The attacks of the enemy on the Moldavian frontier continue. The chief action was fought on the front extending between the Village of Kotumba to the valley of the Suhobul River and south of that point.

The Russian and German communiques published today in reference to the fighting in Rumania are interpreted here as showing that the four and a half regiments of the Russian 1st Army, which retreated to the Sereth line, are virtually intact.

It is assumed that the unnamed "preparations" mentioned in the Russian communiques are those along the Sereth, and it is believed that a big battle, which must have important consequences, is impending.

SEVEN LOCAL NAMES IN CASUALTY LISTS

Capt. H. Spanner, R. F. C., Reported Missing Following Air Raid.

PTE. ROGERS KILLED

Pte. Arthur Grave and Pte. A. E. Rigby Have Been Wounded.

Seven Toronto names appear in the latest casualty reports. Two men have been killed in action, one is missing, two are in hospital and two have been wounded.

Capt. Herbert Spanner, a flight commander in the Royal Flying Squadron, is reported missing after an air raid. A brother, Jack Spanner, and a sister, Mrs. D. W. White, 6 Maitland street, reside in Toronto. He is a son of Mrs. Quatle, Huntersville. Capt. Spanner has had an adventurous career while identified with the flying service. He has downed, all told, four German airplanes, single-handed, and on one occasion tackled three enemy machines decisively defeating all three of them. He left Toronto for overseas just one year ago.

Pte. Wm. Leonard Rogers, reported as killed in action on Dec. 28, enlisted in Toronto in January of last year, went overseas with the Cyclists and was later transferred to the 4th Battalion. Prior to enlisting he was employed in the office of the Massey-Harris Co. of Toronto. His parents live in Listowel.

A letter received by Mrs. M. Collins, 29 Huron street, states that her brother, Corporal R. Atken, formerly of 42 Grosvenor street, is in hospital and has had his left leg amputated, between the ankle and knee. He went away with the 75th Battalion.

Pte. Norman Archibald, 84 Edwin avenue, has been wounded in the side, back and elbow and is now very ill in a military hospital. He was a member of the 75th.

Pte. F. J. Birch, formerly of 2350A Dundas street, is officially reported killed in action. His kin are in England. The list of wounded contains the names of two Toronto men: Pte. Arthur Grave, 6 Brockton avenue, who left for overseas last May. Before that he was with the street railway. Pte. R. C. Rigby, who resided at 128 1-2 Lansdowne avenue.

GOVERNMENT CONFIDENT ABOUT BY-ELECTIONS

Assured of Majority in West Simcoe, and No Opposition Here.

"Very bright," said Hon. G. Howard Ferguson yesterday, referring to the outlook in West Simcoe, which he had visited on the previous evening to speak on the by-election there.

Hon. I. B. Lucas expects to go up and "look over the situation" soon. He did not say that he would put his ear to the ground there. N. W. Rowell is expected to take a trip in that direction this week.

By-election gossip in the parliament buildings is to the effect that the government expects that their candidate, Mr. Allen, will be safe through the riding where the population, in Collingwood, industrial nature, is apt to be more unstable and more affected by the government's policy with regard to the drink problem.

Prominent members of the government are assured that there will be no opposition to the return of Hon. W. D. McPherson in Seat B North-west Toronto. On the other hand, there are those among the principal Conservative leaders who would welcome a fight there. One very prominent Conservative went so far yesterday as to say that he would be willing, if it could be done with propriety, to give a Liberal $500 to run in Seat B just to show what the government could do in the matter of majorities.

Galician Faces Charge of Trading With Alien Enemy

As a result of evidence given in the assizes by Miss Mildred Topp, who was the plaintiff in an action against her uncle, Emanuel Topp, the latter was charged before Judge Coatsworth yesterday with trading with an alien enemy. In the assizes Miss Topp testified that her uncle had sent money to his brother in Galicia.

Topp admitted that he had sent the money but gave as a reason that his brother, who was naturalized, had returned on a visit to Galicia in 1912 and was starving on account of the war. Crown Attorney Thurston submitted evidence that naturalization conferred citizenship on men from alien countries on condition that they remained in Canada. He maintained that the length taken all his money with him was sufficient evidence to prove that he did not intend to return. Judge Coatsworth reserved his decision.

DEFIES BOARD'S POWERS OF CANCELING LEASE

Jess Applegath Threatens to Throw "Hub" Case Into the Courts.

The first occasion in which the license board's jurisdiction in the matter of cancellation of leases for previously licensed property is likely to be tested in the courts, will probably arise over the Hub Hotel on Yonge street.

Representatives of the Cosgrave Brewing Company who leased the property from its original owners and Mrs. Kate Davidson, to whom they sublet it, appeared before the board yesterday to ask for the cancellation of the lease under the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act. Jess Applegath, who acquired the property and also that as the lessees had assured him the premises even after prohibition, the board had no jurisdiction. Therefore he intends to ignore the board and take the matter into the courts if the tenants vacate the property, even under the direction of the board. The board decided to cancel the lease as held by Mrs. Davidson and to cancel that of the Cosgrave Company also, if their legal adviser shall decide that they have the power to do so.

The outcome of the case is awaited with interest not only by the parties directly interested but also by others whose leases have been cancelled, making such application to the board.

REJECTED FOR SERVICE

Richard Stoner, Guilty of Receiving, Allowed to Go on Suspended Sentence.

Found guilty in the sessions on a charge of receiving a quantity of liquor and articles stolen from the C. P. R., Richard Stoner was allowed to go on suspended sentence by Judge Coatsworth yesterday. Stoner's lawyers produced a certificate to show that their client had been rejected for overseas and that he is now employed in a munition plant.

FINED FIFTY DOLLARS.

John H. Simons, who recently showed his affection for Miss Alice E. Vaughan by cutting off her hair, was fined $50 or two months in jail when he appeared before Judge Coatsworth for sentence yesterday. His honor directed that if the fine was paid, $25 was to be given to the young woman.

WANT MORE LIGHT.

Ald. J. Gibbons, business agent of the Street Railway Men's Union, yesterday held a conference with the hydro authorities regarding a complaint from the motormen to the effect that the hydro lights are turned out before six a.m., as it was contended that a serious accident will happen around the sheds if this is continued. No promises were made by the hydro as they maintained that they are saving power for munition factories.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 4.

The Kitchener Situation

An explanation has been given of the sending out of the water bills to the citizens of Kitchener stamped "Berlin, Jan. 1st, 1917." Mr. Hymmen, the superintendent, states that they were printed in summer before the name was changed, and by an oversight were mailed without, as is usual, changing the name.

This is one of the minor details which should not deflect public opinion from the main issue. The incident would mean nothing at all if it were not for the condition of the community in which it occurred. Feeling is running very high, and the issue of these water bills undoubtedly aggravated the situation. There are more serious things to be considered, however, which lie near the root of the trouble.

After the vote of Monday, and the statements, as alleged, of some of the aldermen, very serious notice must be taken of the grave circumstances existing in Kitchener by the government. Politics or something equally paralyzing has prevented the government of Ontario, and at Ottawa also, acting in the downright manner which was called for just as soon as the citizens voted to change the name of the city. The spineless attitude of the central authorities made it possible for the present situation to develop, and even yet the wait-and-see method of doing nothing appears to be in favour.

It has been stated that over 240 Germans, who have been voting for periods up to 30 years, have never been naturalized, but are still German subjects. These form a nucleus of discontent and grievance, because they were refused naturalization papers in the last few months. Imagine a British subject going to request naturalization papers in Germany at the present time! They should have known better than to ask for naturalization at this juncture, and they should have been wiser than to take offence because the law of the land, and the law of the nations, could not be broken to oblige them. Had they been Britons in Germany they would have been interned at once. Many of these men who have been agitators and ringleaders should have been interned here. Had the government acted strongly at first a vast amount of bad feeling would never have been engendered.

The easy method of the government with recusants of the Prussian type gave them courage to take an ill where they had been given an inch, and the German pastors of the district abused their privileges by refraining from cultivating a patriotic tone towards the country and the Empire in which they flourished. The Prussian element grew bold and bolder, and as the government dilly-dallied the alien sentiment grew until it culminated in last Monday's election in Kitchener and the subsequent riots. We need not be surprised at the riots when we know that German citizens went around shouting that Kitchener was a German town now, that the British were out of it now, and that the Germans, who were winning the war, were going to take the city. We do not accuse all the German-speaking people of alien sentiments. Many innocent people were doubtless deceived and deluded into voting against the principles of the country they lived in, and they are not to be judged in the same way as the pro-German element that should be drastic measures provided by the government. The men who were responsible for the conspiracy, for such it was, aiming at the subversion of British sentiment in Kitchener, and for the change of that name back to the Prussian one again, should be interned without more ado. There should be no disposition to annoy or disturb any citizen because he happens to be of German lineage or bears a German name, but neither should there be any toleration for those who abuse the privileges of their residence and freedom in Canada to talk and act in sedition and treason against the crown.

The people of Ontario will look to the government to see that no half measures are taken in dealing with a situation which might become dangerous through imprudent leniency.

"We Need the Men to Come Home."

While there is no very clear idea abroad as to what the government will do with their information when they receive it, there is no sense in refusing to credit them with the possibility of making good use of it, and citizens should therefore take pride and pleasure in putting on record their willingness and their ability as far as they are concerned the appeal is a rather unattractive one, and there is a faint glimmer of the heroic or the practical questions asked. There is the need to fear answering them, and answer them promptly and freely as if a slight patriotic service might give. There may be some wonder-working power in the government system to extract great advantage from the returns.

What we do hope is that these returns will not be made an excuse further to delay the already urgent need for prompt and decisive measures to increase the forces for the Canadian overseas contingent. The enlistments have been miserably unsatisfactory to all who take an interest in Canada's part in the war, and our inability to keep our four divisions properly maintained is entirely due to the dawdling dulness of the government.

A letter from the front says: "I hope you do get conscription. We need the men to come home again." There never was a more pathetic comment. We send our boys to the front, and we send no support. "We need the men to come home again." We have sent, too few, and we must leave those in the far fields of France if we do not send help to enable them to hold their own. They do not complain. They will stay if need be till the Germans bury them, but does our government not understand what this means, and are there none among us fit and eligible and ready to go over and help?

We have again and again suggested that the Militia Act be put into operation. Let the first two classes be called out for home service and drilled and reformed. They can at least set free all overseas men who are doing guard duty or other work in Canada. But when the home contingent is drilled and reformed let volunteers for overseas be called for, and it will be seen how natural the martial spirit is in the Canadian citizen who has discovered his capacity for service. The war is a long way from being over yet. We trust the government sees the necessity of trying to shorten it.

January Strawberries

Sir Thomas White made a fine speech yesterday on national economy and thrift and during the day three carloads of strawberries were imported from the south to retail at somewhere around 15 cents a box. Just whether Sir Thomas knew about it and was trying to head off the strawberries we are not aware, but it is fairly clear that the people in general are not yet awake to the general situation. Those who can sit down and eat January strawberries in Canada are far from understanding the war or the conditions the war has created. January strawberries are only a symbol for innumerable things that the war makes equally unseasonable. Mr. Lloyd George said it would be well if the nation kept a general Lent until the war was over. Those who know the conditions will agree with him. We do not grudge the war workers of all kinds the necessary and natural relaxation and recreation they require after their labors, but it would be a pity if those who toil so faithfully, whether in the trench or in the factory, should find their recompense wasted in frivolous living.

Probably we do not appreciate the immense, the profound service that has invaded the hearts and minds of those who have faced death at the front. There are many gay and thoughtless sweethearts and wives left behind who will be uncaring companions for those who return if they have failed to imbibe something of the spirit of service, and to gain some knowledge of the relative value and importance of the things of this world. The values differ here and in the trenches. January strawberries or whatever it may be, have a new estimation under the flares and the fire of the great guns.

COMMUNITY PLAN TO SETTLE NORTH

Hon. G. H. Ferguson Would Open Plan to All Soldiers of Allies. ALONG THE RAILROADS Settlers Will Live Together Until Ready to Take Up Land.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson's plan for inducing soldiers to settle in the north country and to stay there when they are settled is by a community system under government supervision. He plans to select various areas, one at a time, of probably four townships each, and in the middle of the twelve miles square to build a sort of dormitory and community centre, where the returned soldiers will live together until they feel themselves fitted to take up land for themselves in the adjacent sections.

They will be employed at a small wage in clearing the central two or three hundred acres, which will be kept for a demonstration farm, and in making roads from that centre and in clearing a wide frontage along those roads. The demonstration farms will be stocked with cattle, which the settlers may purchase when they are ready at reasonable figures, the price to be paid in instalments. The settlement will be along the line of the railway.

The minister's plan is to open the scheme to all soldiers who have wages of one million of any of the allies. If one million dollars it is not sufficient money will be appropriated, he said yesterday. The community plan will give the settlers the advantages of social life and of government operation. A system of government operation will be appointed to travel up and down the settlements to advise the settlers on methods to be employed in the various operations which they contemplate.

NATIONAL SAVING A PATRIOTIC DUTY

Sir Thomas White Opens Thrift Campaign in Address at Board of Trade.

DOLLARS MUST FIGHT

Canada Has Saved Since War Broke, But She Must Save More.

"Let us economize, let us save, let us make our saving serve the purposes of the war. Let us make our dollars fight the Hun." These were the concluding words of the address before the board of trade with which Sir Thomas White opened his thrift campaign. The mayor and many other prominent men of Toronto were present in the large audience which greeted the Dominion Minister of Finance.

"It is a mistake to assume, as some do, that there has been no national saving since the outbreak of the war," said Sir Thomas. "When the war broke out Canada had an adverse balance of trade against her of three hundred million dollars. Interest upon indebtedness abroad amounted to at least one hundred and probably two hundred and seventy-five millions more. This external deficit was met by fresh borrowings in Great Britain and the United States. With the total assessment which was made, the adverse balance might be redressed. The people of Canada way always be depended upon to rise to an occasion. They began to produce more and consume less, especially in the first year of the war. Agricultural production in 1915 was greatly increased. Last year's crop was short, but prices for agricultural and all other produce which we export have been steadily rising.

Immense Production. "Then there has been the immense production of our munition factories, which has required increased production in the steel and other industries. Without going into wearisome figures, we may say in a word that increased production plus high prices, with reduced consumption especially in 1915, has resulted in completely reversing the balance of trade, so that Canada's surplus of exports over imports is more than sufficient to pay the interest upon her foreign indebtedness, which has increased substantially since the war began.

"The Canadian people added during 1915 over one hundred million dollars to their bank deposits, and during the past year that two hundred millions more. Nor is this all, since the outbreak of the war the Canadian people have subscribed and paid for two domestic war loans aggregating two hundred million dollars, and the Dominion government and the banks of Canada have provided imperial credits in Canada to the amount of two hundred and fifty million dollars.

"My chief pride arises, of course, from the military effort we have put forth and the heroism and sacrifices of our gallant men at the front. But while this is so, I say that the time has come for greater effort, greater self-denial, greater self-sacrifice. I shall only speak of the time with respect to national saving. The time is increasing daily in scale and intensity. It may last one or it may last two years. The supreme effort lies ahead of the allies. The financial strain and stress are always greatest in the closing years of a war. With the duty of all good citizens of Canada to exercise economy and to save, money as they can for investment in the war issues and other securities of the Dominion Government. We can do a lot better than we are doing.

Belief in Canada. "Business houses and corporations should conserve their resources and not pay largely increased dividends. If they do this they will have little or none left over for the shareholders. Canada exceeds other nations in the duty. Munition orders can only continue if the expenditure which is distributed among all classes is saved by those classes and made available through the purchase of government securities for fresh credits to the Imperial Government.

"I believe the people of Canada will rise to this as to all other occasions, and that the men at the front will not suffer for lack of shells so far as the industrial facilities of Canada are able to provide them. Let us economize, let us save, let us make our savings serve the purposes of the war. Let us make our dollars fight the Hun."

A MISTLETOE PROBLEM Which Shall He Give Her First, the Gift or the Kiss?

Diary of a Well-Dressed Girl

How She Helped Make a Hat, Muff and Pelérine for a Girl Who Likes the Quaint in Dress.

"The luckiest girl I know of is that blue-eyed beauty sitting opposite me," announced Cicely as she spread her sixth buckwheat cake generously with raspberry and currant jam.

"Robin, there's no limit to June Arnold's allowance. Think of it: Her dad sends her wads of money whenever she asks, and she buys all sorts of useful things, just because she's got so much to spend. I made her promise when you asked us here that she wouldn't buy a pin until she reached the city. I had a hard time to keep her from landing on your doorstep with a trunk filled with useless trumpery. Now she's safe in your hands, take her down town today and let her throw her money away on decent-looking clothes."

to bring out the best sets in stock. All of these consisted of pelérines of generous proportions, and muffs of various styles, characteristic of his oddity in shape. I soon discovered that June had a "quaint" style that ought to be enhanced. She was adorable in a set of moleskin and gray fox. The shaggy fur softened the moleskin, taking away the "oldish" look. The pelérine extended well over June's shoulders, promising warmth as well as style. It had a border of gray fox and a lining of broadened satin in a lovely tone of Gobelin blue. The muff, however, is the most fascinating novelty in fur that I've seen this season; a muff and handbag combined. It is of moleskin bordered with the gray fox to match the pelérine, and is pointed at the lower edge. There is a round opening at the top also bordered with fox, which is the entrance to the bag. The bag and interior of the muff are lined with the blue broadened satin. "Luck" does seem to follow June, as Cicely had stated, for we found the cunningest little poke bonnet of Gobelin blue velvet that harmonized beautifully with the fur. In this outfit she was a picture—exactly like a dear little miss of 1830. Now that Cicely had approved enthusiastically of our purchases, June likes them better than ever, and vows that she'll never buy a penny's worth unless she has a "lord-high-capacity-visitor" with her when she goes shopping.

THREE MINUTE JOURNEYS

By TEMPLE MANNING

Where a White Elephant Used to Have Thirty Servants to Attend Him.

In Burma the possession of a white elephant is the sure sign and symbol of universal sovereignty. For this reason every Burmese King longed for the capture of such a treasure during his reign, that he might have to show the people that sign that his legitimate royalty was recognized by the unseen powers.

The great religion of Burma, as you know, is Buddhism. The form in which Buddha is supposed to have visited the earth in his previous incarnations is that of an elephant. When he was about to be born the last time he entered the outer world into this life in the spirit of a white elephant. Thus you see how, if a native is a devout believer, he readily believes that the white elephant, his king possesses may contain the soul of Buddha himself.

In the hope that an undoubted white elephant might appear in the kingdom, the king retained to himself all rights to all elephants in the land, no matter whether they were wild or tame. Whoever captured an elephant had to give it up to the king, and the king gave permission to a few of the princes and high dignitaries to make use of them. The man who discovered a white elephant was made a "mingyi," and was exempted from taxes and all other burdens for the rest of his life.

Now, strange as it may seem, there are really no white elephants. There are elephants that are called white, but if you have pictured a creature as white as snow you are in error. The white elephant to be seen in Siam and in Burma are of a light mouse color, somewhat the shade of the freckles to be found on the trunk of every elephant. This light color is uniform all over the "white" elephant's body, however, and the freckles on the trunk are almost white. The depth of the color varies amazingly, therefore it was found necessary to determine upon some color test. Indeed, there has arisen a whole library of volumes on the subject in Burma, but the wise men all agree that an elephant with five toes on its hind feet, instead of the customary four, and whose skin turns red when water is poured over it, is an undoubted white elephant.

The last Lord White Elephant who held sway in Mandalay was of this color and had 36 toes, five on each foot. For years he ruled in the office of "Sinbyudaw," a hundred soldiers guarded his palace, 30 men waited upon him, and among them was a minister of state, who managed his affairs and looked after the revenues of the province that was assigned for him to "rule." Every day he was bathed in sweet smelling sandal water, and all of his vessels and utensils were made of gold. Troops of the palace "corymbs" danced for his pleasure, and there were choruses of sweet-voiced singers to lull him to sleep.

All of this seems like a fairy tale, doesn't it? Yet, had you been born in Burma in those days, and had you stood close enough to the elephant for him to kill you, you would have been a visitor—probably the minister would have soothed the king's mind with the same observation: "Fray do not be disturbed, my lord—it was not a man, only a foreigner."

In recent years there has been no Lord White Elephant in Mandalay. When the old Lord departed—no white elephant ever "dies"—the Burmese tried to find another to take its place. So far as my information goes there has no undoubted successor been found. Perhaps one reason is because it might be difficult to persuade even the Burmese now that there really could be a regular Lord White Elephant in these troubled times in the little land of Burma.

Dress Vanities Real Helps to Conceal Defects of Beauty

The majority of women are conscious of their physical defects.

When the sleeveless evening gown became so popular the wide, low-cutting, knowing that not every woman had a flawless pair of shoulders and a beautiful neck, designers began to make cloud-like tulle should be worn over the décolleté gowns. This bit of gauze can be artistically wrapped about the neck and shoulders, concealing the hollows and prominent corrus, so that the features of the wearer are softened to a remarkable degree.

To veil the defects of long, thin arms, "angel" sleeves became a vogue. These long, flowing bits of tulle or chiffon were fastened to the active arms, but they lend grace and charm to the gown.

Thick, clumsy ankles are not so easily concealed as other physical defects. You can however, make them appear less heavy by wearing all-black stockings, but you must pass them by. Colored stockings, but accentuate the ankles, and they are a mistake for women with heavy ankles to wear white shirts as short as her sister who has ankles that are slender.

For her Pretty Little Aids. A high forehead may be a mark of distinction, but it surely does not add to the beauty of a woman's face. Introduced coiffures with the combed back from the brow she makes the hair line, even when the hair is drawn up, which is among the worst arrangements of the hair, is worn on a narrow jeweled headband or a band of tulle, metal or velvet ribbon may draw the hair down and tie it in a tiny bow at the back or side of the head.

Then there are fascinating veils that shield the face, but they are not so lovely. No need to have lovely eyes in your dance frock if you wear one of these bits of daintiness. Some of them are bands of silk, ornamented with a tiny bouquet of old-fashioned French flowers; others are broad bands of French lace, which is worn to veil the face, and the eyes are made to look like the eyes of a butterfly.

Make use of these dress vanities to help you conceal your defects.

Questions and Answers

J. G. Hamilton, Ont.—Q.—What remove liver spots?

A.—I assume, of course, that you are well enough informed to understand that the liver has nothing to do with "liver spots." Disturbances in pigmentation in the skin are, however, concerned with the reproductive glands and with the structures of the pelvis and lower abdomen. Reason, then, indicates that all such internal disorders must be straightened out before the application of any freckle cure. A dram of salicylic acid to an ounce of alcohol may be expected to penetrate the skin, deeply enough to peel the discolored epidermis away. It is well, before trying any remedy, to consult your physician for careful diagnosis.

E.V.D., Toronto, Ont.—Q.—I have been feeling on my chest and back great difficulty in breathing. What do you advise for this?

A.—This is often due to indigestion, constipation, lack of exercise, over-eating and many other things which would have to be found out by a physical examination. The source of the trouble must be found and removed.

A.—Up-to-date druggists know the houses from which these glands can be obtained and will order them for you. I never discuss advertising in this column.

KIRKLAND LAKE CAMP GAINING PROMINENCE

By End of Year Will Have Several Producers of Yellow Metal.

ORE IS DEEP-SEATED

Veins, Tho Narrow, Very Rich—Completion of Power Line Expected Soon.

Kirkland Lake is now coming into considerable prominence as a gold district. It promises a production equal to Crystal Creek, Colorado, or Kalgocorie in Western Ontario, the only gold camp in Ontario in which tellurides are common. It is true that the telluride gold and silver has been found at Porcupine, but this mineral and its compounds occur very sparingly there and in other parts of Ontario.

The Kirkland has as yet only one dividend payer, the Tough-Oakes, it is likely to have four or five producers before the close of 1917. The camp is 61 miles north of Cobalt, and is reached from Swastika, a station on the T. and N. Co. Railway. There is a good road from the station, northward to the Tough-Oakes, a distance of seven miles. At the townsite there are a restaurant, post-office and a school, and from this point a road runs north to Goodfish Lake, where the Boston Creek and other mines are working.

The old Swastika mine west of the railway station about half a mile, shut down some years ago, so also the Lucky Cross in the same vicinity. But the string of mines south of Kirkland Lake are in an entirely different formation, and are increasing in importance every day. This group follows a line of sedimentary rocks which strikes in a direction a little north of east, across the Township of Teck and into Label, a total distance of fully seven miles. The strike of the belt is from three to four miles, and thru it there have been many eruptions of diabase, amphiboly, granite, syenite and felsophy, porphyry. The three latter rocks belong to the same period, and their eruption introduced the precious metals.

All the metal-bearing regions of Ontario are in the aldehyde formation, it is always found that the mineralization in the case of gold, silver and nickel occurred in a later period of geological time, and there is no exception to this rule in the case of Kirkland Lake. But in conditions under which the gold is found there is certainly unusual if not entirely unique.

Many of the veins on the surface are from half an inch to an inch wide, a fact which indicates that they are not six to eight inches in width. But in depth the stopping width, the area of payable stone is of fair dimensions, because the wall rock on both sides is strongly impregnated with gold and other minerals. There is, however, little silver.

Geological Formations. C. A. O'Connell, the efficient manager of the Tough-Oakes Mine, says that the rocks on the north are being auriferous belt dip north, while those on the south side dip south, at considerable angles. The important sediments would appear to have been swept into the trough thus formed, and if the fissuring and vein formation was at the contact of the opposite dipping strata, the force of gravity would tend to bring the walls together and close the veins. The walls might have been thus moved before the ascending mineral-laden solutions had cooled and solidified.

Gold Deposits. There have been several depositions of gold, and the vein stuff proper and the wall rocks on several times crushed and fractured. The channels must have been formed and filled before the larger than they now appear, also such crater depth. An appearance could not have taken place. In some of the mines, at depth, the ore channels, the distinctly traceable, are practically closed, and the part of the gold is found in the fracture plains of the felsophy porphyry, which for the most part forms the wall rock. This porphyry is often massive and often very hard. It is quite different from the schistose quartz porphyry at Porcupine.

At the 400-foot level in the Kirkland Lake Mine there is 99 ore for a width of 40 feet, and in the face of the drift on this level there is an unmistakable evidence of very pronounced fissuring, giving ample facilities for the ascending and descending of the hot solutions which carried the precious metal.

The Kirkland Lake ore are generally of high grade, but no in large volume. It may be, however, that large bodies of ore will be found in several of the mines yet to be opened. As already stated the fissuring has been pronounced, and whether the walls come together or whether they are held apart by the solutions is a matter of bearing solutions. The fact that the material in view of the fact that the bearing solutions took up the gold-bearing solutions, and that the veins were subjected during the various movements. The greater the fracturing the greater the volume of ore.

There is nothing to show that these ore bodies will not persist to great depths. The sediments have not the same relation to the channels for the ascension of the solutions as the same series at Cobalt and values are more principally in the igneous rocks themselves, while the fact that the veins have opened several times with fresh circulation of the solutions during the theory of persistence in depth.

There is a considerable volume of banded silica and iron ore in the mines. Dr. Maclean, Maclearen reports that this formation is a characteristic of the Cambrian gold fields in all parts of the Dominion.

Over $1,000,000 has already been spent in developing the various mines at Kirkland Lake. Geologically, they are very similar. To them, they vary in size and richness, there is only one type, while at Porcupine there are several. The silica, the iron, magnesia and lime, which forms the base of the rock at the anchorite in Deler, is very different from the basaltic schist of the Hollinger-McIntyre section, and at the Hollinger-McIntyre section, and at the Porcupine the showing has been more pronounced than at Kirkland Lake, there are areas of massive, felsophy, as well as highly schistose rocks.

String of Mines. The principal mines at Kirkland Lake lie side by side to a distance of two and one-half miles. On the west end is the Tough-Oakes, then McIntyre mill which will shortly be treating close on to 600 tons per day. This property is rapidly gaining recognition as one of the big producers of the Porcupine Camp.

Boston Creek Still Advancing

The steady absorption of Boston Creek stock is having the consequent effect upon the price of the shares. The price has made a gradual ascent from 75 to 112, and the buying is still keen. A large part of the demand for Boston Creek has been coming from the United States, a demand having sprung up in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities. Many inspections have been made of the mine and the reports of the visiting engineers have had much to do with the buying of the stock. The great shipment from the property has been delayed, but when this reaches the refinery the spreading of the news of the results will likely create a much wider demand for the stock.

ONTARIO IS LEADER IN PRECIOUS METAL OUTPUT

Gold and Silver Yield Last Year Nearly Twenty-Five Millions.

INCREASED PRODUCTION

Cobalt Output in Ounces Decreased, in Value Increased Greatly.

The following is part of an article on gold and silver production in Ontario, written by Mr. J. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines for Ontario, which will appear in the Monetary Times Annual this week:

In production of the precious metals, gold and silver, Ontario now far surpasses any of the other Canadian provinces. The United value in 1916 was greater than in any previous year, and amounted to about $23,000,000, and the output was worth about $10,000,000, and the silver $13,000,000. In 1915 the value was $20,012,931 and silver $11,142,463, or a total of $30,235,394, an increase in 1916 being thus about 16 per cent.

Both metals contributed to this increase; in the case of gold there was a larger production, say 485,000 ounces, or about 413,000 ounces, or about 82 to about 83 per cent, and the value was given as $20.67 per ounce. As a matter of fact, in a period of high prices such as this, the purchasing power of gold is considerably reduced, since an ounce of it will buy a smaller number of pounds or yards of other goods, which is at present the case.

On the other hand, the output of silver, measured in terms of quantity, was less in 1916 by about 2,000,000 ounces, the larger value being due to the much higher prices for silver that prevailed during the past year. The average monthly price at New York was 49.75 cents per ounce, while in 1915 it never fell below 56.75 cents, and as high as 74.25 cents in May, 1916, and in December to over 75 cents, and a considerably reduced output of the metal owners received a much larger return.

Hollinger Consolidation. The principal gold-producing district in Ontario is Porcupine, where discoveries made in 1909 have developed into important profitable mines. The best known and largest of these are the Hollinger and the Dome. The former has had an exceptionally prosperous career. Reorganized and amalgamated with the original Hollinger holdings, the original part of the same system, and can be worked economically as a unit. During 1916 about 600,000 tons of ore were crushed, yielding say $4,700,000, or over $7.80 per ton.

Dome Ore Lower Grade. The ore of the Dome mine is of lower grade than that of the Hollinger. Nevertheless, the output for 1916 amounted to about $1,123,000 in value. At April 1st, 1916, the ore reserves were estimated at 2,600,000 tons, worth $16,120,000, or $6.20 per ton. The McIntyre-Porcupine is the third largest producer in the camp, its output for 1916 being about $1,000,000, to recover which about 100,000 tons of ore were treated of an average value of about $8.50 per ton. It is now proposed to unite with the McIntyre mine the adjoining properties, McIntyre-Exton and McIntyre-Jupiter, and to work them as one, the veins, as at the Hollinger, having been found to pass from one property to the others.

The Porcupine-Crown mine is also an important producer and has, during the course of its workings, encountered ore bodies of unusually high grade. It yielded in 1916 about $600,000. Other properties turned out $400,000. Other properties, Vipond, Schumacher and Dome.

Kirkland Lake Camp. The gold camp next in present importance, and one which gives promise of speedy development, is Kirkland Lake. The percentage of recovery is good. From the beginning of the camp down to December 31, 1916, the aggregate production was about $27,250,000.

LONG WILL ATTEND. London, Jan. 3.—It is the intention of the government, and has been from the first, that Walter Long, Canadian secretary, should be a member of the Imperial conference shortly to assemble here.

BOSTON CREEK MADE NEW HIGH RECORD

Porcupine Stocks Display Some Buoyancy—Timiskaming Stronger.

Continued strength was displayed throughout the Porcupine stocks yesterday at the Standard Stock Exchange, the trading was not so heavy as at times before Christmas. The bullish undertone to the market became more pronounced, and substantial gains were made by several of the active favorites. Since the big break in New York local traders seem to have become more cautious, confining their commitments to a greater degree to the standardized stocks and to the newer issues of recognized merit.

Boston Creek Featured. Further active trading took place in Boston Creek stock, the demand for this public favorite causing an advance in the price to a new high record of 112. A gain of two points above the high point of the preceding day. Yesterday's advance makes an aggregate gain of about 37 points since the stock first appeared on the mining list but turns, selling on the points of the day before Christmas. The remarkable trading was not so heavy as at times before Christmas. The bullish undertone to the market became more pronounced, and substantial gains were made by several of the active favorites.

McIntyre Active. Nor was the old popular stock, McIntyre, forgotten in the trading. Where a few weeks ago it had been forced to take a minor position in the general activity which at that time prevailed in the newer issues, now it is coming more and more to attract attention than for months. Yesterday's advance was continued when it touched 195 from which point it retraced, closing at 187. McIntyre, ex-officially to 11-1-4. McIntyre, ex-officially to 11-1-4.

Porcupine Crown was away again yesterday on one of its periodic up-ticks, selling on heavy trading up to 77, an advance of 7 points from the opening. There did not seem to be any particular news to account for the stronger feeling in Porcupine Crown.

Vipond Advanced. Vipond displayed some buoyancy, advancing from 42 on the opening to 47 1/2. Schumacher was active at 70, Teck-Hughes was strong at 40 1/2, Inspiration was strong at 128 to 129. Big Dome held firm at $21.

The Silver Stocks. In the Cobalt group, Timiskaming was strong closing at 61. Beaver was also in better demand at 40 1/2 in the afternoon trading. After selling at 34 3/4 thru the day it jumped to 50 1/4.

Shamrock went up to 30. Chamberside advanced to 16. Gifford was quiet at 55. Vipond changed hands at $5.50 to $5.85. Crown Reserve developed a firmer tone at 40. Coniag was active at $4.75 to $4.80.

VAC. GAS CO. CONTRACTS FOR OUTPUT OF OIL. It is officially announced that the Vacuum Gas Co. has secured the total output of oil wells under control in the Thamesville district for the next six months. The output is reported from the oil fields, where ten additional wells are in readiness to start producing. Prospective development has proven that the oil pool, which is the main source of oil, is the big wells of the company extend for a distance of at least two miles, which area, according to conservative estimates, will accommodate 500 wells.

tem, mostly of the greenstone type, but many of the schistose. Associated with the gold-bearing veins are basic and acid intrusives such as porphyry, granite and syenite. The Croesus mine, from which a considerable quantity of phenomenal rich ore was taken in 1915, suffered in the foretimes of last summer, all of the mine buildings being destroyed. The equipment is being renewed. Gold is proving to be of widespread occurrence in northern Ontario, and other localities are going thru the same process of development as Porcupine and Kirkland Lake. At Boston and Benoit, and at Tashota on the Transcontinental Railway, promising prospects are being opened. West of Sturgeon Lake, the Anthony mine, owned by the New York firm, and the rich find south of Horns is also undergoing development.

Great Silver District. Up to December 31, 1916, the silver output of the Cobalt mines was 226,000,000 ounces, worth, say, $128,250. This aggregate of value is now comparable with that of gold from the Yukon region, one of the most important gold fields discovered during the last 20 years of the world's history. The total of the gold value of the Yukon has amounted to $162,231,607, and the output of the gold mines of the Yukon during 1915, the total to date for the three or four years of Cobalt will have surpassed the gross returns of gold from the Yukon.

DRIFTING STARTED AT DEPTH ON BEAVER

Encouraging Results Obtained So Far—High Grade Vein Discovered.

Very encouraging progress is being made in the deep workings of the Beaver Consolidated, according to President F. L. Culver. It will be remembered that the management some time ago evolved the theory that ore in paying quantities should exist at the lower contact of the diabase, and the keowatin formation, as it was in the vicinity of the upper contact that heavy and Timiskaming recovered their best values. To reach the lower contact it was necessary for the Beaver to sink its shaft to 1600 feet in depth, which meant going deeper than any other shaft in the whole of the north country. Accordingly the shaft was put down to the required depth and a station cut, from which point crosscuts have been made. Several veins have been cut so far, but none of these showed silver values, although highly mineralized. Drifting has now commenced, and values may be struck at any time.

It is needless to say that this pioneer work in the Cobalt-Camp has been watched with more than equal interest because, should the Beaver succeed in its quest, it will encourage other Cobalt companies to follow its example and would mean a new lease of life for Canada's greatest silver camp.

The same policy as that of the Beaver is being followed by the Timiskaming. The shaft at the latter property is now down to 1500 feet, and has 100 feet more to go before the station will be cut. At the Beaver recently a new vein was discovered, running from four to six inches in width, of high-grade ore.

IMPORTANT STRIKE AT BIG DOME MADE

The recent rich strike reported at the 700-foot level of the Dome mine is said to consist of over 50 feet of $14 ore, and will, it is estimated, add very materially to the life and value of the mine. A shortage of unskilled labor is said to be retarding progress at this mine, which would otherwise have taken place under more normal conditions. Despite this, however, it is considered probable that the milling capacity will be doubled before many months pass—Cobalt Nugget.

CUTTING STATION AT ADANAC PROPERTY

The work of sinking the shaft at the Adanac in South Lorrain to the 400-foot level has now been completed and a station is finished. The lateral work will now be pushed vigorously in an endeavor to pick up the veins which were discovered on the upper levels. It is confidently expected by the management that a crosscut 150 feet in length will cut for important veins at this level.

MARK HARRIS ON MINES and MINING

1917 is here! No doubt you have made several good resolutions, some of which you will keep and others that will be forgotten in a few days or a few weeks from now.

The best resolution you could possibly make today would be to invest your money in sound securities, for right now the market is full of overflowing with real investment bargains.

When I say bargains I do not refer to the "War Babies" that is, the stocks that are dependent on the European War, for I consider all of these by far too speculative for the average investor.

The genuine bargains are the standard securities that will continue to earn and pay dividends, war or no war, peace or no peace, and many of these can be purchased today at prices that net the investor ten, fifteen, twenty and even 25 per cent yearly.

Just think of investing your money in high-class listed securities that return these enormous dividends and I am sure you will agree with me that today is "Bargain Day."

I doubt if any of us will ever see a more opportune time than the present, because even if peace was suddenly declared it could only mean a readjustment of conditions, and many of these securities that are not affected by either war or peace would naturally sell at higher prices during the readjustment.

A few months ago, when the speculators down in New York were booming International Mercantile Marine to the skies, I came out in an article and gave a few logical reasons for not investing money in that particular issue.

Later, when United States Steel was selling at $129 a share, I published an article giving my views on the stock as an investment, and I stated very plainly that I did not consider it a good security for the small investor.

My chief objection to both of these popular stocks was the fact that they were entirely dependent on the European War for continued prosperity, and events of the past fortnight have shown how right I was in both instances.

I would not advise any small investor to purchase steel stocks, even if they sold much lower than prevailing prices, because two of the biggest men in the steel industry have made public statements lately to the effect that no steel company could hope to earn even a small dividend after the war unless there was a large increase in the protective tariff.

Before the war Germany was a close competitor of the American and Canadian Steel Companies, and the gigantic U. S. Steel Trust found it most difficult to earn even a small dividend on the common stock.

After the war is over we must prepare to meet not only German competition, but also French, English and Japanese, and, altho our big steel industries have been very friendly with both France and England, competition knows no friendship and you can take my word for it, it will be the survival of the fittest.

Experts believe the steel industry will be greatly depressed for many months after peace is declared, and I am inclined to fully agree with them, so I do not recommend steel investments even when they show phenomenal earnings.

Many also believe that the copper industry will be hard when peace comes, but I am not so sure of this, the copper must play an important role in the reconstruction of Europe, and whereas steel can be produced in enormous quantities, copper is limited to the production of the mines.

Again: every railroad in America must sooner or later be electrified and this alone will tax the copper output for a decade or two. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad has four hundred miles of its Puget Sound branch electrified and operating expenses were immediately cut almost seventy per cent.

In addition to this all of the big producing copper companies are already sold out for the first six months of this year, some companies having contracts that carry them to the end of 1917, so if peace came tomorrow copper would probably command twenty to twenty-five cents a pound and remain there indefinitely.

On the other hand, I know of several producing copper companies that could easily earn their present dividend with copper at fifteen cents a pound, and I believe that stocks of these companies represent an exceptionally sound investment. Right at the present moment the greatest care should be exercised in selecting investments, for altho the market is overflowing with genuine bargains, it is also full of pitfalls for the inexperienced, and no one should attempt to invest money until they consult some thoroughly reliable broker.

An honest broker is just as essential in selecting investments as the architect is when building a house, and I am sure you will find many such brokers in your home city who will gladly give you the benefit of their experience and advice. If your broker cannot, or will not, give you the information you need, write direct to me and I will give you full and complete details on investments that should net you a large income.

STOCKS CONTINUE GENERAL ADVANCE

Heavy Short Covering Propels Upward Movement on New York Exchange.

STEEL REGAINS LOSS

Other Industrials Make Even Better Showing—Trading Broadens.

New York, Jan. 3.—The advance on the stock market which featured the opening of the new year, was continued today, with a rise in shares of almost all descriptions, especially those popularly characterized as war and semi-war issues. Gains in these stocks, which embraced the better-known equipments and munitions, shippings and petroleum, metal, leather, sugar and paper issues, as well as motors, ranged from two to nine points, with only slight recessions on profit-taking at the close.

Trading was broader and more diversified than in the depressed periods of the preceding week. The rise was once more attributed to events of the last few days, which were interpreted as offering little hope for the success of the peace negotiations.

To a very considerable extent the upward movement was propelled by heavy short covering. Another factor was the change in Mexican affairs, this being most evident in the activity and strength of Mexican Petroleum and American Steeling.

U. S. Steel re-established its supremacy at the outset, and led the list through, recording an extreme gain of 5 1/2 points, at 115. Dealings in Steel approximated 500,000 shares, or about 30 per cent of the whole.

Taking today's maximum as a basis of comparison, Steel recovered more than half of its December reversal, while other industrials, including Central Leather and some of the metals, made even a better showing. The few variable and heavy features included General Motors, old stock, which made a sheer descent of 50 points on one sale, at 700. The stock was relatively inactive, with more strength in seasoned shares than in low-priced issues. This irregularity of the market traces to the fact that the year's earnings, some showing marked recessions in net returns. Total sales amounted to 1,160,000 shares.

Bonds, including internationals, were irregular, fractions yielding easily on moderate offerings. Total sales (par value), $5,160,000.

LOCAL STOCKS FIRM ON HIGHER PRICES

Steels and Other Industrials Make Advances on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

With the New York market again definitely strong added impetus was given to some of the industrials on the Toronto stock market yesterday. The steels had further strength and of these there were undoubtedly good buyers in the latter issues were largely for temporary ownership only. The market, although apparently strong, was not a confident one, except in a few cases, and the buying had been largely of a more substantial nature if further permanent advances are to be made. Any turn in the New York stocks will find a ready reflection in the local securities.

BREAK NOW FORGOTTEN.

Heron & Co. had the following at the close:

Montreal, Jan. 3.—The market was very strong again today. An advance of five points in U. S. Steel kept the local steel issues strong in sympathy. The break in the market Dec. 31 seems to be forgotten and the buying has been attracted by the recent buoyant market. Large Canadian munitions orders are being used to build the market and these are expected to keep our domestic buyers even should peace come this year.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

London, Jan. 3.—Money was a shade tighter and discount rates were a shade higher. There is much uncertainty regarding the bank rate tomorrow, but they are of the opinion that it will be 5 per cent. The pressure of work at the Bank and other institutions any alteration may be postponed for a week.

The stock market had a strong undercurrent, but there was little business transacted except in the war loans which were active around 98. The secret of the new year will keep, and dealers are discussing its possible effects. It is only able to agree that the amount will be increased in view of the large amount of convertible securities available. Stand- ard issues and gilt-edged securities were firm, and Argentine, Russian and rubber stocks rallied. American shares were very steady.

PRICES OF WHEAT STEEPLY ADVANCE

Urgent Demand From Seaboard Exporters Causes Big Sale of Futures.

PAY HIGH PREMIUMS

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Urgent demand from seaboard exporters resulted today in a broad demand for future deliveries of wheat and caused a steep advance in prices. After soaring 6 3/4c, the market closed strong at $1.86 1/2 for May and $1.82 1/2 for July, the market as a whole 5 1/2c to 6 1/2c above yesterday's finish.

Other leading staples, too, all scored substantial gains—corn 4 1/2c to 5c, oats 2 1/2c to 3 1/2c, and provisions 2 1/2c to 2 3/4c.

Record-breaking high premiums were paid by exporters to obtain wheat available for immediate shipment. The total amount thus purchased was estimated at 800,000 bushels, an aggregate that in many quarters was connected with forecasts of scarcity in the U. S. before spring, and, with opinions that peace in Europe had been definitely postponed. Much notice was also directed to the fact that receipts of wheat today at the principal domestic terminals, northwest and southwest, did not reach within 1,000,000 bushels of the sum reported on the corresponding day last year. On the other hand, there seemed to be a general belief that demand from the east would increase with an improvement in the condition of overcrowded railway facilities, and with material enlargement of the number of vessels in readiness to clear for Europe from Atlantic ports.

Activity on the part of submarines gave the wheat market at one stage a rather sharp setback, but the effect on prices soon wore off, being offset in measure by complaints of an absence of snow covering, or lack of moisture in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri. The day's top quotations, touched just before the close, were $1.86 1/2, as compared with recent low figures, that had accompanied an assumed likelihood of quick negotiations for the wheat.

Corn was bullishly influenced, not only by the strength of wheat, but likewise by active purchasing on the part of houses with seaboard connections. The market rose to the highest price of the season, equaling the best previous record, made last November.

In other grain, the leading feature was free buying for the seaboard. May delivery was in most request. Provisions rallied when the wheat markets bulged. At first a decline in the hog market had a depressing effect, and, so, too, did the monthly warehouse report, showing a big stock of lard on hand in Chicago.
