Important Notice to Readers!

WITH REFERENCE TO EVERYMAN'S LIBRARY.

The Booksellers have recently received the following communication from the Publishers of Everyman's Library:

"Messrs. Dent & Sons sincerely regret that owing to the embargo placed by the Government on the importation of paper and materials for its manufacture, causing an increase in its cost by nearly 200 per cent, and also to the further increased cost of labour and other materials, they are compelled on and after July 1st, to advance the price of this library as follows:

Cloth Edition, 13 net; Bancroft, Library Binding, 110½ net; Fane Grain, 26 net; ¼ Pigskin, Library Binding, 26 net; Aldine Morocco, 3½ net; Bedford Morocco, 3½ net.

The local price for the Cloth Edition of Everyman's will therefore be 45c. instead of its old price of 35c.

THE BIG LEAGUE SERIES.

By Bert L. Standish, 75c. ea.

Here they are! Just what you've been looking for. Baseball and Romance combined, the most interesting stories ever written. The author managed a league team a number of years ago and is thoroughly familiar with the doings of baseball players on and off the field. Father and son will find equal delight in reading these magnificent stories.

"Any Boy with Plenty of Grit," "Baseball at its Finest," and the Girl in the Case"—these are the elements which compose the most successful juvenile fiction ever written. You don't have to be a fan to enjoy these books; all you need to be is really human and alive, with plenty of red blood.

The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XXXIII.
A Woman's Resolve.
"I thought you were asleep, but you were only thinking—on the sly—a penny for your thoughts."
"You shall have them for nothing," said Kyra, bending forward slightly, and fixing her with her dark, dreamy eyes: "I was thinking of you! If I were but a man, how happy that sentence would make me—of you and Lord Percy."

A slight flush rose under her gaze. "What of us, dear?"
"Why does he not come to the Grange?" asked Kyra, as if the question were but a prelude to something further.

Lillian shrugged her white shoulders, and drew her china shawl round her.
"Am I Lord Percy's keeper, my child?"

Kyra smiled slightly, but did not remove her gaze which had deepened into one of scrutiny.

"Are you not?" she said. "I thought—Lillian, will you tell me? Were you not once?"

There was a pause—a beat of silence profound and tragic.

Lillian Devigne raised her eyes; her face was pale and, for once, truthful. What if she said yes?

"Why do you ask such a question now, so suddenly?"

"Is it sudden to you? It is not to me. I have been thinking of you and him since—my great fortune"—and here a little curl of the sensitive upper lip—"I have little else to think of, you see. It has grown upon me the last day or two strangely, that you and he had once been more than friends, before—he came and took my life in his keeping. To-night I am sure of it; but will you tell me?"

Lillian looked at her, and then out of the window.

"Percy Chester and I were once more than friends," she said, in a low voice; then, turning her eyes to watch the effect, "we were to have been married."

A little shudder ran through Kyra's frame, but she smiled faintly.

"I thought so," she said, in a low voice. "Why did you not tell me—why is it so great a secret—what came between you?"

"My falseness," said Lillian Devigne, with a genuine pang of selfish remorse and reproach. "I lost him by my own fault and treason."

"Lost!" said Kyra, dreamily. "You are very beautiful—yes, very. And you love him still? Oh, yes," she added, for over Lillian Devigne's fair face had rushed a crimson flush of passionate longing and desire.

"Why do you say this?" she said, almost fiercely. "You!"

Don't Go Into Consumption. Cure Your Catarrh Now.

When your throat rattles, your lungs and chest are sore, your throat is stuffed with cold—don't fear consumption—use Catarrhine and get well. It clears the throat, cures hacking, relieves tight chest and soreness in the bronchial tubes. To clear away Catarrh of the nose nothing could be better. Catarrhine is nature's own remedy. It heals and soothes—cures every form of throat, lungs and bronchial trouble. Prescribed by many specialists and used by thousands every day. Get the dollar outfit, it lasts two months and is guaranteed. Small size 50c; trial size, 25c, sold everywhere.

"I know," said Kyra, wearily; "I know what you would say; but you are wrong. It is not I who have stood between you and happiness; not I. Why should you not trust me? You see, I have found out your secret without help; perhaps, I, who have divined what is past, can read something of the future—we Indians are sometimes gifted with the power of prophecy. I think Percy's wife will be fair, with blue eyes, and with soft, golden hair—like yours."

Lillian was too startled to utter a word. Candor is a phenomenon as bewildering to the schemer as any supernatural appearance could be. With her eyes cast down, she leaned back; and Kyra, after regarding the pale face for a moment, closed her eyes again.

A few moments afterwards the lodge gates swung open, and the spirited horses dashed up the drive.

Lady Devigne woke with a start, and the three passed into the hall, attended by three or four servants in the Vering livery. Kyra paused, with her hand upon the balustrade, and said:

"I am tired and will go to my room, I think, Lady Devigne;" then she turned, kissed Lillian Devigne with a grave, sweet smile, and passed on.

Her maid met her at the door of the room, which had been prepared for her boudoir, but Kyra, with her usual gentleness, told her that she might go to bed, and then entered the room and closed the door.

The room was small, but had been tastefully and luxuriously furnished, for a great part with articles from Wold which Kyra had chanced to admire. Conspicuous in one corner there hung some Indian furs and curiosities, among them the fur which Kyra had worn, and a small Indian dagger which she had carried hidden in her belt.

Two or three wax candles threw a soft light round the room, and a mirror, set in Venetian glass, reflected dimly the beautiful face and lithe form of Lord Vering's daughter. With a weary sigh, Kyra threw open the casement and looked out. Outside the wind was swaying the trees and driving the clouds across the moon, a slow, heavy rain was falling; the night was weeping for the summer that had fled and left it unprotected from the rude, rough advances of the savage winter. The whole scene—sounding clouds, weeping trees, and dreamy darkness—was in harmony with the young girl's soul.

She looked and looked until her dark eyes were glistening with tears; then she turned from the window, and throwing off her cloak and hood, sat with her head resting on her hand; her eyes fixed on the long, sweeping cloak of fur, that looked, in the dim light, as if it covered some Indian warrior looking grimly down on her.

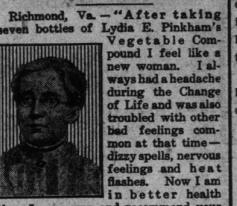

"Yes," she murmured. "I came and robbed him of his wealth, but I can restore him his happiness. She is very beautiful; she is fitted to be his wife. She is not a wild, half-taught Indian girl; she loved him—she loves him still, and he will love her again. They will be a handsome, noble pair; it is all as it should be, and I—"

She sprang to her feet, white and trembling. "Oh, Great Spirit, why did he take me from the hunting-grounds and the lodges of my people? Why did he abduct me from the wind and snow, and the rain and the cold, cruel death? This is worse than death—this that tears and gnaws at my heart—this dreadful, cruel longing to see, to hear, to touch him! Oh, my brave, my chief, my warrior lord, I shall die and you will never know how I loved you. You will be happy with the fair English woman, and never know that the little Indian girl, who slept upon your bosom, gave you her heart and her love! Yes!" she cried, with a long breath, "I will not live! I cannot live to see him happy with her; to know that his lips—that once touched my hair—are pressed to hers! Great Spirit, take me to my fathers, who fell fighting and bleeding that cold winter's night. Great Spirit, take thy child!" and with a low cry of anguish she glided to the end of the room and caught up the Indian dagger.

As she did so her hand swept aside the fur cloak; with a passionate cry she caught it up and pressed it to her lips.

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had headaches during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2312 E. O Street, Richmond, Va. While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness. For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The action, so swift and despairful, dislodged the cloak from its nail. With a cry, she took it from the floor and drew it around her.

"I shall sleep in you once more!" she said, pressing her face upon the fur—"once more."

Then, gliding with the old savage grace, she went to a writing-desk, and, unlocking it, drew out a small bundle of papers. As she did so there was a low, yet firm, knock at the door; the lid of the escrutoire fell with a crash and she stood patting and almost defiant, clutching the papers in one hand and the tiny dagger in the other under the cloak. The knock was repeated, and then a voice spoke her name.

A thrill ran through her, and she put her hand to her bosom to still her beating heart. It was the voice that never spoke within her hearing without awakening an echo in her heart.

In a voice that startled herself, she bade him come in, and almost before she had spoken, Percy opened the door and entered.

The moment that had intervened had given her time to conceal the papers and gain the couch. Percy, coming out of the strongly lighted corridor, stood for a moment to get accustomed to the dim light; then—as he saw her in her evening dress of some soft, subtle shade, and with costly gems glittering among lace, all backed up by the dark fur half-falling from her gleaming shoulders—his pale, stern face relaxed into an involuntary expression of amazed admiration; but it was not until she rose and spoke, not until she breathed his name that he recognized the grace and subtle change that had come over her.

"Kyra," he said—his low, rich voice full and sweet with the gentleness which always marked his manner with women. "Were you asleep? I have disturbed you—perhaps alarmed you?"

"No," she said—her voice as low as his, but marvellously clear—"no; have you just come?"

"Yes," he said, releasing her hand and dropping into the chair near the lounge. "I have just arrived half by train and half by saddle. It is very late, and I was unexpected. I hope I am not unwelcome," he added with a smile.

"Why did you not come before?" was her answer, as she raised her eyes and fixed them on him.

"For a moment he did not reply; something in the dark eyes seemed to deprive him of speech.

"I"—he hesitated—"have been very busy. I knew, too—that is, I heard—you were very happy, and not dull—that you had been out a great deal, and so I sacrificed my inclination to duty."

Though the phrase was spoken glibly enough it lacked his usual straightforward earnestness, and its artificial tone did not escape her.

"You have been dining with Lord Harcourt," he went on, as if for talking sake. "He is a wonderful man—"

"Why have you come now?" she interrupted, softly and directly.

Percy put his hand up to his lips, after an old trick of his, and frowned.

"I have come to say good-by, Kyra," he said, with a would-be commonplace smile. "You know my old opinion, that the Verings were descended from the Wandering Jew. I am more fixed in that belief than ever, and as it is of no use fighting against an inherited inclination, I am off on my travels again."

"Where are you going?" she asked, her face pale and piteous in the dark, dim, soft light.

"Well—to Africa," he said, after a pause. "It will be a new track for me, and—but I did not come into Buckinghamshire to talk over my route, Kyra, but to go over a little business with you." He paused, and with a slight gesture, she drew her fur cloak round her. "Are you cold?" he asked, glancing at the window.

"Yes, a little," she replied, with a smile. "This has kept off the cold many another night, has it not?" and she touched the fur with her small hand.

"Yes," he said, looking down. "Yes, yes," then he looked up again. "Kyra, I have made all arrangements—all I can think off that are likely to be of any use to you, and I think that, unless I return, you will find the estate managed comfortably and properly. I would not go but that I know your own personal welfare is in better hands than mine."

He looked at her with a steady smile, and paused for a moment, as he met her questioning look in return.

"I saw Charlie last night—I do not see much of him—but though I do not ask, nor does he tell me where he spends his time, I can guess. Charlie and I have been more than brothers, and his happiness is mine—and his happiness is and will be great, Kyra."

For a moment there was a wistful pain in his voice, and he looked at her with a yearning look; but her eyes, well fixed on his face, wore the same questioning look.

"With him I can leave you quite safe. It is not necessary for me to trouble you with his business; but you will believe me, Kyra, that it is my one wish that you should live at the Wold. I cannot bear to think that the old place should return, after its one brief bit of sunshine, to its old dreariness. You will light it up with your presence, and bring back the old times. Yes, I shall look back with many a sigh and think of you filling the place with your beauty."

He paused abruptly, aroused to the sense of his quickened words, by the sudden flush of color in her face, and the startled look in her eyes.

"I—forgive me, Kyra, it is too late for rhapsodies, but I must exact your promise. You will live at the Wold while I am away, and that will be for many a long year—perhaps forever."

"Live at the Wold!" she echoed. "I—alone! alone!" she exclaimed.

"No, but when you and Charlie are married."

A PRETTY DRESS FOR MANY OCCASIONS.

1775—Embroidered batiste is here combined with Georgette crepe. Color and plastron may be of the crepe, and inserts of lace trim waist and skirt fronts. The body and sleeve portions are cut in one. The skirt is full over the sides and back and stitched in a tuck at each side of the front panel. Gingham, lawn, embroidered voile, tub silk, taffeta, and linen are also nice for this model. The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 8 yards of 38 inch material for a 38 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A STYLISH SUMMER GOWN.

1781—Taffeta, in a pompadour pattern in green and brown, with Georgette crepe and lace for trimming, is here shown. A neat and inexpensive development would be of dimity, voile or organdie; tub silk or batiste are nice, too. Flouncing could be used for the skirt with vest, collar and sleeve insert of embroidery to match. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 5 yards of 36-inch material for a 16-year size. The skirt measures 2 1/2 yards at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

The Discovery of Man By Woman.

A FEMININE VIEW.

Woman was discovered in 1854; man in 1914. The dates are fixed by Florence Nightingale in the case of woman; by the Great War in the case of man.

Since the discovery of woman, some have wondered when the turn of man would come. The cult of woman was getting rather overdone. It was woman-worship to the point of idolatry. What she did was carefully chronicled; what she wore was of keenest interest; what she said was listened to by crowds; and to try to understand her was one of the new commandments.

In a few short years woman would have become super-woman merely by a process of "putting up." Happily for woman, man was discovered; and though her star shines none the less brightly, it is now not the only light in the firmament. Quite accidentally, woman came across him. It was when the Army called for things to carry guns. Then man appeared. He was rather a surprise to himself. He grew in a most astonishing way in his own estimation during the next few weeks. He had not thought there were such powers of development within his spare frame. He began to feel a man. He had always had a sneaking kind of idea that he was one; but he had never dared to make any counter-demonstration to the woman advertisement. Besides, it was not worth while to try to convince people who were full of the one idea. It was woman's day, and he knew it. He did not know that his own discovery drew so near.

When he left home for camp, woman was quite sure of him. Truly, he had been there! She had always thought she "ran the home" before. She had wondered what he did towards it. Now she knew. Day after day the local authorities rained rates at her. She had never noticed them before. They came and went quietly without fuss; that much John had always done. Subscriptions she had never heard of became due. She suddenly felt the responsibility of insurance—fire, accident, robbery, aerial, and the rest; if anything was left undone she only would be to blame—even as a scapegoat John had been there.

Income tax was due and she must find out about it. Then the electric light fused and she suddenly must have a man. The roof leaked and she had to search for the house agreement to find out whose business it was to mend it. Notice had to be given about leaving the house before a certain date—and then the house-hunting! Before, the house was found for her and she approved or disapproved—generally the latter. The agreement followed, and because such matters had been beneath her notice before she was obliged to call in a lawyer. She had not known how and these were the affairs connected with a house which a woman never touches as a rule. She had discovered the reason for man.

All over England to-day women are finding out what it means to be without a man. He was no angel—she has no delusions about that—but he was an Opinion at hand, even though she did not take it; he was an Excuse when she did not want to do things—"John won't" was usually enough for her relatives; and he represented the Final Judgment to the children. "I'll tell your father," saved her a vast amount of trouble.

At her heart also is a knowing anxiety which was never there before. What if both ends don't meet? It was his duty to find money if she exceeded the limit; now she is "on her own resources" and she isn't quite used to it. Yes, she knows why man was made, at last.

The girl who has entered business is finding out some ways of using him. When in difficulty she finds that she turns most easily to a man. His qualities are the ones that help her most. She finds him cool at a crisis, resourceful in emergency, and never carpishly critical. Besides, he envies not. She wonders now at the creed she was taught at more than one school—not openly, but insidiously by influence—and recognizes it as anti-man. She is glad that she has come to close quarters with man. She begins to think that he also is worth understanding. She begins to follow the logic which makes him careless of the dinner hour and cook's temper. An important appointment now, she knows, puts dinner out of court for the instant; even a conversation that matters cannot be interrupted to catch a train.

Between man and woman is growing up a new understanding which will help considerably after the war. She has got behind his life and has seen what influences it. She also knows what perils encompass it. No longer will ignorance masquerade as a mother. The women of the future will know the weapons their sons need and will see to it that they have them.

Every woman in this war has learnt the worth of a man—she has discovered him. He is once again her hero, her knight errant. Her son is ordered to the front, and she writes:

Adieu!
This is no common day—
Your feet upon the way.
All knights of old have trod,
All saints hacked thro' to God,
Your soul shall catch
Their glinting glory,
While from afar I watch
How you shall match their story.
Adieu!

"We are more proud of our young men than our young women," said the Bishop of Oxford at St. Paul's Cathedral lately, "and more ashamed of our young women than our young men. The indiscipline of the girls has been disastrous, and when it has been suggested that it is the mothers' fault that the daughters of fourteen, fifteen and sixteen have not some sort of order and subordination they almost laughed in one's face."

The girls are the spoilt children of this generation. So much has been made of the gospel, "Let them lead their own lives," that they have ended by ignoring everybody else's. That is how man has been effaced. There is not room for two selfish sexes on the earth, and because some discipline has been given at school in spite of indulgent parents and at workshop or office—man has been worth discovering. Woman has a chance now of shrinking to her proper proportions and restoring the balance of creation.—Peggy Scott in 'The Daily Mail.'

LAD TO REST.—All that was mortal of the late J. Conway, who died suddenly on the local fishing grounds Tuesday evening last, was laid to rest yesterday at Belvidere Cemetery. Amongst the mourners was a large concourse of prominent citizens, deceased was well known. Rev. Fr. Ryan recited the prayers for the dead at the Cathedral.

Skipper Thinks Man-Eaters Came From Newfoundland

Sharks Going South May Visit the Cape Breton Coast.

Captain R. J. De Shields of the Bermudian sloop-rigged pilot boat Sir George Somers, which arrived at New York, Friday last from St. George's to have a motor engine installed, said he was very much surprised to hear that man-eating sharks had bitten bathers off the New Jersey shore.

"We have plenty of sharks around Bermuda," the veteran skipper said, "but I have never heard of the big fish biting any one, although people bathe in the sea off shore all the year round. It is quite possible that the sharks have come in to shore from the Banks of Newfoundland in search of fish to eat, as the fish are very plentiful this summer."

"Just after eight bells yesterday morning we sighted a shark fully fifteen feet long about 100 miles from Sandy Hook. Four days ago we caught two sharks with the hook, one eight feet and the other ten feet long. The fins were cut off to nail on the end of the boom, and the back-bones were taken out of the sharks and bolted in the galley to make walking canes of."

Captain De Shields, who, like the five members of his crew, is a native Bermudian, said the pilot boat left St. George's on July 17. The whole Atlantic coast waters from Bermuda to Sandy Hook was swarming with fish, he said, and in his opinion, that was the cause of the big man-eating sharks coming in from the Atlantic.

If Captain Shields' surmise is correct it is quite probable that sharks coming in from the Banks of Newfoundland would skirt the shore of Cape Breton in their voyage south. There may not be a man-eating shark within a thousand miles of the Cape Breton coast, but an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. Bathers should exercise care.—Sydney Daily Post.

A Wonderful Food—
Not only delicious—but there's "life" in
Grape-Nuts

Try this experiment yourself. Take some Grape-Nuts direct from the package. Hold the granules in the palm of your hand under sunlight or an electric bulb. You will notice tiny shining particles of light on the granules—the starch of the grains transformed.

Then do the same with some other prepared food—any other prepared food. You don't see these glistening particles.

"There's a Reason"

The wonderful taste—the wonderful nourishment in this great food is due to the fact that in addition to the sweetness of the whole wheat is combined the delicate flavor and food value of malted barley.

This gives Grape-Nuts two great factors that no mere wheat food can possess. The delicious zest of malted barley imparts a savor that is universally liked; and beyond that, the barley contains a digestive (not in wheat) which, with long baking, transforms the starch of these full grains into a form of sugar which shows on the golden-brown granules.

If you haven't tried Grape-Nuts food you have a treat in store. It not only appeals to the appetite but is a powerful builder for body and brain.

Good News.

This morning's war news could hardly be more satisfactory. Better than local successes, however brilliant and complete, are the whole general outlook and increasing indications of the trend of expert opinion. The spirits of the Allied countries are rising as those of Germany and Austria are undeniably falling. Isolated sentences from the public messages and from individual expressions of opinion in the press can be gathered together, which, after allowing for prejudice and the many other elements of inaccuracy, yet supply, in their cumulative effect, the strongest grounds for optimism on our part. What were heretofore regarded on all sides as mere remote possibilities are now taking shape as very real certainties to be shortly reckoned with. The most important of these is the shortening, which means the retirement of the German lines, especially Berlin seems to think, on the eastern front, but undoubtedly on the western as well. That suggestions should reach us from Germany that the problem is engaging the attention of "military critics" is highly significant. We hear also that even in Belgium they have decided it is as well to be prepared for its evacuation by the Germans and all that that would bring in its train.

J. M. DEVINE,

Corner Water and Adelaide Streets.

Berlin was not surprised to learn of the Somme offensive: it expected it. What Berlin did not expect to hear was that at this late date it was continuing unabated and even making progress. We may for once believe the Rotterdam correspondent that the amazement in Germany's capital has given place to dismay. Germany's frontiers are not along the Rhine; they run from a point on the Belgian coast through France to the Vosges mountains. It is no rhetorical figure to say that with every foot that the British and French press forward they are invading Germany. The Kaiser and his staff know this full well.

Mr. Frank Simonds, an American military writer, has pointed out a salient difference between the strategic nature of the eastern and the western fronts. In Russia it is generally true that the railway communications that feed the front (as vital to an army as lungs to a human being) run at right angles to the battle line, so that the Germans and Austrians are driven back along these railways and can continue to use them as they retreat. In France, on the other hand, the great trench lines are parallel to the line for the most part. If the Allies get astride of them they may make them inoperative to the enemy over a great distance. Which simply means that if the enemy is forced back beyond certain railway junctions, he must retire, not step by step, but immediately to another line far behind. Mr. Simonds estimates that their first retirement will have to be at least as far as Valenciennes, and the Allies will not look on idly while they make it.

Another thousand yards advance towards Bapaume by the British and a creeping nearer Peronne by the French are to-day's welcome news. More important still is the announcement that Brussiloff is gathering mighty forces for what seems to be a supreme effort to take Kovel. If he takes it, we shall see the beginning of this retirement, the first real signs, sensible to the German people, of the crumbling of their hopes and of impending disaster.

WINDERMERE'S MESSAGE.

We owe a debt to the Montreal Daily Star and its correspondent Windermere. We are, in his messages to his paper we should have had to wait long for some of the most valuable tributes to the gallantry of the Regiment. In the Star of July 14th he quotes one of the Generals addressing the Newfoundlanders after the attack as saying: "Newfoundlanders, I salute you individually. You have done better than the best." He says also, "British correspondents at the front say that the Newfoundlanders are very and darling will live for ever." Not the least gratifying feature of the general brotherhood in arms of all parts of the Empire is the kindly interest which the great Dominion shows in the doings of the Newfoundlanders, and the prominence which its papers invariably give to them.

Mr. Redmond's strong words are justified. The dangerous drifting of the Government in this matter of Ireland will soon have the ship of state on the rocks again. No doubt the Government are endeavoring to placate Lord Lansdowne and other noble Lords instead of going ahead to make the new Bill law as soon as possible. Lansdowne's conduct is worse than Belcher's for the latter made the honesty to show openly his disapproval of the proposed scheme by resigning his position. Lord Lansdowne did not join him at the time, as he might have done, but now, after the event, both objects to and misrepresents the terms of the Bill. The trouble is, that as time goes on, he is certain to gain more and more followers, and the passage of the measure will be in jeopardy. Undoubtedly there must be objections, and grave ones, to the terms of the Bill, but when Redmond, Carson and Devlin have come to an agreement, it is sheer folly for any one else to raise his voice. After all, it must be remembered that the Home Rule Bill is on the Statute Book.

Fake Agent Landed in the Toils.

Last evening Detective Byrne came across a Canadian named E. A. McNaughton, aged 33 years, whose whereabouts he had been seeking diligently for quite a while. The detective handed the stranger a document and then in his typical courteous fashion invited McNaughton to accompany him to the police station where he was given accommodation in No. 2. The accused, who was charged with obtaining money under false pretences, asked for bail. The authorities released him on deposit of $10 for his appearance to-day. When Court opened this morning, however, the Canadian was conspicuous by his absence, and the judge was informed by Mr. W. H. Jessop, who testified that McNaughton came to him some time ago posing as an agent and collected $1, supposedly for a Canadian Magazine to which Mr. Jessop was a subscriber. Later Mr. Jessop on communicating with the magazine owners learned that they had no such agent on the road for them as McNaughton. Judge Hutchings imposed a fine of $10 on the accused, which meant that the latter had to forfeit the "green back" that he had deposited the previous day.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S REPLY

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR TO SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

July 29, 1916.

Dear Sir,— I beg to forward herewith copy of letter, under date 18th July, which His Excellency the Governor has addressed to Sir Douglas Haig, K. C. B., in reply to his telegram of the 9th instant. I feel sure that this letter will be of interest to the general public and shall be glad if you will kindly give it place in your columns.

Yours truly,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

Government House,
St. John's, Newfoundland,
July 18, 1916.

Sir,— I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of July 9th in which you state that Newfoundland may well feel proud of her sons, whose heroism and devotion to duty displayed on July 1st have never been surpassed.

I have conveyed to the people of Newfoundland the message of your deep sympathy and that of the whole of our Armies in France in the less of the brave officers and men who have fallen for the Empire, and the Armies' admiration of their heroic conduct.

My Ministers desire me to convey to you, on behalf of all the people of Newfoundland, their intense appreciation of your noble message and to add that, in their personal grief, they have been greatly sustained by the praise which you and our Armies in France have bestowed on the courage and constancy of the sons of Newfoundland.

My Ministers desire to add that it is the fixed intent of all that the Newfoundland Regiment shall (whatever be the maintenance of war strength, two full companies leave by this mail, the qualities of the new volunteers being exceptionally high in physique, character and aptitude for arms.

The losses in the field have stimulated recruiting.

I have, etc.
(Sgd.) W. E. DAVIDSON,
Governor.

Field Marshal
Sir Douglas Haig, K.C.B.,
Commander in Chief.

Germans Amazed on Hearing of the New Offensive

The Truth is Leaking Out—Military Critics of Berlin Silent on the Successful British Attack—Moral Effect of Advance of Great Importance.

Rotterdam, July 17.—The British army's new blow has caused the deepest anxiety in German hearts when the forward movement, perhaps is only in its first stages. It is fully realized that this success is not only of importance itself, but has infinitely greater significance than the assaults on the first line.

Whilst German headquarters were prepared for the necessity of giving way at some points when the British offensive was first launched they believed that the second line would be able to withstand all pressure. The positions just captured were defended with great strength. After the taking of the first line by the tremendous British attack efforts were made to reinforce the second line with men and guns and troops brought up, not only from other fronts, but large drafts of even fresh formation from depots behind the front and also in Germany.

The Germans reckoned on a repetition of the Neuville, Chapelle, Loos, Champagne campaign, when, by concentrating troops at the points threatened, they prevented any further advance.

That the second British blow succeeded is recognized as the most significant fact associated with any of the allies' military operations since the beginning of the war.

It is possible that the Germans did not realize in time the tremendous force the allies would put into their blow, and they did not abandon the offensive against Verdun. Although a certain number of troops were hastened away to some districts they were quickly replaced with drafts of troops.

The German Government, through the Press, is representing the fighting on the Meuse as of real importance in the situation on the western front. On the successful British offensive the military critics are silent, with unanimity which cannot be accidental, whilst all the newspapers give prominence to trivial German successes in the Verdun district.

A neutral traveller from Berlin states that when the report came that the English offensive had really commenced the people were amazed and for two days did not believe it. The amazement now, however, has given way to dismay. The moral effect of the British success is even of greater importance than the results achieved on the field. The British effort is a spiritual equivalent to an invasion of Germany.

Fads and Fashions.

Slip-over-the-head Russian blouses in smoky-gray taffeta are sometimes trimmed with steel gray taffeta. A grey linen frock of handkerchief linens has broad collar cuffs, and a band around the bottom of the skirt of purple.

A new fancy is to trim the glove-silk sports coats with heavy white pique borders and have the collar and cuffs of the same.

Velour is still the favorite material for checked suits. As a rule only two subdued colors are seen.

Baseball.

In the second Mt. Cashel preliminary game at St. George's Field, the Cubs administered a decisive defeat to the Red Lions by a score of 9 to 6 in five innings.

Cubs . . . . . 1 0 5 0 3—9
Red Lions . . . . . 1 1 0 0 4—6
The line-ups were:—

Cubs	Red Lions
P.
Hall	Cooney
C.
Clouston	Power
lb.
St. John	Hiltz
2b.
Duggan	Rolls
3b.
Murphy	Buckingham
s.s.
Lehr	Ellis
rt.
Carter	Duggan
cf.
Tessier	Quick
lf.
Pearce	Jenkins

Messrs Chesman and Hartnett were umpires and controlled the game quite satisfactorily, though while enjoying a "Gem" with his mask off, "Chief" Chesman was hit by a foul ball and received quite a nasty gash in the forehead, but was able after a little while to continue his duties behind the plate.

Power, the Lions' catcher, received an injury to his arm in the second innings, which seemed to have affected his playing for the balance of the game, and probably accounted for the score the Cubs ran up on passed balls.

Hall, for the Cubs, pitched very good ball, but Cooney did not seem up to his usual standard. The Cubs and Wanderers will play off next Wednesday for the H. D. Reid Silver Trophy, and the game will be one of the interesting features of the Sports' program at the Garden Party. Last year the Lions possessed it, but were eliminated this.

Deserves Praise.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks about the good Priest Rev. Fr. Caecilia, of Bar Haven. June the 25th he received a message saying there was a child dying at Port Royal and there were nine men home to go for him, and saying to come if possible. Little we thought he would get here, and Monday night, June 26, he came in an open motor boat. After leaving Bar Haven in a dory, went to Brewey, and from that to Spencer's Cove in an open boat also, and the good Priest went and asked Mr. Warham and got him to land him at Port Royal, after being 24 hours without food or rest. Not only one sick child had he then but four or five which he went to see and did his best to comfort. No doubt the people of Port Royal would be delighted if he could get the parish as our good priest Fr. Ashley suffers from sea-sickness and it is such a long way from Argentinia to Port Royal, he finds it impossible to get here at all. As this is such a year of sickness it comforts us to think we are sure of getting the good priest of Bar Haven to come to our aid whenever you may call on him late or early he is willing to come. So may God grant him his health and strength to continue his good work. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain, yours truly,
A RESIDENT OF PORT ROYAL.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace presents a big week end show to-day. L. C. Shunway features in "The Web of Hate," a strong drama of the underworld produced in two reels by the Lubin Company. "The Moment Before Death," a thrilling drama featuring Adda Gleason. "In Leopard Land" is a jungle zoo wild animal picture by the Selig Company. Billie Reeves features in a comedy screen: "The Price of Pies," one of the best Reeves comedies. Professor McCarthy playing the Piano; a new and classy musical programme. Send the children to the Crescent on Saturday afternoon—a splendid show.

In Shoes; Low Prices and Cheapness

Are as far apart as the Poles. Cheapness in Shoes does not depend upon their price, but upon the service they give. To maintain the Low Price of cheap shoes it is necessary to use even more inferior leather than usual. That can only result in one thing—less service—less wear—therefore less economy. No substitution of inferior stock has been made in either of our two Leading Lines for Men and Women.

REDMOND'S JUST PROTEST.

LONDON, To-day.—John Redmond, Nationalist leader, made public to-day a memorandum which he sent to Premier Asquith and David Lloyd George, Secretary of War on Tuesday and in which he declared that the delay in making public the text of the Irish Bill and the irritation caused by Lord Lansdowne's speech had created a serious situation. "In my opinion further delay whatever in production and proceeding with the bill will make a settlement on the lines set down and the terms submitted for assent of our friends in Ireland (if possible) Since then little or no progress has been made in the matter which five weeks ago was so urgent and now hangs fire. I therefore, it is my duty to urge upon the Government that further delay will be to place on record my conviction that any proposal to depart from terms agreed upon, especially with respect to the strictly temporary and provisional character of all sections of the bill will compel me to decline the agreement, on the faith of which we obtained the assent of our supporters in Ireland, has been departed from and is at an end." A meeting of the Irish party has been summoned for Saturday when the situation will be taken under consideration.

REMOVED FIGHTING IN BALTI.

LONDON, To-day.—Heavy cannonading has been heard off the West Coast of Jutland and the Baltic Sea between Landsort and Götta Sands by vessel-men arriving from Danish ports, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen. Those from the North says the correspondent, say a number of German submarines, torpedo boats and Zeppelins were northwesterly from the Jutland coast then heard firing. Cannonading in the Baltic continued throughout the night, returning yesterday. They added that they saw several German warships sailing seaward, and expressed the belief the Germans had engaged the Russians.

DEATH OF MR. E. M. JACKMAN.

MONTREAL, To-day.—Hon. E. M. Jackman, of St. John's, Nfld., nine years Minister of Finance of the Liberal Government under Robert Borden, Nfld., died at 11:20 p.m. last night (Thursday) in the Hospital here. Born in Montreal eight weeks ago on illness and was removed from his bed to the hospital suffering from severe attack of jaundice. Two weeks ago he seemed to be recovering.

Woman's Fairness to Women.

RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

Among the many fallacies which men really hold about the other sex is the cherished delusion that women do not take any interest in the beauty of other women. I lunched in town yesterday. At my table a group of three young to middle-aged women were chatting together, and of course I could not help hearing what they said. And what do you think was the chief topic of their conversation? Not business, nor men, nor clothes, nor questions of the day. No, three-quarters of the time these women talked about a pretty girl who had come into the restaurant and about her likeness to another pretty girl whom they knew. "When I see a pretty girl, I just can't keep my eyes off her," said one of the women. And the others agreed. Could a man say more? Perhaps some cynic will remind me that by my own admission these women were middle-aged and might be able to take a more unprejudiced interest in other women's beauty than a younger woman. Perhaps, but I happen to know younger women who feel the same. One of my friends unquestionably takes more interest in a pretty girl than her husband does. I have seen her sit in a restaurant, her food almost untouched, studying an unusually pretty girl. When I should have been shopping. Myself, I spent fifteen minutes of a

A Paris Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In Paris the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing hats, which is due entirely to this new discovery. It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day. The French are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant dressing, and is sold by your druggist. A large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50 cents.

Elevators

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Swash."
An elevator is a sort of passenger skyrocket by which a person can be yanked off the earth and into a cooler climate forty-nine stories above in less time than it would take him to climb three flights of stairs and "noop his forehead twice."
The elevator was invented in America, which also produced the quick lunch counter, the revolver, and other time-savers, and it has enabled man to colonize the air. Half a century ago nobody lived more than seventy feet above the ground. Nowadays men do business happily 700 feet aloft and discharge their office boys for stealing eagles' eggs from the fire escapes instead of attending to business.
Some elevators travel 300 feet a minute, making stops at all way stations, while others run express to the three doventh floor at the rate of 600 feet a minute, the passenger's vital organs following slightly behind. By taking a local up four floors and catching an express down to the city proper, a hurried financier can leave his office in the sunshine, slide down through a thunder storm and borrow an umbrella from a friend on the sidewalk in less than a minute's time.
Elevators are run by men and boys, who are kept so busy that they do not have time to take tips. This accounts for the enormous popularity of his ingenious contrivance in this country.
Elevators occasionally fall, but not as often as aeroplanes or brick houses. They are not as dangerous as street cars or instantaneous water heaters, and nobody minds them in this country. However, they are regarded with great terror in Europe, and are only used as a last resort. An Englishman runs an elevator as if he were moving a barn and only the leisure class has time to ride in them.
Elevators have increased the joy of the American business man by taking him above the by line, the dust line, the noise line, the book agent line, and the skyline. They are almost the only free thing left in America. The New Yorker who hasn't the price of a ticket to Coney Island need never despair so long as he can climb on an elevator and travel so high in two minutes that he can see half way back to his old western home.

Simply Splendid.

Within the past few months a new line of rubber boots has been introduced. The Buddy Boot is the name. The Buddy Boot is extremely soft and pliable; it can be rolled or twisted into almost any shape, and when released will immediately spring into its former shape, without leaving any cracks or marks. Capt. John Matthews, the well known banking manager of Grand Bank, says: "The Buddy Boot gives better satisfaction than any rubber boot I have worn in my twenty-one years' experience."

Infantile Paralysis.

On account of the excessive heat prevailing in the States, especially in and around New York, the number of deaths that have occurred as a result of the outbreak of infantile paralysis, which commenced last month has been appalling, according to passengers who landed here from the Red Cross Liner Stephano yesterday. The ailment, which is brought on in various ways, is very serious in its effects. The efforts of the American physicians to cope with the outbreak is apparently fruitless, as on Saturday last, the day the Stephano left New York, over twenty cases of deaths were reported there for that one day alone.

FIGHTING RESUMED IN VOLHYNIA

BERLIN, July 20.—Hard fighting has been resumed in Volhynia, southwest of Lutsck. German troops, under General von Linsingen, are on the aggressive here, and at some points succeeded in scoring advances. The Russians are bombarding the Teutonic lines along the Lower Lipa with increasing intensity.

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—An informal inquiry has been made by the State Department to the British Embassy for information concerning the application of British trading with the enemy act to American business firms and corporations.

JAMES J. HILL.

Jim Hill is gone to his repose, out where the weeping willow grows. While on this earth he asked no rest, this empire builder of the West; through all his years he strove and fought, by night he planned, by day he wrought. Men used to say, "Where'er he goes, he makes things blossom as the rose; along his track the cities rise, and chimneys point toward the skies, the forges blaze, the hammers ring, and brouyant workmen smile and sing." He was the captain of a host, but slaying men was not his boast. His armies stormed no fort or town, and tore no famed cathedrals down, and where his mighty legions swept, no widowed women wailed and wept. It's good to contemplate Jim Hill, the general who did not kill, now that the world is roaring mad, from Mexico to Petrograd. One hour of Hill is better far than fifty thousand years of war. This mighty captain lies at rest, his monument the whole Northwest.

Destructive Fire.

The outfit that Mr. James Vinicombe had for manufacturing cod oil at Pouch Cove the past few years was totally destroyed by fire during the present week. The loss to the owner was 350 gallons of refined oil and 150 gallons of common oil as well as his gear and a quantity of clothing. There was not a cent of insurance carried on the property, consequently the loss to the owner is serious. The origin of the fire appears to be mysterious as for two days there was no fire kept in the place.

A Word about Carpet Squares!

We have just opened the finest display of Wilton, Axminster and Tapestry Carpet Squares that have ever been seen in the Island.

These Carpet Squares are remarkable for their exquisite colors and perfect design. Beautiful old Blues and deep Brown tones are blended in a fine Wilton that is very pleasing and restful to the eye. Another—a Tapestry in quaint Grey Tints has a lovely Pompadour border of roses in subdued colors. Yet another in lovely Old Rose and Reseda.

There is also a quantity of handsome Axminster Art Squares suitable for Den, Dining-room and Library.

MITYLENE, Greece, To-day. Refugees from Asia Minor report that a famine is ravaging the entire village of Smyrna. The condition of the civilians is said to be most pitiable.

THREATENED RUPTURE OF ITALY AND GERMANY.
ROME, To-day. A ministerial decree was posted to-day placing the persons and property of Germans on the same footing as those of Austrians and Hungarians. The decree states that the Allies of Austria are to be treated as enemies, and their subjects and goods are liable to sequestration. There has been a strong agitation in Italy for some time for breaking off all relations with Germany. The curious situation caused by Italy being at war with Austria while nominally at peace with Germany was emphasized by an agreement between Rome and Berlin wherein all rights of the citizens of one country domiciled in the other were to be respected. On July 16th Italy announced by a note to Berlin that she was not to be conserved by Germany. If war is now declared Italian troops may be sent to the western front, according to expectations expressed in London and Paris.

POT AND KETTLE.
BERLIN, To-day. Threats of air raids on open French towns as a measure of reprisal are made in an official statement issued here to-day. The statement says that French airmen have bombarded towns in the Black Forest, which are outside the zone of field operations, while German air attacks have been up to now directed exclusively against fortresses or field works. "We shall now be forced," says the report, "to use our strong battle squadrons for the purpose of reprisal."

GERMANS REPULSED.
PARIS, To-day. The positions, captured yesterday by the French south of the Somme were subjected to vigorous counter attacks. During the night the Germans charged the French lines south of Soyecourt, but the War Office announced to-day that they suffered heavy losses and were driven back in disorder.

Your Boys and Girls.
Children exercise quite enough, but not always in the right way. A mother should look after and direct part at least of her child's exercise and see that it is systematic. If you train your child to go through a course of daily exercises it will gradually learn to become self-reliant, and will not need your assistance when exercising. But until it reaches this stage of "doing things" for itself you should never be too busy to devote a half-hour a day to the betterment of your child's physical being. Always remember that the exercise should be practised in the open air, or if this is impossible, in a room with the windows open at top and bottom. A girl should be taught muscular control of her hands. A splendid way to get strength into her fingers is to have her hold her hands, palms downward, upon a table and raise each finger four times. At first she will find it rather difficult to lift the fingers very high, but by constant practice they will become very limber. To make the wrists strong and supple she should shake hands up and down as fast as possible, remembering that there is no arm movement in this exercise. These finger exercises will prove of great advantage to your child when it comes time for teaching her to play the piano.

At the City Hall.
Mayor Gosling presided last night at the regular weekly meeting of the Municipal Board, all the Councillors being present.
Councillor Mullaly asked if the petition on the re-naming of Patrick Street was ready to be laid on the table. The matter is being prepared. He also inquired what progress was to report in Moore's case, Sudbury St., and the fish landing at Bowring's Cove. Nothing has been done in these matters.
Councillor Mullaly proposed and Councillor Ayre seconded that detailed matter be attended to by heads of departments. It will be done in future.
It was decided by the Board that special meetings of the Council except on very special occasions, be open to the public.
The R. N. Co. guarantees to repair pavement on Water Street at $4 a square yard where cement was required, and half the price where sand would be used.
The offer was accepted, and the Engineer will direct the work.
A discussion took place on the plebiscite election, in September, whether the city will be governed by the ward system or not. It occupied the attention of the Council for some time; several excellent suggestions were made, but as the matter rests entirely in the hands of the Government it was dropped for the present.
N. Worsley complained of condition of wall, Hanley's Lane. Referred to Engineer.
Mrs. Jas. O'Brien asked permission to make improvements to house on Alexander Street; and the Longshoremen's Union made request to furnish their hall. Both will have to furnish plans which will be passed by the Engineer, the Council giving him the power to do so.
E. Murphy, 118 Water Street, complained of bad odor from grating near his house. The Sanitary Inspector will deal with Mr. Murphy's complaint.
Houses on Water Street between Job and Alexander Street, not installed with floor for water and sewerage will be attended to.
Councillor Tait, speaking of the hoppers, said they were in some cases being abused, but if utilized in the right manner they would give good service.
Councillor Vincombe reported the condition of the drains in Barnes Road, after consulting with the people, who would be delighted if a few hoppers were placed in the street for their convenience. The Engineer reported that the houses were fit for sewerage. Mr. Vincombe contended that at least some of them were not.
Morey & Co. complained of parties excavating opposite their South Side premises and filling the drain with rubble. The Engineer will report.
Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly, in acknowledging receipt of copy of the late Commissioners' letter to Dr. Brehm on the hoppers, asked that consideration be given the matter of separating night soil in the strainers. He also requested that the councillors pay a midnight visit to the streets where the hoppers are being used. Councillor Mullaly strongly objected to the Councillors going around at such an hour of the night, when it was the business of the Sanitary Inspector to look after that work.
S. G. Coulton asked for a position as timekeeper; no position vacant.
Secretary of the Citizens Committee wrote requesting certain information from the Council asked for some time ago. As far as completed, will be forwarded to the Committee.
A. Rice, 45 Pennywell Road, asked for work for himself and horse. This brought forth considerable discussion, Councillors Mullaly, Ayre and Brownrigg taking part. It was decided that the rule made at the first meeting, that the mules be left in the hands of departments, be carried out.
C. J. Fox, Secretary S. P. A., wrote on the necessity of a water fountain at the Railway freight yards for cattle coming over the line. He will be asked to arrange matters with the Reld Nfld. Co.
The meeting adjourned at 10.30 after the passing of the pay rolls.

Northern Fishery Worst on Record.
The s.s. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, returned from northern ports at daylight this morning, after a quick round trip, bringing a full freight and these passengers in saloon: D. Noah, Rev. Kavanagh, J. Bowers, D. Parsons, R. Marsell, Mr. Brett, H. Simms, Mr. Cook, E. Sainsbury, Rev. Winsor, C. Kean, P. Dickens, Mr. Munn, H. Spurrell, W. Joy, J. Randall, W. B. Kean; Mesdames Norris, Parsons, Brett, Colbourne, Hann, Brown, Munn, Ryan; Misses Norris, Kennedy, Burke, Norris (2), Mursell, Strong, Layman, Hiscock, Coffin, Way, Fitzgerald, Fowlow, Ryan, Carey, Dunican and 21 in steerage.
"Not in the history of the oldest inhabitant has the codfishery been worse than it is this season," said a passenger who came on the ship and is well able to talk on fishery matters. Along the treaty coast in particular the voyage is about a blank, there being only enough fish caught to date for local consumption. From Twilligate south the trap voyage is bad.
A few slight forest fires are reported to have occurred in the northern interior.
The Prospero sails again this evening for Sydney by bunker.

Hr. Grace Notes.
Codfish continue to be fairly plentiful and Mr. F. C. Archibald took a boat load from one of his traps this a.m.
The s.s. Sagona arrived from St. John's at 3 a.m. to-day and left again after a short delay for the Labrador.
Capt. Roger O'Brien passed away at 9 a.m. to-day after a rather lengthy illness. Capt. O'Brien was a son of the late Capt. M. O'Brien, and carried on the fishery business at Punch Bowl, Labrador, since his father's death. He was fifty-two years of age and leaves a widow and family to mourn his death.
Mrs. Henry Whiteway received a message yesterday afternoon from the General Hospital, St. John's, informing her that her husband who was under treatment there was very weak. Mrs. Whiteway left by the afternoon train for St. John's, and shortly after another message came announcing the death of Mr. Whiteway. The body will be conveyed here by train to-day for interment.
The postal regulation now strictly in force is causing much inconvenience to people sending papers to friends at Labrador. It is, we understand, not a new regulation but an old law that all papers, or packages of papers, weighing over 4 ounces will be charged for at the rate of 2 cents per pound. To send only one paper in each wrapper will give the clerks much more work in assorting but it is the only method of sending them free. Papers to our friends on Labrador this year especially are very valuable, and if our M.H. men could interest themselves in the matter and have a temporary arrangement made, their thoughtfulness would not be forgotten by the fishermen. Packages of newspapers over the 4 ounces are now taxed at the rate of 2 cents per pound. Here is a chance for the friends of the fishermen to step in and have papers go to the coast free.

The little steamer Wren, that is to ply on Trinity Bay this summer arrived here this morning and is now on dock being put in order for her summer's work.
Mr. A. L. Collis left on the Sagona this morning on his usual summer trip to the northward, where he is well known and very popular. He expects to go as far as Twilligate.
Mr. and Miss McRae have donated one cot to the wounded soldiers. On Tuesday night the Masons' body pledged themselves to support a cot for a year, and last night the L.O.A. pledged themselves to do likewise. The citizens are called together tonight in connection with the same worthy object and have to date contributed eleven hundred and one dollars. That the British Society will do something for the same fund at their emergency meeting to-morrow night is a foregone conclusion. Well done, Mr. Grace.
Mr. Grace, July 20, 1916. —COR.

The Boys From Newfoundland.
(By a Native of Afr.)
When the Motherland in the hour of need
Across the Atlantic's roar
They're British through and thro'
Her sons beyond the heaving main,
Soon heard it one and all
In thousands strong they rallied round
The flag they love so well
And vowed that for the homeland's sake,
Their lives they'd dearly sell;
Search Britain hist'ry through and through,
You'll find no page more grand
Than the loyal play of the boys
From far-off Newfoundland.
Although they lived apart from us,
Their hearts were ever true,
In this, our pressing time of need,
They sailed for Britain's shore,
They've shown that they are stalwart boys,
With hearts that's brave and true,
They have no fear of any foe,
They're British through and thro'
And as they march to martial strains,
The girls cannot withstand
The manly form and handsome face
Of our boys from Newfoundland.
We trust good luck will follow them,
Where'er their lot is cast,
We know that to their far-off homes,
Some lads will ne'er return;
May God of goodness be at hand,
To comfort those who mourn.
May those who are spared, through
Soon reach their island strand,
A nation's gratitude they'll take
With them to Newfoundland.

Prominent Citizen Passes Away.
To-day's public despatch contained the sad intelligence which came from Montreal that Mr. Edward M. Jackman had entered into his rest. Some eight weeks ago when he went to Montreal from St. John's on business he began to suffer from an attack of jaundice and was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital. His strong and robust physique stood him well, and he was soon on the road towards recovery. It was thought, only to be stricken a few weeks later with peritonitis. His powerful constitution was again equal to the emergency and he rallied. Subsequently other complications set in and he was operated on for gall stones. The excessive heat badly affected his heart following the operation and shortly before last midnight he passed away.
Born at St. John's, February 29th, 1868, he was in his 49th year. It will be seen that he had not the privilege of collecting many birthday presents. He was educated at the Christian Brothers' Schools and commenced his apprenticeship in his native home, completed with marked credit in the United States. For many years he did a customs tailoring business here, known as "Jackman the Tailor." Apart from his business he took an active interest in church matters. Nor did his activities stop here because for several years he was a member of the Whiteway administration and for nine years was Minister of Finance of the Liberal Government, under the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Bond (ex-Premier). He represented the District of Placentia and St. Mary's for many years in the House of Assembly where he proved himself an able debater. He was President of the Star of the Sea Society for over a quarter of a century and was also a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, Benevolent Irish Society, Total Abstinence and Mechanics' Societies. Genial and affable, he was well known and well liked and esteemed by all classes. His wife was Miss Alice F. Walsh, who is left to mourn, as well as several children, two of whom are attached to the Nfld. Regiment. The Telegram extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Capt Mitchell, M. C.

This is how Lieutenant, now Captain John Brine Mitchell won the Military Cross, says the London Times of June 26th:—

"See. Lieut. John Brine Mitchell, 8th London B. T. F. For conspicuous gallantry. After the battalion bombing officer had been wounded, he rallied the bombers, led forward a patrol, attacked the enemy and held them back till our line was consolidated."

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, July 21, 1916.
Pine Bath Powder is very grateful to good judges as an addition to the bath rendering it much more refreshing and imparting a delightful fragrance. Price 50c. for large box.

The Redio Cloth is really a great idea. The Redio is a self-contained plate cleaning and polishing cloth, for cleaning and polishing light metal work, such as gold and silverware, jewellery, plate and various household articles. It works quickly and is very satisfactory. Price 15c. each.

Blood was like Water

Anaemia
You eat your finger and the wound is slow to heal. The blood is watery and the lips and gums are pale. You are anemic.

This condition is best overcome by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. In this food cure there are combined in concentrated form the elements that go to form new, rich, red blood. The appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, color and strength return, and you rid yourself of weakness and many annoying derangements. 20 cts. a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Gallipoli and Naval Heroes Return on Furlough.

On the express which reached town at 3 p.m. yesterday were:—C. Q. M. Sergt. Norman A. MacLeod, a Gallipoli hero, and Royal Naval Reservist Lawrence Hayden, Harbor Grace; Thos. Sexton, St. John's; J. L. Fowler, Brigus; C. Simms, Pilley's Island; Edward Brewer, City; A. W. Peach, Mussell Harbor Arm.

They were met at the station by the members of the W. P. A. and a large number of citizens. Automobiles were drawn up in front of the station in which the men were placed and driven to Government House, where His Excellency the Governor extended a hearty welcome home to our gallant boys. Refreshments and smokes were passed around, after which the men were driven to their respective homes.

No. 158 Co. Q. M. Sergt. MacLeod enlisted in the 1st Newfoundland Regiment on the second day of enrolment and left here on the S. S. Florizel with the first 500, and eventually found himself on the battle fields of Gallipoli where he was severely wounded in the left breast. It happened that rations were running short in the front line and with no communicating trenches it was a difficult task to bring up supplies. Sergt. MacLeod accompanied by opp. Ebsary made a dash across the opening, but on their return to the trench Ebsary was killed, and our hero wounded. MacLeod is the only living eye-witness of the heroic death of Private Fitzgerald of the R. A. M. C. who was killed while attending to a wounded soldier, who afterwards died. The former report that Private Fitzgerald was killed while attending the C. Q. M. Sergt. is not true. Sergt. MacLeod is to make an official report in writing of the sad but brave action to His Excellency the Governor. Private Ernest, No. 24 of A. Co. and Private Neal, No. 841, of the stretcher bearers attached to C. Co., are brothers; all three were in the big fight at Gallipoli. Private Neal assisting his brother to the field dressing station. He was afterwards transferred to No. 7. Canadian, General Hospital, Cairo where he remained till April 7th, and besides being wounded he suffered from muscular rheumatism. He was then sent home to England, arriving at Wandsworth, April 30th. He was discharged and sent to 347. May 3rd, and after a brief furlough which expires Aug. 15th he will again report for duty.

Naval Reservists Lawrence Hayden and Thos. Sexton are regular reservists and were called up at the outbreak of hostilities, and on being sent to England were placed on board H. M. S. Rowan and when things started to get hot in the land of the Turk their ship was ordered to the Dardanelles, where for a time they were in the thickest of the fight. Reservist Hayden being slightly wounded by shell fire.

Reservist A. W. Peach for the past 12 years has been one of the boys in blue, and leaving here with the first draft on board the Franconian, he was on arrival in England attached to H. M. S. Auxiliary Cruiser Columbus doing patrol work in the North Sea, where many an exciting chase after the German submarines took place. On May 8th he was taken ill and placed in hospital at Plymouth suffering from a severe attack of lung trouble from which it is feared it will take considerable time for him to recover. On June 26th he was given his honorable discharge from the Navy and in company with his naval chums he reached here yesterday.

Reservists J. L. Fowler, C. Simms and Edward Brewer, are time-expired men who served for over one year, but have like true sailors signed on the roll once more and after a brief furlough with their relatives will be back again in the North Sea.

PRIVATE WALTER TOBIN.—Relatives of Private Walter Tobin, who was reported wounded in the hip in the big drive of July 1st, received communications from him by yesterday's mail. When writing he said he was in Wandsworth, London, and was getting on well.

"Blind Justice" at the Nickel Theatre.

"Blind Justice" is the title of the feature film at the Nickel Theatre today, and it is a remarkable story which will interest every one. It is in three acts and is beautifully produced by the Essanay Co. Ann Murdock, Ernest Maupain and Henry Walthall are in the leading characters. Another great story to-day is "The Secret Telephone"—a two-part serial drama by the American players with Harold Lockwood and May Allison. "Aisles of the Wilds" is a Biograph re-issue produced by D. W. Griffith, with Dorothy Gish, and Clara McDowell. "City of Vancouver" is a charming travelogue. The comedy is "Something in her Eye." The bumper matinee for children takes place to-morrow.

Sleepless Nights Overcome By Sale Method.

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN WHEREBY INSOMNIA CAN BE SAFELY AND QUICKLY CURED.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and indigestion cause insomnia. Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved. Congestion of blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation of the brain must be relieved. It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into over-worked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so efficient as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep or break down, but if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep, you'll get well quickly.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use. Absolutely safe is Ferrozone.

Take it for a month, take it for a year—no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

To sleep well, look well, feel well, to be free from depression, nervousness or blues—use Ferrozone. It's a food tonic, a healer to the weak and wracked, a boon to the sleepless—sold in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

War News.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—On behalf of your numerous subscribers permit me to make a few remarks by way of appreciation.

Your recent editorials re the Allied offensive on the Western front and all the war situation in general, have been read with pleasurable interest by thousands of people north. Particularly have your remarks on the gallant deeds and sacrifices of "Ours" been closely followed, and I feel sure they have sent a thrill of pride and satisfaction through many sorrowing hearts.

Your leaders, Mr. Editor, facile, lucid and pointed as they have been have proved both educative and instructive.

In conclusion, without at all being presumptive, I should like to make just one suggestion. You will readily understand, I take it, that all of your readers have not the time to follow each war message in detail; and of those who do, not all are able at week end to form a true conception or a correct summary of events, as they really stand. I think, therefore, that it would be an admirable idea if you could give us each week end, a concise summary of the week's war news; something after the style of that of the Montreal Star and other leading Canadian papers, in order that our people may be able to see at a glance how things stand and thus each week be more thoroughly conversant with the situation.

Yours very respectfully,
J. H. SCAMMELL.

WITH REFERENCE TO EVAN'S LIBRARY.

The Booksellers have recently received the following communique from the Publishers of Ever's Library:—

"Messrs. Dent & Sons sincerely regret that owing to the embargo by the Government on the importation of paper and materials for manufacture, causing an increase in cost by nearly 200 per cent also to the further increased labour and other materials, they are compelled on and after July 1st to advance the prices of this library as follows:—

Cloth Edition, 12 net; Best Library Binding, 110 net; Grain, 26 net; 1/4 Pigskin, 11 net; Binding, 26 net; Aldine Morocco, 33 net; Bedford Morocco, 33 net.

The local price for the Cloniston of Everyman's will therefore be 45c. instead of its old price of 40c.
