CAMPBELLTON WATER PRESSURE

The editor of the Tribune always on the alert to publish anything detrimental to the best interests of Campbellton, more particularly in reference to the water system, is like the drowning man, grasping at straw. At the Council meeting Wednesday evening Chairman McDonald stated that the pressure on the mains as shown at Engineer Black's office, was 75 pounds. This statement the learned editor of the Tribune takes as a text for an article on the lack of pressure for fire purposes on the water mains, even after an expenditure he says, of $35,000 (which is about $5 to $6,000 more than the cost to date). If the editor of the Tribune knew anything about water and water pressure as regards elevation, he would not have made such a rash statement, but like the fool, he rushes in where wise men fear to tread. In conversation with Engineer Black the Graphic was informed that while the pressure gauge at his office registers 75 pounds, his office is at least thirty-five feet above the main at Shivers' upper shingle mill. Thirty-five feet gives 15.17 pounds per square inch, which added to 75 pounds gives 90.17 pounds as the pressure at that point. When we consider that at one time the pressure had fallen off to nearly 40 pounds we think that our readers will admit that the expenditure was not made unwisely, and Campbellton now has a water service its citizens should be proud of.

The scientists gravely announce that there is sodium in large quantities visible in Halley's comet. Perhaps the inhabitants of Mars have been putting salt on its soil.

Mrs. Hamilton, of Kirkcubright, Scotland, widow of the Rev. George Hamilton, minister of the parish from 1820 to 1886, has just entered her 107 year. She has been a widow for 74 years.

The strain was too great for the comatose and it is suffering from a cracked head, so an Arizona man has announced. We know many citizens who are suffering from stiff neck from trying to see the comet.

Some idea of the immensity of the crowds at the King's funeral in London last Friday may be gained from the fact that on the following day no less than two hundred and sixty-nine pick pockets were arraigned in the police courts, while it is estimated onlookers were robbed of valuables to the amount of over half a million dollars. There was also a flood of complaints of burglaries committed during the funeral hours. Thousands of accidents occurred, and the hospitals were taxed to their capacity in caring for the injured, over seven hundred cases remaining after three weeks. The number of cases of poisoning, including minor injuries had been disposed of. Fully a score were fatally hurt, several having sustained fractured skulls, and internal injuries in falling from trees, windows and stands.

A KOREAN CONFERENCE

As the study of the language is the work assigned missionaries, the first year on the field, it cannot tell you much about my having a part in real, practical work. It is one is a "Jack of all trades" and master of one, he can expect to do much after a couple of years, but as "Jack of all trades" he or she can certainly make themselves very useful during the first year or two, by virtue of their knowledge of various things; and less liable to be handicapped in after years.

Because of emergencies which constantly arise in a foreign land, one is apt to feel especially thankful if they have acquired a knowledge in the home land of every thing that Providence has allowed to come in their way; for one cannot be too well prepared to work in a hostile country. Aside from language study and on or two hours a day in the hospital operating room, during the conference which began March 16th and ended March 24th, the work assigned one of our number, including myself, was "teaching along." Before the opening of this I will try to give some idea of how the whole affair was conducted. It was much on the same order of what we would call a conference at home, but the chief feature was Bible Study and all who enrolled themselves in a class were given a Christian experience. Such meetings are held for a week at a time all over Korea, wherever there is a Mission Station, and it is at these which the Koreans, especially the Christians, look forward to with great expectations. Not only the people living in the cities attend, but they come from the surrounding countries far and near; some of them walking one hundred miles over mountains and hills, carrying a sack of rice on their heads for use on the way. The Conference held at this time was for women, the Conference for men having been held some time ago. Plans for the accommodation of the country folks are made about four weeks in advance. The pastors stationed in the cities notify the native pastors of the little country churches and they announce to the people, when the meeting will be held. Those who expect to attend reach the city several days before the meetings begin in companies of tens and twenties. Their names are registered by the elders and they are given a badge with the name thereon and the number of the class which they are supposed to attend. At that time a decision is made as to where they shall be placed, whether in the conference hall or in the homes of those who read, among those not baptized or among the baptized. These are then subdivided, each teacher having fifty or one hundred in a class, an outline of each subject taught being given to each member. During their stay in the city, they are housed in school houses near the church, and in other dwellings which are built of mud, with roofs thatched with straw and all Korean built. The school houses are built on a larger scale, an ordinary dwelling house being eight feet by eight and some even smaller.

On the appointed day all assembled in the city church, which is quite a large building, made of wood, poorly lighted with two small stoves, in addition daylight peeping in through large crevices on all sides. This building for which the Koreans donated money and which they think very beautiful indeed, is large enough to accommodate two thousand people seated closely on the floor, the men on one side, the women on the other. After devotional exercises each morning, two periods a day were set aside for teaching singing. Am glad to say I know enough of the language to be able to do this, so the station assigned such work to another girl and myself. Probably if some of you were allowed the privilege to stand in a corner behind the scenes, you would have a concert all to yourselves, as it is no easy task teaching Koreans to sing. It was a pleasant surprise to find a "top-born" they might hear if they were listening; but I do not think they would make much of an effort to follow the tune, repeating the words happened to be in the key of D Flat. In the key of F or G after much of, for on the part of a leader, they are capable of getting the right notes, somehow they do not seem to have an ear for half tones, and will slide along regardless of such. A building where there are one thousand or more trying to sing in the native tongue, the din and noise seems strange indeed, for the Korean voice is very weird and while many of them do not have single voices, they all try to sing enthusiastically and make a tremendous noise.

After taking turns at the organ and leading with the voice and baton, we were certainly ready to stop when the time was up and breathe easily for a few minutes. But at the end of the week there seemed to be decided improvement and they had learned several new tunes fairly well. As the Koreans are very fond of instrumental music it was suggested that I should play the mandolin during the last day of meeting. While tuning the instrument, which required about five minutes, they crowded on the platform until there was no moving space and at the same time others ran out of the building to spread the news and in less than ten minutes the church was full. After they were persuaded to resume their seats on the floor, they all listened attentively and did not want to go when the meeting closed.

During the Conference a woman afflicted with all kinds of diseases, "dyspepsia" attended regularly. With both lower limbs eaten away by the disease, to the knees, and all the fingers gone, with the help of a stick she would trudge in daily and take a seat on the floor by the side of other who apparently seemed to be very much unconcerned and not the least bit afraid of contracting the disease.

She was a Christian and I don't think there was a brighter face in the audience. Leprosy is very common here, also smallpox and the persons afflicted are not isolated but go about the streets wherever they have a mind to go.

During the last day of their stay in the city they requested that they might be allowed to make a P.T. pronounced here "Pong" and translated right see of the Hospital and home of the missionaries. Their request was granted and they came in by twenties. I wish with you might have seen the look of astonishment on the faces as they went up the hospital stairway, many of the women never having been inside of a wooden or brick building as they had come to the city or the first time. Their exclamations were very amusing, one woman exclaiming: "This is Heaven!"

The missionaries' houses, they think are little palaces, which, in fact, are rude in comparison with houses in the home land, but to the Korean, anything made of wood, or other than mud is a great curiosity. They can not conceive of anything like a ten story building, or an automobile and until they could see such with their own eyes would never believe such things to be true. But the encouraging thing is that they are always ready to hear the Gospel message, and when they become Christians prove themselves honest, deserving people. The work of Bible Study and prayer was certainly uplifting and many avowed their desire to become Christians.

Was All Run Down. Weighed 125 Lbs. Now Weighs 185.

Mrs. M. McGinn, Debee Junction, N.B., writes: "I wish to tell you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. Three years ago I was so run down I could not do my own work. I went to a doctor, and he told me I had heart trouble and that my nerves were all unstrung. I took his medicine, as he ordered me to do, but it did me no good. I then started to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and had only taken several boxes, and I am now strong and well, and able to do my own work. When I commenced taking your pills I weighed 125 pounds, and now weigh 185 and have given birth to a lovely young daughter, which was a happy thing in the family. When I commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I could not get upstairs without resting before I got to the top. I can now go up without any trouble."

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
