DISTRICT AND GENERAL

Harold Jarvis, noted tenor soloist, died at his home in Detroit on Monday.

The proposal to amend the O.T.A. by permitting seven per cent. beer to be sold did not find favor in the Legislature, the bill being rejected by a vote of 54 to 6.

Canada has over 2,100,000 persons, or nearly one-fourth of its population, at school, according to the annual report on education statistics, issued by the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

A total of 3,794,150 reports and publications were printed by the Department of Agriculture, of which 2,987,285 were distributed during the fiscal year 1922-23. The cost of these publications was $93,224.

Petrolia council has passed a by-law governing gasoline pumps on the street. All pump owners must deposit a bond for $1,000 to protect the town, and automobile drivers must shut off motors when receiving gasoline.

Thieves broke into the chopping mill and feed store of T. Norris & Co., known as Musgrave's store, ten miles from Strathroy, at night recently, getting away with a large quantity of shorts, bran and flour, valued at $60.

Here and There

The season for moose hunting opened in New Brunswick October 1st, and the chief game warden expects one of the best seasons in the history of the province. Game is reported plentiful in all sections.

The drydock at St. John, New Brunswick, is now an accomplished work. On October 20th, the largest drydock in North America, it is capable of accommodating the largest ships of the British Navy.

Speaking in London, England, on October 19th, Sir Lomer Gouin, Canadian Minister of Justice, stated that Canada's exports per capita were three times more than those of the United States and her imports per capita four times more. The British Empire was Canada's second best customer.

There are more telephones in Canada per 100 population than in any other country except the United States. This is shown in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in which the proportion of telephone users per 100 population is set at 10.53.

A dispatch from London states that a number of cattle from the Prince of Wales' ranch was included in a large consignment of Canadian cattle which reached Cardiff recently. There appeared to be a keen demand for the consignment and 150 head were despatched to Norfolk farmers by special train.

Members of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association of Canada, at the closing session of their Toronto convention, pledged subscriptions totalling $10,000 towards the launching of a permanent institute of baking, in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. It is expected that the school will be opened early in 1924.

Canadian Pacific Railway figures show remarkable increases in the shipment of grain for the ten week days preceding and including October 18th, this year, as compared with 1922. During the ten days there were loaded for shipment over the whole system a total of 2,850,000 bushels a day, in comparison with 12,000 cars at the rate of 2,850,000 bushels a day, in comparison with 12,000 cars at 1,753,000 bushels a day last year.

It is expected that by the end of the present month track-laying on the branch of the Canadian Pacific running from Kipawa to the Government dam on the De Quince River, a distance of 69 miles, with a spur from Gaboury to Ville Marie, a distance of 8 miles, will be completed and that by the end of November the whole line will be ready for operation.

A system of education by mail for those who live in remote rural districts out of reach of rural schools is being prepared by Hon. Perron Baker, Minister of Education for Alberta, to go into effect this month. The working plan has already been drawn up to run through the winter to the end of the school year. It is expected that from 20 to 40 lessons will be given in the case of each applicant for the service.

Of 526 girls brought to Saskatchewan from June 15, 1923, only six have returned overseas, and the sum of $45,411.55 advanced to the girls over the sum of $42,980.98 had been repaid up to June 15th, 400 having repaid their loan in full and the balance of 126 paying all but the sum of $2,430.67. The girls came to Canada to positions as household workers.

DEBATING COMPETITION

The second of a series of debates by representatives of the young people's societies in the Presbytery of London for this district is now under way. The first debate will be held in the Presbyterian schoolroom on Wednesday evening, April 9, between representatives of Kilmartin and Glencoe societies. The subject chosen is "Resolved that co-operation has done more for the world than competition." The affirmative will be taken by Mrs. Archie Leitch and Miss Corinne Howe, representatives of Kilmartin society, and the negative by R. D. McDonald and Bruce Armstrong, representatives of the Glencoe society.

OBITUARY

There fell asleep on Sunday, March 30th, one of the pioneers of Mossa township, in the person of Jane McVicar, relict of the late Colin McVicar, who predeceased her 39 years. Born in Argyleshire, Scotland, in the year 1840, she came to this country when five years of age with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McVicar, settling in the township of Mossa. In the year 1863 she married Colin McIntyre, their union being blessed with ten children. Surviving her are six sons and three daughters, namely: Donald, of Dana, Sask.; Archibald, of Macoun, Sask.; Sarah Dumas, of Bad Axe, Mich.; John, of the West; Hughie, on the old home in Mossa; Katie, of Detroit; Nevin, of Elms, Wash.; Mary, on the old home in Mossa; and Colin, of Bad Axe, Mich. There are also ten grandchildren. Mrs. McIntyre was of a quiet, retiring disposition and a woman who loved her home. Services were conducted at her home in Mossa on Tuesday at 1 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Robertson, of Burns' church, Mossa, of which the late Mrs. McIntyre was a member for over fifty years. Interment was made in the family plot in Kilmartin cemetery. The floral tributes, bearing silent sympathy, were beautiful.

THE FARMERS' TURN

An additional $500,000 for hydro bonuses, was placed in the estimates of the Ontario government. The explanation is made now that it is for paying 50 per cent. of the cost of constructing secondary transmission lines in rural areas. Secondary lines are those that take the power from the main hydro line and lead out to the various concessions and side lines.

If the measure means getting power to the farmers at a price they can afford to pay, then it is good legislation and entitled to every support.

Cities, towns and villages have had a monopoly of hydro; they have found it to be a good thing.

Right now Ontario is anxious above all else to make working and living conditions better on the farms of this province.

When municipalities will gladly bear their share of the proposed public cost to make it financially possible for rural Ontario to have power and light.

Rural Ontario's credit has been pledged along with that of hydro municipalities in the sale of government-backed bonds to make the enterprise possible, and rural Ontario is entitled to consideration and assistance for which it has waited a long time.—Advertiser.

POLICE COURT

Joseph Giles, of Mossa, appeared last Friday before Police Magistrate Morrison, in answer to a summons, charged by John McKay, a neighbor, with assault upon his wife, Wealthy McKay. According to the evidence of Mrs. McKay, the accused came to their place, and after speaking to Mr. McKay about a shovel, on his way out of the house struck her on the cheek, nearly knocking her down. McKay said his wife's eye was blackened by the blow but was "all right now"—just three days after.

He was not sure whether she was permanently injured or not. McKay, who is extremely deaf and could not be made to hear in court, said he heard Giles call his wife a foul name. Giles in his evidence told an entirely different story. He said he went to the house to ask McKay if he had seen anything of a shovel both used for cutting cornstalks, and which belonged to Giles. McKay "went up in the air." Giles told him not to get mad and started to leave. On his way out Mrs. McKay slapped him on the face, seized a good sized walking stick and struck him over the head with it and followed him to the gate and attempted to strike him again. He wrestled the stick from her, without striking her, and went his way. The stick was produced in court. Giles claimed that if anyone should have laid a complaint for assault it was he.

The magistrate dismissed the case.

MRS. HOLLINGSHEAD PASSES

The death occurred on Monday afternoon at the residence of her son-in-law, J. A. McLachlan, of Mrs. Mary Porter, widow of the late Henry Hollingshead, formerly of Dutton. Mrs. Hollingshead was 78 years of age and had been a resident of Glencoe for 15 years. Her husband predeceased her by about 12 years, and since that time she had made her home with her son-in-law. The deceased was highly respected in the town and was a member of the Presbyterian church. She is survived by three sons and two daughters: William and Harry, of Dutton; Robert, of Toronto; Mrs. H. Pickles, of Vancouver, and Mrs. E. I. Scott, of Sault Ste. Marie. Another daughter, Mrs. J. A. McLachlan, died two years ago. The funeral will be held from the residence of her son-in-law on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Oakland cemetery.

SIDDALL'S STORE ROBBED

Sometime between the hours of two and eight o'clock yesterday morning unknown parties broke into Roy Siddall's pool room, lunch room and cigar store, and got away with from three to four hundred dollars' worth of goods consisting of cigars, tobaccos, cigarettes, tobacco pouches, pipes, etc. A few dollars in cash contained in the till was also taken. Entrance was effected at an upstairs back door. The robbery is believed to have been the work of local parties, and Mr. Siddall is offering a reward of one hundred dollars for information that will lead to their conviction.

FAREWELL PARTY

On Friday evening a farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Mullins, near Riverside, when about sixty-five friends and neighbors gathered to spend a social time with Mr. and Mrs. Mullins and family, who are leaving the community. The evening was spent in cards and dancing. Mr. Mullins and family have sold their farm here and will move to Cayuga. Regrets for the loss of such valued friends and neighbors are many, as they have always taken an active part in the affairs of the community generally.

MOSA COUNCIL

A meeting of the Mossa council was held at Glencoe on March 15th.

Moved by James Gilbert, seconded by A. McCready, that Stephen Fenell be paid $6, refund of statute labor; A. E. Sutherland, $57, for printing auditors' reports, etc.; C. C. McNaughton, $15.25, for making returns of births, marriages and deaths in 1923; Neil Lease, $1, for burying pig found dead on road opposite lot 2, con. 4 and 5; Thos. Williams, $2, refund of dog tax; John Graham, $4, refund of statute labor. Carried.

The report of the engineer on the proposed J. J. Shields' drain was brought before the council at 2 p.m. for further consideration, when it was moved by J. A. Leitch, seconded by I. Waterworth, that the engineer's report be adopted and that the clerk be hereby instructed to prepare a by-law in accordance with the said report. Carried.

Moved by J. A. Leitch, seconded by I. Waterworth, that the engineer's report on the Glencoe outlet drain be adopted, and the clerk is hereby instructed to prepare a by-law in accordance with the said report. Carried.

Moved by Isaac Waterworth, that all statute labor in the township be commuted at a rate of $1.50 per day. Carried.

Moved by J. A. Leitch, seconded by I. Waterworth, that the statute labor question be laid over until the next municipal election and give the ratepayers an opportunity of deciding the matter by ballot. Lost.

The original motion carried on the following division of the council:—Yeas, Gilbert, Waterworth, James; nays, Leitch, McCready.

The council adjourned to meet at Newbury on April 19th at 1 o'clock. C. C. McNaughton, Clerk.

FIRE DESTROYED DWELLING

The residence of Joseph Cramm, of Mossa, was destroyed by fire Friday evening. Mr. Cramm escaping with only a small portion of clothing. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a defective chimney, and some blame it on spooks or spontaneous combustion. The proprietor has joined the emigration ranks and left for Belle River on Tuesday. Another report is that Mr. Cramm kicked over a lamp and was rescued by a Mr. Tunks. Anyhow, he had a narrow escape, his whiskers being singed.—Bothwell Times.

An Aylmer man was fined $10 and costs at London for having only one marker on his car.

MUSICAL EVENING

Special attention is directed to the recital to be given by Howard Gordon's pupils at the town hall on Monday evening, April 7th, when one of the finest programs ever given by Glencoe children is promised. Artists from five years of age up will appear in violin, cello, vocal and orchestra selections. The object of this recital is to give the public a first-class musical program, also an idea of what the Glencoe public school orchestra is capable of doing, before they go to the musical festival in Toronto where they expect to wrest the challenge shield from the Toronto public schools and win the championship of Ontario.

Glencoe was brought into prominence when Mr. Gordon's high school orchestra won the championship last year at Toronto. Prospects are good that not only will the high school orchestra be able to retain their title but that the public school orchestra as well will come out of the contest with first-class honors.

Proceeds of the recital are to assist these young musicians in meeting the expenses of their trip to Toronto, and it is but fair to expect that the people of Glencoe and vicinity will encourage them in their undertaking.

DEATH OF GEORGE HAROLD

Wardsville, April 1.—George Harold, an elderly and prosperous farmer, who lived in the north end of the town, was suddenly seized with a stroke this morning, and died several hours later. He had been in good health, and although medical aid was summoned he did not rally. He leaves a widow, two daughters and three sons. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

THE CHAIN LETTER AGAIN

The chain letter bobs up again with its threat of misfortune to those who fail to write ten letters and waste 30c in postage. It is an appeal to the superstition which still lurks in undeveloped minds and it is cowardly because it comes to the receiver out of the void and unvoiced for by the writer.

PLANTING SHRUBBERY

In these times when hours of labor have been reduced, people ought to have more time to make their places more attractive. One of the easiest ways of beautifying a home is to plant shrubbery around it. Once you get a bed of shrubs well started they need little attention. A little spading, trimming and perhaps fertilizing, and these sturdy and independent little bushes take care of themselves and ask no favors from anyone. At their own appointed time, every shrub in a well selected arrangement will burst forth into a rich mass of bloom. If correctly chosen the bank of shrubbery should have some bloomers at every period in the season. It transforms a bare and cold looking dwelling into a cheerful center of radiance and beauty. Every home in this community should be adorned with pretty shrubs.

The expense of such a beautification of the home is not great at any time and very substantial reductions from list prices can be obtained by members of the local horticultural society.

Are you going to have a garden or is it your turn to keep chickens?

In addressing the London Motor Club, W. G. Robertson, of the Ontario Motor League, stated that reliable information indicates that the gasoline tax is coming in Ontario, and that in 1925 all automobile drivers, including private owners and members of their families, will be examined and licensed.

King George will deliver an address that is expected to be heard around the world at 11.30 a.m. Greenwich time, April 23, when he will formally open the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley. For the first time in English history, the actual voice of a monarch will be broadcast and heard simultaneously in the homes of hundreds of thousands of his subjects who have seen him in public, but have never heard him speak, and by hundreds of thousands of others who have never even viewed his royal person.

Driving through the March gale to attend Lenten mass at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at West Lorne at 8.15 o'clock Sunday morning, Michael Brody, aged 55, and his son, Thomas Brody, aged 12, on concession 9, Aldborough, were struck and instantly killed by Michigan Central flyer No. 47, westbound, at the crossing just east of the village. Their bodies were hurled some distance through the air and were mangled almost beyond recognition. Their horse was killed and the buggy reduced to matchwood.

AREN'T YOU GLAD THAT—

Your husband isn't an angel? He'd be such a sorry sight in overalls. You need not submerge your mind with your hands in the dishwasher? God reserved the right of judging your neighbors and allowed you the privilege of enjoying them? The city is at last moving to the country by the radio route, and that you don't need to dress up to receive it?

You have comfortable old clothes and comforting old friends? Your eyes are set in the front of your head instead of the back? There is so much more to be gained from the forward look.

Life must be lived moment by moment? How very distressing it would be to have the whole day's duties descend on our helpless heads at once. Cows have the urge to stray into your neighbor's cornfield? Without their unintentional assistance you might remain forever in the dark concerning his real disposition.

Christmas comes in winter instead of early spring when there wouldn't be a minute of time to prepare for or enjoy it? The Great Artist picked out the particular patch of sky canvas above your pasture bars upon which to paint the ever recurring masterpiece of the sunset?

INDISPENSABLE RUBBER BANDS.

A nickel's worth of rubber bands bought at a bookstore is a good investment for a housewife. When there is no suitable cover for a dish of cold vegetables or other leftovers a piece of waxed paper or a white cloth may be firmly held in place by means of a rubber band. Patch bundles of dress patterns can be put away quickly if rubber bands are used.

A rubber band slipped lengthwise over the pages and back of the cook book will keep the desired place.

In the work basket rubber bands confine the loose ends of darning cotton.

When there are no lids to glasses and jellies must be covered with paper the use of rubber bands will save time and keep the cover securely in place.

Unightly flower pots may be quickly transformed into harmonious containers by the use of green crepe paper held firmly in place by the ever helpful rubber band.

CHEER-UPS.

In my Aunt Mollie's jeans closet is a shelf of what she calls tasters, and what I call cheer-ups. Aunt Mollie keeps all of the small glasses and wide-mouthed squatty bottles in which salad dressing, cream cheese, cherries, or other small quantities of food are packed. They are washed carefully and decorated prettily, and when preserving time comes they are filled with the choicest of jellies and jams against the time when a friend who is ill needs a cheer-up gift. Then wrapped in colored paper, the dainty glass, with just enough jelly to tempt the whimsical appetite of an invalid, is a welcome addition to the sick-room tray. Small bottles of liquid are filled with grade juice or blackberry cordial to make blessed the name of Aunt Mollie in many a shut-in life during the dreary convalescent days.—J. V. R.

"When Hearts Command"—

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

"When hearts command, From minds the sagest counselings depart."

"And I must get back to the hotel," murmured Mrs. Carnay. "No, no, Alice. You're not to come with me. I've left poor Uncle John far too long. He'll be feeling most neglected."

Ardeyne moved the table so that she could pass. "I met Mr. Gaunt just now," he said. "He gave me a message for you."

Jean lifted her brightly inattentive glance. "Yes?" she inquired absently.

"He wants you to bring your brother to see him."

"Oh, yes—how kind! Yes, I will."

And she, too, hurried away.

Alice looked anxiously after her.

"I don't think mummy is very well."

"Do you hope she hasn't caught Uncle John's flu?" Did you notice, Philip?

"She doesn't seem at all herself."

"She looks a little feverish," Ardeyne admitted.

"Perhaps the climate doesn't suit her, but—oh, I know I should not say it, but for the last few days I've been rather sorry Uncle John came. He's made a perfect slave of mummy. He's a selfish, fussy old man. This was to have been a holiday for her."

Ardeyne inquired if she had seen much of her "Uncle John."

"Scarcely anything at all," she replied. "Mummy's so afraid I'll catch his cold."

"Do you—do you remember him very well?" Ardeyne was not consciously pumping her, but there was one thing he most certainly had to find out.

"I don't remember him at all. I never heard of him until mummy announced that he was coming. I've wondered if it was wrong of me to do this."

"If there's something just a little queer about him. Poor old mummy's just hating his being here, although she doesn't let on a word. That isn't her way. But I know she's perfectly wretched and—and so am I."

"My dear! And I thought—"

"Oh, I know. I am happy, Philip. Only—but we can't talk here. There are too many people about."

Then wait a moment while I pay that bill, and we'll go."

He went inside to settle for the tea, and then suggested that they take a rather roundabout course home, up behind the Convent School to the hillside overlooking Sasso and around to the back of the hotel by the Via dei Colli.

As they began to scramble up she gave him her hand.

How lovely it was in the silence of the hills at sunset, the colors soft yet vivid, the air so still that its breath was like a scented whisper.

At the top they halted and looked back. It seemed as though they were alone together in a painted dream world. Far out at sea drifted the grey trail of a steamer's smoke; some little birds piped appreciatively in the olive grove behind them; and their feet were spread a carpet of purple violets.

"Philip—you do love me, don't you?"

Behind the question lay her instinctive jealousy of Carrie Egan, but nothing more. There was neither guile nor deceit in the eyes which met his with such yearning trust. And if there had been—?

He held her to him so closely, kissed her so ardently, yet with such tenderness that Alice was a little frightened.

"Philip!" she gasped. "Don't—please! Someone might see... you're crushing my hat, dear."

"I love you—I love you—love you!" Ardeyne exclaimed, his lips brushing her soft cheek. "Nothing shall ever take you away from me—nothing in this whole wide world."

"But nothing can—nothing will," she laughed happily.

"Nothing," he repeated, as one making a vow to himself.

"Has—anyone tried to?" she asked, moved by his strange manner. In spite of herself she kept thinking of that too-familiar face of Egan.

"Of course not—my foolish little love!"

CHAPTER XIV.

Dawn, pink-fingered, felt stealthily along the rim of the eastern horizon, but it was dark and silent in old Bordighera as a woman skirted the edge of the town, her anxious face set towards the heights of Monte Nero. Just before the road descended to the turning to the cemetery, she halted for a moment and studied a wooden sign on the high pink wall which enclosed a small villa. The sign said that this was the Villa Charnail, that it was to be let furnished, and particulars were to be obtained at the Laiterie of one D. Benetti. It was just light enough for the woman—Jean Carnay—to read the lettering. She pressed close to the grilled gate and, peering through, obtained a restricted view of a tiny garden and house. "Villa Charnail," she repeated to herself. "I wonder—"

Then she went on, hurrying in the vain hope of beating the sunrise.

It was now four o'clock, and she had only slept a few hours. What would the porter think of her leaving the hotel so early? She had told him with half a word that she was on her way to the heights of Monte Nero, and he had said nothing.

You Can't Beat Tanlac Says Alberta Citizen

"The Tanlac Treatment Made Me Look and Feel Like a Different Man," Says Petro.

"The Tanlac treatment has made me look and feel like a different man," is the positive statement of H. G. Petro, well-known citizen of Okotoks, Alberta, Canada.

"Before taking Tanlac I was sorely troubled with indigestion, gas bloating and a tightness in my chest that made me short of breath. My appetite was gone, my circulation poor, and headaches and dizzy spells would strike me most every day. I also had a bad swelling in my leg. "Three bottles of Tanlac put me in A-1 condition in every way. I have a rousing appetite, sleep like a log and am rid of all my troubles, even the swelling in my leg. Incidentally, I have gained so much weight that I am too big for the clothes I wore before taking Tanlac, and am feeling fine. You can't beat Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

The Most Wonderful Bird's Nest.

Which is the most wonderful bird's nest in the world? asks the English Bird of Mystery. This is a difficult question to answer, for nests vary so very much in shape, size and material. Certainly one of the most wonderful is that of the South American ovenbird. This is built of mud, and is closed, save for a narrow tunnel, which leads into a grass-built chamber further back. Another strange nest is that of the Chinese Swift, which is made entirely from saliva hardened by exposure to the air.

—an essential in business—
—a necessity to most families

AMONG the greatest and most practical of man's inventions, one of the most vital instruments in modern business and one of the most useful and beneficial influences in family life is the modern automobile.

Dependable, Comfortable, speedy, unconfined in scope, unlimited in endurance and eminently practical in the economy of its operation, the automobile has contributed more to man's earning power and to his enjoyment and health than any other single factor.

And unique among automobiles, Chevrolet provides everything any car can afford at a cost that is unapproached by another fully equipped quality car in the world. Chevrolet has the power to go any place and do anything that is possible for any other car, and at the same time it holds the world's record for low running cost and economy of upkeep.

ENGLISH BOYS AS CANADIAN FARMERS

PROFESSOR LOCHEAD OF M.A.C. ON LECTURE TOUR.

Advantage of Placing Youths Upon Land After Special Training in Best Methods.

A new and novel angle in viewing British immigration to Canada and a departure in the manner of regard for the future building of Canadian population by valuable contributions from the British Isles was taken when Professor Lochhead of Macdonald Agricultural College left for England to conduct a lecture tour with the idea of interesting English boys at the large public and secondary schools in the opportunities Canada offers them for embarking on agricultural careers.

At the present time the professor is making an exhaustive tour of the British Isles, interesting headmasters and leading educationalists in his work, as well as directly addressing boys.

The Youthful Immigrant Most Desirable.

Just what success the new scheme will meet with it is impossible to forecast, though, if the professor is successful in bringing home to the students of England's first schools and their parents the advantages of such early launching out, a movement of some volume and permanent worth should result.

Canada is just coming, at the present time, to appreciate the true worth of the youthful immigrant who comes to the country irresponsible, plebeian, unskillful, and without any accumulation of useless knowledge which must be shed or adjusted to new conditions.

Graduates of English public schools and Universities are to be found farming all over the Canadian expanse, and among them are to be numbered some of the Dominion's most successful and prosperous agriculturists.

The Advantages of the Scheme.

These men are the first to advocate the coming to Canada at an early age of youths who have decided upon a farming career in the Dominion. They point out the wisdom of spending the last college years at a Canadian agricultural college, than which there are none superior, and which peculiarly prepare students for Canadian farming conditions. At the conclusion of such a course they start with a full equipment of practical knowledge, either to acquire more upon some other farm or upon their own establishment.

It cannot be appreciated, perhaps, to the same extent in England, under what a handicap young Englishmen, with every most admirable and desirable quality, frequently labor for a time due to an educative training that does not include a consideration of Canadian conditions.

Gardens.

Gardens are homes for happy thoughts. They live there. Who wander gardens understand And learn the worth of loving, and Forgive there.

The heart forgoes its fears in old Still gardens, Where fragrance and tranquillity Are wardens;

Where birds go by and green boughs bend And flowers Drift perfumed petals on the grass Long hours.

Gardens are meant for musing in, That just to walk their borders bright Is still content and deep delight, That but to breathe their beauty's balm Is prayer.

Laughter.

A baby laughs as if its face Reflected sunshine from the sky; The light may fade and leave no trace Amid the clouds, as years go by.

One man will show a cunning leer, Or grin with avaricious pride; Another with contemptuous sneer Has put true laughter far aside.

A few retain the power to touch Each weary day with generous fun; All men attempt to laugh; but much Depends at last on how it's done.

RULES FOR CHILDREN.

A clean body has a good deal to do with creating a clean mind, therefore a few simple rules for parents and teachers may not be amiss: Teach children to wash their face and hands when they get up, before meals and before going to bed. Encourage them to use polite expressions, such as "Good morning" and "Good night," "Thank you," "Much obliged," etc. Remind them not to expect to do just what they want to do, but to cheerfully do what they are asked. Insist that truthfulness and honesty in everything is the only safe policy. Remind them to be kind to all dumb animals and to attend promptly to their wants. And that the best introduction anywhere is a smiling countenance and a readiness to serve others.

KEEP THE SOURCE CLEAN.

The milk-consuming public is demanding better milk every year. If the dairymen desire to see their business grow, they must provide that better milk. Only two ways of them still believe that no matter how dirty the milk they ship to the creamery, the cheese factory, the condenser, or milk distributing plants, that these various organizations are able by some kind of scientific magic to cleanse and renovate the products so as to make it satisfactory. While it is true that clarification and pasteurization can do wonders in that direction, they cannot do it all. This was brought home to me most forcibly not so long ago on inspecting a farm where milk was bottled for city delivery.

Everything about the dairy or bottling house was above criticism, the equipment was ample, the methods good. In the barn conditions were by no means satisfactory. Every experienced milkman knows that unless he gets clean milk to start with, that later precautions are only partially satisfactory. Inasmuch as the average dairy farmer is not concerned with bottling his own milk, he is able to concentrate his attention upon maintaining satisfactory barn conditions. When the milk comes from the barn it must be "right," or the best quality of milk cannot be set before the consuming public.

There is no longer any dispute about the right type of barn. In the modern dairy barn the floors are of concrete, and ample gutters are provided. Most new barns which are being built have sanitary steel stanchions. In other words, the cows are given a chance to stay clean. Chutes are provided, so that hay, bedding, and feed can be taken into the stable without raising a great amount of dust. Many large windows provide ample sunlight. In this kind of barn odors are reduced to a minimum. Nothing worse could happen to the milk than to have it contaminated with foul stable odors. A good ventilation system, which may be home-built, is almost a necessity, and will eventually be required by city inspectors.

There is nothing more disgusting than to go into a stable and see the cows covered with manure which is matted into the hair. Manure is removed at least twice daily out of every well regulated stable. The attendant also watches carefully to see that none of the droppings remain where the cows can lie down upon them, but pushes them into the gutters. Plenty of bedding follows as a matter of course. But in addition to the prompt removal of the manure, clipping the flanks and udders of the cows makes it much harder for filth to attach itself. Then if the cows are groomed or brushed so as to remove all loose hair, clean milking is much easier. It is even a good plan to take a steel wire brush and wash the cow's tails thoroughly about once a month in soap and hot water. If the cows are groomed a short time before milking, they should be chained up in the stanchion so they cannot lie down until milked. This is easily accomplished with a strap around the cow's neck, with a snap to fasten the strap to a little chain at the top of the stanchion.

The habits of the milker are important. I am not an advocate of absolute dry-hand milking, but like to wipe off the udder of the cow with a damp cloth just before milking, and to wash my hands after every cow. To keep enough milk in your hands so that it can drop into the pail is a filthy habit. Semi-covered pails, tests show, will keep most of the dirt and hair from falling into the milk.

How to Plant a Tree

If You Give it Just About Half a Chance it Will Do its Best to Live.

BY FRANK A. WAUGH.

Plant it with the roots in the ground and the buds in the air. This is the only rule in transplanting young trees—at least the only rule to which there are no important exceptions.

Beginners in gardening do not feel like that. They have a superstition that planting a tree is a ceremony; that it has some astrology in it; that one has to consult the moon, the calendar and the Cyclopaedia Universalis. Yet the truth is that a young healthy tree is very hard to kill. With the tree it is a matter of life or death; and the tree wants to live a great deal worse than we want to have it.

All the ancient and solemn exhortations to extreme care are probably bunk. Take one, often repeated, about preserving all the small, fibrous roots. Now ordinary transplanting does not preserve 5 per cent. of the aforesaid fibrous roots; and if 5 or 10 per cent. should be preserved by the conscientious gardener they would die and rot in the ground and a new set of feeders would be put out before the little tree really took up life anew.

Or take the other charming thought that all the main roots must be saved and carefully combed out by somebody's fingers, tenderly placed in their natural positions and softly bedded down with moist earth. Henry M. Stringfellow some years ago shocked the horticultural world by saying that he preached what he called "the new horticulture"; and his doctrine succinctly stated, was that all the roots should be cut off the transplanted tree and nearly all the top. When he was ready to plant there was nothing left but a stub of a root four inches long, a stub of a top four inches long and a label. And the most ridiculous part of his system was that his trees grew just as well as those codified infants that were planted by the trained nurse.

WE CAN'T MAKE DEAD ONES GROW.

Another instructive example showing how much a young tree will stand may be drawn from the universal practice of the foresters. They feel obliged, for reasons of economy, to cut out all the frills and plant trees just as rapidly and cheaply as it is possible to do it. So they take a bucketful of nursery trees in one hand and a special spade or adz in the other, start in a bee line up the hill and plant as fast as they walk. A hole is forced in the raw weedy soil, the seedling is forced into the hole, the earth is firmly packed with one jab of a hoeshailed boot and the tree is planted. In spite of the unprepared soil and in spite of the competition of weeds and grass, nearly all these trees grow.

So we may with confidence approach our little task of transplanting our few garden trees. We will not ask them, either, to submit to any unnecessary rough-housing. On the contrary, we will do what we easily can to make them happy in their new homes.

But let us remember what Mrs. Thorne said to her married daughter when asked about cooking salt mackerel. Mrs. Thorne said, "In the first place I get a good mackerel." This is indeed highly important. If a nursery tree is dead when we begin to plant it no amount of ceremonial care will bring it back to life. It is probable, indeed, that 90 per cent. of the failures in transplanting small trees are due to exposures and injuries which occur between the time the tree is dug and the moment when it gets back into the soil.

Some of these injuries are due to careless digging and packing, to bad storage, to heating or drying in shipment or to exposure to the air and wind after unpacking. This last item of exposure is one of the most deadly; and inasmuch as it is wholly within the control of the tree planter himself he is inexcusable if he permits its occurrence.

THE SIMPLE JOB OF HEELING IN.

The next point at which the anxious tree transplanting man properly gives himself some concern is in the preparation of the soil. Above has been cited the practice of the silviculturists in planting in raw sod; but this is not to be recommended for fruit trees, bush fruits, ornamental trees and shrubs or any other garden species. Indeed, all experience shows emphatically that the failure to have the land well cultivated, sweet and clean, greatly multiplies the percentage of losses.

If any number of trees are to be planted it is often necessary to keep them for a few days after their arrival from the nursery. They should be heeled in. The trees are taken out of the bales or packing box in which they are received. The roots are rolled in a puddle of thin mud. This process, known as puddling, is almost always followed by large planters and also by the knowing small ones. It covers the roots with a coating of soil, which greatly retards their drying out.

They are then placed in a trench, usually about eighteen inches deep, the roots are deeply covered with moist earth and solidly trodden down. Here they will keep for weeks provided the weather is not so warm as to start them into growth nor so dry as to desiccate them. Of course the effects of a very dry spell can be alleviated by heavy watering.

When the hour comes for the final planting the trees can be taken out of the trench and placed in a large pail or a barrel. In this receptacle will be some water and perhaps some soil, to keep the roots from drying. If many trees are to be planted the holes should be dug in advance or a separate gang working ahead. If only a dozen or so are to be handled the holes can be dug one at a time as we are ready for them. A hole must be dug big enough and deep enough for the trees, remembering on the one hand that roots should not be rolled up and forced into the hole, and on the other that it is wise to cut off all long and sprawling roots. Indeed, both roots and tops should be cut back at transplanting time. It is by no means necessary to go to the Stringfellow extreme, but considerable pruning is advisable. The best amount will depend on many variable conditions which cannot be discussed here; but the discussion may be spared the easier, since the trees are bound to grow in any case.

Using fresh sweet friable soil for filling in upon the roots is really essential, in spite of all facts mentioned at the beginning of this article. A tree bedded in straw, manure, sod, stones or clods hard as brick shards stands a poor chance. This clean soil should be firmed down by hard tramping. This, too, is important.

A common practice is to water trees heavily when they are planted out. If the ground is quite dry this treatment is advisable. On the other hand, if the soil is moist and in thorough good tilth this watering is unnecessary. In some cases it may even prove positively harmful. For example, if planting is done in clay, the watering and tramping of the soil may puddle it and lead to its baking, after which the tree will have a hard time indeed.

Another common practice is to apply manure or fertilizer to newly planted trees. The fertilizer may act as a mulch and do considerable service; but the plant food thus generously offered the little tree is seldom used. The transplanted tree has to spend the greater part of the next year building a new root system, and until this system has reached some development fertilizers cannot be gathered. There is, in fact, seldom any call for extra plant food before the second year.

There are then a few points which may be reasonably observed in transplanting young trees. First, get a good tree, one that is thoroughly alive. Second, keep it in good condition by appropriate but simple means till the moment of planting. Third, have the soil in the pink of condition. Fourth, plant the tree quickly, firm the soil and go on to the next one.

After this all that is necessary is to give the tree a chance. God made that tree with every twig, fibre and cell full of life and with no other purpose or expectation but to live. Living is its business; and as our purposes happen to coincide with those of the tree we ought to get on together with great success.

The Best Sources of Seed Grain.

Persons looking for reliable information as to where to obtain desirable approved varieties may be purchased will find the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, 114 Victoria St., Ottawa, one of the most satisfactory sources upon which to draw. This organization is composed of several hundred growers of high grade seed grain. They operate according to definite rules in order that their seed, if satisfactory, may be in line to receive the highest official seed grade, namely, "Registered Seed." This grade of seed is required to be pure as to variety, free from weed seeds and other impurities, contain not more than one per cent. of other cultivated crops per five pounds of seed, and germinate at least 90 per cent. Seed which does not quite comply with this high standard, in so far as freedom from other cultivated grain is concerned, but which does not contain more seeds of other cultivated grains than a total of 10 to the pound, may receive the official seed grade called Extra No. 1. It is one of these grades which the farmer should endeavor to secure for seed.

The Association constitutes the chief medium through which the pedigree seed produced at the Experimental Farm is propagated and brought into commerce. It also co-operates with our best seed merchants, the latter purchasing a considerable proportion of their supplies from or direct through the former. The Association is, therefore, in a position to direct prospective purchasers where they may best likely be able to secure Registered or Extra No. 1 seed of the varieties which will give them satisfactory results.

The commercial value of pure, vital seed of productive varieties is fully recognized by a great many of our best farmers. Unfortunately, however, it is not appreciated very fully as yet by the average crop raiser.

Special Trial Samples—In order to facilitate and encourage the distribution and trial of registered seed through Canada, the Canadian Seed Growers' Association is prepared to receive orders for 100 pound sacks or more of Banner, Victory of Gold Rain oats, O.A.C. 21 barley, or Huron, Marquis or Ruby wheat, at $3 per 100 pounds, f.o.b. shipping point, for the wheat and barley, and $3.75 for the oats for oats. A money order attached to a letter ordering 100 pounds of seed of one of the above varieties addressed to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, 114 Victoria St., Ottawa, will receive prompt attention.

The above amount of seed would give a farmer a very good start in good seed and at the same time would give him an opportunity to compare the returns from his own seed with those realized from the seed purchased.

To get rid of warts on people or animals, apply castor oil three or four times—wart will disappear.

Churning.

On many thermometers at 62 deg. the word "churning" is printed. If the manufacturers placed it there as a guide, many have mistaken it for a rule.

There is no standard temperature for churning, as conditions vary and many things should be taken into consideration; for example, low churning temperatures may be used when we have such conditions as rich cream, not too much in the churn, succulent feed, and cows fresh in milk.

Choose the temperature that will bring the butter in nice, firm granules in from 20 to 30 minutes. A range of temperatures that will cover most farm conditions would be 54 to 58 deg. F. in summer, and 56 to 64 deg. in winter, so says Miss B. Millar, Dairy Dept., O. A. College.

In farm dairies the barrel churn is used, and having it about one-third full will make the work easier. A great many of the long churnings are caused by having too much cream in the churn. Another cause of long churning is having the cream too cold. If, after churning about thirty minutes, there is no sign of butter coming, raise the temperature of the cream a few degrees. Take the cream from the churn, place the can in a vessel of warm water and stir the cream until the required temperature is reached.

With very thin cream it is difficult to gather the butter and it may be necessary to draw off part of the buttermilk and continue the work, re-adding the churn slowly.

If the butter breaks and will not gather, but remains about the size of clover seed, take the temperature of the contents of the churn, add a quart or two of water a few degrees warmer, raise the temperature of the cream a few degrees. Take the cream from the churn, place the can in a vessel of warm water and stir the cream until the required temperature is reached.

If a rich cream thickens during the process of churning and concussion ceases, add enough water at the same temperature to dilute it so that it will drop again.

Difficult churning is caused in a number of ways but can be avoided if a little thought is given to the question. When the granules of butter are about one-half the size of wheat grains, add a couple of quarts of water several degrees colder than the temperature of the cream and continue churning until the granules are the size of wheat grains, when the buttermilk, it is a sign that the churning is not quite completed. Give a few more turns to the churn.

The Columbine.

The columbine, more correctly named the aquilegia, is one of the most desirable of the perennial garden flowers. Its hardiness is beyond doubt, indeed, it is a fine growing wild in many parts of the province. So favorable has this flower been regarded that a number of horticultural organizations recommended the columbine for the national flower of Canada. The columbine appears in many colors and shades. During recent years the long-spurred varieties have grown rapidly into fashion, exhibiting most striking and beautiful colors. In all mixed borders and beds they are almost indispensable because they continue to bloom over a fairly long period in the early part of the summer, the foliage itself is attractive, and does not appear to be subject to disease or insect enemies. In cultivation the columbine can withstand partial shade, although it does better in the open sun. It requires a moderately rich soil for luxuriance of growth and bloom. In the mixed border the columbine should occupy a position towards the front because it does not grow higher than about twenty inches.

The columbine is readily produced from seed but does not bloom the first year. Seed should be sown thinly and covered only slightly as one would sow lettuce for example. The plants require to be thinned out if growing too close together during the early part of the summer and transferred to their permanent place in the border in the autumn. Horticultural society members can arrange between themselves to grow many kinds of perennials and other garden flowers, to be exchanged at planting time. This is but one of the advantages of membership in one of these societies.

Teaching Children to be Truthful by Example

BY HELEN GREGG GREEN.

Dropping in at my neighbor's next door, I found a worried mother and a tearful little girl.

"Why, Babette, what's wrong?" I asked the child.

"Mother just punished me for fibbing," sobbed Babette.

"For lying, Babette," frowned the mother.

"Oh, mother, I only—" began the child.

"Don't argue with me, Babette!" ordered the mother. "Run out and play! But remember, never lie to Mother again!"

A few days later Babette told me her mother was not well, so I called to see if I might help in any way.

While we were chatting, and Babette was playing with her dolls on the floor, we heard a knock at the door.

"Teresa!" called Babette's mother to the maid, "if those are callers, tell them I'm not at home."

Teresa obeyed. Babette stopped dressing her dolls, and scurried to her mother.

"Why, Mother!" she said, "why is it you tell me not to lie when you do it yourself?"

The mother looked amazed.

"Why—why—" and she blushed scarlet, looking at me as if for help. But I was tongue-tied, and greatly embarrassed for the mother. Suddenly the tears started down her cheeks.

"Why, Babette, dear, Mother is ashamed! I never thought of this before. Why, how could I expect my little girl to be truthful when Mother's so untruthful herself? To think I've set such an example for my child."

"Why didn't I understand?" she said thoughtfully.

Yes, why didn't she think? Do not parents know that children are very impressionable and are easily influenced by the right kind of example; and by inculcating proper ideas and ideals?

Yes, there's no doubt about it, parents must learn to think.

A young bride recently told me that as a child she thought her mother absolutely incapable of telling an untruth. And to her knowledge she never did.

A beautiful example, and a beautiful record.

THE SWEET PEA

There are good and better ways of growing sweet peas. Poorness of soil and too thick planting are amongst the chief causes of unsatisfactory results. Sweet peas cannot succeed in the shade of trees or on the north side of buildings. They seldom do well if trained against walls, but must have light and air on both sides, although a wire boundary fence may well be used as a support.

Soils.—Sweet peas like a good, deep, rich soil. If it is poor, dig in plenty of good, well-rotted manure. The best time to do this is in the fall. If done then it will be in prime condition for cultivation in the spring, the frost during the winter mellowing the soil and making it in a good form for working. If not done in the fall, it should be done at the first opportunity in the spring, as soon as the soil is dry enough, so that it will not stick in working.

Cultivation.—Before sowing, cultivate the soil well with the hoe and garden rake until it is in good form for sowing. Get a garden line of a length to cover the row one wishes to sow, and stretching it tightly close to the ground, draw out a trench with the hoe to about two or three inches deep, beside the line.

Seeding.—Sow the seeds about two inches apart, and, if there is any doubt about the seed not being good, sow a little more thickly in case some of the seeds do not germinate. After sowing the seeds, cover them with the soil which formed the ridge on each side of the trench. Do this with the back of the rake and press the soil down firmly.

Thinning Out.—When the seeds have germinated and sprouted through the soil about two or three inches, thin them to about five inches apart, picking out the weakest plants and leaving, as nearly as possible, those that are strongest. For exhibition bloom for the summer shows of horticultural societies or the later fall fairs the pea plants require even more space. Some regular exhibitors thin to a foot apart and find that it pays to do so. A strong plant given this amount of space will throw out lateral branches sufficiently strong to make a fairly heavy row, and each branch will bear a crop of bloom. One may go even further and cut away some of the laterals as tomato plants are pruned. Outcrops are very destructive and the usual poisoned branch should be used to keep them in check.

Supports.—It is generally considered that brush cut from the bush about five feet long with plenty of twigs left, is the best support. Stick them in the ground on each side of the peas, pressing the tops of the brush well into each other. As this form of support is not always available, woven chicken wire, twine or string may be used.

How to get fine flowers with long stems.—Cultivate well during the growing season. This is done by stirring with the hoe eighteen inches on each side of the peas. Always keep the soil loose on the surface as this helps to keep it from drying out, which is important, especially in dry seasons. Peas always make the best growth when the soil is moderately moist and the weather warm. Extremely hot or extremely wet weather often spoils the bloom. If water is handy during a hot spell, it is a good plan to water them about twice a week either in the evening or in the early morning. This should be done thoroughly as a mere sprinkling does more harm than good. Another plan some growers of sweet peas have followed to advantage during hot weather is to spread litter of straw manure, or hay, two or three inches thick on each side of the peas. This is to help keep the moisture in the ground. It also saves a lot of work.

Cutting.—Always cut the peas when they are fully developed, i.e., when all the buds on the stem are open. Never allow the seed pods to form, and by cutting frequently a better crop of flowers is procured. In the cool of the evening or early morning is the best time to cut the flowers as it is much more pleasant work at that time and the flower stems are firmer.—Ontario Horticultural Association.

Bot Flies.

Measures should be taken to prevent horses becoming infested with the larvae of bot flies by protecting them from the egg-laying attack of the parent fly. The clipping of the long hairs from the region of the head, breast, shoulders and legs affords some protection in that it reduces the probability of the fly being able to attach its eggs. The areas where the egg-laying fly usually deposits her eggs should be frequently soaked with oil or grease. This prevents the eggs from adhering to the hair. Pieces of cotton or cheesecloth fastened to the bridle and harness in such a manner as to cover the under surface of the jaws, the breast and forearms affords some protection and reduces greatly the possibility of the horse wintering a stomach full of bot larvae and suffering in consequence of such. A little attention to what may seem trivial to many makes the difference between the horses being thrifty and in good condition or unthrifty and hidebound. Swat the bot fly, or at least prevent it from carrying out its destructive work.

The successful man keeps his mouth shut and his mind open.

OPEN DOORS.

If I could but in Boyland dwell, There is a thing I'd do,— I'd let my doors stand wide apart, For some Guests to pass through.

I'd welcome all of good report, Pluck, Courage, Helpfulness, Do-unto-Others, Honesty, And Tidiness-in-Dress!

A Will-to-Work, Promptness, and Grit, The giant brave, I-Can, And all the friends whose influence One needs in Grown-up-Land.

But should Temptation once appear, With other Foex, a score, I'd summon Conscience to my aid, And quickly bolt my door.

At times one's doors should open stand, In Boyland first to last,— But there are times in every life, When one should shut them fast!

A. E. Sutherland, Publisher.

The pages of the fashion magazines have burst forth with all the spring togger and Easter millinery. We hear the cry that we have wandered far from the example set us by our forefathers. They say, "Just look at the peacock pride in this good year 1924. Just look at the ladies' hats." Now, as a matter of fact, there is nothing in the ladies' hats of today equal to the scullie hats of a hundred years ago. They will say, "Just look at the bobbed hair." Do you know the most extreme styles of which our great-grandmothers wore, today will never equal the topknots put up with high combs, and which we wonder did not make our great-grandfathers die with laughter. The hair was lifted into a pyramid a foot high. On the top of that lay a white rosebud. Shoes of bespangled white kid and heels two or three inches high. Grandfather went out to meet her on the floor in a coat of sky blue silk and vest of white satin, embroidered with gold lace, lace ruffles, a round his wrist and his hair falling in a queue. Their hard cider, mint julep and hot toddy sometimes made lively work for the broad-brimmed hats and silver knee buckles. Talk of dissipating parties of today and keeping of late hours. Did not our great-grandfathers have their bees and sausage stuffings and tea parties and dances, that for heartiness and uproar utterly eclipsed all the waltzes, fox trots and toddies of 1924? And they never went home until morning. Talk about the dishonesties of today! Ninety-five years ago, the governor of New York state had to disband the legislature, because of its utter corruption. You see that we are not so bad after all, when compared with our great-grandfathers.

HONOR TO THE PIONEER

With so much talk of immigration it is worthy, perhaps, to pause for a moment to consider the case of the first immigrants, now fondly referred to as the pioneers of the country. There passed away near Dutton a few days ago, Angus Leitch, at the fine old age of 88. He was a pioneer in every sense of the word, as were his parents before him. He left Scotland in 1842, and after an ocean voyage of almost eight weeks, landed at New York. By dint of, and slow the methods the family proceeded to Port Dover, making the trip from there to Port Stanley by ox-cart. But that was not to be their home so they pressed on, carrying their baggage to a point 25 miles farther away, through virgin bush, broken only by settler here and there, until they they came to what is now lot 11, concession 3, Dunwich.

And there these sturdy pioneers, from Scotland, faced all the privations and hardships of pioneer life, shared its joys and mastered its adversities.

Nor was this by any means an exceptional case. The story of the pioneer life of the Leitch family is the story that can be told in all the townships of Western Ontario.

It is pleasing indeed, to think that many of these men and women are privileged to live long enough to see the labor of their hands prosper; to see children raised amid primitive and humble surroundings, and schooled in an appreciation of hard, honest work; to see them now and then in the foremost ranks of the Dominion's best endeavor.

In this day when newcomers are carried across the ocean in a week instead of eight weeks, when trains have made the ox-cart but a memory of the past, it is singularly fitting that we should pause now and then to pay tribute to our greatest emigrants, the men and women who, two or three generations ago entered into this land and so truly and thoroughly laid the great foundation stones for our present success.—London Advertiser.

THE NAMBY-PAMBY VOTER

"Haden't we better stop these Bootleggers by restoring the beverage sale of drink? Not the old saloon of course. Perhaps by Government Sale or granting strictly-regulated tavern licenses." Thus says some weak-kneed elector.

Now listen to how they do it in Southern Rhodesia, the newest member of the British Empire.

On October 1st, 1923, this Commonwealth inaugurated her new responsible government and then to pay tribute to our greatest emigrants, the men and women who, two or three generations ago entered into this land and so truly and thoroughly laid the great foundation stones for our present success.—London Advertiser.

Are the Bootleggers obeying it? They are:

Why? There is lots of money to be made by ignoring it.

Yes, but the penalties are £500, or six months imprisonment, for a first offence; and a year's imprisonment without a fine-option, for a second.

You can enforce any law, if you want to, by attaching penalties sufficiently stiff to ensure respect; and by appointing sympathetic and incorruptible officials.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, who has just returned from Rhodesia, says:—"It is headed straight for Prohibition. So satisfactory has the native law been there is a vociferous demand for its extension to the white population, many of whom need it far more than the natives do."

Asthma Cannot Last when the greatest of all asthma specifics is used. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy assuredly deserves this exalted title. It has to its credit thousands of cases which other preparations had failed to benefit. It brings help to even the most severe cases and brings the patient to a condition of blessed relief. Surely suffering from asthma is needless when a remedy like this is so easily secured.

A LEGEND OF THE THAMES

(Reprinted from the Transcript of 20 years ago.)

In connection with that locality along the River Thames near the Graham Bridge, known in earlier years as "Wawabatan Lagoon" and later as "Sandy Cove," a somewhat mythical legend has been resurrected from a slumber of half a century. This place, though partially surrounded by cultivation and shorn of its dense forest and undergrowth yet still appears so isolated and lonely that one susceptible to superstitions can easily imagine, in earlier years with its murky waters, waving reeds, and shadowed by dark forest, surrounded by such weirdness as a hypothetical haunt of ghosts and vampires, and a suitable arena for the enacting of a terrible tragedy and visitation of the restless spirits of the dead.

When the story began, who can say? But since its origin many years must have sped, and the record in stepping down through the ages must have lost much of its true form, and yet received on some sides a polish common to a story oft-times reiterated.

A fierce war of extermination was raging between the colonies of France and England in America, and the Indians, enticed by the bounty paid for human scalps, soon became transformed into demons, and in many friend and foe alike fell beneath the tomahawk and scalping knife of the bloodthirsty savages.

Wawabatan, a dreaded Cacique, famous as a great warrior, and ally of the French, fell upon a canoe party of rich traders and their guides, and after a brief struggle annihilated them, and were themselves soon after attacked by a large party of Iroquois Indians, who at that time were waging war to the death against the tribes of the Northern Lakes. Details of the struggle are omnifarious, but as its termination Wawabatan and a few of his warriors spared the glory of falling in battle, were made captives and reserved for a fate soon to follow—worse a thousand times than death.

Hacked with knives, their flesh torn from them by hot pincers, sightless and mutilated, beyond human form, they were bound to trees at the edge of the dark water and fire, kindled under them, while their conquerors, with demonic glee, watched till the flickering lives and fires were quenched and the spirits of the great Wawabatan and his warriors had gone to the "happy hunting grounds" beyond. Then they stole noiselessly away, and soon nothing remained in the lonely spot but the charred remains bound to the tree trunks, while from overhead the hooting of an owl alone disturbed the gloom solitude.

To those of the Northern tribes that escaped the Iroquois the fate of their great chief at length became known, and thenceforth Wawabatan Lagoon for them became a place of sacred dread, and to them do we owe the story in all its variations. In what shape and forms the departed spirits were believed to be seen, few could guess, and only the deluded mind of the heathen imagine; but never an evening camp fire was for generations kindled near the terrible lagoon but the ignorant savages beheld in trepidation, wrapped in flames and smoke, the spirits of Wawabatan and his braves, in all forms conceivable, floating above them dancing over the ruddy embers in the pile or playing hide-and-seek with the flickering gleams among the dark shadowed tree trunks of the forest gloom.

SHEEP RAISERS

A vigorous campaign is being conducted in Middlesex county to banish the buck and undocked lamb. Two prominent sheep men of the county have volunteered to dock all lambs and castrate all male lambs free of charge.

After August 1st all buck lambs develop a strong odor and flavor. They are therefore undesirable from the standpoint of the consumer and injurious to the trade. In cutting the carcass there is a great wastage of meat, and the development of the neck and shoulder. They are a constant source of annoyance in the pasture or feed lot. Packers have agreed to make a cut of $1.50 per cwt. in the price of all buck lambs coming on the market; therefore, you will increase the returns from your buck lambs at least $1 per head by marketing them as wethers.

Long-tailed lambs are unattractive in appearance. Docking gives a neat, trim, uniform appearance to the flock and increases their value. Perhaps you have been docking and castrating your lambs. If so, we hope you will continue. If not, now is the time to begin. You may be called upon by someone in your district who has been asked to co-operate in locating those desiring to avail themselves of this free service offer. However, if you are overlooked, write or phone The Department of Agriculture, London, and your interests will be looked after.

The wool growers of Ontario are better off today by $20,000 because 3,700 of them sold their wool through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Limited, last year. Many farmers in Middlesex will sell their wool through the farmers' own selling agency this year for the first time. The Department of Agriculture, London, will furnish wool sacks and shipping tags on request.

Why Ford Predominates

Many Reasons From Many Users

If you were to ask the next fifty Ford owners you meet why they prefer Fords, you would get a wide variety of answers.

Some would say, "Because they seem never to wear out;" others would answer, "Because they cost so little." Many would reply "Because I can get service anywhere;" and just as many, "Because it is the only car I can afford to own."

All would tell you, "Because they master a bad road in any weather," a woman driver would respond, "Because I can drive it so easily." From the fleet-owners you would hear, "Because I can buy two or three or four Ford Trucks for the price of one big truck."

Wherever you might inquire you would hear expressed these basic reasons why Ford predominates—why, year after year, Ford sales equal the total sales of all other cars combined.

TOWN AND VICINITY

Spring is too bashful for anything. The next public holiday will be Good Friday, April 18.

The wise man keepeth his overcoat within easy reach.

W. R. Eddie and James Eddie have exchanged farms in Ekfrid.

Crinan school has been closed for a couple of weeks owing to an epidemic of measles.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council will be held on Monday evening, April 7.

The man who heard the first robin has had to take a back seat for the man who heard the first frog of the season.

The high and public schools will close for Easter holidays on Thursday, April 17, and will re-open on Monday, April 22.

The Polyanna Mission Circle held a successful basking sale in the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon. Proceeds amounted to $26.

C. Phelps, who comes from Aylmer, is now second-hour operator at the C. N. R. and Wabash depot, taking the place of Ray McLardy.

Rev. R. J. Bowen, secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, spoke a great truth when he said: "Not more men but more man is what Canada needs."

Miss Farrington, teacher in the high school at Elora, formerly of Wardsville high school, has been seriously ill for some days with pneumonia, but is now on the way to recovery.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Guild was held on Monday evening, with a good attendance. H. J. Jamieson presided, and an enjoyable program was given, consisting of a vocal duet by Olive Watts and Molly Tait, piano solo by Betty Grant and readings by Evelyn McLachlan and Charles Cumming. Next Monday evening's meeting will be withdrawn.

Mrs. Robert Clanshan has bought back her former home on the corner of Symes and Elizabeth streets from Gordon Dickson, manager of the Royal Bank, and will occupy the same after the first of June.

The exodus to the United States took three families from this vicinity last week. D. A. McColl, D. A. Patterson and Chas. Sutherland left on Tuesday with a carload of household effects shipped from Appin.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watterworth moved last week to Beamsville, where Mr. Watterworth will assist his brother, C. W. Watterworth, who purposes entering more extensively into his cement and concrete business.

The London Advertiser says:—High Constable Wharton of Middlesex has purchased a high-powered car of a well known make and speeders on the highways had "better watch their accelerators and save their fine."

D. T. McGuire has been appointed manager of the Bank of Montreal at West Lorne to replace W. G. Thompson, who is moving to Blenheim, where he has purchased an interest in a grain elevator. Both men were formerly in Glencoe banks.

The Ailsa Craig Banner says:—Appendicular gastritis is the name which doctors have foisted upon a new disease of the appendix. It has such a nice, expensive sound that we are sure it will be quite popular among the very best families.

At the regular meeting of the Glencoe Book Club held at the home of Mrs. James Poole on Monday afternoon, Miss Young, returned missionary from Japan, gave an interesting talk on home life in Japan. John Shimizu, talented Japanese musician, rendered "Humoresque" with good expression.

Regarding delay in receipt of The Transcript by subscribers at Appin, Melbourne, etc., we have the assurance of the superintendent of postal service that he has taken such action as should ensure prompt delivery in future. The trouble appears to have been in distribution of parcels on the trains.

Over one hundred people attended the "Maggie and Jiggs" supper at the Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening. The menu included Jiggs' favorite dish of corned beef and cabbage, roast pork and apple sauce, etc. After supper, which was served in excellent style by the Daughters of the Empire, the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

The tail end of a tornado and blizzard which swept the United States middle west gave a variety of weather in southwestern Ontario for the closing days of March. Following a spell of summer-like temperature on Friday we had sleet, rain, thunder and lightning and hail, then a sudden drop in temperature, with snow flurries and high winds. March had a lamb-like entry and true to tradition went out like a lion.

The death occurred on Friday morning at her home in Poplar Hill of Mrs. Spurvey, in her 65th year. The remains were taken to Kilmartin on Saturday, where funeral services were conducted in Burns' church, interment being made in Kilmartin cemetery.

Mrs. Spurvey is survived by her husband, three sisters and one brother—Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. McIntyre, near Alvinston; Mrs. Neil McKellar, of Alvinston, and Neil McKellar, of Glencoe.

A happy social gathering enjoyed a real treat at the Presbyterian lecture room on Friday evening when the Willing Workers of the church served a tasty supper consisting of pancakes and maple syrup, sandwiches, cake and coffee.

After supper the following attractive musical program was rendered:—Vocal solo, Miss King, with cello obligato by Hazel McAlpine; piano solo, Margaret Morrison, and vocal solo, Olive Watts. Short speeches were given by Rev. Mr. Willans, George Munro, Dr. McLachlan and John Strachan. Rev. Mr. Paton was chairman.

The highways have been in good shape for travel this spring, except here and there where snowdrifts kept the roadbed moist and caused huge ruts and pitch-holes to form.

And where they were bad they were extremely bad. "The worst is yet to come," says County Engineer Talbot. "The frost is just beginning to ooze out of the parts of the roads that have far been exposed and the snow and ice have not yet disappeared. Heavy loads are the things we fear now."

The Alvinston dramatic club will present their play, "Aunt Susan's Visit," at Walkers school house on Friday evening, April 4th, under the auspices of Burns' church, Mossa, Ladies' Aid. Admission—35c and 20c. Everybody come.

The Tilbury Times says:—A number of onion-growers on the plains, who refused $2.50 per bag last fall, in expectation that a higher price could be secured in the spring, find there is no market whatever for them, and over two carloads are a total loss. One Tilbury North grower loses $900 as a result.

It doesn't do a hungry man much good to swallow his pride.

AS IT USED TO BE

Harry Woods, of the Wellington Kan. News, went to a church supper some time ago to which he had been given a "free" ticket.

As he neared the portals, he heard one good sister whisper to another, "Here comes one of those dead-heads."

Reflectively he ate his chicken wing and returned to his office and got out his trusty pencil. He found that he had given that particular supper just $4.45 worth of advertising and in return therefor had received one chicken wing and the name "dead-head." Since that day he has collected cash for all church suppers and other pay-socials, has never accepted a free ticket to anything and he also gets the choice part of the chicken.

How's Business?

Advertising, backed up by the right spirit, the right goods and the right service, can rescue a sinking business and will make a prosperous business more masterful in its own community.

When John Wanamaker, the Prince of Merchants, began business, he resolved to force matters. He was not content to WAIT to be found out—he DETERMINED TO BE found out. In short he advertised. He threw on his business, small as it was, the light of publicity, and the public of Philadelphia entered the shop on which the light shone.

In this community the public is entering those shops on which the light of advertising is falling.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

Be sure of this: those who are using our columns week after week do not give you poorer goods or service, or have higher prices. Shops which are illuminated by advertising court with full confidence your favor.

Shop Where You are Invited to Shop

"What you got in the pail?"
"Whitewash. And this is the hundred and sixty-seventh pail I've used."
"What you need all that for?"
"I'm trying to clean up this Home Bank mess."

As a verminuge an effective preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, and it can be given to the most delicate child without fear of injury to the constitution.

POULTRY WANTED

Call us at the McAlpine garage or McKellar House, Glencoe, and state name and phone number if you want our truck to call. We also buy all kinds of junk. Good prices.

Dominion News in Brief

St. John's, Nfld.—With the usual pomp and ceremony, the Newfoundland sealing fleet recently cleared from this port for its annual seal hunt in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Other steamers from Halifax and St. John will join the fleet later in the month and altogether ten ships will engage in the hunt in 1924.

Halifax, N.S.—The formation of a province-wide publicity bureau to advertise Nova Scotia as a summer tourist country was decided upon at a conference of business men from all parts of the province, held here recently. The objective is to raise $10,000 by popular subscription, in which event the Provincial Government will contribute an equal amount, and to launch an extensive publicity campaign.

Sherbrooke, Que.—A plant for the manufacture of hydrated lime has been completed at Lime Ridge by the Dominion Lime Co., of Sherbrooke. This product is used instead of lump lime for building purposes for mixing with cement as a waterproof. The company's quarters have a high quality of limestone particularly adapted to the manufacture of hydrate.

Toronto, Ont.—It is estimated that 408,000,000 feet of timber, 3,176,000 railway ties, and 649,700 cords of pulpwood will be the output of the present lumbering season on Crown lands in the Province of Ontario alone. There are approximately 30,000 men and 10,000 horses employed in bush operations alone in Ontario.

Winnipeg, Man.—Furs to the value of $400,000 were disposed of at the recent sale of the Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales Co. Since the company commenced operations three years ago, approximately $1,750,000 worth of furs have been sold. In the three years of operation the company has sold about $4,000,000 worth of furs.

Regina, Sask.—Over nine hundred travelling librarians are in circulation at the present time, according to a report of the Provincial Bureau of Publications. In addition to the travelling libraries, some 600 books were sent out to districts where the branch was unable to supply libraries.

Edmonton, Alta.—About 40,000 bushels of pure seed grain have already been marketed for seed growers of the Province through the Provincial Government cleaning and grading plant here. A good deal of this has gone to Eastern points, and there has also been a considerable quantity sold in the province. The demand for good seed continues strong.

Vancouver, B.C.—The Woodward elevator is practically completed, increasing the grain storage capacity of the port by 2,900,000 bushels. Arrangements are now being made to load ships with wheat by means of lighters. If this practice is established, it will prove another great assistance to handling of grain.

President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Chancellor of the University of Toronto, and outstanding patron of art and music, who passed away on March 27, at his home, "Long Garth," 99 St. George Street, Toronto, from an attack of pneumonia.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS GAIN

Twelve Months' Record Denotes $115,000,000 Increase in Exports.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—Canada's foreign trade continues to show a remarkable expansion. In the 12 months ended February, this year, the exports from the Dominion totalled $1,029,268,881, an increase of more than $115,000,000 over the preceding 12 months, and the imports into Canada for the 12 months ended February, this year, totalled $898,338,916, an increase of more than $108,000,000 over the preceding 12 months.

The largest commodity increase was the export of wood and paper, which totalled $270,546,506 in the 12 months ended February this year, an increase of about $48,000,000 over the preceding 12 months. Another feature is that in those 12 months the United States was by far a greater customer of Canada than was the United Kingdom, and the imports into Canada from the United States being $608,729,056, and from the United Kingdom $155,179,402, while the exports to the United States were $426,148,638, and the exports to the United Kingdom $355,838,816.

The British Empire's sales to Canada in the 12 months ended February this year aggregated $197,994,994, an increase of more than $20,000,000 over the preceding 12 months, and the Empire's purchases from Canada in the former period were $481,917,962, a decrease of over $7,000,000.

Exports to Australia in the year ended February last were $20,401,275, an increase of over $3,000,000. Exports to Belgium increased from $12,651,706 to $16,132,035, and exports to Germany totalled $15,682,626, an increase of nearly 100 per cent. Exports to Italy increased from $1,898,506 to $18,170,924, and exports to the United States increased from $15,375,157 to $26,901,473, or nearly 100 per cent. Exports to Norway nearly doubled, the total for the year ended February last being $4,922,192, and exports to Switzerland nearly doubled.

Butter imports decreased 4,812,039 lbs. to 2,693,824 lbs., and butter exports dropped from 21,812,295 lbs. in the 12 months ended February, 1923, to $12,960,715 in the 12 months ended February last. Cheese imports totalled in value $560,047, an increase of 100 per cent, and cheese exports totalled $23,371,038, an increase of about $2,000,000. Hard coal imports increased from $27,003,354 to $44,814,115, and soft coal imports totalled $45,277,286, an increase of over $2,500,000, while coal exports dropped from $12,247,502 to $9,190,386. Raw cotton imports increased by about $3,000,000. Metal imports totalled $216,085,239, an increase of nearly $50,000,000, and metal exports increased from $89,451,578 to $128,167,755, or nearly $40,000,000. Wood imports totalled $357,556,550, an increase of over $7,000,000. Automobile exports aggregated $96,571,450, an increase of about $8,000,000, and automobile imports were $30,266,920, an increase of over $1,000,000.

GERMANY WILL AGREE TO PAY $500,000,000

Annual Reparations to Start After Four Years' Moratorium.

Paris, March 30.—The Reparation Committee has reason to believe that the present German Government will agree to pay two and a half billion gold marks annual reparations.

This important figure, which is more than $500,000,000, is the total annual reparations figure and is to begin with the fourth year after a moratorium. It is the central figure towards which the experts have strived in making their report to the Reparations Commission of Germany's ability to pay. This is the figure which is expected to be the centre of the German inner struggle as to whether it is better to accept or refuse.

All other questions, such as the establishment of a gold bank, debentures on railroads and industry, are considered interior German affairs if Germany accepts and is able to carry out the payments as the experts recommend.

Despite reverse reports coming from Berlin, indicating that Germany will not accept, the experts maintain that they have reason to believe Germany will accept and carry out the plan. The experts, especially the Americans, are disturbed by reports that the final accord was reached by compromise. They are further perturbed over comments that they have been trying to arrive at political instead of technical results. They maintain the report when published will show that political consideration has not influenced them, but that they concentrated on Germany's ability to pay, and in finally arriving at a central figure of two and a half billions they did so on careful study of the figures.

UNITED STATES SWEEP BY SEVERE STORM

Twenty-five Lives Lost, Roads Blocked by Swirling Blizzard.

Chicago, March 30.—Old Winter, who has greatly overstayed his welcome, slew twenty-five persons and did enormous property damage in his farewell fling, which began Friday night and continues to-night, although in considerably lessened degree of ferocity.

Minnesota and adjacent Northwest States appear to have been the hardest hit, although the chief loss of life was in Oklahoma and Missouri. In the Twin Cities the blizzard is the worst in their history. More than a thousand automobiles are buried in the snowdrifts in the streets, and the roofs of abandoned street cars and other vehicles appear at frequent intervals above the drifts.

The one bright note comes from the farmers of the Northwest, who say the immense snowfall will be worth $50,000,000 to the crops, as it will prevent any danger of drought.

Thousands of telegraph and telephone poles have been broken and wire service is badly crippled.

Nebraska and adjacent States are heavily plastered with snow, which has been falling steadily for more than forty-eight hours. A stiff wind has piled it into high drifts, blocking railways and country roads, and transportation of all kinds is paralyzed.

In Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and other Eastern States serious damage from floods is reported. Trains are being rerouted because of destroyed bridges and all are hours late.

Pittsburg, March 30.—A score of city blocks in the lower sections were inundated, and sections for several miles up stream laid waste when both the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, meeting here to form the Ohio, left their banks to-day in Pittsburg's greatest flood in ten years. No loss of life was reported.

Much damage was caused to steel mills located along the river banks. Tracks of both the Baltimore & Ohio and Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroads were flooded in sections. Many families were forced to leave their homes.

Cumberland, Md., March 30.—Six persons, composing an entire family, were reported to-day as having lost their lives at McCoolie, Md., 20 miles west of here, when their home was swept from its foundation and carried down the Potomac River. The family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. John Devill and their four children. All wires into the town were broken by the flood, and the report could not be verified.

Labor Has 25 Seats in Australian House

A despatch from Perth says:—The results of the elections in the electorates of West Australia give the following state of parties: Labor 25; Ministerialists 10; Ministerial Country Party 7; Anti-Ministerial Country Party 6. A member of the Cabinet expresses the opinion that if the Government wins the two deferred elections it will ask the Governor for dissolution, and if it loses one or both it will resign.

Severe Earth Tremor Recorded at Victoria

Victoria, B.C., March 30.—A severe earthquake disturbance 440 miles south of Victoria, beginning at 4.10 o'clock and continuing for two hours, was recorded by the seismograph of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here on Saturday.

A historical episode occurred at the House of Commons, Eng., when Arthur Henderson was introduced to the speaker as a member of parliament by his two sons, both members of parliament. Father and sons are shown arriving at the House.

WEST'S MEMBERSHIP QUITE INADEQUATE

Redistribution Bill Will Give Western Canada Twelve More Representatives.

Winnipeg, March 30.—The present representation of the West has at Ottawa is totally inadequate, and until we have a real voice in the settlement of our own affairs Canada as a whole will not go ahead efficiently," declared Dr. R. C. Brett, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, here Saturday, en route to Edmonton from the East.

The most important problem at the moment, he said, was the absolute necessity of the West urging adequate representation at Ottawa. Although no one could desire separation for one moment—such a thing would be the ruin of the country—nevertheless the East had to sit right up and realize that the West had to be given a proper voice in the management of its affairs.

Ottawa, March 30.—A Redistribution Bill to be brought down this session by the Government will give Western Canada twelve more members and reduce Nova Scotia's total membership by two, under the terms of the British North America Act, which fixes Canada's Parliamentary representation on the basis of one-sixth of Quebec's population. British Columbia is increased from 13 to 14 members; Manitoba from 15 to 17; Alberta from 12 to 16, and Saskatchewan from 16 to 21. The number of members of Parliament will be increased, if the bill goes through, from 235 to 245.

Pipers Play Crofters on Ship Sailing for Canada

London, March 30.—Remarkable scenes attended the arrival and departure of the steamer Marloch yesterday at South Uist, to pick up four hundred crofters from Barra and South Uist, who are emigrating to Canada. Pipers played appropriate Highland airs as the island emigrants, accompanied by hundreds of natives, fied aboard at Loch Boisdale pier. Several families of from 7 to 12 persons are included in the party, but there are many young single men also. Affecting scenes were witnessed as the depleted population watched the embarkation of their relatives.

This is only the second time in history that a big liner has called at Loch Boisdale.

LANDSLIDES CONTINUE IN STRICKEN AMALFI DISTRICT
Rome, March 30.—Fifty huge landslides and many more still threatened by the trembling earth, are adding new and prospective horrors to the Amalfi disaster, which began with a waterspout from rain-laden skies and continued with an earthquake shock. Heavy seas make the landing of food, clothing and tents for the thousands of homeless, impossible. Mountain roads and paths have been wiped out by the hundreds and great chasms cleft in the rocks by the earthquake. Downpours of tropical rain have set torrents of mud into molten-like liquid glaciers. In the middle of this desolate situation, the refugees and victims of Italy's latest disaster are shivering and homeless.

Port Arthur, March 30.—The main trunk roads between Port Arthur and the country are open. Autos are now running to Murillo and Kakabeka Falls.

LONDON TROLLEY STRIKE SETTLED

Menace of Coal Crisis, However, Looms Blacker in Industrial Sky.

A despatch from London says:—Three hours before the subway workers were to start a sympathetic strike in support of the trolley men and bus drivers, the tramway strike was virtually settled at nine o'clock Friday night.

The men demanded an eight shilling week raise. At first they were denied any increase, and now after a week of the strike, they get six shillings immediately and two shillings more later, subject to fluctuations in the cost of living.

But if London breathes more freely, the menace of a coal strike looms blacker on the industrial sky. The miners' conference on Friday rejected the mine owners' latest offer, which included an increase in the general minimum rate of wages to 32 1/2 per cent. above the pre-war rate. The offer included also a Government inquiry into wages at present as compared with pre-war pay. An index figure of the cost of living and the wages paid other industries were to be taken into consideration.

The miners' decision will be submitted to the vote of all the miners in Great Britain, April 8, and later a ballot will be taken before any strike is started.

FORBIDDEN ZONE FOR ARMENIAN PEOPLE

Turkey's Final Response to Scheme for a Greater Armenia.

Constantinople, March 30.—The Angora Government's desire to get rid forever of the question of an Armenian national home in Turkish Anatolia, has led them to lay down a forbidden zone for Armenians.

This consists of a whole belt of eastern territories from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean, bordered on the east by Georgia, Soviet Armenia and Persia, and on the west by an imaginary line from Samsoun, on the Black Sea, to Silefke, on the Mediterranean. No Armenian is to be allowed to enter this zone.

This is Angora's final response to the late President Wilson's scheme for a greater Armenia. The Minister of Interior has just referred the proposal to the Assembly for urgent discussion. He also announced that no Armenian who left Turkey during the recent events would be allowed to return, that their goods were about to be shared out among the Turkish sufferers of the Greek invasion, and that the Armenians were considered to have no longer any link with Turkey.

The Angora Finance Minister is occupying itself with the future of the Imperial palaces. The treasurer of Constantinople, Vilayet, has just been summoned to discuss the matter. It was intended to open the famous old Seraglio to the public. The plan, however, has been suspended by the Minister of the Interior, whose present scheme appears to be to make it a museum, leaving only a certain part of the more beautiful buildings open to the public. Other palaces, numbering more than twenty, will be made over into schools and orphanages, one being retained for the holiday resort of the president of the republic.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY COSTS $20,750,000

Estimated That Investment of Nearly Fifty Millions Completed.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—To complete the Hudson Bay Railway and Port Nelson ready for the shipping out of grain would bring the total expenditure on this enterprise to between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000, is the conclusion drawn from the reply of the Minister of Railways to questions asked as to the expenditure necessary to make that port ready to handle export business.

The Government has spent on the Hudson Bay Railway approximately $14,500,000, and on the terminal about $6,250,000, or a total of $20,750,000. Probably another $5,000,000 would be required to carry the steel to tidewater, in the opinion of the Dept. of Railways and Canals, another $20,538,000 would be required to make the harbor ready for shipping grain. These figures total $46,538,000, and there would certainly be other extras. The fixed charges on the investment would be at least $2,500,000 a year, to say nothing of the annual deficit on operating the railway. At present this is kept down to about $25,000 a year, but this low figure is made possible only through the minimum of service.

A total expenditure of $20,750,000 to date on the Hudson Bay enterprise looks quite large when it is remembered that the expenditure on the harbor of Montreal to the end of 1922 is given as $31,000,000.

EX-MINER RULES IN HOLYROOD PALACE

JAMES BROWN, LABOR M.P., REPRESENTS KING.

Called "Your Grace" in Historic Palace Where Mary Queen of Scots Held Court.

Holyrood Palace, where Mary Queen of Scots frayed her robes and met her fate in the sixteenth century, and where her secretary, David Rizzio, was murdered in 1566, is to have a new tenant in "Jamie" Brown, Scotch Laborite, whose appointment as Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland was announced recently, says a London despatch.

The appointee says that his wife, who was a former mill girl, "just gasped" when she heard the news, but Brown, who worked in the mines from the time he was 12 years old till he was 41, beginning as a pit boy, since when he has been a mine union official and a member of the Order of the British Empire, took the honor stoically enough, saying he intended to abate nothing of the ancient dignities and ceremonies of the office, which, for 350 years, has been reserved for the Scottish aristocracy, principally belted earls. Nevertheless, many Scottish nobles must have gasped too.

As the representative of King George at the General Assembly Brown has the privilege of dwelling for a fortnight or so, or as long as the Assembly is in session, in Holyrood, the palace of the royal Stuarts; and during his residence there is entitled to big gun salute and an escort of cavalry. He will be called "Your Grace," as will Mrs. Brown, but he says that when the state duties are over he will revert to every day life as "Jamie," his family name, "Jamie" going back to his little miner's cottage of two rooms and kitchen, or "but an' ben," in Annbank-on-Ayr, where he has dwelt with his wife for thirty-five years. But while at Holyrood he will keep royal state and hold levees, like the dukes and earls who have preceded him.

To Maintain Tradition.

"Just because a Socialist, the tenant of a £10 a year miners' cottage, has been given the office it doesn't mean that any of the old dignities and traditions will be departed from," said Brown. "I'm a strong believer in maintaining ancient dignities of office. I'm going to show Scotland, and England as well, that a Socialist and a miner can do things properly and maintain historic traditions." He would entertain extensively, he added.

Coal miners are now represented in three prominent ceremonial posts, for such the Treasurer of the Royal Household and the Comptroller of the Household used to be. But if the Labor Government and some of its members have perpetuated certain traditions, they have as abruptly terminated others, for they have lost little time in proving that they are no respecters of pensions. The Government has suspended—or is on the point of suspending—three munificent allowances granted a century or two ago to many noted military and naval heroes, whose heirs have since enjoyed them at an aggregate cost to the national treasury of about $6,500,000.

The first to be lopped off was the grant of a £10,000 annuity made to George Bridges (Baron Rodney), commander-in-Chief of the Leeward Islands, the admiral who triumphed over the French fleet in a running engagement ending on April 12, 1782, after three days' fighting off Dominica, in the West Indies. Thereby the admiral saved Jamaica for the British, and ruined the prestige of the French fleet. The present Lord Rodney eighth Baron, is now farming in Canada, and has been awarded a final grant of £10,000, bringing the pension up to date with ten years' bonus.

May Cut Grant to Nelson Heirs.

The two other pensions which may be terminated similarly are grants of £25,000 annually to Vice-Admiral Lord Nelson, hero of Trafalgar and his heirs, dating from 1805; and £14,400 annually to the heirs of Frederic Armand Duke of Schomberg, ex-Marshall of France and English General, for his services under William of Orange as commander-in-Chief of the expedition to Ireland against James II. In 1688, which ended with his victorious death in the battle of the Boyne in 1690. But before that he had received a Portuguese pension of £5,000, and the House of Commons had voted him £100,000 to compensate for the loss of his French estates, which had been taken from him by Louis XIV. This sum, however, he turned over to William of Orange "for military purposes."

This grant of the £2,880 was reduced to £250 when it was purchased by a man named Gosling from the Duke's heirs in 1792, but that sum is still being paid regularly to Gosling's heirs.

Although, during Stanley Baldwin's tenure of the Premiership, the Laborites asked questions concerning the grant of $600,000 made to Field Marshal Earl Haig for his services in the world war, Prime Minister MacDonald's Government has not signified any intention of reducing the pension of Lord Haig or other army or navy chiefs.

Surnames and Their Origin

FAIRBANKS

Variations—None.
Racial Origin—Middle English.
Source—Descriptive, geographical.

There are a tremendous number of geographical family names which developed in England.

Often a man would take the name of the town or village in which he had resided, but for the most part this occurred only when he had moved to another place, or if he happened to belong to the nobility and was a member of the family which exercised overlordship over that town.

More often, however, he would take as his distinguishing name some particular part or place of the countryside or town in which he resided.

Fairbanks might be described as a countryside family name. In the Middle Ages, when it ceased to be a merely descriptive name of a single individual, and began to be passed down from father to son, it meant just what it would be taken to mean to-day, "fair banks."

Undoubtedly the original Fairbanks dwelt at some riverside spot in England locally described as such. More than likely he was a farmer.

This family name, strictly speaking, has no variations, being a straight combination of two words which have come down from the Middle Ages with little or no change in spelling. There are, however, a host of names which originated in England and consist of the combination of the word "fair" with other words.

Fairbanks, though widely known, is not an exceptionally common name. Yet it occurs often enough to warrant the assumption that it developed independently in several different places and probably in various periods.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipated children can find prompt relief through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the bowels and stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion; colds and simple fevers. Concerning them Mrs. Gaspard Daigle, DeMain, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have been of great benefit to my little boy, who was suffering from constipation and indigestion. They quickly relieved him and now he is in the best of health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Don'ts for Salesmen.

Salesmen differ in ability, in training and in method, but all of them who succeed pay almost as much attention to the "don'ts" as to the "dos" of salesmanship. Here are the "don'ts" of a famous sales organization:

1. Don't fail to seat the "prospect" properly.
2. Don't point your finger or pencil at him.
3. Don't sit awkwardly on your chair.
4. Don't have a calendar on the wall, it may remind him of an appointment or a note falling due.
5. Don't put your feet on his chair.
6. Don't smoke.
7. Don't slap him on the knee or poke him with your finger.
8. Don't chew gum or tobacco.
9. Don't tell funny stories.
10. Don't talk fast; go easy and see that the "prospect" understands what you say and do.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

PICKFORD

Variations—None.
Racial Origin—Middle English.
Source—Descriptive, geographical.

Pickford, strangely enough, is a family name whose development parallels that of Fairbanks from almost every viewpoint.

It originated in England in the Middle Ages, and, like Fairbanks, it is geographically descriptive and composed of two words which have offered little opportunity to change through the 600 or 700 years which have elapsed since it became a family name.

At first glance you might be led to believe that the first syllable of the name was derived from a weapon or implement, "pick" or "pick." This is not the case, however. Indeed, there seem to be very few family names which have developed from any connection with this weapon of the Middle Ages, as familiar to the men-at-arms of those days as the bayonet is to the modern soldier, though many have developed from the names of other weapons.

The ending of the name, of course, gives the clue. Pickford is simply a contraction of the combination "pike-ford," the pike being a well-known species of fish, which presumably was plentiful in one or more rivers at spots where fords existed. The original Pickfords undoubtedly were families which dwelt in the countryside near such spots.

But this does not prove that all Pickfords actually are descended from the ancient country people of England. Names are often adopted, and doubtless have been through past centuries, in much the same manner that the most famous Pickford of the world adopted hers. Mary's real name is Gladys Smith.

THE QUALITY OF BULK TEA

The quality of Bulk Tea is always unreliable for several reasons. In the first place, being unblended its origin is unknown and there is no one who has any particular responsibility for its goodness. In the second place, it is exposed to the air and therefore very quickly loses its flavor and freshness. Even if it were as good as "SALADA" in the first place, it would rapidly deteriorate and in any case it would be impossible for any dealer to follow consistently the same quality throughout the year. "SALADA" always maintains an unvarying high standard, possible through skillful blending.

Little Brown Bird.

O little brown bird in the rain,
How you carry the youth of the world
In the bend of your wing!
For you carry the day for song
And the night for sleep—
With never a sunrise too soon
Or a midnight too deep!

For you every pool is the sky,
Breaking clouds chasing through—
A heaven so instant and near
That you bathe in its blue!
And your's is the freedom to rise
To some song-haunted star
Or sink on soft wing to the wood
Where your brown nestlings are.

So busy, so strong and so glad,
So care-free and young,
So tingling with life to be lived
And with songs to be sung,
O little brown bird—with your heart
That's the heart of the spring—
How can you carry the hope of the world
In the bend of your wing!

Music Makes People Happy.

Music is one of nature's greatest gifts to mankind. It has been here from time immemorial. The shepherd watched his flock by the bleating of the lamb, the sailor found music in the wash of the sea, and the hunter was inspired by the song of the bird and the rustle of the leaves as the wind whistled through them.

Primitive man found music in the voice, and the skin of the wild beast was used as its accompaniment, and down through the ages mankind has developed this mystical magic power, until it is considered today as one of the world's greatest forces, being used as a curative for the insane and criminal, to stimulate one's nerves in the advance to battle, and to entertain oneself and friends.

Music is power; it should be in every home; it should be taught in all schools; it is a real writing and arithmetic; it should be encouraged by our civic authorities.

Music is restful, and makes better people. If you are anxious to get more happiness out of life, get busy now and give more attention to music. Patronize the concerts in your locality, and see that the children become acquainted with the piano, the violin, the phonograph and the many other musical instruments.

A GOOD SPRING TONIC

One That Will Quickly Improve Your Health.

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. No particular disease, but the system lacks tone. You find yourself tired, low-spirited, unable to get sound sleep at night. All this is the result of closer indoor confinement of the winter months and shows that the blood has become thin and watery. New enriched blood is what you need to put you right, and there is no other medicine can give you this new blood as surely and as speedily as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This new blood goes to every part of the body and quickly improves the general health. The digestion is toned up, you have a better appetite, nerves are strengthened and sleep is refreshing. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the system is run down is shown by the experience of Mrs. Peter Arendt. Ravenscrag, Sask., who says—"I was in a badly run-down condition, and prostrated with nervousness. I did not sleep at night, and grew so weak that when I tried to move about I would be overcome with dizziness. I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got a box. After I had taken a few boxes I began to feel better. Continuing the use of these pills my appetite improved, I slept better at night, and I was soon as well as ever I had been. I have also given Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my daughter, aged fourteen, with the same result. I desire in this way to express my thanks for the great benefit I have found through the use of these pills, and to recommend them to others in need of a blood-building medicine."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Motherhood.

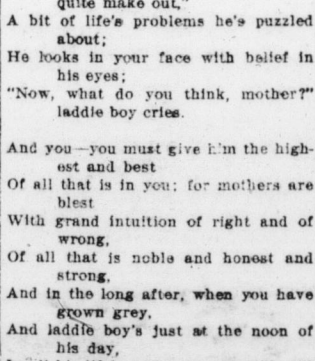

You are chatting together at the end of the day.
When liddle boy talks of his lessons and play;
He snuggles up close to your feet, and he leans
His head on your knees, when curly head gleams
All manner of wisdom (to him you are wise);
"And what do you think, mother?" liddle boy cries.
He talks of his school, he's so proud of his name,
He mentions the old boys and their wonderful fame;
He tells you of something he "can't quite make out,"
A bit of life's problems he's puzzled about;
He looks in your face with belief in his day.
"Now, what do you think, mother?" liddle boy cries.

Investing a Life.

A man may make several fortunes, he can make but one life. He invests his years to build his character as he invests his dollars to create and magnify a business. If those years are spent on mean and miserable things, the product will be a creature admired and loved by few and probably on bad terms with himself.

Time is to youth what gold is to a spendthrift. There seems so much of it, the temptation is to fling it prodigally in a train of folly or at the booths of Vanity Fair. There has not come the sober sense of maturing years, that bids one take the long forward look, to calculate, to be methodical. The young ambition imagines itself as inevitably rising to the sun-crowned heights and does not realize the discipline and self-denial that must be the way of life for those who would succeed.

Fortunate are they who are advised in life's morning, before high noon or evening, that the night cometh when no man can work and that every moment counts before the sun goes down. It is a world which, for all its laws and officers, gives each of us an illimitable range of choices. We are what we decide to be. No circumstances can defeat us; what is within is the secret of conquest or overthrow. "The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are undeveloped."

The old would pass on their experience to their juniors if they could; and they are prone to envy those who have the unspooled years outstretched before them as a field after a snowfall lies immaculately white and fair. "If youth knew if age could," laments the old French saying. It will not take effect if the sagacity of the elders merely sermonizes, like Polonius, to those who still have many years to spend. Youth, headstrong and impatient, would learn for itself that fire burns and the deep waters drown. Who then, shall each of those that do not care to learn? The inexorable schoolmaster is experience.

The word fits when we speak of "spending" our lives; and well it is for us if, after the spending, there is gain, not loss. Happy are they who, having built a lifetime into the purpose we were set here to fulfill, have no vain regrets when it is too late to choose a different investment of the few precious mortal years.

I First Compounded This Remedy For My Own Neighbors

Their praise of this newer form of Iron has spread so rapidly that now, after nine years, over 4,000,000 people use it annually.

Years ago I began to wonder at the great number of my own friends and neighbors who were always ailing, complaining and doctoring without ever seeming to get any better. Both working men and their wives were frequently all tired out in the evening, and a great many were weak, nervous and run-down. One had pains in the back and thought he had kidney trouble. Another had pains around the heart, palpitations and dizziness, and a great variety of alarming symptoms.

For years I made a special study of this condition, consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. As numerous analyses of bloods by physicians all over the country showed that those people out of every four you must find 100 per cent iron in their blood. Lack of iron in the blood is the greatest of all debilitating weaknesses. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron, no matter how good your food, your heart, lungs and kidneys and all your vital organs get their nourishment from the blood stream, and when the blood lacks iron and is thin, pale and watery, you may suffer from the symptoms of a great number of diseases when the real and true cause of your trouble is a lack of iron in the blood. The old days people often took metallic iron, which some physicians claim is not absorbed at all, in compensating Nicotianum, and when the iron is in the stomach, irritates and causes the blood to be disturbed, and it is ready for almost instant absorption and assimilation by the blood. It is the people whose blood is rich in iron who possess great strength, force and energy. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: How have I been feeling lately? How far can you walk without becoming tired? Next take two 5-grain tablets of Nutritional Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks when you feel your strength and see how much you have gained. An astonishing number of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, have greatly improved their health and increased their strength, energy and endurance simply by taking this newer form of iron.

Unless we reach the deep springs of life out of which flow the deeds of men, our education of their intellect may only make them all the more effective to work social and industrial evil.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a very weak and nervous woman before I had my first baby. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and ringing in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of mine told me that the Vegetable Compound had done for her wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends." — Mrs. FRED H. SMITH, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectively as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Patterson left on Monday for Windsor.

Evangelistic services are still being carried on by Mr. Stewart.

Women's Institute

The March meeting of the Women's Institute was postponed until Tuesday afternoon, April 1st, on account of the secretary, Mrs. D. A. McColl, leaving this vicinity with her family to take up her residence in Detroit. Consequently the ladies met at the home of Mrs. John Jones.

There were nearly forty present. Mrs. J. W. Macfie, president, conducted the meeting. After the opening exercises the subject of the use of the park was discussed, and it was decided to engage Mr. Murray again this year to do the work.

It was then agreed that each member contribute something in the way of clothing or anything useful in householding to a family who had their house and its contents consumed by fire. Members please leave contributions at Macfie's store, so that they can be packed not later than Easter.

The flower committee reported having sent two bouquets to sick members during March. The roll call was answered by selections of Irish wit. Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Watterworth, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Chas. Bardwell, assisted by Mrs. Jones.

Before the meeting closed Mrs. McColl was asked to come forward and Mrs. Allan read an address, and Mrs. Robert Webster, one of the first members of the Institute) presented Mrs. McColl with a beautiful fountain pen. Mrs. McColl, who was taken greatly by surprise, made a suitable reply.

The address read in part as follows:—We, the members of the Women's Institute, learn that you are about to take up your home under new surroundings. We feel that we cannot let this occasion pass without expressing our warmest appreciation of the services you have so faithfully rendered as secretary of the Institute, and deeply regret your departure from our midst, as well as our loss of a worthy member of our society. We trust that you may find the surroundings in your new home most congenial, and that you may ever find opportunity to carry on in the work so dear to all of us. Signed on behalf of the Appin Women's Institute—Mrs. J. W. Macfie, president; Mrs. James C. Allan, 1st vice-president; Mrs. John Jones, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bernie Galbraith on the last Thursday in April, when election of officers for the ensuing year, will take place.

Mrs. Schellenberger and granddaughter Jean and Mrs. Stepler, of Sarnia, are visiting Mrs. Daum.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Humphrey and Norman Lumley, of Detroit, visited the former's sister, Mrs. E. Lumley, last week.

Wood bees are very numerous in this vicinity.

The meeting of the Swastika Club has been postponed until Wednesday, April 9th.

Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms without any inconvenience to the child, and so effectively that they pass from the body unperceived. They thoroughly cleanse the stomach and bowels and leave them in a condition not favorable to worms, and there will be no revival of the pests.

EASIEST WAY

"The bootleggers are killing their own game," said Wm. J. Bryan, recently. "More than anyone else, the bootleggers are leading the country toward real Prohibition. This is partly due to the exorbitant prices they charge, and partly on account of the virulent poisons they sell. The trend of the times is summed up in the case of the darkey woman, who had called in a doctor to attend her husband, who was down with the flu. 'What's I gwine gib him?' asked the woman.

"Whiskey," was the doctor's reply. When the doctor had named the price per quart of good whiskey the wife remarked: "I can bury him cheaper den dat."

Now fades the glimmering satin on the shelf, And all the air a solemn stillness holds, Save where the lone clerk yawns, then seats himself, Because his boss advertisement withhold.

Toronto's plasterers are in not a few cases leaving for the United States, lured by a wage rate of $13 per day and prospects of overtime. Better that our neighbors rather than our own home-builders should pay such abnormal wages. They will make high rents inevitable for years to come across the border.
