Stick Out YOUR TONGUE!

What for? Because it may save your life! How?

The tongue is the mirror that indicates the state of your health by its color, form, and odor.

A dry tongue is evidence that the stomach and intestines cannot do much digestive work.

The tongue is the result of impure eating and drinking. The liver is deranged.

The broad, pallid tongue shows a want of alkaline elements in the blood. It is a danger signal.

Extreme moisture shows the reverse. Be your own doctor. Examine your tongue. It will show you whether or not you are in condition to stand spring weather changes.

If you are not almost any disease may strike you down. Get in condition at once by using the latest and best spring medicine.

Here is an account of the training of some at Valenciennes in the 4th century, taken from a writer of the succeeding century.

"They were instructed in reading, in counting (moderation), in singing the Psalms, in what now is a day is deemed wonderful art, and in painting (scribble upon plinths), a task laborious even to men.

Likewise, they were carefully trained in every department of work, such as is done by women's hands, in various designs in different styles, so that they attained a high standard of excellence in spinning, weaving, designing, sewing, and outcrochering with gold and jewels on silk.

In the magnificent tribute which he paid to the late Archbishop Kenrick, at the funeral in St. Louis on the 11th, Archbishop Ryan gave the following glimpse of the natural character of the dead Archbishop: He was not proud.

He had the highest realizing sense of the dignity of a Bishop, but not the sense that produced pride in his heart. God seemed to have laid out the position and the clear light to feel it always.

The observers of human nature once said of him: "I believe Archbishop Kenrick would polish one's shoes if it were necessary, as a man, but as a Bishop he scorned to do so."

In his allusion to his dead brother, brother according to the flesh, and brother in religion, he is full of love. He came from a pure heart, from a nature which was purified, elevated, intensified by the love of God.

In making experiments in any way I regard to the work of the farm it will not do to contend with only one effort. Perseverance is indispensable to the discovery of the truth of many things. This is illustrated by the fact that a change of food may not suit an animal's taste and he quit to its fancy.

Animals are full of food, as people, as every careful person will soon discover and know. This is especially the case in regard to feeding animals. Some will refuse the same food that others eat greedily, and after some successful efforts, they will take to it with avidity. Sheep are especially curious in this regard, and those who have tried the feeding of rapo to a flock may have experienced this. The sheep at first will wholly neglect it, and if it is cut for them it may be necessary to make it to induce them to eat it. But after a few efforts to train them in the way they are wanted to go they will go with a rush, and gorgo themselves with the food, unless they are sated to a safe quantity.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Allan Gunn. Mrs. Allan Gunn, wife of Allan Gunn, Esq., Barrister, died at the residence of her son, Mr. R. D. Gunn, barrister, Ottawa, where she had been residing on Friday, March 18th of heart failure brought on by a serious attack of la grippe, which she contracted some four weeks since.

It was the fitting end of a religious life. She had the consolation in her closing hours of life of the constant attendance of her son, Father Davis, and to mark the respect in which she was held by Archbishop Ireland he obsequies are to be held at St. Mary's cemetery.

Ottawa Journal—Some people were beginning to have an idea that Canadian journalism was pretty decent, but the political billingsgate of the Toronto Star and the Winnipeg Tribune is convincing proof that the flannel-mouth style is still blatant.

In Belfast, where there are 50,000 Catholic Nationalists, Catholics are rigidly excluded from representation of any kind whatever. In Catholic South Louth the other day Mr. McChloe, a Protestant, was elected although opposed by two Catholics.

We would have little to say against the popular scandalizing of Good Friday in this Christian land, were it not that some evil chance seems invariably to bring to the city in Holy Week some vulgar plays, caricaturing the Irish character.

While it was hoped on all hands that the conference at Winnipeg between the commissioners appointed by the Federal Government and the Provincial authorities might lead to some harmonious arrangement, the actual situation according to latest advice, entirely destroys any such hope.

The London Univers says Ireland was very near having a conspicuous display in the programme marked out for the coronation of the Czar in May.

A Protestant clergyman in a neighboring city, obtained illegal possession of, and read, a letter written by a lady. He writes to The World to say that no government prosecution was ever intended in connection with the matter.

Recently the shoplifter was a respectable young married woman and respectable families were brought to disgrace by her trivial larceny.

The same corespondents of American papers were annihilating the other day in the boasted liberty of the press in Britain because a bill had been brought before the House of Lords giving judges the power of prohibiting the publication of details of criminal offences.

A Parisian friend, of our worthy Alderman Hallam wrote a letter the day telling all about how they manage the Catholics in France in regard to education. We are indebted the The Globe, and the Alderman's desire for notoriety, for a perusal of this enlightening correspondent's views.

The double plunge of Lord Salisbury into the Egyptian campaign and Mr. Chamberlain into South African complications is beginning to lose the appearance it wore last week.

Our bright contemporary, The Owl, contains in its current issue an excellent description of the celebration of St. Patrick's Day in Ottawa University.

Referring to the charges made by the enemies of Catholic education, that the intellectual training imparted to the young men in Catholic institutions was inferior to that given in other institutions, the speaker said that, taking all the responsibility on himself as to the result, he would select ten students from Ottawa University and put them against ten others taken from any non-Catholic institution in the land.

The Presbyterian Review, Halifax, makes an amusing remark upon our recent reference to the Marquette statue incident at Washington. It says the sympathy of the A. P. A. is to the Jesuits, from whom Marquette and his martyr companions are to be distinguished as individuals.

temporary is as much deceived as all Protestants who have never read the truth also: the Jesuits must be. Now, we have not space to say more than a word directly bearing upon the absurdity of the distinction drawn by The Presbyterian Review.

To show that Marquette and his companions won the Indians by the same politeness leaving the influences of religion aside by which the Jesuits in Europe hold their pupils, let us quote Dr. Southey, a Protestant pronounced enough, who undertakes to say, to recommend himself to our Presbyterian friend.

The Indians could not compare with our astonishment the conduct of the Jesuits, their disinterested enthusiasm their indefatigable perseverance, and the prudence and danger which they endured for no earthly reward.

We hope our contemporary will be able to better understand from the foregoing testimony that it was the self same character, the self same politeness that is the voice of example, or true Christian character if you like, in the Jesuits that won the love of the polished scholars of Europe and the rude Indians of America.

The News Pulled Up.

The Evening News of March 20th, took upon itself the task of attacking the St. Vincent de Paul Children's Aid Society of Toronto in a somewhat violent manner, and had the poor consolation of finding out that it was altogether wrong in its facts.

THE CARE OF CHILDREN.

Although Sir Oliver Mowat concedes, the right to the Roman Catholic authorities to form a children's aid society, apparently with a view to having the children of Roman Catholic parents who were found unfit to have possession of their parental suitable foster homes, there has not been a serious attempt to carry out that plan.

TO THIS THE PRESIDENT REPLIED:

Editor News.—An article which appeared in your editorial columns on the 20th inst., under the above heading, and which reflects seriously on the St. Vincent de Paul Children's Aid Society of Toronto, as it is for an unqualified denial. In the article you state that instead of following the example of the first Children's Aid Society, the Roman Catholic children are sent to the Blythe Home.

It may be mentioned that the Society, in the short time it has been in existence, has cared for and maintained a large number of children at the sole expense of that society and its friends, and without securing one cent of Government or municipal aid, while the other Children's Aid Society which in your article you call 'the first Children's Aid Society' received last year from the City of Toronto grants amounting to $3,500.

As will be seen this letter is a complete denial of The News charge; but that journal, unwilling to accept gracefully so positive a denial of its charge, made to say the least of it in reckless ignorance or disregard of the facts, endeavors to draw a herring across the trail and thus divert attention from its position.

Its complaint being this shown to be unfounded The News shifts its position, and, in the same issue which contained the President's letter, says editorially: "Our complaint was however, that there is an evident anxiety to have the boys sent to the Industrial School."

The efforts of The News seem to have been directed principally towards loading the rate-payers to believe that children under the care of the St. Vincent de Paul Children Aid Society are improperly a charge upon the city.

THE YAIN WAYS OF THE SLANDERER

We thank The Globe for its assertion of the justice of our remarks of last week on the subject of the religious denominations and the criminal statistics. Rev. Mr. Houston of Kingston appears to have been hit hard, and judging from a letter of his on Friday to The Whig, he does not relish the position he has placed himself in.

We will get after Rev. Mr. Houston on once more with the facts. The blue book shows that in 1895 the total number of convicts in Kingston penitentiary was 620, of whom 178 were Catholics and 447 Protestants.

We do not desire to use Rev. Mr. Houston's rule of calumny against any particular denomination. We realize, as Rev. Mr. Houston must have done, that whatever the apparent bearing of the figures may be, they cannot be otherwise than entirely misleading.

Let our Protestant friends, of one denomination or another, in the Province look to their own credit in respect to this branch of the subject. We have at hand the data concerning the Catholic convicts. Of the 178 in the institution only 55 were born in Ontario, the remainder coming from other provinces or from foreign countries.

How is it possible for Rev. Mr. Houston to undertake to slander the schools, or the characters, of any section of the people of Ontario upon such statistics. He knows that his comparisons are unfounded and his inferences false just do well as we know it.

The Holy Eucharist.

The Presbyterian Review, Halifax, informs us that the Satanists of France who steal the Holy Eucharist from the churches, for the purpose of their abominable rites, commit no greater crime than mere stealing.

The impious agents of the Satanic organizations form the fighting line of Atheism. That is their boast; and their appointed task is the profanation of our churches.

The growing frequency of this terrible sacrilege has stirred Catholic France to the foundations. The Bishop of Versailles, in consequence of the profanation to which we have already made allusion, has directed a letter to his clergy and people in which he says:

"The sacred vessels should be kept at the presbytery, or in houses where security can be reckoned upon, and the Holy Eucharist should be concealed in places not likely to be discovered by those who commit these abominable acts, and who seize not money, but all that is most adorable and holy."

Deploiring the abominable character of the crime, which has been committed in several churches in the short space of one week, he says: "Must a hiding place be found for concealing the Holy Mysteries? This is what the Bishops are compelled to recommend to their clergy at the close of a century of liberty and religious tolerance.

This sort of thing will doubtless be read with approval in Ulster, but out side of Ulster it will be found most instructive. All that is needed to complete the picture of Ulster as it is, is the following extract from a letter in The Times, written by Mr. Bartley, M.P., another anti Home-Ruler, in reply to the views of Mr. Arnold-Foster on the Belfast Corporation Bill:

I must complain, however, that Mr. Arnold-Foster really ignores in his letter the main contention which was debated on Monday, which was as follows. Belfast has a population of some 250,000, consisting of 70,000 Catholics, or Nationalists, and 180,000 Orangemen, or Unionists. The city is so manipulated that in no local body there is a single representative of the 70,000, and I am informed even a road-scraper would not be chosen from the 70,000—that is, this quarter of the entire population. The present system of local government of Belfast tolerates this, allows this, and even encourages this.

Mr. McDonald's Donation.

Mr. W. O. McDonald, the Montreal millionaire, who has just donated another $850,000 to McGill's University, Montreal, has given in all over a million and a half dollars to that institution. Here are the items:

Table listing donations: Donation for Workshops $20,000; Macdonald Engineering Building 378,218; Macdonald Physics Building 233,228; Lot adjoining grounds 1,600; Faculty of Law endowment 150,000; Endowment for Engineering and Physics Buildings 85,000; Chair of Physics 100,000; Chair of Electrical Science 40,000; For Scholarships 25,000; Mining, Chemistry and Architecture Buildings 650,000; Total 1,883,046.

Mr. McDonald is a Catholic who has set heart upon strengthening the cause of higher English education in the province of Quebec. There is not a question that McGill has proved itself worthy of his generous friendship.

Ulster As It Is.

Mr. Thomas MacKnight, a Ulster anti-Home Ruler, has just written a book upon Ulster as it is. Mr. MacKnight speaks from the experience of twenty years as an Irish editor, and passing over the political purpose of his literary labors, his experiences are not entirely barren of profit for those who are not born into bigotry.

Talk about religion and politics in Canada or any where else outside of Ulster! Read the following description of the part the Protestant clergy have played in political Orangism in Belfast:

Many of the clergy were doubtless much to blame for the bad spirit instilled into the minds of large numbers of the poorer and more ignorant classes. The chaplains of the Orange Lodges, both Episcopalian and Presbyterian, with many Protestant divines—if we are so to call them—who were not Orange chaplains, nor even enrolled members of the Orange association denounced every concession made to the Catholics, and systematically misrepresented the conciliatory policy of Liberal Government.

He speaks of Orange clergymen at a Lord Mayor's dinner being "with difficulty restrained from dancing a piousette" in the presence of the bigoted Lord Cairns, and "others appeared to be incensing Orange toasts." Here is another picture of Ulster fanaticism:

One evening, while the possibility of such a visit (one from Mr. Gladstone to Belfast) was being discussed at a dinner-table of a most respectable merchant of Belfast, himself a Liberal, as his family had been for generations, a guest became much excited. This gentleman had not been originally a member of the Disestablished Church; he had joined it with other relatives. Knowing that he was speaking in the presence of Ulster Liberals who had themselves done what they could to carry out Mr. Gladstone's policy on this question, he said: "If Mr. Gladstone should come to Belfast I should myself go among the boys of Sandy row and do all I could to get them to murder him. Yes, to murder him, to murder him!" This was not said, as it might be charitable to surmise, under the influence of wine. It was pure, simple, Tory Protestant fanaticism in the cause of the Disestablished Church.

The instruction that I spoke on and voted for, and for closing which I have incurred Mr. Arnold-Foster's severe displeasure, was neither to give the cumulative vote or the London County Council system of voting to Belfast, but merely to request the Committee of the House of Commons—which would have a Unionist majority on it—to inquire into the present mode of municipal elections in Belfast and to see whether it is expedient to modify and, if so, to propose such modification in the bill. The modification intended, no doubt, to try and secure at least some representation in municipal affairs for 70,000 inhabitants.

I stated that no large city in England would be allowed to be so manipulated that one-quarter of its inhabitants, of whatever opinion—whether Tory, Radical, Liberal Unionist, Roman Catholic, Dissenter, Socialist, or any other class—should be absolutely excluded from all share in local government.

Anglo-Irish and Christian Unity

The question of Christian reunion is likely to be brought nearer the comprehension of adherents of the English church establishment by an article which Lord Halifax has published in The Pall Mall Magazine.

Who will be the leader in the return to unity? Must there be some one manifest leader? Can there be any permanent union without some one strong center? We do not know what the providence of God may have in store for His Church, what things, new or old, He may bring forth from the treasures of His wisdom.

No one can consider reunion impossible while leaders like Lord Halifax show such an attitude as this towards the question.

Their equally great and costly cost to the farmer is the influence combination by which the value of wheat is fixed, and that of the flour is put at considerably more than the natural price of it as compared with wheat.

As the season when the cows are about to come into profit is at hand, it is well to give a thought to the management of them in regard to the milking. The content of the change to the birth of a calf is not sufficiently realized by dairymen.

The condition of the udder a month before the birth of a calf begins to change. A new and special growth of tissue which is quite different in character from the ordinary milking state of the organ.

These are the changes of the character of the udder in connection of the thick albuminous matter called the colostrum, and the interference of this by the constant drawing of the milk during the time when the udder should be preparing for a long term of milking again.

The treatment of seeds for planting varies greatly, as the seeds may differ. Some are infested by grubs or the eggs of injurious insects, as the peas and beans, in which numerous young beetles—the so-called weevils—are to be found.

And be the stern and sad truth spoken that the breach which habitual guilt has once made in the human soul is never, in this mortal state wholly repaired. It may be widened and deepened, so that the enemy shall not force his way into the citadel, and might even, in his subsequent assaults, select some other avenue, in preference to that where he had formerly succeeded.

A great man without a past, if he be not an impossibility, will certainly have no future.

HEART DISEASE OF 20 YEARS' STANDING RELIEVED IN ADAY. Mr. Aaron Nichols, who has lived on One Farm for 70 Years, Tells What He Knows of Dr. Searle's Cure for the Heart. This is to certify that I have bought two bottles of Dr. Searle's Cure for the Heart for the past twenty years with heart disease. The first few doses gave relief, and she has derived benefit from it than from all the other medicine she has used. The remedy acts like magic on a diseased heart. I am pleased to give this certificate. AARON NICHOLS, Peterboro.

It is better to be a man than to be a woman. It is better to be a man than to be a woman. It is better to be a man than to be a woman.

There is a magic in the little word "home." It is a mystic circle of comfort and joy, and its hallowed limits never known beyond its hallowed limits.

It is never able to conquer any one single bad sensation in my heart as decidedly as by boating up as fast as I could for some kindly and gentle sensation to fight it upon its own ground.

What if this could not know, what if this could not know, what if this could not know, what if this could not know.

No Good is Lost.—The good which a holy self-denyng man does in life is scattered here and there in little fragments of blessing: a kindness to a child, a gentle word to a wayward youth, an answer to a prayer, a word of counsel, a word of rebuke, a word of encouragement.

There are various kinds of forgive ness. There is forgiveness that washes its hands of the culprit, and refuses to be further troubled on his behalf—the kind of forgiveness that is the result of the effort which is afterwards made to help the penitent—that is the kind of forgiveness you should try to secure.

Great thoughts are gifts of God; the secret whispering of His Spirit in the hidden recesses of the soul: the touch of the Divine which links us with the Eternal Mind. The great things that are done in the world are done by the aid of the Holy Spirit.

Comfort one another. For the way is often dreary, and the feet are often weary, and the heart is often heavy, and the soul is often sad, and the hand is often weary, and the eye is often heavy, and the ear is often deaf, and the tongue is often dumb, and the mouth is often dry, and the throat is often sore, and the stomach is often full, and the bowels are often loose, and the bladder is often full, and the feet are often weary, and the hands are often sore, and the eyes are often heavy, and the ears are often deaf, and the tongue is often dumb, and the mouth is often dry, and the throat is often sore, and the stomach is often full, and the bowels are often loose, and the bladder is often full.

McMorinck: "I want to punch eggs on toast." Water: "Yes, sir." "And be sure and have them fresh and hot." "Yes, sir. I'll have them laid on the toast, sir."

Drill sergeant gallant empty mirth: "Now then, chusshy, what is it at in men's faces?" "Herrin!" "When the colonel is given you advance the right foot three inches to the rear."

Teacher of the Sunday school infant class to interest the little ones, had begun to tell them the story of the fall of man, when a boy in the front row heard to exclaim half aloud:—"Oh, I'm tired of that story about the Adamus."

Confused Metaphor.—A weekly contemporary quotation from a country paper the following:—"Looking back along the trackless pathways of the future he desecrated the footsteps of an invisible hand." The form in which it has long been familiar to us:—"Whom shall we call our fathers? We are the paths of the future, we see over the footprints of an Almighty Hand."

Managing Editor (to applicant for situation): "That experience have you had at interview?" "No, sir." "Well, I've been pitched out of a third story window, been kicked down five flights of stairs, and been horsewhipped by a woman; had three of my ribs broken; I have certificates of discharge from five hospitals, and a Managing Editor: "That will do. You go to the house of Toddy O'Toole, the prize fighter, get him out of bed and ask him what he has to say about being thrashed by O'Keefe."

Oil and Water.—"I am very unportant," said the young artist. "You are deficient in one important quality." "What is that?" "Tact. When Mr. Grossman came to see you about a portrait, you never stopped to think that he made his fortune out of a lucky streak in the lottery." "Never." "And now you hold him to be ought to have his picture done in oil, and he didn't leave the order." "That's so." "And when Mr. Skinker, who had prospered as a dairyman, called at your studio, you rushed from Seylla to Charlybdis and dissolved him in water and his colors. You're a good painter, my boy; but what you need is discretion."

The Manager's Apology.—A circus was once going round to several of our towns, and amongst the performances was an elephant that could play the piano. When the time came for this to be done, the piano was brought into the ring, and the elephant just lifted off. The elephant sat down on the stool and struck one note. Immediately afterwards he gave a loud groan, whereupon the manager came up, and, addressing the elephant, said: "Ladies and gentlemen, the elephant has just discovered the tooth of his mother in one of the keys, and is overcome with grief, so I will immediately telegraph for another piano; in the meantime we will proceed with the other part of the performance."

MARCH WINDS. Blow, blow, March wind, blow! Blow me April, if you please. I was away from the snow, Blow the leaves out on the trees. Blow the ice from off the brooks, Set that merry water free. How dead leaves from woody nooks, Show the violets to me. Do all this; 'twill be but play, This—please to blow yourself away! —St. Nicholas.

If the Baby is Crying Teeth. Be sure and use the old, well-tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Sore Gums, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, always all pains, cures the colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

St. Joseph's Church. The parishioners have had a number of meetings recently for the purpose of making arrangements for a concert which takes place in the Parish Hall, Easter Monday night. The following talent has been engaged: Mrs. Shira and Misses Elliott, Mrs. Keenan and O'Neil, soprano; Mrs. Keenan and Miss Chapman, contralto; Mr. Maruyau, tenor; Messrs. Egan and O'Rourke, baritone; Messrs. Kelly and W. E. Barnes, humorists. The children of St. Anne's and St. Joseph's schools will take part in the programme.

St. Mary's Fancy Fair. Everything is in readiness for the successful opening of St. Mary's Fancy Fair on Easter Monday. The musical programme for the evening entertainment are excellent, and are certain to draw large audiences. The leading ladies of St. Mary's parish will be centre of attraction. The fair will be held at 675 Queen Street West, near Portland st., the building known as the Campbell Furniture Co.

A Parochial Library for St. Helen's. The ladies of the Sodality in St. Helen's parish are about to open a sale of fancy work and other useful articles, in aid of the parochial library. The object is one that warmly commends itself to all the people of the parish, and it also deserves the support of Catholics in other parishes of the city. The sale will open on the evening of April 7th, and will be continued on the 8th and 9th, at 702 Dundas street. The young ladies have worked energetically to bring the sale to success, and the amount of taste and skill brought to bear upon the enterprise should receive due appreciation. The people of St. Helen's will be doing a laudable work for the parish by helping the results of the sale in every possible manner; and a rich treat of music will be added to the most practical features of the undertaking.

Senators Ferguson, P. E. I. OTTAWA, March 30, 1896. To the Editor of the Catholic Register. Dear Sir.—Kindly correct your statement in last Register that it was Senator Ferguson, of Welland, who delivered the address at the St. Patrick's Day celebration in Ottawa. It was Senator Ferguson, of Prince Edward Island, who was the orator of the occasion, and he acquitted himself most creditably. Senator Ferguson, although a Scotchman, and proud of it, as he declared in his address, has all his life lived among Irish neighbors and for many years enjoyed their confidence as their representative in the Provincial Legislature. Nor he represents the "Gardener of the Gulf" in the Cabinet. Moreover, he has supported a Home Ruler and a helper of Catholics when their educational interests have been concerned. A SUBSCRIBER.

Upper Canada College Grounds. It has been wisely suggested by one of our respected citizens that since the Union Station has recently been so improved, at a cost of some half million of dollars, the time is opportune for putting the old parliament and Canada College grounds in the market for sale, either at public auction or private sale. Although they might not realize the amount the government would desire, being exempt from taxes and producing nothing, the city would be greatly benefited, as the purchasers would be liable to taxes; and from the amount that would be realized a considerable reduction of the heavy tax we are paying at present would follow.

Death of Col. Amyot. General regret has been expressed in Ottawa on account of the untimely death of Col. Amyot, M. P. The member for Bellechoue was found dead at his residence on Monday morning. He belonged to one of the oldest French-Canadian families, its founder, Philip Amyot, having come to Canada in 1638.

Sending a New Bell to Ireland. The Henry McShane Manufacturing Company of this city, cast a large bell yesterday for St. Malachy's Church, Castlewagon, County Down, Ireland. Rev. Joseph O'Connor, rector. This weight of the bell is nearly 4,000 pounds, and the fact that the bell was cast on St. Patrick's Day made it an event of interest. The bell will be fully mounted and shipped as soon as possible.—Baltimore American.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES. E. B. A. St. Patrick's Day at Kinkora. On the evening of St. Patrick's Day a grand concert was given under the auspices of St. Patrick's Branch No. 30, E. B. A. of this place. At 7 o'clock all the available space in the hall was taken up and, precisely at 9 p.m., the chairman, Mr. J. P. O'Brien, in a few well-chosen and appropriate words welcomed the audience on behalf of Branch No. 30 and announced the opening of the concert. Two choruses were given in splendid style by the choir of St. Joseph's Church, Stratford, and vocal solos were rendered by Misses Gallagher, Hurlbut, Carlin, Haggerty, Day and Hickey, and M. L. McGee, J. M. Lister, and J. Kennedy, P. Costello, J. Hayes, Hickey, J. Kennedy and H. Kelly. All of these were well received and received much applause while Mr. McGee and Hickey sang the Irish song which was the "put" of the evening. The Irish song which was the "put" of the evening was "The Irish Fairly Captured the House."

EPSS'S COCOA. BREAKFAST—COMFORTING. It is a thorough knowledge of the nature and action which governs the operations of digestion and assimilation, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has prepared for our breakfast and supper a deliciously flavoured beverage which may save us many hours of doctoring. It is by the judicious use of this article of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. We may acquire many a false habit by eating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point.
