ance that it should be brought to the attention of the house and the country. The technical education commission had filed a comprehensive report with the minister of labor more than two years ago, but nothing had been done towards carrying its recommendations into effect.

Mr. Lemieux spoke at length of the great importance of manual training and technical education. He said, advanced or declined just as the progress or stood still in the matter of education. There were great natural resources in Canada, but they could only be conserved and developed by properly educating the people.

Mr. Crothers' Explanation. Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, said the recommendations of the commission on technical education were elaborate, but eminently practicable and satisfactory. They had been given in a report which was neither requested, invited, nor authorized.

Provinces Tardy. For example, the minister sent the report to Sir James Whitney in March, 1914, and was notified that it was not received by Hon. J. J. Foy, acting premier, in May, 1914, asking for his views, and as yet had received no reply.

Mr. Bennett's Amendment. Mr. Bennett (Ontario) said that he had introduced the amendment in a strong and definite manner. He pointed out that Nova Scotia was about to go dry, and that the province of Ontario, or any other province, would be left out of this government will see that it is kept out.

Mr. Davidson (Annapolis) seconded the amendment in a strong and definite manner. He pointed out that Nova Scotia was about to go dry, and that the province of Ontario, or any other province, would be left out of this government will see that it is kept out.

Mr. Martin (Regina) criticized the amendment as a mere subterfuge. He said that the government would be making a mere subterfuge of prohibition. He pointed out that the amendment would be a mere subterfuge of prohibition.

Mr. Verillie (Quebec) said that he was in favor of the amendment. He pointed out that the amendment would be a good thing for the province of Quebec.

calling for nation-wide prohibition. He reviewed at length the great progress of temperance reform in Canada, due in great part to the change of view of business men on the subject of drinking.

Question for Provinces. He asked the provinces to support nation-wide prohibition. He thought it would be absurd and tyrannical for nine-tenths of the people of Canada to tell the remaining one-tenth living on the island of Montreal that they must eat or drink.

Mr. Bennett admitted that the provincial law could not prohibit manufacture for export, but personally he could see no reason why he should labor to make the people of Argentina or the United States virtuous, if they wanted to drink Canadian whiskey there was no reason why we should not supply them with it.

Amendment Offered. He offered a substitute for the Stevens resolution, an amendment to the Doherty bill. The resolution requested the passage of legislation to prohibit the importation of liquor into any province to be dealt with in any way contrary to the law of that province.

DOCK HAS OVERFLOWED NO DAMAGE REPORTED

Water Rose Eight Feet in Remarkably Short Time While Hundreds Watched.

SOME TRAINS DELAYED Tracks of C. N. R. and C. P. R. Completely Submerged for Considerable Distance.

It is estimated that the River Don rose 8 feet between 3 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Not since 1888 has there been a flood in the valley such as that witnessed by hundreds of citizens who lined the bridges at Gerry street, Wilton avenue and Queen street.

Old-timers have been predicting such a state of affairs, and their warnings have come true. The heavy rain of yesterday have together with the flood, which has yet no particular damage has been reported, was very rapid.

From bank to bank, the valley was covered by the swirling waters, and some distance between the Roseale station and Queen street bridge were the waters, immense cakes of ice and brought down by the current, which was very rapid.

The C.N.R. Winnipeg train, due at 6 o'clock, was held up at Roseale station while a snow plow was run up the track to clear the way. The accumulation of ice and snow limited the C.N.R. train leaving the city at 10:45 o'clock, and the Ottawa train at 11 o'clock.

The Don Valley Brick Works, the water was the highest in the history of the company, the plant being at one time surrounded by rushing waters. Not a serious damaged was occasioned.

Never Saw It So High. "I have never seen the Don River so high in my life," said George Davies, "at 6 o'clock the bottom of the C. N. R. bridge was just even with the water level. It is a sight to see, definitely, but I should think the normal water level is about 10 feet above the top of the bridge piers."

The flood reached its highest point about 8 o'clock, when it began to recede as rapidly as it rose, said Arthur Hills, superintendent of the city water works. The water level was 10 feet above the top of the bridge piers.

We have in stock a most gorgeous supply at prices ranging from $25 to $300. R. Store is at 37 King street west, Toronto.

SWISS ATTACHE VICTIM. BOULOGNE, March 27.—Among the passengers of the Susex in Boulogne is a Swiss attaché, the only one of his kind in the world.

Temperance—Prohibition. The sale of liquor is prohibited at Hotel Teck and conducted by the importation and constant consumption in the home certainly is neither temperate nor prohibitive in effect.

Little or no loss was occasioned around the Bloor street viaduct, the fact that practically all the low-down shells which were finished in the fall of 1914 are now being used.

On the upper reaches of the Don, the water rose very rapidly, and Mrs. Skilhorn, wife of County Constable Skilhorn, who lives at 1000 York street, Thorncliffe Farm, at the junction of the two rivers, said last night: "It was just about noon when my husband noticed the first sign of the approaching flood, and it was not very long before it was level to the banks, and then seemed to stop, and when it started again it went up very fast."

The ice in the oblique river went out during the afternoon, but while a heavy current was running on the Humber River, there was no sign of the ice moving out. County Constable George Simpson said that the Humber was usually about 24 hours behind the Don.

Howard Rupert, secretary to the commissioner of works, said last night: "We have seen of complaints regarding the flooding of the city, but as far as possible we have attended to them. Our men got about as quickly as possible to the city, but I do not think there is any widespread damage."

Engineer George Powell said: "We had a complaint about the blocking of the Don River at Queen street through the ice, and we at once sent our men down to clear the river. The ice was broken up and the river is now flowing freely. It is difficult to do anything yet as the river is only about 10 feet above the normal level. The hotelkeeper would now find himself cleared tonight, is as solid as ever."

NO COMPENSATION FOR THE LIQUOR INTERESTS

At Request of Premier, Mark Irish Withdrew Motion Asking for Commission.

DIDN'T LIKE PRINCIPLE Plea of Member for Northeast Toronto Failed to Impress the Government.

members of the house excepting Mr. Irish, the premier, and Mr. Rowell. Believed Action Unwise. After reading his resolution to the house, Mr. Irish said: "I believe the introduction of the liquor question into the arena of party politics was unwise, and that history will record that the hon. the leader of the opposition, who cast it where it is with such force and persistence, making of it his own issue, was ill-advised in his regard to the public welfare. I am not imputing insincerity of purpose to my hon. friend, but I believe that he has done in the interests of the public, then as a servant of the public he can have no other aim than to do what he believes to be for the public welfare. His efforts have been bent on the advancement of his party first and his own reward, and in any event the question can only be answered by the complete satisfaction of anybody but himself."

Not Unfairly Treated. Mr. Irish held that compensation would result in the permanency of the liquor business, because those who were now being put out of business could not claim that they had been unfairly treated, and he said that he had participated in the receipts derived from the sale of liquor and now were being put out of business.

His Political Funeral. Mr. Irish said he had presented his motion, but that he had not had time to read it. He said that he had been treated as a political funeral, and that he had been treated as a political funeral.

Element of Chance. The munition business was pointed out by the premier as one wherein there was a great element of chance, and that the government was not to be held responsible for the loss of the business.

Opposition Leader. N. W. Rowell mentioned Mr. Irish's remarks regarding himself and opined that if Mr. Irish was satisfied that they were in good taste he had no comment to offer. Mr. Rowell regretted that those in the liquor business must sustain a financial loss, but all who had gone into it in the last few years knew of its precarious condition.

Engineer George Powell said: "We had a complaint about the blocking of the Don River at Queen street through the ice, and we at once sent our men down to clear the river. The ice was broken up and the river is now flowing freely. It is difficult to do anything yet as the river is only about 10 feet above the normal level. REQUEST PUBLICITY FOR CONSCRIPTION MEMORIAL

ENLISTMENTS ARE GOOD

Aggressive Campaign Was Started Yesterday by Hundred and Twentieth.

HAMILTON, Tuesday, March 28.—At a meeting of the publicity committee of the Recruiting League last night, it was decided to ask the executive to formulate plans by which the memorial of the league, which asks for a modified form of conscription, will be given publicity, so that when it is finally presented to the government, the deputation that accompanies it will be a representative one from the entire Dominion of Canada.

The committee will also ask the executive to ensure that many canvases where it is alleged that youths under 18 years of age have been signed up with some of the local units.

Enlistments Good. The returns at the depot were very gratifying last night, and 20 applicants out of a total of 40 applying for enlistment, signed up with the 120th Battalion. The 173rd Regiment passed 13 men, and 15 were accepted for the Tigers. Rev. A. H. MacMillan, pastor of St. John's Presbyterian Church, will be chaplain of the 173rd.

Aggressive Campaign. The 120th City of Hamilton Battalion commenced a very aggressive recruiting campaign here yesterday in an effort to recruit approximately 200 men, to bring the battalion up to strength. Fifteen officers, 24 non-commissioned officers and 200 privates patrolled the streets, canvassed the warehouses, and interviewed the employees of various factories as a part of their propaganda.

Four Newfoundlanders Lost With Raider Greif. ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 27.—Word was received by the government tonight that four Newfoundland naval reservists, members of the crew of the British auxiliary warship Greif in the North Sea, were killed in action on Monday, March 27. The men were John C. Tucker, Albert Andrews, Nathaniel G. Dwyer, and William Dawe, all of Port de Grave, Conception Bay.

FRENCH THROW BACK GERMANS AT MAUCOURT

Attack Attempted on Front Between Somme and Oise Completely Fails.

FIRING ABOVE VERDUN

Heavy Bombardment Proceeds on Both Sides of Meuse.

LONDON, March 27.—The only infantry action in nearly a week was fought by the Germans on the front between the Somme and the Aisne today when they attempted a sudden attack on the first line trenches of the French in the neighborhood of Maucourt and were completely repulsed by the defenders. The German effort was preceded by an intense artillery bombardment.

The action of the French front Bethincourt-Le Mort Homme-Cumers, west of the Meuse, and the region of Vaux and Douaumont were centre of a violent bombardment today. Some gusts of artillery fire were also reported from the Woerwe. No infantry action was fought on this part of the front.

In the Argonne the French continued their artillery fight, the sector of the Cheppy wood being particularly in the storm centre. French long range guns caught German troops in the open as they were moving in the direction of Exermont Chatel and shelled them. These guns also exploded a munitions depot. The station and German establishments at Heudicourt, northeast of St. Mihiel, were bombarded by the French in long range, demolishing a number of cars and setting the building on fire.

The artillery action was violent during the night on the eastern bank of the Meuse, while on the western bank the proceedings were relatively calm. Much machine fighting at La Fille Mortel in the Argonne, resulted in the advantage of the French. Some engagements with bombs were fought in the sector of Courtes Chaussees. A fairly spirited bombardment was reported from the Woerwe district.

PRIMA VERA MAHOGANY looks like the tawny brown satinwood which Sheraton and the Adam Brothers used to employ for their choicest bits of cabinet-making. It is one of the richest and rarest grades of mahogany procurable, with a daintiness and refinement about it which make it ideal for the furniture of Milady's bed-chamber.

To be greatly appreciated then is this "Brighten-the-Home" Sale offering of bedroom sets in Prima Vera mahogany at just about half the usual prices. A glance at them in the Yonge Street windows will assure you of their uncommon attractiveness. For designed along the simple straight lines of the Sheraton school, the ornamentation restricted to a narrow inlay of darker brown, they are worthy of a place in the most carefully, charmingly furnished house. Prices are as follows--

Bureau with 48-inch top, 42-inch mirror and antique brass knobs on the five drawers. Special sale price, $55.00. Bedstead to match with cane panels, high head end, 4 ft. 6 in. wide. YOU WERE INQUIRING?

K. M. K.--Your red carpet will not be content to play second fiddle in any color scheme I am afraid. You will have to ally the color of the carpet with the furnishing of your room. Suppose you have the walls papered in a warm buff tone, and use a deep red damask or monk's cloth for the curtains. This with a red silk shade on the reading lamp should provide a harmonious background for walnut or dark oak furniture. In fact, it should give you a very attractive room. A clear Futurist chintz with a design of old blue and black in it would be nice for the cushions. If possible, have your pictures framed in brown or black.

Leathery brown tint generally prove a happy choice for a library, enlivened with Oriental rugs, and amber silk shades for the lights. As for your dining-room with all the fine old wall-cottings, a grass cloth effect or self-tone conventional pattern in green and blue below for the upper walls. And I believe one of the new heavy Madras muslins--there's a beauty with blue, black and a little silvery gray in it--would be admirable for curtains.

"An Ignorant One."--Then here is knowledge, little Miss Brampton: A smart fat fashioned of dull black silk, combined with straw, can be had in one of the new high-crowned shapes, with modish ribbon mount by way of ornamentation--all for the sum of $5.00. Or if you think that a wide-brimmed sailor hat is not to the "roundness" of the face, a black hat of the same diameter, constructed would be available at the same price.

Hurried--You couldn't imagine smarter mourning millinery than that in the little Gray Room at the present time. And here, too, is a hat of the same diameter, constructed would be available at the same price.

A Blonde--Shell pink taffeta is $1.25 a yard--36 inches wide, and silk mill in the same colorable tint, 45 cents a yard--36 inches wide. The only so-called sandals are in black patent leather, and a low heel--$1.00 a pair. If you are not "Dancing the Jelly Roll" it can be got for you, 15 cents a pair. The other selection is not published, alas.

CREW INCAPABLE THRU LONG HOURS AT WORK

Decision of Jury at Inquest Into Cause of Fatal Grand Trunk Wreck.

MUCH EVIDENCE HEARD

Engineer Dennis and Conductor Ward Questioned Regarding Instructions Received.

It only took Coroner Sutton's jury half an hour yesterday to decide that last Thursday's train wreck, in which three men lost their lives, was caused by brakeman L. Martin of the freight train crew, mistaking train No. 108 for No. 16. "And the jury also agree that the crew of the freight train were rendered incapable of properly attending to their work owing to exhaustion, having been on duty for 22 hours," concluded the verdict.

Engineer Gordon Dennis told of having received thru Brakeman Martin instructions from Conductor Ward to follow the "next" passenger train out. When a train went by Martin went out and opened the switch, and he therefore concluded it was the last train of the evening, No. 16, and ventured out on the main line. The engineer also related vividly the attempts of the fireman and himself to snatch some sleep on the siding after being on duty 22 hours. He admitted that once he dozed and a passenger train would not have awakened him.

Conductor Ward denied to Crown Attorney Morphy that he had been invited to leave town. The conductor declared his intention to remain and see the thing thru, but before giving evidence he claimed the protection of the court. He asked that as he was not legally represented the evidence he should give here be not used against him. Ward told the court that his instructions to the engineer, given thru Martin, were to follow out train No. 16. The freight train, he said, had not moved out on the switch on his orders. Before retreating to the caboose he saw he was clear of the main line, but came out in a few minutes the engine and the two cars out on the main line with No. 16 bearing down upon them.

Engineer Dennis gave evidence that he and his crew had been 22 hours on end without sleep, and in his address to the jury Coroner Sutton dwelt upon this feature with emphasis.

Not Wide Awake. "It is evident from the evidence of the engineer that he was not wide awake," he said. "I can easily understand that when men are working 22 hours without any rest they are not in any condition physically to do their work. These men should not be asked to work 22 hours; I am in sympathy with the men and against the practice of the company."

The coroner at length demonstrated how men in such an inefficient mental condition were not to be trusted with thousands of human lives. "Their minds are not clear and their brains are foggy, due to fatigue," he explained.

Engineer Gordon Dennis of the freight train declared that although he had an order to leave the siding earlier he waited for the last train to go. When train No. 108 went by on the main line he took it for No. 16, which was always the last. Dennis said he realized that a mistake had occurred and he grabbed a lighted torch and waved it at Engineer Overend of the express, in the hope that he might see it.

Asked what was the first thing he did after the accident, Dennis said he went back and said to the conductor: "What did you fellows mean back there by telling me to follow the next passenger train? Don't you know that men have been killed up in front?" Dennis explained that the order to follow the next train had come thru Martin, the brakeman, from the conductor, who afterwards denied having issued such instructions. "Martin came right from the caboose and I did not question his orders," Dennis declared.

Crown Attorney Morley questioned the engineer more fully concerning the condition of himself and the men at a result of 22 hours without sleep. Witness said he had instructed the fireman, W. O. Anderson, to rest for a while during the wait on the siding, and Anderson had done so on a seat in the cab. Witness said he had also taken a casual doze, but was not sound asleep.

"Could a passenger train have passed without waking you?" asked the crown attorney. "Yes, it could," answered witness.

Lengthy Hours the Rule. He explained the lengthy hours were the rule, because in order to take care of the war orders the company was compelled to put the men on long shifts.

Conductor Lec S. Ward, also of the freight train, explained that he did not know train 108, the second train to pass, was 17 minutes late until she had arrived at the station. "I arrived at Port Credit at 6.15 on the night of Thursday, March 23, and it was 6.25 when my train pulled into the siding; one mile east of here. I asked if train No. 108 was on time, but could get no information from the operator." He said he then went to the caboose of the freight train and after doing a few chores went to sleep. Between 8.30 and 9 the operator came in with a message, which read "O.K. to go." This, witness said, was from the train despatcher at Hamilton. He was then verbally notified to follow train 764.

"I told my crew and the operator that I would not follow 764, but would follow No. 16," he stated. Witness said he told L. Martin, his brakeman, who was killed in the accident, to tell the engineer to follow No. 16.

"After train No. 108 passed, my train started to pull to the east end of the siding approaching the main line. She moved slowly, and after we had pulled down 15 or 20 car lengths we stopped. I climbed out on to the caboose and found No. 16 Chicago express pulling over the hill about a mile west of Port Credit, and from where I was standing I saw that the front end of my train was clear of the main line." According to witness he went back to his caboose for but a few moments when he heard the crash and ran out to see what had happened.

"Mr. Ward, there was some mistake somewhere. Where, in your opinion, was that mistake?" asked the crown attorney. "I cannot say. We were 35 or 40 car lengths on the siding at the last movement of the train at my orders."

Walter Argentin, Grand Trunk night operator at Port Credit, said he had received no orders concerning the movements of any of the trains except the message from Trainmaster Hall of Hamilton to Conductor Ward, saying it was "O.K. to go." Witness said he took this in to Ward at 8.25 and he was still there when the accident happened at 9.57.

Crown Attorney Morphy: "Why did he not go?" "A. I don't rule his train. Maybe he thought the Mimico yards were blocked."

G. Warden, rear end brakeman on the freight, also gave evidence. He thought that when train No. 108 went by it was No. 16.

HE'S SURELY WITH ALLIES.

PARIS, March 27, 5.20 p.m.--The Temps today received 78 francs 75 centimes in coupons from bonds of the Anglo-French loan. The money came from an American citizen, who wrote saying that the amount of the loan should either be paid into the French treasury or disposed of in any other manner to serve civilization, so nobly defended by the allies."

PRIZE MONEY FOR SAILORS.

Carman's Crew Rewarded for Sinking Cap Trafalgar.

LONDON, March 27.--Sir Samuel Evans, president of the prize court, today awarded the officers and crew of the British auxiliary cruiser Carmania £115 as prize money for the sinking of the German auxiliary cruiser Cap Trafalgar, destroyed by the Carmania in South American waters in September 1914. The bounty was estimated on the basis of 423 persons on board the Cap Trafalgar when she sank.

This is the first application ever heard in the prize court for prize bounty.

Iron Is Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of the Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate Nervous, Run-down People 200 Per Cent. Stronger in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

NEW YORK, N.Y.--Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, says Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength which is their own because they do not take enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From this weakness, nervous condition, they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or "impurities" and see for years how they lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron. Iron acetate or sulphate or iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated. Like nuxated iron, if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena. While many another has gone down to defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE--Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Leggett's Store, G. Tamblyn, Ltd., and all other druggists.

TUESDAY, MORNING, MARCH 28,

Threats or Promises?

Germany appears to be relying on the legal position that if you can't prove it, it isn't so. The United States Government does not appear to be averse from taking the benefits of the same view. It has not been proved that the German navy torpedoed the Sussex, and maybe someone else did, Switzerland, for example. Now has it been proved that any American was killed as a result of the torpedoing?

President Wilson is quite relieved when nobody is proved to have been killed. He has made every effort to find out if any citizen of the great republic was actually deprived of life. The latest reports declare not. The president feels that there is much to be grateful for in the situation. Had any one been killed he would have been compelled to write another note to Germany. Even as it is he is not sure that he may not be called upon to make a mild protest.

The big New York newspapers are under no illusion about the Germans and their good or bad faith. "Germany's worthless word" is the title of a World editorial, in which it is asked "Is the German Government or any agent of the German Government to be believed?" The Times thinks it a ghastly pretence that the United States is in friendly relations with a power which in spite of its own promises continues to destroy the lives of American citizens. The Sun is equally convinced of the futility of protesting to Germany.

At the same time there are statements being made at Washington that the state department regards the situation as serious. This must be taken with reserve. Facts and affidavits are being sought, and by the time they are available something new may have turned up to enable the Micawber of diplomats to refrain from any warlike demonstration. President Wilson may be playing a deeper game than anyone suspects, but to those who are unsuspecting the attitude of the United States Government savors of pusillanimity in a high degree.

As to the facts, people who do not wait till they get an affidavit are quite certain on the evidence of the British admiralty that the Tubantia was sunk by a torpedo. Pieces of a bronze torpedo were found in one of the Tubantia's life boats. Six bronze torpedoes of German make have been picked up in the North Sea and the English Channel. No British or French torpedo is made of bronze. The American consul at Boulogne has been informed by a French officer that part of a torpedo had been found on the Sussex. There is no reasonable doubt, no doubt whatever, that the Germans have been torpedoing everything in sight, as they threatened to do.

Between their promises and their threats it is wisest to open upon their threats, as these are more in harmony with the character of their government and supreme head. It will be time enough to begin to rely on German promises when we have had a few of them fulfilled. It would be wise for the United States Government to adopt the same plan. Any reliance placed on German promises, or any policy based upon such reliance, is apt to lead to worse evils than the intelligent and courageous facing of the facts of the case could possibly do.

Sir Rider Haggard's Empire Tour

Sir Rider Haggard, who is so well known as a novelist, is likely to be better known as a statesman. He is at present on a tour of the empire with the object of arranging for the settlement on the waste places of the various colonies and dominions overseas, of the men who desire after the war to go out from the old land and try their fortunes with the land. Sir Rider has studied the question of land settlement and of agriculture and farm culture of all varieties since long before the war. He was here in Toronto ten years ago on a similar mission to that on which he is now engaged and he will be back here in the course of the spring on his way from Australia and New Zealand.

At a luncheon given in his honor before he left London on his trip, he defended himself, as the others were, as a writer of fiction. He had, he said, to do public and semi-public work. Such work, however, was not paid for, and he had to support the work somehow as he was not rich. "How do you suppose I am able to undertake to travel for seven months upon this mission for instance?" he asked. "I must write fiction to pay for it. You will perhaps allow, as your chairman (Lord Curzon) has done, that in some sense I possess a dual mind, and that because I write fiction, it does not follow that I cannot understand and confront practical matters."

Sir Rider once wrote a book of half a million words about the land. He said he never heard of anyone who had read it all, but he believed future generations would read it to learn what happened in our own time upon and concerning the land. With regard to the empire, he sees it displaying ever new vastnesses, ever new possibilities, ever new riches waiting to be seized. He could imagine fifty millions in Australia, and Canada and South Africa could hold a world of Anglo-Saxon people. The great need of the empire is population.

His note of warning is one that should be well considered and when he comes to Canada there should be no lack of preparation to receive him. His work is not to be taken as in any sense an interference with any function carried on by either the Dominion or the provincial governments. What he desires to do is to co-ordinate whatever effort is made towards the stimulation of the transfer of the British stock to lands under the flag. He wants to save every man, woman and child who leaves Great Britain and Ireland for the empire. There is always unrest after a war. After the European war in 1903, there were 250,000 emigrants, and of these 123,000 went to the United States. Canada should have much to say to Sir Rider when he arrives.

The Kaiser and the Sailor King

With the leakage of news from the North Sea anticipations have been roused to a high pitch of an encounter between the battle fleets of the kaiser and the sailor king. The kaiser is probably wishing now that he had given as much attention to the navy as he did to the army. Authorities of the period during which the nation may still continue to hold out as not longer than next August, and one banker declared that the financial system would collapse in May.

This means that the situation is growing desperate. In a case of desperation almost anything is possible. This is the real basis of the expectation that the German fleet may actually make an effort to redeem its reputation. Two plans are suggested as being within the possibilities. The first is that in case of desperation, when all is about to be lost, and defeat, utter and complete, is staring the Hohenzollern dynasty in the face, it would be a fine revengefulness for the fleet to sail forth and attack the British navy with the hope of inflicting such loss and damage as might be, or even with a wild impossible hope of doing such injury as might turn the tide of war in favor of the armies of the mangled fist.

It must be recognized that this is a last chance, a forlorn hope, born of the same mind that issued the order to the men of the submarines that, when trapped, suicide is the fate of the German crew. It is much less war than any thing that has been conceived by the German staff for a long time past. It can do no good. It may destroy some lives, but it cannot affect the final issue. Perhaps it will have the effect, and one to be desired, of awakening the German people to a knowledge of the ruthlessness and heartless disregard for his men that inspire the kaiser and his family. Men are nothing to him. His life and his purposes, his plans and his pursuits are alone to be considered. Humanity has believed that this view had perished from the earth. It still lingers in the degenerate brain of the last of the Hohenzollerns.

The other plan is to invade England. No doubt the kaiser would do much to rival William the Norman, or Canute, or Hengist, or Julius Caesar. England has been invaded successfully several times, but they were not times when Englishmen were prepared to receive visitors. Naval men do not put aside the possibility of an invasion, but they assume to be prepared for it in any shape.

No doubt the kaiser thinks that if Great Britain can put two million men in France, he ought to be able to put half a million in England. The problem is much more complex than this. Its complexities are well known to the admiralty and they have been prepared for.

There is only one reason why anyone should wish that the German navy might have a little success in landing troops in England. It might wake up the dastardly and sluggish loiterers who still hang back from enlistment. At a time when every man is required in the ranks who can be made fit to serve, there are still many who think nothing of their responsibility, but take their ease and their pleasure as if the war had no existence. It would be a great blessing to such men if anything occurred to enable them to understand and abhor their own failure in manhood and honor. They might thank the kaiser with glad hearts could they realize their position, if anything he did awakened them to a sense of their duty and privilege.

U. S. OPEN PURSE FOR CANADA.

New York Financial World: Without any trouble Canada has succeeded in securing another loan of $75,000,000 thru our bankers. Hardly had the fact been known that a syndicate had been formed to underwrite this new issue when from all over the country there began to pour in requests for participation in the new underwriting. The readiness with which the banking interests of the United States respond to the financial requirements of our neighbor to the north must make her people feel a great pride in the high rating we accord to the credit of their Dominion.

What Canada is paying an attractive rate of interest upon her recent borrowing, it is not unusually high. Her various provinces during times of peace have had to pay as high as 3 per cent. to obtain money for various civil purposes, so that the present rate of interest, ranging from 5.30 to 5.75 per cent., is not abnormal considering the conditions and the fact that Canada is carrying all the expenses of the maintenance of her troops and to demonstrate to the whole world her loyalty to the mother country, from which she springs.

Whatever our individual feelings regarding the war may be, there exist none of those differences among our people toward a Canadian loan, such as interfered to a certain extent with the popular reception of the Anglo-French loan.

Geographically Canada is part of our continent; we are all aware of her splendid resources, the virility of her people and her great wealth; all factors which compose the highest grade of national credit, appeal to us. Consequently there is no cause for wonderment at the eagerness with which bankers and investors, large and small, eagerly seek for the Canadian bonds which are selling at a premium over their issuing price.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST WITH MINNEAPOLIS

Report Indicates British Liner Was Shelled by Attacking Submarine.

LONDON, March 27.—It is announced that 11 persons were killed when the British steamship Minneapolis, formerly in the New York-London service, was sunk last week in the Mediterranean. All others aboard were saved.

The statement that 11 persons were killed indicates that the Minneapolis may have been pursued and shelled by the attacking submarine, tho it is also possible the 11 were killed when the explosion of the torpedo.

A Lloyd's despatch from Malta, dated March 24, says:

"The crew of the Minneapolis, which was torpedoed, have arrived here with the exception of 11 men, who were lost."

NUMBER OF TORONTO SOLDIERS RETURNING

Two Hundred Invalided Men Were Brought Back on Sicilian.

QUEBEC, March 27.—Close to two hundred invalided soldiers reached Quebec Saturday evening from St. John, N. B., where they disembarked from the Allan liner Sicilian. Already a number of them have been discharged.

RICHARD GUTHRIE DEAD WAS WELL-KNOWN FARMER

Special to The Toronto World.
 PICKERING, March 27.—Richard Guthrie, all his life a resident of Pickering and Whitby Townships, passed away on Sunday, aged 75 years. The late Mr. Guthrie spent his whole life near Audley. His 300-acre farm there was in a high state of cultivation, and he recently purchased the 100-acre McKay farm on the Kingston road, adjoining R. J. Fleming's properties. Besides his widow (formerly Miss Sarah McGowan, whose nephew was recently killed in action), he leaves three sons, William, councillor of Whitby Township; Frank of Chicago and Richard, jr., at home, and two daughters, Edith, at home, and Mrs. Johnston of Niagara Falls. His eldest son died several years ago while at attendance at Whitby Collegiate.

The funeral takes place to Groveside Cemetery on Wednesday. Mr. Guthrie was a Conservative in politics and a Presbyterian.

DEPLORES GRAFT CRY AS TO SOLDIERS' FOOD

Col. Ruttan of Winnipeg Takes Exception to Allegation of Dr. Bland.

WINNIPEG, March 27.—"I am sorry that Dr. Bland made the statements attributed to him at Port Arthur," said Col. Ruttan, O.C. district No. 10, this morning with reference to Dr. Bland's allegations of graft in soldiers' food supplies. "Dr. Bland is entirely mistaken. It is too bad that he should make statements of this kind with regard to the food served to soldiers, without making a personal investigation and obtaining the facts at first hand."

"There are no soldiers in the empire served better than those in western Canada," he said.

JUVENILE DESPERADOES CONFESS.

Montreal Boys Set Fire to House, Jeopardizing Innates.

MONTREAL, March 27.—Two boys, aged 13 and 14, who were confined to Judge Choquette of the juvenile court that they had burglarized the home of Mrs. Papiereau, whose nephew was recently killed in action, set fire to the building, because disappointed with their haul. Mrs. Papiereau and five children narrowly escaped being burned to death. They were in bed at the time, but discovered the blaze before it had reached dangerous proportions. The boys also confessed to a number of other burglaries. They will be sentenced on April 4.

ALLIES PLAN BIG COUP TO FINISH WAR SOON

Single Policy Will Be Carried Out in Every Phase of Activity.

FINANCED BY BRITAIN
 All Allied Countries in Need of Funds Will Be Supplied.

PARIS, March 27.—Vast plans for which the entente powers hope to end the war before the end of the present year are being made by the grand allied council of war which began here today. The first session was opened at the foreign office at 10 o'clock, with representatives of France, Britain, Russia, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and Japan present. Britain is represented by Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister; Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war; Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, commander of the British forces on the continent, and Gen. Robertson, chief of the British general staff.

No previous meeting has been of such grave import or has been attended by such a representation of world figures in war and diplomacy. The subject of the first sitting is the military situation. That is all which may be said definitely, out it is probable that Gen. Joffre, Earl Kitchener, Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, Lieut.-Gen. Count Cadorna, Gen. Castelnau and Gen. Roques, the new French war minister, addressed the conference.

Britain's Pledge.
 England, it is said, has pledged herself to furnish money to any of the allied countries likely to be hampered by lack of funds in preparing for a general offensive.

A member of one of the parliamentary commissions—which, exercising parliamentary control by frequent visits of supervision to the front, play an important part in the direction of the war—explains the official view of the allied conference which will open today.

"This week is perhaps the most important in the history of Europe as against the inception of a homogeneous program of the entente coalition. Henceforth the allies will have a single policy not only in military operations, but diplomatically, politically and economically."

"No more auspicious moment could be chosen. As the Verdun failure does not mark the end of the German offensive and is the turning point of the war, so this conference marks the real beginning of the allies' united offensive, which, in closest collaboration along lines laid down after mature consideration, will end only with Germany's downfall."

GARRANZA MAY SEIZE PROPERTY OF CLERGY

Sensation Created at Mexico City by Announcement of the Government.

MUCH WEALTH STORED
 Clergy Reputed Immensely Wealthy in Lands, Jewels and Works of Art.

MEXICO CITY, March 27.—The published announcement that the Mexican Government was considering the advisability of taking over all the personal and realty holdings of the Catholic clergy throughout the republic created somewhat of a sensation here this morning. In a special despatch from Queretaro, the official government organ, quotes both Secretary of the Treasury Cabrera and Dr. Siroch, governor of the State of Guanajuato, as saying that the measure would be made effective under the old law, dating back more than half a century, when church edifices were seized during the administration of Benito Juarez.

The clergy in the States of Michoacan, Puebla, Queretaro and Jalisco are reputed to be immensely wealthy in lands, lands and works of art, which are held in trust for the church. It is said that the appropriation of these by the government for their conversion into gold with which to swell the redemption of the paper money issue made necessary by the revolution, would solve Mexico's present economic difficulties. Government official declarations place the present paper issue at $500,000,000 pesos, with an insignificant metallic reserve for its redemption.

Asked Order to Further Restrain Royal Bank From Disposing of Bonds.

YESTERDAY AT OSGOODE
 Verdict of the Master Regarding Will of the Late Dr. W. Carroll Reversed.

Justice Kelly, at Osgoode Hall yesterday, listened to the arguments in the motion made by H. M. Mowat, K. C., for an order continuing the injunction granted by Justice Britton, restraining the Royal Bank and others from selling $1,000,000 bonds of the Kentucky Coal and Timber Development Co., the head office of which is in Toronto.

Mr. Mowat stated that the property is in Kentucky, but that the company is essentially a Canadian one. Counsel averred that the land held timber, coal and other minerals worth $2,000,000 in its present state, or $3,000,000 when developed. The bank claims an indebtedness of $902,000, of which $400,000 is interest.

Justice Sutherland had given judgment reversing the decision of the master in chambers, and adding the heirs of Dr. Daniel W. Carroll as parties in the action brought to declare invalid a bequest whereby the testator left his home on King street, Ingersoll to be used by the town as a hospital for sick children. Some of the heirs allege the bequest was illegal.

Canadiens Play Portland Tonight

FOURTH GAME TONIGHT FOR THE STANLEY CUP

Canadiens, With Two Out of Three to Their Credit, Favorites Over Portland.

MONTREAL, March 27.—Ottawa was well represented at the Portland-Canadians match at the Westmount Arena Saturday night. Canadiens are now strong favorites and it is generally believed that they will win out and bring the Stanley Cup back east. Of course, they have a hard nut to crack tonight when the game will be fought out under Pacific Coast rules, with seven men and the forward pass. Canadiens adapted themselves to it remarkably well last Wednesday, but Portland were then off color.

Portland, while at full strength, played better hockey Saturday night than in either of the previous games. They showed signs of distress, however, and it was quite evident that the strain had begun to tell. One of the Portland players is said to have broken training rules and if this is so their chances will be slim, as they only have seven first-class men.

"I will go five games now," said Manager Savage, after Saturday's match. "Our fellows had tonight's match won until they lost their heads in the second period. Had Oatman and Johnson stayed on the ice, there would have been a different game. We will beat Canadiens Tuesday."

George Kennedy was, of course, tickled with the Canadian victory. "That was the turning point," he commented, the owner of the N.H.A. champions. "They won't have a chance in the next game. The Rosebuds have faded. Rumors were current that Lalonde had been hurt internally, but these were denied. He will be all right for Tuesday's game. Saturday's was the last match in which the players shared the receipts. All the proceeds of the first three games went to the team and it is understood that they will split up about $1,000.

"They're no better than any of our N.H.A. teams," remarked Connor, after seeing the Portland team play. "They are all good individually, but fail to show much combination tonight. I look for Canadiens to win out in one more game."

Referee Harvey Purford was favorably impressed by some of the coast rules. He considers their penalty system superior and that the N.H.A. and P.C.H.L. should adopt uniform rules, viz. the six man game with the coast penalty rule. He believes would eliminate the rough work.

"Had the coast rules been in force last night," said Purford, "I would have ruled Oatman and Lalonde out of the game in the second period. According to the N.H.A. rules, they were not majorors. The result was their fight in the final period."

None of the N.H.A. men favor seven man hockey, but they agree that the western penalty system is superior and that the forward pass mid-ice speeds up the play.

LEEDS COUNTY HOCKEY.
BROCKVILLE, Ont., March 27.—The championship of the Leeds County Hockey League, composed of eight teams, goes to the Seely's Bay aggregation, and with it possession of the silver trophy donated by Sir W. T. White, master of finance, who represents the riding. The final match was played in Brockville on account of lack of ice at Westport, the team of which village was defeated by Seely's Bay in a home-ice struggle, contested at Seely's Bay the home team won the series by a three-goal margin, which Westport lost in fifteen minutes over-time. Buffalo are already in the playoffs, but the match was decided by the incompetency of officials. The game started out with an official of each club acting as referee and judge of play, respectively, but their work became so rank that the two teams refused to play under them at the opening of the third period. The president of the league, J. D. Dargatzis, of Egan, who was present, dismissed both officials and handled the game himself. Disputes and delays dragged the match for over four hours, but a big crowd stayed to the finish.

Crececus, Former Champion Trotter Is Dead in Russia

An interesting item of news drifted from Russia a few days ago, in the belated announcement of the death of the former world's champion trotter, Crececus, 2,024. For some months various stories have been circulated in regard to the champion, one being copied generally in the daily press, to the effect that the station had been impressed for military use in one of the armies of the czar, but this proved to be without foundation. The news of his death, however, is apparently authentic, coming from the American trainer, Frank Caton, who has spent years in Russia, and is naturally in touch with harness horse affairs in the land of the Cossacks.

Crececus was bred and raced to his record by George Ketcham, of Toledo, formerly more or less prominent in the theatrical affairs, owning a theatre in his home city and managing several others in cities in the central states. Ketcham took up the rearing of trotters as a method of regaining his health, and owned the stallion Robert McGregor, 2,174, a star trotter back in the days of the high-wheel sulky, when he was known as "The Monarch of the Home Circuit."

Ketcham mated a mare named Marble with Robert McGregor, and the produce hatched in 1894 was the chestnut colt afterward to be known as Crececus, and set to be crowned as the greatest trotter of all time. So little was thought of the youngster of his early days that he was once sold as a cheap employe to destroy him, the disobedient of the employe saving a future champion to the turf.

Right from the start Crececus proved himself a real building trotter. When he was a three-year-old, Ketcham raced him against aged horses, among other events being in the racing of trotters as a method of regaining his health, and owned the stallion Robert McGregor, 2,174, a star trotter back in the days of the high-wheel sulky, when he was known as "The Monarch of the Home Circuit."

At the annual meeting of the Oklandes Lawn Bowling Club, interesting and very various committees, including a very efficient treasurer, Mr. W. A. Chapman, of the season of 1915. President, Frank G. McKay, vice-presidents, H. Burbank and D. W. Jameson, secretary, E. H. Storms, 24 Sumnerhill avenue; treasurer, W. A. Chapman.

The appeal on behalf of the Bowlers' Patriotic Fund was responded to promptly, and the club has paid to the treasurer of the fund the amount asked, $250.

MOST FIGHT CRITICS AWARD WHOLE TEN ROUNDS TO JESS

Five Hundred Police Had to Hustle to Handle Crowd Tickets for Sale at Box Office After Nine-Fight Aftersmath.

Greatest fight event ever pulled off in civilization, and everything satisfactory, a general verdict of the Willard-Moran affair of last Saturday night in New York. Instead of the champion having a margin in seven rounds, most fight critics award the whole ten to Jess, who still saved Frank for certain in the tenth.

Promoter Rickard is being congratulated by his friends and the whole world. At the close Tex said: "Now that everything is over, I feel, first of all, as if I can breathe a new record. I thought it a great fight between two rugged, strong men, and I enjoyed it immensely. I only hope the many persons gathered in the Garden had as much fun as I did, and hope you will excuse me from giving a decision. Maybe it is not necessary, if I ever mix up with you, I would like to do it in New York. Here one gets results quickly, and is judged by the whole world. I hope my many friends I have made will remember me, as I surely will them. It was some a fight."

It took 500 police, including uniformed men, to handle the crowd. What made as much trouble as anything for the police was the large number who came to see the fight, and to gaze. The spectacle of all those people, the slight and the people, into the Garden was too much for them to leave, and finally they had to be herded back a hundred feet from the four corners of the block. There they were allowed to remain until 11 o'clock.

A little after nine the announcement was made that some boys were left at the box office, and a few stragglers managed to get in. Here is a pen picture of the throng: The ring is fringed with notables of the boxing world, including the American trainer, Frank Caton, who has spent years in Russia, and is naturally in touch with harness horse affairs in the land of the Cossacks.

Frank Shaughnessy of the Ottawa club, who was reported as going with the 20th Battalion of Ottawa, has asked the London club for a price on Outfielder Lamy for the Warren, Pa. club.

Guelp has sold Shortstop Johnny Murphy, who broke his leg while playing with the Toronto Braves, to Albany of the New York State League.

A London, Ont. despatch says: London delegates to the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association for the purpose of organizing the formation of a circuit of three or four cities in the western wing with two or four Michigan cities.

It was while the representatives, M. Dullage, for Guelp; Messrs. Sam Steady, T. Gillen, Dr. H. Reason, E. H. O'Neil and J. Keenan, for London, were discussing the situation that President Tom Nelson of the Brantford club got in touch with S. Stevely, the Brantford delegate, who would attend the meeting that he had received a letter from Manager Warner of Lansing, Mich., stating that he had made progress in interesting the former South Michigan League clubs, but that he would furnish fuller details at the meeting.

When the meeting dispersed a telegram was received from the Hamilton club, which stated that they favored not operating this year.

BOWIE TRACK MEETING OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

J. W. Pangle's Prohibition Favoring for Inaugural Handicap, Feature of First Day.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—John W. Pangle came back earlier from Cuba than the other American horsemen because he was anxious to find out how his three-year-old racer, Prohibition, was doing in preparation for the big events at the Bowie track, which will open next Saturday.

Prohibition is a son of Voter and Goody Good, which was developed by William Mudgeley for Clifford C. Cochran, and sold to Pangle last summer. He did not find his racing prospects bright in Canada in August, probably because he was too big and awkward in the first few months of his two-year-old season, but he was a clever colt at Laurel last fall, his most notable success having been scored over Celandria and Malchita in a race in which Celandria was a hot favorite.

Prohibition wintered at the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association's track under the eye of James Arthur, and also he did not grow any in height. He has filled out in every direction. He weighs upward of 1100 pounds, and his depth of chest and slanting shoulders between the route traveler. Not every son of Voter cares for a distance of ground, but The Manager and Ballot did and there is no reason why this colt should not. He is bred for distance running on his dam's side. Lamplighter, the sire of Goody Good, could go all day and all of his get took after him.

Pangle's colt is the most formidable of the Inaugural Handicap eligibles—the inaugural is sprint of seven furlongs, will be the feature race at Bowie on Saturday, when the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association begins its four-day meeting—claiming Bowie as a place of residence. The going at the new track has been in excellent condition for working all winter, and Prohibition has been galloping since the first of the year. He is ready to show three-quarters in 1:15 or thereabout, and, with a couple of stiff works, will be fit for the seven-furlong gallop with the stoutest of the runners that come up from New Orleans and Juarez.

Another horse that will bear the silks of Pangle thru the Bowie meeting is a two-year-old by Ogden out of Fair Atlanta, which carried a lot of trouble last fall. This colt did nothing less than bring to the track from Kentucky an epidemic which carried off several horses of considerable value. Dr. McCarthy was six or seven weeks stamping the epidemic out. This colt recovered, however, and like Prohibition, he has been going well since the first of the year. He is the most forward youngster at the track. Arthur has claimed a name for this colt, whose mother was Miss Hanover. Pangle brought back from Cuba his old campaigner, Yellow Eyes and Cutie hunk, and the three-year-old Blue Rock, all of them recruits from the stable of Richard T. Wilson of New York. They did well enough in Cuba and came to Bowie fresh and good. Blue Rock, the first colt by Trap Rock, Tracer's full brother, seen under the colors on an earlier track last season, has grown in size to a rather handsome three-year-old. He is chunkily set up, strong of leg and quick. He looks like a colt that might hold his own over a distance of ground in fair selling plater company.

Another horseman just back from Cuba is Paul Madala, not long ago a fair sort of jockey now the trainer of the plater Della Mack. Among the arrivals in the course of the last two or three days from New Orleans are the stables of Emil Herz, James Johnson, Kenneth Karkick, Edward J. McGraw, W. A. Carter and George Chasler.

There will be seven races each day. The starter for the meeting will be A. B. Dade and the judges will be Joseph Murphy, George Miller and John Hiller of the scales and Herman Conking of the padlock and patrol judge. The stewards will be E. C. Smith, William P. Spurgeon and Carter Hill.

Portland to play in Ottawa.
OTTAWA, March 27.—The exhibition match between the Ottawa and Portland hockey clubs will likely take place here on Thursday evening of this week. In the event of the Stanley Cup series at Montreal ending tomorrow night, when Canadiens and Portland hook up again, the Rosbuds will come to Ottawa and play here Thursday. Should a fifth game between Canadiens and Portland be necessary, it will take place Thursday and the Rosebud-Ottawa game will hold over until next Saturday night.

Saratoga Announces Steeplechase Events

NEW YORK, March 27.—Entries for steeplechase stakes to be run during the meeting of the Saratoga Racing Association next August will close May 4. The big events for timber-toppers will be the Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap, for 4-year-olds and upward, with $1500 added; the North American Steeplechase Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, with $1000 added; the Beveryck Steeplechase Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, with $1000 added; the Shillalah Steeplechase Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, with $1000 added; the Metropolitan Jockey Club Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, with $1000 added; the Stuyvesant Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, with $1000 added; the Youthful Stakes, for 2-year-olds, with $2000 added; the Greenfield Stakes of $1600, for 2-year-olds; and the Suffolk Stakes of $1500, for 2-year-olds.

The final games were played in the Hit and Miss Basketball League last night at Central Y. when two very close games were played. This style of basketball has proven very successful, one hundred men having played in one or more games. The leading team had to work hard all the way to win the championship. A new league is to be run on the same basis will start Monday next. Teams and standing:
First game, 2-4—R. Polkinghorne (captain), H. Morris, 2, F. J. Stewart, 3, H. Davey, T. Seligman, A. Harris, J. Burton, A. F. H. Stock, H. Smeaton, J. Stratton, H. Golden, H. Hamilton.

BATSMAN WHO COULD NOT HIT THE OLD CURVE BALL

Jim Thorpe Has Only One Failing and Giants Will Send Indian to Minors.
NEW YORK, March 27.—Outfielder Butte Kauff and Rousch, substitutes, Robertson and Kelly.
Now that this appears to be the scheme which John J. McGraw has decided upon for the decoration of his outer garden this summer, the question more or less naturally arises: What is to become of James Sac-and-Fox Thorpe, for whom McGraw is believed to have paid in the neighborhood of $100,000 to buy nothing of a three-year contract at $6000 per annum in February, 1915?
Lo, the poor Indian! All the dope goes to another expulsion and another pilgrimage into the tall and uncut bushes in search of some herb or balm which will "cure" the mysterious disease which has clung to Thorpe ever since his entry into major league baseball in February, 1915?
Failing to find a remedy for this distemper—the most pronounced symptom of which is an almost total inability to hit curved balls—the man who was declared by the press to be the greatest all-around athlete only four years ago, and who has proved his ability to shine at practically all outdoor sports which man could devise, will be compelled to doff his sport bonnet to the national pastime and whisper "You win!"

Thorpe came to the Giants in February, 1915, following the declaration of the National Union that he had had professional himself by playing baseball for money in the East Carolina League while he was still a member of the American team in the Olympic games at Stockholm the previous summer. The Indian admitted the charges, maintaining that he had not known the law in the matter, and returned the trophies, which were re-awarded to the national team in the various events. At the height of the discussion McGraw had a quiet conference with Glenn Warner, coach at Carlisle Indian School and Thorpe's mentor and friend, of which Jim said that he had a three-year contract to play baseball with the Giants, at $6000 a year. The Giants manager had hopes—especially when, on March 11, 1915, Thorpe poked a home run off Mathewson down in Marlin, which was declared to be the longest hit ever made in the history of the game—by which he had won while a member of the American team in the Olympic games at Stockholm the previous summer.

But he can't hit a curved baseball! He has tried everything he could to make a batter and a ball player out of Thorpe, as have several other managers to whom Jim has been loaned on various occasions. At first the Giant manager had hopes—especially when, on March 11, 1915, Thorpe poked a home run off Mathewson down in Marlin, which was declared to be the longest hit ever made in the history of the game—by which he had won while a member of the American team in the Olympic games at Stockholm the previous summer.

Thorpe is no longer young, athletically speaking, having been born in Oklahoma in 1888; hence it is hardly likely that he can "bust all over" and come to be the bright particular star in baseball that he has been in other outdoor and indoor sports. He may last out the term of his contract in one of the minor league clubs to which McGraw will likely send him— for he is still so fleet of foot on the bases and in the outfield that he has a value—but it is very doubtful if he will be able to secure another three-year, or even one-year, agreement, when this one has expired. Which is unfortunate, since, of all the sports he knows, baseball is his favorite, the one thing he wants most of all to do is the one thing which fate has decreed shall be denied him.

REVIVAL OF RIDING IS MARKED TENDENCY

Becoming So Popular That National Bicycle Week is Being Held.
A HEALTHFUL EXERCISE
Not Only Benefit, But Real Sport in Taking Cycle Treatment.

The revival of bicycle riding for pleasure and as a sport is one of the marked tendencies of the times, said Samuel Bulley, manager of the Planet Bicycle Company, yesterday. In fact, so strong is cycling returning to popular favor with all classes that a national bicycle week is being observed this week, and bicycle dealers in this city have joined with thousands in other parts of the country to bring prominently before the public the many advantages the bicycle offers.

There is no question," said Mr. Bulley, "that hundreds of people might have overlooked the bicycle. It's about the only form of quiet recreation that involves health-building exercise without danger of overdoing it or becoming fatigued. In the old days when the bicycle was ridden for pleasure, physicians everywhere prescribed cycling for boys, girls, men and women, and their clients found not only benefit, but real sport in taking the 'cycle treatment.' Whatever was true of the bike ride then, in this respect is even more true today, because the wheel has been greatly improved and is available to everybody because of the greatly reduced price."

While most of the bicycle 'joy' riders' the past decade have been boys, the increasing number of men and women and girls who are riding is noticeable in the smaller cities and towns, in suburban localities and at the fashionable watering places. People who motor, ride the bicycle to their country clubs, the golf course, their favorite wooded spot or fishing brook, because of the exhilaration and real pleasure of a spin on the slender, steady, sturdy steed that is always ready, goes everywhere and doesn't eat up high-priced gasoline.

The manufacturers have cooperated with bicycle dealers for Bicycle Week, and Toronto stores are showing handsome models, with all improvements and refinements brought right up to the minute in perfection of detail.

MALAGA GRAPES BRING HIGHEST PRICES YET

Have Been Very Scarce and Quotations Have Been Up, But Yesterday's Are Record. TOMATOES ARE EASIER

Florida Varieties Were Quoted Somewhat Lower Than They Have Been. Malaga grapes were scarce this last season, and brought higher prices than usual, but it remained for yesterday to make a record, with the Charles S. Simpson usual two kegs at twenty dollars per keg, the highest price ever paid in Toronto.

WALL STREET GLOOMY
PETS STOCKS SUBSIDE

Important Shares Yielded One to Three Points in Dealings of Forenoon.

BETTER IN FINAL HOUR

Submarines, Mexican Situation and Labor Unrest at Bottom of Depression.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Fears of another grave international crisis resulting from the active renewal of submarine warfare in European waters, disconcerting reports regarding the progress of the war in Mexico, and the possibility of a nation-wide railroad strike, constituted the chief disadvantages under which today's sluggish and professional market labored. Prices of important stocks yielded one to three points in the forenoon, and some specialties suffered greater losses.

Dealings at that particular period were sufficiently broad to suggest further liquidation, especially in the war shares and affiliated issues. Reactions were gradual, but none the less effective, and support seemed to be maintained at marked concessions. Further ground for discouragement was found in the continued weakness of the investment public. The list strengthened in the dull final hour, when rails, notably Western Maryland issues, Reading, New York Central and other standard stocks rose appreciably on moderate demand. Western Maryland preferred made an extreme advance of 2 to 49, placing that stock within easy range of its maximum of the past year.

Moderate purchases of the international market were reported for account of London and other foreign investors, who were offset by selling for Dutch interests. Foreign exchange, however, remained steady. Foreign exchange and principal continental points showed moderate changes from last week's closing rates.

DIVIDEND DECLARED
CANADIAN MAPLE LEAF CO.

Stock Placed on Eight Per Cent Per Annum Basis—Bonus of Three Per Cent.

The directors of the Maple Leaf Milling Co., Limited, at their meeting yesterday, decided to pay an interim dividend on the common stock, payable April 15th, and also to put the stock on a regular dividend basis of eight per cent per annum, commencing with the commencement of the fiscal year, which begins the first of next month. The first 2 per cent quarterly dividend will be disbursed in July next. This means that, in effect, the stock will carry 11 per cent dividends for the next year, the interim payment working out in the same way as a bonus.

As the common stock capital is $2,500,000, the interim dividend calls for a payment of $750,000. Eight per cent per annum will take $200,000, so that total payments for the next year will be $750,000. The feature of the dividend authorized by the directors is that the annual report is counted on to make a very favorable showing. The regular 7 per cent per annum dividend on the preferred, payable April 15th, will be paid in full.

WINNIPEG ELECTRIC
DIVIDEND NOT PASSED

The inference drawn from the fact that Winnipeg Electric Railway directors did not authorize a dividend due this month, has been passed as correct, according to official information yesterday.

SPECIAL STOCKS FIRM
WITH EASING OFF LATER

Steel Stocks Retain Leadership at Montreal With Slight Changes.

MONTREAL, March 27.—While there was a good demand for special stocks in the morning, the market was off and finished quiet and unchanged at noon. The steel stocks were sold off in the morning, sold off in the afternoon, but then rallied sharply in the closing session. The steel stocks were sold off with a net gain of 3/4. The preferred stock of the American-Holden company was the only feature of note in the morning. It weakened one to 1/2 in the afternoon. The steel stocks were sold off about $400 shares, or more than 1/2 per cent of the total supply for the day.

DIVIDENDS ARE STARTED
CANADIAN MAPLE LEAF STOCK

Announcement Apparently Not Discounted by Market—Steel Shares Are Slightly Firmer.

With the usual irregularity contingent on making a market in certain stocks, the Toronto Exchange was without much feature yesterday. Traders who operate from day to day, if possible, watched New York closely for a lead, but failed to find one. The only topic of discussion, aside from the war, was the action of the Maple Leaf directors, which was scheduled to meet at noon.

Comment was made on the fact that the shares opened at 84 and closed at 83 1/2, presumably there was no discounting of the directors' action unless the advance from around 50 to present figures could be accepted as such. The market has been put on an 8 per cent basis, and a bonus of 3 per cent extra will be paid next month. The dividend is higher than anticipated and is expected to warrant an advance in the price of the stock.

WELL DISTRIBUTED
TRADING IN MINES

Timiskaming Reactionary on Decline in Price of Silver.

The market at the Standard Stock Exchange yesterday was inclined to be quiet and there was little in the way of a feature. Trading was fairly active and well distributed throughout the whole list. There were two or three declines, but these were counterbalanced by other advances, so that on the whole the list was steady.

A bearish factor in the metal stocks was the reaction of silver to 59 3/4, a full point lower than the high established last Friday. This, however, was to be expected after such a sensational advance, and traders now are looking for another upturn in the white metal as indications all point to higher levels than have ruled for some time past.

MINING NOTES

From an authoritative source it is learned that active operations on the West Dome Consolidated were started yesterday. A few weeks ago the dewatering of the mine was commenced and it is announced that this has been done successfully. The machinery has all been put in running order. Manager George Trethewey is in charge.

MARKET TOOK UPGRADE
FOR WHEAT IN CHICAGO

Restricted Crop Prospects and Subsidence of Sussex Scare Cause Rises.

ADVANCE SUBSTANTIAL

Lower Quotations From Liverpool Did Not Much Adversely Affect Prices.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Wheat scored a substantial advance in price today, helped by denials that any American yields had been lost on the Sussex and by bullish crop reports as well as by an unexpected large decrease in the U. S. visible supply total. The market closed firm, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 net higher, with May at $1.07 1/2, and July at $1.07 1/2. Corn gained 3/4 to 5/8, and oats 3/4 to 1/2. In reaction, however, some of last week's advance to a rise of 1/2.

Although wheat showed some weakness at the start, strength quickly developed and through the rest of the day the market was almost uniformly on the upgrade. Lower quotations from Liverpool influenced the initial decline and so, too, did further rains in the domestic winter crop belt. Sentiment in favor of higher prices, however, was maintained through the day.

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

NEW VARIETIES OF THE MIDDY BLOUSE

Fashion's Trend Reflected in Smart Outing Garment for Spring.

SMOCK MODELS CHIC

Buttons and Soft Scarfs Prominent With Novel Braid Belts.

In the new variations just launched of the midday blouse Dame Fashion gives her promise that never will she cease to smile approvingly on this splendid little garment, the queen of sports togs. Since first the midday appeared on the fashion horizon several summers ago, plain and unadorned, it has gone thru many and interesting transformations. The collars have grown and shriveled, belts have come and gone, sleeves have been long and short, but never has the disguise been sufficiently complete to obliterate the strong personality of the midday. The materials, too, have taken a turn. Plain white Indian beads, ducks and piques are all very well in their place, but what about crepe de chine, Japanese and China silks, shantung, Georgette and fancy colored cretons? They all have their place in the making of the spring midday, which departs from all conservative lines, assuming the generous proportions of the smock, the Russian blouse or the pepum waist. Of course the popular "old" midday style still prevails in plenty of charming models, in which the novel collar, the bright tie and smart patent belt serve to provide sufficient novelty. The smock type models are very attractive. The smoking ornaments, collar, yoke and waistline and also beads and cuffs. Buttons and soft scarfs play an important part, as do novel braid belts and buttons galore.

MOTION PICTURE BALL TO BE HELD AT ARENA

Spectacular Event Marks Local Visit of Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

The Arena, a week from Wednesday night, April 5, will be the scene of the first grand motion picture ball which has ever been held in Toronto. The spectacular scale on which it is being planned will make it an event which will challenge comparison with the gigantic affairs of the same kind previously held in New York and Chicago. The guests of honor will be the internationally famous couple, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, whose fame and popularity throughout Canada eclipses that of any other duo of screen stars. Miss Bayne and Mr. Bushman are to spend part of the week in this city as the guests of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Ontario, and their presence here will be the occasion of a tremendous demonstration without parallel in local moving picture history. Before the ball begins at the Arena, Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne and their entourage, in motor cars, will make a complete tour of all the theatres in the city at which Metro pictures are being shown. Starting from the Hippodrome, they will visit each house and be introduced to the audience from the stage. They are then to be conveyed to the Arena, where they will be welcomed officially on behalf of the city and the Motion Picture Exhibitors, after which a grand surprise entertainment and reception will be held. Every body present will have an opportunity of meeting and shaking hands with the stars, who will also enact before the camera a scene from one of their own plays, to show how motion pictures are made. There is also to be a series of specially devised costume dances under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Mosher, a big military drill and several other features, which are to be kept under cover until the night of the event. The entertainment and reception will be preliminary to the grand march at 10.30, which will be led by Miss Bayne, with Mayor Church as her partner. Tickets for the ball are now on sale at R. S. Williams & Sons, Limited, Starling, Limited, 245 Yonge street, and all theatres controlled by members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association.

WOMEN MOBILIZED FOR WORK ON FARM

British Government Raising Army of Four Hundred Thousand

Something which brings the reality of things home is the fact that the British Government is mobilizing 400,000 women to take the place of the quarter of a million farm hands who have enlisted. The service of the women is not to be of a haphazard nature, but to partake more of the character of an army at work. A uniform has been adopted and the agricultural women workers will be known by a green armband embossed with the royal crown. The campaign is greatly stimulated by the minister of education of the home government, and in the south-eastern division of England there are already said to be 200 women at work on farming areas. Toronto women, particularly Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, convener of agriculturists for the Council of Women, and the Women's Emergency Corps, are endeavoring to induce the women of Canada to interest themselves along similar lines.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM AT HELICONIAN CLUB

Musical Numbers Were Greatly Appreciated and Members Spent Pleasant Afternoon.

A short but delightful program was given at the Monday gathering of the Heliconian Club yesterday afternoon. Miss Evelyn O'Donoghue gave two vocal numbers, "Orpheus the most talented" and "What's in the Air Today" with Mrs. J. D. O'Donoghue as accompanist; two readings, "Apple Blossoms" and "The Bad Boy," were given by Mrs. W. N. Wilkinson. Mrs. Greaves contributed piano solos. All numbers were very much enjoyed. Others present were Miss Marjory MacMurphy, Miss Houston, Miss Gretta Mallon, Miss S. Cowan, Miss Jean Stewart. Miss Hart was hostess.

Contest Correspondence FAVORS MISS CUNARD.

165 Booth avenue, city. To the Editor of The Toronto World: Dear Sir: In reading last week's letters that were printed in The Sunday World, I ask you to consider these few lines. I will say that the letter which refers to Miss Grace Cunard is the most charming one of the two. What is the person that has the most talent and ability, not beauty exactly, and I consider that Miss Cunard is the one and the only one with the ability, or she would not win out where a Toronto girl is concerned. To make things plain, Miss Cunard can do most everything concerned in motion pictures; this I have read in papers and over again. She uses expression of the kind that everyone likes, films, limited, 245 Yonge street, and all theatres controlled by members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association.

Twenty-Six for Mary.

Dear Sir: Enclosed is 26 coupons in favor of Mary Pickford. One is torn, and the other stuck together with sticking plaster, nevertheless they are all for our favorite. We think if people are looking for an actress of ability, charm and physical beauty they have just to go and see Mary Pickford. No doubt there are actresses that are just as beautiful, or have the ability, but not many have them altogether. We have certainly worked hard to get all our friends to vote for Mary. In one day we gathered twenty-six coupons, and I think if every admirer of Mary worked as hard it would not be long until she would be at the head of the list. They say, "Where there is life there is hope," so we are still hoping for Mary to win. Hoping for her success.

Always for Mary.

Dear Sir: Enclosed you will find my vote, which is and always shall be in favor of Mary Pickford, not because she is a Toronto girl, but purely for her great ability as an actress. I have seen her impersonate a great many characters, and each one seems to be better than the last. I really believe Miss Pickford must have a beautiful soul in order to possess such a lovely face.

The World's Movie Contest

This department will be published daily as a feature of The Toronto World's Motion Picture Popularity Contest, letters received from Toronto World and Toronto Sunday World readers in support of their various candidates. Below will be found some of those withheld from The Sunday World's motion picture section last week on account of pressure of space.

This coupon will be counted if mailed to MOTION PICTURE EDITOR, The Toronto World, 45 West Richmond Street, Toronto, on or before the closing date, to be announced later.

PAULINE FREDERICK.

181 Louthier Ave., Toronto. Editor Motion Picture Contest: In my opinion Miss Pauline Frederick is the greatest actress in motion pictures today. Take, for instance, her portrayal of Donna Roma in "The Eternal City," and also "Bella Donna," in the play by the same name. I doubt very much if Mary Pickford could compare with her in acting. There seems to be some dissatisfaction among the voters, some being under the impression that because Miss Pickford is a Canadian we should vote for her. I do not agree with them. In a contest people should not be influenced, by an actress' nationality, but by her abilities as an actress. Another thing, I think you should have two separate contests, one for actors and one for actresses, as there are some actresses I admire equally as well as some actors. Enclosed you will find three coupons voting for Miss Pauline Frederick, "the queen of the movies."—A Canadian.

FROM EDMONTON.

To Motion Picture Editor: Just put this vote opposite, Miss Mary Pickford's name. We take The Sunday World here every week and I noticed the popularity contest when it started, but refrained from registering a vote owing to my distant address. However, now I think the condition of affairs warrants one, so I take this opportunity. It might be interesting to note that one of our daily papers held a similar contest, resulting in a decisive victory for Miss Pickford. Looking forward to the portrait of Mary, I remain, Yours sincerely—R. V. T. A former Torontonian.

A SOLDIER'S OPINION.

Citadel, Quebec. To Motion Picture Editor: Dear Sir: Enclosed please find coupon in favor of Miss Marguerite Clark and I hope before the close of the contest, this young lady will be one of the leading three. I notice that all my favorite artists are well up on the list, with the exception of Beverly Bayne, and Charlie Chaplin. As a Canadian the last named stands alone, and certainly deserves more votes, but it looks as the poor "Charlie" is forgotten in this contest. I was also pleased to note the remarkable increase of votes for Clara Kimball Young, who is an accomplished artist. Yours very truly—W. J. P.

BABY How to Train A Child to Go To Sleep Alone

By Dr. L. K. HIRSBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

SLEEP the most conciliatory of all the courted physical states of being, hovers like an angel around a baby's head. Faulty food, irregular feeding, soothing syrups, rocking, bouncing, walking the floor, "showing" a child to relatives and visitors, all make for a disturbed state of mind. Nature's own sweet and gentle restorer disappears, and the monetary sleeplessness, in its place, an infant should always sleep alone, and in a crib. Not only does this tend to keep a baby calm, but it obviates such things as rocking, contact with others, contagious diseases, and the like.

There should be systematic regularity of the child's bedtime, feeding at the precise turn of the clock's hands, absolute quiet between times, and exact moments for the youngster's toilet. If the baby is very young, it should be prepared for a full night's sleep 5.30 p.m. If it has had a full morning bath, a sponge and wash may be given. It and all its linens changed. Then it should be fed and nursed and put to bed.

"All Night" Sleep.

At 10 o'clock at night, or according to the age of the infant, it should again be fed, after which the child should sleep until 6 or 7 a.m.

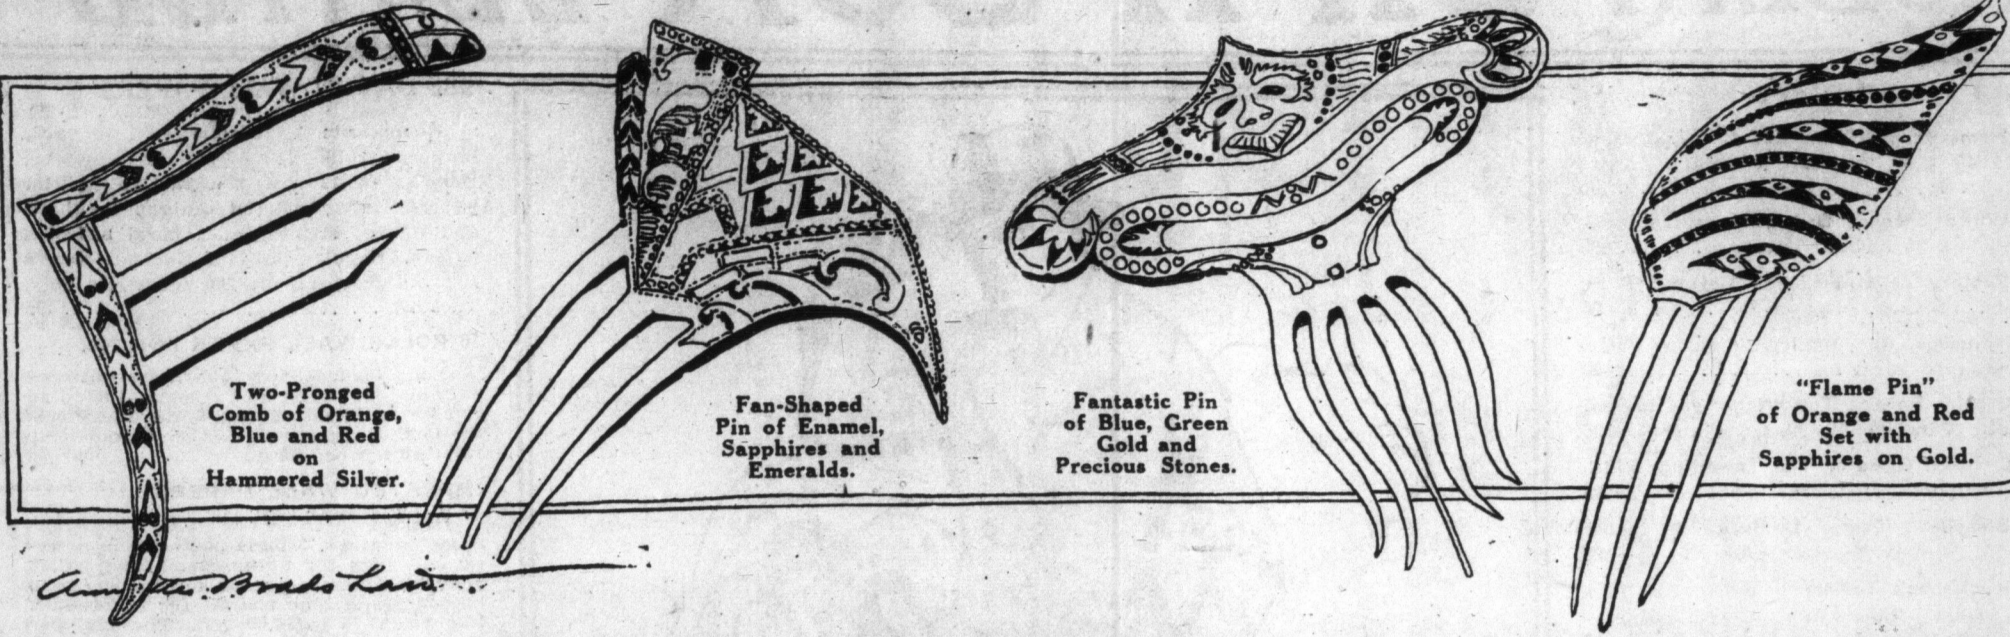

Most infants, unless their sleep is interrupted by parents, relatives or by faulty foods, will slumber the night thru. Contrary to what some may think about babies, darkness and quiet at night are conducive to sleep. If the wailing or crying of a wild child is not catered to, and if the healthy infant is not taken up to feel the warm flesh of the mother or nurse, it soon learns to make the best of the situation and falls soundly asleep. It is common experience to find in well-trained homes babies of 10 and 11 months so thoroughly established in their nocturnal habits that they sleep from early evening until 6 or 7 in the morning.

It is considered best to have infants sleep after the morning bath and the 10 a.m. feeding. This time should be set aside for sleeping. The crib should be fresh and clean, the mattress should be well aired, but now dark and as quiet as night. If this practice is commenced at birth and steadily maintained, it will be found that the little "babbling" child, if correctly fed, will sleep about three hours.

Causes of Wakefulness.

Next to noise, a light in a room is one of the worst enemies of the god Morpheus. The baby's eyes should not be sufficiently protected from the light. If a light is left in the room, it will either make the little one dreamy, restless and a bed-tossing or the youngster will unconsciously depend upon the light and awaken when it is dimmed or extinguished. Furthermore, this very fact is manifested in a disagreeable way in the wee, small hours of summer mornings, when the dawn often breaks at 4 o'clock. The room is darkened, either the morning light arouses the little one or it starts some pestiferous flies buzzing around which deprives the child of much needed sleep. In homes where the paternalism or mother must arise early in the winter, to make a fire and cook breakfast, each tiny light or creaky floor is exaggerated almost

HERE ARE THE VERY NEWEST ORNAMENTS FOR THE COIFFURE

Their Gorgeous Contrasts Are Striking Examples of the Color-Craze of Fashion

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

THE Ballet Russe has been formed "an artistic sensation." It has certainly played a notable part in the creation of some unusual fashions. The genius of Leon Bakst is responsible for the gorgeous stage settings and costumes of the ballet. This "wizard of color," with his matchless originality, has daringly combined hues that have heretofore been considered an offence to the artistic sense. The old world went color mad, when under the Bakst spell, leaders of fashion wore costumes which were imitatively Bakst in design. It remained, however, for a clever mind to conceive the idea of using the Bakst motifs, in their original colorings, to ornament combs and pins destined to adorn lady's tresses. The Bakst coiffure ornaments are decidedly unique in form because they are exact replicas of the oddly shaped motifs which appear in the fabrics designed by the fantastic imagination of the great artist.

The two-pronged comb of Egyptian inspiration was suggested by a motif in a gorgeous costume worn by the wife of Potiphar in the ballet, "The Legend of Joseph." In shape it resembles an Egyptian harp. The design is of orange, blue and red enamel outlined in black against a background of hammered silver. The comb is worn low on one side of the coiffure, with the cross-piece extended over the top of the flat coil of hair. The magnificent coloring used in "Scheherazade," and a motif reproduced from a fabric of one of the costumes, appear in the fan-shaped pin which is to be worn high on the coiffure. Against a background of dull, greenish gold are splashes of red and blue enamel intermingled with sapphires and emeralds. The entire design is bordered with topaz. Of unsurpassed richness in peacock tones is the fantastic pin which suggests the fascinating weirdness of India. It was inspired by a motif used in the costume of "Le Dieu Bleu." The predominating tone is a wonderful Bakst blue with softening touches of green, against a background of gold. Emeralds and topaz are lavishly used in the setting. The last of the Bakst coiffure ornaments is a graceful pin whose orange and red enamel, set with sapphires on hammered gold, are duplicates of the flame-colored hues which make "The Firebird" one of the most enchanting of the ballets. Fashion is much indebted to Leon Bakst, the source of "many things new"—startlingly original—this season.

How to Clean and Care for Your Silverware

BY ISOBEL BRANDS.

A HIGH-CLASS housekeeper who had served her apprenticeship in a noble foreign family recently told me that she received one of her greatest shocks on the Canadian methods of home management when she was told in her first position here that she was expected to "clean the silver every Friday."

"Why," she exclaimed, "do you think that abroad any one would ever think of cleaning fine silver more than once a year? Never! I do not think it is because your silver here is more valuable—but, no. Indeed, some of the silver I have had to handle here is beautiful that it is always kept under lock and key in secret drawers when it is not in actual use, and I always carried the keys on my own person. Silver wears off by too constant cleaning."

"Abroad, silver is washed carefully after each use. All the silver is washed by itself in hot suds made with good white soap, and sometimes a little ammonia is added. But the water must be very hot, and then the silver must be rinsed in very hot, clear water and dried with clean towels. If there are egg stains they can be taken off separately with a little wet salt. Then when all the pieces of silver are clean and dry they are rubbed with chambray to make them glitter."

Is it not because we are accustomed to purchasing the less expensive plated ware that we are inclined to be less careful in handling silver? Certainly plated ware is by far the most sensible in the average family. It comes in beautiful patterns, looks well, and is less of a responsibility. But it requires some special attention, if it is to serve a long and useful life. In the first place silverware should not be used for anything but serving. No, not even for one single stray striver heating up. No blasted silverware, neither flannel nor woolen—not a rubber band should ever be kept near silverware. These articles all contain some sulphur, and consequently are sure to discolor the silver. Unbleached flannel or blue or pink tissue paper are the best wrappings for silver of any kind.

For silver cleaning there are many excellent preparations on the market. If whitening is used it is best to sift it several times, perhaps giving the final sifting thru a cloth, to make sure that it is powder-fine and non-gritty. There is also a special impregnated cloth for silver cleaning which it is necessary to rub on the silver in order to produce a high polish. Another simple method is to immerse the silver in an aluminum kettle containing a solution of one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of baking soda to each quart of water.

There are also specially prepared pans for cleaning silver which are satisfactory, but it is a good plan to see these articles demonstrated in order to observe how to do the work with best results. Select a good, sunny day for your silver cleaning, as silver is more readily cleaned well by artificial light—it is not always possible then to see that all tarnish has disappeared. And if your everyday care of silver is reasonable, your polishing will not have to be a weekly or bi-weekly job!

White satin frocks, which are to be quite the thing for very "dressy" occasions, as well as for sports wear, are considerably lived by one of the new girdles. The satin is that soft drapable variety which is adapted to the present needs just as easily as taffeta, and a touch of pale or brilliant hue at the waistline is by no means lost. A modest little frock made of the same material illustrated the value of this touch. The skirt was very full, giving choice to the Spanish influence, and simply decorated with a series of graduating tucks from tip to hem. The bodice had transparent sleeves and vestee trimmed with white buttons of a dulled opalescent composition, and a skeleton bolero of the satin. At the waistline was arranged a handsome wide circle of apple-green grosgrain silk with a huge butterfly bow of silk and tulle poised at the back. This was the outfit of the day, and the I seldom see a costume, except the dainty kid shoes and silk hose to match.

THE TOUCH OF COLOR AT THE WAISTLINE

Sashes of Brilliant Hues or Soft Pastel Tints Add to the Summer Frock.

APPLE GREEN GIRDLE

Exploited on a Charming Costume of Soft White Satin With Excellent Effect.

SASHES of all manner of girdles are to grace the light summer frocks this year. A deal of color will be permitted in these widths of lovely ribbons and piece silks which will assume new and interesting proportions, and add that touch of gaiety and brightness to an otherwise "tame" costume. Soft white frocks of tulle, net and finest marquisettes will be made on billowy lines, and exploit one of the many new vogues in sashes. These may be as the wearer chooses, bright in color or soft pastel; a neat belt-like girdle, or a Grecian draped sash with graceful flowing ends. There is variety enough to more than please every fashion devotee.

The Amateur Gardener

MAKING THE GARDEN

MOST amateur gardeners begin the work of the season with so much enthusiasm that they fail to exercise much judgment. Those who have had some experience along this line will not be in too great a hurry to spade up the soil or to make beds of it while it is not in proper condition for effective work. Nothing should be done to it until the frost is out of the ground. Then spade it to the depth of a foot.

Do not attempt to reduce the clods that fall from the spade to the desired degree of fineness until after they have had an opportunity to part in them. Exposure to sunshine and the action of the elements for several days will put them into a condition that will make it an easy matter to pulverize them. The soil of every garden should be thoroughly pulverized before any seed is put into it. As soon as you find that the clods will break apart readily under the application of the hoe or over them and make them fine by repeating the operation until there is not a chunk left. After you have reduced them to a satisfactory degree of mellowness apply whatever fertilizer you have decided on using and work this thoroughly into the soil.

RECIPES FOR THE CARD INDEX COOK BOOK

Tuna Salad

INGREDIENTS

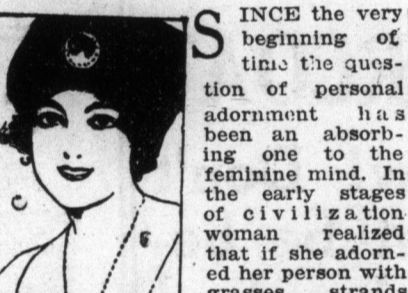

1 can tuna fish
1 dozen olives
Oil and vinegar
2 cups celery
Cold potato
Cold beetroot
Mayonnaise

METHOD

Turn the fish out of the can and stand in a basin with 1 dessertspoon vinegar and 1 tablespoonful oil; leave for 2 hours. Cut the olives in slices and mix in with the potatoes and beets, also the celery into neat dice before measuring. Line a deep salad bowl with the olives, potatoes and beets; mix the tuna and celery together and pile in the centre; pour over all about 1 cup of mayonnaise; garnish with a few sliced olives. This salad can also be made with either fresh or canned crab.

Do "Fine Feathers" Make Fine Birds?

By LUCREZIA BORI

SINCE the very beginning of time the question of personal adornment has been an absorbing one to the human mind. In the early stages of civilization a woman realized that if she adorned her person with grasses, strands of brilliant colored seeds, the plumage of the feathered creatures and fragrant flowers, she formed a setting for her loveliness which enhanced its power.

The beauty of a picture depends a great deal upon its background, so the beauty of a woman must be provided with the right setting. Clothes, despite many opinions to the contrary, do play a most important part where the attractiveness of a woman is concerned. A woman who is admired for her person, but whose dress is unbecomingly plain, is like a picture without a background. She may not be more than passably good-looking, but because she has provided an artistic background for what beauty she possessed, the public appreciated the picture.

On the other hand, you have frequently seen the loveliest of women enter an assemblage unnoticed because she was unfortunate in the selection of her costume. The regularity of her features and the perfection of her coloring would have awakened the admiration of all who gazed at her sufficiently long to have discovered her loveliness, but she had failed to supply the setting needed to set off her charms.

"Fine feathers" are a necessity. Every woman should make it her duty to dress as well as she possibly can. She owes it to herself, to her immediate family and to the world at large to appear as attractive as she can at all times. I do not mean that to be smartly dressed it is necessary to have that dress to enlist the services of a friend who if you choose your clothing with thought and care you can be becomingly and fashionably attired at a comparatively small outlay. Unbecoming gowns are just as high-priced as those which will make you appear more beautiful, so never order a garment unless you are sure that it harmonizes with your type of feminine loveliness.

Some women, unfortunately, lack that invaluable sense of good taste, it is impossible for them to select the right clothes because they do not know what they should wear. I advise everyone who is not "cock sure" that she possesses good taste in dress to enlist the services of a friend who has never hesitated to ask her to dress with you to the tailor, the modiste or the milliner's, and to give a good-looking, but because she has provided an artistic background for what beauty she possessed, the public appreciated the picture.

It is a well known fact that women active in business are paying more attention to their clothes than ever before. It used to be considered unworthy of an "intellectual" woman to dress as well as she possibly can. At the present time "thinking" women are most particular about their personal appearance, for they know that to "please the eye," first, is a great asset to a woman who belongs in any way to the public.

Business women have departed from the severe, mannish manner of dressing, school teachers no longer cling to the painful primness of attire that hinted of Puritan ancestors, the matron no longer seems to appear lovely

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl, 19 years of age, and have no-one to advise me about anything. Last March I met a fellow from my own home town, but I never had known him before. He is from a good family, and after I met him he took me to show and dance, and came to see me. I think he liked me, but he didn't tell me so. The day before he went away we went for a walk. He tried to take liberties with me. I really don't think he likes me after he did that, do you? Then he went away. He wrote me lovely letters, and answered every letter. Now he is here again, and has never asked me if he could call on me, but asked me to go for a walk again. Should I have gone? Tell me what you think this fellow really thinks of me. Bess.

BESS: It would be difficult to say whether a man liked a girl he attempted to take liberties with, but it is absolutely true that he will permit him to forget that he is a gentleman. The fact that this man liked you after the episode of the walk was proved by his writing to you while he was away and wanting to resume the friendship on his return. I see no reason why you shouldn't go walking with him, for you have taught him that you are a worth while girl.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT HERRING HOUNDS

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THIS," said the little girl we met on the steamer. "This is a herring hound. Did you ever see one before?"

"No," said I. "I never did, or hear of one, either, for that matter. Let's see the herring hound."

I sat down in a sunny corner of the deck, where the wind was fresh, but not too fresh, and where we could see the shadows of the gulls upon the water as they swooped and circled high above our heads, and I looked very earnestly at the herring hound, and the herring hound looked wisely at me. And we liked each other, and he came and sat down on the deck and put his chin against my cheek and wagged his funny stump of a tail and said, "Now this is something like, isn't it?"

The herring hound was a funny little black dog, with black and gray muzzle, and black and gray whiskers, and sharp little grizzled ears and the most friendly, inquisitive, good-humored, sociable face in all the world.

There was a little nick in his coat as if he had been hurt sometime, but he was for the most part in excellent condition, and, if ever a living creature fared forth to view the world with detached and engaging friendliness, that living creature was the herring hound.

When people went by he barked, little friendly, agreeable barks, that said, "Hello there! How's this day for you?" And gruff barks that said, "Step easy, now; don't tread on my preserves!" And twice in a while the herring hound growled, and all the hair on his back stood on end till it looked like so many spikes.

Not a "Plain Dog." One of the people who made him growl was a silent, sleek, quiet man, with the fierce eyes of a wolf, set close together in his pale, saturnine visage. And once the herring hound growled at a blustering creature in a pained overcoat and green spats, who laughed at every other word and made himself appear quite jovial and friendly. But his eyes were always cold, and they never laughed when he did.

"Where did you get the herring hound?" I said to the little girl who brought him to me. "I found him in the street," she said, "and nobody seemed to know him. So I took him home and fed him and gave him a bath and he's been mine ever since. I didn't know he was a herring hound when I found him. I thought he was just a plain dog, with nowhere to go, and nobody to feed him, and I thought I would surprise him with a new kind of world."

"Of course, he's awfully nice, and since I've found out that he's a herring hound everybody says good things about him. I suppose I ought to be glad, but I wanted to surprise him, and, of course, you never could surprise a herring hound by being good to him. He's probably had a kennel all to himself and a collar with silver spikes on it, all just for him, and you can't tell how queer he thinks I am, because he has to act just like a common dog when he's with me."

There was something wistful in the eyes of the little girl who owned the herring hound, so wistful that the herring hound noticed it in an instant, cocked his head on one side, looked earnestly into the little girl's face and jumped up and wagged up her hand.

"He jumps 'im talking about him," said the little girl. "I wonder if he understands what I say?" And I couldn't help wondering, too.

Was the little dog surprised to learn that he was a herring hound and was he glad or sorry at the news? Perhaps he was one of those unfortunate born in a beguiling and fond of bright red.

I know a man like that. He's rich and rather clever and what his friends call "well born." His father sent him to college and his mother had a birthday party for him when he was 21 and introduced him to all the most promising debutantes. And his maiden aunts sent him "Keats's" bound in limp leather for his birthday, and "Shelley" on the finest paper, with weird, impressionistic illustrations. His grandmother gives him pearl studs, and his father wants him to join a business club.

The young man himself doesn't like pearls. He prefers diamonds or, better than that, a black opal, for luck, with a horse's head carved in the opal, or a bulldog, or a circus clown, or anything that's what he calls "sporty." And he never read a book when he didn't have to in all his life. He just likes a quiet life and books and a picture or two, and he really prefers classical music, and if he could he would go to a symphony concert every Saturday night.

He never does go to the parties in the factory town. He says they are always too noisy. Now, if he were the herring hound, I wonder, an aristocrat in disguise or a street dog in great luck?

"Who told you he was a herring hound?" said I to the little girl I met on the steamer. "The porter on the train," said the little girl. "He was such a kind porter. He was good to the herring hound, and he said he had pedigree all over him, even in his little gray whiskers."

"Did he, really?" said I. "Well, come to look at him, I think that he has. It must be true if the porter said so, mustn't it?" The little girl's eyes were very big and round. "Of course," she said. "I wonder from what book of pedigree the porter got the name for that good, friendly dog's ancestry? Anyhow, he meant it for the best, I'm sure."
