The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

D. B. Weldon Library University of Western Ontario (Regional History Room)

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol - (meaning "CON-TINUED"), or the symbol ▼ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Les images sulvantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papler est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'Impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles sulvants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole -- signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifle "FiN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérleur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'Images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthoda.

BY MR. MOWAT,

IN 1874.

Some slight attempt is being made by the friends of the present Government at Ottawa to palliate the iniquity of the recent Gerrymandering Bill, by a reference to the Redistribution Act passed in the Legislature of Ontario in 1874. Mr. Mowat, it is said, gerrymandered Ontario then; why should Sir John not do the same now? Under these circumstances it may be well to call the attention of the electors to the actual character and scope of Mr. Mowat's measure, in order that it may be seen how little justification or excuse it affords for the present attempt to "hive the Grits," and practically disfranchise a large proportion of the Liberal party in this Province.

At the session of the Legislature of Ontario held in November, 1874, Mr. Mowat introduced a Bill for the purpose of rearranging to some extent the representation of the Province in the Local House, and of adding six additional members to the then existing number. In bringing in the measure he pointed out that if the Province were divided equally into 88 constitutionies—the number the bill proposed to fix—the population of each on the basis of the census of 1871 would be about 18,400. A large number of constituencies as they then stood contained less than this population, and many contained considerably more. To remove the most glaring of these inequalities and to place the representation of the Province upon a more equable footing, while at the same time preserving intact, as far as possible, municipal boundaries was declared to be the object of the Bill.

One of the seats was allotted to the District of Muskoka and Parry Sound, previously unrepresented in the House, although sending a member to the House of Commons.

Another was given to the newly-created County of Dufferin, which consisted of the Townships of Mono (from Cardwell), Melancthon (from South Grey), Amaranth (from North Wellington), East Garafraxa and the town of Orangeville (from Centre Wellington), and Mulmur (from South Simcoc). Population, 15,500.

The electoral counties of Bothwell and Niagara were abolished, the latter being attached to the County of Lincoln, and of the former the Townships of Sombra, Dawn and Euphemia reverted to Lambton, and Camden, Zone, Orford and Howard to Kent. In the cases of both Niagara and Bothwell the Townships composing the electoral districts were restored to the counties to which they municipally belonged.

The rearrangement of Bothwell increased the population of Lambton to 39,800, and of Kent to 39,600. Each of these counties therefore received two members instead of one, as formerly.

After deducting the Township of Melancthon from Grey (to form Dufferin) that county had a population of 57,300, entitling it to three members instead of two. It was therefore divided into North, East and South Ridings, and a member given to each.

The County of Simcoe after losing the Township of Mulmur (to Dufferin), and Tecumseth (to Cardwell), contained a population of 49,156, with a large extent of country. Three members were allotted to this county.

Essex, with a population of 32,697, was considered large enough for two members. It was therefore divided into North and South Ridings and a member allotted to each.

Huron, with a population of 66,000, was entitled to increased representation. The county was therefore divided into East, West and South Ridings, each sending a member.

Other constitutioncies whose boundaries were affected by the Bill were:

Cardwell, from which was taken the Township of Mono (to form the County of Dufferin), and which received the Township of Tecumseth from Sincoe. The population of Cardwell was thus raised to 17,300.

The deduction of Amaranth, East Garafraxa and Orangeville (for Dufferin) from Wellington left that county with a population of 57,309, and necessitated a rearragement of its 'hree Ridings. The South Riding was consequently constituted of the Townships of Guelph and Puslinch and the town of Guelph, with a population of 18,105; Centre Wellington of the Townships of Nichol, Pilkington, Erin, West Garafraxa and Luther, and the villages of Elora and Fergus, containing a population of 18,435; and North Wellington of Arthur, Minto, Maryborough and Peel, and the village of Mount Forest, with a population of 20,769.

North Victoria was made to include the Provisional County of Haliburton (formerly included in Peterborough), and was increased in population from 10,956 to 13,167.

After the transfer from Peterborough to Victoria of the Provisional County of Hali-burton, the remaining townships in that county were disposed of as follows: Otonabee, Douro, Asphodel, Dummer, Belmont, Methuen, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos, with the village of Ashburnham, went to the East Riding, with a population of 14,993; and South Monaghan, North Monaghan, Smith, Ennismore, Harvey, Galway and Cavenuish, with the town of Peterborough and village of Lakefield, to the West Riding; population, 12,948.

The Townships of Hagarty, Richards, Sherwood, Burns and Jones, sparsely settled, were detached from the North Riding of Renfrew and added to the South.

From South Leeds, with a population of 20,716, were taken the Townships of Yonge Front and Rear of Yonge and Escott, with a population of 2,882, leaving South Leeds with 17,234; these townships were added to Brockville with 10,475, increasing its population to 13,937.

East Northumberland received the whole of the village of Hastings, on the boundary between that Riding and County of Peterborough; West York received Richmond Hill, on the line between West and East York; North Lanark the whole of Carleton Place, on the border between North and South Lanark; and South Bruce the whole of Lucknow between South Bruce and County of Huron. These changes were made in accordance with that section of the Bili which provided that villages partly in one constituency and partly in another should in the future belong wholly to the one having the smaller population.

Those counties which were given an additional member were divided as follows:

Huron into East, West and South.

East Huron—Townships Howick, Grey, Morris, McKillop, and those parts of Hullett and Turnberry lying east of the gravel road, and the village of Brussels. Population, 21,976.

West Huron—Townships Ashfield, Wawanosh (East and West), Colborne, and those parts of Hullett and Turnberry lying west of the gravel road, and that portion of Goderich Township north of the cut line and Huron road; the town of Goderich and villages of Clinton and Wingham. Population, 24,434.

South Huron—Townships Tuckersmith, Usborne, Hay, Stephen and Stanley, Goderich south of cut line and Huron road, villages of Scaforth and Exeter. Population, 22,755.

Lambton, which received from the abolished District of Bothwell the Townships of Sombra, Euphemia and Dawn, was divided into East and West.

East Lambton—Townships Bosanquet, Warwick, Plympton, Brooke and Euphemia; villages of Wyoming, Watford and Forest. Population, 19,289.

West Lambton—Townships Sombra, Dawn, Moore, Enniskillen and Sarnia; towns Petrolia and Sarnia, and village of Oil Springs. Population, 19,608.

East Kent—Townships Zone, Camden (with the gore thereof), Ortord, Howard and Harwich; town of Bothwell; villages of Blenheim and Dresden. Population, 19,782.

West Kent—Townships Romney, East Tilbury, Raleigh, Dover, East Dover, West Chatham, and town of Chatham. Population, 20,862.

Grey, after losing Melanethon to Dufferin, was divided into North, East and South.

South Grey was formed as for the Dominion House, of Bentwick, Glenelg, Normanby and Egremont, with a population of 18,622.

The only change from the arrangement adopted by the Dominion House for the other two Ridings was that Holland and St. Vincent were interchanged, the former township being placed in the East Riding, and the latter in the North. East Grey then had a population of 18,425, and North Grey of 20,305.

Essex was divided into North and South.

North Essex—Townships of Tilbury West, Rochester, Maidstone, Sandwich East, Sandwich West; towns of Windsor and Sandwich, and village of Belle River. Population 17,988.

South Essex—Townships of Mersea, Gosfield, Colchester, Malden, Anderdon, Pelee Island; town of Amherstburgh, and village of Learnington. Population, 14,709.

MUNICIPAL BOUNDARIES NOT DISTURBED.

The only cases in which municipal boundaries were disturbed were those connected with the formation of the new County of Dufferin. This county was formed in accordance with the wishes of the people of that section of country, and the change was petitioned for by every municipality which was made a part of it with the exception of the Township of Mulmur. At two consecutive sessions previous to the passing of the Redistribution Act, bills were introduced for the purpose of setting apart this county, but action was postponed at the request of the Government, and it was only when the wishes of the people were made clearly known, by petitions and otherwise, that the change was made. The County of Dufferin itself returned a Conservative member; and the counties from which municipalities were detached for its formation, while in 1874 returning 1 Independent, 2 Reform, and 5 Conservative members, in 1875, after the general elections of that year returned 3 Reform and 7 Conservative members. There is therefore no ground for saying, either with regard to Dufferin itself, or the counties from which it was formed, that that county was organized for political purposes.

The Township of Mono was deducted from Cardwell to assist in the formation of Dufferin, and Cardwell was consequently left with only three townships and a population of 12,520. To compensate it for the loss of Mono, it was given the Township of Tecumseth, which was detached from the County of Simcoe for this purpose. The population of Cardwell was thus increased to 17,248. Previous to these alterations, this district returned an Independent member, who generally voted with the Government; afterwards it sent a supporter of the Opposition.

These were the only cases in which the bill interfered with municipal limits; all other re-arrangements were strictly within county boundaries. The change in the first-named instance was made at the express wish of the people interested, and in the second, the alteration was absolutely necessary if the district receiving the township was to continue to be represented in the House.

Objection was taken to the interchange of the Townships of Holland and St. Vincent, and the placing of the latter in the East and the former in the North Riding of Grey. It was shown, however, that the relations of these townships were more intimate with the Ridings to which they were attached than with those in which they were formerly situated, and there is the additional fact that both the East and North Ridings returned supporters of the Opposition.

Of the "River" counties, South Leeds was the largest, with a population of 20,716, and Brockville the smallest, with 10,475. Two townships were therefore taken from the former and added to the latter, making a more equal distribution of the population.

The only change in East Northumberland was that the Village of Hastings, part of which was previously in that constituency and part in Peterborough, was declared to be wholly in East Northumberland. Both before and after the change this constituency returned a supporter of the Government.

The only change made in East and West York was, that the Village of Richmond Hill, formerly divided between the two Ridings, was declared to be entirely within the latter. The political complexion of these constituencies was not affected by this alteration, as each returned a Government supporter both before and after the election of 1875.

The only change in North and South Lanark was the placing of the Village of Carleton Place, which before was partly in the North Riding and partly in the South, wholly within the former. Previously to this arrangement North Lanark returned a supporter of the Government, afterwards it sent an Opposition member. The represen-was ties tation of South Lanark was not altered, it continuing to return an adherent of the Opposition.

The only change in South Bruce was the placing of the Village of Lucknow, formerly divided between South Bruce and Huron, wholly within the former constituency. Both before and after this change South Bruce sent a supporter of the Government to Parliament.

The bill changed the boundaries of 29 constituencies, including two which it abolished entirely. Some of the changes were very trifling, and in a number of instances consisted only in giving the whole of a village situated on the boundary between two constituencies entirely to one or other of them. Municipal limits, with the exceptions above mentioned, were scrupulously adhered to, and constituencies were made as equal as possible in point of population without undertaking a general reconstruction of the Province and an indiscriminate overthrowing of municipal boundaries. The evils of such a course were regarded as greater than its advantages, and no demand for its adoption was made in any part of the Province.

THE POLITICAL RESULTS OF THE BILL.

The following table shows the counties and constituencies affected by the bill, and their political complexion before and after its passage:—

		In 1874 (Before the Bill).				In 1875 (AFTER THE BILL).

In other words, the altered constituencies were represented in the Parliament of 1874 by 2 Independent, 14 Government and 13 Opposition members, in that of 1875, after the passing of the Bill, by 16 Government and 19 Opposition members, the Government thus gaining 2 votes and the Opposition 6! Nothing could show more plainly or conclusively that Mr. Mowat's Government was not prompted by political motives in the partial redistribution of 1874. On the contrary, a majority of the changes made resulted, and could not but result, disastrously to the Administration, and in giving increased representation to its opponents upon the floor of the House.
