A Chost Train That Many Have Heard, But None Has Ever Seen.

Every sort of explanation was started, but the facts could not be gainsaid, and the broken marrow-bones and piles of ribs and vertebrae told plainly how the Libyan invaders of Egypt have honored their beloved dead And now this year it is found that one of the grandest and most capable people that ever lived-those who built the splendid masonry of the pyramids, at once the greatest and most highly finished works of man; who carved some of the most life-like statues, who organized society and labor on a great scale, who treasured a delicate moral feeling—that many of these people reverently buried the bones of their dead after elaborately removing in Egypt, those of the Libyan invaders, all the flesh. Why they did so we can hardly doubt when we look at the this custom. These Libyans, who octain hardly doubt when we look at the

Of course it was natural to put this down as "barbaric," as we could not suppose that it had an thing to do with the supremely skillful and refined Egyptians of that age. But the next tomb was a puzzle, which no ordinary assumption could explain. We found on the hillside a large mass of blocks of stone, wedged together and cemented by ages into a rocklike mass. When these were all cut away and the passing the strange mixture of burial customs.

Inside it lay at full length the body of a man, carefully swathed in linen, and I began removing the bones to large the bone the bone to large the bone the bone the bone to large the bone t and I began removing the bones to preserve them. To my great surprise I found the hands were cut off and laid upon the chest, though the arms were down by the sides. Next I found the knee-caps cut out, and laid a little lower down upon the body. And then the feet were found lying upon the stomach, while the legsfootless—were stretched out at length below. Here was evidently a wealthy burial, in a costly rock chamber and coifin, and carefully concealed, and certainly never disturbed. Yet with all certainly never disturbed. Yet with all had been cut off and placed in special and intentional positions.

by ages into a rocklike mass. When these were all cut away and the passage into the rock was opened, it was found to be blocked further in with great stones. When these were cleared a fair-sized chamber in the rock was reached, in which stood a wooden coffin. This coffin was built of massive planks, well smoothed; and it must always have been a costly labor to provide such in that country.

What, then, may we conclude from the strange mixture of burial customs which we have just noted as prevailing in the age of the pyramid builders in Egypt? We find the customs almost equally divided between perfect burial and more or less cut-up burial, but in nearly all cases the same elaborate and costly sepulture was provided, just as much for one treatment of the body as for the other. This shows a fusion of two entirely This shows a fusion of two entirely different beliefs and customs; in excare and detail, parts of the body been cut off and period we cannot yet detail termine; they may have been in the transition state of those Australians But the next chamber was yet more ground. THE time of our removal is daily drawing nearer, and the urgency of disposing of our present stock is therefore increasing. We are still left with several lines that it is imperative we should at once dispose of, and we have therefore made up our minds that cost is not to figure in the disposal of the same—for the goods must be cleared.

Our large stock of Stiff and Soft Felt Hats is now being disposed of at about half price. It is needless to enumerate prices, as all are equally cheap and the lines are too numerous to quote. Straw Hats, the latest American goods are now sold at about 50c on the Ventilated Caps, the newest designs at manufacturers' prices.

Our stock of Dress and Soft Shirts is still large. $1 goods for about 60c s the rule,

Our unprecedented value in Balbriggan and Natural Wool underwear made quite a clearance in those lines, but there yet remains a considerable quantity on our shelves, which must go. So from 50c to $1 per suit can purchase goods usually worth about double that price.

Our linen collars still continue at slaughter prices which have so delighted all patrons. As regards neckwear, half price has been the rule and still continues to be so.

Our Cashmere and Cotton Hosiery is still on the rush, and will continue for three weeks or, so yet before we can expect to get

But it is in clothing we are ignoring all previous rules in the disposal of goods. Suits worth $10 for $6 50, and $8 for $5. Pants, worth $3 50 for $2, and $2 for $1 25.

Boys' Suits from $1 50 to $5, worth more than double these prices.

It will save money to any person requiring those goods to see them. All Summer Coats and Vests at cost. Our Ordered Clothing Department is yet busy on account of our reduced prices in all our lines of Cloths and Tweeds, first-class workmanship and fit, combined

A LARGE SALE OF CHEESE. Last week a Montreal firm sold 12,-000 boxes of Brockville, Belleville and Ducks, per pair Ingersoil cheese over the cable at 8%c. Most of which was bought in the west at about 8%c. The total value of the above sale was about $72,000.

OATS FOR ENGLAND. Says the Trade Bulletin: There is still a good demand for cats for ex-port, and our shippers have had to draw upon American supplies in order to fill their orders, two steamers having cleared from Chicago this week for Montreal, one with 71,700 bushels and the other with 93,000 bushels, making a total of 164,700 bushels. Holders in the country are very firm, and are in the country are very firm, and are asking prices that are above what exporters can pay, and consequently bus ness is checked to a great extent, re sulting in export orders being filled in Chicago. Regarding prices there have been sales in this market this week of 10,000 bushels of No. 2 white at 29%c afloat and 5,000 bushels at 29%c afloat per 34 pounds. In store, sales were made of about 5,000 bushels at 28½c for export and about the same quan-

and taking them at 1c to 11/2c per bushel advance since our last report, bushel advance since our last report, sales being reported at 5,000 bushels in store at 52% c and another round lot at 53c. Business is also reported to us of 5,000 bushels at 531/4c in store, which is the highest price paid so far. There market. A cable offer was made this morning from London at 21s c.i.f. for about 2,000 quarters, but we did not learn whether or not it was accepted. Canadian peas are giving good satisfaction in England, and it is hoped the demand will continue into the new crop; there is no reason why it should not if holders do not choke it off by asking too high prices.—Trade Bulle-

THE EXPORT EGG TRADE. There will be considerable quanti ties of eggs shipped from this point during the coming fall, judging from the sales of pickled stock that are being made for English account for September, October and November shipments. Quite a number of sales have been made this week at 6s 3d to 6s 4d for shipment to Liverpool as above. A few lots of fresh eggs are going forward, but it is said that re-cent sales on the other side did not tinuing them; and it is said that our fresh August eggs are marketed, when it is hoped that prices in England will advance sufficiently to warrant their shipment. The excessive heat of last week worked great havon with the receipts, some of which came showing losses of 12 to 13 dozen per case, while in other instances the aldozen per case. The market here is at 11c. and No. 1 ordinary fresh at to 81/2c. The freight on eggs to Livextra for refrigerator room .- Montreal | the Toronto, July 17.-Deep interest and es. There was no distinction made about creed, and the scholars of the three schools entered into the programme of contests, with perfect harmony and keen enthusiasm. The weather was fine, but a trifle on the sultry side. The lake was calm, and the bathers were many. The steamer was well patronized, and the trip on old Erie was very much enjoyed. As a preliminary to the games the small children were presented with a box of candy.

The baseball match was one of the features of the day. Mr. T. Hazlehurst, of Brantford, Uses a Specific Remedy With Great Effect.

Brantford, July 11.-Interest has een revived here, through published dispatches about the Kent case in Ottawa, in the extraordinary recovery from diabetes of Mr. T. Hazlehurst, an esteemed resident of the town. This gentleman suffered very severely from the complaint, losing a great deal of weight, and trying number of remedies without success. At last when completely run down, he letermined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in an incredibly short time recovered his health and strength. attributed his recovery entirely to the pearance. use of this valuable remedy, and has recommended it in several cases with marked success. Water is a poor symbol of temperance ecause it is drunk so often. The man who doeth the best he can,

All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however is a cure—one box of Parmèlee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills. Be diligent. Never be unemployed for moment, never be triffingly employed. Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. THE FOUR NAILS. Saint Helena took the four nails of the Passion to Constantinople. Constantine thereupon placed one on his nelmet as an ornament, and made norses bits out of two others, and Saint Helena, the story goes, threw the fourth into the Adriatic Sea in order to prevent storms. That this story is legendary seems to be generally admitted. The other great relics remained in Jerusalem until 614, in which year the city was taken by Sharbaraz. Hoping to save the relics, the high priest placed them in a golden box, the next county, staying with the Wilsons. He is to be here on the 12th, at the McGregors'—cousins of his, I of a planet and a star. The star is a sunlike object, millions of times larger and hundreds of millions of times brighter than the planet. But far from the earth as the planet may be the star is thousands of times further attill. Hence it happens that the surpassing splendor of the star is, from our point of view, reduced to a feele twinkle, so like the weak ray from the planet that it would be impossible to decide, from mere appearance, which was the earthlike.

But the planet is in motion while the star remains fixed—hence the one sort can be distinguished from the other. It is by assiduous searching through the heavens for little starlike points which are in motion that the discovery of the minor planets is to be effected.

Nowadays there is an excellent and simple method by which the little planet can be found. If a photograph be taken of a part of the heavens, and if an exposure of a hour be given to the plate, then each star will record the plate, then each star will record the following the plate, then each star will record the plate to to be effected.

Why Major O'Gorman Chose to Be a Minority of One.

An Irish M. P., Who Barricaded Himself in His Castle and Defied the Police.

H. W. Lucy, in the North American Review for July.]

Perhaps the only Irish member who humor is Mr. Tim Healy. Among those who delighted the Parliament of those who delighted the Parliament of drawal from the scene, the major was 4874-80 was Mr. Delahunty, member for a prime favorite in the House of Com-Waterford city. His panacea for all "the woes of Ireland had something to do with £1 notes. I am ashamed to dwell in my mind a clear impression notes authorized or whether he would have had them abolished. However that may be, the peace and prosperity of Ireland were, according to his view, wrapped up in the £1 notes One Wednesday afternoon in the session of 1878, the fortune of the ballot gave Mr. Delahunty an opportunity of dealing with this burning question. He had brought with him a small black bag, in which, according to the testimony of his compatriots, he had been accustomed to store the depositions taken before him as coroner of the city and county of Waterford. Now, it was requisitioned for holding the convincing notes of his oration. It is presumable that he had promised himself, when his task was completed, a few hours' relaxation in one of the inner circles of London society. In view of this arrangement of his evening he had, after filling his bag up to the ten with manuscript notes, found brush and a few other toilet necessa-Hauling out a handful of papers from the bag, and finding them not exactly what he wanted, he turned around, and, amid an awful silence, deliberately resumed the search. Hastily thrusting them back among the documents, he made another start with his speech. But the fresh batch of papers also led to nowhere in particular. Coming to a break in his argument he turned once more to the bag, fearfully conscious of the presence of the comb and brush. With increased deliberation he rooted round, and finally, under the impression that he had at last seized the papers he sought, he produced a pair of gray worsted stockings. These approached the Irish question from a quite unexpected avenue. Delahunty, still failing in his endeavor to come across the missing note, took ellaneous articles out of the bag, and with his back to the speaker prosecuted his search. When at last he found the desired sheet of paper he ent on as if nothing had happened, the house listening with high good hu-mor to a story that had neither bemor to a story that had neither be-ginning, middle, nor end,through which of whom he incidentally remarked that
