It is Necessary These Days

that you see things—and see them as others see them. Isaac Newton was hit on the head with an apple; it made him sit up and take notice. He saw the apple—he also saw "our laws of gravitation." In those days glasses were almost unknown. To-day there is no excuse for not seeing things. Spectacle lenses are made upon the most scientific principles and with mechanical precision. Let us examine your eyes if you don't "see things" as you should. Our examination will show the defects, if there are any present.

Beautiful Cynthia;

Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER XI.
PASSION'S SLAVE.

Northam promptly went to sleep again; he appeared to be able to sleep whenever he wanted to do so.

They reached the small house in Burton Crescent, in which Lady Alicia lived, nominally under the care of an elderly cousin, a nonentity whose poverty rendered her only too glad to occupy the position of chaperon to a young lady who knew a great deal more about the world than did Mrs. Clinton, and who was perfectly well able to take care of herself.

"I am going straight to bed, Northam," said Lady Alicia. "I am tired to death."

"You look it," said Northam, with brotherly candor. "Been rather a jolly evening, though," he added, as he sauntered heavily into the dining room and mixed himself a brandy and soda.

She leaned against the table in an attitude of weariness and lassitude, as if she were suffering from the reaction of a tremendous effort.

"Do you think so?" she said, the corners of her mouth drooping. "I have been bored to death."

Northam looked at her over the edge of his glass, with the stolid, impassive look which concealed a considerable amount of shrewdness.

"Thought you weren't having much of a time," he said, "but the rest of us enjoyed it. I fancy. I can answer for two, Frayne and Miss Drayle."

She shrugged her shoulders impatiently and raised her brows.

"Yes, she was like a girl at a Sunday-school treat," she said, with slow contempt.

Northam laughed. He was silent for a moment, then he said:

"That's a bit nasty, Alicia. She is just young and innocent; and the whole thing was fresh to her. Somehow it did me good to watch her. You don't often meet a girl like that. She was the pick of the basket there to-night; prettiest girl in the room, present company excepted."

"Mr. Frayne did not except even me," she said, with a kind of defiance.

Northam nodded. "It's plain to see what's the matter with him," he said. "He's head over heels in love with her."

Her face flamed and then went pale.

"Why do you tell me that?" she asked. "Do you think I've become suddenly blind?"

Northam was fond of his sister, and the bitterness that rang in her tone touched him. He laid his heavy hand on her white shoulder and shook her gently.

"Pill yourself together, old girl," he said. "I know how it is with you. But it's no use. He's hooked, he's up to his neck in love. Don't think any more of him."

"You'd go further than admiration," she said. "Oh, yes, you would! Do you think I don't know; do you think I don't know what a man means when he looks at a girl as you looked at her to-night! Why, you were struck with her the first time we met her in the Park! Northam—she leaped forward and laid her hand upon his arm—"why shouldn't you help me—and yourself?"

He thrust his hands in his pockets and stared down at his boots, so that she could not see his eyes; but a faint color had spread over his face.

"Why not?" she persisted slowly, persuasively. "You'd make a better match for her than he would. You know there isn't a man in London who wouldn't be out of the race for any girl if you took up the running."

He shook his head without raising his eyes.

"Not with this one," he said quietly. "That sort of thing wouldn't count with her. She'd take the man she wants and no other. The fact of my being the next duke wouldn't weigh an ounce with Cynthia Drayle."

She pushed his arm from her and laughed contemptuously.

"What fools men are!" she said scornfully. "You are all alike, you are all taken in by any school girl; you think them—oh, everything that's pure and disinterested. Take my word for it, that Miss Cynthia Drayle, in London and its suburbs, the directory contains lists of—"

Psoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

M. N. Massey.

Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.

But here is a case that was given up as pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ontario, writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and sores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema.

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box. All dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

the man was just gassing, as a drunken bouncer will. What could there be in it? Frayne's father is one of the biggest men in those parts. You're a bit of color to-night, old girl, and don't know what you're talkin' about. And, besides," he added, with a grin, "if there was any truth in that fellow's mauding, it would queer your pitch with Darrel Frayne."

"Do you think so?" she said, her voice suddenly soft, and thrilling in its intensity. "You don't know much of me, Northam; you don't know much about women. When they're as far gone as I am, they marry their man, though he were a pauper and were left with nothing but the clothes he stands in."

He flushed with a kind of shame for her, but there was no answering flush in her cheek; her eyes shone with passion now.

"You forced me to speak the truth, Northam," she said. "I am in love with Darrel Frayne—and I mean to have him, with your help or without it. Oh, don't be foolish, Northam!"

Her voice was now pleading, persuasive. "She is lovely as you say; I admit it. She is good—you have a weakness for good women—you know—she would make an admirable duchess; any man might be proud of her. And she's yours for the asking. Oh, Billy!"

It was only in moments of intense strain or affection that Lady Alicia called her brother by his old boyish name. "Don't be hard on me and yourself. Why should you give way to Darrel Frayne? She doesn't care for you; she's just that sort of girl. Think of her as your wife, your ver y own!"

She had put her arms round his neck, her eyes were looking into his temptingly, pleadingly, yet forcefully. He unlinked the white arms and put her from him almost roughly.

"You're talking through your hat," he said angrily and yet with a note in his voice which revealed the strength of the temptation. "For Heaven's sake, go to bed!"

She went without a word, but at the door she looked over her shoulder.

He had dropped into a chair, his legs were stretched out, his hands were thrust deep into his pockets, his heavy face was resting on his chest, his lips were compressed tightly, and his brows knit together with a frown.

She knew that her words had gone home, that they were working within him, and a faint smile passed across her weary face.

9550—A MOST DESIRABLE AND PRACTICAL DESIGN.

Ladies' Apron.

Blue gingham trimmed with blue and white striped percale is here shown. The design has a princess front, and is made with kimono sleeves cut in one with the body portions. Deep pockets firm the fronts. A belt confines the fulness at the back. The model is comfortable and easy to develop, and fills all requirements of a work apron. It is suitable for lawn, percale, gingham, seersucker, or chambray. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 7 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Misses Skirt in Tunic Style.

Brown serge was used for this design with fancy buttons and stitching in self color for a finish. The design is composed of tunic shaped front, lengthened by an added section that is plaited at the side. The panel back stitched in tuck effect, has plait extension below knee height. The Pattern is suitable for silk, satin, charmeuse, voile, gingham, percale, ratine, or crepe. It is cut in 5 sizes: 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 years. It requires 4 yards of 44 inch material for the 16 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

The Bonds are secured by a first mortgage on all the property and other assets of the Company. These assets are valued by the Canadian Appraisal Company at nearly three times the amount of the bonds outstanding.

Net Profits over a term of five years average nearly four times the amount necessary to pay the bond interest.

Price 100 and accrued interest, yielding a full 6 per cent. on the money invested.

Circular giving full particulars will be sent upon application.

Repose of Manner.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

FIVE young girls drifted together at the home of one of their number one afternoon and sat drinking afternoon tea and chatting, after the manner of carefree young folks.
Of these five girls, two were thoroughly plain young girls, entirely without style, and lacking a single notable feature.
And yet an older woman who came in to call on the hostess's mother and who met these girls for the first time, pronounced this fifth girl the most attractive among them.
"Why? Because she was the only one of them all who possessed that crowning quality without which many other charms are incomplete,—repose of manner."
Of the two pretty girls, the prettiest talked so rapidly, nervously and incessantly that it made anyone to whom she especially addressed her remarks nervous and ill at ease to listen to her; the other swooned down upon the kitten of the household the moment of her stay. Not for an instant were her hands still.

The distinctive girl with the style and the beautiful eyes was the hostess, and she poked the fire or redraped a curtain or did some nervous little thing whenever her duties as hostess did not keep her in action; and the little lady with the mop of red gold hair showed her lack of repose by a continual nervous laugh with which she punctuated her own conversation and that of everyone else.
The fifth girl sat with her hands quietly folded, listened much, talked little, laughed occasionally, fidgeted not at all, and received from the older woman,—who, by the way, is a rare judge of people,—the palm for being the most attractive.

To a large extent prettiness is a gift of the gods. So is style. And so are such qualities as quaintness, and such blessings as red-gold hair. But repose of manner is a charm within the reach of us all, and it is a potent and powerful charm. How strange it is that so few of us dare to take possession of our Kingdom!

And yet perhaps not so strange. For real repose of manner is the outward expression of repose of soul, and in these days of hurry, worry and wasted energy, there are sadly few of us who seem to have this deep serenity.

And yet perhaps not so strange. For real repose of manner is the outward expression of repose of soul, and in these days of hurry, worry and wasted energy, there are sadly few of us who seem to have this deep serenity.

Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."
"This 'Discovery' purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a bad cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be 'out of kilter' at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body & the weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel 'blue.'"
"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, chest, and body," writes Mr. JAMES G. KEENE, of 710 L. Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

Household Notes.

If the top of the stove is crowded the oven can be utilized for cooking vegetables which are usually cooked on top. Place the vegetables in covered agate pans.
It is best to heat the plates before putting hot pies on them when first taken out of the oven. If hot pies are put on cold plates they sweat, making the under crust soggy.
If you want to bake potatoes quickly clean them and pour boiling water over them. Let stand on the stove for five or ten minutes, then put them in the oven to bake.
Silver will remain bright much longer if after the articles have been cleaned they are rubbed with a soft flannel cloth dipped in linseed oil then polished with a chamois leather.
When making angel cake add one teaspoonful of cornstarch to the sugar and sift five times. The cake will be tender and velvety. To keep it moist and tender turn a crock over it.
A good way to clean stains from the hands is to take half a gupful of coarse cornmeal and one cupful of strong vinegar. Wash and rub the hands well in this, then rinse in warm water.
One teaspoonful of peroxide of hydrogen added to half a tub of water in which clothes are rinsed will act as a bleach. It gives a pure white

Wicked and Cruel Trade.

Lord Curzon, speaking recently in London, at a meeting of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, vigorously condemned the practice of using birds' plumage in millinery, after saying that he was not sure whether the modern world was far removed from the barbarian age, he continued:

"Women wear and are encouraged, or, at any rate, allowed to decorate their heads with plumage of the most beautiful and innocent things in creation. The whole world has to be ransacked and ravaged to supply this nefarious traffic. Suffering is caused to the wretched victims, for, by deplorable irony, the plumage most in request is that which can be procured only at the period of nesting. So they first proceed with the slaughter of the parents, and this is followed by the starvation of the young.
"The trade is also a wanton and wicked one, because, some of the most beautiful specimens of bird life are gradually being exterminated. The New Guinea White Egret is extinct in China, while in Venezuela one of its haunts is being destroyed.
"These feathers and skins are simply required to pander to the vanity of women and the idiosyncrasy of men."
Lord Curzon suggested legislation to prevent the importation of plumage into England and also urged that the big landed proprietors set up bird sanctuaries of their own instead of filling the coverts (with wretched pheasants to be driven to guns once or twice a year.

Heard Murder Committed

Over the Telephone was Evidence of Witness in a Case.
Paris, April 3.—At yesterday's inquest into the murder by bandit Lacombe, of the postmaster, W. Bestons, a witness told how he heard the murder being committed over the telephone. The evening of the murder he rang up the town exchange, which is the post office, and was answered by the postmaster's daughter. She had barely asked the witness what number he wanted when the witness heard her scream and then heard a series of confused sounds, among them raised voices and several crashes, followed by a peculiar crackling. A few minutes later he heard the agitated voice of the operator saying: "Come quick. They are killing father." The witness seized his revolver and ran to the post office, where he found the girl's father dead and the assailants gone.

Our Bureaucrats Got a Fright.

Mr. Kent gave our local bureaucrats a fright on Monday when he gave notice in the House of Assembly that he would move for an Address to the Governor to postpone the prorogation of the Legislature until such time as the departments of the Government had furnished to the House the information asked for.

The offending bureaucrats got very busy on Monday night and set their subordinates to work to hunt up papers, documents and compile information. The result of a few hours work was seen in the Assembly yesterday afternoon, when the offending Ministers began to disgorge the belated returns which had been called for in a number of cases in the early days of the session.

It was of course impossible to tell how far in many cases the answers covered the questions asked, but as the table became heaped higher and higher with the results of a few hours work of the defaulting departments, the evidence grew stronger and stronger of the guilt of the Government in delaying and suppressing information at an earlier stage.

If such a heap of returns could be made in a few hours work, how was it questions six weeks old had not been answered earlier?

The Government promised to furnish more answers to-day and if any then remained unanswered to send answers to the address of the questioners.

Smooth answers of a like nature have so often been given this session and default made and so little time was left for an examination of original documents tabled, that Mr. Kent made his motion which was voted down by a partisan majority who have the interests of their party more at heart than the dignity and privilege of parliament or the interest of their constituents.

The Premier's statement that "You may search the Journals of the House for the past 50 years, and for that period you will not find, in any one session, one third of the questions asked during the present session," can only be classed as an "etymological lexicetude."

We have searched the Journals and we had not to go back fifty years to prove that the Premier's statement is as reckless as his statement about the cost of the branch railways.

Indeed his inexactitude may be gathered from the Daily News report where almost in the same breath he says the questions of this session are more than double and then more than three times those of any session during the last fifty years.

Now as to the facts. This session nearly nearly 120 questions were asked, whereas in the session of 1908, the last session before the fall election of 1908, more than 130 questions were asked. Yet the Prime Minister had the brazen effrontery to declare that more than three times the number of questions had been asked than in any other session, which of course included that of 1908. The shoe was then on the other foot, then Sir Edward Morris was the principal man in the Opposition. Now he is the principal man in the Government and he has no liking for the exposures of extravagance and the reckless administration of his own Government.

In the Assembly.

When the House met yesterday, petitions were presented by several members. Mr. Clift presented one from Edward Wellman and others of Springdale and also one from R. White and others of the same place, praying that this place may be made a port of call for the Clyde. He heartily supported the prayer of these petitions and asked that they be referred to the Colonial Secretary's department for consideration.

He also presented a petition from the residents of Northwest Arm, Green Bay, in which petitioners observed that they had seen by the papers that the name of the settlement was to be changed and given a new name. Petitioners prayed that the name of "Riverdale" be given the settlement. Mr. Clift gave this his earnest support, thought the name suggested a very appropriate one, thought the petition protesting against a designation being given by the Committee in St. John's time, and asked that the Colonial Secretary transmit the petition to the Nomenclature here for their consideration.

The first subject for consideration on the Order Paper was Mr. Kent's motion which is reported elsewhere, an address to the Governor in connection with some thirty questions which had not been answered by Ministers.

Rossley Star Theatre.

Standing room only last night. Shadrack and Juliette Talbot and their trained dog Portland, delighted the large audience with their sketch "The Aristocrat and the Tramp." The singing of Juliette brought down the House and the picture of General Booth's funeral calls for special praise. We have all read of the great procession but to see it just as it took place, in a very grand and impressive sight, while the quartette singing behind the screen, "Nearer my God to Thee," all adds to the beauty of it.

The Police Court.

A member of the crew of the "Newfoundland" charged by Capt. W. Kean with being drunk and disorderly on board the ship, was fined $5 or 14 days.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days.
 A drunk was discharged.
 A man charged with being drunk and disorderly in his own house, and who was given in charge by his wife, he was also charged with threatening his wife whereby she was in bodily fear of him. He was fined $5 on the first count, and on the second was ordered to find two sureties, in $25 each or in default to go to jail for 30 days.

Last Night's Concert

Last night at the Presbyterian Hall the first of a series of concerts under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society, came off. There was a large audience and those who took part were: Mrs. Sheriff, Misses Strang, McKinley, Johnson, J. Strang, Butler, Hanlin; Messrs. Ruggles, Harvey, Roes, Summers, Herchel, Baird, Watson, Mooney, J. S. Green, Miss Ross, Messrs. Crocker and Methuen acted as accompanists.

Stella Maris Here.

The s.s. Stella Maris, Capt. Hann, arrived here this morning from the northward. Thursday and Sunday nights the ship had snow, rain, sleet and heavy winds, and on reaching Change Islands there was such a heavy jam of ice that the ship could get no further north, and the passengers for Twillingate had to get a boat and row on the inside of the ice up Cobb's Arm and then travel over the floe to their homes. The ship brought some freight and some passengers: Mr. Bussey, Wm. Blundon, F. Frost, Wm. Frost, H. Snelgrove, J. H. Snelgrove, J. J. Snelgrove, J. Duggan and wife, Mrs. B. L. Day, Jno. Critch, Miss Parsons, Mrs. (Capt.) N. Kean, Mrs. Hutchings, Miss B. Edwards and 10 in steerage.

Little Schooner Storm-Tossed.

When the little schooner Gertrude L. was about to leave here in mid-winter, especially in such stormy weather as then prevailed, many people had misgivings as to whether she would pull through or not. She was deeply laden with codfish by P. Templeman for Gibraltar. Mrs. Edgecombe, mother of the captain of the ship, had a letter from her son yesterday dated from Gibraltar, the 27th March, in which he states that the little ship had a terrible time of it, on the run across. After leaving here she was 6 days in the ice and later had terrific weather. Her sails and rigging were badly damaged, water casks and boats smashed in pieces by the seas which swept on board and considerable of the cargo had to be jettisoned, the men cutting through the bulkheads to do so, as to open the hatches would be to lose the ship. Captain Edgecombe and crew were beaten out after the voyage and the letter to Mr. Edgecombe, who lives in the West End states that the vessel would go on to Alicante to discharge.

The Neptune Arrives Home

With Good Fare Seals Stolen. The S. S. Neptune, Capt. Bob Bartlett, steamed into port at 11 o'clock last night, reporting for 24,000 seals, after a five weeks cruise in the Gulf. The Neptune having been jobbound on the regular sailing day, left Channel on March 14th. She got caught in the ice the following day and was jammed for nearly a week. The vessel was freed on March 20th and on the same day struck a large patch of whitecoats off Cape St. George. For four days the crew killed over forty thousand seals and which was more than a load for the Neptune. The next five days was devoted to picking up seals. When all the seals that were slain were aboard, as Capt. Bartlett thought, only twenty thousand were accounted for stowed down. When the Neptune slaughtered the last of her seals the steamer Seal and Southern Cross were in the immediate neighbourhood and these latter ships, it is alleged, took aboard several thousand belonging to the Neptune. After leaving the ice and arriving at Channel, Capt. Bartlett reported 12,000 seals stolen, and a law suit was the outcome.

Capt. Bartlett looks as fine as ever after his trip to the frozen pans. He reports an absence of sickness on board during the voyage. One sealer named Snow, belonging to Bay Roberts, had one of his legs broken during the spring by a string of seals falling on him.

Capt. Bartlett thinks prospects bright for the Lloydsen getting a load of old seals.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. C. Yetman, agent for the C. L. March Co., received word yesterday to proceed to Berlin in connection with the firm's business in that place.

W. A. Munn, Esq., arrived from St. John's last night on a brief business trip.

Mr. A. Bryden, insurance agent, paid a visit to this town on Saturday. Mr. George Curtis also came to town on Saturday to spend a time with his family.

Capt. John S. Tucker, of the s.s. Stephano, left by yesterday's train for St. John's to join his ship. The captain's many friends wish him and his good ship much success.

Rev. F. S. Coffin, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was unable, owing to illness, to conduct services in that church on Sunday, and the congregation were forced to join with the worshippers in the other churches. We hope the rev. gentleman will soon be O. K. again.

Several gentlemen are negotiating for the hire of the British Hall on Sunday afternoons during the summer and will talk to the people who attend on religious subjects. From what we can hear the meetings will be made very interesting by sacred music, vocal and instrumental. They hope to spend pleasant and profitable evenings in the hall during the summer.

Mrs. William Gillard, of the South Side, passed away on Saturday morning last after an illness extending over three months. Mrs. Gillard (nee Miss Minnie Pike) was a daughter of Mr. Alfred Pike, of this town, and was 35 years of age. Besides a husband, she leaves three small children—two girls and a boy—to mourn her death. The funeral took place yesterday.

The s.s. Southern Cross arrived in port at 6 o'clock this morning and hails for 16,000 prime seals. Those landed to-day averaged 51 lbs.

Miss Maisie Archibald leaves by this afternoon's train for St. John's, where she enters hospital to train as a nurse. Miss Archibald takes with her the best wishes of her numerous friends both here and at Carbonear.

A rather amusing incident occurred in connection with the landing of the Sagona's seals. In landing the seals on Thursday forenoon one prime harp fell into the water, and was quickly taken by the N. E. wind in the direction of the upper part of the South Side.

A man belonging to Nood Street, hearing of the occurrence, left to walk around, although his chance of securing it seemed as small as a grain of mustard seed. On the way he was accosted by several people who on enquiry were told that he lost his cap, a valuable one, and that he was looking for it. He was kindly treated by the residents and was at last, to the surprise of the people, seen coming from the beach with his prize. He sold his catch on Saturday morning to Murray & Crawford and was paid off with $2.00. How will that affect sweepstakes?

SOCIABLE.—The George St. Mission Band will hold a Sociable and Concert in the Basement of the Church on Thursday, April 17th, at 8 o'clock p.m., and a most enjoyable evening is promised all who attend.

AT REST.—All that was mortal of the late Annie Seivier was consigned yesterday afternoon to mother earth. The remains, which were enclosed in a handsome casket supplied by Undertaker Bursell, was interred in the Anglican Cemetery. A large concourse of mourners attended. The services at the church and graveside were conducted by Rev. A. Clayton, Hymn 163—"Jesusu lover of my soul"—being sung, the mourners dispersed, leaving her to await the final trump of the resurrection morn.

Kerosene lamps can now be had fitted with special mantles (something like the Walsbach), which generate a very white light.

Banquet Cost $600 a Plate.

Twenty Persons Partook of the Wonderful Feast at Paris.

Paris, March 27.—Gourmets are delighted with an account just made public of a dinner at $600 a head which was given twenty persons here a few days ago.

The object of those who gave and prepared the dinner was not to provide a trination feast, according to traditions of the sixteenth century in which dishes were hopped up incoherently without regard to taste or appetites of diners and the affair lasted day and night, but to give a meal which could be served in a comparatively short time and which had everything best that money could buy, and was prepared by leading masters of cookery.

The dinner was prefaced by sea-ouskia Russian importation now very popular in Paris, which consists of innumerable hors d'oeuvres of light hot and cold savory dishes diluted with port and neat spirits. The seaouski in this case, which included nearly forty different dishes, was drunk with tokay and 1827 port and cost $20 for each person.

But the most expensive item was the course saddle of lithuanian antrochs. This ancestor of ordinary cattle exists now only in the forest of Northern Russia and is kept carefully guarded by the Czar and Grand Dukes. The meat therefore had to be obtained by a specially organized band of poachers and a single specimen cost $1,000.

Other costly dishes were sturgeon from Volga and turtle fins, each person's share costing $50.

Forty birds costing $440 were served. Fifty dollars went for salads and four times as much on vegetables.

Some of the desserts cost $400 and fruits which were served in the form of a beautiful orchard cost $3,000.

The wines which were of the costliest variety, $3,000 and to cap it all, each guest was given menu which were specially designed and cost $2,000.

Girl of 15, Can't Live On $12,000 Year.

New York, Mar. 31.—That the bogie known as the high cost of living is no respecter of persons was illustrated yesterday when an application to the Surrogate's court revealed the fact that a girl fifteen years old finds it impossible to live comfortably in New York city on an allowance of $12,000 a year. Through her guardian she asked for an allowance of $20,000 a year.

Miss Helen A. De Witt daughter of the late William P. De Witt is living at No 40 West Fifty-first street with her uncle and guardian, Joseph H. De Witt who made the application for an increased allowance for his ward.

Wilbur Lairemore, referee to whom the application was referred agrees with Mr. De Witt that $12,000 is not enough for the proper maintenance of Miss De Witt, and has recommended to the Surrogate that the request for an annual allowance of $20,000 be granted.

Miss De Witt is a granddaughter of the late Augustus C. Downing. Her mother, Mrs. Helen H. De Witt, died December 30 1899. Her father, who was secretary and treasurer of the New York Wire Cloth Company, died Feb. 19 1907. Since 1907, she has been living with her uncle in the city and at her country home at Monmouth Beach, N. J.

According to statements made by Mr. De Witt before the referee, the annual income of Miss De Witt amount to $52,000. She is entitled when she becomes of age, to receive a one-sixth interest in a trust fund left by her grandfather, Mr. Downing. This interest it was said was worth $678,793 on Dec 4, 1901, and is now worth $1,000,000. In addition Miss De Witt when she becomes twenty-five year old, will receive $300,000, left to her by her father. The accounting shows that her income from the Downing estate is $40,000 and her income from her father's estate is $12,000.

Mr. De Witt itemizes the expense of his ward as follows: $6,000 a year for one half the expense of maintaining the home No. 40 West Fifty-fifth street $2,000 for legal fees and other expenses of the estate, and $4,000 for general expense and education. The application also shows that in March, 1901, Miss De Witt received an annual allowance of $4,800, and that in December, 1907, this was increased to $12,000.

Miss De Witt, it is said, always has been accustomed to all luxuries. She is a student at Miss Spence's school for Girls, at No. 35, West Fifty fifth St.

STEPHANO SAILS.—The s.s. Stephano sails at 5 o'clock this afternoon for Halifax and New York, resuming the Red Cross service. She takes the following passengers: C. C. Rendell, C. Wiseman, Geo. ### Star Society's Billiard Dinner.

The billiard dinner promoted by the R. R. and B. Committee of the Star of the Sea Association took place last night in the Society's club rooms. Over a hundred persons sat down to an excellent menu supplied by Furlong Bros. Mr. E. M. Jackman presided during the evening with dignity and tact. The remarks of the different speakers were brief and to the point. The following was the toast list:

GOD SAVE THE KING.

Over a Ton of Cake.

A confectioner in Peckham Rye, England, made a monster cake recently which, when completed with almond paste and sugar icing, weighed 2,800 pounds. This vast cake was not baked in one piece. It was built up of large wedges of cake, each baked separately, and they were built up in eleven tiers on the plan of a bride cake. It occupied six men for a whole baker's day to build the cake and put the sugar icing around it. To make it and bake it five men were busily employed for four days. The almond paste around the cake weighed 800 pounds and the sugar coating or icing weighed 200 pounds.

The Vacuum Cleaner.

BY H. L. BANN.

The vacuum cleaner is an agile device and has secured the death knell of the old broom, the carpet sweeper and the reversible back-ache. It is a greater boon to the housewife than the prepared soup, and can be used oftener without causing the family to re-monstrate in an indignant tone.

For several hundred years women who wanted to remove the microbes and germs from a Wilton velvet rug have had to lean against it heavily with a broom and take up several inches of nap along with the germs. This treatment caused the spine of the sweeper to assume a neat half moon shape and release a terrifying stench in the back every thirty minutes. After a woman has entertained several of these stiches in succession she can see a microbe crawling over the floor without moving out of her chair. The vacuum cleaner has gone away with all this. Nowadays all a woman has to do is to press the cold, unsympathetic nose of the cleaner against a carpet and run around in circles. If there is anything in the carpet which ought to come out, the cleaner will extract it and tuck it away in its hip pocket. Some cleaners are more thorough than others and will pass right through a 9 x 12 art square and draw the tacks out of a hardwood floor. This makes it unnecessary to drag the rugs out on the front lawn and beat them to death with a wire flail. The vacuum cleaner will clean everything in the house but the dinner dishes, which are still the source of considerable ennui. Every vacuum cleaner is fitted with a prehensile nozzle, which can be poked under beds, behind pictures and through lace curtains without disturbing anything but the adjacent bacilli. This can be done just as easily in a filmy evening gown as in the sordid attire of the $2.48 kimono.

COD FISHERY.—The fisherfolks of the Southern Shore are making active preparations for the codfishing voyage which will commence in a fortnight's time, earlier than usual.

The Pope's Condition.

Special to Evening Telegram.

ROME, April 15. The Pope's condition is practically unchanged. This morning's bulletin says: "The Holy Father is again without fever this morning; temperature 97; cough diminished, expectoration easy, and general condition satisfactory. Professor Marchisava says that the illness was now taking a normal course and that the patient was much better in the forenoons after the nights rest. There was a slight set-back yesterday afternoon, when the temperature slightly rose. If it is possible to induce the Pope to follow the directions of his medical advisers, amelioration of his condition will bring with it a revival of strength. In other words, the Pope's recovery is chiefly in his own hands. His illness is a difficult patient to deal with. While apparently giving in to the recommendations of his physicians, the moment he feels slightly better he insists on having his own way."

Poor Demand For Nfd Fish.

Yesterday the accompanying letter was received from Oporto:—"Since we last wrote there has been less demand for Newfoundland cure owing to the large proportion of second qualities in the market and their relative dearthness in comparison with the Norwegian cure. Stocks however are less than they were and prices in consequence have been raised all round. The Antoinette arrived on the 17th and finished discharging on the 26th. The prices offered for this cargo are high but still not equal to what the shippers are asking. Still, if the quantities coming forward are really limited as we are informed, it is to be expected they will be maintained."

C.L.B. Sports.

The preliminaries in connection with the C. L. B. Annual Indoor Sports were run off at the Armoury last night as follows:—

High Jump (Juniors).—Won by R. LeMessurier, 4 ft.; second, A. Martin.

High Jump (Intermediate).—Won by E. Jerrett, 4 ft. 5 inches. Second, F. Richards.

High Jump (Seniors).—Won by H. Barnes, 4 ft. 10 in.; second, A. Edwards.

The Preliminary Basket Ball Match—Bugle Band vs. C. Co. Won by C. Co., 1 goal to 0. A. Co. vs. B. Co. Won by B. Co., 3 to 1.

Stafford's Liniment!

RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all aches and pains can be cured by using STAFFORD'S LINIMENT. STAFFORD'S LINIMENT was first placed on the market about two years ago, and on account of the large demand for it at the present time it has proven all that any Liniment could possibly do.

It is one of the strongest and most penetrating Liniments that was ever manufactured.

For a rough or cold. Mix equal parts of Stafford's Liniment and sweet oil in a saucer, warm slightly, and apply to chest rubbing it in thoroughly, cover with flannel allowing to remain for about 2 or 3 hours. Relief is obtained at once.

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia and all aches and pains. Bathe the parts affected with warm water for 5 or 10 minutes, dry well and apply Stafford's Liniment.

Stafford's Liniment can be used internally as well as Externally. Dose: from 10 to 30 drops in either syrup, milk or molasses.

Stafford's Liniment largely advertised and well established is now in great demand and bound to carry with it enquiries for his other 2 specialties, namely Stafford's Prescription "A" and Phorstone Cough Mixture.

To-day there is not an outpost in Newfoundland where Stafford's Three Specialties are well known to everyone.

Prepared only by Dr. F. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Nfd.

VIENNA, To-day.
A despatch to the Chronicle says the relations between Serbia and Bulgaria are becoming increasingly strained. Serbia claims for herself Egri, Palanka, Kratovo, Aezek, Askup and Okhrida, in total disregard for the treaty concluded before the war between Serbia and Bulgaria under which most of these towns being Bulgarian would go to Bulgaria. The disputed territory comprises 25,000 miles. A New Frole Presse despatch adds, it learns that Bulgaria suspects the allies are purposely delaying the conclusion of peace in order to retain the Bulgarian army at Tehtataja as long as possible, while Serbia concentrates her army along Vardar River, and Greek forces near Saloniki, Bulgaria is now preparing to divert all available troops from Adrianople to Macedonia. The Bulgarian government, according to a Sofia despatch to the Porte has notified other governments of the Balkan League that the terms of the latest note of the Great Powers are acceptable. Bulgaria asks the allies to assent promptly to the conclusion of peace. It is probable, adds the despatch, that an armistice will be arranged this week.

NEW YORK, To-day.
The time limit for filing damage claims against the Ocean Steam Navigation Company Limited for losses incurred by the sinking of the Titanic, was extended by Judge Holt yesterday, in case of two attorneys representing nearly sixty claimants. One, acting for seven residents of Switzerland was given thirty days. The other representing claims of over 50 immigrants was given a week. There were 125 claims filed yesterday before the time limit expired. These amounted to $2,132,857 and bring the total now claimed for loss of life, property and injury nearly $14,000,000. Among large claims submitted is that of E. H. Natsch who is executor of the estate of Charles Natsch who was drowned. The claim is for $150,000. Cora E. Fox asks for $100,000 for death of her husband Stanley H. Fox, Rochester N. Y. One of the smallest claims, yet one of the most insistent, is that of Mrs. Mary McGovern of this city. Mrs. McGovern demands $50 for two Irish crocheted collars and an additional $20 for sitting in court for two days listening to the reading of the Titanic's condition.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., To-day.
An anti-alien land ownership Bill, designed primarily to prevent Japs from acquiring a title to real property within the State, but so worded as to prohibit any alien from owning land for more than one year, except upon a declaration of his intention to become a citizen, was passed by the lower House of the Legislature by 60 to 15. The order is not to embarrass foreign corporations. The committee had corporation clause Bill apply only to aliens not eligible to citizenship.

LONDON, To-day.
The news of the actual conclusion of the armistice between Turkey and Bulgaria appears to be premature, but there is little doubt that it is on the eve of arrangement. The first reports, regarding the armistice came from Constantinople, and the Russian government is in receipt of similar news. According to reports current in St. Petersburg the armistice will be the result of Russian mediation.

LONDON, To-day.
Geo. Lansbury, ex-Socialist member of the Commons, who at suffragette meeting in Albert Hall on April 10th, urged the militants to continue to burn and destroy property, has been summoned to appear before the court under a statute providing for preventive justice. Miss Kenny was summoned to the same court under the same statute.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., To-day.
Dr. Friedmann who was here last night demonstrating his tuberculosis vaccine said he intended to return to New York in the latter part of week and look after the patients he has treated there. Friedmann said from New York he would go to Montreal for the same purpose.

CETTINJE, To-day.

Fox Fever Now In Alberta.

New Venture to be tried by Titled Englishwomen.
Edmonton, Alberta, April 2. — Several titled society women of London and other parts of England, attracted by the high prices paid for black fox pelts, are coming to Edmonton this spring to engage in fox breeding in Central and Northern Alberta. They are prepared to make large investments. If the venture is successful it is likely that women who have hitherto devoted their attention to prize dogs and horses, will engage in the new industry. Eight black-fox skins, each valued at $1,500, were sold in Edmonton last week by trappers from the north country. Fifty-four thousand dollars worth of silver fox pelts were sold last season.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ANNIE TAYLOR.

There passed away yesterday, after a lingering illness, Mrs. Annie Taylor, wife of Mr. J. Guy Taylor, and daughter of Mr. Robert Sexton, boat-builder. She was the victim of that dread disease consumption, for the past two years. All last season she lived in the cottage camps for consumptives and began to show signs of improvement, but her convalescence was only temporary and ultimately she removed home where the end came quietly and peacefully. Deceased was a prominent member of Cochrane Street Church choir, and her demise will be regretted by a large circle of friends. Besides a husband and two-year-old daughter, a father and brother are left to mourn, to all of whom much sympathy will be extended.

Resignation.

The President declined to keep my claims in mind. I thought I had a chance to hold a post in France, or Hay Argand St. James in the diplomatic games. "I cannot you appoint" said Woodrow, "so ardent! You can't have what you want" cried Woodrow, "so ardent! I have no place for you, so seat! I shed no 'placard'!" At first my heart was sore, and fervently I swore, and said I would aspire to retribution dire. "I'll poison Woodrow's corn," I said, with darkling brow. But when I looked around, on those who won, and found them worried and distraught, I said, "Revenge is not!" All troubled were the chains who gathered in the snags; all burdened with their woes, and targeted by jealous foes, all doing countless chores, all trailed by tiresome bres with ne'er an hour of rest to soothe the savage breast. And so I cried: "Cogs wounds! And also tra and 'ounds! Ods fish," quoth I, "I'll trail back to my native vale, and there among my aunts, I'll tend my cabbage plants, and herd my humble bees, and prune my pumpkin trees." And there at home, in peace, I deal in elbow grease, Palladiums may bust and bulwarks fall to dust and spangled banners rot, I do not care a jot. My pees are doing well; my onions — how they smell!

WILL CELEBRATE. — The Daughters of Empire are now preparing to celebrate Empire night and are outlining a programme of events. The arrangements are under the direction of Mrs. E. R. Bowring.

Can't Get Away From It

Is it possible to nourish, strengthen and rebuild the Brain by Food?

Every man who thinks uses up part of the brain each day. Why doesn't it all disappear and leave an empty skull in say a month of brain work? Because the man rebuilds each day.

If he builds a little less than he destroys, brain fog and nervous prostration result sure. If he builds back a little more each day, the brain grows stronger and more capable. That also is sure. Where does man get the material to rebuild his brain? Is it from air, sky or the ice of the Arctic sea? When you come to think about it, the rebuilding material must be in the food and drink.

That also is sure. Are the brain rebuilding materials found in all food? In a good variety but not in suitable proportion in all.

To illustrate: we know bones are made largely of lime and magnesia taken from the food; therefore to make healthy bone structure we must have food containing these things. We would hardly feed only sugar and fat to make healthy bone structure in a growing child.

If we desired to keep brain strong and healthy, we would use food known to contain the things Nature uses for the purpose.

True, Nature provides these elements in a variety of edible things. We submit the following facts for those who care to know something definite on the subject:

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent of the total, 5.33 of all mineral salts.

This is over one-half. Beannis, another authority, shows "Phosphoric Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from a total of 101.07. Considerable more than one-half of Phosphate of Potash.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorous (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as Nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies — this is the only law of cure."

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fog because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which nature demands for brain-building.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment.

A peaceful and evenly poised mind is necessary to good digestion.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, etc., etc., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

Grape-Nuts contain that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts. We must remember that nearly 95 per cent of the brain is composed of water and albumen, but the little worker Phosphate of Potash must be present in order to blend the more bulky materials into useable form.

So with Grape-Nuts. The Phosphate of Potash is more than one-half of all the mineral salts, but the total volume of those elements is exceedingly small as compared with the greater bulk of other food elements contained in Grape-Nuts.

We should also remember that this small ingredient should not be put into the food in the form it might come from a chemist, because man cannot produce these elements in as digestible a form as Old Mother Nature, when she puts them in the wheat and barley from which Grape-Nuts is made.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required. Brain rebuilding material is certainly found in a very natural and perfect form in

They spread papers, covered with jam, over the windows, to deaden the sound, then smashed large panes of glass with hammers, the jam preventing the broken glass from falling. When the firemen commenced their work, loud explosions were heard. One fireman was struck in the head by flying metal. Other explosions followed. The usual literature was found.

Another Story of Capt. Munden.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir.—Herewith you will find a copy of the Brigus "Vindicator," dated 1901, giving a well written article by Mr. Shortis, about thirty years ago. This was a favorite story among our people here, the facts were well known and we can vouch for them. The editor of the "Vindicator" mentions in a special paragraph that he had published it more than once, and also that John Curtis, the master watch, was still alive. When we remember the Greenland disaster, we can have some idea of what risks our sealers have to run. This article shows the skill of our old Vikings in their brigs before the era of steam. Trusting you will find space.

McCarthy, a man Capt. Adams said was worth a dozen ordinary hands. One time John wandered away in when, bang! and a bullet went only a few inches from his head. He darted behind the pinnacle, but if he made the least movement to peer around the ice, bang! and the thud of a bullet was near his ear. His feelings, can be better imagined than described. At last he took off his canvas jumper, guernsey frock, and placing them on his staff, moved them about the pinnacle. After a short time a voice was heard hailing, to come out that it was all right. The owner of the voice was sharp-shooter, and took John McCarthy and his fur cap for an old seal. During my forty-five years at the fishery, said John, that was the narrowest escape I ever had. But the idea of taking me for an old seal.

OLD SEALER.

PERFECT DISCIPLE ON THE ICE-FLOES.—A TRUE STORY OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

(By H. F. Shortis.)

My chief delight when I sit down to write for one of the journals is to give the readers something connected with the good old days of our sealing fleet. I do this because it was my good luck to be born just at the time that fleet was "under full sail," and when the old skippers of the previous generation were about setting their course for their happy destination over that unknown sea, whence no traveller returneth. I always had my ear cocked for the mighty stories during the winter months, of those hardy mariners of a previous generation—those iron constitutions which stood the hand of Time over the allotted space of life, and whose faculties and descriptive powers were not impaired, even up to the nineties, and in some cases, over the century, as witness skipper Tim Curran, of Carbonear, who was 106 at the time of his death. The last time I saw him he was shingling the back house—had not a gray hair in his head, and as he would say himself, could spy a mesquite on Bell Island. One had only to sit on the settle over the dog-irons, light the pipe and take notes. Nor would it be necessary for even the Disciple of Higher Education, of the present day, to rectify the language in which the stories were couched for practical information on general affairs, foreign or local, the "scholar" of to-day, like the man on the house, would not be in it.

We have heard a great deal of the bravery, fortitude and subordination of the respective European and American armies during the respective campaigns which they have fought in different parts of the world; but these soldiers have from youth been drilled into this subordination. They have drill-masters whose duties it is to rectify them for their future avocation, and with inducements under various ways, to face the inevitable. But with the Newfoundland sealer of the old days, they had no person to teach them to brave the hardships of the ice-floes—it came to them naturally. It is only when caught in a corner that their heroism and hardihood was displayed. In the first coming of the Scotch steamers, over thirty years ago, the ships would always bring out thirty or forty sharpshooters; but while those men could draw a bead on an old or young hood or harp, they were not at home on the ice, and invariably found wet jackets in step-plugs from one pan to another. In such instances, the hardy Newfoundlanders would "copy" on the heads of the Scotchmen, secure good footing on the other side and then haul them out and help them on board ship. Witness the experience of foxey John Curran and his men went to work "hanning seals, and were doing well. Suddenly the wind shifted, a blinding snow-storm with keen frost came on and the men had to huddle together, kept walking, and beat their hands to keep themselves warm. Night was coming on, and their prospects were becoming more gloomy and terrible each moment. At last one or two of the crew began to murmur and say, "that they would not remain there to be frozen to death, that they would go in search of the vessels."

"For God's sake, boys," said Curtis, "remember where you are. Did not the Captain tell us he would come for us by nightfall?"

Still dissatisfaction increased, and the crew were in open mutiny. They were hungry, cold, wet and saw no hope of avoiding death. Still, Curtis held out, entreated, commanded the dissatisfied ones to trust to the captain—that he would come for them. Every hope was given up by all except Curtis, and all hands were preparing for the next world. Prayers first heard at the mother's knee were wailed aloud by weak voices, when suddenly the creaking of blocks were heard, commands given out in quick succession to starboard, clew up the royal, etc., etc., and through a rift in the blinding snowstorm appeared the bows of the "Atlanta," and the first man to appear was Capt. Azariah Munden, who turning to his crew on board ship, exclaimed: "All right, boys, here they are, safe and sound. Let the cook get everything ready to make all hands comfortable, and we shall let the on to this iceberg till morning."

Ah! was there not something almost supernatural in the faith of that man, Curtis? By his unshakable confidence in the skill of his commander, he saved the lives of his thirty men. What a lesson it teaches! Think over it readers! Could any but a Newfoundland be the hero of such an act? This is but one of the many instances of the hardihood, daring and full confidence in their captain displayed by the sealers of the old school.

If you are going to be away from home for a few days use this method to water your house plants: Place a pail of water among the plants at a higher elevation. Have strips of muslin long enough to reach from the bottom of the pail to each plant. Tie one end of each strip to a weight and sink in the water in the pail. Arrange the other ends among the plants giving those requiring the most water the wider strip.

BEOTHIC'S REPAIRS.—The S. S. Beothic was docked on Monday at New York for repairs. On her return here she will proceed to Hudson's Bay having been chartered by the Canadian Government which has also engaged the S. S. Belaventre for this summer.

Dismasted, But Safe.

Liverpool Ship's Rough Passage—Thrilling Experiences.

A remarkable story of the thrilling experiences of the captain and crew of the three-masted barquentine Earls-hall, belonging to Messrs. Job Brothers, Liverpool, as related to a "Courier" representative yesterday. The vessel presented an unusual sight as she was towed up the Mersey by the Alexandra Towing Co's tug Wapping, with only her mizzenmast and main lower-mast standing, her foremast and mainmast having been swept away during the terrific gales which have recently been experienced in the Atlantic. She is reported overdue, and stood at a premium of 30 guineas. During her stay in Liverpool in October last the Earls-hall was fitted by Messrs. Pollock, Sons, and Co. with a heavy "Bolinder" oil engine, prior to taking up trade between Newfoundland and Brazil. This engine was fitted as an auxiliary power to enable the vessel to make fair progress during light winds. After a successful trial run on the Mersey the Earls-hall left Liverpool for Glasgow on November 7th to coal. Almost immediately after leaving Glasgow the vessel encountered strong winds and gales, being swept from stem to stern by heavy seas, and was forced to put back to Swansea. Here a new crew of eleven was signed on, and the vessel left on her second attempt to make St. John's, Newfoundland, on December 18.

Alfred Isaacs, the cook, a native of the West Indies, said, "From the day we left Swansea we met gale after gale, mainly from the Northwest. Huge seas swept the deck, tearing the tarpaulins off the hatchways, through which the water poured. During one terrible storm about three weeks ago all the sails were torn away, and both our boats were rendered useless, one being smashed to atoms and the other badly holed by a stanchion. We all thought our time had come. It was bitterly cold, snow and hail falling heavily at times. We were out of the track of other ships, so that it was no use flying signals of distress. The crew were kept busy at the pumps night and day, trying to clear the vessel of the water which was continually being shipped. One man fell on deck and broke his knee-cap, but no one else was hurt. For about three weeks every man was wet through to the skin. The crew asked the captain to turn the vessel's head round and make for Queenstown. As we were making for Queenstown, a terrific hurricane was encountered during which the foremast and the mainmast were washed overboard. Mountainous seas swept the deck from stem to stern. I was up to my waist in water in the galley, and could not keep a fire going, so that we could not get our proper food. After we had been crippled by the storms, we drifted helplessly about for several days until the weather moderated, when the oil engine was set going, and brought us safely back to Queenstown. It was a terrifying experience, and nothing but God's mercy saved us."

Mr. Bristolow, the engineer in charge of the oil engine, said: "Remarkably heavy weather was experienced when we got off the south of Ireland about Christmas Eve. The barometer rose and fell with extraordinary rapidity, and gale followed upon gale in rapid succession. Of course, the oil engine, which is 120 horse power and capable of a speed of five knots, could not be expected to propel the vessel in the teeth of the fierce gales we met, but it rendered valuable assistance, and eventually brought us safely back to Queenstown, when the sails had gone. Water came into the engine room, and she broke down, but after a couple of days I got her going again. The people of Queenstown were amazed to see a demasted sailing ship come to the harbour unassisted by a tug."
