STEWART'S
Home Made Bread,
THE BREAD MY DADDY LIKES.
Daddy is evidently not one of those back number lords of creation who believes that woman's place is in the home—and only there. His taste in a wife is an up-to-date woman who will prove herself a real companion. He knows that if she is a slave to her kitchen she can't enjoy the polite or have the interest in world affairs that a little extra leisure would make possible; and so he is pleased to eat MRS. STEWART'S HOME MADE BREAD—the loaf with the home made flavor.
The smiling, well-nourished kiddie doesn't look as though suffering because mother is progressive enough to buy good bread made by a bread specialist, instead of wearing out her life in the kitchen.

CHAPTER XXIV.

HIS EXCELLENCY, COUNT MIKOFF

Hal looked up the winding path, and then at the stream, and lastly toward the village, with a puzzled and slightly gazed look on his handsome, boyish face. Then he lights his pipe, puts up his red, and saunters through the valley, up the clean little street, which is nearly deserted, save by the little cart drawn by its two dogs; by the stableman at Der Krone Hotel, who apparently do all their work while leaning against the posts outside the gate, and by the little hump-backed fruit-seller, who sits under the huge yellow umbrella, looking like a china image in her green dress and snowy white cap.

Hal, pulling at his pipe, goes up the hot, white street, nods to the stable-keepers as they hover an elaborate how upon him, stops to stare at and pat the two panting dogs in the mill-cart, buys three ripe figs of the old woman, and then clatters through the paved hall of the Krone, and, clattering up the broad stairs, saunters into one of the old rooms on the first floor of that most respectable hotel.

Sitting by a table at the open window is the Reverend Peter Bell, writing a letter with one hand, and beating off the gnats with the other. Pre-occupation is upon his forehead, for the gnats are numerous and the battle has raged long; his sleek hair is twisted by the heat, and his long coat of Oxford mixture is dusty; but he looks up with the old good-tempered smile, and greets the youth with the old: "Well, Hal?"

"Well," says Hal, dropping into the chair nearest the window, and pulling

Bell, meanwhile, returns to his letter, the completion of which is not greatly facilitated by the low and incessant whistling which Hal carries on. Suddenly the whistling ceases, and, without looking around, he says: "Did I ever see a princess, Bell?" "Did I ever—no; oh, yes, once, in Kensington Gardens," says Bell, mopping his forehead and smiling meditatively.

"I forget which princess it was, but she was very fair and stout, and looked in a pleasing manner—"

"Oh," puts in Hal, "I don't mean that sort of thing. Anybody can see a princess in a carriage or at the theatre—or at Madame Tussaud's. Were you ever in the same room with one—ever speak to one?"

"No, Hal," says Bell, blandly, "I don't remember that I have."

"Hem!" comments Hal. "Supposing one meets a princess—and gets into confab with her, is it the right sort of thing to call her 'your highness'?"

"Merely the thirst which consumes me for every kind of information," says Hal, grimly.

Bell smiles, and goes back to his letter, but Hal has not finished yet.

"I say, Bell," he says, "ain't it a rather rum thing for a princess to be out with us?"

"They were generally attended by a companion—a what do you call it, sort of attache?"

"Not always," says Bell. "Oh, no, especially on the Continent. The high orders of nobility are more numerous with foreigners than with us."

"That means that princess and dukes grow on every bush, like blackberries, in Germany," says Hal. "Well, a princess anywhere, isn't she, Bell?"

"Certainly, my dear Hal," assents Bell, sedately; "but I fall to gather the relevancy of your questions."

"Merely a wild kind of cackle on my part," says Hal. "Perhaps I'm going in for etiquette, now I'm going to visit at a real castle, and live with a real live marquis. Have you been up to the castle yet?"

Bell blushes.

"Yes; I took an opportunity of walking yesterday afternoon. It is a wonderful place, Hal, truly grand and wonderful, and, of course, I saw it at a disadvantage, as the whole place was in a state of confusion with Vane's—I mean the marquis—expected arrival. By the way, a very amiable and good-natured gentleman, the major domo, who seemed to have the general direction of the whole, on being informed by me that you were a brother of the marchioness, declared his intention of coming down to the hotel and inquiring if he could be of any service."

"Did he, by Jove?" says Hal. "Then I'll take care to give instructions that I'm out whenever a big man with a bald head and shaggy eyebrows puts in an appearance."

"My dear Hal—"

"Oh, thank you, Bell, I don't want to be killed by another interview with a German who doesn't understand my language, and thinks I understand his. No, you shall receive the major domo. Haven't I avoided the castle for that very reason, although I'm dying to see what sort of a place it is? No castle that was ever built is good enough for me, until there are some people in it who can speak my native tongue. Making great preparations, are they, Bell? It doesn't seem real, does it? Fancy Jeanne having half-a-dozen castles to choose from! George! most people are content with one. I begin to believe that when that long-nosed woman at Baden—I forget her name—said to me: 'Your sister's a lucky, very lucky woman, Mr. Baartram; she about spoke the truth.'"

"Bell sighed, and nibbled the tip of the penholder.

"When did you hear last, Hal, from Jess—from the marchioness?"

"Oh, when?" replies Hal, half out of the window again. "Why, a week or two ago, wasn't it?"

"She was quite well, I think you said—and happy?" inquires Bell, softly, and blushing timidly.

"Quite well, and happy, I suppose," says Hal, absently; "why shouldn't she be? She never was one of your melancholy moopers, at the worst of times, and she's got no reason to be now, by George!"

"No—no," says Bell, thoughtfully; "Jeanne, she's happy! As you say, how could she be otherwise?" And, with a sigh: "So good, so unselfish, so thoughtful of others—how could she be otherwise, oh, Hal!"

"Just so—you're right, Bell!" he says, coming into the room, and beginning to stride up and down, as is his wont when excited and energetic, which he is once in every quarter of the hour. "Gad! there aren't a 'gooder' girl going than Jeanne. Thoughtful! Why, Bell, if we would have allowed it, she would have lavished every blessed penny of her income, enormous as it is, on us! Look at the money she gives me—more than I want, more than I'd take, only that I mean to use it properly, and do something in the future to make her feel it hasn't been thrown away, Bell!" he goes on, stopping short, with his eyes flashing, "there isn't another girl like Jeanne in the whole world!—and I wish this day fortnight were here, and she was with us now."

Bell looks up, with a moist look in his eyes.

"So do I, Hal," he says. "I—I am an old friend, and, of course, it's only natural that I should wish to see her, and rejoice in her happiness, isn't it?—only natural."

"Just so," says Hal. "Hallo! there's that old cracked bell for the table d'hôte. What a blessing one doesn't have to put on swallow-tails. I'll just wash my face, and be down in a minute. Keep a place for me, Bell, and say, I wish you'd ask them if they've got a bottle of Bass—that yellow wine, with ten stomachaches to a bottle, doesn't agree with me!"

And he clatters out of the room.

Bell puts up his writing-case—"A present from the marchioness to the Reverend Peter Bell, Curate of Newton Regis," inscribed in gilt letters on the outside thereof—and, sighing softly, slowly descends to the Speise Saal, or dining-room.

Hal runs up to his room, his servicable boots still clattering on the polished floors; but instead of making straight for his washing-stair, with the ridiculous pile dish and milk jug, which German hotel-keepers provide for ablutatory purposes, he seats himself on the bed, and slowly rubs his head, as is his way when he wants to think.

"Princess!" he says. "Princess of what, and whether the King of George, she's too good—too good! I shouldn't I call! Or course, it's the proper thing to do. Yes, I will!"

Then, with much and eloquent abuse of the pie dish, he performs his limited toilet and goes down.

Bell has saved a seat for himself on the bill as "Pa Lale, two shillings and sixpence!" A waiter brings him some soup, exchanges it for some apparently raw salmon soured in vinegar, which Hal immediately and emphatically declines, and is about to bring him the next dish, when he turns aside to usher in a new and late arrival. He is a short, thin individual, whose face is so covered with a network of wrinkles that he may be ninety, but whose upright bearing and light step would lead one as readily to believe that he was fifty. His hair, which was iron gray, is cut short to his head, his mustache is thick, and white as snow, and his breast is covered by orders and decorations.

Every one looks up and stares, as everybody invariably does at a new arrival, and the waiter, with much fussy embarrassment, makes room to place a chair next to Bell, and requests to know, in an audible voice if "this Excellency, Count Mikoff, will partake of any soup?"

His excellency, with a comprehensive bow to the company, seats himself, wipes his mustache with a napkin, displaying a hand almost white, and then falls to at the soup.

"If his excellency is a Russian he ought to enjoy that soup," whispers Hal; "there's plenty of grease in it."

Bell looks a timid prayer for silence, and the dinner proceeds.

Strange Ceremony.

During a journey from Pekin to Kailin, in China, we were favored with a most extraordinary sight, says a correspondent. Near a beautiful temple we came upon a great company of men, each carrying two eagles. They said, when questioned, that they were taking the birds into Marjolita to recover their plumage, for the purpose of making eagle feather fans presently the men got up out of the cheek nearest them as they and went off carrying their burdens, went along.

about forty very large eagles and many smaller ones. The smaller birds sat each upon a basket dangling from the man's shoulder pole. Each basket was apparently full of something or other, but the larger eagles sat on the poles at the other end, and it was amusing to see them turning round and balancing themselves comfortably before setting off. The men seemed not to have the least anxiety lest these fierce creatures, with their powerful beaks, should take a nip out of the cheek nearest them as they

The Naval Folly.

Mr. Hoover says "there is no more inconceivable folly than this continued riot of expenditure on battleships at a time when great masses of humanity are dying of starvation in certain parts of the world while warships are bursting with rotting food in other places." It gives point to the saying that the other planets use this world as their "lunatic asylum."

British Foreign Office Issues Denial of Transatlantic Freight Rates Chopped--Red Armies Assembling on Rumanian and Polish Borders--Chief of the Hedjaz Protests British Mandate--35,000 Women on Strike in New York.

CUT IN FREIGHT RATES.
TORONTO, Feb. 9. The Canadian Merchant Marine announces today a general reduction in freight rates between Canadian Atlantic ports and Great Britain, becoming effective immediately. The former rate in effect for general cargo to Great Britain from Halifax and St. John was 45 cents a cubic foot or one dollar per one hundred pounds. The new rate will be 40 cents per cubic foot, or 75 cents per hundred pounds. General cargo covers, of course, practically all goods handled from this country to the old land.

OFFICIAL DENIAL.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. In a direction of his government, the British Foreign Office today issued a statement to formally deny the published reports that officials of the British Foreign Office had told newspapermen that Great Britain and the United States were treading the path leading to war.

STORY DISCREDITED.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9. The sensational story cabled from London by a correspondent of a United States News Agency Monday night, stating that an official of the British Foreign Office had issued a statement saying that Anglo-American relations were strained, in generally discredited here.

MORE WARS COMING.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 9. The Bolshevik forces are preparing for military operations, according to latest information received here. Forty divisions of the Soviet army are on the Polish front and five divisions on the Rumanian front. Those on the Polish front are assembling in the regions of Smolensk, Polesie and Orsha. Reports say that the total Bolshevik forces are estimated to number 600,000 effective, of whom 400,000 are on the various frontiers of Russia.

ARAB PROTEST.
LONDON, Feb. 9. Prince Emir Feisal, former King of Syria in behalf of his father, King Faisal of the Hedjaz, has protested to the British Government against the proposed Mandate for Mesopotamia and Palestine, contending they are not in accordance with pledges given Hussein.

IMMIGRATION PROPOSALS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. Nationalists of Japan, as well as of many other countries, would be excluded from the operation of a temporary Immigration Control Bill, introduced today by the Senate Immigration Commission, as a substitute for the House measure. After making some minor changes, the Commission plans to approve the substitute tomorrow, as drafted by Chairman Colt.

The substitute would affect largely immigrants coming from Europe. Besides Japanese Nationalists, aliens who would specifically be exempted from provisions of the measure would be those from Canada, China, Newfoundland, Cuba, Mexico, Central America, South America and nations with which are treaties regulating immigration.

LEGALLY DEAD.
BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 9. Eaton, the man the Sheriff forgot to hang, may be dead legally, Attorney-General Cooze frankly admitted today. He didn't know, but reports from Ouchita Parish Prison, where Lonnie has taken, legally or illegally, his regular three squares a day, ever since his execution was mailed by Sheriff Grant on February 5th, do not indicate that his appetite has suffered because of his possible demise.

LIGNITE COAL STRIKE.
THE PAS, Man., Feb. 9. Outcropping in two places, close to the shore of the Carro River, west of this place, lignite coal has been discovered by Indians, and an analysis proves to be an important strike.

MURDER WILL OUT.
EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 9. Word has just been received from Grande Prairie from Chief Detective Nicholson, of the Provincial police, that Richard Knoche, a farmer of that district, has been arrested charged with the murder of four men ten miles from Grande Prairie in June, 1918. For almost three years this quadruple murder has remained unsolved, together with two others. A short distance away, on the same day, the accused man married the widow of one of the murdered men shortly after the tragedy. He was arrested this morning at his shack about one mile from the scene of the murder.

THE SYDNEY STRIKE.
SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 9. Despite prolonged meetings and conferences to-day miners employed by the Indian Cove Coal Co. are still on strike, and from present indications there is little chance of settlement, unless the company signs the Montreal agreement.

MAY EXPORT SILVER BULLION.
LONDON, Feb. 9. The Gazette this morning published a proclamation raising the export embargo on silver bullion, but reimposing the embargo on foreign silver coins.

RANSAY McDONALD TO RUN AGAIN.
LONDON, Feb. 9. According to the Herald, the labor organ, Will Crooks, Labor member for Woolwich, will give up his seat on account of ill health and J. Ramsay McDonald, former member for Leicester and former chairman of the Labor Party, will run for the seat.

HEAVY DEATH ROLL.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9. Twenty-six deaths in a total of one hundred and twenty-five cases of sleeping sickness were reported here since January 1st.

FOREST DESTRUCTION.
PORT ANDELES, Wash., Feb. 9. Timber valued at one hundred million dollars was uprooted in a storm which swept the Olympic Peninsula of Washington between January 20th, and 30th, according to Charles Morgan Roth, assistant Federal Forest Supervisor. Sixty percent can be

Halifax Woman Had Almost Become a Complete Wreck

Restored By Tanlac, a Year Ago And Is Still in Splendid Health.

"At the time my wife began taking Tanlac," said John A. Hayter, 123 Maynard St., Halifax. "She had suffered from stomach trouble for four years, and was almost a complete nervous and physical wreck. She could scarcely eat anything as everything disagreed with her so bad, and often for days at a time she didn't eat a mouthful. She bloated terribly after meals, and suffered from awful cramping pains in her stomach. She also had headaches and dizzy spells constantly, and was hardly able to do her housework."

"One day a friend told her about Tanlac, and got her to try it. Well, she eats anything she wants now without the least pain or distress, has a fine appetite, and, in fact, is rid of all her troubles, and is doing her housework with ease. We can't praise Tanlac too highly."

Although it has been something over a year now since Mrs. Hayter's experience with Tanlac, she stated in an interview with a special Tanlac representative a few days ago, that she was still feeling fine, which is another link in the long chain of evidence regarding both the immediate and lasting results being obtained from the Master Medicine.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gables by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gushue, in M'Herborn by Ex-Platts Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Islands by William Samson, in Jamestown by Charles Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Frazer.

salvaged by prompt action, he said. Some of the trees were standing five hundred years before Columbus discovered America.

WOMEN'S STRIKE.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9. Approximately thirty-five thousand needle workers went on strike here to-day to enforce standardized union working agreements in the Women's Clothing Making Industry, according to officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

CONCERNING MANDATES.
LONDON, Feb. 9. Australia's mandate for the former German Islands in the South Pacific is published this morning. The League of Nations also publishes Japan's declaration relative to the Category of Mandates and article 22 of the Peace Treaty. Japan foregoes insertion of the clause respecting equal trading opportunities, but this says the declaration, should not be considered as acquiescence by Japan, which submits that the Japanese are subject to discriminatory and disadvantageous treatment in mandated territories.

RIOT IN BENGAL.
LONDON, Feb. 9. A despatch to the Daily Mail from Calcutta, reports a serious riot at the Nalhati Jute Mills, in which two Gurkhas were killed, eight seriously wounded and many mill hands injured.

WESTERN UNION DENIAL.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9. Denials of an exclusive Brazilian Cable franchise and co-operation with British Cable interests in the laying of a submarine cable from the United States mainland to Brazil, were salient points in the answer of the Western Union Cable Co. filed here yesterday in connection with injunction proceedings by the United States government to restrain the Company from landing a cable at Miami, Florida.

RAILWAY HELD FOR AN HOUR.
DUBLIN, Feb. 9. One hundred armed Sinn Feiners gained control of the Great Northern Railway Station in this city last night, and held it for more than an hour. A train, going from Burmahort to Londonderry, was derailed by unknown persons, who placed handbombs on the track. During the evening eight armed men entered a jewellery store in Wellington Quay and carried off three thousand dollars worth of goods.

SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTIONS.
LONDON, Feb. 9. A Johannesburg cable to the Canadian Press, says that at one, this morning, election returns showed that the South African Party had elected thirty candidates, the Nationalists five, Labor eight, and Constitutional Democrats one. General Smuts has been elected from Pretoria West by a big majority. The feature of the results is the collapse of the Labor Party, which lost eleven seats, including nine to the South African Party, but country returns are causing anxiety.

LABOUR IS LOYAL.
CAPE TOWN, Feb. 9. Enormous majorities were given the South African Party in Durban and Cape Town yesterday, while the Labor Party suffered a severe reverse in the Rand District. In Cape Town the South Africans gained two seats, in Durban three, in the Rand eight, and in east London one. The victory of the party, headed by Smuts, is attributed to the fact that workmen voted against the session issue, raised by General Herzog of the Nationalists, and did not pay much attention to the sectional issue raised by Labor leaders.

S. O. S. CALL.
BOSTON, Feb. 9. An urgent distress call from an unidentified steamer in mid-Atlantic was forwarded here to-day by the freighter W. Imboden, bound from Rotterdam to Galveston. The call which was heard last evening, was signed with the letters U.G.V. and gave the position of the vessel as thirty-six north, forty-nine forty west. The Imboden investigated but could find no trace of the vessel.

Obituary.
Eugene B. Thompson, Esq., Telegraph Operator and Druggist.
(H. F. Shortis.)

Mr. H. A. Saunders, Superintendent of the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. received a message from Harbor Grace yesterday morning announcing the death of Mr. E. B. Thompson, for nearly fifty years telegraph operator and druggist in the above town, at the age of 64 years.

Eugene Thompson was the eldest son of the late W. H. Thompson, Esq., J.P., the doyen of telegraphy in this country and a druggist of fifty years standing, commencing business in Harbor Grace in 1858--previous to which he conducted the same business in Carleton Place. In fact, the Thompson family have been connected with the medical profession for over a century. Eugene's grandfather (Dr. Thompson) being a well known and skillful physician in Bay-de-Verde district for many years.

Having studied and mastered telegraphy and the drug business under his father, the deceased was appointed to the great telegraph station at Harbor Grace, where he remained three or four years, but, his father requiring his assistance at home, he returned to Harbor Grace, in 1874, and has been practically in charge of both branches of the business up to the day of his decease.

E. B. Thompson received his education at the famous Grammar School of Harbor Grace, and entered the New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Co. in 1870, and it was quickly evident he was to become one of the most expert operators in Newfoundland.

Amongst his many friends in St. John's and the country generally the news of his death will be felt with

PAINT INSURANCE IS WHAT YOU NEED

EVERY wise property owner insures his buildings against possible damage by fire.

And yet we find many a man failing to insure his building against the certain deterioration of unprotected wood or iron, exposed to the constant wear and tear of the weather. Keeping your buildings regularly painted is insurance against deterioration. Good paint protects and beautifies the surface to which it is applied--it keeps wood from cracking and checking--it keeps iron and steel surfaces from rusting. We sell and recommend Canada Paint because it is made of pure materials thoroughly mixed and ground. Come and talk to us about your paint problems.

Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor; C. T. JAMES, Editor

Thursday, February 10, 1921.

Mr. Collishaw's Letter.

We received yesterday forenoon a copy of the letter which appeared in the News of that morning under the signature of "Super-Six," but in our case the communication was signed by no less a personage than Mr. Collishaw himself, who takes up the burden of instructing the people of Newfoundland on the manners and methods of how they shall run their business, in so far as it relates to the buying and selling of fish, as per instructions of the Export Regulations. We do not consider that any good would be done by giving Mr. Collishaw's letter more publicity than has already been given in the News. To cast more ridicule on a contribution from such a facile pen would be like piling Pelion upon Ossa. As the News has commented very freely upon the Collishavian doctrine, the Telegram forbears any further comment; but just wishes to remark, in passing, that it is only when people are being beaten with their own peculiar style of weapon that they raise the cry "Play the Game." We believe that no person in the Colony will withhold praise of Mr. Coaker when he accomplishes something worthy, and the Telegram would be one of the first to pat that versatile gentleman on the back and say "Atta boy" the moment it can be shown that Newfoundland has derived any benefit from the present playing of "ducks and drakes" with the Fish Export Trade.

Harbor Main Election.

Driven to it by the power of public opinion, the Government have at length yielded to the insistent demands of the electors of that district, and writes for a bye-election have been issued for Harbor Main; Nominating Day being set down for March 2nd, and Polling Day on March 12th. Many things have happened since Messrs. Woodford and Jones, the sitting members elected in the fall election of 1919, were unseated for alleged corrupt practices, in June last, and there have been moves made by the Government to effect a compromise with the Opposition, whereby an agreement would result that one man from each side would be elected by acclamation. But this offer, made more than once, was repudiated by the leaders of the Liberal-Labor Progressive Party, who would not consent to anything but a straight contest fought on the issues of the moment. That such a determined stand appealed to the sentiment of the voters of Harbor Main was evidenced by the numerous petitions sent to the Governor asking that an election be held. Unable to stave off the inevitable moment any longer, the proclamation has at length appeared, and within the next few weeks Harbor Main will record a decision that will strike dismay to the hearts of the Squires-Coaker element, because such decision will be a flat and final condemnation of the policy of disaster persisted in by Mr. Coaker and accepted by the Prime Minister without question or disapproval. Coaker's mad regime has had an effect in H.M., and there will be no election in that district so unpatriotic as to vote in favor of a continuation of government that has done everything in its power to place that district in an unenviable and equivocal position, as witnessed by the unsavory raking and searching of the records of the Board of Works Department by foreign "figure sharps" for the purpose of securing evidence against the senior member William Woodford and his colleague Dr. Jones, which would lead to their unseating and disqualification. They found nothing, but the purpose of the Simon Pures of the Government was clear, and now Harbor Main has its chance of vindicating its choice of 1919.

Arranging War Trophies.

Mr. Duggan at the Museum is now busily engaged in cataloguing and arranging the numerous trophies and relics of the Great War which have been sent from England by our patriotic High Commissioner Sir E. R. Bowring, and Lt.-Col. (Rev.) T. Nangle. When this work is complete a most interesting and historic display of war mementoes will be ready for exhibition to the public, who will find the many military and other curiosities well worth a second glance.

Codfish Exportation.

The last issue of the Royal Gazette contains the following instructions with regard to the shipment of fish which may be made to Portugal, and the price thereof, until the 12th day of March next ensuing: 1. No Codfish shall be sold for, or shipped or exported to Portugal unless sold by auction through the Department of Marine and Fisheries, or a Trade Commissioner, or Government Agent, in Portugal, with the approval of the Codfish Exportation Board; Provided that this Regulation shall not apply to winter or spring fish of 1921, and shall cease to have effect after June 1st next.

Supreme Court.

(Before Chief Justice.) W. A. Shifery vs. Simon Levitz. This is an application on the part of the defendant for an order that the plaintiff to furnish the defendant the following particulars, namely:—Particulars showing how the sum of $3725.00, charged for a lot of job suits, purchased on the 18th day of June, 1918, is made up. C. E. Hunt is heard in support of the application. Gibbs, K.C., for plaintiff, is heard. C. E. Hunt is heard in reply. In the matter of the petition of the Horwood Lumber Co., praying that J. H. Best of Tack's Beach, P.E., be declared insolvent. J. J. Fenslon is heard in support of the petition. The matter is set for the 17th inst. at 11 a.m. (In Admiralty.) BEFORE JUSTICE JOHNSON. S.S. Storborg vs. S.S. Deleo. Mr. McNelly for plaintiff, addresses the court. Mr. L. E. Emerson for defendant, is heard. Mr. McNelly is heard in reply. (In Chambers.) In the matter of W. E. Beams of St. John's, Provision Merchant, alleging that Walter Gosse of St. John's, Grocer, is insolvent and praying that he be so declared. Gibbs, K.C., for petitioner, moves for adjournment until Saturday, 19th inst. It is ordered accordingly.

Hear Them.

In "The Prince of Pilsen" To-night, Oh music, divine is thy magic, Thy strength the sweet and the fair. The youthful, the gallant, the gifted, To gather in harmony here. Come list to the singers to-night, then, When love pleads for love, and renews That sweetest of days in thy memory, When violets whisper for you. Hear the melody Of the reverie That's evoked by a good cigar: When the heart of youth And a soul of truth, On their wings borne afar: See a form of grace, And a winsome face, In the floating wreaths of blue: Come see to-night, In its loveliness comes true. See the charming, dancing maid, To love she's not afraid, As her lover's name she sings, Of the wondrous things and grand That are waiting her command In the blaze of gay farce. Hear of outraged laws alarms By the cheery gang of arms, Hear the shouting hunters call: Hear each mirth-provoking strain, Hear the best of best of all, And you'll want to come again. Hear them all! —Sunny Jim.

HR. Main, Take Notice!

Dear Sir—According to latest market reports from the United States, Granulated Sugar is being sold there at present by Refineries in Wholesale quantities at the low price of 5 1/2c per lb. The freight and insurance on this sugar to St. John's is roughly one cent per pound, the duty 1.65c per lb., and the exchange about 1.10c per lb., or in other words, all the expenses added, this commodity would cost 9 1/2c per lb., laid down here to-day. The Food Control Board have a shipment of 1250 barrels sugar on the "Roseland" which they bought at this low price of 8 1/2c per lb. They are selling it at 23 1/2c per lb., in lots of not less than 25 barrels, and are therefore making a profit of 13 1/2c per lb., or $42.40 per barrel of 320 lbs., or the large sum of $53,900 on the shipment now being discharged at Harvey's premises. This large amount of profit is being made, and it is worth brute force, stolen by the Food Control Board from the public, and still we are all suffering, and putting up with this hardship without a murmur. However, Mr. Editor "it is a long time that has no turning" and the independent, and many electors of the important district of Harbor Main will in a short time have an opportunity of telling the Coaker-Squires Government, at the forthcoming election, what they think of this outrage, and there can be no doubt but they will register their protest in no uncertain manner against the Government for this "error of judgment," by ignominiously defeating their candidates on the 12th March next—the date set down for the election referred to. Yours truly, BRIENS STAND, Feb. 10, 1921.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

SMUTS CHANCES GOOD. CAPE TOWN, Feb. 9. General Jan. Christiaan Smuts, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, and his Coalition of South African and Unionist parties, had won 43 seats in the House of Assembly up to noon to-day, in a bitter election fight against the Segessionists, who had only 12 seats to their credit. Labor had won 9 seats and Independents one seat. Altogether there are 135 seats to be filled. The returns received up to noon to-day were mainly from urban districts, and it possibly will be several days before a full report from the country is available. Followers of Gen. Smuts claim that he is certain of victory, since the bulk of his strength heretofore has been in the country districts.

SMUTS LEADING.

JOHANNESBURG, Feb. 9. The state of parties in the South African general elections, now in course of decision in this country, as known up to midnight to-night, is as follows: General Smuts Party—"South Africans"—67; Nationalists—37; Labor—9; Democrats—1; tied results—2. This gives the party led by General Smuts a plurality of 18 seats.

FISHERMEN ADRIET.

BOSTON, Feb. 9. Somewhere on the North Atlantic, wrapped in a pall of fog, two fishermen in an open boat were believed to be drifting to-night without food or water. The fishing schooner Ellen T. Marshall came from the Banks to-day with flag half mast, as a sign of their loss, but the duty mates of Tom Burke and Ben Muse, the missing men, held to the hope that they might still survive. They had been hauling trawls on the Georges Sound, when a fog swept in, and shut them off from the schooner. Captain John Marshall reports that he has searched for hours in search of them, but could find no trace in the heavy vapors.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF IT.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 9. The second chamber of states general, to-day, refused, by a vote of 54 to 2, to allow the Communist member, Van Ravenswaay, to interpellate the government concerning the recognition of "Irish Republic." The president of the chamber said the interpellation was not admissible, as he had no knowledge of any "Irish Republic."

Schr. Abandoned.

The Deputy Minister of Customs is in receipt of a message intimating the loss of the schr. Sparkling Glance which left Belleoram on Jan. 28th, with a cargo of fish for Oporto. The Sparkling Glance was abandoned in latitude 46.52 N., longitude 37.28 W., which is about 650 miles east of Cape Race. The crew were taken off by the s.s. Liberty Land, bound for Bermuda.

FISHERMEN ADRIET.

BOSTON, Feb. 9. Somewhere on the North Atlantic, wrapped in a pall of fog, two fishermen in an open boat were believed to be drifting to-night without food or water. The fishing schooner Ellen T. Marshall came from the Banks to-day with flag half mast, as a sign of their loss, but the duty mates of Tom Burke and Ben Muse, the missing men, held to the hope that they might still survive. They had been hauling trawls on the Georges Sound, when a fog swept in, and shut them off from the schooner. Captain John Marshall reports that he has searched for hours in search of them, but could find no trace in the heavy vapors.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF IT.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 9. The second chamber of states general, to-day, refused, by a vote of 54 to 2, to allow the Communist member, Van Ravenswaay, to interpellate the government concerning the recognition of "Irish Republic." The president of the chamber said the interpellation was not admissible, as he had no knowledge of any "Irish Republic."

Schr. Abandoned.

The Deputy Minister of Customs is in receipt of a message intimating the loss of the schr. Sparkling Glance which left Belleoram on Jan. 28th, with a cargo of fish for Oporto. The Sparkling Glance was abandoned in latitude 46.52 N., longitude 37.28 W., which is about 650 miles east of Cape Race. The crew were taken off by the s.s. Liberty Land, bound for Bermuda.

For sale in the Hall and at Royal Stationery. Train Notes. The incoming express reached Glenora at 11.15 a.m. The outgoing express is still snow-bound at Gamba. All locals have been cancelled to-day. Two engines, 30 men and a plow left here at 2 p.m. yesterday to clear the line. Up to 8.30 a.m. to-day they had reached Topsail and were making slow progress. The snow ranged from 6 to 14 feet in height.

ly inaugurating the Council of State and Indian Legislative Assembly at Delhi, India, to-day, delivered a speech in which he said in part:—"Since landing, I have felt around me those who have been my friends. The shadow of Amritsar has lengthened over the fair face of India. I know how deep is the concern felt by the King and Emperor at this terrible chapter of events in the Punjab. As an old friend of India, I appeal to you all, British and Indian, to bury along with the dead past the mistakes and misunderstandings of the past, to forgive where you have not forgiven, and to join hands and work together to realize the hopes that arise from to-day."

J. P. MURDERED.

CORK, Feb. 9. The body of Alfred Kelly, Justice of the Peace, and Managing Director of a Bakery and Confectionary firm, was found to-night near his home at Douglas, County Cork. He had been shot. Attached to the body was a card, bearing the inscription, "By order of the Irish Republican Army, take warning."

JUST A SHOW OF STRENGTH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. Approximately 20,000 of 35,000 needleworkers, who went on strike yesterday to enforce standardized working agreements in the Ladies Garment Industry, probably will return to work within three days, Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, announced last night. All but fifteen thousand of the workers were employed in union shops, he explained, and were just showing their strength.

Feildians Defeat Terra Novas

IN HARD AND FAST GAME.
Over 1500 spectators saw the Terra Novas go down to defeat before the Feildians by a score of 7 goals to 3 in the Prince's Rink last night. The game was a hard one, and fast throughout, although the Feildians had by far the best of play. Some excellent attempts at combination were made and quite a number of goals were scored as a consequence. Individual play, however, predominated and some very spectacular work was put in by several members of both teams. As usual, Nix Hunt's goal-tending was the feature of the game. Every time he plays, the Feildian goalie seems more wonderful. His judgement is unerring, and almost uncanny at times, and he saved several shots which would have got past any other goalkeeper. Tait was also a tower of strength to the Feildians. He is, indeed, the backbone of his team, his defence work being very fine and his individual play most spectacular. He also combines very well at times. Ewing again played a very good game. He seems to have the habit of finding himself near the end of the season. He worked hard last night and got in some very effective play, several of the Feildian goals going in off his stick. Winter also did well for his side. For the Terra Novas, Bob Stick played a star game. He played a strong defence game and made some good individual efforts also, most of which were, however, ineffectual. Canning played a very hard game but he showed a tendency towards selfishness which usually caused him to lose the puck before getting very far with it. Clouston played a much better game than he has done previously. Rawlins goal work was at times excellent.

In the first period the Feildians had things pretty well all their own way, and although play was hard and fast, the puck was confined to the Terra Nova territory and was lodged behind Rawlins four times during the period. The scoring was done by Payn, Ewing, Tait and Winter. The last two scoring from pretty rink length runs. During the second twenty minutes play was fast but scoring was slow. The Feildians again got the best of play but Hunt was several times called upon to save some hot shots. Shooting during this period, as indeed, it was right through the game, was very wild, many good opportunities being lost in this way. Some of the shots sent in from near goal, especially by the Terras missed by a wide margin. One goal only was scored by the Terras and the Feildians also added one to their score. Fraser scored for the former 15 minutes after the start and Payn did the needful for the Feildians a minute afterwards.

The third period was the fastest of all. Before it had been long under way Tait matched up the victory sixth goal. Too much individual play was indulged in for a time without much effect. Shortly after the start Len Stick beat Hunt for the Terra second goal and a few minutes later Tobin scored their third and last. Some few minutes before the end Alderidge scored for the Feildians who were left the victors by 7 goals to 3 when the final gong went.

The line-up was:

Feildians	Terra Novas
Hunt	Rawlins
Tait	Defence
Rendell	R. Stick
Payn	Tobin
Winter	Centre
Ewing	Clouston
	Right
	L. Stick
	Left
	Canning

SPARES.

Feildians—Dugden, Alderidge, Rendell.
Terras—Fraser, Gosse, Hender.
Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C. was referee.
Timekeepers—W. J. Martin, Karl Trappell.
Penalties—J. I. Vinnicombe.
Goal Judges—E. J. Brophy, G. Hunt.

COMMENT ON THE GAME.
Both sides put up a clean game and the exhibition was much appreciated by the spectators.
Nix Hunt is undoubtedly in a class all by himself.
Rendell seems to be obtaining more control of the puck and made one or two nice runs.

Len Stick's play was quite good at times.
It was good to see "Billy" Higgins tooting the whistle again. It was his first appearance for the year in the capacity of referee.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE MOST WONDERFUL THING IN THE WORLD.

RUTH CAMERON

At a little table near mine in the restaurant the other evening, sat two young people some where in their early twenties. There was a table for two, and a rather small one at that, and yet they seemed to find it too large, for they continually leaned across it toward each other as if drawn together by some unseen but powerful force.

As, of course, they were. The Time a Woman Loves Best. For, as you may have guessed by this time, of those two people one was male and the other female. And to judge from appearances, they were in that exquisite stage of a mutual attraction which comes just before it settles down into a formal engagement.

One could hardly help hearing what they said to each other as the tables were placed close together, and for the most part their conversation was of the simplest. And yet whenever either spoke, if it were only to ask for the salt, the other glowed at the sound of the voice and leaned forward to catch every word, as if he or she had heard some wonderful bit of wit or wisdom.

It almost seemed to me as if I could see the golden glory that hovered about these young folks. You Could Really See That Light. No glow of sunset or sunrise was ever more golden or more beautiful than the light that lay on their faces.

And once again, as it sometimes has before, it came over me what a wonderful time this is when there comes to a heart "the visitation of that power which creates all things anew; when a single tone of voice can make the heart bound and the most trivial circumstance associated with one form is put in the amber of memory."

It is the most wonderful thing in the world and it comes alike to the poorest and to the richest. The rich may not buy with all their millions anything that equals this glory.

Just Ordinary Nice Young People. Nor does one need to be especially beautiful or noteworthy in any way to be the center of such a nimbus. These two young people appeared perfectly ordinary to me—nice, but in no way noteworthy—and yet I knew that each to the other shone out from all the rest of the world. Each would find a gathering commonplace and tiresome until the other joined it and touched it with the glory and distinction of his presence.

"Never in after life," writes Ellen Key, "has the world such marvelous glories as when the first dream of love has swallowed up all contours in its opalescent mists of sunrise." And then, alas, she adds, "But never do we so easily go astray. It may happen that the lifting of the mists will disclose the most beautiful landscape. But there are more chances that the craft one has steered in the fog, will end in one of many shipwrecks."

And even if she is right, one is steering an unknown course anyway. Who knows that one would steer it any more surely in the hard clear light of common day? I don't feel sure that one would, and I for one am glad that the Creator of all things saw fit to let us live even briefly in the world of "opalescent mists."

Expensive Methods.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—Within the last three days we have been visited with one of the heaviest falls of snow that we have had for many years, and as there has been many theories expressed as to the best means of getting our streets put in a passable condition, and Mr. Silverlock, so I understand, has taken up the new and novel idea of bringing the whippet tank in play for the purpose of doing the trick, which if he should succeed will save quite a lot of expense to the Council, as the present mode of doing the work is a very expensive proposition. Besides it is really disgusting to see the slow means of removing the snow from Water Street under the present arrangements with horses and boxes which hold about 3 or 4 hundred-weight of snow, going at a snail's gallop to dump the so-called loads into the waters of the harbor. Why not give the cleaning of the snow out on contract, the same as is done in most countries, then the Council would know exactly what it would cost, where under the present system they (the Council) are all at sea as to the expense entailed therein. I venture to say if contracts were asked for, to remove the snow of Water Street or any other street for that matter, it would cost about half the money and Water Street would be cleaned of snow in mighty quick time. Anyway it is an experiment worth trying for once at least and not have the public suggesting this thing and the other thing with no beneficial results. I say give the contracts a trial, then we will know what we are talking about regarding contracts. Mr. Smallwood's suggestion in the Daily Star was, to my mind, a good one, but then again we would have quite a job to get our people to take kindly to that suggestion. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper. I am, sir, Yours sincerely, SUGGESTION. St. John's, Feb. 10, 1921.

Where Will It End?

Yesterday's "Royal Gazette" contains the interesting information that "Hills Balsam and Honey" and "Brown's Bronchial Elixir" have been banned under the Prohibition Act. It is the habitual dope drinkers can take down anything from boot polish to liquid coat plaster, if this banning of dopes continues we may soon have to do without even some of the ordinary articles in daily use. Although it might please the small boy to be able to go without polishing his boots, the "knut" is bound to be upset at the thought of losing his favourite hair pomade, and it is quite within the bounds of possibility that ere long both may go.

BRICK'S TASTELESS.

No other medicine will restore lost weight so quickly as BRICK'S TASTELESS. The one who takes it must eat. It purifies the blood, it makes the weak strong, it is a specific in throat and lung troubles; it is so prepared that it can be assimilated without the least digestive effort. Weigh yourself the day you commence to take Brick's Tasteless, then weigh yourself two (2) weeks later and note the increase. Brick's Tasteless contains all the virtues of Cod Liver Oil without the nauseous grease. Try a bottle and convince yourself. Price $1.20 bottle. Postage 20c. extra.

War Machine Applied to Civic Purposes.

"Peace Hath Her Victories." The whippet tank which has been so much in the public eye of late, thanks to the publicity given it by the City Fathers, was yesterday afternoon nearly a cask of gasoline in the patience of the mechanics engaged on getting it in working order, moved to Silverlock's garage, New Gower St. For some hours of the morning it was stalled opposite the new Bank of Commerce and the police were in their element, keeping the unruly crowd of sightseers in order. It is likely that a pilot plow will be attached to "our" tank to-day, and citizens will be given an opportunity of seeing it levelling snow instead of Germans. Everybody is looking forward to seeing it mount a snow bank and it is to be hoped they will not be disappointed to-day.

Discoverer's Lot Not Pleasant.

Those were stormy times. The annals of discovery are a monotonous story of plot and counterplot, of mutiny and uprising, treason, murder and sudden death. Magellan, faced internal dissensions, as did Columbus; he punished certain rebellious ones by marooning them in a hostile land, as Sebastian Cabot did some ten years later on the coast of Brazil; a score of times his own crew would have sent him adrift, as did that of Henry Hudson. And Magellan labored under the added handicap that he commanded. Himself a Portuguese, sailing

Munificent Gift to Grenfell Association.

The following letter was received by Dr. Grenfell from Sir Edgar R. Bowring:—

DOMINION OF NEWFOUNDLAND HIGH COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE, 55 Victoria Street, Westminster, S.W.1, January 6, 1921.

My Dear Grenfell—Yours of 15th ult. reached me a few days ago and I was very glad indeed to know that you were doing so well on your Canadian American tour both financially and patriotically. You may rest assured that anything that I can do or say to help the great work you are engaged in at the present time and for its continuance will be said and done gladly and willingly for no one has had greater opportunity of observing from the beginning what it has all meant for Newfoundland and Labrador. And now to show my appreciation in a practical form I am instructing my firm in St. John's to pay the sum of five thousand dollars on my account to the Hon. Robert Watson, who I understand represents you there. Again expressing my admiration for the work of the Grenfell mission and with best wishes for its future.

Yours very sincerely, (Sgd.) EDGAR R. BOWRING.

In connection with the above, Dr. Grenfell writes that the fund has reached $500,000 and that he has gone to California to further the scheme. It will interest our readers to learn that at a recent meeting of the directors, Mr. Charles Watson, of Toronto, was appointed General Manager of the Association at the St. John's office. Mr. Watson has been manager of one of the departments of Messrs. Eaton and Toronto. He is expected to take up his duties this month.

Rev. R. J. Power, M.A.

Honorary Chaplain R.N. and M.M.L.

At the closing service of his four years ministry at Avenue Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on January 23, the Rev. Robert J. Power, M.A., was appointed an Honorary Chaplain to the Royal Naval and Merchant Marine Institutes upon his removal to St. Andrew's Church, St. John's, Newfoundland. The ceremony was carried out by Rev. Alfred Hall, Dominion Representative and Senior Chaplain for Canada of the British and Foreign Sailors Society, assisted by ex-Warrant Officer E. H. Carell.

Dr. Hall said it would be remembered what a splendid contribution to the naval forces of the Empire had been made by the people of Newfoundland. He had personally twice officiated in St. Andrew's Church to which Rev. R. J. Power was going, in 1911 and in 1919, and he knew that he was going to exercise his ministry among a gallant and sea-faring people, so he had invited him to accept the standing of Honorary Chaplain to Mariners, and he felt sure that his ministry would be a great blessing among them.

The parchment of appointment was read in the presence of the congregation, and the right hand of fellowship was extended. The scarf of office, consisting of purple silk emblazoned with a lighthouse above the terminal crosses, the gift of His Excellency the Governor-General, was presented, and with the investiture and Blessing the ceremony closed. The chaplaincy cap and gold lace epaulettes were subsequently presented in the vestry as a gift of a generous friend of the Sailors' Institutes of the Empire.

WILL COME HERE DIRECT.—S.S. Kyle arrived at Louisburg at 10.30 a.m. yesterday after a good run across the Straits. As the cross country service is now held up, the ship, which left Louisburg at noon to-day, is coming here direct.

ANNUAL SMOKER.—The annual smoker of the Marine Engineers' Association will be held to-night at 8 o'clock in the Blue Puttee Hall, and a good time is anticipated by the members.

Magellan's Fourth Centenary.

Ferdinand Magellan, who 400 years ago discovered the strait that still bears his name, was no more than that other discoverer of the Pacific Ocean, Vasco Nunez de Balboa, a sea-faring man by tradition. Passion for adventure is not confined to the bounding billows, as the biographers of more than one voyager will show. Magellan's daring is fairly measurable only by making allowance for the conditions under which he worked. Mariners then labored under the disadvantage of superstitious dread as well as lack of charts. When Magellan almost achieved the southern end of the American continent, he had "reached the tail of the dragon as the ancients called the conjectured termination of South America," a biographer reminds us; and continues: "Let us say that Magellan had faith, and he found it; but so had Columbus, Vesputci, LaCosa, Ojeda, Coelho, and others and they found it not. Magellan pushed on a little farther than his predecessors, and had the courage and persistence to continue, in the face of every obstacle of whatever kind. At the outset, all his officers were against him; at the very gateway to the Western ocean a well-planned mutiny nearly frustrated his intentions, then a lone winter of demoralizing inaction intervened; but here at last before him open wide, he saw the port to the Pacific."

We may obtain a further idea of the caution with which exploration was conducted then from the fact that while the Cape of Good Hope was discovered in 1487 and first doubled in 1497, the Strait of Magellan, discovered in October, 1520, was not followed by discovery of Cape Horn until 1616, nearly a century later, when the Dutch had begun to make progress on the sea. Thus ninety-six years were consumed in covering distances Columbus had failed to do; he found the western route to the spice islands, and he opened a way to exploration of American coast, though this was not to bear fruit for almost two centuries. Another enduring monument to his work is the name he gave to the natives of the southern extremity of the continent, whom he called "patagones"—the clumsy-footers.

Discoverer's Lot Not Pleasant. Those were stormy times. The annals of discovery are a monotonous story of plot and counterplot, of mutiny and uprising, treason, murder and sudden death. Magellan, faced internal dissensions, as did Columbus; he punished certain rebellious ones by marooning them in a hostile land, as Sebastian Cabot did some ten years later on the coast of Brazil; a score of times his own crew would have sent him adrift, as did that of Henry Hudson. And Magellan labored under the added handicap that he commanded. Himself a Portuguese, sailing under the flag of Spain he might have been a favourite with Spaniards if he had been of his own nationality. Only his terrible energy carried him through. South America is celebrating the event. Punta Arenas, which found its seat in a new limelight when the battleship Oregon tarried there briefly, and again when a great American fleet touches there on a voyage around the world, has been in eclipse on account of the completion of the Panama Canal. The hinterland industries still flourish, but Punta Arenas declines in importance as a calling place for ships. So the celebration is to take a practical turn. As a memorial to Magellan numerous construction works will be begun. It is pleasant summer in the Southern Hemisphere, and new ambition stirs the blood. There is a definite plan to create a "boom" in which respect also there is shown a sharp contrast with the era in which Magellan lived and the spirit in which he labored. Punta Arenas, cherishing no dreams of foreign conquest, is setting about the task of carrying a fortune out of materials ready at hand.

"Prince of Pilsen" To-Night.

The postponed performance of the Prince of Pilsen takes place in the Casino Theatre to-night, when those who have been unable to witness this splendid musical comedy will have an opportunity of doing so. Patrons holding reserved seat tickets for Monday night's performance will be admitted to-night, whilst those who hold tickets for Tuesday night will be able to use them at to-morrow night's show. As this will probably be the last opportunity to witness the Prince of Pilsen, it is expected that capacity houses will greet the performers to-night and to-morrow night.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Newfoundland Historical Society hold its annual meeting in the C.H.E. Rooms to-night, when the reports for the past year will be submitted.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Jan. 10. UNCLAIMED DECORATIONS. Quite a number of ex-officers appear since their demobilization to have lost interest in their war decorations, to judge by the number of unclaimed medals and crosses still in the possession of the War Office. They are all available to claimants on application, but either too many awards have been made or the value they once had has depreciated. Military Crosses comprise the greater proportion of the unclaimed decorations, upwards of a thousand being still left in the hands of the department in Whitehall. Some possibility is suggested of misunderstanding with regard to the announcements of recognition with investitures. The situation is that the recipients may receive their Crosses either at an investiture by the Lord-Lieut. of that country in which they reside, or, if they choose, by post, but in either case notification must be sent to the M.C.'s there are still several hundred Royal Red Crosses of the Second Class unclaimed by nurses, as well as a considerable number of D.S.O.'s. In regard to the latter, a proportion of them belong to officers still serving overseas, although the others have not been enquired for.

JAPAN IN LONDON. A City friend who has for years done business with a Japanese merchant was invited the other day to dine with the Japanese, who called for him at the club in a Rolls-Royce with all the curtains drawn. Inside sat the Japanese merchant, but in all the splendour of Oriental garb. "I hope you do not mind," came the explanation, "but it is such a relief to get into my own national dress in the evening." They then drove off in the car to an apparently typical London house, just off Kolgatebridge. The merchant got quickly out of the car and led the way inside. Japanese servants in national dress relieved my friend of his coat, and he followed his host into what he was told was one of the most exclusive restaurants in London. Everyone, with the exception of himself, was Japanese, all dressed in the silks of the East. The dinner, which started with fish pudding, went on to oysters and jam. These were followed by soup, at the bottom of which was more fish pudding, and the meal ran eventually into ten courses, the only really recognizable one being chicken.

LONDON STREETScape IN 1920. Few notable buildings have gone up in London in the past year, and for the same reason no building of historic interest has passed away, and only one or two odd and picturesque little things are among the missing. The Sceptre Coffee-house in Warwick Street, behind Regent Street, has gone, to be lamented by many old-fashioned Londoners who like to see a chop-house as though Dickens had left it an hour before. Another old Bohemian haunt has changed hands and slightly changed character. That is Ruelle's in Maiden Lane, the resort of actors. It no longer shows two enormous shells in its window that had been a startling novelty in the forties, but it still keeps its old theatrical paintings and prints and ancient playbills and portraits of the sporting peers and trappers and jockeys associated with King Edward when he was Prince of Wales and of Bohemia. Lois of threatened little relics still live on, but the housebreakers are very busy smashing up further tracts of Regent St. Nash, according to the rhyme, found London brick and made it all plaster, but since Norman Shaw in the Piccadilly Hotel turned Nash's plaster into stone he has been followed by others, and soon the elegant stucco street with its graceful curve will be as stony and heavy as Berlin. There has been a lot of clearing in Oxford Street, too, but nothing very interesting has gone. In normal times, with the unprecedented selling of whole districts of London that have hardly been changed for a hundred years, we would now have been faced by the immediate prospect of seeing most of old Bloomsbury, Kensington, and Pimlico vanish, but in the present building situation the work will go on slowly and almost imperceptibly. Bedford Row, that noble, wide street with its seventeenth-century houses long inhabited by solicitors, has changed hands, but there are no signs

"WINNINGS" FROM THE ARMY.

The value of property stolen—or to use the soldiers' emphatic expression, "won"—from the Army during the war has probably never been estimated; but I am told that the value of stolen property which has since been recovered is put at not less than $20,000,000. This gigantic sum is made up of warlike stores of every possible description, and is a total which covers all the theatres in which British troops were operating. Hundreds of motor cars and motor cycles were recovered in France, material in many cases being found far removed from dumps or centres where the armies were ever situated. Both at the ports of embarkation in this country and at the French ports, huge quantities of stores have been recovered, while substantial proportions have been contributed from each of the areas in the various home commands. A big force of military police has been engaged in the work since the Armistice, the strength of the provost marshal's corps having been kept well above the normal peacetime establishment in order to undertake the duty. It is believed that most of the property recoverable has now been handed over "surplus," and the full demobilization of the corps is now in progress.

INFECTED FROM ABROAD.

It is stated that the hiccoughs epidemic was brought to Switzerland by the Viennese children who were receiving hospitality in that country, and in that report lies a hint which needs to be noted in England. There is always a tendency to set down these visitations to importation from abroad. It was so just a twelvemonth ago, when a serious outbreak of leucargie encephalitis was prevalent in all parts of France. Already—though the matter was talked of as little as possible—there had been very severe cases in England, including some in a University centre, where highly-promising students were suddenly stricken with a paralytic stupor which brought low even the healthiest athletes. There was then a suspicion that the complaint—which was not unknown to medical science though its visitations had come at rare intervals—was brought to Europe by American officers returning from the front. It was stated from Paris that to be not very contagious, but the fact that the germ entered the system through the nostrils, and attacked the nervous substance of the brain, gradually creeping down the spinal cord, was sufficiently alarming to demand the utmost precaution, and the spread of the disease was regarded in the United States as so serious that the greatest care was taken to isolate the sufferers so as to prevent infection. Here, again,

READING BY SOUND.

The most fascinating thing to be seen at this year's exhibition of scientific apparatus at South Kensington is the Optophone. This is the French invention with which a blind person can read ordinary print by an extremely delicate mechanism. Roughly, what happens is that the blind person reads by sound instead of by the feel of the raised type as in the Braille and Moon systems. This is done by producing in a telephone receiver a series of musical notes (forming musical motifs) representing the various letters as these are passed over by the instrument as it traverses a line of print. The printed letters are transferred into a sound alphabet which can be readily learned. The blind girl who was demonstrating at the College of Science has been learning a short time, and can already read at the rate of seven words a minute, but a reading speed of 25 words a minute has been attained. The practised optophone reader recognizes words as easily as a telegraph operator interprets a succession of clicks on the Morse code. The optophone was invented by Dr. Fournier d'Albe, and has been perfected as a commercial proposition by Dr. Barr. It is now on the market, and is naturally very expensive. The machine is being experimented with at St. Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Soldiers. The advantage over the raised alphabet is that the latter requires specially prepared books. The optophone can be used for reading any printed matter. Of the wireless apparatus on view the most interesting was the Creed receiving perforator, which was picking up messages of ships from the Admiralty station at Horsea Island and producing them in Morse code on a punching machine. The punched messages were being translated into English on a typewriter at about 220 words a minute.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT. AIR. Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil). The inventor T. W. Johnson, 248 Craig St., West Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience, or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Real Meaning of $4.86 2/3.

Much interest has centered in sterling of late, but few people know the real meaning of $4.86 2/3 as the value of a sovereign. In defining coinage of to-day the Financial Post says that a sovereign means 125.27447 grains Troy of English Standard or Crown gold, that is, gold 22 carats, 11-12 fine. Thus a sovereign contains 113.0016 grains Troy of pure gold. One dollar (Canada or United States alike), contains 25.8 grains Troy of United States standard gold, 9-10 fine; hence one dollar contains 23.22 grains of pure gold and a sovereign is equal to 4.86 2/3 dollars. That is, there is 4.86 2/3 as much gold in a sovereign as in a dollar. That is all this means.

Brick's Tasteless makes you eat. For sale at STAFFORD'S. Price $1.20; postage 20c. extra. ENQUIRY CONTINUED.—The enquiry into the Ayvalide murder case was continued before Judge Morris at 3.30 p.m. to-day.

Avalanche at Battery.

HOUSES DEMOLISHED AND PEOPLE INJURED. What almost ended in a terrible catastrophe occurred at the Lower Battery, East End, on Monday night, when some hundreds of tons of snow which had accumulated about 100 feet above, on the hill side, slid down with terrific force, demolishing the house occupied by Alfred Wells and family. The former sustained internal injuries, whilst his wife had her back so severely injured that it is not expected she will survive. A Telegram representative visited the scene and from Mr. Wells got the following particulars. He owned a five room house of which very little is now left, all his furniture savings, war medals, (he was a Blue Puttee man) in fact everything he was owner of has disappeared, and he now stands helpless and homeless. The night of the accident he, himself and an infant were in bed, a two year old boy sleeping in a cot in the same room. At about eleven o'clock he heard a rumbling sound above the noise of the storm and aroused his wife, telling her that he feared there would be a snow slide. They both went to get up when suddenly the house collapsed, a portion of the roof pinning the pair in bed in a sitting position. All was in darkness, but the father managing to extricate himself, tried to get outside. He could not stand up as the roof was resting on the floor. Luckily, however, one portion at the farther end being kept up by partitions, he managed to make an exit and hearing the cry of his wife he crawled back and removed him outside. Next he went to the assistance of his wife, and after a while he extricated her from amid debris and snow. The little infant in bed, being nearly smothered, was next rescued. The storm was at its height and all was in darkness, the family clad only in night clothes crawled down the hill to Wells' brothers. Here also was destruction but nobody injured. Wells next went to his father's house where the family sheltered for the night, although this place too had been partly demolished. How Wells and his family escaped being crushed is a miracle. The bed in which he was sleeping was flattened to the floor, the legs were broken off and the head bent inward, the roof of the house resting on it. It was the back of the bed which pinioned the couple down. The boys cot was crushed and a trunk nearby was also smashed to matchwood. The end of the home, parts of a washstand and a table were in the bed-room were found in the landwash about 100 feet below. On Tuesday morning help was obtained and Wells wife wrapped in blankets was removed to the home of Mr. Henry Abbott, where she now lies waiting for the roads to be shewn that she may be moved to hospital. Two other homeless families are also sheltered with Mr. Abbott, whose house is near the Signal Station and out of danger of snowfalls. A two story house owned by H. and A. Rodgers was also destroyed together with flukes, stages and fishing gear. Their loss is estimated at $1,000. The house is not totally demolished but it is uprooted and moved about 10 feet from its original foundations. One of the owners is to-day trying to collect the remnants of his furniture and fishing gear. Albert Morris had a 2 story house demolished, his flukes and stages swept into the sea, and his motor boat lost. A house owned by a man named Edgecombe was completely buried, his flukes and fishing appliances swept into the narrow. Luckily the owners only occupied these homes during the summer else they would have been all killed. Moses Percy had his home partly destroyed. The snow broke through the roof filling the house excepting one room in which the family is now living. Dozens of houses at the Battery are still buried in snow but they are not damaged to any extent not having been caught in the avalanche. The man Wells is left absolutely without anything and his brother and father, also being heavy losers, are unable to give him assistance or shelter. Being badly injured he will not be able to work for some time and those whose duty it is to look after our volunteers should render him some assistance as he is not likely to seek it himself.

Flying Roof Hits Man.

In the height of the snow storm on Tuesday the roof of a fishing stage owned by Mr. George Cooke at Quidi Vidi was carried some distance by the force of wind and hit a resident of the place who was passing, burying him in a snow bank. The man was somewhat injured and had to receive medical attention, and would have been killed but that a corner of the roof lodged on a boundary stone placed some years ago by the Admiralty.

Family Destitute.

Some of the families at the Battery, though they struggle hard to make a living, are some too well off. At least there is one case of absolute destitution here, that of a man who had been working at Bell Island, but since last fall has had no employment. Neighbors are helping the family out of their nose too plentiful store.

James Baird LIMITED These Values are to be seen in the Store vacated by WILLIAM FREW. Personal. Mr. E. V. Spry of Collin Campbell, Ltd. left by S. S. Rosalind to-day on an extended trip to U.S.A. and Canada. Hon. W. J. Ellis has gone to Los Angeles, Cal., where he will spend the winter. Mr. Eby representing the owners of the Delco, Messrs. Moore and McCormack of New York, left by the Rosalind for Halifax. Mr. W. A. Crane of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Grand Bank, who has been in the city for sometime, left by S.S. Sebastopol this morning. Messrs. Ambrose Foots and R. Durand were passengers by S.S. Sebastopol for Grand Bank. Persian Women Freed. Until seventy years ago, says a correspondent, the women in Persia, were held in a bondage of ancient customs and prejudices. They were thought little of so far as the affairs of national life were concerned. Outside their homes they were non-existent. But, he continued, a new era was to present itself to the benefit of womankind. It came in the form of the doctrines that were ultimately preached by the new teacher, Abdul Bahs. He it was who taught that women in Persia should be put on a basis of equality with the men; should receive the same advantages of education, and have a voice in making the laws that governed them. The women of Persia are now enjoying the same privileges as the men, and they are rapidly rising out of their old time slavery. HOW OLD ARMOR WAS MADE. Ancient armor cost money. A complete "iron suit" of exquisite design might "stick" the purchaser for as much as $1,000, which was a great sum in those days. Barons' gentlemen, however, had their own professional armorers to turn out such metal garments. The common soldier was to battle with nothing better to protect them than leather jerkins and steel caps. Recently samples were taken from a dozen of ancient pieces and put through a chemical and microscopical examination by experts in order to find something about how the stuff was made. It was found that all the pieces thus tested were made of pure wrought iron, containing into steel by the old "cementation" process. The original iron was produced much like our modern wrought iron. It was carbonized, hammered into sheets and the sheets welded together. "The whole was then hammered into water thus producing final hardening. Hockey Notes. The final game of the first round of the inter-collegiate series took place to-day, St. Bon's defeating the Pelicans by a score of 7 goals to 1. The first two periods were quite good, but to the start of the third the game stood at 2-1. In the third, however, St. Bon's made rings with their opponents and pitched up goals. WHEAT and Bayle did well for the losers, whilst Eglean, Murray and Halley put up a good game for St. Bon's. Mr. J. Tobin was referee. Mr. J. B. Orr, who left by the Rosalind for the States this afternoon, stated that he intends intervening as the manager of the Boston Army team up from here to play the Bostonians. To-morrow night's game between the Saints and Terra Nova should be a well contested one. A win for the latter makes the championship a possibility for the Pelicans.

NEVER JUDGE A STRANGER.
 Never stamp your verdict on a man. By the grin exterior he shows, Scaffolds often hide the butler's plan;
 Fool is he whose wit conceals a barb, Creatures often walk in common garb.
 Billy was a railroad clerk, selling tickets day by day. Knew the time the trains went out, knew the best and quickest way; Billy knew a lot of things, for a youth of twenty-two.
 And he rather liked to show other folks how much he knew.
 One day to the counter came an unpretentious way One who seemed of small account, One whose hair was thin and gray;
 Billy didn't like his looks, didn't like the clothes he wore. Sized him up as one he thought not worth doing favors for.
 Billy leaned against the wall, nicely manicured his nails. Wasn't interested then in his job of making sales;
 All the time the old man stood patiently and watched him there. "Boy," said he at last, "the way should get you a rocking chair."
 Billy let his temper fly. "Keep your shirt on," he replied: "When you come in here, old man, leave your gift of gab outside." Next day Billy got a card, "President on the line," they said. And when he was ushered in Billy pretty near fell dead.
 Waiting for him at a desk, in a room superbly fine, was the president of the line; Was the same old suit of clothes on the president of the line; "Boy," said he, "I've called you in just to say 'don't put on airs.' Judge a man by what he does, never by the clothes he wears."

MAT. A. CARLSON PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.
 He Says They Steadily Helped Him When He Was Sallow and Thin and Felt the Twinges of Rheumatic Pains.
 Endako, B.C. Feb. 10.—(Special).—Mat. A. Carlson, a well-known resident here, is a firm believer in Dodd's Kidney Pills as a remedy for sick kidneys. Mr. Carlson gives his reasons:—
 "I was sallow and thin," he says, "and then I felt the rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings.
 "I read so much of the health and strength that comes to all who use Dodd's Kidney Pills that I felt sure they would help me.
 "Such blessings of health and comfort I got from them I cannot describe. They very soon helped me and my steady use keeps me active and strong."
 To keep healthy the kidneys must be kept in good working order. They strain the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood is the first essential to good health.
 Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills have not proved their worth as a remedy for sick kidneys.

CREDIT.
 This year will bring unsettled times, because of readjustment of the merchant prices need their dime, and they'll be slow at trusting. They'll not give credit left and right as lately they've been doing, and frowns will greet the slow-pay wight who'd buy a plug of chewing. And many men this year, I guess, will need a slice of credit, for readjustment brings distress—the banking sharps have said it. Now he who's kept his stand-off bright, will know the easy sledding, and merchant prices will delight to sell him books or bedding. However stringent money is, the lamps for him are burning; to see his good old honest, phiz, the merchants all are yearning. And if he asks to buy on time a grindstone or a hammer, the dealers on his person climb, with glad, exultant clamor. There'll never be a time so tight that men of reputation for having always acted right, can't get accommodation. A reputation as good pay is better far than rubles, and men who do not think that way must travel with the boobies. The melancholy days are here, suspended "tick" will daunt them; and bills they should have paid last year will rise like ghosts and haunt them.

ECZEMA
 You are not alone in suffering from this skin disease. It is a common ailment for which there is a simple and effective remedy. The "Eczema" is a new and powerful preparation which relieves the itching and burning, and restores the skin to its normal condition. It is a true and reliable remedy for all cases of Eczema, whether on the face, hands, or feet. Write for a free sample and full particulars to the manufacturer, Dr. J. C. Williams, 1234 Main Street, Toronto, Ontario.
