TERSELY TOLD

Notes of Last Night's services in Park St. Church.

Besides Evangelists Crossley and Hunter, Rev. Mr. Locke, Rev. Mr. Ranton and Rev. J. B. Wallwin, of Leamington, took part in the service.

Mr. Hunter read a telegram from Dr. Hannon, regretting his inability to be present, he was snow bound on way home from Dundalk.

Led by Mr. Hunter, and at his suggestion, the large audience arose to their feet and greeted Revs. Messrs. Ranton and Wallwin with a "Chatauqua Salute."

Prof. Forsythe assisted Mr. Crossley in the service of song.

Mr. Hunter, in announcing that the centre of the church is reserved for unmarried people at to-night's service, warned the ushers to question any doubtful cases and send all beneficiaries to the sides or gallery.

Rev. J. B. Wallwin is an old friend of Mr. Hunter's and his room mate of college days. They are renewing past friendships.

Mr. Ranton touched the hearts of all, and the eye found many, as he told of his conversion. Many gathered around him at the close of the service who had made his acquaintance when he was holding services in Victoria Ave. Methodist church four years ago. Mr. Crossley's subject was "From Guilt to Glory." In song and story he portrayed the Christian's trials and triumphs on his pilgrimage from the city of sin to the Land of Peace and purity.

Mr. Hunter read Luke 8th chapter and 4th verse and vividly described the scenes recorded in this chapter. In so doing he said if Christ were on his way to create a world, he would stop to succor and to save a single soul crying for help. Oh, the majesty of Christ, as He said, "maid arise." Who else could speak such words, could raise the dead? Christ is Lord of all. He conquers death, disease, and devils.

Mr. Hunter had wonderful perception, and great skill in using the incidents of the meeting, and the words of others who take part. Gathering up the gems of thought he again holds them up so that they glitter into new light, and flash with fresh force, then with a pathos irresistible, he passionately pleads with his hearers to accept Christ's salvation.

Nearly one hundred came forward as a result of last night's service.

KITCHENER'S FIRM REFUSAL OF AMNESTY TO CAPE REBELS

This is Believed to Have Been the Chief Obstacle to the Completion of Peace Negotiations.

London, Friday, March 22. — The Daily Chronicle, professing to be able to give an outline of the negotiations between Lord Kitchener and general Botha, says:—"The chief obstacle to a settlement was Lord Kitchener's refusal to grant complete amnesty to the leaders of the rebels in Cape Colony. He offered self-government on the lines of Jamaica immediately on the cessation of hostilities, with legislative bodies partly elected by the burghers. The Government agreed to provide £1,000,000 to compensate the Boers for property destroyed and articles commandeered by the Boers on commando, provided the signature of the officers who commanded the goods were forthcoming. He also offered to grant loans on easy terms for rebuilding and restocking farmsteads and, moreover, agreed the children should be instructed in English or Dutch at the discretion of their parents. The Government undertook to make no claim on church property or on the subject of hospitals, or hospital funds, or upon private investments. No burgher of either state was to be allowed to possess a rifle except by special license. Gen. Botha was generally in favor of the conditions, but he dissented strongly from a proposal to give the full privilege of citizenship to properly domiciled and registered blacks. He was also greatly concerned about the position Jewish capitalists would occupy in the country, and was told that Jews and Christians would enjoy equal rights, no distinction being made in the matter of concessions. The parliamentary papers on the subject are still delayed, but will probably appear to-day (Friday).

SOLDIERS' PAY VOTED. In the House of Commons, during the discussion of the army estimates, the Irishmen protested against the war in South Africa as unjust, and generally resorted to tactics for obstructing the adoption of the votes.

Mr. Brodrick, the War Secretary, appealed to them to allow the votes to be taken, promising that an opportunity would be given after Easter to discuss army matters. Finally Mr. Balfour applied the closure, the Irish members howling and shouting "scandalous," "cheat," and similar ejaculations. The vote for army pay was adopted by 157 to 48, and the House adjourned at 2.13 a. m.

BOER TERMS. A correspondent of the Times, who is near Bloemfontein, gives a report that General De Wet, General Botha and two other Boer commanders, according to a force of burghers at Senkal Sunday, said they were still well able to continue the war, but were ready to accept annexation on condition that the British would guarantee joint education in Dutch and English, liberty to retain sporting rifles on license, indemnity to the amount of £3,000,000 for burned farms, no franchise for natives and amnesty for all belligerents still in the field. General De Wet, according to the correspondent, has gone north to the Transvaal, after ordering a suspension of active operations until after his return.

"It is reported here," says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Mail, "that a company of American volunteers, mostly Bostonians, recently landed at Kobi Bay, Tongaland, and crossed Swaziland and joined General Louis Botha."

BOTHA KILLED. London, March 22.—A special from Cape Town, dated March 21, says that Commandant Philip Botha was killed in the recent fighting at Lydenburg. A despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated at Pretoria, March 20, says:—"Philip Botha, a brother of the Boer commandant-general, was killed on the Doornburg. His two sons were wounded."

"The Boers of the Orange River Colony have disbanded and scattered." "De Wet is in the neighborhood of Heilbron."

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA AGREE THAT BOTH WILL WITHDRAW

An Arrangement to the Effect That Both Nations Will Desert the Disputed Territory at Tien-Tsin.

London, March 21.—In the House of Lords, to-day, the Foreign Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, announced that Russia and Great Britain had agreed to withdraw their troops from the disputed territory at Tien Tsin, and reserve the question of title and proprietary rights for subsequent examination. Lord Lansdowne supplemented the announcement by explaining that the dispute concerned an extensive area on the left bank of the Pei Ho, which the Russians had occupied in the autumn, and claimed by right of conquest. Subsequently the government was informed that China and Russia had reached an agreement placing the area under Russian occupation. The area, however, comprised plots belonging to the Northern Chinese Railroad, and, therefore, was part of the security of the British bond-holders. The line was part of the railroad recently transferred by the Russians to Field Marshal Von Waldersee, who retransferred it to the British. The necessities of the allies required the construction of a siding to one of the plots referred to, and the presence of British workers on the plot was treated as trespass on Russian territory. It was subsequently alleged that the Russian boundary marks had been removed by the British. In those circumstances the government on March 16 telegraphed to its representative in China—that it thought the rights of the British or Russian troops to occupy the disputed points should be settled by Field Marshal Von Waldersee, the commander-in-chief, and General Gaselee, the British commander, was instructed to request the Field Marshal to settle the immediate differences, reserving for future examination the question of the validity of the alleged private rights. Gen. Gaselee was also instructed to refrain from using force except to repel aggression. On March 20 the alleged removal of the Russian boundary pillar occurred, and the government instructed the British minister at Peking, Sir Ernest Satow, that Great Britain was ready to refer the facts to Field Marshal Von Waldersee, on the understanding that if either side was found to have committed an irregularity it should apologize to the other. The government added that the construction of the siding should be continued under whatever conditions the Field Marshal thought fit to impose. He (Lord Lansdowne) was glad to say he had heard this morning from the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, that the Russian Foreign Minister, Count Lamsdorff, had proposed that the residents who reserve all questions of title and proprietary rights for examination of the two governments and that in the meanwhile orders forthwith sent for the withdrawal of the troops of both sides from the disputed plots. Great Britain had entirely concurred, and thought the withdrawal should be carried out to Field Marshal Von Waldersee's satisfaction. Lord Lansdowne added that Count Lamsdorff had expressed a very moderate and statesmanlike desire to avoid any cause for friction between the two governments, and since the receipt of Count Lamsdorff's proposal the government had ordered the simultaneous withdrawal of the troops to the satisfaction of Field Marshal Von Waldersee, so that there might be no room for a renewed misunderstanding in regard to the matters of detail. His Lordship expressed the hope that the result of the negotiations showed that what was really a very small matter of strictly local importance would not be allowed to disturb the relations between the two countries. The statement was received with cheers.

WILL WITHDRAW THIS MORNING.

Peking March 22, 2 a. m.—Count Von Waldersee, General Barrow and General Wogack have been in consultation, and since the receipt of Count Lamsdorff's proposal the Russian troops from the disputed ground at Tien Tsin provided the British also withdrew. He insists also upon a guarantee that the work on the railway siding should not proceed until the matter had been diplomatically adjusted. This proposal and stipulation was satisfactory to General Barrow, and were accepted by him. Consequently the British and Russian troops will be withdrawn at 5 o'clock this morning (Friday) thereby avoiding all trouble at present. Orders have been issued, however, that no British officer shall leave or even "sleep out" at night as go to dinner without furnishing his address to the adjutant. The marines will return to the ships. Admiral Seymour objects to any of the Australian naval brigade, who volunteered for service on the railway, remaining. The military authorities say he does not understand the situation, that his interference is uncalled for and that the Australian marines are just the men needed. The Russians have ordered a regiment to proceed from Port Arthur to Tien Tsin.

The Grand Trunk Railway system announces that their special fast train service between Toronto and the summer resorts in Muskoka and Georgian Bay, will, for the season of 1901, be operated northbound from Saturday, June 15th, until Saturday Sept. 28th, inclusive, and southbound from Monday, June 17th, until Monday Sept. 30th, inclusive. This is several weeks longer than usual, but each year it is found that the residents who are served by this extra service are extending their visits, and they will doubtless appreciate the continuance of the special service during the whole of September, which is one of the most attractive months of the season.

RAILROAD GETS COAL CONTRACT

Water Commissioners Award Civic Supply to the L. E. & D. R. R.

Several Tenders Submitted—Board Believes it has Saved $600 in its Award.

A special meeting of the Water Commissioners was held last evening in Harrison Hall. There were present, Chairman Dr. Bray and W. D. Sheldon. The meeting was called in order to open the tenders for coal for the ensuing year and let the said contract.

A number of gentlemen were present who had put in tenders and were heard relative to their coal. On motion of Mr. Sheldon, the tender of the L. E. & D. R. R. was accepted for the forthcoming year, which the board viewed as a better coal than the others by actual test and meaning a saving of more than $600 a year over the other minerals. It was decided not to have the tenders made public on request of the different coal firms.

It was also decided to let the Grand Trunk have water, as they intend repairing their tanks if proper arrangements can be made.

A CORRECTION.
In the report that appeared in yesterday's Planet re the remand of Davis, the man arrested by Detective Skirving for trespass on the Lake Erie, Judge Houston was made to say that "he didn't think the man was being given a fair show. He was out on ticket of leave and should not have been arrested simply for walking on the railroad." What the judge desired to say was that Davis was out on ticket of leave and his arrest for trespass on the railroad alone, should not forfeit his ticket of leave. The Planet regrets the error.

THE CITY ENGINEER CASE.

At the meeting of the civic Board of Works, held last evening, six "complaints" against the late City Engineer were submitted in response to the advertisement of the chairman, Ald. W. S. Marshall. These six embodied five specific errors alleged against Mr. Shackleton, viz.:— that the catch basin at the corner of Head and Baldoon Sts. was too high to successfully do its work; that the sidewalk on St. Clair street was built on too high an embankment; that the Sheldon Ave. drain was faulty and defective; that the sidewalk on Lorne Ave. was below the boulevard and that the sidewalk on King St. East was built too high.

Five of these "complaints" were made out upon the printed forms, which have been hawked around for the securing of signatures to alleged grievances.

As against the five "complaints," the Board of Works has also submitted to them one of the most largely signed and representative petitions ever presented to a council, professing conviction in the competency of the late engineer and asking for his reinstatement.

The "complaints" are being investigated by the Board of Works to-day. In the statement that this matter should be dealt with entirely apart from sentiment, The Planet concurs most heartily—unless all other things prove equal, in which case it has always proved the policy of this journal to earnestly advocate the advancement of home labor. Again—and we are confident that the members of the Council themselves will agree with us—we do not believe that Mr. Shackleton has received justice, not even a pittance of that British fair play in which we are all wont to pride ourselves. No specific charges were brought against the official; he was given no opportunity to put in a defense to any the aldermen might have in mind; he was simply dismissed.

Summarily without official cause. This we regard as regrettable and deplorable, yet whatever argument might be based upon it in Mr. Shackleton's behalf—and certainly it would be a sound one to address to Canadian citizens—must perforce, largely partake of sentiment.

The problem before our civic representatives is simply this—Would the re-engagement of J. W. Shackleton as city engineer be a profitable investment for Chatham? The Planet solicits the conscientious consideration of our aldermen to this question alone.

Chatham must possess a city engineer. The ratepayers have issued their mandate thereof by law and no one doubts the wisdom of their edict. The first duty then of our civic representatives, we take it, in view of the heavy tax rate from which the citizens suffer, is to secure a satisfactory incumbent at the most reasonable remuneration. Providing, then, that Mr. Shackleton does meet the qualifications, he is certainly the choice. Civic engineering experts are not often picked up begging by the wayside, and to bring one from the outside to serve in our city—one thoroughly efficient—we would find it necessary to pay him his price, a price which comparison with other cities possessing satisfactory engineers is shown to range from $2,500 to $7,000 per year. Chatham paid Mr. Shackleton for his services $850.

An outside engineer commencing operations here must necessarily work at a serious disadvantage for some time—a disadvantage which in all likelihood would prove both costly and troublesome to the city. The re-engagement of Mr. Shackleton would avoid this. He knows our town, understands its somewhat intricate drainage system, is thoroughly acquainted with the outlay of its sewers and is master of the hundred and one internal details that would keep an outsider hopelessly guessing. The expense and annoyance of necessary experiments and unavoidable initiatory mistakes can be done away with by his re-engagement.

Mr. Shackleton has served the city for two years. During that time thousands of dollars' worth of permanent improvements have progressed and been completed under his supervision. These works have proved satisfactory and the city, during his tenure, has suffered from no lawsuits, injunctions and what-nots thereupon. This should prove the test of competence.

With regard to the "complaints" last evening it is not within our province to deal at present. They are in the hands of the Board of Works for investigation. But have not even these "complaints" their message of endorsement, even allowing that as yet we have no right to question them? It speaks well for the engineer that, after two years of arduous service, covering a vast amount of civic work, and the busy and energetic peddling of several hundred "complaint" blanks by parties eagerly interested themselves in his downfall, but five could be secured for presentation to the Board of Works.

The citizens' petition expressing confidence in Mr. Shackleton's competency and asking his reinstatement

HOLE IN THE LUNGS

There are thousands of men and women, as well as ever, with holes in their lungs: consumption stopped.

Consumption stopped is consumption cured. What does it?

Some change in the way of life and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

With the emulsion, give some attention to circumstances: change from a dark damp close room to a sunny dry airy one; from city to country; from hard to an easy life; indoors to out.

A hole in the lungs once healed is no worse than a too-tight waist or waistcoat.

Take the emulsion, and give it a chance to heal the wound.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Toronto, Canada.

is deserving of the fullest consideration. It is signed by gentlemen who, to a large extent foot the city's bills and will assist materially in paying Mr. Shackleton's civic remuneration in event of his re-appointment. They are men who have made their own business a success, men with whom sentiment cannot stand in the way of the best business interests, and men to whom—as heavy taxpayers—the city's business interests are identical with their own. Surely this petition should deserve to have much weight with the representatives of the city's business interests in the council.

The Planet has sought to be fair in this matter. It has certainly been conscientious. It is only actuated by what it believes to be the city's best interests. It has not been able to see the force of the convincing argument, advanced by Mr. Shackleton's only and apparently interested traducer, that "in our opinion he is a poor investment," which opinion the public was assured it could back up with "scores" of complaints if only opportunity were afforded, but which—when that opportunity was furnished by Ald. Marshall—it failed to embrace, even to the small extent of one "complaint." Does it strike the citizens of Chatham powerfully with its unsupported "in our opinion" libels upon the man whom it seeks to crush?

Ald. Marshall took a manly stand at the meeting last evening. "I do not desire to favor Mr. Shackleton or any one else," he said, "and I trust no questions of sentimentalism will affect us. I am here as a representative of the whole city, petitioners and complainants, and I desire to be fair, thorough and impartial throughout this investigation. My finding, whatever it may be, shall only be made upon the conviction that it is right and in the best interests of the city."

These are manly words. May our Council adopt the same high standard in dealing with the case.

THE TRUE RECORD.

With its policy to brag and bluster the Ross government has been making a brave endeavor to cover up the record of the past, to cause the people of the province to forget the thievery and corruption practiced by "the machine" to keep in office the men who could not poll a majority of the free and independent vote, to make the province believe that they are progressive and are not responsible for the neglect and mismanagement which has been characteristic of the past. Therefore, when the Ross combination is making this brave effort, it is not surprising that the leaders became irritated and ill-tempered when the true state of affairs is unveiled and the government exposed to its true colors. The other day when Mr. Whitney was convicting the government of having stolen its policy, Mr. Ross lost his temper and actually told Mr. Whitney to "sit down." Needless to say, the order was not obeyed until the leader of the Opposition had concluded his speech.

The Ottawa independent publication, Events, thus comments on this scene and its cause:

"It is evident that the government are far from comfortable under the charge that their saw log policy, of which they have boasted so loudly, and which has been such a gratifying success, is plagiarized. It was while smarting under this charge, driven home by Mr. Whitney, that the Premier lost his temper. But what is the use of denying it? The evidence that the policy was stolen from the Opposition is public property and is absolutely conclusive. Some fourteen years ago Mr. Meredith, then leader of the Opposition, proposed what is practically the present saw log policy. On several occasions the opposition have embodied the policy in resolutions and offered them to the Legislature, but always to be strenuously opposed by the government. Mr. Ross is himself on record as declaring that the true policy is to sell the timber to the highest bidder without imposing manufacturing conditions calculated to frighten away American millionaires. He denounced the proposal to impose manufacturing conditions as a policy of 'No American need apply.' Up to 1897 the most honest government could be coaxed or driven to adopting the Canadian policy was the passage of an order-in-council in September of that year, requiring that all lumbermen's supplies should be purchased in Canada, and that only Canadians should be employed in the lumber camps. Even this was only done after the government had been assured by the deputation of 'Michigan' lumbermen at the celebrated 'secret conference' that such an order-in-council would entail no hardship upon them, as it only required them to do what they were in the habit of doing of their own accord, for business reasons. Even a few days before the government finally decided to adopt as their own policy, that which for twenty years, they had been antagonizing and denouncing, they rallied their followers to vote down Mr. Macdougall's resolution declaring in favor of that policy, both Premier Hardy and Commissioner of Crown Lands (now Attorney-General) Gibson, making strong speeches in opposition to the imposition of a manufacturing clause."

Good for Halliday and North Bruce!

Who settled for the printing of those "complaint" blanks?

Sir Richard Cartwright is the political contortionist of the century.

Did the other 495 "complaint" blanks go begging. Some should be saved as mementos.

It is evident from his latest utterances that Sir Richard, of blue ruin fame, will never be himself again.

"There is a lot of dry humor in De Wet jokes," remarked the Bright Contributor; "by the way, I see if he is caught De Wet will get soaked."

If such a noise is made over a few feet of land for a railway siding, what a row there would be over the division of the whole of China.

It would tend to make dueling unpopular if the code could be altered so as to limit the choice of weapons to lyddite hand grenades at ten paces.

Mr. Whitney's educational declaration was such good public policy that the Toronto Globe took care not to print it. By suppressing every proposition that a leader makes the pretence that he is without a purpose is the more easily kept-up.

Did the same party who supplied the motive for the attack upon Mr. Shackleton also supply the price for the printing of those "complaint" blanks which were so eagerly peddled from house to house throughout the city? You have the floor, Banner, old boy. It's up to you.

For a genuine, interested, persistent and unprincipled persecutor, commend us to the genius who designed, printed and hawked those 500 "complaint" blanks.

It was certainly amusing to watch the eyes of the gentlemen on the Board of Works bulge when the dray arrived last evening with those "scores" of complaints the Banner didn't have after all.

Of the 500 city engineer "complaint" blanks that were struck off and handed around the city only five were, forced upon the citizens. A large quantity of waste paper can now, it is understood, be purchased at bargain prices.

Perhaps our contemporary has some explanations it would like to give the Board of Works. The aldermen appeared quite interested in the few specimens of those 500 "complaint" blanks they got their eyes on last night.

When the Ross Government made a grant of land to the Canadian heroes of the South African war, there was a string to it, and the string was attached to all three was in the proposition worth having. It is stipulated that the recipients of the grant shall not own an inch of the timber or an ounce of the ore, if any should be found in or upon these lands. The Government is willing to grant the heroes the earth, but it wants to hang on to the fullness thereof.

The three civic representatives on the Board of Works hastened to assure each other and the press last evening that they knew nothing of, and had nothing whatever to do with, the secret printing and peddling of those "complaint" blanks. They were not desirous of being in any way identified with the "enterprising" deal.

FUN FOR THE PLEBE.

A WEST POINT CADET WHO KNOCKED OUT ALL COMERS.

He Whipped Thirty Yonks of the Yearling Class and Then Finished Up Every Man of the First Class Who Called Him Out.

The hazers of West Point ran up against a "hard proposition" when they encountered John Patrick Sullivan of Louisiana. He is the youth of muscle and brawn who as a plebe whipped 30 of the "yearling" class and every cadet of the first class who called him out. He was so busy with fights that sometimes he had as many as four in one day, and he never lost a battle. He was the best "scrapper" the Military Academy ever saw and as a plebe used to whip upper class men as fast as they appeared before him.

Sullivan was "found in fault" in January, 1897. "Found in fault" means "found deficient in mathematics." He therefore left the academy, but the remembrance of his progress still remains there. In his "plebe class" he was of equal weight with him and whipped them all, sometimes meeting as many as four. Then the first class was weighed in. Sullivan met the "rapid plebe," on a matter of the "rapid plebe," and kept the doctors at the hospital busy. Scarcely a day but some man reported at the hospital with a disfigured face which he had received by "running into a tree." Before July was over Sullivan was no longer the "rapid plebe," but the "terrible plebe."

He was a rawboned youth from Louisiana and eminently built for fighting. He was not a quarrelsome fellow by any means, but his name and his prowess caused him a lot of trouble. It was a case of fight with him as soon as he went into barracks as a "beast." Several years ago Sullivan was the customary visitor and asked the usual questions. When the festive yearlings found that his name was Sullivan, they asked, "Are you John L. Sullivan?"

"No," replied the candidate; "I am John P. Sullivan."

After the usual instructions about the use of "air" and "water" the yearling asked, "Can you fight, sir?" was the reply.

"But don't you know that you have got to fight to keep up the reputation of your name?"

Sullivan said he would fight if obliged to do so, and as soon as he had passed his preliminary examination and was in "plebe camp" his fighting days began. The first man who called him "devil" him on his first day in barracks was the first one he whipped. It can be imagined that he fought his first fight at the Point with a good heart. After that he was knocked out 30 of the yearling class. After Sullivan had beaten all comers he was not deviled by the upper class men and in the fall was given a place on the football team.

Sullivan got his share of hazing at first and took it without a murmur. Once they told him to stand at the door of his room and whistle long and loud. He never resented any of the usual tests which were applied to cadets, but the readiness with which he accepted them and the rapidity with which he put his opponents out of commission were traits which made the upper class men rather wary of deviling him.

The youth from Louisiana was respected at the Point for his physical qualities, even if the academic board had doubts as to his mathematical ability. Perhaps he would have done better in "math" if he had not had so much to do. It is rather difficult to "bone math" and whip four upper class men a day. Sullivan's name is one which will long be a consolation to the plebes among the fourth class men at the academy, for the days when fighting are over the class feeling is very strong at the Point, and it is always a consolation to plebes to be able to tell tales of the physical prowess of another plebe, even though he has fallen from the ranks. Many officers now in the service also are proud of the fighting ability of John Patrick Sullivan.

Plebe Sullivan was tall, muscular and well built, with not an ounce of useless flesh on him. Every movement of his body denoted strength and agility, and those who felt the grip of his big hands thought their fingers had been in the jaws of a vise.

When he had his first fight, no particular attention was paid to the affair, as the average plebe does not know much about fighting, and it was taken for granted that the yearling who had called him out would get the better of the battle. But Sullivan returned to camp without a scratch, while the yearling, with the help of several of his classmates, went to the hospital for rest, recuperation and repairs. Then it was that the yearling class got together and began to call out the "rapid plebe" one after the other. It was necessary, according to the code, to take the plebe's consent out of him, and so the series of fights began which resulted so disastrously to the upper class men. After he had whipped every man of his weight in the yearling class it was decided at a class meeting that he should be let alone. It was then that the first class took a hand, with no better results than the yearlings. But, alas, Sullivan could not "get away" with mathematics as easily as he could with "scrapping" cadets, and his career at the Point was brief, though never dull.

More Work to Do.

An old couple in the west of Scotland removed to a large town, and the husband bought an alarm clock to wake him in the morning, as he had to go some distance to his work.

A few weeks afterward the couple got two young men as lodgers, who asked to be awakened at the same time as themselves.

When the husband was winding up the clock that night, his wife said to him: "Now, Jock, ye'll have to gie the clock a gude winding the night. Ye see it has two mair to waken the morn!"—London Spare Moments.

Pleased to Meet Him.

"You always look pleased when you meet Jibbs." "Yes, he once tried to cheat me and couldn't."

A majority of persons take years off their lives through eating too much while all the time they are under the impression that they are indeed being strictly moderated.

THE MOUTH BREATHER.

Why He Is Always Tired and Depressed in the Morning.

Few people realize what an important organ the nose is. It is the first of the organs of respiration, and unless its functions are well performed the whole breathing process is deranged. The nostrils are not open cavities with smooth walls through which the air passes in and out, as it would through a rubber tube. They are divided into several compartments by bony projections covered with mucous membrane, and the volume of air entering is broken up into several streams, so that all of it comes in contact with the lining membrane.

This warm and moist membrane catches the dust and other impurities and warms the air so that it will do no harm when coming in contact with the more delicate membrane in the bronchial tubes and lungs.

When the nose is stopped up from any cause, one must breathe through the mouth, and if this is continued for any length of time the general health will inevitably suffer.

The mouth itself suffers first. The mucous membrane loses its moisture and becomes inflamed. The air is neither warmed nor purified, and it irritates the lining membrane of the air passages all the way down to the lungs, so that a condition of sluggish inflammation is excited.

But the general effects are more serious than the local. One who has a mouth breather never gets enough air. During the day he suffers less in this respect, for the nerve centers are more active and force the respiratory muscles to act more energetically, but at night this vigilance is relaxed, the amount of inspired air is greatly reduced and all the tissues suffer for want of oxygen. For this reason the mouth breather always feels tired and out of sorts in the morning.

The mind suffers as well as the body, and mouth breathing children are almost always backward in their studies.

The question of the cause of mouth breathing, or rather of nasal obstruction, on which the mouth breathing depends, must be reserved for another article. As a rule, it is easily found on examination by the physician and can be removed without difficulty. What we would insist upon here is the absolute necessity of its early removal.

A child who always breathes with open mouth and whose voice has a nasal twang should be examined and treated at the earliest possible moment, for the longer the trouble exists the worse it is for the child mentally, morally and physically.—Youth's Companion.

THEATRICAL SALARIES.

What the Stage Favorites of a Century Ago Were Paid.

What were the favorite actors of a century ago paid? In 1801 there was only one theater of consequence in New York city, the Park theater, which was located on Park street, near Beaman street, in the vicinity of what is now the entrance to Brooklyn bridge.

The Park theater then had a stock company of 25 members, and, if historians of that day are to be relied upon, performances of a very high grade of merit were given. These performances attracted all the fashionable world of that day. Here are the names of the players and their salaries:

Mr. Hodgkinson.....	$50	Mrs. Hodgkinson.....	$50
Mr. Cooper.....	25	Mrs. Melmoth.....	25
Mr. Hallam.....	25	Mrs. Hallam.....	25
Mr. Jefferson.....	25	Mrs. Seymour.....	10
Mr. Martin.....	25	Mrs. E. Westray.....	18
Mr. Tyler.....	25	Mrs. Hogg.....	14
Mr. Fox.....	18	Mrs. A. Brett.....	14
Mr. Hallam.....	18	Mrs. Harding.....	10
Mr. Perkins.....	12	Mrs. Perkins.....	10
Mr. Lee.....	12	Mrs. King.....	6
Mr. Seymour.....	9	Mrs. Hogg.....	6
Master Stockwell.....	4

What would the matinee idols and popular comedians of today think of such compensation for their labors?

John Hodgkinson, who was one of the first lessees of the Park theater, which was opened on Jan. 20, 1792, had been a member of the John Street theater stock company. He was born in Manchester, England, in 1767. Hodgkinson appeared with success in England before he came to this country. Low comedy was his forte, but he was a remarkably versatile actor and great favorite. Ireland says:

"He played tragedy, genteel and light comedy, opera and pantomime with alacrity, most equal ability, and his desire to monopolize the heroes in almost every department caused many and bitter quarrels with his professional brethren."

Mrs. Hodgkinson, who was formerly Miss Brett of the Bath (England) theater, was the daughter of a singer at Covent Garden. She was a sourette and, according to Ireland, "an excellent and versatile actress."—Exchange.

Royal Treasure and Trash.

Probably the queerest aggregation of treasure and trash is in the shah's palace in Teheran, Persia. Here, in the gallery of art, side by side, are hung a picture issued by thread manufacturers whose trademark has gone all over the world and a beautiful painting by a well known Italian artist, the gift of a sovereign. On a sideboard in the peacock throneroom are exhibited a dozen nickel plated knives, forks and spoons. In this room, on the right of the famous peacock throne, which was valued by the late Sir Richard Burton at $25,000,000, stands a splendidly carved mahogany table. On the table repose, with an air of oriental elegance, an empty cognac bottle. No one knows what the bottle means or who put it there—that is, no one but the shah, and no one is asking him about it.

The Minister's Answer.

A certain editor who went on a vacation left a minister in charge of his paper. A day or two later a letter from "a wayback" subscriber came which read: "You know well I paid my subscription the last time I was in your town. If I get any more such letters, I will come down and maul hell out of you."

The minister answered, "I have been trying to maul that thing out of the editor for ten years, and if you really come down and maul it out of him then my dear sir, I have 20 members of my church you can operate on."—Exchange.

MARVELS IN MILLINERY

Thos. Stone & Son Inaugurate the Spring Season With a Delightful Display.

A Glance at Their Captivating Show-Room and the Charming Creations It Contains.

There is no season of the year when the large dry goods stores present a brighter appearance than during the time of the spring millinery openings. Yesterday afternoon the establishment of Thomas Stone & Son, opened its semi-annual millinery display. The staff of skilled hat and bonnet beautifiers and their diligent assistants have been busy for the past two or three weeks preparing for the spring inauguration. The dainty and delightful results of their efforts and taste are now plainly evident in the extensive exhibition, one of the most beautiful and varied of its kind in the city. The hats, which were shown at the opening yesterday.

The show-room—a veritable charmer for the fair heart—presented a bright and picturesque appearance. Nature contributed the large and beautiful palms which graced the entrance and flanking sentinels-like the mirrors, and exquisite draperies of damask and lace curtains—the most winning and expensive decorations there are—as one of the young salesladies smilingly expressed it—furnished proof that art can oftentimes vie with nature. The curtains gave soft effects and afforded a splendid background for the display of the variegated marvels of millinery.

The hats of this year are nearly all of the heavy, massive variety and there are some decidedly new ideas in shapes and colors.

The fashionable shades this year are pale blue, pink, rose and champagne. The prettiest combinations are being made from the shades black, white, gold and pink.

The shape and styles of the hats this year are of great variety. A few of the prettiest hats may be described. A beautiful hat, which was on display yesterday, was of oriental design, made up in champagne shades, with pretty tucked tulle facing, a gold sequin rim and trimmed with brown velvet and gold buckles.

Another pretty hat is the pancake, made of lawn straw and brown tulle, with an Arabian lace scarf. The hat was trimmed with a bow of brown velvet ribbon. Foliage on the band completed the decoration of this beautiful and artistic creation.

A decidedly handsome effect in ladies' head covering has been realized in the 'L'ignon. The brim is overlaid with Arabian lace, the edge is sequin and the crown is tucked tulle, with a gold sequin trim.

A large consignment of children's hats were passed through the customs to-day. These are direct from the New York wholesale market, and are made in pale blue and pink muslin de soie.

The opening day was the best in the history of the establishment of Thos. Stone & Son, and the many who saw the display of hats were so taken with the new designs and beauty of trimmings that a record number of sales were registered.

From Birds and Nature Magazine.

"If all the birds should die, not a human being could live on earth, for the insects on which the birds live, would increase so enormously as to destroy all vegetation."—Michelet.

"Prof. E. E. Fish estimates that birds save, for agricultural purposes alone, annually, one hundred million dollars in the United States, and we are told that insect life, in many places, has increased so as to make human life almost unendurable."

"I am in thorough accord with the proposition to have the birds protected, and my words cannot be clothed in too strong language. We are a nation of vandals. Birds and the choir of the heavens and should be protected."—Cardinal Gibbons.

TROUBLE IN SIGHT.

Politicians of both parties are enquiring as to the truth in the reported rumor that Col. Loya, M. P. P., for London, has handed in his resignation, owing to a difference with the members of the Government in regard to supporting his fishery bill, prohibiting seine fishing in the Thames. A meeting of leading local Liberals is reported to have been held Wednesday night to endeavor to smooth over the difficulty, but whether they succeeded or not is known only to themselves.

You will see by this issue that the Gordon store is bound to be noted for its special sales. This is their third sale of ladies' tailored suits and spring jackets beginning on Tuesday next, the 27th. From a close inspection we believe these travellers' samples surpass in every way the ordinary ready-to-wear garments. Their completeness of finish, their silk linings, steel buttons, buttons, trimmings and superior workmanship and all of them the very latest styles made for this spring's trade, give our lady friends a fine opportunity to secure an Easter outfit at a very moderate outlay. Read the advertisement and see the goods. 2nd St.

ENDORSES BY-LAW.

To the Editor of The Planet,—Sir,—As a number of citizens have asked my opinion of the Dowsley springs, and their proposed factory, I beg to say, I have used their springs for a number of years and have found them superior to any I have ever used. I believe, should the Dowsley spring factory come to Chatham that its success is assured. Mr. Editor, the quality of the production of any factory is the best proof of its success. I have read the by-law carefully and believe it the duty of every citizen to help our council in procuring all the factories we can, for it is such institutions that make the city. I consider it wise to give a trifle as an inducement to manufacturers to locate here, and stop their throwing away money to baseball clubs and public holidays and all such useless expenditures.

Respectfully ROBERT MILNER.

GIVE AID TO UNIVERSITY

Ontario Government Recognises the Petitions of the Alumni.

Will Bear Cost of Teaching Chemistry, Physics, Geology, Mineralogy.

The bill which many have been looking for with great interest—the one which declares the Ontario Government's intentions toward Toronto University—was introduced quite unexpectedly in the Legislature last night by the Minister of Education. As foreshadowed by the Premier, in replying to the alumni of the university last week, Government aid will be restricted to the scientific branches. The measure provides that the province shall pay the salaries of instructors in chemistry, physics, geology, and mineralogy, and the cost of maintaining these departments.

It is estimated that this will involve an initial expenditure of $20,000 for the current year, as the bill is intended to go into effect immediately. This will be over and above the regular provincial grant of $7,000 per year. The representatives of the university have declared that $50,000 per annum is necessary to enable the institution to efficiently discharge its functions. The management of finance and property is to be vested in a board of nine trustees, of whom five will be appointed by the government. A new official is created—the principal of University college, the government has not yet appointed him.

It is claimed that under the bill matters of money, finance, and property are kept quite distinct from academic or educational matters.

PROVISIONS FOR FEDERATION.

Provision is made that in the event of Trinity University applying for federation before January 1, 1902, it shall have proportional voting power in regard to the senate and other administrative bodies. A further clause reads as follows:—

A site in the Queen's park for new buildings for Trinity University shall be reserved as may be agreed upon between the trustees of the University of Toronto and the senate of Trinity University.

Such site shall be occupied free of ground rent and all other charges by Trinity University so long as said Trinity University remains federated, but in the event of the withdrawal of Trinity University from federation, then said site shall be paid for at a valuation to be determined by arbitrators, one to be appointed by the trustees of the university, and one by the authorities of Trinity University. In the case of disagreement the Lieutenant-Governor shall appoint a third arbitrator.

QUINTETTE OF COMPLAINTS

A Few of the Printed Blanks Reached Ald. Marshall Safely.

The Board of Works are Investigating To-day—Chairman Takes Manly Stand.

His colleagues circled around him, when at a few moments past eight o'clock last evening, Ald. Marshall, chairman of the Board of Works, bustled into the civic committee room and produced a series of six complaint forms against the late city engineer. The chairman spread them out and carefully numbered them. Then he viewed them somewhat critically and smiled.

The other aldermen present looked up enquiringly. "I was just noting the ingenious printed blanks upon which the first five of these complaints are registered," said Ald. Marshall, again smiling. "Now, I don't suppose it's any business of ours, but I was just wondering where they were gotten out." Ald. Pritchard took one and sized it up. "I'm sure I don't know anything about it, either," he said. "Nor I," added Ald. Mounteer. "In fact I never saw it until Mr. Snell dropped into the store this evening with one of them."

The aldermen conferred again and someone, evidently not sufficiently coached in the wiles of this wicked world, opened his heart and said they might have originated in the Banner-News office.

Then the aldermen all smiled. The printed form of the interesting complaint blank was as follows:—
Chatham, Ont., March —, 1901.
To Mr. W. S. Marshall,
Chairman Board of Works,
Harrison Hall, City.

Dear Sir:—
In the matter of the city engineer of the city of Chatham, the statement is hereby made that the

(Signed by)
(If you believe the late city engineer made serious mistakes in the section of the city in which you reside, fill out the above and mail or send to W. S. Marshall, Chairman Board of Public Works, Harrison Hall, before Thursday next.)

The chairman filed the complaints as follows:—

NO. I.
At the junction of Head and Baldwin streets the catch basin westerly from St. Clair street on Baldwin street) too high to drain the part of Head St. in front of the property and at the side of the Red Star grocery and that at the time said catch basin was being built exception was taken to the same.

CHARLES A. TERRY.
FRED. W. WARD.

NO. II.

Said city engineer Mr. Shackleton constructed in front of our property on St. Clair street in the city of Chatham last year a four foot plank sidewalk that is a menace to the public and at a cost far beyond what was necessary to build said walk. Instead of allowing it to follow the natural grading of the land it was placed upon a raised embankment made of earth unnecessarily drawn by teams at the expense of the undersigned and cutting off the drainage and interfering with the natural fall of the water which should enter the sewer for which we are already heavily taxed. The engineer was remonstrated with at the time but would take no suggestions. This walk has depreciated the value of our property, is unnecessarily expensive, is dangerous and interferes with drainage and health of the community. We charge the engineer with incompetency in its construction and ask you to have it taken up and relaid to the satisfaction of the ratepayers. We do not intend to pay for this walk in its present condition unless compelled to do so by the courts and in the meantime we will hold the city liable for all damages.

MICHAEL JONES.
J. C. McLEAN.
BENJAMIN BLONDE.

NO. III.

That the drain dug on Sheldon Ave. is not done properly. I was the one who interviewed the board of works to get the drain dug in order to take off the surplus water in the spring.

The said J. W. Shackleton came to look at the lay out. I went with him and showed him a low place in the ditch and told him if he took the water from there, that was all that was needed. Say! he gave me one look: as much as to say do you know enough to pound sand and not get it in your eyes, and then went away. Time passed and no drain so I went to see the board of works again and asked them to come out, which they did, and Mr. Shackleton with them. They stopped at my place, and I told them what I had told Mr. Shackleton and went to show them the low spot in the ditch, but the "Great I am," Mr. J. W. Shackleton drove off as if he owned the city and said he intended to go a foot deeper, said it is not necessary—it's only throwing away more money. He went ahead and we all know the rest. He carted away the dirt, and then he carted dirt back again, and now it is worse than before.

G. A. THOMPSON.

NO. IV.

That the work done on the Sheldon Ave. drain was of a very unsatisfactory kind and is then to be seen by any who wish to investigate, and the undersigned ratepayers consider that the said J. W. Shackleton is not a competent engineer for the city of Chatham.

WM. L. FIFE.

MRS. SARAH BISHOP.

NO. V.

That the sidewalk on Lorne Ave. is too low, far below the boulevard and street, making the walking bad in the spring. The engineer was asked to put it higher, but paid no attention to the request of the ratepayers.

W. L. SNELL.

NO. VI.

To the Chairman of the Board of Works of the City of Chatham: Relative to the sidewalk laid by Engineer Shackleton in front of my property on King St., east of C. P. Railroad, I consider by the elevation of the sidewalk I have been damaged to the amount of $400; all water from the railroad has been thrown on me.

JNO. GREEN.

Chatham, March 21, 1901.

Nos. 3 and 4 embody the same complaint. Ald. Marshall said that there were two other matters which he intended to ask the Board to also deal with in this investigation. They were that of the engineer certifying to $1.50 extra per week for five weeks in Foreman Leber's wages and that of the C. P. R. connection. In both of these he had received new evidence upon the matters, which largely vindicated Mr. Shackleton and he believed the fullest justice should be done. He desired to go about this investigation in a thorough and fair manner, not with any desire of sentimentalism, but in the highest interests of the city at large. If Mr. Shackleton had been blamed wrongfully he was entitled to the benefit of a full investigation and righting.

Ald. Pritchard—He certainly is. Ald. Marshall—I cannot impress the idea too strongly that the investigation be thorough.

Ald. Pritchard—The parties complaining should be asked to appear.

Ald. Marshall—Yes, and we should view the works ourselves and take the engineer with us. It would assist, too, if the parties were on the ground. They might not come to the meeting.

It was decided to investigate the charges on the morrow, notifying the parties and the engineer.

Bud Gibson presented an account for hauling 55 extra loads of dirt off the street, at 12 1/2 cents per load which was allowed.

A GIRL OF GRIT.

BY MAJOR ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY R. F. PENNO & CO.

I went back then to the Strath Green road, asking all and several for my galloping hansom cab. There were very few people about at this early hour, only the policeman, and they looked very shy at my tramp's clothes, giving no answer. At last a couple of decent farm folk bringing in milk told me they had passed a hansom with a worn horse on the far side of Ham-mersmith bridge, in the district of Barnes.

By the time I reached the Strathallan road it was broad daylight. I found a long road of detached villa houses, each in its own garden, many with stables adjoining. I figured it out, as I walked up and down this road twice, that one of these cottages was just suited for the purpose of sequestering Captain Wood, if he could be got to it. He could be driven straight into the stable yard; the cab would be no more seen when the coach house door closed behind him, and no one near the neighbors nor the police would be a bit the wiser as to what mischief was being worked inside.

It took me just two hours to examine the entrance gates of every villa house with stables in that road. In three of them there were the new tracks of wheels marked plainly in the thick lying summer dust. I could not discover which were the most recent, but I carefully noted the numbers of these houses, meaning to put a watch upon them all.

I called up the boy Joseph Vialis, a very smart young squire, too, from the office in Norfolk street, as soon as I could get a telegram through. By the time he arrived I had narrowed my investigations to a single point for further observation.

The day had so far advanced that the business of life was well begun. I saw the blinds drawn up in two of the houses, the front doors opened, the women help busy shaking the mats and washing down the stoops. Presently some of the young folks ran out into the gardens, and I could see the family gatherings round the breakfast tables. From which on the early morning air came the smell of hot coffee and English breakfast bacon, with the temptation of Tantalus for a starving man who had been out all night. All this while the third house remained closed, hermetically sealed. It was closed up, tight shut, not a sign of life in it. When I reached my lodgings in Norfolk street I was pretty well washed out. But I turned in for an hour and at 10 a. m. woke much refreshed. As I dressed with care I pondered deeply over this business and the course that I should adopt.

My first and most urgent duty was to secure the release of Mr. Wood, always supposing that my gentleman was a person actually carried off in the cab. At present I had no certainty of this, only a bit more than strong suspicion. Yet if I could ascertain that he had not returned home I should be justified in taking surmise for fact.

First I went to Clarges street. The man there remembered me, but looked strangely when I inquired for Captain Wood.

"You have not heard the news, then?" he said.

"What in thunder is there to hear more than I have to tell you?" I asked, nettled at thinking some one was before me.

"Why, that the captain has met with an accident. He slipped up somehow last night or early this morning and hurt himself badly."

"Who told you that story? Do you believe it?"

"I believe the captain's own handwriting."

"Here, read it for yourself. It's not all his own, of course, and you will understand why. But that's his name at the bottom there sure enough."

It was written on good gray note paper in a fair running hand, and it said:

Savory, I've come to grief driving home. Horse slipped upon the curb and I was thrown out of the cab. Some kind people picked me up and are taking good care of me. But I shan't be able to move hand or foot for some days. Send me by leave postman's of things—shirts, dressing gown, dittoes, checkbook, letters, papers and the rest. Yours, W. A. Wood.

"And you sent them? How?"

"By the cab that brought the letter."

"Why didn't you go with them yourself?"

"I thought of it certainly, and I wish I had."

"You may well wish that. And now, if you will be guided by me, you'll go and find out 17A Laburnum street right away, if there's any such place at all."

"Oh, but there is. It's in the directory."

"Is that so? Well, if you come across Mr. Wood there I'll run you for next president of the United States. You've got just the face for a postage stamp."

"What in the name of conscience d'ye mean? What's 'appened to him, then?"

"It's my opinion that Captain Wood has fallen among thieves, brigands, worse—ruffians, who'll hold him to ransom for blackmail, rob, murder him. God knows what, unless some of us can circumvent their blackguard maneuvers. And I am going to try. I don't believe in cab accidents and Laburnum streets. You may, so you'd better go and judge for yourself."

But he was not going to find him in Laburnum street. I was pretty sure of that, but it was right to look there on the off chance that this story was true. For myself I was more than ever persuaded of foul play, and I considered I was bound to lay the whole matter before the London police.

I was not very well received at Scotland Yard. They told me to get proper credentials, a certificate from the American consul. I was terribly rolled, but not to waste time I took a cab straight to Great St. Helen's, where of course I was perfectly well known.

One of the senior clerks came to me directly.

"What can we do for you, Mr. Snuy-zer? Want an introduction to the metropolitan police? Why, certainly. Reckon it's no use asking what you're after? Big case?"

He was a friend and had often given me information in a small way. I thought perhaps he might help me now, for I'd heard from you they were mostly Americans working this conspiracy, and it was likely enough they'd know at the consulate whether any big "toughs" and "bunko men" were in London just then.

"It's something to do with the Mc-Faugh millions," I said. "You've heard, no doubt, of that young Englishman's luck?"

"Why, yes. He was here this very morning, only an hour ago." It was then about 1 o'clock. "Captain William Aretas Wood they called him. Is he your client?"

It hit me like a blow, this news, for I saw at once what it meant. Captain

"The woman called him a dreadful dog and tried to stop him."

Wood could not be lying injured in a street off the Harrow road and walking about Great St. Helen's. I wanted no more proof of foul play.

"We are acting for Captain Wood. Case of attempted fraud. They've soon found he's a fair game. But what brought him here, if I may ask?"

"Some question of legal powers. Granting attorney to representatives in New York, assigning certain properties by deed to trustees. Legal business. The law, you know, requires the signature to be given in the presence of the United States consul."

"You saw Captain Wood, did you, yourself?"

"Why, certainly. A man worth millions. He interested us all. Took it quietly enough, though. Rather ordinary sort of sportsman. Tall enough, but no show about him. For so rich a man he went very plainly dressed—only a Derby hat and a business suit."

UNHAPPY WOMEN

Are those who are always sick and ill-humored. Do they fully realize that their ill humor, which we know is caused by sickness, is often the reason why their husbands stay away from home at night? The men are not entirely to blame. They are discouraged and disheartened by such exhibitions of temper from their invalid wives. Thousands of men to-day have had happy homes since their wives began taking Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. These pills cure all forms of women's diseases. No matter how serious the case may be, they cure. Ask your neighbor about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. Surely someone around you has been cured or benefited by their use. If not, write to the following ladies who have had the experience and know their merit. Do not doubt any statement we make about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. They are not to be compared with cure-alls or old-fashioned liquid remedies sold for women. Here are living testimonials of their merits. Write and ask if they are not all that is claimed for them.

Mrs. Holmes, 57, Antoine Street, Detroit, Mich., writes:—
"I suffered terribly with pains in my head and back, and from female weakness. I have tried a great many remedies without success. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills alone have cured me of my troubles. I do not think that there is a better or a cheaper remedy."

Mrs. P. A. Olllett, 220 Chestnut Street, Manchester, N. H., writes:—
"I was sick for a long time and could not get cured by the Doctors. I was so run down and nervous that I was the most miserable woman on earth. I had headaches and great pains in the region of the throat. I am glad to give you a testimonial about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, believing that others will get cured."

Mrs. Carleton, 106 Henry Street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes:—
"I was greatly benefited by a few boxes of Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women. I suffered for years with irregularities in the worst way. I am now so well since I took these Pills that I think it my duty to recommend them to all women who suffer as I have."

Mrs. J. Dempsey, 260 Valley Street, Providence, R. I., writes:—
"I have been a terrible sufferer from female weakness and womb trouble. I believe that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills is the only remedy for women, for they alone have cured me when nothing else could."

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cure women's troubles just as sure as there is a sun. They are not a cure-all. They are made for women's diseases only. All women, young or old, can be cured by them. Married women can take them under any conditions. They are intended for no improper purpose. Women who have been sick for years should write to our French specialists on women's diseases. Send a full description of the case, and receive by return mail, the best medical advice absolutely free, or, if possible, call at our office. This is a chance you cannot afford to miss. Send us your name and address and we will mail you free, our Doctor's book, Pale and Weak Women. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are not a pur-gative. Women suffering from constipation should take Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets, together with the Red Pills. The Tablets cost only 25 cents. Follow directions accompanying each, and wonderful results are guaranteed.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first-class druggists at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred pills, or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours; they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon.

Cures Guaranteed or Money Refunded. No Names or Testimonials Used Without Written Consent.

EMISSIONS, SYPHILIS AND VARICOCELE CURED.

Thousands of promising young men have their lives and future usefulness wrecked by early indiscretion and great diseases. Self Abuse is a terrible habit. The symptoms, nocturnal emission, are portrayed on the countenance and in the actions of the victim. If neglected or improperly treated, other organs become affected, and sooner or later insanity or complete loss of manhood is the result. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure these diseases.

ALMOST A SUICIDE—A VICTIM TESTIFIES.
C. L. Kegan, a mechanic, living on Twenty-fourth street, says: "I dislike it, 'society' has given this testimony for Dr. Kennedy & Kegan to publish in gratitude to the noble work done for me by them. I was a physical and nervous wreck. Self-abuse was the cause of my condition. At the age of 22 my eyes were closed by reading the 'Golden St. Louis'." I drew to consult doctors in my city. I could not face them with my disease. I had Forecure, Gonorrhea and Syphilis. I was told with doctors in New York, Chicago, Boston and Cleveland, but got no benefit. I then tried a specialist here with the same result. A friend confided in me that he had been cured by Dr. Kennedy & Kegan, and I resolved to try them. The result was a magic. My nervousness disappeared, emissions ceased, eyes grew brighter, my appetite disappeared, purple and black lines up my face grew in again, some pains in my back and I gained 15 pounds in flesh. A new life was opened up to me and I can never repeat it. Forget Dr. Kennedy & Kegan."

READER: Are you in trouble? Have you been treated and never cured? You dare not risk a return of the disease. It may appear when you are happy in domestic life. Our New Method Treatment is your refuge. If diseased or about to marry, consult us confidentially.

Jobson and History

HE DECIDES TO READ GIBBON EVERY EVENING.

His Plan to Elevate the Family Started Off All Right, but Soon Got Tiresome, and, as Usual, Mrs. Jobson Was Blamed.

"I propose," said Mr. Jobson when he arrived home with a bulky package under his arm the other evening, "I propose to make the present year one of instruction and mental cultivation in this household." And he cut the twine that bound the bundle, ripped off the paper and revealed a stack of books of the same color and pattern.

"This thing," he went on, "of doddering around the house for five or six hours every night until bedtime playing checkers or saving on the violin or listening to you pick out a note here and a note there on the piano and watching you reading with rapt, open mouthed attention the narration of the extraordinary adventures of 'Sir J. J. J.' or 'The Hapless Maiden of the Mill,' has got to an end. It's slothful, unprofitable, idiotic and a miserable fashion of frittering away the time."

Here Mr. Jobson halted and gazed solemnly at Mrs. Jobson, who wondered what was coming next.

"I have here," Mrs. Jobson, he went on, "an immortal historical work, which you may have heard of and which you may not have heard of. It is called 'The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire,' and it was written by Gibbon."

"Quite true," said Mrs. Jobson sweetly. "I read an abridgment of it when I was at school, and I have read the complete work through twice since we were married. You will remember that my Uncle John gave it to me for a birthday present in eight volumes. It is in the bookcase now, bound in morocco, you'll remember."

Mr. Jobson's countenance fell, but he promptly recovered and looked incredulous.

"There's something queer about all this," that's all I've got to say," he remarked, however. "I never knew of these books being in the house, and you must have been hiding them all these years. I'll bet you the nicest poke bonnet that can be built for new currency that those volumes have never seen the inside of the bookcase, anyhow. You've probably had them in the bottom of one of the old trunks in the storeroom all this time."

"They've been in the bookcase ever since I got them," put in Mrs. Jobson, and Mr. Jobson, perceiving that he was cornered, cleared his throat ponderously and went on:

"We'll just let that little mystery pass for the present," he said. "If I had known that there was an edition of this immortal work around my house, I'd suppose that I'd have blown in $28 for this 12 volume edition? However, we'll let that pass as I say. The fact remains that a chapter of this great historical work is going to be read in this household every night from now on, and I'm going to be the reader. We need have our horrid expanded lives too much in the trifling and frivolous present. We are too much concerned with merely dinky affairs. We need inspiration, elevation, exaltation. What better way of gaining those things than by harkening back, through the medium of this masterful work, to the glorious days and the mighty happenings of imperial Rome? We'll begin on these readings right after dinner, and from this time on nothing whatever is going to interfere with at least one chapter of Gibbon every evening. You'll thank me for this later on, although I can see by your looks now that you are suffering the miseries of an anticipatory martyrdom."

So immediately after the evening meal Mr. Jobson planted Mrs. Jobson in a chair right opposite him, so that she could watch and see if she yawned or nodded, and started in to drone chapter 1 of volume 1 of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall."

"I wonder," Mr. Jobson broke off after reading many pages, "where the dickens the hot stuff, so to speak, in this work begins? Where's the account of this fellow Nero who used to burn Christian maidens for torches and who played on the fiddle while Rome was burning?"

"Well," interrupted Mrs. Jobson, "you will remember that the work doesn't include the reign of Nero. The history begins, I believe, with the imperial reign of Augustus and then hurriedly passes on to the reign of Trajan, where the real story begins."

"Well, that'll be about all for the present," said Mr. Jobson, closing the book with a snap. "You seem to know the whole thing anyway to hear you tell it. However, I shall resume the readings tomorrow evening right after dinner."

Mr. Jobson did resume the readings on the following evening, and he continued them for four nights until his voice grew hoarse and husky. He really didn't appear to be enjoying himself very much.

Immediately after dinner on Thursday evening he went up stairs, and when he came down about half an hour later he was toggled out in his best clothes and all primed up.

"Are you going out?" inquired Mrs. Jobson.

"Do I look like I'm on my way down to the cellar to repair the furnace?" he asked her.

"But," said Mrs. Jobson, "how about the reading from?"

"The readings are all off," broke in Mr. Jobson. "If you think you're going to put up a job like that and make it stick, bamboozling me into reading about a million pages every night of long winded, dry as dust, dead stuff about dead criminals with purple togas for the purpose of keeping me in the house all the time, you're mixed, that's all. I'm going down town to play billiards and take in a variety show, and if you want to read through that Roman rot go ahead. There's nobody going to stop you."

And when he had gone Mrs. Jobson smiled and smiled.—Washington Star.

In banking circles, says the Philadelphia Record, it has been admitted for some years that the fastest counter of bank notes and silver coin in this neighborhood was not a Philadelphian, but a young man of Norristown—Benjamin Hughes, note clerk of the People's bank.

Sneak Thieves in Mexico.

"The thing which struck me most forcibly in Mexico," said a man who had just returned from a visit to the far south, "is the boldness and cleverness of the sneak thieves who infest the Mexican capital. They call them rateros down there, and if that word comes from rat it is well taken. The day before I left Mexico an old man came in on a train and put his head out of the car window to see the sights. Just as the train pulled up at the depot a ratero on the platform snatched off the old man's hat. The old man ran out of the car, and, seeing the thief, he set his valise down in order to give chase. Just as he did so another ratero had 'swiped' the valise, and both of the thieves got away. The old man went to a hotel and barely had unpacked his trunk when a young man appeared in his room and said he had a dirty clue for the laundry. The young man was another ratero, and he got nearly every stitch of wearing apparel the old man had in a flash excepting the underwear on his own account. They got a light overcoat from my carriage seat in broad daylight."

'What you—James Whitcomb Riley—struggled for years?' 'Yes, sir, through years, through sleepless nights, through almost hopeless days. For 20 years I tried to get into one magazine; back came my manuscripts eternally. I kept on. In the twentieth year that magazine accepted one of my articles.'"

A Lecture on the Manner in Which They Are Misused.

Two correspondents who cherish a respect for this noble tongue of ours have written to us expressing a desire that we say something more about the misuse of common English words. One of them calls attention to the persistent use of "balance" for "remainder," and the other rightly objects to the employment of "in-rid" to signify "brilliant" or "highly colored." These are fair specimens of the abuse of good words. The employment of "balance" for "remainder" is the outcome of the habit of business men in speaking of balancing their books. At the completion of the process they find either a profit or a loss, and they call it a "balance," and that is precisely what it is not. If there were a balance, there would be no profit, no loss, no remainder. It is an absolute impossibility for a balance and a remainder to be the same thing, and yet most persons speak of them as identical.

Now, will some one please tell us what a "helpmeet" is? We frequently read of men whose wives are helpmeets, but one explains what a helpmeet is. The Bible, which is written in pretty good English, quotes the Creator as saying, "I will make an help meet for him," which simply means that God decided to produce a help suitable for Adam. But who made one word out of that noun followed by the adjective? And why? What is the matter with "wife"?

Who authorized the use of the word "experience" as a verb, and why? "John is experiencing a great deal of trouble!" is only an affected way of saying that he is having trouble. True, the trouble is part of his experience, but it is only mental laziness of the worst sort that leads persons to turn all nouns into verbs. And it narrows one's vocabulary.

Who got the pernicious habit of speaking of earth as "dirty"? Why, some good mother, of course. She saw that when her son made mud pies in the happy days of youth he came home with a dirty face. But Lord Palmerston cleverly said, "Dirty is matter in the wrong place." The boy's face was dirty because earth was out of place on it. Good white paint would also have made his face dirty, yet the same thing would be used to make a doctress. Who authorized the common use of "appreciate" for "enjoy"? A man may perfectly appreciate something that he does not enjoy at all. To appreciate a thing is to value it at its true worth. If it is not worth anything and a man recognizes that fact, he appreciates it just as much as the lady appreciates the novel which is "perfectly lovely."

And, worst of all, why use "get" for "have"? "My son has got long arms." Nonsense! He did not get them; he has them, but there is no arm shop where he could go and get them.

There are but a few of scores of misused words.

SLEPT THE WRONG WAY.

The Secret of a Speculator's Losses on the Stock Exchange. The Stock Exchange is not without its members, wrinkled and gray, whose suppositions are as deep-rooted as those of the ancient negro mummies, who wore "crispin hair" and "crispin" hair. One whose office is reached from Broadway, Wall street or Pine (by way of identification) had luck that followed one of his favorite customers. This customer, who was a market were forever at cross purposes. They didn't nick at all, and his money was dwindling away in the most disheartening manner.

Last week the broker whispered in his ear strange things. "Tell me frankly and truly how you sleep?" he urged tragically. "Why—er—well—er—the truth is I haven't slept at all of late," was the reply, whereat the other hand put in: "I don't mean that; I want to know in what direction you sleep. How does your body lie?" "Oh, every way, I guess; on my right side, on my left side, on my back, on my stomach, stretched out at full length, doubled up like a frog—every odd way." The broker drew him into a corner.

"You still fail to understand me," continued the old man, a member since the war. "What I must know is how do you head when you go to bed? Is your head to the north, east, south or west?" "I never gave it a thought before, but now that you mention it my head is always to the north—when I'm at home." "Um! I just thought so! No wonder the market has been going against you. Go straight home and have your bed turned around so that your head will be toward the south or west. Don't ask any fool questions; just do as I say. It won't cost you a cent, and—well, if the market doesn't go your way I'll carry your stock 50 points in either direction." The idea of a sensible man sleeping with his head to the north or the east and playing the stock market or any other game! It beats me." The customer, at all times hard headed, must have reached a point in his continued ill fortune that weakened his obstinacy, for he changed his direction of sleeping and, strangest of all, has since recovered a fraction of his losses in the street. The aged broker is the happiest man in town.

An Easter Thing.

"I—I think I must have made a mistake," said the man who stood in the door of the dental parlor and looked about him. "Perhaps so," replied the dentist, who was sharpening up a gum cutting lancet. "My wife, you know, has been teasing me for the last five years to get my photograph taken, and this morning I finally set out to have it done." "And got in the wrong shop," said the dentist. "I see this is no photograph gallery?" "No." "But a dental parlor?" "Yes." "Well, I've made a mistake, but I'm glad of it. Here, let me sit down and have three teeth yanked out, and I'll put the old photo off for another five years."

WOMAN A BEAST OF BURDEN.

Heavy Loads Carried by Italians Through New York's Streets.

It is no uncommon sight to see Italian women walking along the streets balancing burdens on their heads that the average man would prefer to have sent home on a truck. A few days ago one of these women passed through City Hall park. On her head she was carrying what appeared to be the entire woodwork from the interior of some house. The bundle was made up of eight pieces of hard wood, the shortest being fully 12 feet in length. Each piece was six inches in width and an inch thick. The woman steadied this burden with one hand, while in the other she carried what one would consider a good load for one person in the shape of a bundle of shorter pieces of wood.

As she turned into Center street, near Chambers, the end of the load of lumber on her head came in contact with the head of a man who was going in the opposite direction. In order to prevent hitting him too hard the woman tried to turn to one side, and as she did so her burden fell to the walk. In vain she tried to replace it on her head. At last two men took hold of it, one at each end. They found that even their combined strength was just sufficient to lift it up and place it on the woman's head again. When the wood was finally adjusted in a proper position the woman picked up her smaller bundle and started up Center street.

One would rather be bitten by sheep.

THE HEALTH HABIT

Just as Easy to Form as Any Other.

We do not deliberately form our pet habits, but they are unconsciously acquired, and grow as we grow, and by the time we learn they are hurting us, we find them too strong to be easily broken.

Then, why not form a good habit, a habit which will counteract the many bad ones, in other words, contract the unfashionable habit of being always well.

The best health habit to get into is to have and keep a vigorous stomach; if you have a healthy digestion you can drink your beloved coffee, smoke your favorite brand of tobacco, with little or no harm; the mischief begins when these things are forced upon the faithful stomach, without any assistance.

Form the habit of taking after meals some harmless but efficient digestive which will relieve the stomach of so much extra work.

Nature furnishes us with such digestives and when they are combined in such a pleasant preparation as the Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, they give the overworked stomach just the necessary assistance to cure perfect digestion without any of the harmful effects of cathartics and similar drugs.

The habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is as necessary to the weak stomach as food itself, and indeed, to get the benefit from food eaten, nothing better and certainly nothing safer can be used.

Many families consider Stuart's Tablets as essential in the house as knives and forks.

They consist entirely of natural digestive principles without the effect or characteristics of drugs; they have no cathartic action, but simply go to work on the food eaten and digest it.

Take into account your bad habits and the expense they entail and then invest fifty cents in a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and see if your digestion for the next month is not vastly improved.

Ask the clerk in any drug store the name of the most successful and popular stomach remedy and he will say Stuart's.

AT THE THEATRE.

Full of humor and picturesqueness are the beautiful views of "The Little Minister," which will be produced at the Grand on Tuesday evening. The views are perfectly colored stereoscopic scenes, and the dramatic impersonations of the principal characters as they appear before the audience on the screen are admirably rendered by Mr. Albert Armstrong, of Boston. The sale of seats opens to Lyceum Course subscribers Saturday morning.

The following are a few press comments on Mr. Armstrong's work:

Portland (Me.) Daily Press:—Mr. Armstrong is a thorough artist.
Brooklyn (N. Y.) Daily Eagle:—Remarkably artistic photographs.
Boston Evening Transcript:—A delightful two hours.

Boston Herald:—Delighted a large audience.
Norwich (Conn.) Evening Post:—As a raconteur of Scotch life, Mr. Armstrong excels.

The Duke's Jester, a romance comedy in four acts, was presented at the Grand last evening, by Frederick Ward, supported by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Spencer. The play proved one of the finest productions that has ever been staged in this city. Frederick Ward as the Duke's jester simply lived the part, and his interpretation of the play was in consequence perfect. As a mimic Mr. Ward is splendid and this talent of his was admirably shown when he donned the garb of Mina De Borgia and mocked the actions of a woman, and also when dressed in the Duke's clothing, the jester played the Duke. Mrs. Spencer as Mina De Borgia, looked the part, and was exceedingly strong in her acting. The show was delightful and highly interesting throughout. The piece is bright, quick in action and interspersed with many bright and witty sayings and has enough of gallantry and chivalry to commend it to all. Manager Cairns is to be congratulated on securing such a splendid show for this city, and it is a matter of great regret that the attendance was not all that could be desired.

Come Often....

The newspapers are full of bargain prices. Suppose we take different tack and invite you to visit the store where goods and prices can be easily understood.

We blame no one for being partial to what they own, especially if they want to sell it badly, but there's no wisdom in calling a thing worth $1.50 when it's likely sold here, without any special eclat, right along at $1.00.
