A CALL FOR VENGEANCE

Italians Were Butchered by Frenchmen and War May Result.

GERMANY IS INTERESTED TOO.

Anti-French Agitation in Rome—A Growing Hourly—Correspondence from the Triple Alliance.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The massacre of Italians by Frenchmen at Agnes-Mortes on Thursday, came on sudden thunder from the clear international sky. Already it has become the subject of voluminous correspondence among the foreign offices of the Triple Alliance, and during the next few days probably will be made the most important incident in this fall season among the continental powers. The crucial question is: "Will France give Italy prompt satisfaction for the crime of the slaughter of the Italian subjects?" Should France decline or even hesitate to do so she will be likely to draw upon herself the complications with the peace triangle.

The first misleading report sent out from French sources on Thursday night made the impression merely that a workmen's riot of somewhat extraordinary seriousness had taken place on Friday, official despatches from other sources indicated that the Italians had not fled a hand in provocation, but that they had been driven away on account of their nationality while the French authorities obtained from any strenuous effort to stop the massacre.

Emperor William at once obtained through the German embassy in Rome reports of the affair, and instructed Count Münster, German Ambassador in Paris, to send to Berlin as soon as possible all ascertainable details of the fight at Agnes-Mortes and the attitude of France towards Italy's demand for reparation. The general opinion is that the Emperor is preparing to stand behind Italy in her determination to obtain satisfaction from the French Government. The accounts of the massacre which have been telegraphed at length from Italian bodies of the French press are quite different from the French despatches. The idea fostered by the French statement was that about 200 French workmen, not as many as Italians, after mutual provocation, did some fighting, which resulted in the killing or wounding of the most belligerent combatants. In fact the Frenchmen numbered nearly 1,000, while there were but 100 Italians. About 400 Frenchmen were armed with revolvers or rifles. They marched down to the salt works where the Italians were employed with the avowed intention of driving them out, if not worse.

For a short time the police made a pretense of protecting the Italians, but they were so half-hearted in their measures that the Italians became convinced that they must take care of themselves and hurried to a farmhouse near the works. The mob followed. The Italians hurried to the door. The Frenchmen surrounded the house and held it in a state of siege. The mob then entered the house and shot the man who showed himself before a window.

A company of police were present but scarcely made any attempt to stop the mob. The officer in charge refused to let them fire on the attacking party. Eventually the mob broke down the door and entered the house. The Italians accepted this advice and fought their way as best they could through the crowds of rioters, and ran for their lives across Agnes-Mortes. This was the opportunity of the man-hunters. They started in pursuit of the Italians, who were scattered in groups from the rear door of the farmhouse where captured. The hunt was continued through the streets of the town. The Italians were beaten to death within a hundred yards of the police station. Two men were shot dead in front of the mayor's office.

Nearly a dozen of the 100 Italians are believed to have escaped injury, but the police in the morning called out. Only after the slaughter was complete did the police appear. The Italian competition in business is a worthless excuse by the German press, which professes to find the true reason of the French outbreak against the Italians in France's hatred of Italy as an ally of Germany.

Italy Much Increased.
ROME, Aug. 21.—The anti-French agitation, started in consequence of the massacre of Italians at Agnes-Mortes, has gained ground rapidly since the first demonstrations were made yesterday morning. Late last evening a mob attacked the Santa Chiara convent of French priests, tore down the scutcheons from the facade, trampled them under foot, smashed the windows, and endeavored to force the doors. Further damage was prevented by a strong force of police, who dispersed the mob and guarded the seminary until late last evening. A company of police are stationed at the French embassy, as the anti-French agitators have threatened to sack it. In Milan and Turin incendiary anti-French manifestoes have been issued.

Growing Indignation.
ROME, Aug. 21.—The anti-French agitation spreads hourly. Demonstrative crowds paraded the streets last night shouting for the King and calling for reparation for the Agnes-Mortes massacre. The police were out in double force all the evening and prevented the crowds from becoming riotous. The benches played Italian and German anthems while the excited people are excited by the newspapers. They are unanimous in demanding quick reparation from France, and are ready to take the law into their own hands if the Government fails to satisfy them promptly and determinedly. At the same time the people are exhorted to maintain as possible the event of the Germany's action.

Telegraphic Briefs.
Gov. Flower has reiterated. Murderer Foy for three months, so that the authorities at Auburn prison can put a new case on the table.

Evidence for Acter M. B. Curtis surprises the prosecution. It goes to corroborate the defence theory that Curtis had been robbed and a man who robbed him killed the policeman.

GREAT BRITAINS DAY.

With Her Colonies She Makes a Big Showing at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Saturday was Great Britain's day at the World's Fair. Before 8 o'clock there was a crush at the gates and it continued at intervals during the day. Canada, Australia, India, Ceylon, Trinidad, Cape Colony, British Columbia, and 17 British colonies took part in the parade and ceremonies. The demonstration opened at the lake front at the store of Columbus at 8.30 o'clock. Then a procession was formed, with Capt. Gordon, commanding officer of the British troops, as grand marshal. All the British troops were in full force, and six companies were filled with Royal and Colonial Commissioners and natives of Guinea and East India. They were marching in front of the Victoria Hotel, and the line moved to Festival Hall in the Fair grounds, where speeches, music and Prof. Tomlin's chorus of 1000 voices were heard.

Five Killed Instantly.
LEROY, N.Y., Aug. 21.—A terrible grade crossing accident occurred at the crossing of the Lehigh Valley railway, two miles north of Leroy, yesterday morning. The fast day express struck a carriage at that crossing, killing J. J. Borey, wife, and daughter of Leroy; Miss Nancy York, of Leroy; and Miss Emma J. Bowden, of New York. All were killed instantly. The carriage was driving and saw the train, but hoped to get over the tracks before it reached the crossing.

Hay Market Weaker.
CANADIAN, N.Y., Aug. 21.—The Hay Trade Journal notes a weaker tendency in its review of the hay market. The foreign demand has greatly decreased and cables just received show that the price paid here is lower than when transportation expense is considered. Speculating on hay on the prospect of a foreign demand is dangerous at the present time.

Chesterfield Had No Cholera.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The steamer Chesterfield has arrived from Marseilles and Naples. She has 289 steerage passengers aboard, and all are well. There has not been a case of sickness during the voyage. The sanitary condition of the vessel is perfect. The ship will be released.

Flagellist Dempsey Escapes.
ST. PAUL, Aug. 21.—The Jack Dempsey-Dick Barge match is off. Gus Tushill, Dempsey's manager, acknowledges as late as he will forfeit the $4,000 already put. Dempsey will be taken to a quiet place near Chicago.

Another Month to Live.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The World says:—Gov. Glover has reprieved murderer Foy for one month so that the authorities at Auburn prison can put a new case on the table.

Benton's Big Blaise.
BOSTON, Ill., Aug. 21.—Seventeen business men were killed here Saturday. Loss $150,000, insurance $3,800.

Much Lumber Burned.
McKENZIE, Pa., Aug. 21.—Taylor & Shoop's saw mill and lumber yards and the saws at Millington street bridge that night, $50,000.

Wish Miners Will Prevent Work in the Collieries.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—The situation in South Wales owing to the coal strike has not improved. The strikers made repeated attacks on the collieries on Saturday, and numbers of strikers, workers and police were injured in the conflict. The district was much excited. Great military and police precautions have been taken, and the seriousness of the situation can be appreciated by the fact that the coal owners have asked for 2,000 infantry and 1,000 cavalry to protect the collieries and the strikers. The coal owners have left Plymouth in trains for the Rhondda Valley, and 500 others will proceed at once. The desperate measures which the men are taking in order to coerce the coal owners were shown when a body of strikers entered the collieries and the coal owners, which alone supplies the Port of London, in order to put the town in darkness. The strikers found the collieries way line which evidently had been placed there by the strikers. The district has the appearance of being a state of siege. Sentinels are stationed on the hill tops and round the collieries to announce the approach of the strikers to the troops. The police are guarding the collieries, which are less than 20 of 204 are working. The remaining collieries are chiefly in the Ebbw Vale district, and the strikers announce their intention of marching there 50,000 strong to stop the strikers from working. Riotous scenes are expected owing to a decision of the owners not to pay the striking hangers the wages they are entitled to. The mine owners appear to be resolute in their refusal to concede the 30 per cent advance of wages demanded. It is estimated that the men have already lost £200,000 in wages, while the output of the collieries, which normally is 25,000,000 tons, has fallen to 2,000,000.

Satanita the Winner.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—The annual regatta of the Royal Dutch Yacht Club, of which Lord Balfour is commodore took place on Saturday. The regatta covered a distance of forty miles. The Satanita, British, and Calluna were the starters in the race for yachts of their class. The starting gun was fired at 10 o'clock. The Satanita, Britannia and Navaho got away first, starting line before the gun was fired, and were compelled to put about and start over again. In the meantime the Calluna, which started at the proper time, got a five minute lead of the other yachts. She was overhauled, however. The yacht finished as follows: Satanita 1, Britannia 2, Navaho 3, Calluna 4.

Navaho Can't Compete.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Royal Western Yacht Club's regatta was held on Saturday. The Navaho's entry for the Queen's cup on the grounds that the race is open to British yachts only.

The question of Sunday street cars in Toronto is being much discussed these days at both public meetings and in the press of the city. Many arguments for and against are put forward, but the indisputable fact that the proposed innovation would disturb the quiet of the city, tend towards a desecration of the Sabbath on the part of those using and running the cars, and probably necessitate a number of men working seven days every week, will, we think, serve to defeat the project by an overwhelming majority.

Every few days we hear of the struggles of a pastor who has been called from a small field of duty to a larger and wealthier parish. A case of this kind occurred recently, and after announcing the fact of the call to his flock, the pastor stated that he had made no decision, and wished to consider the matter preferably before saying whether or not he would leave. Some few days after, his young hopeful was asked if his pastor was going. "Well," said the boy, "he is still asking for light, but our things are all packed."
