'Lord Kitchener states that 169 rifles, 24,970 rounds of ammunition, 184 horses, 1,240 trek oxen, 3,920 cattle, 13,580 sheep, 100 wagons, and carts, and large quantitles of forage have been captured, without casualties, in Cape Colony. Pretoria, and Mr. Kruger declares that they can only be for an armistice, the government evidently has no idea of slackening reinforcements.

The war office issued a detailed statement last evening of transports that are to sail for South Africa within the coming week with 12,000 troops.

LICHTENBURG FIGHT. The casualty list reveals the fact that two officers were killed at Lichtenburg, March 3. Lord Kitchener's telegram, "Am sending reinforce ments," was dated March 6. Evidently, therefore, the fighting continued for some days, and further advices are awaited with anxiety.

STEYN AND DEWET. According to the Daily Mail's dispatches, General Dewet and Mr. Steyn have separated, the former being at Petrusberg, west of Bloemfon-tein, and the latter at Smithfield.

BUBONIC AT CAPE TOWN. The progress of the bubonic plague causes deep anxiety and apprehension in Cape Town. The Cape Government has decided to remove the people from one-third of the city area, and to cleanse it. Every precaution will be taken should the disease spread to the torops.

REITZ CRAZY. The Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Mail says Mr. Kruger is informed that Mr. F. W. Reitz, former state secretary of the Transvaal, is suffering from aberration of the mind. BRITISH SURRENDER. Cape Town, March 7. - The prime minister reports that since crossing the Orange River Gen. Dewet has moved north of Phillopolis. Malan's Scouts moved through Richmond, and came in contact with a patrol of 74 of Kitch-ener's Scouts at Klipskraal on February 26. After a short engagement, in which three of the patrol were killed and many wounded, the British were forced to surrender to the 200 Boers surrounding them. Malan was last re ported at Modderfontein, south of Blesjespoort, where he fired upon a train yesterday. The Australians on the train kept the Boers off. The burghers are being followed by a de-tachment of Kitchener's Scouts. FIGHTING ALL DAY. London, March 7 .- The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener: "Pretoria, March 6.-Lichtenburg being attacked by Delarey's forces; fighting continued all day long. The garrison consists of 200 Yeomanry and 300 Northumberland Fusiliers, with two guns. Major Fletcher and Liuet. Hull are reported killed. I am sending reinforcements.'

BRITISH REOCCUPY PEARSTON. Cape Town, March 7 .- It is officially announced that Col. Gorringe reoccupied Pearston, on the Great Riet River, March 5. He says the town should have been impregnable to the Boers, but the town guard offered inadequate resistance, and the Boers captured the place, together with 60 rifles, 15 men and 20,000 rounds of ammunition. BOER FORCES BROKEN.

Cape Town, March 7.-Col. Gorringe has inflicted severe loss upon Commandant Kritzinger, breaking his force into three parts. The operations are apparently resulting in Kritzinger being driven eastward across the railway. His exact whereabouts is not reported, but 500 Boers who occupied Pearston, probably belonging to Kritzinger's commando, are moving in the direction of Somerset East. The British are pursuing them.

NEW GOVERNOR ARRIVES. Cape Town, March 7 .- Sir W. Helv-Hutchinson, the new governor of Cape Colony, arrived here yesterday morning on the steamer Invati. He was welcomed at the docks by the prime minister, the mayor and the leading officials. He drove to Government House, where he was sworn in. The mayor, in congratulating him on his appointment, said: "We offer you our fealty, and we pledge you our support." His arrival excited little public attention. The display of bunting was remarkably small.

SUPPLIED BY WOMEN.

Cape Town, March 7 .- A wagon filled with women's wearing apparel has been captured by Col. Dartnell's column, which is operating with General French. It was also found that Boer women were carrying on farming operations and furnishing the commandos with supplies. These women were sent to the nearest garrisons, whither they went willingly, they being tired London, Friday, March 8. — What-ever negotiations are proceeding in the British soldiers treated them kind-

If this intervention is not soon forthcoming all the Boers, it is said, will surrender. The rate at which Boers are surrendering proves that they are wearying of the war. During Gen. French's operations some days ago 400 were killed or captured. and 350 surrendered. The number of Boer prisoners is 16,-398. Four hundred and twenty-seven have been released on parole.

London, March 7. - Lord Roberts, presiding today at a meeting of the Army Temperance Society, contrasted the moderation of the British soldiers in South Africa with previous campaigns. He said it was true they had not had many opportunities to drink, but at Bloemfontein, Johannesburg, and Pretoria, where they did have such opportunity, they were remark-ably well behaved, and he had never heard a single complaint of a soldier being rude or improperly behaved towards Boer women. Startling Affidavit Laid Before the Legislature

In Connection With the North Waterloo Election-The Work of Conservatives.

Toronto, March 8 .- In the legislature last evening, Mr. Graham, the member for Brockville, created a sensation by reading an affidavit made by Albert Bossard, of Berlin, in which the latter declared that his evidence given at the North Waterloo election trial had been purchased by Conservative agents in the riding. Bossard was the most important witness at the trial at which Mr. Breithaupt, the Liberal member, was unseated. According to this affidavit, Bossard was cajoled inmaking an affidavit before election trial, implicating several prominent Liberals in deeds of corruption. He was then approached, under a threat that if he did not give evidence to that effect at the trial he would be presecuted for perjury. He was also promised one hundred dollars in lieu the reof, but as a matter of fact was paid fifty dollars in the form of clothes from a Berlin tailor, one of the main negotiators. Mr. Graham supported the affidavit thirty-two in number. The most common trouble affecting the teeth is known as "decay." caused by the fermentation and decomposition of food allowed to remain between the teeth. Odontine (C. & L.) is unsurpassed for its antiseptic qualities, and will absolutely prevent and arrest decay. It keeps the teeth pearly white, the breath sweet and the gums healthy. See that you get the genuine Odontine, which bears the name CAIRNCROSS & LAWRENCE.

three promissory notes given by Bossard to Stumpf, the tailor, but which the latter met himself. The matter came up in a lengthy and telling speech by Mr. Graham on the budget in the presence of crowded and intensely interested galleries. Several other members spoke on the budget yesterday, and a conclusion be reached until Tuesday. will not

THE BUDGET DEBATE. Mr. McLaughlin, Stormont, was the first speaker for the Opposition. He contended that the government had taken from the people in direct taxation $17,253,880 since 1873. Was it any wonder that the people would "remember Ross" when he came before them for re-election. The opposition was in favor of developing New Ontario, but not on the plan of giving it away to private individuals and corporations. He would support the government in building a railway to Tem-iscaming and in giviing a million dollars toward road improvement, provided it was not a scheme to put money into the hands of government

A UNIQUE POSITION. Mr. Auld (South Essex) was of opinion that Ontario occupied a unique po-sition among the States and provinces of this continent, inasmuch as it had no direct taxation and had a surplus. (Ministerial applause.) It had been argued that the province had taken $5,000,000 from the municipalities in the way of liquor licenses, but those who made such statements were not fair enough to state that about $3,000, 000 had been handed back in one form or another to those municipalities. Mr. McLaughlin had complained that the Western Dairy School did not pay. It mattered little whether it paid or not, so long as it was doing good work by training and turning out men who would be a credit to the country. Mr. Jessop, Lincoln, said the government's policy on the matter of the San Jose scale was in itself sufficient to con-demn the agricultural department. The old feudal system, he said, was no worse than that adopted by the On-tario Government, which had an army of officials and retainers, bound to fight for it at the next election, by legitimate or illegitimate means. MERELY A TRANSFER OF RE-

SOURCES. Graham, Brockville, defended the selling of timber, and said it was simply the removal of one part of our resources to give place to another which was more profitable. The growth of expenditure was just as reasonable in the case of the province as in the case of an individual from his youth to ma-turity. It made ver litle difference what the expenditure was so long as we got benefit for the money spent. The imber and minerals of New Ontario might stand as they are until dooms-day, and be useless, did the government not wisely place it in a position to be accessible to the hand of labor. That was the government's policy of development. Mr. Graham interpreted the praise of Col. Matheson's great financial ability by Mr. Whitney as a slap at Mr. Marter, the former opposition leader, whose differences with his present chief the speaker regretted to see. Mr. Graham endeavored to divine the opposition's policy, and said it was made up of shreds and patches contributed by many members. As nearly as he could make out the financial policy of the opposition was to take in less money and pay out more, and have more left. (Laughter and cheers.)

NORTH WATERLOO ELECTION. Continuing, he referred to the charges of the opposition regarding North Waterloo and West Elgin. He thought that perhaps both sides were not blameless in regard to the practices of their friends in elections. But he desired to express the opinion that the opposition should be very careful in throwing stones, and in this regard he intended to show that the evidence of one Bossard, of Berlin, given in the North Waterloo election case, was prompted by the organizers of the Conservative party, and paid for by them. (Applause.) Mr. Graham then read the affidavits made by Bossard, subsequent to the trial, as referred to above.

Mr. McDiarmid, West Elgin, followed. He characterized the West Elgin commission as a solemn farce and a judicial mockery. Mr. Hyslop, @ast Huron, spoke briefly, and an adjournment was moved by Mr. Beatty, of Leeds, at

WHY EXPORTS DECREASED. London, March 7.—The board of trade returns just published show the

Pains in

Aggravated by a Tight, Hacking, Tearing Cough, Point to Bronchitis, a Forerunner of Consumption-Dr. Chase's Treatment.

When it hurts to cough, and when each long breath brings pain and a tearing, burning sense on the chest, you may be sure there is a deep-seated cold creeping along the bronchial tubes towards the lungs. It is a common practice to neglect a cold until it is beyond the reach of medicine. It is on this account that consumption claims so many victims. If you are anxious to obtain prompt and thorough relief for a cough, cold or any form of throat or lung irrita-tion you should lose no time in procuring Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which undoubtedly is the most effectual treatment obtainable. THE MANCHESTER SUIT. London, March 7 .- The Manchester sensation promises to rival the West-minster scandal. Although the Duke of Manchester asserts that the has not been served upon him in the suit for alleged breach of promise, this is quite immaterial, as the writ has been issued, and proceedings have com-menced. This entirely unexpected sequel to one of the most interesting marriages between American heiresses and representatives of the British peerage had its inception shortly after the Duke of Manchester so suddenly made Miss Zimmerman a duchess. Miss Knight's allegations are not yet obtainable, but it is evident that she is in earnest, and that the suit was brought without any idea of gaining publicity.

KING EDWARD'S CORONATION. St. John's, Nfld., March 7.-It is understood in official circles here that King Edward's coronation will not oc-cur before June, 1902. The season will then be too far advanced for the impressive ceremonial, which will include all the colonial premiers and contingents from the various colonies.

ITALY'S NEW CABINET.

Rome, March 7.- In the Chamber of Deputies today, the new premier, Signor Zinardelli, made the ministerial statement. He spoke of the difficult sit-uation under which he had accepted the task of forming a cabinet, and said the ministry would devote its efforts to a liberal reform policy. They undertook to scrupulously maintain the principles of liberty, consistent with a firm application of the laws, and would give full attention to assuring an honest admin istration of the communes and provinces and the rapid working of the public services. He thought it indispensable to give the working classes prompt pledges of the interest and sympathy of the government plan.

SUSPENSION OF M. P.'S

Balfour's Motion Warmly Discussed and Carried by British Commons.

London, March 7.—As a result of the recent rowdyism, Mr. A. J. Balfour, the government leader in the House of Commons, yesterday proposed the following amendment to standing order 21: "Provided, that if any member or members acting jointly, who have been suspended under this order as to service in the house, shall refuse to obey the direction of the speaker, the latter shall call attention to the fact, and shall have recourse to force, if necessary, to compel the member or members who have refused to obey his directions. Thereupon, then, without any further question being put, the member or members shall be suspended from service in the house for the remainder of the session."

In anticipation of a lively debate and possibly exciting scenes arising rom the suspension of Irish Nationalsts and Mr. Balfour's punishment proposals, there was a great attendance in the Houes of Commons tolay. The visitors' galleries were filled, many peers and ladies being among those present. A large force of police was in readiness within easy

The speaker, Mr Gully, announced that he had received a letter from Mr. Jordan to the effect that he had not defied the authority of the chair (when a number of Irish members of parliament were removed from house by force on Tuesday), and on the motion of Mr. Dillon, Mr. Jordan's name was removed from the list of suspended members.

Mr. Balfour then moved his amend-supporting the motion, Mr. Balfour said it was necessary to provide adequate summary punishment for such physical resistance to the speaker's orders as occurred Tuesday. He trusted the house would unanimously agree to the amendment. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman al-luded to the grossly disorderly conduct of certain members, and said he had not a word of excuse to say in their justification or palliation, but he suggested a modification of Mr. Bal-four's amendment. Mr. John Redmond said what had occurred was a national ebullition of feeling against an unjust closure. He denied premeditation, and said the moral responsibility for what had occurred was wholly on Mr. Balfour, whose proposal now was extravagant and unnecessary.

Mr. Balfour's new rule was adopted by a vote of 264 to 51.

TO EXPORT DRESSED MEAT. Toronto, March 7 .- Mr. Wm. Harris, forming a company with a million dollars capital to carry on a dressed meat trade with the Eastern Canadian and British markets, has succeeded in interesting the Wm. Davies Company, the largest pork packers in the Dominion, in the venture, and some of the chief meat sales-men in Great Britain. The first big market will be sought in the indus-trial centers around Manchester, where there are seven million people. The initial shipment two weeks ago of 164 head reached Manchester in excellent condition, and 150 more will follow soon. The new movement is attracting very general attention from those who have hitherto shipped to Great Britain on the hoof, as profits have been dwindling of late. Pekin, March 7.—The ministers' com-mittee has completed its report and the general principle to be adopted in the case of private indemnities is based upon laws in harmony with the Roman and English systems. This decision was not reached without considerable discussion, some believing that the claims of men of good reputation should be paid in full without further consideration. On the other hand, a case was mentioned where a man of high repute claims $10,000 each for his own, his wife's and daughters' nerves and $20,000 for property destroyed, whereas it is known that the latter estimate is thrice the value of

Mystery of the Law as to Fublic Highways.

A correspondent of the Toronto Star presents for public consideration the details of a law suit in which he has recently figured, which demonstrates how uncertain the result of a contest for one's rights may be, even in a case where at first sight the outcome might seem to be absolutely plain. The trouble arose, he says through his son taking his girl out for a drive on a leading thoroughfare in Toronto. It was on a bright, wintry day, and the animal was somewhat restive, and got a little out of control, but all would have been well if a telephone pole had not been placed in the middle of the thoroughfare, 21 feet from the fence line on a street 66 feet wide. The whiffletree struck the pole, the sleigh was upset, there were broken bones, a ruined vehicle and an injured horse. The owner was advised to sue both the telephone company and the citythe one for putting the pole on the street, the other for allowing it to remain there. He, however, brought the action against the city only, though the corporation insisted on making the company a co-defendant. After a three days' trial, a very competent judge gave the plaintiff a verdict of $750. Next there came a struggle as to which of the two defendants should pay. The plaintiff, very reasonably, we think, held that this was a quarrel to which he should not be asked to become a party; but the law was interpreted to be otherwise, and so the case was taken to the court of appeal, before Sir George Burton and three learned judges, who listened to the arguments of four King's counsel, and after six months' deliberation determined what would appear to most people to be a plain fact, viz., that a telephone pole has no right to be in the middle of the street. Just as the plaintiff was beginning to felicitate himself on his victory, however, he was suddenly made aware that it was a pretty serious thing to go to law with a corporation, for he was dragged to the Supreme Court in Ottawa, where the case was again argued at great length by four K.C.'s before five judges. Now came the novel feature of the case. Five judges in the High Court of Ontario, and five eminent counsel, it seems, were unable to reach the true inwardness of the case; they had all missed the "real point," but an nonogenarian judge in the Supreme Court struck it. He gravely decided that "the pole was not the causa causans of the accident." If it had any effect when the sleigh struck it, as to which, query, "it was to prevent greater injury than might otherwise have happened." And so the unfortunate citizen lost his verdict, he lost his sleigh and his horse,

To our mind, it ought to have been a simple matter to decide in any court of justice what constituted a street in this case, and to prove that the obstruction in question had either been placed there with the cognizance of the corporation, or had been long enough there to have rendered them inexcusable for tolerating it. That proved, the question of damages should have been an easy matter to determine. But it is not a fair thing to compel a private individual in a matter of this kind to fight both the corporation officials and a great company. If the law as to streets can be interpreted as it has been in this case, it ought to be changed so as to place the responsibility, in the first instance, for accidents arising from obstructions on the corporation, leaving it to settle the question as to how the obstruction came to be there with the offending party.

It cost him a cool $3,000 to gain his expute over it.

The London Free Press returns to pelting the Ontario Premier with epithets, such as "humbug," etc. It might as well make faces at him. It endeavors to justify itself by the virtual complaint that Mr. Ross does ing that the Americans depart from not bring in a prohibitory liquor law. As to whether the epithet employed best fits the Ontario Premier, or our contemporary, might be gleaned, were the Free Press to frankly answer this question-would it support such a law were Mr. Ross to bring it in?

The power of the executive of the United States Government has grown wonderfully of late. In fact, it is expanding at the expense of Congress, and if matters proceed as they have been doing during the past few years. the result will be an omnipotent executive and an atrophied Congress. Especially is this the case in the relaeign powers. It is surprising that concerning the part the United States is playing in China, neither the Congress nor the House of Rep.esentatives has been consulted, although much has taken place that concerns Congress and the people.

Education in England.

The problem of education is a difficult one today in England as elsewhere, but there are many signs that the ablest men of the nation are grappling with it earnestly. The educational system of England is sometimes described as a chaos. It clearly cannot be charged with dead uniformity. Its great feature is variety, and perhaps there is more order in it than many people imagine. In such a land it is not possible suddenly to revolutionize the institutions. Changes must connect themselves with the actual system. In the Nineteenth Century and After for February, Sir Joshua Fitch, a high authority on education, contributes an article on "Higher Grade Board Schools," which is instructive, though our circumstances are very different. We shall say something in another article about the special problem. Here we call attention to the following passage of the article, in which the writer shows a hopeful spirit as to the future of England in education matters. Notwithstanding century has not been in vain. Another thing the writer shows, that while realizing the need of better education for all classes, he does not use the word practical in a shallow, onesided sense, as some of us are apt to do. These words from one whose life has been spent in the endeavor to help the schools deserves careful attention:

all the difficulties that have surrounded the subject, he looks out upon the new century with hope that realizes that the toil of noble men during the last

"The great need of our time is a stronger conviction of the value of blast. trained intelligence in all departments of our social, professional, civic and national life. The comfortable optimism which leads us to assume that British pluck, British industry and British patriotism will in the long run carry everything before them, has received some rude shocks of late, and will need to be superseded by a truer estimate of ourselves and of our national deficiencies. The theory that brain-power and scientific training are of less practical value than the dogged persistence which enables Englishmen 'to muddle through' the problems of life, is not exceptional, although daily experience is doing much to discredit or at least modify it. We have reached at the beginning of the twentieth century a Pisgah height, whence we can look across the Jordan of sectarian and political controversy to the fair land of promise which stretches out beyond it. It is an animating prospect. In it we can descry a great department of the state, representing all the noblest aspirations of the community, knowing how to take

The bounds of freedom wider yet'; giving aid and guidance to those who need it, leaving full liberty to those who know how to use it, placing itself in such relation to churches, municipalities, universities and voluntary helpers as will co-ordinate their work, prevent confusion of authority and waste of power, and obtain from each the best public service it is capable of rendering. And concurrently with improved administration in government, in philanthropy and in local agencies, we may hope to witness a steady growth in the popular conception of true education-one which will keep ever before parents and teachers the right relation between the pursuit of learning and the claims of active life; so that without prematurely considering the requirements of a trade or profession, they shall seek first of all to and he has to pay the doctor's bills. cultivate the seriousness of purpose, the mental breadth, the strength and perience, and to have demonstrated beauty of character, and the love of how a very simple matter may get truth, which lie at the basis of all real tangled up once there is a legal dissuccess in trades and professions alike."

The United States and Cuba.

For the greater part of last century the island of Cuba has been a source of anxiety and trouble to the United States. Spanish rule was so extremely bad that the population were kept almost constantly in a state of revolution. The commercial relations existing between the island and the mainland of the United States rendered it necessary for the latter to patrol her coast, in order to prevent the violation of neutrality laws.

An attempt was made to put things to right in the island, and to help the Cubans to throw off the Spanish yoke. Armed intervention was called into requisition to compel Spain to relinquish her authority over Cuba and to withdraw all her forces, land and naval. This has been accomplished within a very few months after it was undertaken, and the Cubar, were permitted to breathe the air of freedom. Whether out of ingratitude to their deliverers, or from a rash desire to assume a position of autonomy before they are able, they are now demandtheir shores at once.

The Cuban difficulty is not settled yet. The war continues to be waged in the legislative halls of the United States, in which we find arrayed the opposing forces-the Imperialists and the anti-Imperialists.

The Imperialist claims that peace and order are not yet established in Cuba, and that the people are not yet in a position for self-government. The anti-Imperialist urges that faith has been broken with Cuba. One journal, the New York Evening Post, accuses the Government of pursuing a dishonorable policy: "To us the whole thing seems a poltions of the United States with for- icy of sheer dishonor. And we hasten eigh powers. It is surprising that to say that, if there is bloodshed in Cuba, the guilt of it will stain the hands of the men who have consented to sign away our fair fame as a truth-loving and honorable people. Let them beware how they hereafter hold others responsible for the disgrace which they alone will have brought upon their country. It is their work, their glory which is and will be their shame. They are writing a page of American history over which their children will blush and hang their heads, just as we do now over the records of our armed aggression upon Mexico.

The Chicago Tribune states, in opposition to this view, that it is ridiculous to imagine that Congress ever intended to turn the island lose to a lot of inexperienced and unknown men the moment a paper constitution was formed for the creation of a republic. It is of the greatest importance, it contends, that the United States retain a strong protectoral relationship with Cuba until she shows capacity for self-government. The imperial view seems to be more in line with the dictates of wisdom. Governments are not the products of a day. Time is required for the development of the idea of self-government. It has taken nearly nineteen centuries for the growth of British Parliamentary Government, and so far as the United States is concerned, the ideas there are essentially British. With this fact before us, we cannot see how the United States Government is breaking faith with the Cubans. It is simply an act of prudence to exercise control over those who are not in a position to exercise that virtue over themselves. Freedom and liberty, after all, amount to very little unless with them goes capacity to make use of them wisely and well.

Meantime, while the argument progresses, the United States continues to hold Cuba.

The budget debating class is in full

It would save a great deal of trouble if Mr. De Wet would come in out of it voluntarily.

In the case of monarchs, dodging an occasional bullet or other missile seems to be part of the job.

For the deer's side of being hunted, read the little booklet by the late Charles Dudley Warner.

The Irish members in the Imperial Parliament are alive and kicking. At least they were kicking, when carried out, and presumably are kicking still.

A big deputation asking legislation against trading stamps has waited on the Ontario Government. It is believed that such legislation would not be objected to even by many of those who now use trading stamps in business; but so long as trading stamps are used, there is always the fear that some one else might get the geographical monopoly, whatever it may

The single-tax advocates strongly object to the Government making grants of land to volunteers. They advise that the grant be in money, as any land that may be given, though of little value at present, will eventually rise in value as the adjoining lands become settled. Hence, they argue, the grant will be virtually from those who will settle in that district. and not from the Government,

$4,000 DEBENTURES

Desired by the Public Library Board

For Increased Accommodation—Estimates for the Year-Librarian's Report.

A deputation from the Public Library board will ask the city council at its next meeting to issue $4,000 debentures to erect an addition to the present building. This was decided at yesterday's meeting, when the urgent need of more accommodation was considered. It was apparent that either more room must be provided or the supply of new books must stop. The board consider the present stacking space wholly inadequate, and in view of the plan of the building, consider it judicious to build an addition rather than utilize, with much inconvenience to the public, all portions not used now for library purposes. In making this decision they were not unanimous, Messrs. Macbeth, Gunn, Dignan and Jeffrey favoring it, and Messrs. Egan and Hazard voting contra. The estimates for the year were adopted. These call for an expendi-ture of $8,980. Interest on debentures will eat up $1,000, and $839 55 will be required for sinking fund. The salaries' item is $2,800; light, water and heat, $524; furniture, repairs, etc., $200; binding, $500; printing, $175; stationery, $125; periodicals, $450; beaks, $2100, unforeseen, evenses. stationery, $125; periodicals, $450; books, $2,100; unforeseen expenses, $126.45; insurance, $140. To meet these expenditures, the half mill from the city is expected to yield $8,300; the government grant will be $200; fines, $175; cards, $90; catalogues, $10; rent, the W. A. C., $180; incidentals, $25.

The contract for the year's binding was awarded to Weldon & Co. The printing contract was not awarded. On the report of the library mittee, 182 new volumes will be added to the library at a cost of $260. The finance committee reported that the fire pots had been burned out of the furnace because they were not of sufficient size to heat the buildings and had to be forced.

Librarian Blackwell's report for the past five weeks showed that 5,052 volumes of fiction had been taken out; 1,340 juvenile volumes were in circulaof miscellaneous works, 2,197 tion; were asked for, and magazines figured to the extent of 1,139. The average circulation daily was 286. Magazines, 38. The average fines per day total 66 cents. There have been 8,446 cards issued to date.

For Death of a Brakeman on the C. P. R. Entered at Oxford Assizes.

Woodstock, Ont., March 7.—Thomas Knaggs, East Oxford, has been awarded $800 damages sustained by him in the purchase of the horse Prince Claden from Wm. Colquboun, of Mitchell. The jury brought in their ver-dict to the above effect in the assize court at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Jones vs. Sutherland, the action for malicious prosecution, took up the greater part of yesterday afternoon at the assizes. The plaintiff claimed that, having been fined $15 and costs by Police Magistrate Morrison, of Ingersoll, for breaking into a barn and seealing a bag of oats and 180 pounds of nails, the defendant caused him to be arrested on the 28 th day of April, under a warrant obtained from Police Magistrate Field for the same offense, by false and malicious representations. Verdict for defendant. Loughrey vs. C. P. R. was an action brought by Alice A. Loughrey, widow of the late Wm. J. Loughrey, of St. Thomas, to recover the sum of $10,000 damages for the death of her husband, a brakeman in the employ of the C. P. R., which, the plaintiff claimed, was caused by teh negligence of the defendants, the Canadian Pacific, Railway. The accident which caused the death of Wm. Loughrey occurred on Oct. 11, 1899, at Guelph Junction, while coupling two cars on train No. 65, running from Toronto Junction to St. Thomas. Case not finished.

Catarrh Philanthropy. This is how it operates: Mr. Thomas Sissons, of Pearl Lake, Que., had suffered from Catarrh for years, and being informed by his father, who had found Catarrhozone alone was the only positive cure for that disease, he forthwith commenced its use, and before long was entirely rid of his former enemy. Then by means of his philanthropy, six friends were also permanently cured of Catarrh, for Mr. Sissons sent each of them a complete Catarrhozone outfit, and states they would not now part with them for twice their cost. He says a great deal more about the merits of this great preparation that the says is great preparation. about the merits of this great preparation, but his action in sending for six outsits for his friends stands for conviction that he has discovered a remedy of superlative value. L. J. Banks Fatally Clubbed While Quelling a Disturbance.

Kemptville, March 7 .- Launcelot J. Banks died at his residence on Thomas street early this morning, as the result of being struck by a club in the hands of John Garret. The blow was struck while Mr. Banks was endeavoring to quell a disturbance in Banks Bros.' office. W. McKenna, Ault, James Gamon, Garret, Thos. Newman, William Dell and Raymond Banks were present at the time. At 12:30 this morning four of the young men in the office were making a disturbance, when Raymond Banks went home to get his father to restore order. L. J. Banks took the young men to task for imposing on a boy when left in charge of the office, and while quelling the disturbance was struck on the head with a club by John Garret. The blow made a big gash, and a little later Mr. Banks was assisted home by Ault and Mc-Kenna. Dr. Holmes was summoned, but no medical aid could help, and at 1:30 he died. A warrant was at once made up by Magistrate John E. Select for the arrest of Garret and Wm. Dell, James Gamon and Thomas Newman. These four were arrested about 4:30 a.m., and are held pending the result of an investigation by the coroner's jury.

Do a Great Deal of Damage to Empty Houses.

Serious Loss Caused by Vandals in Tearing Away a Few Dollars' Worth of Piping-Suspects Arrested and Held for Trial.

Three young men appeared in police court this morning, charged with burglary. Their offense consisted in entering vacant buildings and removing therefrom the lead pipe and brass fittings of the plumbing arrangements. The seriousness of the offense consists not so much in the value of the articles stolen (which amounts at most to a trifling sum) but in the damage done to the property in the effort to secure the stolen stuff. Vandals frequently do $100 damage to a house in securing less than a dollar's worth of

The young men arrested yesterday afternoon and charged this morning were Albert Flitton, Joseph Coughtry and Joseph Roberts. The former is aged 24, and is married, and the two latter are aged 18 years. Three charges had been laid, one by George Fox, owner of two houses, entered at 40 and 42 Oxford street; one by Wm. Webster, on behalf of the Presbyterian Mission, Oxford street, and the third by Wm. Magee, on behalf of the Durand estate, owner of a house on Piccadilly street, between Waterloo and Colborne streets.

The three accused elected summary Coughtry and Roberts pleaded guilty to the first and third charges, and not guilty to the second charge. Flitton pleaded not guilty to all three charges, but said he had taken the stuff from the other two. However, on a specific charge of receiving stolen goods, Flitton pleaded not guilty. The three were remanded till morrow, when the evidence in the case will be heard.

The police have in their possession a quantity of metal evidently stolen from other houses than those reported. Owners of vacant houses would do well to examine their premises. The three accused men are believed to be the same who were surprised while coming from Mr. Claypole's house on Talbot street, after damaging it to the value of $75. As soon as seen dropped the metal they were carrying and ran. The only other offenders at police court were two men charged with being drunk and disorderly. One was fined $5 or 20 days and the other was discharged.

McKenna complained some months ago of severe pains in his stomach and was troubled with insomnia. This condition called for an examination, which disclosed a tumor as big as a hen's egg. The point where the incision was made, the pyloris, is the exit of the stomach into the intestines, the other opening being the entrance through the oesophagus. The stomach was cut away from the intestines and the or-The stomach was cut gan was lifted completely out of its place and laid on a cushion of antiseptic cloths placed on the patient's chest. Then the doctors cut away the tumor and cut off the pyloris, the other malignant growth being also thoroughly cut away. The stomach was then put back in its accustomed place, having been joined to the intestines with silk sutures. But little blood was apparent throughout the whole operation, which lasted one hour and fifteen minutes. The patient rallied at once, and it was seen that the operation was a success.

Transportation and Winter Navigation Discussed in the House.

Mr. Dobell Expresses His Faith in the St. Lawrence River Route-Minor Matters.

Ottawa, March 6 .- Transportation again engaged the attention of the house this afternoon, Mr. Bennett's resolution, calling for a settled policy on the subject, forming the basis of discussion. The feature of the debate was Mr. Dobell's speech on winter navigation and the advantages of the St. Lawrence route. The evening was devoted to public and private bills. The house adjourned at 9:30 o'clock. In answer to Mr. Bickerdike, Mr. Fisher said that he, as representing the government, had for a number of years back been urging upon the im-ticularly during his visit to England in the spring. Mr. Fisher informed Mr. Lemieux that no honorary decorations had been granted to members of the Canadian commission or exhibitors at the Paris exhibition. No honors were conferred by the French government on British or colonial attaches at the request of the British government.

THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION Mr. Bennett moved that, in the opinion of this house, the time has arrived when a fixed and definite line of action should be undertaken on the question of the transportation of the grain and other commodities of the Northwest Territories, Manitoba and the Western States, with a view to entering the same to the greatest possible extent in Canadian channels. He thought the time had come when the government should strive to stem the tide and divert trade to Canadian channels. One factor working against Montreal was the scarcity of Canadian vessels, and the fact that Canadian bottoms cannot take part in American trade.

NOT TO BUY CANADA ATLANTIC Mr. Bennett declared that there were many indications and a current belief that the government intends purchasing the Canada Atlantic Railway in order to secure traffic for the Intercolonial.

Mr. Blair stated most emphatically that there had never been one word or syllable of discussion in council or among members of council on the subject of the purchase of the Parry Sound system. In the speech at Halifax, to which Mr. Bennett had referred, he had stated that an arrange-ment was being made with the Parry Sound system for an interchange of

WINTER NAVIGATION.

Mr. R. R. Dobell, in reply, while congratulating Mr. Bennett upon the man-ner in which he had brought the question before the house, pointed out that there were many important points upon which he was inaccurate. He agreed that the improvements in every avenue by which the grain of the northwest portion of the continent was to be moved and directed to the St. Lawrence route should be made, matter whether by water or rail. Mr. Dobell justified the expenditure at Port Colborne, and asserted that a steamer and her two consorts could carry 200,000 bushels of grain from Port Colborne to Montreal through the St. Lawrence canals, and he had it on the best authority this was the most economical method of carrying grain from Lake Superior ports. No means of transport could equal the magnificent system of water carriage which Canada enjoyed. Mr. Bennett had very much underrated the actual quantity of grain carried via Mon-treal. One reason why the shipment by this route had not been larger than it was last year arose from the stories in detraction of the St. Lawrence route which were circulated, and even today some persons sought to convey the impression that there was not a fourteen-foot channel at present. Another detriment to the route was that it had been almost impossible to get steamers to come up the St. Lawrence last fall owing to the imperial government chartering vessels and also owing to the heavy insurance rates.

Personally he believed absolutely in the winter navigation of the St. Law-rence, the difficulty of which was nothing like equal to what Russia had to contend with from ice both in the Black sea and the Baltic. There may, perhaps, be a little difficulty about the middle of March and the early part of April, when the ice blocks the channel between Cape Ray and Bird Rocks, but it is not often that occurs, only occasionally, perhaps once every three or four years. He believed that by establishing winter navigation to Que-bec and building large elevators there great benefit would result. The Grand Trunk made a very serious mistake in going down to Portland, and if the difficulty regarding insurance rates by the St. Lawrence were overcome, as he believed it would be, it would do more for the St. Lawrence navigation than anything that has ever been done.

ST. LAWRENCE INSURANCE RATES. It was impossible to give figures of the amount of premiums paid upon St. Law-rence steamers and the amount of losses. But he quoted the experience of Mr. Clergue, who had four steamers leaving But he quoted the experience of Mr. Clergue, who had four steamers leaving Montreal as late as Dec. 4, and who was asked $25,000 insurance on those steamers, whose freight amounted to $50,000, so that one-half his freight went in insurance. Before taking his own risk he cabled to insure one of them, and it was taken at Lloyds at 60 shillings per cent. When he got to London he found that the underwriter had rewritten the loss in Hamburg at 20 shillings. Mr. Dobell said he had himself loaded four ships at Bic, and, cabling over to London, ascertained that the lowest possible rate of insurance was at 4 and 515 per cent. He cabled back that he was prepared to take half the risk if Llyods would take the other half at 10 shillings, and they took it. This only showed that if there were a responsible and strong insurance company in Canada they would save at least one-third in insurance rates, and avoid the discrimination, which was equal to 3 per cent. If the season of navigation on the St. Lawrence could be extended to Feb. I the discriminatory rates would not commence probably until Dec. 1, and the extension of two months would be a great advantage. Dr. Dobell expressed the opinion that there would be no difficulty in steamers navigating the St. Lawrence the whole winter. The Canada Atlantic Railway could get orders for any quantity of grain if they could only get the freight whole winter. The Canada Atlantic Railway could get orders for any quantity of grain if they could only get the freight capacity to take it from them and carry it to its destniation. Mr. Shaughnessy, president of the C. P. R., recently assured him that if winter navigation of the St. Lawrence could be established he would guarantee to send to Quebec between the months of December and May 350,000 tons of cargo, sufficient to load about 70 steamers. If it could be shown that winter navigation was possible by the ordinary steamer, there would be plenty of cargo. The possibility of winter navigation should at once be faced in Canada. Mr. Dobell indorsed the policy of the government in opening up every possible channel of communication be-tween the west and the eastern seaboard, and deprecated petty rivalries between and deprecated petry rivaries between different routes, prophesying that there would be ample for all of them as the country developed.

Mr. Roche (Halifax) dilated upon the advantages of Halifax as a port, and urged Canadian merchants to import by Canadian lines.

GOVERNMENT'S GOOD WORK. Mr. German, criticising the language of the resolution, expressed the opinion that the fixed and definite line of policy was laid down by the Conservative party when in power, and that the present government had not only carried out that policy, but were also deepening the harbors and improving and opening up every line of communication from west to east so that Canadian products can be carried so that Canadian products can be carried over Canadian routes. It was only recently that a united Dominion became a reality. reality. Since then much had been done, and much yet remained to be done, and was being done, by the government to improve our transportation.

MINOR MATTERS. Mr. Smith (Wentworth) moved the second reading of his bill to provide a standard basket for fruits. The bill passed its second reading on the understanding that it will not be advanced further until the fruit men can express their views.

Mr. Jabel Robinson moved the second reading of his bill to afford farmers increased rights of drainage over rail-

Mays.

Mr. Blair expressed the belief that the safety of the traveling public and those using the railways was a matter of paramount importance, and must outweigh even the question of drainage. He did not know what the consequences might be if such a radical change as was embodied in the bill became law, and suggested that the legislation of last session be given a trial before passing new legisla-tion. In the distribution of the cost Mr. Blair said he also foresaw some difficulty. bill was given a second reading,

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

Successful Experiments With an Automatic Repeater - Messages Distinctly Transmitted.

Washington, March 7 .- An Interesting account of successful experiments in wireless telegraphy is contained in reports received at the state department from Consul George V. Roosevelt, at Brussels, Belgium. The experiments were conducted by Emile Guarini, the inventor of an automatic repeater. He first attempted to transmit wireless messages direct from Brussels to Antwerp, a distance of 25 miles, and thoroughly established the futility of attempting to send messages over such a distance without the aid of captive balloons or masts. then turned all his attention towards the transmission of the electric railroads by relays, and in this, it is stated, was entirely successful. He telegraphed from a station on top of structure in Brussels to one on the tower of St. Bombant Church in Ma-Numerous messages were received and transmitted with great distinctness, and two messages were received at a time when communication with the ground from the transmitter had been interrupted. This was the first instance on record where wireless messages were exchanged between two large cities with the antennes placed on high monuments, and without the help of captive balloons or kites. Guarini's system involves the method used in ordinary electric telegraphy of relays and translators, the apparatus at intermediary stations repeating the message automatically as received. Mr. Guarini represents a formidable argument against the hope hat great distances will ever be traversed at a single flash. "The world is round," he says, "and the rays spread in a straight line.'

COLD DAYS IN DAWSON CITY.

A Londoner's Experience of 65° and 69 Below Zero.

Dawson, Feb. 12, 1901. Dear Sir,-Last month, for about a week, we experienced the coldest snap the Yukon has had since the advent of the thermometer. It ranged by the official instrument from 65 to 69 below zero, but many others, whose claims for reliability stand unquestioned, ran as low as 73 and 75 below zero, while other thermometers went out of business altogether. This severe weather had the effect of stopping work on a number of the creeks. and also hindered travel. Yet the stages to and from the forks kept up their regular schedule, and even the Gold Run stage only missed one-half of a trip, owing to the death of one of the horses. This is a run of 45 miles, and one can hardly credit it weather.

A DELIGHTFUL TRIP.

This latter trip is a delightful one and takes about ten hours (including stops), going from Dawson to Gold Rim, and the return about nine hours. I may here give the route at present taken: Starting from Dawson at 9 a.m., we take the road on the Klon-dike as far as the mouth of Bonanza Creek, thence along this noted creek passing the Rich Creek and Bench claims, most of which are now working, reaching Grand Forks at 11 a.m. This is the junction of Eldorado and Bonanza Creeks. After a few minutes' stop we proceed up Bonanza to Carmacks Forks, where we stop for dinner and change horses. Then up to the head of Bonanza, being hauled up to the Ridge road, or dome, by cable, the horses having been driven | mont for some time.

A GREAT ROAD.

This road was built by the government, and ascends to the ridge just above the mouth of Bonanza Creek on the Klondike, following the ridge of hills to the different creeks, spurs being built to the Forks, to Sulphur, Quartz, Dominion and Gold Creeks. This is a great boon to the freighters and mine owners, makes a fine winter road and a fair summer road.

MAGNIFICENT VIEWS.

The view from Ridge road is beautiful. Away to the north the Rockies looming up in all their tremendous magnificence. In the valley to the right we passed Quartz Creek, and its tributaries, Superior Creek and its tributaries, and to the left, Last Chance and Gold Bottom Creeks, being tributaries of Hunker Creek: then we reached Williams' road house, where we changed stages. The one we came thus far going on down Cariboo Creek (which was right before us) to Dominion Creek, which we could see in the distance. After a wait of half an hour we started again, pass-ing to our left, a few more of Domin-Creek tributaries, until we reached the head of Gold Run Creek, thence on down to No. 36, where we made our headquarters. Now, in this letter I have named the principal big gold producers of the Klondike. WELL-MANAGED WATERWORKS.

The Dawson Waterworks Company are to be congratulated, surely, this winter, for they have kept the running through the mains without a break during the extreme cold weather of 70 degrees below zero. The pipes are laid in a box which leaves an air space around them, and are only about two feet below the surface, and the ground is frozen solid all around them. They have water houses at nearly every corner, that is, on the streets where the main runs, and in which the hydrants are situated, and also an air-tight stove in which fire is kept night and day, and watchmen are busy keeping them from going out. During the severest weather they placed a coil of steam pipes around the pipe at the engine house, which raised the temperature of the water a few de grees. The company's charges are considered reasonable, namely $4 per month per family, which entitles you to a key to one of the many houses. Notwithstanding the waterworks many men are making a good living by hauling and delivering water from the Klondike and selling it for two bits, or 25 cents per five gallon-pail. GOOD COAL.

A very good quality of bituminous coal is being mined about 15 miles from town, on Rock Creek, a tribu-tary of the Klondike, and it brings $25 per ton, delivered. The mine is owned by the Alaska Exploration Company, who are going to build a tram or electric road, and which will greatly reduce the price, and will greatly increase its use.

THE DEATH OF THE QUEEN. There was quite a gloom spread over the city on receipt of the news that our beloved Queen had died, which came officially about 9:30 a.m., Jan. 23. All the government offices, and nearly all places of business closed for two days, and also on the afternoon of memorial day. Services were held at the Savoy Theater, which was magnificently draped for the occasion. A chorus of about 100 voices assisted in the music, and the Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian clergymen had charge of the other part of the ser-The crowds that came would have filled a hall three times its size.

Mr. R. S. Logan Goes as Manager to the Central Vermont-Supt. Mooney

Montreal, March 6 .- Mr. R. S. Logan, secretary to Mr. Reeve, the general traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, has been appointed vice-president and general manager of the Central Vermont, to succeed Mr. E. H. Fitzuhgh, who, as already announced, has resigned to take an important position with another company, the name of which has not transpired. Mr. Logan joined the Wabash Railway in 1885 under the management of Mr. A. Talmage. He acted in the capacity of secretary to Mr. Hays, and when that gentleman became manager of the system, Mr. Logan was made traveling secretary to the new head. When Mr. Hays undertook the control of the Grand Trunk he invited Mr. Logan to accompany him as secretary. The latter accepted, and miles, and one can hardly credit it came on from St. Louis, in which city that horses can stand such severe he was born. Mr. Logan, in the delicate position he occupied, gave the greatest satisfaction by his tact, courtesy and ability, inspiring the confidence of all who were brought into contact with him. Upon the appointment of Mr. Reeve to the position of general manager, the latter appointed Mr. Logan as his assistant, having cordially admired his work while acting between the public and Mr. Hays. It is understood that Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, general freight agent of the Central Ver e appointed sec retary to Mr. Reeve, the general manager of the Grand Trunk, to succeed Mr. Logan, who was appointed general

OPPOSE TRADING STAMPS

Large Deputation of Business Men Ask Government to Prohibit Their Use.

Toronto, March 7.-Premier Ross was this morning waited upon by a deputation, representatives of thousands of retail dealers throughout Onwho asked that a measure be passed forbidding the using of trading stamps in municipalities where the council refuses to sanction them. The retailers believe that public sentiment is against trading stamps, and that few councils would approve of the system. The deputation was duced by Mr. Graham, M.P.P., of Brockville, and consisted of delegates Hamilton, London, from Toronto, Brantford, Woodstock, St. Thomas, and many other places. The premier promised to consider carefully the arguments advanced.

NO ONE-CENT LETTERS.

Montreal, March 7 .- Hon. Mr. Mulock, postmaster-general, in answer to a board of trade resolution, asking that the drop letter rate of two cents be reduced to one cent, informed the board that his inquiry leads him to the conclusion that except in such places as have free delivery, the proposed reduction would not meet with favor either in parliament or the country.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Bill to Amend the Alien Labor Law.

C. P. R. Land Grant Gets the Six Months' Hoist-Transportation Again.

Ottawa, March 7.—The problems of transportation and taxation of the C. P. R. in Manitoba and the Northwest engaged the attention of the house today. Mr. Bennett withdrew his resolu-tion demanding that a fixed and defin-ite line of policy be adopted in refer-ence to the transportation of grain and other commodition from the west, after Mr. Blair had emphasized the fact that the policy of the government was to stand by the canal system and com-plete the improvements already undertaken. Mr. Richardson's bill, declaring tion from taxation given the C. P. R. commenced on the day upon which their contract was ratified, was given the six months' hoist, upon motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, while condemning the contract as it stood, insisted that parliament must respect the sacred right of contract. Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced a bill to amend the act to restrict the importation and employment of aliens. In explanation of the measure Sir Wilfrid said: "The leading feature of the amendment which is proposed by this bill concerns the third section of the present act, which provides for a penalty for a violation of this act of $1,000, no more and no less. The object of the amendment is to make the penalty not more than $1,000, and not less than $50, giving to the judge discretion to apply the penalty according to the offense. Then it is stated in the act that the penalty is to be recovered only by the consent of the attorney-general. We propose to modify that section and to provide that the penalty should be recovered with the consent either of the attorney-general of the province or the judge from any court in which the penalty is sued for. The second section of the amendment concerns section 5 of the act. I have not the act before me, but section 5 provides that a settler, that is to say, an intending settler, may bring with him a relative or a personal friend. It has been found in practice that this word "personal friend" is too elastic for practical purposes, and that it may be made an occasion for evading the law; therefore we propose to strike out the words "personal friend." Section 6 of the said act provides that if there has been a violation of the act the party who has been introduced into the country illegally should be sent back at the expense of the person previously con-tracting for his services. It is proposed -42 to strike out these words and to substitute in lieu thereof, "at the expense -38 of the person, partnership, company or corporation violating any of the pro-visions of section 1 of this act.". Then It is proposed to repeal section 8 of the act altogether, and to substitute the following section therefor: "That it shall be deemed a violation of this act for any person, partnership, com-pany or corporation to assist or encourage the importation or immigra-tion of any alien or foreigner who resides in or is a citizen of any foreign country to which this act shall apply, by promise of employment, through advertisements printed or published in such foreign country, and any such alien or foreigner coming to this country in consequence of such an advertisement should be treated as coming under a contract as contemplated by this act, and the penalties by this act imposed shall be applicable in such case. Nothing in this act contained shall be held to affect or control the Government of Canada or of any province or territory in respect of promoting immigration." This last amendment has been inserted at the suggestion of the labor organizations, who have strongly pressed foi ts adoption. The bill was read the first time.

party standpoint. The policy of the government in dealing with the G. T. R. had been, Mr. Blair said, approved by the people of the country. If Mr. Kemp wished to make this matter a political question, he asked him to carry back his recollection to the time under the Conservative rule when the government was making, not a business arrangement, but giving a bonus of $30,000,000 to the C. P. R.

THE C. P. R. LAND GRANT. Mr. R. L. Richardson, Lisgar, moved the second reading of his bill respecting the land grant to the Canadian Pacific Railway. He explained that it deals with clause 16 of the C. P. R. contract of 1881, commonly known as the exemption clause, the words particularly in question being, "And the lands of the company in the North-west Teritory shall be exempt from taxation for 20 years after the grant thereof from the crown.'

The C. P. R., he said, claimed that "the grant thereof from the crown" meant from the issuing of the patent. Less than 2,000,000 acres of the entire land grant had been patented, and much of the lands had not even been selected.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in moving the six months' hoist of the bill, said that the section with which Mr. Richardson found fault, and against which his bill was directed, was inserted in the contract with the C. P. R. by the Conservative government, against the protests and strenuous opposition of the whole Liberal party in the house twenty, years ago, but the arguments then advanced fell upon a deaf house. They were not heeded and the law was put upon the statute book. Now they stood face to face with the accomplished facts, and parliament was now asked to put an interpretation upon the meaning of the clause. Sir Wilfrid Laurier continuing, said if Mr. Richardson were sincere and earnest, and wanted to have the matter tested before the courts, he was prepared to tell him the government would assist him. There should be a judicial interpretation and the settlers and the municipalities should have all the assistance and help the government could give them in order that their rights might be determined. But if Mr. Richardson contended that nothing would do but that, parliament should interfere with a contract, whether right or wrong, he hoped and believed that such a monstrous proposition would not receive any countenance in parliament. The six months' hoist was carried by 104 to 8. The house adjourned at midnight

CHAPTER XVI.

Dr. Stephen Forbes and Mrs. Amory were not long in meeting, but the acquaintance did not, at first, ripen beyond the ceremonious stages. Stephen's interest did not lie in the direction of society women (except, indeed, so far as his profession demanded), and as such he classed Gladys. Beyond noting the fact that she seemed more cold and inanimate in manner than he should have supposed natural in one of her physique, he did not give her a thought.

"I don't think he will ever be as popular as the old doctor," said Madge, now a plump, happy-faced young matron, as easy in temperament as her husband, Edward Boylston, and as outspoken as in the days of her girlhood. "He is not expansive enough for a family physician." (Bladys laughed.

"That is rather an inappropriate word, Dr. Stephen Forbes and Mrs. Amory

Gladys laughed.

'That is rather an inappropriate word, I allow, but you know what I mean. Charlie tells me that the medical students are wild about him, but, if Ned or the baby were alling, I know that I should regret the dear old chatty doctor. I know, of old, that his bark is worse than his bite, while I have no experience of these lofty abstractions."

than his bite, while I have no experience of these lofty abstractions."

One morning Gladys had driven from her home to one of the most dreary, poverty-stricken wards of the city, and, dismissing her carriage, plunged on foot into some of the narrow courts and alleys, filled with tenement houses and teaming with squalid misery.

These were the early days of "Associated Charities," and rich and poor were beginning to come together in the effort to solve the problem of enlightened relief. "Not alms, but a friend," seemed, if fitly followed, a hopeful watchword, and Gladys, to whom it appealed on a very tender point of sympathy, was trying it faithfully with two families, often disheartened by the apparent lack of result, often inclined to relax in her efforts to uplift, and say, pitifully, "Poor creato uplift, and say, pitifully, "Poor creatures! what else could be looked for in such wretched surroundings? Should we not all be the same?"

not all be the same?" yet trying patiently still with the earnestness that was the groundwork of her nature.

She had turned into a poor little alley, with gaunt, sunless houses on either side, children paddling in the black stagnant pools that settled among the sunken paving stones, and sickening odors coming from the open doors of the overcrowded houses. As she paused on the steps of one of these before climbing the stairs, a window in the upper story was steps of one of these before chimong the stairs, a window in the upper story was thrown open, and a man's voice—a cultured voice, too, with a familiar ring m it—called something, which, at first, she did not hear. She looked up, but only saw a hand on the window-sash.

"I said don't come into this house and "I said, don't come into this house, and leave the court at once." repeated the She stood a moment, hesitating whether or not to obey the brusque mandate, when her dress was pulled from behind, and she found herself confronted by a bright-faced little fellow, one of the nu-bright-faced little fellow, one of the numerous progeny of "her families."

"The big doctor says 'Go home, Missis,' said the urchin. "Some in the house has scarlet fever, but don't you be afeared of me. I ain't been near 'em."
"The 'big doctor?" repeated Gladys.
"Yes; him that comes so often. I donno his name, but he's a real nice one. He was he're most all last night."
Gladys walked slowly away yielding was here most all last night."

Gladys walked slowly away, yielding rather reluctantly to the necessity of the case, and drawing from the shrewd little urchin as she went, all possible information in regard to the domestic affairs of her protegees.

Late in the next afternoon she was standing before her easel, trying earnestive to wat a satisfactory likeness of little.

to get a satisfactory likeness of little m, whom she had coaxed to quiescence by the charge to keep the Scotch terrier still. He sat upright, with glowing cheeks, on the crimson rug she had spread for him, his eyes fixed intently on the poor animal, whom he was almost sufficiating with the tight clasp of his chubby arms. Gradually, however, the arms relaxed their hold, the curly head sank lower and lower until it rested on the dog's back, and Tom fell fast asleep, the only condition in which he was ever known to be long still. Gladys worked eagerly to improve the favorable oppor-

"Certainly, if you will let me go on with my work." said Gladys, looking up with a bright smile, and pointing to the little picture on the floor; "I can't afford to lose that!"

She looked so full of animation and loving pride, so different from the cold, colorentional beauty of the ball-room whom he had hitherto seen, that she seemed to Stephent a different woman. They advanced towards her through the long room, the doctor's stalwart figure completely dwarfling Morgan Amory's elegant slimness; but as his eye fell on the bright rug, with the sleeping cherub lying on it, he stooped and bent down to look at the little tellow more closely, exclaiming in a tone of the heartlest admiration. "Oh! what a boy!"

Nothing could have delighted both parents more than the simplicity of the tribute, for if there was one thing in this world that never palled upon his father's outworn fancy, it was little Tom, and the fact that others should recognize him as a unique, seemed to him only his due. The two gentlemen stood silent for a while beside Gladys as she worked, lips parted and cheeks flushed in her eagerness to finish her charcoal sketch before the child should awake. Stephen glanced at her, half amused, then round the wails of the room, lined with pictures or studies in various stages of progress.

"Mrs Amory is an artist, con amore," of progress.

"Mrs. Amory is an artist, con amore," said her husband, somewhat pompously, following the glance. "Indeed, she works over her canvas far more than I approve for a mere pastime."

"I have never looked upon it as that, exactly you know. Morgan." said Gladys,

"I have never looked upon it as that, exactly, you know, Morgan." said Gladys, with a smiling shake of the head.
"Have you ever exhibited anything?" asked the doctor, who was slowly walking about the room, surveying the pictures, his hands behind him and a look of pleased surprise growing on his face.
"No, never."
"Not, surely, from any doubt of the worthiness of your work?"
Mr. Amory bowed, as if the implied compliment were a personal one. * mere amateur pursuit, doctor, and that is why I find fault with the ardor that Mrs. Amory bestows upon it."

"But, you know," said Gladys, pausing with uplifted charcoal, "it is impossible for me to work in any other way. I should lose all interest in anything that I considered a mere pastime. I never do expect any work of mine to be exhibited, thank you, Dr. Forbes, but I work like an artist rather than an amateur, because it is the only way in which I can make my criticism or appreciation of value to a young friend of mine, who will, I hope, be an artist one day."

"Oh, Gladys puts so much conscience into everything she does," said Madge, with a comical air of desperation. "It is one of her idiosynerasies. Even those weary 'Associated Charities' of hers—how she labors over those poor people! To my uninitiated mind it would be so much easier to give the poor souls a new suit of clothes all round and a handful of money apiece, and let them fend for thempselves." ful of money apiece, and let them fend for themselves."

"A great deal easier!" laughed Gladys, while Stephen looked somewhat quizzi-cally embarrassed at this sudden reminder this forgotten apology.
"Does that work interest you so much?"
e asked, with one of his kindly glances at Gladys. "Yes, very deeply."

"And will you let me apologize for my abrupt warning the other day?" said the doctor, a boyish red overspreading his manly face; "that was what I came for. I was afraid you would come upstairs, and I could not warn you face to face interface."

A CANADIAN LEAGUE.

A CANADIAN LEAGUE.

Guelph, Ont., March 8.—The Canadian Baseball Association held its reorganizing meeting at the Royal Hotel here last evening, President J. P. Downey in the chair. The executive presented a report of the result of last season's playing, and the pennant was awarded to the Maple Leafs, of Guelph. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, Cal. Davis, Hamilton; president, Bert Sheere, London; first vice-president, J. Davis, Woodstock; second vice-president, W. Hogg, Waterloo; secretary-treasurer, G. T. Higgins, Guelph; directors, George Graham, Galt, and a representative of the Hamilton team. These gentlemen will constitute the executive, and will meet to revise the constitution and arrange a schedule at the Imperial Hotel, Galt, on Good Friday.

TORONTO CLUB.

The Toronto ball club managers expect to have the strongest team that has re-presented the city in the Eastern League since 1897. At the annual meeting of the club, the agreement for the lease of the new ball grounds on the south side of King stret west, about two miles from the center of the bay, was ratified. The grounds will be inclosed and grand stands capable of seating 4,000 persons will be erected. The ball company have made a favorable traffic arrangement with the street railway, by which they get a share in the proceeds if a certain volume of traffic is secured.

NEW RULES IN THE GAME.

1. The first and second foul balls hit by the batsman, unless two strikes have already been called, shall henceforth be called strikes.

2. The catcher will stand within ten feet of the home plate when in position.

3. As soon as the batter assumes his position at the plate the pitcher must deliver the ball to him. Should the pitcher deliver the ball to any place other than the plate, each delivery shall count as a ball. If the pitcher tail to deliver the ball within twenty seconds after the batteries in position one ball shall be called.

4. A batsman may not henceforth take his base if hit by a pitched ball, but such ball shall count as a ball against the pitcher.

The above changes in the playing rules of the National Baseball League are being discussed on every hand by players, amateur and professional alike. The rule most criticised is No. 3 of those printed above. This requires the twirler to deliver the ball to the batsman as soon as the batter assumes his position at the pan. The limit is twenty seconds. Obviously, this works rather a hardship on the pitchers, who are certainly hurried unless there are some additions to the rules not yet printed, which allow the person the slop some latitude with a second and the position of the pure on the slop some latitude with a second as the pen on the slop some latitude with a second and the pen on the slop some latitude with a second and the pen on the slop some latitude with a second and the pen on the slop some latitude with a second and the pitcher and the pitc unless there are some additions to the rules not yet printed, which allow the men on the slab some latitude, with a runner on the initial sack, who watches, not the pitcher, but the batter, and breaks as soon as the last-named steps into the batter's position at the plate. It has been the aim of the theorists in the big league to boom the decayed art of base-running. This will not only do it, but will go to the other extreme of seeing a player sprint with no catcher trying for him. No catcher in the big league is going to make the effort where the runner has the bag cinched. This has been shown time and again, when, for instance, the twirler will cross his catcher slightly, and vary the height of the ball and the side of the pan it is expected on. The playing for a base runner has been and always will be one of the fine arts of the

The pitcher can make no offer to the basemen. What is to prevent a man moving up on four balls, taking a run down toward second after getting a signal from the batsman that he intends to step up to the plate. Of course, it is assumed that as long as no batsman is up the pitcher can cover the bag in the good old style the pitcher can cover the bag in the good old style.

There will also be a tendency to cut down the hitting and increase the number of strike-outs if fouls are called strikes. With two gone, the batter, particularly the green lot, are up in the air and hitting at any straight ball. With two gone a pitcher can waste a few and still be safe. With a quick, short break to a ball, close in and breast high, innumerable fouls, strictly on the square, can be tipped off. The rule looks decidedly bad, but may, as is often the case, prove good when actually worked.

Raised to the Dignity of a City—Bill Passed After Amendment.

Toronto, March 7.-By a bill passed this morning in the private bills committee of the legislature provision is made for raising the town of Woodstock to the status of a city. Dr. Mearns, mayor of the town, and Alfred Bicknell, for the council, cham-pioned the bill. Dr. McKay and Rev. J. C. Farthing, for the temperance organizations, protested against the proposal of the bill that the police should be under control of the council, instead of commissioners. was struck out, Mayor Mearns con-senting. The civic waterworks and lighting plant are to be managed by a commission, the members to be appointed for a two-year term. M. Buchanan, for the County Council of Oxford, asked that all outstanding questions between the town and county be settled before incorporation, but this the committee did not consider necessary.

"Bar Harbor" is a refined comedy-drama, with plenty of intense scenes and thrilling climaxes, and it gave ample opportunity for the clever work of which the company is capable. Miss Katherine Standish in the dual role of Elsie Vanderpool and Jane Hawthorne, showed to the full her possession of dramatic talent and genuine feeling. Miss Beatrice Fenberg fitted charmingly a de-lightful soubrette part. Messrs. Edgar Mackay, Oliver D. Baile and W. F. Crockett filled their respective roles acceptably, and the suport was good. The performance was followed by an amusing amateur contest, participated in by tomorrow night "The Brand of Cain."

The D. O. C.'s Successor.

Should it be that Lieut.-Col. Peters, D. O. C., at Montreal, is chosen to succeed Lieut.-Col. Holmes, and the appointment is considered almost certain, it will go far to counteract the effect of the latter's removal Lieut -Col Peters' reputation is that of an efficient district officer, a fearless fighter, and was gained for the most part at Quebec, Victoria, Montreal and during the Northwest troubles. At that time he won distinc-tion as commanding officer of A Battery, R. C. A., in the field, being several times mentioned in dispatches for conspicuous gallantry in the actions at Fish Creek and Batoche, At Fish Creek where 25 per cent of the men of his battery were killed or wounded, he headed a desperate charge into the coulee held by the rebels, in an at-tmpt to rescue the bodies of some of the killed battery men. He is an enthusiastic photographer, and carried a small English Marion Academy camera on his saddle throughout the rebellion of 1885, taking some of the first snapshots of an action ever taken under fire. Lieut.-Col. Peters is considered to be one of the most entertaining afterdinner speakers in Canada. He was was only recently appointed to Montreal, having come from Victoria, B. # RELIEF OF LUCKNOW

MR. WM. JOHN TRAINER, 12 Bond Street Toronto, age 55 years, endorses Burdock Blood Bitters. He says:

I served in the British army eleven years, and was through the Indian Mutiny under Sir Colin Campbell and Gen. Havelock. I had the bone of my left leg shattered by a splinter of shell at the relief of Lucknow. The wound never healed up properly and was continually breaking out and dis-

It was of such a size that two fingers could be laid in it. In the year of 1881 I took Burdock Blood Bitters and used Burdock Ointment as a dressing. This treatment gradually
