Wise advice is the result of experience. The hundreds of thousands who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, America's Greatest Medicine, counsel those who would purify and enrich the blood to avail themselves of its virtues. He is wise who profits by this good advice.

Sir Charles Tupper to the Farmers

To the Farmers of Canada:
Gentlemen,—The Policy of Protection to native industries, which is an important part of the National Policy inaugurated by the Conservative party in 1879, was intended to foster manufacturing industries and give aid to the agricultural interests by such a readjustment of the tariff as would protect them against injurious and unfair competition, by foreigners, in the home market.

But the Liberal-Conservative party never considered that its work was done when the home market had been secured for the Canadian manufacturer and agriculturist. This was only a beginning, a mere earnest of the great far-reaching Industrial Policy which it is the mission of the party to carry out. While it is true that to make the Dominion industrially independent and great it must become a manufacturing as well as an agricultural country, yet agriculture is and must continue to be our most important industry; the mainstay of the country, upon whose welfare and prosperity all are dependent. Realizing this, the Conservative party has continuously sought, by legislation and otherwise, to foster the interests of the agricultural classes. It was the Conservative party and a Conservative Minister of Agriculture that commenced the first agricultural college and model farm, and it was the Conservative Government that first established experimental farms and conducted experiments in seed testing for the benefit of Canadian farmers. By the appointment of Dairy Commissioners and in other ways, they endeavored, with gratifying success, to promote the dairying interests of the Dominion, encouraging cheese factories and establishing and managing creameries and marketing their products.

An example of how our farmers may be benefited by wise legislation and by judicious governmental assistance is afforded by the history of the Canadian pork industry. By applying the protective tariff the home market was secured to our farmers to such an extent that, whereas in 1890 thirty-three million pounds of bacon were imported, only five million pounds were brought in in 1896, thus preserving the farmers a home market of twenty-five million pounds. At the same time, our exports of these meats had risen from eight million to thirty-five million pounds. That is, by the effect of the policy of the Conservative party, which was vehemently opposed by the Liberal politicians, the Canadian farmers had been given an additional yearly market for their hog products of seventy-two million pounds. Encouraged by the success which had attended their efforts in this direction, the Conservative Government proposed in 1896 to open up depots in the principal cities in Great Britain and Ireland, to advertise Canadian farm produce there and spend money in an effort to secure for our farmers that best of markets. Unfortunately, the Liberal leaders were able, by a resort to obstruction, to prevent the money placed in the estimates for this purpose being voted, and succeeded in defeating the plan. Needless to say, they have made no effort along the same or similar lines themselves.

Realizing that in order to secure to our farmers the advantage of the almost limitless markets of the Mother Country for their fresh meats, poultry, eggs, dairy products, fruit and other perishable articles, a "The accommodation on Atlantic steamships has hitherto been unsuitable to the carriage of our fruits, even such hard fruits as apples being ruined in transit and arriving in the British market in an unsalable condition, although in perfectly sound condition when packed and shipped." And that—"The lack of ventilation and the great heat in the holds of the vessels, added to the heat arising from the fruit itself contributes to this evil, which has resulted in immense loss to our fruit growers in every Province in the Dominion."

As lately as May 8th, 1900, the Minister of Agriculture made this statement in the House of Commons: "The system established in the steamships which have been sailing between Canada and Great Britain, for the last three years or more, is as good as any cold storage equipment in the world."

This astonishing statement was made in the face of direct evidence to the contrary then in his possession—evidence contained in the statements and reports of the officials of his own department; in the face, too, of statements made by the

Absolutely Pure BAKING-POWDER

No inferior or impure ingredients are used in Royal for the purpose of cheapening its cost; only the most highly refined and healthful.

Royal Baking Powder imparts that peculiar sweetness, flavor and delicacy noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, rolls, etc., which expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

Altho it is used in making cheap baking powders. If you want to know the effect of aim upon the tender linings of the stomach, touch a piece to your tongue. You can raise biscuit with almost baking powder, but at what a cost to health!

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Fruit Growers' Association and numbers of independent and intelligent farmers. That no injustice is here done to the Government or the Minister, the following will show: In the course of the statement made to the Committee on Agriculture, Prof. Robertson made the following calculation regarding the shipment of apples from Ontario and Quebec: 2,795 sold as slack; 2,446 barrels sold as slightly wet; 1,997 barrels sold as wet; 1,252 barrels sold as wet and slack.

The loss on the slacks as compared with apples landed in good condition, averaged two shillings and seven pence per barrel. The loss on the slightly wet averaged three shillings and eight pence. The loss on the wet averaged seven shillings and three pence. The loss on the wets and slacks averaged nine shillings and eleven pence. The wets and slacks did not even pay the cost of freight. Thus out of one shipment of 14,416 barrels not less than 8,488, or fully 56 per cent. were more or less destroyed by the Minister's "perfect system," entailing a total loss of $10,059.58. The results on this and other shipments were so discouraging that the development of an export trade in fruit has been completely checked.

Mr. A. W. Grindley special agent of the Department of Agriculture in Great Britain, on the same day upon which Prof. Robertson made the foregoing statement, told the Committee that "the California Newton Pippin was retailed on the London market at one dollar per dozen." This was for the Christmas fruit trade. In answer to a question, Mr. Grindley stated that "lots of apples came from Tasmania."

In the course of his statement to the committee, Mr. Grindley told of having seen apples which had been brought to England by the Canadian cold storage system which within twenty-four hours had settled down six inches in the barrel and among which in a week "it would have been impossible to find a single sound apple."

Let it be remembered that the fruit of California and Tasmania are forwarded under far more disadvantageous conditions as to distance and climate than the Canadian fruits have to contend with. The great bulk of the Tasmanian fruit is shipped by coasting steamers first to Melbourne and then transferred to ships sailing for London. The Victorian fruit has to make a rail journey of hundreds of miles, in a particularly trying climate, from Castlemaine and Robson. Then these fruits have to face an ocean voyage of seventeen thousand miles, crossing the equator and passing through the Red Sea, the hottest sea

The Dominion Elections.

The date of the Dominion general election has been announced. Polling takes place on Wednesday, Nov. 7th, and nominating week earlier. Since the Government has at last mustered sufficient courage to make the plunge, it behooves all who have the good of the Dominion at heart to be up and doing, with the determination to defeat the present corrupt and incompetent administration.

Turn the Gully Government Out.

DURING the past four years the Laurier Government have committed many and previous political sins; many of commission and omission, for which they should be punished by the electorate with deprivation of power. They have falsified their pre-election promises, and they have broken the pledges solemnly made to the people when seeking support; they have broken faith with the electors and the electors should tell the Government, through the ballot that the people have lost faith in them. During eighteen years of opposition, those who now constitute the Government, and their supporters, condemned in the most emphatic terms and railed against the policy of protection, inaugurated and perpetuated by the Conservatives; but when they secured the reins of power, they acted directly contrary to their pledged determination to introduce free trade, and continued the Conservative policy, which they had so long and so bitterly denounced. When in Opposition they condemned the expenditure of the Conservatives, as too high; but when they came into office they increased the expenditure by eleven million dollars a year. What is true of the expenditure is also true of the taxation and the public debt. They promised to reduce them all and have instead, increased them all. These are good and sufficient reasons why the people of Canada should vote against and defeat the present Government at Ottawa, whenever they are afforded the opportunity. In addition to all these and many other reasons there are two particular reasons why the Government should be defeated whenever an appeal is made to the electors at the polls. These are the election scandals and the emergency rations scandals. In these matters all honor and decency were set at naught and the attitude of the Government in these connections is such as to forfeit the confidence and support of a patriotic and independent electorate. In the matter of the election scandals in Brockville, West Huron, and West Elgin, sufficient evidence has been adduced to show beyond the possibility of doubt, that by the operations of what is known as the "machine," a gang of ballot box stuffers that travel from one constituency to another, Conservative ballots were removed from or prevented from entering the box, and Liberal ballots deposited in their stead, to such an extent as to give the election to Government candidates. Where it was well known a Conservative majority existed a majority of Liberal ballots would be found in the box. All this was proved and much more. The men who constituted the "machine," and who acted as election officers under assumed names, were allowed to escape and when they fled to the United States were supplied with money supplied them by the agents of those in whose behalf they carried on their nefarious work. These are but the mere outlines of the election scandals with which our readers are already conversant. What was the conduct of the Government when the Opposition demanded a thorough investigation into these scandals? After giving their solemn assurance that the fullest inquiry would be prosecuted, they deliberately shut off all investigation when it became evident any further examination would expose their friends. In brief the Government knew scandalous frauds had been perpetrated in the elections named; they promised to permit a searching inquiry concerning these frauds, and then refused to allow any such inquiry. Not only did they refuse the inquiry; but persistently burked every attempt made by the Opposition to arrive at the truth in the matters involved. Among the Government members who lent themselves to the task of covering up these election scandals, no one was more active than Sir Louis Davies. He it was, more than any other, who invariably obstructed the proceedings having in view the fixing of guilt in the election frauds. It would almost seem as if Sir Louis had been put forward to do work in this connection, that was considered rather dirty by any other Government supporter. Our Liberal friends are fond of discussing the question of a broad and liberal franchise and a free ballot; but here they are on record as the aiders abettors and protectors of those who stole the franchise from free and independent electors. Now, if there is one thing more than another that free born British subjects should prize it is a pure ballot, and every free and independent elector of this Province should consider it his bounden duty on election day to contribute his share towards maintaining this free ballot by voting against Sir Louis Davies and the Government of which he is a member for the part they took in corrupting the ballot, by throwing the aegis of their protection over the scandalous, corrupt, ballot-box stuffing "machine."

The emergency rations scandal, as our readers already know, was one of the most glaringly corrupt deals in which a Government or a party could be involved. The Minister of Militia had entered into a contract with a certain Dr. Devlin for the purchase of what is known as emergency rations for the Canadian soldiers serving in the South African War. What is known as an emergency ration is a condensed food of great strength, put up in cans, and intended for the use of soldiers on long marches. It is of such strength that a pound of it, which is equal to several pounds of ordinary food, is sufficient for twenty-four hours. It will readily be seen that such a food is of the greatest value and convenience to soldiers on the march, far from a base of supply and unable to carry large quantities of ordinary food. Well, the Minister of Militia entered into a contract with Dr. Devlin to supply a certain quantity of such emergency rations. Devlin supplied what was ostensibly an emergency ration and was paid for it. Suspicious were afterwards aroused that all was not straight and Mr. Monk, M. P. for Jacques Cartier, asked for a committee of inquiry. Evidence was furnished to this committee which showed that a huge fraud had been perpetrated and that our soldiers had been imposed upon and exposed to the danger of starvation. It was proved that the stuff supplied by Dr. Devlin, and for which the Government had paid $2 a pound, was not an emergency ration at all; but merely ground biscuit, worth only a few cents per pound. Since the investigation this material has been familiarly known as "dog biscuit." An analysis of the material in question proved that it was what we have said simply ground biscuit. The investigation proved that the Government had paid out about four thousand dollars for this useless food; thus defrauding the treasury of the Dominion and inflicting a grievous wrong upon the Canadian soldiers. But a majority of that committee were Government supporters and they write-washed the Minister of Militia and all concerned in this fraud. The motion to white wash the perpetrators of this fraud was a pretty heavy dose to swallow, and some Liberal members could not manage it, and voted against the Government. The defrauding of the treasury is one phase of this transaction; another is the injustice done the brave Canadian soldiers. Supposing they had been obliged to fall back on these so-called emergency rations, they would run the risk of being starved to death. Would not that be a nice condition of affairs! To give a more accurate idea of the utter worthlessness of Devlin's ration we quote the following extract from a letter of Lieutenant Morrison to the Ottawa Citizen: "I see you have been having lots of fun over the 'Emergency Ration' issued to us. When we unpacked the boxes containing ours, one-third of the tins were empty and the stuff which looks like fine oatmeal sifted through the others. The tins were so cheaply made that the lids would not keep on, if they were carried in a haversack. We thought it was some stuff that had been presented as a cheap advertisement scheme to the troops. Our medical officer tried some of it, as did also Major Hurdman, but finding it of no apparent use, it was all left at the base. The joke of the thing is that the labels state that it is to be mixed with beef tea and a lot of other things when used. If a soldier in extremities had hot beef tea, soup and such things available, he would not be in need of emergency rations at all. A good emergency ration that night at Balmoral and on several other occasions would have prevented much suffering with us and subsequent illness." A Government that can so trifle with the lives of our soldiers has forfeited all right to the people's support and should be swept out at the earliest opportunity.

The Tarde's at it Again.

(Montreal Star, 8th inst.)

"Les Debats" yesterday published the following above the signature of Mr. Louvigny De Montigny, the Editor in Chief: "Les Debats" is neither sold nor for sale. We deemed it proper to declare last Sunday on hearing the first rumour that a ronge clan were trying to gobble up our paper. This is what has occurred. Some few days ago the proprietor of "Les Debats" received the following letter:

"Sir,—In order to give effect to the conversation which I had with you, I agree to pay you on Monday of each week the sum of fifty dollars, and in return I am to have the complete political control of the paper; that is to say, I will be at liberty to publish the articles and political notes which I may see fit. This will begin on Monday, the 17th of September, and I will continue the payment until three weeks after the next federal elections. (Signed) L. J. Tardé."

Either party may put an end to the present arrangement when they see fit. "Les Debats" proceeds by saying: "Other steps were subsequently taken by Mr. L. Joseph Tardé and these took such consistency that the public believed for a moment that politics had succeeded in making a newspaper, which up to that time had been edited for its free and open speech. But Mr. Tardé was unable to find in the staff of 'Les Debats' a single traitor who would lend himself to the prostitution of our undertaking, and seeing the preparations which we had made to keep up our propaganda, Mr. Tardé concluded that it was useless to buy things material if the writers remained free."

In South Africa!

The following despatch has been received from Lord Roberts:

PRETORIA, Oct. 3.—A convoy of twenty-two wagons, escorted by sixty mounted men, was attacked by 140 Boers October the first, near De Wet's Drift, while on the way to Vryheid. Twelve of the men escaped. The fate of the others is not known. The Boers despatched a train near Pan yesterday evening. Five Goldstream Guards were killed and nineteen were injured. Commandant Dierksen, who has been opposing Paget, has succeeded in effecting a personal visit to Komatipoort to assure himself that Kruger had gone into Portuguese territory."

Lord Roberts has also wired as follows to the war office:

Hart returned to Krugersdorp Oct. 1. He has been thirty-three days from his base, marched 310 miles, was in contact with the enemy 29 days, killed an unknown number and captured 96. The British lost three killed, three prisoners and 24 wounded. Hart brought back 2,720 head of cattle and 3,281 sheep. Buller has returned to Lydenburg from Spitzkop with a thousand sheep. There are skirmishes with the Boers daily, but they are small affairs. The Dublin Fusiliers made a night assault with the bayonet on a Boer laager between Pretoria and Johannesburg and captured nine men, mostly important Boers, who have troubled the district. A party of Boers have penetrated the eastern part of Orange River colony entering Dewetsdorp and Wepener. Detachments are after them."

Lord Wolseley, in an open letter, asks the public wishing to honor the returning soldiers to refrain while extending their hearty welcome from offering them intoxicating liquors, "as like all us they are open to temptation."

The late Commander-in-Chief says he trusts the greeting to the brave soldiers will be something better than an incitement to excessive drinks.

IN CHINA!

A despatch from London dated 5th day says:

It is reported in St. Petersburg, according to the correspondent of the Times at the Russian capital, that the Chinese fleet in Formosa, strait attempted to engage the Russian fleet on the 28th. But the latter's speed frustrated the plan. The correspondent says it is probably that all squadrons will force the Chinese fleet to capitulate or will destroy it.

Shanghai telegrams announce that the Imperial edict, dated Sept. 30, ordering the fleet to be removed to Chan Fu was issued owing to the famine at Kai-Yuan-Tsu, capital of the province of Shan-Si. They also express the opinion that the object of the recent edicts regarding the degradation of Chinese pageboys of high rank is merely to gain time and to enable China to be in a better position to defy the powers, as the new capital will be virtually inaccessible from the coast. The Shanghai correspondent of the West, discussing this aspect of the case, remarks: "The German troops have no means to transport, and any attempt to follow the Chinese coast would be a suicidal enterprise." He says that the Chinese firmly believe in the existence of a Russo-German agreement under which Russia will take all the territory north of the great wall, and Germany the provinces of Chi-Li and Shan-Tung. The Times representative at Shanghai says: "It is believed here that highly inflammatory edicts are being issued secretly and that the present public edicts are only intended to hoodwink the powers."

Interesting Happenings The World Over.

Not satisfied with a collection for Galveston that will probably amount to as much as $15,000, Archbishop Corrigan telegraphed to the Bishop of the stricken city saying that he would provide for all orphans sent to his care. What a grand act it was! And none who know the beloved Archbishop of New York need be told that it is characteristic of him.

The Vicar-General of the diocese of Perigueux, who delivered the sermon at the obsequies of the late Henri Lasserre, declared that the eyes of the venerable historian of Lourdes remained to the end the most brilliant, the most searching it was possible to behold. No one needs to be reminded that the sight of M. Lasserre was restored by using the miraculous Water of Lourdes.

The devotion and self-sacrifice displayed by the nurses in South Africa are strikingly illustrated by a story told to a correspondent of the "Hospitalist." "I know for a certainty," said a Sister, "of more than one man dying of starvation because she had given up her food to the soldiers. At Estcourt it was so. The superior herself died of starvation, though it was supposed to be enteric fever."

Over the triple doorways of the Cathedral of Milan, there are inscriptions spanning the spire-tops. On one is carved a beautiful wreath of roses, and underneath is the legend: "All that which pleases is but for a moment." Over the other is a sculptured cross, and there are the words: "All that which troubles us is but for a moment." But underneath the great central inscription, and the main aisle is the inscription: "That only is important which is eternal." These inscriptions are well worth remembering.—Selected.

The late Cardinal Manning predicted that the twentieth century would be "for the people." In connection with this prediction it is interesting to learn that the present Sacred College of Cardinals has been recruited largely from the masses. It is stated that never before was there a cardinalate that has in it so few sons of the nobility. The larger proportion of the members have relatives prominent in the business or political or educational life of Italy, while Cardinal Gottol's father was a dock laborer of Genoa.—S. H. Review.

A letter on "Educational Hawaii," written from Honolulu to the Boston Transcript says: "The Catholics also have their schools; the largest is in Honolulu. This had its beginning on the other side of this island, in a beautiful spot among the mountains called Ahamanu. The garden which the Fathers had there is still a delightful place, and the buildings remind one of the old Catholic mission buildings in California. The school was removed to Honolulu and now has the name St. Louis College. Its graduates have the reputation of being especially proficient in the use of English."

"There is one thing no imported missionary can teach this community—and that is the art of living. They understand it, and get happiness out of every hour in the day, out of every day in the week. Old people have a show they are not treated with cold indifference, or pushed out of the way as obstacles in the path of the hustler. I have often thought that Mexico ought to form a foreign missionary society and send teachers of the art of gentleness to the dollar-hunting American cities. We have an idea that we should reform the world; but I am willing to wager that we need a dose of reform ourselves."—S. H. Review.

The article in the Century on Piero Didon, with its fine portrait of the late illustrious Dominican, quotes him as saying: "The child must believe; the young man exist; for the purpose of admiring; let, therefore, the severe and difficult role of critic be left to a maturer age. I have but one dream, and a pupil reverence, to strengthen it as soon as it appears, and to wed it to a faith at once stable and ardent."

He remarks, too, how necessary it is to instill reverence in the hearts of the young, in order that they may respond to the duties of the day and the hour, "reverence for the good, the beautiful, the true, reverence for action, for will, for energy, for humanity, for the divine."

In Rosenau, Hungary, sixty years ago, six young men who had studied together were ordained on the same day. For sixty years they exercised the ministry in the same diocese. They celebrated the diamond jubilee of their first Mass on the same day. And this summer they all died within two months. This is probably something unique in the history of the Church. In connection with the above the Antigonish Casket mentions the following: "Very much less remarkable of course, but still uncommon enough to be worth noting, was the event which took place at St. Andrews, in this county, on Sunday, Sept. 23rd. Rev. R. M. L. McDonald, who was ordained on Saturday in the Chapel of St. Francis Xavier's College, sang Solemn High Mass the following day in his native parish of St. Andrews, assisted by his brother Alexander, pastor of Donald, and James Macdonald, and his brother Donald, pastor of Brook Village, as sub-deacon. It was a unique event in the history of the diocese of Antigonish. The Bishop of Dunkeld has been appointed Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and Metropolitan of Scotland in succession to Archbishop Macdonald. The Right Rev. James A. Smith was born in Edinburgh, in 1841, and educated at Wellburn Academy, Blair College, Aberdeen, and the Scotch College, Rome. After receiving the tonsure and minor orders at St. John Lateran, from Cardinal Patrizi, he was ordained priest on the 21st of March, 1866. In November of that year he returned to Scotland, and after a long service of twenty-five years as a theological professor in Blair College was appointed, in 1890, Bishop

SHORT Of Interest STORY TO All Readers.

CHAPTER I. THE MYSTERY. There is a store in Charlottetown, situated on the most central portion of Queen street. There are plenty of other stores on Queen street besides this one, but there is a mystery and a uniqueness attached to this store which is not to be found in the common every-day store. The great mystery is this: How they can afford to sell the goods they have on hand at the low prices which they are asking for them. To get the key to this mystery you must inquire at the store.

CHAPTER II. CONCLUSION. Now about the uniqueness of this store: They keep everything in their line always on hand. They are therefore always prepared for every fair price. They try to beat their competitors by selling better goods at fairer prices. They are always ready to oblige customers. They keep their store nice and attractive and if you do not want to buy anything or are not forced to do so. You are always welcome whether you buy or not. This store has a great stock of clothing for men and boys now on sale at very low prices. This will give you an idea:—

JUST THINK— Ulster Coats $3.75 up. Reefers $2.75 up. Overcoats 3.25 up. and Suits 3.50 up. 300 pairs Men's Pants, 75c., $1.00, 1.50, 2.00, worth 35 per cent. more.

A Slaughter Sale of Men's Summer Underclothing, a Shirt at your own price. Come at once, it will pay you.

We have hundreds of other bargains which we haven't space nor time to tell you about, but you will find out all about them if you call on J. B. McDonald & Co., Where worth and low prices meet.

of Dunkeld. The Archbishop-elect is a good all-round scholar and an enthusiastic student of astronomy. A curious fact in the career of the Archbishop-elect, writes a correspondent, is that he never was a parish priest until after he was a Bishop, when, owing to the scarcity of priests in the Diocese of Dunkeld, he took upon himself the care of a parish, and proved himself a model pastor in every duty of his ministry and in all his relations with his flock.

The pen almost refuses to transcribe the awful description of the martyrdom of the Franciscan Bishop Fantozzi, of South Hunan, and his companion Father Joseph Gambaro. The two were traveling from a distant village some 100 li (about 33 miles) from Heng-chow-fu to the latter town. On their passing the Custom House a Chinaman cried out: "Here are two Europeans." At once they were surrounded, garrotted and thrown to the ground. Then began the poor Bishop's frightful torture. First he was stripped quite naked, then furiously beaten with bamboos, then fisted in human form then drove a bamboo through the Bishop's body, whilst two others struck on both eyes. Although he had fainted, the excess of pain was so great that the unfortunate victim came for a short time to his senses and feebly endeavored to drag from his body the bamboo which was cruelly lacerating his entrails. No sooner was this observed than, with jeers and cries of mockery, they seized a stouter bamboo and thrust it in such a manner right through the quivering form of the victim that the upper end of it was driven into his throat. The prelate's terrible agony lasted for three long hours before he expired. His companion, Father Joseph, lived only two hours. His eyes were also gouged out and he was then beaten to death with bamboos. The eyes of the Bishop were affixed to one of the gates of Heng-chow-fu.

THE steamer Netherholme arrived in Sydney several days ago with the survivors of the schooner "J. M. Martin." This schooner was run into by the Netherholme on the night of the 2nd inst. off Cape Pine, on the Newfoundland coast, and the steamer which was moving at twelve knots an hour, struck her on the starboard side and passed close through her. All the crew were saved but two.

THE militia officers held a large and enthusiastic meeting in the City Hall Friday evening, to arrange for a reception to our Island soldiers, now on their way home from the Boer war. The reception will probably include a turnout of the militia and firemen and other forces with bands of music, torchlight procession and a grand display of fireworks. The stores will be decorated for the occasion and a grand dinner will be provided. It is suggested that an special steamer be sent to Platon to bring the "boys" over.

WHILE Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Morris, of Mill Cove, were returning to their home after attending market on Friday, their horse became unmanageable and when near the Corner of St. Francis, dashed into the train which was coming to the City. The horse was thrown one way and the wagon another. Mr. and Mrs. Morris were thrown out, and how they escaped so well is marvellous. Mr. Morris came off uninjured but Mrs. Morris who was thrown in towards the wheels was cut about the head and received injuries to her side, but nothing serious we believe. The horse had a leg broken and received other injuries and was ordered to be killed.

A TERRIBLE accident occurred at Stanchell, Lot 48, on Thursday morning last, by which Laura, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. Donald McDonald, received such injuries to her arm as to necessitate amputation. The accident occurred while she was in progress, and Miss McDonald was standing near the drum when she fell slipped from the pulley. She attempted to replace it, and the result was that her arm was caught between the revolving pulley and the shoulder of the spindle. Before help arrived her arm was fearfully mangled and her side injured. Medical aid was procured as soon as possible and the arm was amputated at the elbow.

THE Tupper Club met last evening and held a most enthusiastic meeting, and notwithstanding the fact that the rain was coming down in torrents, the Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. A great number of people from the country were present. Mr. J. B. Dawson occupied the chair, but retired shortly after the proceedings had begun to go to the wharf to meet Mr. A. C. Bell, M. P. of New Glasgow. Dr. McNeill was then called upon to occupy the chair. Hon. D. Ferguson then kept the audience interested till the arrival of Mr. Bell, who arrived about one o'clock accompanied by Mr. Dawson and Mr. W. S. Stewart the candidate for West Queen's. Mr. Bell's speech lasted for about an hour and a half, during which time he handled the question of the day in a masterly style, showing up the aims of the Government in such a light, that there could be no denying the statements. At the conclusion of Mr. Bell's speech, Mr. Stewart was called on, but only briefly addressed the audience, closing by moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Bell. Dr. McNeill seconded the motion and it was carried by a standing vote. Mr. Bell was then elected an honorary member of the Club. Cheers then followed for Mr. Bell and Mr. Stewart, and the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

MEETING OF THE GEORGETOWN TUPPER CLUB.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AND GREAT ENTHUSIASM.—RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE PASSED.

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 4.—Regular meeting of Georgetown Tupper Club held to-night. President H. J. McPhee in the chair. The committee on constitution reported, and after some discussion their proposed a declaration pledging themselves to support the Liberal-Conservative candidate. P. E. Morrissey in a short but eloquent speech moved the following resolution, which was seconded by E. M. McInnis: Whereas, It has been the will of Divine Providence to remove from earth our esteemed and much beloved friend, Cyrus Shaw, M. L. A.; Therefore Resolved, that we the members of the Georgetown Tupper Club do hereby extend to the widow and family our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement, and desire to place on record our warmest regards to the bereaved ones, and that the members of the Liberal-Conservative party of P. E. Island.

Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to his family and also inserted in THE HERALD, Examiner, and other newspapers. Brief but pointed speeches were delivered by T. E. Morrissey, John A. McDonald, H. J. McPhee, W. Y. F. McDonald and others. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, and the members of the Georgetown Tupper Club are determined that Georgetown will, as in the past, roll up a handsome majority for the Liberal-Conservative candidate. Monday evening 8th inst., at 8 o'clock.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the last regular monthly meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society, the following Resolution was passed:—Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom, to take from this life our esteemed Brother, Patrick Berrigan; Be it Resolved, that we, the officers and members of the Benevolent Irish Society do hereby tender to his relatives our heartfelt sympathy in the hour of their affliction; And be it Resolved, that a copy of this Resolution be entered in the minutes of this meeting, and a copy sent to the press for publication.

Resolution of condolence to the widow and family of the late Cyrus Shaw, passed by the Charlottetown Tupper Club: Whereas: It has been the will of God to remove from earth our highly esteemed and much loved friend, Cyrus Shaw, Esq., M. L. A., we the members of the Tupper Club of Charlottetown, do hereby record our deepest sympathy in the loss sustained by the Liberal-Conservative Party of P. E. Island.

As a politician Mr. Shaw was honest and consistent in the advocacy of all measures calculated to advance the interest of his native Isle. As an energetic worker in the party which he allied himself with he was persistent and watchful, always ready to defend the principles he advocated and believed in with all the reasoning powers with which he was highly gifted. As a watchful guardian of the community, he was a warm-hearted, whole-souled, hospitable gentleman; as a husband and father, the benevolent wife and children, trust however, that he who tempers with compassion upon the widow and fatherless, whose loss is truly the greatest, and bring the comfort and consolation to those who put their trust in Him who speaks as never man speaks.

At the last regular meeting of Branch 254, C. M. B. A. Kensington, the following resolution was adopted: Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has removed from our midst Mrs. T. Driscoll, mother of our member Bro. Joe Driscoll. Therefore resolved, that the sympathy of this branch be extended to the bereaved family and family in their sad bereavement. And further resolved, that copies of this resolution be sent to the Herald, Watchman, and the Canadian for publication.

TREASURE ISLAND.

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.
PART I.
THE OLD BUCANEER.

CHAPTER IV.—(Continued.)
He had till ten, mother," said I, and, just as I said it, our old clock began striking.

I felt in his pockets, one after another.
A few small coins, a thimble and some thread and big needles, a piece of pigtail tobacco bitten away at the end, his gully with the crooked handle, a pocket compass and a tinder box, were all that they contained, and I began to despair.

Overcoming a strong repugnance, I tore open his shirt at the neck, and there, sure enough, hanging to a bit of tarry string, which I cut with his own gully, we found the key.

It was like any other seaman's chest on the outside, the initial "H" burned on the top of it with a hot iron, and the corners somewhat smashed and broken as by long rough usage.

"Give me the key," said my mother, and though the lock was very stiff, she had turned it and thrown back the lid in a twinkling.

A strong smell of tobacco and tar arose from the interior, but nothing was to be seen on the top except a suit of very good clothes, carefully brushed and folded. They had never been worn, my mother said.

In the meantime we found nothing of any value but the silver and the trinkets, and neither of these were in our way. Underneath there was an old boat-cloak, whitened with sea-salt on many a harbor-bar. My mother pulled it up with impatience, and there lay before us, the last things in the chest, a bundle tied up in oil-cloth, and looking like papers, and a canvas bag that gave forth, at a touch, the jingle of gold.

was would not consent to take a fraction more than was due her, and was obstinately unwilling to be content with less. It was not yet seven, she said, by a long way; she knew her rights and she would have them; and she was still arguing with me, when a little low whistle sounded a good way off upon the hill. That was enough, and more than enough, for both of us.

"I'll take what we have," she said, jumping to her feet.
"And I'll take this to square the account," said I, picking up the oilskin packet.
Next moment we were both groping down stairs, leaving the candle by the empty chest; and the next we had opened the door and were in full retreat. We had not started a moment too soon. The fog was rapidly dispersing; already the moon shone quite clear on the high ground on either side, and it was only in the exact bottom of the dell and round the tavern door that a thin veil still hung unbroken to conceal the first steps of our escape. Far less than half way to the hamlet, very little beyond the bottom of the hill, we must come forth into the moonlight. Nor was this all; for the sound of several footsteps running came already to our ears, and as we looked back in their direction a light, tossing to and fro, and still rapidly advancing, showed that one of the new-comers carried a lantern.

"My dear," said my mother, suddenly,
"take the money and run on,
I am going to faint."
This was certainly the end for both of us, I thought. How I cursed the cowardice of the neighbors!
How I blamed my poor mother for her honesty and greed; for her past foolhardiness and present weakness!

CHAPTER V.
THE LAST OF THE BLIND MAN.
My curiosity, in a sense, was stronger than my fear; for I could not remain where I was, but crept back to the bank again, whence, sheltering my head behind a bush of broom, I might command the road before our door. I was scarcely in position ere my enemies began to arrive, seven or eight of them, running hard, their feet beating out of time along the road, and the man with the lantern some paces in front. Three men ran together, hand in hand; and I made out, even though the mist, that the middle man of this trio was the blind beggar. The next moment his voice showed me that I was right.

"Down with the door!" he cried, "Ay, ay, sir!" answered two or three; and a rush was made upon the Admiral Benbow, the lantern-bearer following; and then I could see them pause, and hear speeches passed in a lower key, as if they were surprised to find the door open. But the pause was brief, for the blind man again issued his commands. His voice sounded louder and higher, as if he were afe with eagerness and rage.

"In, in, in!" he shouted, and cursed them for their delay.
Four or five of them obeyed at once, two remaining on the road with the formidable beggar. There was a pause, then a cry of surprise, and then a voice shouting from the house:
"Bill's dead!"

But the blind man swore at them again for their delay.
"Search him, some of you shirking lubbars, and the rest of you aloft and get the chest," he cried.
I could hear their feet rattling up our old stairs, so that the house must have shook with it. Promptly afterward sharp sounds of armistment arose; the window of the captain's room was thrown open with a slam.

and a jingle of broken glass, and a man leaned out, into the moonlight, head and shoulders, and addressed the blind beggar on the road below him.
"Pew!" he cried, "They've been before us. Some one's turned the chest out a low and aloft."
"Is it there?" roared Pew.
"The money's there."
The blind man cursed the money.
"Flin's fist, I mean," he cried.
"We don't see it here, nohow, returned the man.

"Here, you below here, is it on Bill?" cried the blind man again.
At that another fellow probably he who had remained below to search the captain's body, came to the door of the inn. "Bill's been overhauled already," said he "nothin' left."
"Is there people of the inn—it's that boy. I wish I had put his eyes out!" cried the blind man, Pew.
"They were here no time ago—they had the door bolted when I tried it.
Scatter, lads, and find 'em."

"Sure enough, they left their glimp," said the fellow from the window.
"Scatter and find 'em! Route the house out!" reiterated Pew, striking with his stick upon the road.
Then there followed a great to-do through all our inn, heavy feet pounding to and fro, furniture all thrown over, doors kicked in, until the very rocks reechoed, and the men came out again, one after another on the road, and declared that we were nowhere to be found. And just then the same whistle that had alarmed my mother and myself over the dead captain's money was once more clearly audible through the night but this time twice repeated, I had thought it to be the blind man's trump-pet, so to speak, summoning his crew to the assault; but I now found that it was a signal from the hillside to ward the hamlet, and from its effect upon the buccaners, a signal to warn them of approaching danger.
"Here's Dird again," said one.
"Twice! We'll have to budge, mates."

"Budge you skulk!" cried Pew.
"Dirk was a fool and a coward from the first you wouldn't mind him.
They must be close by; they can't be far; you have your hands on it. Scatter and look for them, dogs, Oh, shiver my soul!" he cried, "if I had eyes!"
This appeal seemed to produce some effect, for two of the fellows began to look here and there among the lumber, but half-heartedly, I thought, and with half an eye to their own danger all the time, while the third stood irresolute on the road.

"You have your hands on thousands, you fools, and you hang a leg.
You'd be as rich as kings if you could find it, and you know it's here, and you stand there malingering. There wasn't one of you dared face Bill, and I did it—a blind man! And I'm to lose my chance for you! I'm to be a poor, crawling beggar, sponging for rum, when I might be rolling in a coach! If you had the pluck of a weevil in a biscuit, you would catch them still!"

"Hang it, Pew, we've got the doubloons!" grumbled one.
"They might have hid the blessed thing," said another. "Take the Georges, Pew, and don't stand here squalling."
Squalling was the word for it; Pew's anger rose so high at these objections, till at last, his passion completely taking the upper hand, he struck at them right and left, and his stick sounded heavily on more than one.

"These, in their turn, cursed back at the blind miscreant, threatened him in horrid terms, and tried in vain to catch the stick and wrest it from his grasp.
This quarrel was the saving of us, for, while it was still raging, another sound came from the top of the hill on the side of the hamlet—the tramp of horses galloping. Almost at the same time a pistol shot, flash and report came from the hedge-side. And that was plainly the last signal of danger, for the buccaners turned at once and ran, appearing in every direction, one toward along the cove, one slant across the hill, and so on, so that in half a minute not a sign of them remained but Pew. Him they had desisted, whether in sheer panic or out of revenge for his ill words and blows, I know not; but there he remained behind, tapping up and down the road in a frenzy and groping and calling for his comrades. Finally he took the wrong turn, and ran a few steps past me, toward the hamlet, crying: "Jobney, Black, Dirk," and other names, "you won't leave old Pew, mates—not old Pew?"

Just then the noise of horses topped the rise, and four or five riders came in sight in the moonlight, and swept at full gallop down the slope.
At this Pew saw his error, turned with a scream, and ran straight for the ditch, into which he rolled. But he was on his feet again in a second, and made another dash, now utterly bewildered, right under the nearest of the coming horses.
The rider tried to save him, but in vain. Down went Pew with a cry that rang high into the night, and the four boofs trampled and spurned him and passed by. He fell on his side, then gently collapsed upon his face, and moved no more.

DOANS KIDNEY PILLS
In these days of imitations it is well for everyone to be careful what he buys.
Especially is this necessary when a matter of health is involved.

There are so many imitations of Doan's Kidney Pills on the market—some of them absolutely worthless—that we ask you to be particular to see that the full name and the trade mark of the Maple Leaf are on every box you buy. Without this you are not getting the original Kidney Pills, which has cured so many severe cases of kidney complaint in the United States, Australia and England, as well as here in Canada.

by enabling them to reach more distant markets and by facilitating the preservation of fish and bait.
In 1898 Great Britain imported poultry to the value of more than three millions of dollars. Of this Canada only supplied a very small part. It is no exaggeration to say that because of their inability to market their poultry to the best advantage and to place their surplus upon the British markets at the right time and in the proper condition, Canadian farmers and poultry raisers do not realize more than one-half of the prices they ought to command. In the absence of a cold storage system, farmers, except some of those living near great cities, must wait till cold weather before killing their poultry. With a system such as the Liberal-Conservative party proposes to establish they could kill at any time regardless of the weather, deposit their dressed poultry in receiving stations, knowing that in the hottest weather it would be as safe as in midwinter, and then, when the market is favourable sell to local buyers or ship to Great Britain. With an efficient system of cold storage and fast Atlantic transportation, Canadian butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, meat, fruits and vegetables will all reach the British market in good condition and consequently command much better prices than they have in the past.

The cold storage policy of the Liberal-Conservative party is National. Its beneficial effect will be felt in every province. Not only will it benefit the farmers of the Dominion, but it will stimulate all branches of trade. The manufacturer, the wholesale and retail merchant, the artisan, the labourer and the capitalist will be directly benefited. It is safe to say that such a national system as has been outlined would increase the receipts of the agricultural classes of Canada by at least fifty millions of dollars, when in complete working order.

In establishing a National system no injury will be done to private enterprise. The cold storage warehouse already built can be utilized, and when necessary, improved. The owners will be only too glad to enter into arrangements whereby the volume of their business will be increased and a fair interest secured on the capital invested.

The policy of National cold storage is to be regarded as an important and necessary part of the general trade and industrial policy of the Liberal-Conservative party. This general policy includes:
(a) The policy of tariff protection to Canadian manufactures and producers of all kinds, sufficient to secure them against unfair competition in their natural and rightful home market, thus ensuring diversified employment at living wages for Canadian labor and profitable employment for Canadian capital.
(b) A fast Atlantic service of steamships equipped not only to guarantee the safety and comfort of passengers, but the rapid placing of the more perishable products of the Dominion upon the markets of Great Britain.

(c) The National system of cold storage and transportation already set forth, which will not only secure to our agriculturists the steadiest and best prices for their produce and reduce the loss through waste to a minimum, but will go far towards demonstrating to the people of the Motherland that the great confederacy of nations over which the

"I Can Eat
What I Like."
Many people suffer terribly with pain in the stomach after every mouthful they eat.
Dyspepsia and indigestion keep them in constant misery.
After trying the hundred and one new-fangled remedies without much benefit, why not use the old reliable Burdock Blood Bitters and obtain a perfect and permanent cure?
Here is a case in point: "I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for three or four years, and tried almost every doctor round here and different dyspepsia remedies, but got little relief.
I then started using Burdock Blood Bitters, and when I had finished the second bottle I was almost well, but continued taking it until I had completed the third bottle, when I was perfectly well. Before taking B.B.B. I could scarcely eat anything without having a pain in my stomach.
Now I eat whatever I like without causing me the least discomfort."—Mrs.
T. M. CLARK, Brantford,

IS BABY CUTTING TEETH?

Watch him carefully.—On the first indication of Diarrhoea give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Hot weather comes hard on babies, especially those cutting teeth.
The little form soon wastes and fades away when diarrhoea or cholera infantum seizes upon it.
As you love your child, mother, and wish to save his life, give him Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.
There is no other remedy so safe to give to children and none so effective.
Mrs. Chas. Smith, Shovel Lake, Man., says: "I think Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the best medicine that was ever made for diarrhoea, dysentery and summer complaint. It is the best thing to give children when they are tooth-ing. I have always used it in my own family and it has never yet failed."

British flag flour is easily capable of becoming independent of the rest of the world for its food supply.
(d) Mutual Imperial Preferential trade, not a one-sided arrangement destined to failure because of its inherent unfairness, but an arrangement by which the products of the Dominion will be given preferential tariff treatment throughout the Empire in return for like preferential treatment given to us by the people of Great Britain and by our fellow colonists. The advantage which the people of Canada would derive from such an Imperial Trade Policy are self-evident. To the farmers of the older provinces a small duty levied by England on foreign agricultural produce would mean very greatly increased demand for their products in the world. It would mean to the people of our Northwest Territories—the great granary of the continent—such an almost insolulable advantage that our wild lands would be speedily populated by progressive farmers, those in turn providing manufacturers and merchants with an increased home market, and so stimulating every branch of industry in the Dominion.

GOOD NEWS FOR OUR READERS Who have scrofula taints in their blood, and who have not. Scrofula in all its forms is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla which thoroughly purifies the blood. This disease, which frequently appears in children, is greatly to be dreaded. It is most likely to affect the glands of the neck, which become enlarged, eruptions appear on the head and face, and the eyes are frequently affected.
Upon its first appearance, perhaps in slight eruptions or pimples, scrofula should be entirely eradicated from the system by a thorough course of Hood's Sarsaparilla to prevent all the painful and sickening consequences of running scrofula sores which drain the system, sap the strength and make existence utterly wretched.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, collapse is almost certain to ensue. Mr. Fred H.
Graham, a well-known young man of Barnes, Ont., says: "I have had a great deal of trouble with my heart for four years. I was easily agitated and my excitement caused my heart to throb violently.
I had dizziness and shortness of breath, and often arose in the mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was terribly nervous. Milburn's Heart and
