

SOMEWHAT TWISTED.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"I can see why men like to get up early and go fishing," said Mrs. Malaprop. "Now, my husband is a regular angler. I mean, he's a devotee to the piscatory art. Fish? Why, he's an apostle of old Isaac Newton himself."

A SHIPPING ERROR.

[New York Sun.]
The young Duchess of Westminster, wife of the richest peer in England, recently gave birth to her third child, a daughter. Thus there is no heir to the immense Grosvenor fortune. Earl Grosvenor, the duchess's second child, having died at the age of 4.

Appropos of all this, a rather cruel story is being told in Newport about Lady Ursula Grosvenor, the 3-year-old daughter of the young duchess.

"Oh, good afternoon," she said gravely. "Mamma can't see anyone today. She's upstairs with the new baby. They sent her, you know, a girl, when she'd ordered a boy, and she's so upset that she's quite ill."

WHY IT SUITED.

HER REASONING.

"That young fellow is very attentive."
"Yes," said the belle of the beach, "and he must be worth all kinds of money."
"Has he bought you a ton of candy?"
"No; he hasn't spent a cent on me yet."

Upon a lone globe he gazed
And whirled it once around.
Then by his thoughts he was amazed,
So splendidly profound.

For he was of the tribe whose might

THE TROUBLE.

THE FORMER CHARGE.

[Laramie (Wyo.) Boomerang.]
A ducky was brought before Judge Hynds yesterday for vagrancy. The Judge recognized his voice as one he had seen before.
"What is your name?" asked the judge.
"Moses Quick," answered the ducky.
"You have been up here before, haven't you, Moses?"
"Yes, sah."

"What was the charge?"
Moses stopped and reflected, then, without fear or hesitation, he answered: "Seven dollars and six bits, yo honah, as much as I can recollect."

THE LAST RESORT.

[Washington Post.]
"We must go to some quiet, inexpensive place next summer," said the man who worries.
"Great heavens!" exclaimed his wife. "Don't talk so gruesomely. You know that there are no longer any quiet or inexpensive places except cemeteries."

Emperor Francis Joseph's 80th Birthday.

To the student of European politics Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, who became 80 years old on Aug. 17, and whose birthday was celebrated by the many races under his rule, has been for many years the most pathetic figure on a throne. He has had power, wealth, and success as a king, but he has been the victim of some of the most tragic and saddening experiences that ever befell a Hapsburg, acquainted with misfortune as that house has been in its long history. He ascended the throne of Austria in December, 1848, and has reigned a longer time than any other ruler of modern times, except Queen Victoria, whose reign lasted sixty-three years and seven months. And he bids fair to equal Victoria's record for length of reign, health and his habits of life are such as to make him what life insurance companies call a most favorable risk.

For the last month the emperor has been at Ischl, in upper Austria, taking long walks daily and complaining of neither cold nor fatigue. His presence at this mountain resort has been due chiefly to his passion for hunting, but so much rain and fog have fallen that he has been able to spend little time at his favorite sport. Within the imperial villa he has played games with his grandchildren during the rainy days, but spends as much time out of doors as possible.

In his long reign Francis Joseph has seen Austria-Hungary grow toward unity in many ways. Nevertheless, his personality is still the factor most familiar with the affairs of the dual kingdom to be the one force that holds together the many social elements that so often clash in the Austrian and Hungarian diets. And the prophetic gloom that they speak of his heir apparent, Francis Ferdinand, who is said to be a mediocre person and decidedly unpopular, except with the Bohemians, who like him, has been the subject of much speculation. The emperor's marriage to a Bohemian countess, Sophie Chotek. This marriage bitterly offended the emperor, and he has but lately relented from his determination not to recognize the former countess as anything but a morganatic wife. Even now the status of her children is unchanged. They are regarded not as Hapsburgs, but as Hohenbergs, the latter being the house to which the mother belongs.

That the marriage of Prince Francis Ferdinand should have displeased his imperial uncle was not strange, for it is the fate of the Hapsburgs to contract unfortunate alliances. The scandal of the early years of Francis Joseph's reign was his vagaries following the open estrangement between himself and the Empress Elizabeth. Yet the match between Francis Joseph and Elizabeth, Duchess of Bavaria, was understood to be purely a love affair, forming as romantic a story as ever was penned for the delectation of femininity. What the estrangement meant never has been explained to the world, but it lasted until Elizabeth was murdered by a crazy anarchist at Geneva, in 1898. When the body of his wife was brought to Vienna, the emperor shed bitter tears with the pathetic cry: "Fate spares me nothing!"

It was perhaps the Hapsburg fate also that made the child of this discordant pair, Archduke Rudolph, early embrace a dissolute career that ended in his death by violence at the age of 29, in 1889. Rudolph left two daughters, but no son, and so the line passed to Francis Ferdinand, who is now in his forty-seventh year. It probably was a Hapsburg fate—or Hapsburg weakness—that made Archduke John Salvator, a cousin of the emperor, renounce his rank and titles for the love of a pretty actress of plebeian parentage, assume the name of John Orth, and disappear from his royal kin twenty years ago, with no word since as to whether he is dead or alive. And it may have been because of the fatality in the Hapsburg blood that the oldest brother of the emperor, Maximilian, should have become fatally ambitious to shine as emperor of Mexico, and so was shot ignominiously in 1867.

But it is also in the Hapsburg blood to have great ability for ruling, and as a ruler Francis Joseph will take high rank in history. No sovereign has been more approachable; the meanness of his subjects has had personal audience upon making complaint; his honesty has never been questioned, and the sweetness of his nature has endeared him to all his subjects. He has been prone to forgive injuries and has reconciled bitterly opposed factions. His civil list of 22,000,000 crowns ($4,587,800) a year has been spent, it is said, wholly on hospitals and other charitable en-

Fourteen languages or dialects are spoken in Austria-Hungary, and in every one of them Francis Joseph is able to converse. A number of them he learned late in life. He has insisted on the use of German in the army, for the sake of unity, but, though of German lineage, he has not shown any of the subjects of that race. Though an aristocrat of aristocrats by nature, he never has been arrogant or inconsiderate of others. To his personal qualities as much as to his ability as a ruler he owes his popularity.

GLENCOE BARBER RAMMED A WINDOW.

Goes Down to Castle Carter for a Week to Sober Up.

Yesterday morning when Walter Tune, a young barber from Glencoe, appeared before Magistrate Love for being drunk, he wore a suit that was new and stylish. Tune presented such a respectable appearance that he was allowed to go as a first-timer. This morning when he stood up in the prisoner's box his stylish clothes were of many colors, the coat being practically dyed red with blood. Tune's head was done up in bandages enough to start a small drygoods store, and he presented a very dilapidated appearance. It seems that as soon as Tune was released yesterday morning he hurried to the nearest bar room. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon he attempted to walk through the big plate glass window at John A. Young's Hardware store on Dundas street. Tune was terribly cut about the head and face by falling on the jagged glass. He was hurried to Victoria Hospital, where it took some time to dress his wounds.
"I'll settle," said Tune, when he stood up.
"You will go to jail for a week first to sober up," said the magistrate.

BI-CENTENNIAL OF ANGLICAN CHURCH.

Central Authority or Board Is Proposed in View of Practical Autonomy.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 6.—"Practical problems of the Canadian Church" was the subject of the bi-centenary celebration of the Anglican Church in Canada. Most Rev. Charles Hamilton, archbishop of Ottawa, who presided, referred to the importance of the problems of the Canadian Church.
Canon Ernest Phair, of Winnipeg, was the speaker. He outlined four topics: 1. In the theory of the church is independent of the church in the home land. 2. Practically the term dependence is justified on account of the close connection. 3. The franchise of this would be useful to us. 4. There should be some central authority or board for the Anglican communion in view of the practical autonomy of the church in the world. The speaker, Rev. St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, London, said the relations between the church in Canada and that in the home land are like those between a father and a mother, the latter always sympathizing and showing pride in the former. These are far more than legal enactments, the links which bind the church in the home land to the church in the world. But the English Church, he said, should recognize the daughter is mistress in her own house. What was true of the Canadian Dominion was true of the Canadian Church; neither should imitate a subordinate. Unity is not always uniformity. The truest unity is often found in diversity. The Canadian Church is free to compile her own books, to order her own clergy without interference from England.
In the morning the subject for discussion was "The Evangelization of the World." Bishop Reeves, of Toronto, presided, and the speakers were Prof. Rindland, of Cambridge; Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, of Toronto; Bishop Brent, of the Philippines, and others.

PREMIER WILL NOT REOPEN THE QUESTION.

Sir Wilfrid's Reply to Catholics—Take School Matter Out of Politics.

Winnipeg, Sept. 6.—This afternoon, responding courteously to an invitation to meet a delegation at the Catholic Club, Sir Wilfrid Laurier found himself faced by the parish priests of all the Winnipeg and St. Boniface parishes, reinforced by several prominent laymen from each of the parishes. Rev. Father John Coffey, S.J., of St. Ignace, was spokesman, having been designated by Archbishop Langevin, who made all the arrangements prior to his departure for the Eucharistic Congress.

The old ground was gone over, but from all that can be learned tonight, Sir Wilfrid refused absolutely to take any action that would mean the reopening of the question. Father Coffey informed Sir Wilfrid that Premier Roblin was disposed to grant substantial concessions to the minority, if assured of the sympathetic co-operation of the Dominion Government, and begged Sir Wilfrid to see Mr. Roblin while in the city.

Sir Wilfrid's reply was that he did not think Mr. Roblin, judging by his public actions and utterances of the past ten years, could have any such intention. He judged Mr. Roblin by his public utterances and actions, and he was very well aware that on many occasions within the past ten years Mr. Roblin had made appeals to the electors in Manitoba against that bad man Laurier, "on the ground that he was seeking to force separate schools upon the Province of Manitoba." He did not think, for these reasons, that Mr. Roblin had any intention or desire to extend the educational privileges of the minority. If, however, Mr. Roblin wished to discuss the matter with him, either in Winnipeg or Ottawa, he would be very willing to see him on the occasion of his present visit, or at Ottawa.

Sir Wilfrid replied that he would do nothing to embarrass the Roblin Government. His policy, he said, was well known to be one of conciliation, and for his part he would be glad to see the minorities everywhere in Canada treated with the greatest possible amount of generosity by the majorities.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

For Sewing Room

For buttonholes that show it is a good plan to face with a double strip of material. It may look a little clumsy at first, but it is less straightly than darned or torn buttonholes. In the same way buttons should be sewed on with small extra squares of material underneath.

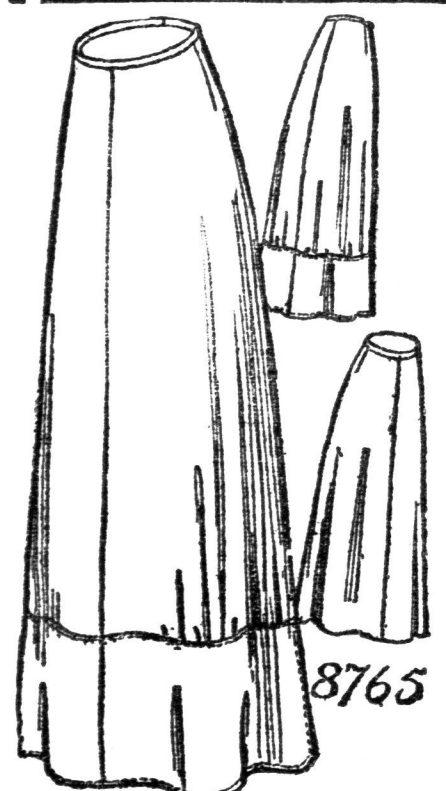

When sewing on buttons, put the thread through before you lay the button on the garment, so that the knot will be on the right side. That leaves it under the button and prevents it from being ironed or worn away, and thus beginning the loosening process. Before you begin sewing, lay a large pin across the button, so that the threads go over the pin. After you have finished filling the holes, draw out the pin and wind the thread round and round underneath the button. This makes a stem to sustain the pulling and wear of the buttonhole.

A useful little garment to wear with a white or light shirtwaist is a shirtwaist protector, which will keep it from coming in contact with the dark lining of the coat. It can be made of soft white China silk or of thin mercerized material and with very little fuss. The edge is turned under and finished with feather-stitching or simply stitched on the machine with silk. Fasten the waist with small buttons and buttonholes and the sleeves may also be fastened in the same way over the cuffs after it has been slipped over the light waist.

If something new be your aim in matter of the ornamentation of a blouse, drawn work is suggested by some of the most successful makers as an effective relief from the personal insertion or embroidery. The coarse meshes so much in use this season offer stability and an unusual coolness, to which characteristics is added the easy "drawing" quality. When marquisette or voile is drawn and worked with coarse linen thread in some of the simpler drawn-work patterns the decorative value is wonderfully increased. Squares, lines and pointed plaques are attainable, and when the whole blouse is built over a contrasting color to bring it into harmony with the skirt the result is decidedly successful.

Watch Your Linen.

One of the most important departments in the management of a household is that which embraces a care of linen. Accordingly when this is well dried and put away in the closet the next duty is to secure it from the effects of damp and insects. These intruders are often destructive, but they may be prevented from doing injury by making bugs and filling with lavender, cedar shavings or a strong perfume and placing among the linen. In all cases it will be found that the linen as well as all other washable articles will be economized by being examined and where necessary carefully repaired previous to sending to the laundry. The articles ought also to be numbered and arranged after washing so as to have their regular turn in domestic use.

ADVERTISER PATTERNS
BEAUTY PATTERN COMPANY.

No. 8765—A Stylish, Up-to-Date Skirt. Ladies' two-piece circular skirt with or without circular band. This model shows a very slight suggestion of the "caught in" or "banded" effect now so popular. It may be developed without the band. The skirt is circular in shape, and has a seam at the centre, front and back. It is adapted to all dress materials. The pattern is cut in five sizes—22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. It requires 4½ yards of 44-inch material for the 24-inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

USEFUL HINTS

The season of jellymaking is really opened by the current, but in economical households in early and town the real paucity of the supply of jelly gasses do not begin until the cranberries are on their heavily laden boughs and the grapes reach that point where they are nearly sweet enough to eat, but just right for jelly.

Just why jelly making should be such a practically difficult process it is hard to see, if one has the trained eye of the cook or even of the amateur candy maker. I do not understand why she cannot tell when the half-sugar mixture has reached the stage called done. The juices which will not jelly readily are those of fruits gathered just after a rain. They have absorbed too much water as to make excessive boiling necessary.

Over-cooking gives jelly that strong disagreeable taste that has often led members of the household to shun this treasure among the household stores. It may keep better if cooked an extra minute or two, but to cook it long enough to make a jelly that is irritating to delicate digestions is more than unwise.

Jelly never should be hoarded. Deterioration inevitably sets in with age. If we save it too long we are like the miser eating his apples. He waited always until they decayed, and then never ate anything but rotten fruit, and his family went without.

Watch Juices on the Stove. Fruit juices and sugar are not things you can put away unharmed as you would soup. They require attention when they are over the fire. When the liquid on the way to jelly reaches a certain point it will boil up and over with extraordinary quickness. It gets once started the gas may be turned off, yet over it will roll unless it is lifted quite away from the hot iron, and even then the bubbles of sweetness may go on swelling more and more.

If good tart apples can be obtained, apple jelly can be made at any time during six months, but the stored fruit has not the life and flavor of that freshly gathered. The old-fashioned flannel bag is still used in making apple jelly. An excellent jelly to serve with lamb and cold meats is an apple jelly flavored with mint, often called mint jelly. It must be made with special care or a good apple jelly is spoiled and nothing worth having is obtained. Those who have rose geraniums growing in their garden beds or window boxes drop a leaf or two into their apple jelly, but this seems a little like adding perfume to the violet. No flavor should be added to a jelly made of a very acid apple. Freshly gathered, the old-fashioned flannel bag is still used in making apple jelly.

Plum Jelly Attractive. Plum jelly is good to look at, but not so good to eat as it looks often. If one can easily procure a supply of tart, bitter plums, and wishes to utilize them by making jelly, they should be put in water to which a little soda has been added, and allowed to come to a boil. Then they must be drained and fresh water barely enough to cover added. After this, they are cooked until tender. They, too, should be strained through a flannel bag if a clear jelly is sought. One might formulate a whole jelly-making code and to this add corollaries in reference to how to handle each particular kind of fruit. The juice should not be stirred in cooking. It should be simmered until reduced a fourth, whatever the particular fruit requires, some being much more watery than others. Fruit ripened in a great deal of sunshine requires less sugar than otherwise.

TALES FROM ARABIAN NIGHTS

It was midnight when at last the horse stopped on some piece of solid substance. He found himself on the terrace of a wonderful palace, all white and gold, with guards lying asleep across the entrance. He entered on tiptoe and saw that he was in the apartments of some princess, and without hesitation he crept toward the couch where she lay asleep and gently twined her sleeve. The princess awakened and looked up into the eyes of the very handsomest man in the world—at least, that was the princess' immediate decision. He told her who he was and his adventures as briefly as possible, and then begged the princess to tell him where he was.

"This," said the princess, "is the country of Bengal, and I am the daughter of the king. I am glad to welcome you to our land. In the morning my father will receive you, and in the meantime, she awoke several of her attendants, and smiled at their surprise at sight of a mere man in such a place. They proceeded straightway to obey their lady's orders. They lighted a great number of long candles and conducted the prince to the set of rooms that were set aside only for the greatest kings and princesses.

The next morning the princess sent word to the king concerning their visitor, and then she proceeded to array herself in her loveliest robes and her most dazzling jewels. Then she went to receive a visit from the prince, who was delighted to find that she thought him more charming than he had appeared the night before. She urged him to tell the whole tale at greater length, and when she finished, she said, sweetly, "It is a long distance to your home, and you are weary. Stay and let us entertain you for a time. The prince expressed his pleasure at the invitation, accepted, and spent several months in a continual round of concerts and feasts and wonderful hunting parties. But at the end of that time the prince insisted that he must hasten homeward to relieve his father's anxiety. "And, princess," he added, "did I not feel that I am too bold, I would ask that you go with me as my wife."

The princess consented, and the next morning, before any of the palace folks were astir, the prince mounted the flying horse, the princess climbed up behind him, and together they went sailing toward distant Persia. They alighted in the market place at noonday, and you can imagine how glad everyone

Marking Linen for the Bride.
As I am to be married this fall, in marking my linen should I use my name or my husband-to-be?—PUZZLED.

Use your maiden initials or monogram on all your linen.

A Farewell Party.

A dear friend is going on a trip around the world; won't you suggest a luncheon menu?—PEARL.

For your luncheon serve first iced cantaloupe, then sweetened patties, potato croquettes, French peas, hot biscuit, a fruit salad with ice cream and a birthday cake with lots of candles. Ask each guest to bring a letter to be read en route and also ask each one to come prepared to relate an interesting travel experience.

The Proper Thing to Do.

If you had accepted an invitation to an evening party and a boy from out of town comes to your house, may you take him to the party? Is it proper to use the telephone to ascertain how friends are getting on?—PRISCILLA P.

It would not be proper to take a friend to a party or to any function without first asking permission from the hostess and finding out if it would be perfectly convenient and agreeable. It is perfectly proper and conventional to use the telephone as a medium of ascertaining how any friend is who may be ill, either man, woman or child.

A Man's Questions.

If a college friend dies in a distant city to whom should the flowers sent be addressed; also is it proper to send flowers and a congratulatory note to a girl known in former years and with whom I used to have very lively times?—M. P.

The box of flowers should be sent to any member of the family whose name you know with your card bearing a message of sympathy. It would be perfectly proper for you to send flowers and a note of good wishes to the girl friend of former years who has married in a distant city.

Invitation for a Picnic.

Please tell me how to write an invitation for picnic and what would be nice to eat?—A. E. D.

How will this do for a picnic invitation?

"There is going to be a picnic on the Bowling Green. So decide and tell me that there you will be seen."

Have three kinds of sandwiches, done up in waxed paper, salad in glass jar, small cakes, hard boiled eggs, and drinks in bottles. A watermelon may be carved.

Three Questions.

When a lady and gentleman shake hands, should the lady be the first to offer her hand? When a lady shakes hands with a lady or gentleman, should she remove her glove or if she does not should she ask her or him to excuse her glove? When passing a gentleman on the street should the lady keep the inside of the walk?—IGNORAMUS.

A lady always offers her hand first and she does not refer to her glove. It is usual for a man to walk on the outside, but she protects her in a way.

When a Man
Marries

By Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Copyright, 1909, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

So perfectly at home! I stood in the middle of the room and stared around at the copper things hanging up, and the dozens and hundreds of complicated-looking utensils, whose names I had never ever heard, and I was dazed. I tried with some show of authority to instruct Flannigan about gathering up the soiled dishes, and after listening in puzzled silence for a minute, he stripped off his blue coat with a tolerant smile.

"Lave 'em to me, miss," he said. The "miss" was a new word to me. "Mayn't I give 'em a Turkish bath, which is what you are describin', but I'll get the grease off all right. I always clean up while the missus is in bed with a young 'un Wilson," he said.

He rolled up his sleeves, found a brown checked gingham apron behind the door, and tied it around his neck with the ease of practice. Then he cleared off the plates, eating what appeared to him as he did so, and stopping now and again for a deep-throated chuckle.

"I'm thinkin'," he said once, stopping with a dish in the air, "what a deuce of a noise there'd be when the vaccination doctor comes around this mornin'." In a week everyone of us will be nursin' a sore arm or walkin' on one leg, beggin' your pardon, miss. The last time the doctor was vaccinated I asked to be done behind me ear; I needed me legs and I needed me arms, but didn't need me head much!"

He threw his head back and laughed. Mr. Harbison laughed too. Oh, we were very cheerful! And that awful stove stared at me, and the kettle began to hum, and Aunt Selma sent down word that she was not well, and said she would come on her tray.

Omelet! I knew that it was made of eggs, but that was the extent of my knowledge. I muttered an excuse and ran upstairs to her neck, and said she didn't know anything about omelets and didn't care. Food would choke her. Neither of the Mercer girls knew either, and Bella, who was still reading in the den, absolutely declined to help.

"I don't know, and I wouldn't tell you if I did. You can get yourself out, as you got yourself in," she said nastily. The simplest thing, if you don't mind my suggesting it, is to poison the coffee and kill the lot of us. Only if you decide to do it, let me know; I want to live just long enough to see Jimmy Wilson."

Bella is the kind of person who gets on one's nerves. She finds a grievance and hugs it; she does ridiculous things and blames other people. And she is very cheerful!

I went downstairs despondently, and found that Mr. Harbison had discovered some eggs and was standing helplessly staring at them.

Omelet! Eggs—omelet! That's the extent of my knowledge," he said, when I entered. "You'll have to come to my assistance."

It was then that I saw the cook-bell, lying on a shelf above the clock, and while Mr. Harbison had his back turned I got it down. It was quite clear that the domestic type of woman was his ideal, and I did not care to outrival him in my belief. I took the cook-book into the pantry and read the recipe over three times. When I came back I knew it by heart, although I did not understand it.

"I will tell you how," I said with a great deal of dignity, "and since you want to help, you may make it yourself."

"Fine!" he said. "Suppose you give me the idea first. Then we'll go over it slowly, bit by bit. We'll make a big fluffy omelet, and if the others aren't around, we'll eat ourselves."

"Well," I said, trying to remember exactly, "you take two eggs—"

"Two!" he repeated. "Two eggs for ten people!"

"Don't interrupt me," I said irritably. "If it isn't enough we can make several omelets, one after the other."

He looked at me with admiration. Who else but you would have thought of that? "Well, here are two eggs. What next?"

"Separate them," I said easily. No, he didn't know what I meant. I hoped he would; I said it as casually as I could, as you did that recipe. I was sure he was staring at me, puzzled.

"Separate them!" he said. "Why, they aren't fastened together!" Then he laughed. "Oh, yes, of course!" When he looked he had not one at each end of the table. Afraid they'd quarrel, I suppose, he said. "Well, now they're separated."

"Then beat."

"Then beat, then beat!" he repeated. The author of that cook-book must have had a mean disposition. What's next? Hang them? He looked up at me with his boyish smile.

PIRMAN IN BIPLANE LOST HIS WAY IN FOG

He Could Do Nothing But Circle Around, Not Knowing Where to Go.

New York, Sept. 6.—Captain Thos. Baldwin is the first aviator to lose his way while sailing through the air. Experience he had yesterday may result in bird men carrying compasses in the future.

Baldwin made a flight at Mineola. The weather was cloudy and the fog came in over the island. When up a distance that he does not know, he found he had run into a cloud and fog bank and could see nothing.

The aviator field had disappeared from sight. There was nothing to do but keep on moving. He was afraid to descend, not knowing where he was, that he was over, or how high he was.

"All I could do," he said afterward, "was to keep on going. I did this. I made up my mind that I could sail round in a circle about on the level I was, until I got my bearings. I just kept going in a circle waiting for something to happen. Finally I heard the throb of a motor and knew that someone else was in the air, and wondered if there would be a collision. I just kept on going until I saw the other machine until I could see where it was and in what direction it was going. A few seconds later I made out the shape of a plane, it was a little below me. I decided to follow it. I did so, and soon was out of the fog bank and over the aviation field. Then I came down."

The man who led Captain Baldwin out of the mist was Harry Harkness, the Cleveland aviator, who was taking a sail and testing his machine. He was practicing for the international meeting, where he has entered for several of the prizes. His being in the air probably saved Captain Baldwin from circling around for a long time and landing perhaps miles from the starting point.

There were several flyers out at the time. Joe Seymour made five flights in the evening. Charles Schriener came to grief twice in the Diesel machine, landing in the old graveyard, and repaired and went up again.

MUSCULAR PRIEST THRASHES INSULTER

Father Tracy Thrice Floors a Man Who Tore Off His Roman Collar.

St. Louis, Sept. 6.—Rev. Father John A. Tracy, noted baseball fan and hero of many spectacular happenings, including the collapse several years ago of a baseball pavilion at Philadelphia, last night thrice felled with his fists D. C. Lenihan, of Sioux City, Iowa, a travelling salesman, who subsequently was arrested and locked up.

Father Tracy was sitting in front of the American Hotel talking with two friends, when, according to witnesses, Lenihan stepped up, and addressing an insulting remark to him, struck him on the face. Blood spurted from Father Tracy's nose. Before he could arise from his chair, Lenihan snatched off the Roman collar and threw it on the sidewalk.

In an instant Father Tracy was on his feet, landing first with the right and then with the left on Lenihan's jaw. The salesman fell in a heap. He rose and started again toward the priest. Father Tracy drew back and called for someone to take his place in the fight.

The men standing around were momentarily too excited to respond.

Father Tracy had on his spectacles, and as Lenihan approached, he crouched to avoid a possible blow in the eyes. Then, quick as a cat, he landed another blow on Lenihan's face, and the salesman went down again. This was repeated, and Father Tracy was "wading in" to "put him out" for good when the police arrived.

TO BANISH SMOKE FROM WAR SHIPS

British Admiralty Experiments With Internal Combustion Engines for Navy.

London, Sept. 6.—For several days rumors have been in circulation that the introduction of internal combustion engines as a means of propulsion for the largest warships of the British navy is imminent, and a definite report has been published that the admiralty has decided to install this type of prime mover in one of the new battleships about to be laid down.

The report has created a considerable stir in naval and engineering circles, while to the public at large, which has not sufficient technical knowledge to appreciate the significance of the change, there is at any rate something striking to the imagination in the thought of a huge vessel, noiseless, smokeless and without funnels, gliding through the water at high speed. But the report lacks confirmation and is obviously premature. As more than once stated, important experiments are in progress, but it will be some time yet before the oil or gas engine replaces steam machinery on board a big battleship or cruiser.

When the change does come there is every reason to believe that it will first be seen in a British vessel, for, as was the case with the steam turbine, the naval authorities would not allow themselves to be outstripped by a foreign power. For this reason their plans and intentions are kept as secret as possible. It is known, however, that orders have been placed for the twenty destroyers in the naval programme of the year, and six out of this number were allotted to three firms, which are building them to special designs.

Two of these firms are Thornycroft and Yarrow, which have had considerable experience with internal combustion engines, and it seems probable, therefore, that two or more of the vessels may be fitted with this type of propulsion. It is known that in the vessels to be built by each of the firms in question the machinery fitted will differ not only from that of the others but from that of any other British destroyer.

The installation of marine gas engines aboard a destroyer may not seem to indicate any material advance, and is certainly a different thing to using them aboard a battleship. But it will be a step forward, for at the present moment the greatest horsepower obtained with the internal combustion engine for marine purposes is not more than two thousand, whereas seven times as much power is required for a modern destroyer.

In his memorandum accompanying the navy estimates for 1911, the first lord referred to the satisfactory trials of the small motor boats using heavy oil which have been constructed recently for naval use. Most of these have been appropriated to harbor service, and valuable experience has been obtained with them. But Mr. McKenna added that up to the present it has been considered that there are not sufficient advantages to warrant the replacing of steam machinery by oil engines in the power boats attached to ships, except in special cases.

From this it will be seen that the admiralty is proceeding very cautiously, for the motor boats referred to develop not more than three hundred horsepower, and are similar to the one known as the "Viceroy," which is the late king Edward made a trip in the Solent during his stay at Cowes for the regatta and naval review in 1907. From such craft to the battleship is a far cry, and the notion of fitting such a vessel with internal combustion engines would not be credited but for the recollection that as far back as March, 1907, Mr. McKenna, then first lord of the admiralty, announced in a lecture that his company would be perfectly willing to accept an order for such a vessel and give the usual guarantee incidental to such an undertaking.

At that time it seemed that the engine driven by suction gas produced on board from anthracite or even possibly bituminous coal, would be that eventually adopted, but recent developments have brought the oil engine into greater prominence. Not only has an advance been made with the mechanism, but the question of the quantity and supply of the heavy oil or petroleum residue used by it is not such a difficult one.

Much attention is being directed to the order recently placed in Germany by the Hamburg-American Steamship Company for a 10,000-ton cargo vessel to be driven by two Diesel oil engines, each of 1,500 horsepower, with a speed of 12-1/2 knots, and the results obtained with this ship will undoubtedly have some effect upon the future of the oil engine for marine purposes.

But a warship of the latest type requires, besides great horsepower, high speed, and no pretence has yet been made that the gas or oil engine will give this. They have been rather advocated from the point of view of reliability and economy in working. But as Lord Graham once said, in directing attention to this point: "It is all a matter of development. The greater the amount of experience gained the sooner the speed will come." It is well known that both Lord Fisher and Sir Arthur Wilson favor the introduction of the internal combustion engine in some form, owing to the great gain in mobility and fighting efficiency which would accompany it. The technical staff at the admiralty, both in the engineering and constructive departments, are also alive to the necessity of carefully watching its progress. But it rests with the treasury to sanction the expenditure necessary for the initial experiments.

ZEPPELIN'S CRAFT BARRED

Cannot Carry Passengers Above the City of Strassburg.

[Associated Press.] Strassburg, Germany, Sept. 6.—What practically is a complete prohibition for the Zeppelin or other passenger carrying airships to make trips over this city or vicinity has been decreed by the government. The military authorities feared that foreign passengers might photograph the fortifications, and therefore declined to grant landing facilities to the airships.

In consequence of this order the company, which has been running an airship service from Baden-Baden will be compelled to return the passage money paid by persons intending to make trips from Baden-Baden and other points.

PRESSING DUTY WAS HER WATCHWORD

Florence Nightingale's Character Revealed in Her Letters.

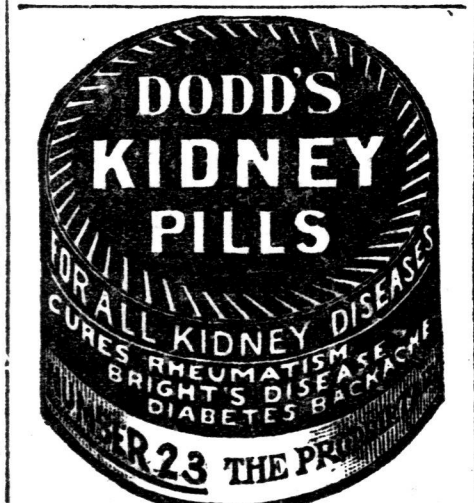

London, Sept. 6.—Some extracts from a number of hitherto unpublished letters written by the late Miss Florence Nightingale, some of them in facsimile, are published in the current number of the Christian Commonwealth.

Addressed to Surgeon James Pattison Walker, in India, the letters were written between nine and twelve years ago, between nine and twelve years after the Crimean War. For the most part they refer to hygiene and sanitary matters, but some interesting side lights and personal matters are included.

It is remarked that "there is not one unkind sentence in any of her letters." A reference to a certain highly placed official as a "snob" is followed by the apologetic parenthesis—"which is a very disrespectful form of speech on my part."

Much the most interesting is the last letter of the series. It was written on Aug. 10, 1888, and in the course of it the writer says:

"It is also eleven years this very day since I was taken ill with the illness from which I have never risen again. You see how much I have to thank God for, who has indeed led me by a way which I have not known. At the same time He has seen fit to send me troubles and trials, like waters which one could not cross, were one to look down into them. I am almost the last survivor of my fellow workers in England, men, some of them, but little older than I. And this very day has seen the death of the best and dearest

WILD ENGINE STRIKES PASSENGER TRAIN

Engineer Was Killed and Dozen Workmen More Or Less Injured.

Masillon, Ohio, Sept. 6.—A runaway locomotive on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad crashed into a passenger train at Run Junction, seven miles south of here today, killing the engineer of the passenger train, Chas. W. Foster, of this city.

None of the passengers were seriously hurt.

The runaway started at Warnon, four miles south of Masillon. It was north-bound when it crashed head-on into a south-bound freight. The engineer had a little time to throw on the reverse. Then he jumped to safety.

The pilotless locomotive, from the impact with the freight engine and with full speed on, backed up the track. It passed through Navarre, and at Run Junction smashed into the passenger train, a local, north-bound from Brewster to Orrville. The passenger train had on board 100 people, including workmen belonging to the Wheeling and Lake Erie road.

A dozen workmen received minor injuries.

BURGLARS TERRORIZE SUMMER RESORT

Narragansett Residences Looted of Valuables—Police Seem Powerless.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Sept. 6.—Terror has seized the summer residents of Narragansett Pier following the robbery of the home of Mr. Edward L. Welch, of Philadelphia, and the attempt to enter Dunmore, the cottage of Mrs. R. G. Dun, of New York. Twice before in the last few days have villas been robbed of treasured jewelry, and three times earlier in the season burglaries were reported. As a consequence a general alarm has been sent out by the police, who seem unable to cope with the situation, for the residents to keep a constant guard over their homes at night.

The chief of police, James D. Caswell, has sent word to all homes advising the use of iron safes, but the residents, thoroughly aroused over the loss on every hand of thousands of dollars of valuables, will have a guard constantly kept.

The robberies, it is thought, are the work of an organized band of "second-story workers," who climb to the porches of the villas while the occupants are at dinner or are dining out, and ransack the bedrooms of hosts and visitors. The amount of loss suffered by Mr. Welch last night has not been ascertained. Mr. and Mrs. Welch were away during the early part of the evening, and when they returned it was discovered that gems belonging to a guest had been taken from the second floor. Detectives from New York were sent for immediately, but found no trace of the intruders.

The cottage of the Welches is called Shadow Farm and is at Wakenfield, a short distance above the Pier. Earlier in the evening a maid at Dunmore saw two men climbing on to the roof from a porch. They had been trying to force open a second-story window. The men slid to the ground when the maid screamed and were fleeing through the bushes along the drive when the butler, attracted by the screaming, came running out. He gave chase, firing several shots, but could get no accurate description of the men.

The first robbery of the season was at the cottage of Mrs. Irving Chase, of Waterbury, Conn. Mrs. Chase and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Chase, had gone out for the evening, and when they returned found their rooms in wild disorder, the robbers having gone through every possible place where valuables might be kept. Their loot was valued at $2,000, and consisted of a gold brooch, class pin and a few rings belonging to Miss Chase, and a gold watch and gold bracelet set with diamonds, the property of Mrs. Chase. No trace of the valuables was ever gotten.

Several days later two men were frightened from the home of Mrs. Alfred E. Norris, of Philadelphia, before they could get anything.

At the Chase robbery and the attempt on the Norris home no alarms were given until Wednesday. Mrs. Louis Kaufman reported the loss of $3,000 in jewelry to the police. Mrs. Kaufman, a New York woman, had been visiting Dr. and Mrs. Archibald G. Thomson, of Philadelphia, and with them went to the Casino for dinner. In their absence the robbers climbed a porch in the rear of the cottage and forced a second-story window, which opened into Mrs. Kaufman's rooms.

Details of Mrs. Kaufman's loss, which included several rings and trinkets, diamond set, were still fresh in the minds of the police when Mrs. Nelson Macy, of New York city, a daughter of Professor and Mrs. Brand Matthews, reported the theft from the Matthews' cottage of $300 in rings and jewelry. The robbery was committed while Professor and Mrs. Matthews were at dinner in the evening. Mrs. Matthews heard a noise on the second floor and, believing it to be Mrs. Macy's little daughter, who was

SIDE LIGHTS ON MANY SPORTSLONDON CLUB BOWLERS DEFEAT
BRITISHERS BY 91 SHOTS TO 69
RUNAWAY MATCHES DECIDING

Dr. Jeff Wood's Rink Piles Up Score of 25 to 7 in Match With John Kirkland's Four—Visitors Given Auto Drive About City and to Byron Sanatorium—Meet Thistles This Afternoon.

The British bowlers were defeated yesterday by the London Bowling Club, 91 to 69, on the local grounds.

The London players were on two rinks, another ended in a tie, while the British won the fourth. There was a good gallery watching the play.

After the auto drive yesterday afternoon, the visitors were taken to the greens, where Mr. Joseph Wood, president of the London Bowling Club, gave them a very hearty welcome.

Mayor Beattie was then introduced, and tendered the visitors the freedom of the city. He expressed his extreme pleasure at meeting so fine a body of men, and hoped that their stay in the city would be extremely pleasant. His worship spoke along patriotic lines, and referred to Canada as the brightest gem in the empire's crown. He was liberally applauded by the visitors.

On behalf of the W. O. B. A. Mr. James S. McDougall gave the visitors a royal welcome to Western Ontario, and declared that during their itinerary they would meet many clubs, and a number of fine fellows. He outlined the district to be covered while in this territory, and emphasized the fact that they would meet as fine bowling as could be had anywhere.

Making Things Homelike for the Visitors.

"This afternoon you will play on the banks of the Thames, and tomorrow you will play on Piccadilly street," said Mr. McDougall. "That ought to remind some of you at least of Old London."

Then the bowling commenced. Mr. John Stevenson drew Skip A. J. Smith's rink; Mr. J. S. McDougall was given Capt. Morrison as opponent; Dr. Jeff N. Wood was drawn with Skip John Kirkland, while W. R. Vining and the great McColl were put together. And then the game started.

The ladies of the London Bowling Club, Mrs. Ed. Wood, Mrs. J. S. McDougall, Mrs. J. S. McDougall, and others, served afternoon tea during the play, and the ladies in the visiting party were given as enjoyable a time as possible. A large number of city ladies came down to the greens to enjoy the hospitality of the club.

After the game the visitors were given an auto ride about the city. They also visited Byron and the consumption sanatorium, and saw many places of interest on their trip.

All Worked the Drains.

The bowling was excellent all the way through. Both the Canadians and the Britishers played the wide game, runners being few. When they were tried, either by the locals or the visitors, they were successful. However, on the whole it was a case of draw all the time, and some of the finest heads ever seen on the local grounds were played.

The feature of the afternoon was the defeat of John Kirkland's great four. Skip Kirkland has been bowling brilliantly himself, and his rink has been going well all during the Canadian tour, and they had not lost a quartette. Although the score was quite overwhelming, every end was hard fought and the bowling brilliant. There were no big ends during the afternoon. Tony Tillmann, the head, was particularly good, while J. K. Spry played steadily. Pete Bowden and Dr. Wood, the great pair of southpaws, were in fine form. Kirkland's rink played beautiful bowls, too, McDougall and Morrison had a great battle, the score being tied at the finish, 17 all.

An Exciting Finish.

At the eighth end, McDougall had a fine lead, but the Britishers kept coming, and before the end of the game were on even terms. On the last end, McDougall lay shot but Morrison by a brilliant draw shot in close to the kitty, tying the game up. McDougall himself was in green form, while Morrison's four presented as strong and evenly balanced a quartette as could be desired.

Another close finish was that between Stevenson and Smith. The local man made a runaway start, and in four ends had accumulated 13 shots, a six end featuring. With the score 13 to 6 against them, the Scotchman settled and played magnificent bowls. On the twelfth end they evened the score up. After that it was a ding-dong game.

Score Tied Twice.

On the twentieth end the score was again a tie. Smith built up a fine head on the last end, lying three shots.

John Lochead cleaned the platter by a brilliant running shot, and the locals were three up. Smith made a perfect draw, trailing the Jack into a group of his own bowls. Stevenson drew the fine shot, but could not get the shot, and the Britishers lay three. The game was splendidly bowled. Lochead, Stevenson, Jeffrey and Smith bowling particularly well.

"Barney" Vining's colts had a merry time with Skip William McColl's rink, several rather large ends featured this contest. McColl scored a 6 and a 4, while Vining got a 5 and a 4. Johnnie Pillans thought that luck featured in this game, but it must be said that the Colts performed well. They were up against as stout a rink as one would want.

Got Runaway Start.

The locals got a runaway start, but the Britishers evened it up on the thirteenth end.

After that Vining's four had a little the best of it. A misplaced runner of Vining's did change the complexion of the game. With the visitors lying 5, Vining tried a runner. It went wrong, got a wick and burned the end. McColl was in a strong position at the time, and this end certainly made a difference.

Altogether, the Britishers do not seem as strong as four years ago. Five of the same players, Morrison, Pickard, McColl, Pillans and Jeffrey were here then, and have not lost any of their cunning. However, the visitors are worthy of any bowlers' steel. The scores:

DETROIT DEFEATS
CLEVELAND AGAIN

A Lot of Hitting and Little Run Making Marks the Contest.

NAPS WORK RATHER POOR

Men on Bases in Every Inning But One, But Only Two Scored.

Detroit, Sept. 6.—Detroit defeated Cleveland, 6 to 2, today in a game marked by a lot of hitting and comparatively little run-making. Cleveland had men on the bases in every inning except the last, 12 being left.

LANGFORD FINALLY LANDS JEANNETTE

Sam Gives Opponent an Awful Beating and Settles Long Standing Argument.

BELL SAVES JOE FROM K.O.

"Tar Baby" Beats Tatoo on Opponent's Body, and Slams Him as Gong Sounds.

Boston, Sept. 6.—Sam Langford, the short, dusky gladiator, defeated his old-time rival Joe Jeannette in a 15-round battle tonight at the Armory, A. C.

From the second that Referee Charley White called "time" it was a real fight. Both men have met so often that this was about the last time the public would fall so they wanted to make it a decisive fight.

Jeannette had thirteen pounds advantage over his short opponent, but that made no difference to Sam. He went after his tall rival like a wild cat, and gave him the worst thrashing he received in many years.

Repeatedly Langford would shoot over his terrible left to Jeannette's kidneys, and then shift his right to the jaw. Jeannette broke ground several times, but he was game to come up looking for more. Langford really got tired slugging Jeannette.

In the tenth mixing he caught Jeannette off his guard and let loose both fists. Like piston rods they kept boring in on Jeannette's body and the crowd expected to see the big fellow topple over. He staggered around the ring with Langford right after him.

"Bang" would go Sam's right and Jeannette's head would jerk back like a shot. Then the terrible left would reach the stomach and Jeannette began to hang out the distress signals. He took a terrible beating in this session, and all the while he was lacking from his punches in the next few rounds.

When they tied the mark Langford opened hostilities by a lightning left jab that reached the mark. Jeannette retaliated and both got hurt. In the next round Langford started his play for the body. He got in some deadly wallops and riled Jeannette so much that he missed landing some mighty swings.

Sam Plays for Body.

For the next seven rounds Langford kept up his pitiless body punching while Jeannette played mostly for the face with a stomach punch thrown in now and then.

After Jeannette got his beating in the tenth he just fought to stay the distance. At the end of the round he grabbed hold of Langford and hung on until the referee was forced to separate them.

In the twelfth Langford started out to finish his man. Jeannette seemed to get a slight lease of life and for a minute they mixed up in furious fashion. Jeannette was the first to quit and he dashed into a clinch. The thirteenth and fourteenth were all Langfords.

Knockout Averted.

In the latter he caught Jeannette flush on the jaw and the big fellow's head rocked for a moment. But he tried to fight back and managed to stay the limit. The final mixing was a corker. Langford got both hands in play and his gloves seemed to beat a steady tattoo on Jeannette's body. From face to body they moved in. Jeannette's style while the beaten man was doing his best to save himself from punishment.

A CABLEGRAM FROM THE KING

His Majesty, George V., Sends a Message to Eucharistic Congress.

A COURTEOUS GREETING

Great Gathering of Church Dignitaries Presents a Scene of Pomp and Splendor.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—A cablegram was received by Archbishop Bruchesi, Metropolitan of Montreal, from King George V. yesterday afternoon, but the newspapermen could not get any information as to its contents, before the opening of the Eucharistic Congress in St. James' Cathedral at 8 o'clock last night.

The twenty-first Eucharistic Conference (the first ever held on this continent), presented a grand spectacle, when the bishops and archbishops, headed by Cardinal Vannutelli, the pontifical legate and Cardinal Logue, beautifully robed in scarlet and gold, left the archbishop's palace and coming out to Palace street, entered the cathedral from Dorchester, and proceeded to their respective places in front of the altar railing, the cardinal and the head officers of the congress occupying the leading places. The great cathedral was packed to the doors.

Cardinal Vannutelli, in his opening address, stated that in future these congresses would alternate between the old and new world. An important feature was the reading of a cable to the King, and his majesty's reply:

"Montreal, Sept. 5.—To His Majesty King George V., London: The Catholics of the empire, bishops, priests and laity present at the international eucharistic congress in Montreal pray your majesty to accept their respectful homage of unserving loyalty and their expression of profound gratitude for the medicinal and spiritual aid which your majesty has given them and the other visiting members of the congress, hailing from all parts of the world, with your majesty and the royal family continued happiness and prosperity. Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli."

The King's Message.

"Baltimore, Sept. 5.—His Eminence Cardinal Vannutelli, Montreal: I sincerely thank your majesty and all who are present at the international eucharistic congress in Montreal for the expressions of loyalty and good wishes contained in the telegram which I have received today with much pleasure and satisfaction."

Cable From Rome.

In answer to a cablegram to the holy father, the cardinal secretary of state sent the following:

"Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, Montreal, Canada. The holy father, profoundly touched by such cordial sentiments expressed by the countless visitors to the congress from the countries of the old and new world, of 120 bishops, and the large number of priests surrounding your eminence, offers sublime universal homage of faith, and love to Jesus and the eucharist, at the first international eucharistic congress held on the continent of America, joins with lively joy and emotion of the splendid manifestations of admirable piety, union and devotion of the Government, city, and Canadian people with the religious and patriotic ardor and enthusiasm with the congressionists during these touching solemnities and praying the abundance of His favor upon the peaceful and laborious work of confederation his apostolic benedictions."

Archbishop Bruchesi replied to the legate's address, and the ceremony closed with a short service.

THE CITY COUNCIL EXTENDS SYMPATHY

Resolution Passed Over Death of the Water Commission Chairman.

At the meeting of the city council last night a resolution of sympathy was passed to the family of the late Adam T. McMahon, chairman of the water commissioners.

As soon as the council organized, Ald. Fitzgerald moved the following resolution:

"Whereas the council of the corporation of the city of London has been informed of the death of Adam T. McMahon;

"And whereas Adam T. McMahon was a man of approachable disposition, and upright and honorable in business;

"And whereas Adam T. McMahon has for a number of years given faithful service on the court of regulation, and in 1910 discharged the arduous duties of chairman of the board of water commissioners of the city of London, with honor to himself and credit to the board;

"Be it resolved, that the council of the corporation spread on its minutes this record of the high esteem and appreciation of the faithful services of the late Adam T. McMahon in the interests of the city;

"Be it further resolved, that the council instruct the city clerk to forward to the bereaved family, the sympathy of the council in their sad bereavement, and insert in the minutes a copy of this resolution."

Ald. Jeffries seconded the motion, and in reply a standing vote.

Ald. Underwood then moved that the council attend the funeral in a body, and this was agreed to.

TO THE ENERGETIC WEST

Home Bank Manager in Ilderton Goes to Saskatchewan.

Mr. A. E. Wood, manager of the Home Bank of Canada branch in Ilderton, has selected the west as a field for his energies in the future, and takes the management of the Home Bank branch in Weyburn, Sask. During his term as manager in Ilderton he proved himself to be a competent and energetic bank manager, and his appointment in the west is a compliment to his fitness for "the hustling west."

CANADA BOUNDARY DISPUTE SETTLED

Treaty Settling It Made Effective by Signature of Taft.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Before leaving Beverly, President Taft signed a proclamation making effective the recent treaty between the United States and Great Britain settling the northeastern boundary dispute. The text of the proclamation has been made public at the state department. The new treaty was signed in Washington on May 21 last by the Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, and Secretary of State Knox. Ratifications were exchanged here on Aug. 20 last. The treaty defines the boundary line between the United States and Canada as beginning from a point in Passamaquoddy Bay lying between Treat Island and Friar Head and extending thence through Passamaquoddy Bay and to the middle of Grand Manan Channel.

The treaty of April 11, 1908, under which the agreement was reached, provided for the submission of the dispute to arbitration in case it was impossible to reach an adjustment by direct negotiation. Secretary Knox and Ambassador Bryce reached a direct agreement on the subject, however, and it was not necessary to resort to arbitration.

RAILROAD STRIKE SPREADS

Brotherhood of Carmen Say 5,000 Men Are Out in Texas.

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 7.—The strike of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen on the Southern Pacific, which was inaugurated last night, is spreading to the Gould lines in the southwest. The strikers include car repairers, checkers and inspectors on all lines of the Southern Pacific from New Orleans to El Paso.

One thousand men are out, according to the railroad officials, while the brotherhood officers say more than three thousand are on strike. Considerable delay in freight traffic has occurred, and the loss is heavy because cotton shipments are moving by the railroads, and it is important to get the cotton to port.

It is announced that the brotherhood men on the International and Great Northern and Texas and Pacific have quit, swelling the number who are handling a working contract with the roads and slight increase in pay to about five thousand.

MISS HOBSON DEAD

Second Victim of the Auto Accident on Hamilton Mountain.

Hamilton, Sept. 6.—Miss Dorothy Hobson, who was injured in an automobile wreck two months ago, is dead.

Miss Perkins, a trained nurse, for merly of this city, was with Miss Hobson at the time of the accident, and was instantly killed.

Miss Theodora Josephine Frankens, the blind student at the University of Chicago, who, as an honorary distinction, was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Society last year, received at the convocation of the university in June the degree of Latin and German.

REVEAL SOUL BY NEW MIND DEVICE

Peep Into Eternity Possible by Photos of Brains.

THOUGHTS ON SCREEN

Dr. Max Bafl Asserts Discovery Will Aid Reconstruction of Criminals.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—Material revelation of the human soul, the activities and substance of which have baffled since the world began, is now at hand, declare those who have knowledge of the apparatus being perfected by a Buenos Ayres scientist which, by a combination of the X-ray, extreme magnifying and a cinematograph, will reproduce the processes of thought.

Not only will it be possible to see the methods by which the living reach conclusions, decide their duty acts, plot and scheme, but a peep may for a moment be taken into the hereafter, and something of the soul in its moment of flight into eternity be seen.

So said Dr. Max Bafl, fellow of psychology at Clark University, in Worcester today. It is Dr. Bafl who is co-operating with the South American scientist in the perfection of his apparatus. One of the brain, and in fact any organ of the body desired, can be magnified five thousand times by the device, which is to be attached to the X-ray apparatus, and then in the cinematograph to a moving picture screen (the disclosures are made).

Light will be thrown on the problems of crime by this new achievement, believes Dr. Bafl. A man's mental picture may be measured to a nicety. And the mystery of the two great extremes in the mental scale, the brain of the genius and the brain of the fool, will be solved.

Locate Thought Area.

"It is as if a new continent had been discovered," he says. "The exact place in the brain area where thought takes place is not yet known. By this moving picture the picture will be solved, I believe. Once we study the movement of the brain cells magnified five thousand times we will be able to trace the exact path of a man's mind, and whether or not it is fitted for the work that he is doing."

By these means science will be able to discriminate in an instant the fit and unfit, and on the other hand, we shall be able to detect the criminal who is plotting insanity, for brain-storms, in that they are a definite mental phenomenon, and photographed.

"How could the soul be projected on the screen? This would be interesting. The records might be taken at the moment of death and immediately after. It is the belief that when the heart stops beating the soul leaves the body. Something may be learned of the soul by observing the changes in its habitat, the magnifying brain, at the moment when life ceases."

"The device which will magnify the brain, they are studying now by the use of X-rays. "Quintant hameroscopy," in other words, that which can magnify five thousand times. The soul of the brain, in other words, they are called, are very tiny, you know. Before studying them, the scientist must magnify them tremendously. With this invention these infinitesimal pictures will be able to measure at two thousand times their normal size. It will be as if a person were to watch the motions of an ant enlarged to the size of a rat."

Peculiarities of Brains.

"We know already that these persons

The British bowlers are today the guests of the Thistle Club. This morning an auto ride was arranged for the visitors, and they were taken out into the country, returning in time for lunch at the Tecumseh House. They are playing on the Thistle Club greens after dinner.

Going With Crane.

Mr. Arthur Holman returned to the city last evening, the comic opera company with which he was playing during the summer season. Mr. Holman leaves in two weeks to join W. H. Crane again. The latter has a new play this season called "U. S. Minister Jackson," and Mr. Holman has a leading part in it.

Melba Performs, Only One Melba.

Other firsts come and go, but there is only one Melba. Only one singer whose voice and art and personality are entirely unique. Only one of whom it may be said, as the famous Anton Chekhov said of her: "The most beautiful voice I have ever heard from human throat, the most perfect technique that the imagination can conceive."—Elvin Tracey.

A Fine Showing.

Among the many successful London poultry fairs at the Toronto Fair is the one at the London, Ontario, Rhode Island Red Club, which is the best collection in competition with some of the best American fairs. The club has two special ribbons offered by the Canadian Rhode Island Red Club, for best hen and best cockerel, and first cockerel, first hen, second, third and fourth cockerels, and first, second, third and fourth hens. The club has also a special prize for the best bird placed on eight.

Dennis-Dennis.

The home of Mrs. R. Dennis, 509 William street, was today the scene of a happy wedding when her daughter, Mary, was married to Mr. John E. Dennis, of Buffalo, N. Y. The ceremony was performed at noon by the Rev. Richard Whiting, B.A., pastor of the First Methodist Church, in the presence of a few near relatives. After their honeymoon tour, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will reside at 214 Connecticut street, Buffalo. The groom is the managing director of the Buffalo Litholite Company, of that city.

Death of Burly Kilbourne.

There passed away at Kilworth on Tuesday morning one of the pioneers of Delaware Township in the person of Mr. Burly Kilbourne. He spent all his life in the neighborhood in which he was born. Naturally of a retiring disposition he took no active part in public affairs, but was honored and respected for his upright life and honesty of character. He was in religion a Methodist and for many years was both a class leader and Sunday school superintendent. In politics he was a staunch Liberal.

William M. Carson, of 50 Argyle street, who has contracted a severe thirst for whiskey Tuesday that he pawned his wife's gold watch, and spent the proceeds for liquor. The court thought that Carson should be given a chance to sober up, and remanded him to jail for a week. Frank Watson, a drunk, for being drunk was fined $10 or 10 days. John Murphy, another drunk was requested to find a job and was remanded to jail for a week.

AN AUTO FACTORY FOR THE EAST END

Large Plant Likely To Be Established Within Short Time.

A large automobile factory is expected to commence operations in the east end some time this fall. Plans are now being made for the building, and the site has been secured. The building will be called for in two weeks, or as soon as the plans are completed. Local capitalists and investors are behind the venture, and several cars which are proving satisfactory in every way, have already been manufactured in a local machine shop.

If the delivery of the machinery required can be secured in time the factory will commence operations shortly.

COMMITTEE DROPS THAT CLAUSE AND STARTS WARM SESSION

Aldermen Wrangle Over Legality of Last Friday's Meeting and Decide to Drop Assessment Roll Matter For the Present.

The proposed publication of the assessment rolls caused a few rather pointed remarks at the council meeting last night.

It appears that in the report of No. 1 committee there was a clause recommending the publication. As Ald. Richter could not be present at last night's meeting, he spoke to Mayor Beattie about the clause, and when the report was read at the council last night his omission was at once noticed. Then the fun started.

"What about that clause?" asked Ald. Saunders, of Ald. Underwood, who read the report. "Why is it crossed out?"

Ald. Underwood, of course, did not know. "That recommendation was passed, and printed in the minutes," declared Ald. Saunders. "Why has it been crossed out? There has been no meeting of the committee since Friday night. What right has the chairman or anybody else to tamper with the minutes of any meeting? It is as rotten a piece of business as I have seen since I have been in the council."

Ald. Morgan wanted the mayor's ruling on the proceeding, and his wordship decided that as last Friday's meeting was a minority one it was not legal, and consequently the minutes were not strictly legal.

"Ald. Richter was the only member of the committee present," said his wordship. "He asked me if he could cross that out, and I gave my consent."

"That is not right," said Ald. Morgan. "A minority meeting is a meeting. I want your ruling as to whether or not he had the right to cross out the minutes."

Ald. Tancook also wanted to know by whose authority the minutes of the committee were altered.

Mayor Beattie insisted that as there had been no real meeting the chairman could report as he saw fit.

"Does Ald. Richter intend to drop this thing for all time to come?" asked Ald. Saunders. "It looks to me as if he would bring this thing up again. I know what would become of me if I altered a report. However, the only proper way for this council to act is to ignore the clause read, and refer it back to the committee. That is the only legal way. We will not urge this matter tonight. Let it go back until Ald. Richter is ready."

This was agreed to, and the matter will again come up in due form.

The Canadian Clubs in Convention

Toronto, Sept. 6.—The Association of Canadian Clubs opened its second annual convention today with delegates from 25 clubs present. President W. H. D. Miller occupied the chair. The question of inserting in the constitution of the association an act of defiance against any participation in political matters received considerable attention, and although generally favored was referred back for further consideration.

A resolution from the Moncton Canadian Club urging the association to endeavor to bring a more truly national celebration of Dominion Day was carried. The proposal to erect a monument at Greenwood, where Wolfe met with opposition from several delegates, who declared that the association should not use the Canadian Clubs as a means of raising money.

Miss Hurlbatt, of Montreal, also thought such a movement would antagonize the French-Canadians, and the matter was allowed to stand over.

Vigilant Raids the Nets of Poachers

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Officials of the fishery department have received confirmation of the seizure by the Canadian cruiser Vigilant of 47 nets set by United States poachers in Lake Erie. In addition it is announced that 3,500 pounds of fish were seized.

The acting superintendent of fisheries said: "These poachers are continually coming over and spreading their nets on our side. We often cannot locate their poaching boats, but when we find the nets we burn them. These small mesh nets we confiscate. They are used to catch small fish and sell them."

SHOULD CITY PAY PORTION OF PAVING?

Would Be Necessary If Municipal Asphalt Plant Is Installed.

The suggestion of Mayor Beattie, that the city purchase a plant for laying asphalt pavements and cement walks, curbs and gutters, is likely to have some opposition, although there is quite a bit of sentiment in favor of such a move.

Before an asphalt plant can be made a success, it is claimed that some change must be made in the method of financing permanent pavements of the city. The city would have to put down more permanent roads, the whole cost, and some aldermen claim that the city should pay a portion of the cost of the plant. The city would have to put down more permanent roads, the whole cost, and some aldermen claim that the city should pay a portion of the cost of the plant.

"If the city council would purchase a plant, and then initiate permanent pavements wherever it is thought necessary, regardless of the opinion of the people on the street, the plant will be a good thing," said an alderman. "However, it is the hardest sort of work to keep up a petition for pavement. When Richmond and Dundas streets are finished there will be very little to do, unless the citizens show a better disposition to petition than they have already shown."

Mayor Beattie and Chairman Pockock, of the water commissioners, are enthusiastic in favor of the project, and point out that if the cost of walks and pavements is a reasonable one there will be no difficulty in finding work for the plant.

Wilkins—Friend.
A very pretty wedding was celebrated by Rev. Father McKeon in St. Mary's Church at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Miss Beatrice Friend was united in marriage to Mr. William Wilkins. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Friend, of Chicago, and the groomsmen were Mr. Roy Nopper. The bride and bridesmaid wore large black picture hats, and imported lace gowns, set off with blue and pink trimmings, respectively. The bride carried the usual bouquet of white bridal roses, and the bridesmaid a bunch of pink asters. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl ring, to the bridesmaid a necklace, and to the groomsmen a pair of gold cuff links. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to 263 Dundas street, where the wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins left on the 11:18 train for Lansing, Mich., where they will make their home. The bride wore a blue travelling suit.

ding at 2 p.m. Monday, when Miss Lotta May Fitzwalter, of this city, became the bride of Spencer S. Thorp, of Detroit, formerly of this city. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Charles Fitzwalter, the bridesmaid being Miss Annie Beck, of this city, and Mr. Otto Bronson, of Detroit, acted as groomsmen. The bride carried white roses, the bridesmaid pink and white carnations. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and pink and white asters. The bride was dressed in white satin charmeuse, and the bridesmaid in white. Rev. W. M. Walker officiated. The guests were immediate relatives of the bride and groom, some being present from Sarnia and Detroit. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 165 Emery street. The bride and groom left on the 8:10 train for Detroit, where they will reside. The bride and groom received many handsome presents.

DR. W. H. DRAKE DEAD

Was the Oldest Physician in the County of Essex.

The death occurred in Windsor early yesterday morning of Dr. William H. Drake, father of Dr. F. P. Drake, of this city.
Dr. Drake was the oldest physician in Essex County, having practiced medicine at Kingsville for over 40 years. About 12 years ago Dr. Drake and family moved to Windsor.
He was born at Talbotville, Elgin County, 78 years ago, and was the son of a United Empire Loyalist. At the age of 21 years he graduated from the Toronto Medical College, and commenced active medical duties immediately.

While in Kingsville Dr. Drake was closely identified with the Conservative interests of the south riding, holding many important offices, and always taking an active interest in political matters in South Essex.

For the past year he had not enjoyed good health, and some time ago underwent an operation on his eyes for blindness, but without success. During the past week his condition grew serious.

He was a member of the Anglican Church of this city, and was also identified with the Masonic order in Kingsville.
Besides the widow, he is survived by the following: Dr. F. P. Drake, of London; F. A. Drake, barrister, of Toronto; W. E. Drake, Vancouver manager for the McClary Manufacturing Company, of London; H. O. Drake, of the Walkerville Bridge Company; A. B. Drake, of the law firm of Fleming & Drake; and Mrs. O. E. Fleming. A brother also survives in Cincinnati, O. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at Kingsville, in the family plot in the Anglican Cemetery.

FELL THROUGH WINDOW WHILE INTOXICATED

Walter Tune, a young man who Magistrate Love allowed to go as a first-timer at the police court yesterday, showed his gratitude by getting so drunk in the afternoon that he fell through a plate glass window at the J. E. Young store, and cut his head and face so badly that he had to be hurried to Victoria Hospital for treatment. He lost a great deal of blood. It is stated that Tune carried two large flasks in his pockets at the time of the accident. He was attended by Dr. H. A. Kingsmill.

CORRESPONDENCE

"To Make Men Weep."

Verily, our municipal government is "a spectacle to make men and angels weep." Those who so strongly censured the city council of 1909 are seeking for corners to hide themselves in, for, although the aforesaid council were noted for their fondness for travel at the city's expense, still when they were at home, they attended to business fairly well. There were some wise heads among them, too. On the other hand, the "Municipal Muddlers" of 1910 have distinguished themselves by a do-nothing policy, and will certainly go down to posterity "unwept, unhonored and unsung." Yet, 20, we speak too hastily, they have created new offices. We have now a consulting engineer. True, he never is consulted, but, what matter? It is a good, high-sounding title, and must carry weight with other and less-favored municipalities. We have also a publicity agent, who, some carping critics would have us believe, only emerges from obscurity when he wishes to draw his salary, but, let us hope on some day he may do something. Then there is an assistant city engineer, who is certainly doing good work. There are sundry assistants to the assistant, there are numerous other officials with their staffs of clerks, etc. There is to be a plumbing inspector. With, of course, his assistants. The council of 1910 are also noted for importing officials from a distance, and turning down London men of known ability, but this, too, adds an element of interest to city life. There is a pleasing risk about the unknown. A kind of picturesque charm, a delightful uncertainty, which would be entirely lacking in a competent London man. After all, there is very much to be said in favor of this unique method of selecting officials and creating positions. It is original and striking, and no doubt gives our city the name of being a good place to leave, or remain away from.

Seriously, is it not time to do away with the aldermanic form of city government and adopt government by commissioners. Elect five good, honest men, give them good salaries, and they will easily gain their salaries in one year. This has been tried in 60 American cities, and has resulted in lowering taxes, wiping out of city debts and great improvements in streets and public buildings.

CANADIAN CLUBS

Delegates Welcomed by Mayor of Toronto—Guests at Exhibition.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Sept. 6.—Delegates to the Association of Canadian Clubs, now in convention here, were welcomed by Mayor Geary on behalf of the city today, and at the expense of the city were driven round Toronto in trolley-coaches.
Tonight they will be the guests of the exhibition management at the big show.

ROOT AT NEW YORK

Says an Early Fisheries Decision is Certain.

New York, Sept. 6.—United States Senator Elihu Root got in today on the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse after having spent a good part of the summer as head of the American counsel before the commission appointed to settle the Newfoundland fisheries dispute.

Senator Root said he spoke for six days, instead of five, before the commission. But that was not the longest speech, as Sir Robert Finlay spoke for eight days.

The senator said that the decision would, he expected, be announced tomorrow afternoon, and while he would say nothing concerning the outcome, it is understood that a decision in favor of the British claims is anticipated by counsel.

MOVING NORTHWEST'S CROP

Some 88,806,203 Bushels Shipped From Port Arthur and Fort William in a Year.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—From the Canadian Northwest during the year ended Sept. 1, there were 88,806,203 bushels of grain shipped via Port Arthur and Port Arthur, as against 65,237,162 bushels in the year previous.
United States vessels handled 29,927,000, and Canadian 67,879,357 bushels.
From American ports 21,000,000 bushels of the wheat was reported, and from Canadian ports 42,000,000.

HEAVY RAINS IN TORONTO

Cellars Flooded and Sidewalks Washed Away—Sewers Inadequate.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Numerous complaints of the flooding of cellars as a result of the heavy rainfall on Saturday and Monday, were received at the city hall this morning. Many of the complaints were from merchants on Yonge and Queen streets. "The sewers were absolutely unable to carry off the floods," said Dr. Shand, city medical officer. "They are too small, and by the flooding of basements and stores a great deal of damage was done."

About 200 feet of concrete sidewalk on Balmor Avenue, and 25 or 30 feet of walk on Queen street, opposite Small's Pond, were washed out in yesterday's storm. The sandy roadway on Kewlinworth avenue also was washed out to a considerable extent. The east end of the city suffered more from the storm of Saturday and yesterday than the west end.

During the last six months the University of Wisconsin has developed the first municipal reference bureau established by a state university for the benefit of the cities of the Commonwealth, and it is now one of the most active departments in the university extension work.

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

THE Pandora is the range of many conveniences. It has a special Flue Construction which enables you to cook over every pot hole and bake in the oven at the same time. It has a Steel Oven which reaches baking heat faster than a cast iron oven. It has an absolutely Level Oven Bottom which prevents pies from running over. It has a tested, reliable Thermometer with easy-to-read figures.

The Pandora also has an Inter-changeable Cooking Top. You can set a boiler lengthwise or crosswise on the stove. You can remove the Fire Box Linings instantly with your hands. You can change the Grates from coal to wood in a few seconds. You can sharpen your knives on the Emery Section of the Patented Towel Bar.

Still other conveniences are the Larger Ash Pan—the easily-cleaned Enamelled Steel Reservoir—the smooth as glass Burnished Surface which only requires polishing once a week—the Perfect Spring High Closet Door which provides room for fourteen more dinner or dessert plates in the Polished Steel Warming Closet.

Several other conveniences described in our Pandora Booklet. Send for a copy.

A CHANGE ASSURED

Paris, Sept. 7.—The Matins' Lisbon correspondent quotes Alfonso Costa, a leading Republican deputy, as saying that despite the worst exhibition of electoral corruption he had ever witnessed, the Portuguese Republicans in the recent elections doubled their representation in the Chamber of Deputies, and now have an organization throughout the country which insures an early change in the regime of the kingdom.

"The monarchy is doomed," the Matins quotes Senor Costa as saying. "The position of the young king is untenable. By dignified abdication he would prevent bloodshed and revolution and earn the gratitude of his people."

YOUNG COUPLE'S BAD LUCK.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. B. Taffel after their wedding celebration early Sunday morning, returned to their home on Simard avenue, which they had just finished and fitted up, only to find the firemen playing water on the smouldering ruins.
The couple are Jews, and had been married but a few hours. They had spent all their savings on their new home.
Very little of the house was left standing, and all the furniture was destroyed. No one knew how the fire started.
