TEMPERANCE.
THE CHURCH VS. THE SALOON.
"At a recent political convention in New York, an impulsive speaker forgot that the truth should not be spoken at all times, and exclaimed: 'I tell you what, I would rather have the saloons behind me in politics any time than the churches.'"
—Ex.
And why? Because almost all the persons found in the saloons are voters, while two-thirds of the persons found in the churches are women. If women could vote, the church and the home would be as potentially represented at the ballot-box as the saloons are now. As Emerson says, "It is very cheap wit that finds it so droll that a woman should vote. If the wants, the passions, the vices, are allowed a full vote, at the hands of a half-brutal, intemperate population, I think it but fair that the virtues, the aspirations, should be allowed a full vote as an offset through the purest of the people."
"THEY DON'T PAY PAUL"
AFTER ROBBING PETER." SAYS JOSEPH COOK.
(From the Boston Globe.)
At Tremont Temple to-day, Joseph Cook delivered his usual Monday lecture before a large audience. The subject of the lecture was: "Prohibition and Its Rivals. The Constitutional Amendment in Massachusetts." On these subjects Mr. Cook said, among other things: "From

ANNA'S VALENTINE.
BY MARY C. PRESTON.
"For me I asked Anna, coloring a little, and holding out her hand for the pretty lace-like envelope, with the few words of gilt, which her sister was looking at with admiration.
"Don't be in a hurry," Minna said, sofly. "It's a Valentine, of course, and you shall have it in a moment. I am trying to remember where I saw this writing. Oh, with a sudden conviction, 'I could swear to it now! It is—it is—a Valentine from George Dennis!"
"It's mine, and I think you might spare yourself all this anxiety concerning the sender of it," said Anna, a little tartly, taking it from her sister's hand.
But Minna was not to be crushed. She followed Anna to the window, and laid her hand coaxingly on the plump shoulder.
"Open it and let me see, too," she said, with all the assurance of 15 years, and an unlimited amount of curiosity in her eyes.
"He's so bashful, that I'm sure it will be droll. Perhaps he has taken this chance of proposing—he never would find a better, and we all know how much he is in love with you."
"Minna," Anna cried, "you are a perfect little goose! and I shall not gratify your curiosity."
"With that, and with a deepened color on either pretty cheek she ran out of the room.
It was the fourteenth of February, and Anna had surely received a Valentine which she was carefully opening in her own room, and reading with dimpling smiles and sparkling eyes.
First, there was a lace-work affair, with the prettiest little Cupid, half-hidden by silver leaves, holding in one plump hand an arrow, with a transfixed heart upon it, while the chubby fore-finger of the other lay lightly on the little god's lip.
"A pretty little," Anna whispered, regarding it admiringly. "It surely means a silent love. I never thought George at all romantic before."
Then she drew from the envelope a tinted, gilt-edged card, and slowly read the printed lines thereon:
"I'd rather be thine own, beloved, Forever in thy heart to dwell Than own the treasures of the earth, In palace, cot, or cell; For what would such things bring to me, When joy can only come from thee?"
"Particularly the 'cell' part of it!" laughed Anna.
But she blushed also.
Then she drew out a sheet of note-paper, unfolded it hastily, and read the following, her heart giving a few uncustomed throbs:
"MY LOVE-STAR—I have loved you long in silence, because I dared not speak; but the time has come for confession from me, and I make it here, almost without a hope. You are so beautiful, so winning, that better than I will bring you pleasure and find you more willing to hear. Yet, if a life's devotion is anything to you, send me a line saying I may call on you to-night, and lay my heart at your feet. If I receive no word from you, I will know that there is indeed no hope for me, and you will never see my face again on earth. Do you not realize my suspense! Shorten it, if you care in the least for me. Your lover always,
G. D."

"For 35 years," says Cardinal Manning, "I have been priest and bishop in London, and now I approach my eightieth year. I have learned some lessons, and the first thing is this: the chief bar to the working of a Holy Spirit of God in the souls of men and women is intoxicating drink. I know no antagonist to that good Spirit more direct, more subtle, more stealthy, more ubiquitous than intoxicating drink. Though I have known men and women destroyed for all manner of reasons, yet I know of no cause that affects man, woman, child and home with such universality and steady power as intoxicating drink."
The ancient proverb says: "You cannot get more out of a bottle than you can put in." That's an error. Besides what he puts in, he can get headache, a sick stomach, delirium tremens, and perhaps ten days in the lock-up.
A certain town council in New England is said to have voted to use a part of the revenue from the city license fee to purchase a hearse.
Dominion Parliament.
OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—The speaker took the chair at three o'clock and the house then went into committee of supply.
On the item for the civil service examination board Mr. Davies asked if it was intended to continue the examinations next year.
Hon. Geo. E. Foster said the examinations would be continued, because, although there were so many young men who had passed who had not yet entered the service, these had in the main satisfied themselves with other positions, and there were many others eligible for examination.
In the discussion of the appropriation for the administration of justice, Mr. Weldon, of St. John, and also Mr. O'Brien called attention to the very insufficient accommodation provided in the supreme court building and urged that better quarters should be provided, not only affording more accommodation, but more in keeping with the dignity of the court.
Mr. Malcol asked if it was the intention to make provision this session for increasing the salaries of the county court judges.
After recess,
The house went again into committee of supply, and consideration of the question of judges' salaries was continued. Mr. Davin put in a plea for the judges of the North-west, for whom he asked an increase from the four thousand dollars now paid. Not only judges, he said, but also ministers of the crown should receive higher remuneration.
Mr. Mitchell spoke for the maritime provinces judges.
Mr. Cook took the view that judges were not sufficiently paid. He did not know that such a very high degree of education was required. Learning was apt to make a man an educated crank.
The subject of prison labour was next introduced by Mr. Casey, who contended that while a man was imprisoned he should be compelled to earn his living by labor. He did not think there was any objection to disposing of the produce of such labour in any way thought fit, so long as it was not sold at lower prices than the product of honest labor.
Sir John Thompson said this question had not yet become a problem of any considerable importance, abundance of work being found. They were not manufacturing anything for sale except in Detachement penitentiary, where wooden ware is to be put upon the market and sold at regular prices so as not to unfairly compete with similar goods otherwise made.
OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—A score of petitions from the fruit growers of Niagara district were presented to Parliament to-day, asking for the reposition of duty on American small fruits.
Sir John Thompson, in reply to Mr. Annot, said it was not the intention of the Government to introduce during the present session, an amendment to the contested elections act, providing that the period allowed for contesting an election shall date from the day of election, or from some other uniform date from all electoral districts.
Hon. Mr. Bowell stated that the Government was considering the advisability of changing the present system of bonding foreign fish. A number of petitions on the subject have been received.
Mr. Burdett, moved for a return of each Post Office built or under construction in Canada since the end of December, 1878. His motion was not adopted until an hour of cross-firing from both sides of the House.
Sir Hector Langevin promised to transmit the information given by the Liberal members as to the discrimination practiced by the Government in building Post Offices in Grit constituencies.
The House adjourned at 11 p. m.

Cardinal Manning on Strong Drink.
"For 35 years," says Cardinal Manning, "I have been priest and bishop in London, and now I approach my eightieth year. I have learned some lessons, and the first thing is this: the chief bar to the working of a Holy Spirit of God in the souls of men and women is intoxicating drink. I know no antagonist to that good Spirit more direct, more subtle, more stealthy, more ubiquitous than intoxicating drink. How Lincoln Signed the Pledge.
We have a pleasant account of Lincoln signing the pledge. A personal friend of Mr. Lincoln told Mrs. Lucy Rider Meyer, President of the Chicago Missionary Training School, that Old Uncle John, as he was called, an itinerant-temperance lecturer in southern Illinois nearly two generations ago, on one occasion, speaking in an isolated country district, probably in the school-house, offered the temperance pledge, as was his custom, at the close of the meeting; whereupon a tall, lank, awkward youth came forward and affixed his name. Years after, when he had come to great renown, Abraham Lincoln, meeting Uncle John, said to him: "I owe more to you than to any one else of whom I can think for if I had not signed the pledge with you in my years of youthful temptation, I might have gone the way that the majority of my old comrades have gone, which ends in a drunkard's life and a drunkard's grave."
His conduct when receiving notification of his nomination to the presidency is a part of history. A friend, knowing that he never kept wine in his house, and thinking it an absolute necessity on so great an occasion, had some in readiness to present to the committee who formally notified Lincoln of his nomination. But Mr. Lincoln quietly set it aside and, ordering a pitcher of water and glasses, filled them and passed them to his guests, saying: "We will drink to the fortunes of our party in the best beverage ever brewed for man."—Exchange.

Saloons Spread the Drink Habit.
"The saloon creates a demand where none before existed, that it may profit by supplying that demand. It artificially stimulates an evil habit, that it may thrive by pandering to it. It methodically breeds debauchery, anarchy and crime for pay. It purposely seeks to multiply the number of drinkers, and hence of drunkards. It invades every new community, demands tribute from every home, and lies in wait with fresh enticements for each new generation of youth. Each one of our two hundred thousand drinking places forms a distinct centre of aggressive forces and skillful devices for spreading the drink habit among men. Every plausible temptation and solicitation that trained talent can suggest are used to entrap the young, the ignorant, the toiling and the homeless, with the knowledge that a customer once secured is usually a customer for life. Experience indicates that four-fifths of American drinking and drunkenness is due in the first instance, not to any natural appetite of our people, but to the presence and sleepless efforts of this gigantic energy, working seven days a week and twenty-four hours a day, unrestrained by any scruple and everywhere contemptuous of public and private life."—Clinton E. Fisk.

"For 35 years," says Cardinal Manning, "I have been priest and bishop in London, and now I approach my eightieth year. I have learned some lessons, and the first thing is this: the chief bar to the working of a Holy Spirit of God in the souls of men and women is intoxicating drink. I know no antagonist to that good Spirit more direct, more subtle, more stealthy, more ubiquitous than intoxicating drink."
The ancient proverb says: "You cannot get more out of a bottle than you can put in." That's an error. Besides what he puts in, he can get headache, a sick stomach, delirium tremens, and perhaps ten days in the lock-up.

The Union Advocate.

Those Crooked Scott Act Accounts.

The 'Advocate' is so very temperate in its tone that it would almost seem to be written by a man of another generation...

The above is a portion of an article from the Advance of Thursday last. We are of the opinion that the most essential element in the character of a gentleman is to be honorable and that would certainly include some regard for truth...

We do not refer to the two political clubs in Chatham when we charged him with being a stockholder therein, but to the Social Club, where liquor is dispensed by the bar, and where the members are not held to any standard of conduct...

But our appeal on behalf of the Halifax Ladies' College must be made on a more definite basis. For this purpose it will be necessary to give a brief statement of the affairs of the college...

His statement is entirely untrue. It is a falsehood of his own manufacture. It is very indeliberate in Mr. Smith to lie in this way when so many persons know him to be lying...

It may not be polite to give him the name which his untruthfulness entitles him to, but it is a truer and more pointed than a detailed recital of such inventions as his long-winded circumstantial lie about the small fishing enterprise...

Life is too short to follow a grinning, conceited, jumping-jack prevaricator through the mazes of his mendacity. If Scripture truly foretells the fate of liars Mr. Smith should provide himself with a salamander suit before starting for the next world...

Now, instead of whining about our being published in a common liar, let him name the man in Chatham who was informed of the gratifying extension before the work was to press on Saturday...

Appeal on Behalf of Halifax Ladies' College.

By REV. ROBERT LAING.

The occasion has again arisen for making an appeal to the Presbyterians of the Maritime Provinces on behalf of their Ladies' College. It is the proud distinction of the Presbyterian Church in the Maritime Provinces that she occupies a position of the first rank as a missionary agency...

Concert at Chatham.

The announcement that Professor Baker (or Mr. Baker as he prefers to be styled)—would give a musical and literary entertainment in the new hall which he recently erected in the village of Chatham, was received with interest...

By particular request of parties in Campbellton Mr. Baker will repeat in this town some evening during the coming week. And it is hoped the same success may attend him there both financially and otherwise.

The Club has engaged the commodious rooms in the Goggin building, corner of Water and Conard streets, and the room committee are actively engaged, having the honor of the Club justly furnished. Messrs. Snowball & Co. have contracted to place the "Incandescent lights" in each of the rooms...

Personal.

Allan G. Adams, merchant of Campbellton, talks the Micmac language as fluently as he does his mother tongue. Mr. Adams finds it very interesting to see hundreds of dollars value, as the Indians nearly all trade at his store, and the veteran squaws from the Miawok, pour out their wares and requests to Mr. Adams and he in turn does all he can to see that their wants are supplied.

John C. Brown, of the firm of Brown Bros. & Co., of St. Stephen, who has been awarded the contract for the construction of the Dexter and Pleasantville railway, says that they have a large gang of men engaged at present getting out timber, sleepers and stone. The work of grading the road will be commenced about the first of May. It is expected the firm will employ between 400 and 500 men, as the work will have to be completed in November.

Mr. John Livingston, has severed his connection with the "Toronto Empire" and its editorials "throughout the Dominion" from first place among the large newspapers of Canada.

Rev. I. N. Parker has been compelled to decline the call to the Methodist Episcopal circuit, and Rev. W. J. Kirby has declined the call to P. E. Island.

Mr. Fred Weldon is in town visiting friends at his old home. He has just arrived from Vancouver where he is employed as a conductor on the C. P. R. His many old friends will be glad to see him again among them. Rumor has it that congratulations will shortly be in order.

The CURLEWS DEPARTED BY THE BATHURST CLUB—GIVING UP HIS CHAIR—BUSINESS NOTES.

CAMPBELLTON, Feb. 16.—Four rinks of the Bathurst curling club came up on Wednesday evening's accommodation, and a friendly game was played yesterday with the "Home Club." They gave our boys a bad beating, but that was expected, as several members of our rinks, having had only a few practices, could not, of course, expect any better luck at the hands of old curlews. The following is a list of the rinks participating:

McIntosh, Campbellton. John Gallant, R. H. Bray, J. Ash, J. Ash, P. J. Byrnes, et al. D. Desmond, et al. J. Ferguson, A. D. McKendrick, Miller, J. W. Girvan, et al. H. Stewart, et al. A. Melvin, et al. P. O'Brien, L. S. Brown, W. White, et al. W. McNaab, D. O'Keefe, Dr. Meahan, E. F. Graham, J. E. Taylor, E. Alexander, P. J. Galois, et al. H. Harquis, et al.

Res. A. J. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, has, on account of failing health, been obliged to give up his charge for a few months.

Mr. W. H. Parker is closing up business, and purposes leaving for Annapolis, N. S., in a few weeks.

On Tuesday afternoon, 19th, what was really a serious accident occurred at Campbellton. The curlews were in their rinks playing and a large number of spectators were present, when a crash was heard and all hands made a rush for the door and got safely out just in time to escape being crushed beneath the roof which fell under the weight of a heavy mass of snow.

Newcastle Curling Club.

A mistake was made in the name of one of the Newcastle ships in the match for the Highland Society Cup. The name of W. A. Park appeared as skip, it should have been E. Lee Street. Mr. Park's second score in Mr. Street's rink.

The games for the handsome silver cup presented to the Club by the Secretary of the Club, Mr. E. Lee Street, have been with the following scores, giving only the names of the skip:

First Series. W. A. Park, 14 J. R. Lawlor, 9 John Morrison, 10 Robt. Ritchie, 12 T. W. Crocker, 12 J. Ferguson, 8 E. Lee Street drove the ship.

Second Series. E. Lee Street, 21 T. W. Crocker, 6 John Morrison, 16 W. A. Park, 12 Third and Final Series. John Morrison, 18 E. Lee Street, 6 The rink skip by John Morrison having beaten all their opponents the members thereof, will this morning play points, for the ownership of the cup. Obituary.

Two aged and highly respected inhabitants of this county have passed their rest.

Alex. Bestman, who died on Tuesday of last week, was a native of Hants, County of Aberdeen, Scotland, and came to Douglastown about the year 1835, residing there ever since. He was universally respected for his upright and independent character and leaves a large number of friends and relatives to regret his loss. His remains were interred in the St. James Church burial ground on Friday last and were followed to the grave by a large number of sympathizing friends of the family.

The remains of Mr. Edward Whitney, of Northwick were interred in St. James Church burial ground yesterday. The funeral was a large one. Mr. Whitney was highly respected. He was 76 years of age.

We regret to learn that Mr. J. G. Kethro received a telegram on Friday last, informing him of the sudden death of his eldest son in Brooklyn, New York. He was married only in July last. We sympathize with the bereaved wife and family in their sad loss.

Salvation Army. Special Service at the Barracks on Saturday and Sunday next when a Brigade of Officers from Ontario will be present. Admission on Saturday evening and Sunday morning five cents. Silver collection on Saturday evening. All are welcome.

Lecture. Rev. R. S. Gray will deliver a lecture in the Mission Hall Newcastle on "The Battle of Life and how to win it." To commence at 8 o'clock. A silver collection will be taken to go towards furnishing the Hall.

The Road to Heaven. "A map of the road to heaven, by a soul in purgatory," written and illustrated by Henry W. Longfellow, and humorously confessing his failure to attain it. But if one knows the right path, he should follow it. Why then, suffer the purgatory of disease, when the way of escape is plain sight? As a remedy for acute rheumatism, neuralgia, and morbid growths of all kinds caused by impure or impoverished blood, Dr. J. C. Allen's Medical Discovery has neither a rival nor a worthy competitor.

Married. At the residence of Charles Helton, Sherbrooke, on the 14th inst., by Rev. F. E. Smith, John B. Robinson, of Newcastle, and Miss Sarah A. McLean, of Moncton, P. E. I.

Died. At his residence, Douglastown on Tuesday, February 19th, ALEXANDER JAS. SMITH, in his 82nd year.

Correspondence. DALHOUSIE, Feb. 23rd, 1889. MR. EDITOR.—Knowing you have the interests of the people of the Northern Counties at heart, and that your columns are always open to address a wrong or a grievance, I trust you will publish in your valuable paper a copy of the "Memorial" from the set fishermen of Restigouche lately forwarded to our Member at Ottawa.

That the valuable salmon fishing in the River Restigouche and its tributaries is being rapidly exhausted is a fact, not as is represented—by not fishing but by the fisherman who are rapidly destroying the supply of breeding fish for natural spawning of river, and in doing the future catch of salmon for commercial purposes throughout the State of Quebec. On an average some 40 boxes of salmon, left Metapedia station daily during this past season; and these Mr. Editor were all supposed to be taken by the fish; this for thirty days, putting it in the form of four salmon to a box, gives the past three years of 4800 salmon—and I am told on good authority, that this rate is far too low, and that the catch for the past season was nearer 10,000 salmon taken by the fishery department at Ottawa.
