lation of Antwerp is by no means minimized. One of the strongest fortified cities in the world, it should have held out for months, according to all military calculations available before the progress of the Krupp guns was demonstrated.

In speaking of the debacle, The London Times says today: "It is a fine feat of arms, and the enemy has just cause for rejoicing, but the revival of the horrors to which the innocent Belgian nation is subjected has stirred up the wave of indignation to fever heat."

ALLIES WON CAVALRY FIGHT. The situation in northern France is characterized by a number of disconnected engagements, in some of which large forces have participated. East of the Aire the allies won a long battle Saturday, in which cavalry took the leading part. In this region the kaiser's forces attempted to hold the passage of the River Lys, but were compelled to fall back on Armentieres.

On the right bank of the River Ancre the Germans assaulted the allied lines with great determination, finally giving way and retreating to their trenches with heavy losses. Along the Oise and to the north of that river Von Kluck strives daily to stem the slowly advancing Franco-British forces. It is declared that French troops have won new and favorable positions on the centre, west of Rheims. Their success followed a series of counter-attacks at night by the Germans. Apremont, west of St. Mihiel, has fallen into French hands after a two-days' assault. The kaiser's army took the town Friday, but were driven out Saturday when the furious engagement reached its height.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT. The official communique of the French War Office, issued at 3 o'clock this afternoon, says:

"First—On our left wing German cavalry, which had seized certain points of passage over the Lys River to the east of Aire, was driven off yesterday, and retired last evening into Armentieres district. Between Arras and the Oise the enemy made a very vigorous attack on the right bank of the Ancre, but without making any progress.

"Second—On the centre between the Oise and Rheims our troops have made slight advances to the north of the Aisne, particularly in the region to the northwest of Soissons. Between Craonne and Rheims German attacks at night have been repulsed. From Rheims to the Meuse there is nothing to report. In the Woivre district the Germans have delivered some very violent attacks. In the region of Apremont, to the east of St. Mihiel, there was fighting during the night of Oct. 9 and the following day, in which time Apremont was taken and retaken, the town finally remaining in our hands.

"Third—On our right wing—in Lorraine, the Vosges and Alsace—there is nothing to report. To sum up, we have everywhere maintained our positions.

"In the eastern theatre, the fighting of the Russians with the German rear guard to the southeast of Wirballen and upon the line of lakes to the west of Suwalki, continues."

GERMAN FLAG CAPTURED.

The official communication issued by the French War Office tonight says: "There is no new detail to mention, except the capture of a flag near Lassigny. The impression of the day is satisfactory."

DAMAGE WAS NOT SERIOUS.

The following despatch received by The Amsterdam Handelsblad from Antwerp, under date of Oct. 10, is forwarded to the Reuter Telegram Company: "The damage to the town by the bombardment was not very serious, as the Germans used shrapnel wherever possible in order to save the historic buildings. In view of the reported shortage of petrol in Germany, it must have been a source of peculiar grief to the conquerors that all the tanks of Antwerp had been emptied before their arrival.

"According to reports from Brussels, the siege of Antwerp cost the Germans heavily. As early as last Thursday, five trains of forty wagons each left with wounded for Antwerp."

ANTWERP'S FALL MAY PROLONG WAR.

The Bordeaux correspondent of The Times has sent the following despatch: "In official circles here it is recognized that the fall of Antwerp may prolong the war. The Germans are certain to fortify the forts, which will become a base for Zeppelin attacks against the British coast. And yet it is obvious that under the present conditions the Germans cannot recapture the city by way of the Scheldt River.

"News of lively fighting between Ghent and Termonde, Belgium, where the allies repulsed 40,000 Germans, indicates the far northward reach of the allies' lines."

INHABITANTS ARE WARNED.

A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam says that Gen. Von Beseler, commander of the German troops that captured Antwerp, has issued the following proclamation:

"To the inhabitants of Antwerp: The German army has entered your city as conquerors. No citizen shall be harmed and your property shall be spared if you refrain from hostile acts. All refractoriness will be punished according to the laws of war, and may lead to the demolition of your beautiful city."

The Hague correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says that Prince August Wilhelm, the fourth son of the emperor, was among the first of the German officers to penetrate the fortifications of Antwerp. He sent an enthusiastic message to the emperor, who replied, bestowing the Iron Cross upon the prince and Gen. Von Beseler.

inter, at such points, an artillery duel has begun, with the enemy advancing toward the Vistula.

Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 11.—As this despatch is filed it is probable that a conflict greater than any the world has ever known is now in progress. Severe artillery duels are under way between the German and Russian forces, and the German army is advancing toward the Vistula. Heavy guns from Kovno have considerably reinforced the Russian forces. Przemysl still holds out and a number of sorties have been repulsed.

REVERSES IN GALICIA?

Canadian Press Despatch.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—On the East Prussian frontier the Russians are still engaged with the German rear guard west of Suwalki and to the southeast of Wirballen. Of the battles in Galicia and Poland the Russian staff has decided to say nothing for the present, but the Austrians declare that a recent attack on Przemysl has been repulsed and that the Russians have evacuated the western front which the Austrians occupied.

The Austrians also claim victories over the Russians at Lancut and Dynow, in Galicia. It is known that they have received reinforcements, which Petrograd admits has compelled a change in the plans of the Russian army. The Montenegrins claim a victory over the Austrians in Bosnia, where they say the Austrians tried to cut off the Montenegrin army proceeding toward Sarajevo, but were defeated with heavy losses.

Spread of Cholera.

More alarming reports come from Italy of the spread of cholera in Austria. It is said that there are many cases of cholera in different parts of the country.

ALL THAT REMAINS NOW IS TO GET THE APPLES

Rev. Gilbert Agar Has Plan to Bring and Store Them.

Rev. Gilbert Agar of Jane Street Methodist Church yesterday commenced active work on a scheme which will give employment to the unemployed and at the same time provide a sufficient supply of apples to relieve a good deal of suffering thruout the winter. His scheme is that farmers within easy distance of Toronto allow men to go into their orchards and pick up the apples which otherwise would go to waste. All that the farmers would have to do would be to notify Mr. Agar that they are willing to have the men take away the apples. Arrangements have been made by Mr. Agar for teams to take the men to the orchards and bring the apples in to Toronto, where they will be stored in the basement of Jane Street Church. The farmers would be asked to give the men their meals. In this way a good many barrels of apples which otherwise would rot on the ground can be saved and distributed among the poor in Toronto during the winter months. Any farmer or owner of an orchard who is willing to cooperate is asked to notify Mr. Agar, whose address is Baby Point crescent, Toronto.

BRITISH FORCE IS LITTLE MOLESTED

Bright Moon Prevents Night Attacks—Casualties Are Small.

ered 150 dead Germans in a wood one and a half miles from our front. We sent a party out to bury them but it was fired upon and had to withdraw. Germans licenced. "On Tuesday, the sixth, the enemy's guns were active in the afternoon. It is believed that the bombardment was due to anger because two of our howitzers had detonated right in one of the enemy's trenches which was full of men. Three horses were killed by the German fire. "Wednesday, the seventh, was uneventful. On Thursday, the eighth, the shelling by the enemy of a locality on our front, which has so far been the scene of their greatest efforts was again continuous. Opposite one or two points the Germans have attempted to gain ground by sapping in some places with the view of secretly pushing forward machine guns in advance of their trenches, so that they can suddenly sweep with cross fire the space between our line and theirs, and so take any advance of ours in the flank.

Mined Enemy's Gun.

"It is reported that at one point where the French were much annoyed by the fire of a German machine gun which was otherwise inaccessible, they drove a mine gallery fifty metres (about 55 yards) long up to and under the emplacement and blew up the gun. The men who drove the gallery belonged to a corps which was recruited in one of the coal mining districts of France.

"The German machine guns are mounted on low sledges and are inconspicuous and evidently easily moved. "The fighting now consists mostly of shelling by the artillery of both sides and in front a line of fire from the machine guns as an occasional target offers. Our maxims have been doing excellent work and have proved most efficient weapons for the sort of fighting in which we are now engaged. "At times there are so many outbursts of their fire in different directions that it is possible for an expert to tell by comparison which of the guns have their springs adjusted and are well tuned up for the day. The amount of practice that our officers are now getting in the use of this weapon is proving most valuable in teaching them how to maintain it at concert pitch as an instrument, and how to derive the best tactical results from its employment.

Firing at Random. "Against us the Germans are not now expending as much gun ammunition as they have been, but they continue to fire at insignificant targets. They have the habit of suddenly dropping heavy shells without warning in localities or villages far behind our front line, possibly on the chance of catching some of our troops in bivouac or billets. They also fire a few rounds at night.

German Fire Accurate. "The accuracy of their fire is apt at first to cause some alarm, more especially as the guns are usually well concealed, and the positions and the direction from which the fire is proceeding are difficult of detection. But, accurate as is their shooting, the German guns have, on the whole, had little luck, and during the past three weeks an astonishingly small proportion of the number of shells fired by them have been really effective.

"One of the most striking features of their handling of the artillery is the speed with which they concentrate the fire upon any selected point. They dispense to a great extent with the methods of ranging, known by us as bracketing, especially when acting on the defensive, and direct their fire by means of squared maps and the telephone. Thus when the target is found its position on the map is telephoned to such batteries as it is desired to employ against that particular square.

Elaborate Observations. "In addition to the guns employed to fire on such targets as they are picked up, others are told off to watch particular roads and to deal with any of the enemy using them. "Both for the location of targets and the combination of the effect of the fire, reliance is placed on observation from aeroplanes and balloons and on information supplied by special observers and secret agents, who are sent out ahead or left behind in the enemy's lines to communicate by telephone or signal. These observers have been found in haystacks, barns and other buildings well advanced of the German lines. Balloons of the so-called sausage pattern remain up in the air for long periods for the purpose of discovering targets, and until our aviators made their influence felt by chasing all hostile aeroplanes on sight, the latter were continually hovering over our troops, in order to register their positions and to note where the headquarters, reserves, gun teams, etc., were located.

"If suitable targets are discovered

HAMILTON'S MAYOR HAS ARM BROKEN

Automobile Ran into Gate—Brakes Would Not Work.

RELIEF FUND MOUNTS

Highlanders Hold Shooting Competition—Death of Old-Time Resident.

By a Staff Reporter.

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.—Mayor Allan gained a fractured arm Saturday evening when the automobile in which he was riding ran into a gate at the Grand Trunk crossing on North Wellington street. Willoughby Ellis, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, who was driving the car, was unable to put on the brakes, which refused to work. In the event of being struck in the face by the gate, Mayor Allan put up his arm and received a bad jolt. He was taken to Dr. Edgar's office, where the arm was dressed, and he removed to his home. Thanking services were held in all the city churches yesterday, and many outside ministers were the preachers. In the First Methodist Church a special Thanksgiving collection was taken up to make a payment on the mortgage of the church. It is estimated that this collection amounted to over $8000.

Hamilton Relief Fund. The subscriptions taken in by the Hamilton United Relief Association up to Saturday night, but not including collection taken on the night of Oct. 11, amounted to $50,000, including the $20,000 given by the city council. It is estimated that the subscriptions of the citizens will bring the total up to $130,000.

Death of John Hayes. John Hayes, 63, died at his home, 303 Highland street north, yesterday. He had resided in Hamilton for many years, having worked as a scalemaker at the Gurnee factory. He leaves a widow and family.

Highlanders' Rifle Match. The crack shots of the 91st Highlanders were on hand at the regimental trophy shooting match at the rifle ranges Saturday afternoon. "D" company captured first prize, "C" company second, and "H" company third.

The airman drops a smoke ball directly over it or lets fall some stricks of tinsel which glitter in the sun as they slowly descend to the earth. The range to the target is apparently ascertained by those near the guns by means of large telemeter or other range finders, which are kept trained on the aeroplane, so that when the signal is made the distance to the target vertically below is at once obtained. A few rounds are then fired and the result is signalled back by the aviator, according to some prearranged code.

It was a strange scene. The soldiers visible could be counted on the fingers. Yet I knew that thousands were around. It was a sight but one of those odd circumstances of war. One could hear only the bursting of shells, the sharp crack of the Belgian artillery, and the rattling volleys of the British naval guns. The Germans, meanwhile, were eagerly putting into position their terrible 42-centimetre guns. Our guns were pouring a searching fire into the suspected positions, in the hope of hindering the enemy from mounting his guns.

Foundations Collapsed. "Jack" certainly gave a good account of himself. The guns which we were positioned fired four effective rounds Wednesday. Then on account of the concussion the concrete foundations whereon they were mounted collapsed and had to be repaired. It showed what might have happened had they been in position for the way, less than might be confidence in the strength of the forts of Antwerp is temporarily in the hands of the Germans.

The British saved all the wounded and all the guns. The number of wounded, by the way, less than might have been expected, considering the nature of the fighting.

The Belgian army came thru intact, and the fired, is fully capable of useful work, and is undoubtedly preparing for fierce fighting in the future.

DUTCH ATTITUDE WHAT?

Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—On the attitude of Holland to her Prussian neighbor since the fall of Antwerp, much depends. Will Scheidt refer to Wilhelm to use the face of treaties which explicitly prohibit such action, and in spite of her avowed and hitherto strictly maintained neutrality, or will she demonstrate the spirit of old and challenge the Germanic legions?

ITALY WATCHES ROUMANIA BOTH MAY GET INTO WAR

Death of King Charles the One Event Needed to Throw Roumania In With the Allies, and Italy Then Also Would Enter the Field.

Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Despatches from Rome state that Italy is watching Roumania with anxiety. The death of King Charles is believed to be the one event needed to throw the Roumanian power to the side of the allies. All the world knows that the dead monarch was a Hohenzollern, and that his people are closely akin to the Latins. The king would not fight his kinsmen and the Roumanians would not take the field against their own.

But with the passing of King Charles the situation is different. Of course his son and heir is bound to the Hohenzollerns by blood ties, but he was born and reared in Roumania. With a young monarch on the throne the dead influence of his ministers is likely to be more potent than with the dead king. The travesty of a Hohenzollern governing a Latin people may be changed.

The situation in the Balkans between Roumania and Bulgaria is another delicate phase of the trouble. When the latter country was at war with Turkey every effort was extended to induce Roumania's participation. In the face of the constant refusals came the conflict of Greece and Serbia on the one side, against Bulgaria on the other. At this time Roumania is not only held aloof from Bulgaria, but practically threatened an invasion.

Roumania has lost several provinces to Austria, and shares with all her neighbors' hatred against the Hapsburgs.

Will she ally herself with England or choose the Teuton power? These are the problems which agitate the diplomatic world tonight.

Without the Scheidt, Antwerp is a negligible factor. If England had sent her dreadnaughts up the historic river there might have been another tale to recount. By so much, Germany has striven for no good purpose or is deliberately preparing to violate Dutch neutrality. The Scheidt flows thru the southwestern section of Queen Wilhelmina's territory and the presence of German ships in its waters can only mean to assert themselves.

Opinion in Holland as to the present course is said to be divided. The nation faces one of the most grave crises in its long and eventful history. In the event of German aggression she must fight on one side or the other, or retire forever from the council chambers of the nation.

Every indication points to her participation on the side of the allies. Up to the present the Dutch Government has cooperated with England in the fullest degree as concerns contraband of war, giving assurances whenever asked that certain imports would not be re-exported to Germany. She has also resolutely defended her neutrality and has mobilized her complete army of 250,000 men.

Every man fit to take the field. If Germany comes as a hostile act she will find the Dutch men leaping advanced on Liege, in speaking of the situation.

"The Dutch are up against a very serious case against their neutrality. The Germans can only use Antwerp effectively by way of the Scheidt."

"The Star says: "The Germans cannot use Antwerp as a naval base, for we hold command of the sea. German violation of the neutrality of the Scheidt would profit them nothing so long as they cannot take their ships out of Kiel."

Exodus of People. Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World.

GHEENT, Oct. 11.—The exodus of the population of fallen Antwerp was marked by extraordinary scenes. Compartment trucks were filled to the utmost with refugees, who also sat on the roofs and buffers of carriages, or lay at full length on the footboards and thronged the tenders of locomotives until it was a difficult matter for the firemen in the cab to get coal for the engines. Fugitives also clung to the handrails of the engines—anyway to get out of the city quickly.

As the laden trains passed the fields, kind-hearted peasants of the surrounding country districts tossed turnips and other vegetables to the wretched passengers, many being glad to get them as they had no other food.

Stories of the last ten days' fighting in Antwerp leave one amazed at the extent of human endurance displayed by the defenders.

Used Fiendish Ingenuity. The Germans used every destructive device the most fiendish ingenuity could suggest to secure the city's capitulation. The artillery fire was terrific and seldom slackened.

One of the marines told me: "We've been expecting to be blown up altogether. We should have liked that to have a go at the Germans with steel, so we tossed apples as far as we could in the direction of their trenches and challenged them to come out. They wouldn't respond. It was perfect hell—just like the pictures—with flame and lightning and storm, that I remember as a boy in mother's copy of Bunyan's Holy War."

I am told that the Germans made a determined but unsuccessful attempt to capture an Antwerp train conveying British and Belgian wounded from the city. Six thousand of the enemy tried to encircle the train, but the drivers went at top speed and got thru with the loss of but seven men.

TO CO-OPERATE WITH ALLIES. LONDON, Oct. 11.—Cabinet Minister Runciman, speaking here, declared that the fall of Antwerp means that the Belgian army has extricated itself from a difficult position and will co-operate with the Franco-British armies in Belgium and France.

BRITAIN EXERCISES RIGHT OF SEARCH

Warships Constantly Escort Dutch Bottoms Into English Ports.

Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, Oct. 11.—Every day cargoes of foodstuffs, petrol, and other supplies, which would be useful to Germans, move with greater difficulty into Netherlands ports. At Falmouth and other ports in the South of England, warships are constantly escorting Dutch bottoms into a safe refuge, where they are held until the ultimate destination of the cargo is finally determined, and until the Netherlands Government gives assurances that the cargo will not be sold to Germany, nor used to replace supplies now in Holland, which may be sold to the Austrians or the Germans. The Gelria, a big Dutch steamer, from the River Platte country, carrying a large cargo of coffee and other foodstuffs, was towed into Falmouth, where it was held for more than a week before being permitted to proceed to Rotterdam. The Gelria carried a number of German reservists, who were taken off the ship before she was finally released. Her cargo of coffee was so large that an English official said it was estimated to be sufficient to supply the population of all Holland for six months. However, the ship was allowed to proceed to her destination after the Netherlands Government assumed responsibility for the cargo, and guaranteed that none of it would go to enemies of the allies. Up to this time most of the Dutch ships, which have been escorted into Irish ports by warships, underwent similar investigations. After the Ryndam's quota of reservists was taken off at Queenstown, the ship was released, only to be seized again off the south coast of England and hauled into Falmouth for a fuller investigation of its cargo. VIENNA TO TORONTO IN THIRTY-SEVEN DAYS

Money Bought Exit From Austria in War Time—Pullan Family's Escape.

Because they were well supplied with ready money, Mr. and Mrs. M. Pullan, 254 Sherbourne street, were enabled to leave Vienna, Austria, for their home in Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Pullan were on a visit with friends in Austria previous to the outbreak of the war. They left Vienna for Geneva, Switzerland, on Sept. 1 after considerable trouble with the authorities. The journey to Geneva occupied three days, which is usually accomplished in half a day. Proceeding, the travelers went to Marseilles. They secured passage on a Japanese steamer for London. The steamer was escorted all the way by two cruisers, which were in wireless communication with battleships at intervals. The vessel from Liverpool to Boston and then came on to Toronto, arriving last Thursday. The whole journey occupied more than five weeks. Mr. Pullan stated that they experienced the same difficulty in getting away from France as they did from Vienna. Speaking of conditions in Vienna at the beginning of September, he said that there were hundreds of Americans and British people stranded there who could not get away. The banks will not honor letters of credit. Food was sold at the regular prices, and there was one lunch house where free meals were being distributed. The Austrians, he said, at that time were firmly believed the German army would prove victorious. That was at the high tide of the German advance on Paris and before the disasters on the Russian frontier. Even at that time, Mr. Pullan says, the Viennese hospitals, as well as the schools and other buildings which had been taken over by the government, were full of Austrian and German wounded.

CAPTURE OF ANTWERP MAY DRAG HOLLAND INTO WAR

If German Warships Are Allowed To Pass Thru the Scheldt, Britain Will Proclaim Breach of Neutrality — Allies Will Be in Danger From Sorties by German Garrison of City.

Canadian Press Despatch. LONDON, Oct. 11.—Antwerp and the forts surrounding the city are now in complete possession of the Germans, but the greater part of the Belgian army have made good their escape. It took the Germans just eleven days to capture the strongest fortress in the world.

A question which is now arising is as to the effect upon the general campaign of the German occupation of Antwerp. The Belgian garrison, or the greater part of it, escaped, and is reported to be engaged with the Germans. The strategic importance of Antwerp consisted in its menace to the German lines running thru Belgium. Now matters have been reversed, and the allies will have to take their turn in keeping forces before the city to prevent the Germans from Antwerp attacking their flank or rear should they be able to advance. The Germans, however, propose according to the Berlin reports, to use the city as a base for operations against England.

Holland's Predicament. So long as Great Britain commands the sea, no great part of the German navy can use the port, even should Holland's objection to the use of the Scheldt by belligerent ships be overruled by Germany. Germany, it is thought, may claim that being in possession of the city she acquires Belgium's right to use the river on equal terms with the Dutch, and will proceed to build destroyers and submarines there to menace the British fleet.

If Holland should allow these vessels to pass thru the Scheldt, England, it is declared, would certainly proclaim it a breach of neutrality. In any case, Holland's position becomes more and more uncomfortable.

Howitzers All-Powerful. The fall of Antwerp is evidence that even the most powerful forts are no match for the colossal howitzers which the invaders have successfully employed against every fortified place that stood in their way. These huge guns, completely out-ranging the guns of the forts, simply play havoc with the most solidly built defences and open gaps thru which the besiegers find an entrance for their field artillery and infantry.

The Germans after shelling the city itself for many hours, making it untenable, entered the town thru the suburb of Berchem, to the east, after they had made a breach in the outer line of forts, some of which were destroyed by their big guns, and others blown up by the defenders. The Germans followed similar plans in dealing with the inner belt of forts, and at the same time threw shells into the city which set afire many places.

Hoisted White Flag. The inner forts, like these further out, soon succumbed to the enormous shells, and on Friday morning several of these forts had fallen, opening the way for the Germans into the city. By midday they were in occupation of the town, and at 2:30 in the afternoon the war flag on the cathedral was replaced by a white flag, indicating surrender. A few forts continued to hold out, but it was not until 11 o'clock this morning that the Germans, according to their own official reports, were in complete possession of the city and fortress. When they arrived yesterday and at least part of the Belgian army and royal family, has escaped.

Losses Very Heavy. The death roll resulting from the attack on and defence of Antwerp has not been compiled, and probably the full details will never be known, but all accounts describe it as being extremely large. The Germans, although their big guns cleared a path for them through the rivers and canals, and in driving out the defenders, who held the entrenchments until the last.

The stubbornness of the Belgians and of those who were with them, cost them what have long been called the first places where fire occurred, and was burning for at least two days. Cathedral Little Damaged. The railway stations also made a mark for the shells from the big guns, but, according to some of those who have reached here, the cathedral, which is on the other side of the city nearer the Scheldt, although struck, was not badly damaged.

An English nurse who reached London today said that the shelling of the City of Antwerp began Wednesday, and that a Zeppelin dropped a bomb in the garden of the hospital where she was working. The patients, numbering 100, were removed to the cars, and on Thursday evening were taken by automobiles to Ostend.

The steamers today were again crowded with refugees, some of whom had money to pay their way, and which the Bank of England, under management with the British Government, is changing into British currency. The great majority of the refugees, however, have little, or are entirely penniless, and are being sent to homes all over England. Their position is pitiable and many distressing

GREAT FORTRESSES USELESS LESSON TAUGHT BY ANTWERP

PARIS, Oct. 11, 6:35 p.m.—The military consequences of the fall of Antwerp are not so great as the lesson to be learned therefrom of the futility of the permanent fortifications. This opinion is expressed by Lieut.-Col. Rousset, who says that it will be necessary to abandon entirely this sort of defence and replace it with rude works of easy and quick construction which can be placed anywhere, according to the need of the hour.

Then, he says, shells, because of the absence of resistance, would cause only small damage. Never, he declares, has a country been ever so completely unprotected, while there are those whose fortresses have been their ruin.

"Belgium believed itself protected by its triple barrier of Liege, Namur and Antwerp. Alas! It was not."

"No more are we with Maubeuge, or the Austrians with Lemberg and Przemyel. The real safeguard of a nation is an effective military force than can stay an army of invasion."

scenes are witnessed at the stations and docks where the bewildered people gather in knots looking in vain for relatives or friends whom they have lost on the road. Many had walked all the way from Antwerp to Ostend, and weariness added to their misery.

Quick in Antwerp. In Antwerp everything is quiet after days of turmoil. The Germans, who arranged with the burghmaster for the surrender of the town, all the military authorities having left, have issued a warning to the people that any disturbances or attacks on Germans will be severely dealt with.

So far as can be ascertained, the damage done to Antwerp by the bombardment was not so serious as at first feared. The cathedral, art gallery, museum and other public buildings are in the northwestern part of the city and did not reach. The Germans used lighter guns after they had battered down the forts with their heavy guns, and naturally the former did not do so much execution.

Guns Sent to France. A Berlin report says that these heavy guns have been sent to France. If this is so, probably the Verdun forts along the French frontier, which are hindering the German advance, are to be attacked with them. In this case, however, there is a big field army behind the forts, so while the destruction of them would make progress easier for the Germans, it would not absolutely ensure their advance.

Gen. von Beseler, who directed the attack on Antwerp, and Prince Augustus William, fourth son of the German Emperor, who was one of the first to enter the city, have been decorated by the emperor. What the taking of the town cost the Germans is not known, but it is reported from Holland that trainloads of wounded are being conveyed to the hospitals at the German base.

Famine is threatened thruout Belgium, and this is a thing to be expected in a country which has been ravaged by war for upwards of two months.

RIFLE WOMEN AT PRACTICE. It is probably not generally known that Canada has an active rifle association composed of ladies. Yet such a photograph of some of its members at rifle practice in the cover design of the October issue of "Canada Life Echoes" is a timely reminder of the fact. The well-known little periodical this month appears in the form of a number for women, and the nature of its contents ensures that it will be read with interest by all those into whose hands it may come.

The illustrations throughout are suitable and well printed and the book contains several articles of vital interest, both to women in the home and at business. A special feature is the inclusion of a series of directions for first aid help to the victims of such accidents as might happen about any home. This particular article gives the form of a manual value, as also does a collection of recipes of the kind that are most useful in the home, and often the hardest to find when needed. A free copy of this number of "Canada Life Echoes" will be forwarded to the sender their name and address to the Canada Life Assurance Company, Toronto.

SERIES OF NINE LECTURES BY VARSITY PROFESSORS "The War and Its Causes" To Be Discussed.

The University of Toronto is offering a series of public lectures on "The War and Its Causes." Members of the staff, particularly well informed on the subjects upon which they will lecture, will do their utmost to present a perfectly clear discussion of the political and economic conditions which led up to the war.

The lectures will be given in the lecture room of the Physics Building on Monday evenings, each week, beginning next Monday. Professor George M. Wrong will deliver the first two, and the series of nine lectures will be continued by Professors Duckworth, Lloyd, James Mavor, Kyle and Lane.

Next Monday's lecture will be on "The Germany of Bismarck" and Professor Wrong will trace the growth of the German states from the battle of Waterloo to the defeat of France in 1871.

The railway stations also made a mark for the shells from the big guns, but, according to some of those who have reached here, the cathedral, which is on the other side of the city nearer the Scheldt, although struck, was not badly damaged.

SELF-GOVERNMENT IDEA GAINS GROUND IN EAST MUNICIPAL TELEPHONES SERVICEABLE AND CHEAP

Old Philosophies Are Losing Ground, Thinks Speaker at Chalmers Church. Inspection by Ontario Railway Board Will Hasten Extensions in Bruce County.

That there is a great awakening of the natives of India, was made evident by the talk given at Chalmers Presbyterian Church, yesterday morning by Rev. J. A. Sharrard, M.A., B.D., of Indore, India. He told how the caste system is being slowly broken down and the natives are adopting western education. They are sending students to college to study technical matters, and manufacturing concerns and mills in great numbers have been established in the country during the past four or five years.

This industrial upheaval is of vast importance to India, he said. In past years the natives have been dependent for the most part on the crops, and when they prove a failure it directly affects between 80 and 90 per cent. of the population, causing great suffering. The industrial concerns being established have helped greatly to solve the problem of unemployment in India.

The spirit of self-government is awakening in all the eastern countries, he said. He pointed out that this spirit was first manifested in the Russo-Japanese war. The philosophy of the educated Indians, which tells them that nothing in the outside world will do them any good, is being slowly done away with. Although the lower classes are being christianized, much faster than the higher class, the latter are receiving the western education much more readily than a few years ago.

P. MCGREGOR ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT. Frank Rydings, beaten up by Gang, is Doing Well.

Still another arrest was made by the police Sunday evening on the case in which Frank Rydings and his brother were assaulted and badly beaten up by a gang of five at the corner of Booth and St. Clair avenues. CONSIDER OPENING. Opening of the Toronto Exchange is anticipated this week. It will not be a public opening, but brokers will be privileged to send orders to the committee and a restricted trading market will be done thru that avenue. The date will be narrow and will only comprise some of the interlisted stocks.

This will harmonize with the business being done in a similar manner in New York. A general resumption of business is not looked for at present as there are still a number of details to be cleared up. The date upon which a general opening will take place depends entirely upon the actions of the London and New York Exchanges.

Reed's property at the rear of the old town hall on Montgomery avenue and it will be closed in and strongly constructed so as to be comfortable in the most severe weather. Although the club has now a substantial sum in hand to carry on the work more will be needed to complete the range, and a patriotic concert will be held this evening in aid of the building fund. WAR CARRIES OFF BEST OF COUNTRY

Extraordinary Sacrifices Made by Englishmen to Join Kitchener's New Armies.

NOTED MEN AT FRONT

Prominent Britons Enlist as Privates—Names Generally Kept Secret.

Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, Oct. 11.—Englishmen are making extraordinary sacrifices of income, prospects, family ties, and comfort, in order to join the new armies which are being raised with such astonishing expedition to reinforce the allies. If the names of many distinguished men who have enlisted (most of them as simple privates) were quoted, it would cause something of a sensation. But as a general rule they prefer the fact of their enlistment to remain unknown, except to their immediate friends and relations.

But today it is announced that Lord Howard de Walden is running an armored motor car in doing very valuable reconnaissance work along the battle front on the Aisne. Eric Loder, the famous sportsman, is doing similar work. There are scores of others quite apart from society men, who are in the regular army—and they number hundreds.

Everyone with any considerable circle of acquaintances knows of cases of personal sacrifice which are remarkable in these days of alleged materialism and commercialism. Painter Goes to War. A well-known portrait painter, making anything from $15,000 to $20,000 a year by his brush, and moving in the highest circles, was seized with the desire to serve his country at the front. So he went out and made his way to one of the recruiting stations. After waiting over an hour in a queue of would-be recruits, mostly of the unwashed description, and being ordered about by policemen and other officials, without having been able to inscribe his name, he got tired of it and abandoned his idea.

The next day he tried again with the same result, and went home disgusted, determining not to force his services upon a country which put him to so much inconvenience in serving them. A couple of days later he decided to make one of a party of sportsmen who were going to Scotland for shooting. He arrived at Euston in the morning with his valet, his shooting kit, and the rest of the necessary paraphernalia, and took his tickets and his seat in the train with his friends. The conversation naturally turned on the war.

Suddenly the young painter sprang up. "Oh, damn it!" he ejaculated, "I can't stand this. Goody, you chaps; I'm going to shoot Germans, not grouse," and he jumped out of the train, which was just about to start. He made his way to the nearest recruiting station. This time there was not so much of a rush and in a few minutes he was enrolled. He is now in a hospital in France, desperately wounded.

Young Engineer Enlists. Another case: A young civil engineer, married six months ago, and just beginning to make headway in his profession, drawing a salary of $3000 a year, was established with his pretty young wife in a delightful apartment in one of the popular south coast seaside resorts. Years ago he had been a volunteer member of a battery of artillery with the rank of sergeant. On the announcement of the formation of Kitchener's first new army of 100,000, he at once offered his services. He was accepted (as a private), and as he knew everybody in the town, he was asked to find recruits. In a week he had collected more than could be accepted. His wife has not seen him since. His berth has been filled up. His home sold up, and his wife is dependent on the allowance of relatives less than $2 a week, which the country allows her.

Went Back to Army. Still another case: A middle-aged man of good family, belonging to the select whooping circles of Cowes and the solvent, who as a private in a cavalry regiment, went all thru the South African campaign and in the highest non-commissioned rank, enlisted again in his old regiment, as a private. He is a martyr to neuritis and "nerves" as the result of a wound received in South Africa, and after months of medical treatment was just recovering good health. He has now been involved in several weeks in the strenuous work of drilling recruits and acting as the drudge of the regiment, and his health is rapidly breaking down again.

Sculptor Caught Spy. A famous sculptor is acting as a special constable, and every night spends several hours guarding railway bridges in the suburbs of London. The other night he arrested a spy, who turned out to be a most dangerous character. From the office of one of the leading London morning papers five of the best copy-readers have gone to join the ranks of Kitchener's army. They are all brilliant young men with positions to make and with family ties. They are only five out of several dozens, yet their departure has been absolutely unchronicled by their own or any other paper. London journalism has, in fact, been very seriously completed by enlistment, hardly any-one outside of the profession knows it.

GATHER FLOWER SEEDS IS DEPARTMENTAL ADVICE. There May be a Scarcity of the Imported Kind Next Year. Owing to the war in Europe, says W. T. Macoun, Dominion horticulturalist, flower seeds may not be so plentiful next year or the year after, in Canada, as a large quantity of the flower seed that is sold in the Dominion is grown in Germany, and the operations of growing and harvesting the seed there must have been much interrupted this year, and may be carried on with difficulty next year.

Canadian grown seed has been found to give very satisfactory results, he says, "and we should advise every one who has a garden to be on the safe side and save some seed this year. Even if there is an abundance of imported seeds it will be interesting to compare this home grown with that from abroad."

THIS WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATRES

Catherine Tower in "Within the Law" at the Alexandra.

Blanche Ring at Shea's.

"Within the Law." "Within the Law," with Catherine Tower as Mary Turner, is here for an appeal return engagement. It opens at the Alexandra Theatre today with a Thanksgiving matinee. Bayard Veiller wrote the play, and we are indebted to Selwyn and Company for producing it. The cast in Miss Tower's support includes Tom J. Evans, Harrison J. Perry, Bernard Craney, William Lambert, Lucien Laine, James Heenan, Katherine Daly, Grace Spaeth and others. Popular matinees will be given Monday, Thursday and Saturday, with no seat over $1.00.

"The Little Cafe." "The Little Cafe," one of the most conspicuous comedies in a long time, is due at the Princess Theatre for one week, beginning today's (Thanksgiving) matinee. Klaw and Erlanger have been prodigal in the use of money for the proper mounting of the show piece. The company numbers over one hundred people. The story of the comedy is founded on Tristan Bernard's rollicking French farce, "Le Petit Cafe," which C. M. S. McLellan and Ivan Caryll have rebuilt for American use.

"Shepherd of the Hills." "The Shepherd of the Hills," the dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, which holds the record for the largest sales of any American work of fiction, will be seen at the Grand, opening with a special holiday matinee today. The scenes of the play are laid among the Ozark mountains of Missouri. It is a story of the hills and the simple life, yet it has plenty of excitement and an air of mystery that will hold the auditor from beginning to end. There are several characters whose quaint humor is a decided novelty. Taken as a whole, the play is a most refreshing and refreshing change from the general run of dramatic attraction.

At Shea's. "Oh! Papa," an adaptation of that sparkling musical comedy, "Vivian's Papa," with that famous musical comedy artist, Blanche Ring, in the leading role, will be the headline attraction at Shea's this week. This will be Miss Ring's first appearance on the vaudeville stage in many seasons. She will be assisted by a capable company. A novel act new to Shea-gers will be Billy Bouncer, the English clown, who provides amusement on a variety of occasions. He will sing a number of his own compositions. Bissett and Scott will present a pretty dance revue, while Deoley and Rugel mix mirth and music in their offering. The Mayako

A bevy of beauties in "The Little Cafe" at the Princess.

Miss Esther Joy, "Pete," in "The Shepherd of the Hills," at the Grand.

J. K. Emmet, in "The Strongest Tie," at Loew's.

Katherine Horter, with "The Follies of Pleasure," at the Star.

Hazel Ford, with "The Columbia Burlesques," at the Gayety.

Sisters, two Japanese girls, will offer a hand-balancing and contortionist sketch, and with Sam Barton, monologist, and the kinetograph complete the bill.

Loew's Winter Garden. Tonight at Loew's Winter Garden will witness the first appearance in Toronto of J. K. Emmet, the well-known legitimate star and son of the favorite oldtime Irish actor, "Fritz" Emmet. He will appear in a tensely interesting playlet of home life entitled "The Strongest Tie," which has scored a conspicuous hit as headline feature in Loew's New York vaudeville houses this season. Mr. Emmett's supporting company will be headed by Viola Crane, Eddie Clark, producer for Roland West, the well-known vaudeville manager. West will present his series of character song impersonations, assisted by Clarissa Rose at the piano and cello. The Ogden Quartette will make its first appearance in Toronto with a number of classical and operatic hits. The bill is one of exceptional quality including Sally Field, diminutive comedienne, Leonard and Aiden, unusual acrobats, Armand and Bouchette, Europe's premier xylophonists, Nimsky, Russian whirlwind dancer; Roy's animal circus and others.

The Hippodrome. The Five Musical Marines, a quintet of talented musicians, will be the headline attraction at the Hippodrome this week. Possessing excellent voices, the different members are musicians above the ordinary. The special feature of the bill will be C. H. O'Donnell in a one-act comedy, dramatic playlet, "Flashlight Creedy." The offering has appeared in Toronto before, and met with a splendid reception. An act which is said to be an excellent animal offering is that of Trevett's Military Canines, Newport and Stark have an amusing act, which they call "Fun in a Barber Shop." The Adeline Bennett Trio are clever singers and instrumentalists. Roach and Francis have a singing and talking specialty, and with a series of the latest photo plays and the invisible symphony orchestra, complete the bill.

Maude Adams Coming. Maude Adams is always welcome, and it would seem as if she is going to be doubly so on her coming visit, for it is a new Barrie play, "The Legend of Leonora," in which she is to be seen here week after next.

Sam Bernard. Sam Bernard and "The Belle of Bond Street" will be the attraction at the Alexandra Theatre week of Oct. 25.

H. M. S. Pinafore. Patriotism, in the very nature of things, should run riot at the Alexandra Theatre the week of Oct. 19, when the New York Hippodrome production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore," will be presented at that playhouse.

At the Gayety. The Gayety Theatre this week, beginning with the matinee today, will present the Columbia Burlesques in the "Passing Review." This production is due up to the minute in stage settings, new songs, new "business," and the latest costumes. Hazel Ford, a dashing sou-bret, the "little girl with the big voice," Mile. Babette and Marie Fisher lead the feminine portion of the company of forty persons, while Clare Evans, Mark Lea, Ralph Rockway and Dave Schaeffer and Sam Watson handle the comedy. The chorus of twenty-five young girls is claimed by the managers to be the best singing, looking and dancing aggregation of femininity of all the country's burlesque shows.

Thanksgiving Concert. Florence Mulholland, Jessie Alexander and Harold Jarvis, three stars of the first magnitude, will take part in Mr. Campbell's annual Thanksgiving concert at Massey Hall tonight, and they will present an exceptionally fine and peculiarly appropriate program. Those who have not already secured their seats should do so today, and in that way avoid crowding at the box office tonight.

50c Round Trip Across the Lake. On Thanksgiving Day, Monday, October 12, the Canada Steamship Lines will have in effect this exceptionally low rate, leaving on the 2 p.m. trip of steamer Corona, returning same day. No doubt many will take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy a delightful lake trip on the last holiday of the season. Tickets at office, 46 Yonge street or Yonge Street Dock. 61

special to The Toronto World. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The United States has made no further mediation proposals to the warring powers of Europe than the first effort made by the president soon after the declaration of hostilities. Counsellor Lansing, acting secretary of state, said tonight that the reports to the contrary were false, and all such stories in the future, unless given out from official sources, should be regarded as the invention of persons who appear to have some motive other than peace in setting abroad rumors of that sort.

MANY JEWISH-GERMAN OFFICERS. ROME, Oct. 10.—Heretofore, altho there is no law prohibiting Jews from entering, no Israeliite officer existed in the German army. Since this war began, according to news received here, more than 150 Jewish officers have been joined to the German army.

SHOULD PATRONIZE CANADIAN SHOPS. Sir George E. Foster Gives Advice to Companies and Municipalities.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—Sir George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, states that he has been informed that certain Canadian municipalities and companies are buying their equipment for public utilities from foreign sources. Sir George adds that, during the stress of war and with a prospect of unemployment during the coming winter, it appears especially desirable that as far as possible equipment produced in Canada should be obtained. He believes that patriotic sentiment would only make it necessary to call attention to the matter and purchases will be made in Canada.

ARMY HORSES STAMPEDED FROM UNION STOCK YARDS HUNDREDS STILL MISSING

One Government Remount Killed on C. P. R. Tracks—Horses Broke Barrier on Saturday Night and Charged Along Busy West Toronto Streets—Attendants With Lassoos Searching.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday evening between 400 and 600 horses in the Union Stock Yards, West Toronto, stampeded, breaking thru the fence and scattered in all directions. One of the animals was killed on the C.P.R. tracks at Islington, and late Sunday evening only 150 had been recovered. In the Earlscourt district 49 were corralled by the aid of men from the stock yards, with the assistance of residents. The horses were interned in the school yards at Pyne and Earlscourt Schools, and afterwards sent back to the yards. They are the property of the government and were purchased in various parts of the country as re-mounts for the front and shipped to the Union Stock Yards. The horses are branded with the government stamp on the hip and with a stamp denoting the size of the horse shoe on the hoof. No little excitement was caused on St. Clair avenue, Davenport road and other busy streets on Saturday evening, when the horses were seen charging along in batches, and astonishment is everywhere expressed that no person was injured by the animals. Stock yard attendants on horseback, with lassoos, are everywhere scouring the country for the missing animals. It was reported Sunday that a group of horses were seen in the hollow near Eglington avenue. Fairbank.

PREFERS FORT HENRY TO QUEST FOR WORK

Special to The Toronto World. KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 11.—After traveling from city to city for several weeks looking for work, an Austrian, who was released from Fort Henry, came back to the fort and asked to be locked up again, stating that he had been unable to get work. He was taken in. He said that he would far rather be held as a prisoner than be wandering around the country and unable to get work. He says people would not give him work when they found that he was an Austrian. There are now 199 prisoners in the fort.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Special to The Toronto World. NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Fire swept thru University Hall at Columbia University early today, and within an hour had destroyed the building. The loss is estimated at $250,000. The fire wiped out the university commons, as well as the office, the employment bureau, the prison labor commission's offices, The Jester Magazine office, the gymnasium office and part of the gymnasium superstructure, as well as a great deal of stonework. The destruction of the gymnasium doubtless will prove a big handicap to Columbia indoor athletics the coming season.

The German Tragedy

The Times recently published a letter written by the famous French literary woman, George Sand, in September, 1871, which bears testimony to her foresight and penetration...

"The time is soon coming when we shall have as much cause to pity the German people for their victory as ourselves for our defeat."

The German triumph is for Germany the first act of her moral dissolution. The tragedy of her fall has begun, and as she works at it with her own hands it will proceed apace.

The time is soon coming when we shall have as much cause to pity the German people for their victory as ourselves for our defeat.

be done, and even-handed justice will be severe enough in some instances. Britain has made it clear that no idea of dismembering Germany proper has been present to the minds of the allies.

To do so would be to create the corpse of Germany that George Sand said would be a plague centre of Europe. Germany suffers from the disease of militarism and must be inoculated with the germs of peace as all the up-to-date nations have been.

Germany fears she would lose her virility under such treatment, but to be reassured she need only look at the British Empire and its dependencies, at the United States, and the Swiss republic. There is no lack of virility in any of these which are all pledged to peace.

Germany must be taught by defeat, but she must not be left a corpse. The repeated statements of many representative Englishmen indicate that every race-body in Europe, after the great war is over, must be allotted its own territory to dwell in, to work out its own destiny undisturbed.

The only condition will be that there must be no interference with neighbor nations. All danger spots will be neutralized—sterilized. The Kiel Canal will be placed in Danish control and internationalized. Contentious areas will be restored to their original owners or created into independent states under international guarantees.

There will be room enough for everybody to dwell in peace.

One other thing should be settled upon. The manufacture of arms, weapons, ammunition of all kinds should be nationalized or internationalized. Such manufactures should no longer be allowed to continue as a source of private profit.

There are still too many greedy, selfish men. They must no longer fall on death.

Shall God Be Mocked? If we are to accept as fact the story that the concrete bases for the heavy siege artillery had been prepared in advance at necessary points in Northern France, it adds another to the many proofs that the violation of Belgian neutrality had been all along contemplated by the German Government.

Every provision had been made, and once set in motion the full strength of Germany's fighting force swept along to accomplish the first object of the Kaiser's strategists—the crushing of the French armies before their mobilization was complete.

Had this coup succeeded the task set by the British Empire would have vastly increased in difficulty and might have proved to be impossible of accomplishment within any reasonable period of time.

The Germans are reported to be even yet endeavoring to gain possession of the French channel ports. Had they broken the edge of French resistance in the first month of the war that advantage would in all probability have been gained.

But the deep laid scheme went awry at the start. In G. K. Chesterton's picturesque illustration the Kaiser burst into a peaceful room only to fall over the doormat. Belgium was the doormat over which the invaders fell, and they have taken their revenge in the ghastly series of cruel outrages which will remain a lasting blot on the German escutcheon.

They have made of happy, peaceful and industrious Belgium a wake of ruinous desolation and driven her people into exile, stripped of their possessions and condemned to eat the bread of charity.

No wonder that knowing and seeing the awful plight of these innocent victims of a maniacal lust for power, the allied troops have been nerved and keyed to the highest pitch of valor and self-sacrifice.

Wrongs so heinous as those descending upon the Belgian people must be expiated or the reign of law and justice will disappear from Europe. God will not be mocked.

South American Trade Opportunities Disappointment, to all appearance, awaits the hopes of those American manufacturers who thought they had nothing to do but walk in and capture the South American trade hitherto largely in the hands of European exporters.

An article in the current issue of The Railroad Age Gazette on this subject will rather damp the ardor of those that have been urging immediate action. Written as it is by Mr. F. Lavis, who until recently was engaged in railroad work in Argentina, this article may be accepted as presenting a trustworthy estimate of the present situation in South America, and this is borne out by the extensive information

Editor World: My associates have suggested that I should write explaining the relations between the Canadian Red Cross Society and the Toronto branch.

The Toronto branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, of which I am president and of which Mr. J. J. Gibson (care Title & Trust Company, Traders' Bank building, Toronto) is honorary treasurer, is doing all it can to procure Toronto's share of Canada's Red Cross contribution.

Mr. Noel Marshall is chairman of the executive, and Col. the Hon. James Hudson is honorary treasurer of the society for Canada, which has its head office in Toronto.

The society has branches throughout Canada and receives contributions of money and material from these and also from places having no organized branches, and Senator Mason acknowledges contributions from all over the country in the Toronto papers from time to time, and contributions through the Toronto branch are acknowledged by Mr. Gibson.

The aim of the Toronto branch is to raise as soon as possible at least $100,000. All Toronto contributions should pass thru the Toronto branch, but they are promptly handed over to the parent society and by them forwarded with funds received from other points throughout Canada to the British Red Cross Society.

A despatch to the Toronto press dated Paris, Oct. 2, emphasizes the absolute need of money. It states that the Red Cross is "simply awfully" Hospital trains have become inadequate for the transfer of the wounded; regular and emergency hospitals are all filled. It further states that appeals have gone to England for more doctors and nurses, and that hundreds of those who might have been saved had doctors been able to reach them in a short time after they received their wounds have died suffering untold agony from wounds, hunger and thirst.

Patriotism without self-sacrifice is of little worth. I am sure that the appeal of the Red Cross will not remain unanswered. The sum required has not been nearly reached. Everyone is asked to aid promptly and to the extent of his ability. Kenneth J. Dunstan, President, Toronto Branch Red Cross Society of Canada.

LARNED'S HISTORY OF THE WORLD A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY—A WORK OF MONUMENTAL RESEARCH Larned's History of the World, on distribution to the readers of this paper, is a work par excellence for the lover of literature. It really unites the researches of genuine scholars with the genius of letters, and is of absorbing interest throughout.

Every page grips the attention and the memory finds it easy to retain the contents told in so fascinating a style. Wherever the book is opened it presents a portion of the vast panorama of the ages painted in vivid colors by a master of language. Whether the reader has any special historical knowledge or not, if he loves good reading, he will love Larned. But in the five great volumes now on distribution by this paper, the beauties of both history and literature make direct appeal, and the work finds a double welcome. We urge our readers in all good faith to take advantage of our good fortune in being one of a great syndicate of daily newspapers that is able to distribute a work of this merit almost free.

Profit does not enter into the plan; the coupons are the main consideration, and will be printed in these columns a short time longer. They should be clipped at once. The books are on view at The World office, 40 West Richmond street, Toronto, and 15 East Main street, Hamilton.

GOOD TRADE OPENING IN METAL PRODUCTS Wire Nails From Canada Are Reported in Particular Demand. By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—The Canadian trade commissioner at Manchester reports that during August there was a decrease of $3,500,000 in the imports of iron and steel manufactures into Britain. Many of these formerly came from Germany, and Canadian manufacturers, he says, have an opportunity to supply the mother country with the following articles, for which enquiries have been made: Wire nails, cut nails, nuts and bolts, machine screws, barbed wire, wood screws (iron and brass), copper pins, domestic wire goods, etc.

In one case wire nails were so urgently needed that an initial order of 2000 tons was forwarded to Canada by cable, and the outlook for this trade is very promising.

A THANKSGIVING BIRD

tion it contains. Mr. Lavis considers the market there to be largely potential, and that it can only be opened by systematic and persistent effort.

South America has been developed almost entirely by European capital. Europeans control the railroads and principal public undertakings. European banks, working with the manufacturers, have been responsible for the establishment of the extensive credit system. This, and particularly the very liberal terms offered by Germans in their attempt to increase their trade, has led to great over-extension in Brazil and the Argentine, so great, indeed, as to have resulted in grave financial embarrassment.

South America, therefore, is not in a position to enter into new avenues of trade and must continue to do its trading with Europe—practically the United Kingdom—in order to meet its obligations. Germany is practically eliminated as a trading nation, and will so remain unless in the improbable event of her wresting maritime supremacy from Britain.

"There seems to be no reason, however," writes Mr. Lavis, "to expect that England is not, and will not, continue to be able to supply all or nearly all the demands made on her for practically all lines of manufactured products, and in view of the greatly decreased purchasing power of the South American nations it would seem that England alone could easily supply all the demands which may be made by South America in the immediate future, and for quite some time to come."

If this correctly describes the position it is evident that Canadian manufacturers will only waste their time in endeavoring just now to capture a share of the closed German trade. They had better employ themselves in securing better control of their own home market.

LECTURE TO SWELL FUND FOR BELGIUM

Madame Lalla Vanderveelde Will Lecture in Massey Hall Next Saturday.

BELGIUM A WILDERNESS No Farms or Implements Left—Million Dollars Needed for Relief.

The coming of Mme. Lalla Vanderveelde to Massey Hall next Saturday night, under the auspices of the United Empire Loyalist Association, is going to concentrate public sympathy for the unfortunate Belgians in a manner that will add materially to the million dollar fund which is being raised for them in America.

Not only the members of the U.E.L. but those of the other patriotic societies have declared their intention of turning out on masse to hear Mme. Vanderveelde's message from the Queen of Belgium and to aid the cause in every way possible.

In New York, where Mme. Vanderveelde has met with a very generous reception, she said last week, "I am not coming here with a protest against the German atrocities. That has rested with the Belgian Commission, which laid its complaint before President Wilson. Every instance cited in that protest has been absolutely verified and not one instance was included that was not perfectly proved."

Wants Million Dollars. "I want to raise a million dollars—in fact I must raise that sum before I return. Think, all of Belgium is a wilderness. There are no farms, no implements, no little cottages; everything is gone. My countrymen must start in life again, and it is for this purpose that I am trying to raise money."

The seat sale for Mme. Vanderveelde's Massey Hall lecture opens on Thursday morning. Reserved seats will be sold at nominal prices of 25 and 50 cents, and all who wish to contribute may send cheques in favor of Mme. Lalla Vanderveelde in care of Miss Helen Merrill, secretary-treasurer, Belgian Relief Fund, 4 Prince Arthur avenue, city.

YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

HARVEST CONCERT A GREAT SUCCESS Entertainment at Oakwood School on Saturday Evening Under Auspices of Mutual Aid.

Speaking at the concert and harvest festival held in Oakwood High School auditorium on Saturday evening, W. F. Maclean, M.P., congratulated President J. M. Warren and the executive committee of the North-West Mutual Aid Association on the worthy object for which their society was organized.

"It is our duty and ours to be our pleasure to help to support those in need, and to do what we can to find employment for those who are at present unemployed," said Mr. Maclean.

He expressed gratification with the great strides made in the northwestern part of the world, and is diffidently glad to grasp the full significance of this great war, but the British people are united. We have sent a contingent of 100,000 men to France to send a second or a third, but we will win in the end." (Applause.)

Duty and Pleasure. "It is our duty and ours to be our pleasure to help to support those in need, and to do what we can to find employment for those who are at present unemployed," said Mr. Maclean.

Among those who took part in the excellent program were: Fred Crouch, Ernest A. Warren, Duncan R. Cowan, Matt Brown, J. E. Johnston, the Messes Reid, Maclean and G. Hubbard.

The Davenport Methodist S.S. Orchestra rendered several numbers during the evening, and Miss Violet Crong was accompanist.

Aims of Association. President J. M. Warren, who occupied the chair, thanked those who had contributed to the program and assisted in the decoration of the hall.

The collection and sales by auction amounted to $80.

Among those present were H. H. Ball, Deputy Reeve Miller, Rev. H. J. Brail and Mr. Dickie.

HORSE CRUSHED UNDER CIVIC CAR

St. Clair Avenue Traffic Blocked for an Hour After Collision.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday evening a horse and buggy, the property of Doane Bros., 619 Yonge street, and driven by George Gough, 22 Balliol street, was colliding with a walling Civic car going west on St. Clair avenue bridge.

The front wheels of the horse and buggy struck the car, and the horse was badly smashed. The police on duty shot the horse, and after about one hour's work, during which the Civic car was held up, the horse was extricated from beneath the car.

The west end of the bridge, which is badly tilted, was raised on Saturday afternoon, and it is thought that the accident resulted from the driver of the Civic car, who was driving on the tracks to avoid the barrier. The horse was valued at $250.

NINE MAN TEAM MATCH AT THE RIFLE RANGES

Three Possibles Registered—High Average Maintained in Scores.

Although the 9th Mississauga Horse has broken camp at Long Branch and returned to the city, where 100 men have taken up quarters at Stanley Barracks, and the remainder are quartered in the stable buildings at the Exhibition grounds to continue their training as a cavalry unit, the rifle ranges presented an excellent opportunity for the members of the 9th to practice.

Members of the 9th who were present included: 10th Royal Grenadiers, 12th York Rangers, 34th Regiment, and Canadian Army Service Corps, who were accompanied by the civilian associations in general, and the members of the Osgoode, Hall, Centre and South, and Arts and Science Rifle Associations were well represented.

Team Match. The event of the day was a nine-man team match between the Irish Rifle Club and the 48th Highlanders, in which, till the end of the match, the 48th were in the lead. The 48th were led by the late Captain Doherty of the Irish Club, who made the possible at 600. The scoring at the 200 and 400 yards was not completed, so that the result of the match was considered to be that at the 600 yards range. This result was 23-20, with the high general average of 23.89 per man.

WRAD SEVEN. Thanksgiving Service. The annual harvest Thanksgiving services were held at St. John's Church, Dundas street, yesterday morning, and evening. The interior of the church was beautifully decorated with grain, fruit, flowers and vegetables, bearing testimony to the abundance of the harvest in Canada.

The rector, Rev. T. Beverley Smith, preached in the morning, and touched on the need of men for the war in Europe. "Canada must send a second contingent," said he, "and a third, and after that others until every man, physically fit, will be fighting for his King and his country. And any young man who is not in line should be prepared to explain why he is not there."

He declared that the Germans have bought a great part of the American press, and are using it to turn public opinion in the States against the allies. The change in their attitude during the past few weeks, he said, easily showed that. Rev. C. J. James, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, preached at the evening service.

TRAINING ASSOCIATION BRANCHES ORGANIZED. The meetings held in Davisville, Eglington and Bloor, and Parkdale, and branches of the Toronto Military Training Association were very successful, and enrollment is now proceeding favorably. At the first meeting 38 members were secured in Bedford Park, 30 in Eglington and 21 in Davisville. Instructors have been appointed for the various districts, and drill will now take place regularly in the school grounds.

Braves Win a Straight--Third Game Today in Boston

BRAVES EARN THEIR SECOND VICTORY
JAMES LEADS PITCHES VETERAN PLANK

Deal's Two Bagger, His Stolen Base and Mann's Single Scores Only Run of Game in Ninth Innings--Athletics Had Only Twenty-Eight Men Face the Pitcher.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—In a pitcher's battle, with a dramatic climax usually reserved for baseball fiction, the Boston Nationals defeated the Philadelphia Athletics here today, in the second game of the world's series, a score of 1 to 0. As a result of the victory the Braves left tonight with the two game lead over the Athletics, and the added advantage of playing the next two contests on their home grounds, when the series is resumed on Monday.

For eight innings today the two clubs battled behind the pitching of James and Plank without the semblance of an advantage. Then came the break in the ninth, and once again the Mackmen saw another world's series contest slip from their clutches to the credit of the Stallings clan.

James had been pitching unhittable ball, and Plank, while not quite as effective, had, with the aid of his remarkable infield, held Boston scoreless. The Athletics' veteran Plank was working as smoothly as at the beginning of the game, when Maranville faced him at the opening of the ninth inning. The Philadelphia shortstop went out, Barry to McInnis, and Deal, substitute third baseman in place of Red Smith, stepped to the plate. The Athletics' pitchers were ready to figure on what chance their players had to win in the ninth. Deal and James appeared to be easy outs. The Braves' third baseman, who had hit into three double-plays on Friday and forced three team-mates in today's game, was not considered a batting factor.

It was Deal, however, who upset Plank's expectations and the Athletics' chances. When he swung a low double over Plank's head, and a moment later stole third when Schang threw low to Barry to catch Deal off the base, Barry turned to throw to third, but held the ball, and Deal was safe.

James fanned, but Mann lifted a low, punting Texas leaguer over Eddie Collins' head, and, although the latter made a great try for the ball, he just touched it with his finger tips and sprawled in the turf, Deal dashing across the plate with the solitary run of the game.

Athletics' Vain Rally. The Athletics replied with a great rally in their half of the ninth, and James, who had carried the game on his shoulders alone up to this point, began to totter. The thousands of rosters for the game club were stamping, cheering and clapping in unison, and Barry pitched patiently until James passed him to first. Schang fanned, but Walsh, batting for Plank, also was walked by the rattled pitcher.

With two on and one out, the fans felt sure that the Mackmen were to break thru and win, and the umpire was dealing. Eddie Murphy, lead-off man for the Athletics, stepped to the plate, and, catching one of James' curves full on the end of his bat, drove a leaping grounder to the left of second base. Maranville sprang with the crack of the bat, and with a cat-like bound, clutched the ball, and with another leap touched the base, forcing Walsh. With almost the same motion he snatched the ball to Schmidt as first for a double on Murphy, and a second later went down in a cloud of dust as Walsh crashed into him at top speed. When he scrambled to his feet, the other players were running in the clubhouse, and the game was saved.

This electrifying play came at a most opportune and dramatic moment for James had begun to falter after pitching a game which for skill has never been surpassed in a world's series match in this city. The play threw the Athletics off their control, change of pace, and a splitter that broke like forked lightning. He fanned eight of the heavy-hitting Athletics, including Murphy, Oldring, McInnis and Strunk, and when the batter Ed coasted with his delivery the usual result was a weak hoist or roller. This best demonstration by the fact that twenty-four of the twenty-seven put-outs made by Boston were credited to the infield or battery.

James gave three passes, two coming in the ninth innings, and the Athletics came nearest to scoring.

amounted to $49,639, of which the National Commission received $49,639.90, the Braves $26,808 and the clubs $17,830.10. Umpire Hildebrand called "play ball" at precisely 2 o'clock. The veteran Eddie Plank was given hearty encouragement as he walked to the pitcher's box. Mann, who heads the Boston batting order when the opposing pitcher is a left hander, let the first bally by as it was wide. Plank then grooved one for a strike and then the batter shot a hot grounder to Collins, who had to back up to get the ball and make a rifle shot to get to McInnis to get the runner. throw to McInnis to get the runner. Evers brought the first real cheer from the Boston rooters when he laid down a single to the infield, Plank getting the ball too late to throw to first. Three strikes sent the Athletics back to the bench, but Whitted got to first on four balls. Schmidt spoiled Boston's hopes by sending up a fly to Strunk, retiring the side.

Getting the Breaks. Eddie Murphy, first of the Athletics to face James, waited patiently and was rewarded with a pass. Murphy took a long time to go down to second on a sacrifice. Plank tried to get him close to the bag and in throwing to first hurried the ball too wide for Schmidt to get it. Murphy sprinted toward the grandstand. Murphy sprinted to second, but a fine throw by Schmidt to Maranville finished the speedy runner at second.

"Boston's getting the breaks," shouted an Athletic rooster. Oldring was an easy out. Deal to Schmidt, and Edger Collins after trying to walk for a base on balls, went out by the same route.

Catcher Gowdy, who popularized himself yesterday by his hard hitting, was given a base on balls at the opening of the second inning, and went down to second on Maranville's sacrifice, the latter going out. Baker to McInnis. Deal hit a little bouncer to Plank, and Gowdy was trapped between second and third. Plank threw to Gowdy, who had the Mackmen chased Gowdy back almost to second before he tossed the ball to Collins, who kept pegging the ball over to first and first and sprinted to second when Schang hurried the ball to McInnis to catch him, and the Boston man reached the middle station safely. Schang, who was throwing in the batter's with reckless confidence, also tried to nip Deal off second, but the catcher's throw was too high for Barry to get him, as he slid back to the bag. James ended the inning by striking out.

The second inning of the White Elephants was quickly over. Baker gave Schmidt a high fly, McInnis and Strunk were fooled by James and struck out. The big Boston pitcher was given a hand as he came off the field.

The Braves in the third inning got a man on base. After Barry threw out Mann by a fast throw of a slow bouncer, Evers aimed a grounder to center field. Schang made Evers hug the bag, and then nearly nipped him. Cather sent up a high fly which Baker gathered.

Plank threw to Gowdy, who had the Mackmen chased Gowdy back almost to second before he tossed the ball to Collins, who kept pegging the ball over to first and first and sprinted to second when Schang hurried the ball to McInnis to catch him, and the Boston man reached the middle station safely. Schang, who was throwing in the batter's with reckless confidence, also tried to nip Deal off second, but the catcher's throw was too high for Barry to get him, as he slid back to the bag. James ended the inning by striking out.

The National League champions got two men on in the fourth inning, and things looked good for Boston. Whitted, the first up, raised a high fly to Strunk. With the count 2 to 2 on him, Schmidt hit the groove ball to right field, and was held on first while Murphy ran the runner. Evers got to second on a chopped a bounding single to right on which Schmidt was only able to reach by making a throw to top of Deal's bouncing grounder and leaped to second base, forcing out Maranville. It was a long drive to the plate. Deal hit the one, two, three order in the fourth. Murphy's easy grounder was gathered in by James, and Deal was out at first. Oldring struck out, and Collins shot a bouncer at Maranville, who tossed the runner.

James struck out for the second time in the fifth. Mann raised a cheer by singling over the keynote sack, Evers sent a high fly to Strunk. Mann, evidently thinking that his captain had hit to get back to first by the narrow margin. He was out a minute later on a Home Run Baker tried to hit the ball out of the park in the Mackmen's half of the fifth. He caught one of James' high flies with a rebounding whack, but the ball lofted to high and Strunk waited for it to come down in center field. James then retired McInnis and Whitted on strikes. It was the second time in the game that each had fanned.

Boston again got two men on in the sixth. Whitted sent a little fly to Collins. Schmidt was stru a ball to the line by one of Plank's slow balls, but Umpire deciding that Schmidt had let the ball hit him. The batter then flung out to Murphy in the rightfield. Four bad balls gave Gowdy his base, and he moved down to second when Plank sooked Maranville in the middle of the back. Deal then hit, Baker scooping up for James, and making the out unassisted.

The world's champions had a chance to score in the sixth inning. Barry was easy out, Maranville to Schmidt. Schang then brought the home rosters to their feet by smashing a two-base hit down the leftfield foul line. It was the Athletics' rosters thought that James was so good to crack. Then came a lucky play for Boston. Gowdy let one of James' fast curves slip thru his hands and the speedy Johnny Evers can afford to smile. The veteran second baseman is going at top speed on the keynote sack, and showing the three youngsters who are his side partners how to keep the infield play up to the standard of Connie Mack's $100,000 quartet. Evers has had three singles in the two games, a batting average of .375.

Schang darted for third. Gowdy quickly recovered the ball and made a rifle shot to Deal, and Schang, sliding into center field, was declared out. It was a close play. Plank was an easy out. Maranville to Schmidt. Murphy hit a high fly to Strunk. The lucky seventh did not see either team do much, although the American Leaguers got their second and last hit in this play which Baker gathered.

The eighth and ninth innings were full of excitement. Murphy in the Athletics' half struck out. Oldring was thrown out by Evers. Collins hit a grounder to Evers, who threw to first too late to get the runner. Collins took a long lead off first. James then fouled out Deal, Strunk ended the inning by catching Collins off the bag. Collins kicked as he took his position in the field.

The only errors crept into the game in the eighth inning, but they resulted in no runs. Cather was out, Barry to McInnis. Deal hit a high fly to Strunk. Barry, who made a great stop, to a wide throw to McInnis, who had to extend himself to get it. The ball beat Whitted and was declared out by Umpire Byron, but in the next instant he was caught safe as McInnis let the ball roll out of his hands. Schmidt forced Whitted at second. Collins by Barry, and Gowdy ended the inning by flying out to Strunk.

Baker hit a weak grounder to Evers and was out at first in the Athletics' half of the eighth. McInnis sent up a high fly and Maranville ran across the leftfield foul line to get the ball. Deal standing still but dropped it, and McInnis' life at the plate was prolonged. McInnis then fouled out Deal, Strunk ended the inning by going out, Evers to Schmidt.

The Ninth and Victory. Then came the ninth and victory. Maranville was out thru sharp fielding, Barry to McInnis. Deal smashed a terrific long fly which many of the spectators believed Strunk misjudged. He ran in and then turned and sprinted with his back to the ball, but could not quite reach the ball. He got the ball and the frantic joy of the Boston rooters. At this point second got into the smoothly-running Athletic machine. Deal played far off second base and Schang made a quick throw to trap him. Deal instantly saw the play and dashed him. He was about half way down the path when Barry got Schang's throw and he stood holding the ball as Deal slid into third base.

Manager Stallings and the players on the bench were wild with joy, and the Boston rooters made an awfully din as they realized that the Athletics had won. James struck out for the fourth time, but this did not lessen the enthusiasm of the Bostonians. Mann came to bat as Collins and McInnis walked over and spoke to Plank, and the heady second baseman of the Mackmen made a move with his head that was no doubt a signal to the other players not in the conflag. Whatever the Athletics tried to pull off did not work out, or Mann smashed a low fly to right field. Collins made a wonderful try to get the ball. He dashed back and leaped into the air. The ball tipped his fingers and fell and Deal was safe with the run that won the game.

Mann went down to second on a short passed ball, and when Evers was given a base on balls it looked as tho the Braves would score again. Cather ended the inning, however, by forcing Evers at second. Barry to Collins.

In the face of James' pitching it looked all over with the Athletics, but the Boston

ATHLETICS FAILED TO STEAL SIGNALS

Reason Advanced for Slump of World's Champions Before Boston Braves.

Baseball sharps who know the Stallings and Magilluddy methods say that the Athletics looked foolish before Rudolph because they failed to steal the Boston signals. Also in the second game on Saturday the Mackmen did not know what James was about to serve up and he held his signals to the pitcher so that the coaches at first and third bases have a better chance to get a glimpse at what is going on. They tried this old trick yesterday, but Stallings knew it as well as the Philadelphia team did, and Evers could be heard shouting from second base: "Take your time, Dick. Wait till he gets back in the box." As a result to signs were given while the batter was out of the box. All this was Evers shouted his suggestion to Rudolph, Gowdy would stop all signs. All this was a big surprise to the Athletics. The Mack team would probably have done much better if they had gone out here and tried to hit the ball as they saw it.

Johnny Evers gives most of the credit to Rudolph for the first victory. He was never shaken, never disturbed, always carefully his game. Several he walked batters because he tried to work on them too much, but on other occasions he batted batters into swinging to bad balls with the count three to two, so that we gained much more than we lost in this process. He outgassed the Philadelphia hitters all the way and made a couple of them look very bad. To quote the Boston captain:

"I don't want to mention any names in this connection, but anyone who saw the game would know whom I mean. It was a grand piece of work, polished and workmanlike. Only one of the bases on balls he gave was turned into a run, and that was just away in the outfield. Once or twice when Rudolph got into the hole, some of the infielders walked over to the box as if to talk to him, but I waved them back. I knew that Rudolph was not furred, but that he did not want to give the visitors a good ball to hit. Rudolph showed remarkable judgment in the game he worked. I think he is in a class by himself with one exception—Christy Mathewson. They are the only two pitchers I have ever known in baseball who have used their heads with such effect.

Never since they went blue ribbon hunting did the Mackmen look more hopeless than in the opener against Rudolph, says The New York Herald. They were hit by the fire of Mathewson, Marquard, Terauda, "Minn" Brown, and other stars of pleasant memory with more or less success, but never did they look so feeble yesterday when "Dick" Rudolph made his world's series debut. Five hits were all these much vaunted sluggers could garner in nine innings.

By a Staff Reporter. TILLSONBURG, Oct. 11.—Despite war conditions and their effect on the investment market, considerable attention is being paid to the Tillsonburg oil and gas district, which extends from Delhi, a short distance from the west of here as far south as Port Burwell, on Lake Erie.
