THE STORY OF THE MILL.

BY MARGARRY W. SNODURARS.

It was a quaint old sceno—the runed mill; and the artist sat long with his pencil in his hand and his sketch-book open before him, as he looked ever the narrow stream to the spot where it stood.

"It's a desorted place now," said a voice from behind him, as a man halted in the narrow footpath through the woods, "it a descried enough now, but i remember when it was full of bustle and life, and that not so many years ago as you might think, either, ser "

"Not many years," repeated the artist, looking up. "It does indeed took very looking up. derolato.

"Woll, not many years as I look at it," answored the man, "but it might seem long enough time to you. Eighteen years off your head would leave you quite a stripling, I take it.

"So it is eighteen years since the mili was inhabited?" asked the artist again.

auxious to hear particulars. "Nigh about orgineen years, replied the man, "If you am't too busy, with a glance at the sketch book, "I wouldn't mind telling you about it. Every one knows the story in these parts, and they are as how the sull is beauted, but do say, as how the null is haunted. but I nover believed in that. I know how such things got started, the water running under that wheel, on a dark night, and the wind winsting among these sounds dismal enough for anyone going along this lonely path or the read over the other side; and then, when you romember what happened it does seem kind of awosomo."

"I see," answered the young man, moving along the log to make room for his companion. "It's dreary enough in daytimo, and it would be unboarable at night. But you were going to tall me what happened."
"Well, then, to begin at the beginning.

said the man, laying down his axe and taking the offered seat, "I must tell you that little house over yonder, behind that clump of underbrush, at the other side of the mill-you can't see it from hore, but you must have passed it this morning—that little house was where they lived, the miller and his wife.

He bought it when they were married.

grand in it, of course, but everything was so cosey and homelike; and there was nover a king more proud of his palace chan poor Davo was of his snug, little

When he went home at night, there was flosy always ready to meet him at the gate and then they would look over the best of posies together, and see how fast they were growing, for Dave took great stock in his posy-bods, and often worked at them evenings, weeding and fixing them up. Why, sir, they were as happy as two children, was Rosy and

Well, things went on this way for over a year, and everyone was setting stere by Davo—but all at once his old habite began to crop out again. He had been a trifle wild before he got to keeping company with Rosy; but every one thought she would make a now man of him, and for a while she did. But just about this time some of his old companions came back to the village. They had always had a great influence over him, and it soon began to show it-self again. They would go down to the mill to meet him late in the afternoon, and sometimes he would stop running a little earlier than usual, to liave a talk with them. He was a jolly, kind hearted follow, and did not realize the danger he was in, when they brought their bottles, he had not strength to resist the temptation or boar their ridicule. it began to be a common thing for Resy to wait at the gate a long time, with her pretty blue eyes fixed on the read where he would come in sight. Sometimes a neighbor would happen along instead, and she would turn at the first glimpse and run into the house—it hurt hur so to let any one see her Dave was not doing right, or that she was uneasy about him.

By and by the roses began to fade from hor chocks, and she was more like a fily than the Rosy we used to know, but she nover complained, and when anyone would try to put in a word of sympathy, she would actually try to make out she didn't know what they meant. She couldn't bear to own that her husband did anything wrong.

Well, time went on and things went from bad to worse. Dave was losing his trade, for he was getting to be so unsteady that no one would depend upon him. When the farmers took in thor grist to be ground, they never know when it would be rouly for them to bring home again. Dave was careless and he was surly, too. So there came long afternoons when the mill stood idle, and the miller lay down in some quiet corner more than half stupefied with drink. Poor Rosy used to come after him sometimes and try to bring him home, but it wasn't much uso; also often got nothing but harsh words, and orders to leave him alone. She was a broken hearted woman and that was

At last there came a spring morning something like this. I remember it The trees were just a budding out, and the little twigs down by the water's odge were a-putting out their leaves. I had just come down the read past the ceitage, and I noticed that nothing had been done to the posy beds this year; I didn't suppose either of them had the courage. Then I walked slowly down this way to the mill. I wen dered when I heard the heavy whoels going, for Dave hadn't worked much of late. Then I stepped in, but there was no grist being ground, and I knew some-thing must be wrong. My legs shook under me as I walked round the out-for he had some money on hand which had been left him by his father.

And then, when they got married, they gut their carmings together, for she was a thrifty girl and had a store of her own, and they furnished it just as nice as could be. There was nothing great or could be. There was nothing great or grand in it, of course, but everything

She didn't scream or mean but sank in a dead faint, and lay like marble till we thought she would never come to; and when at last she did we saw it was all over with her—poor thing!—and she nover would be well again.

She lingered on a while, so kind and gentle to overyone, never complaining of her lot; but overyone knew that the end was coming and it came very soon. Before the loaves fell over Dave's grave. we laid her beside him, and the little we laid her beside him, and the little cottage was desolate. The mill has never been used since that awful day, and the wind and storms have done their work with it. It isn't much wonder that folks shun it, knowing its story "And isn't it a wonder that they don't shun the evil that caused it all?" asked the artist, looking sailly over the water the artist, looking sadly over the water at the old mill as he spoke.

"Aye," said the old man thoughtfully,

"you are right there, sir; that is the wonder."

A Venerable Mute.

The Richmond State is respectible for the following item :- "One of the strange things in Paris is a club composed on-tirely of doaf and dumb men. The sorvants, too, can neither hear nor speak. When they are wanted they are notified by means of a little electrical apparatus, invented by a member of the club, which gives them a slight shock. The club-house is in one of the short streets near the Montparnasse railway station. Tho president of the club is an old man who lought in the Indian wars in America, and whose tongue was cut off by an Indian who once took him captive. The numbers of this curious club converse ontirely by signs and seem to find life well worth living." All of which is very interesting, especially that sontence referring to the president of the club. If he fought in the Indian wars in America, as stated, he must be hordering on the century. The Indians of this continent liavo a preference for the scalp of a prisoner rather than for the tongue.

An Impressive Audience.

Rov. Dr. Talmago recently spoke as follows, whou delivering one of his ser-mous in Brooklyu Tabernacle .—"One of the most impressive audiences I over addressed was in the far west two or three years ago—an audience of about 600 persons, who had never heard a sound or speken a word, an interpreter standing beside me while I addressed thom. I congratulated that audience on two advantages they had over the most of us-the one that they escaped hearing a great many disagreeable things, and the other fact that they escaped saying what they were sorry for after wards. #### THE LATE CONVENTION.

Superintendent Mathison reports that the late convention at Colorado Springs was a most gratifying success in every respect. He much enjoyed the meetings: where so many men and women eminent in the work of educating the deaf took an active part in the discussion of important subjects. He is convinced that lasting good must rosult from the deliberations of such an influential body of teachers and officers. There was such a sincerity of purpose and intelligent grasp of questions raised for discussion, it was impossible to be present and not feel the influence of mind and character. Aside from the benefits derived from the meetings, a visit to that picture-que region, and the princely hospitality of Superintendent Ray and his co laborers, made the occasion one long to be remombered with pleasure.

A COMPROMISE.

The faction fight that so disturbed the Illinois Alumni Association last July and August has come to an end, and poace again spreads her white plumes over the scene. A compromise was agreed to after the season was so far advanced as to render a reunion impossible this year, and the result is that the Alumni will not hold the meeting until 1831, when Springfield, the capital. will be the place of meeting. It is hoped that the hatchet has been buried so deep as to proclude the possibility of its being resurrected, and that the Alumni of the largest institution of the kind on the continent will not again indulge in such an exhibition of bad feeling and equally bad judgment.

The Chicago correspondent of the Journal has a fair estimate of the true value of oral' un when he remarks: "It is truethat the oral system has developed some instances of fine hy-reading, but these who are preficient in this accomplishmout are rare and far between, and, like poets and painters, are born, not

THE RIVAL SISTEMS

The admirers of pure orghem cannot feel much flattered by transpiring events in countries where their involute system has prevailed for many years unfetter oil by other means of educating the deaf In Germany, the home of the purest orainm, as a general means of enstruction there is non a decided protest against the exclusion of other methods. The best ofneatest test presum in that country are almost anatomores in their demand for a change and the aloption of the combined system in England too there is a manifest re action that hodes little encouragement for those who in America, have recent ly become zealous converts to the oral system. This reaction is valued by the deaf, who reputiate the actions of a nia jority of the Royal Commissioners in recommending the adoption of oralism in its most exclusive form. Last July Mr R E Bray an educated deaf Englishman who has readed in Canada and the United States for several years, wrote to the Deaf Mutes Journal con traiting the arrangements for educating the deaf in England and America, much to the advantage of the latter system The Deaf Chronick, of Looks, Eug. commenting on Mr. Bray a letter, backs up his arguments with vigorous sentonces, and concludes a well-considered article as follows - If twenty deaf mutos fail under the oral system. they say it is because they had bad toaching If one exceptionally sharp-oyed and clever semi-mute can manage to read lips and speak fairly well they credit such with intellectual ability far above those who are unable to do so, albeit their education if carefully examined. might be found to be far below their more solid, but less showy, manualist brethren."

Mr. H. B. Beslo, also an intelligent deaf Englishman, who has had a wide experience in England and America contributes to the Deof Chronicle an interesting letter on the subject. He refers particularly to the report of an export appointed to investigate the results of the oral system, and which was mainly condemnatory in its conclusions. Mr Beals vigorously defends thus report from the criticisms of the oralists, and insista that its conclusions are justified by facts. He concludes "The system you (the oralists) advocate has been in operation in England for about twenty years, and certainly an educated deaf mute is qualified far better than you can be to judge of its results, and you will find them almost to a man opposed to oralism. It is sometimes advanced as an argument that the old style teachers will be sure to go against a system that will damage their profession. For myself, I am not a teacher, never was and never expect to be, therefore the argument does not apply in my case, unless, indeed, that I have worked among them for love, pot money. I have a deaf-mute wife and sister-in-law, and have been constant contact with the deaf, both in England and America, for the last thirty years. I myself became stone doaf at the age of seven years. I think therefore that I am as well qualified to give an opinion on this matter as any theorist in the country; and must declare my deliberate conviction that for born donf-mutos, the oral system is an entiro failuro and dangerous delusion."

We could add to this kind of testimony were it necessary to establish the fact that oralism is not growing in popular favor among the deaf where it has been thoroughly tosted. The Deaf Muter' Journal supports this view of the case in an editorial of recent date, from which we quote as follows, "Strenuous efforts methods of ishirating the deaf, and to ! downsy with the most important feature in the system adopted by the leading American Schools - that is, the sign lan guage. Yet from those quarters of the earth where the benefit of this language has been withheld in imparring instruction, there comes torth a wail for a free? use of that great instrument in inculcaring knowledge. Isn't it about time for the hobbyists to pay a little attoncours the experience of the educated [ leaf. The loss system of reducation is that which will more all conditions .the system should be made to fit the conditions, and not the conditions be made to be the system, and many of the lutherto pure orabite are beginning to find this out. The educated doaf should continue to give a full and free expression to the teachings of their experience. and eventually they will penetrate the obtumes of those who believe that heroic measures are the best, and that every doaf child must get an education by a saude method, or plod through the world without any

What is now and has been transpiring in America and elsewhere relative to the ments of the rival systems of oducating the deaf only more firmly convince as that the combined system. as practiced in a large majority of the Amorican schools results in the greater good to the greater number. There are comparatively few congenitally deaf per some who can be caught to intelligently communicate with others by speech and lip reading. Even those who, after a long process of drill at school show some ability in this respect, resort to other means of communication soon after leaving their teachers and the school-room associations.

J. W. BENGOUGH.

Nearly overybody in Canada, and many elsewhere, know or have heard of the gentleman whose pame heads this article. As a carrenturist and humorous writer Mr Bengough has long enjoy an enviable reputation. He has been with as here, and has greatly amused and instructed officers and pupils with his 'chalk talks, and witty remarks. For many years he was the editor and eartoourst of thep and hence the names of the paper and its editor became synonymous. oir Bengough has severed his connection with Grep. and entered into an exclusive agreement with the publishers of the Montresi Daily and Wookly Star to furnish to thom alone, for their publications, care catures and sketches from time to time. What Grip loses the Sur gains Wo wish our genial friend success and hap pinoss in his new aphoro of labor

Dr. E. M. Gallaudet lecturing before a literary society of Washington, on the experience in Great Britain and alsowhere in Europe, said the single-hand alphabet is destined to supercode the double-hand in terest Britain. The Loods (Fing ) Deaf t bronate noticesthis assertion and remarks "We think it will never be the case." It cannot be said that the preference or the doublehand alphabet, shown by the deaf of Great Britain, indicates a perversity of judgment, nor a lack of intelligent approcession. It has cortain advantages, which even the admirors of the singlehand must concede. The letters are formed so plainty and, with expert mampulators of the fingers, so rapidly, it is an easy matter for those familiar with the system to follow the course of conversation. This cannot always be done with the rapid evolutions of the digits in the use of the single-hand. But have been made to introduce foreign the interispreterable for several reasons. #### Summer Saunterings

Going to the sea being out of the queto a this summer, I spont a few days very pleasantly along the shores of the of Quanto, onjoying very t the beautiful somery, and renewing all acquaintaneous of years ago. My object tive point was Belleville, and while in that levely little city I was the goost of my conferro of many years, A. Mathoson of the Stratford Bencon, now safety moored after an arduous journalism voyago, in the sning harbor of the Burmindip of the Unterio Institution for the Doaf and Dumb. Pleasant it was also to meet with R. Matinson, cratwhile if the Brantford Expositor, but for a punbor of years Superintendent of the same Institution. The Government can con tainly count on this important Dopart ment being officiently looked after, with two newspaper men who stood so lash in their profession, at the head of affair I shall say no more, however, about the Bonf and Dumb Institution in those him ried notes, but make is the subject of a special letter hereafter,-C. BY GEORGE RESURS.

Much work in being done in our bakery. It is nearly finished new.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Wills, our gardonor, is around again. We went to the fair in the city on the 28th ult. and had a good time.

We regret to say that Samuel Mor rand's father died on the 6th alt.

Part of Charles Holton a father a hunher was destroyed by fire recently.

Several of the trees in our orchard were struck by lighting one day recently.

Mrs. Dool, the mother of two pupils here, has moved from Smith's Falls to Bollevillo.

Mr. Bateman, an old graduate of this School, is in the city. He came from Nova Scotia.

Leon Charbonoau was waiting a long time for his trunk. He got it all right on the 5th mst.

Mr. Langmuir, tho a sistant carpentor, has gone to Toronto on a visit. We wish hum a pleasant time.

The time is passing quickly and the senter is approaching. The boys must shart to fix their recboats soon.

George holly, a former pupil of this School, paid Culver Bowlby a visit and stayed with him for throu days.

the of the new pupils was laid up with illnoss, not very severe. We are glad to learn that he is all right again.

The pupils of the drawing class were invited to Mrs. Balis' home on the 8th mst. The boys said they had a good timo

One of the boys received a letter from 7 Cuiver Bowlby saying that he was work ing on the farm and that his health was weeks, visiting his friends in the city and around this School.

ofr. Mathison, our Superintendent, went to Toronto on the 3rd inst. and came back on the 5th. We were wondering why he went there.

Our little lads had a foot-ball match last Saturday afternoon with the small lads of Albert College. We are pleased to say that our cloven were victorious by 1 to 0.

Willie McKay met Murdech McRae in Boaverton during the holidays, while he was on a visit to his brother-in-law who lives near that place. Murdoch is a tailor now.

Two of the boys received photographs from Charles Medentz, of Pembroke. His face is much changed. He has hard work to do at home and is making good wages.

Nonli Labello received a photograph of his brother, Alexander, who is working in Michigan and who is an old gradu-ate of this School. His face is much changed.

One Friday afternoon, when Charles Holton was riding home on his bicycle, he fell off and hurt himself. This happened when he was turning a corner, going too fast.

Our little boys got beaten at a base-ball match on September 24th. They had another match on the lat inst. with the same nine and beat them by 13 to 8 in three innings, John Fisher and Willie Gould being the Latteries for our nine.

One of the pupils received a letter from Albert E. Thompson, of Galt, say ing that he would pay use visit in about four months. We would be glad if he would come. He says that his eyes are getting better now. He also says that his going to Detroit to work. We wish him success. him success.

Howard Davidson, who hvos near Brockville, came here this week and is going to work in our bakery.

Goorgo Young, of Madoc, paid us a visit on the 12th inst. We were very glad to see him again. He says he will come here when the next convention is going to be held.

"Old Hartford", the first school for the instruction of the deaf in America. colchrated the seventy fifth anniversary of its existence during the last week of August. It was a monorable affair, and the interesting proceedings were well reported by the Journal and Register.

We are glad to report that Mr. Wills is recovering from his suckness, and is able to get cut occasionally. For two weeks his condition was very serious, and much auxiety was felt on his ac-count. His duties have been carefully attended to during his enforced absence by Mr. Groon, his assistant in the garden during the summer.

We had the pleasure of a call from Mrs. Bogg on the afternoon of the 11th. Wo are sorry that she arrived too late in the day to visit the classes, as both pupils and toachers would have been very happy to see her. She visited the various industrial departments, the pupils welcoming her with glad simles, as the wife of their old friend and Supervisor. Mrs. Bogg roturns to Texas very woon. She came to Belleville to visit her home and keep cool during the ammmor.

DETROIT DOINGS.

From our own Correspondent.

Although it is now two months since the event, I believe it is not altogether out of place to give a brief sketch of a quiet but very pretty wedding, that will be of interest to those who know the contracting parties well. Therefore, having been an eyo-witness of the affair, I will endeavor to write it up for the pleasure of those who road the Canadian MUTE.

It was one of nature's holidays. The sun shone with tempered brillancy; a soft and lovely twilight followed, inviting all to come forth to revol in mic calm and baliny atmosphere of August. It was the 2nd of August 1892. Voices of mirth were on the breeze, that told of mirri were on the oreeze, that told of rosy health and joyous childhood, but why all this mirth, joy and stir?

Ah! my friends, all this can be easily explained in a few words. It was the wedding day of your estocmed friend, Miss Nathalic L'Herault. It can be said of her that she made a perfect bride, figuring one of those rare beauties that bloom in the fair month of June; and well may the groom, Mr Win. Liddy, have gazed with all the fondness of a true lover's heart upon the vision of leveliness before his eyes. As the clock struck the hour of 7.80 A. M. your correspondent, in company with Miss C. P. Smith, found herself scated in one of the pows of Windsor's scated in one of the pews of Windsor's Catholic Church, patiently awaiting the coming of the bridat party. First came the groom, attired in a neat morning sui of black, following came the beat man with the bridesmaid Miss L'Horault, cousin of the bride, lastly came the bride harself leaning on the away of the bride herself, leaning on the arm of her uncle. She was drossed in a lovely robe of tan crepon, trimined with cream lac with her dark hair coiled in a graceful knot at the back of her head; and as in childhood, she knelt to take upon herself those solemn vows that bound her to the one she had chosen for a life companion.

And many a blooming, many a lovely check, Under the fear of God turns pale. While on each head his lawn robed servant Lays an opposite band, and with prayer scale the convenant.

At the close of the marriage ceremony those invited betook themselves to the residence of the bride's mother, No 148 Parent Street. There congratulations were tendered the newly united pair.

Mr. Peter L'Herault, also cousin of the bride, being very familiar with the sign language, kept us all in continual merriment, he being so full of fun. We have been handed a copy of the English Deaf Chronich of a recent date, by a friend, and notice our old friend Mr. Bealo's name down as one of its editors. We would like to see something from his ready pen in the MUTE some of these days.

Miss Annio Praser has gone to Wood. stock, but we expect her back in a few weeks.

We have recently been shown some fine photographic views taken by Mr Holland, while he was in Ireland, France and Switzerland. These include prominent buildings in Paris and the Alps, and other scenery in Switzerland. are very fine photographs, and a credit to Mr. Holland.

Mr. C. Howo has presented the West End Sunday meetings with a handsome Bible, for the use of those conducting the services there. Formerly they had to put up with a small testament, which rendered it very difficult to read from He deserves the thanks of all those attending the receting.

The Bible-class has somewhat taken the shape of Rovival meetings, conductod by Mr. Holland. Much interest is taken in them and they are more large 'attended than ever before. We hope they will result in doing much good.

Wm. White pant A. W. Mason a short visit while on his way back to Chicago. He wanted to tell us semething of the Cronin mystery and the socialist's riots which took place in that city some years ago, but his time would not permit. It was evident he was brinfull of news.

Mrs. Rowney, sister of Mr. Plynn, died a few weeks ago. John has our sympathy. She was living with her husband in Brantford, Ont.

The checker match referred to in last issue of the MUTE came off last Friday night, at the residence of R. Slater There was a goodly company present, all taking great interest in the proceedings. Some of the hot-heads notch ed the games as they came off the board. Both of the players seemed confident of victory at the beginning. but of course both could not win Mr. Duncan wou the two first games. In the third game Mr. Mundle was "all there" and carried off the next two games. It was now generally believed that "our man" would utimately win, but at the end of the 5th and 6th games Jim had two more to his credit. Now Mundle's turn came to capture another game, making the score 4 to 3. The 8th gamo was a draw. After this Duncan won the next two, when it was concoded that Jim was the wisner. Three more games however were I layed, out of which Mundle got one and Duncau two, making the score at the ent, S to 4 and 1 draw. Mr. Mundlo folt the defeat keenly, but took it good humorodly, only expressing regret that he would not be able to meet Jim again for a good while, as Mr. Duncan was leaving for Winnipog in the morning of the next day Mr. Duncan is without doubt the champion deafmuto checker player of Canada, if not of the world.

PRELIMINARY ADDRESS OF COMMITTEE CONGRESS OF THE DEAF.

We have received the preliminary an dress of the committee of the World's Congress Auxiliary, on a congress of the deaf, at Chicago, in 1893. After mentioning the objects amod at for accomplishment by the series of World's Con gresses, the Address states. - "Rectizing that a Congress of the Deaf would prove a most opportune event if held at such a time, the undersigned Committee made formal application to the President of the World's Congress Auxiliary for the privilege of holding "An International Congress of the Deaf. under the auspices of that organization. The plan of work. he Committee stated, would include such subjects for discussion as would naturally pertain to the deaf and their education, and in which the general public would be interested. The President has, through the proper official, given his approval of such a gathering of the deaf from all parts of the world and has appointed the undersigned Com-mittee to look after the details of the same. The Congress of the Deaf like other Congresses, will assemble in a building to be permanently known as the Memorial Art Palaco, but it is deemed for the best interests of all that only a limited number he allowed to take part in the proceedings. These shall be among the ablest living represents tweet of the deaf, and will be selected by the undersigned Committee, with the advice of competent authories." The undersegned have proposed, and the President of the Auxiliary has appointed, as members of an Advisory Council of this Congress, many welf known and current deaf people from various parts of the world, who are respecifully requested to en operate with them by offering whatever suggests as they may deem worthy of conside a

On the evening of the 8th inst. in pupils belonging to the Drawing the were invited down to Mrs. Balis place They all said they had a very pleasant timo The games were very mer and they were also allowed to go when at they wished. They returned to the trustitution at about 10 o'clock. Not day the girls were talking about is fun they had most of the time.

In September, when the pupils were returning to school, Mabel Hail came of the early train. The reason she did so was because she had been visiting lies L. Henry for a few days, and thought in would come here early for a change and she says she likes it far better tool canning on the late ones, as it is daily and you would be sure to stumble out something Hor brother Eddle was at the station then and was very much an prised to see her. He did not experi her to come so early.

The Central Branch of the Woman's frequire Society of the Mothodist Church met in Bridge Street Church, Believille, this year. There were nearly 00 delegates in attendance,—an intellicut and zealous company of women Superintendent Mathison, with his usual contesy invited the taches to visit the Institution, and the uvitation was thankfully accepted. Owing to a prespural business the visit was deforred mund Freday forencon, 7th mat., after the aission work had been completed An empanied by others from the city the delegates then came in such re-wed as to fill several class-rooms at once. The cwers conducted through the classes and shops in divisions, the systems of astruction being explained and illustraned as well as the limited time would simi. #### Athletics.

We do not want to may much about the merits of our newly organized foot ball team as they have not yet been tested in a regular match, but if when they take the field for a tuesto, they play togother as well as they do when at practice, we do not fear the result The boys are anxious for a match and would not refuse a challenge from any quarter. They have challenged their old rivals of Albert College, and a match is are used for the 15th inst., on the Institution grounds. The second cloven is scarcely in as good form as usual, and will have to practice hard to hold unbreken, their four years record of virturies.

The small boys have, so far, had the advantage in the number of matches played. On Saturday, 1st inst., they played a return base-ball match with the same toam that defeated them the week provious; this thue the score was revers od, and our boyscircled the bases for thir toon runs to their opponents three in three innings. A dispute then arese over a change of putchers, and the city lads left the field. On Saturday, 8th. our number wont to town and played a game of foot-ball. After a spirited con test our team was victorious, score I to 0. Our boys had a little advantage in size. It is always difficult for the jamer team to put on players equal in size to the onos they will have to most, and on this occasion our boys were all in the dark about the weight of their opponents and scarcely knew whom to put on the toam. The senior teams have no such difficulty; they stand prepared for all

The members of our Athletic Association, in common with all others, feel vory sorry about the accident to Willie Stonelaugh We fear that he will nover be his old self in the foot-ball field again. While here he was the pride of our fooball toam, and one of the best of the many fine players that have been train ed on our playground.

Miss Templeton was compelled to stay home for three days, being indisposed She is at her work as asual again

The health of the pupils has been puto satisfactory since school opened, only a few cases of severe colds requiring the doctor's care.

Most of the new pay deare progressing finely. A B C is no longer a mystery to them, and the names of common animals are fast becoming familiar.

She was alone in the house at the time, her mother being outside, and her clothes, it is thought, were ignited by coals from the stove A dog that was with her gave the alarm by barking turiously, and following her when she ran ontside,

The Flint. Mich , Deaf Mute Mirror Hays Mr. Brown, one of the teachers of the School for the deaf there, spent part of his vacation in Canada, and that, though he enjoyed his outing very much he returned convinced that "there is no place like home." If he had extended his visit to Belleville he might have been reconciled to stay here.

The supply of apples in the Institution orchard has been very good this year, but they are disappearing fast. We have a faint suspicion where they go, but one thing is clear, very low find their way to the store-room. It is said that, "Nature abhors a vacuum," so does the small boy. A man with a gun and a savage dog could not keep them out of that orchard.

Since our flag-staff was put up we are able to "do honor to whom it is due," and fly our bunting with the best of Our "Union Jack" was unfurfed to the breeze on the 12th met., in honor of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of Amorica by Columbus. The pupils and teachers were given a half-holiday. of which every advantage was taken for enjoyment.

Our worthy baker, Mr. Cunningham, declares that he is the most over-work of man on the premises just now, and that he is treated shamefully. He complains that the pupils gobble up his bread as if it were the business of their lives and the main purpose for coming to school, and that he cannot keep alread We can suggest an easy remody,-don't make it so good, Mr. C.

We have had a good many vantors since school opened, scarcely a day passing without one or more persons asking i be shown through the classes. The officers and touchers make a virtue of necessity, and patiently endure what can't be avoided, without giving offence. The Superintendent believes, foo, that as the school is a public one, the public have a right to inspect it whenever disposed to do so.

The printing-office has been cut off from steam heating connection during the changes that have been going on The staff, however, would take no risks, and so they hunted up a stove and set is up, and there is now no fear of the comp s getting frozen during September and October. The thing makes a lot of dust and needs a deal of poking and shaking, so they will feel better when steam connection is again made.

With the oponing of school our new yrum for the disposal of the rowage was put it to operation, and no more of it will go into the bay. The system was put in to remove all danger of contain ination of the city water supply by our refuse. > The annunal exhibition of the Bay of Quinte Agricultural Society was held on their grounds Sopt. 27th, 25th, and 29th. The pupils of this school were admitted tree of charge, as usual, and attended in a bady or, the afternoon of the 28th, under the care of the Supt. and officers The weather was propitions, and all on-joyed their half day sight-seeing very much. The speeding of horses in the ring especially attracted the attention of the boys, while the girls found most to interest them in the main building and ade-shows

We sympathize very much with Mrs. R. J Tanner, of Ottawa, in the loss of her husband who succumbed to typhoid fever on the 3rd inst. Three years ago, Mrs. Tanner spont several weeks at the Institution, in attendance on her little son who was sick, and who died here, Mr. Tanner was also here as often as his school duties would permit, and they were both greatly exteemed in the Insti-tution for their kindly courtesy to all. Mr. Tannor has, for the past 14 years, been principal of the Ottawa Central School, and his death is deeply regretted.

Mrs. Balis entertained the members of her drawing class with a "Cobwob l'arty" at her residence last Saturday evening. After the web had been unravelled, the young people, to the number of thirty-two, betook themselves to games, conversation and the inspection of the large collection of books and pretures. Itelroshments were not forgetten. The evening passed all too quickly, and many regrets were uttered when the imo arrived for the homeward walk Missos Walker and James, and Mr. McKillop accompanied the party, and enjoyed the visit as much as any. Smith dropped in opportunely, in time to escort the party home.

An amusing incident happened at the late show. As usual no intexteants were allowed on the grounds, and the booths did a rushing business in pop and lemon-ade. Large glasses of the latter were arranged on the tables, and our country cousins were patronizing them largely. One of our pupils, a new boy, after looking on for a time, thought that he might have a drink as well as the rest, so he went up to the counter and drained a glass. He then marched off with evident satisfaction, knowing nothing about the money. The proprietor yelled after him but to no purpose, and only desisted when some one told him that the boy was one of the "duminies" from the Institution.

The Nebraska Mute Journal gave each of the prominent members of the late convention at Colorado Springs a complimentary notice. This is what it said about our Superintendent -"The social face of her Majesty's loyal subject, beamed on the Conference, with a broad scale for Canada first, then the rest of us Mr. Mathison feels much at home with United States people, and is so much interested in the deaf, and everybody working for them that he soldom misson a Convention. The Canadian papers speak of him as a most efficient office holder in their province. He is certainly deserving of this high compliment. He loses none of his good humor and popularity, when visiting this side of the line. We are glad to know him and count him as a friend."

We think the most interested readers of our "Home News' are the parents of the new pupils, those who have parted from their dear little ones for the first time. After watching over their tender years with paternal solicitude, and carefully protecting them from all ill, it must have been with auxious feelings that they gave them up to the care of strangers, and saw them conveyed, perhaps, hundreds of miles away to most the vicisatudes of life in a great school. If those anxious parents could see them at their play here, and witness how friendly they have become with their little school-mates, and how interested thoy are in their sports, or take a walk through the during-room at meal times where not one of them would be found idle, and at night see them saugly tuckod away in their little cribs sleeping peacefully, and perhaps, dreaming of home, they would have little anxiety on their account and would rest assured that the Supt., officers and attendants loave nothing undone for their comfort.

"GRII's" GALLERY OF NOTABLES.

ROBT. MATHISON.

THE nowspaper mon of Canada, and a good many other citizens outside the fourth estate, will recognize in the above the ever-pleasant features of Mr. Roht. Mathison, Superintendent of the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville.

0. I. F. T. D. AND D. A. B.

Mr. GRIP-Six.-Knowing what an interest you take in the Institutions of the country, I'm sure you will readily grant space for a brief account of one of the finest of them-I mean the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, at Belleville. In case you should happen to regard what follows from a purely counting room point of view, I should recommend you to send a bill at twenty-five cents per line (reading notice rates), to the do-partment of the Provincial Secretary, who, I am sure, will promtly remit the amount—in a horn. This is the poculiar amount—in a horn. This is the poculiar way in which the Mowat Government always pays for unsolicated services. How do I happen to be writing about this Institution? Well, it was like this. I happened to have business in Belleville one day last week. If you insist upon knowing what this business was-as I suppose you do—I will caudidly say I had been sent for to do what I could to lift the depression which has fallen upon the beautiful little city on account of the N. P. and the exedus, and the general fall in roal estate values, not to men-tion the recent decease of the street railgrossion At the hotel door, when I returned from my public task, I found the rig belonging to the genial Superinten dont of the O. I. F. T. D. & D. A. B.permit me thus to shorten the full official title, "Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville." I also found the genial Superintendent himself, with a portion of his interesting family. "Jump right in," said ho, "and come home with us. I want you to see our Academy in full working order." I had been there before, but in vacation times. The invitation was accepted with alacrity, not only because the Institution is well worth going miles to see, but be cause I had a lively recollection of many leasant hours in the beautiful, homelike home of its chief officer. The drive of a mile or so westward from the city is along a good road, fronted by many snug-looking, old-fashioned homesteads on the right, and the picturesque Bay of Quinto on the left. We were soon at the lustitution gate, which was promptly opened by a servitor in response to a bell small reached from the carriage, and then pull reached from the carriage, and then along the curving readway in the grounds to the door of the residence. The light of the next morning revealed a scene of beauty, as the eye ranged over the spacious lawns of bright green, adorned hero and there with flowers, and shaded by innumerable trees. "This is Saturday," said Mr. Mathison, consulting his watch to give confirmation to the statement. (I drop his official title, and substitute his name, which is known in Canadian journalistic circles as that of a former editor of the Brantford Espositor, and in Government circles as a good official at present serving under the Administration). "Yes, this is Saturday," I respond. "I know it, because I retion the recent decease of the street railway service. (I suppose you are aware that the enterprising Mr. Potter lately borght the rails for $100, tore them up and sold them for $1,000, and then went round chuckling. Everybody has heard of that, and had the laugh on Belleville).

All those things, combined with the chilly weather and occasional rainstorms, have resulted in a gloomy: atmosphere, House the call I received. Things are much befor now. But this is a disemble in the chapel, where you will have an opportunity to address them."
"Ah, that's kind and thoughtful of you," I respond. And at the hour mentioned I find myself in the presence of as bright an audience as could be found his walking powers. Order reigns su-in Canada. They can't hear nor speak, but they can see, and as I address them in chalk, the oration seems to prove an entire success. It is on the subject of human nature, and consists mainly of skelches of a personal character like those scattered herein. Then by way of experiment I try a vocal recitation, the point of which is a tolerably subtle joke The gist of the story is convoyed to the audience by hir Coleman, in the sign language, and they see the point as well as an ordinary audience would

On Monday we have an opportunity of going through the classes and observing the astonishing results of the teaching. It is a marvel to us, from the primary room where little boys and girls are learning the finger language, up through the various grades to the graduating class, where the pupils at a moment's notice are able to solve difficult arith-metical problems. The class in which articulation is taught is peculiarly interesting, and the progress made is most encouraging, considering the stupen-dous difficulty of the undertaking. A child who has never heard a word pronounced, and cannot even hear his or her own voice, is taught to speak, and in plany cases wonderfully well! The teachers all seem enthusiastic and do voted, and in fact, the same may be said of all the officers and employes of the Institution, from the Superintendent down. Mr. Mathison, although a strict disciplinarian, is evidently loved by his happy family. As we pass through the corridors under his guidance he is constantly greeted with smiles and respectful salutations. In the case of the very littleones the demonstration often takes promo throughout the large building to overything is clean and bright as a per pin. The pupils (of whom, by the way there are over 250) are just going to the homes for the summer holidays, and we can well believe that they will glady return again when September come around. Any of our readers who can unlike a spinite and the point of the second can be a spinite and the second can be a second ca all do so should make it a point to rethis remarkable school and examine its noblo work.
