The Cork Election Will Convert Many Parnellites.

An Exhibition of Implements of Torture.

A Banking Firm Suspends Payment.

Members of the Defaulting Firm Shoot Themselves.

Prospective Liberal Gains in Coming Bye-Elections.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—It is announced to-day that the Government of India and the British Home Government have both been advised that the Parnell is valueless from a military point of view, either for attack or defense. Professional opinion in England and in India is, however, that Parnell has no intention of annexing any part of the Parnell; and that if he had the whole region, in the teeth of British and Chinese opposition, in her hands, it would be of no service to her for an attack on India. So the latest war cloud is dissipated.

A FAMOUS WILL CASE.

The probate suit relating to the will of Anna Maria Wood, formerly of The Lodge, Egham, will be heard Nov. 18. Its title in the official list is Parnell (formerly O'Shea) vs. Wood and Wood (O'Shea, Steele and others intervening). The plaintiff is the youngest daughter of the late Rev. Sir John Parnell Wood. In 1867 Katharine Wood, now Mrs. Parnell, married Capt. O'Shea. Under the will of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Maria Wood, she was left sole legatee of £100,000. The will is disputed by her brother, General Sir Evelyn Wood, V.C., and Mrs. Charles Wood, D.L., who allege undue influence. Under former wills they were bequeathed, but their names were omitted in the last testamentary disposition. The deceased was 88 years of age when she died. A large array of Queen's Counsel will appear in the case, which will be of an interesting character.

THE CORK ELECTION.

The result of the Cork election has exactly confirmed our correspondent's forecasts. The Parnellites profess to have done better than they actually did, which shows that they can be thankful for small mercies. Their actual poll of Nationalists was less than 2,000, for fully 200 Tories voted for Redmond. Last evening the Tories went about boasting that they had polled more than they did at the last contested election in 1885. It is shown to-day that their candidate received 255 fewer votes than in 1885. They do not attempt to deny today that probably 250 of the vanished votes that were certainly polled were given to Redmond. It is certain that the result of the election will convince many Parnellites of the error of their ways, and it is probable that some members of the Parliamentary minority will gladly make an excuse for returning to their allegiance. No difficulties will be placed in their way, for it is the earnest desire of William O'Brien and his colleagues to win back by gentle means as many prodigals as possible before the general election; but to those who remain recalcitrant no mercy will be shown. It must be remembered that the majority of the minority have taken no part in the bitter strife which has been going on since Parnell died. They took the step which seemed to them to be best in the interests of the country and they wisely held their peace. These are the men for whom the door has been kept open and to whom the interdict given by Cork should irresistibly appeal.

John Redmond is now in a ludicrous position. Had he won Cork he would have been formally selected leader of the irreconcilables. That was the price which he exacted before resigning his seat at Wexford in order to lead the forlorn hope; but his ambition has overleaped itself. He has grasped the shadow and lost the substance. He will probably ask Wexford to take him back, but he will be beaten again. Nationalists there have already selected their candidate, and there is no reason to fear that Wexford will go wrong where Cork went right. John Redmond is destined to be a political wreck, and it is difficult to see where he will find a seat even then. The Irish Tories are warning the Government that if the general election is delayed until the next summer there will be fear that the Irish dissensions will have been healed up. They are promising the Government a gain of ten seats in Ireland if Parliament be dissolved at once. But their representations are not likely to have any effect.

COMING ELECTION TESTS.

The immediate electoral prospect is very pleasant for the Liberals. Two Tory county seats, South Morton and East Dorset, have become vacant, and the Liberals have cheerfully undertaken to win them both. In the former constituency the contest is proceeding boisterously and polling will take place on next Friday. In East Dorset, where there is a Tory majority of 655 to wipe out, the fight will not commence in earnest for several days, and the result cannot be made known for at least a fortnight.

MR. GOSCHEN AND LORD DUFFERIN.

The Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports has been given to the Marquis of Dufferin, and concurrently with this announcement we are given to understand that Mr. Goschen has made one more sacrifice. The pleasant sacrifice was offered to him, but he declined it in his self-sacrificing way because his friends say, he already had a nice home in Kent and did not want to leave it. He suggested Lord Dufferin, who, poor man, only has one castle, and that one in a remote part of Ireland, and the post was accordingly given to the noble Marquis. If Mr. Goschen should continue to make sacrifices at this reckless rate, it may be no neces-

ROYAL CELEBRATIONS.

The Emperor and Empress of Russia are celebrating their silver wedding at Livadia to-day. There was an actual wedding in the palace chapel, and the archbishop of Odessa officiated with the full pomp of the orthodox church. The Prince of Wales is also celebrating his 50th birthday in homely fashion at Sandringham, but not with his family as originally arranged and announced. The Princess of Wales and her two unmarried daughters are at Livadia, and figure to-day in the Czar's glittering train of imperial and royal relatives.

"UNEASY LIES THE HEAD," ETC.

The shadow of scandal which has rested on the Austrian throne ever since the suicide of Crown Prince Rudolf grows deeper. The Empress has become the victim of chronic melancholia, and the spectre of insanity hovers over the beautiful palace which she has built for herself in the lonely corner of the Greek island of Corfu, and she obstinately refuses to return to Vienna. Emperor Francis Joseph performs his daily work, and is seen at times by the world, but he is one of the loneliest men in Europe.

HUGH PRICE HUGHES TALKS.

Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, fresh from the Ecumenical Congress in Washington, had a great welcome home in St. James' Hall Friday night. Mr. Hughes was good enough to say some kind words about American freedom, and he had much to say about that equality of man which reigns throughout the broad United States, as proved, among other things, by the fact that Presidents, millionaires and common persons alike clean their own boots. But in one respect, it seems, scant consideration was shown for the feelings of the reverend and illustrious visitor. He was shocked to find, and he shocked his big audience last night by telling them the dreadful tale, that in Philadelphia accommodations at hotels is refused to negroes, while at railway stations, not in wicked Philadelphia alone, his eyes were opened by the notice, "Waiting room for colored people." For the rest, the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes proved that he had not escaped the attentions of those practical jokers who delight in loading up unsuspecting strangers with wonderful anecdotes illustrating the greatness of America, the wisdom of her statesmen, and the cuteness of her people.

PROGRESS OF CO-OPERATION.

A striking proof of the steady progress of the principle of co-operative production was given on Saturday at Leicester, where over 500 delegates from all parts of the kingdom assembled to assist at the formal opening of the largest co-operative boot and shoe factory in the world. The factory stands on six acres of ground. The buildings cost $150,000, and when fitted with machinery the total outlay will have been $250,000. The working capital will be $1,000,000, and the factory will be able to turn out 50,000 pairs of boots every week. This huge enterprise has been planned by the co-operative movement, and the men who make the boots will share in the profits earned by their labor.

INSTRUMENTS OF TORTURE.

Mr. McCormack, the London agent of the Chicago World's Fair, is negotiating for the loan or purchase of Lord Shrewsbury's famous collection of instruments of torture, formerly kept in the Royal Castle at Nuremberg. The collection will have been on view here in a blood-red character calculated to astound general American citizens. There are between 700 and 800 pieces—racks, tongue teasers, thumb screws, iron gloves compulsion, iron bed, barbed wires, strangling collars, spiked cradles, iron caps, an elegant array of executioner's swords, and a series of ancient pistols illustrating execution.

TORTURED BY BRING RAIN.

The British authorities of Madras have started an investigation relative to the case of horrible barbarity and superstition reported from Madras. Rain has been much needed in that vicinity, and the drought was attributed by the superstitious natives to the malignity of an evil-minded female deity. To propitiate this deity they resorted upon reviving an old practice of torture, known as "hook swinging." A woman was found who consented to undergo the ordeal. The points of iron hooks were pushed into her neck, a rope was fastened to the hooks, and the poor wretch was hoisted into the air. His shrieks of agony regarding the superstition which led to the ordeal. The points of iron hooks were pushed into her neck, a rope was fastened to the hooks, and the poor wretch was hoisted into the air. His shrieks of agony regarding the superstition which led to the ordeal.

IS PATTI FAILING?

Patti sang in admirable voice to a crowded audience in the big Albert Hall, Kensington, Saturday night. She has taken the best of the week on the City of Paris, and will leave for New York on Dec. 25. Musical shows unmistakable signs of failing. They allege that the diva can no longer reach the high notes which she formerly took with such brilliant ease. To this it may be, there is no doubt that in the Albert Hall concert

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Pointers from Bradstreet's Weekly Review of Trade.

New York, Nov. 7. Special telegrams to Bradstreet's are again confirmatory of the analysis of the state of general trade made public in these columns during the two preceding weeks notwithstanding unfavorable optimistic outgivings from other sources. Baltimore, where jobbers feel the pulse of almost all southern mercantile communities, reports business dull. At Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati reports are in the main far from buoyant, although at all points the outlook is regarded as good. At the west there is relatively less complaint. Mercantile collections are quiet, irregular, and average slow, and unsatisfactory of tone than otherwise as far as reported. The New York share market has been depressed by liquidation due to the bank failure in Boston and the shipment of funds there. This created some pressure in the New York money market.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Exports of wheat from the United States, both coasts, this week, aggregate 3,520,000 bushels, nearly 500,000 bushels more than last week. Total exports for nineteen weeks, to Nov. 5, equal 77,376,000 bushels, against 34,975,000 bushels (Montreal included) in like portion of 1890. Special cable telegraphic advices enable Bradstreet's to point out that the total stocks of wheat available in the United States and Canada were 42,491,000 bushels larger than on Nov. 1, 1890, and 21,523,000 bushels larger than on Nov. 1, 1889.

IN THE DOMINION.

In Toronto general trade is less active than expected, though drygoods are more active. The wheat movement in Ontario is slow. Harley is going abroad freely and rye is barley. Montreal reports favorable trade prospects with fair activity in most lines, including a better demand for grain. Bank clearings at four Canadian cities aggregate $21,954,758 this week, an increase of 19 per cent. compared with last week. The Dominion reports 43 business failures this week, against 37 last week, and 27 this week last year. The total number from Jan. 1 to date is 1,557, against 1,369 last year.

The Marquis's wife, nee Miss Hoffman, a wealthy American, joins in the application, and demands the separation of her personal fortune from that of the Marquis. The latter has squandered an immense amount of money in speculations in America and Tonkin.

BACK TO CANADA.

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—Judge Swan has handed down an opinion on the subject of Chinese deportation giving a complete ruling upon the vexatious question. The case was that of Chung Sam, whose arrest was effected at Port Huron on July 9. He had been conducting a laundry business at Chatham, Ont., and was arrested by the officers of the American Government at Port Huron for having been unlawfully in the country under the Chinese Exclusion and Prohibition Act. The Chinese was found in possession of a certificate issued by the customs officer of Vancouver, B.C., dated May 21, 1891, permitting him to return to Canada. It was shown that he had been before arrested at Detroit on June 23, 1891, and returned to Canada by order of Commissioner Graves. Upon the second appearance of the Chinese, he was ordered sent back to China under a ruling of one of the State departments, to which was referred the construction of the law. Judge Swan decides that the order of the Commissioner of Immigration is reversed, and the United States marshal is instructed to cause him to be removed to Canada.

"The Advertiser" is an organ of news and of thoroughly independent opinion. The Advertiser alone is responsible for opinions expressed in these columns.

"The Advertiser" advocates Continental Free Trade, and as early as possible after, free trade with the whole world.

"The Advertiser" looks forward with hope to Canada's future as that of an Independent Canadian Nation, in equally friendly alliance with the United States and with Great Britain, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States. As to Imperial Federation, sometimes spoken of, the ADVERTISER as yet has seen nothing proposed that bears any stamp of practicability, and in any case infinitely prefers the grander and more really hopeful scheme of a federation of the English-speaking peoples of the world.

"The Advertiser" advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor; and all expedient general legislation and persuasion in the meantime.

"The Advertiser" is an advocate of equal rights for women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

"The Advertiser" is a believer in Christian Union, and considering the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. Those bodies which are now nearest should unite first. Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The ADVERTISER will endeavor to promote the movement for Christian union not alone by direct appeal and argument, but by seeking to present the best rather than the worst side of each denomination.

"The Advertiser" advocates Obligatory Voting as both necessary and practicable. Nothing would so much purify electoral contests. Nothing would so much enforce the idea that the franchise is a duty, not a chattel.

London, Monday, Nov. 9.

HALTON.

The seat for Halton county in the Dominion House of Commons, having been rendered vacant by the unseating of Mr.
 Henderson (Conservative), a brisk campaign may be expected to ensue.

Halton has seen-sawed between the parties in the last half-dozen elections, and Mr.
 Henderson has now been unhorsed twice because of corrupt practices. His election last March seems to have been effected by a wide prevalence of bribery. The case which unseated him was only a specimen of what would have followed if the friends of Mr. Henderson had not given up the right to appeal the case, and consented to the seat being vacated, on condition that the personal charges were not pressed.

A Conservative having sat for the constituency for last session, it is now the turn of the Liberals to win in Halton.
 With the revelations recently made at Ottawa, and a line of policy conceived in the interests of the people, the county should once more be won over for good government.

FIRST ONE, THEN ANOTHER.

The Liberals talk of "one man, one vote," but they do not say anything about "one woman, one vote." (Toronto Empire.)

Nonsense. Here is a Liberal paper which upholds both "one man, one vote" and "one woman, one vote" as well. But if we cannot get the last-named principle generally conceded by the legislators that is no reason why the "one man, one vote" law of the Province should not be introduced in Dominion elections. The chief organ of the high tax party is on record as opposed to both reforms. It is not a believer in the principle of electoral equality, and it supports political leaders that have again and again voted down the democratic principle of "one man, one vote," though there was no just ground for that action. Indeed, any politician in Ontario who suggested a return to the cumbersome and expensive method that preceded the passage of the "one man, one vote" enactment would be promptly repudiated by either political party. The question now is, if the law has been so beneficial in elections for the Legislature, why not for the House of Commons also? Will the Empire tell us?

THE ELECTION IN CORK.

The election to fill the seat in the British House of Commons, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Parnell, took place in Cork Friday, and resulted in a significant victory for the supporters of the Home Rule majority. It is unfortunate that a small minority of the Irish M. P.s chose to adopt the view of their late leader in regard to the effect of his shortcomings on the cause of self-government in the island.
 There were those who believed that the death of Parnell would bring an immediate solution for the rupture. Such, however, has not been the case, and the two wings of the party remain separated. But surely it cannot be for long. The failure of the minority to contest Kilkenny, and the significant victory of the majority in Cork on Friday reveals the fatuity of a course that, if persisted in, can only postpone the settlement of Ireland's legislative difficulties, and keep the country in that state of unrest which is highly prejudicial to her interests.

To friends of Ireland in Canada the result of the election must be pleasing.
 The majority of us believe that the democracy of Ireland can only obtain that full measure of justice which the country has a right to receive by close alliance with the democracy of Great Britain—that is, by co-operation with the great Liberal party. Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery, John Morley, Earl Spencer, the Earl of Aberdeen, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, and the Liberal party generally have pledged themselves to do all that honorable, upright men can do to remove the sentimental and other grievances of which the Irish people complain, and to cement the two islands in a bond of equality and brotherhood. That much-to-be-desired result cannot be obtained, however, if the great mass of the Irish people themselves do not harmoniously work for the legiti-mate acquirement of those self-governing rights which we in Canada possess.

It has been contended by those who would deny the Irish those rights that we in Ontario and in every Province and State in North America now exercise, that the people over there cannot be trusted to rule themselves. There has been much gloating over the exhibitions of rowdiness in Cork and elsewhere, and the argument has been brought forward that where troubles like these exist there should be no self-government. With all due deference to these critics, we take issue with them on this point. The Irishman, wherever found, is a warm-hearted, impulsive fellow, but it cannot be said that in point of conduct he is any worse than his neighbors. Some of our most successful governors-general have been Irishmen. Many of our brilliant statesmen have been Irishmen or sons of Irishmen. Thousands of the race have been successful merchants, manufacturers and farmers in the Dominion. And so has been the record throughout the world.
 The Irish are not only amenable to self-governing enactments, but they have given powerful aid in formulating and sustaining laws for the betterment of every country in which their lot has been cast. That much can be safely asserted without minimizing the services rendered to the new nations of the earth by those who owe their origin to other countries.

It is no answer to the argument in favor of Ireland being made a self-governing country in all that pertains to her local affairs, as we are in Canada, to say that some of her sons cause rows in election campaigns, in which hot language is used and brickbats are thrown. Everyone who has made a study of the evolution of nations from a state of tutelage, of red-tape management of public affairs, knows that it takes a little time for some of the people to fully understand that more value can be gained by strong argument in favor of a good cause than by the use of sticks and stones. They went through that experience in Scotland and England after the passage of the Reform Bill of 1832. The economist Humphreys was rotten-egged in the usually quiet town of Arbroath, and had to flee to Montrose, with a howling mob at his heels. And in other places election riots were common. In Canada, too, we have had our excited mobs. Some of them rotten-egged a Governor-General and burned the Parliament buildings, because they were not allowed to have their own way. Others, in this good city of London, tore down the decorations put up in honor of a Governor-General, who was a devoted Liberal to suit the views of a section of the populace. Even in the rural districts election "shindies" were frequent.
 It is in the recollection of the older residents of this city that a Parliamentary candidate in East Middlesex was chased by a gang of his opponents from St. John's village to Westminster.

All this is past in Canada. People have got used to exercising their rights. They remember that after election day they have to live with each other as before, and they respect the right of each to judge for himself. Election rows are now as rare in Canada as a snow storm in July, and all are the better for the change. So will it be in Ireland when, relieved of the constant intermeddling of outsiders in their purely local concerns, the people become fully aware of their privileges and their duties to their neighbors and to the State.

CUSTOM HOUSE FRAUDS.

The Toronto World (Conservative) says the true story of the flight of Sam Davison, of that city, who systematically defrauded the customs, is coming to light. It says:
 "For years Davison has been putting goods fraudulently undervalued through the custom house and selling them at prices lower than honest importers could afford to ask. For years it has been a scandal that men in the service of the custom house have been building up fortunes and living at the rate of $5,000 to $10,000 a year. Three frontiers in three different churches was one of the weaknesses of one of these appraisers. All the pearl buttons sold in this country some years ago were fraudulently entered and the profits of the dishonesty shared in by an appraiser. The importers of Toronto know all about it. Since this matter has come up complaints are heard on all sides among importers. Instances are cited where reputable wholesale houses have been put to a great deal of annoyance and even been forced to submit to insults by officials of the Customs Department. Not long ago two of our largest and wealthiest firms were compelled to put up marked checks because those eagle-eyed (at times only) officials imagined an error had been made in passing a few cases of prints. Yet when the Davison frauds were discovered fines to the amount of $9,000 were imposed, and it is said that Davison remained here these fines could have been settled for about one-third of this sum. As the case stands now there is an onus resting on those in the department in which frauds were committed, both innocent and guilty alike. This is unfair to those who have honestly done their duty, and the silence should not be continued.

 It is time for the proper authorities to speak out."

When shall we reach the end of these rascalities? Those in authority seem to be unable or unwilling to honestly administer public affairs. It is time that a change was decreed.

BEGIN AT HOME.

The Brantford Courier complains because there are more walls and strays in the Province than there are industrial schools to which they may be sent by the magistrates. This is an important confession, in view of the fact that the Dominion Government has been bonusing professional philanthropists in the old world to send juveniles from the slums to Canada by the thousand. Having more neglected children than the country knows what to do with, it is not a waste of public money and an injury to the taxpayers to pay for the importation of others? In all justice our rulers should dispose of the home crop first of all.

A POET'S TOMB.

Walt Whitman, the poet, is in very poor health, and he told Sir Edwin Arnold, who visited him at his Camden home the other day, that he did not expect to live long.
 He has already prepared for his death by providing for himself a tomb, which has been constructed under his personal supervision. It is on the side of a hill in Har-leigh Cemetery, on the outskirts of Camden, overlooking a grove of trees. The tomb is a simple structure of massive blocks of Quincy granite. The front alone is said to weigh over 70 tons. The door, of granite, is 6 inches thick, measuring 4 feet 2 inches in width by 6 feet 4 inches in height. No rods, bolts, or other fastenings are used, the corners being held together by morticing the solid blocks.
 The entrance is 3 feet 6 inches; the vestibule in front of the eight catacombs is 11 feet 3 inches wide, 7 feet deep, 8 feet high.
 The catacombs are of marble unusually thick. It will be closed by hermetically sealed slabs of polished marble. The roof is of granite in five pieces. The approaches are of rock-based granite in semi-circular form. All will be covered with ivy.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

On Monday next, two big events will be celebrated in the British metropolis.
 The Prince of Wales will be 50 years old, and the birthday of the heir to the throne is always a notable event. But, for reasons best known to himself, the Prince has refused to countenance the public celebration of his birthday by the corporation of the city of London. Being a man of family and a grandfather, the Prince says he wishes the event to be regarded as a "purely domestic and family affair." The Lord Mayor's procession on Monday will therefore not be dwarfed by the proposed royal pilgrimage. His Worship is a native of Wales, and the display made in his honor will be a distinctively Welsh character.

THE ROCHESTER HERALD SAYS:

What can equal the absurdity of considering the privilege of the ballot exclusively to the male sex? The argument is wholly, totally against it, and only usage and prejudice continue the practice. But women themselves are to blame if they do not get the ballot. The time was when men would not have granted it.
 That time is over. As soon as a general movement is started among women favor of demanding what it is clearly their right as it is the right of men they will get the ballot. The enlightened portion of the male sex recognizes the folly of disfranchising women and is prepared to remove the disability as soon as women shall generally agree in asking for the ballot.

May we ask our fair-minded contemporary this question: Why, in this enlightened age, should any class in the community require to ask for that justice which is clearly their right?

A WESTERN TRIBUTE.

[Western Law Times, Winnipeg.]
 Mr. James F. Lister, of Sarnia, barrister-at-law and M. P., has rendered himself famous by his fearless manner of conducting the charges of "hoodlums," etc., before the Parliamentary Committee which sat during the last session, and has made his name a terror to fishers from the public chest. He deserves the thanks of his fellow-countrymen, irrespective of politics, for the fearless stand he took against the offending parties.

CANADIAN MECHANICS ALL RIGHT.
 [Hamilton Times.]

Mr. William Omand, a skilled mechanic who graduated in the old Great Western shops, and who was foreman in a sewing machine factory in the days when the manufacture of sewing machines was one of Hamilton's leading industries, left today to take a good situation in Aurora, Illinois. In the factory to which he goes, an eight-shuttle machine, designed to stitch corsets, is manufactured. The inventor and manufacturer learned his trade in the old Gardner sewing machine factory, corner of James and Hunter streets, Hamilton. Who says Canadian mechanics cannot hold their own against Yankees?

"JUST AS GOOD."

 reason for making it is that a few cents more one of the weaknesses of one of these appraisers. All the pearl buttons sold in this country some years ago were fraudulently
 entered and the profits of the dishonesty
 shared in by an appraiser. The importers of Toronto know all about it. Since

WIVES AND DAUGHTERS

LONDON, CANADA.

WIVES AND DAUGHTERS is the only ladies' journal published in the West. It is read by about every man, woman and child in the City of London and its suburbs.

It reaches, besides, over 2,950 towns in Ontario and the adjoining Provinces, and a large number in the United States. Many of these towns regularly receive bundles containing between 75 and 100 copies.

WIVES AND DAUGHTERS was first published in October, 1890—only one year ago—and its circulation everywhere is steadily on the increase.

No ladies' journal is more widely or favorably known in Canada than WIVES AND DAUGHTERS. It is published in sixteen-page form on or about the 15th of each month.

A remarkable feature of WIVES AND DAUGHTERS is that it gives more for the money than any other ladies' journal in the world. The price is only 50c. for 1892, with balance of present year thrown in to new subscribers.

For subscribers to the Daily Advertiser or the Western Advertiser the rate will be only 25c. per annum.

As it is one of the best advertising mediums in the country, it will pay advertisers to use its columns. Advertising rates—which are moderate—will be made known on application.

 ceipt of 5c in coin or postage stamps.

Lord Hawke's Cricketers at "Omaha"

Jockeys "In Clover"—General Sporting News.

THE TURF.

The Kentucky Racing Association of Lexington has made an assignment. It is expected that a settlement will be reached before the end of the year.

"Daredevil" Fitzpatrick is alleged to have signed with Dave Gideon for next year. The retainer is said to be $8,000, and Fitzpatrick agrees to ride at 118 pounds.

Pike Barnes and Tony Williams, the jockeys, have made so much money at Garfield Park, Chicago, in the betting ring that they announce their retirement from the saddle.

A Chicago item says it is proposed to have racing all winter at Garfield Park. The Guttenberg plan—"Italians, salt and sand"—will be followed. Carloads of sand of different grades are now on the track.

A stretch of the inner track has been covered with a foot of sand, as an experiment. It will cost $10,000 to make the winter track footing, the sand and salt of which make a safe slush in bad weather.

A press stand of glass, with steam radiators within, is being built on the grand stand roof in line with the finish, and an overhang six feet wide is being put on the front of the grand stand to keep out the snow and rain.

A large section of the southern end of the grand stand was being partitioned off yesterday. Above its framework glass will run to the roof, and steam radiators are to be liberally distributed within the inclosure, which is for women.

The base and betting ring are already inclosed and heated, and the electric light plant is nearly ready for use. Plenty of horses can be kept at the track for winter racing. The management is not yet ready to admit that it will keep the track going after December.

LONDON HUNT RUN.

The London Hunt had a breezy run Friday. Masonville was the starting point, and the course took the riders to Adelaide.

Oliver's and Dyer's farms to the Asylum cross-road, thence to another and eastward to Dan Bacon's property, thence north and west through Deputy Reeve Drenney's until the finish was reached at M. Breen's. The latter had a splendid repast ready for the hungry hunters and his warm hospitality was acknowledged in an unmistakable manner by the rapid disappearance of the good things. Major Smith, the master, proposed the health of the host and good-will to the neighboring farmers.

On Thanksgiving Day President George W. Gibbons will give in "At Home" at the kennels.

A RECORD SMASHED.

At Knoxville, Iowa, the world's 3-mile racing record was on Friday reduced 103 seconds at the Iowa Driving Park by Joe Jefferson, 2:19, by Thomas Jefferson. He made three miles in 7:33. The best previous record, 7:44, was made by James K. Polk in 1847.

FRIDAY'S WINNERS.

At Washington—Constantinople, Noon, ay, Ocyete, Alcina and Rex.

At Guttenberg—My Fellow, Batsman, lead heat between Arab and Rambler, Banquet, Mabel Glen and Miss Belle.

At Gloucester—Amboy, dead heat between Botheration and Emblem, Dickens, Addie T., Count Luna and Lita.

FOOTBALL.

The match between Toronto University and Osgoode Hall for the Rugby football championship of Ontario was played Friday and resulted in a draw, ten points each. The same teams will try it again on Monday.

CRICKET.

Lord Hawke, with his team of cricketers, has arrived at Queenstown on the steamer City of New York, after a stormy passage.

THE BRAZILIAN CRISIS.

President Da Fonseca Justifies His Assumption of the Dictatorship.

New York, Nov. 7.—A special from Rio Janeiro says: "President Deodoro Da Fonseca's action in assuming the dictatorship is very generally approved there. Little doubt exists in the minds of the best-informed people that a conspiracy existed for the purpose of overthrowing the Government, and it was realized that only such severe measures as were taken would be sufficient to frustrate the schemes of the conspirators who are in favor of re-establishing a monarchy. Everything is quiet. President Da Fonseca charges that the actions of Congress were due to personal animosity to him and not to a desire for the welfare of the people, and he alleges there has been a widespread conspiracy by which the adherents of the old Imperial regime have been permitted to return to the country. In conclusion the manifesto says the President assumes full responsibility for the dissolution of Congress, and announces that he is determined to suppress anarchy and disorder in whatever cost. He guarantees free elections and a constitutional Government."

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Figaro publishes an interview with the exiled ex-Emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro, in which, after referring to the cause of his flight and the news of a reactionary movement in Brazil, he says that in exile he lived his people more than ever, and should they call upon their old Emperor he would forget all age, infirmities and sorrows, and take at once the risks of the long voyage in order once again to stand in the midst of his children and devote to their welfare what was left of his vital energy. He should be amply rewarded if he were able to sleep his last sleep in his beloved country.

New York, Nov. 7.—A special from Valparaiso says: "News was received here yesterday from Rio Janeiro that President Da Fonseca had held a long conference with Viscount Ouro Preto and Jaquin Nabuco. They are both prominent Imperialists, and this has given rise to the hope among supporters of the old regime that Dom Pedro would be requested to return to Brazil and take the throne. In case of his declining the offer the story goes that the throne will be offered to the Conte D'Eu, the husband of Dom Pedro's daughter. These stories are merely rumors, however."

Look Out for Coal Gas.

WINNIPEG, Ont., Nov. 7.—A family named Ellis, of Amberburg, had a narrow escape from death by suffocation by coal gas on Thursday night. It happened through forgetting to close the proper damper. When found the entire family, four in number, were in an unconscious state.

Threatened Water Famine in New York. NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Not for years has the supply of drinking water for this city been so low, nor has the danger of a genuine water famine been greater than the present. Commissioner Gilroy said that if there was no heavy rainfall soon the water would only last fifteen or twenty days more.

A Barley Syndicate's Scheme.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 7.—The Edgemoor land syndicate known as the barley syndicate of Chicago has secured 250,000 acres of land in North Dakota on which it is proposed to place German farmers to raise barley for malting purposes. The immigrants will be owners of the land, it being sold to them on easy terms. Crops will be bought by the company and shipped to all points where there is a demand for barley for brewing purposes.

Somerville, drygoods merchant, Toronto, have accepted the offer of 50 cents on the dollar. Liabilities, $27,000. The following assignments are reported: Mitchell—James A. Keeler, boots, shoes and hats, Chatham—Chas. Polle, boots and shoes, assigned in trust to Peter Rutherford, Chatham.

"German Syrup"

Martinsville, N.J., Methodist Parsonage. "My acquaintance with your remedy, Boschee's German Syrup, was made about fourteen years ago, when I contracted a Cold which resulted in a Hoarseness and a Cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a Physician, without obtaining relief—I cannot say now what remedy he prescribed—I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received such quick and permanent help from it that whenever we have had Throat or Bronchial troubles since in our family, Boschee's German Syrup has been our favorite remedy and always with favorable results. I have never hesitated to report my experience of the use to others when I have found them troubled in like manner." RAY.

Just Impediment!

By Richard Pryce.
AUTHOR OF "AN EVIL SPIRIT," "THE DOG STORY OF MISS WETHERBY," ETC.

Miss Close stopped. She had been speaking rapidly, and she was panting in her paroxysm of rage. She went out of the room, and slammed the door behind her. "Mother what does this mean?" But Mrs. Wilton only looked at her and said, "She said you had concealed something."

"What is it? Mother, answer me," Mrs. Wilton asked her. "She said it was infamous—that he ought not to be allowed to sacrifice himself—Leahie—that she did not think the marriage would be legal—my marriage?" "Mother, mother, answer me. Don't you see that this must be explained?" "She didn't know what she was saying," said Mrs. Wilton between her sobs, and wringing her hands. "Esther, Esther, let things rest. For your own sake don't question me. Miss Close and I had a quarrel. She—she lost control of herself. She said that—she did not know what she was saying."

Esther formed a sudden resolution. "Very well, mother," said she, "I won't press you." She left the room and went downstairs. She asked the porter to call a hansom for her, and in a firm voice she gave an address in Knightsbridge. Rain was falling heavily. The street ran with water and the drops struck her face and glistened on the fur of her coat. Lights flashed past her, and the pavements reflected the lamps in the shops. The sky was black and low. Here and there a sweeper made capital out of the mud. Piccadilly seemed a moving mass of wet umbrellas. The parks were dark with mist. Esther remembered many things during this drive, such as that the hansom was very smart, that it was fitted with a watch as well as rubber tires, a match-box, a cigar-cutter, and looking-glasses. She caught sight of her own face, and its pallor seemed to fit in with the gloom of the evening. She had a presentiment that all light and brightness were to be put out of her life. She felt no pain—yet. She was passive. It scarcely seemed to her that it greatly mattered. The world was full of pain. Pain was the only thing certain in life. Men might struggle for happiness, but the law was inexorable. "Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upwards." Of what avail to rebel? We are the sport of fate. Why should she have thought to be exempt?

Johnson looked at her in surprise. Young women were not in the habit of talking at the flat at seven o'clock in the evening. "Is Lord Rutherford in? Tell him that I wish to speak to him about the drawing-room." The servant showed her into the drawing-room. She went and stood by the fire and looked round. She thought of the first time that she had entered the room. She looked at the engravings. There was the miniature of "Bacchante," whose face resembled hers. Two lamps shed a soft light through yellow shades. The fire burned very brightly on the tiled hearth. Some time the sudden flicker of a flame flashed on the gold of a picture-frame. Esther noted every little detail. Her perceptions seemed sharpened while her heart felt like lead. She had no hope. All her happiness was to be blotted out—she knew that as certainly as if she had already known that which she came to hear. There was some secret in connection with her life, and it was such that her marriage would be infamous. She said, this to herself, and the words conveyed no special meaning. She was numb. The world was out of joint, and pain was universal. The very leaves and flowers only grew to fade and fall and decay. She had thought that her path led through a land where trouble could not enter; she had lived in prosperity and she had cried "Peace." There was no peace there had never been peace. Her happiness had blinded her. She had shut her ears to the vague questioning that had assailed her. Her eyes were bright and dry. The pupils were enormous, and they burned as with fire. She felt hard and callous. Let the worst come! She was prepared. What did it matter if one more life was sacrificed upon the altar of pain, whose flames burned day and night? Miss Close was right. The life of each one of us was mapped out from the beginning of the world. Of what avail to struggle where the contest was so unequal? If fate must crush her she would meet it with a dogged resignation.

Her eyes fell upon a striped silk scarf that lay upon the back of a chair. It was a scarf of Leahie's. Esther knew it well. She had seen it round his throat at night. She took it up and looked at it, and held it to her lips. There was upon it the faintest scent of smoke. Then of a sudden Esther was touched. She kissed the scarf passionately, and she burst into tears. It was not her own life only that was to be wrecked. There was a sound, and Rutherford came in hurriedly. He shut the door behind him. "Esther, my darling, is not this rather impudent?—Why, Esther, what is the matter?" He took both her hands in his. He was shocked at the whiteness of her face. "Esther, your coat is wet, and—Esther, Esther, what is the matter?" "Leahie, Leahie!" She hid her face upon his breast. Her form was shaking with her sobbing. He led her gently to a chair, and knelt down beside her. He put his arms round her and drew her head close to his heart. She laid her head against his cheek. He murmured her name softly, and every encouragement. It was some minutes before she could control her voice and speak. "I oughtn't to have come, I know; but I couldn't wait. Something dreadful has happened. I felt that I must see you—I must!"

"The thought occurred to Rutherford that Mrs. Wilton was perhaps dead. "Is it your mother?" he asked gently. "No. Yes—I don't know. I am frightened. I will tell you what I can, and you must tell me the rest. You know when I left you to-day—I went straight up to my room and—and I found mother crying at something Miss Close had said, and I interfered, and Miss Close turned upon me and said that you ought not to be allowed to marry me. She used the word 'infamous' and—and—oh, Leahie!"

"Like a chill blast there swept across him the recollection of his distrust of Mrs. Wilton. "Are you saying Esther?" he said in a strained voice, his arms tightening round her. "What are you saying?" Esther could not speak. The clock struck the half-hour after seven. Billy was waiting in an adjoining room. Rutherford loosened his hold. "I am going to tell him to have his dinner without me."

He left the room, and returned after a minute's absence. Esther lay back in her chair. Her face was tear-stained and despairing. Rutherford went once more and knelt beside her. "Esther, I do not yet understand." "Nor I," said Esther, "fully. But I am horribly afraid. You can explain to me. Miss Close said that she did not think the marriage would be legal, Leahie, what did she mean? She said that you knew what I had not known myself." "I?" said Rutherford in bewilderment. "I?" "She says that she wrote to you months ago and told you." "Told me what?" "I can't say it. I may be wrong. I don't know. God grant I may be wrong. The letter will tell me—"

"I have never had a letter from Miss Close in my life." "Are you sure?" "Certain." "A gleam of hope came into Esther's face. "Leahie," she said quickly, "you know that she—the cares for you herself. I am certain of it. Leahie, could she have said all this in wanton anger? Mother said Miss Close did not know what she was saying, and—oh, Leahie! I can understand that if a woman cared for you—Leahie, Leahie! could it be only that?" Rutherford thought of the conversation on the stairs. "Stop crying at once," he said, laughing uneasily. "Esther, are not we terrifying ourselves about nothing? It is very unfortunate that Miss Close should have seen anything in me to care for. Kiss me, dear; you owe me something for terrifying me in this way. I have never had any letter from Miss Close—unless—"

"Unless what, Leahie?" "Unless what, Leahie?" "The gleam of hope died from Esther's eyes. Rutherford had remembered the anonymous letter. The other he had never read. It had made no impression upon him, and was forgotten. It lay, however, on top of the first in the drawer, to which Esther followed him. As her eyes fell upon the envelope she gave a little cry. "That is her writing," she said. "That is the one I thought of. I don't remember that one at all. Stay—I do. It came the day before I went away. I don't think I read it." Esther held the second letter, he held the first. "Is that Miss Close's writing?" he said, pointing to the envelope in his hand. "I don't think so, unless it is disguised. That is like her R and her S.W., stopped the wrong way. It may be. This is!" She looked at the letter she held as she spoke. He was about to take it when there was a knock at the door, and Billy asked to speak to him for a few minutes. Rutherford left the room, and Esther glanced at the letter. A few words caught her eye, and she began to read it.

BRENER BROS.' NEW LEADER

The National Melodrama Brand, PATROL, Is Sure to Be a Winner.

Messrs. Brener Bros., the successful manufacturers of Nos. 182-190 Horton street, London, are in the field with a new leader, which has been happily named "THE PATROL." They intend to make this cigar popular wherever the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes float. It is a Cuban hand-made cigar, of which the filler is all Havana, mild and fragrant. The label, which is the design of the Patrol Co., is strikingly original. The words in which the names of the manufacturers occur at appropriate intervals. Nothing in the way of a label that is so simple, and at the same time so rich and attractive, has been originated, and it would be impossible to present to the trade a more elegant package. "The Patrol" cigar is certain to win instant recognition, and to increase largely the annual output of its manufacturers.

For sale at 182-190 Horton street, London; 65 College street, Montreal; 92 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.; 206 LaSalle street, Chicago.

Maccomb, late organist of St. James' Church, South London, and Mr. J. W. Belcher, solo bass of Dundas Center Church, London. Mr. Belcher has a deep, rich, powerful, bass voice, and rendered four solos in a manner which at once pronounced him a bass of a large register, thoroughly ground in the art of tone production; particularly in the two pieces, Rodney's "Cantata" and Gounod's immortal "Nazareth" was his voice heard to its fullest extent, and the richness of his voice will long be remembered by the people of Kingsville."

"Humanity" writes: "A fight has been arranged to take place at Belmont on Wednesday between a fox terrier, belonging to a Maitland street youth, and a swamp coon, which is to be shipped from Detroit or Fort Huron next week. "HARP ONE."

The Tricks of Dolly Beesley Who Tried Her Little Game in London.

"That woman Dolly Beesley is a sharp one," remarked Inspector Stark, of the detective department, the other day. "Why she was no more ill when she was here the other day than I am now."

"How far back does her record go?" queried the attentive listener.

The inspector opened a huge leather-bound book and turned to a page headed "Mary Shaw Beesley," in a large clerical hand.

"She is the daughter of a respectable tradesman of Sheffield, England," said he, "and is now 23 years of age. She was first convicted in York, England, in November, 1887, on three charges of fraud, and was sentenced to three months hard labor. Several other charges against her were not pressed on account of her youth. Then in January, 1889, she was sentenced to six months hard labor at Stafford, England, for fraud. She must have come right out to Canada after serving her sentence, for she appeared in Brantford in the fall of 1889, and victimized Rev. Dr. Fawcett there to the extent of $15. She then visited Hamilton, Toronto, Berlin, Guelph, Brantford, St. Catharines and London, and even had the face to go back to Brantford, where she was arrested and sent down for two months. Just as her term was expiring she apparently became ill. So ill did she look, in fact, that the chiefs of police from Brantford and Berlin would not take her on their warrants for fear that she would die on their hands. The chief of the Hamilton police was convinced that she was shamming, and carried her out to a cab and thence to the train. She got a year for her work in Hamilton. Her peculiar illness attacked her as soon as she heard that Detective Porter was after her. Why she had to be supported as she entered the court-room, but was quite well after she had received her sentence, and was elated when she heard what a light sentence the magistrate gave her."—[Toronto News.

THE TOILERS.

Trade in Toronto—Emigration Agents Charged with Deliberate Lying.

At the monthly meeting of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council Friday night, the Legislative Committee reported that thirteen unions had sent in statements as to the condition of trade in the city and the prospects for the coming year. The returns sent in account for 8,254 workers, of whom 1,087 are out of work. The prospects for bricklayers, carpenters, joiners, plumbers, gasfitters and builders' laborers are reported to be very bad. The prospects for machinists are reported moderate. The prospects for tailors, cabinetmakers and wood carvers are reported fair. The prospects for printing pressmen are reported dull and for longshoremen bad. In view of these facts the committee called attention to a circular issued from the "Emigrants' Information Office," London, England, dated Oct. 1, 1891, which stated that in Toronto there would be "good demand during season for bricklayers and masons and fair demand for good fallers." The agents making these reports are guilty of deliberate lying, and know it, said the report. The committee also called attention to a resolution passed by the Trades and Labor Council at Quebec, which declared that all articles manufactured in prisons should be exported to foreign countries instead of being brought into competition with the product of private industry in Canadian markets. The committee declared that this resolution was opposed to the justice and fair play which should animate all true social reformers, and recommended that a special committee be appointed to consider the whole question. The committee heartily endorsed the resolution passed by the W. C. T. U. Convention in favor of an amendment to the Factory Act with reference to mercantile establishments.

A WONDERFUL BOOK.

Shepp's Photographs of the World.

This book is unique, interesting, attractive, beautiful. The preface tells:

How the idea was conceived by the Messrs. Shepp, and the plans arranged to photograph the world and publish this volume.

How they fought against obstacles and overcame difficulties to secure photographs of the Russian mines and prisoners in far-off Siberia.

How photographs of palaces and prisons, sovereigns and peasants were successfully secured.

How weeks, yes months, were spent in rainy, cloudy and foggy countries, waiting for clear weather to obtain good results.

How arrangements were made with art associations for the privilege of obtaining direct photographs of all the great paintings and statues, in the various galleries and cathedrals of the world. This is a privilege rarely accorded any one.

How hardships were endured in the interiors of China, India, Arabia, Turkey and Africa, to obtain photographs of the actual life among the natives in these mysterious and semi-barbarous countries.

Closing with how nearly $100,000 was spent in producing a book of photographs, the like of which has never before been attempted.

Each photograph is a gem. The printed description underneath each of the 250 photographs is the very yith of history and information. Mr. James Galbraith has secured the Guelph agency; yesterday, his first day of canvassing, he secured twenty orders. He says he has only to show the book to sell it. We understand that agents generally are taking from 50 to 200 orders a week. The beauty and utility of the volume cannot be believed until seen. It is then understood at a glance; it is a marvel of cheapness as well as of beauty.

We are glad to know that our enterprising Publishing Company, viz., the World Publishing Company, of Guelph, are to issue the Canadian Edition. Agents are wanted. Address: World Publishing Company, Guelph, Ont., Canada.—[From the Guelph Herald, Oct. 30, 1891.

The Guelph Mercury, of Nov. 3, speaking of the book, says: "Shepp's Photographs of the World" is a splendid work, containing 250 photographs of the principal places in the world. It is an excellent work. As an evidence of this, it may be mentioned Mr. Galbraith has in two days taken orders for 45 copies.

THE VOTERS' LISTS.

At 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, Nov. 10, the court for the revision of the city voters' lists, as provided by the Dominion Franchise Act, will open at the City Hall before Revising Officer James H. Fraser, Q. C.

To facilitate the transaction of this business and to render it more convenient for those whose presence will be required, it has been decided to deal with the names on the list for each ward on separate days. No. 1 ward will be revised on Tuesday; No. 2 ward on Wednesday; No. 3 ward on Friday (Thursday being Thanksgiving Day), and No. 4 ward on Saturday.

Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., and others are at the Young Men's Liberal rooms, Old-fellows' block, every night, assisting in looking after the lists. Call up any time during the evening and assist in the work of revising the lists.

IT IS COMING!

Presage of Victory for the Gladstonians in the Next Contest.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The English Conservative press announced that the labor candidates in the municipal elections were in all cases defeated. An analysis of the returns, on the contrary, shows that labor men carried 30 seats in England, some districts actually returning two at the head of the polls. The general results favor the labor side chiefly, and forecast a triumph for the Gladstonians in the coming Parliamentary elections. There were several instances where labor candidates opposed Liberals, and since gave a victory to the Conservatives. The Conservatives captured two seats in Bradford through a division of the Radical vote, and Newcastle and Leeds narrowly escaped a similar defeat.
