The Heir of Bayneham

—AND—
Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Paul Fulton wished to believe that he was dreaming. Who could that young girl be, singing with Magdalen's sweet voice? All at once—and to the day of his death Paul Fulton never forgot the shock—with the speed and force of electricity an idea came to him. Could it be Magdalen's child? Who else could bear her face, her smile—who else could be so wonderfully like her? Could it be Magdalen's child and his?

The very thought stunned and bewildered him;—his child, brought to him in his prison-cell for the first and last embrace, born in poverty and disgrace, now the beautiful and beloved wife of one of the proudest nobles in England! It was wilder than any dream, more improbable than any picture. That radiant lady, the daughter of the peasant wife he had scorned and deserted. It could never be; yet how else could he account for the wonderful likeness that had alarmed him so much.

Once more master of himself when Lady Hilda's song was ended, he went to her and began an animated conversation on flowers, guessing by instinct what she would like to speak of best. He interested her by his novel description of the Italian flora, and as he conversed with her his conviction grew momentarily deeper. He felt that he must be satisfied, he must know who this girl was, so like to his dead wife. He bent over her in speaking and his startled glance fell upon the white, jewelled fingers. There, between costly hoops of diamond and pearl, he saw a plain, old-fashioned gold ring, and on it in quaint characters were engraved the word, "Fidelity." He had placed that ring on Magdalen Hurst's own hand soon after they were married, twenty-three years ago.

Paul Fulton was lost in amazement; he tried to remember what his heart-broken wife had said about their child. He had not cared to ask her many questions. It had been adopted, she said, by a lady. It remained for him to find out who the lady was. Conscience made him a coward; it would have been easy to have made inquiries of any of the guests, but he dared not do it.

Paul Fulton was fairly puzzled. He could neither sleep nor rest. He determined to ask questions, but to ask them cautiously.

When breakfast was ended on the following morning he sought Bertie, and after a long discussion of the coming election he said in a carelessly assumed tone, "Bayneham is a beautiful place and I am charmed with the grounds, and with its master too. How frank and fearless Lord Bayneham is! I consider it quite a privilege to know him."

Bertie made some half audible reply; he was wondering if it would be possible to persuade Barbara to let him drive her out that morning.

"Lady Hilda Bayneham is very lovely," continued Mr. Fulton. "Her face haunts me. By the way—I was away from England I suppose at the time of their marriage—who was she?"

His heart beat quickly as he asked the question, but he concealed all emotion under a careless smile.

"She was Lady Hutton's daughter," replied Bertie. "Lady Hutton—the Erskine heiress, you remember—that is, she was her adopted daughter, inheriting her fortune and bearing her name. She always passed as her child, but she was really only Lady Hutton's ward."

"Who were her parents then?" asked Paul Fulton, his lips growing white as he spoke.

"I never heard," replied Bertie; added Bertie hurriedly, for he caught a glimpse of a certain blue dress, and he had been lying in wait for his wearer ever since breakfast time.

CHAPTER XXV.

When Bertie Carlyon left him Paul Fulton stood lost and bewildered in a storm of feeling and thought. He knew not whether to be pleased or curse his fate. What a source of pride and joy for him, his daughter, his own child!—one of the loveliest and fairest women in England—gifted with grace and dignity fitting for a queen—married to a nobleman high in rank, position and wealth; one with whom it was an honor to associate.

That very afternoon Lord Bayneham and Bertie Carlyon had gone out for a ramble together, and Mr. Fulton had been assisting Miss Earle in transplanting some very choice slips given to her. By some unknown accident he contrived to inflict a pretty severe wound upon one of his fingers while Lady Hilda was standing near.

The wound, slight though it was, bled profusely. Mr. Fulton, like many other people, could bear pain, but the sight of blood unnerved him.

France and Belgium Work Together -- No Progress in Near East Discussions -- S.S. Kyle in Blinding Snow Storm.

AMICABLY DISSOLVED.
PARIS, Jan. 4.
The Conference of Allied Delegates which has been endeavoring for the past three days to find a common plan for the solution of the German Reparations' problem, was amicably dissolved late to-day with the British Delegation in disagreement with the representatives of France, Italy and Belgium on the question of how to deal with Germany in this connection. The British Delegation will leave for London tomorrow. The representatives of France and Belgium will continue to exchange views to what measure should be taken jointly and will issue a collective note at the conclusion of their deliberations. Members of the French delegation insist that no rupture of the Entente is involved here being a mere "friendly difference of opinion on the question of Reparations." A formal statement by Bonar Law just before the Conference broke up said that the British considered that the French proposals, if put into effect, were likely to bring disastrous results to Europe's economic life. At the same time France was assured that the British Government, and he believed the British people, retained unchanged their feeling of friendship for France.

A Straight Challenge to Coaker.

THE HEDGING AND SUBTERFUGE OF THE ADVOCATE.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir--We beg to enclose herewith copy of letter we have to-day sent to the Advocate for publication and shall be glad if you will also find space for it in your columns.
Yours truly,
PETER ROBERTS,
J. S. HILL,
St. John's, Jan. 4th, 1923.

Editor "Advocate."
Dear Sir--When we called at your office on Tuesday last, we were told by Mr. Hibbs, the Manager of the Advocate, that the Editor was not in town, but that he would most certainly see that the letter which we handed him would receive publication. We were astonished yesterday to read your rejoinder to that letter and sorry that you did not have the manliness to carry out the promise of your Manager. The Editor--promoted of your sheet must have a very poor conception of editorial courtesy. Because we are fishermen and belong to the "Under Dogs" as Mr. Coaker delighted to call us, you think we do not know what is termed courtesy in Journalism; you are mistaken, friend! We know a gentleman when we see one, but to tell the truth we had our misgivings when we were talking to your Manager on Tuesday. We think you know more about Beaver Skins than you know about fish, (and when we mention Beaver Skins, we have not F. Boone in our mind either)--and the result of your studying the thing so closely a short time ago so warped your mind that you lost all sense of gentlemanliness. Your editorial of yesterday is on a par with that of Friday last or rather worse, and of course, will be dealt with in due course by the very people whom you say are being fooled by us leaders of the United Fishermen's Movement.

You say you possess certain inside information about the terms under which we were prepared to hold political meetings throughout the country, and referred to recent exchanges between the men of the north and political intriguers at St. John's with regard to the latter, we fear not only a threat, but it is rather rough on a secret Department of the Government. We are aware that the Vice President of the F.P.U. is in charge of that Dept., but notwithstanding all the stories floating around the country about the mismanagement therein under his control, it is the first time that we have heard of him being accused of that which you insinuate. However, as you say it will soon be published we shall see how far you are correct.

Regarding the first insinuation, we presume you refer to funds that were and will be necessary to carry on our work. Come now, out with your information. We are not ashamed of anything we have done and we challenge you to publish anything that will make us blush. Some of us have used our own money, and we have also been helped by kind friends in St. John's, mostly merchants along Water Street one of whom is the Royal Stores, Ltd., and certainly you do not class that firm as one of the "Tory intriguers." We will appeal again for funds no doubt and we have confidence we will be well received. It might interest you to know that we have such confidence in the people who helped us out a month ago to do so again that we have set out on our Winter's work to organize the people to demand a reduction of expenditure and taxation to enable the people to live, and, at recent meetings held delegates were appointed as follows:--

- Two for Twillingate.
Two for Bonavista.
Two for Fogo.
Two for Trinity Bay.
Two for the South West Coast.
We happen to be the last two mentioned and we are in St. John's now preparatory to taking the first steamer that will land us in the District of Burin. You must think that R. G. Winsor and F. B. Boone have the only rights of campaigning in the country. These two men have been touring Bonavista Bay for the past month "educating the people" on the benefits of the Humber Deal and the F.P.U. Have we not the same rights? Yes--we have more right than these, because they are campaigning in the interests of one man, W. F. Coaker, whereas we are going to campaign in the interests of the whole people, as reduction of expenditure and reduction of taxation affects every man, woman and child in the country. That we shall be received gladly--we have no doubt.

As regards your reference to Bolshevism, we remind you that the nearest approach to that doctrine can be found in the columns of the Advocate in past issues. Anything of that spirit possessed to-day by men of the north was put in them by the preachings of you and your master--W. F. Coaker. Probably it has now time to develop; it may be coming fast.

We care not what we may be termed; we are not slaves of anybody, Croble, Cashin, Morine, Squires, Bennett, Coaker or anybody else. We care for none of them. We are out for the good of our country and don't care where our funds come from. As for Jesse Winsor's private life, or even ours--the people care nothing if some exposures were made about the private life of some men now in public life, there would be fewer men in the limelight.

Yours truly,
PETER ROBERTS,
J. S. HILL,

Tragic Happening in California.

ST. JOHN'S BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.
The many friends of Mr. Thomas Garland, the well-known Barber who left here last year for Culver, California, will be sorry to hear that his eldest son, Max, a lad about 13 years of age, was accidentally killed on New Year's Day. A message telling of the tragic happening has been received by relatives in the city, and it appears that it was caused by the accidental discharge of a revolver, with which he was playing, the bullet passing through his body and causing his death. There will be general sympathy felt for the parents and family over the tragic happening, especially at this particular season.

DEBATE POSTPONED--Owing to the inclement weather of last evening the opening debate of the M.C.L.I. was postponed. It was decided by those present to allow last evening's subject to stand over until next night of meeting. The same speakers will remain on the schedule.

Obituary.

ROBERT HOBBS
There passed away, at Heart's Delight at 3.30 a.m. on the 31st December, a well known citizen of that community in the person of Robert Hobbs, aged 69 years. Uncle Bob as he was familiarly called was widely known in local marine circles. He is the last of a family, whose father came from the Old Country, and who was born alongside the great Tower of London in the same year of the birth of Queen Victoria. He leaves to mourn a wife, one son (Master Murray), three daughters, Mrs. John Soley at Heart's Delight; Mrs. R. Campbell at Toronto, and Miss Belle at home. Interment took place at 2.30 p.m. Tuesday, 2nd inst, at the S.A. Cemetery. May his soul rest in peace. -COM.

WILLIAM KIRBY.
At Holyrood South, on Christmas Eve, after an illness of almost two years' duration, borne with truly Christian patience and resignation to God's holy will, occurred the death of William Kirby. Deceased was hale and hearty until he was stricken down with the fatal malady, from the first attack of which he apparently rallied for a time, but a recurring attack combated the best medical skill of the practitioners of the district. The late Mr. Kirby was born in Holyrood 55 years ago, and in his early days prosecuted the Western and Labrador fisheries. Later he emigrated to Canada and the U.S.A. and worked for many years continuously and successfully in the building up of the trade and industries of these new countries, then so attractive to the adventurous immigrants. In the rush for gold to Klondyke and Nome over a quarter of a century ago Mr. Kirby was one of the pioneers, and spent several years there harvesting a considerable amount of wealth from this perilous adventure to the frozen

Funeral Obsequies.

The funeral of the late Henry T. Nichol took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, Flavin Street. A large number of mourners including members of the Grand Lodge and St. John's Lodge, No. 5, S.U.F., attended the obsequies. The deceased was manager of W. & G. Rendell's paint and hardware stores. Being in the employ of the firm for the past 38 years, he made a host of friends by his unflinching courtesy and attention to business. As a mark of respect to his memory the firm's premises were closed for the afternoon. The funeral service was taken by the Rev. E. C. Earp, rector of St. Thomas'; at the Mortuary Chapel the hymn "O God our help in ages past" was sung, and at the graveside the hymn "Rock of Ages" was feelingly sung, while all that was mortal of one of Nature's noblemen was reverently laid to rest to await the final Resurrection Morn. Lost to mourn are a wife, 4 daughters, Mrs. Mauk and Mrs. Hendrickson of Cumberland, Md. Miss Clara of Gray & Goodland's and Leah at school; 3 sons, Jack of W. & G. Rendell's, Will of Harvey & Co's, and Alex at school, also one brother and sister to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

Noted Airman Coming.

JOINS AERIAL SURVEY COMPANY.
Major H. Kitchener, nephew of the late Field Marshal Kitchener, is expected to arrive here shortly from Bermuda to join the Aerial Survey Co., Ltd. Major Kitchener is an experienced pilot, having many thrilling flights to his credit. He saw service throughout the war and since has been identified with flying in the West Indies.

SCHOOL GIRL BREAKS LEG.
Yesterday morning while Miss Marie Thorburn of Barnes Road was coasting over one of the city inclines, the sled overturned, and as a result her leg was hooked up underneath her and was broken at the knee. She was attended to by the surgery of Dr. Macpherson by a number of her girl friends, and after all possible had been done she was removed to the General Hospital for further treatment.

Personal.

Mrs. F. J. Morris leaves by s.s. Silvia en route to California on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Burke.
Hon. W. F. Coaker arrived in town yesterday evening from Port Union by private car, which was despatched from here on Sunday.
Mr. J. A. Dunbar of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff, has resigned his position and will join the staff of the Confederation Life Assurance Co.

Vaudeville Stars Score Initial Triumph.

APPEARING IN SONGS, SKITS, COMEDY AND SATIRE.
Clinton and McNamara's singing, talking and sketch went over with a bang, everything being snappy and attractive. Miss Nellie McNamara possesses an attractive personality and has an excellent voice. Their musical entertainment deals with the humour of the Custom House, the little lady of the act impersonating a traveller arriving with trunkloads of clothes, and the man proving himself an agile comedian of unusual methods as the examining officer.

The picture attraction is "The Mask" by Arthur Hornblow. It is the strongest, strangest drama of the love-power you've ever seen. Wandering with lost memory through the streets was Kenneth Traynor. Chance brought him wrecked and unrecognizable to his own home. He saw his own wife with another man; he saw his own son; and then passed on into the night.

The beautiful curtain, which has been recently installed, gives the stage an artistic appearance, and greatly adds to the performance.

Springdale St. Prize Day.

LADY HORWOOD MAKES PRESENTATIONS.

The annual prize distribution of the Springdale Street Elementary and High School, took place on Dec. 22nd, in the assembly room of the school, the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland presiding, and Lady Horwood distributed the prizes presented by friends of the institution. An appropriate programme was rendered by the school and speeches delivered by Dr. Blackall, Canon Bolt, Mr. P. H. Knowling and the rectors of St. Mary's and St. Michael's. The Principal, Mr. P. G. Butler, B.C.S. presented his report and was complimented on his success at New York University, also at the school during the past year. His report showed that the average attendance had increased to 277 this year, while the enrollment was 405, or 50 for each teacher, truly a promising school. The extension of the building is necessary to provide for the accommodation of 207 more applicants who had to be turned away this year for want of room. Compulsory attendance was also necessary for best results, and play-grounds, more supervisors and the help of the new Normal School in providing additional teachers to reach the high standard of attainment set up by the Department of Education. The staff included special instructors in Drawing, Manual Training, Domestic Science, Touch Typewriting, Office Routine, Shorthand, Needlework, Physical Drill, Commercial Subjects, and Spiritual Training, and the reports and exhibitions of their work spoke loudly in their praise. The desire is to develop the whole seven-fold principles of Education, and make the institution a thoroughly up-to-date Commercial High School in its highest department. Seventy per cent. of those who entered for the C.H.E. in Preliminary Grade had passed, winning distinctions in several Commercial subjects, while a good record had been made in the Primary C.H.E. term also, and in all the Lower Forms during the new year; and plans are now being made for greater efficiency in all the classes, including Intermediate and advanced Commercial during the coming year. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the donors of prizes: Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Lady Horwood, Dr. W. W. Blackall, Hon. J. Davey, Hon. Dr. A. Barnes, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Mrs. J. Coaker, Mrs. J. Cook, Mrs. W. Christian, Miss Coaker, Miss Randall, Mrs. Gosling, Messrs. Ayre & Sons, Ltd., W. Campbell, Esq., G. R. Williams, Esq., S. G. Collier, Esq., (Manual Training), W. A. Munn, Esq., (Nfld. History), W. N. Gray, Esq., F. C. Alderdice, Esq., Messrs. Deeks & Co., Messrs. Parker & Moore, Mr. Brass, Messrs. G. Browning & Son, and Messrs. Warfield & Winsor.

IF SATURDAY NIGHT IS TUESDAY, WHAT IS Jan. 8th?

Newfoundland Bible Society.

EXECUTIVE MEETING-CAMPAIGN WORKERS ENTERTAINED

Despite the inclement weather which prevailed last evening and night, a large gathering of representatives from the various Protestant Churches attended the Bible Society meeting in the Presbyterian Hall, called by the Executive of the Newfoundland Branch. The object of the meeting was for the purpose of finalizing plans and arrangements for the conducting of the annual campaign to raise funds in aid of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The collectors who will cover the districts throughout the city and suburbs are composed of lady and gentlemen members of the C. of E., Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations. Before discussing matters pertaining to the conduct of the campaign was entered upon, the invited guests, including the band or workers, were treated to a sumptuous repast kindly furnished by a ladies' committee, formed from the respective denominations. Among those present were Canon Bolt, who presided, Canon Jeeves, Revs. Dr. Curtis, T. B. Darby, C. H. Johnson, R. E. Fairbairn, Hammond Johnson, Dr. Fenwick, R. J. Power, A. A. Templeton, Treasurer, J. Leamon, Esq., and many others prominently identified with church work. After an elaborate menu had been done full justice to by all, Rev. Canon Bolt, President of the Bible Society thanked the large gathering for their attendance. It was announced that a good many of those invited could not attend owing to the disagreeable weather; messages to this effect having been received from Col. Martin, S.A., and Rev. J. and Mrs. Brinton. For some minutes the Chairman spoke on the aims and objects of the meeting, and in his remarks dwelt largely on the work of the collectors who are about again to start out on the campaign. The object of their going out was the promotion of important work and was something worth while to be engaged in. Should the campaign be carried out to a successful issue by the collectors of the different churches a greater work will be created, and the people of this community will better understand the great value of the British and Foreign Bible Society. To accomplish this end, collectors, and all those interested in the Bible, must go out with enthusiasm in their work, be agreeable to everyone, and discharge their duties with all the zeal that can be put into the work, and thus much better results will be accomplished in the campaign this year. The last appeal was not an adequate response to the call, because only 1,500 people out of 18,000 worshippers from the respective churches contributed. Taking an average of one fifth subscribers in the congregations, we would have something like 3,700 people to subscribe. If 50 per cent of these people in St. John's would contribute to the Society, I don't think we would be asking too much. At present we have not quite 500 subscribers, we ought to have four times that number. If the campaign is properly worked $5,000 could be raised for the Bible Society. The splendid response to which each and everyone of us has just done full justice, is not the end; is it the means to the end? This splendid repast is to create interest. The campaign is a world wide movement, and the various missionary organizations are doing yeoman service for this worthy cause. One cannot be engaged in a higher or nobler work, because this is a work laid upon us as a virtue of our own obligations as Christians. Pastors have been asked and have selected members to go out from their congregations; a great deal therefore depends on the attitude and calibre of the collectors. A good motto for the canvassers would be to "aim high." Canon Bolt in his closing remarks stated that they had secured a plentiful supply of literature and circulars from the head office at Toronto for the representatives in charge of the campaign, and this was to be contributed in places where it might be productive of good. Rev. Canon Jeeves moved an expression of gratitude to the ladies who provided the excellent menu for the occasion, which was seconded by Rev. T. B. Darby. Rev. Canon Bolt, before putting the resolution as proposed and seconded before the meeting, made a brief reply as to the whole hearted manner in which the ladies so kindly responded to arrange for the entertaining. They were asked to provide a meal which would not be elaborate, and how much greater could the spread have been had they been asked to make a much greater provision than what had already been placed before us. It would have been greater had a larger number been here to partake of their hospitality. For the manner in which the ladies responded to the appeal, hearty acclamatory vote was accorded. Mr. R. A. Templeton in his remarks stated that a large number of the subscribers are not familiar with the work the Society is doing. The Bible Society is in itself a very effective organization, and many do not know how much of the work is accomplished without the charging of any fee. The work in a good many cases is done on a large scale, and although the Bible is one of the cheapest books in the world to buy, from a publishers standpoint, yet there are people without a Bible; and one can feel convinced that many of these persons are unable to pay a subscription. I know the enthusiasm of the collectors by the resumption of the canvass. Many of these realize the seriousness of the cause and upon them depends largely the success of the campaign. It is only adding another link to the chain linking up with the work in the outside world. Mr. Templeton thought there was no reason why subscribers, who had already contributed an annual subscription of $1.00, should not give at least a little more this year. If the collectors would go out and explain to the people that although the Society's issues of the Bible already include 536 different languages, yet there remains hundreds in which the Gospel has not yet been preached, and a thousand and one other things must be carried out before the manuscript is put in publication. The collectors were advised to return their subscriptions to the same church for which they are canvassing, while any amount, small or large, could very easily be received by the Treasurer. Canon Bolt asked the collectors to finish their campaign not later than January 15th; the reason for which is that no delay will occur in forwarding the amount to head office, because they are anxious to close their books for last year. The subscribers will do a favor by assisting the collectors in this respect. Mr. Wm. Peters was the next speaker, and for some minutes spoke on the methods as best adopted to carry the campaign to a successful close. He thought if each of the collectors would wait upon twenty or thirty subscribers, much better work would be accomplished, otherwise many of those anxious to contribute would be probably left out. He also dwelt on the fact that every collector should make a thorough canvass. The suggestions as outlined by Mr. Peters was favored by the meeting and a motion for same was carried unanimously. Rev. Dr. Curtis made a very forceful address and pointed out to all that the campaign about to be opened was a part of the greatest work a man or woman can engage in and it is sure to meet with sympathy and support. People who are in sympathy with Foreign Bible Society are ready to contribute and support the cause. The objective of the campaign is to raise $5,000. If you would go out and strike for $2,500 this year it would be a splendid advance, and would raise the standard considerably. The highest honor that one can get in this world is in going out and sharing in this work, and victory will surely crown ones labors. A large lot of literature was then distributed to the representatives of the respective churches. The collectors are starting out on their campaign immediately, and it is hoped they will meet with a ready response from everyone. The members of the respective churches are asked to assist the collectors in the campaign toward the desired end. The meetings then closed with the Benediction and the singing of God Save The King.

British and Foreign Bible Society.

AN APPEAL.

The Officers and Committee of the St. John's and Newfoundland Auxiliary of the Bible Society beg to lay before the friends and supporters of the Society, the following facts. The aim of the Bible Society is to provide every man who can read with the Word of God, "without note or comment" in his own tongue. Since the inception of the Society in 1804, it has translated the Scriptures in 559 languages, representing 328 millions of books distributed during that period, of which nearly 106 millions have been in English. In 1921 the Society issued eight and a half million books. It maintains Depots in nearly one hundred of the chief cities of the world. It published the Bible or some book of the Bible in a new language every month. For every pound it expends in publishing the Scriptures, it only receives about seven shillings in return. It undertakes to supply the Scriptures where needed, whether it receives a return or not. The Society is a world-wide Missionary Organization. The Missions of the Anglican Communion, as well as those of the Free Churches, are alike its debtors. Missionaries from all lands testify to its vital importance as a Missionary agency. Its praise in all the churches. Its partnership with Missionary Societies, eminent scholars and translators, enables it to make the Bible the cheapest book in the world. No other organization can produce like results. Great as have been the achievements of the Society in the past, its opportunities for service were never greater than in the present day. A distracted world needs before everything else the Word of God. Never before have greater demands been made upon the Society. Daily appeals are made, which call for a prompt and adequate response. Such a response can only be made if the Society receive increased support. For this support the Society now calls upon all its branches throughout the world. We, whose names are appended, earnestly appeal to all those who sympathize with the aims and object of the Bible Society to contribute as liberally as their means will allow to their funds, and thus co-operate with the officers and committees in their endeavor to make Newfoundland's contribution such as our duty requires and the situation demands. World-Wide W. C. T. U.

The Grand Central Station in New York is somewhat vast and confusing to any person unused to large cities and truly in the early morning of Oct. 29th, 1922, one did look around and try to grasp the significance of the various baggage rooms, passages and waiting rooms etc.—however the desired Traveller's Aid desk with its gentle yet alert lady is located and required information is obtained.— Here let me pay tribute to that branch of the work of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union—in so many places does one find this noble work going on that amazement is the appermost feeling in the mind that so far we in this city, have failed to establish, or attempt to do so, as far as the writer's knowledge goes, a Travellers' Aid in our Railway Station at least. The organizer of that work urged upon us during the World's Convention and the National to hasten in that regard; we shall need help! Now we are off in the Lexington Ave. Subway express and in due time reach Neven's St. and a walk of a block or two brings us to the Harriet Hudson Y. M. C. A. with its beautiful spacious reception rooms its cosy, bed-rooms and dining hall, where are housed some three hundred and fifty of the busiest and happiest girls of Brooklyn and New York. Here are spent some memorable days, then we are away to visit a dear Newfoundland friend and spend a pleasant week with Mrs. Capt. Mitchell before time comes for the wonderful World Convention. Excursions, lone ones, are made to the heart of New York. The Western Union seems homelike because of the uniformed messengers at least, and when we are greeted by such men as T. F. Foley, former Brigadier now manager in the Broad St. Station and, later, meet Wm. Alec Smith, son of the late R. C. Smith, and Mr. Stan Robertson of the Royal Bank, dinner seems short after all. But let's call comes to attend first a Reception of the Overseas Delegates at the home of Mrs. Ella Boole, in Brooklyn, honoured and beloved by Americans and Canadians then, and now by all representatives of lands beyond, as the world's treasurer. Amongst the foreign arrivals are the two older German Delegates, and let me say here that were all the Germans such noble Christian women as these there would never have been the Great War. Next we meet some dear English ladies. From East and West, North and South they came, dignified yet cheery. Hither comes a lady and gentleman from Australia and yet again we hear the dear Scotch accents ringing, and when asked "Where do you come from?" as did Mrs. Graham (sweet singer of the W. C. T. U. of whom more later) say? you answer, with every syllable emphasized, for let me tell you right here it is amusing to note the various ways the name is pronounced, "Newfoundland." From the end of the line hastens a lady who tells you she is deeply interested in that country for there lived and labored an uncle of hers; you ask his name and behold she says "The Rev. G. S. Milligan." Such an outburst of welcome did that dear lady give to one who knew from earliest years that noble man who did so much for education in Newfoundland, that at once a group must be told something as to who he was and what he did. November 10th the delegates repair to New York in response to an invitation from the most select women's club of that city. First for an automobile ride in which we pass the City Hall with its massive tower and clock, the second hand of which weighs one ton, the figures being the height of an average man; the homes of the Vanderbilts, Hearst and Goulds are pointed out as places of interest and along we go by way of Riverside Drive until we come to Gen. Grant's tomb. There we alight and enter with reverent step and slow to view the caskets of that wonderful man and his wife, Ruth. On we hasten, as time will not tarry even for Temperance Delegates, and we come to the Bowery where folks expect sights of horror, but just then all was peaceful and serene in the sunshine save where the law even of prohibition of liquor, not to mention the older Mosaic code, is so hard to enforce because the evil doer spends his money more lavishly to induce the breaking of rather than does the Christian man of wealth his gold to enforce and uphold all good, though sometimes faulty, laws. Just here I would mention that one of the lessons learned during all these wonderful days was that, instead of wanting the valuable moments in criticism, the desire and effort were apparent to suggest ways of helping those whose duties were arduous and could be lightened by working for enforcement where we happen to be! But here we are back in the centre of the city, at the dusty corner of Broadway, where the dust was worse than we get even on Water Street, for a few minutes anyway. Along we ride, and are told by our guide, who surely must have been Irish, so witty was he, that within a radius of one mile, there were three hundred and forty-three picture houses, opera houses and dancing halls. Certain it is that the amusement folks are active there as well as in our small town. Now we draw up at the door of the City Club where we are welcomed by Dr. Valeria Parker and Mrs. Falconer of whose work you will hear in a later issue. (to be continued.)

The Makimu Caves.

Everyone has heard of the Perigord and Puy-de-France caves in France, Brixham Cave, England, and the Mammoth cave of Kentucky, but how many Canadians know that we have wonderful caves in British Columbia? The Nakimu Caves, the most wonderful series of underground chambers in Canada, were discovered in 1904 by a miner while prospecting in the Cougar Valley. The story of the early explorations of these underground caves reads like a page from Jules Verne. Over a mile of high-domed halls and connecting passages whose walls of crystalline-limestones send back the rays of the lights in a myriad of colors, are open to visitors forming one of the most thrilling experiences imaginable. To add more thoroughly to the weirdness of the traverse, Cougar creek, which flows through the valley, is caught down into the bowels of the mountain through the openings and roars along at the very feet of the visitors. Twice during the course of a mile it reappears to finally disappear by an underground channel. The rumbling of the waters through the caves is probably responsible for the Indian name "Nakimu" which means grumbling or spirit noises. The new chamber which adjoins Cave No. 4, is a large cathedral-like cavern, varying in length and height some of our highest halls. It is 435 feet long and from 2 1/2 to 16 feet in width with an approximate height of 100 feet. Explorers Startled by Queer Reptiles. A natural-history expedition which has just returned to New York after a year in the wilds of Santo Domingo has brought back more than two hundred living or preserved specimens of reptile life, including a giant tree-frog and frogs that bark like dogs. The expedition carried out its amazing operations chiefly at night. "It is a weird experience," said one of the members, "to penetrate the blackness of these tropical forests and to hear, as one would suppose, dogs barking high over one's head in the tree-tops." "The first barking frog that was captured startled the members of the party considerably. Instead of wriggling like a dog, it opened its mouth wide and gave a terrific squeal such as a pig in agony might make." Not Tadpoles. "Later it was discovered that this tree-toad frog left the trees in the breeding season and laid its eggs on the ground. The eggs, which were very large, and about thirty in number, did not hatch out into tadpoles, as is the general rule among northern frogs, but, instead, into tiny froglets of the same form as their parents." The giant tree frog was found taking a dust bath beside a mountain torrent. Its capture was said to be not without danger, as when touched it exuded a milky secretion which inflamed the hands and filled the air with a pungent and irritating vapour.

Christmas Services at Barhaven.

PRESENTATION TO POPULAR PASTOR.

Special to Evening Telegram
BARHAVEN, Jan. 4.
In the beautiful Church of St. Francis Xavier, Barhaven, the Christmas programme of music, rendered at the Midnight Mass, ten and eleven o'clock Masses and Vespers Services Christmas night, will be repeated by special request on the Festival Day of the Epiphany; and also on Sunday next the Choir under the direction of Miss O'Keefe will sing the pretty carols so greatly appreciated on Christmas Day. The music at Vespers on the Feast of the Epiphany will be purely Gregorian, all the psalms containing solo parts. The people and children will approach the Saviour's Crib, and present their gifts of good will of loyalty to God, pastor and country, in emulation of the wise men who offered gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh at the Infant Jesus' Crib at Bethlehem on the most Happy Day. Fr. Francis Cacciola, who has just recovered from an awful indisposition, due to mental strain, anxiety and worry, was presented with a testimonial and a handsome purse by admiring friends of his Parish on New Year's Eve.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE LADY OF THE QUIET HANDS.

She isn't specially pretty. We call her The Lady of the Quiet Hands. She isn't unusually clever or witty. She Does Not Fidget. The distinction is implied in that title. She does not fidget. If she is talking with you she does not twirl a pencil or play with a tassel on her dress or turn the leaves of a book. Nor does she constantly raise her hands in front of her face as most people do (if you don't believe that ask some deaf person who has the habit of relaxation and the ability to help himself out with lip reading how common this trick is). Nor is she continually patting her hair, policing stray locks or cautiously feeling around to see if some puff is in place. When She Rests, She Rests. Sometimes she knits like the rest of the world. But when she isn't working she is quiet. And that quietude gives her a distinct charm in a world of people who do not know how to be quiet. Poise is a beautiful word and a beautiful quality. And both of them are almost as rare as they are beautiful. We Forget How. Restlessness is the key note of the age. Autos and telephones and radios and trolley cars have made our lives more interesting but they have also made them more hectic. There are so many things to do that we rush from one thing to another and lose the habit of relaxation and the ability to be quiet. Notice people about you and see how many fidget, how few are still for any length of time.

British Who Speak No English.

Along the western sea-board of Scotland and in the Hebrides many of the older generations can speak no word of English. The younger generation are better educated and converse in the language of the South, but it is always in Gaelic that they think. Few of the visitors to the Hebrides have any knowledge of Gaelic. The islanders thus have considerable difficulty in understanding their speech, and it is surprising how happy they become should the stranger show even a superficial acquaintance with their language.

Gaelic is a difficult speech to master. It contains many pitfalls for the unwary. Its alphabet is limited to K, E, V, W, X, Y, or Z. Yet the V sound is found in many words; it is made by the letters mh, or bh. Thus mhòr (great) is pronounced vor. There is no J sound in the language. For instance John becomes Iain. Gaelic is a language rich in songs. They are simple and mostly sad. They are usually sung to no accompaniment.

The dwellings of the Hebridean Islanders are often of the most primitive type. There are not more than two rooms. In the case of a woman tread-wearer with a family of eight, these two rooms measure no more than twelve feet square, and the hand-loom occupies a good quarter of the space in the living-room. The floor is of earth, and is periodically sprinkled with a fine white sand, which is carried in a sack from the shore two miles away. There is no chimney, yet a peat fire smolders day and night on the hearth, and the smoke escapes through the door and a hole in the roof in the opposite side of the room to the fire. So thick is the room with peat smoke, it is almost impossible to see across it, and one's eyes smart painfully.

Hence the well-known smell of the so-called tress (the cloth is made not only in Harris, but in all the Outer Hebrides).

The Procession Caterpillar.

Mr. E.M. Bunyard, an English writer, relates the following remarkable experience: Whilst staying in the Riviera in the early spring of 1922, I had the good fortune to see a column of the procession caterpillar wending its way from a group of Aleppo pines toward a suitable pupating ground. At first I thought it was a gigantic centipede, but on closer examination found it to be a file of seventeen caterpillars in procession, each touching head to tail with its neighbour. The caterpillars measured about an inch and a half each, and were light brown, covered with hairs. They kept the line perfectly, until, passing along a ridge, one from the centre of the line fell over the edge. Immediately the caterpillar in front of the one which fell out signalled by movement to the next one, who immediately stopped until the deserter had crawled back into position, when the procession continued, another signal having been apparently passed up that the line was again complete. I saw this occur twice, and in each case the line halted until re-formed, and then continued on its way.

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Cowboys of Hawaii "Tied to Death."

In the high islands of Hawaii there is a tremendous acreage of wild pasture land on every volcanic mountain-top. This pasture is composed of vast wastes of lava in various stages of disintegration; over it diminishing bands of wild cattle roam. They are the descendants of stock presented to King Kamehameha I. by Vancouver, the British explorer, and later added to by the old King by importations of cattle from Mexico. Along with these herds he imported vaqueros to instruct his subjects in the care of cattle and from the descendants of these Spanish Americans came the term "paniolo" (from Espanol) to designate the picturesque cowboy of Hawaii. The Chase Commences. In the clear, sharp moonlight these valiant chaps sally forth, mount warily, for the tamest of cattle horses will buck if pulled tight or handled roughly on a cold morning. The gallant cavalcade departs with ringing bits and fragrant cigarettes into the gold and lead of moonlight and shadow.

After hours of riding through straggling forests the cowboys emerge in the uplands where the wild cattle roam. They divide into parties, and when a clear daffodil light creeps up the east behind the fine blue rim of the mountains one sees the spirals of their signal fires just below the sable wastes of newer lava flows, for it is the object of the men to get between the wild cattle and the "clinkers," as the brittle lava is called; it is the one sure refuge of wild cattle through which no horse can follow.

Suddenly some sharp-eyed cowboy spots moving objects below that are edging back toward the safety of the "clinkers" after a long-night feed on rich pasture.

The word is passed, girls tightened, lassos, seen, that there is no kink that might spoil a throw. The riders advance, at first warily, behind the screen of convenient ridges, then, when the alarm of their approach reaches the herd recklessly.

Rage and Panic Rules.

Full gallop down the tawny, tumbling hills they go crashing, through the scrub, sliding down banks, taking fogs and fern-screened lava holes in their horses' stride. Rage and panic seize the band, men gallop above and below, shouting, swinging their ropes. The cattle scatter, some for the forests, the rest for the mountain rim. Owing to the broken nature of the country the cowboys can never get close to their quarry. Consequently they are famed for the long distances they throw, and the lasso of every real "paniolo" who has a pride in his calling is tied fast to the pommel; to loosen a rope is the one unpardonable sin for which there is no justification or excuse.

Mounted on the finest or most decrepit of horses, these valiant fellows ride "tied to death," to translate an old Spanish term. Bulls with red eyes and knotted tails turn to charge, some so wild that no horse will face them. With shouts the men dodge among them, deft, daring, cool. The man or horse that comes down has little chance. Sometimes a riderless horse gallops madly off with high held head to avoid trailing bridle reins. Sometimes a gallant horse, through carelessness or inexperience on its rider's part, is ripped open from foreleg to flank and after a few fearful minutes a game spirit passes.

Minutes of Tense Living.

There are some minutes of tremendous living.

Ropes settle on the horns of a 1,000 pound bull, deft jerks of iron wrists turn the animal over, other cowboys go by full gallop looking for trees to which they may snub the grunting furcs on their lassos' ends that determinedly charge their horses' heels. Flipping their ropes to right or left to keep from being wiped off or out of their saddles, they manage to keep ahead until they dodge around a tree and bring the wicked horned head sharply and firmly against the trunk. Leading wild cattle is a common practice of the cowboys of Hawaii and an object of wonder and admiration to those of other lands. A cowboy of note from America, for many years champion ropoer of the world, when first he saw it in the islands stopped his horse and declared that only fools would so court death.

And yet with no thought of their bravery or no realization of their ignorance, these "paniolas" tie their ropes fast to wild cattle and gallop at break-neck pace to some tree, which is frequently half a mile or more away, so they may tie their animals until the next day, when men come up with "pinnies" (oxen to which the wild cattle are tied) to lead them down to the butcher shop.

Strange Recipes for Prolonging Life.

Dr. Voronoff, whose monkey-gland experiments are attracting widespread attention, is by no means the first to tackle the problem of prolonging human life. Many men have devoted much time and energy to the subject. One of the earliest of these was Roger Bacon, who believed that the true elixir of life was to be found in liquid gold. He dissolved gold in nitro-hydrochloric acid, a solution still known among chemists as "aqua regia," or royal water. In the end, however, he confessed himself baffled.

Some time later the world of medicine was puzzled by the discovery by Count Mottel of an alleged elixir compounded of certain secret herbs. Then came Professor Loch, with his assertion that common salt contained all the properties essential to the lengthening of man's natural span.

Sour Milk Theory.

Most successful, thought in a strictly limited degree, was the "rejuvenator" discovered by Dr. Albert Robin, a Parisian physician. Glyco-phosphate of lime, sodium, potash, and kola nut were some of the ingredients of his elixir, which certainly proved effective in one or two cases of little known wasting diseases.

A few years ago Metchnikoff's sour milk theory made a great stir, as did Dr. Doyen's "cure all," composed of natural ferments. Perhaps the best of all these so-called life elixirs is adrenalin, which, although it has not lived up to its early reputation as a specific for lengthening life indefinitely, has at least proved itself to be a useful factor in modern medical practice.

At the Majestic.

The admirers of Elaine Hammerstein will find her at the Majestic today, where she is presenting "Remorseless Love." Miss Hammerstein does not come this time in ball dresses and evening gowns, but swings across the stage as a self-reliant and vigorous girl of the mountains who teaches school, and rebels against the outrageous dictates of feudal hatreds and retentions.

mination to collect "an eye for an eye"—and all the time Miss Hammerstein, as the frail but resolute school teacher, defies the arrogance of community hatred with success crowning her efforts and true love winning out above all.

Newfoundlanders Abroad.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

In a recent issue of the Telegram I gave some particulars of the early life of Captain Richard Gosse in Newfoundland when prosecuting the cod-fishery at Labrador and the seal-fishery during the Spring, which received a warm appreciation from his old friends at Spaniard's Bay, and elsewhere, who well remember the great gales mentioned, and their early experiences. Capt. Gosse, who is now a millionaire, having made his fortune in canning salmon in British Columbia, expects to visit Newfoundland again in the not far distant future, and I bespeak for him a hearty welcome from all.

The past year has been exceedingly successful in packing salmon in British Columbia. They have put out of hand nearly twice the quantity they did during the year 1921, and prospects are bright for the future, with fairly good prices, and a world-wide demand for their product. The Fraser River, which flows into the Pacific, quite near the city of Vancouver, is said to be the greatest salmon river in the world. Not alone were salmon exceedingly plentiful there, but the river was the headquarters for the celebrated breed called "Sockeye" Salmon, which commands twice the value of other breeds that frequent the Pacific coast rivers. When the Grand Trunk Railway Company were laying their line down the side of the river about ten years ago, they had to blast the side of a hill to enable them to lay their rails. During this blasting they started an avalanche of rock that practically closed this river for salmon and which prevented them from reaching their usual spawning grounds. The salmon have never been so productive in the river since, and the Dominion authorities appointed a Royal Commission last year to make special enquiries on this subject.

FROM THE HISTORIC TOWN.

The Chairman of this Royal Commission is William Duff, Member of Parliament for Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, son of the late William Duff, Esq., merchant, and one time member of our House of Assembly, for Carbonara, and brother of Robert and John Duff, the enterprising business men of the above town, who succeeded their father in the old and well-known firm of Duff & Palmer. About twenty years ago Mr. Duff left his native town of Carbonara to seek his fortune, like so many of his countrymen, and settled down in Nova Scotia, and from all reports he has been very successful. He has made a name for himself as the spokesman on all fishery matters at Ottawa, and it is well known that every person expects that he will be appointed Minister of Marine and Fisheries at an early date in Ottawa. Mr. Duff's report on the Royal Commission given to the Canadian Government was that all salmon fishing operations should be suspended on the Fraser River for five years. This has created a storm of indignation, from not alone the salmon packers, but the many fishermen employed, and the subsidiary interests that are connected with this great industry in British Columbia.

DUFF VERSUS GOSSE.

During the month of December numerous meetings were held in Vancouver, and protests have been made, numerous signed, but instead of sending a large delegation to present these protests at Ottawa, they decided to leave all in the hands of one man, whom they considered best qualified to handle this weighty affair, for it must be known that the salmon industry on the Fraser River represents invested capital of twenty millions of dollars. Mr. Robert C. Gosse, the eldest son of our old friend, Capt. Richard Gosse, was the man selected. It is a recognition of his ability and his thorough knowledge of the industry, and no greater compliment could be given any person than this appointment by the representatives of the principal industry of British Columbia. Mr. Robert Gosse was born in Spaniard's Bay in 1886, so that he is only forty-two years of age, but he is certainly proving himself a "chip of the old block," and we wish him every success in his present mission to Ottawa to fight these politicians on their own ground.

RUSE CONTR'E RUSE.

Now comes the curious coincidence of two "Newfoundlanders Abroad," one whose birthplace was in Carbonara, as spokesman for the Canadian Government, endeavoring to make laws that will protect this fishing industry for future generations, and imposed to him in another Newfoundland, born in Spaniard's Bay, who is the spokesman for the vast financial investments and the employment of so many others. It is recognized by all that if the Fraser River is closed for the salmon fishing purposes for five years that it will put all the canneries, established on that river, out of business. They could not survive such a long period of inaction, with the cost of maintenance, and depreciation of their property which would make such demands on the capital of the companies. It is said that it was Mr. Robert Gosse's initiative, with several alternative proposals, that he believes will meet the views of the Royal Commission to preserve this valuable run of fish from entire extinction, and at the same time give the canneries the opportunity to preserve their invested rights from what they call at the present moment, confiscation. It is indeed a battle royal between two of our out-there Newfoundlanders, and will show the stuff of which both are made.

Municipal Council.

WEEKLY MEETING. The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided. Councillors Martin, Outerbridge, Collier, Ryan, Vinticombe and Dowden were present.

After minutes of previous meeting were confirmed the following business was transacted. A communication was read from the Deputy Colonial Secretary acknowledging receipt of Council's cheque for $80.00 in favor of his Excellency the Governor in payment of rental account Bannerman Park for the year 1922.

Supt. Morris of the St. John's Light and Power Company in reply to Council's notification for removal of snow thrown up by the Street Sweeper along the car route, stated the work of levelling the snow to a uniform depth as required by the act was undertaken yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

This brought up again the question of the removal of snow from Water Street sidewalks, and it was pointed out that although notice had been served on the occupiers together with attention being called to same in the daily papers some residents still persisted in throwing the snow into the street. Orders were given the inspectors to ascertain the names of the persons violating the regulations so that legal proceedings may be taken.

Mr. John Deer, King's Bridge Rd. wrote re the unsanitary condition of that thoroughfare and asked that steps be taken to remedy the cause of complaint. The Sanitary Supervisor is to make enquiries into the matter.

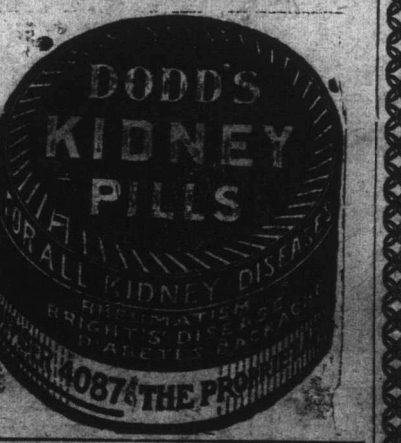

Inspector General Hutchings called attention to the low pressure at the several hydrants on Harvey Road, which he understood was through some manipulation of the water for the purpose of increasing the pressure on the higher levels. This matter was referred to the City Engineer for investigation.

Councillor Ryan as per notice given at a previous meeting moved the following resolution with regard to the tax imposed on Theatrical, Moving Picture Shows, etc. viz:—

"BE IT RESOLVED by the St. John's Municipal Council in regular session convened this 4th day of January A.D. 1923, that the rate of taxation to be paid by such persons or companies shall be in the case of local persons or companies be two per cent of the gross amount received at such performances, exhibition or amusement and in the case of foreign companies be three and a half per cent of the gross amount received at such performances, exhibition or amusement." The resolution passed unanimously.

As already referred to in previous Municipal proceedings the control and maintenance of Bowring Park came under the Council's jurisdiction on the first of the present month. The Mayor in commenting on the generosity of the donors, Bowring Bros. Ltd., stated the matter of ways and means for the upkeep of the Park was now one for the Council's consideration, and that provision would have to be made from the City's finances so that its present high standard of efficiency might be maintained. This will be provided for in the estimates of Council for the present year. The Mayor also stated he was of the opinion a Park Committee to consist of three members of the Council and three other citizens, one of the latter to be of the firm of Bowring Bros., Ltd., should be appointed to supervise and manage the affairs of the Park.

The Council was in accord with the suggestions of the Mayor, and it was decided to go fully into the matter at a special meeting. Reports of City Engineer, Health Officer, etc. were tabled. Accounts presented were ordered paid after which the meeting adjourned.

Dwarfs With Mighty Muscles.

In Bolivia, on the high Andean Plateau, live a race of dwarfs with the chests of giants. These men are Bolivian Indians, and living as they do at a height of 12,000 to 14,000 feet above sea level, they have developed immense lung power to enable them to breathe properly in the rarefied air of these regions. But though so small they are enormously strong. Mr. A. V. L. Guise, in "Six Years in Bolivia," describes how he employed some hundreds of them to transport 350 tons of machinery over the passes of the Andes. He was amazed at their endurance. At extreme altitudes, where the slightest exertion brought on severe palpitation to ordinary lowlanders, these little men tramped along rough mountain trails for hours on end, carrying loads of one hundred pounds and more without apparent fatigue, or even discomfort. Coming along Monday and Thursday to Dancing Class at S. U. F. Hall every Monday and Thursday. MAX COLTON. Jan. 10. Crews Leave for Home. SERIOUS OUTLOOK FOR HERRING FISHERY. Yesterday afternoon the Deputy Minister of Customs received a message from the Sub-Collector at Woods' Island, Bay of Islands, that the crews of the seven vessels which got caught in the ice in the Bay had given up all hopes of getting them free before spring, and had left for their homes. Two of the vessels are at Middle Arm and the other five are at Wood's Island. Some of the schooners are loaded with many thousands of barrels of the season's catch, while the others are partly loaded. The vessels will not reach market before spring and the loss to the people will be very great. The Canadian icebergs or Stanley, which was dispatched in Bay of Islands the latter part of December, failed to free the vessels returned to North Sydney on Jan. 31. Whenever Ma explains to Pa she hasn't anything to wear, she listens to her tale of woe, and lets her fiddle up his hair, and strokes her hand a little bit and says: "My dear, I understand your case is unusual, and I cannot grant what you desire, but you will have to wait awhile. I've had to buy another fire."

When you'd asked a week ago, right gladly I'd have answered, yes, you are just a day too late. I can't now afford a dress. I've had my bank account in running low," says Ma. "Well, in a week or two."

"I see," says Pa. "In two weeks more a life insurance premium's due, and you ought to get that down, your need for something new is dire. It took the cash I had to get the car another tire."

She took a side the other night, and while our motor smoothly sang I imagine went rushing by, and then we heard a tire go "bang!" Pa, as sorry for that chap, said Pa, as he went bumping on the rim, that awful noise which you just heard means eight dollars gold to him," answered Ma. "If it opens it does, but there's another man I guess, whose wife will have to wait a year before she gets another dress."

Donkubers Plan Return to Russia.

A report from Yorkton, Sask., states that there is talk in that district of a migration of independent Donkubers back to Russia. Two agents from the district have been in Russia and have just returned to Canada, and there is no news yet as to what their report will be on the feasibility of the scheme for pulling up stakes in the Canadian West and going back to Europe. There are two colonies of Donkubers in the Yorkton district, one is the original communal colony under the direction of Peter Christian, with branches in southeastern Alberta and in Brilliant, British Columbia. There is no talk among them of leaving Canada. The independent Donkubers who have broken away from the communal colony and who are farming as individuals. There are about 5,000 of them in Saskatchewan. At the present time the communal colony consists of about 200, farming 67,000 acres of land. The representatives of the independent Donkubers who have been in Russia in Winnipeg for Yorkton.

LIFE WAS MISERY!

"I was reading the other day about Neurasthenia, and the size number of people who were troubled with this disease. It is what my wife had. She felt nervous, she was constantly depressed, and she was taken in the morning and tell me that something dreadful was going to happen that day. Life was nothing but misery for her. She could not eat and had no appetite for food. She was irritable and cranky most of the day. If she was crossed in any way, she would immediately work herself up into a violent temper. This worried me because she had ways had a kind and gentle disposition and nothing, which was her done seemed to irritate her. I spoke to our family doctor about her and he said that her trouble was imagination and that she would try to get over this depression and look on the bright side of life she would be all right. Of course I didn't dare think of this because I knew she would get into one of her tempers, and she got over these fits of temper, she was always weak and more depressed than ever. The doctor said a tonic might help her and gave me a specific which he said would do her any good. She tried all kinds of other pills with the same result. Careful I was recommended to me and I felt that this is the best of all tonics. Since taking it my life has changed completely. Now I am always ready for my meals and work is no burden. It is a tonic for me to recommend it to anyone who is in need of a tonic or a body builder. Write me for writing this letter. I want you to accept my thanks for that wonderful tonic known as Carnol." — Mr. J. M. Conroy.

Carnol is sold by your druggist. If you can conscientiously say you have tried it, that it didn't do you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. A 7-622.

Steering a Battleship by Wireless.

WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE MADE BY THE OLD WARSHIP AGAMEMNON IN MANOEUVRES OFF THE ISLE OF WIGHT—OPENING OF A NEW ERA IN NAVAL WARFARE—SECRET DEVICE OF NAVY.

Wide interest has been attracted and much curiosity aroused by the manner in which the old British battleship Agamemnon was manoeuvred off the Isle of Wight and worked by wireless at speeds which at times reached fifteen knots, during the air bombing tests off the Isle of Wight a short time ago. For a long summer day the battleship cruised about the Channel with no human being on board, entirely directed and controlled by wireless from the destroyer Truant, which followed nearly two miles astern. She was burning oil, and the smoke of it at times poured densely from her fore funnel, showing that the mechanical engine was not quite so expert as the human engine.

The sight of this 17,000-ton battleship slowly circling the centre of a flotilla which took their movements from her was curiously impressive; it suggested immense possibilities to the imaginative. For instance, if a new Zeppelins had to be blocked, a ship with nobody on board, but wireless controlled from some distance away could be employed to do the work. Or again, a ship laden with high explosives might be sent into a hostile anchorage and there blown up. An attack of this kind might prove distinctly trying to an enemy's nerves.

The day may yet come when the whole fleets of surface ships will engage under wireless control from the shore or from the air—when giant aeroplanes, capable of developing the necessary electric power, have been completed. In this, as in other developments, the world is only at the beginning. In the British Navy progress has been very rapid. Before the war a wireless-control, that may be either tried and rejected, or it did not give satisfactory results. A similar weapon was used on two occasions in the war by the Germans, but with little effect.

SCOPE OF THE DISCOVERY.

Since the war, however, the problem of controlling a ship from a distance has been mastered by British naval officers. It is believed that no great difficulty would be experienced in steering a destroyer at twenty-five or thirty knots; the real difficulty is to risk to harmless, peaceable, merchant shipping which might happen to get in the way of the magic vessel.

The exact nature of the devices employed is naturally a secret, but, simply stated, the system consists in wireless currents which are generated at the control station (that may be either on board ship or on shore) being transmitted "wirelessly" to the object being "controlled." There they are "received" by valves and made to operate magnets. Of the latter a series is fastened in the ship—if it is a ship that is under control. Each magnet has a particular job to do. One puts the rudder to port, another turns it to the starboard, and so on through the whole range of actions incidental to "running" the ship.

Each magnet does its special job and that job alone—and it works only when current is directed upon it. Communication is made or broken instantaneously. If the operator at the control station wants a given number of degrees of starboard helm "put on" the "controlled" vessel, he engages the magnet for the purpose of starboarding the helm and cuts it out again immediately the helm is in position required. In instantaneous response to the "signals" from the control stations is an essential feature of radio control.

DISTANCE NO PROBLEMS.

Although he may be twenty miles away from her, the man who handles a ship by this system occupies exactly the same position in relation to navigating her as he would if he were captain giving his orders from her bridge. In the latter case he tells various saloons what he wishes them to do. But by "control" instead of giving verbal orders to men, he transmits "wireless" orders to mechanical appliances, and they do exactly what he wants of them.

Theoretically, the use of different wave-lengths for operating different "control" instruments is satisfactory. In practice there are objections to it on the grounds of multiplicity of plant. The better method is to operate the relay switches, which do whatever is required about the "controlled" vessel by impulses—or "punches." One wireless "punch" sets a specific switch (or magnet) in action; two "punches" set it up another—and so on through the whole gamut of activities that are subject to the will of the man at the control station.

Emperor Fought as Gladiator.

Commons, Emperor of Rome, 181-182, A.D., whose cruelty almost matched that of Nero, was endowed with great physical strength of which he was very proud. He often appeared in imitation of Hercules, dressed in a lion's skin, and armed with a club. To display his skill and strength in arms he appeared publicly in the amphitheatre, but as his opponents were armed with weapons of tin or lead, while he was encased in armor, he had naturally an easy victory on every occasion. For his amusement he cut saunter persons, put out their eyes, and mutilated their noses, ears, etc. Commodus was strangled by the gladiator-Narcissus, who had been hired to commit the deed.

Underground Villages.

There are at the present time thousands of cave-dwellers even in the more civilized parts of Europe. In early times great numbers of tunnels and chambers were cut in the hillsides of England, Flanders and France to serve as refuges for entire communities in times of invasion. Some of these are still so numerous as to form underground villages, like the village of Troo, about 150 miles south of Paris, most of whose inhabitants live wholly or in part underground. Some of these huge caverns in Northern France were used again as shelters for entire regiments during the World War. Other such rock villages have been found in Spain, Italy, Sicily, China, India, Egypt, and especially in Syria.

Cub Cigarettes are appreciated, not only by the smoker but by those in his company.

MEDICAL HELP.
There are so many kinds of docs, I scarce know what to do, when fell disease my system rocks, the rheumatiz or flu, the measles or the chickenpox, and I am sad and blue. One doctor feeds us heavy pills that have a mothball taste, and liquid medicine he spills inside one's bulging waist; his potion either cures or kills, and does the trick in haste. Another laughs at pills and dope in loud and strident tones; he says when sick our only hope is kneading of the bones; he is the man of breadth and scope, and viselike hands he owns. One doctor is a crank on air, fresh air, he says, will heal; our spavined limbs or falling hair, fresh air and linseed meal; for any ailment, anywhere, ozone's his endless spell. "Suggestions," says another doc, "will sound disease's knell; if you have cylinders that knock, come, see me where I dwell; I'll bring suggestions in a flock, and they will make you well." Some doctors keep within their shackles sword, cleaver, saw and lance, and when we spasms grip our backs, and to their wigwags prance, they want to cleave us with an ax, collecting in advance. The doctors have so many schools I scarce know which to choose, when fever heats or ague cools my weary bones and thews; so many pills, so many tools, so many curatives!

So easy to drop Cigarettes, Cigar, or Chewing habit
No-To-Bac has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-shattering tobacco habit. Whenever you have a longing for a smoke or chew, just place a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead. All desire stops. Shortly the habit is completely broken, and you are better off mentally, physically, financially. It's so easy, so simple. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question.

Fricasse is a Word of Doubtful Origin.

Fricasse has usually been derived from the Latin word frigore, to fry, through the French frier, but it is thought more probable now that it derived from the French frasser, meaning to break into pieces or the Latin fricare, to rub.
In French the word is used to indicate any meat fried in a pan, but the English meaning is a dish made from cutting chicken, rabbits and other small animals into pieces and cooking them in frying or other pan with gravy.
