GERMANS DENY ANY LOSS

Claim That British Have Been Ejected From Ypres Positions.

ARRIS, April 19.—Via London, 2:40 p.m.—The French offensive on the progress of hostilities, which reads as follows:

The French troops yesterday captured in Belgium, near Zwartveld, 200 yards of German trenches. These they have retained in spite of several counter-attacks.

"We have been successful on both banks of the River Fecht, in Alsace, and our advance is being pressed forward on the north bank. We have gained possession of the summit of Schillerkrass, which directly commands the valley.

Notable Progress.—"On the south of the region of Scheffers, we have made notable progress, our troops marching from the south to the north in the direction of the Fecht and Metzler, which is southwest of Colmar. In this district we made an important gain with the occupation of a series of elevations, the northernmost height of which commands the course of the Fecht in front of Burckhardt.

"In the course of this action we captured a division of mountain artillery, two machine guns of 74 millimetres calibre and two cannon of 75 millimetres calibre.

"The German aeroplanes which flew over Belfort recently dropped four bombs. These did some damage to hangars and set fire to four chests of powder. No casualties resulted, nor was any serious damage done."

GERMANS DENY ANY LOSS
Berlin, April 19.—By Wireless to Sayville.—German headquarters this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities, which reads as follows:

"To the south of Ypres the British German positions still occupied by them in this locality. Their attacks along the railroad between Ypres and Ghent, which were made with very heavy losses to them.

"Near Gelunster, Lieut. Garros, a French aviator, has been seen in the Moselle there have been artillery duels. French attacks against our position at Combrès and in the Vosges resulted in failures.

"On the eastern front the situation remains unchanged. French and British reports concerning the progress of hostilities are all inventions, as is sufficiently proved by the regular reports from German headquarters."

"I view the strike as a calamity," Governor Dunne said, after a conference with members of the board.

GOVERNMENT EAGER TO GET FROM UNDER HEROIC MEASURES TO RID VICINITY OF UNDESIRABLES

Believed to Be Eager to Prosecute Grafters in Order to Save Itself—Deputy Minister Is To Report On Sins and Sinners.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, April 19.—Disclosures made to the parliamentary public accounts committee are under the consideration of the department of justice. All the evidence taken and the documents filed have been turned over to Deputy Minister Nevecombe, with instructions to report upon the sins and sinners with a view to prosecuting.

It is understood that the Government wants to prosecute. It feels that the country thinks it was crooked in its purchases. It also feels that if it prosecutes vigorously and punishes lavishly it may convince the country that it has not been crooked, but a little lax and careless, and that owing to haste.

Just how far the Government will go in opening up new lines of investigation in similar matters has not been disclosed. It is generally believed, however, that there will be no new ground ever, as the Government feels that the Liberals, before Parliament closed, took the lid off all the grafting for the country to hear about with an election in sight.

Business and Professional Men On North End Street Use Unique Methods.
WOMAN IS NOT WANTED
Male Visitors Coming Out of Her House Escorted With Blare and Fanfare.

A certain woman recently came to London, and before anyone could ascertain her reputation purchased a house on a new street in the north end of the city, which is populated by business and professional men.

So the men residing on the street organized themselves into a vigilance society, and kept watch upon the place. Every time a man came out of the house they organized a procession, and with tin cans and other noise-making devices they followed him, making his presence known to the world, and making it certain that he would not again visit the neighborhood.

PREACHED ON TOP OF REFUSE HEAP
DECLARE MANITOU HIT BY TORPEDO
Men of Turkish Torpedo Boat Say Second Shot Did Damage.

London, April 19.—A Chios dispatch to the Times stated Sunday, gives an account of the attack on the British transport ship, the Manitou, by a torpedo boat in the Aegean Sea, based on stories of the second torpedo they fired hit the Manitou, and must have caused considerable damage.

According to the story told to the governor of Chios, the Demir Kapu ship, which was launched a month ago, had been since lurking in cove and bay, and was waiting for a chance to destroy any troop ship which might approach.

When the Manitou separated from her escort. Having launched two torpedoes, the second of which, according to the men's account, did damage to the vessel, they were obliged to make off hastily. The first torpedo signals for the second were given by the Manitou.

Turning back in the direction of the gulf, the torpedo-boat was confronted by a third cruiser, and a hot chase ensued between the island and the mainland in the direction of Chios. In the chase the cruisers gained on the Manitou, which became the target for some 20 shells, all of which fell into the sea.

When the Manitou was hit by the second torpedo eventually ran aground at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on a sandy beach near Komi, in the Bay of Kalamuti.

Insulted by Greeks.
The governor of Chios has then sent to Kastro, where they were interned, to cheer them through the streets they were insulted by crowds of Greek refugees, whose rage was mainly vented against the German Chios correspondent.

RUSSIANS BEAT AUSTRIANS OFF IN THE BESKIDS

Advices Against Strike on Railways

Enemy Said To Have Given Up Attempts To Retake Positions.

HOT FIGHTING APRIL 17

On This Day Greatest Intensity Shown by Attacking Forces.

[Canadian Press.] Petrograd, April 19.—Via London, 2:30 p.m.—Austrian attacks on the heights of the Beskid district of Hungary, where the Austrians for six days have been furiously attempting to regain positions recently taken by the Russians, appear to have definitely subsided.

Worst on Saturday.
The attacks, which reached their greatest intensity on April 17, when six sharp counter-attacks were made, have been made in the evening in a desperate bayonet charge and sustained hand-to-hand encounters, which left the Russians, according to reports received by the Russian officials, firmly entrenched on the heights of Telepoch. After this the Austrians attack appeared to have spent itself, and there are no indications of a resumption of activity in this region.

Austrian assaults upon the other important heights in the east Beskids, namely Gecelo, were repulsed chiefly by the fire of rifles and machine guns. After three sharp counter-attacks the Austrians here, too, gave up the attempt to regain the summit.

On the northern front the swampy condition of the thawing ground has prevented operations on a large scale. Military activity in this region is limited to long range sniping duels and aeroplane reconnaissances.

Submarine Sinks British Trawler
Captain of Fermo Reports Vanilla Lost—Rescuers Chased Away.

London, April 19.—4:25 p.m.—The British trawler Vanilla was sunk by a torpedo from a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday, according to a report made today by Capt. Hill, skipper of the trawler Fermo.

Capt. Hill said he was within 200 yards of the Vanilla when she was struck. He made an attempt to pick up the crew, but he declares that the submarine attacked him in his effort to rescue the crew, and that it may be which forced her to seek safety in flight.

Calves by Hundred Around Belmont Killed and Fed To Pigs Now.

"Calves by the hundred born in the district around Belmont are killed and fed to the pigs because there is no outlet for the surplus where they can be marketed. If stockyards were established in London these calves could be brought in and sold to men from the grazing districts, but at present the buyers and the seller are not brought together."

U. S. PRESIDENT IS NECESSARY FOR RILEY RETURNED

Persistent Efforts To Communicate With Tom Is Unavailing.

MOTHER IS PROSTRATED

News Son Not Yet Free Man Causes Her Severe Illness.

FORT SCOTT, April 19.—Persistent efforts to communicate with Thomas M. Riley, who was released from the penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., through a clerical error, were unavailing at a late hour last night. However, after attempting to effect communication with him at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Hood, at Miller, and another sister, Mrs. Mary Taylor, at Ash Grove, a member of the Ever-Better that Riley was remaining in seclusion at the home of his mother, Mrs. Fannie Jones, of this place, Riley was seen in Everton Thursday.

Not a Fugitive.
Riley is not a fugitive from justice as he has never yet been formally informed of his release by an error. His object in evading publicity is that he may lead the warning of his attorney to remain reticent until after some disposition is made of his case. It is understood, however, that Edmund Meredith, of London, king's counsel, the attorney who defended him at the murder trial instructing him to make a complete investigation of the facts with a view of resisting extradition from this country into Canada.

Mr. Meredith, however, who is a free man came as a shock to the members of the committee, who had been informed of the likelihood that her son would be returned to Canada to serve out the fifty-year sentence. The telephone exchange at Everton was disconnected last evening not to connect anyone with the home, as the ringing of the telephone bell aggravated the condition of the mother.

Thomas Jones, father of Riley, discussed the situation with friends at Everton yesterday, and he contended that the state of Tuesday to return him to Canada. Riley's presence in Kingston would require the authorization of President United States, a hearing would be necessary also.

ITALY COULD HELP SHUT OFF SUPPLIES
One of Main Reasons Allies Want Her Active Assistance in War.

TENSION NEAR BREAKING
Suggestion Is That Italy Wants and Expects Austrian Ultimatum.

[Canadian Press.] London, April 19.—Whether the Italian government is ready to make concessions has been broken secret, but it appears to be universally agreed that the tension is approaching the breaking point. It is suggested here that the Italian foreign office is awaiting an ultimatum from Vienna on the subject of Italy's military preparations along the frontier as a pretext to sever the remaining tie-binding an outbreak of hostilities.

Shut Off Supplies.
The eagerness with which every move, diplomatic or otherwise, made by Italy is now followed in London, Italy is in a high impatience attached to efforts to bring Italy to the fighting line. One of the main reasons is that in no other way is it possible to close so effectively the door through which Teutonic combatants in considerable amount.

Real Importance.
A case in point is the confiscation by the Swiss authorities, announced in Geneva today, of a parcel of machine tools of American manufacture, which was on the way to Germany from Genoa. Shipments of iron, copper, tin, and other materials have been reaching Germany with a fair degree of regularity.

SMELTER MAY REOPEN.

BULGARIA.

EACH country has its turn at flirting with the Allies. First Roumania, then Italy, then Greece, Italy again, Holland, and on Saturday Bulgaria was reported to be getting off the fence on our side.

In all the Balkan countries, doubtless, the people are inclined against Germany. Even the Bulgarians, though they hate the Greeks and Serbs, and feel that Russia used them badly of late, are Slavs in language and largely in blood, and they abhor the Turk, his religion and all his works.

The difficulty in the Balkan States, except Serbia and Montenegro, is that German kings reign over them, whose sympathies naturally gravitate towards Berlin and Vienna.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria belongs to the House of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and is a Hungarian magnate, possessing large estates in Hungary. His Queen, like King Constantine's, is a German princess. King Ferdinand and his Government are therefore primarily Austro-philic and Germanophilic.

Moreover, the one friend that put in a word for Bulgaria in the last Balkan war was Austria. Wronged by her Greek and Serb allies and treacherously assaulted by Roumania, the democratic Prussia of the Balkans bears unclosed wounds that she would avenge.

On the other hand, second thought raises the question, Why did Serbia and Greece break their compact with Bulgaria and rob her of some of the territory that was to have been hers? Austria, backed by Germany, was the guilty party. Austria denied to Serbia the Adriatic seaport, to Greece Epirus, and to Montenegro a share of Albania.

Let us then look forward in our inquiries for so far we surely all can travel in our minds, to that great day when the representatives of all nations, with Uncle Sam as umpire, shall come together in that glorious hall at The Hague, where for example, I once had the pleasure of spending, in the company of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, one of the most superbly delightful afternoons in my whole life, with Germany satisfied and everything forgotten, England and Belgium at present so dissatisfied and blind to the great new world-era about to dawn if they would keep quiet, and England so egotistical, that she thinks Belgium thinks everything just exactly just like she would like her to think it, both of them together, with Germany's old enemy France, likewise there, satisfied and with their eyes opened, not like now.

They will then at last see the gratitude they owe to Germany, which already long time ago they should have seen, so overwhelmingly large that it can never be paid, but never mind that. They will then see that it was all for the best, like the patient objecting to having his tooth pulled and afterwards thanking the dentist. So afterwards also goes it with nations, when they have realized the world-culture which results, what we in Germany call "Weltkultur." Whenever Germans come there also comes always the "Kultur" likewise right away along with it.

Already long time ago they saw that it was for the best in 1871 when she established herself, and the great Chancellor Von Bismarck made the remark: "Now or never is the beginning when the two great world-powers, Germany and the United States of North America must come at last together and run things themselves, or we are lost."

ways put many men in business in new cities and some publishers among them. But it is wrong, and if wrong in one case also in the other. How much more shameful than that the Government should bestow upon its favorite organs (including the Calgary Eye-Opener) enormous gifts annually. Amounts ranging all the way from $50,000 down to a few thousands have been given in the form of advertising to these Conservative papers out of the public treasury. The local Conservative paper got $3,000 in the last year for which a report is given, and, in fact, a large sum each year since the present Government came into power. This same paper is attacking Mr. Oliver and also a Toronto Liberal paper which, with two Conservative Toronto papers, shared a special mail train which ran into London for a time. The purest selfishness and hypocrisy mark its tirades, for the complaining paper has been feasting at the trough along with the other hungry ones since the Government came in. Mr. Oliver's paper received its money from a private source; there are others that take it straight from the people's pocket.

THE TERRIBLE TEUTO-TURK.

HERE IS a letter dated from Northwestern University, Chicago. The writer may be a professor, and then again he may be a janitor futurist of that well-known institution. To the Editor of The Advertiser, London, Ont.: Dear Sir, I am, last it is, unfortunately it has become absolutely clear, even to Americans, that Germany must come out on top.

These American newspapers make me tired. I like better to see a broadminded editor, not one of those who sits on both sides of the fence at the same time and tries to lead his audience by scare-words and anti-German propaganda. It has become the fashion lately. But already they are taking a jump to the winning side, they make me disgusted. Occasionally they jump too quick sometimes. Such newspapers I buy no more. They are in harmony with my upbringing and early training which I received in Germany, and which was thorough, both military and otherwise, the positively let me here tell you, if you are not my friend, I would rather like a man see you come openly out against me.

But already there has been too much talked and sentimentalized and written about war and the disagreeable, let us together look a little at the harmonious. Let us look once in Webster's dictionary, where we find the two most beautiful words in the whole English language, namely, those two words "Universal Peace."

Look them up, my friend, study them; they do you eyesight good like nothing else. Sometimes we all forget them, even we Germans forget them. Every German, as well as every American who are able to think, not only has wanted peace from the first, but Germany has never, and never will, want anything else but good for mankind, and that's all the time; yes, but the right kind of peace.

Let us then look forward in our inquiries for so far we surely all can travel in our minds, to that great day when the representatives of all nations, with Uncle Sam as umpire, shall come together in that glorious hall at The Hague, where for example, I once had the pleasure of spending, in the company of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, one of the most superbly delightful afternoons in my whole life, with Germany satisfied and everything forgotten, England and Belgium at present so dissatisfied and blind to the great new world-era about to dawn if they would keep quiet, and England so egotistical, that she thinks Belgium thinks everything just exactly just like she would like her to think it, both of them together, with Germany's old enemy France, likewise there, satisfied and with their eyes opened, not like now.

They will then at last see the gratitude they owe to Germany, which already long time ago they should have seen, so overwhelmingly large that it can never be paid, but never mind that. They will then see that it was all for the best, like the patient objecting to having his tooth pulled and afterwards thanking the dentist. So afterwards also goes it with nations, when they have realized the world-culture which results, what we in Germany call "Weltkultur." Whenever Germans come there also comes always the "Kultur" likewise right away along with it.

Already long time ago they saw that it was for the best in 1871 when she established herself, and the great Chancellor Von Bismarck made the remark: "Now or never is the beginning when the two great world-powers, Germany and the United States of North America must come at last together and run things themselves, or we are lost."

rushes to address himself to the general or American public. For extra emphasis the words, in German print, are sometimes spaced wide, and for triple power in larger capitals. It is evident that the author sets his own importance very high, and that the letter is one copy of a vast number sent out to convert the heathen American, while some of the over-run is dumped into Canada as well, to advise us of the impending German-American alliance and "universal peace."

There has been too much "sentimentalized about war" has there? It will be Germany's turn to "sentimentalize" when Russia rolls them out flat. They will squelch right enough in Germany when their turn comes. At present the very mention of the word "Belgium" is nauseous sentimentality to the Schultzenheimer blackguards. They will not be so sure about all being fair in war, even breaking Hague agreements, or cutting boys' hands off, when Great Britain, the just and the long-remembering, hangs up a few thousand of the surviving pirates after the war. This is a fight to a finish, Schultzenheimer, such as Great Britain fought against Napoleon.

RUSSIA MAY END IT.

SO big are the operations of the Dardanelles, in Northern France, and in the Carpathians, that a decisive victory at any one of these points for the Allies might bring the war to a speedy conclusion. When Kitchener declared that the real fighting would begin in the spring, no doubt he had in mind the general campaign of the Allies, not the operations of the British troops alone. The violent fighting in the Carpathians, the resuming of the attempt to get through to Constantinople, and the attacks on the German positions in Alsace, are all a part of a master plan. Only in Flanders is there a lull, and there is purpose behind that.

Just now the eyes of the world are centered on the gigantic attempt of the Russians to get over the Carpathians, and sweep across Hungary. It is said that four million men are engaged in this struggle. A complete success of the Russians—such as would include the capture of Cracow and Budapest—would probably make Germany sue for peace. This also would be the case should the Dardanelles be run, and Constantinople surrendered, as in such case there would not be a friend left to Germany in the Balkans. All the Balkan powers would be in on the scramble to get a share of the spoils, and Italy would be forced by public opinion to enter the conflict in order to take back the provinces stolen by Austria. Austria could not stand up against such a combination, and Germany left alone would be in a hopelessly weak position.

Also, if the Allies should win a great victory along the lines in Flanders and France, Germany would have to leave Belgium and Alsace-Lorraine, and fall back to the Rhine. Still another thing that would bring the end of the war in sight would be a naval engagement in the North Sea. With her navy gone to the bottom, Germany could do nothing save ask for terms.

At the present moment, however, it seems as if the Allies were putting the greatest pressure in the eastern zone of the war. Continuously aggressive as the French are, it is no doubt with the object of preventing a large withdrawal of German troops for service against the Russians rather than any intention or hope of breaking through to Berlin, while General French may be holding back a vast army for that moment when the Germans are hardest pressed at all the other points of the conflict.

Austria appears to be the weakest in the Germanic line, and the Russians are being hurled at it in the hopes of winning through to a quick and complete triumph. It is a titanic task, and carries with it great risks. So far, the Russians have had the advantage, but it should be recalled that every foot they advance takes them the farther from their bases, with which the communications are poor as compared with the splendid transportation facilities of the Austrians and Germans. The latter can move with great rapidity from one threatened point to another, and should they succeed in catching the Russians on the flanks, or in the rear, after the latter were well over the Carpathians, there might be another Mazurian Lakes or Tannenberg success for the Germanic confederation. But with the apparently unlimited reserves at the disposal of the Czar, and the determined offensive of the Allies in the west, which will prevent the Kaiser taking many men from that front, the prospects for a decisive victory for the Russians are good.

The Battle of Neuve Chapelle

A wounded officer writes to friends in London as follows: "Suddenly at 7 a.m., the most infernal din commenced—such as I have never heard before, and hope I shall never hear again. Over 400 of our guns suddenly opened up, without any preliminary notice, a most awful bombardment of Neuve Chapelle. There were all sorts of guns, not to mention field guns, horse artillery, and anything, in fact, that could be discharged. You never saw such a sight, and you never heard such a row. I heard one of my men say—'Bill, is this the end of the earth?' I don't blame him for thinking so. It seemed to me as if it was. We could see in the distance great masses of flame, smoke, earth and brick all ascending together, as the great shells screamed over our heads and burst among the German entrenchments and the houses of the villages. It must have been a horrible surprise for them. At the end of half an hour the bombardment ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Then we saw the division rushing towards Neuve Chapelle. There were our own machine guns, our own rifles and most indiscriminate rifle fire and a lot of our fellows fell, but in a very short time our men disappeared amidst the smoke and confusion. It was a striking time we were waiting the order to advance, but it did not come.

"After three hours the order came for two of the battalions of my brigade to advance towards Aubers. By this time the German artillery, although greatly outnumbered by our guns, began to shell the machine gun positions in front. Our two battalions jumped the entrenchments, and rushed forward in long waves, speedily disappearing amidst the smoke. It seemed very pleasant to lie covered in the trench after what we saw taking place in front. A little later we also got the order to move forward. It was a striking moment, let me tell you. I don't know how we all felt at heart, but I all pretended to enjoy it—I don't think I was alone. I remember that I will go anywhere so long as they have an officer to lead them. Well, we jumped out into the open, and I had to get along as best I could, as I was in charge of the machine gun. To me the air seemed alive with bullets and shells; there was a buzzing noise like you hear in tropical forest on a hot summer's day. Bees seemed everywhere—I wish they had been bees. The fire was not particularly directed at us; we were simply catching what was aimed at those in front.

"An Infernal Shell Fire. "On we moved, and then came to an open stretch of ground. A coughing infernal shell fire. We crossed this in rushes to gain the shelter of some houses. I am sure the record for the 'hundred' was broken that morning; as it was, we lost some forty or fifty men. There we remained for some little time, reforming the battalion and awaiting further orders. The time was very short. We moved forward over rough, broken ground, here we came upon lots of our poor fellows lying dead, and many wounded. From the other battalions which had preceded us, then we entered some German trenches which had been captured and again halted. All this time our shells and German shells and machine gun bullets went shrieking overhead. Thank goodness, in an action like this, you kind of lose your normal senses. A kind of elevation above all ordinary feelings comes over you; you feel that you are rushing through the air; you are rushing through the air; and excitement. There is so much to frighten you that you cease to be afraid. There is no time to think anything, you are rushing under cover—then your senses gradually come back. That is why all infantry attacks should be carried through with one overwhelming rush. What we were waiting under cover, a lot of wounded began to limp back, delighted to escape from the whole inferno alive. A lot of German shells were brought in; most of them were smiling, and were evidently overjoyed to be out of it, and on their way to the comparative comfort of an internment camp.

Stormed Every Trench. "Suddenly our adjutant, who had gone forward, came rushing back to us. 'They are about to make a counter-attack; bring up two machine guns.' We rushed two of our four machine guns up after having come up the road, but before they had got some distance another officer came up and ordered us back, as the attack had been repulsed. Then I saw about sixty of the Regiment straggling back down the road. We asked them where they were going, whereupon one man replied, 'We've stormed every trench and every blooming village in the country; all our officers have been shot, so we thought it about time someone else had a go.' I got back to the trenches where I had left the machine guns, and shortly afterwards we were ordered to move towards the left, down the trenches. This we did until we were almost opposite Aubers. Then at 5:30 p.m., orders came to stop. We were to storm a suburb of Aubers. Of course, we poor infantry had no idea of what is really happening, and can't say who is really winning or losing. I had not the least idea except that Neuve Chapelle had been taken. You can take it from me that the generals have no more idea than we have. They go on somehow, and that is all. There is far too much noise and smoke, and far too many bullets and shells for scientific conduct of operations.

"Again we crawled out of our trenches and advanced across the open, under every sort of infernal missile invented by Germany & Co., for the destruction of mankind. But our guns were even more busy, and although we could not silence the enemy's guns we must have knocked the stuffing out of their trenches. We crossed ground covered with dead and wounded, so I suppose some battalion had already attacked without success. We did not make much progress, and just as it was growing dusk received orders to entrench ourselves where we were. This we proceeded to do with alacrity, the men working like ants.

A Great Blaze-Off. "Here we passed the night—but what a night! I shall never forget it. Every gun, every machine gun, and every rifle kept up an incessant fire. No one was aiming at anything in particular—it was just a great blaze-off. As a spectacle it was superb. The Germans kept on firing their 'Roman candles,' or whatever they were called, lighting up our lines, and blasting away for all they were worth. The flames from the bursting shells almost made a wonderful picture, and the din—well, I would not have believed such a row was possible. Although we were all tired, sleep was out of the question. We just lay low under the cover of our shelter trenches, and waited for dawn. Our men were full of fight and confidence.

"At 7 a.m. an order came round from Brussels which tells of German officers making big profits at the expense of their Government in their dealings with the Belgians, from whom army supplies are bought. This war seems to be giving rare opportunities everywhere to greedy rascals.—Montreal Gazette. (Conservative.)

AIRMEN IN BATTLE OVER BRITISH LINES

Allies' Aviators Try To Bring Down a German Scout.

SOLDIERS' LIFE EASIER

Germans Use Less Artillery Than the British—Fail To Reply to Shelling.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 18, Via London, 10:20 p.m.—The mud element which has so hampered both armies during the winter operations in France and Belgium now has practically disappeared along the British front. Dismal rainy days broken given way to sunny days, which has dried up the roads, trenches and lines of communications, making the soldier's life a paradise compared with former conditions.

With the coming of clearer weather there has also been a marked increase in the number of aeroplane reconnaissances on both sides, as a cloudless atmosphere is just what the observers want. Half a dozen aircraft manoeuvred over Ypres all Saturday afternoon. The majority were British attempting to bring down a German plane who was trying to spot batteries at the rear of the British lines.

Little Head From Civilians.
The sky was unclouded anywhere except by the cotton wool flakes of bursting shrapnel as an entire day's shelling continued for hours on machines on either side were brought down. Living amid the ruins of the cloth hall and other structures the population of Ypres, almost daily under German shell fire, seldom turned their eyes heavenward. So sated with war are all civilians that the grateful cries were unnoticed as they swerved, rose, circled and winged for vantage points.

Broadly speaking, there has been no change in the British front since Neuve Chapelle, trench warfare continuing along the whole line with only a few casualties here and there daily.

Merely Sniping.
The Canadian Press correspondent spending the afternoon in the British trenches at Ploegsteert, less than 100 yards from the German line, found the contending armies comparatively inactive. The men, secure behind ramparts of sandbags, merely sniped occasionally and now and then set loose a trench mortar.

Peering through a periscope, no sign of a living human being could be seen along the German line, though now and then bullets whizzed from loopholes, either singing close overhead or striking the sandbags with a vicious thud. No man dares show even the top of his head. The danger was emphasized when the correspondent, thrusting the periscope higher than was necessary, drew a bullet, which seemed almost to graze the instrument. Nearby stood a young British officer calmly firing through a loop-hole at any opening in the rival trench, aiming, loading and commenting on his hits and misses much as might a man at target practice.

Desultory Artillery Fire.
This sort of thing has persisted for weeks and generally describes the condition along the entire front. The monotony is relieved only by such dashes as these which took place at Neuve Chapelle, or the actions of French, who are now engaged at certain places. Artillery by both German and British, is keeping up only a desultory fire, shells criss-crossing and swishing overhead at intervals during the day and night.

At one point where the trenches are less than 200 yards apart, the correspondent saw three British shells fall in the German lines, one striking plum in a trench and hurling debris high into the air. The Germans later by are using less artillery than the British, failing to reply even to persistent shelling, except where from their many observation posts they sight movements in the British lines.

Is Germany Looking for Early Peace?

Surprising Statements Predicted by Cologne Correspondent.

[Canadian Press.]

AMSTERDAM (via London), April 18.—2:25 a.m.—The Cologne correspondent of the Tijd, discussing peace conditions, says: "There is no serious thought in competent circles in Germany of retaining Belgium. Within a few weeks some surprising statements on this matter may be expected. The leaders of German opinion are now agreed that the aim of the war will have been reached as soon as Germany's national existence is guaranteed and her colonies are secured."

BERLIN DISCUSSES PEACE BUT EXPECTS RESULTS.

CONSTANTINOPLE (via London), April 18.—2:54 a.m.—The National Tidende's Budapest correspondent sends an interview with Count Julius Andrássy, former Hungarian premier, who has just returned to Budapest from a series of conferences in Berlin. Count Andrássy is quoted as having said that the subject of the conferences was peace and peace conditions.

"Unfortunately," the correspondent says, Count Andrássy told him, "the people in Berlin do not seem to understand that no real result can be expected in the present war. The only result possible is no result."
"Only a surprise attack, such as the one in Belgium, can be completely successful, under modern conditions of warfare. I expect only one good outcome from this war, namely, that it will make war impossible in the future."

UNTRAINED LANDSTURM SUMMONED BY AUSTRIA

[Canadian Press.]

VIENNA, via London, April 18.—The following statement was given out by the Austrian war office last night: "Owing to the possibility that the war may last a long time, and in order to secure the necessary reserves, the untrained landsturm, men between the ages of eighteen and fifty, will hereafter be liable for military service."

What Goodyear Means

An Unusual Story of a Canadian Industrial

Of Special Interest to Motorists, Truck Owners, Motorcyclists and Manufacturers

How it grew from a small room to a large plant. Four-man pay-roll is increased to 800-man pay-roll in five years. An investment of a few hundred dollars grows to one of millions

THIS is not a story of self-praise. Modesty prevents us from claiming all we could. But we do believe men are interested in success stories such as this. We are but one of the innumerable industries that have struggled up from small beginnings. Today we hold an enviable position in the Canadian manufacturing world.

We won this place through five years of business evolution. Capital alone won't build manufacturing success. It only postpones a failure. Master salesmanship alone can't build a permanent success. Good men can temporarily make a poor product seem alluring. The sure test, the final test, is just the record of the product. We submit to you here, then, the story, not of ourselves, but of Goodyear products.

We think you will agree when you read this, that there is scarcely a business story in Canada more interesting and human.

When four Goodyear employees worked together in a little 30x60-foot room at 85 Queen street East, Toronto, in 1910, little did they realize how quickly that small space would be magnified over 70 times.

They knew business would grow. They had faith in themselves and in their product. They saw the tremendous possibilities in the Canadian rubber demand. They would build here at home an industry to meet that demand.

Today the big factory at Bowmanville, the six-story General Office building in Toronto and the ten Branch Offices throughout Canada have proved their fondest hopes.

The public confidence in Goodyear products has made possible this Goodyear growth from small beginnings. See what this growth has meant. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, has over two million dollars invested in Canadian property and Canadian factory equipment. For the products that we sell you are made in our own factory at Bowmanville, Ontario, by Canadian workmen. Our pay-roll for these workmen must be one of the largest in the Dominion.

The Bowmanville Plant

In the latter part of 1910 we purchased the plant of the Durham Rubber Company at Bowmanville, Ontario. The total floor space was 41,150 square feet. Remodelling was immediately begun. New buildings were erected. New machinery installed. About 70 men were employed. The capacity was 25 automobile tires per day.

Today the plant is set in a tract of 35 acres, and has a floor space of 116,884 square feet! The pay roll has reached a maximum of 718 employees. The maximum capacity is 1,000 tires per day. The factory is completely equipped with the most modern machinery for the manufacturing of Automobile, Truck, Motorcycle, Bicycle and Carriage Tires, Hose, Belting, Packing, Molded Goods, etc. Over 500 different kinds of articles can be made.

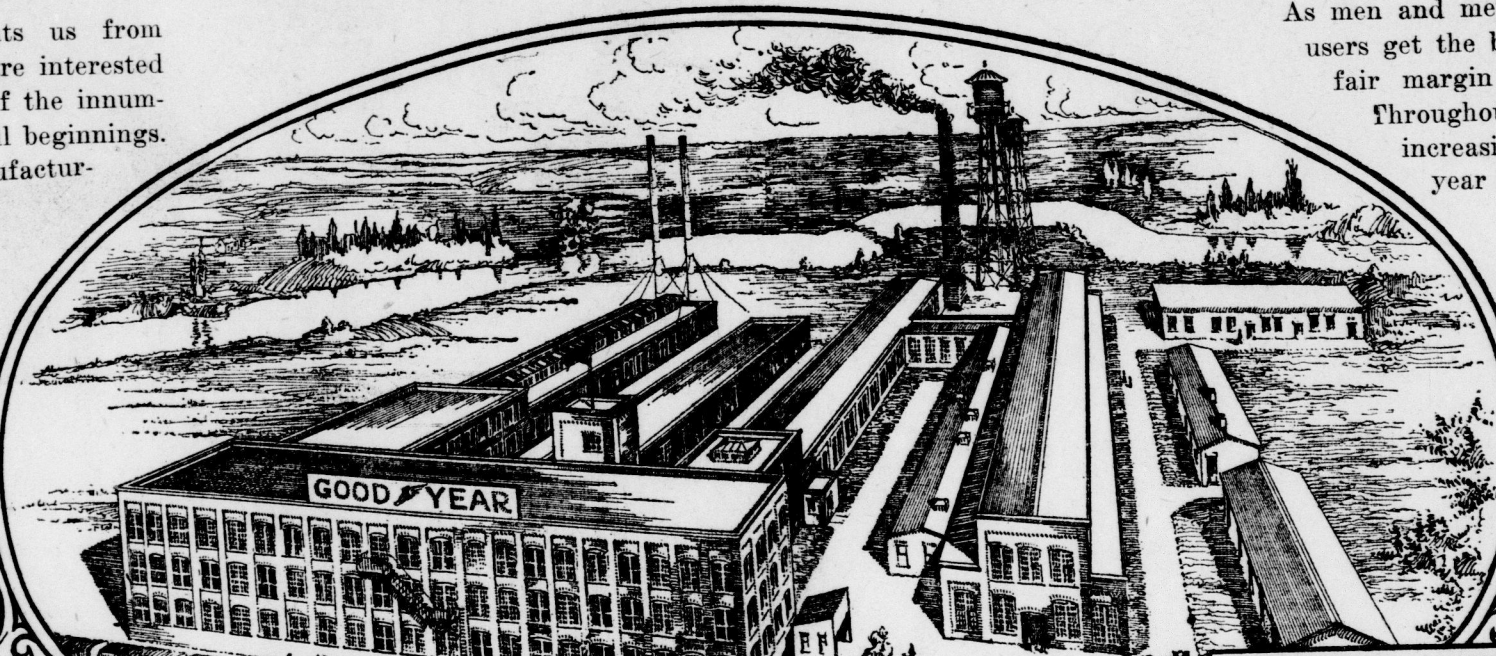

The Bowmanville plant embodies efficiency to the last degree. Factory organization and processes are so perfected as to produce greatest value at the least expense. From the purchase of raw materials to the shipping of the finished product, every operation is backed by minute inspection.

This Service, Too, Is Yours

But Goodyear obligation does not end when we sell a Goodyear product. It begins there. There are ten branch offices, located in Montreal, St. John, Ottawa, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Toronto, with 137 Goodyear employees to assist our dealers in satisfying your wants. For only in this way are you insured of proper service.

There are hundreds of Goodyear dealers throughout Canada. No matter where you are, you know that not far away is a Goodyear dealer. This means quick deliveries—no delays, no inconvenience.

Factory, branch offices and dealers are knitted together in a co-operative sales organization by the general office in Toronto, where the officials and their assistants are located. Here are evolved the manufacturing and sales policies. You can see what such service as this means. It saves in time, in trouble and expense.

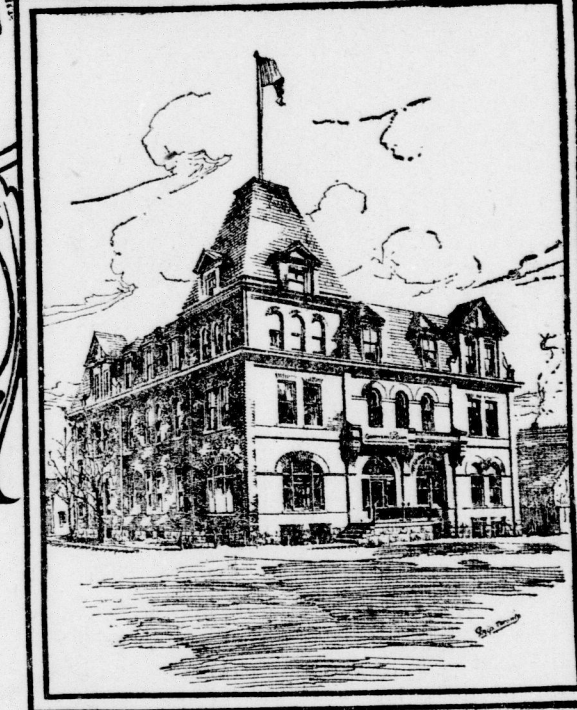

Head Office, Toronto

The Goodyear Factory Bowmanville, Ont.

Goodyear Houses, Carlisle Ave. Bowmanville

Goodyear Club Bowmanville

Goodyear policy toward employees does not stop at good wages and good factory conditions—but embraces practical outside welfare work.

The Goodyear Company believes that however perfect are factory conditions, it owes its employees even more. For no workman, though surrounded by perfect conditions at the factory, can reach his height of efficiency unless home and social conditions are of the best. That is why the Company itself has erected about 60 modern and attractive brick cottages, electric lighted, with hot and cold water. They are occupied by employees at a fair rental.

The basis for selection of employees is efficiency—not race, religion or politics. The Goodyear Club is the Social Centre for all employees. Here also single men may room and board at reasonable rates. There are reading and music rooms, shower baths, billiard tables, bowling alleys and other attractions. Here meetings and social gatherings are held.

Every man and his family has voluntarily extended his co-operation in making outside conditions better. As a result there is health, happiness and content—which are so essential in complete efficiency.

Every buyer of Goodyear products benefits by this practical system of welfare work—for it is part of the quality bought, part of the satisfaction resulting.

Third Reduction in Automobile Tire Prices

For the third time in less than two years, the price of Goodyear Tires has been reduced. These have saved the user in all an average of 37 per cent. And now this third reduction during war times!

This price reduction, effective February 15, in face of the new war tax, showed the company's determination to keep the factory wheels moving. "Business as usual" is the slogan. The capacity of the plant has been doubled. To so enlarge the plant—to reduce the price—to pay the war tax itself—that is the Goodyear Company's expression of faith, not merely in its product, but in the judgment of the people. The response by the public—as already felt—has justified these progressive moves.

As men and methods improve, quality improves. As output multiplies, users get the benefit of reduced prices. To give the utmost at the lowest fair margin of profit has always been the Goodyear standard. Throughout the Dominion the number of satisfied users is rapidly increasing. The sales last year were 29 per cent greater than the year before.

These statements are not offered as boasts—but to justify the reduced prices—to explain why the Company will pay the war tax—to show how the user will benefit by getting greater tire value than ever before. Goodyears stand top-high in quality. This has been the verdict of Canadian users, attested by Goodyear sales records.

Some tires cost more, we will not reason why. But don't assume you get extra value because you pay an extra price. Goodyear Fortified Tires combat in five exclusive ways the chief tire troubles. Goodyears hold top place because they give lowest cost per mile.

Fortified Tires.

In five costly ways—ways that no other maker has—Goodyears are fortified against all major tire troubles. That's why they average best.

Here are the five reasons why every Canadian motorist should have Goodyear Fortified Tires. These features can be found in Goodyears alone:

1. No-Rim-Cut feature combats rim-cutting in best way known.
2. Countless blowouts are avoided by our "On-Air" cure.
3. Loose treads are combated by forming in each tire hundreds of large rubber rivets.
4. Security against blowing off the rim and tube pinching, gained by vulcanizing six flat bands of 125 braided piano wires into each tire base.
5. The All-Weather Tread combats puncture by being tough and thick. It resists skidding as no other tire does by its sharp-edged, bulldog grip.

These are the reasons why Goodyear Fortified Tires excel all other makes—why they are outlasting any other tire that's made. Every tire trouble brings you nearer to Goodyears. They have averaged best in every province.

Right Inner Tubes.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are built layer on layer. This prevents leaky tubes due to porous rubber. Records show that tubes built in the Goodyear way outlast any tire. Four tubes outlast five castings.

This year Goodyear Inner Tubes are better than ever before. Small sizes have been thickened 12½ per cent. Large sizes 16-3-4 per cent. Yet they are built of pure rubber, as always. Tubes that weigh more than Goodyears gain nothing in durability. Size for size, heavier tubes owe their weight to excess mineral matter, causing hardening and cracking.

This means that today's tubes average 14 per cent better—yet the price is one-fifth less. This added strength and wear have increased Goodyear Tube popularity. Increased production has lowered the cost to you.

Economy for Truck Owners.

For many years Goodyear engineers have been developing truck tires. Much of this work has been directed on heavy service tires. Thousands of dollars have been spent in tests and investigations. In all, twenty-nine distinct types of Truck Tires have been designed. In the evolution of one alone, seventy-four separate tire structures were built.

Goodyears mark today's quality in Truck Tire Service, durability, simplicity and economy. It will take some makers years to do what Goodyear experts have done in Truck Tire development; 1915 Goodyear Truck Tires inspire a confidence that others cannot give.

And this Goodyear aim for utmost tire efficiency will never cease. Our experts will continue to investigate, test and improve.

Goodyear Motorcycle Tires Give Extra Mileage.

Men thought no better motorcycle tires than Goodyears could be made. They won and held top place. Yet the Goodyear Company has made this year six further improvements without increasing prices.

The popularity of Goodyear Motorcycle Tires must be greater this year than ever before. For these new added features come in spite of lowered cost to you.

"Blue Streak" Bicycle Tires Built for Rough Going.

Goodyear "Blue Streak" Bicycle Tires are made in the same factory, by the same experts who make the Fortified automobile tires. The same high standard of workmanship goes into every bicycle tire. "Blue Streaks" have proved in actual road tests the utmost in bicycle tire construction. The body is of toughest white rubber. And they have the famous Goodyear "All-Weather" tread—rows of resistless rugged blocks.

Their grip wet streets firmly, yet give all the advantages of a smooth tread on hard, dry roads. These features, you can see give maximum service. Bicycle tire troubles are minimized if you ride on Goodyear "Blue Streaks."

Goodyear Mechanical Goods.

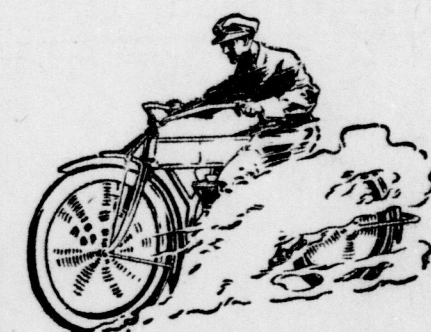

The Goodyear plant at Bowmanville does not make tires alone. We manufacture Mechanical Goods for factories, mills and power houses. Belts of every kind—transmission and conveyor—are made for each particular Canadian industry—sawmills, brick yards, elevators, paper mills, power plants, mines—all the foremost industries.

We make specific belts for specific machines. You get the belt that will deliver the power at the time. Buying belting this way decreases shut-down losses—lost time, lost labor, lost product.

Hose—from the common garden variety to fire hose—is made by the mill. Some are for peculiar uses, such as for vinegar, or vacuum cleaners, or sand blasting. Canadian cities are protected by Goodyear fire hose. When you see rubber goods, note the name. Baby carriages have Goodyear Tires. Goodyear clothes wringer rolls help the busy housewife on wash day. Lacrosse players use Goodyear balls. Goodyear made-in-Canada products are part of every-day life, filling an urgent need here—giving pleasure there, turning the great wheels of commerce, or protecting lives and property.

This is our story of Goodyear. It was not written directly to sell you Goodyear products, for they must sell themselves. What we want is just a hearing. We have told you of our small beginning. Of our first factory, and its growth at Bowmanville. We have told you somewhat of Goodyear products and their record.

We want you to buy tires and mechanical goods from The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited—not alone because they are made in Canada—not because our efforts alone have been commendable. We want you to buy Goodyear products because of their inbuilt superiority. Because you get greatest service dollar for dollar that you spend.

MERCHANTS HERE DON'T PRACTICE "HOLD-UP" GAME TO ANY EXTENT

Detroit Businessmen Sell To London Buyers "Dying Out" Fashions Cheap.

SHOULD BUY IN LONDON

Letter to Advertiser Calls Forth Same Comment From Local Retailers.

[BY MARGARET WALKER.]

What is the opinion of local merchants regarding the prevailing tendency to buy American goods in London? The widespread interest created by the various articles and letters on this subject in the Advertiser has prompted the following letter received by The Advertiser from a prominent London firm, eliciting some comment, and not a little amusement on their part:

"To the Editor of The Advertiser:—

"I, too, would like to express an opinion in regard to the pernicious habit of the ladies of London shopping in American cities, and I speak with considerable knowledge of the subject, for I am a frequent visitor to New York, Chicago, Buffalo, and Detroit, and I quite agree with 'Reader's' remarks, only he does not make them strong enough.

"The fact of the matter is that the merchants of London are too independent to cater to the wants of the ladies, and meet them half way in regard to style and price. They would be an unnecessary expense to the border cities to buy.

"Why should novelties, shoes, ready-to-wear garments, etc., be so much more expensive than it is across the line. I am willing to admit that you can pay fancy prices for things in London, but the lines of goods shown are for millionaires exclusively. It really pays better to go and get your things and pay duty on them rather than submit to the hold-up of the merchants in those cities.

"Another thing which is most aggravating if you purchase an article, and wish to duplicate it, or a piece of trimming, and have occasion to use it, and go back for same and find that they are sold out, all the satisfaction you get is to be told that they will not have it in stock for six months as they have to send it across the ocean for it. Is it any wonder that people go to Detroit? They not only have a better choice, but things are infinitely cheaper.

"Now the fact is that in London, and it is too bad that our merchants do not make it possible. They have a great improvement in the last ten years, and we may give credit to the new Jewish stores that have sprung up recently in our city.

"On one occasion a lady who came here to reside from an American city visited a local store in search of some children's clothes. The saleslady tried to persuade her to purchase some very thin velveteen, entirely unsuitable for the purpose required, the proprietor on seeing the clerk's failure to make a sale came forward to the counter and picked up a piece of beige velveteen, the kind they wore two centuries ago, and turning to the customer, exclaimed, 'Why, woman, dear, you don't know what you want, this is what you want,' and tried to force her to buy his antiquated material. In the language of Ruggles of Red Gap she remarked, 'That would never do with us.'

Very sincerely,
LILLIAN POMERY.
Mr. Gray Disagree.

After reading the communication, Mr. Gray, of Gray's, Limited, stated frankly that he did not agree with its contents.

"I do not believe from my own observation here in American cities, that London merchants practice the 'hold-up' game at all. It is well known to us that in Chicago, Detroit on days when Canadian excursions are run there, the merchants arrange for special bargain sales to tempt Canadian buyers. Very often it is some article which the lady is already dying out in Detroit, and the American merchant does a good stroke of business by cutting the price, and offering it to women excursionists from over the border. At home, they would not buy such stuff, but they talk about how cheap things are in Detroit.

The letter states that one can get ready-to-wear garments cheaper there than in London. The price of cotton articles, for instance, is higher in Canada on account of the very high duty, but as for woolen goods, the price is much cheaper. It is a fact that many of the American shops get woolen goods at a price which is not only lower than in London, but also make them into smart costumes. Many women do not stop to think that there is not the durability about these that there is in real woolen fabrics.

Run Out in Any Store.

"As to running out of trimmings, or goods of any kind, is that not likely to happen with any store, no matter how large? In regard to novelty costumes, if we look at the big stores, they do not have variety. But if we had the dress in all sizes, she would not have a variety. It is scarcely fair to expect a merchant in a city of 50,000 to carry the large stock a store in a city of 100,000 has a million or more."

Mr. Draper, acting manager of Smallman & Ingram, expressed somewhat similar views. In regard to higher prices in London stores, Mr. Draper protested against such a statement.

"If our prices are higher, why do so many Americans come here, right to our store, and buy their outfits? And take for instance, a great deal of the patronage in the stores there comes from the American side. I can give you an absolute proof in respect to one article at least, where American-made goods are sold cheaper by us than in the States. We have a line of good-class corsets, made on the other side, imported by us, duty being paid yet we daily sell that line of corsets for less than they are sold in Detroit, Buffalo or any of the American cities."

May Cut Prices Quicker.

"American merchants may be quicker to cut prices, but they do not move so quickly there. If we stocked up a lot of novelties of every variety, like you might find in the big stores, New York, Chicago, or even Detroit, we could not sell them here. The town is not large enough."

A third merchant, after reading the letter that believed women of this type should be sent to the United States and to earn their living where they desired to spend their money.

"It seems to be the nature of some individuals to earn their money in one city, and to spend it in another. People living in Toronto want to shop in New York, the New Yorkers go to Paris, and the Parisians go to London. Here they want to go to Toronto or to Detroit. I certainly do not think it fair for a citizen, man or woman, to go to another city to shop, and then to go elsewhere to spend it. What chance does it give the home merchant to improve his stock? It does not. It is a woman who is not satisfied with what she finds in London stores, she should reside where she can get pleased, and where her place would be hard to find."

Ridiculous Assertion.

"What are the Jewish stores to which the lady refers? I asked another of London's tradesmen. 'I do not know of any here that handle general drygoods. There is much more to store than they are ready to sell. It is a department, important though this is. As to having to wait six months to match a bit of trimming, in rare cases you may have to send to England for something, but six weeks is the outside time for the order, and they are ready to ship when like this to Detroit and buy a dress length, or material for a suit, they come home to London and match. If they do not, they are greatly aggrieved and blame the local stores for being back-numbers.'

"Me For the Farm and My Wife Is Boss of the House!"

New Champ, Willard, Tells Nixola Greeley Smith His Ideas on Life.

BY NIXOLA GREELEY SMITH. (Copyright, 1915, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

New York, April 19.—"Sure, I take orders!" said Big Jess Willard, the human dreadnought who struck the blow heard round the world.

"I take them from my big boss, Hattie Willard. She's a little woman alongside of me, but she's a BIG BOSS. And my wife gets HER orders from little Jess. It seems funny that a baby 16 months old should run a great big fellow like me. But it's the truth!"

This was after time had been called in Jess Willard's "star" dressing-room for his first conversational bout with a woman.

"Miss Greeley-Smith, Jess Willard," said Loney Haskell, manager of Hammerstein's Victoria theatre, introducing the lady, made for our respective corners and the bout was on.

Big Jess is so VERY BIG that it takes two TWO LOOKS to get to the top of him, just as it does to see Kansas corn or Iowa wheat or California redwoods. But he is so, neat and when he is in motion, so graceful, that you do not realize that he is six and a half feet high when you are talking to him, even if you are quite a little woman like me!

"How big is your BIG BOSS?" I asked the champion.

"She's about five-foot seven, but she weighs only 120 pounds," he answered. "I'll never forget the first time I ever saw her. It was my first knockout. I was driving on a narrow road when a runaway team came along."

"Yes," I interrupted, "and your future wife and her father and mother were in the car?"

"Yes," he smiled deprecatingly. When he smiles, he shows his white teeth that look as if they could bite a horseshoe in two, and his mouth lifts more at one corner than the other, making a queer little catch in his smile. And there's a lot of money in it."

Then he leaned forward, his long arms resting on the muscular thighs which wore the very same trunks he donned to wear into the ring at Havana.

"Say," he said earnestly, "don't make me out to have a swell head. I haven't any going to make a short tour of the world. And then I stand ready to meet all the white hopes that want to challenge me. But no BLACK hopes need apply."

"Why not?" I asked, for to bar black hopes does not seem to me to be playing the game as it should be played.

"Not on account of race prejudice," Big Jess answered, "but on account of peace between the races. After that were killed in riots between the blacks and the whites. I don't want any blood on my conscience. I'm a man of peace. Say do you know that except for fights in the ring I'VE NEVER HAD A FIGHT IN MY LIFE?"

(WILLARD'S ROUND.)

"I like farming better than fighting," the champion confessed. "That's what I look as if they could bite a horseshoe in two, and his mouth lifts more at one corner than the other, making a queer little catch in his smile. And there's a lot of money in it."

"And your three little girls?" I asked.

"The best wish I could make for them is to have them get married and make some fellow as happy as their mother makes me. I've got no patience with husbands and wives that are not happy and don't love each other; the way to be happy is to let your wife be the boss. A big fellow can afford to do that. It's only the bantams that do the crowing. I want to tell you this. I wish I had the fixing of a few wife-beaters. Willard's brows drew together and the huge paw, resting on his knee, doubled up ominously. "Oh, don't I wish I had the handling of a few of 'em for one minute or two!"

"When I say a man ought to let his wife be the boss of the house, I mean it! He ought never to interfere with the way she raises the children. You have to know if I believe in physical punishment. To tell you the truth, I don't believe a little switching does any harm. But the mother should hold the reins. She's the big boss. I never interfere with my wife. As I said before, I am a man of peace!"

"Next" called the boy in the wings at Hammerstein's.

And in a minute Big Jess was out on the stage. Howls whistles, hysterical cheers and feet pounding followed for a good five minutes. New York was welcoming the champion of the world!

WHO'LL BE WINNERS CANADIAN BUILDING ABSORBS ALL MINDS

Candidates, Relatives and Supporters Are Greatly Excited These Days.

ONE MORE DAY, THEN—

Advertiser's Panama-Pacific Trip Contest Arouses Highest Enthusiasm in City.

"Who's going to win The Advertiser's Panama-Pacific trip?" It's the absorbing question of the hour to candidates in the contest, to their relatives and the army of supporters for each, mobilized as if by magic.

"I never realized I had so many friends. People of whom I hadn't even heard before I entered the contest are here at the door and call me up to offer support in any way they can give it," says one fair candidate who practically all the others have the same story of good-will on the part of the public.

Surely never before was there such an inquiring into the dates when subscriptions will be up, such a genuine cheerfulness over renewals. Ballot clipping has become the vogue of the hour, and none are more absorbed in the task than the little people.

"My little boys are having the time of their life cutting out the ballots, and they are so particular to clip them neatly along the edges," said a mother on Saturday as she handed a small parcel over the counter to a smiling young woman who is putting forth well directed efforts towards the making of her travel dreams come true.

"Working enthusiastically for Miss So-and-So of 'Mrs' as the case may be, is heard from all directions. Enthusiasm, indeed, seems to be the genius of this contest.

"When will the standing of candidates be published again?" is the anxious to see it, though it makes me quake," comes from one contestant after another.

The answer to this is Wednesday afternoon, April 21. All votes, in order to be included in this record MUST be in the Advertiser office not later than 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, April 20.

Secondly, in order to have the votes represented included in this contest, subscriptions must be turned in to The Advertiser office. In total-ling up the votes, the numbers on the blue coupons are counted as the voting ballots. If these blue coupons are withheld through carelessness or other reasons, the candidate is deprived of the vote. The Advertiser is not the fault of the candidate or those paying subscriptions for them, it is not the fault of the Advertiser if the candidate's status until the final count is not as high as anticipated.

Turn Over Coupons.

Those who are assisting candidates by paying in subscriptions for them are urged to pay attention to this point and either turn over the subscription coupons to the candidate themselves or to The Advertiser. Moreover, everyone is urged to watch carefully the expiration of these coupons. In spite of the many warnings issued in conspicuous type in the Advertiser during the past few weeks, on Saturday ballots were brought into the office that were void on April 20. These, of course, were lost to the candidate.

In the last place, nominations for the Panama-Pacific trip close on Tuesday, the 20th. Tomorrow is the last chance for an ambitious girl to take advantage of The Advertiser's take advantage of the trip offer. It's the magnificent chance of a life-time and well worth the chance of a life-time. Others have had a chance of a life-time and well worth the chance of a life-time. Others have had a chance of a life-time and well worth the chance of a life-time.

It is the last opportunity for having a place in this contest.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CANADIAN BUILDING AT U.S. EXPOSITION IS HIGHLY PRAISED

Canada Has Heart Interest and Practical Interest in Panama Exposition.

Canada has a heart interest and a practical interest in the Panama Exposition. The Advertiser, in co-operation with a number of other Canadian newspapers, decided before the outbreak of war to send a party of girls to the exposition, first making the grand western tour to the Pacific coast, through the Canadian lakes and the Rocky Mountains. When the war came it was decided to carry through the bargain, no matter what the cost.

The Panama Exposition means much to the whole continent, symbolizing as it does the opening of the great canal, which is said to be more potent to Canada's future than that of any other country.

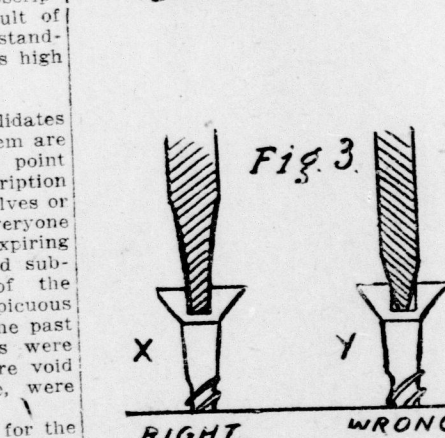

Comment Aroused.

The Canadian building at the exposition has aroused comment in every American city. The New York Journal of Commerce recently said that the great building and the extraordinary fine exhibit could not but increase American respect for the Dominion and add to Canada's power. The Toronto News feels highly elated at this compliment, and especially that part of it which says the building reflects the energy and intelligence of Canadian people.

In the big tour to the west and to the expositions, The Advertiser is co-operated with by such papers as the Mon-

Have You a Good Screwdriver?

Right Kind Rarely Found in Boy's Tool Kit, Yet It Is Important.

[By John L. Deugheny.]

That most important of tools, a good screwdriver, is rarely found in the kit of an amateur craftsman.

Boys who like to spend their spare time "making things" will find, however, that their work will run along much smoother if they provide themselves with a good screwdriver.

In buying one make sure that the steel runs the full length of the handle and is riveted to it as the type illustrated in Fig. 2 of the accompanying illustration. One made like this will never slip and will do the best work.

The right and wrong kind of point is illustrated in Fig. 2. If the point is tapered like "a" it will slip out of the slot and will strip the thread. Besides ruining everything else it will wreck your patience. You can easily file the proper kind of tip as shown in "b."

The right way to hold a screwdriver is shown in Fig. 1. The screwdriver should be held high. You cannot always adjust your work to meet this requirement, but in most cases you can put your body in a right position, drill the hole in the top piece larger than the hole in the bottom piece, and let the screw engage only in the bottom piece. Of course, you know that in every case a hole is bored for a screw just the size of the shank, which means the part of the screw exclusive of the thread. If you happen to bore a hole in the wrong place, you'll find a peg and when it is set, bore at the proper point. But don't begin actual work until you have put in some time in practice.

SPRING TIME AT THE FRONT

"I have just been watching a couple of Zeppelins flying around here," writes Pte. G. B. Clark, now with the Q. O. R. in France.

"I guess they are trying to find out where our guns are, so that they may give their gunners the range. One of our aeroplanes flew over the German trenches when we were there. It flew quite low, and they opened rapid fire on it, but they did not harm it. Rifle bullets don't seem to make much impression on an aeroplane."

"I have just learned that a friend of mine has got his. He was in the last battalion, and was shot through the heart while relieving us in the trenches. The weather has turned cold again, with a few hard frosts. We have just turned in our fur coats. I am glad to get out of them, anyway; they were so heavy and took up a lot of room. You can buy cocoa or materials here very handy. Jim Fenton and I take tea and sugar into the trenches with us. Sometimes the Germans send us in a few shells, and send the dirt into our boiling water. Old Fritz should hear the blessings showered upon him when this happens. It gets a little dirt in the trenches all the time. I would like to have a little fun in the open with them now and again."

"I think the Germans are getting all they want now. The artillery duels shake the ground for miles around. The Bishop of London gave a short address yesterday. He praised us, and said that our services were appreciated by the people at home.

"Though it is still cold, the ground has dried and the grass is beginning to show above the ground. Signs of spring are everywhere. Just in front of the trenches are a number of trees, bullet-scarred but with birds singing in the branches. It is a peaceful scene."

SHELL THROUGH HIS HAT

Private C. Chaplin Had a Narrow Escape.

"Things look very favorable for the Allies, and you can expect something new by the time you get this letter," writes Private A. Chaplin from somewhere in France to his wife in the city.

"I am sending you a piece of shell that hit my hat as it fell. The very first night we were in about a dozen shells, but little harm was done. A little piece of a shell hit my hat. We had finished our dinner, and when we finished there was a terrific shelling, and they asked us to sing 'Rule, Britannia.' We did, and when for about an hour. We live very comfortably, considering the circumstances we are under."

"I left the trench the other day and went to a farm house. I bought five loaves of bread. You may doubt my word, but it is the truth that there are people living within a half-mile of the firing line, and they seem to have no fear of the guns."

"The Germans might easily smash these houses. We are not up in the front all the time. I walked about three miles today to buy some smokes, but there was none to be had."

ENGLISHMEN PLAN MONSTER PARADE

Will Observe St. George's Day By Attending Cronyn Memorial in Body.

The members of St. George's English Benevolent Society, meeting in St. George's Hall, Richmond street, completed arrangements for an annual gathering of Englishmen on St. George's Day. Owing to the weather, the society decided not to hold the annual banquet this year, but to hold a memorial church parade on Sunday, the 25th. Rev. H. W. Norwood has consented to conduct the services in the Memorial Church, corner of Queen's avenue and William street.

The various English societies will be asked to parade with flags and banners on Richmond street at the post-office in the afternoon. An open invitation to every English man, woman and child in the city to attend is extended. Arrangements will be made with local florists to have on sale on Friday, St. George's Day, a plentiful supply of roses at reasonable rates, so as to enable everyone to wear the national emblem of Old England on this occasion. It being felt by all that some special effort should be made in acknowledgment of the great work England and the Empire generally is engaged in.

WIPE OUT LIQUOR UNDER SOCIALISM

Would Go Farther Than Government Humbugging, Says Dr. Barklie.

"I believe that under Socialism, we would wipe out absolutely the liquor traffic as long as it exists, men's minds will stop the traffic. I don't refer to the petty, little, humbugging temperance measures introduced by the present Government. Under Socialism we will stop the traffic," said Dr. R. C. Barklie, speaking at the Socialist Lyceum in Sherwood Hall, Sunday afternoon. Replying to a "personal liberty" argument, he said no man had a right to train a rattlesnake to follow him down the street. Under the subject of the industrial problems, Dr. Barklie also spoke in favor of the abolition of child labor, the improvement of factory buildings, the reduction of the hours of work, and other humanitarian movements. Referring to old-age pensions, he said there was something of charity about them, and that under Socialism they would be abolished.

INGRATITUDE MOST POPULAR SIN HERE

Rev. H. H. Bingham Speaks From Experience Gotten In This City.

CHURCHGOERS BORROW But Those Who Did, Are Missing From Pews, Pastor Says.

INGRATITUDE
That is the most popular sin in London today, declared Rev. H. H. Bingham, in the Table Street Church, Sunday night. The speaker listed intemperance, drunkenness, blasphemy, worldliness, and gossip as being terribly prevalent, but these, he said, were fortunately not popular.

INGRATITUDE IS THE MOST POPULAR SIN IN ANY COMMUNITY. Nine-tenths of any community fall in the matter of gratitude. "There are eight millions of us in Canada, and we are mostly ingrates," said Mr. Bingham.

GRATITUDE IS NOT CULTIVATED IN THE CITY. How can you expect it in the man? We are brought up to be grateful. There are few persons in London who thank God for their daily meals. Perhaps if we had to eat bread, we would remember the better fare we used to enjoy, and be grateful. When our desires are achieved we forget to be grateful. When we get what we want, we think we have a perfect right to it.

There are many people who used to thank the church every Sunday. Then they got out of work. They came to my house and borrowed money from me. Now I never see them in church any more. Perhaps that was a good way to get rid of them," the speaker remarked. "Give them a dollar or so, and then watch for their gratitude. But you can't pay all your obligations with dollars and cents; there are some things that are payable only in gratitude. Can we ever pay the debt we owe in gratitude to those who are at the front? The war tax will not begin to pay. Sometimes we make a man sit on a red-hot stove of emigration while we press him for our gratitude. We do not do that; we do it for that kind of thing. Gratitude in the home is lacking. Too often there is a constant nagging between the husband and wife, and then the children begin to realize gratitude by its absence. There is the ingratitude of sons and daughters who are breaking their mothers' hearts. Thank God that there are some children who are grateful to their parents and who are paying a contribution to them in love. If there is any one on God's earth who deserves everlasting gratitude it is your loving mother and father. Nothing can lighten the heart and take the wrinkles from an aged face like the charm of gratitude.

Dr. Fidler, acting director of the Institute of Public Health, addressed the members of the Blyth Agricultural Society on the subject of "Diseases and their Eradication." NO ROOM FOR TURK WHEN WAR IS OVER

Canon Howett Foresees Them Driven From Empire They Now Hold.

PROPHECY COMING TRUE Reassembling of Old Roman Empire, Not Including Germany, Predicted.

Rev. Canon Howett, of Hamilton, the speaker at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Sunday, sees in the war in Europe a gradual working out of Biblical prophecy. Many people had asked, he said, if the great struggle were not indeed Armageddon, but this he did not believe. Armageddon would be still more terrible and would involve every nation in the world, the East fighting the West. He did not believe, either, that the Kaiser was the Christ, or that the Pope the False Prophet, although this possibility might be the case.

The speaker foresaw as the probable outcome of the war the re-assembling of the old Roman Empire, including the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, but not Germany, indicating that the latter would revert to France, with Ireland. "The empire," he said, "is a part of the Roman Empire, again out of the combination, and with Turkey driven out of Europe and Western Asia. This result, he said, would fulfill the prophecy made by Daniel in his interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the colossus with a head of gold, the arms and chest of silver, the trunk of brass and the legs of iron, which, at the feet, was mixed with many clay. Daniel likened the component parts of this image to four world empires, which should all be broken up and supplanted by the kingdom of Jesus Christ.
